Fred likes the service, but at times, he longs for the New Mexico sunshine. Mr. and Mrs. Jack O'Malley and Miss Doris Cotey were visitors from Capitan last Sunday. Miss Cotey and Mrs. O'Malley are twin sisters and one is so struck with resemblance that it would be needless to inform people when they see either of the two ladies. Fire at Ruidoso Power Plant Manager Burned Ruidoso — Ruidoso was left without lights and power when a fire of undetermined origin destroyed the town's electric plant, valued at $30,000. Responding townspeople and CCC enrollees formed a bucket brigade. The volunteer firemen waged a valiant but unsuccessful battle against the flames which were fed by oil stored in the building. W. A. Hart, plant manager, suffered burns about the hands and face while battling the blaze. MANGANESE FIND IN NEW MEXICO Santa Fe — Clark Hust of Las Cruces has filed a mineral claim on state land in Dona Ana county in an iron ore which assayed 20 to 30 percent manganese. The State Land Commissioner said Hust described the vein as 10 to 20 feet wide. Mrs. B. A. Dudley, local Western Union operator, is on her vacation of two weeks, during which time Miss Stafford of Clarksville, Texas will relieve her. Mrs. Dudley has given us the best of service and is deserving of a much-needed vacation. WARNING — Motor vehicles which do not display the Use Tax Stamp, should not appear on our highways. — S. P. Vidal, Collector of Internal Revenue. FOR SALE—Small Case Tractor in good condition, Lug type, $150.00.—E. E. Jones, Jicarilla, N. M. SCHOOL NEWS Pictures were the order of the day Wednesday. The Basketball teams and their coaches each tried the camera. Supt. Carpenter visited the St. Rita Schools Wednesday and after checking up on amount of Stamps and Defense Bonds for each grade, he offered congratulations to the first grade for having the greatest amount. Sixteen hundred and 31 dollars is the grand total of Defense Stamps and Bonds held by the 452 students of our schools. Of this amount the 5th grade is the champion with a total of $553.60. "The Rap-a-Jap Club" expresses appreciation to all students for their participation in the drive for sale of stamps and bonds. The problem of sugar rationing is occupying the attention of several teachers. Data is being compiled in the office of the Superintendent showing the size of families residing in the trade territory of Carrizozo. The first booklets for sugar rationing will be issued within the next few weeks. High School and Junior High students are now devoting their play periods to Baseball. The students of the lower grades are recreating themselves by playing Jacks and Marbles.

AN APPRECIATION I wish to express my sincere appreciation to Mr. John E. Hall, War Fund Chairman, and all the committeemen who worked with him on the War Fund Drive, for the splendid manner in which the Drive was handled, and for the very fine results obtained. Mrs. A. C. Wiggins was called to Tennessee last week due to death of her sister. She was accompanied by her husband, the minister of the Church of Christ, who spoke to the Church of Christ in Vigla and Nashville, Tenn., while there. Read the Titworth out - price grocery ad on the back page.

Business Men's Club In keeping with its customary yearly practice, the club prepared to entertain Judge Frenger and his official family on the first meeting after District Court convenes; but on account of Assistant District Attorney Walker being called to his home in Alamogordo, and court stenographer Miss Ruth Turbeville, also being absent, only the Judge and Interpreter Jose Viramontes were guests of the club. Sec. Dorsett tendered his resignation and gave for his reason that other duties, principally to the Boy Scouts taking up so much of his time, made it difficult for him to do what he considered justice to all. The resignation after being accepted, President Burke turned it over to the Board of Directors. The Board after holding a conference, offered the name of James Brister, who was elected by acclamation. After several pending measures were dispensed with, the President presented Judge Frenger and Mr. Viramontes as guests of the club. The Judge, in his usual becoming manner, gave his hearers one of the best patriotic addresses the club members have heard for some time. He was interrupted with applause many times and received the thanks of the club for the same, which was the feature of the evening. Mr. Viramontes gave a short talk and spoke of how much the official family always looked forward to coming to Carrizozo and appreciated the friendly spirit which existed between the court officials and the people of our home town. Attendance, members 18, visitors 2. Total 20. James Brister, Sec'y.

DON ENGLISH IN GBAVE CONDITION —Latest word received before going to press concerning the condition of Don English, who is in a hospital at El Paso, is far from encouraging — although the clouds hang heavy, let us have hope. Lincoln County Chamber of Commerce Entertained a number of guests at dinner at the S. P. Hotel last Friday at 6:15 p. m. Col. Wilfred McCormick of Ruidoso and several couples from this vicinity attended. At 7:45 all repaired to the Hi-School Auditorium where speaking, music and singing of a patriotic nature were indulged in. The speakers were Col. McCormick and Mr. Carpenter, Supt. of Schools. In the absence of Mr. J. H. Fulmer, President of the Chamber of Commerce, who was ill, Dr. Blaney acted as Chairman of the meeting — Reporter. Harold Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoffman, has recently returned from Santa Fe, where he passed the examination. Harold is awaiting his call — and will be an Aviation Officer.

Messrs. Adolphsen, Hanson and Johnson were here from Fort Stanton Monday.

