Sheriff's Posse

The first annual election of officers of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Posse was held at the Courthouse Monday night.

It was voted to have a Turkey Shoot and Horse Race Sunday, Nov. 23, at the Bonnell ranch.

Business Men's Club

Twelve members and 2 visitors present. Barney Hoskins, Boy Scout Field Representative, was a guest of G. H. Dorsett.

Clyde Brewster reported that the band uniforms had been cleaned and repaired to fit the new members of the band at a cost of $30.

It was voted to move the meeting time to 6:15 p. m. instead of 6:30 for the winter months.

Arrangements have been made with the High School Band to have a parade on the morning of Nov. 11, in cooperation with the opening of the annual Red Cross Roll Call.

Frank Adams, Sec'y. Russell—Harkey.

Miss Christine Russell and Mr. Jack N. Harkey were united in marriage at the home of the groom Nov. 5, at 2:30 p. m., with Rev. Klassner officiating.

The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Russell of Amarillo, Texas. She has visited in Carrizozo several times and made many friends because of her sparkling personality.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Harkey and needs no introduction to the people of Carrizozo and Lincoln County. He was born, reared and educated here and was recently inducted into the Army, where he is now serving as a non-commissioned officer.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Drake of the Drake ranch near Ancho were Carrizozo business visitors this Wednesday. While in town, Mr. Drake was a pleasant caller at this office.

Mrs. Jane LaRue, Messrs. Gene Leonard and Alex Fassbender of Albuquerque spent the week-end here, visiting the Billy Norman family. Mrs. Edith McKinley and Miss Rhoda Freeman.

SCHOOL NEWS

The Hi School Band will give a brief concert in the afternoon of Armistice Day.

The Biology Department under direction of Prof. Martinez has collected for study and classification all the bugs in this community except bed bugs. The class has some doubt if such could be found in Lincoln County—or could they?

The College Extension class meets twice per week now. Three hours of college credits may be earned by taking the course. This is the third year Mr. James M. Carpenter has taught college classes in Carrizozo.

Several classes and organizations are putting forth their respective candidates for Carnival Queen. The Geometry Class under direction of Miss Deininger is completing the unit of triangles, and many beautiful designs have been made. Optical illusions presented and developed by the class has caused each member to conclude, "Well, I can't believe my own eyes."

Supt. Carpenter made a business trip to Portales Saturday. The 9th grade general mathematics class has been studying the pro and con of installment buying.

Pruett—Payne

We wish to announce the marriage of our daughter, Dorothy Louise Pruett to Paul Joe Payne in Tucson, Nov. 1. They were attended by the bride's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Pruett of Tucson. The bride, a Senior in the Bowie High School, plans to continue her studies this year. For her wedding she wore a blue afternoon dress with white accessories and a corsage of gardenias. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Payne of Phoenix and is employed by the S. P. as roadmaster's clerk. They plan to reside at Bowie.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Pruett, Bowie, Ariz.

Capt. Maurice Lemon

M. R. Lemon, the army's commanding officer at the Lakeland School of Aeronautics, training center for British students, has been promoted from 1st Lieutenant to Captain. Capt. Lemon was assigned to the Lakeland school when it was opened, and became commanding officer when Capt. Roy Wright was transferred to another school.

Note—Capt. Lemon is a Carrizozo boy, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lemon of this place.

Ralph Petty has returned from Mexico City, where he was one of the principal participants in a golf tournament.

County Commissioner Corbin Hester was here the first of the week from Corona, attending a meeting of the Board of County Commissioners.

Mr. and Mrs. Seldon E. Burks of Capitan were here Tuesday.

County Clerk Felix Ramey was a Santa Fe business visitor one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Richards have returned from a vacation trip which took them to different places of interest in Texas, and after visiting their daughter, Mrs. Williamson at El Paso, they returned accompanied by their little granddaughter Dickie who will visit with her grandparents for a short time.

Mmes. Maggie Pfingsten and Roy Lamay were here Wednesday from the Nogal-Mesa, attending to business matters and returning home in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Stimmel, Jr. of Stockton, Cal., spent the week-end with the B. L. Stimmel and Tennis Smoot families. They left for home Tuesday.

Mrs. Vernon Petty and children of Tucumcari are here, spending a short time with relatives, during the absence of S. P. Detective Vernon Petty, who is now in the railroad hospital in San Francisco, undergoing an operation.

A. S. McCamant was a business visitor from Corona on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Helms and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Helms were in from their ranch Wednesday.

P. E. Christiansen, Justice of the Peace at Capitan, was a visitor in town this Monday.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kudner are here from New York City, accompanied by friends, all of whom are on a hunting party after the elusive deer.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Atkinson of their ranch near White Oaks were business visitors in town this Monday. The Atkinsons have about completed their new ranch home—and we look for a lively "house warmin'" in the near future.

Frankie Silva and Abel Pino of the Capitan-Tucson mountain country were Carrizozo business visitors Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Thomas and a small daughter LaVerne of Corona attended the show at the Lyric Theatre Sunday. Mr. Thomas operates the Thomas Garage in Corona.

Mrs. C. W. Jones of Batesville, Arkansas, arrived here Saturday and will visit with her son, Attorney H. Alfred Jones, for a few weeks.

R. E. P. (Pick) Warden was an Ancho visitor Sunday.

Mrs. Ira Greer of Tucumcari visited local relatives and friends this week.

Judge and Mrs. M. C. St. John and children were Las Cruces visitors Sunday.

Joe Phillips, who is attending the School of Mines at Socorro, was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Welsh and baby daughter and many Carrizozo friends for the week-end. Mrs. Welsh is Joe's sister.

Mrs. F. L. Elliott of Tucumcari writes that she has recently returned from a trip through the east, where she visited principal points in Indiana and Illinois, and was a guest at the Palmer House while in Chicago. Mrs. Elliott sends best regards to her many Carrizozo friends.

Mr. and Mrs. James McCanlies visited Mrs. McCanlies' parents at Ruidoso Friday evening.

Pvt. Sat Chavez, who is stationed at Wichita Falls, Texas, spent two days with the home folks here this week.

Mrs. Ricardo Flores of Capitan was a visitor here last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Balow of Ancho attended the show at the Lyric Theatre Sunday. Mr. Balow operates a cafe in Ancho.

Mrs. T. E. Kelley presented her piano-pupils in recital at her home on Halloween night. A splendid program was carried out, after which the hostess served refreshments.

Mr. and Mrs. Price Miller and children of the ranch near Ancho were business visitors in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Morris of Ancho attended the Lyric Theatre Friday nite.

Mrs. Lulu Lewis and son Rex of the Lewis ranch at the head of the Malpais were shoppers in town Saturday.

Eddie Long, popular salesman of the Titworth Co. in Capitan, called on local merchants this Monday.

Civilian Defense

(Proclamation By The Governor) Whereas by executive order the President of the United States has established the Office of Civilian Defense, and has declared the existence of an unlimited national emergency; and Whereas it is the duty and desire of every person in the United States to participate in measures essential to civilian defense:

Now, Therefore, I, John E. Miles, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby designate the period beginning on Armistice Day, Tuesday, Nov. 11, and continuing through Sunday, Nov. 16, as a time for all citizens of the state to give thought to their duties and responsibilities of the defense of this country, and to become better informed in regard to the many vital phases of the civilian defense program and the opportunities it affords every individual American for cooperation and assistance in the present emergency.

