EASTER DANCE at Cortez Hall at St. Pat Alamo-Tularosa Orchestra Saturday, April 4

The Great American Doughboy Comes Into His Own

Like the ancient gladiator, who bared his breast to receive the blow in defense of his rights, the American soldier has performed the act time and again, but at the measly sum of $21.00 a month. The boys have never asked for double-time for over-hours. They have labored through snow, sleet, rain, mud, and privations of all sorts without a murmur of complaint—and after wars were over, they never bragged about it either. Now, we learn by radio and the newspaper that they are to receive $42.00 per month. That is, the bill for that amount to be paid to the boys, has already passed the House and presumably, it will pass the Senate. Let us be mindful of the fact that the boys have not asked for this increase, but the demand has come from "We, the People," the real government of the United States. Be it known now and let us hope, forever, that the government of this country is the People, while the administration at Washington is only an agent of the government. A great many well-meaning people have the wrong idea in this matter. The agent is supposed to act in accordance with the will of the disregarded, and when that will is disregarded, the government overthrows such acts and demands a retraction—as recent events have proven. So, as we have said, the government and not the administration, has brought about a proper recognition of the services of the great American soldier and has procured for him, a part at least, of what he justly deserves. Leandro Vega of the Vega Feed Store and Eusebio Baca of Roland's Drug Store were El Paso business visitors Monday. Stockman Harry Ryberg of the Ryberg ranch in the Corona locality was a business visitor Saturday. Juan Rubio, 78, a pioneer and old-time resident of Lincoln County, passed away at Santa Fe on March 24. Survivors are four children, one of whom is Mrs. Melvin Richardson of this place. Mayor Hall of Capitan visited relatives here this week. Quoting the Alamogordo News "Drive like hell — and you'll get there poco pronto." Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cox of Ft. Stanton visited relatives in town Saturday. Pat Murphy of the White & Murphy ranch near White Oaks was a business visitor here the first of the week.

Business Men's Club

The total attendance at the weekly meeting on Wednesday night at the S. P. Hotel numbered 20. Fifteen regular members answered roll call by G. H. Dorsett, who acted secretary in the absence of Sec. Briester, who is attending a school of instruction at Albuquerque in the Civilian Defense Service for Carrizozo. Club guests were Mrs. Gunther Kroggel, who sang two solos, with Mrs. Ben S. Burns at the piano. Mrs. Kroggel's selections were, "Pale Moon", and responding to an encore she sang "By the Waters of Minnetonka." This feature for the entertainment of the club was much appreciated and the ladies received the thanks of the club. Jack O'Malley had for his guest, James Walker, station agent for the S. P. at Capitan. Mrs. H. C. Langston of Taos, mother of Mrs. Kroggel, was a guest of the President and G. W. Chapman, Boy Scout, was the guest of acting secretary Dorsett. L. A. Whitaker brought the matter of the Rationing Board of which he is a member, and reported that the Board was without funds with which to purchase stationery, stamps, etc., and the club donated the sum of $5.00 and Mayor Finley guaranteed the same amount toward the same. The club also donated the sum of $5.00 to the expenses of Sec. Briester at training school. County Clerk Felix Ramsey reported on the sale of defense bonds and stamps and also reported that there would soon be a drive for pledges of what amounts could be bought and that those making those pledges would have stickers placed in their windows to show who had made the pledges. Good-natured discussions were had on several matters of importance, which brought out better understandings, as discussions generally do. A strong community spirit was made manifest in the exchange of opinions by club members. G. H. Dorsett, Acting Sec. Mr. and Mrs. George Goodson of Ancho were visitors here this Wednesday. Mrs. L. T. Bacot is here this week from Douglas, Ark., visiting her mother: Mrs. Anna Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Esker, Mrs. Harry Edmiston, and grandmother Mrs. Alice Roberts. Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Just Plain Facts

It WILL be well remembered that about two years ago (or was it longer?) that the President appointed Martin Dies as Chairman of a committee to unearth and expose un-American activities in this country. After that committee got down to work, it gave numerous reports of un-American activities, so thick and fast that there was strong talk in the Cabinet of discontinuing the Committee — why? Was not that organization working in conjunction with the FBI, doing its supreme duty? The committee reported that principal government offices in Washington were full of Communists, but to all such reports no heed was paid. The Dies committee aided by the FBI, gave other reports of such activities, but still no action — they got the "horse laugh." Now comes that same committee with a report that in the National Economic Welfare Board, there are 85 communists, all of whom are actively engaged in un-American activities while drawing huge salaries from the people's money. In answer to that report, comes Vice-President Wallace, who complains that such a report will have an evil effect on the morale of the people. He further said that Mr. Dies' allegations would "raise doubt and anger in the minds of the people and such charges might well come from statements of Goebbels himself. More than this, Mr. Wallace said, "The effect on our morale would be less damaging if it came from Hitler, and if Dies were on Hitler's payroll." In a well-aimed editorial Tuesday morning, the El Paso Times, (Democratic) says: "It may be assumed that Mr. Dies has proof that the 35 men, whose names were not given in press dispatches, formerly were affiliated with Communist front organizations. If what he said is true, those men should resign or be dismissed from their positions. Knowledge by the public that men of their caliber are in places of trust in our Government is damaging to morale because every American has a right to insist that his officials be above question." Whither are we drifting? Mr. and Mrs. Allen Balow of Onconia, Minn., arrived here Tuesday night and stopped over with Mr. Balow's brother, Bill and wife at Ancho. Allen is Bill's youngest brother.

Everybody Lends Hand to Defense of Australia

There is no city in Australia that can quietly sit back with the assurance that it will not be bombed by Japs. In the picture at the left, Melbourne city employees are doing their Australia-day task, erecting an ARP sandbag barricade outside of their working premises. Mississippi Digs Out of Tornado's Wreckage Homes were leveled and rolled together as so much paper by a tornado which swept through Mississippi and laid low farm buildings and towns in its wake. Lower picture was taken at Grenada, Miss. The wind that caused this damage just missed a hospital which stood near by. Note the spectators, standing about in dazed wonder.

THE STUDY OF A MINUTE MAN

The Minute Man came into being at Concord and Lexington. He was so called because the question of hours didn't bother him when trying to win a war.

