Business Men's Club

The Carrizozo Business Men's Club convened at the S. P. Hotel Thursday Dec. 10th at 6:30 p. m.

The regular meeting of the Club had been postponed from Wednesday night for the reason that a number of the members had been called to Roswell for a Selective Service meeting. There were nineteen members and nineteen visitors present, this being the night that the Business Men entertained their wives at dinner. All regular business was suspended. Under the presiding hand of President A. L. Burke a delightful program, presented by the Committee, G. T. McQuillen, Frank English, and L. Z. Manire, along with a bountiful repast was enjoyed by all.

A trio consisting of Mesdames R. E. Lemon, Roy Shafer and Rev. Klassen, sang several selections, "Silent Night" "When the Lights go on Again all Over the World" "White Christmas" which was followed by "Silver Threads Among the Gold" and which the Trio dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Burke.

John E. Hall made the address of welcome and Mrs. L. Z. Manire responded in her usual graceful manner. Mayor Finley made an address in Spanish. At the close the assemblage joined hands and sang, "Auld Lang Syne." All musical numbers being accompanied in a professional manner by Mrs. Ben B. Burns at the piano.

Acting Secretary

Good Democrats and Good Republicans

The great avalanche of questionnaires now being sent out to private business enterprises has raised the ire of members of both Senate and House. The protests are not coming from Republicans alone—good Democrats are falling in line and giving valuable assistance to the movement.

Heretofore, when the shadow of the New Deal spread over this entire country, Democrats in the Senate and House were afraid to speak their minds, lest they would be deprived of state funds with which to carry on works of various kinds, but now, that the recent election has shown that the people of this country elected the new members for the expressed purpose of taking the New Deal by the horns and saying, "thus far and no farther," good Democrats are joining with Republicans to obey the will of the people, (the government) in carrying out the fight against the New Deal administration.

Senator Byrd of Virginia, Democrat, who heretofore held his peace for the above named reason, raised his voice in the Senate last week and said that the questionnaires now being sent to business interests over the country is designed to lead America into socialism, after reporting from the committee investigating non-essential federal expenditures.

Fred A. Baughan, general manager of the Retail Food Dealers Association of California, Democrat said the increasing control over business exercised by Price Administrator Leon Henderson is aimed directly toward National Socialism, with the people getting their food at government commissaries. He further said that the OPA in that state is resorting to "get-to" methods to drive merchants into line and threatening to close stores if one of the questionnaires is not answered on time.

Eric A. Johnson of Spokane, Wash., president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and other industries, pictured American firms as being suffocated in the government red tape.

Senator George, Democrat of Ga., Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee and also of the Economy committee, angrily told the Senate last week, that "the bureaucrats seem to be sitting up at night to figure out ways and means whereby they can annoy the public into making the country go Republican in 1944.

So, as we have said, good Democrats and good Republicans are getting together in order to save this country from the evils that are throttling the business interests. The incoming Congress will perhaps have more to say along that line—so what?

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Soviet Pushes Offensive Against Nazis As Italians Contemplate Allied Threat Of Stepped-Up Campaign Against Them; Tunisia Battle Climaxes African Drive

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

The liberated French supplied the refreshments and a 16ast was raised to an American alliance when a lieutenant with the Xankee invasion forces brought word to the Foreign Legion barracks in S&B, Morocco, that the troops there were no longer prisoners. Thus ended another phase of the Allies' North African campaign.

TUNISIA: Allied Wedge

Axis forces in Tunisia stood with their backs to the sea as Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British first army thrust a wedge between enemy strongholds in Tunisia by capturing the town of Djedida, which controls road and rail communications between Tunis and the Bizerte naval base.

This by severing communications between Tunis and Bizerte, the Allies virtually had isolated the Axis positions, leaving only a coastal road open.

The German-controlled Paris radio said that fighting was taking place in the Mateur region and indicated that the British are preparing for a general offensive by deploying forces in that sector.

Axis forces fell back, following futile counterattacks, within the semicircular defense line around Tunis and Bizerte. According to the Morocco radio, Allied paratroopers attacked Axis positions near Mateur and other Allied forces stabbed at the defenders of Tunis.

Defeat of the Axis in Tunisia would leave Allied troops free to move south into Tripolitania and attack Marshal Erwin Rommel's Africa corps from the rear while General Montgomery's British eighth army attacked from the east.

That such plans were contemplated was indicated by the fact that for four straight days General Montgomery's headquarters had "nothing to report." It looked as though Montgomery was delaying an assault on Rommel at El Aghella and merely holding off until the trap was sprung.

TRAGEDY: Strikes Boston

Not since the 1903 Iroquois theater fire in Chicago had so many people been burned or suffocated to death as perished in the disaster which struck the Cocoanut Grove night club that Saturday night in Boston. An incomplete toll by the police first set the number of dead at 477 with the belief that it might rise above 600. At the time this count was made 212 persons were receiving hospital treatment for their burns and injuries.

As hysterical parents and friends were engaged in the difficult task of identifying the bodies of those killed, Stanley Tomaszewski, a 18-year-old high school boy and part-time employee of the club, told his story of how the blaze began. He said that after a patron had uncured a light bulb he attempted to replace it and when he lighted a match to see better, the flame ignited some of the decorations. Swiftly the flames spread and the 750 patrons rushed frantically for the exits. Many were killed as they were trampled beneath rioting hundreds seeking escape. Only about 100 of the total 750 in the building escaped unhurt.

Many of the persons killed were servicemen and football fans celebrating college victories of that afternoon. Buck Jones, well-known western star of the movies, was among the persons who had packed the smart club.

As all available medical help was rushed to the scene, the Red Cross released supplies of blood plasma which was used in extreme cases in efforts to keep the death toll down.

NAZI SHIP: Trapped in Pacific

In a double-edged announcement from Allied headquarters in Australia came word that two destroyers attempting to reinforce Japanese units at Buna were believed sunk by Allied bombers, while far to the west an 8,000-ton German auxiliary ship was trapped and 78 Germans captured.