Done at the executive office this 29th day of October, 1941. Witness my hand and the great seal of the State of New Mexico. John E. Miles, Governor. Attest: Jessie M. Gonzales, Secretary of State.

Will T. Coe, son Harold, wife and baby Joy Cherille were here Wednesday from Glencoe. They spent the week-end at the Coe ranch, after a visit with Harold's mother at Tularosa. They will return to Glencoe for this week-end for a deer hunt.

Mr. and Mrs. Florentino Lopez and Mrs. Crecencia Osorio were Alamogordo visitors yesterday.

SEVEN American league cities' club owners and managers, are already wondering how they are going to keep the Yankees from another common carrier next season. So far they haven't found the answer. Maybe there isn't any answer.

There is certainly no solace at hand in suggesting that the Yankees are growing old. The vital statistics show that a ball player's prime is somewhere between 28 and 30. It is here he has the combination of youth and experience linked together. For example, Ty Cobb was 28 when he had his greatest season in 1911—when he batted .420.

How does this concern the Yankees?

Well, DiMaggio is 27, Gordon is 26, Killer Keller is 25, Henrich is 25, Rizzuto is 23, Sturm is 25, and Bonham, Russe, Donald and Brewer are all under 23.

It's true that William Malcolm Dickey, better known as Arkansas Bill, is 34. But Dickey, always in condition, is good for 80 or 90 games, and Buddy Reiser, Dickey's understudy, is only 27. Red Rolfe is 33. Ruffing and Gerner are no longer in the kid class. But Priddy is only 22, and there is some first-class talent coming up from Newark and Kansas City.

The Yankees, in the main, are still a young team—a team that is in its active prime. And there is still Joe McCarthy at the head with his team blending influence. No wonder the other American league clubs are in a sadly baffled frame of mind.

For while the Yankees have been mouthing all National league rivals with considerable gusto, they also have been mouthing their own league just as lustily.

Great Second Basemen

Joe Gordon's performance in the last World series will more than hold its place when the Hot Stove league opens its winter session.

In Gordon's case it might be remembered that he is still a young fellow with 9 to 10 seasons left in his very system, and this is too soon to compare him with the masters of the past.

In this masters list you'll find Nap Lajoie, Eddie Collins, Frank Frisch, Rogers Hornsby, and these four are enough.

Lajoie, the most graceful of all ball players, was also a normal .330 hitter. Eddie Collins was faster than the big Frenchman and in addition was a .340 or .350 hitter. Hornsby was the best hitter of the 30's—with a .340 average—four-year mark above .400. Bill Hanna, one of the wisest of all the baseball experts, always ranked Hornsby and Ed Deleahanty as the two greatest right-handed hitters of all time—not even barring Wagner and Lajoie. Frank Frisch was another great second baseman, fast, aggressive, smart, and dangerous at bat.

It would be foolish to start ranking Gordon in his fourth big league season with these veterans who starred for 15 or 20 years each. Bill says in behalf of Gordon, however, that on the defense he can make plays I don't believe any other second baseman could match.

About Third Basemen

In any event, there are no third basemen now around who even can be compared with the best of other years—Jimmy Collins of Boston, Bill Krawder of Cleveland, Buck Weaver of the White Sox, to mention only three.

Collins, a fine artist, was also a normal .330 hitter—about as graceful at bat as Lajoie was at second. Buck Weaver is Ty Cobb's all-time pick and Buck isn't far away from the top. Red Kille, in better health, might have been a closer challenger.

Hitting can also be costly at times. For example, there are the Yankees. They have needed just 36 games to win their last eight World series competitions.

If they had been somewhat less efficient and had needed the full seven game quota to win their titles, these eight World series contests would have required 72 games. This means 36 possible extra games blown off the board, or a matter of some $2,000,000, which is quite a chunk of cash that combined ability and honesty have cost various club owners.

Whitey Owen's third strike entanglement in the fourth game of the series undoubtedly cost both ball clubs over $200,000.

"I was thinking close by at the moment," Joe DiMaggio told me, "hoping for my first at bat. I can testify that that curve of Casey's broke with unusual speed and sharpness. Tommy Henrich is a cool-headed, quick-eyed hitter. Tommy is a hard one to beat. But he won't have a second that sharp ball by at least a foot. Knowing where I was, on that fly, it is easy to understand why that third strike got away."

'Hornets' for Uncle Sam—and Hornet's Nest

A view of the U.S.S. Hornet, the navy's newest aircraft carrier, is shown at left. The Hornet displaces 23,000 tons and has a speed in excess of 30 knots. Right: In the biggest single delivery of military planes in aviation history, 123 Valtec Valentis, basic training planes, roared over Los Angeles en route to army and navy training stations. Some of them are shown, just before the takeoff at Downey, Calif.

IMAGINARY DIALOGUES: MRS. ROOSEVELT AND THE OGD CHIEF

(Mrs. Roosevelt takes office as assistant to Fiorello LaGuardia, director of the Office of Civilian Defense.)—News item.)

Mrs. Roosevelt (making her first appearance)—Good morning, boss.

Mr. LaGuardia—Good morning. What can I do for you?

Mrs. Roosevelt—I'm the new girl here. Roosevelt is the name.

Mr. LaGuardia—Oh, yes. I remember. Let's see... just what were you to do?

Mrs. Roosevelt—You just said to report as your assistant.

Mr. LaGuardia—So I did! Well, are you all set?

Mrs. Roosevelt—I'm willing to give you all my spare time.

Mr. LaGuardia—Come, come! You'll have to do better than that!

Mrs. Roosevelt—Dear me! If it isn't one thing it's another these days!

Mr. LaGuardia—If it isn't ONE thing it's A DOZEN OTHERS!

Mrs. Roosevelt—I don't see how you get time to attend to so many matters in so many places.

Mr. LaGuardia—I'm puzzled about you in the same way. Gosh, I guess we are the four busiest people in America.

Mrs. Roosevelt—Four? There are only two of us.

Mr. LaGuardia—Let's not belittle ourselves!

Mrs. Roosevelt—I'm very anxious to get going.

Mr. LaGuardia (whipping out a bunch of timetables)—So am I.

Mrs. Roosevelt—I mean to get going here... on the new job.

Mr. LaGuardia—Oh, yes. My error. Let's see what the set-up is. I'm head of the OCD and I need help.

Mrs. Roosevelt—Fancy Fiorello LaGuardia needing help!

Mr. LaGuardia—It does seem fanciful, I admit. But I need a deputy and I thought of you, as the First Lady of the Land and such a great worker in so many causes, would be of great help.

Mrs. Roosevelt—What can I do that you can't do?

Mr. LaGuardia—Well, a daily column for one thing. And you have a radio sponsor, too. I heard you on the air. I went right out and bought some of that tea.

Mrs. Roosevelt—I spoke for a coffee program.

Mr. LaGuardia—Sorry! It must have been a bad reception on my radio set.

Mrs. Roosevelt—I've often wondered why you didn't do a newspaper column yourself.

Mr. LaGuardia—I guess the papers don't use that kind of language. But I've had a radio offer.

Mrs. Roosevelt—From a sponsor? Who?

Mr. LaGuardia—A cigarette company. It wanted some new noises for the Modern Design theme.

Mrs. Roosevelt—Are you going to accept?

