Carrizozo Good Willers Visit Claunch

Over twenty-five were left here Wednesday on a good-will visit to Claunch, the same being sponsored by the Carrizozo Business Men's Club.

On arrival at Claunch, the good-will cavalcade was met by the friendly people of our neighboring town, and made our stay 100% pleasant. Much regret was expressed that on account of the work in the bean fields and the lambing on the ranches, many were unable to attend.

The Carrizozo High School Band led by Prof. Brewster, played numerous selections at the dinner which was prepared and served by the Ladies Aid Society of the Presbyterian Church. Let us pause here to give credit to the above-named Society for the dinner which was so heartily enjoyed by over 100 people; it was par-excellence.

At the dinner, the following program was given: Toastmaster was A. L. Burke. In the absence of Rev. Hughes of Carrizozo, Rev. Slyke, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Claunch, offered the invocation; and in the absence of Mayor Finley of Carrizozo, Attorney John E. Hall made the response to the address of welcome, which was also made by Rev. Slyke. The next number was a vocal solo by Mrs. G. C. Kroggel, "Carrizozo's Song Bird," accompanied by Mrs. B. S. Burns, piano and Mr. Lou Fink, violin, and was so heartily applauded that she responded to two encores. Singing by a group of young ladies from Claunch and singing of "God Bless America" by the big audience, short talks by business men of both towns ended a well-spent evening's entertainment.

The Business Men's Club, through its committee, A. L. Burke, F. A. English and L. A. Whitaker, wishes to thank the people of Claunch for the fine reception given the people on this our first good-will visit for which the Claunch people expressed a desire to pay us a return visit at some future time.

Flavio Mirabal has been dismissed from the Turner hospital after a short illness.

The annual meeting of the Federated Music Clubs of New Mexico was held at Albuquerque May 9 and 10. Mrs. T. E. Kelley entered three of her piano pupils at the Festival. The entrants were Jane Gallacher, Ann Baker and Yeda Lou Brannum. In the Stadium Music Hall at the University, the pupils played before the judges Saturday morning; Saturday afternoon, Jane, Ann and Yeda Lou played at the concert given by the Junior Club members. Mrs. Kelley's pupils were high in the Age Group in the same hall played. —Contributed.

Mr. and Mrs. Robt. A. (Bud) Oreschler and Ed Hook were here yesterday from the ranch near Jicarilla.

Mesdames Flo Archaletta and Mesdames McKinley were Alamogordo visitors this Tuesday.

Conley—McPherson

Thursday, May 16, at 8:30 p. m., Miss LaWana Conley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conley & Jay McPherson of El Paso were united in marriage, with Rev. Hughes officiating. Witnesses present were Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kircald, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conley and Dan, Jr. Immediately following the ceremonies the wedding party retired to the home of the bride's parents, where a large group of friends extended best wishes, while being served cake and coffee. The couple departed for El Paso on a short honeymoon trip, expecting to return here Sunday.

The bride is an attractive and popular young lady. She attended our schools and has hosts of friends who will wish her a world of happiness and prosperity. The groom is an employee of the U. S. in the signal service department, where he enjoys the friendship of his associates and the confidence of the company. They will make their home in Carrizozo and the Outlook joins in wishing them the best of everything.

Yvonne McKinley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chris Chavez of Albuquerque visited the Yvonne McKinley, Sr., family.

More Power for the R. A. F.

The largest fleet of light planes ever seen in New York was christened on behalf of the R. A. F. benevolent fund, and will make a barnstorming tour of the country to raise funds for the families of England's air defenders. The fleet was inspected by these models. Inset: A Canadian woman working in a De Havilland aircraft factory at Ottawa, Canada. In Canada, women are taking the place of men in industry.

'Before and After' in Ireland

Northern Ireland has had a taste of Nazi wrath, and southern Ireland is getting ready to meet "any invader." At the left an impromptu concert is enjoyed in a destroyed area of Belfast after German bombers visited Northern Ireland. At least 500 lives were lost. Right: Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of Eire inspects troops during the greatest military display ever seen in Dublin.

Standing Ready—Somewhere in England

In the "danger zone," the Dover-Folkestone area of England, which has become the "front" in the battle of Britain, home-guardians patrol the barren sea cliffs and shore—ready to give Hitler's Nazis a warm welcome if they come. Sergeant W. Road, a retired civil servant, standing guard, typifies the spirit of Great Britain.

New Chinese Foreign Minister Greeted Here

'Buddy' Poppy Girl

Daughter of a World War veteran, Jean Leslie, actress, is shown in her new role of national "buddy" poppy girl. She was selected for the 1941 "buddy" poppy campaign of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., for aid of veterans' families.

Bomb Shelter

Jacob Baker of Cleveland, with model of his shock-proof bomb shelter which will house four persons. Mr. Baker says the shelter will be in process of manufacturing soon.

Halifax Hums With Activity

Housing Shortage Is Acute Due to Doubling of City's Population.