FIRST AID CLASSES Two Red Cross First Aid Classes are scheduled to start soon at Corona, with Drs. Barry and Beid on, instructors. Classes have been in operation for several weeks at Hondo, Ruidoso and Carrizozo. Hand books have been received by the local Secretary for classes in Home Nursing and classes in this division will start in the near future. Mrs. O'Malley of Capitan is chairman of this department. We are losing one of our most valuable chairmen, when Mrs. S. Degitz, chairman of War Production, leaves Carrizozo. Mrs. Degitz has handled the job for several years and made an outstanding success of it. —Frank Adams, County Chairman.

Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson of Corona were here Monday and from them we learned that their son, Ralph Edward, has completed his preliminary training in the Navy and has been assigned to the Naval Training School at Toledo, Ohio, for 16 weeks' intensive training course. We have known Ralph since a small boy and know that he will make the right kind of material for Uncle Sam. He attended the Denver University and holds an A. B. Degree. His many friends congratulate him on his advancement.

On Wednesday we received a nice letter from Burton Roach, manager of the Ladder Ranch at Hillsboro. Mr. Roach is a member of the Cattle Growers' Association and is a very active member in his locality. As a member of the executive board he has outlined protective measures for stockmen following that which he introduced in the last legislature, being a member of the New Mexico Senate. His slogan is, "The boys in the service got to have beef as well as bullets and New Mexico stockmen are ready to produce the beef."

Mrs. J. G. Moore, Jr. of the B & M Store, is rapidly recovering from being ill.

L. P. Hall of Ancho attended the regular monthly meeting of the County Board of Education, being a member of that organization.

Mrs. Nellie Braum and Mrs. Oscar Clouse visited Mrs. Wayne VanSchoyck and baby last week.

Mrs. Lena Coltharp of Palo Verde was the week - end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joe McCanille.

HORNSBY'S entry into baseball's Hall of Fame brings up once more an ancient argument...

The left-handed swingers offer you Ty Cobb, Babe Ruth, George Slater, Lou Gehrig, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker and Ted Williams for a starting lineup...

The left-hander, being closer to first base, has more than a full stride's advantage...

Don't forget that Hornsby averaged above .400 for four consecutive years, taking in his average for that time, which is something.

An Odd Turn

Baseball happens to be the one game in which the left-handed hitter takes a high place in any all-time ranking.

In golf, no left-hander has ever won a big championship. No left-hander has ever won the U. S. Open or British Open, the U. S. Amateur or the British Amateur crown. In fact, no left-hander has even come close to any major golf event.

There have been good left-handed golfers. But no great ones—no Jones, Vardon, Hagen, Hogan or Nelson. The portside entries can play in the low 70s, they can break 70 here and there, but they are lost in major events.

In golf there are no such left-handed stars as Cobb, Ruth, Jackson, Speaker and many others. Just why this is no scientist seems to know. If so many people can handle a baseball but so effectively as left-handers, why not golfers?

In Other Sports

The same is true in tennis. There have been good left-handed tennis players, but few champions. Norman Brookes was one. The Australian was a star. R. L. Murray was another.

But the crushing preponderance is all on the other side—Bill Tilden, Bill Johnston, Rene Lacoste, Ellisworth Vines, Don Budge, Maurice McLaughlin, Bill Larned, Fred Perry, Anthony Wilding, Norris Williams, on through the present generation. The star right-handers in tennis outnumber the present generation. The star right-handers in tennis outnumber the star left-handers by ten to one.

The same is true in polo. All great polo players have been right-handed swingers—Devereux Milbarn, Tommy Hitchcock, Cecil Smith, Luis Lacey. I can't recall any left-handed polo players. Maybe there are none.

In games where you pick up some form of a bat to hit the ball, baseball is the only sport that can show you a line of top-notch left-handed swingers.

About Hornsby

Hornsby has been something more than a great hitter, a fine infielder and a winning manager. He also is one of the best instructors that baseball ever has known.

The main idea in baseball is to swing the bat on a line, not up or down. I've seen Hornsby correct this fault more than once. If baseball ever had the training and the teaching that golf got the improvement would be terrific.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By ROBERT McSHANE

Senior Gomez

VERNON ("Lefty") Gomez, the Yankees' veteran southpaw who staged a remarkable comeback last year, is in hopes of another good season.

El Goofy won 15 and lost five for the Yankees in 1941. This will be his 13th season with the world's champions. He has been in five world series with them. His banner year was 1934, when he topped the league in practically all important pitching departments.

Gomez recalls that, with Ed Barrow's encouragement, he put on 23 pounds following his excellent 1934 season. Barrow expected the weight gain to give Lefty more power. The following season proved otherwise. The overweight hurler was very much of a flop.

Out with an injury a couple of years ago, Lefty piled on quite a number of pounds. When he limped home with only three victories and three defeats for the season, he was convinced that surplus weight was a thing of evil. Too, his arm looked as though it were gone for good. But he came back again last season to win 15. With any luck, his 183 victories for the Yankees should be expanded to 20 this season.

Lefty's major league debut wasn't a howling success. He walked into his first big league game in 1930 against Detroit when two men were on base. Lefty took two long wind-ups and both base runners stole home. Senior Gomez departed for St. Paul with a minimum of delay.