Mr. LaGuardia—No. My doctor thinks I am going too much already.

Mrs. Roosevelt—I don't blame him from worrying about the strain on you.

Mr. LaGuardia—That isn't it. He's worrying over the strain on him in worrying about the strain on me. To get back to business, do you think you understand just what our job requires?

Mrs. Roosevelt—Hark!

Mr. LaGuardia—What is it?

Mrs. Roosevelt—I thought I heard enemy bombers overhead.

Mr. LaGuardia—Excellent. You get the whole idea exactly!

CAN YOU REMEMBER—

Away back when people could always find out whether they were in a war or not without much trouble!

DEPOT SCENE

Comrades kiss their wives good-by as the Seven-Thirty's distant shriek.

Call them forth with grant and sigh, To station platform, cold and bleak;

Climb out of cars, last link with home,

Full, callers up around their skirts,

Look back at wives who sit alone In nightgowns under polo coats.

Rider of Buck River

WILLIAM MACLEOD
W. W. RAINES Service

THE STORY SO FAR: Jeff Carey, interested in two men, Ellen Brand, rider, and Calhoun Terry, ranch manager. Four rustlers had been mysteriously killed. The big ranchers, much over Terry's protest, hired an army of

CHAPTER XXXII

After supper Ellen walked out into the soft, moonlit night to see where her father was. She found him in the stable putting harness on Sam and Buck.

"I'm going with you," the girl told him.
"I think you had better," he agreed. "There's a chance these invaders might come this way. Pack a valise with things to last you two-three days. Until things settle down you'll be safer at Round Top than here."

Lane clucked to the horses and they started off. Presently the trail ran into the road. A man came out of it at a canter.

Ellen drew a deep breath of relief. He was a man of flesh and blood, and one she knew. His name was Wade Scott.

"Ellison's men got Dave Morgan and Sib Lee," he blurted out.
"Only a few hours ago she had seen Morgan start for Deep Creek to warn the settlers."

Scott rode down beside or behind them to Round Top. He dropped off at the Crystal Palace to tell his news. The place was boiling with life, as was the street outside.

The man from Deep Creek banged a tumbler on the top of the bar for silence. When the voices died down he told his story to a stilled and shocked audience. They waited till he had finished, then poured questions at him.

Lee Hart slammed his fist on the walnut. "That settles it. We'll take those fellows out of the calaboose and string 'em up, no matter what Nate says."

A little wrinkled man with a wide, gray, weather-beaten hat walked into the place. He had just ridden down from his ranch to find out how large a force Round Top expected to send as allies of the settlers against the invaders. Roan had arrived just in time to hear Hart's snarling threat.

"You don't want to get on the prod too sudden, Lee," he said mildly. "I heard up at Black Butte as I came through that Cal Terry saved Jeff Brand's life today. It takes only a l'il while to hang a man, but only God Almighty can bring him back to life again."

Hart turned on him angrily, a glass of whiskey halfway to his mouth. "Not a thing to that story. Horace Garvey started it."

Alford was worried, but he said no more in protest. He knew it was of no use.

"How is Jeff?" he asked. "Where is he?"

"Doing all right, I reckon. He's at the Round Top hotel."

Roan left his horse tied at the hitch-rack and started for the Round Top, which was really only a boarding-house. On the way somebody stopped him for a moment to discuss the chances of trapping the invaders. He mentioned casually that he had just seen Lane Carey at the Holden House. Lane and his daughter had reached town. Alford decided to consult with the Box 55 man about the best thing to do. He knew that Terry and Richards were in very great danger. Only a determined effort could save them from mob vengeance.

Carey and his daughter were still in the lobby of the Holden House. They were waiting there for a maid to finish changing the bed of a room recently vacated. Alford walked across to them.

"Hell has broke loose in Georgia," he said to Carey. "I've just left the Crystal Palace, where they are all talking about lynching Cal Terry and Larry Richards. That's all they are discussing on the streets too, except the trouble on Deep Creek. They'll be heading for the jail mighty soon, looks to me."

All the color washed from the face of Ellen. She stared at the little man, lips parted, fear dilating her eyes. "But—but—how can that be, when they fought with the Texans today and saved Jeff Brand's life?" she asked.

"I told 'em that. They won't believe it. They have gone crazy. We have got to get it across to them that Cal isn't tied up with this bunch of Ellison's. I figured maybe they would listen to Jeff, if we could get him to the jail. He's at the Round Top Hotel."

"I'll go to Jeff," the girl cried. "I'll bring him."

The Box 55 man hesitated. "All right," he said after a moment. "It had occurred to him that she might have some influence with Brand if any was necessary. "But you'll stay at the Round Top till this is all over. The streets are no place for a girl tonight."

Roan got Ellen off the main streets as soon as he could, but not before she sensed the intense feeling of the men they saw. It beat on her like the heat from the open door of a furnace. Instinctively she hurried her steps, as the chill of fear filled her breast.

The old woman who was nursing Jeff thought that he ought not to be disturbed, but they brushed her aside and went into the bedroom.

INSTALLMENT SIXTEEN

Texas, ex-peace officers to invade the countryside and kill without trial all suspected rustlers. By mistake, Terry and his foreman, Larry, are attacked by the invaders, and they ran to cover in a little cabin. Jeff, thinking them rustlers, comes to help them, is wounded, and is dragged into the cabin to safety. A rescue party takes Jeff to town for medical treatment, and Terry and Larry are arrested by the sheriff for safekeeping. A lynching mob gathers.

"It's life or death for two men," Roan explained. "We've got to see him, doctor's orders or not."

As soon as Jeff saw Ellen his face lit. "I been thinking about you," he said.

She could see by the light of the lamp that he was flushed with fever, but she had to tell him for what they had come.

"Oh, Jeff!" she cried. "The town has gone mad. Nate Hart has arrested Calhoun Terry and Larry Richards, and Lee Hart is gathering a mob to lynch them."

Jeff sat up on an elbow and stared at her in surprise. "What for are they doing it?"

"Because Ellison's band of killers shot Dave Morgan and Sib Lee today."

The wounded man's gaze did not shift from her, but Ellen knew he was seeing something else. His face had gone rigid.

"How do you know?" he asked, after a long silence.

"Wade Scott rode down with us. He helped carry the bodies to Sib's home." Ellen pushed past that to the terror crowding in on her. "They think Terry is in with the invaders. He sent a telegram asking the President to send troops to stop the trouble. Father thinks he did right. Nobody can talk these crazy men out of what they are going to do—unless you can do it, Jeff."

"How can he talk to them when he is sick ased?" the nurse wanted to know. "Even if you were to bring them here? The doctor said he was to be kept quiet."

Jeff hardly heard what they were saying. He was thinking about

Instinctively she hurried her steps.

Dave Morgan. They had frolicked a lot together and they had ridden lawless trails side by side. Between them had been a close comradeship. Each of them had trusted the other completely, had known his friend would not fail him at a pinch. Now Dave was gone.

Out of the fog of his thoughts Ellen's voice came to him. "...so father is coming with the wagon to carry you to the jail if you can go."

"He can't go," the nurse snapped. "I wouldn't think of letting him."

Roan Alford said: "We hate to ask it of you, Jeff, seeing how sick you are. It's up to you. Lane and I can carry you to the wagon. I dunno as it will do any good, but we figured maybe if you would tell the boys about how Richards and Terry stood by you they wouldn't be so bull-headed."