HALIFAX, N. S.—Mushroomed to twice its normal population by the influx of wartime residents, Halifax, Nova Scotia's capital city, is faced in extreme form with the problems of housing and feeding that beset many Canadian towns and cities today. This Canadian port, so far east it operates in the Atlantic time belt, so near the war zone it practices a modified blackout, is full to overflowing.

It is a case of standing room only. Apart from the troubles of visitors, who telephone hopefully from one hotel to another in a vain search for rooms, local residents themselves have their housing worries.

Business Girl's Lament. Typical was the complaint of a Halifax business girl who wrote to a local editor protesting that men of the services were given preferences by landlords.

One reason, the girl suggested, was that housekeepers with marriageable daughters saw greater possibilities in a houseful of young men than in a bevy of bachelor girls. Again, service men in need of a room were willing to pay almost any price and double up with roommates as well, she said.

"But what about us—business girls of Halifax? We work all day in stores and offices; we have a pleasant smile for everyone, yet at the end of the day we never know whether we are going to receive a notice from our landlords to vacate our rooms."

Government May Aid.

As one hope of relief to both residents and visitors came word that the dominion government is considering the erection of between 300 and 400 dwellings in the city. Already a federal representative has been looking over possible sites.

As with housing in this busy port, so it is with dining facilities. Restaurants are crowded, lunch counters jammed.

Gone are the days when a diner had a whole table to himself. He eats lunch with a young Newfoundlander, here to join the air force. For dinner his vis-a-vis is an army captain from Toronto. Or they may be a sailor lad from Winnipeg, a husky battle-dressed youngster from British Columbia or Alberta, a French maitre, a ship's second mate.

That is Halifax today—crowded, busy and war-conscious.

Residents with an extra room rent it out to a homeless visitor.

Dairymen Discover New Way to Use Corn Syrup

GENEVA, N. Y.—Experiments carried on in the dairy laboratory of the New York state agricultural station here indicate that corn sugar or syrup may replace approximately one-fourth of the cane sugar now used in the manufacture of ice cream, ices and sherbets.

In a bulletin describing the experiments, Dr. A. C. Dahlberg said the most satisfactory results were obtained with ice cream when 25 per cent of the sucrose or cane sugar was replaced by corn sweeteners.

"Based upon sweetness alone," Dr. Dahlberg said, "a pound of cane sugar was equal to 1.1 pounds of corn sugar or dextrose, 1.5 pounds of enzyme-converted corn syrup, and 2 pounds of corn syrup solids.

When used in these proportions, the corn sweeteners showed slight but definite improvement in body and texture of ice cream which could be detected by consumers. Consumers were unable to tell whether corn sweeteners had been used, however.

A shift from all cane sugar, largely imported, to part corn sweeteners, entirely domestic, would represent the use of some 25,000 tons of the corn product by America's ice cream industry each year.

Corn syrups are said to have improved the body and textures of ices and sherbets noticeably.

Blonde Gives Army Boys, 24 of 'Em, the Runaround

CAMP ROBINSON, ARK.—Two dozen soldiers of the 137th Infantry's Company F danced with a demure blonde from Little Rock at a recent social function.

To each she confided a telephone number. But after the ball was over their delight turned to despair when they compared notes and found that all the numbers were different.

And despair turned to dudgeon when test calls were answered by the fire department, the police station, the dog pound and similar unromantic institutions.

Driver Does as Ordered, Drives to Lonely Spot

NEW BEDFORD, MASS.—The chamber of commerce reports a taxi driver who obeys orders to the letter.

When a visitor asked to be driven to the "nearest point to Cuttyhunk," the driver didn't bother to tell him about the boat service to the island but drove him to an isolated point of land.

The driver charged him $5 and left him on the deserted peninsula.

FARM TOPICS

SOW TESTING IMPROVES HERD

Permits Systematic Culling Of Low Producers.

By H. G. ZAVOVAL (Extension Animal Husbandman, University Farm, St. Paul)

Swine raisers are realizing that the perfect individual animal is only one of the foundation stones of a good hog business. Getting more pigs per sow and getting quick, cheap gains from these pigs is equally important. That is why sow testing is becoming as much a part of the successful swine business as butterfat testing has been in dairying.

Sow testing is not difficult. It can be carried out by the hog raiser himself if he will take the trouble. The procedure is this:

1. Mark all the sows before farrowing so that they can be identified in records.

2. Within a week after farrowing, mark the pigs with ear notches, so that each litter can be distinguished. At the same time a record should be set up for each litter, giving sire, dam, and number of pigs of each sex.

3. Each litter of pigs should be weighed separately at weaning time (56 days is the customary age for making this comparison). The weight of litters at 56 days is in itself a very accurate basis for judging the production of sows, although the hog man can carry his records further by getting separate weights on litters at market time.

Having compiled production records on all his sows for the season, the hog raiser is then in a position (1) to cull out the old sows that did not produce well, and (2) to select gilts from the best litters to keep over.

For the breeder of purebred stock, the records assume extra importance in determining the value of boars. Already in many communities, boars from tested herds are commanding premium prices.

