Wake Up, American!

In answer to the above oft-repeated plea, and now coming from the lips of our very own, who are fighting with their backs to the wall in far distant outposts—what are you doing? It seems that the Great Giant America, has awoke, only to the possibility of making a profit; and not that of losing, not only the confidence of our boys who are making a heroic fight for our protection...

Will it take more Pearl Harbors to bring us to realize the great urgency of our defense efforts and the mammoth quantities of guns and ammunition necessary to meet the attack? If so, we may as well brace ourselves for the worst, as the Axis are in a position to hand us plenty of additional reminders of their real intentions, while we are quibbling over profits and withholding our services.

ENTERTAINING

Mrs Blaney entertained the Past Matrons at a 1 o'clock luncheon Tuesday at her home. After the meeting, the president, Mrs. Mayer, who had charge of the program, had prepared a contest to test the intelligence of the group, which was very interesting and there were no failures.

PERSONALS

Mrs. Wayne Richard of Tucuman spent the major portion of last week visiting the F. E. Richard family and friends here. Dr. P. M. Shaver, who has been seriously ill of late, is convalescing nicely. Joe Vigil, mechanic at the City Garage, was confined to his home for several days last week on account of illness.

Ben Gleason of Capitan made a business trip to Alamogordo the first of this week. L. A. Whitaker was an Albuquerque visitor Sunday. Cres Marse, George Clements, Jr. and Tommy McCament were here from Corona Saturday. Tom left Sunday for Fort Bliss to be inducted in the Army.

Mrs. Ray Garcia left Sunday morning for El Paso after visiting with relatives here for about two weeks. Will have a car of Kansas Stock Salt on the track in Carrizozo in about a week. Call at the Carrizozo Auto Co., phone 80, for information.

Mrs. Adolph Freeman of Capitan, who has been confined at the Turner hospital, is much improved at this writing. Mrs. Edna King of Glencoe, who is attending the War Nurses' Training School at Las Vegas, was in town Monday, enroute to her home in Glencoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson of Capitan were visitors in town this Monday. Benny Sandoval was here for the week-end from Fort Stanton, where he is cooking for the immigration service.

Deputy and Mrs. Nick Vega, daughter Rita and baby son Fred were Tularosa visitors last Saturday. Pat Murphy of the White & Murphy ranch near White Oaks was here on business Monday. Pat has been staying right close to the ranch lately; he made a crack about walkin' to town, etc., we don't understand, unless it may be the rationing of tires.

Leandro Vega and Danny Ortiz went to El Paso Saturday and purchased a truck load of feed for the Feed Store, which Leandro opened up Monday morning.

The case of the phantom killer, Extraordinary detective work—and a strange piece of luck—ended the 2-year hunt for the West's mysterious strangler and avenged the 21 victims who died in the grip of his ape-like hands.

Also—Think you were born tired? If so, maybe it's only a misguided thought and it's really the wrong way you stand and sit that wears you out. To find out the right way, read the informative article on posture, scientifically illustrated, in the American Weekly, the magazine with next week's Los Angeles Examiner.

The following square dance "addicts" motored over to Carrizozo Saturday evening to attend a square dance at the Country Club. They took with them the Graves orchestra. Odla Bynum and Tom Rogers helped to call the dances. Those in the party were, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Amonetti, Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Rouse, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hall, Tom Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Childress, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ball, Mr. and Mrs. Carl McNally, Miss Esther McNally, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Babcock, Jr., Mrs. Mary McCullough and Salem Curtis.

Mr. and Mrs. Zeka Chavez attended the wedding dance at San Patricio last Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brister visited relatives at Ft. Worth and Dallas recently.

There will be a Boy Scout meeting at the Schoolhouse Saturday, Feb. 14, at 7:45 p. m. Everybody invited.—John E. Hall.

A. L. Burke Pawnee Bill

One day last week, just before his loyal neighbors of Pawnee, Okla., were preparing to celebrate his 82nd birthday, Wm. Lillis, alias Pawnee Bill, one of the last vanishing figures of the old West, died at his ranch home near the above named city.

About four years ago while visiting at Taos, N. M., he came across an article which appeared in this paper concerning the Buffalo Bill and Pawnee Bill Wild West Shows, which toured this country and also showed across the seas in London and other cities.

On his way from Taos to different points in Texas, he, in company with his agent and trained nurse, stopped at the El Cibola Hotel. It was about 10:30 that night, Pawnee Bill sent his agent to the home of the writer with the request that he would like very much to meet the writer of the above named show. From 10:30 until near the midnight hour, we conversed on incidents of by-gone days. He informed the writer that a short while before his visit here, he and his wife met with an automobile accident which killed her and badly injured himself, to the extent that a trained nurse accompanied him on his trips.

Drifting from one event to another, he recalled his acquaintance with such western celebrities as Wild Bill Hickok, Deadwood Dick, Texas Jack, Calamity Jane, and last of all, his old partner, Wm. Cody (Buffalo Bill.)

He ventured so far as to recount some of the thrilling adventures he had in the early days when it was the fellow, who was the quickest on the trigger, won the fight. In referring to the Wild West Shows, the writer surprised him in relating incidents connected with the show — how proudly he rode in the parades on his little Pinto pony, contrasted with the tall, straining, fiery steed rode by Buffalo Bill. He smiled as the writer related an incident in Burlington, Iowa, when his pony became frightened at the big picture of an elephant on a circus bill board and got entirely out of line in the parade and it required much coaxing and spurring to get him back to his place in the parade, assisted by the band of Pawnee Indians under his command.