The nurse said, "No, he's going to stay right there on that bed."

"Bring me my clothes," Jeff told his nurse.

"I ain't a-going to do it. The doctor said—"

"Doc didn't know I had important business on hand," the wounded man said. "Roan, you bring me my shirt and pants."

"I knew you would, Jeff," Ellen said, and walked into the corridor. Jeff's eyes followed her, in them the knowledge of defeat.

CHAPTER XXXIII

Calhoun Terry and Larry Richards played seven-up with an old deck of cards the sheriff had given them. Occasionally one or the other of them strolled to the window and looked out through the bars at the crowds milling on the street.

"The Crystal Palace and the Old Triangle must be doing a land-office business tonight," Larry said. "I reckon a war must be good for trade. A lot of regeys must have gone down the hatch since supper time."

Calhoun came and looked over his shoulder. The noise of excited voices beat up to them. A group below caught sight of them. Someone shook his fist at the prisoners and cupped his mouth to fling a jeer at them.

"We'll have you out of there presently," he threatened.

The others sent up a roar of approval.

"A mob is sure a crazy thing, with no more sense than cattle in a stampede," Larry said. "Those birds down there are all het up till they haven't a lick of judgment."

Sheriff Hart came upstairs with bad news. "I wish to heaven there was a way to smuggle you two out of here," he said. "Wade Scott got to town half an hour ago with word that Ellison's gunmen got Sib Lee and Dave Morgan. Afraid that means trouble."

"There are ideas afoot," suggested Terry evenly, the inflection of a question in the words.

"Yes."

"So where do we go from here?" Larry asked ironically.

"I have two-three men downstairs. You have your own guns. They can't have you without a fight."

"We knew that already," Terry said dryly. "When do the fireworks begin?"

Though no friend of the Diamond Reverse B, the sheriff found it difficult to tell these men that the hour of doom was at hand. He hesitated.

Larry laughed hardily, without mirth. Like Terry, he was a tough and hardy realist, not afraid to face a situation which had to be met.

"Spit it out, Nate. When do the guns go boom?"

"Soon. I'd say in ten or fifteen minutes."

"Who are the trusty men you have downstairs?" Terry asked, a note of irony in his voice.

He knew that the sheriff was a game man. Nate would do his best within reason to save his prisoners, but it would not be possible for him to prevent a determined mob from breaking into such a ramshackle building.

Hart said that the men were his two deputies and a volunteer, Horace Garvey.

At mention of the editor's name Larry said: "I'll be dog-goned! The little rooster must have sand in his craw."

"Let's have him up here," Calhoun said. "I want to talk with him."

"What do you reckon ever got it into Garvey's head that he is a fighting man?" Larry asked his partner after the sheriff had gone to fetch the editor.

"I did him a service once, and he is trying to square the account. Probably he is scared stiff. We don't want him here, Larry. He'll only get killed, and it won't do us any good. I'm going to send him away."

Garvey was white to the lips. He carried a Colt's .45, at a right angle to his body, as if he was afraid of it. But it was quite clear that he had nerved himself to stand by his friend.

Cheerfully Terry greeted him. "Hello, oldtimer. I hear you've enlisted for the duration of the war."

The editor did not try a smile. This was serious business with him. "I felt I ought to come," he said.

"Bully for you, Horace. I'll remember this. But we don't need you here and we sure do need you outside. What I want you to do is find the fellows who brought Jeff Brand to town. They know what happened in the fight at Lee Hart's place. Take them to the leaders of these crazy men and make them tell what they know." He gave the names of the men who had guarded the wagon that brought the wounded man to town.

Garvey looked at him suspiciously. "You're trying to get rid of me because you think I won't be of any use," he ventured.

"I'm sending you out to make a stab for our lives, and you've got to hurry to do any good. Listen."

On the light night breeze was lifted the yell of those ready for the kill.

The editor made up his mind instantly. "I'll do what I can, Calhoun. I hope to God I can help you."

"Sure you can," Larry encouraged. "Hop to it, old man. And you might tell these birds out there to order eight or ten coffins. We'll be behind cover, and we won't be fooling the way we were this afternoon against the Ellison crowd. We aim to take a few of these anxious lads with us."

Garvey hurried away and was let out of the front door of the jail. He was at once seized by those outside and questioned. Through the window the prisoners watched him as he was hustled along.

"He might do some good, at that," Larry said. "But I would hate to bet a plugged dime on it."

Terry had no hope, but he did not say so. It was up to him to keep his chin up. He meant to go out as a man should, without flinching. After all, there was only the quick agony of the bullet, and then painless sleep.

Women Are Cooler

Women are usually cooler than men not only because of their lighter-weight clothing but also because of their lower metabolic rate, says Collier's. A recent series of scientific experiments reveals that, on the average, women's limbs are three degrees cooler, their arms four degrees cooler and their hands and feet five degrees cooler than those of men.

Red Cross Helps Solve Problems Of Our Recruits

Through Its Directors in Camps Red Cross Links Men With Home

Washington, D. C.—On the home and military fronts the American Red Cross is turning its focus on the man in uniform. In his behalf, more than 10,000 nurses are being recruited. Volunteers are donating their blood for a huge plasma bank. Red Cross women in chapters throughout the country are making 40,000,000 surgical dressings, and knitting sweaters for men in outlying posts and sailors on patrol.

But these are just fragments of the story. In military and naval stations, the Red Cross is concerning itself with the personal problems of the service man, helping him adjust himself to military life. For the disabled, the Red Cross is on the job in service hospitals, helping to speed recovery of the sick through a morale-building program.

In mobilizing a 2,000,000-man fighting force, the personal problems of the able-bodied man in uniform have in turn become problems of the morale divisions. Red Cross field directors stationed in all camps and reservations have been entrusted with the task of helping to solve these problems.

Speaking in a nation-wide broadcast recently, Chief of Staff Marshall, of the Army, addressed the following words to Red Cross field directors:

"When you help straighten out any of the great variety of tangles that human beings seem unable to avoid, you are helping to maintain morale on the home front and on the military front; you are helping us in training for defense."

The disabled man in a service hospital also can look to the Red Cross for help in speeding recovery. Medical-social workers, trained for their specialized assignment, are on duty at Army general and Navy hospitals to aid service physicians, to act as a medium of communication with the families of hospitalized men and to conduct recreational programs for convalescents.

But It's True!

THE TROUT THAT SHOWS UP AT A DOCK EVERY MORNING AT EIGHT TO GET FED... ON THE SHORE OF THE STATE OF HENRY TALLMAN NEAR MONTANA

THE GERMAN POLICE DOG THREW AN ATTACK ON THE KAISER'S ARMY!! WHILE THE KAISER OF A ROYAL REGIMENT WAS THE FIRST MEMBER OF HIS UNIT TO REACH THE ENEMY TRENCHES IN A CHARGE OVER THE TOP AT VARYING RATES IN THE WORLD WAR, HE WAS FORMALLY DECORATED FOR BRAVERY!

FOR THE LAST 11 YEARS, according to Mr. Tallman, the trout has appeared at exactly the same time. Even when the lake is ice-covered, Mr. Tallman always knows the fish will be waiting when he hammers through the crust.

