TATHER it's $3,000,000 or $4,000,000. Tom Yawkey of the Boston Red Sox has put out more money in his pennant pursuit than any man in baseball history. In these days, what's a million, one way or another? Or even a bil-run for his money with the best club in baseball, outside of the pitching. At least no one will argue that he hasn't the strongest club on all-around offense. Few pitchers care about step-Grantland Rice ping out against Ted Williams, Joo Cronin/ Dom DiMaggio, Jimmy

Foxx, Bobby Doerr, Jim Tabor, Lou Finney and others. Few remember the fact that Tom Yawkey's Red Sox led the American league over a longer stretch last season than any other club, only to crumble in the stretch. Being an incurable optimist, Owner Yawkey is pretty sure this time they won't crumble.

About Tom Yawkey

In the first place, the Red Sox owner is one of the keenest baseball followers anyone ever saw. In the second place, he is the type that wants to win far beyond the average human being. Tom Yawkey may not show it.

but on the inside he is a tough loser, no matter what the competition. If he hadn't been, Tom would have called it a day or a season some time ago. He is an extremely genial, liberal citizen, but baseball to him is no idle plaything. Winning an American league pennant is now an obsession, a matter of personal pride that goes beyond any concern with money.

He has put his full faith in Joe Cronin and he has backed Cronin up from start to finish.

In the last two years Yawkey has followed his ball club all over the map. He starts with his men in their spring training around Sarasota, and rarely ever gets out of reach.

They like him-and he likes them. Try to suggest that some other ball club has a better player in some poaition and you jump into the middle of a hot debate.

He resilves that his pitching has never been what it should be. He'd give $200,000 temorrow for a pitcher good knough to win 20 games or more. He has already shoveled in too much gold to start balking at a mere $200,000.

But the trouble is you can't find them, no matter how much cash you have. Outside of Bob Feller. how many pitchers in the American league could be guaranteed for a 20-game season? And good clubs are not selling their best pitchers at any price.

A Hot Favorite

Speaking of BY ROBERT MCSHANE Released by Western Newspaper Union

LIBRARY full of deathless prose has been written about Billy the Kid Conn since his gallant stand against Heavyweight Champion Joe Louis, Billy, who drew the loser's end of the purse, got a much bigger sendoff than did the champ. In fact, from the publicity given Conn one would have a hard time determining that Louis had managed to dust off his eighteenth title seeker. Joe seemed incidental to the main story, which was of Billy's No task is ever hard for usconfidence, courage, ability and fighting heart. Almost every author, however, was kind enough to admit that Louis won the fight in the thirteenth round.

This is no reflection on Billy the Kid. He did a great job and cer one of his 174 onstrated clearly that night why he formerly ruled the light heavyweight class and why he never has been knocked out by any fighter of his own weight.

Champion's Guns

But Louis carried too many big caliber guns. Just about the time that Billy figured it was all right to mix things up with the champ, he stepped into a murderous right that foreshadowed the end. The 13 long, grueling rounds brought mixed feelings to the many loyal followers of both men.

Conn's backers were proud of his courageous showing and despondent over his failure to keep away from the champ just when it looked as though the victory had come with. Their arguments are quite unin his grasp.

Louis' followers were jubilant over his victory, yet fearful that he isn't the vicious, hard slugging fighter he used to be.

There is good reason to believe that Joe isn't the keen, devastating brawler he was a couple of years ago. He has gone to the wars too ellen and the killer arre has lest its sharpness. During the last eight menths he's only had about two weeks at any one stretch when he, warn't in training for a title fight. He has defended the crown seven times since January. It's no easy task to stay in perfect fighting condition for many months when bouts follow-each alkan with also blike regularity. Joe's showing in his past couple of fights has given new courage to the hopefuls who would like to wear the crown. Ray Carlen, manager of Lou Nova, is quite definite in stating that his boy will cancel Joe Louis in no more than two or three rounds. And Nova himself is of the same opinion.

The Louis-Nova best is scheduled for September. We're willing to go on record as believing Lon will be as tough or tougher than Comm and that he has a good chance to win the title. He will win it if Louis isn't better in September than be was in June.

The Cosmic Kid

In spite of his eccentricities, Nova is a dangerous battler. Though no to bring your sweetheart or someone has labeled him a crackpot, he does manage to depart from the humdrum normalcy. ## War Use Seen For Helicopter

Has New Type Motor Which Employs Blower to Turn Wing Fan.