But time had softened the ardor of the once eager, passionate, fearless little warrior. Contrast—ed with that temperament, we found him to be of a placid nature, as it seemed, he was looking forward to going on the last trail, at the end of which, he hoped to meet his loving life partner—his wife. In his will, he bequeathed his ranch home to the Boy Scouts of Pawnee, Okla.

FREE Dance at the Cortez Hall, San Patricio, Saturday, Feb. 14. Tularosa Orchestra. This will be the last dance at St. Pat before Lenten time.

There will be a Boy Scout meeting at the Schoolhouse Saturday, Feb. 14 at 7:45 p. m. Everybody invited.—John E. Hall.

Business Men's Club

At the regular meeting Wednesday evening at the S. P. Hotel, 21 members answered to roll call and there being 4 visitors, made ing total 25. After the dinner, the Collins sisters, Lou and Pauline, sang a duet, "Carry Me Back to Old Virginia" and little Miss Jeanne Hall gave a clarinet solo, "Long, Long Ago" and responding to an encore, played "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," with Mr. Brewster at the piano in all above numbers, which were highly appreciated by the large assemblage.

After the entertainment features, the visitors with the exception of Mr. Blythe, who was the guest of G. T. McQuillen, retired and the business session of the club took place. Due to the illness of Sec. Dorsett recently, minutes of two previous meetings were read which, among other things of importance, contained admitting to membership in the club Messrs. James Brister of the Carrizozo Business Agency and Emil Reynolds of the Standard Service Station.

Mr. Whitaker reported an additional amount of income from the President's Ball, which exceeded any amounts taken in, as far as we know, from any of our surrounding counties. Mr. Dorsett reported activities of the Boy Scout week, relating incidents at the camp in the city park and stated that the City of Honor will be held at the High School Auditorium Saturday at 7:45 p. m. Mr. Whitaker reported that plans had already been made for the honor roll board to be erected in the park for the names of our boys who are now in the service. He submitted the plan which will contain all names and addresses of Lincoln County boys, 200 of whom are in the service. J. F. Tom will make and erect the board.

At the Father-Son banquet on Feb. 25, if you have no boy of your own, bring a Boy Scout. Other things of interest which are pending, will be published as soon as plans now under action are carried out.

—G. H. Dorsett, Sec'y.

ELMER ON MORALE AND BALONEY

"I am for morale building," declared Elmer Twitchell, well-known philosopher, horseshoe pitcher and stamp collector, today. "Morale is important in any struggle. Three cheers for all we can get. But nothing is breaking my morale down just now like some of the baloney being spread by alleged morale builders."

Mr. Twitchell was more disturbed than usual. "The quicker we get the phony element out of this morale stuff the better," he resumed, pounding a table.

"At the moment it is the race track people who are pretty close to tops in overdoing this angle. I like racing. I hope the war won't stop it. But it grieves me to listen to a continuous stream of bunk about horse tracks being of primary importance to the war effort. You would think from some of this stuff that the war and the mutual windows were linked in the all-out defense effort."

"I listened to a broadcast after a big race in Florida the other afternoon, and, immediately after giving the payoff prices, the broadcaster went into a spiel on the importance of the eight-race program to ultimate victory. It lacked only 'Hearts and Flowers' by a string orchestra."

"It was the crowning peak to a lot of similar flapdoodle that has been coming from the racing interests for months, and it is doing the morale-building business no good."

"Give me a day at the races when I have been working hard and am feeling blue. I yield to no man in my love of the thoroughbred. I find a peculiar attraction in the mutual window. I love the soft whispers about the good things coming up. I can even stand all those photo finishes. But don't give me that stuff about the ponies being of such vital importance that the American people will never be able to bear up through the war without them! There's a limit!"

It is now predicted that it may be necessary to ration men's socks. The center of minimum worry about this is in the Ozarks.

SONG FOR TAXPAYERS

(Irving Berlin has written a song to cheer up income taxpayers. It is called "I Paid My Income Tax Today."—News item.)

Hooray, hooray, hooray, hooray! I paid my income tax today; In acts like this I love to glory. . . At least, my friend, that is my story!

A tax is quite a joy to me— I paid it very cheerfully; It made me anything but blue— I love to come across, see you!

When I'm feeling rather sad, There's always something makes me glad: I love to sing, tra la tra loo. The minute that my tax is due.

When I am feeling extra low And down my spirits seem to go I find relief, oh, many thanks, In filling out some income blanks.

Should dark depression o'er me spread Such feelings I know how to shed: I ask an income tax to pay And Morgenthau, he says "Okay."

Old Irving Berlin is happy, too To pay each levy high and new, And I'd be twice as gay, I know— If I had all that fellow's dough.

FARM TOPICS

FEEDING CHANGE NOW POSSIBLE

Increasing Demand for More Milk Is Cause.

By C. F. MONROE (Ohio State Agricultural Experiment Station.)

At present there is a demand for an increased quantity of milk, and current prices justify attempts to meet this demand. In fact, dairymen can afford to modify their feeding program to meet the emergency. The exact method for individual cases will, of course, be subject to the conditions prevailing in the particular dairy.

Many cows do lack the ability to produce, but there are also many cows that would do much better if given the chance. Only by permitting the cows to have a fair trial can their producing ability be determined.

An attempt should be made to have the cows freshen in good condition. In this sense, the lactation period really begins with the dry cow six or eight weeks previous to freshening. After the cow freshens the feeding should be increased gradually.

The cow in heavy milk flow requires a concentrate mixture containing some high-protein supplements to insure a sufficient protein intake. Hay should be fed liberally and the cow allowed to pick it over rather than be restricted to all she will clean up.