With him a minute was 60 seconds and even if it ran into 62 he didn't demand overtime.

When his country wanted him, a minute's notice was plenty.

He was so loyal he would even take your version of what time it was.

The Minute Man was a Minute Man and never a Four-Minute Egg. He realized that a minute is a long time when somebody's life is at stake.

He knew a minute was 60 seconds and not subject to change without notice. He knew there were 60 minutes in an hour but he acted as diligently as if he were afraid there might be only 59.

He stood ready to fight at a minute's notice but didn't squawk if he got only 30 seconds.

He never put off till the morrow the bull's-eye he could make today.

He never heard of the word complacency, but if it had been explained to him he would have thought himself guilty if he had stopped to look around between shots.

His slogan was, "Don't shoot till you see the whites of their eyes!" but he gets 'em now when he senses the black of their hearts.

When life and liberty were involved he knew no form of compromise that didn't depend on marksmanship. The Minute Man hadn't even a half second for an appeaser.

He was no luxury hound even when the going was good, and when the going was tough he thought he was well fixed if he had a fair supply of dry powder and bullets.

He never left to any committee, agency or board anything he could do himself.

He never confused an attack with an appropriation.

To a Minute Man every minute counted in the job of licking the foe and he never argued over hours.

He didn't worry about the peace until he had won the fight.

It never entered his head that he could do his duty in a free-for-all fight by buying some stamps, appearing at a benefit or offering to spend two hours on a roof every other week, unless he was over 60. Nothing would have disturbed him less than a reduction in luxury transportation, less rubber in his suspenders and a room in which the temperature got below 70.

He knew all the Indians were in the woods and not in his legislative bodies. He was brave and rugged but he thought one war at a time was enough.

He never called his fight a "defense" effort and was always out to lick the fellow who started the trouble.

He didn't need long and frequent speeches to make him understand he was in a battle.

In his most desperate minutes the Minute Man never gave any part of a minute to worrying about his morale. It would have taken too many hours.

The Minute Man was an all-year-round man every second.

NO DETOURS
I cannot buy a radio,
I've got to scrimp on gas,
My tires they are going fast,
I'm low on oil, alas!

I'm running low on beer (canned)—
Of sugar I am short;
If I should get a new sedan
I'd finish in a court.

No longer can I buy a gun—
There is a ban on rope;
The more I think of it I know
That Sherman had the dope!

Trooper Par Excellence

RECENTLY a war department communique reported: "Several of the specially built barges which the Japanese used in attempted landings on the west coast of Bataan have been captured. In them were lifesaving and other equipment marked 'United States Army Transport Merritt.' This equipment was part of the relief supplies given to Japan by the United States after the disastrous earthquake in 1923."

This was brought back into the news for a day the almost-forgotten name of a man who had one of the most unusual careers in the history of the American army—Gen. Wesley Merritt. Born in New York June 16, 1836, Merritt was graduated from West Point in 1860 and by the time the war between the states ended, he was a major-general of volunteers and brevet-major-general in the regulars.

Later, when he was sent West for frontier duty, he added to his Civil war laurels by becoming one of the greatest leaders of Uncle Sam's hard-riding, hard-fighting horsemen in their innumerable campaigns against the Indians. Two of Merritt's "endurance rides" are classics in the history of the old army.

In 1876 he was appointed colonel of the Fifth cavalry which was sent to join General Crook's expedition against the hostile Sioux and Cheyennes in Wyoming. On July 15, while the regiment was camped on the Fort Laramie trail at Rawhide creek, word came from the Red Cloud agency in Nebraska that 800 Cheyenne braves had jumped the reservation.

Merritt was confronted with a difficult decision. If he continued his march to Fort Laramie, as he had been ordered to do, this force would join the hosts of Sitting Bull and Crazy Horse and Crook might suffer the fate that had befallen General Custer on the Little Big Horn three weeks earlier. If he marched toward the reservation, 65 miles away, it would simply hasten the Indians' departure. There was but one thing to do—throw his force across their path and drive them back.

The leader of the "Fighting Fifth" set out immediately for the point where the great Indian trail from Red Cloud crossed War Bonnet creek—85 miles away. With only brief halts to water their horses and snatch a bite to eat, Merritt's dusty troopers pushed on and within 31 hours had reached their objective ahead of the enemy. Moreover, every man and every horse was fresh and fit for a fight. When the Indians appeared the next morning there was a sharp skirmish which sent the Cheyennes scurrying back to the reservation.

Three years later Merritt led the Fifth on another historic "endurance ride." He was stationed at Fort D. A. Russell in Wyoming when word came that the Utes in northwestern Colorado had gone on the warpath, killed their agent, ambushed and were besieging a force of five troops of the Fifth led against them by Captain Payne. Again Merritt acted quickly. Within an hour four troops of the Fifth were speeding over the railroad toward Rawlins, where they detoured and set out to rescue their comrades 170 miles away. That was at noon on October 2, 1879. At dawn on October 5 Payne's beleaguered troopers heard a sound that was music to their ears. It was a bugle call that told them help had arrived. In less than 65 hours Merritt had led his men over 170 miles of the most difficult mountain trails on the continent with only three men dismounted on account of exhausted horses.

After the close of the Indian wars, Merritt was appointed superintendent of West Point and served there from 1882 to 1887. Promoted to brigadier-general in the army in the latter year, he was advanced to major-general in 1895. At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war he was sent to the Philippine Islands to command the American forces there and made an outstanding record during that brief conflict. He remained on duty as commander of the department of the east until his retirement from the service in 1900. He died on December 3, 1910.

Paid for Philippines

At the close of the War with Spain the United States agreed to pay Spain $20,000,000 for the Philippine islands, Puerto Rico, Guam and Cuba, which was to be independent of Spain, although the United States did not actually take over Cuba, says Pathfinder. The terms were agreed upon under the treaty with Spain signed in Paris December 10, 1898, and ratified by the senate February 6, 1899, at which time the United States agreed to pay the sum within three months' time.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well 24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Household Hints

When you have many children's clothes to make, you can save time and effort if you use a sort of factory method. Cut out three or four dresses at a time (using different materials if you like). You can finish them in a variety of ways.

Disconnect electric iron as soon as you have finished with it, thus preventing fires and the burning out of iron.