The announcement was the first mention of Nazi shipping in this area for months.

WARNING: To Italians

In a world broadcast on the eve of his 68th birthday, Prime Minister Winston Churchill proclaimed that American and British forces in North Africa expected to "expel the enemy before long" and warned the 40,000,000 people of Italy to overthrow their dictator and sue for peace.

After the conclusion of the Mediterranean campaign, Churchill said, Africa will serve the purpose for which Lieut. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is preparing it—as a springboard from which large scale operations on the continent of Europe can be undertaken.

The route for this attack, he indicated, lay through Italy. "Our operations in French Africa should enable us to bring the weight of the war home to the Italian Fascist state in a manner not hitherto dreamed of by its gully leaders, or still less, by the unfortunate people Mussolini has led, exploited and disgraced."

Although the Churchill talk was optimistic, he warned that the war is likely to be a long one and that bloody and bitter years lie ahead. He refused to predict whether the war in Europe will be over before that in the Pacific, but said that if such was the case all fighting forces of the United Nations would automatically come to the aid of the United States, China and Britain's own kin in Australia and New Zealand.

Turin Smashed

In the heaviest raid of the war on Italy, hundreds of British bombers smashed the city of Turin with fourteen bombs, probably knocking it out of the Italian war effort.

As if foreshadowing Prime Minister Churchill's warning to the Italian people, the bombing destroyed great areas of the city. The super block-busters and fire from 100,000 incendiaries pulverized huge sections of the city. Turin is Italy's biggest industrial city, the home of the Fiat engine works, the Caproni bomber planes and many other important factories.

RUSSIA: An Answer

On the cold steppes before Stalingrad and in the blustery valleys of the Caucasus, the Russian armies gave an answer to a question that military experts had been asking ever since Hitler's troops had driven deep into Soviet territory. It was the question: "Has Hitler destroyed the Russian army?" And the answer was an emphatic "No."

This year's Russian winter offensive began first in Stalingrad itself, where the Germans had been fought to a standstill. Then it spread quickly as Soviet forces struck simultaneously from the north and south knifing through Nazi defenses on both flanks and thrusting spearheads far across the Don River. Three hundred thousand German troops were thus encircled. These were the bulk of the enemy detachments laying siege to Stalingrad. As the first week of the offensive ended, Russian reports credited their army with taking a toll of 260,000 Axis soldiers killed, wounded or captured.

Also in the Caucasus to the south and around Leningrad in the north the Russian might began to tell. Even Berlin admitted that the Russians were "counterattacking."

But the biggest threat to Nazi prestige was the Russian campaign in the Rhev-Veliki Luki area west of Moscow. Here a strong action pushed toward the Latvian border and threatened to cut Hitler's northern and southern fighting flanks.

What puzzled the experts was how Stalin had been able to conserve so much of his power while the Germans had been pounding him hard all summer. Most vital question now was whether or not the strong Russian offensive could maintain its momentum long enough to drive the Germans back.

FIGHTING DOLLARS: Tops in Financing

When President Roosevelt launched the nine billion dollar "Victory Loan" drive by purchasing a $1,000 Bond from Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau he set in motion the greatest financing program in all history.

"This money is needed by the government to meet obligations stemming from the war effort and the President urged that everyone turn his idle money into "fighting dollars" by buying some of these bonds. Pointing out that while over 23 million Americans were already buying war bonds through payroll deduction plans, there still were many who could get in on this new-cut plan of building up government income.

While the new borrowing campaign is being handled largely by the nation's banks, all wage earners and corporations are being urged to buy these latest securities of all types. Beginning at $500 the bonds are available to all investors and it is hoped that half the amount needed will be raised outside banks.

AIR STRENGTH: Asia Evidence

Heavy United Nations air raids were raining destruction on Jap bases and supply centers in Burma, Thailand and Indo-China as the growing strength of this arm of activity against the enemy became increasingly evident.

This most recent surge of air strength began with a terrific pounding of Jap railway yards at Mandalay and reached its apex when a U. S. group of bombers and fighters shot down at least 23 planes in one day during operations against the great Pearl river base in China.

In that raid tons of explosives were dropped on the Pearl river estuary, sinking two medium sized freighters and upwards of 100 barges. In addition many docks and warehouses were set ablaze.

SUICIDE FLEET: Scuttled by French

So that France "might at least be spared the supreme shame of seeing her ships become the ships of the enemy," French sailors destroyed 60-odd ships at Toulon, removing the last visible asset of the Vichy government.

The words were those of Charles de Gaulle, leader of the Fighting French. The sentiment was that of all the Allied nations.

Word of the suicide of France's home fleet disclosed that many French officers and dynamite crews went down with their vessels in wild dawn battles with German boarding parties attempting to halt the scuttling of the vessels.

ADMIRAL LABORDE
Was given orders.

Warships now littering the bottom of Toulon harbor include three battleships, four heavy and three light cruisers, one seaplane tender, 25 destroyers and 23 submarines. Two submarines escaped and a third struck a mine dropped by a Nazi plane as it attempted to flee.

London sources accepted the scuttling as evidence that Adm. Jean Darlan has been secretly playing the Allied game. Fighting French sources said that Adm. Jean Abrial, new Vichy naval secretary, undoubtedly gave Adm. de la Borde orders to scuttle the ships.

LIMIT—A limit of 14 days to all army furloughs during the holiday season was announced by Secretary of War Stimson. Because of the increasing strain on U. S. railway facilities between December 12 and January 12 leaves will be granted to no more than 10 per cent of the enlisted strength of each army post.

DOUBLED—OPA officials announced in Washington that twice as many passenger car tires would be available for rationing in December as compared to last month.

MOSKERY—Price Administrator Leon Henderson has set specific maximum retail prices on women's silk hose at from 35 cents to $1.46, depending on quality and type.

GUEST—Upon completion of medical treatment in the U. S., Madame Chiang Kai-shek, wife of the Chinese generalissimo, was to be the guest of President and Mrs. Roosevelt at the White House. Her trip to this country was kept a secret until she arrived at her destination.