In 1932 he was back with the Yankees—to stay. He had proved his ability and the Bronx Bombers welcomed him with open arms. His mates, together with a few million fans, hope that El Goofy will hit the 200 victory mark before the 1942 season draws to a close.

Aerial Artist

Cornelius Warmerdam, the 28-year-old California Dutchman who holds all world pole-vaulting records, is both elated and disappointed over his recent triumphs.

Just a short time ago, Warmerdam made the highest vault in history—a gravity-defying leap of 11 feet 7 1/2 inches.

"Of course I was thrilled at setting the new record," Warmerdam said, "but I guess I'll never really be satisfied until I've cleared the bar at 16 feet. I had my heart set on reaching that mark."

Warmerdam established the new record on his third and final try at the 53rd Boston A. A. track games. Not content with this mark, he requested officials to raise the bar to 15 feet 10 inches.

After resting half an hour, Warmerdam went back to work. He made three rapid tries. On his final vault, he appeared to clear the bar at more than 16 feet. In descending, however, his elbow grazed the crossbar just enough to knock it off the supports.

Quite a number of track fans refuse to believe that Warmerdam won't clear 16 feet. After all, he came mighty close to it in Boston. It wasn't long ago that 14 feet was considered a stratospheric leap. The California school teacher has bettered that mark by more than a foot and a half. He is the only man who ever has cleared better than 14 feet, and he has managed to do that more than 20 times.

But the difference between his new record and his hoped-for goal is 4 1/2 inches. Even the greatest pole vaulter of them all knows that those comparatively few inches may be an insurmountable barrier.

SPORT SHORTS

Charlie Ruffing is the first pitcher ever to win 300 games for the Yankees.

Norwegians, who brought skiing to the United States, organized the present National Ski association at Ishpeming, Mich., in 1904.

King Miller, new White Sox coach, caught 30 games in Franco during the first World War.

Danny Litwiler of the Phils and Clyde McCullough of the Cubs hit home runs in every National league park last season.

OOPS!

Believe it or not, on the radio the other night a commentator had spent most of his time discussing the rubber crisis, and had ended with the words "Rubber is one of our greatest needs," when the announcer went into his eulogy of a cigar.

GETTING A NEW TIRE

Q.—What can I do for you?
A.—I want three new tires.
Q.—(sharply)—You want what?
A.—Two new tires.
Q.—(severely)—How many?
A.—(meekly)—One!

Q.—What's your full name?
A.—Luke Z. Woggle.
Q.—How old?
A.—About two years.
Q.—You're older than that!
A.—Oh, I thought you meant the age of my old tires.

Q.—What kind of car is it?
A.—Pretty good except for the rubber.

Q.—I mean what make?
A.—It's a flivver.
Q.—Are you a doctor, nurse, military officer or veterinarian?
A.—No, but in this emergency anything can happen to me.

Q.—Do you use your car exclusively for delivering ice, coal, wood or oil?
A.—No, it only LOOKS that way!

Q.—Is it used to transport farm products?
A.—No; those apples have been on the floor for three months.

Q.—Do you use it in garbage collection?
A.—No; the kids mess it up that way.

Q.—How many people in your family?
A.—Six.

Q.—What is your wife's maiden name?
A.—Jennie.

Q.—Where are you employed?
A.—Say, am I here to get a new tire or some new life insurance?

Q.—We've got to be careful to conserve rubber. It's important to be sure you are the sort of person who would get the most out of a tire. Got to know your background.

A.—I'm a special case. My wife's relatives live with me and they all demand transportation in my car.
Q.—It's not a bus!
A.—That's what you think!

Q.—From all the facts, I do not think we can classify you for a certificate above the rate of D-12.
A.—What's the top class?
Q.—A-3.
A.—Never mind a new tire. I'll settle for a tire patch and a used inner tube!

The Indoor Hat-Wearers' League We are glad to hear that Bill Knudsen works with his hat on. "It helps me think," he says. We are a charter member of the League of Indoor Hat Wearers, and have stood for much criticism through the years. We wore our bonnet as a boy editor of the New Haven Register. We wore it constantly on the copy desk of the old Globe. We have never taken it off at work since. To remove it for a minute means a complete stoppage of thought and confidence. It is good to know that a man like Mr. Knudsen belongs to our club.

Mickey Rooney is now a married man and it makes millions of Americans suddenly feel old. It is difficult to imagine that Mickey, the Number One Kid of the Movie World, now has to bring home groceries, help hang pictures and do his part in selecting new wall paper.

We hear that Mickey may now play the judge in the Judge Hardy series, with Louis Stone playing the kid part.

Ima Dodo got one of those sugar ration stamps the other day. But she says she put it in her coffee and it wouldn't even dissolve.

Your Yank

[IF YOU want a composite picture of "Your Yank," i.e. the average young man starting service in the United States army to defend his flag and his country, here it is, according to a recent compilation of official figures by the war department;

Your Yank is five feet, eight inches tall, weighs 144 pounds, has a chest measurement of 33 1/2 inches, wears a 9 1/2-D shoe and a size 7 hat.

After a few months in the army, however, the recruit has gained in weight on army food, wears shoes one-half size larger and has an expanded chest measurement. This is indicated by tests of average recruits, although complete examination comparable to that given upon the individual's entrance into the service is not routine.