If corn silage is available, it should be limited in amount to permit the heavy producing cow to eat more hay. Such a procedure is recommended where the hay is of good quality and hence palatable to the cow; otherwise limiting the corn silage has no justification.

A large improvement in milk production cannot be expected to come from just one change, of course. The entire feeding and management program in summer and winter must be considered. Much of the low production can be traced to underfeeding on July and August pasture, to undue exposure and short pasture in the late fall, to the use of poor quality roughage and poor management in the winter. For best results there can be no weak places in the program, because the weaknesses generally speed the decline in production to such an extent that many of the good points are made less effective.

Farm Terracing Aid

Under the new setup, farmers can terrace their land now and pay for it later, the AAA official said.

Machinery of the terracing program is simply operated, Vance said in explaining that county AAA committees set a reasonable price for terracing easier farms of the county through offers made by co-operating contractors. Once the fair price for a county is determined, farmers get bids for their farms from the contractors, take the offer they like best and get their terracing done.

It goes without saying that prices of terracing will vary by farms. Establishing a reasonable price for a county will serve as a yardstick for measuring costs of easier and more difficult jobs.

When terracing has been completed and checked by county AAA officers for specified requirements under the farm program, contractors are paid by the AAA and charges later deducted from farmers' conservation payments.

Needs of Soil

More food can be produced for immediate war-time needs and agriculture can be placed on a firmer footing for the future if farmers will follow a few basic soil building principles, according to an agricultural bulletin.

"One of the first essentials," says the bulletin, "is for the farmer to find out what are the nutritional requirements of his soil. Since soils and crops vary in different geographical sections, the farmer's best procedure is to enlist the co-operation of agronomists of his state agricultural experiment station or of his county agent."

"By analyzing a sample of the farmer's soil and determining its needs for nitrogen, phosphorus and potash, these experts can provide valuable information to guide the farmer in selecting the correct analysis of fertilizer. They will likewise suggest the amount to use."

More Eggs, Dairy Products

Uncle Sam is asking for increased production of eggs, dairy products, and pork products. Next year, for example, American hens are called on to lay 4,300,000,000 more eggs. Although poultry flocks are increased, production per layer will have to rise to new heights. Hen house lights step up production as much as four or five eggs a month during the winter.

Even the poultry are asked to pitch in and do their necessary bit.

The Real Pathfinder

RECENTLY the students of Dakota Wesleyan University at Mitchell, S. D., gathered in the chapel of that institution to pay honor to the man, who more than any other American, deserves the title of "The Pathfinder." He was Jedediah Strong Smith, trapper, fur-trader and explorer and the occasion was the second annual Jedediah Smith memorial chapel service at which was unveiled a mural, depicting Smith trading with the Indians on the banks of the Missouri.

proves but also as a devout man who carried a Bible and hymnbook with him wherever he went. Going west to seek his fortune, he arrived in St. Louis in time to join the famous expedition up the Missouri, led by Gen. William H. Ashley, which included in its personnel so many future notables of the fur trade.

In 1825 Ashley sold out his Rocky Mountain Fur company, which had flourished for five years, to Smith, William L. Sublette and David E. Jackson (for whom Jackson's Hole in Wyoming is named). Then began Jed Smith's Odyssey which was to take him down through the Southwest to California, up the Pacific coast, back across the Rocky mountains and into parts of the Great West which had never before been explored by white men.

Stanley Vestal, historian of the Old West, declares that "as a pathfinder, he surpassed even Lewis and Clark" and other writers have pointed out how much more deserving is this "Knight in Buckskin" of the title of "The Pathfinder" than the vain, pompous John C. Fremont.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Harold L. Lundquist Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for February 15

THE HEALING MINISTRY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—2:1-12. GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus . . . was moved with compassion toward them, and he healed their sick.—Matthew 14:14.

Man is more than a body. He is made up of body, soul, and spirit. In a physical world where he is so much in touch with physical nature, and the needs of his body are so much before him, he is prone to forget that there is within a spiritual nature which is his real self.

I. Faith Brings a Double Need to Christ (vv. 1-4). This faith-stimulating story faces us first with: 1. An Impossible Situation. Incurably afflicted and helpless physically and far more deeply afflicted spiritually, this man had no one who could heal his body and restore his soul.

2. An Undeniable Faith. "Where there's a will there's a way." Where there is faith the obstacles may be surmounted. Having begun a good work they persevered in it.

II. Faith Receives a Double Reward From Christ (vv. 5-12). Immediately Jesus "saw their faith" (v. 5), just as He always does. God is on the lookout for faith and is quick to reward it.

1. Spiritual Cleansing. The man's physical affliction thus proved to be his greatest blessing, for it brought him to Jesus, who cleansed him of all unrighteousness.

2. Physical Healing. Forgiving sins was harder than healing the body, but these enemies of Jesus lived so much in the realm of the physical that He had to give them a demonstration of His almighty power which they could see.

Today, with all the light of history upon the work of God, we need to be aware that we do not sit in the seat of the scornful and demand a physical sign before we will believe. God is doing great things in the spiritual realm even in our day, in which Christian men and women may share by faith.

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

in the two pictures that were subsequently made, she was referred to as "visiting in New York." The first day that she came back to work, she walked on the set with her baby girl in her arms; shooting couldn't start until every member of the cast had held the infant.

"Here Comes Mr. Jordan," which a lot of people thought was the best picture of 1941, is to have a sequel, known at the moment as "Hellbent for Mr. Jordan." Let's hope that it won't be as disappointing as sequels usually are.