ATLANTA. --- An air-driven helicopter that operates on the same principle as a water-driven rotary lawn sprinkler is emerging from the experimental stage at the Daniel Guggenheim School for Aeronautics.

Director Montgomery Knight predicts "great defense possibilities" for the offspring of his one-passenger model, now under construction. The working model, which resembles a streamlined glider's fusclage with a single-bladed fan revolving over it, will be ready for ground tests in September. Trial flights will follow "as soon as feasible." Knight said.

"It ought to make an excellent reconnaissance plane," Knight said, "and its ability to hover motionless over a target while the pilot aims and releases his projectiles would give it far greater bombing accuracy than a high-speed plane which is over the target for only a fleeting instant."

Motor Blower Used.

The spinning, fanlike wing that drives Knight's helicopter is powered by air drawn in at the front of the ship and forced out through a small jet in the end of the wing The temperature in hay mows your order to: by a motor blower.

The revolving wings of previous helicopters have been motor-driven, and the resultant forque has been the stumbling block in their successful production, according to Knight.

"Motor torque has tended to cause the fuselage to rotate in the opposite direction to the wing," Knight said, "but by using air to drive our revolving wing we eliminate this torque, thus giving the ship the necessary stability."

Knight said wind-tunnel tests at the school's aeronautical laboratories had proved the advantage of the air-driven wing.

A 75-horsepower motor, similar to those used in light planes, will drive the air blower for Knight's working model. He estimates the ship will attain a speed of 100 miles an hour and go 20 miles on a gallon of gaso-

Will 'Stop on a Dime.'

The ship will ascend and descend vertically, "stop on a dime" in midair, land "like a feather," and be virtually crash-proof, Knight said. The rotary wing, as well as the fuselage will be of plywood construction. The ship will weigh 500 pounds empty and 750 when loaded, according to specifications. The wing will be 10 feet long and two feet wide. It will be atlached at one end, and counter-balanced by a small weight. Knight estimates that his air jet will rotate the wing at a top speed of 350 miles an hour.

on the shelf now? Lipstick. That is one of the contributions of women to the modern army, and it steads there beside the boot polish. Girls of the Women's Royal Naval service, the Auxiliary Territorial service and the Women's Auxiliary air force are all using discretion in their use of cosmetics, the institute states in announcing their new "line."

They have to. Battalion orders still-insist that they shall, but it does not mean there is any lipstick inspection. If there were, they would be found to match up with the uniforms, for they have all been carefully chosen.

Straight pillar-box red is for the Wrens-no blue or brown undertones. Warm brownish red is for the girls in khaki, and they are advised to avoid pinky shades in powder. A soft red with more pink in it is for the pride of the women's army—the air force girls.

New Gas Masks Called Triumph of U.S. Skill'

WASHINGTON.-Improved types of gas masks described by the war department as a "triumph of American technical skill" have been produced in quantities more than sufscient for an army of 1,418,000 men, it was announced.

The army said that the chemical warfare service had developed anactivated charcoal hundreds times more absorptive than ordinary wood charcoal. In combination with a special filtering material, it is capable of removing all known war gases from inhaled air.

Two types of mask, one for training and the other for actual field service in wartime, are being manufactured.

HOT HAY MOW IS FIRE HAZARD

Spontaneous Ignition Cause Of Large Losses.

> By W. C. KRUEGER (Extension Agricultural Engineer, New Jersey College of Agriculture. Rutgers University.)

United States farms suffer a loss of more than $15,000,000 annually from the spontaneous ignition of hay in barns. Foresighted farmers can take several steps to guard against this menace, and one of the most important is to inspect their mows frequently during the two to sixweek period immediately following storage-the most critical period for Legume hay, such as alfalfa, the clovers, and soybeans, is particularly susceptible, although the firing of other hay materials stored chopped or unchopped is not uncommon.

The wetting of hay due to leaky roofs or through open doors or windows and the slower heating of especially dense and green material may result in dangerous heating months after crop placement:.

may-be determined quickly and easily by means of a homemade thermometer probe. This consists of a small diameter pole, preferably round, having a thermometer fitted in a groove just above the sharpened end. Since probe holes left in the hay may conduct air tohot spots and encourage combustion, as few holes as possible should be made and these should be plugged with a similar sized stick between readings. The plugs serve as markers for subsequent readings in the same location.

