PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Petty, daughter Ruth and son Jesse spent the major portion of the Christmas week with Mr. Petty's mother, Mrs. E. L. Petty at her home in Los Angeles.

In our article last week concerning the trip to Dallas, we inadvertently omitted the mention of Marvin Peckham as being a member of the party, Messrs. Moore, Peckham, Lopez and Rickerson.

Lell St. John of Albuquerque was here for the week-end, visiting the home folks. Lell passed the examination for the U. S. Navy at Santa Fe last week.

Miss Frances Ferguson, who had been in Santa Fe for the past several years has now located at Midland, Tex., according to a notice received at this office this week.

Judge Marcial St. John held Probate Court on Monday.

John Sinclair, noted author and Eddle Penfield of Lincoln were visitors in town this Monday. Mr. Sinclair was a friendly caller at this office while here.

Ben Gallegos was a business visitor from his ranch Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Degner spent Monday in Roswell.

BORN—Saturday, Jan. 3, to Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ortiz, a boy. Mother and son are doing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Stewart of Claunch recently returned from a holiday trip where they visited their daughter Mrs. Blot, Herring and family at Hillsboro and Mrs. Stewart's mother Mrs. R. S. Lipscomb of Ft. Worth, Texas.

Ramon St. John failed to pass the examination for the U. S. Navy and is at present employed at Claunch.

Bill Barnett was here from Vaughn Monday, and from him we learned that he has sold his stock of merchandise at Vaughn and has come back to Lincoln County. Bill has purchased a nice ranch near Ramon where he will enter the ranching business. We predict he will be successful, in which undertaking he has our best wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson and little grandson Calvin Courson of Corona were here Monday of this week. Mrs. Simpson attending a meeting of the County Board of Education, of which she is a member.

E. M. Stewart, enterprising stockman of the Claunch country was here on business Monday. While here, Mr. Stewart was a pleasant caller at this office.

L. D. Merchant, progressive ranchman of the Capitan area was in town this Monday.

Elijah Lacey, rancher of the Ancho country, was a business visitor here last Saturday, and while in town was a friendly caller at this office.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Below of Ancho were here Sunday afternoon and saw the picture "Men of Boys' Town" at the Lyric Theatre.

SCHOOL NEWS

The Junior High and two classes in Senior High are making a systematic study of defense bonds and saving stamps. Material has been received from Washington to aid the classes.

Miss Collins was ill Monday and unable to attend her classes. All were glad to see her back at her post Tuesday.

Semester examination next Thursday and Friday. Exemptions require: (a) general average of A; (b) less than 7 absences, and (c) attitude a positive benefit to class work.

The President's Ball, the benefit of which is to alleviate infantile paralysis, will be held at the Community Hall, Jan. 30, under direction of Mr. Whitaker. We are happy to fall into line, "In the March of Dimes." We will dance so others may walk.

Carrizozo High School is one of the few high schools which has neither lost any teachers nor students since September. According to School Review, New York City schools have lost 2000 students, Philadelphia 1400 students.

Mrs. Stella Willingham is here from Sunray, Texas, visiting her daughter, Mrs. Marvin Roberts and family.

Mesdames Harry Comrey and R. Stoddard of Nogal were business visitors here Tuesday, returning home in the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Belio and daughter Charlotte were visitors from Claunch yesterday afternoon.

You will notice the announcement of the Zumwalt Brothers, Cliff and Gladney, who make their bow to the public as proprietors of the Lincoln County Motors, Inc. The boys are well known over the county and are mechanics who thoroughly understand the business. Give the boys a trial and be convinced of that fact. Their plant is what was once known as the Richard Service Station and lately leased from W. J. Ferguson, who purchased it from Wayne Richard.

Don Luz Olivares, 97-year-old native of old Mexico, passed away Wednesday at the home of Eduardo Najar and was buried in the local cemetery yesterday afternoon. Coming here from his native country many years ago, he worked for the different sheepmen of the county until illness and feebleness ended his usefulness.

Dr. J. P. Turner and Ralph Petty were El Paso business visitors this Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Yalro McKisley, Jr., and children left Wednesday morning for Las Vegas, Nevada.

Sheriff Stover and Deputy Vega are in Alamo today on business.

WEATHER REPORT

(Weekly)

Table with 4 columns: Jan, Max, Min, Prec. Values for days 2 through 8.

Beatrice Romero, Airway Observer.

RUIDOSO NOTES

With the first snows the Ruidoso community takes on Resort air once more as it undertakes to entertain its many visitors from surrounding communities who come to the White Mountains for winter sports.

Each week-end the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce sponsors a dance. They hire a good orchestra and the dancing members of the community attend, have a good time, meet the visitors, and see that they also have a good time.

The road to the ski course is in good condition, thanks to the help of the Forest Service. The ski tow is up and in good working condition - free coffee and a big fire is always ready.

For those who haven't been to the Ruidoso before, there's a nice warm place to stay and good places to eat - lots of entertainment with big open fireplaces to welcome you when you come in from your fun - and the beauty and freshness of the Great Out of Doors will help you to forget for a day the turmoil of the world.

E. W. McElhaney, Pres. Edith C. Boyce, Sec'y. Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce.

Ferguson -- Conley

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ferguson of the Nogal-Mesa were in town Wednesday and from them we learned that their daughter Frances, mentioned elsewhere in this paper, is now married and has taken the name of Mrs. Jack Conley, Box 1782, Midland, Tex. We failed to receive the particulars of the wedding, which we understand took place at Santa Fe, a short time ago. At any rate, congratulations, Conleys, and that means with everything for the best in the future.

Benny Chavez was removed to his home from the hospital last Sunday and is much improved. Ben lacerated his hand and blood poison set in.

Leandro Vega, Jr., is confined to his home with a severe attack of rheumatism in one of his legs.

Vernon Petty, S. P. Detective at Tucuman, was here last Sunday on official business for the company. While here, he visited the home folks.

Mrs. Dan Conley, Sec'y of the Board.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Kimbrell and children of Pecos spent last week-end here, visiting the Mrs. Maggie Holguin and Manuel Ortiz families.

In a letter from Ed W. Harris of Santa Fe this week, he enclosed a picture of himself and one of the fairer sex. They are holding hands in the open country, and the only thing Ed said was that they met the preacher in the middle of the road on Dec. 21. Congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. Harris.

Victims of Jap Subs on California Coast

At left, the 5,688-ton freighter Absaroka, hit by a Jap torpedo off the California coast; is shown, with dock awash, as she made some port. One crew member was killed. Right: This photo pictures the thrilling landing of part of the crew of the tanker "Montebello," which was sunk by a submarine off California. Here a lifeboat bobs in the boiling surf, dangerously close to the rocks, as rescuers throw men a line.

'Pause in the Day's Occupation'

Smiling cheerfully as they push German forces back the way they came, members of this Russian tank crew (left) halt for brief pause in their march westward, for lunch. Rigors of the Russian winter seem to have no terrors for these hardy soldiers. Right: These Italian prisoners in the Libyan desert seem too miserable to attempt to escape, and yet they are guarded carefully before being shipped to a concentration camp.