"Able's Irish Rose," heard coast-to-coast over the NBC network every Saturday, has been enacted in every country in the world. The late Will Rogers saw a full production of the play in China, with Chinese "Murphys" and "Levy's."

Edward G. Robinson has sold his home studio, Warner Bros., the idea of starring him in "The Death of Jim Gower," which was presented on his "Big Town" radio program recently; it deals with an idealistic but drunken newspaper man.

A drop of water proved to be the most temperamental "actor" in the cast of Columbia's "The Adventures of Martin Eden," the Jack London classic. Representing a tear, the drop of water required seven "takes" to sizzle on a hot iron held by Claire Trevor, the most "takes" of any scene in the picture.

One Munson can't get rid of that jinx that's been pursuing her. Her nose was broken when a make-up mask was being fitted to her at Warner Bros.; then she showed up at the "Big Town" broadcast with bandages on four fingers and one leg, from injuries received while she was making a jungle picture at Universal.

Virginia Payne, star of radio's "Ma Perkins," declares that it's the programs with the family background that pay dividends. "Ma" has been on the air for more than 2,500 consecutive performances; "Ames 'n' Andy," "Bachelor's Children," "Pepper Young's Family"—they all go on forever, seemingly. They make stars, too; Ben Ameche and Tyrone Power are just two who've graduated to film stardom from them.

When he finished work as "Mr. Cugat," Ray Milland left with Mrs. Milland for a vacation at Sun Valley. Veronica Lake and her husband also headed for Sun Valley, when she finished "This Gun for Hire"; two pairs of skis were fastened to the top of their car. But after a few days of winter sports they yearned for Florida; made the trip in such a rush that, when they reached Miami, the skis still rode the car top. Passers-by stared, thinking them slightly mad, or maybe just ignorant of the fact that they were headed the wrong way.

ODDS AND ENDS—Chatter Morris spent two days in a laundry hamper for scenes in Columbia's "Confessions of Boston Blackie." . . . Joe E. Brown's costumes for "Shut My Big Mouth," in which he impersonates a woman, were designed by the creator of Rita Hayworth's screen wardrobe. . . . Lew Ayres and Lorraine Day, separated in the "Dr. Killdeer" series, are to be reunited in a murder mystery film, "Fingers at the Window." . . . Thornton Edwards sponsors that he got a ticket for speeding when he was on his way to work in "Torpedo Boat," to make a scene in which, as a speed cop, he gives Richard Arlen a ticket for speeding!

First war poster of the new World War, painted by the distinguished artist James Montgomery Flagg, carries an appeal for a $50,000,000 war fund to aid the victims of aggression upon the United States and its island possessions.

To aid the victims of warfare being waged upon America and her island possessions, the American Red Cross has issued an appeal for a $50,000,000 war fund. Chairman Norman H. Davis announced from the national headquarters in Washington.

Mr. Davis urged men, women and children to give to this mercy fund through their local Red Cross Chapters. These funds will support the Chapter's war work with the families of men in the military services, as well as the broad relief program of the national Red Cross.

President Roosevelt, who is president of the American Red Cross, issued a proclamation urging all citizens to give to the Red Cross war fund.

In launching the appeal, Chairman Davis said: "There are millions of our citizens who desire today to demonstrate their will to victory over the enemy. Not all can be in the armed forces, and not all can volunteer their services for humanitarian work, but all can volunteer their dollars to arm the Red Cross to be their representative at the scene of battle and distress.

"Today is the day to demonstrate our high morale, our unity, our determination not alone to support our President and our fighting men at the front, but also to insure to our wounded, homeless and suffering fellow citizens in our Pacific Islands that we stand one hundred per cent ready to aid them through the Red Cross."

Colonial Furniture
Colonial refers merely to the time before the Union was formed. New England and Virginia were settled by the English, New York by the Dutch and Louisiana by the French. The Colonial furniture of each section resembled the furniture which had been brought to that part of the country. Almost all Colonial furniture was a simplified reproduction of the more elaborate furniture made abroad. A few designs originated in this country.

KNOW YOUR BANK

What Can The Average Person Do About Rising Prices?

While almost everyone has a resigned, "What can I do?" attitude toward the steady rise of prices, there actually several sensible things that can be done. You can eliminate unnecessary expenditures, cut down on your "luxuries," go easy on other things—even though important—until the crisis eases. You can budget your income—plan more carefully—make every cent count. By all means means don't make your regular bank deposits suffer. Your cash reserve is more important now than it ever was.

U. S.-British Forces Fight Grimly In Resisting Heavy Jap Pressure; 'Joker' Found in Price Control Bill Has Power to Check Farm Prices

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, shown conferring in Washington, D. C. with naval officers and John W. Stuedebaker, on a plan to have high school youth of America participate in a vital part of the U. S. navy's training program, plane model making. Looking over some of the models are (left to right) Artemus Gates, assistant secretary of the navy for air; Secretary Knox and Mr. Stuedebaker. In the rear is Adm. John H. Towers, chief of the navy's bureau of aeronautics. About 26,000 American youths in the high schools throughout the country are being asked to build 500,000 aircraft models—10,000 each of 50 different types of fighting planes—for training personnel in aircraft recognition and range estimation in gunnery practice. The models likewise will be important in the training of civilians in aircraft recognition.

MIRACLE:

Man on Luzon

The continued holding out of General MacArthur's "smoke-begrimed army in its foxholes on Bataan peninsula" to use his own words, challenged and won the admiration of all Americans.

It was felt that his long stand in the face of more than 10 to 1 odds, his ability to maneuver his men into a position where only a fraction of the Japanese power could be used against him, and the fact that he was still immobilizing a vastly superior force, entitled him to the title of "miracle man" of warfare.