The custom of clinking glasses goes back to the days when Roman gladiators would prepare drinks for each other before fighting. They would each supply one glass of wine, and then the contents of the two would be mixed to make sure that if poison had been put in either it would get into both drinks. Through the years the formality has been shortened, until today the mere touching of containers stands for an exchange of good-will.

Mr. Rossovi'ch went suddenly mad one morning, rushed about the small village in which he lived, killing his friends and neighbors.

"Adam and Fallen Man" is the subject for Sunday. Golden Text: "Put off concerning the former conversation the old man, which is corrupt according to the deceitful lusts; and be renewed in the spirit of your mind." Citation from Bible: "And he not conformed to this world: but he ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God." Passage from Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The necessity for uplifting the race is father to the fact that Mind can do it; for Mind can impart purity instead of impurity, strength instead of weakness, and health instead of disease."

Red Cross Helps Solve Problems Of Our Recruits

Through Its Directors in Camps Red Cross Links Men With Home

Washington, D. C.—On the home and military fronts the American Red Cross is turning its focus on the man in uniform. In his behalf, more than 10,000 nurses are being recruited. Volunteers are donating their blood for a huge plasma bank. Red Cross women in chapters throughout the country are making 40,000,000 surgical dressings, and knitting sweaters for men in outlying posts and sailors on patrol.

But these are just fragments of the story. In military and naval stations, the Red Cross is concerning itself with the personal problems of the service man, helping him adjust himself to military life. For the disabled, the Red Cross is on the job in service hospitals, helping to speed recovery of the sick through a morale-building program.

In mobilizing a 2,000,000-man fighting force, the personal problems of the able-bodied man in uniform have in turn become problems of the morale divisions. Red Cross field directors stationed in all camps and reservations have been entrusted with the task of helping to solve these problems.

Speaking in a nation-wide broadcast recently, Chief of Staff Marshall, of the Army, addressed the following words to Red Cross field directors:

"When you help straighten out any of the great variety of tangles that human beings seem unable to avoid, you are helping to maintain morale on the home front and on the military front; you are helping us in training for defense."

The disabled man in a service hospital also can look to the Red Cross for help in speeding recovery. Medical-social workers, trained for their specialized assignment, are on duty at Army general and Navy hospitals to aid service physicians, to act as a medium of communication with the families of hospitalized men and to conduct recreational programs for convalescents.

But It's True

For the last 11 years, according to Mr. Tallman, the trout has appeared at exactly the same time. Even when the lake is ice-covered, Mr. Tallman always knows the fish will be waiting when he hammers through the crust.

The custom of clinking glasses goes back to the days when Roman gladiators would prepare drinks for each other before fighting. They would each supply one glass of wine, and then the contents of the two would be mixed to make sure that if poison had been put in either it would get into both drinks. Through the years the formality has been shortened, until today the mere touching of containers stands for an exchange of good will.

Mr. Rossovich went suddenly mad one morning, rushed about the small village in which he lived, killing his friends and neighbors.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

U. S. Policy of 'Delivering the Goods' In Effort to Aid Foes of Hitlerism Is Nation's Objective, Says President; Nazis Pound Russians on Three Fronts

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Reprinted by Western Newspaper Union)

POLICY:

Defined by FDR

On the same day as the senate opened its debate on the historic measure aimed at stopping the neutrality act of all restrictions on American shipping, the President delivered his Navy day address in which he declared that the U. S. foreign policy was one of "delivering the goods" to friends of democracy.

He said that despite U. S. efforts to avoid it, "the shooting has started." Bristling with challenges to the Nazis, his speech pledged his administration to a policy of destroying Hitlerism and assisting in establishing a peace which will make a better world.

In writing to the Foreign Policy association an expression of his own foreign policy, President Roosevelt had said that it was so simple a child could understand it.

The cardinal principle, he asserted, was the destruction of the "Hitler menace" and the protection of the American way of life from a system that would destroy it.

He admitted that there were those in this nation who would fall the people into a sense of false security, but warned that this action had preceded the fall of every country now occupied by Axis forces.

This and his Navy day address served the purpose of clarifying the situation as regarded the road the United States was prepared to travel in following the administration's leadership.

The President expressed himself as confident that his aims were the popular aims of the nation, and that the people would be ready with such sacrifices as would be necessary to carry them out.

SOVIET DEFENSE:

Last Ditch

What was called the "last all-out" attack possible for the Germans to launch had been treated off on all three of the major Soviet fronts, and there were indications that the defenders were reaching their last ditch.

The "military straits" was happening before the eyes of the world, as the Red troops had apparently halted the full fury of the Nazi advance, had kept their defense lines intact, and were putting up what even Berlin admitted was a magnificent defense.

But whether they could continue to hold or not remained the latter part of the present miracle. Germany announced the fall of Khar'kov, Donets basin industrial center, a city of 250,000 souls of 12-story industrial buildings, dubbed the Pittsburgh of Russia.

These are three women of the crew of the Russian freighter Petrovski which docked in the U. S. recently—the first Russian vessel to arrive here since the outbreak of the Russo-German war. The women sailors, photographed under the Red banner are (left to right): Maria Antonovna Bondarova, Klavdia Sergeevna Novikova and Valentina Stetschenko.

Fantastic stories were told of the losses on each side.

Strange was the report from Moscow, telling of Stalin in personal command, of the removal of Wodeny and Voroshilov from command, to take charge of the forming of new armies, and of the placing of Timoshenko in actual command of the defense of the capital.

'BUTCHERIES':

Continuing

Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and General De Gaulle all had their say about what they called the "Nazi butcheries" of hostages which were continuing all over occupied Europe.

Recent people were taking pot shots at high Nazi officers, and each time one of these hit a vital mark, scores of persons connected only distantly with the crime were being executed.

DEFIANCE:

By Miners

Following a 40-day period in which the National Mediation board had sought vainly for a peaceful settlement, and in which finally President Roosevelt himself had attempted to take a hand, a strike of 25,000 coal miners in seven vital mines had been called by John L. Lewis.

The headlines made the issue plain. Lewis defies Roosevelt. Once an enthusiastic partisan of the administration, a man who had, seen his C.I.O. grow to enormous stature under the broadly liberal labor laws passed under the Roosevelt administration, Lewis openly defied the President's personal request for "no strike."

The mines were the captive mines of the steel companies, and from them the coal and coke vital to steel-making were drawn, the steel firms contracting for the mines' entire output.

The strike was seen to hit at the very heart of the national defense. Out of it, the friends of the labor movement frankly feared, would come the signing by the President of a long-dreaded "work or fight" order which would draft all defense strikers summarily into the army.

The strike was being watched with keen anxiety in dozens of important quarters.

KNOX:

And Japan

Secretary Knox of the navy, in an address, had stated that some sort of clash of a military and naval nature with Japan was "inevitable" and for once Tokyo seemed willing to agree with one of his utterances.

From Tokyo comes this picture of a Japanese aviator described by the captives as "about to take off" in fighting the Chinese. Note the Japanese flag being tied about his head.

The Domei news service, and the Times Advertiser, both authoritative, predicted that a special session of the diet would be called for the direct purpose of discussing Japanese-American relations.

They were both gloomy over the outlook for the lasting peace in the Pacific that the United States desired, and Japan was apparently fighting for—provided it would be a peace dominated by Nippon.