Carefully Prepared Wool Receives Better Prices

Care in the preparation of wool for market is one of the best ways American sheepmen can increase their profits whether they run range bands or raise farm flocks in the opinion of C. R. Townsend of the University of Nevada agricultural extension service.

"Since wool is bought and sold on a clean basis, the shrink and manner in which the fleeces are sheared and packed remains an important factor in determining the value per grease pound the producer will receive," Townsend states.

Sheep, of course, should be shorn only when fleeces are dry he says, and should be protected from moisture at all times while awaiting shipment.

"A board floor, kept clean, is the best surface upon which to shear," Townsend added. "A dirty floor or littered ground will result in the wool's picking up foreign substances, thus decreasing its value. Straw, hay, and chaff are particularly objectionable.

"Wool should be cut close, and the fleece removed unbroken.

"Sheep should be tagged before the shearing operation, and tags should be sacked separately.

"The each individual fleece with good paper twine, rolled with flesh side out; this will result in a much better and more attractive appearance of the fleece.

"All burry, seedy, black, gray, dead, and cotted wool should be sacked separately from clean white wool. Yearling or lamb wool should also be sacked separately, since it is much lighter shrinking than that of the main band, is generally sold separately as original bag wools, and commands higher prices."

Farm Notes

In a frozen food locker, if temperatures rise above zero, odors may transfer from one food to another.

Nearly one-half of the 21,000,000 American youths between 16 and 24 live on farms or in villages.

All eggs produced by any one hen tend to be of a similar size, shape, color, though they may vary somewhat.

A recent study shows that 10 cows producing 300 pounds of fat annually make as much profit as 15 200-pound producers.

When cows eat bitter weeds the milk has an objectionable odor and taste.

Norway is reported to be feeding woodpulp to cattle for fodder with herring and fish meal added to give the essentials of albumen, vitamins, and minerals.

When a cow or a calf lies down stubbornly and will not lead, try holding its nostrils tightly. This usually will bring the animal to its feet in short order.

The Gettysburg Address Available for Framing

"THE world will little note, nor long remember what we say here"

Those were modest words Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg—and they proved wrong. For Americans do remember, still live for the ideal he expressed that day.

The Gettysburg address, in Lincoln's handwriting, is one of our new set, "Three Great American Documents." Others are the Bill of Rights and the original Star Spangled Banner, in Francis Scott Key's handwriting. All are handsomely printed, full size, in sepia on cream antique paper. Includes a 4-page leaflet giving the history of the documents. For the set, send your order to:

ROBERT TAYLOR has very rarely visited his wife, Barbara Stanwyck, on a motion picture set, but he broke the rule when she was working in "The Great Man's Lady" (originally titled "Pioneer Woman") and watched her working with Brian Donlevy.

A few days before, Donlevy had been shooting Taylor for the final scenes in "Billy the Kid." Now that "Billy the Kid" is finished a quarrel has arisen. In the Metro script Billy was left-handed, so Taylor practiced for several months drawing his gun from the holster with his left hand. Then came word from William S. Hart and Col. Archer Adams, both familiar with the desperado's character, that he used his right hand. Looks as if the argument never would be settled.

Anne Shirley, who appeared in her first picture when she was three, has a word of advice for mothers who want their children to become movie actors. She's been working with a series of youngsters in "West Point Widow"—five of them, in all, because the babies behaved so badly that substitutes had to be used. Miss Shirley thinks it's a great mistake to have a child learn to do imitations and tap dancing and all that sort of thing; an attractive, intelligent child with acting ability needs to do just one thing, says she—obey the director.

Walter Abel had visitors on his set a while ago who rattled him completely. He was doing a scene with Paulette Goddard for Paramount's "Hold Back the Dawn," in a Mexican border town set. The Abel sons, aged 11 and 9, respectively, had been studying about Mexico in school, and wanted to see the set; it interested them more than this first sight of their father at work. Abel finally had to ask Director Mitchell-Leisen to shoot the scene again, on a closed set this time; his sons made him nervous!

Joel McCrea took a short trip when he finished his work in the Stanwyck picture; went to New Mexico to see some men about some cows. He has enlarged his Ventura county ranch from 1,000 to 1,500 acres, and all that extra grazing space has to have customers.

Constance Moore, feminine lead in "I Wanted Wings," now is determined to earn wings of her own. All that flying in the picture made her yearn to do it too—and she ought to be able to manage it easily, for her husband, Johnny Maschio, is a licensed pilot. Her close friends, Margaret Sullivan and Olivia de Havilland, are urging her on; they both fly, and love it. Constance threatens to take to the air any day now.

Columbia has finally signed all the players who will be seen in the new series of pictures based on the "Tillie the Toiler" comic strip. Kay Harris, one of Hollywood's Cinderella girls, gets the lead; others in the cast are Daphne Pollard, William Tracy, George Watts, Jack Arnold and Benny Bartlett.

The release by RKO of Walt Disney's "The Reluctant Dragon" marks Disney's entrance into a brand new field; the picture combines both "live-action" photography and animated pictures. The locale is the Disney studio, and Robert Beachley is the star.