To keep this average soldier in fighting trim for the first year, the Quartermaster corps spends $404.63, of which $175.20 is for his food; $162.05 for clothing; $15.79 for individual equipment; and $51.61 for barracks equipment. Weapons, ammunition, pay and other expenses incurred during his training are not included in these estimates.

HOG PRODUCTION AND FARM PLAN

Plenty of Grain Is Seen as Necessary for Success.

By E. M. Regenbrecht (Swine Husbandman, Texas A. & M. College.)

Hog production, a basic item in the Food for Victory program, easily can be made successful if properly fitted into a profitable farming plan.

Especially suited as a small enterprise, hog production primarily is dependent for success upon the availability of an abundance of grain feed. Hogs always pay more for corn, barley, or grain sorghums than does the grain market. About four pounds of feed produces a pound of pork, but the feed must be properly balanced. Feeds used to balance the farm grain usually are higher in price than the latter but the quantity is small.

Farmers who keep from one to three sows almost always make a success, Regenbrecht says. Hogs do not do well when run in large groups because sanitation and disease prevention become serious problems with large herds. The principal item of expense in hog production is the grain feed, but if this is grown on the farm, or obtainable locally at reasonable prices, the enterprise easily can be established on a profitable basis.

While a sandy, well-drained soil is the most suitable, hogs can be successfully raised on a heavy black soil, but in such case concrete feeding floors are almost a necessity. Hog pastures are necessary, with small grain for winter, and sudan for summer the best. Native grasses such as bermuda are good for a short time in the spring, but soon get hard and tough, and become of little value. A good pasture will furnish 50 per cent of the needed protein and otherwise reduce the cost of production.

Suitable equipment—a movable hog house, a few troughs and a self-feeder—can be built at small cost. A concrete wallow can be classed as almost a necessity. If hogs are kept comfortable they make rapid and economical gains and losses from overeating are avoided. It is likewise true that hogs which do not have a dry, warm place in which to bed during the winter will not make as much profit as those properly sheltered.

Save Money by Making Own 'Homemade' Soap

With the fats and oil situation giving this country considerable worry, rural families with cooking fats available can save by making homemade soap.

Enameled or granite ware is suitable for small batches of soap, but for larger batches an iron kettle is recommended. A large granite or wooden spoon is best for stirring.

The four ingredients of soap are lye, water, fat and perfume. Lye should be pure and uniform, and if possible soft water should be used since it will improve the quality of soap.

Fat used should be clean and light-colored and it should be clarified as it accumulates. Clean tin cans, well covered, are best for storing the fat until a sufficient amount has been collected for soap making. Both fats and oils must be washed free from salt. Rancid greases may be purified by boiling with a solution of one part of vinegar and five parts of water.

Scents such as oil of citronella, bergamot, oil of lavender, geranium or sassafras may be added to perfume the soap. This will help destroy the odor of the fat.

Killing Cattle Lice

A dairy herd infested with lice causing severe cow discomfort cannot provide top milk production. Powdered sabadilla dusted on the infested parts is a popular louse killer. It may be used alone or mixed with equal quantities of powdered tobacco and flowers of sulphur. Work the powder well into the hide during dusting. Blanket the animal for a few hours after treatment and thoroughly brush the skin, preferably out of doors.

It is well to repeat this treatment in 15 days in order to get lice that hatch from the nits. Use care when applying the sabadilla powder not to get it up the nose and mouth. A handkerchief or doubled cheesecloth placed over the nose and mouth will prevent irritation.

What Next??

A writer with a flair for "looking up" information tells that honey isn't merely a jar of liquid amber to give zest to the breakfast toast and flapjacks. During the past few years packing firms have bought honey in large lots for curing hams, and many carloads of it have been bought by brewers. Hydromel (honey and water) is one of the oldest drinks known in Europe, and honey brandy and honey champagne still are considered delicacies.

When movie folks say "See Eddie about it," they refer to Edward Arnold, the busiest actor in Hollywood. ODDS AND ENDS—Jean Arthur's back on her home lot, Columbia, for the first time since "Arizona," to make "The Gangster Misbehavior" with Cary Grant and Ronald Colman. Kay Kyser's lost his transmitter, Tommy Jones, who has joined the U. S. Army Air Force. Betty Field will star in "Triumph Over Pain" as the wife of the dentist who discovered anaesthesia; Joel McCrea will portray the dentist; Charles Boyer recently and very proudly became an American citizen. IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for March 8

DISCOVERING WHY PEOPLE DRINK BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 43:34; Psalm 104:14, 15; Proverbs 31:4-7; Ecclesiastes 2:23, 10, 11; Isaiah 56:12; 1 Corinthians 10:8.

The alcohol problem receives attention in four lessons of each year. This is the first one for 1942 and brings before us a number of scriptures not often used, in order to suggest the drinker's reasons for drinking. Other matters appear, but we shall limit ourselves to presenting these reasons, together with the Christian answer to each one.

I. To Be Sociable (Gen. 43:34). At the banquet prepared by Joseph the allowance for Benjamin was greatly increased, and they "drank and were merry." How often that has been the plea which has led into drinking and into drunkenness. The "social glass" has often led to the drunkard's grave.