Rusty or dusty furnace pipes lose heat more quickly than pipes which have been painted with aluminum of other paints.

When choosing pot holders have them large enough to protect the hands and get flexible ones that will fit around a utensil easily. Hang them near the stove or keep them in a drawer near it. Of course they should be of washable material.

Use your vacuum cleaner on your draperies and slip covers before laundering them; it will make for less washing and rinsing and thus save wear on the articles.

Be sure to leave sufficient space between the walls of the refrigerator and between the dishes on the shelves to allow free circulation of cold air. It is the continual circulation of cold air through an electric refrigerator that preserves your food.

STOMACH COMFORT

Relief at last from that gurgling, smothering feeling in the stomach, when caused by excess acid from food fermentation or nervous excitement. Try ADLA Tablets. Contains Elixanth and Carbonates for QUICK relief. Your druggist has ADLA Tablets.

DEEP WATER ISLAND
 by ALAN LEMAY

INSTALLMENT EIGHTEEN
THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Watson, believing herself to be the heir to Alaska, the island estate of her grandfather, finds herself no heiress at all when the old gentleman, Garrett Watson, turns up after a long disappearance. Meantime she and her lawyer have been engaged in a dispute over the rights to the property with the Wayne family who have been in possession since the old man left, many years before. Richard (Tonga Dick) Wayne has fallen in love with Karen, as has also the lawyer, John Colt. Karen and Dick quarrel and after she leaves Alaska, with Colt, Dick overtakes them and forces their boat to return. Garrett Watson has arrived and is very ill. Karen nurses him back to health, but she and Dick have never become reconciled since their quarrel. One day Karen's grandfather tells Dick that Karen is going back to Honolulu, possibly to marry Colt. Dick asks him what he thinks of that.

New continue with the story.

"Colt isn't just what I would have picked. I certainly wouldn't want to marry him myself," said Watson. With an effort Dick rallied. "I don't see why not," he said. "I think you'd make a lovely bride." "I suppose he'll do well enough by her," Watson said gloomily. "It's his stamp of crocodile that generally gets ahead. Of course, his infernal impudence made me kind of mad; but I was kind of tickled at him, after I thought it over. You have to kind of admire a man with as much brass as that."

There was a long silence, and Dick was thinking of a lot of things of which he would not have wished to speak. "That girl is a wonderful girl," Watson said. "So long as I ever have one dime that will do the work of a nickel, that girl is never going to be in want. She's something pretty special, Dick—sweet, and gentle, and loyal, and..."

Dick broke it up. "When do I sail for Nuku Hiva?" "What's the matter with tomorrow?" "The Holokai's full of oil. I guess tomorrow will be all right."

CHAPTER XVI

With his crew rounded up and fresh water aboard the Holokai, Dick Wayne went ashore to phone Honolulu by wireless. He did not suppose that his brothers would want him to mix in any more than they could help; but it seemed only decent to ask what the situation was, before he left Alakoa on a voyage that would keep him away for a matter of weeks. James Wayne's estate, embracing all of Alakoa, was hanging fire, and he supposed he owed it to them to tell them where he was going.

He sat at James Wayne's old desk, up above in the house that Garrett Watson himself had built, and fiddled with the phone for the better part of half an hour before he got a connection which would do. It was Charles Wong whom he reached at last.

Charles Wong, it turned out, was dithering in a state of mental confusion and disorder.

"I—I've been trying to reach you for two days," Wong chattered. "I was about to come to Alakoa. Everything is terribly upset—it's absolutely necessary that you come here."

"What's the matter now?" "Your brothers are absolutely unable to reconcile themselves to the will. If they cannot reach an agreement with you, I am almost certain that they will try to break it. You had better come here and talk to them as soon as possible. The disturbance is unimaginable, but Alakoa is going to suffer if—"

"What was the matter with the will?" "Oh nothing, sir, nothing! But naturally your brothers are very much surprised. Certainly you must have anticipated that they would—"

"I don't even know what was in the will," Tonga Dick told him. "Why—why—you haven't heard?" "I haven't talked to Honolulu since my brothers left here."

A considerable hesitation, decorated with unrecognizable spluttering noises, represented Charles Wong's dumbfoundment. "The will gives you the controlling interest in Alakoa," Wong finally managed to get out.

"Who—me?" Dick said stupidly. "Yes, sir. There are certain special provisions that seem intended to give your brothers a practically equal income; but you are given a fifty-one per cent interest, and absolute management of everything."

"I'm supposed to run the whole cockeyed thing?" "You control it, yes, sir. The cattle production, and the plantations, and the mills—everything."

There was much more to it, and a good deal of it Dick was unable to understand from Charles Wong's disorganized explanations. Dick supposed that he could not expect to understand James Wayne's dispensations in detail until he had had a thorough consultation with a whole board of attorneys. But the main intent was clear. James Wayne had put Tonga Dick in control of Alakoa.

"But I think your brothers are going to try to break the will," Charles Wong flashed. "They aren't going to break anything," Dick answered.

Karen Watson was waiting aboard the Holokai when Dick finally went aboard.

"No, sir—my personal belief is that it really cannot be done."

After that it was still necessary for Tonga Dick to explain to Charles Wong that he could not come to Honolulu yet—that he was going to Nuku Hiva. A good deal of expostulation attended that, but Wong could not persuade Tonga Dick to change his mind.

"This thing will be in probate a couple of years yet," Dick concluded. "Two or three weeks isn't going to make any difference."

After he had hung up the phone he sat for some time with his elbows on James Wayne's desk. It was very difficult for him to comprehend the full meaning of what had happened. He was convinced that no ability of his own had decided James Wayne; it must have been simply that no one could have known his brothers well without recognizing that they were futile and indecisive men.

It was strange to think that this desk where James Wayne had sat so many years was now his own; that he was supposed to sit there, and so manage James Wayne's conceptions of Alakoa that they should be brought to ultimate fruition. Plenty of exploitationists beside John Colt would be waiting to swallow Alakoa up if he should fail, and he did not believe that any of them could be expected to do well by Alakoa. It made him feel undersized, and unready; but he could not imagine failure—not in the long run.