If the Japanese attempted to infiltrate his lines, as often as not he checked them with counter-attacks. If they succeeded, either by a skillful withdrawal or by vigorous counter-measures at hand-to-hand, the following day would find the MacArthur army still intact, still fighting, still able to resist all efforts to drive him into the sea.

Though the communiques from Luzon never had given hope of a successful outcome, there was no tinge of heroics, save the tribute of the general to men who, without relief and subjected to almost constant attack by fresh troops in rotation, continued a defense that seemed to grow from day to day in strength rather than to be collapsing under pressure.

General Homma, Japanese commander, sent over a "leaflet raid" in which he strongly suggested surrender, paying tribute to the magnificent defense of MacArthur's army. It was not rejected—the army simply paid no attention to it whatever.

SINGAPORE: Siege

The Japanese, having increased their pressure on the narrow and difficult Malayan peninsula, had finally induced the British defenders to make a sudden, dramatic withdrawal from the mainland, starting the long-expected siege of Singapore.

This, a battle expected to go down into history as one of the bitterest and bloodiest in the history of warfare, started with the 760,000 population of Singapore largely added to by civilian refugees from the mainland.

It was the first test in battle of a fortress and stronghold called by British tradition the "Gibraltar of the Far East" and now, after 118 years of building and rebuilding its defenses with more and more modern armament, the time had come for its testing.

Singapore stood buttressed on the north by a mile-wide strip of land from which the British had attempted to strip all obstructions which might offer refuge and cover to enemy soldiers or batteries; by another mile-wide strip of water which had become the "moat" of Singapore following the destruction of the granite causeway which connected the potato-shaped island with the peninsula.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

Washington: Walter Nash, first New Zealand minister to the United States, urged that an American naval officer be placed in supreme command in the Pacific.

Honolulu: Survivors from a torpedoed British freighter said the German submarine tried to crush and upset their lifeboats.

CHECKMATE:

On Farm Prices

The administration in Washington, having apparently lost an important point in the Price Control bill, seemingly discovered that "all was well" when a joker was found in the measure.

Agriculture Secretary Wickard said that the government power to buy and sell commodities in case inflation threatened, probably would give the administration powerful curbs to keep farm prices down to parity.

The senate agriculture committee questioned Wickard for four hours, letting his office somewhat ruefully admit that his claims were probably true.

Some were quoted as saying that they felt their legislative victory over the administration had been nullified by a power the bill itself conferred on the government.

Wickard was frank about the whole thing. He told the senators that cotton, wheat, tobacco, will be stabilized at parity.

He said that corn and other feed crops will be stabilized at around 85 per cent of parity, probably to keep stock prices from going sky high, also to encourage farmers to stock, dairying and poultry-raising.

Livestock, dairy and poultry prices will be permitted to go above parity—on the same basis of reasoning.

Farmers who grow corn, however, will be given benefit payments by the government to permit their return to be up to parity.

PINCERS:

In Island Empires

Little by little a study of the maps of the island empires of the ABDA forces in the East Indies began to show the picture of the Japanese effort, and demonstrated that a giant pincers movement was being carried out with three major objectives.

On the extreme west, the two prongs of the Japanese pincers were working on Rangoon and Singapore. The former, if the Japs could crack it, they felt, would put an effective stopper on the Burma road. The latter would jettison British hopes of defending the west half of the island empire, and leave the Japanese fleet in command of the India-Australia supply lines.

In the center lay Borneo, and with invasion forces going both to left and right of this island, it was evident that the Japs were seeking to wipe out the advance defenses of Java and Sumatra.

On the east was the Bismark archipelago, and the drive here, while not so well established, apparently was seeking an invasion of Cape York, Australia, and a sweep down the east coast of the continent "down under," the only rich and populous section of the whole huge island.

As Singapore rocked under bombings, and held grimly in the face of actual siege at last, the Japanese began an all-out assault on Amboina, the island naval stronghold of the Dutch south of the larger island of Ceram.

'Star-Maker'

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Have you ever been curious and wondered where came the stars that spangle our banner? If so, this may appease that curiosity of yours. The man shown is operating a machine that cuts white stars from hunting in blocks of dozens at a clip. He is one of the many workers in the Philadelphia quartermaster depot where all flags, guidons, standards, colors and battle streamers for the army are made.

PILOTS:

By Thousands

Secretary Knox electrified the nation when he announced that four large American universities would "join the navy" and serve as training centers for a huge army of combat pilots for the new navy air force, to be created with a 25 billion dollar appropriation.

Keeping the identities of the universities a secret, Knox revealed that the plan will be put into operation so swiftly that by May 1 it will be in full swing—perhaps sooner.

Briefly, the plan was this. Each school is to become an Annapolis of the air. The entire facilities of the universities will be rented by the navy for the duration of the war.

A rigorous routine will be adopted for the students, future combat pilots. They will handle 2,500 naval flying cadets monthly.

A three-month preliminary training will be started, with men digging ditches, marching up to 40 miles from sunup to sundown. They will chop wood, clear land, will learn jiu-jitsu, boxing, rough-and-tumble fighting.

The whole course is expected to take a year, from the time the student starts until he has his navy wings. But when the first class gets through, the navy's supply of pilots will grow at the rate of 2,500 a month, according to the plan.

SOVIET:

Continued

Groundhog day came and went, but regardless of shadows, King Winter reigned in Soviet Russia, freezing into motionless hulks the majority of Hitler's mechanical war-fighters, and giving the Russians continued strength to hurl the Nazis back along the entire long front.