The American formula for peace was this: Withdrawal from China and Indo-China of Japanese, Americans and British. Recognition of the United States of the puppet government of Manchukuo. Guarantees of inviolability of territory to the "status quo" of governments.

And all recognized that Japan was far from willing to sign any such treaty.

KEARNY:

A Diary Story

The widow of a London doctor, only passenger on a recent convoy from Britain to the United States, kept a brief daily diary of her trip, and from it readers were able to glean more facts about the Kearny's torpedoing than they had from naval reports.

The torpedoing occurred two days after the convoy left Iceland, two days after the ships had been joined by the Kearny and "another U. S. destroyer."

Though the diarist's vessel was some distance from the naval ships, she wrote of the shattering impact of the depth bombs discharged by the Kearny when a submarine was reported.

She wrote: "Our ship trembled like a leaf at each discharge. I thought surely we had been hit."

The Kearny and the other destroyer left the convoy, and were not seen again, she continued. Two days later she heard the Kearny had been torpedoed.

This gave the public a picture of the incident, and showed that in all probability the Kearny, after dropping depth bombs, must have followed the trail of the submarine, and finally was hit by a torpedo during the pursuit.

PARACHUTE: A New Hero

ARTHUR H. STARNES A long drop for science.

One of aviation's most thrilling stories was that of the parachutist, Arthur H. Starnes, who leaped from a plane at 31,500 feet, carrying some 25 pounds of extra equipment, and didn't pull his rip-cord until he was 1,500 feet from the ground.

He risked his life to find if a human brain could retain consciousness through such a free fall from such an altitude. He lost consciousness for just a second, at the moment when his chute opened and snapped him into comparative immobility.

At the instant it opened he was traveling 190 miles per hour. He somersaulted in the air—fell straight, tried everything, and took 14 breaths, 6 deep and 8 light, in the 1 minute and 58 seconds he was falling.

He landed safely two minutes after the first of the two chutes he carried opened up. His feat opened a new way for pilots to escape in case their planes were disabled in combat.

NEUTRALITY:

Fight Commences

The fairly close vote in the senate foreign relations committee by which it was decided to add to the ship-arming bill an amendment permitting American ships to travel where they pleased with lease-lend cargoes, indicated that a severe fight was in prospect.

Senate anti-administration leaders, however, did not predict victory for themselves, but said that the bill, as amended, would probably pass by a close vote.

Delay and a full debate was what they promised, though there were indications that the ship-arming bill would have passed swiftly.

Wendell Willkie, in a statement following the committee action, had expressed himself "gratified" by the vote, and especially by the Republican reaction. But this was hard to understand, for only one G.O.P. member voted "aye," Senator White.

PLANES:

Death in Peace

The loss of five pursuit ships of the P-40 type, the American Spitfire, as it had been called, which vanished during a fog during which a squadron of 19 became separated from each other, showed this country that deaths in plane training could be heavy in peace as in war.

One pilot was seen to parachute from his ship in the mountains near Tehachapi, Calif. Another was found, burned to death, in the wreckage of his plane.

Seven bombers were searching for the others, systematically. They had to land on a field. The field was too small, and one cracked up.

Before they could take off again, a tractor and road graders were obtained. Emergency crews went to work lengthening the runways by 3,000 feet.

The bombers of the searching party arrived at the field in early morning. It was late afternoon before they could resume their search. There was no expectation of finding the missing three pilots alive.

BENES:

His View

The former president of Czechoslovakia gave his views on the war, saying that the sudden and early winter in Russia was the death-knell of Hitler's hopes.

The Nazis, he said, might last through this winter, taking the defensive in Russia, and turning their forces to other fields where the weather was better.

He could not see Germany surviving another winter. He claimed that Hitler was losing faith with his present associates, and that a military dictatorship soon would be formed, and following that Germany would collapse, for an internal schism would be set up.

MISCELLANY:

SAN FRANCISCO: One of the witnesses in the Bridge deportation case, James O'Neil, was convicted of perjury.

LONDON: A new "Florence Nightingale" in Crete, Joan Starbird, who refused to flee to safety, but who had remained there to nurse wounded British Tommies as well as the German outcasts, was receiving world-wide acclaim. Her hospital was a cave.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By ROBERT McSHANE Released by Western Newspaper Union

WHEN George ("One Play") McAfee climbed into a Chicago Bears' uniform last year, professional football history was in the making.

The greatest open-field runner in football had joined forces with the strongest team ever to shut out an opponent.

McAfee is as elusive as a half-forgotten dream, as slippery as a greased eel. When he starts to run, dip, sidestep and whirl, it seems almost impossible to stop him.

He was good last year when he came to the Bears from Duke university, but he wasn't the one-man gridiron cyclone he is today. He played heads-up football in 1940, but the "greatest" tag hadn't been hung on him as yet. Today McAfee has plenty of supporters who claim he is a greater runner than Red Grange.

What accounts for his reputation—and for his ability? McAfee claims it's all due to balance. Trainer Homer Cole of the Bears calls it coordination. Whatever that unknown factor, it makes him a master of faking. A runner who rolls with his hips, he can leave would-be tacklers tied into knots.

Reasons for 'One Play'

His accomplishments aren't unknown, particularly in National league cities. But a brief review of the record indicates why McAfee received his "One Play" nickname:

With only 37 seconds of play remaining, he returned a punt 75 yards for the winning touchdown in an exhibition game with Brooklyn.

Against Green Bay he returned a kickoff 51 yards to set up the winning touchdowns drive that required only 59 seconds.

He returned a kickoff 97 yards for a touchdown against Cleveland. Against the Chicago Cardinals he scored one touchdown on a 59-yard run, another on a 74-yard punt return.

Whether or not he is a greater runner than Red Grange is a question that probably never will be settled. Jim Conzelman, Cardinal coach, declines to cast a vote for either of the men. Grange, he says, ran in spurts; had a great change of pace and was a master at crossing over in changing direction. He describes McAfee as an exceptionally elusive man, extremely difficult to tackle. He intimated that there would have been room on his squad for both players.

While a member of the Duke track team, McAfee could run the 100 yards in 9.7 seconds—another sound reason why his touchdown rushes have gone unchecked.

Bowling—The Right Way

Concentrate on one approach!

portant thing is to find out which approach is most convenient for you, and then stick to it.

In the three-step approach you start from eight to ten feet behind the foul line, stepping forward with the left foot and sliding to the foul line on the same foot. As the left foot moves forward, put the ball in motion by pushing it away from you toward the foul line. On the second step, the ball is started on the back swing, and on the third step, with the left foot, and as you slide up to the foul line, you release the ball. The motion of your body does not stop short, but carries on in a smooth follow-through after the ball is delivered. The three-step approach puts more emphasis on arm motion.

SPORT SHORTS

Horse-pulling contests are top attractions at Michigan fairs. As many as 10,000 spectators watched some contests this past season.

Gene Tunney, former heavy-weight champion and now physical education specialist for the navy, says that the men of 1917-18 were more rugged than those of today. Tunney was a marine 25 years ago. Ted Lyons has joined the ranks of baseball players who own bowling establishments. His Chicago plant contains 23 alleys.

USE FIREWOOD THIS WINTER

Many Farms Are Installing Wood Burners.

By R. W. GRAEBER (Extension Forester, North Carolina State College.)

Indications point to higher coal prices for the winter of 1941-42 and farmers should prepare now for extensive fuelwood cuttings this winter.