Maureen O'Sullivan paused in New York with her baby son, on the way from a visit with her husband—he's stationed in Bermuda—back to Hollywood. Metro will co-star her in a new Tarzan picture with Johnny Weissmuller—the first Tarzan in nearly three years.

The Court of Missing Heirs has located 71 heirs in 69 weeks of broadcasting—and the value of the estates returned to the rightful heirs amounts to $413,375.

ODDS AND ENDS—Ray Collins, who's played 500 roles in the theater and on the radio, makes his film debut in "Citizen Kane".... Harold Lloyd plans to be his own star in the next picture that he produces.... The war department is building 35 movie houses in the nation's draft camps.... Warner Bros. have signed Eric Sevareid, ace war correspondent and radio reporter, to do background commentating in "Underground," a film about a secret revolutionary movement in Germany.... Priscilla Lane, who's lead in "Hot Nights," a story of mingling bandits.... Shirley Temple's out of the Wallace Beery picture, "Luckybones"; Virginia Weidler's in.

Historical Highlights

by Elmo Scott Watson
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Vermont Has a Birthday
THIS year marks the 150th birthday of the state of Vermont which shares with Texas the distinction of having been an independent republic before she entered the sisterhood of states. But Vermont has another distinction. Although she is listed as the "fourteenth state" she can claim a "first"—that of being the first admitted to the federal Union when the "Thirteen Original States" came into existence through the adoption of the Constitution in 1787.

The history of Vermont goes back 250 years—to the English settlement at Vernon in 1690. At that time this region was known as the "New Hampshire Grants" and was a part of the colony of New Hampshire, which had been separated from the colony of Massachusetts by royal charter 10 years previously.

Stamp issued this year to commemorate the 150th anniversary of Vermont's admission to the Union.

About the middle of the Eighteenth century, after the wars with the French and Indians were over, groups of sturdy young men set out from Connecticut and Massachusetts with their families to make their homes in this frontier country between the "New Hampshire Grants" and the colony of New York. It was not long, however, until these settlers learned to their dismay that the British colonial courts had declared their land titles invalid and that "York State lawyers" were obtaining writs from the courts to dispossess them. But these freedom-loving pioneers had no intention of giving up the little farms which they had cleared in the wilderness without fighting for them. The climax came in July, 1771.

Visit the town of Westminster, Vt., today and you will see there a granite monument bearing a bronze tablet which tells you that here is the "Birthplace of Vermont." It says: "Near this site stood the homestead of Lieut. James Breakenridge. After years of peaceful possession, his farm was claimed by New York speculators. A sheriff and over 300 men came from Albany to evict him from his home. Aided by men from Bennington, a brave defense was made without bloodshed; proving to be a Declaration of Independence of the State of Vermont, July 19, 1771."

During this time, too, a group of determined frontiersmen, who called themselves the "Green Mountain Boys," organized to resist the aggression of their neighbors and chose Ethan Allen as their leader. The spirit that animated James Breakenridge and Ethan Allen and the other "Green Mountain Boys" still burned brightly in the hearts of Vermonters when the quarrel with England came to a crisis in 1775. So in May of that year the redoubtable Ethan and 80 of his men made a dash against Fort Ticonderoga, broke in upon the astonished British commander and demanded that he surrender "in the name of the Great Jehovah and the Continental Congress."

This spectacular feat did not mean, however, that the Vermonters were going to link their fortunes with the other colonists in the fight for freedom. They didn't join them in the historic session at Philadelphia on July 4, 1776. But a year later they did some independence-declaring of their own.

On July 2, 1777, they held a convention at Windsor, in a house which is known today as the "Old Constitution House," to draw up a constitution for a state that would be independent, not only of Great Britain but of all other American colonies also. The delegates were in session there on July 8 when news came that Burgoyne's army had recaptured Ticonderoga.

So great was their alarm at this news that they were on the point of adjourning the convention when a terrific thunderstorm came up. It held them indoors and they quickly finished up the business at hand. Incidentally, the constitution which they adopted at that time was the first on this continent to prohibit human slavery. Thus Vermont began its career as an independent republic, and it continued as such until March 1, 1791, when it was admitted to the new United States of America as our fourteenth state.

Vermont's nickname of the "Green Mountain State" dates from 1763 when the Rev. Samuel Peters, standing on the summit of Mt. Pisgah, christened the country "Verd Mont" (Green Mountain). So Ethan Allen called his frontiersmen "Green Mountain boys." They had worthy successors in the Vermonters under the command of Gen. John Stark, who defended the freedom that had been declared on July 8, 1777, by winning a great victory over a detachment from Burgoyne's army at the Battle of Bennington less than a month later.

THE PAPERS OF PRIVATE PURKEY

Dear Mom:

What I can't understand about the army is that know matter what I say is the matter with me the doctor gives me the same pill. At first I thought it was just a mistake, but now I no different becuz yesterday when I complained of an ulcerated tooth I got the same pill I been getting for headaches, cramps, soar throate and a sty. I wish you would send me some pills of any kind. It don't matter what they are so long as they are different from the one I get here and I am inclosing one so you won't duplicate it.