Fierce Moro Tribesmen Fight Japs

A deadly warm welcome was extended Japs who tried to open a second front in the Philippines by invading Mindanao Island. On hand to greet them were some of the fiercest fighters known, the Moro tribesmen, to whom fighting is a profession. They are shown being inspected by Col. Ralph McCoy in Zamboanga, P. I.

Chinese ambassador, Dr. Hu Shih, leaves White House with book, "The Personal Papers of Franklin D. Roosevelt," presented by staff and autographed by the President.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By ROBERT McSHANE

Reprinted by Western Newspaper Union

THE New York State Athletic commission, the National Boxing association and a few thousand fight fans find themselves stuck with a new lightweight boxing champion.

The new champ is Sammy Angott, a 27-year-old brawler from Washington, Pa. Sammy, who has possessed the N.B.A. championship since May, 1940, isn't much of a fighter. Some of his best friends admit that. But he was good enough to outclass Lew Jenkins, the gaunt individual from Sweetwater, Texas, who held the New York share of the world title.

The whole lightweight situation has been muddled since the 135-pound title was split more than a year and a half ago. The N.B.A. withdrew its recognition from Lou Ambers when he took, on Jenkins, who wasn't even considered an important challenger, instead of Angott or Davey Day. The latter two fought it out for the N.B.A. crown, then, a few days later, Jenkins complicated matters by stiffening Ambers in three rounds. With the victory went New York's edition of the title.

A New King

The best thing that can be said for the Angott-Jenkins fight is that the championship mess has been cleaned up. Angott is the king. The country's two main boxing bodies agreed before hand to recognize the winner as champion everywhere.

The fight was an unqualified flop. Jenkins won one round—and that on a foul. He had extremely little speed, hardly any stamina and didn't show any of the punching power that carried him to the top. His right hand, which once sent opponents kicking, was a harmless weapon. He didn't throw more than a dozen real rights at Angott, and most of them missed.

Sammy, who fought his way up from the Pennsylvania mines, did the best to make a fight of it. His best, to be startlingly original, was none too good. He won 14 of the rounds merely because he was trying his hardest.

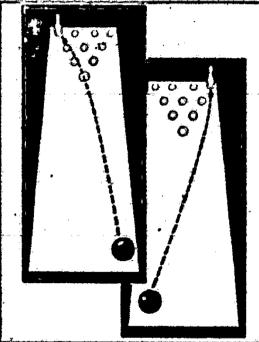

Lew doesn't deserve much in the way of sympathy. Not without reason did the sports writers hang the "Looney Lew" title on him. His training has been confined largely to night clubs. His entanglements with motorcycles and speeding cars haven't helped him. To be brief, he was asking for a whipping. He got it from Angott. However, any journeyman lightweight could have done the job.

A total of 11,343 fans paid $26,816 to be bored stiff for 15 rounds. It is quite likely that the lightweight division lost exactly 11,343 fans.

Bowling—the Right Way

By LOWELL JACKSON

(This is one of a series of lessons in bowling by Lowell Jackson, one of the country's outstanding bowlers. Mr. Jackson has won 100 games to his credit and has a 12-year league average of 210.)

Concentrate on one delivery.

SPARE BALL. Pay no attention to anyone who advises you to roll one kind of a ball for a strike and another kind for a spare. Concentrate on one delivery; practice to perfect it, and then use it every time you approach the foul line.

An axiom in good bowling is to use "plenty of angle on all spares." For example, if the pins are left remaining on the right side of the alley, the bowler takes a position on the left side of the approach, being careful, however, not to wander over to the approach of the alley on the left.

All the pins to the left side of the alley can be made from one position also, in my opinion. Take your stance about six inches to the right of where you stand for a strike. Thus, moving to the right, you can "angle" across the alley at the standing pins.

SPORT SHORTS

• Ivan ("Moon") Mullen, former hurler for the Detroit Tigers, has enlisted in the navy.

• Northwestern university's basketball team has finished out of the first division in the Big Ten conference only three times in the last 15 years.

• Cavalcade is the only horse that has won the three Middle-West racing crowns. He won the Kentucky Derby, the Arlington Classic and the American Derby in 1934.

A SHORT while back we collected the opinions from over 40 well-known football coaches and trainers along the line of physical fitness — of getting back in shape. Without exception they featured the legs and the stomach, especially the latter.

Grantland Rice

As Tom Keene, the veteran trainer at Syracuse told me, "When the belly's okay you don't have to worry about the rest of it, for here's the center of most good health and, most bad health."

"We've printed their diets and their suggestions — plain foods; simple foods — and not too much of it. But many of these coaches and trainers, who know their trade, brought in another angle — this was the mental side, which has direct bearing on the all-out war today.

"The best football player," a leading coach wrote me, "needs something more than size and speed and physical fitness. He must be able to sacrifice himself for the good of the team. He must be able to take punishment — and like it — for the cause he is fighting for. He must be willing to give up all outside pleasures that conflict in any way with the main idea, which is to win. Only those who have this frame of mind or really worthwhile. The others are only good when things are rolling their way."

"Football is no game for those easily discouraged. Mental fiber is even more important than physical fiber — and mental fiber means giving all you have in the direction of victory, no matter what the odds. We might call it 'intestinal fortitude,' a phrase the late Dan McGugin of Michigan and Vanderbilt invented."

The Big Word

Words, as a rule, are unimportant, when the air is full of flying steel. But in this same connection we still recall a conversation with a hard-bitten colonel of the First division in France early in 1918, when the German army, apparently, was about to break through.

I happened to bring up the matter of courage. The First division colonel gave me a cold look.

"Courage," he said, "is secondary. Most people and most nations have courage. The big word is 'fortitude.' This is a far more important word than courage."

"Fortitude, of course, includes courage. But it goes far beyond. Fortitude means both physical and mental stamina. It means the ability to carry on a job that might be dull and uninteresting. It means giving all you've got to give, outside of the spotlight. In a football way, it means the blocking back, who clears the road for the ball carrier. — It means sacrificing yourself for the cause."

"In this war, those up around the front may get killed, but they get all of the excitement. Those back of the lines get the drudgery, minus the thrills. You'll find that almost all of those back of the lines would much rather be up where the excitement is. It takes more fortitude to do your work in a place where there is little chance for any thrills, little chance for any publicity or any reward."

A Leading Example

Some years ago I was talking with Bobby Jones about the brilliant golf record he piled up from 1922 through 1930. Bobby made no claim to any superior skill with wood or iron.

"Tournament golf," he said then, "is a game in which you just can't afford to be easily discouraged when you step into trouble, as everyone does. So I had to make up my mind to take a hard nerve beating — not a physical beating, of course. No one will ever know the time I felt like chucking it all, and maybe wait for another chance."

"I may be wrong, but I believe you can take more of a beating on the mental and nerve side than you can on the physical side. When I used to pick up those sevens in a championship round, and I got more than my share of those, the temptation to ease up and forget it all was pretty strong. You get the feeling there's no use fighting it out at that particular time."

This is all true. I recall Gene Sarason, one of our finest golf competitors, once saying you can't win a big championship with 'sevens.' "I battle to try to keep from getting any sixes," Gene said.

But Bobby Jones' championship cards were studded with sevens. He had a seven at Hoylake in his Grand Slam march — when it took him five strokes to get down after he was only 40 yards from the green in two. He had a killing seven at St. Louis, but he won. He had two sevens on the last 18 holes at Winged Foot, but he went on to win the playoff.