Temperatures under 150 degrees Fahrenheit may be considered sale but above this point the hay should be inspected frequently, since dangerous situations may develop. Temperatures above 175 degrees are definitely criticale Fire Department standby service should be arranged, and when temperatures approach 190 degrees it is time to consider removing the hay from the barn. It is well first to remove all tools. implements, and livestock, however, since the action of removing hay and admitting oxygen to hot spots may result in ignition and fiash fires.

Disinfectant Help Cure

Calves With Foot Rot Calves often get infected with foot rot when they are allowed to run in yards that are low, dirty and muddy. This is an infectious disassa, which usually starts in a grank between the toes.

Lameness is the first symptom. The foot swells and the flesh at the base of the hoof and between the toes becomes very sensitive. The infected foot should be washed with to keep it clean. It is sometimes necessary to soak the foot twice a day in a disinfectant solution and to trim away the diseased or infected tissue. The call should be kept in a clean, dry place until all signs of the disease have disappeared.

To prevent the occurrence of this infection, keep yards and lots clean and well drained. If a low, wide box of lime is placed so the calves will have to walk through it in going to and from the barn, it will aid in preventing this trouble.

Japanese Beetle Traps Chiefly for 'Scouting'

Traps for Japanese beetles. now widely utilized by federal entomologists, are not intended primarily as beetle destroyers. These traps are for "scouting." They are baited with a mixture of chemicals that attract beetles from a distance, and are set to give information as to the presence or absence of beetles in the neighborhood. The bureau of entomology and plant quarantine does not recommend beetle trapping as desirable for individuals. The bait is likely to attract beetles from a considerable area, but many of these beetles may not enter the trap, with the result that the lawn or garden near the trap may have more beetles than it would without a trap-although neighbors at a distance may have fewer. To be effective, trapping should be systematic and on a community basis, covering a square mile or more-and the larger the area the better.

The First U.S. Admiral

TULY 4 this year, was more than just another Independence day for the little city of Hastings on Hudson, N. Y. Combined with it was the observance of Farragut day, for the next day, July 5, marked the 140th anniversary of the birth of the man who was its most distinguished citizen-David Glasgow Farragut, the first man who ever held the rank of admiral in the United States Ravy.

Although Farragut was born near Knoxville, Tenn, on July 5, 1801, it was from a little cottage in Hastings on Hudson that he went forth to win his greatest fame as a naval commander. He was living there in 1861, awaiting a call to duty, when he was summoned to Washington and started on the career which was to make him the victor in two of the most important battles of the Civil war and to place him in our galaxy of naval heroes along with John Paul Jones, Isaac Hull and Oliver Hazard Perry. And all this he accomplished after he was 60 years old!

Few, if any, American naval officers have had as long and as distinguished a record as Farragut. Adopted by a famous naval officer, Capt. David D. Porter, at the age of eight, young Farragut was given the appointment of midshipman before he was 10 years old. He served on the frigate Essex, which captured several prizes at the outbreak of the War of 1812 with England, and at the tender age of 12, Midshipman Farragut was made prize-master of one of the captured ships.

... By the time of the outbreak of the War with Mexico in 1846, Farragut had risen to the rank of commander. He immediately applied for command of a ship and was finally given the sloop Saratoga. In it he arrived there too late to take part in the cupture of Vora Cruz which had already fallen to the American land forces. During the rest of the war he had to content himself with blockade duty.

However, greater glory awaited him 16 years later and the story of his part in saving the Union is one that is familiar to every American schoolboy. For it was Farragut who aboard his flagship, the Hartford, took his fleet up the Mississippl, past the thundering guns of Fort Jackson and Fort St. Philip, and captured New Orleans in the spring | 23-32). of 1862. The immediate effect of that victory was to change the purpose of Emperor Napoleon III of France, who was about to recognize the Confederacy and take measures to raise the blockade. It was Farragut who ran by the batteries at Port Hudson and helped Gen. N. P. Banks capture that important post in July, 1863, so that Abraham Lincoln was able to write "The Father of Waters now flows unvexed to 27). the sea."

And finally it was Farragut who I tion against spiritual truth is to let won the great victory of Mobile Bay it interfere with business. Demetrius in 1864 and to the famous sayings of and his fellow silversmillis pronaval heroes, such as John Paul fessed to be concerned about the Jones "I have not yet begun to threatened destruction of the heathfight!" and Oliver Hazard Perry's en worship of Diana (and what a "We have met the enemy and they fine testimony that was to the ef-'are ours," added his own immortal fectiveness of Paul's preaching!) "Damn the torpedoes! Go ahead! but in reality they were worried Full speed!" Stopping the passage about the loss of their ungodly busiof blockade-runners from Mobile ness in charms (vv. 25-27), and thus closing another main avenue of supplies for the Confederacy, in our time are fighting against was Farragut's last important con- God's Word because they are in tribution to winning the war.