I don't think the draft army takes sickness serious and in a way I can't blame it becuz men have been showing up for sick call by the hundreds on account of there are so many beautiful nurses in the camp hospital and it is the only way to get near them. All these guys get is another pill so I gess to get into a army hospital you have to have at least a broken leg but I think they would first try a pill on me for that two.

We have had some nice warm-days witch is a grate relief becuz ever since I was drafted I feel like I have been in the Klondike and I never knew it wuz so cold outdoors in winter before. But the ground is thawing out and so is the drill sergeant and everybody is happier than at any time since our numbers came out in that glass bowl. We see robins most every day now and we have let the fire go out in the stoves which we get in the modern draft camp and some of us are even taking our uniforms and shoes off when we go to bed.

I hoap the war is over before next winter as I am strictly a warm weather fighter I am afraid. If there is ever a expeditionary force this war covers so much territory that it has all climates and I hope my division gets sent to Africa and not to no-place-where-there-is-snow and ice. The more I think of the past winter here in camp the more I appreshiate what G. Washington went thru at Valley Forge. We didn't cross no river in no open boat with a horse in the middle to interfere with the rowing but that was about the only difference I gess but do not think I am squawking mom.

We have lots of visitors now and I wish you would come up next Sunday. Nellie Armstead wuz up last Sunday and Kitty O'Neil wuz up Saturday and I had a close call as they both mite have come on the same day. The cafeteria for visitors is wonderful just like those nickle-in-the-slot places and while the food may not be no better than in the army it is fancier looking and the cooks take more pains with it. Eating don't interest me so much no more mom on account of I have been doing kitchen work so much I can't think of eats without thinking of washing dishes or peeling potatues. I got to peel potatues agin tomorrow witch I don't understand becuz their must be plenty of other soldiers who are as good at it as me but I keep getting picked on and the mess sergeant says it is part of my vocational training.

It is funny the garage ain't found no customer for my jallopy as it is in good shape and had only been driven 200,000 miles and I told the man that I would knock $4,000 off my asking price of $45 on account of three tires don't hold air long and the right handed door is off. I wish you wud call him up and ask him to get $30 for it as I need money and there is another delay in the army pay.

Your loving son,
Oscar.

P. S.—I wrote Olive Johnson but didn't get no answer so I wish you wud see if she has moved away or what. Do not worry about me as I am all right except for two crushed toes where a Army saucer fell on my foot.

White uniforms have been abandoned for sailors in the U. S. navy when working on ship, and khaki substituted. The yachting influence has just about disappeared everywhere.

NEVER BELIEVE 'EM WHEN THEY SAY:

Supply Sergeant.—Just your size, buddy.

Buck Private.—I've got a date with a swell dame tonight.

Old-Timer.—I'll never enlist again if I get out of this.

Top Sergeant.—The quicker you finish this detail the sooner you'll be able to rest.

Mess Sergeant.—You're getting what the menu calls for.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

BROADENING CHRISTIAN HORIZONS: SAUL'S CONVERSION

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:1-18.
GOLDEN TEXT—I was not disobedient unto the heavenly vision.—Acts 26:19.

The conversion of Saul is recognized as one of the outstanding events in Bible history. When two brilliant English lawyers, Lord Lytton and Sir Gilbert West, set out to disprove the truth of Christianity, they selected the resurrection of Christ and the story of Paul's conversion as the focal points of their proof. Working independently, they then came together to compare notes, and found that they had both become Christians as they had become convinced of the truth of the Scriptures.

The two events may well stand together as mighty evidence for Christianity, for only on the ground of regeneration can the change in Saul be accounted for, and only on the assurance that he met the risen Christ on the Damascus road can we account for his conversion. This is a great lesson, let us make the very most of it.

I. Saul, a Bold Persecutor (vv. 1, 2).

As our lesson opens we find the brilliant and zealous young Jew, Saul, "yet breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord." The persecutions in Jerusalem had practically wiped out the church in that city, but had scattered the disciples abroad, and thus the witness had been spread. The death of the godly Stephen, to which Saul had given his approval, had only increased his determination to destroy those who were "of the way" of Jesus. Looking for new fields to conquer, he carried with him to Damascus letters from the high priest at Jerusalem, giving him authority to imprison the followers of Christ. But on the way he met Christ Himself, and was stricken to the earth.

II. Saul, a Convicted Sinner (vv. 3-9).

Stricken down by a brilliant heavenly light, he finds himself talking to the Lord Jesus. He hears from His holy lips the solemn indictment of those who persecute God's people—"Why persecutest thou me?" He who lays unkind hands upon, or brings untrue accusation against, God's children had best beware, for so closely is our Lord identified with His people that when they suffer, it is He who bears the hurt.

In a single sentence the Lord dispenses of the persecuting zeal and the sinful skepticism of this proud young Pharisee, and Saul enters into Damascus not as the haughty persecutor, but as a man trembling and astonished. He spends three days shut in with his own soul and God, not seeing, not caring to eat, but entering into communion with God. By God's grace the old life is pulled up by the roots as it is displaced by the new life in Christ Jesus.