CHRISTMAS—"On the birthday of the Prince of Peace we can and should rest from the production of the weapons of war." With those words, Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, announced that Christmas will be observed as a full holiday in the nation's war plants.

Christmas Rush Raises Problem For Big Stores

Preparations for Handling Shoppers Begun in January.

Christmas is a headache for managers of big department stores. Not only must the demand for presents be anticipated months in advance, but more help must be hired, and the entire store reorganized.

A big store faces a monumental task when it prepares for Christmas. It is a task that begins right after New Year's and ends on Christmas eve the following year.

Every department store has similar problems to meet, but the larger stores have to make plans on a scale that will accommodate an enormous expansion of business. One large New York department store, for example, has as much floor space as a fair sized farm—45 acres. During the Christmas rush it has sold almost a million dollars' worth of goods.

Actual planning gets under way immediately after Christmas when executives study errors that were made and draw up plans to avoid the same mistakes next year. Sales volumes of various departments are examined, and "bottlenecks" are removed as far as possible by enlarging some departments and rearranging others.

Spring finds the store placing orders for the following year. Christmas cards are bought in April. Contracts for 2,000,000 Christmas boxes which are let in July are followed shortly by orders for many tons of holiday wrappings.

Extremely important is the job of forecasting sales of goods. Certain staple lines can be predicted with considerable efficiency, but novelty goods have to wait almost until the following December.

August finds employment beginning its upward trend. The store is normally staffed with 11,000 people, but 10,000 more are needed to handle the holiday rush. Thousands of applicants must be interviewed for these jobs that range from the man who cleans gum off the floor to red-cheeked Santa Clauses. Each employee must first pass a rigid physical examination before he is finally accepted and given instruction in his special tasks.

The greatest problem of all is presented by the toy department, which expands from a staff of about 50 people to more than 1,500 workers. Display cases and tables holding 12,000 different toys must be arranged and organized, to permit customers to buy their gifts with a minimum of confusion and effort.

The 10,000 additional workers not only have to be trained, but they also have to be fed. Cafeteria schedules are rearranged and set with clockwork precision to provide for the heavy seasonal load.

Ordinarily 14 doctors, 18 nurses and four dentists are sufficient to take care of any accidents occurring in the store. This staff is assisted by eight additional doctors during the holiday rush. Wheel chairs strategically placed throughout the store are ready to give instant service for any customer or clerk who is overcome by the work or crush of the crowd.

No detail can be overlooked to make the entire store function smoothly as a unit. For every clerk there are two other workers handling stock, wrapping presents, taking orders and doing some of the multitudinous tasks that are needed to run a big store.

For example, can you speak only French, or Spanish, or Italian? The store has 700 interpreters capable of speaking at least one foreign language who stand ready to accommodate you.

Of course the planning is not perfect. Problems will arise and inconvenient situations will exist. But you can be sure that every effort will be made to straighten them out before a single showcase is moved into position for next year's Christmas shopping season.

Select Children's Books

Carefully, Teacher Urges

Books given to children at Christmas are a valuable element in the development of the child, according to Mrs. Mary S. Venable of the University of Tennessee Nursery school.

Factors to be considered in the selection of children's books, says Mrs. Venable, are: suitability to the child's age and development; choice of words contained in the story; amount of action; number of illustrations; and degree of repetition. She also says that there should be some humorous stories in a child's collection.

Early Christmas Tree

Christmas tree decorations in 1804 are reported in an early note: "At Christmas they set up fir trees in the parlors of Strasbourg, and hang thereon roses cut out of many-colored papers, apples, wafers, gold foil, sweets and so on."

Christmas Cakes

Christmas cakes, iced cookies and other goodies are survivals of the old custom of giving confectionery gifts to the senators of Rome.

Washington Digest
New House Seats Promise Merry Christmas for GOP

Under Guidance of Republican Leader Joe Martin, Democrats Will Face Increasing House Opposition.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C.

The GOP elephant is looking forward to his merriest Christmas in a long time. His trunk will be filled with lots of pretty presents this year—those nice, new, comfortable seats in the house of representatives and the senate.

As the last session of the 77th congress moves to a close there is a contented smile on more than one Republican visage. Not the least genial is former Republican national chairman and continuing leader of the house, Joe Martin of Massachusetts—the "a" in "yard" at Harvard. (That doesn't mean, however, that Joe talks Harvardese—he's a small town boy and makes the most of it.) Beginning January 4, 1943, when the new congress meets, Joe will be out in front ready and able to snap a long raw-hide over his political herd. He doesn't use that method, but he knows what everybody else has known since November 3—that his political power has risen like the mercury in August.

Silently Behind the Scenes

Like most of the effective workers in congress, inter or intra-party, Joe does his stuff quietly behind the scenes. And the impression I got when I talked with him recently in the gloomy, high ceilinged office of the minority leader in the Capitol was that he is more comfortable now that he has slipped out of the chairmanship robes. He can get his coat off, roll up his sleeves and start on his big under-cover campaign.

The slogan for the new venture is "12 to 13 or fight." That means, as most people in Washington know already, 12 Republicans for every 13 Democrats on the congressional committees. (Most committees have 25 members.) That will mean a bare majority of one for the Democrats and more than a corresponding increase in Republican influence in the drafting of legislation.

Reduce Expenditures

There are certain Democrats in both houses, such as Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia, upon whom house leader Martin can count to join in the chorus of one of the theme songs which is going to be heard raised with vehemence from the Republican side of the house—reduction of expenditures for non-war projects.

Taxes, the Republicans say, are going to make the middle class more class conscious than they have been for a long time. The white collar, salary man, realizes that he is carrying a financial load which is not being shared by the great army of workers whose incomes have skyrocketed. Many of the middle class are on fixed salaries that didn't go up. It is this class which has bought the most bonds. The Republicans are going to take advantage of this situation and do their utmost to become the champions of the middle class.