Even if labor is available to mine sufficient quantities of coal for domestic purpose, it is questionable whether transportation facilities will be available. This situation is bound to create a greater demand for wood as fuel.

The expanded fuelwood market should enable many farmers to dispose of low-grade hardwood trees not suited for lumber or other commercial purposes. The earlier the start is made in cutting, the more nearly the wood will be seasoned when the demand becomes active.

Despite the advantages of increased demand for wood there should be offered a note of warning. The slogan should be "Don't Strip the Land." A good cutting plan would be: Cut the poorer species, such as scarlet oak, black-jack oak, sourwood, black gum, hornbeam, etc. Cut crippled, crowded, or diseased trees of any species. Make use of tree tops left from recent sawmill operations.

It is a good idea not to cut more than one-fourth of the total volume of timber in any one area of average hardwood stands. This will give a profitable harvest, and at the same time maintain an adequate stand of growing stock.

It can be safely predicted that numerous farm and urban residents will install automatic wood-burning stoves or heaters this fall. One city in the South installed 3,000 wood-burning stoves for heating residences, stores and other buildings in one year.

Whether or not he is a greater runner than Red Grange is a question that probably never will be settled. Jim Conzelman, Cardinal coach, declines to cast a vote for either of the men. Grange, he says, ran in spurts; had a great change of pace and was a master at crossing over in changing direction. He describes McAfee as an exceptionally elusive man, extremely difficult to tackle. He intimated that there would have been room on his squad for both players.

While a member of the Duke track team, McAfee could run the 100 yards in 9.7 seconds—another sound reason why his touchdown rushes have gone unchecked.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

AFTER Veronica Lake made her screen debut in "I Wanted Wings," there was plenty of comment about what fashion experts call the "plunging neckline" of her attire. Veronica's necklines held the all-time record for plunging; for a while they attracted almost as much attention as Dorothy Lamour's sarongs. In "This Gun for Hire" the blonde bombshell is going to give the clothes-conscious public another jolt; this time she's going to wear tight. The script's to blame—she's cast as an entertainer in a night club who does sleight of hand tricks and sings, and that seems to call for tight. That is, it evidently does in Hollywood.

Telegraphers are going to have more fun than anybody when Eleanor Powell does that new tap dance in "I'll Take Manila"; to most of us it will be just a swell dance, but we're told that wireless operators will read a definite message in the taps!

Paramount's fixed up a bannister cycle for us—not Barbara Bannister, but the kind that accompanies stunts. In "Birth of the Blues" six-year-old Carolyn Leo power-dives down one, smack into Bing Crosby. In "The Great Man's Lady" Barbara Stanwyck slides down another, in crinolines. For "The Wizard of Arkansas" Bob Burns shoots the bannister chutes, but Burns, of course, is different; he picks up a splinter on the way. And this, it is felt, will definitely end the bannister cycle.

Richard de Rochemont, managing editor of The March of Time, says that filming "The Story of the Vatican" was like a vacation. Since 1934 he has been chasing film scoops, and more than once he's escaped death by a narrow margin. "At the Vatican I had a good crew of technicians, all our locations were in a small area, and there were no intrigues or subversive movements to be dealt with," says he.

The latest March of Time is "Sailors With Wings," which traces the development of the navy's air service and how it operates in partnership with the fleet; it's vital and absorbing, one of those pictures that you won't want to miss.

The manager of an RKO theater on Long Island heard patrons imitating the voice of the RKO Pathe rooster so often that he finally arranged a contest and let them crow for cash and poultry; several hundred persons mounted the stage and crowded like mad.

Glenn Ford almost sailed off to distant ports the other day as a way of getting into the right mood for "Martin Eden," his next picture. He was just stepping on board a freighter, believing that his next stop was San Francisco, when a production assistant raced to the dock and stopped him. He wanted to sign on as a seaman and see what it was like. But—five minutes later the freighter sailed—for Honolulu.

The radio scoop of the year is the signing of Shirley Temple to do four programs for one of the big watch manufacturers. For the first time in her career she'll be on the air regularly—Friday evenings, December 7 to 26, 10 to 10:30, Eastern Standard Time, on CBS. She will do a series of four Christmas programs, in which she will sing and present Christmas playlets, and her salary for the month's work will be $50,000. Radio sponsors have been pursuing the young star for years.

ODDS AND ENDS—"Hold Back the Dawn" is holding back other pictures; theater owners have found it so popular that they're extending its run, and it's running neck and neck in receipts with "Caught in the Draft," Paramount's top grosser of the year. Oscar Levant, of "Information Please" and a couple of pictures, has been signed to a term contract by Paramount. . . . Berwyn, Okla., will appear on new maps as Gene Avery, Okla. . . . Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy are reunited again in "I Married an Angel." . . . Milton Berle can tell five jokes a minute and keep up that pace for two hours without repeating himself, if anybody'll let him.

REPENTANCE AND FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Luke 16:11-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Repent ye, and believe the gospel.—Mark 1:15.

Sin with its devastating consequences has its only remedy in the salvation which is in Christ Jesus. He died to set us free from the penalty, the power, and ultimately the very presence of sin. However, His death, which was for all mankind, is effective only for those who in repentance and faith accept His redeeming grace and turning from their sin.

I. Worldly Pleasure Brings Sorrow (vv. 11-16).

Selfishness is at the heart of sin, which is essentially self-will over against God's will. The younger son, who represents the sinner, wanted his own way. He suffered from 1. Restlessness Under Restraint (vv. 11, 12). The father loved his son and sought his welfare by proper parental control, but the boy wanted to be free to live as he pleased. God loves all men and seeks by loving and gracious restraint to lead them in ways of righteousness and peace. But they, while they want His blessings, are often eager to get away from His guiding hand.

2. A Request Resulting in Responsibility (vv. 12, 13). When the prodigal asked for his inheritance he took upon himself full responsibility for its use. The man who refuses to have Christ rule over his life assumes a grave and heavy burden which he is not able to bear.

It is an awful thing to rule God out of one's life, to attempt to steer a successful course through the stormy sea of life. Why do it? It will always result in loss and failure.

3. Riotous Living Leading to Reproach (vv. 13-16). In the "far country" he found for a time what we call "fun," but it led to bitter sorrow. To the flesh there are "pleasures of sin" (Heb. 11:25), but they are only "for a season"; that is, "very short lived—and they come high. The devil is not such a fool as to go fishing without bait. The pleasures of sin are the devil's bait, and they always have a hook in them. If you bite at the devil's bait you will soon have the devil's hook in your gills and be in the bottom of the devil's boat" (John W. Bradbury).

The end of Satan's "fun" road was a pigpen in a far country. That may not always be literally true (although it happens often enough), but it is always true spiritually. Men and women are in a state of spiritual collapse and disgrace because they have rejected God's way. But there is a way out.

II. Godly Sorrow Brings Joy (vv. 17-24).

Paul tells us that "godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation" and thus differs from "the sorrow of the world" which "worketh death" (II Cor. 7:10). The prodigal found his way back to the father's house. First, there came to him

1. Remembrance and Realization (vv. 17-19). He began to think. If men and women could only be made to think we would have more repentance, but Satan tries to keep them too busy to think. He remembered what he had as a son in his father's household. What memories will your boy have in his hour of need? You are writing that record now.