Well, surely God wants us to be sociable. Yes, He does, and the perfect provision for man's social nature is found in Christian fellowship.

II. To Be Happy (Ps. 104:14, 15). Wine is supposed to bring happiness, and we may admit that it does bring a temporary lift which some call happiness. But who is satisfied with happiness? It depends entirely on what "happens." If the wrong thing happens we are unhappy. We need a deep abiding joy, and only a right relationship to God can give that.

III. To Evade Responsibility (Prov. 31:4, 5). When life's burdens become too much for him the weakling seeks relief and evades his responsibilities in the deadening power of alcohol. But that doesn't solve the problem. It is still there when sobriety returns, and usually more serious than ever. What can a man do? The answer is, turn to God. He gives wisdom, grace and strength.

IV. To Forget Sorrow (Prov. 31:6). "Drown your sorrows" is the deceptive promise of liquor; but they stand right there beside man, and when his poor befuddled head begins to clear they present themselves more persistently than ever. What's the answer? The God of all comfort is ready to bear man's sorrows or to give him grace to bear them and to lead him out into a place of peace and victory.

V. To Forget Poverty (Prov. 31:7). Heavy is the affliction of poverty in a world of plenty. Sometimes it is the result of carelessness or of sin, but often it is the lot of those who are innocently caught in its grip. Men have tried to forget, "drown" even this problem in drink, and have only made their poverty worse and more unbearable.

VI. To Find Satisfaction (Eccl. 2:1-3, 10, 11). The book of Ecclesiastes gives the account of a man "under the sun," that is, apart from God's guidance and blessing, seeking to satisfy the cravings of his heart in many ways. All of them prove vain, including the effort to find it in wine and in pleasure.

Frustrated souls often seek release through intoxicants. They gain a measure of liberty and a sense of masterful power, but it is all as delusive as the dreams of grandeur of the insane. It is even worse, for it is a false condition, deliberately created and soon lost, together with lost character and decency of life. The morning after brings only the deepened despair of greater dissatisfaction.

VII. To Stimulate Hope (Isa. 56:12). A certain fearful looking forward to the time of judgment tends to dampen the drinker's enthusiasm. So he drinks more to reawaken in his heart the "hope" that tomorrow will not bring reckoning, but will be another "good" day. The world has no real hope, in fact, the word itself has lost its true meaning and indicates only a sort of wishful thinking. Is there any real hope? Oh, yes, and the Christian has it, hope that is a confident expectation of the fulfillment of God's every promise. That kind of hope takes care of tomorrow—and all the tomorrows.

VIII. To Encourage Play (1 Cor. 10:6, 7). Paul warns against the folly of the "eat, drink, and be merry" philosophy. That road ends in disaster. Does not God want us to play? Indeed He does. He gave us the instinct for recreation. We need pleasant relaxation, and He has provided for us all the beauties of nature, all the pleasures of wholesome play, and all in the finest of fellowship with His people and with Himself. Thus we find real recreation—not just fun that leaves us empty and dissatisfied.

Difference in Days

How much longer and shorter, respectively, are the longest and shortest days of the year than the days next to them, is asked. According to the U. S. Naval Observatory, the difference in the length of day varies less than a minute from day to day in the weeks December 17-24, and June 17-24, in which the shortest and the longest day of the year occurs. Therefore, the difference in the length of day is less than a minute between, for example, December 21 and December 22.

Sailor Discovers That Appearances Deceive

The naval recruit was getting on very well with the blue-eyed and sweetly fragile damsel at the dance. Naturally she suggested having a bite to eat. She readily accepted, and they strolled into the dining room.

Presently, the sailor noticed that one waiter was staring at his partner rather too intently. At last he tackled the man. "Don't you know it's very rude to stare at ladies?" he snapped. "Sorry, sir," was the meek reply, "but it ain't rudeness—it's admiration, sir. This is the sixth time she's been down to supper to-night!"

Card Currency

Playing cards served as the first paper money ever issued in North America. When French troops in Canada multiplied in 1685 because their pay had not arrived, the governor wrote a money value on playing cards, signed them and paid off the men. This "pay-off" currency remained in circulation for almost a century.

KNOW YOUR BANK

What is the "Dual System" of Banking?

Our American banking system is often referred to as a "dual system" because it is composed both of Federal-chartered and state-chartered banks. The state and national systems are under separate controls, but each is operated for the best interests of the public. This principle of optional charter is in keeping with the American traditions of free enterprise. Our bank favors this dual system because of the friendly competition it promotes in the cause of better bank management, and because it tends to prevent the centralizing of banking control at any one all-powerful point.

Blaisdell, assistant director of the national researches planning board; Fred Searles, consultant or ordnance, ammunition division, United States Army, and Robert Nathan, assistant director of progress reports, War Production Board.

SHELLS: On West Coast

The West coast had been waiting for enemy shell fire since the day the Japs launched their sneak attack on Pearl Harbor but when these first shots came, they came from the sea and not from the air as most persons had believed they would.

In the Pacific twilight, as the President addressed the nation over the radio on the progress and course of the war an enemy submarine appeared off Santa Barbara, Calif., and fired from 15 to 25 shells into the Elwood oil fields near that city. Oil wells in the area are located right on the beach. No casualties and only slight damage to the oil fields were first reported.