Pattern 2993

PIGTAILS of wool are the chief lure to this crocheted cap that does for all winter sports including that of being decorative. Mittens and a scarf complete the set.

Pattern 2993 contains directions for making the set in 12-16 year sizes; illustrations of it and stitches; materials required. Send your order to:

Sewing Circle Needlecraft Dept.
117 Milna St. San Francisco, Calif.
Enclose 15 cents in coins for Pattern No. ....

Cook carrots in just a little water so you won't have to drain off any of the minerals and vitamins before serving.

A little honey in fruit cake helps to keep the cake moist.

It's better to wash soiled woolen garments through several sudsy waters instead of just one. It is easier on the garment.

When grinding dry bread, tie a paper bag over the outlet of the grinder to prevent crumbs from going over the table and floor.

Wash your dish towels daily and dry them in the sun to keep them white and free from odor.

Don't sprinkle mustard loosely into water when preparing a foot bath for a patient. It will not dissolve quickly and may adhere to the skin and blister it. First mix mustard to a paste. One tablespoon of mustard to a gallon of water is the proportion used.

Best for Juice

New Club Is a WOW

ADD to the list of unusual American clubs a new one that's definitely a WOW!

It's the Wheelers of the World club and it's made up of people named Wheeler—that is, those Wheelers who are "agin' Burton K. and for 'Fighting Joe.'" Its purpose, say its sponsors, is "to revive the spirit of Fighting Joe and save the faces of all present-day Wheelers" (at least, those who don't approve of the Montana senator's isolationism), and its aim is "to raise enough money to buy a bomber for Britain and name it the 'Fighting Joe' Wheeler."

The man whom they thus propose to honor was one of the most colorful characters in American military history.

Graduated from West Point in 1859, Wheeler was appointed a lieutenant in the United States army but resigned his commission when Georgia seceded from the Union. When he entered the Confederate army he was first made colonel of an infantry regiment and commanded a brigade at the Battle of Shiloh.

'FIGHTING JOE' WHEELER

But the next year he was transferred to the cavalry and made a brigadier general.

Promoted to major-general when he was only 26 years old, Wheeler was given command of the cavalry attached to the Army of Tennessee and in that position rendered invaluable service to its inept and indecisive commander, Braxton Bragg. One of Wheeler's political opponents later said of him that he "had never won a battle." More important is the fact that he often saved the Army of Tennessee from defeat.

For Wheeler proved that he understood the true function of the cavalry, that of being the "eyes of the army," and his right to fame rests upon the fact that he was an "army cavalryman," not an "independent cavalryman." Other Southern leaders like Forrest, Stuart and Morgan might perform spectacular feats as raiders, but all too often they were away on some dashing foray when they were most needed as the "eyes of the army" and it is doubtful if they were ever as valuable to their commanding generals as was "Fighting Joe."

That was the affectionate nickname his men gave him soon after he was transferred to the cavalry and he proved his right to it during the remainder of the war. By the time it was over, he had taken part in 400 engagements, been wounded three times and had 16 horses shot under him. "The gamest little banty I ever knew" was the tribute one of his friends paid him—he was only five feet five inches in height and weighed only 120 pounds.

After the war he quickly adjusted himself to peace-time pursuits, studied law and was repeatedly elected to congress.

At the outbreak of the Spanish-American war, although 62 years old, he immediately applied for a commission and was made a major-general of volunteers. Thus he became the only corps commander to wear both the gray and the blue. In Cuba the little "Georgia Gamecock" defied his commanding officer, General Shafter, who was as huge as Wheeler was small, and led 1,000 men in a wholly unauthorized but successful fight at Guasimas, the first battle of the Santiago campaign. It was in the fury of this engagement that "Fighting Joe" is said to have forgotten that he wasn't wearing a gray uniform and to have shouted "Come on, boys, give the Yankees hell!" He died in 1906 and was buried in Arlington.

The prime mover in the organization of the new club to "revive the spirit of 'Fighting Joe' Wheeler" is Elmer ("Sizzle") Wheeler of Dallas, Texas, a nationally known sales consultant and author of the book "Tested Sentences That Sell." He is also president of the Tested Selling Institute of New York, founded 12 years ago to test words and phrases for their relative value in making people buy things. He tells salesmen "Don't ask if—ask which." It was his famous slogan "Don't sell the steak—sell the sizzle" that gave him his nickname.

Refugees Earn Living in France

Work Groups Organized at Camps Where They Are Accommodated.

MANZAT, PUY DE DOME, FRANCE.—Of the more than 100,000 Spanish refugees who are still being harbored in France, nearly 40,000 have enlisted in the foreign working formations which in all the departments of the unoccupied zone are helping on the farms and in the mines and industries, which are all short of labor on account of the numbers of Frenchmen still in prison camps.

The Spaniards compose the great majority of the foreigners enlisted in these work formations. And their courage and cheerfulness in adversity as well as the proof they have shown of the desire to become independent as laborers has won them the respect of the French who have employed them, according to all reports to the group of foreign workers which has its center here.

Manzat is the center of the 662nd group of foreign laborers serving in the department of the Puy de Dome.

Initiative Quickly Shown. The number of foreigners at the disposal of this center at present is 470. They are nearly all Spaniards or Belgians.

Received at Manzat six months ago with scarcely any preparation, the workers, using whatever materials and means they could improvise, set about making themselves comfortable. An old ruined abbey and rooms in several different adjoining buildings in which to establish offices were turned over to them. The officers in charge, mostly former French army men, demobilized and working as civilian officials, directed the community organization.

The Manzat center now operates its own farm, which it has rented and renovated, some three kilometers from town. When a foreign worker is sent to Manzat he is examined for health and capacities. Any Spanish refugee either in shelter camps or living independently may volunteer for service in the work formations. The only prohibitions are against those who have criminal records or are physically unfit.

Pay for Employment. The center keeps the men in camp for a time to determine their capacities, and in the case of farmers offers them some training on the center's farm. It then sends them out on contract to work on individual farms. The French farmers pay the regular rate for French labor to the camp administration.

The Spanish workman at first receives only his former military pay, but when he has been adapted to his trade he gets the full pay, equal to that of a French workman, except that the center deducts a percentage to cover his social insurance.

Families of the workers are housed with families in Manzat while the bread-winner is at the center. In most cases when he is on assignment they accompany him to the farm. The contracts are of various durations, ranging from 15 days to six months, and a year. The men go out singly or in groups, and when they finish the job return to Manzat for a new assignment.

Privates at Paine Field

Wrote Song for Camp EVERETT, WASH.—They're singing a new, homemade song at nearby Paine Field these days. It's called "Flying Soldiers," and indicates, among other things, that considerable musical talent exists at the field, one of the newest army bases.

Pvt. Jack Latimer, 23, thought up the music. A selectee, he holds a Master of Arts degree in music from the University of Iowa and plans to become a music teacher when his army service ends.

He liked the music, and persuaded Pvt. Sidney Danoff of New York to write the lyrics. The result has become the field's official song.

Overcoats Can Be Lost

In Still Another Way PHILADELPHIA.—James P. McLaughlin has just cause to lament "Anything can happen to me."