Presently he took up the phone again, and began trying to reach various people in Honolulu—lawyers mostly. The Holokai was waiting, ready to sail, but she had to wait. Most of the day was gone before he had made sure that he really dared take the time to sail to Nuku Hiva, as he had promised Garrett Watson to do.

Karen Watson was waiting aboard the Holokai when Dick finally went aboard. His astonishment at finding her there was so complete that at first he did not know what to say to her.

"My grandfather tells me," Karen said, "that you are sailing almost any hour now."

"I have to go to Nuku Hiva for him."

"I know; I have learned quite a bit about island affairs while he's been sick. You'd be surprised how much I know about how things are done in the South Seas."

He still didn't know why she had come aboard the Holokai, but he didn't want to ask.

"Looks like good weather," he offered. "The Holokai ought to make good time."

"I hope you have a dandy trip." "Thanks."

"But weren't you intending to touch at Honolulu, before you sail south?" He started to tell her that he was not, but checked himself. "Why do you ask?"

"I was hoping you'd give me a lift. My grandfather will get along very nicely now, I think. Of course, he'd be glad to take me to Honolulu on the Sarah; but he ought not to go to sea for another ten days yet, and he simply won't go ashore. And I think—I would like to get away."

He knew that one of Alakoa's little cattle boats could give her passage to Honolulu in a day or two; but she didn't seem to know this, and he decided not to mention it.

"Of course I'll be glad to take you to Honolulu!" She smiled a little. "I knew you would. In fact, I even had my baggage put in the cabin." That, too, somewhat surprised him, but he only said, "We'll weigh anchor soon."

By the time they were well out beyond the coral, Dick was trying to think of a plausible excuse for waking her up. He rigged a tray with a fish sandwich, a stalk of celery, a whisky soda, a glass of iced coffee, and a cup of tea, and carried it back to her bunk. Karen had to smile when he roused her to offer the silly assortment. It seemed to him that she looked astonishingly bright and fresh for someone so much in need of sleep.

"I didn't really think you'd want any of this junk," he admitted. "I want to talk to you, Karen."

"That's really a very attractive tray," Karen said. "I don't see how anyone could resist it. I think I would like a dry Martini."

"Go to thunder," said Tonga Dick. "Listen—I want to tell you something."

"Well?" "You remember the night when I boarded the Seal, and made you come back to Alakoa?"

"Could I ever forget it? You were extremely piratical, and unpleasant. I could have killed you."

"I didn't know then that you were running off to Honolulu to marry John Colt. But I was afraid you were. I didn't really think that it would do your precious grandfather any good to bring you back; I was pretty sure he wouldn't even recognize you. And I know it's none of my business who you marry. But sometimes when people do something in a hurry it turns out to be a mistake."

"Interference with other people's affairs is usually a mistake." "That's not what I meant. I'm not sorry I turned the Seal. As it turned out, it actually did pull old Garrett Watson through, I think."

"For heaven's sake, sit down," said Karen. "You make me nervous, swaying around like that."

Dick sat down on the edge of the bunk. "There's still plenty of time for you to marry John Colt."

"You may as well know," Karen said, "that I'm not going to marry John Colt."

"But you were going to, weren't you?"

"Yes; I was going to. I was hurt, and angry, and disgusted with the whole thing. I wanted to get away from Alakoa and everything about it. To marry John seemed a quick and complete escape. But I'm glad now that you turned the Seal."

He studied her carefully to see if she meant for him to draw encouragement from that, but decided that she did not. Karen seemed immensely detached.

"My grandfather thinks that he sent Colt back to Honolulu," Karen went on, "but he did not. I was the one who sent him back. The raid on Alakoa is over, Dick."

"I should imagine," Dick said ironically, "that you'll have another chance at it later. Garrett Watson isn't going to live forever."

Karen flushed faintly. "I wish you wouldn't talk like that."

"When Garrett Watson is dead," Dick pointed out, "your case will be as good as ever."

"I wouldn't be interested," Karen said. "I see things differently now. When John Colt first worked out our plan for claiming Alakoa, it seemed daring and romantic—very adventurous, and all that sort of silliness. But that was when Garrett Watson was just a forgotten name. He's real now, and I know him, and I like him. And he is my own grandfather. I wouldn't be able now to try to discredit his name."

"That's the way you feel now. Two weeks ago you felt differently, and in two weeks more you'll probably feel differently again."

"I thought you might be afraid of that," Karen said. "But you don't need to be—not any more. I have a present for you, Dick."

She hunted around for her handbag, found it, and produced a piece of paper. "This is for you."

He unfolded the sheet and glanced at it. It was closely written in Karen's own hand; at the bottom was the huge scrawling signature of Garrett Watson, witnessed by Stahlquist and Karen Watson herself.

BANKS AND THE WAR

Why Banks Sell Defense Bonds Without Compensation of Profit

Do you realize that for the billions of dollars of Defense Bonds sold by banks not one cent of compensation has been paid to them? Banks have spent large sums to advertise and sell the Bonds. Yet they receive no fees no commissions. That is as it should be. That is how the banks WANT IT. Banks place their country's interest FIRST. They do not wish to be paid for rendering a service which every loyal banker deems a patriotic duty and a privilege. We urge you to buy Bonds.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

McNutt Lashes 'Disciples of Despair,' Calls for All-Out Attack on Tokyo; Pan-American Solidarity Increases; R.A.F. Reverses Tide in Malta Battle

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

LABOR:

Picture Complicated

The labor situation, in the other big battle which had centered in Washington, the fight over whether the 40-hour week should be retained or not, had complicated the New Deal picture tremendously.

On the one hand Secretary of Labor Perkins and the White House itself had been found apparently unwilling to scrap the 40-hour week, while Thurman Arnold, of the attorney general's staff, had issued the most bitter statement against labor unions as obstructing the war effort that had come out of Washington since the New Deal started.

Now, the unions were wholeheartedly against the move to end the 40-hour week, claiming that the only benefit their workers had from it was the extra half-time pay for the usual eight hours of overtime weekly, while business already was being accused of getting huge profits for its share of the war-time boom in industrial activity.

Congressional leaders were found urging, against business, that all profits over 6 per cent be recaptured for the government, and at the same time highly divided over the 40-hour week.

