Training School For Civilians

Plans have been made to conduct the first of a series of county-wide training courses in Civilian Defense in Carrizozo, beginning Monday, April 20.

Classes will be taught by Mr. James Brister, who recently attended the school held at Albuquerque. Mr. Brister completed the prescribed Office of Civilian Defense course as instructor for the training of civilians.

It is the duty of every civilian to have a thorough knowledge of these subjects, not only for his own protection; but, for the protection of his family and others whom he may be able to assist in times of emergency.

According to regulations of the Office of Civilian Defense, all civilians who are serving as air raid wardens, spotters, messengers, auxiliary police, in bomb squads, auxiliary firemen, and others are required to take the basic courses listed above and receive their certificates of qualification before they are eligible

Business Men's Club

At one of the biggest meetings of the year, 16 regular members answered the roll call and there being 4 visitors, raised the total to 20. President A. L. Burke presided over the meeting.

The visitors were the 4 Boy Scouts who took 3rd prize at the First Aid contest held at Roswell last Saturday. The club being sponsor for the local Troop, listened to the report of Scoutmaster Dorsett, who reported that there were ten teams in the contest, the winner of which was Tucumcari. The Troop score was 411 out of a possible 440. Hagerman won second, but had it not been for a slight error in one count, the 2nd prize would have fallen to us.

The secretary gave a report on his visit to Albuquerque for air raid warden training.

Much to the regret of the club, Frank Adams gave in his resignation and stated that he would leave for Vaughn the latter part of the week, where he had accepted a position in the Vaughn Bank under our esteemed banker, A. E. Huntsinger. Following this action, the club expressed its regrets at having to lose Mr. Adams and by a unanimous vote he was made an honorary member of the club, besides wishing him much pleasure and satisfaction in his new undertaking.

Several committees appointed lately, reported progress and asked for further time, which was granted. At the next meeting, Supt. Carpenter will be the speaker of the evening, giving him permission of selecting his own subject. Band Leader C. O. Brewster will furnish a trumpet duet by two of his pupils and another bumper meeting may be expected.

Uncle Sam's Stingers Guard Panama Canal

These are the first pictures to show the maneuvers of the patrol-torpedo (PT) fleet that is guarding the Panama canal with the co-operation of the army and air forces. In picture at left Charles Kiefer keeps a tight rein on a .50 caliber anti-aircraft gun aboard the command boat of the mosquito fleet. Upper right: A gunner vigilantly scans sea and sky for the approach of enemy forces. Below: The fast traveling 77-footers of the navy skim through the sea looking for trouble.

Horse Finds Place in U. S. War Effort

The horse is not yet "through," as far as war is concerned; his value having been demonstrated this winter on the Russian front. These pictures show two phases of cavalry action in a day's training of the cavalry soldiers stationed at Fort Bliss, Texas. Above, the horse artillery is awaiting the command to move forward to their gun positions. Below, men are demonstrating the speed at which they ride their horses.

All Ready to Dynamite Bridge and Japs

This photograph was taken somewhere in the embattled Philippine Islands. It shows Filipino soldiers who are determined to see that the bridge is completely destroyed, if necessary. The soldier in the foreground is distributing sticks of dynamite to be placed all over the bridge to play havoc with Jap troops, if and when they come.

ELMER TWITCHELL OFF TO CO-ORDINATE

"I'm off to Washington," declared Elmer Twitchell in an unusually high state of excitement. "What for?" we asked.

"I wanna be a co-ordinator," he replied eagerly. "What do you wish to co-ordinate?" we hopefully asked him.

"I ain't particular," said Elmer. "Squat tag or leap frog would be up my alley. I was national open squat tag champion in 1923, and I have written several books on leap frog which are standard works everywhere."

"But I am no slouch at lariat throwing or sack racing, either," he resumed after a moment. "Nor at Indian club swinging, apple bobbing and blind man's buff."

"Are they co-ordinating such activities?" we asked. "Oh, yes," snapped Elmer. "Yes indeed. They are co-ordinating everything. Haven't you been reading about the testimony before Senator Byrd's committee? And this is no minor co-ordination, it's an all-out co-ordination. We are the Arsenal of Co-ordination, from what I read."

"Do you think you'll land a job?" we asked.

"Why not? Everybody else has. A friend of mine who has been good at card tricks has been named National Co-ordinator of Parlor Games under the OGD and Wilbur Jones, an alligator wrestler by profession, has landed as National Co-ordinator of Alligator Wrestling."

"Really?" "Not only that but an appropriation is being asked for $150,000 for alligator pools and $75,000 for alligators."

"Can you get alligators for that money, the kind that will really do any work?" we asked.

"Yes, alligators are as a class willing to sacrifice a little for the cause," explained Elmer.

"What does Mrs. Twitchell think of your working as a federal co-ordinator of rope tricks, squat tag playing and so forth?" we asked.

"Oh, she's too busy to care," he replied. "What's she doing these days?" "She's a co-ordinator," he said. "Of what?" "Either magic lantern shows or eggplant culture. I am not sure which," said Mr. Twitchell. "She's doing well. Great for morale, she says."

"The whole Twitchell family is in on it," we observed.

"Yes indeed, Uncle Chidsey has been in from the start. He's U. S. Co-ordinator of Kite Flying at a pretty good salary. He is opening kite flying centers everywhere and thinks he may get a million dollars for kites. He says that nothing bolsters up a people's morale like running around with a kite on a string. And Grandpa Lem is co-ordinating, too. He's the one who never did amount to much at anything."

"What's he co-ordinating?" "Top spinning, I understand," snapped Elmer, grabbing a train.

RUBBER ON FARM MUST HAVE CARE

Rural Food Production Increased Use of Rubber.

By M. R. BENTLEY (Agricultural Engineer, Texas A & M Extension Service.)

Motorists—and aren't we all?—have been so busy worrying about the tires on their cars that rubber on the farm has not received much attention.

Rubber has played an increasingly important part in food production in recent years. Rubber tires for tractors and farm implements; rubber tubing in milking machines; rubber rings for canning in glass jars—the list is almost endless.

Here are suggestions for care of rubber on the farm:

Block up the wheels to keep weight off the tires when machines and implements are out of the fields for any considerable period.

If rubber-tired implements are stored on cinder floors, block up the tires or place planks under them. The sulphur in the cinders breaks down the rubber.

Tractor Tire Slippage. Excessive slippage of tractor tires causes heavy wear, just as skids and quick stops do on automobile tires. Over-loading the tractor is one cause of slippage, and pulling in snow or mud without chains is another.

Keep rubber-tired implements out of the sun when not in use. Under-inflation damages both rubber and fabric in the tires.

A solution of calcium chloride to prevent freezing is recommended for northern areas if water is used in tractor tires to add weight.