One Republican congressman said to me recently:

"We can't outbid the U. S. treasury for the support of the people who are getting various kinds of subsidies or benefits from the administration. We have got to appeal to the salary man, the man with a small business, the fireman, the bus-driver, the people who are paying for homes and buying insurance. That's why it will be a bad mistake if we get ourselves tied up with any of the wealthy eastern politicians. They can give us some money, but that's all. We won in the last elections with very little financial help."

As this is being written, the choice of a Republican national chairman has not been made, but if it goes to an easterner whose backers are associated in the public mind with great wealth, it will be a bitter disappointment to a group of practical minded Republicans in congress who are looking forward seriously and hopefully to the presidential campaign in 1944.

However, at this point it might be said that the national committee chairman in neither party has the power or the importance that he once held. There was a time when he could get on the long distance phone and tell a state chairman just whom he wanted nominated for the presidency and if he was a fairly powerful popular figure, "the boys" could and would frequently deliver. Those days are over and press and radio gets much of the credit. Candidates have become real personalities to the voters and the voters don't let the bosses make up their minds for them any more.

Increase of Federal Agents

The Republicans realize this. They also realize that there are other powerful influences which exist now which did not exist the last time they won a presidential election—one is the increased influence of the party in power which has grown with the increased number of federal agents who are in contact with the people. The Republicans, therefore, will do all in their power in the next session of congress to cut down the organizations such as the Triple A and the OPA.

Another federal agency which undoubtedly will be greatly increased if the man-power problem is to be solved, is the United States Employment Service. However, if the employment service has to stand out in front in the enforcement of a compulsory labor law, it may become a political boomerang to whomever the public considers is responsible for it and the Republicans hope to manipulate that situation to their benefit.

Leading the Republican party next year will require political skill because the party of the opposition in wartime is in a difficult position. It must get its share of the credit for winning the war, but it must avoid the blame for the mistakes which are bound to be made and side-step the brickbats which any measure attracts which hits any particular group of voters.

The Republicans have plenty of problems ahead, but if House Leader Martin is typical, they have plenty of confidence and more energy and enthusiasm than they have been able to display for a decade.

Here are excerpts from three days of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard's diary (if he kept a diary, which he doesn't, but the words are the secretary's).

Monday: Went to Peoria, Ill., and addressed a meeting of the National Catholic Rural Life conference. This organization was founded over 20 years ago and has as its objective the betterment of rural living.

At noon attended a luncheon meeting given by the Chamber of Commerce. Many farmers were present. In the evening I addressed a meeting of the American Meat Institute in Chicago. The institute had a number of farm leaders as their guests. At all of those places the question I heard most often was: "How are we going to get enough farm labor to keep up the production which you say must be maintained?"

After the meeting Monday evening I went down to my farm in Indiana. The fall pigs had to be vaccinated and given shelter. There were the usual amount of repairs and odd jobs to be done and I began to see the need for more help. The labor shortage which I had heard about during the last few days was painfully evident on my own farm.

Tuesday: Sold the last of our spring pigs. I obtained use of a couple of trucks in addition to my own and we had them all in the stock yards by noon. My daughter, Ann, came up to the farm from Purdue university after morning classes and we drove the last truckload of hogs to market ourselves.

While at the bank, the editor of the local paper came in and greeted me and remarked it was too bad about Joe Todd. I asked him what had happened. He told me Joe's relatives had just received word that he had been killed in action in the Pacific. Joe and Ann had gone to the same country school. They had been in the same Sunday school class in our country church. He had enlisted early in the air corps and had advanced to the rank of a first lieutenant.

Wednesday: Back in Washington . . . I wish that it were possible for me to see and talk to farm people more often because of the inspiration I receive from them.

SADDLE and RIDE By ERNEST HAYCOX

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan has decided to play a lone hand against Ben Herendeen...

He made out the crowd in the yard and watched the parley.

New continue with the story.

CHAPTER XVI

It was still close and risky, as they both knew. Morgan swapped a short glance with the smiling White, seeing a thorough understanding in the latter's eyes.

The river road bent around a point. Reaching this point, ready to turn it and shut the Three Pines ranch house from sight...

"A little late now," said Morgan. "There's a fight coming. Ben's made up his mind, and so have I."

"A long time coming," said Morgan, and put his horse to the slope. Lige White watched him climb, excitement mirroring brightly in his eyes.

Pete Borders, who had driven the Long Seven beef across the Haycreek Hills to Herendeen's range, lay on a peak of the ridge throughout the middle of the day.

Later when he saw Morgan headed for Herendeen's alone, Pete Borders grew serious and a little restless.

He made out the crowd in the yard and watched the parley. Later he saw a new rider come along—which was Lige White—and saw two of them ride away.

As soon as Morgan left Lige White, he turned his horse to the slope of the Haycreek Hills and presently, from a high point, he saw Herendeen leave the valley with his crew.

He caught up with his outfit a mile or two beyond the swamp. The cattle were single file, going very slowly on the crooked trail and stretched out for three or four hundred yards.

"Hell with 'em," said Harry Jump at once. "Let's stop and have it out."

"Keep right on going. Fox, cut ahead and ride with Cap. If you hear any ruckus back here, join us. If you meet anything in front, let out a yell and we'll be right with you."

They came at last to the stage road and turned into it. From the swamp meadow to this point had been more than an hour's drive and Herendeen was long overdue, leading Morgan to believe that Herendeen had circled them.

Herendeen was nowhere to be seen, whereupon Harry Jump came to his suspecting conclusions. "He didn't want to try it in timber. He's waitin' for us to get in the middle of the flats. My idea is that he's watchin' us from the Potholes right now."

"No," said Jump at once. "It's our beef, by God."

"That's right," said Morgan. Vermilye joined Harry Jump, both of them urging the cattle along at a quicker gait. Morgan closely watched the back trail, not quite able to understand Herendeen's continued delay.

Morgan said: "Hold this jag in a bunch. We're not through yet. I want Herendeen to see what we took. Fox, if I were you I think I'd pull freight. Thanks for comin' along."

Willing said, idly: "Might as well stick around."