Radio stations carrying the President's speech did not go off the air until he had finished speaking and then a blackout of the entire area was ordered.

ROOSEVELT: Progress Report

Revealing that thousands of United States troops already are in the southwestern Pacific, President Roosevelt, in his latest fireside chat, told the world that soon the United Nations "and not our enemies, will have the offensive, we, not they, will win the final battles, and we, not they, will make the final peace."

While enemy shells were landing on the California coast, the President promised to carry the war to the Axis enemy in distant lands and far-flung waters—wherever he can be found America, he said, "will harness its unequalled production facilities to the war effort and produce totals of guns, planes, tanks and ships formerly deemed impossible."

BURMA: Defense Stiffens

The addition of well-trained Chinese troops to the northern flank of the British in the Burma battle had found Ching Kai-shek's men able to take, at least temporarily, the offensive.

Japs holding an important river near Chiengmai were driven back, and the China troops took up offensive positions, some believed within the borders of Thailand.

Additional R.A.F. planes were added to the Tiger Squadron of the volunteer American forces assigned to protect the Burma road, and although the port of Rangoon had been made useless, Cilang was thought already to have opened new sources of supply by other ports.

Churchill was believed to be "seeing the light" that empire was going to have to relax its firm hand on the natives, and eventually to give over to them much of the work of freeing themselves from the attacking Japanese, in India.

Changes in the British cabinet had seemed to indicate this, at any rate, and many observers felt that all the disastrous outcomes of the early battles could only be overcome, in the last analysis, by letting the natives get into the fight in a big way, instead of leaving them to be made into fifth columnists by the advancing Japs.

These observers pointed out that Java's population of 40,000,000 persons would be hard to conquer.

MISCELLANY:

Uvalde, Texas: John Nance Garner, former vice president, in a rare interview, said, "There is no lack of morale, no complacency among the people."

Washington, D. C.: Senator Gillis charged that huge interests had been deliberately blocking agricultural effort to provide grain alcohol from which synthetic rubber could be manufactured.

CHURCHILL: Heeds Critics

Winston Churchill, heeding the sharp criticism that followed Singapore and the "channel escape" of the Scharnhorst, Gneisenau and Prince Eugen to Helgoland Bight, streamlined his cabinet.

Out went Lord Beaverbrook, because of ill-health, and his retirement was followed by a statement that he might come to the United States in liaison work.

Chief burden on Churchill had been his frequent appearances before the house of commons—meeting his critics with bursts of oratory that won him one parliament.

Sir Stafford Cripps Lord Beaverbrook

try battle after another—but at what cost to his vitality and accomplishments could readily be imagined.

Into this breach Churchill fired the "man of the hour," Sir Stafford Cripps, fresh from his triumphs in diplomacy in Russia, a man who had the confidence of the "man in the street," and who was to take over the job of being the government's man before commons.

There were other changes, but these were most vital. The cabinet was reduced to seven men, and some action of this type had been vigorously demanded.

JAVA: Mighty Battle

From the narrow waters to the east and west of Java had come reports of mighty air and naval engagements, proving that the last stronghold of the Dutch in the East Indies was not going to be given up without a bitter struggle, also that the Japs were not going to "bypass" Java without at least a major try to capture it.

American and Dutch warships had come to grips with the invasion force attempting to take glamorous Ball from the "blind side," hoping to swarm over the 100-mile-wide island and thus overlook their quarry Java from a vantage point separated from the mainland only by a mile-wide strait.

First reports had been highly optimistic, reminiscent of the American-Dutch resistance to the Japanese landing forces in the Straits of Macassar. Eighteen enemy warships and transports had been sunk or damaged—four planes shot down, with a loss to the Allies of two destroyers and four planes.

Most significant in the battle, however, were the reports that the newest types of dive-bombers (presumably navy planes) were being used, and with telling effect.

For once it seemed that the Allies had a considerable air force in action, whether based on an aircraft carrier or on Sourabaya could only be guessed at.

As to the word from Tokyo, the Japanese admitted that a strong naval battle was in progress, but asserted that the Allied ships "ran off" with severe losses, and denied any serious losses to themselves.

Just how well Java, with its 40 millions of population, could be defended, still remained to be seen, with the Japs pretty well entrenched on Sumatra.

AUSSI... Give Us Guns And We'll All Fight

The eastern end of the huge Japanese pincers unquestionably was being aimed at Australia, and bombings of Port Darwin already had been carried out, with considerable damage and casualties, proving to the Australians that the enemy was indeed at her gates.

Instant response of the 7,000,000 population, only a few generations removed from hardiest pioneers, and with a long record of providing some of the strongest fighting men in warfare's history, was "give us guns and we'll all fight."

It was evident that help already had arrived from the United States in this area and that more was on the way. Australia, most strategists felt, was considered the real hop-off point for any Allied offensive in the Far East.

It also was clear that, insofar as it was within the Australian government's power, its manhood would be given the guns.

Only a few felt that the Jap attacks on Port Darwin were of a "divertive character" designed to keep the Aussies from sending any considerable aid to Java.

Most believed with newsmen W. W. Chaplin that the "Battle for Australia would begin even before the fall (if fall there should be) of the Maginot line of the East Indies, the strong and exceedingly populous island of Java.