By November, 1864, his health had begun to fail and he was ordered home. In December New York gave him a great public reception and presented him with a purse of $50,000 with which to buy a home there. Soon afterwards he was made a vice admiral and on July 25, 1866, congress created the grade of admiral, hitherto unknown in the United States navy, and that rank was given to Parragut. He died in Portsmouth, N. H., August 14, 1870.

Farragut's memory survives in colossal bronze statue which stands. in Farragut square in Washington. D. C. It was made by Vinnie Ream. the famous woman sculptor of Civil war days, and was paid for by congressional appropriation. There in also a statue of heroic size executed by Augustus St. Gaudens, in Madison square in New York and in the Church of the Incamation is a marble tablet containing a basic-Het likeness of the man who has been called "the greatest naval commander the world has ever seen."

CHRISTIANITY EXPANDS IN ASIA

LESSON TEXT-Acts 19:8-10, 23-32, GOLDEN TEXT-So mightly grew the word of God and prevailed.—Acts 19:20.

War is the order of the day, and much as we may regret it the life of every one of us is affected by its feverish touch. Certainly no Christian has any pleasure in the violent hatreds of wicked men, and can only pray that somehow a righteous peace.

may come to this troubled world. There is a warfare, however, which we do seek to foster and promote. We encourage it, and as Christians make a holy resolve to battle to the end. That is the warfare against Satan and his hosts. As long as he rules in the hearts of men, and sin and wickedness are here, we say, "Fight on, my soul."

Christian life and service are presented in Scripture as a fight. We do well to learn the methods and the weapons of this great spiritual conflict; not stressing a belligerent note of strife against one another, and particularly not between the divisions of God's army in the earth, but standing shoulder to shoulder in the battle against the Evil One.

I. Attack for God (vy. 8410). The vigorous prosecution of strong attack on the enemy's position is good military strategy, and good spiritual warfare. The command of God is "Forward!" and His forces are not to hinder their effectiveness by weak indecision or fear. Paul sets us an example it

Bold Preaching (vv. 8, 9a). Paul had met some disciples (19:1-8) who knew only the baptism of John and did not have the Holy Spirit. Dr. Erdman rightly says that "there are many more like these twelve 'disciples' in the pews of Christian churches. They are sincere men, they hate their sins, they believe in the teachings of Jesus, they admire the Sermon on the Mount, they yearn for the highest and best things, but they lack spiritual power. Why? Because they are 'disciples of John,' they have not fixed their hearts and their hopes upon a divine, risen, glorified Christ: they do not know the grace of God.' When, however, they learn the full gospel and yield themselves to Christ, they are not merely baptized with water, but also the Holy Spirit."

2. Careful Teaching (vv. 9b, 10). Three months of such preaching in the play, just brought many converts, but there were also "nurdened and alsobedlent" men whose opposition caused Paul to withdraw the disciples (learners) to the privacy of a lecture room for thorough instruction in Christian doctrine, a sort of Bible Institute of Ephesus. The church has largely failed in its teaching ministry and has thus weakened its effectiveness against the enemy. To be strong workers for the Lord, Christians must know the doctrines of the Faye.

II. Counter Attack by Satan (vv.

The enemy of our souls is often content to let us go on in comparative peace as long as we do not bother him unduly, but once we put up the banner of a holy life and service in God's army, he begins a terrific counter attack. Paul had felt it already in the hardening of listeners' hearts (v. 8), but now it began in dead earnest.

By Selfish Opposition (vv. 23-

Many of the enemies of the gospe business which is condemned by it. They know that every time a new convert is won to Christ they lose a customer and it troubles them. Reader, if you are in that kind of business, get out of it quick before God's judgment falls upon you.

2. Senseless Tumult (vv. 28-32). Knowing that their opposition was without true foundation, they is spired and agitated a wild demonstration. is it not astonishing how many thoughtless and foolish people there are in the world who will senselessly follow the lead of someone who opposes God?