Some overcoats are stolen in restaurants and others are devoured by moths.

But McLaughlin merely stepped off a curbstone with his coat over his arm and a moment later saw it flying down the street on the door handle of an automobile. A three-mile chase in another motorist's machine proved futile, as the streamlined snatcher became lost in traffic.

Sexton and Undertaker

Share in Texan's Will AUSTIN, TEXAS.—An east Texas farmer's will, leaving his only property—5½ acres of land—to the village sexton and the undertaker was discovered in the files of the state comptroller's inheritance tax division.

The date of the East Texan's death was not revealed, but he asked that his body be buried without ceremony and the grave marked "A Man No One Knew."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE INFANCY AND BOYHOOD OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:25-35, 39, 40. GOLDEN TEXT—Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man.—Luke 2:52.

"Nobody knows what a boy is worth, And the world must wait to see; For every man in an honored place Is a boy that used to be."

Jesus was "only a boy" as He grew through infancy and childhood, but in that baby and that boy rested all the hopes of mankind. While He was not just like any other boy, yet His growth and development were normal, and we may learn much that will enable us to help the boy in our home, in our block, or in our church.

The mother of Jesus, in fulfillment of the law of her people, on the eighth day identified Him with the nation (Luke 2:21), and then at the end of 40 days brought Him, with her humble sacrifice, to present Him to the Lord. There a beautiful and prophetic scene took place as the Holy Spirit revealed to godly old Simeon His

I. Complete Salvation—in a Baby (vv. 25-35).

The Holy Spirit (not yet come as the indwelling presence in believers' hearts) had come upon Simeon, a man right with God and with a deep longing in his heart for the coming of the Messiah—"the consolation of Israel." He was assured of living until that day, and now as he waited in the temple the babe who fulfilled that promise was laid in his arms.

He blessed God as he broke forth in praise and prophetic utterance. Note the full conception of the work of the Redeemer—deliverance from bondage and fear of death, light to the Gentiles and glory to Israel, a stone of stumbling but also of rising again. A revealer of the hearts of men—yes, and One whose sacrificial death would pierce the heart of His mother.

One is glad that Simeon and Anna (v. 38) and "them that looked for redemption in Jerusalem" saw in Mary's infant son the Son of God incarnate, for round about was unbelief (John 1:11), hatred (Matt. 2:16), and indifference (Matt. 2:4, 5).

Is it not so today? Christmas has just been celebrated. How many saw the babe in the manger as Jesus the Saviour?

The scene changes—the little family is back in Nazareth in the humble home—and there we see

II. Perfect Development in a Boy (vv. 39, 40).

The period from infancy to accountability (12 years) is summed up in the full-orbed growth of the boy Jesus described in verse 40. The one business of every child from birth to 12, or somewhere around there, until the period of adolescence, is to grow without any sense of responsibility except obedience to authority; and obedience in the case of a child is always in order to give the child perfect freedom from everything else, without any sense of responsibility. That is the story of Jesus: He grew! (G. Campbell Morgan).

Growth is, first of all, physical. Jesus stands by the side of every boy and girl as the body grows from babyhood to maturity, for He too knew that experience. We may talk to Him, as an understanding friend about the physical needs and problems of our children. Let us remember that here, as elsewhere in Scripture, the physical body is recognized as important.

Mentally, He experienced growth. The strange, apocryphal tales about the child Jesus, representing Him as a man of mature wisdom in a child's body, do not compare even remotely with the beautiful naturalness of a keen-minded boy asking questions, observing, always learning. Boys and girls, you may talk with confidence to Him about your lessons, your growing interest in this exciting world of ours, of your need for guidance in learning. Be sure that He will understand.

The crowning touch upon the growing personality of the child is the spiritual. We read of Jesus that "the grace of God was upon him." "Grace," says Dr. Morgan, "is first, that which delights and charms. Grace, secondly, is desire to impart to others the things that make them happy. Grace, finally, is the activity that does this at all costs." A gracious child is an altogether delightful being; and when that graciousness is the result of the "grace of God" upon him, it is surpassingly lovely, for it makes him Christlike, even in the days of childhood.

Great and grave has been the neglect of the spiritual life of children for whom much has been done physically and mentally. Christian parents must not make that mistake—and they need not, for the Lord Jesus here too stands ready to counsel, guide, encourage, and strengthen them in every good purpose and deed.

Winnie Apparently Had Been So Reproved Herself

"Come upstairs and let me wash your hands," said the mother when she arrived with her little daughter for a tea at grandmother's.

"I don't want to go up," wailed Winnie, aged four.

"Let her wash them in the kitchen," called grandmother. "She can do it there just as well, I am sure."

"No," her mother said, firmly. "I insist that she come up with me."

Winnie went upstairs slowly. Turning to her mother, she asked: "Why don't you obey your mother!"

AN APRON which pleases for its efficiency as well as for its bright gay appearance, easily achieved with a few rows of ric rac, is presented here in a pattern which is no trouble at all to follow. The picture shows you how this apron extends in back—an all-covering skirt and straps

6. What is perique?
7. When did Benjamin Franklin receive his first airmail letter?
8. "Aye, tear her tattered ensign down!" is a line from a poem about an American warship named what?

The Answers

1. Denver, Colo.
2. The air in the pen (if pen is but partially full) expands, causing a leakage of ink.
3. Egypt.
4. William McKinley.
5. Nickel and iron.
6. A strong flavored tobacco.
7. In 1785, when in France. It was sent from England by balloon.
8. The Constitution ("Old Ironsides").

A Long War

The question arises, what is a long war? A long war is regarded as spanning a decade or more. If this war lasts 10 years, it will be the longest war in the past three centuries. The Thirty Years' war lasted from 1618 to 1648. Several Greek and Roman wars extended well over 20 years, and the Hundred Years' war, between France and England, lasted from 1337 to 1453.

Wars in which America has engaged since it became a nation have lasted, on an average, less than four years, although the Revolution officially lasted eight years.

F. S. A. NOTES

For the 6-year period, ending Dec. 31, 1941, collections by the F. S. A. of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture in this region were 87 percent of loan maturities. For New Mexico the proportion of maturities repaid was 83 percent. The impressive record of the F. S. A.'s broad program of helpful service to low-income farm families, was made public by Park Hall, a member of the Rural Rehabilitation County Advisory Committee, who with other local citizens works with this agency without pay in behalf of needy farm people.

"I am making the above figures public in order that the true value of this agency's work might be more generally known. I fear that few taxpayers know that the F. S. A. is not a relief agency. Rather, it is a lending program, with low interest rates, for farmers who cannot get help from any other source."

In New Mexico 3,489 families are receiving medical care from 14 group medical care programs. The chief function now, in the opinion of Mr. Hall, is to help farmers raise the vast amount of food needed to win the war.

America's War Victims Appeal for Your Help

First war poster of the new World War, painted by the distinguished artist James Montgomery Flagg, carries an appeal for a $60,000,000 war fund to aid the victims of aggression upon the United States and its island possessions.

To aid the victims of warfare being waged upon America and her island possessions, the American Red Cross has issued an appeal for a $60,000,000 war fund. Chairman Norman H. Davis announced from the national headquarters in Washington.