Tremendous mail was being received on the subject, convincing many congressmen that a definite nationwide campaign to have the 40-hour week thrown out was in progress.

One official high in the War Production board stated that the 40-hour week through overtime payments was adding 8 per cent to the cost of all war contracts.

'ATTACK TOKYO'

Pleads McNutt

Lashing out at "disciples of despair," Paul V. McNutt, social security administrator, had urged an "attack on Tokyo" as the "real defense of America."

He said: "America's defense does not begin at wading depth on Coney Island, nor on the sun-drenched sands of San Diego.

"America's defense begins with the attack on Tokyo. It is when flames roar through Yokohama

PAUL V. McNUTT

"More leathernecks, fewer bottlenecks," and the factories of the Ruhr are blasted and broken that Wichita, Kansas City and Omaha will be secure.

"The leathernecks of Wake Island taught the Japs what it costs to lick only a few hundred marines. What this nation needs is more leathernecks and fewer bottlenecks."

BRITISH:

Gain Air Strength

The report of a British-German air fight around Malta, where the British had been taking a beating since the war began without giving in, had been a signal for the fact that the British R.A.F. had been steadily gaining strength.

In this assault, British Hurricane fighters and anti-aircraft gunnery had brought down 13 bombers and two fighters in a 24-hour assault on the island, the biggest bag in the war so far.

Most significant was the fact that the "ack-ack boys," the gunners on the island, were credited with knocking the two fighters and 8 of the 13 bombers out of the air.

The other four planes shot down were fighter-bombers, similar in plan to our "medium attack bombers," and they were all bagged by the R.A.F. fighting squadron.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

New York: One of the most definite reports of the sinking of a U-boat off the coast was reported by General Drum, who said that a patrol bomber returning after a photographic mission had seen a submarine, had dropped four depth bombs and that the oil and debris which littered the sea made it definite that the submarine had been sunk.

LATIN-AMERICA:

Grows More Solid

Historians, pointing to the fact that 21 Latin-American nations either have declared war or have broken relations with the Axis, as compared with 13 in the last war, had expressed the belief that Chile would be the next one in, and that Pan-American solidarity was on the increase, boding well for hemispheric unity in the post-war period.

However, as President-elect Juan Rios had reached the threshold of this office following the election, Adolf Hitler had cabled him expressing the hope that "German relations with Chile might become even closer."

Chile and Argentina, at this point had remained the only two still maintaining relations with the Axis. Hitler was quoted as saying:

I take this opportunity to express the desire that the relations of sincere friendship between Germany and the Republic of Chile will be

PRESIDENT-ELECT JUAN RIOS

Relations with Germany strained, preserved during your term as president, and if possible, become even closer."

Yet, by contrasts, most Latin-American observers took this as a hint that relations were on the point of being broken.

JAPS:

Warn Aussies

The Japanese, apparently trying to undermine Australian confidence and trying to build up a lack of unity within the continent, were putting out "warnings to Australians" before they had tried a landing.

The grim determination of the Australians to defend their country, plus the appointment of Gen. Douglas MacArthur to the supreme command, was ample assurance that Japanese propaganda would fall on barren soil.

As the invaders of New Guinea were moving across the difficult and almost impassable terrain between Salamaua and Lae and Port Moresby on the southern coast, with prospect of a bitter battle at the end, they issued the following warning:

"Australia stands at the crossroads. She must choose between freedom and the fate of the Dutch East Indies.

"Japan has no territorial aspirations, and wants Australia to become a partner in the eastern Asiatic prosperity realm.

"Australia, with a population of only 7,000,000 cannot defend her long eastern coastline.

"The countries, Japan and Australia, economically supplement each other. One way leads to the end of Australia's existence and the other to wealth and peace," said the Japanese.

At the same time the Japs showed evidence of being jittery over possible attacks by American planes from Alaska via the Aleutians, Adm. Koyazo Nakamura having told the Japanese people in a broadcast:

"Fears that the United States in the spring will embark on surprise attacks on Japan by submarines and aircraft are unnecessary. "The Americans have no adequate base."

European centers had placed little importance on the signing in Moscow of a renewal of the pact between Japan and Russia on the subject of fishing rights off the Siberian coast.

Refusal of Russia to have signed would have been viewed as a practical declaration of war. But few European observers took the signing of the pact, in existence for many years, as any special sign of friendliness.

VATICAN: And Neutrality

ARCHBISHOP SPELLMAN

"The church is against atrocities."

The sending of a Japanese mission to the Vatican in Rome and its acceptance by the pope had brought statements from Washington and London that the Allies "had directed the attention of the pope to the unfortunate effects of allowing Japan to establish a mission at the Holy See.

While there was no direct answer to these representations from Pope Pius himself, the pontiff's close friend and American spokesman, Archbishop Spellman of New York, said:

"Leaders of nations who have tried to influence the Holy Father on one side or the other in this conflict must understand that the Holy Father has to be impartial.

"While there can be no neutrality between right and wrong, and the church is against atrocities, the Holy See must keep in contact with and aid the Catholics of every nation.

"The Holy See must accept the envoys who choose to make these contacts."

SUGAR:

A Week of None

The announcement that there would be a week of no sugar sales decreed by the government for the week of April 27, came when sugar rationing, ban on sales of new automobiles, and demands that auto graveyards give up their dead were holding the economic spotlight.

The East was having gasoline shut-down, with rationing in prospect throughout this territory, perhaps also in the Pacific Northwest.

Washington told the people of 7,000,000 tons of sugar having been withdrawn from the market by hoarders, and told of plans to make sugar hoarders give up their supplies to the retail stores, selling them back at retail prices.

A campaign had been started to force used-car lot junkmen to "turn over" their cars every 60 days or face the penalty of having the rusty metal requisitioned by the government.

In one eastern state of average size, it was said, the junkyards had 14,000 cars, enough metal to make 2,300,000 three-inch shells; 9,000 75-mm. howitzers or 6,000 anti-aircraft guns.

TRAINING PROGRAMS:

For Army Forces

War Secretary Stimson has announced that 100,000 men and women will be trained for civilian jobs—including overhaul and repair mechanics, production workers, inspectors at government factories, depots and arsenals—in government and private-owned schools and rented facilities of private technical schools. Eligible men must be outside the age and other selective service requirements. Students will be paid $900 to $1,400 a year in training. Courses vary from 15 weeks to four months. Applications may be made to any civil service commission local office.