Rubber tubing in milking machines will last longer if it is kept clean. After each cleaning and sterilization, the tubes should be hung up to drain and dry.

AGRICULTURE IN INDUSTRY

By FLORENCE C. WEED

Goat Herd Value

"The poor man's cow" has always had a variety of uses. In Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Oregon, goats run in sizeable herds. Often 200 to a farm. They grow fat on coarse vegetation on which other animals would starve. In these western states, the clip amounts to about 10,000,000 pounds of goat hair each year. This does not nearly supply the raw material for plush fabrics for upholstering furniture and automobiles. Texas has more than 3,000,000 goats clipped annually while New Mexico is next with 201,000.

Goat and kid skins make fine leather for shoes, boot bindings, leather purses and cases. Our goat herds do not yield enough to supply the need and 60,000,000 pounds of skins are imported annually.

A milk goat herd, maintained by the U. S. bureau of animal industry at Beltsville, Md., has proved that the Toggenberg and Saanen breeds supply milk similar to the Helvetic cow. Goat milk has the advantage of more vitamin B, a softer curd and smaller sized fat globules and is highly recommended for invalids and people with delicate digestions.

The milk is widely used for making Swiss cheese. The meat is nutritious but is little used in America except when the flesh of the angora is sold for mutton.

Domesticated goats are thought to be descended from the wild goats of Persia. Wild goats are found only in Europe, northern Africa and the Himalaya mountains.

Agricultural Notes

Repair. With so many automobiles at rest much of the time, many garages will find their usual work curtailed. However, according to the U. S. department of agriculture, garages, particularly those in the country, are likely to pick up much general repair work for farmers and others. Garage mechanics may be called on to exercise ingenuity in making parts normally supplied through other channels.

Average Acreage. According to census figures, the average acreage per farm in the United States in 1940 was 174, compared with 154.8 in 1935 and 156.9 in 1930.

Save Baling Wire. Farmers use between 90,000 and 100,000 tons of baling wire a year—equal in weight to three large warships—for baling hay, straw and other forage crops, the U. S. department of agriculture reported in urging farmers, dairymen, stockyard operators and livestock producers, to conserve baling wire.

Watermelons Are Africans. Watermelons, summer-time delicacy, are believed to be natives of Africa.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Do not scrape or pare raw carrots. All the food value is preserved if they are scoured with a clean kitchen brush.

Spread butter lightly over each side of bread before toasting to give the toast a crisp, shiny finish.

Rug cushions should be thoroughly cleaned at least twice a year. Inspect them for signs of moths.

Tomato ketchup poured over baked beans while they are cooking improves their flavor.

Gelatin salads will come out more easily if the mold has been well lubricated with salad dressing, or mayonnaise, before filling with the salad mixture. This also gives extra flavoring to the salad by seasoning the outside.

To wash rag rugs, dissolve one cup of soap powder or shaved soap in a quart of hot water. When cool, beat with an egg beater into a foamy lather. Apply this with a soft sponge, or brush, to the soiled rug. Wash thoroughly all over, removing the soil with clean cloths. When the rug is clean, rinse carefully with quantities of lukewarm water. Wipe as dry as possible and lay on a flat surface to dry.

You can easily make your own paper frills to put on the ends of chops or legs of fowls. Select small-sized paper "dollies," cut small-holes in the centers and fit the dollies over the chops. Crush them into place or tie them with cord. Adjust the frills just before the meat goes to the table.

FAMOUS ALL-BRAN MUFFINS. EASY TO MAKE. DELICIOUS!

They really are the most delicious muffins that ever melted a pat of butter! Made with crisp, toasted shreds of KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, they have a texture and flavor that have made them famous all over America.

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN MUFFINS
 2 tablespoons shortening 1/2 cup milk
 1/4 cup sugar 1/2 cup flour
 1 egg 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1 cup All-Bran 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
 Cream shortening and sugar; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk; let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Stir flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 6 large muffins, 3 inches in diameter, or 12 small muffins, 2 1/2 inches in diameter.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of all excess waste impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause backache, dizziness, nervousness, headache, attacks of dizziness, swelling, uric acid, uric acid, uric acid, under the eyes—red streaks, etc., all warn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a course of medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess uric acid. Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Breathing Freely

My garden, with its silence and the pulses of fragrance that come and go on the airy undulations, affects me like sweet music. Care stops at the gates, and gazes at me wistfully through the bars. Among my flowers and trees, Nature takes me into her own hands, and I breathe freely as the first man.—Alexander Smith.

First Signal Officer

IN THE post library at Fort Monmouth, N. J., is a simple velvet-covered box with an engraved plate which reads: "Compass and chain worn by Brigadier General Albert J. Myer, First Signal Officer, U. S. Army. Presented by his daughter, Miss Gertrude Myer, through Major General Campbell B. Hodges, by the Chief Signal Officer to the Commanding General, Fort Monmouth, March 3, 1942." This latest addition to the collection of early signal corps equipment at Fort Monmouth is a memorial to the man whose foresight and pioneering with flags and torches, during and after the Civil war, blazed the way for the army's streamlined signal communication systems.

When 20-year-old Albert J. Myer was graduated from Hobart college in his native state of New York in 1847, his graduation thesis was titled "A Sign Language for Deaf Mutes" and it contained the germ of the visual signaling system which he was to devise later. After his graduation from Buffalo medical college, he practiced for three years. Then, in 1854, he was commissioned assistant surgeon in the army and ordered to New Mexico.

In the dry climate of the Southwest, where the clearness of the air made it possible to see objects at a great distance, Myer became enthusiastic over the possibilities of visual signaling—and devoted his leisure hours to developing a simple system. In 1858 the war department recognized the work of the young doctor by appointing a board to examine "the principles and plans of the signaling, mode of use in the field and course to be pursued in introducing to the army." The next year John B. Floyd, President Buchanan's secretary of war, commended his system to congress which appropriated $2,000 for the "manufacture or purchase of apparatus and equipment for field signaling." It also authorized the appointment of one signal officer on the staff of the army with the rank and pay of a major of cavalry and on June 27, 1860, Assistant Surgeon Myer became Major Myer.

The army's first signal officer soon had an opportunity to demonstrate the value of his system. He was detailed to duty with Gen. E. R. S. Canby's expedition against the hostile Navajos in the Southwest, where an extensive test of his new system, using both flag and torch, proved a distinct success. The result was the opening of a signal school at Fortress Monroe, Va., under his direction and at the outbreak of the War Between the States, Myer was called upon to organize signal communications in the Army of the Potomac. Immediately after the battle of Bull Run, he submitted a plan for a separate signal corps but it was not until March 3, 1863, that this was done.