A 93-mile gain in the Ukraine had brought the Reds to within easy striking distance of the lower bend of the Dnieper river; brought within the realm of possibility the capture of Dniepropetrovsk, where the $100,000,000 dam had been blown up by the Russians in their retreat.

Most remarkable dispatch was the announcement of the capture of a town named Berestovoya, 115 miles west of German-held Teganrog, a serious blow to the German rear, and forming a possible trap for thousands of Nazi troops.

CHINESE:

Drive Japs Back

What a major disaster the closing of the Burma road would be had been convincingly demonstrated by the Chinese in their latest victory, an important defeat of the Japanese east of Canton.

The fight was in the Walchow area, only 60 miles from the city, and the Japs were reported in disordered flight, with the Chinese armies in close pursuit.

Of tremendous interest in this dispatch was the report that one entire division of Chinese troops of the Nanking government, armed and equipped by the Japanese, had deserted to Chiang Kai-shek's banner.

If this fight should develop with continued favor to the Chinese, they would place the Japanese holding forces on Hong Kong with a tough job to retain their tenure of the island.

Canton is only 66 miles from Hong Kong, and the Chinese said they had possession of the Canton-Kowloon railroad.

TEMPEST:

Arrival of a large number of apparently well-equipped U. S. troops in Northern Ireland, seemingly from the Middle West, provided the first substantiated story of land forces sent to combat areas by this country and started an Irish tempest.

DeValera, in southern Ireland, objected strenuously to the arrival of American troops, and criticized it most sharply for being what he called "a British attempt to make more sharp the breach between northern and southern Ireland."

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By ROBERT McSHANE

Released by Western Newspaper Union

ANY man who can hit a golf ball as far and as accurately as Samuel Jackson Sneed deserves high ranking among present-day stars of the fairway.

But Sneed, despite his flawless swing and almost unbelievable distance-getting ability, hasn't won universal acclaim. In fact, the manner in which he loses tournaments often wins more publicity for him than would victory.

Golfing fans never will forget Slammin' Sammy's eight on the last hole in the United States Open at Philadelphia three years ago. Neither will they forget his eight on the last hole of the recent Los Angeles Open. Any galleryite watching Sneed play his usual excellent brand of tournament golf would refuse to believe him capable of two such debacles.

On the surface, these last-hole blowups seem to indicate a lack of heart on the part of the former hillbilly from Virginia. Such isn't the case. If Sneed had been afraid of the pressure he would have been overly cautious. His game would have mirrored his lack of courage.

Too Much Courage

But Sneed was a victim of too much courage. He preferred to gamble. In the National Open he used a brassie from a poor lie after hitting a rather unhappy tee shot. The second guessers knew he should have played it safe with an iron. In the Los Angeles Open he needed a four to win on the 500-yard final hole. After a fair tee shot his long brassie carried him about 270 yards, leaving him almost hole high. With the green on a slight plateau, Sneed was in the rough. His pitch hit at the top of the bank and rolled back. He took four shots to get the ball on the green.

You can be sure that Sneed's weakness isn't due to the lack of courage. Rather it is the result of uncertain concentration. In Los Angeles he was six under par for 71 holes. Then, without running into anything more troublesome than right rough, he went three over par on the last hole.

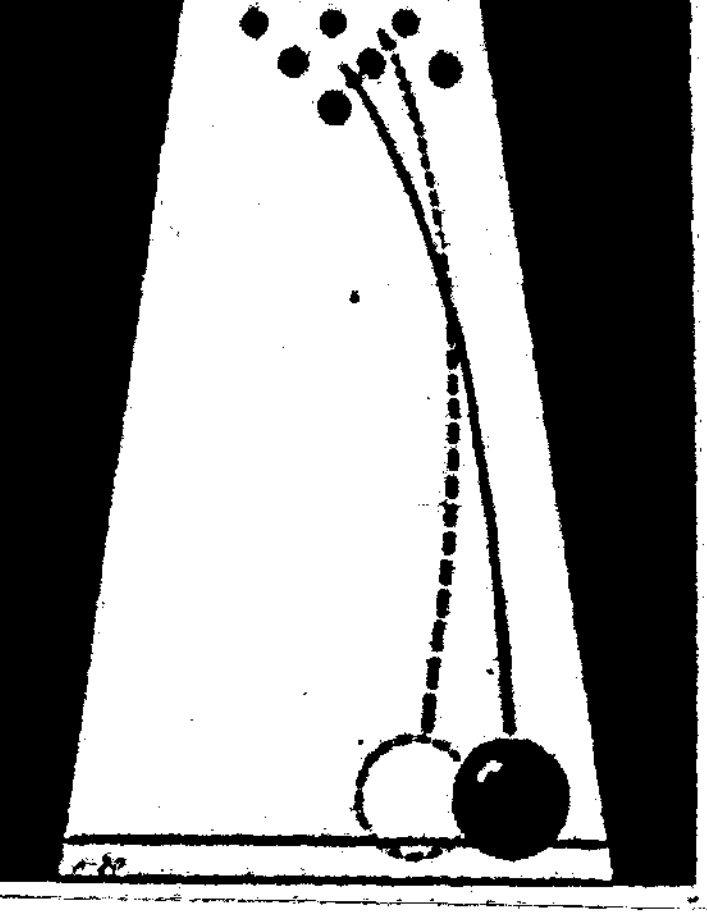

Not until Sneed learns to control himself completely will he earn the place which should be his. He must learn to forget the sour shots and concentrate on matters directly at hand. Right now it doesn't take very much to turn him from an almost certain winner to a ragged victim of his own nerves. With competition increasingly keen, nerves must be kept under iron control.