III. Ananias, an Obedient Disciple (vv. 10-12).

Ananias was the "I am here, Lord" type of Christian to whom the Lord could confidently commit His important business. All we know of him is what is contained in this chapter, but it is a very beautiful and enviable record. God is able to work directly on any human soul and accomplish His end (as He did with Saul on the Damascus road), but His usual manner of working is through faithful human agencies.

One wonders how much would be accomplished for God if every Christian were as willing and ready as was Ananias to do the Lord's bidding in seeking out and helping a struggling soul.

The greatest of all Christian leaders, the apostle Paul, was led out into his life of loyalty and service to Christ by a humble layman. Repeatedly God's Word by precept and example stresses the vital importance of personal work on the part of laymen and women. The leaders of Christian work during the coming generation are now in the Sunday school classes of our churches, perhaps in a little wayside chapel in the country, in the village church, in the mission or settlement house, or in the great city church.

IV. Saul, a Chosen Witness (vv. 15, 16).

The fears of Ananias that Saul might still be a worker of evil (v. 13) were soon overcome by God's assurance that in the praying Saul He had prepared for Himself "a chosen vessel" (v. 15) to bear the gospel to the Gentiles and to kings, as well as to Israel.

The great witness of Saul was to be accompanied by great suffering. How often the two go together, and both may be (as they were in Paul's life) for God's glory. Saul knew nothing of that subtle hypocrisy known as being "a secret believer," for at once he made open confession of his faith in baptism, and "straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues that he is the Son of God" (v. 20).

29 MILLION!

A record

★When the 29,000,000th Ford rolled recently from the assembly line, an all-time record for the industry was set. 29,000,000 units built by the same management and all bearing one name—a name that has become one of the best-known trade-marks in the world!

It is significant that this achievement comes at a time when our country is making a mighty effort to re-arm swiftly. For to further that effort, to help speed it along in any possible way, we have offered the vast facilities of the Rouge Plant and every ounce of our experience.

As you read this, a new $21,000,000 Ford airplane engine plant, started only last fall, is nearly completed. A new magnesium alloy plant, one of the few in the country, is already in production on light-weight airplane engine castings. Work is right now under way on a new $18,000,000 plant for mass production of big bomber assemblies. Orders have been filled for military vehicles of several types, including army reconnaissance cars, staff cars and bomb service trucks.

In the midst of this activity for National Defense, building the 29 millionth Ford car is simply one part of the day's work.

The public has acclaimed the 1941 Ford car as the finest in Ford history. Ford Dealers are enjoying their greatest sales and expecting their best year since 1937.

It is good to be producing the things America needs, and to be setting records on the way!

The Legion home is blooming with poppies as the Auxiliary women complete preparations for the annual observance of Poppy Day, Saturday, May 24. The little red flowers of memory are being taken from the boxes in which they came from the Veterans' Hospital at Albuquerque where they were made by disabled veterans. Memories of the past and hopes for the future—that is what goes into the making of a poppy, said Mrs. Moore, poppy chairman, as she took one apart and explained its structure. They are made in exact replica of the wild poppies of France and Belgium, which grew in profusion in the battlefields.

The men who make the flowers are comrades of those in whose honor they are worn. They were not called to give their lives, but they gave their health and strength, which makes life worthwhile. Into the little flowers they place great memories of the past, and from the work they derive new hope for the future, said Mrs. Moore.

INSTALLMENT 10 THE STORY SO FAR:

Dusty King and Lew Gordon had built up a vast string of ranches in the West. King was killed by his powerful and unscrupulous competitor, Ben Thorpe. Bill Roper, King's adopted son, was determined to avenge his death in spite of opposition.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

But now the scar-mouthed man spoke suddenly; from his position at one side he had dared flick his eyes to the door. "Walk, look out! Don't turn! Watch this buzzard, but wheel back and stand by me!"

Into the front of the bar two men had come; they came striding back the length of the room; their spurs jingling brokenly. Roper did not see their guns come out. But suddenly the weapons of both of them appeared in their hands, smoothly and easily, from no place.

The two men were Lee Harnish and Tex Long.

Tex Long's 45 clicked in the palm of his hand as it came to full-cock. He said, "Howdy, Bill. A spic girl just brought us word. Dave Shannon and Hat Crick Tommy are up the street. And Dry Camp Pierce."

"Gosh," Lee Harnish said, "we've been hunting you for two months! You want us to blast these Indians, boss?"

Bill Roper drew a deep breath, and grinned. At first he could not even appreciate that here, at last, were the leaders he needed for his great raid. All he could think of was that he had been deprived from certain death; and he knew that life was good.

CHAPTER XIV

The tribute implied by the re-gathering of the wild bunch leaders was one of the most extraordinary things that had ever happened in Bill Roper's life. There was not much to their story. Driven out of Texas on the eve of Bill Roper's victory, for a while they had gone their separate ways. But gradually they had drifted together again, in the Indian nations, at Dodge, in the northern cow camps. With Clove Tanner broken in Texas, and the roots cut from under Ben Thorpe's organization by the loss of his breeding grounds, the outlaw riders found themselves unwilling to leave their work unfinished. So at last they had come looking for Roper—and had found him.