Mr. Davis urged men, women and children to give to this money fund through their local Red Cross Chapters. These funds will support the Chapter's war work with the families of men in the military services, as well as the broad relief program of the national Red Cross.

President Roosevelt, who is president of the American Red Cross, issued a proclamation urging all citizens to give to the Red Cross war fund.

In launching the appeal, Chairman Davis said:

"There are millions of our citizens who desire today to demonstrate their will to victory over the enemy. Not all can be in the armed forces, and not all can volunteer their services for humanitarian work, but all can volunteer their dollars to arm the Red Cross to be their representatives at the scene of battle and distress.

"Today is the day to demonstrate our high morale, our unity, our determination not alone to support our President and our fighting men at the front, but also to insure to our wounded, homeless and suffering fellow citizens in our Pacific Islands that we stand one hundred per cent ready to aid them through the Red Cross."

Christian Science

"Sacrament" is the subject for Sunday. Golden Text: "Let us keep the feast, not with old leaven, neither with the leaven of malice and wickedness; but with the unleavened bread of sincerity and truth." Citation from Bible: "And whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments, and do those things which are pleasing in his sight." Passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Prayer means that we desire to walk and will walk in the light so far as we receive it, even though with bleeding footsteps, and that, waiting patiently on the Lord, we will leave our real desires to be rewarded by him."

Is Inflation Inevitable?

There is a split opinion on this question. Many economists maintain it can be avoided if we as a nation are willing to meet the problem with courage. Prices and wages must be curbed; individual spending must be curtailed. Each of us can help, for example, if we will put out excess dollars into Defense Bonds or a bank account, instead of buying non-essential goods. Inflation is bad for all of us. Let's do all we can to forestall it.

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

PHILIPPINES: Full Scale

While the United States anxiously scanned bulletins from Manila, and frowned at the increasing seriousness of the situation, there were reasons for a general belief that the army and navy high commands were not blind to the situation, but had agreed on counter measures of some sort.

Obviously these had not been made public, as to do so would be to "tip our hand" to Japan. But the meeting of Churchill and Roosevelt in Washington, and the presence in the United States of the now-famous party of 80, which included all the British military and naval, as well as economic leaders, was assurance enough that something was in the wind.

A message from President Roosevelt to the people of the Philippines pledged the aid of "the resources of the United States, of the British empire, of the Netherlands East Indies, and of the Chinese Republic have been dedicated to the utter and complete defeat of the Japanese war lords. We are engaged in a great common cause.

I court an every Philippine man, woman and child to do his duty. We will do ours.

The navy at the same time announced that the fleet was already in action "following an intensive and well-planned campaign against the Japanese forces which will result in positive assistance to the defense of the Philippine Islands."

Another reason for increased American confidence as to the outcome of the war with Japan was a message from Secretary of War Stimson to President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines in which he assured him that as soon as American forces were organized, the Japanese invader would be driven from the islands.

That sounded like reinforcements by sea, land and air, reinforcements much needed by the little army of Filipinos who were giving a good account of themselves against considerable odds.

Further Plans

A further bit of news which contributed to the feeling in many quarters that some definite plan was in progress was the statement by the Australian premier that he was now intending to go to Washington. He said he had been assured by the United States of complete co-operation in the war effort.

There were signs, however, that the West coast feared that Churchill might have persuaded the United States to regard the Pacific war as a minor affair and to concentrate on the battle of the Atlantic.

Churchill indeed did say the latter, but the former he did not say, nor did he hint at any but an all-out effort on the part of the British to save Singapore, keep the Burma road open, and do all in their power to defeat the Japs.

Those whose homes, families and properties rested on the Pacific slope were becoming nervous over the smashing attack on Pearl Harbor, the loss of Pacific island strongholds, the nearness of Jap submarines, and the unchecked landings of Japanese on the Philippines.

And the Churchill statements about the battle of the Atlantic being the most vital of the whole war, together with his prediction of reverses in prospect for 1942, and the turning of the tide in 1943, did not allay the Pacific coast nerves at all.

VICHY: And Washington

The Vichy-Washington talks concerning the St. Pierre-Miquelon episode showed that there was much confusion about the whole situation, and while the "man in the street" wanted De Gaulle's forces to have the islands with American co-operation, and while Canada seemed much in this frame of mind, also, there was much in the situation which the same man in the street did not know anything about.

MANILA: Jap Frightfulness

Close observers of the war in China had brought back horror stories concerning the brutality of the Japanese war machine, the bombings and machine-gunnings of helpless civilians; attacks on Chinese women, rapine and pillage of towns.

Any desire the Philippines population might have had to disbelieve the general tenor of these reports had been rudely dispelled by the bombing of Manila just as General MacArthur had officially declared it an undefended city, had moved the government and the military away.

Japan's answer was (first) to carry out their heaviest unscathed bombing of the metropolis (second) to inform the world that it was "unthinkable" that Manila should be considered undefended.

This was tantamount to calling the Americans liars, and then killing off a few helpless ones with well-directed bombs.

Newspaper men at the principal offices of the large services stood fearlessly and watched while scores of Japanese bombers rained death and destruction about them.

Fortunately they lived to write unforgettable reports of the raid, the damage it caused, the mint watchman slain and buried under huge heaps of silver coins, the priceless Catholic rosary destroyed in the direct hit on the Church of Santo Domingo, the flames, the crunch of the bombs, the thunder of the planes, the explosions, the death and disaster.

They also were able to describe the spirit of the people, digging out of the bomb horror as though from one of the frequent earthquakes that have visited the city, and of the defiant mood which resolved them to die to the last man rather than surrender, the islands to the little brown invaders.

NEW YEAR: Predictions

While President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill were setting 1943 for the "turning of the tide" in favor of the Allies, New Year's greetings were being handed back and forth between Rome, Berlin and Tokyo.

Von Ribbentrop said: "The tri-partite Powers approach the decisive battles of 1942 convinced that it will bring final victory over their adversaries. "Then they will work in common for a new order in Europe and East Asia."

He did not recall that on January 1, 1941, Hitler had said, in an "order of the day": "Soldiers, the year 1941 will bring consummation of the greatest victory of our history."

Ribbentrop "blamed" President Roosevelt for "aggression" which brought Japan into the war.

CHURCHILL: And Roosevelt

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in his dramatic address, tinged with his famous humor and flashing with his matchless oratory, had completely captured the senate and house.

After a week of solid conferences, from early morning until nightfall, the President climaxed the visiting prime minister's speech with a statement. He said: "We have advanced far along the road toward achievement of the ultimate objective, the crushing defeat of those forces which have attacked and made war upon us."

It was his first full communique, and followed almost immediately after a conference which included representatives of the 33 nations and British dominions aligned in the fight on the Axis.

"Much has been accomplished," the President said, "through the medium of many conferences held in the meetings of supply and production officials, military and naval leaders, and in discussions. . . . I know the position of the United States and of all nations aligned with us has been strengthened immeasurably."

ALIENS: Biddle Cracks Down

ATTORNEY GENERAL BIDDLE
Came an official crack-down.

Attorney General Biddle had ordered that all aliens on the Pacific coast surrender at once their short-wave radios and their cameras, in an official "crack-down" following important news concerning Japanese and other nationals' fifth-column activities.