Cap Vermilye, always a forehanded man, got a few sage stems and a piece of old board from the nearest building to make up a fire. He had a frying pan and coffee pot in his saddle roll; and some bacon and a can of beans.

Gale came up but did not dismount until Morgan gave him the proper invitation. When the invitation came he dropped to the ground with an old man's stiffness; he pointed both his hands over the muzzle of his ancient gun and looked out from beneath his twisted awning-shaped eyebrows.

"They're half an hour behind me. We're apt to have a scrap."

"Hell with 'em," said Harry Jump at once. "Let's stop and have it out."

"Just what I need," Gale answered. He slouched over the fire and tipped the pot against his mouth, drinking with an acute thirst. Coffee ran down the seams of his jaws.

Morgan said: "Don't mean to be unfriendly, but maybe you ought to move on."

like the last glow of coals of a dying fire. "Don't you worry about me, Mr. Morgan. If I didn't know what I wanted to do, I wouldn't be here."

Morgan shrugged his shoulders. "Your funeral."

"It may be," agreed Gale composedly. "But if so, it will be a double one. At my age I'm too old to worry about dyin', for it is pretty close to me at any event, and I guess I'm poor enough not to fret about losin' anything."

He rummaged his pockets, producing pipe and tobacco. Morgan watched him fill the pipe and light it and settle on his heels.

This was late September and suddenly, slightly beyond seven o'clock, the blue-running shadows turned to gunmetal gray and afterwards to full night. The haze of autumn lay over the land. Through this filtered a strong moonlight creating the effect of woolly clouds banked against the earth.

Stationed like this, apart from the group and facing southward, he heard Herendeen at last approach, hidden by the pulsing fog. Off there a steady rhythm rose, of horses moving at a slow run and presently slowing to a walk. Shadows appeared in the fog, and shapeless outlines. Fox Willing came in from the herd, dismounting and putting his horse near the dobe wall.

"Morgan, I'm coming in to cut that bunch of stock and look it over for my brand."

Morgan said: "None of your cows in it, Ben."

"I'll see for myself." Those shadows were too vague to be counted but Morgan knew Herendeen had at least eight men around him and he also knew Herendeen's intention—which was to build up a fight on any grounds. He said: "Charley Hillhouse there?"

"No, I'm coming in." Morgan said: "Nothing here for you, Ben. Stay back."

Herendeen's voice boomed out. "You know the rules of the country. It's my privilege to cut any man's range for my stock. I claim there's Three Pines cows in that bunch."

"If there are," said Morgan coolly, "I'll send them back tomorrow."

"You're in a hurry all of a sudden," pointed out Morgan ironically. "I sent word to you some time ago to clean your stuff out of this valley and you didn't seem to figure it worth your time. So you can wait another day. You won't cut this bunch tonight, or any time. Get off my range."

"You goin' against the rules?" "You been making the rules a long time, Ben. Now I'll make 'em." Herendeen said: "I've listened to you long enough. We'll settle this now."

Morgan's reply was soft and flat in the night. "Let 'er flicker, Ben. When you move in we start shootin'."

BANKS AND THE WAR

Will You Help Relieve The Pressure

The vital bank functions of protecting, collecting, paying and transferring funds have been intensified greatly by the war. At the same time such patriotic activities as selling war bonds have increased the pressure on bank personnel. You can help relieve this pressure by banking in "off" hours, such as the morning, and if possible on non-rush days. You can help by making out your own deposit slips, by endorsing all items carefully and correctly before depositing and by banking by mail. We shall be glad to discuss any of these points with you.

Irene
When Irene got home from the airplane factory she was good and tired. This was the hour, after work and before dinner, that she always looked forward to. Her private name for it was "My sissy hour." Into it, these days, she packed all the lazy, luxurious little things she loved—things that used to take up a lot more than an hour of her peace-time days. She sat down at the little desk in her room. You could tell quite a lot about Irene from that desk. The water-glass filled with the small bouquet of flowers she sometimes bought on the way home. The paper-weight of pink marble. The thin, crackly blue air-mail stationery. And the big, framed photograph of a young man in a corporal's uniform—as good-looking a man as Irene was pretty. On the blotter pad lay the telegram that had come that morning just as she was leaving for work. With those long, well-shaped fingers she reached for a sheet of paper. She nibbled the end of her pen for a bit, and then she wrinkled up her nose at the picture of the soldier and began to write, "Dear Mr. Morgenthau", but the corporal's name was Jackson and she called him Pete. Her round handwriting spread across the page. "My boy friend is with the A. E. F. in Ireland. He has cabled me fifty dollars with which to buy a diamond ring. I've been thinking it over and decided to buy a War Bond to help Uncle Sam instead. This may help to bring my boy friend home sooner, and then he can help me select my ring." Slowly she began to sign her name. "Irene"

Over the Top by New Year's Is the Plea of Secretary Morgenthau

November 13, 1942

As of today twenty-one million American workers are investing eight per cent of their salary—every pay day—in United States War Savings Bonds. This is a very remarkable tribute to our armed forces who are fighting this war. But this job is only two-thirds accomplished.

There are nine million additional American workers who are not investing in War Bonds every pay day.

This appeal is directed to two groups of Americans:

First—the twenty-one million people who are investing eight per cent of their wages. We ask them to increase their investment to ten per cent or more.

Second—the other nine million whom we ask to join the Payroll Savings Plan and to invest ten per cent or more of their earnings.

It is our earnest hope here at the Treasury Department that by New Year's Day thirty million Americans will be investing ten per cent or more of their wages in War Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan.

Southern Pacific is facing a critical situation in connection with holiday travel. Many thousands of men in uniform are being given holiday furloughs. We think everyone agrees that these men should be given first consideration. We intend to carry them wherever they wish to go.

Where men in uniform are not going on furlough they will be visited, in many cases, by their parents or wives. Their travel requirements must be recognized, too.