Within a year he was no longer Major Myer but Colonel Myer, having been brevetted lieutenant-colonel for gallantry at the battle of Hanover Court House and colonel for similar services at Malvern Hill. By the time the war ended he had been brevetted brigadier general.

After the war Colonel Myer, who had been relieved of duty as chief signal officer following a disagreement with Secretary Stanton of the war department, was reappointed to that post by President Johnson. He succeeded in having West Point include signaling as a permanent part of the cadet course and the naval academy at Annapolis also adopted his methods. Myer was promoted brigadier-general on June 16, 1880, and died in Buffalo, N. Y., two months later, on August 24, while still on active duty in the service he had organized.

Myer has another distinction which entitles him to the grateful remembrance of his fellow-Americans—that of "Father of the Weather Bureau." In 1860 he proposed that the peacetime activities of the signal corps be extended to include sending out storm warnings. He influenced congress to establish the United States weather bureau under the direction of the signal corps and during its first 10 years it was supervised by "Old Probabilities," as Myer became familiarly known all over the United States.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for April 19

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

GROWING TENSION WITH FALSE LEADERS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 11:37-48, 52-54. GOLDEN TEXT—He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth.—Luke 11:23.

Opposition to Christ and to Christian teaching has come down through the centuries practically unchanged. Hence, we find in Christ's dealings with the enemies of His day helpful indication of what may be done in our time.

It is sad to note that the chief opposition came from those who professed to be religious leaders. It is expected that the world, the flesh, and the devil should fight God's truth, but one might expect better of those who profess His name. The difficulty is that there is only profession, with no real life.

I. Hypocrisy Unmasked (vv. 37-44).

The Pharisees professed great interest in the observance of religious laws, but their concern was for the outward appearance, while God judges the heart. First we note a false profession of cleanliness. Christ came to the Pharisees' table with clean hands, but He had not observed all their ceremonial washings. When rebuked He struck home with terrific force at the heart of the whole matter (v. 39); namely, that inward filthiness of heart which often makes folk meticulous about outward cleansing. This leads to a substitution of technical observance of the letter of the law that ignores love and judgment (v. 42), which are so precious to God. There can be a dead, dry, and technical orthodoxy which entirely misses the point.

But worst of all is the covering up of spiritual death (v. 44). Sometimes we speak of those who are "dead and don't know it," and that may actually be true spiritually. There may be death within and yet a brave and sometimes self-deceiving outward show of life.

II. Theological Deadness Condemned (vv. 45-52).

The lawyers of that day were those learned in the Mosaic law, hence were really the teachers of theology and ethics. They came under the rebuke of Christ as He pronounced three "woes" upon them.

First, they were guilty of heaping upon others burdensome requirements which they did not themselves keep, and which they did not help the people to keep. There are such teachers today who set up standards they do not themselves observe, a sort of signpost pointing the right way, while they are not themselves going that way. Then there are those who present high ethical standards without the spiritual dynamic needed to live up to them. To tell a man to be good without telling him of the Saviour who can make him good is mockery. Then, those of Christ's day were condemned for hating God's witnesses. They were willing to build sepulchers for the dead prophets (killed by their fathers), but were not willing to hear the living prophets. How true to life that is! The very ones who hate and hinder those who are preaching God's Word, speak and sing smoothly of the faith of our fathers, and claim as their own the witness of a past day.

Christ also pointed out that while professing to interpret the law they obscured its meaning. They threw away the key to knowledge so that neither they nor their people could learn—and yet they continued to teach. Have not the false teachers of our day done likewise? They deny the integrity and authority of the only infallible Word—the Bible; they reject the deity of our Saviour, Christ, and yet they talk about being Christians and preachers of the truth. Woe be unto them in the day of God's judgment and wrath!

What happens when such men are condemned or unmasked? We find—

III. Enmity Intensified (vv. 53, 54).

The scribes and Pharisees had two approaches: they sought vehemently to provoke Him to overspeak, and they craftily laid in wait for Him. The writer of these notes has seen both methods at work in our day. Liberals, or modernists as they are called, profess for the most part a "suave courtesy" which makes them speak smoothly and gently about the conservative and orthodox believer or teacher; but if one only has eyes to see, there is often the strong and cruel hand of iron hidden under the velvet glove.

Whatever may be the approach, be assured of this—every effort to reveal false teaching in its true light, or to deal with hypocrisy in spiritual things will bring intensified opposition. Christ took it—we too can take it in His name and for His sake.

Praise the Lord

I will greatly praise the Lord with my mouth; yea, I will praise him among the multitude. For he shall stand at the right hand of the poor, to save him from those who condemn his soul.—Psalm 106:30-31.

Star Dust STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ROLAND YOUNG made up a novel "ten best" list the other day, between scenes of Columbia's "He Kissed the Bride"—a list of Hollywood's best scene-stealers. Being a gentleman, he spared the fair sex. Here are the performers he considers most dangerous to have in camera range while playing a big scene; Cary Grant, Lewis Stone, Wallace Beery, Charles Chaplin, James Gleason, Robert Benchley, Bob Hope, Allyn Joslyn, Edgar Kennedy and Daisy, the canine star. For your information, the best scene-stealers do the trick with their eyes and their hands, and are death to newcomers; put two together, and you have a battle royal.

Mickey Rooney, it seems, is considered adept at scene stealing, but according to Roland Young, his face lights up too much when he gets ready for a piece of business. "In the Hardy pictures, Lewis Stone stops Mickey cold every time by dead-panning."

At last Richard Denning's actually going to appear in scenes with Dorothy Lamour; it's taken him three years. When she played in "Her Jungle Mate" he was an aviator flying over the jungle, searching for

RICHARD DENNING

Ray Milland. In "Disputed Passage" he had two scenes and two speeches, but not with her. Now, in "Beyond the Blue Horizon," tall, blond Denning steps out as Dorothy's love interest.

Billie Burke is one of those people who never throw away anything of sentimental interest. But the other day she told Joan Crawford, whose mother she plays in "He Kissed the Bride," that she was going to destroy most of the things she'd been saving. So she went home and pitched in—and the first old letter she opened was one from Enrico Caruso, written to her after she refused his proposal of marriage. (That was in the days when she didn't want her career cluttered up with matrimony.) The house cleaning stopped right where it had commenced.

Recalling the damaging effects of a terrific beating George Raft took in the original version of "The Glass Key," six years ago, Paramount executives have applied for $50,000 worth of insurance to cover possible damage to the handsome countenance of Alan Ladd, playing Raft's role in a re-make of the mystery thriller. Raft still bears the scars of the slugging administered by Guinn Williams.

William Holden's been grounded for the duration of "Meet the Stewarts." Director Al Green nearly collapsed when he found that Holden was spending his Sundays racing high-speed motorcycles at Muroc Dry Lake, and got studio permission to stop it.