The first thing was to get them out of there. He named as rendezvous a lonely shanty on Fork Creek.

Roper himself was the last to ride out of Miles City. Seasoned night riders though these men might be, with names now famous the length of the trail, most of them were youngsters still. No one of them could be trusted not to get a skinful of liquor, and go gunning for Lasham's men on his own hook.

Roper was relieved, therefore, upon riding into the Fork Creek rendezvous in the dreary February twilight, to find his Texas men already waiting for him there. They were eating fresh beef, but not their own, as Roper came into the little cabin, stamping the snow off his boots.

Lee Harnish looked sheepish. "Say, I forgot something. I got a letter for you here."

Roper took the worn envelope and stood turning it over in his hands. The date showed it to be three weeks old—no great age, everything considered. But what took hold of him, so that for a full minute he dared not break the seal, was that the letter was from Jody Gordon.

Roper ripped open the envelope. The whole note covered no more than half a page; but as he folded it and put it into a pocket, his hands were shaking in a way that would have cost him his life if he had been walking into a gunfight then. There was a long silence.

With a visible effort, Roper pulled himself together. Briefly he told them what his new wild bunch had done.

"But we haven't even scratched the surface," he finished. "Unless we hit Walk Lasham quick and hard, Thorpe will get his balance again, and reach his roots back into Texas; and all the work we did down there will go for nothing."

"Me," Tex Long said, "I aim to swing with you, and try to finish up what we begun. But, way I see it, the layout up here is terrible bad, for our style of work."

"There isn't any profit in the way I figured," Roper admitted. "I've been taking a peasear up along the Canadian border; I figure it's an easy drive. If you criminals are willing to come on and take one more crack at Thorpe and Lasham—"

"There's no one beyond the border that's needing any stock," Dry Camp Pierce said gloomily.

"Dry Camp," Bill Roper said, "I'm thinking of the tribes."

There was a moment's silence. "Granting that Canada's full of war paint," Tex Long said; "how the devil—"

"I've talked to Iron Dog."

Every one of them, each in his own way, pricked up his ears at that. Iron Dog was a famous warrior chief of the Gros Ventre Sioux. Ragged and starving, his decimated band driven far out of their home country, Iron Dog no longer was the stubbornly resisting force which had once made his name. But though he was broken and helpless now, remnants of his leadership re-by his sweetheart, Jody Gordon, and her father, Roper's successful raids against Thorpe's Texas holdings wiped him out of the state. Roper then left for Thorpe's Montana ranches. Jody, told that her father's life was in danger, left her home to ride 500 miles to warn him. Walk Lasham, manager of Thorpe's holdings in Montana, saw Roper sitting alone and unarmed in a saloon one day. Gun in hand, Lasham prepared to kill his hated antagonist who was leading the rustler's war.

months their chuck wagons will be heading out, and the deep grass will be full of their riders. We have to move and move quick."

"It might be," Dry Camp Pierce declared himself, "it just could be done." A hard gleam was coming into the old rustler's wary eyes.

"And if it can—great God! There's never been nothing like this!" The others seemed to have had the breath knocked out of them by the unheard-of scope, the bold daring, the headlong all-or-nothing character of the plan.

"This is bigger than the Texas raids," Tex Long said wonderingly. "This is bigger than anything has ever been!"

Suddenly Dave Shannon smacked his thigh with his huge hand. "By God, I believe it'll bust 'em!"

Over the pack of outlawed youngsters had come a wave of that fanatic enthusiasm which sometimes sways men as they face the impossible, but Roper, strangely, was unable to share it. The great raid he had planned all winter now seemed futile—a plan senseless and cold.

"Bill," said Lee Harnish, "what's the matter with you? You got chills and fever, or something?"

Roper spoke to Harnish alone, as if he had forgotten the others. "That letter was from Jody Gordon," he said.

"Bad news, son?"

"I don't know. She wants me to come to Ogallala."

"When?"

"Now—right away."

"What for? Does she say?"

"She says she needs me; she says she needs me bad, and right away. I guess she does, all right. If she didn't, I don't believe she'd ever write to me."

The faces of the wild bunch riders were expressionless, noncommittal; Roper knew they wouldn't have much to say. They were youngsters still—all except Pierce; but their faces were carved lean and hard by long riding, and a lot of that riding had been for him.

He stood up, shaking his shoulders. "Catch up your ponies."

"We pulling out? Tonight yet?"

"You bet your life we are. Ought to make Red Horse Springs by midnight."

"And after that," Harnish said slowly, "what is it, Bill? Is it Ogallala?"

Once more the silence, while they waited for Bill.

"It's the raid," Roper said.

CHAPTER XV

Lew Gordon came stumping across the corral of his little Miles City house, his spurs ringing at every stride. His big hands, rope-hardened and thickened at the knuckles, swung loose at his sides; but his face had the look of a man beset.