Ben Hogan possesses marvelous concentrating ability—so does Byron Nelson. Give that one additional quality to Sneed and he would single the tournament fairways to a brown crisp.

Bowling—the Right Way

By LOWELL JACKSON

(This is one of a series of lessons in bowling by Lowell Jackson, one of the country's outstanding bowlers. Mr. Jackson now averages 300 a game to his credit and has a 72-year league average of 290.)

"Two inches to the right."

FAST ALLEYS.—The surface of a fast alley is usually highly polished. When an alley is fast—that is, highly polished—the bowling ball may refuse to hook—it will slide instead of gripping the alley surface. However, when an alley is fast it is considered in championship condition.

Here are five suggestions for play on fast alleys:

1. Move your original stance two inches to the right.
2. Do not loft your ball on the alley; rather lay it down and roll it.
3. Cut down the speed of your delivery slightly.
4. Give your ball a complete "turn-over" with your fingers and wrist without increasing the speed of delivery.
5. Hold your ball lower starting from your stance and lower your back swing a few inches.

Facts of ADVERTISING • ADVERTISING represents the leadership of a nation. It points the way. We merely follow—follow to new heights of comfort, of convenience, of happiness. As time goes on advertising is used more and more, and as it is used more we all profit more. It's the way advertising has—of bringing a profit to everybody concerned, the consumer included.

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by ALAN LEMAY

INSTALLMENT ELEVEN
 THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Water-
 son, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, comes with Colt to Honolulu and meets Tompa Dick or Holokai Wayne, a member of the Wayne family which has been in control of the property since her grandfather's disappearance. Dick's uncle, James Wayne, manager of this island, Alaska, dies from starvation and Dick attempts to work out a compromise settlement of Karen's claim. This is refused. Meanwhile Karen has learned that both Colt and Dick are in love with her. On the island, one day, Dick reveals that Karen is not an heiress at all, but that Garrett Water-son is alive and is on his way to Alaska. He and Karen discuss what attitude the old man may take toward her claim to the island.
 Now continue with the story.

"But you don't know that you've lost the island."

dark tall shape, with her trucks showing against the stars. The moments ticked by, and the outrigger glided past twice, standing on and off, and it seemed to Dick that she was never going to speak.
 He picked Karen up lightly and lowered her over the rail into the moving outrigger; then himself vaulted the rail in time to light upon the canoe's stern as it swept past.
 The little craft reeled, and the can-oe's whole outrigger lifted out of the water; then she steadied, and her sail flapped lazily as she came about and pointed for the Holokai.

Karen stood beside Dick Wayne as he piloted the Holokai to sea. He was handling the wheel himself, as he always did in these reefs; but even while he was narrowly back-sighting his mark, the sense of her presence there had hold of every part of him, changing the meaning of the vessel, and the harbor, and the night. The salt spray that he loved had never, in all his life, been so welcome in the air he breathed.

The Chinese mess boy poked himself into the wheelhouse and plucked at Dick's sleeve. He was in a white mess jacket, this time.

"Captain Tonga, something is wrong, I think. Somebody is in your cabin, I think. You send somebody in cabin?"

"Well, who is it?"

"Captain Tonga, the door is fastened."

"Oh, bunk! What's the matter with you. Seeing akusai?"

"No, Captain. Somebody is—"

"Go tell the cook to make dinner for two—and make it good. Get out of here and do as I tell you."

The big combers that lashed over the snag-toothed coral were close on the Holokai's bows, but Dick seemed sure of his way. He fired the Holokai at the channel like a shot; the big Diesel had small range of speed, so that under power the Holokai went full out or not at all. He spoke from the side of his mouth to the Japanese who served as first officer, bosun, and copper-smith.

"Inyashi, get the night glasses out of my bunk."

"Yes, Captain."

"We'll very likely sight the Sarah coming in—that's your grandfather's other ship," Dick said to Karen, raising his voice over the roar of the shoals. "She's a good little vessel, but much slower than this. She must have started north no more than twelve hours after the Holokai, and you see how late she is. Did you know that 'Sarah' was your grandmother's name?"

The Japanese quartermaster was back, bursting into the wheelhouse in the quick nervous way that marked everything he did. "Captain Dick, I cannot get the night glasses—you have left your cabin locked."

"Locked? You're crazy—a door's stuck, that's all. Give it a boot."

Inyashi showed extreme embarrassment. "Captain Dick, I did the panel split. I think it was poor wood, but I can fix it. It is locked—it is locked, I know."

"Let it go. I'll send up the glasses.
 Get a Kanaka boy for the wheel—
 we'll be in clear water in a minute.
 Set a course for Kalae; watch for a ship—any ship—and report all vessels to me."

"Yes, Captain!"

"That last is for you," Dick told Karen. The wheel was kicking crazy-ly, but he let go with one hand, and pulled her close against him. "I thought you might want to see the ship that's bringing him in, out of the south."

"Out of the south," Karen repeated; "out of the sea, out of the past itself."

"You'll like him, Karen; I promise you that."

"You and I have so much to talk about," Karen said. "I'm terribly eager to know more about my grandfather. I want to know where he's been, and what he does, and how he lives. I want to know what he's really like, and if you think he'll approve of me."

"And," Dick said, "why he disappeared, and hid his name?"

"Did he run from something,
 Dick?"

"Only from his own pride. I understand it; I understand it well."

"I've been perfectly sincere. Dick, you just have to believe that!"