Shouting a slogan which had no leave from the Navy Department to finish eal meaning, they lent their voices to the fumulations agitation against God. Finally, one sensible man, fearing the punishment of city officials, quieted them. The Ephesians were just like many in our day who fear man more than God. But may we ask if you fear the judgment of men, how think you to escape the judgment of God? After Service men who went to and can see all, it is God and His Word you Hollywood stars broadcasting should apoppose, unconverted friend. The figure in the lower left corner of the picture is an R.A.F. floats on a rubber dinghy, dropped by the land plane overhead. The aviator, after being shot down by Nazis, was spotted by the English air sea rescue service, who radioed the high speed launch, shown just as it reached the scene. The plane hovered above, until rescue was completed, then sped away upon another mercy mission. These dramatic events are almost a daily occurrence in the battle of the Atlantic.

The huge front was divided into four general parts, the far northern, the northern, central and southern. On the far north there was no discernible activity. This was the part which Germany hoped to invade by means of her occupation of U. S.' Biggest Norway.

The northern front really began with the Finnish-Russian border, that part of it which lies to the southeast and separates old Finland from the road to Leningrad. Here the fighting was severe, but apparently was batly in the nir. other pover of this front lay comewhat to the southward, and included the states of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and the Germans moving from East Prussia, were invading these territories only recently taken over by Russia, and were slowly forcing the Russians back into their own territory.

Hero the fighting was extremely severe and the Russian's were forcing the Nazis to advance slowly. where at all.

The greatest Nazi advance was on the central front, with the rail center of Minsk, reputedly a "life-line" of Russian supply between south and north armies, as the prime apparent objective. Here the Germans were claiming their greatest successes, and on the basis of meager dis patches, they had indeed covered the most mileage in this district.

Yet most observers believed the Ukraine, the southern front, was the one the Germans coveted most. Yel it was on this front that almost no ndvance had been made, the Russians claiming to hold the Prut river, which was still a considerable distance from old Russian territory.

Thus the old Nazi "pincers technique" was evident, as it was obvious the Germans were trying to POWER: divide the Russian defending armies into two parts, and drive southward to surround and encircle the Ukraine defenders, and to do the same via the Baltic states with the northern defenders.

PLANES:

In Syria

Enthusiastic reports were beginning to come from Australians in the R. A. F. in Syria and postbern Africa concerning the performance and maneuverability of Americabuilt planes.

These reports constituted an oddity, however, with regard to the bombers and fighters. From neathern Africa came gowing accounts of the performance of Martin-built bombers on the ever - growing strength of Britain there.

The bombers were last, the sights were unusually good, and they were wreaking havoc with Nazi and Fascist planes in the air and on the ground.

The Curtiss-built Tomahawk fighter planes also came in for unstinted praise, not only on the North African front but in Syria as well. But the Vichy French had the same Martin bombers that the Free French and British had in Syria, so it was Tomahawk against the U. S. heavier planes there.

The reports of victory were still optimistic in Syria, however, the airmen reporting that the Tomahawks shot down the U.S. Martins quite as well as they did the Junkers, Heinkels and Capronis in Af-

Bill Roper and Bob Stokes-the King-Gordon cowboy whom Roper. had not known—had finished their makeshift dressing of Old Joe's wound, and were working on Jim Leathers. Jim Leathers lay perfectly still; only his eyes seemed alive. "How's she feeling?" Bill Roper asked.

"The Gordon girl? She's all right. She went out to look over the horses or something."

Bob, you better go see nothing's happened to Jody."

"I'll go in a minute, soon as we're through here."

It was very early; the sun was only just breaking over the winterstarved prairie, that Sunday morning as Bill Roper splashed through the creek that runs by Sundance, and rode into the little town.

Overhead the sky was such a clear crystalline blue as Bill Roper had not seen since he left Texas, and underfoot his tired pony was sinking fetlock deep in thawed mud. The mud itself was predicting a spring which Roper believed now he would never see.

Without sign from the rider, Roper's pony drew up before the Palace Hotel and Livery. With some difficulty Bill Roper roused a sleepy and resentful indi-"Feed this pony, and feed him well."

That Ben Thorpe was here was known to every cattleman in the north country. Ben Thorpe had been here many weeks; it was to Thorpe that Bill Roper was to have been delivered, here, if a kid horse wrangler following Jody Gordon had not shot Jim Leathers down. But, by the fine, hard-ridden 9B horse which Lew Gordon had ridden in, Bill Roper knew that Gordon had not been here long. He judged that he had to the end of the long trail. He drew a last drag from his cigarette, and strapped on the gunbelt which he had laid aside. Unhurriedly, he three or four times drew the iron from its leather, to be sure that it was running free. Then, with a purely unconscious motion, he cocked his hat over one eye and went down into the street. He knew that Lew Gordon had gone into the Red Dog Saloon, and he walked toward it now.