An actual invasion attempt was believed a not distant certainty, either at Port Darwin or at Cape York, the spearhead of the eastern coastal plain of the continent "down under"—the only really populated section.

On this plain lies Sydney, and the city of Melbourne and all towns of any consequence.

And toward this objective the main force of Japanese blitz was believed heading.

SPRING: Whose Offensive?

Some experts in studying the public reflexes to war, talk felt that the constant worry and guesswork about "Hitler's spring offensive" was chatter along the wrong psychological lines.

Some hints of different thinking than this had come out of the White House. President Roosevelt had dropped more than a few words to indicate that the spring offensive might not be Hitler's at all.

Here were a couple of his statements:

"We must search out the enemy and hit him—and hit him hard."
"It is quite possible, and at no far distant time, that Alaska and New York might be bombed."

These were not defensive utterances, since the latter was coupled with the President's thought that a "house to house" defense of our coastlines was neither possible nor the proper way to consider fighting the war. It was not "searching the enemy out" to do this.

From this many gained the impression that the looked-for (and feared) Hitler spring offensive might not be of so much consequence as the spring offensive of the Allied powers.

One observer pointed out that we had sent troops to Ireland, to Burma, to Australia, to Java, to Iceland, to Aruba—to countless spots of importance in the scheme of the war, and that these movements, few of them, could be regarded as defensive in character.

They felt that it was quite in order, in fact of better public psychology to think in terms of a bold and well-timed offensive of our own than to speculate and fear a Nazi action.

ECONOMIC: 'Fat Wonderland'

Though it was the current Washington slogan that we "must fight our way to victory, we cannot produce our way to it," the production curves were moving rapidly upward on the heels of congressional appropriations upward of 71 billions of dollars for war purposes.

One returned war correspondent said coming back to America was like returning to a "fat wonderland of food and furs and trills."

After Axis Subs Attacked Isle of Aruba

Above you see a torpedo fired by an Axis sub off the island of Aruba. It missed its target and ran aground. Later the 18-foot missile exploded, killing four Dutchmen who were attempting to dismantle it. Inset: Lieut. Col. William Ratten, of the U. S. Army, climbs a ladder to inspect a 4 by 6-inch dent in an oil tank on the island of Aruba following the torpedo and shelling attack of Axis subs.

Cavalry Still Potent Military Factor

It was thought for awhile the horse in war was a back number. The U. S. army never acknowledged that theory, and events in Russia, where Cossack cavalry continued to counter-attack when snow and ice could immobilize tanks, seem to indicate that cavalry is still to be reckoned with. Above you see part of a cavalryman's training at Fort Riley, Kan., "West Point" of the cavalry area. Lieut. Col. George Caldwell is instructing student officers in the external regions of the horse.

Bomber Crew Commended for Sinking Sub

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by ALAN LEMAY

W-N-U-RELEASE

INSTALLMENT FOURTEEN THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterman, who has come to Honolulu to press her claims to the island estate of Alakoa, learns that she is not an heiress at all, as her grandfather, Garrett Waterman, is still alive and on his way to the island. She and Tonga Dick or Richard Wayne, a member of the Wayne family which has been in control of the property since her grandfather's disappearance, find they are in love and decide to leave the island of Alakoa together. Out at sea they quarrel and quarrel, Dick orders a return to Alakoa. Meanwhile a native house-girl who has stowed away aboard ship is seriously wounded by her native lover, who suspects her of being unfaithful. Karen accuses Dick of having made love to this girl, Lilia. Dick and Karen continue their quarrel and Dick tells her he has protected her in a serious situation.

Now continue with the story.

"Protected? What situations?" "What would have happened to your claim on Alakoa if you had been held on suspicion of murder?" Karen's astonished eyes jerked to his face. "Murder?" she gasped.

"What on earth are you talking about?" "What do you think my brothers would have done if they had found out that you were with James Wayne when he died?"

"But—but—" "Oh, I know you didn't mean to harm him. Even without the—call it excitement—of seeing you, I dare say he wouldn't have lasted another twenty-four hours. But you know how Willard and Ernest would have seized upon the fact that you were with him—and sought to conceal it. The investigation would have been an ugly and uncomfortable thing."

"I with him?" Karen repeated incredulously. "Why, Dick—" "You see," Dick said, "you're not honest with me even yet. Who did you think picked up the broken lei? Tsura? Dear God! I'll never smell ginger flowers again without remembering—"

"Lei? What lei?" "The lei I gave you, that I brought to your room, the night my uncle died. The lei that you wore when you went to see him. The lei that broke, and still lay scattered all over the floor when I found him sitting there, dead."

"You mean—you mean—you've thought all this time—" "I picked up the lei; I opened the windows, and let the wind sweep away the smell of ginger flowers, and said nothing. I even respected your own silence, and said nothing to you."

"I think," Karen said, "I could have forgiven anything in the world but that. This is too much, Dick." "You see," Dick said, "I believed in you—I believed in you as I haven't believed in anything since I can remember. God help me, I believe in you yet! But I can't any longer believe that you are for me."

"No," Karen said, her voice strange and shaky, "not for you. Never for you again."