Betty Winkler, of the air's "Able's Irish Rose," and Vice President Wallace agree on one thing—that she can't speak Spanish. She auditioned for NBC's new "Down Mexico Way," and without warning was asked to learn a Spanish song from a record and sing it. When she heard the result she criticized it vehemently. Wallace was kinder when he heard the recorded show; just said "That girl cannot speak Spanish."

"Johnny Presents" Talullah Bankhead in evening gowns, only because her sponsor asked her to wear them instead of slacks when broadcasting. So now she changes in a special dressing room at the studio, and as soon as she's finished her staid, bowed and thrown kisses to the lady in the audience who are in uniform, she gets back into her own favorite uniform—slacks.

ODDS AND ENDS—Sammy Kaye, the band leader, is learning to skate since he accepted a leading role in Sonja Henie's new picture, "Ice Time." At last Lionel Barrymore has a role he longs to play, that of Thaddeus Stevens, arch enemy of Andrew Jackson, whom he's been studying for years. In "The Gentleman from Moscow" Cary Grant gets chased by the bloodhounds, one of which captured convicts who escaped from the Arizona state penitentiary; at rehearsal that one always caught him. Pat O'Brien's formed an "All Irish" stein club on the set of "His My Old Man"—Pat's the only Irishman in it.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

WITH this one pattern you can outfit your youngster with as fine a set of play clothes, as the most pampered child in the world could own! The pattern includes a smock—full cut, fitted through the shoulders, topped with a round collar and appliqued with two bright red apples which turn out to be pockets—overalls of sturdy proportions and very brief rompers—these again to be appliqued with the cunning pockets. Decidedly an invitation to start sewing at once, isn't it?

Pattern No. 8120 is for children of 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years. Size 3 smock, 3 1/2 yards 32-inch material; over all 1 1/2 yards, romper 3/4 yard. Appliques 4x12 inch piece plus 4x10 contrast. 2 1/2 yards ric-tac for rompers. Send your order to:

Political Tolerance

Let us restore to social intercourse that harmony and affection without which liberty and even life itself are but dreary things. And let us reflect that, having banished from our land that religious intolerance under which mankind has so long bled and suffered, we have yet gained little if we countenance a political intolerance as despotic, as wicked, and capable of a bitter and bloody persecutions.—Thomas Jefferson.

Buenas Tardes, (good afternoon) Amigos Mios.

Como 'sta, Senoras y Caballeros.
- R U Listenin'?

We saw two prominent ladies taking a hike on the road to the Country Club the latter part of the week. We asked them if they didn't want a lift, and they replied Heck, No- We're Reducing.

Wonder if they are walking so they can eat more? Such could be possible. Porque No? - Why not?

Viva!

Mingled with our sorrow over the disaster which befell our glorious heroes of Bataan is a feeling of pride because the Stars and Stripes were not hauled down in token of surrender.

Although they were overwhelmed by vastly superior numbers, American and Filipino soldiers of Bataan won the respect of the entire world and they will go down in history as defenders of righteousness and liberty who were not afraid to die. - El Paso Times.

Seguro Que Si, Sen-yor; just wait until we get started- we'll wipe the Japs off the face of the earth.

-Remember Hitler said that Russia would be conquered in a very short time- and the Nazis "mopped up" (pardon me) in all sectors. But look at Russia now!

Bughouse Fables - I never told a falsehood in my life.

Won Bum Lung, the Chinese philosopher opines:

"Never have so many run so fast from so few." - Mussolini.

"Never have so few taken as much from so many." - Hitler.

"We return everything but the Dirt." - Carrizozo Laundry.

The whole state was thrilled with the defeat of the strongly-entrenched State House supported ring of Democrats in Santa Fe. The panzer division of Independents and Republicans who rolled the Democrats over are to be congratulated. - X.

"If you have come to see Hitler Brides," a Nazi girl said haughtily, "you are seeing them. And we are proud to be Hitler Brides, are we not, girls?"

"Yes!" the others replied vehemently.

Note - The Hitler Bride is an unmarried girl (and you can guess the rest.) - If you know what we mean.

Congratulations - To Mayor M. U. Finley, Trustees George T. McQuillen, Albert Echarf, Roy Shafer, Ben Sanchez, and Town Clerk Morgan Lovelace. May your next term be the best ever - Porque No?

Thousands Buy Charms
More than 250,000 "lucky charms" are sold every year in New South Wales. Nine out of ten people in all walks of life are wearers of charms, one dealer said. They go out of fashion like women's hats, and new charms are manufactured to take their place.

Majority and Plurality
Majority is more than half the votes cast; a plurality is simply the greater number, as when three or more candidates are running, the one who receives the largest vote is elected, although the sum of the other votes may be more than half the votes cast.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Anti-Nazi Unity in Norway, Denmark Brings New War Threat to Sweden; Advent of Spring Weather Heralded By Increased Battlefront Activity

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

TOLL: Of U. S.-Jap War

News, some good, some bad, continued from the various battlefronts on which American troops and sailors were meeting the might of Nippon.

The navy had admitted the loss of three warships, the aircraft tender and former carrier Langley, the navy tanker Pecos and the destroyer Peary, with the loss of some 700 lives.

This had been a bitter tragedy of the waters off Java, adding to the awful toll of the Battle of Java Sea. First the Langley, spotted by Jap planes, had been "smothered in bombs."

Her crew, all but about a dozen men, got safely off, swam about, clinging to debris, until picked up by destroyers, later transferred to the Pecos. The latter, trying to escape to Australia, was caught by flights of Jap dive bombers, evaded the first run but was smashed in the second. With two crews aboard one boat, the loss of life was heavy.

The Peary was done to death in the Aussies' port of Darwin, but went to the bottom with all guns blazing, her commander dying at his post.

Not all was to be defeat, however, for our naval forces. American submarines had taken a heavy toll of Japanese shipping in the neighborhood of Bali and south of Java, and in the Christmas island region.

Following these disclosures, the navy reported that since the start of the war 47 Japanese ships of war had certainly been sent to the bottom against 24 for the American navy.

More than 200 ships of all types had been sunk, many of them by plane action, many by submarines, many by army planes and shore guns.

This rate of loss was deemed certain to be more than the Japs could stand, while America was increasing her production average of more than two ships of war daily going into the water, and more than this number of merchant vessels.

With the attack on Australia definitely turned back, at least for the time being, military leaders were taking a more optimistic tone as to the chances for a 1942 offensive in the South Pacific.

UNREST: In Norway, Denmark

Observers, still writing frankly and against the Nazis in the Stockholm press, saw the spring season bringing even more anti-German unity to the Danes and the Norwegians.

Both nations were finally realizing that all German promises of post-war freedom were obviously false, and that occupation and puppet government meant simply conquest.