Opening the back door of the house—she sent a great roar through the walls—"Jody! Jody, where are you?"

She answered him, and Lew Gordon went to find her.

"What's the meaning of this?" was his greeting as his daughter came running to him through the house.

"You were supposed to stay in Ogallala!"

Jody threw her arms about his neck and pulled his head down to kiss him; but Lew Gordon was not to be put off.

"That horse wrangler just brought me word that you was here," he said. "There's a pretty kettle of soap, when some horse wrangler knows more about where a man's daughter is than he knows himself!"

"Dad, will you please sit down? I tell you, I want to talk to you!"

"Oh, all right." Lew Gordon flopped into a chair, jabbed his spurs into the floor at long range, and tore off another huge mouthful of beef.

"There are two pieces of bad news," Jody said now. "First thing, Ben Thorpe has cut under us in the bidding for the government contracts, at Dodge."

A spark leaped into Lew Gordon's eyes; under the pressure of the last two years he had turned edgy and garrulous, as if his mind had become hasty on the trigger, now that his hands were idle. "I might have known it!" his big voice boomed.

"Those infernal—"

"The loss of those contracts is going to hurt," Jody said; "I've brought the books up into fair shape, and it looks to me as if King-Gordon is starting the worst year in history. If the losses go on piling up the way they are—"

Jody Gordon came and sat on the arm of her father's chair. "There was a man rode up to Ogallala from Dodge City," she said. "He brought some very peculiar news, and I don't like it at all."

"If that renegade Colorado outfit think they're going to—" Lew Gordon began.

"This was a Bill Roper man," Jody said.

Lew Gordon checked as suddenly as if he had been struck across the face.

"New I aim to square the deal."

what happens when you throw that many loose Indians together? You got a war on your hands, by God! They'll come whooping down Montana—they'll tear the country wide open! The whole frontier will go up in a bust of smoke. Nothing'll ever stop 'em, once they get together like that!"

"One thing will."

"What will?"

"Grub," said Roper.

"That might be so," Dave Shannon admitted. "I never yet see an Indian go to war on a full stomach."

A tensy had come into that dark cabin; they were realizing now that they stood in the shadow of events of a magnitude they had not dreamed. In the quiet, Bill Roper's hands kept creasing and recreasing the letter from Jody Gordon. A faint dampness showed on his forehead, but his fingers acted cold and awkward.

"There's five of us here," Tex Long said. "You expect us to just suddenly feed every Indian in creation?"

"I've got twenty-seven riders waiting to throw in with us at the first word."

"Twenty-seven riders? Where?"

"All over Montana. What do you think I did all winter? Holed up like a she-bear?"

Silence, again, while they all studied Roper.

"How many you figure to move?" Tex Long asked at last.

Roper's voice was so low they could hardly hear his words. "Between twenty and thirty thousand head."

Tex Long threw his hat against the roof poles in a gesture of complete impatience. "Dead of winter," he said; "maybe having to fight part of the time; why, thirty-four cowboys couldn't drive—"

"We don't have to handle this stock like fat beef," Roper reminded him. "We don't have to pull up for quicksand, or stampede losses, or high water. If a hundred head get swept down a river, what the hell! Some different Indians will get hold of 'em downstream. Working that way, hard and fast, thirty cowboys can move every head in Montana!"

"We're terrible short of time," Tex Long said.

"I know it; in another couple of

NEW IDEAS for Home-makers

BY RUTH WYETH SPEARS

A SIMPLE MANTEL, FACED AND TRIMMED WITH YOUR CURTAINS, PICTURES AND SHELF ARRANGEMENT.

SMALL windows and bookshelves at the sides of a fireplace often create a monotonous series of rectangles. Watch out for them for they play an important part in decorating plans. You see them here in the small sketch—six of them—window; over-mantel space; window; bookshelves; mantel; bookshelves—around and around they go.

The only architectural change shown in the large sketch was a mantel facing built of three boards and simple mouldings. This broke up one rectangle. Irregular lines for awag-drapes over the windows

Little Herbert Was There To Give the Game Away!

On arriving home father found a foreign coin resembling a quarter in his small change, so he went out to do a little shopping, taking Herbert, aged five, along. He went to the grocer's, and the grocer, looking at the coin, said with an air of surprise, "Why, this is not United States money!"

So the man went to the druggist's, and there tendered the coin. The druggist informed him that the coin was of foreign extraction.

"Good heavens, so it is!" exclaimed the father. "I wonder where I got that?"

"Don't you know, dad?" spoke up Herbert. "That's the one the grocer wouldn't take!"

softened the angles of two more. A large picture or mirror over the mantel just added still another rectangle, so small prints were hung with ribbons. The arrangement of vases, books and bibelots, on the shelves took care of the rest.

NOTE: Directions for cutting and making the awag draperies shown in today's sketch may be found on page 17 of Book 1, in the series of service booklets offered with these articles. Also book 1 is now ready for mailing. It contains more than 50 of these home-making ideas with step-by-step directions for each; as well as a description of the series.