The Army institute has been established at Madison, Wis., to provide for enlisted men with at least four months active service, correspondence study in more than 65 courses in English, social studies, mathematics, science, business and engineering at a cost of two dollars a course.

Army Ground Forces Commander McNair announced selection of a site "west of the Colorado river" for large-scale troop training in modern desert warfare, part of a program to develop task forces for mountain, airborne and armored warfare and for joint ground operations. The department said the replacement and school command will open headquarters at Birmingham, Ala., and the anti-aircraft command at Richmond, Va., before April 1. The former will include 14 schools and replacement centers, including officer candidate schools. A military police replacement training center will be established at Fort Riley, Kan., about April 5, to accommodate 1,800 trainees from all sections of the country. Mr. Stimson said the R.O.T.C. program will be maintained in colleges, but the army cannot supply material and personnel to provide pre-induction training at such institutions.

ATLANTIC:

Sinkings continued at a rapid pace along the Atlantic seaboard, though there were not so many on the regular sea-lanes carrying commerce between Britain and the U. S.

Yet there were favorable signs, and measures were being taken to make the lot of the submarine harder, and to cut down sinkings.

One of these was the dim-out or black-out of lights of cities and resorts along the coast, particularly along sea-lanes frequented by coastwise vessels.

Speaking Sports

by Bob McShane

LARRY MacPHAIL, that charming citizen from Brooklyn, declares that in his considered opinion the Brooklyn Dodgers will repeat their National league victory of last year.

Neither MacPhail, president of the Dodgers, nor Manager Leo (The Lip) Durocher, can see how the Cardinals and Reds, their main competition, have improved over 1941. It is true that the Giants also have been mentioned in some quarters as a greatly improved ball club, but Brooklyn disregards this vague, unsubstantiated rumor.

MacPhail shyly admits that the Dodgers have improved in two ways—both of major importance. First, he says, the team is in the best possible physical condition. Every player has taken full advantage of the annual spring tune-up. Second, the team's spirit has soared to a new high. The latter improvement, according to President MacPhail, is the result of the drive down the stretch last fall. In an oratorical flight he stated that the pennant race gave the Dodgers a "new baseball soul. It brought them together. They are now all for one and one for all."

He admits that the Cardinals and the Reds won't be a soft touch, but figures they won't score enough runs to threaten the Dodgers. He called attention to the Cardinal infield and pointed out that Johnny Hopp's hitting dwindled to almost nothing at the end of last year. He also shrugged off Lon Warneke's pitching.

In fact, Larry has several criticisms to offer regarding the other clubs of the senior circuit. Most of them, sadly enough, have a basis in fact. The Giants haven't a great deal of pitching strength, as he points out. Nevertheless, quite a few of the experts have picked Mel Ott's boys either to finish fourth in the first division or to crowd out the Dodgers, Cardinals or Reds from the 1-2-3 spots which have been tentatively assigned to them.

The Cubs are likely to show considerable improvement with better pitching and a more seasoned infield. Their hitting is the big question mark. Should Lou Novikoff come through, the Cubs may prove extremely dangerous before the season ends. MacPhail pointed out that Lou will have to smash quite a number of fences to make up for his weaknesses in other ways. "And," he remembered happily, "he wrecked very few fences last year in the National league."

MacPhail's purchase of Catcher Billy Sullivan from the Detroit Tigers did much to strengthen the boys from Brooklyn. In addition to being a good catcher and a good left-handed hitter, Sullivan is a competent third baseman and first baseman. Actually Sullivan's addition gives Brooklyn emergency strength at four positions, behind the plate and at first, short and third. Should anything happen to Pee Wee Reese, the shortstop, it would not be difficult to shift Arky Vaughn to Reese's post and use Sullivan as the third baseman.

Sullivan, who was 32 last October, has been in organized baseball since 1931. He went to the White Sox as a third baseman right out of college. He batted .275 his first year. In 93 games at first and third in 1932 he hit .317. He had a bad year in 1933 and was sent to Milwaukee. He went to the Reds in 1936 and was sold to the Indians in 1936, when he had his best season, batting .351.

Mickey Owen will handle the regular receiving chores, of course, but Durocher doesn't want him to catch as many as 125 games again this year. Owen was fired out at the end of last season.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. You face a pretty fair jump from one of the favorite habitats of racing dogs to the Kentucky Derby. But long distance calls from Tropical Park across the Everglades indicate that well-known forecasters are both busy and dizzy on the winter Derby book. I mean the new one.

They tell me the main thorn in their prognosticating sides is a horse called Alsab. Eight weeks ago this wonder as a two-year-old was far in front of the field. Then things began to happen—as they usually do when two-year-olds become three-year-olds. Alsab had his cars plumed back three times running and the first book blew up with a noisy crash.

"Before the Widener," one of the leading bookies phoned, "I had Requested and the Calumet stable on top around 6 to 1. Alsab looked to be a dead fish. But the race he ran in the Widener has upset things again. I wish that horse would settle down to one form or another.

"He looked to be a tired, overworked, worn-out horse in his first three starts. He was thin and nervous. He had lost his old speed. But when he moved up head and head with Best Seller and The Rhymer in the big race far down the stretch he was a different horse again. He is still the big guess of the Derby field."

Favored Selections.

Ben Whitaker's Requested and Warren Wright's Calumet entry will remain the favored selections. Neither may be as good as Alsab on Derby day, but Alsab is still too much of a guess and a gamble.

Requested has improved more than a mere bit. And Ben Jones will have more than one good horse ready when the big race is run.

Before I left California Trainer Jones told me that he might "have as" many as four horses on hand for the next Derby.

"I'm counting more on Sun Again and Some Chance," he said, "but I may have two others almost as good. Derby day is still a long way off as far as a thoroughbred is concerned, but we ought to have something left from the group."

At that time both Sun Again and Some Chance looked fit enough to run with any three-year-olds around the map.

The wrecking upset that took place in the recent $53,000 Widener now has the players in this tropical domain looking for some longer Derby prizes. The mere sight of a favorite has become obnoxious, not to say repellent.