For a moment Bill Roper, raider, night-rider, gunfighter - dreaded name of the Long Trail-experienced a twist of the heart, terrible, unbelievably acute. Then shrugged, and walked into the Red Dog Bar.

Lew Gordon stood at the bar of the Red Dog Saloon. The hard line of his jaw was blurred by a silver shag of whisker now, and his mustache was silver, and his hair; but the clear blue eyes were unbelievably young, younger than Bill Roper had ever seen them before. His hands were folded quietly, one elbow on the bar; and so greatly did this silver-haired man dominate the space in which he stood that it was minutes before Roper realized that there was a bartender there at all.

"So you came," Lew Gordon said. "Of course, Lew. Didn't you know I would come?"

"In one way," Lew Gordon said, "I'm glad you came. I want to say a couple of things to you, Billy, my boy. I done something wrong, Billy." "You was right and I was wrong. You fought him; I tried to smooth things out. I'm glad I've lived to tell you this: you was right and I was wrong!" "Lew-" Bill began. "I should have killed him, Billy," Lew Gordon said.

"Lew! What are you telling me?" "I know I was wrong," Lew Gorseem unhappy. "Always I stood for thing that would build this country into something my kid could live in. lowed, no man could tell what happened-but Roper knew that all guns seemed to converge upon Lew Gordon, and frantically he threw the lash of his fire at Thorpe, at Lasham, at the unknown men at the door.

For a moment the guns spoke in a smashing roar, and the powder smoke stung Bill Roper's nostrils; and then suddenly there was silence

Thorpe and Lasham both were down as that gunsmoke cleared, and those other strangers in the doorway had disappeared, except for a boot heel that dragged, almost out sight, and then was still.

Beside the bar of the Red Dog Saloon Lew Gordon still stood, Perhaps it was his bullet in the heart of Ben Thorpe-no man would ever. He turned now, slowly, elbow upon.

the bar, and looked at Bill Roper, "Thanks, son," he said. The hand that held the heavy forty-five sagged deliberately, then dropped the gun; it made a strange clatter upon the unswept boards of the floor. Then Lew Gordon's knees broke and he went down, and Bill Roper caught him as he fell.

Thin and tinny across the squalid town, across the thawing prairie, the church bell was ringing-a makeshift church bell ringing, on Bunday morning, as Lew Gordon died. (TO BE CONTINUED)

First Families: Recently the League of Young Americans Inc. announced from its headquarters that among its various activities would be a 100-piece Young American orchestra under the baton of Conductor Raymond Paige. The announcement stated that the organization would play American music, by American composers for American audiences. Also it was stressed that all vocalists and instrumentalists who make application for membership must be genuine native-born Americans. Up to this writing, Conductor Paige has had requests for auditions from more than 120 Indian boys and girls who hope that their talent will be as unquestionable as their right to the title, "American." And that seemingly would indicate that there is some error in the assumption that the North American Indian is practically extinct.

Bottle in Ocean Since '37 Travels Over 4,000 Miles

CALI, COLOMBIA.—A bottle containing a message in French. dropped in the ocean off Tahiti in 1937 by the Scientific Society of San Marino, Calif., has been found on the beach near here, after having floated about 4,000 miles. The message said the bottle was thrown into the south Pacific waters as an experiment in oceanography.

Proxy Bargain Hunting Fails on Home Front LONDON.-The labor ministry is deluged by complaints that "proxy shoppera" don't know a bargain, whether in beets or boots, or bananas. The idea was to do the shopping for women unable to leave their factory jobs. The WVS, unpaid women's war organization, accepted the task, but found that no woman thinks another can shop hearly as well as she can.

Perhaps His Neighbors Were Only Keeping Time

Wilkes had a serious complaint to make to his landlord.

"It's the people in the flat above me!" he stormed; "They won't give me a minute's peace. This morning at one o'clock they were jumping up and down on the floor as hard as they could. I won't put up with such behavior. It's an outrage!"

The landlord looked sympathetic.

"They woke you up, I presume?" he inquired,

The victim shook his head. "No. I hadn't gone to bed." "Ah! You were working late?"

"Yes. I was practicing on my saxophone!"