The tide of war traffic—troops, equipment, supplies and war materials—is mounting higher and higher, and we are hard pressed to supply the equipment to move it. Every locomotive we have or can rent is being used. The supply of passenger-carrying cars left for civilian use is naturally reduced.

Consequently, we will not be able to carry all the people who want to make holiday trips, despite all our efforts to increase the passenger-carrying capacity of our trains.

This is why we ask you not to travel during the holiday season.

Rural America's Future Prosperity or Hard Times All Depends on Action of Farmers During Present Period

400 Per Cent Increase in Income Over '29 Causes Boom Danger to Arise

WILL THIS WAR PRODUCE A LAND BOOM ON AMERICAN FARMS?

This question concerns not only agricultural economists, but everyone who lives on or near a farm. Its answer will largely determine future prosperity or hard times for rural America.

Every previous war has brought its own land boom that left a wreckage of deflation behind. Under ordinary circumstances and with an ordinary war, the current situation would be ripe for history to repeat itself.

Meanwhile agricultural income has soared to record highs, production has reached unheard-of peaks and the 1943 outlook promises further expansion.

Farm economists are frankly puzzled over the trend of land prices but they unanimously hope it continues. They credit the good sense of farmers themselves with the fact that farm real estate prices have risen so slightly thus far.

Production picture brilliant. As the 1942 crop year ends, farm conditions never appeared more promising.

As the 1942 crop year ends, farm conditions never appeared more promising. More than 15 billion dollars will flow into farmers' pockets from this year's bumper harvest.

The production picture is equally brilliant. For example, the 1942 corn crop is reckoned at 3,132,000,000 bushels—a record exceeded only by 1920 and then by but a slight margin.

For example, the 1942 corn crop is reckoned at 3,132,000,000 bushels—a record exceeded only by 1920 and then by but a slight margin. The crop ordinarily runs between 2 and 2 1/2 billion bushels, but dipped down to 1 1/2 billion in the drought

More, and Still More

Every productive acre of farm land will be called on to yield more food for Uncle Sam's expanding armed forces in 1943 and to meet Lend-Lease demands. As a result the value of farm land as an investment will be enhanced.

ed States by the end of this year. More milk cows are grazing America's pastures than ever before—25,000,000 to be exact. Egg production for 1942 is estimated at 50 billion. Poultrymen are receiving top prices for their production.

Ordinarily whenever an industry does as well as farming has done, there is a tendency to speculate. Those already in the business seek to expand their operations. Others seek to get in on the bonanza.

A survey of the rural real estate market recently revealed that farms are selling in increasing numbers, but no unusual price advances are yet noticeable.

The Farm Credit corporation and insurance companies have been leaders in liquidating their farm holdings. It is estimated that the FCA has disposed of more than 25,000 farms since 1938. Some insurance companies report they have sold more than 90 per cent of the farms they acquired during the depression. In recent months thousands of Midwest farms have changed hands in individual farm auction sales.

Analysis of the transactions revealed that 60 per cent of the buyers were farmers, half of whom were tenants. Of the tenants, most were former landholders who had lost out during the depression, when 2,100,000 farms were foreclosed. With farm income on the rise, these tenants are getting back on their feet and able to make down payments on farms of their own.

Of the 40 per cent non-farmer buyers, a large group represented city dwellers approaching retirement age who have bought farms in order to live reasonably on their pensions and income from savings.

How long this paradoxical situation of high farm income and low farm real estate values will continue, economists do not care to predict. But they point out three factors which at present make the farm picture of World War II different from that of World War I:

1. Today's farmers would rather get out of debt than into it. Hence they are not bidding up the farm real estate market by seeking additional land. Instead they are paying off mortgages and investing their surplus funds in War Bonds. They are making needed repairs on buildings and building up their land's productivity by the adequate use of fertilizers and by other soil conservation measures.

2. The hangover aftermath of World War I's land speculation spree is still fresh in the memory of most farmers. Farmers are hedging on the future by "plowing back" present earnings into their present holdings without attempting any expansion.

3. The present farm labor shortage and the rationing of farm machinery are effective deterrents to the urge to acquire more land.

Let's look first at the debt situation. The extent to which farmers are using their expanded income to get out of debt was disclosed by A. G. Black, head of the Farm Credit administration, who recently pointed out that a large percentage of farm mortgages are now being paid off ahead of schedule. The nation's farm mortgage debt has been reduced to 6 1/2 billion dollars—the lowest figure in 25 years. There are fewer foreclosures and other distress transfers than at any time in the past 20 years.

"Farmers realize more than ever before that a healthy, liquid financial condition is the safest goal these days," said a recent statement of the Middle West Soil Improvement committee. "Such a goal means getting debts out of the way. It means building up the blood strains of livestock and eliminating the non-producers. It means making needed repairs on the house and barn. It means paying particular attention to the fertility level of the soil."

Long-Run Earning Power. "This last is of particular importance, for the real value of land is dependent on its long-run earning power. Thus any investment in a self-building program that will pay dividends in years to come is an important contribution to a farm's future productivity."

"In wartime as in peace, the farmer can obtain valuable information from his county agent or agronomist at the state agricultural experiment station in developing his soil improvement plan. Such a program should include the raising of legumes to provide necessary nitrogen, the commercial supply of which is now largely required by munitions factories. It should include regular crop rotation and the use of sufficient quantities of fertilizer containing phosphorus and potash to encourage plant growth."

"It should include pasture improvement. By means of such a program, the soil's future fertility level can be assured and its immediate output of foods and fibers for war and civilian needs increased."

Most farmers instinctively fear a repetition of the World War I land boom. Their hindsight has taught them many valuable lessons from the bitter experience of the 1920s and early '30s. If they profit by that hindsight, they can escape the headache of a land collapse.

World War I was a story of agricultural upsurge. Farm income rose from $6 billion in 1914 to 14 1/2 billion in 1919. High prices and a ready market for agricultural products, plus easy credit facilities, encouraged farmers to bid up land prices. Farms were bought on speculation with the expectation of a quick sale at a profit. Land values were inflated from an average of $40 per acre in 1914 to $70 in 1920. Within those six years farm real estate rose in total value from 39 1/2 billion dollars to 66 billion.