Florida favorites have been running like 20 to 1 shots, only not quite so fast. For example, neither The Rhymer's trainer nor jockey thought this horse had even an outside chance. And when the crowd saw all the favorites far back most of them wondered why they still had dished out so much cash on the top choices, after what had been happening all spring.

Badly Overworked

Alsab will have fresh backing in the new book, and at better odds. This horse proved he could run against older rivals last week. There isn't any question that he has been badly overworked. If he hasn't been, then practically every trainer in Florida is wrong.

But the Derby is nearly six weeks away. And Alsab may get enough rest in that time to recover a good part of his 1942 form. He was the best horse in the Widener for a mile and an eighth, and started to fade only in the last 80 yards.

Ben Whitaker said a year ago that Requested was the best horse he had ever owned.

Better Than the Candidate Spoke Direct From Heart

When Bill O'Dwyer was running for district attorney in Brooklyn he usually appeared on the platform with a piece of paper in his hand ostensibly covered with notes of the address he was about to make. He would look around the audience, say "Hello, Joe," to one listener, "Howya, Harry," to another. Then he'd smile and tell the audience: "I didn't know I would have so many friends here tonight. I don't need notes to talk to you people," and he'd throw away the paper. "To you I'll speak from here," indicating his heart.

A curious reporter one night picked up the discarded paper. It was an old laundry bill.

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

TAXICAB business boomed recently at one of Hollywood's major studios, unaffected by the rubber shortage. Richard Carlson and Martha O'Driscoll drove off in one to be married, with Cecil Kellaway at the wheel. That was in New York. Then Burgess Meredith and Louise Platt rode to a railway station in Newark, N. J., in the same cab. Finally Allan Ladd and Bette Davis took the same cab to Brian Donley's home in a Middle Western city. Same cab—mounted on a fixed platform, never turning a wheel; it had no wheels!

In case you're interested, the pictures for which that taxi worked so hard and so faithfully are "My Heart Belongs to Daddy," "Street of Chance," that being the new title for "The Black Curtain," and "The Glass Key."

Almost ten years ago Red Skelton played his first vaudeville act in Wooster, Mass. June Earle danced and played "straight man" for him. Tommy Mac was also in the act.

RED SKELTON

Now they're together in the new "Maizie" film, June and Mac doing the same skits they did then, and Red Skelton—or so he insists—telling the same jokes he told then. But he's now earning more than $7 a week for doing it!

Basil Rathbone has a new contract (with Metro, this time) but he'll continue being a villain. In "Crossroads," with William Powell and Hedy Lamarr, he holds the key to Powell's past, Powell being a French diplomat branded as a former underworld character.

Jean Atkinson, stand-in for Madeline Carroll for the last six years, has been called Hollywood's composite woman; she's been stand-in for Fay Wray, Vivien Leigh, Frances Farmer, Claire Trevor and many others, "because she looks like many actresses rolled into one." She's been a stand-in for ten years, and says that she has no ambitions to be an actress.

William Powell took time off from his work to give a farewell party for Richard Barthelmess, before the latter left for Norfolk, Va., to serve as a naval lieutenant. Years ago—long before they knew their present wives—those two and Ronald Colman were bosom companions.

With practically all of Hollywood doing some kind of war work, (and really doing it, too; no fooling) Hedy Lamarr got busy right on her own home grounds, when she saved her hairdresser, Eadie Hubner, from serious burns from an exploding gas stove.

Bob Hawk's having to do a lot of explaining. He decided to invest in a restaurant. Found one, signed a lease, and the sign painter went to work. The place was to be called "The Griddle"—but the painter made a mistake—and Hawk's explaining to friends that he isn't really in the griddle business.

Columns could be devoted to Norman Corwin. A newspaper man, five years ago he pursued major radio executives with program ideas to revolutionize the airwaves. Only a small independent station in New York would give him a chance. Today he's engaged by four major networks. He directs the government series, "This Is War," heard every Saturday. Many of his original radio dramas have been broadcast. His recently published broadcast, "We Hold These Truths," celebrating the 150th anniversary of the Bill of Rights, was heard by 60,000,000 people. He directs radio propaganda for the government. His "This Is War" is heard round the world.

ODDS AND ENDS—The U. S. navy likes Metro's two-reeler, "The Battle," so much that the picture will be used for recruiting purposes. . . . Director George Cukor's directing "Her Cardboard Lover" for the third time; once with Laurette Taylor, once with Jeanne Eagels, now with Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor. . . . Sidney Chaplin, Charlie's 15-year-old son, when interviewed by Vox Pop at his prep school, said he wants to act and direct. He says he weighs 175. . . . RKO suspended Lucille Ball from salary for refusing to play the second feminine lead in "Strictly Dynamite," for which they lent her to 20th Century-Fox.

CHRIST AND LIFE AFTER DEATH (EASTER)

LESSON TEXT—Mark 12:24-27; I Corinthians 15:52-53.
GOLDEN TEXT—But thanks be to God, which giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.—I Corinthians 15:57.

V for Victory! By that sign have many peoples indicated their confidence in a victory to come. It is well to have a victorious outlook, but it is even better to be able to look back to victory already attained. That is just what we are able to do as we consider man's great and final enemy—death. That victory has been won on behalf of all who believe, by the risen Christ of whom we think in a special way on this Easter day.

He is the Lord of the living, not of the dead; those who, even though they may have left this world, have only laid aside the corruptible body for the incorruptible. They are victorious, even as we are, over death.

I. Living, Not Dead (Mark 12:24-27).

The Sadducees, a rationalistic sect of Christ's day, denied the resurrection, and so they were much distressed by His plain teaching of that truth. They therefore devised an intricate hypothetical case (see Mark 12:18-23) and sought to set a trap for Him. But they only caught themselves, for He pointed out to them and to the people that what was wrong with them was that they did not understand the Scriptures nor the power of God.

That is precisely what is wrong with the modernists of our day—they misinterpret God's Word, and they deny His power.

Then Jesus turned to them and in place of their fantastic "supposing" story He spoke of three real characters from the books of Moses which they taught. He said that God still calls Himself the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, because though they had long been in their graves, they were still alive. God's fellowship with His people is not merely for the brief life span of this earth, but for eternity. That fact, of course, carries with it the truth of the resurrection.