The Danes were united behind two national heroes, the king and the minister to the United States. Henrik de Kauffmann, the latter, one German had been angrily quoted, was the No. 1 Danish Hero in the eyes of the people.

HENRIK DE KAUFFMANN Number one Danish hero.

As to the Norwegians, their resistance to the Quisling government had solidified until no risk was too great for the people to impede the puppet leaders. Evidence was that German planes on giving Quisling enough rope to hang himself.

Sweden was not inclined to view these developments with joy, but rather with fear, seeing the day not far distant when she, too, would be drawn into the war.

PROFITS:

Agreement by a senate committee on the principle of limitation of war profits by industry had brought to light reported profits running as high as 4,000 per cent on invested capital. While, with the government pouring capital into essential industry, such profits always would be great, the senators felt that a sliding scale of maximum permissible profits might be the answer.

Some companies had returned enormous profits, one check to the government amounting to $60,000,000.

HARMONY: And Discord

All had not been too harmonious in this country, though in general the nation was moving swiftly enough along the path of production for the war to meet the goals and schedules set by President Roosevelt.

But there were manifold bickerings along the pathway. News stories said that there was to be a sugar rationing beginning in May. Then other dispatches cited that the SEN. WALTER F. GEORGE "Victory Day" for Labor.

War Production board and the Office of Price Administration were at odds on the sugar situation, and the whole thing might be called off—that there really was plenty of sugar.

This was hotly and instantly denied by Donald Nelson, who said not only was there no friction, but that the sugar rationing was necessary and would be carried out.

There also was a terrific argument in progress over the time and a half overtime paid war workers for the 48-hour week, under the law that the work week at straight time should not exceed 40 hours.

The President had maintained his position as squarely behind the 40-hour week, and while some senators and congressmen fought against excess profits by employers, others were busy going after labor's overtime.

Senator George of Georgia was a leader in the battle, suggesting that the 40-hour week be adopted and the sixth day of work be called a "victory day," the workers passing up their overtime, but to be paid if the seventh day were worked.

THAW:

Russian for Slush

Just what the great Russian thaw had meant was vividly described in dispatches from Kuibyshev. They called it "more formidable than a moated citadel."

One writer said: "Imagine all the swamps you ever saw. Imagine all the muddy ditches your automobile had whizzed past. Imagine millions and millions of mudbaths. Into all this dump billions of tons of grayish snow and stir thoroughly."

That's a thaw in Russia. The Russian mud clings to feet and to tanks. One correspondent said he saw a trackwalker on the railroad jump off the track to let a train pass. The man was buried to his waist in muddy slush. His comrades had to pull him out with a rope.

CRITICAL YEAR: War Tempo Speeded

The World could feel, with the quickening of life in springtime fields and trees, the speeding of the tempo of the war on half a dozen fronts, and the vigorous battering of nation against nation that was to make 1942 the critical year of the World war.

In the "land down under" the seasons were reversed, with Australia moving into the fall season, but as the threat was to the tropical north of the continent, weather made little difference.

But in Russia, in occupied Europe, and on the ambattled oceans the changing weather was bringing faster reports of action afoot and in the air.

Across the English channel had been moving huge flights of bombing planes, of late more often than not accompanied by high and low squadrons of fighter planes, giving the "big bertha" protection from the defending Nazi ships, and they were dropping death and destruction over a widening area.

The Japs were ripping at full speed into India's flanks, the Nazis on the eastern front were redoubling their pressures against the Soviet, and were said to be rushing 4,000,000 new troops into action. The Russ were countering, so it was reported, with upward of 7,000,000 men, many of them fresh troops.

Temperatures had gone above freezing on much of the Russian front, and the torrential rains of springtime had been falling. The battle of the central and southern fronts in Russia were expected to be the most bitter of the war.

INDIA:

Hindus Debate

Homeland Defense

Several occurrences had contributed to the continuance of conversations among Indian leaders with Sir Stafford Cripps, General Wavell and American representatives as to the question of the Hindus' part in the defense of their homeland.

Among these events had been the perhaps fortunate mistake of a Chinese spokesman, who had given out incorrect information about the Japanese occupation of the port of Akyab. This port, so close to Calcutta, had actually not been taken, but the mere thought of it for several days had made the Indians realize the war was at their door.

This alone gave Cripps a big advantage. Also the timely intervention of Chiang Kai-shek, and the arrival in India and on the Burma front of a sizable force of American planes and fighting pilots were telling circumstances, and played a big part in the keeping open of negotiations.

Indians, with the exception of the Mahatma Gandhi and some others among his immediate followers and disciples, were beginning to realize that they were faced with bullets and bayonets, and that if they were going to get ready to fight, they had better be getting on with it.

The Mahatma was counseling "no violence" and was continuing his life-long policy of a passive resistance to the invader. The Moslems, 70,000,000 of them out of a 390,000,000 total population, were perfectly willing to fight, but were demanding their right to a separate government of their own.

Nehru, past president of the Indian congress, had seemed to be the toughest nut to crack. He had seemed to be holding out for the right of the Indians to do their own drafting of manpower, their own training, while conceding the right of Britain to do the leading.

DE GAULLE:

Important Recognition

The formal recognition by the United States of the DeGaulle government control over French Equatorial West Africa, and the French Cameroons, strategic territory along the supply route to the Middle East had been considered highly important.

It brought, for one thing, closer ties between the United States and the Free French and put Petain, despite his refusal to allow Laval a place in the government of Vichy France, very much on the spot regarding his future conduct.

It was the second official approval of DeGaulle and his followers. Recognition of his control over New Caledonia had come first. But French West Africa was a terrific territory with a population of millions and close to a million square miles.

Oddly, on the same day, the Vichy government reported that Germany had given it "permission" to rebuild its air force, and to this was added the information that Vichy now had more than 1,000 warplanes, or actually more than all France had at the outset of the war.

CORREGIDOR:

Nipping Off Japs

Despite the widely increased pressure on the Bataan lines of General Wainwright and the almost-constant attacks by Jap planes on Corregidor, American fighters continued to take their toll of Jap planes.

Just as the British on Malta had held out through the entire war against hundreds of attacks from the air, the anti-aircraft gunners on Corregidor were getting from two to four enemy planes a day with machine-like precision.

They were only counting those they dropped. Many more were reported badly damaged and probably disabled.

A sharp land counterattack had turned a Jap thrust into a trap on the land.

General Wainwright was continuing the tradition set up by MacArthur.

MISCELLANY:

Washington: The government took over control of the entire national stock of quinine. Huge amounts are needed for soldiers in the tropics.

San Francisco: Survivors of the Langley told odd stories of what they saved. One officer said he saved two oranges in his pockets. He said he saw a Filipino monkey swimming along with a cutie beard on his head.