The sequel was a crash that still reverberates. Land prices fell from an average of $70 per acre to $38. More than a third of the nation's six million farms were foreclosed by the end of the depression. All farm land and buildings declined from 66 billion to 31 billion. Even today farm real estate is worth only 36 billion dollars—less than it was before World War I.

I. He slugged it out unto the end— This slam-bang fighting man— A knock-em-downer from way back Was Dan J. Callaghan! There in the black and bloody night He helped to blast the foe; An admiral—all-out to win Who died in doing so!

II. The Jap armada on the hunt, Outnumbering our force, Came out to strike a telling blow (With sneaky ways, of course); It had, by all the laws of weight, A prospect more than fair For victory . . . except that men Like Callaghan were there!

III. Bill Halsey was the battle chief— Another scrappy Celt; Two Irishmen were topside there, As soon the Charlies felt; The Japs were physically strong But mentally not sharp— They should have known no Nipponese Could ever trim a "harp."

IV. The foe bore down from Bougainville Our lesser force to pin; It met Halsey and Callaghan And soon bore back again. Two tougher, slashing, slambang lads Were never in one fleet As Nippon found when such as they Got word "Turn on the heat!"

V. The foe's cry "On to victory!" Soon changed to "Who threw that?" As Callaghan tore in between Their lines in "nothing flat"; They thought all hell had broken loose And saw a new type war When Dannie Callaghan let go A few swings from the floor.

VI. "What's going on?" some Togo cried As deadly wallops grew; "Search me," another one replied, "For I am groggy, too!" And groggy was the word for it For soon the frantic "drips" Were pattered to a point where they Were blasting their own ships!

VII. They'd looked for that "one-ocean" fleet And how were they to know One-ocean fleets were plenty with Two Celts to run the show? But well they know about it now And—mark this well, Japan: Our Navy has a new job now— Avenge Dan Callaghan!

VIII. Oh, there were other heroes there; None more than Callaghan Would understate what he had done And praise some other man; But no one's place in history Can be much more secure For he died on the fighting bridge To make the triumph sure.

THE VALUE OF THE CHURCH TO THE SOCIAL ORDER

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 5:13-16; Mark 13:33-37; I Peter 2:13-17. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are the salt of the earth. . . Ye are the light of the world.—Matthew 5:13, 14.

Social and political leaders have in the church the strongest influence for good in all the world. One marvels that those who profess to seek the best for humanity, who try every kind of social experiment, who labor with every expedient of man, fail to see and use in full measure the power of Christianity.

Whatever the reason, the situation should be remedied. America could solve her problems, both social and political, by a nation-wide revival of true Christianity, with the accompanying salvation of thousands of unconverted. If we cannot have that, let us not fail to have a revival in our own hearts, our own churches, our neighborhoods or communities.

We find in our lesson that the church is:

I. A Powerful Influence for Moral Good (Matt. 5:13-16).

Salt in the midst of corruption, light in a world of unbelievable darkness—what striking and meaningful figures with which to describe the Christian.

Believers are the "salt of the earth" because they draw their savor from God Himself. The Christian church, by God's own statement, is His own powerful antiseptic which preserves the social order from falling into the moral decay which sometimes seems imminent. It should, therefore, be honored and encouraged by that society which it serves.

Christians are the "light of the world," and it is the essential nature of light to shine. The darker its surroundings the more marked its brightness, and the more needed its illumination. The good works of Christians reflect the goodness of God, and so they glorify His worthy name. Brother, is your light burning brightly in this wicked world?

II. A Stabilizing Element in Society (Mark 12:13-17).

The world is in social ferment, and our own country has its share of "isms" and social theories calling men to follow, asking their loyalty, making them Utopian promises without foundation. Alert and intelligent Americans are concerned about these clamorous voices, many of which are quite properly suspected of having purposes far from beneficial to our American way of life, or to democracy itself. Yet they dare not oppose them lest there be the cry of denial of freedom of speech, etc.

What can we do to meet them? Here is the answer: Preach Christ. Bring men to a saving knowledge of Him and to a godly way of living. For the Christian is directed by Christ Himself to "render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's"—and they do it too, because they have first rendered "to God the things that are God's."

III. A Loyal Example of Good Citizenship (I Pet. 2:13-17).

The highest measure of loyalty to country is the Christian standard here stated. In Romans 13:1-10 we learn that all authority comes from God and that the power of rulers is to be recognized as His gift. That means that true rulers will submit to Him in every detail of their government, seeking to know and to do His will.

However, the Christian gives loyal obedience to the "powers that be" even though they may not recognize the source of their power. This is subject only to the limitation that they may not demand that we do those things that dishonor God's name. Since their only real power to rule comes from Him, they have no authority to tell anyone to do that which is against His holy will. When that happens, the Higher Authority takes over and our loyalty must be to Him, the King of kings. The Christian then will be the best citizen, eager to do what king or country may ask, in order thus to bear a good testimony and to close the mouth of foolish critics of the church.

The history of our country and of other lands reveals the names of many illustrious Christian patriots, and the roll of honor of those who loved and served their country well in the humble and difficult places, would bear its hundreds of thousands of names which are found also on the roll of the church.

Christians, let us be earnest and intelligent followers of Christ, whose lives count for eternal righteousness. "For God and Country" is the excellent motto of the American Legion, but it should be more than that; it should be the purpose of every Christian citizen.

The best is none too good for our men in the service. That's why it's worthwhile consulting them for their gift preferences this Christmas. According to surveys made in camps and barracks, cigarettes and smoking tobacco head the list as the gifts preferred by our boys in O. D. and blue. SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

In 1942, rubber production in the U.S. was 75 per cent of 1941. Rubber is a natural product. It is not made in a factory. It is a gift from God. The rubber content of the world's supply is estimated at 100,000,000 tons. The average passenger car has 20 lbs. of rubber. In 1941, the rubber content of the world's supply was 100,000,000 tons. The average weight of the average passenger car tire is 21.50 pounds, while in 1941 it was 20.25 pounds. There is a rubber in Oklahoma, Iowa, who will carry a 20-ton load on his car on original equipment in 1942. He has the load on the wheels when the car is not in use.