II. Incorruptible, Not Corruptible (I. Cor. 15:50-54).

Man knows that his earthly body is marked for decay and death. That fact is written in its very members. He also knows that such a body would be entirely inappropriate for heaven—for eternity. Is he then barred from God's eternal kingdom? No, indeed, for there is to be a glorious change—the corruptible shall put on incorruptibility.

Whether we shall tarry until Jesus comes and be transformed without dying, or whether we shall await His coming for a time among those who sleep, there will come that trumpet sound, and in the twinkling of an eye we shall be clothed upon with incorruptible bodies like unto His glorious resurrection body (Phil. 3:21). There we have an assurance of victory already won on our behalf, which can and does strengthen our souls against the trials and sorrows of life.

III. Victorious, Not Defeated (I Cor. 15:55-58).

When Satan after a long struggle finally had Christ's body laid away in the tomb, he thought he had the victory, but just then came his great hour of defeat.

"Up from the grave He arose,
With a mighty triumph o'er His foes."

"Death could not hold its prey," for it sought to hold one stronger than itself—the Lord of Life Himself. He had broken the bonds of sin by His sacrifice on Calvary; and since it was sin (the violation of the law) which brought death in the first place (Gen. 2:17; 3:17-19), there was now a complete victory over both sin and death.

The one who knows Christ need no longer fear death. For him it is not a leap into the dark, or going as a trembling wayfarer into an unknown land. President John Quincy Adams was right when, aged and frail, he replied to a question as to his welfare: "Quite well, thank you. The house in which I live is tottering and trembling, and I may soon have to move out, but I am quite well." He was ready for the departure into a better land and a better body.

Such a hope has a splendid practical application, which Paul stresses in verse 58. With victorious assurance the believer stands steadfast and unmovable at the center of life, while always abounding in the joys and duties which come at its circumference. Like the wheel which can be useful only as its center is established and steady, so man can serve the Lord and enjoy a satisfying life only as he has the steadfastness of which Paul here speaks. We trust that it is your possession by faith in Christ. If not, make it so on this resurrection Sunday!

ESSENTIALS FOR CO-OPS GIVEN

Banker Points Out That They Can Survive Years.

By C. W. LAMB
(President, Springfield, N. Y., Bank for Co-operatives.)

The essentials for a sound agricultural co-operative program can be summed up as follows:

First, an enthusiastic group of farm people, with membership activities to include the farm women and older children. Then the willingness of members to make a substantial initial investment. Third, a hundred per cent purchase of needed supplies handled by the organization.

Other points to promote a successful co-operative are:

Personal attendance at all meetings, personal responsibilities for the election of a board of directors, capable management, budgeting at the beginning of each year of expected receipts and expenditures, an independent audit, control to remain in the hands of the farmers, a conservative credit policy, a sound pricing policy, keeping the investment in fixed assets to a minimum, no speculation in inventories, and strict adherence to recognized business principles.

Agricultural co-operatives can survive the years and grow old gracefully if their foundations and superstructures are founded on honest materials and the workmen do their best. Such co-operatives are like the sturdy old New England farm buildings which have survived the centuries.

AGRICULTURE IN INDUSTRY

By FLORENCE C. WEED

Cigarette Paper Flax

One of the romances of American industry is the manufacture of cigarette paper from flax fiber—an American raw material that has created a new American industry.

For years, American cigarette producers bought their cigarette paper in France. It was made from linen rags imported from Russia, Poland and the Balkan countries. American buyers had long ago realized that this was an unstable supply and they hurried to start cigarette paper making in America before the supply from abroad was cut off.

Events have shown that they acted none too soon. No paper is being imported and the existing supply in this country will soon be exhausted. South Carolina has the one American factory ready to meet the demand. Farmers in California are growing 160,000 acres of flax as a new cash crop. In Minnesota, flax acres are planted in 1,500,000 acres in other states, flaxseed is marketed and the fiber is merely a by-product.

After harvest the straw is delivered to a decorticating plant which removes the fiber used in making paper. New machinery and new chemical processes had to be created to convert virgin flax into paper. At the present time, shive or the woody part of the flax straw which remains, is going to waste as no one has discovered how to use it profitably.

Cigarette paper has been called the perfect illustration of the possibilities of farm chemistry. By it, agriculture and industry join in creating a new industry.

Break macaroni into 4-inch pieces. There should be 6 dozen pieces. Cook until tender in boiling water and 1 1/2 teaspoons salt. Drain and rinse with hot water. Let stand. Turn on oven and set at moderate (375° F.). Mix together cheese, milk, remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt and the pepper. Cook over boiling water until cheese melts and mixture is smooth, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and add horse-radish. Cover and let stand. Put equal portions of macaroni on ham slices. Put about 2 tablespoons cheese sauce over each bundle of macaroni. Roll up and secure with toothpicks or string. Put in greased, shallow pan. Dot tops with bits of shortening. Bake 20 minutes, or until ham is lightly browned. Serve at once with remaining cheese sauce. Serves 6.

CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO

Mrs. Lester Greer, daughter Mollie, son Randall, wife and son Lewis made a trip to Santa Fe last Saturday to visit Lester, who is a guard in the detention camp for the Jap aliens. Lester is one of our old ranchmen, who has always been accustomed to good hard work and simply carrying a gun without anything to shoot, doesn't seem to suit him. Now, Lester, try and be content. You are working under the New Deal, and in that capacity, nobody works. It's just one of "them things" you know.

IMPORTANT NOTICE

T. V. Dolan, First Aid Safety Field representative of the American Red Cross will be in Carrizozo during the week of April 6 to conduct a 15-hour instructor's course in first aid. All persons qualified to take this course are urged to arrange to attend this class and assist the Red Cross by instructing other classes when a certificate is received from Mr. Dolan. Anyone who has taken the standard and advanced courses, and is willing to assist by instructing classes, and is 20 years of age, is qualified to take the instructor's class. The first aid program in Lincoln County is seriously handicapped due to shortage of instructors, and anyone who will complete this course will be rendering a great service.

Leading Honeycomb
Bees make their honeycomb to last for years. If it is not disturbed by man, it is handed down through many generations. It is not unusual for a comb to be in use 20 years or more if periodically cleaned and repaired by the bees.