It also coincided with the report of Mrs. Gall Beach, an evacuee from Hawaii, that many of the Japanese fliers who attacked Pearl Harbor December 7 had been schooled in the islands.

She said that several who were shot down wore rings indicating that they had attended either the University of Hawaii or McKinley high school. She said: "They certainly knew their landmarks. They must have lived in Honolulu."

She said that newspapers and radio constantly urged the Hawaiian public against any demonstrations against Japanese on the islands, and that she saw no disturbances, although "there was some feeling against them."

RUSSIANS: Drive Hard

Despite the obvious stiffening of Nazi resistance on the Russian front almost immediately following the ousting of the German high generals and the taking over of the reins by Hitler himself, the Russians had seemed to keep their drive going, weather or no weather, and to be reporting continued successes.

In fact, the drive to relieve the siege of Leningrad was said to be "picking up speed" all the time. A 20-mile gain was reported on the Volkhov front; and there were indications that the Russians were seeking to re-enter the Crimean front on the extreme south.

German broadcasts had been heard telling of sinking two Russian transports in the Kerch vicinity, which was taken as a Red attempt to get back into that peninsula.

Sevastopol was still holding out, and the German pressure there was admitted by the Soviet to be strong, despite enormous losses.

But on the central and northern fronts the Germans were "catching the devil," losing an average of more than 20 villages daily.

Increased German resistance in the north was evidenced by Russian sappers finding 600 land mines in one kilometer of road.

Highway, telephonic and telegraph communication between Moscow and Leningrad had been resumed, but the Red immediate objective was to shove the Germans back far enough so that uninterrupted rail communication might be restored, thus losing for Hitler what had taken hundreds of thousands of German and Finnish troops six months to accomplish.

That the Christmas week drive of the Reds had carried them through positions the Nazis had intended to hold all winter was seen from the fact that in many German-occupied houses they found Christmas trees still decorated and the candles burning.

LIBYA: Nazi Rush

Reports had come in that the Nazis, desperate over the conditions confronting General Rommel's divisions in Libya, had landed reinforcements in Tripoli and were rushing them eastward to try to make contact with Rommel's men before they were hopelessly trapped.

Heavy rains, however, which had slowed the British operations, also were hampering these rescue divisions and were giving Rommel little chance to gather together the German-Italian forces, which remained to him for a last stand.

The latest reports were that the British, by rapid movement; had again made contact with the enemy's main force at Agedabia, a district south of Bengasi, formerly the main Axis stronghold, which fell to the imperial forces on Christmas Eve.

MISCELLANY:

London: Jugoslav guerrillas, members of the Chetniks, had dislodged Germans from points held for six months and were playing havoc with communications lines to Greek cities.

Manila: An escaped Filipino soldier said that Japs whack their prisoners on the feet with their gun butts, making their feet so sore that they will not try to escape.

ALL FOR THE BEST

Apathy has flown the coop,
Unconcern has hit the floor;
Selfishness has looped the loop,
Dopeiness is now no more;
Silent are the "gimme" boys,
All obstructors get the "bird";
Gone is all light-hearted poison—
REALISM is the word!

II.
Now it isn't mere routine,
When the dangers round us roll,

FARM TOPICS

FARMER WARNED ON WAR BUYING

Bargains for Cash Will Prevail After Emergency.

By H. C. M. CASE
(Head of Agricultural Economics, College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.)
There will be plenty of bargains for those having the cash when the war emergency is over and farmers facing rising prices should keep this in mind.

As improvement costs increase it may be well to postpone some improvements until costs are lower and labor and materials are easier to obtain, rather than pay a high price now. In fact, future construction of this kind will help prevent a post-defense depression.

Farmers will be tempted to over-expand their operations and investments in response to high prices, but nothing is more important to the farmer than careful financial plans, especially to farmers burdened with mortgages and other financial obligations. Farmers free of indebtedness with money to invest may still make some wise investments but should avoid heavy new obligations. The inflation of land values and of prices of other things farmers bought during the last war, is recalled, which later were paid for with farm products at greatly reduced prices. Many farmers lost title to their property because they were unable to meet their obligations.

Current low interest rates, which are not assured for a long time in the future, may lead some farmers to overpay for land. While low interest rates bring a lower annual payment, usually they have the influence of raising prices of land and other commodities bought. Hence the purchaser in the end has a much larger principal to pay. For example, a 5 per cent $60 mortgage is much more favorable than a 3 per cent loan on $100. Although the annual interest paid is the same, the principal is $40 more in the latter case.

In order to avoid the ill effects of a post-war depression, farmers were advised to consider seven points: (1) Avoid land inflation by not purchasing at high prices; (2) avoid long term debts or obligations that fall due in large lump sums; (3) pay off current debts; (4) improve land to meet more easily post-war low prices; (5) provide better living conditions in the home; (6) create reserves by prepaying interest and principal on debts, as well as to provide good cash reserves; (7) postpone high-cost purchases until after the emergency, if possible.

Dairy Cow Requires Protein Supplement

Overfeeding farm grains to dairy cattle in the food production program in an attempt to supply sufficient protein and avoid the purchase of a high protein supplement is false economy, explains J. G. Cash, extension dairy specialist of the University of Illinois college of agriculture.

For example, a cow requiring 10 pounds of a 15 per cent protein mixture a day to meet her needs could get the same amount of protein from 15 pounds of a mixture of equal parts of corn and cob meal and ground oats, but the cost would be greater and the cow probably would not produce as well because of the lack of balance between the protein and carbohydrates.

A suitable mixture containing 15 per cent total protein could be made with 600 pounds of corn and cob meal, 400 pounds ground oats and 200 pounds soybean meal, at a cost of $1.47 a hundred pounds (figuring corn at 70 cents a bushel, oats at 45 cents a bushel and soybean meal at $2.50 a hundred pounds, and adding a grinding charge of 10 cents a hundred pounds for corn and oats). Ten pounds of this mixture would supply 1 1/2 pounds of protein and would cost 14.7 cents.

Around the Farm

Farm boys and girls are being encouraged to increase supplies of foods needed in this country by raising pigs, calves and chickens.

Oats, barley, wheat or rye grass pasture is so high in protein that very little protein feed is needed in the grain mixture for dairy cows.

Rubber tires will last longer if rubber-tired machines and implements are blocked up, when not in use, to keep the weight off the tires.

Butter may be successfully stored in sub-zero temperatures for six years, claim Cornell university scientists after taking butter from coolers where it had been stored for that period of time.

Milk production in this country must be expanded to an all-time high. With dairy production already at a high level and farm labor getting scarcer, the job of boosting dairy production is a challenge to every farmer and farm leader in the dairy sections of the nation.

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by ALAN LEMAY

WNU RELEASE

INSTALLMENT SIX THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterson, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, has come to Honolulu to attempt to gain control of the property. Then through a strange circumstance and somewhat against her will she finds herself on the very island, Alakoa, with Richard Wayne or Tonga Dick, as he is known. He is a member of the Wayne family which has been in control of the island since the disappearance of her grandfather. They have found that Dick's uncle, James Wayne, who has been managing the property, is very sick. Dick tries to get Karen to work out a compromise settlement to her claims but she refuses. Late during the night Lilia, a native house girl, comes to Dick's room and tells him she has strange foreboding of evil. As they talk a tap is heard at the door.