He "came to himself." The man in sin is really unbalanced, subnormal, not himself, spiritually insane. When he "came to" he knew that he was in the way of the perishing. Then came

2. Repentance and Return (vv. 20, 21). To repent means to change your mind, to turn your life in an "about face" from sin to God. Repentance calls for more than thinking or talking or praying. One must act. The young man "arose and came to his father." That was his part, and then came the father's part.

3. Restoration and Rejoicing (vv. 22-24). The son expected to return as a hired servant, but his father restored him to full family fellowship. God is gracious, and the repentant sinner finds himself clad in the spotless robe of Christ's righteousness, wearing the ring of sonship, with shoes on his feet, so that he may go on the errands of his Father.

God's plan of salvation brings no half-way redemption. There are no steps or distant relatives in His family. It is a full salvation which brings glorious fellowship in life and service.

You who are still eating the husks of this world, who are in the far country tending swine, we invite you too to come to God and share in the rejoicing in the Father's house.

Life's Struggle

Life is a struggle, but not a warfare; it is a day's labor, but labor on God's earth, under the sun and stars with other laborers, where we may think and sing and rejoice as we work.—John Burroughs.

Camp Cavalcade

SHADOWY figures in a cavalcade of American history—such as the men behind the names of the great army cantonnments—scattered all over the United States, where young Americans are learning to be soldiers in order to defend their country when the need arises.

Near Watsonville, Calif., is the only camp named for an army chaplain—Father Joseph P. McQuaide, who served as chaplain for the corps in the Philippines from 1899 to 1900, was drafted into the federal service August 5, 1917, went overseas and served there until December, 1918. Commissioned a major in 1922, he became regimental chaplain of the 250th coast artillery, a position which he held when he died in Los Angeles, March 29, 1924.

Camp Berkeley, near Abilene, Texas, is named for private David B. Berkeley (1898-1918) of Company A, 365th Infantry, Eighty-ninth division, who was awarded, posthumously, the Congressional Medal of Honor "for conspicuous gallantry and intrepidity, above and beyond the call of duty, in action with the enemy near Pouilly, France, November 8, 1918." Berkeley responded to a call for volunteers to swim across the River Meuse to reconnoiter enemy positions, secured the desired information but was drowned while returning.

California also has a camp near San Miguel, named for a soldier who was awarded, posthumously, a Congressional Medal of Honor. He was Corp. Harold W. Roberts (1897-1918) of Company A, 344th Battalion, tank corps, who, when the tank which he was driving slid into a shell-hole, 10 feet deep and filled with water, gave up his chance to escape, pushed his gunner through the back door of the tank and was himself drowned.

Camp Davis, at Holly Ridge, N. C., honors a North Carolinian, Maj. Gen. Richmond Pearson Davis (1868-1937), chief of artillery of the Ninth corps of the A.E.F. and winner of the D.S.M.

Camp Croft, near Spartanburg, S. C., is named for South Carolina's Maj. Gen. Edward Croft (1875-1938), who came out of the World war as a colonel with two decorations, the Silver Star and the Purple Heart, rose through the grades to major-general and was made chief of infantry of the army in 1933.

Camp Williams, near Sparta, Wis., bears the name of a Pennsylvania-born journalist who, after working on newspapers in Missouri, became a foreign correspondent and gave up that career to become first lieutenant with the 128th machine gun battalion of the A.E.F. He is Maj. Gen. John F. Williams, who became a colonel in the Missouri National Guard in 1923 and is now chief of the National Guard bureau of the war department in Washington.

John F. Williams

Camp Wolters, near Mineral Wells, Texas, recalls the services of Brig. Gen. Jacob F. Wolters of Houston, who organized the Texas cavalry during the World war and afterwards recruited a regiment of cavalry in New Mexico to complete the brigade. Later he was placed in command of the Fifty-sixth cavalry brigade of the Texas National Guard and he is said to be the only man ever awarded a service medal of appreciation, given by an act of the legislature of the Lone Star state.

Camp Blanding, near Starke, Fla., bears the name of Maj. Gen. Albert H. Blanding, born in Iowa in 1876, commander of the Thirty-first ("Dixie") division of the A.E.F. and until his retirement in 1940, chief of the National Guard bureau of the war department.

Camp Hulen near Palacios, Texas, honors Brig. Gen. John A. Hulen, who won the D.S.M. for services during the Meuse-Argonne offensive in October, 1918.

Camp Wallace, near Hitchcock, Texas, honors the memory of Col. Elmer J. Wallace of South Dakota who was killed in France on November 5, 1918, at which time he was a major (temporary colonel) in the coast artillery corps.

Mood of the American Soldiers
"It is a stoical determination to see the thing through. They have entered this war after reading of it for three years. They know its horrors. In this they are unlike the men of any nation whom circumstances rushed into war, as into an unknown adventure. Our men know this war; they followed it in the press since its outbreak. They are going in, dogged and grim; there is a solid courage—which is the most sublime."—Capt. E. L. Fox, in Forum magazine, January, 1918.

Children's Taste Keener
There are tiny areas on the tongue, known as "taste-buds," which are linked with the brain by special nerves. These nerves are stimulated when we eat and drink, and they convey to the brain sensations which give rise to the sense of taste.

A young child has over 300 of these taste-buds on his tongue, but as his age increases a proportion of the taste-buds cease to be sensitive. After the age of 20 no more than a hundred are "active." Because a child has three times as many taste-buds as an adult his sense of taste is three times as keen. That is why sweets, fruit, and so on, appeal to him.

Lincoln's Beard Result Of Little Girl's Suggestion

A little girl from Westfield, N. Y., once wrote Abraham Lincoln a letter as follows:
"I am a little girl, eleven years old . . . have you any little girls about as large as I am . . . If you will let your whiskers grow, you would look a great deal better for your face is so thin . . . I must not write any more answer this right off. Good bye. Grace Bedell."
A few months later, Lincoln let his beard grow. On one of his trips he passed through Westfield and immediately sent for Grace. He thrilled her by pointing to his beard and saying: "You see—I let those whiskers grow for you, Grace."

FEED SUPPLY CAMPAIGN

Production goals for dairy, poultry, meat and truck crops have been established for Lincoln County by the County U.S.D.A. Defense Board. Every rural family is being urged to do its part in meeting these goals and to enroll in the Home Food and Feed Supply Program, as its part toward promoting the Defense Program. At a recent meeting plans were made for the various agencies working under the Department of Agriculture to conduct jointly a series of eight community meetings. The last of these meetings will be held Nov. 8. Local committeemen will be appointed to contact every farmer and rancher who was unable to attend one of the community meetings, in order to secure his cooperation.

Carl Radcliff, Co. Ext. Agent.

Henry E Wooten, a brother to Mrs. Wm. Thomas of Corona, left this Tuesday for Santa Fe, where he will be inducted into the Army — "Mr. Wooten is in the Army now!"

GO when the traffic is light!

Notice the ebb and flow of long distance telephone calls during an average day as shown by the chart below.

There is a sharp peak in mid-morning when the business men you may want to reach are busiest.

Note the other peak after 7 p.m. That's when your out-of-town friends are likely to be telephoning, too. If you can avoid these peaks you will get faster service. It's worth remembering these days when defense puts such a load on telephone facilities.

Avoid the Peaks and You Avoid Delay on Long Distance Calls