You can imagine a tidal wave, with the white surf crashing down. You can imagine a hurricane, in the heart of a shattered town. You can imagine an earthquake, as the reeling earth is spun. But can you imagine Joe Louis—with four grenades and a gun?

FOR the moment there is the chance that Soldiers Two might even provide snapper reading than Kipling's "Soldiers Three."

Soldiers Two are Private Joe Louis and Private Billy Conn, who this next summer will give some war relief fund more financial aid than any other pair in sport could hope to furnish, in or out of uniform.

A second Louis-Conn outdoor show should be good for at least a $600,000 gate, the largest take any single war fund will approach this season. It is the one major natural left.

The Second Visit

In the ring at Madison Square Garden recently, the contrast between slender, alert Billy Conn and the pachydermic Abe Simon was startling.

Simon was facing his second Louis visit, while Conn's second trip was on ahead. Conn and Simon were 80 pounds apart in weight and a world apart in speed and skill. The contrast was a case of the rapier and the falling redwood.

How Conn will make out in his second visit is something you'll be hearing about through many weeks ahead—until Conn and Louis supply the answer. Whatever happens then, it will be a much more active evening than Simon could offer.

There will be 80 pounds less target and far greater elusiveness in front of the Louis barrage. And a far better fighter.

Early Debating

In the course of the next two or three months army life and army food will add several pounds to the present weight of both men. At least, it usually does, except in the case of the overfat.

Conn can stand additional weight better than Louis can. Joe looked physically perfect at 207, so far as hand speed and power go. His mistakes were due to an over eagerness that upset part of his timing. Just how much speed he will lose at 212 or 215 is a guess that belongs to the future.

Conn could stand an extra five or six pounds, without speed cost. Appearing for a minute or so in the ring just before last Friday's fight, Private Bill in his uniform looked to be thinner than half a toothpick.

Conn still believes the best punch he landed in his first Louis fight was the blow that cost him the scrap.

"When I nailed Joe near the end of the twelfth round," he said again, "I knew I had hurt him. I knew he was tired. It was the best punch I had planted in the fight. Right there is where I made my mistake. I decided to get tough instead of getting smart. I honestly thought I could knock him out."

These are merely some of the angles that will come up when the two famous army privates meet again.

Power vs. Speed

Hard punchers always have had their main trouble tangling up with speed or better boxing skill.

You may recall the fact that in their 70 rounds Jack Dempsey could win only something like two rounds against Gene Tunney. Jack had 35 rounds in which to draw a bead on Tunney, and Tom Gibbons with only one knockdown. And Harry Greb was a green mamba against the big fellows, as long as he had two eyes.

Joe Louis had far more trouble with Billy Conn than he ever had against the mammoths and the maritons. It took him 21 rounds, or thereabouts, to leave Bob Pastor flattened in the pleasant meadows.

There is no intention here to suggest this far in advance that Conn has an even chance to win. But there are at least the possibilities of another big-time thriller, especially when it is private soldier against private soldier for the largest relief gate any single contest has yet offered.

Louis and Conn are sure to be sports major party for 1942—first, as a spectacle; second, as the more important contribution to the general good of a much tougher and a much bigger game—the matter of needed relief.

THERE'S a touch of silver in the dark cloud hovering over the tribal home of the Cleveland Indians—they haven't been picked to win the American league pennant.

And for good reason. No one knows for sure just how much the absence of Rapid Robert Feller will influence the Indians' destiny in 1942. If the slack created by his enlistment in the navy is taken up by other pitchers, the team will cause plenty of trouble.

Most sports fans want the Indians to come through this year. Lou Boudreau, putting in his first year as manager, seems to have won the complete confidence of his men. That, in itself, is a major achievement.

The 24-year-old Boudreau is little more than a youngster in the baseball world, yet he has the calm confidence of a veteran pilot. And the Indians aren't known as a group of Pollyannas.

Good Judgment

Baseball men appreciate Boudreau's smartness in selecting a pair of veterans like Burt Shotton and Oscar Melillo to be his coaches. They are capable subordinates and can provide plenty of assistance.

Feller's absence isn't the only Indian problem. That is proved by the fact that the Tribe was lucky to finish in a fourth place tie with Detroit in 1941—when Bob won 25.

It isn't logical to talk about possible improvement in the Tribe until it's proved that other pitchers have a good chance of winning most of the 25 games which would have been Feller's. Boudreau is fairly optimistic about his hurlers—both veterans and newcomers. Among the former are Al Milnar, Al Smith, Jim Bagby, Harry Eisenstat and Mel Harder. The latter group includes such artists as Ray Poat, Red Embree, Pete Center and Tom Ferrick.

Poat played ball with Boudreau at the University of Illinois. A right-hander, he was a star in the Three-Eye league last season, winning 17 while losing 6 games. He stands high with the Indians—not because of his past record but because he looked consistently good in spring training camp. He has a fast ball, sharp curve and at least average control, perhaps better than that.

Ferrick won 8 and lost 10 for Philadelphia last year, but the Indians look to him for his share of wins, either in a starting or relief role. Embree, bought from Wilkes-Barre, boasts a sensational minor league record. He won 21 and lost 5 in 1941.

Job for Veterans

Center, recalled from Wilkes-Barre, won 14 and lost 8 last season. For some reason he hasn't been ranked as high as Embree, Ferrick or Poat, but on the basis of his early season showing he'll have a good chance to prove himself.

While the newcomers will have a big job on their hands, a good share of Boudreau's pitching this season will come from Harder, Bagby, Smith, Eisenstat, Milnar and Joe Havig. One on the roster who may give additional aid are Dewey Adkins, Millard Hewell, Vernon Kennedy, Joe Krakauskas, Chubby Dean and Cliff Brown.

Another performer who will bear watching is Steve Gromek, who came up from Flint, Mich., with a 1941 record of 14 wins and 2 losses. In the opinion of Gordon Cobbledick, Cleveland sports writer, "If there's another Feller" in sight it would be Gromek."

It's entirely possible that Cleveland may finish out of the first division. On paper, Lou doesn't have the team that Oscar Vilt had in 1940, or Roger Peckinpaugh had in 1941. But Lou won't be downed without a bitter struggle. He has the spirit and intelligence necessary for a manager. What's just as important, at least in Cleveland, is his ability to get along with fellow ball players.

The Indians' catching leaves something to be desired. At the present writing Gene Desautels looks like the No. 1 guy behind the plate. However, he can't take anything for granted. Otis Deming, bought from Minneapolis, is crowding Desautels through his ability to hit. Neither of them will lead American league hitters. Desautels hit .361 last season with the Indians while Deming hit .300 for Minneapolis. Jim Hogan, another possibility, also came up from the minors, hit .342 in 1941. Much will depend on the eventual catching strength.