At the door when Dick opened it was the tiny figure of a kimoed Japanese girl. Her hair, usually as neat as polished ebony, was down all about her face, and through it her eyes stared so widely that they showed the whites. "Mister Dick—you come!" "What is it? What is it now?" "I tap on Mister Wayne door—I take Mister Wayne him milk. Mister Wayne, he not answer. "Well, did you go in?" "No, no, no!" "Where is he? In his office?" "Yes—office. Plenty light but no speak. Something moves in there—I hear something move! But nothing in there will speak."

Dick Wayne drew a deep breath, and the air of the hall was so clammy upon his lungs it was as if he had breathed in the outer rain. "All right." Once more he went striding through the house, the broad old floorboards speaking under his tread, and the tabs of the Japanese girl pattering behind him. There was a line of light under the door of James Wayne's office; but as he reached for the latch the Japanese girl flattened herself against the wall, fearful lest she accidentally see into the room, and Tonga Dick Wayne himself hesitated. He knew what was within. James Wayne still sat in the chair behind his vast desk, in the same place he had sat during so much of twenty hard driving years. But now his head was forward upon the desk, and by the slack emptiness of his uncle's hands Dick knew that this was the end.

All over the floor were scattered the ginger blossoms of a broken lei. When Dick Wayne had made certain that his uncle was dead, he picked up the scattered ginger blossoms, and, opening a casement, threw them out into the night.

He went to the door. The Japanese girl looked smaller than ever, standing there with her back pressed tight against the koa-wood wall, as if trying to hide herself from things unseen. "Send the Missey here," he said.

"Missey Lilia?" "No, no! The haole Missey." "Yes, Mister Dick." "As soon as you have sent the haole Missey to me, bring me Charles Wong." As Dick turned back into the room he spotted one more of those inescapable ginger flowers under the corner of the desk. He picked it up and put it in his pocket. Then he went and stood at the window, looking out into blackness, unmindful of the cold spit of the rain. It seemed to him a long time before Karen came. "Is—something wrong?" Her words were faltering. "Has anything happened?" Dick Wayne stared, astonished. Deep in his pocket his fingers were still rolling between them the petals of that last ginger flower; but Karen's eyes were uncommunicative and he saw that she did not so much as glance at the floor to make sure that the flowers were gone. Suddenly a terrible pity for this girl gripped the better of him and he shut his jaws.

"Dick," Karen cried out, "what is it?" He was unable then, pitying her as he did, to tell her that he knew she already had the answer to that. "James Wayne is dead," he answered. "This—is this a terrible thing." "Perhaps not." "What do you mean?" Dick's voice was hard and bitter. "If you are going to take this island, perhaps it is better that you take it from me and from my brothers—not from the man who made it what it is."

Karen Waterson stood staring at him blankly. Until now it had seemed to Dick Wayne that nothing he had ever said to her had reached her completely in its full meaning; but now he knew that he had hurt her as definitely as if he had struck her across the face. The silence that followed had a strange hopeless quality about it, empty, yet singularly acute. Dick was glad that Charles Wong now appeared, moving quickly into the room.

Charles Wong went straight to the desk, but his eyes were questioning on Dick's face. "Yes," Dick answered the unspoken question. A wave of swift emotion crossed the Chinese secretary's face; he raised one hand and his fingers ran through his heavy hair.

Charles Wong went straight to the desk... "Yes," Dick answered the unspoken question.

"Get the doctor on the phone; get him up here at once. That is necessary for the proper reports. When that's done, get my brothers in Honolulu on the wireless phone; tell them what has happened; and that I will be in Honolulu tomorrow night, regardless of whether they will be here by then or not. Then get me John Colt; I think you already know where in Honolulu he is."

The Holokai did not weigh her hook until after dusk of the next day; but as she beat her way slowly out through the reefs, half an hour after sunset, Dick Wayne was glad that the day was over. Tonga Dick had respected and admired his uncle, had understood what his uncle meant to Alakoa. Everything productive that Alakoa possessed had existed first in this one man's mind. They had all depended upon him and been guided by him; all of them except Dick himself had been controlled by him.

A careful conference had been necessary with James Wayne's physician. Being already familiar with the case, he had no trouble describing, in technical terms, the failure of James Wayne's heart. "Could this have been caused by shock?" Dick demanded. "A shock," Shimazu said with an oddly humorless locution, "would not have been necessary; but it would have helped."

Dick Wayne experienced no relief at this declaration. He was certain that Karen Waterson had been with James Wayne when he died, and that she had sought to conceal this. And he knew that almost anyone else, knowing these facts, would leap at once to a dark and savage suspicion. He found, however, that for himself he did not need Dr. Shimazu's report; he was already convinced, beyond any shadow of present or future doubt, that Karen Waterson had not killed James Wayne.

When they had communicated with Dick's brothers and with John Colt, Tonga Dick Wayne threw the radio cut-off switch. What remained was a full day with Charles Wong, repeatedly interrupted by the visits of cane field bosses, mill superintendents, cattle foremen. It was turning dark before Dick and Karen Waterson at last drove steeply down the mountain toward the anchorage of the Holokai.

Later, after the Holokai had put out from shore, Dick and Karen found themselves sitting face to face across a completely set table under the cabin's skylight. The main cabin of the Holokai was trim and well lighted, but necessarily very small; here not even the hovering of the Chinese mess boy could spare them a sense of being shut in, very close together.

Karen's eyes rested unhappily upon her plate. Her fork fiddled with broiled pakai, but she was unable to eat. Her clear-cut poise had returned in the form of a reticent withdrawal; but behind the thin shell of that poise Dick Wayne was able to perceive that the girl was nervously distraught. Tonga Dick Wayne ate, for no other reason than that he had not eaten in more than eighteen hours, and waited for Karen to speak. Now, surely, he thought, she would have something to say about her presence at the death of James Wayne.

Then presently he became aware, with a slow amazement, that Karen was not going to speak. She must have known who had picked up the broken ginger blossoms that would have given her away. But did she? Dick suddenly recognized that Karen perhaps did not know. He let his eyes rest with some deliberation upon her face, and saw that she was uncommonly pale; it gave her an exceptionally fragile look. "It seems to me," he began, "that you might tell me."

He let the question he had begun lose itself in the black race of the sea past the lee porthole. "We're making fast time," he said. "We'll be in Honolulu before very long." Karen murmured, "I'm glad." A little shiver ran across her shoulders, so that her two words made

Honolulu seem a long-sought haven, for her. "There's something I want to tell you, Karen." She waited, relaxed and impassive except for that sense of strain behind her pale composure. "I'm sorry I shanghaied you. I didn't realize what I was letting you in for." "I'm not exactly used to being pushed about," Karen said. "After all," he reminded her, "when you came aboard you believed me to be deceived even as to your name. And though your visit to Alakoa was against your will, you yourself, and your friend, John Colt, were partly responsible, I think."

Karen was silent. "But I'm not all sorry," Dick said. "In spite of everything, I know you better now; and that has been worth while." "I shouldn't have tried to fool you about who I was," Karen said. In spite of her concealed nervous tension, she seemed very tired, so that he could hardly hear her words. "That was a very silly mistake." "There have been other mistakes," Dick said. She met his eyes for a moment, and he wondered if she was thinking about a silent room, and a broken lei. He wanted to tell her that there was no reason for her to think about that; and that he believed in her completely.