United States government leading way in soil conservation crusade, abolishing soil-mining

Undeniably, farm labor shortages and the rationing of agricultural machinery are deterrents to over-expansion. With the War Manpower Commission's recent move to defer dairy, livestock and poultry workers, some relief will be forthcoming, but labor will be scarce. In all history there never has been a time when it was more essential for farmers to follow efficient production methods and utilize to the utmost extent every practice that will result in maximum output with minimum labor. In such a program, the importance of fertilizer is self-evident. The U. S. government is leading the way in its crusade for soil conservation and the abolition of soil-mining practices. With all these factors in operation, it is evident that if more food is to be produced the present farm acreage will have to produce it. How to accomplish this is a problem farmers themselves meet, but experience has demonstrated that productivity can be increased if the soil's fertility level is raised. Tests have shown that the average farm's crop output can be enlarged from 10 to 30 per cent through intelligent soil treatment. This means taking advantage of proper rotation, the growing of soil-building legumes, the regular application of phosphorus and potash, and terracing and contour plowing wherever necessary.

DRAW a long breath of relief, you lads who secretly adore Greer Garson—with her marriage to Richard Ney postponed until after the war there may still be a chance for you! At least, at the moment there is; one never knows what to be sure of when a Hollywood marriage is concerned. At any rate, as of right now, this one is delayed; seems, according to Lieutenant Ney's announcement, that there was no place where they could be married until 10 o'clock, when the time came, so they decided to wait.

RKO is launching a new series of feature pictures, all about a rookie, using a new comedy team. First will come "Adventures of a Rookie"; after that it'll be a case of "Everywhere the Army Goes, the Rookie's Sure to Go."

"This Is America" series. As a result of her charm, she was chosen queen of the Army Air Corps in Atlantic City. And because she wanted to go so much, Mexican-born Margo recently became an American citizen.

Mrs. Albert Wassell, 57-year-old mother of war hero, Lieut. Csm. Corydon M. Wassell, was invited to come to Hollywood as Paramount's guest, since Cecil B. DeMille is filming her son's life. Mrs. Wassell refused. "There was only one star I ever cared to go that far to see," she wrote her son. "That was Rudolph Valentino and he's dead." She doesn't go to movies often, but thinks Jimmy Stewart is the star most like her son as a young man. But it's hardly likely that he can take time off from the army for the role.

Seven years ago in November Fred MacMurray made his first picture on the Paramount lot, playing opposite Claudette Colbert in "The Glided Lily." Remember? He does—there he was in an important role, and nervous doesn't half describe the way he felt. Today they're co-starring in a gay comedy called "No Time for Love"; she's a lady and he's a sandhog.

Ed ("Archie") Gardner has turned down Metro's overtures to make a celluloid version of the air's "Duffy's." He's working hard to bring his new radio program up to the top of the list before signing up with Hollywood execs for whom he last worked as a radio director.

Joseph Calleia, of "For Whom the Bell Tolls," is head of the Malta War Relief organization in this country; his parents, who are English and Spanish, live in Malta, and recently he heard that the house in which he was born has been blasted to bits.

Norman Tokar and Jackie Kerk, who play "Henry" and "Homer" respectively in radio's "The Aldrich Family," never feel absolutely sure that they're going to hold their jobs—that's because practically every page boy at NBC covets those roles.

Dick Powell was working in "Happy Go Lucky," and his wife, Joan Blondell, was touring the land with the Hollywood Victory Caravan. So, for the first time within anybody's memory, an extra telephone was ordered installed on a movie lot, because the Powells are so devoted to each other that they kept calling each other on long distance, making the one phone on the set unavailable for business calls.

ODDS AND ENDS—California headquarters for soldiers from Clarksville, Tenn., is the home of Helen Wood, radio and screen actress heard on "These We Love" . . . Nadine Connor Acco to New York to start rehearsals for her second season at the Metropolitan opera house; she'll have her own radio show from New York . . . Edgar Dearing has played more motorcycle cops than any other actor . . . Harpist Ed Vito is a fairly busy man these days; he plays with Joe Rines' orchestra on the air's "Abbie's Irish Rose," and on Sundays plays first harp with Ted Tocca's orchestra over NBC—nobody can say he's not versatile!

Why Wind?
The dictionary defines wind as air in rapid, natural motion. But why does it blow?
When air is heated it rises, and as Nature will not permit a vacuum, very naturally the neighboring air rushes in to take the place of that which has ascended. So we can state that wind is air rushing from a colder place to a warmer place.

PREPAREDNESS AMERICAN RED CROSS

THE 3,725 Red Cross chapters, located in nearly every county in the United States, perform a very important service for members of the armed forces and their dependents. This is the work done by the Red Cross in case an emergency furlough for the service man becomes necessary.

While the county's Red Cross chapter itself cannot request these furloughs, it can speed up action on them if the family will notify the county Red Cross chapter immediately after the emergency arises.

The actual request for the furlough must be made by the service man to his commanding officer, who refers it to the camp Red Cross field director. A telegram from the field director then asks the local Red Cross chapter to verify information furnished by the service man.

If the family notifies the county Red Cross chapter at the same time it does the service man, the Red Cross can get the necessary verification of facts to the camp about the same time the furlough is requested.

If investigations bear out the service man's story, he usually gets the furlough. But the county Red Cross chapter must report the facts if the situation is not really an emergency, or if there is anything else that may make the man's return less urgent.

County Red Cross chapters also make available actual financial aid to service men and their families in emergencies. If the man needs money for the trip home, or if the family needs money because of the service man's absence, the Red Cross may make it available through a loan or draft.

The Red Cross is often called to aid in cases of the birth of a child whose father is in the armed forces. Likewise, Red Cross assistance is available to wives of service men before and after birth of a child.