"I do. But Garrett Water-son may very possibly believe, by this time, that the Waynes took unfair advantage of him when they bought Alakon."

Karen seemed strangely shaken.
 "Then nothing is settled at all, is it?"

"Nothing. They key has passed into other hands—that's all."

"And this fight has to go on, and on—"

"Are you tired of this fight, Karen?"

"Something's changed it for me.
 I don't know what it is. At first it seemed such a glorious adventure;
 it promised to open up a whole new world. But that's all gone. I don't know what's the matter. Somehow I'm not sure, any more, that I want Alakon."

"Neither," said Dick Wayne, "do
 I. You know that."

She turned a little to look at him;
 and the young stars made her face pale oval, mysterious and lovely, but her expression he could not see.

"You don't want your island?"
 she asked queerly.

He took her hands, and made her turn toward him. "You know what I want. You've known it all the time."

"But—the island—your brother—"

"Haven't you?" he asked.

"There isn't—there isn't any way—"

"Haven't you?" Dick insisted.

The resistance seemed to go out of her; she swayed forward, and rested her cheek against his chest.

"Yes," she admitted; "I know."

"There isn't any time to lose," Dick said. "I've had a radio from Water-son. He'll drop anchor in less than two hours. By that time it will be too late."

"What are we going to do?"

"We're going to run out on this show. We'll be married in Hilo. I don't care what happens after that.
 They can go on with this infernal squabble until they eat each other's last shirt."

"It's impossible! I can't!"

"Why? If you're still going to let John Colt—"

"Don't you see what position I'm put in? Do you think I've so little pride that I'd try to seize your island, and fail, and then edge in by marrying the very man I tried to bankrupt?"

"I don't believe you care any more about the island than I do."

"You don't now. But some day you'd remember, and perhaps begin to doubt; and nothing could ever be—"

"But you don't know that you've lost the island. Nobody will know until Garrett Water-son shows his hand."

"Dick—if my grandfather takes the island, I'll marry you then, if you want me to."

"No," he said. He released his hold, and she moved a few inches away from him. "No," he repeated.
 "I'm not going to marry an island either, Karen."

"Then you see—it's hopeless,
 Dick."

"In another hour or so it will be completely. This is the last time we'll ever have any choice. Because now we don't know. Right now one of us is as good as broke—but we don't know which. Perhaps neither one of us will ever have anything in the world again."

"Maybe," Karen said, "that would be best of all. Only—we can't make that choice either, Dick. Neither one of us has any choice whatever, in anything, it seems."

Dick said gravely, "The choice is yours, Karen; and you have to make it now, tonight—before I leave this boat."

"What is it you want me to do?"

"I want you to come with me, now, on the Holokai. I'll throw the Holokai over the bar, and run to sea."

"If only," Karen said, "I had a little time—"

"Time? Good Lord, Karen!"

"Even a few hours—"

He saw that she was frightened;
 and he was pleased, because it told him that she wanted to come with him.

"You have a few hours," he said;
 "you have days, if you want. I'll stay at sea as long as you want me to. Or, when we've talked it over, I'll put back. Or I'll take you any place you want to go. But now we've got to get out of here—quickly—if there's ever going to be any hope at all."

She turned away from him and her hands gripped the rail hard;
 her eyes were on the Holokai, a

IT'S UP TO YOU TO JUDGE . . .

Q Most large organizations today have skilled men whose job it is to cross a public opinion favorable to the organization and its products. This is known as the creation of good will—one of the most necessary ingredients in business.

Q But the peculiar thing about good will is that it only comes to those who deserve it. In other words, making the public for good will is not enough; the business must be worthy of that good will through giving good service, through selling good merchandise, through maintaining fair prices.

Q One of the chief services of advertising is not as a customer has been in pointing out the manufacturer and merchants who deserve your good will. It has done this by telling you the story of their goods and their policies—and then leaving you to judge for yourself if they are worthy of your support.

Q Advertising shows you exactly where you can buy,
 with perfect assurance that here you will find a man who is worthy, a product which is honest, a price which is right.

Mary Lee Taylor's Vegetable Meat Rolls
 Broadcast Feb. 12

1 1/2 tablespoons condensed vegetable soup*
 1/2 pound twice-ground beef
 1/4 cup Pet Milk
 1 1/2 teaspoons grated onion
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon paprika
 2 cups bread biscuits flour
 6 tablespoons water

Turn on oven and set at hot (425° F.). Mix together thoroughly the soup, ground beef, 1/2 tablespoons milk, the grated onion, salt and pepper. Chill. Meanwhile, put flour in mixing bowl. Stir in with fork the remaining 1/2 tablespoon paprika and the water. Turn out dough onto lightly floured board. With floured fingers, pat dough into a round. Knead lightly a few seconds or until dough is smooth. Roll into a sheet 1/4 inch thick and measuring 10x12 inches. Spread with meat mixture, leaving a 1/2-inch margin on the 12-inch side. Beginning at one of the margins, roll up like jelly roll, pinching top of dough to secure. Cut into 12 slices. Put in greased shallow baking pan, cut-side down. Bake on shelf slightly above center of oven for 30 minutes, or until brown. Serve at once with Vegetable Sauce (See Below). Serves 6.

*A 10 1/2-oz. can of soup will yield enough for both rolls and sauce.

Vegetable Sauce
 1 1/2 tablespoons butter or other shortening
 2 tablespoons flour
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon paprika
 1/4 cup Pet Milk
 1/2 cup condensed vegetable soup

Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and paprika. Stir in water. Boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in milk. Add soup. Heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Serve at once with Vegetable Meat Rolls (See Above). Serves 6.