A General Quiz

The Questions

- 1. How many men hold the rank of commodore of the U. S. navy? 2. How long must a senator have been a U. S. citizen to be eligible to that office? 3. Who wrote the words "All mankind loves a lover"? 4. How many known elements are there? 5. Who was the first vice president of the United States to become President as a result of the death of his predecessor? 6. What statue has a theater within it? 7. In the song "Yankee Doodle," to what does the word "macaroni" refer? 8. What does the letter "R" after Queen Mary's signature signify? 9. What is an aborbism? 10. Do all torpedoes sink to the bottom when they miss their mark?

The Answers

- 1. None. The rank was abolished in 1899. 2. At least nine years. 3. Ralph Waldo Emerson. 4. Ninety-two. 5. John Tyler. 6. The Statue of Liberty. A small theater was installed where-in illustrated lectures were given. 7. The dandies of the Eighteenth century were called Macaronies because of their showy dress. 8. Regina, or queen. 9. A concise statement of a truth. 10. All torpedoes sink to the bottom when they miss their target and their engines run down, either through sheer weight or an automatic sinking gear. This prevents them from becoming a potential danger to friendly vessels and also from falling into the hands of the enemy and disclosing mechanical secrets.

SHE LOVED A SPY

by SYLVIA TAYLOR

CHAPTER I

Arthur Mulford's secretary faced him unsuspectingly across the massive mahogany desk.

"You wanted to see me, Mr. Mulford?"

The man surveyed the slender figure before him.

"It's like this, Joan," he said decisively, "I'll have to let you go."

Joan Leland stared at him in astonishment. "You mean I'm fired?"

Mulford shrugged. "That's it."

"But why? What have I done?"

He picked up a sheaf of papers and reached for the telephone.

"I don't care to discuss it. You'll receive your next two weeks' salary, of course, but you need not finish out the month."

"You mean this is my last day?"

"Yes! That's all, Joan!"

The late October sunshine flowed in pale golden streams across the busy streets of San Francisco as Joan left the office for the apartment she shared with her sister, Frieda. There was something almost sinister about this abrupt dismissal. After two years on the job!

"Thank heaven, Sybil has a job!" Joan thought.

The apartment boasted a fireplace and long floor-length windows. It was part of one of the old mansions for which San Francisco is famous. A regal building that had housed one of the great families of the city, now cast off by their grandchildren and subdivided into studio apartments. True, there was seldom enough heat and the cooking facilities were inadequate, but the old house reflected the charm and graciousness of the past.

Joan glanced lovingly about the room. The girls had used their furniture left to them by their parents. It was heavy, and rather old-fashioned, but it suited the high-ceilinged room.

A voice from the bedroom hailed her. "Joan? That you?"

"Why, Sybil! What are you doing home so early? I thought the beauty shop was staying open until seven this month."

Sybil appeared in the doorway clad in dressing gown and slippers, cigarette in hand. Her blonde hair curled meticulously; her blue eyes were a trifle hard. The two girls seemed to have little in common in appearance or temperament. Joan, brunette, twenty, restless, impulsive. Sybil, seven years older, golden-haired, inclined to caution, especially where men were concerned. Sybil had been married and divorced when she was twenty-one. Since then she had been determined to save Joan from making the same mistake. "Never trust any man," was Sybil's motto, but Joan did not take it too seriously, suspecting that her sister's cynicism was covering a broken heart.

"What a day!" Sybil said, drearily throwing herself upon the couch.

"I have some news for you, Sis."

"I have something to tell you, too," Joan said grimly. "I've lost my job! Mr. Mulford gave me two weeks' salary and told me not to come back!"

Sybil sat up wide-eyed. "Oh, Joan! No!"

"He wouldn't even give me a reason," Joan continued heatedly. "I can't understand it. I'm sure there isn't anything wrong with my work. There's something very strange about this, Sybil. Mr. Mulford seemed positively anxious to get rid of me."

"But, Joan," Sybil interrupted, "I lost my job today too!"

The girls stared at each other in alarm.

"The beauty shop is closing," Sybil said, breaking the silence.

"This is my last week."

"Well, of course we'll find something else," Joan said, but her voice carried no conviction. "After all, we're both experienced. I'm sure Mr. Mulford will give me a reference."

"Jobs aren't easy to get . . ."

"Don't be a pessimist, darling!" Joan advised.

She tied a colored apron around her waist and went into the kitchen. "There's nothing to worry about tonight. We've got enough money in our account to last almost a month."

Sybil's blue eyes were troubled.

"Joan, that's just it! I checked that money out yesterday to pay for a new coat. I thought we didn't need it and I was going to pay it back a little each month. There's not a cent left in that account."

Night had fallen with a suddenness which filled the apartment with a strange new silence.

"How much money have you in your purse?" Joan inquired, frowning.

"Two or three dollars. And you?"

"I have this check from Mr. Mulford. That will pay the rent for another month."

Sybil shivered and drew her quilted satin robe closer. "What are we going to do then?"

"You couldn't return the coat?"

"No. It's been altered."

"I'll start looking tomorrow," Joan said resolutely. "Mr. Mulford's usually at the store until late. I'm going to telephone him and tell him

"After all, there's no harm in applying for the job. If something is wrong with it, I can tell when I go down there."

"I'll stop by the morning to get a reference. I forgot all about it this afternoon. I was so upset."

Sybil watched in silence as Joan dialed the number.

"This is Joan Leland. May I speak to Mr. Mulford?"

There was a pause before a strange feminine voice replied, "I'm sorry. That will be impossible. Mr. Mulford left town an hour ago."

Joan gasped, "Left town? Tonight?"

"That's right."

"Who is this speaking, please?"

Joan inquired hotly.

"I am his secretary," the voice informed her and the receiver clicked.

"He's left town! And he's already hired a new secretary!"

"I told you there was something funny about this! And how can you get a reference if he's not here? You've never worked for anyone else."

"That's what worries me!"

"Let's eat," Sybil suggested. "I can't think when I'm hungry."

"Cheerful night," Sybil commented, as they ate.

"I know!" Joan cried suddenly. "I'll look for a job in the want ads. Where's the paper?"

Sybil indicated the small coffee table.

Joan seized the paper and turned to the classified section. "I need a job and I need it right now! Listen to this. 'Joan's voice rang with excitement as she read, 'Competent secretary wanted. Willing to work nights. Apply after 9 p. m.'"

"Wait," Sybil said seriously. "Why do they want you to work nights? And why apply after 9 p. m.?"

"What does it matter? A job's a job."

Sybil stared at her in disapproval. "You're not serious?"

Joan jumped up and ran into the bedroom. "I certainly am! I'm going to apply for that job right now!"

Sybil followed her. "You'll do nothing of the kind, Joan Leland! We're not that hard up. Even if we were, I don't want you to work nights."