"Against you never were!" "When you came for me, and I ran away with you, from the Seal, I belonged to you as much as I'll ever belong to anybody. More, perhaps. Even when you—when Lilia turned up in your cabin, in that savage, half-naked rig, I was disgusted and hurt, but I would have got over it, I think. Only—I didn't know you then."

"You think you know me now?" "As well as I ever care to, Dick."

When the Holokai was anchored again in Alakoa's little bay, Dick Wayne had Karen rowed back to the Seal, from which he had taken her such a little while before. They had been gone less than two hours, yet the circumstances under which he had brought her to the Holokai from the Seal seemed so far away that they might have existed in another world.

As she left the Holokai he offered her a steady hand, to help her into the small boat, but she stepped down lightly without his help, hardly glancing at him. They had nothing to say to each other as she left.

The Holokai's boat had hardly left her side when Alakoa's shore launch put out from the dock, bringing the doctor for whom Dick had radioed. The same Japanese physician who had attended James Wayne came aboard the Holokai briskly, looking as gravely worried as his round moon of a face would permit. Dick took him below at once.

Lilia was resting more quietly, now, under the detachedly watchful eyes of the Chinese mess boy and the Filipino cook.

"This girl has been stabbed," Dick told Dr. Shimazu shortly. "Very little has been done. Don't leave her until she can properly be moved."

The Japanese, evidently interested by the notion that Dick might have stabbed the girl himself, gave Dick Wayne a shrewd and curious look, but without learning anything; and Dick went on deck.

Garrett Waterman's vessel was standing in by now. Already the mournful blasts of her whistle were calling for a pilot. Dick Wayne dropped overside into the launch, drove it out of the bay in a short-cut through the boil of the breakers, and went aboard the Sarah. A stocky Norwegian with a curly brown beard—his name was Stahl-

"You see," Inyashi said, uneasy under Dick's stare, "if we send no pilot, Mr. Colt and Miss Waterman will have to stay here."

quint—met him at the rail, and paced beside Dick as he went to the wheel. "Might as well kick her on in," Stahlquist said gloomily. "The Old Man's in another fever siege; wouldn't know you probably, even if you could get him awake."

"How long's he sick?" "It comes off and on. You know how he is. He'll be all right when he wakes up. Probably be four or five hours; then he'll be himself for a while, and raising hell. I don't know what we're coming to."

Dick took the wheel, signaled his engines, and snaked the Sarah in through the coral. He anchored her between the Holokai and the Seal.

"You're in for it," Stahlquist encouraged him. "All the way up, the Old Man's been raving and cussing at you for putting out with the Holokai without no orders."

"When he wakes up," Dick said, "tell him to keep his shirt on. There isn't anything here to get in a hurry about; not now."

Dick Wayne went back to the Holokai. On her deck he stood for a few moments, looking across at the Seal, and fumbling in his pockets for his pipe, which had become mislaid. He was still standing there when Inyashi came trotting to him.

"How's the Hawaiian girl who was hurt?" Dick asked at once. "I think she is still—all right."

"Is she quiet now?" "Most of the time. When she is not quiet, she is calling for this Hokano. The doctor gave her a shot of something, I think."

"Have somebody cut Hokano's wrists and ankles loose and bring him to me."

"Captain, that is dangerous. That man will try to kill you, I think."

"Do as I say, anyway."

"Yes, sir." Then, as Inyashi started away, he faltered and turned back. "Captain Dick, while you were gone, the Seal sent to ask for a pilot three times. They want to go out now, they think."

"They want to go out? Why, then, John Colt must have gone aboard."

"Oh, yes, sir, half an hour ago. I thought you knew that."

"Well—did you give them somebody?" "No, Tonga."

"No?" "You see," Inyashi said, uneasy under Dick's stare, "if we send no pilot, Mr. Colt and Miss Waterman will have to stay here."

A whole lifetime spent in the Islands had never fully accustomed Dick to the manner in which everyone managed to know everyone else's business. Just now it unexpectedly appeared that Inyashi not only knew all the ramifications of Dick's affairs, but had his own conception of what was good for Dick.

"What Mr. Colt and Miss Waterman do is their own business," Dick said unappreciatively.

"There's still time to send them a pilot, Captain Dick. Either Menehune or Kamaku could pilot those shoals in their sleep. We can send them a man, if we want."

"Yes," Dick said, so uncertainly that it was Inyashi's turn to stare. "We can—if we want."

"If Ramey goes alone he will pile up his boat."

"Pile her up," Dick repeated dimly. "Yes, that is exactly what he will do. Well, maybe that would be the best thing. Maybe that would be the best thing for us all. There wouldn't be any danger to anybody, I wouldn't think."

"No danger," Inyashi agreed eagerly. "No danger at all. But I think Ramey will not try."

"It's Colt who is deciding what to do. And maybe what Colt does is being decided by—somebody else."

"Sometimes," Inyashi said cautiously, "what people do in a hurry, when they are mad, is a big mistake."

"Inyashi, are you arguing with me?" "Yes, sir."

"Well, get out of here, and do as you are told. Wait! Send a man ashore. Tell him to pass the word on the beach that I'll knock the head off the man who pilots the Seal at any price. Ramey will get no pilot from the Holokai—and, by God, we'll see that he gets none from Alakoa!"