Joan laughed recklessly as she ran a comb through the raven-black hair and touched a powder puff to the white skin. "You take everything too seriously, Sybil! After all, there's no harm in applying for the job. If something is wrong with it, I can tell when I go down there."

Sybil was unconvinced. "I don't like the sound of it," she insisted stubbornly. "What's the address?"

"North Beach," Sybil said carelessly.

"North Beach? That's certainly not a very good place for a girl to be working nights!"

"How do I look?" Joan asked.

Exasperated, Sybil stared at her. Joan looked sophisticated, too sophisticated, Sybil thought, because at heart Joan was just a kid. She didn't know anything about life, or about men.

"Be careful, Joan! And come right home afterwards, will you?"

"Of course! Stop treating me like a child! I'll call you after the interview, if that will make you feel any better."

"I still don't understand why Mulford fired you without notice or reason," Sybil pondered. "And why did he leave town, if that girl is telling the truth? By the way, what is she doing at the office at night?"

"I don't know. Of course I worked at night once in a while. It's strange that he should start a new girl at night. But an importing shop is a little different from a regular office."

"I don't understand why he would hire another secretary so quickly. Maybe she was lying."

"But why should she? And why should Mr. Mulford try to avoid me?"

"I wouldn't know," Sybil admitted. "But I want you to be careful tonight."

Joan, however, was not even thinking of her sister's warning as she stepped from the street car into the damp, foggy streets of North Beach. With mounting curiosity, she walked to the address given in the paper.

"Why it's a night club!" she said aloud as she paused under the long canopy that led to the street.

A sign on the door informed the passerby that the Club Elite would be open for business the following Saturday night.

Joan pushed open the heavy door and went in. She paused a moment to accustom her eyes to the dim light. To the right she could see a large room filled with gilded tables and chairs and a band stand which seemed to crowd a small dance floor.

A man appeared suddenly out of the shadows and surveyed her from head to foot before he said, "Well, what do you want?"

Joan said uneasily, "I came about an ad that was in the paper for a secretary."

He seemed relieved. "Okay. Down the hall. Second door to the left. The boss will talk to you."

Joan, following instructions, opened the door into a large modernistic office. A powerful built, blond man stood before a filing cabinet. He turned quickly as she entered.

"I came about the job advertised in the paper," she faltered.

He flashed her a quick smile from steel-blue eyes. "Won't you sit down?" His voice was tinged with an accent. Joan saw a hard face, almost grim, yet amusement hovered in his eyes. His lips seemed not to move as he spoke. The hand that indicated a chair was beautifully shaped, the fingers tapering and artistic. There was something strangely magnetic about this man.

"I am Karl Miller. And you?"

"Joan Leland is my name. Until today I have been employed by an importing firm owned by Arthur Mulford."

"Ah?" He opened a large silver box and took out a cigarette. "I was in the importing business myself, but the war stopped that. I am now opening this night club. I need a secretary to take care of the office work."

"I'm sure you'll find me satisfactory, Mr. Miller."

"You have references, of course?"

She hesitated. "No, Mr. Mulford was called out of town and I have been unable to reach him."

"If you are able to do the work, that will be sufficient. I want you to be here at night, but you won't have to come until early afternoon. Two hours off for dinner. The salary is fifty dollars a week."

Her eyes widened. "Fifty dollars a week?"

His expression did not change as he said, "Considering the unusual hours, I feel that a smaller salary would not be fair recompense."

"I understand. When do you want me to start?"

"Two o'clock tomorrow."

Joan rose to go.

At the Parting Goldwyn Sadly Disillusioned Author

This story is told by a man who is writing a new movie for Sam Goldwyn. One day the author met Goldwyn for the first time. He listened patiently while Goldwyn discussed the story, without accent or malaprop . . . "All those stories about Goldwynisms have been incorrect," he mused—while Goldwyn continued, still without accent, still using the correct words . . . "I'll write an article about Goldwyn and disprove those stories," the author vowed. Then as the conference ended, Goldwyn led him to the door and said: "Now remember, you've an important job. In this enterprise you're the main clog."

ARE YOUR Bowels Stubborn?

Then try kindness! First of all you can't expect them to act unless you give them a chance. Most people make sure to get 3 meals a day. But they never think of giving their bowels a regular time (daily) for exercise. If you've neglected YOUR bowels until they finally become stubborn and unwilling to act, ask your druggist for ADLERKA. It is an effective blend of 5 carminatives and 3 laxatives giving DOUBLE action. Gas is expelled and bowel action follows surprisingly fast. After that, make up your mind to give your bowels 8 or 10 minutes time at regular hour, daily. Your druggist has ADLERKA.

Not Worth the Hunt Life would be a perpetual flea hunt if a man were obliged to run down all the innuendoes, invectives, insinuations and misrepresentations which are uttered against him.—Henry Ward Beecher.

WRITE A LAST LINE TO THIS JINGLE

HERE'S WHAT YOU DO It's simple. It's fun. Just think up a last line to this jingle. Make sure it rhymes with the word "winner." Write your last line of the jingle on the reverse side of a Raleigh package wrapper (or a facsimile thereof), sign it with your full name and address, and mail it to Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., P. O. Box 1799, Louisville, Kentucky, postmarked not later than midnight, April 25, 1942. You may enter as many last lines as you wish, if they are all written on separate Raleigh package wrappers (or facsimiles). Prizes will be awarded on the originality and aptness of the line you write. Judges' decisions must be accepted as final. In case of ties, duplicate prizes will be awarded. Winners will be notified by mail. Anyone may enter except employees of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corp., their advertising agencies, or their families. All entries and ideas herein become the property of Brown & Williamson Tobacco Corporation.

HERE'S WHAT YOU WIN You have 123 chances to win. If you send in more than one entry, your chances of winning will be that much better. Don't delay. Start thinking right now.

1 1/2 pounds twice-ground beef (chuck or shoulder)
1/2 cup Pet Milk
6 tablespoons finely cut onion
6 tablespoons quick-cooking rolled oats
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 tablespoons butter or other shortening
1/2 cup drained, canned tomatoes
1 cup grated American cheese or 3 ozs. diced, packed variety

Turn on oven and set at moderately slow (350° F.). Mix together thoroughly ground beef, milk, onion, rolled oats, salt and pepper. Divide into 12 portions. With wet fingers shape into patties. Put in greased baking pan. Dot with bits of shortening. Bake 45 minutes, or until brown, basting at 15-minute intervals with fat in pan. Arrange drained tomatoes on patties, then sprinkle with cheese. Bake 10 minutes longer, or until cheese is melted. Serve at once. Serves 6.

*Any remaining tomatoes may be heated, seasoned and served with the hamburgers. Catsup or chili sauce may replace the tomatoes if quantity is reduced to 1/2 tablespoon for each hamburger.