Dick said morosely, "You and I ought to be able to talk to each other more easily than we do." "Do we have to go into all that?" "We can work these things out," Dick Wayne said. "You and I are the only ones who can." Karen Waterson stiffened and sat back. "I can only say this—if there are to be any negotiations at all, they will have to be carried on with John Colt, not with me." "If the case came to trial as it now stands," Dick Wayne said, "I have no doubt that you could win. After that would follow appeal after appeal, delay after delay; and even if you won in the end you'd be a white-haired old lady before your victory ever paid out. The Waynes won't give in because they can't give in."

"Neither," said Karen, looking at him directly, "do we intend to give in." "What you mean is that John Colt won't give in." "It's the same thing." Dick Wayne looked at her queerly. "Is it, Karen? Are you in love with Colt? Are you going to marry him?"

CHAPTER VII

Karen looked at him steadily a moment. "There isn't any reason why I should answer that," she said at last. "But I will. I have no intention of marrying John Colt. What I mean is that I believe I have a sound claim, and I am perfectly willing that the court should decide it. If your uncle had lived—"

She stopped, and a silence fell between them, so that they noticed again the voice of the ship, and the rush and slap of the sea. Later, Tonga Dick began talking to her again, trying to tell her what his uncle had been, as Dick saw him. He was trying to make her see a man who had lived not for personal conquest, but for a dream. He was trying to make her understand that James Wayne had been a man who did not know how to use anything, for-himself, beyond the bare necessities; one who took less from life than the salary of Charles Wong commanded. He showed her his uncle breakfasting at 3:30 in the morning, so that he could be at work by a quarter of four. He was trying to make her see twenty years of labor, in which James Wayne had given every hour of his time, every resource of his mind, to making Alakoa what it had become.

She interrupted him, after a while. "Why do you tell me all this?" "I'm trying to make you see that there is something there that cannot be measured in dollars and cents; and that even though James Wayne is dead, the fight for the things he stood for will have to go on." (TO BE CONTINUED)

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

By VIRGINIA VALE HEDY LAMARR'S going to have that long bob done in little pig-tails for a scene in "Tortilla Flat," according to an official announcement from M-G-M. She's also, in that picture, going to have another opportunity to show that she really can act when she is given a chance.

"H. M. Pulham, Esq.," her current picture, does all right by her. In that respect, though the picture itself is rather disappointing—somehow, not quite so good as it should have been.

The Mexican Spitfire comedy series rolls right along, with Lupe Velez and Leon Errol; the fifth one is "Mexican Spitfire at Sea"; evidently the combination of the rubber-legged comedian and the fiery Lupe is a money-making one.

Like many other women the country over, Rosalind Russell wanted to do something useful in the present emergency; she'd taken a Red Cross course, but felt that she could do more than roll bandages and make splints. So she's Private Rosalind Brissan now (the new husband's name being Brissan, remember), of the Beverly Hills Women's Emergency Corps, and is spending two evenings a week learning to take an ambulance apart and put it together again. When she finishes "Take a Letter, Darling," she'll enroll in the radio course.

When the Armistice was signed, 23 years ago, Wesley Barry was a boy actor, and Al Green was an assistant director. They were working together in a Mary Pickford film called "Daddy Long Legs." On the day when America entered the present war they were again working together—this time at the RKO Radio studio, in "The Mayor of 44th Street," the film musical starring Anne Shirley and George Murphy. This time Barry's assistant director, Green's director.

It'll be a new version of "Down to the Sea in Ships" for Jean Gabin, the talented French actor, if 20th Century-Fox sticks to present plans. Gabin is now working in "Moon-tide." The other story was prepared two years ago for Tyrone Power, but never went into production. The studio's lucky; sea stuff, for background, was shot last summer off the Mexican coast; couldn't be done now.

Just for the record: "Two-Faced Woman," the new Garbo picture, has been revived, and the Legion of Decency has rated it "B," instead of "C," which stands for "condemned."

Jean Davis, the film comedienne, has become a permanent member of Rudy Vallee's Thursday evening radio show. She'd been in vaudeville before she struck gold in Hollywood; Vallee saw her radio possibilities, gave her a single guest appearance, and now she's headed for the top, if she follows in the footsteps of other Vallee discoveries.

Francis White, the soprano star of the Monday evening telephone hour concerts, is an air raid warden. Her instructions are, in case of an alarm, to warn people not to use the telephone!

For five years Ted Straeter has been vocal director of the Kate Smith program. Three years ago he organized a band, and he's been making a reputation for himself through his engagements at one of New York's smartest night clubs. Now his music will be featured on a new series of radio programs, over the Mutual network.

ODDS AND ENDS—Listeners who send in the questions used in the quiz portion of the "What's On Your Mind" broadcasts are being given defense saving bonds and stamps... Shortly after the first blackout struck the Pacific coast Paramount began to get "Pacific Blackout" ready for release—it stars Robert Preston and Martha O'Driscoll... Joan Crawford's building an outdoor gymnasium at her home for her adopted son... Lou Costello is training his young daughter, Patricia, for a small role in his next picture... Fred Astaire won't pose for still photographs of himself kissing his leading lady.

Apricot Sweet Potatoes
 Broadcast by Mary Lee Taylor, Jan. 8

1 1/2 tablespoons melted butter
 1/4 cup light brown sugar, (lightly packed)
 1/2 drained apricot halves, canned

2 1/2 cups drained, mashed sweet potatoes (No. 2 1/2 can)
 1 well-beaten egg
 1/2 cup Pet Milk
 1 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Turn on oven and set at moderately slow (350° F.). Grease a 2 1/2 quart mold holding about 5 cups. Put melted butter in bottom of greased mold. Sprinkle brown sugar over melted butter. Put apricot halves, cut-side down, on top of brown sugar. Let stand while preparing the following. Mix together thoroughly mashed sweet potatoes, beaten egg, milk, salt and nutmeg. Put potato mixture in prepared mold. Bake about 40 minutes, or until firm. Remove from oven, loosen edges with knife and let stand about 5 minutes before turning out. Fill center with Creamed Peas (See Below). Serves 6.

Creamed Peas

No. 2 can peas 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1 1/2 tablespoons butter or other shortening 1/4 cup liquid off peas or water
 3 tablespoons flour 1/4 cup Pet Milk

Drain and save liquid from peas. Melt butter in 2 quart pan. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Stir in liquid off peas. Cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Add drained peas and heat thoroughly but do not boil. Serve at once in center of Apricot Sweet Potatoes.

—Chief, Local Defense Council.

One day this week, we listened to several records on the phonograph, the singing being done by little Charles (Red) Bunch, who is now singing over the radio at Hollywood, Calif. His songs were, "The Cowboy's Dream," "Give me my Boots and Saddle" and others which he sang with professional accuracy. Red is 7 years old and is undergoing instructions in singing. We wish him success.

Mrs. Lola Artiga and daughter, Mrs. Perry Hightower, were here from Capitan Wednesday. Grover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hightower, who is in the Navy at San Diego, spent the holidays here with the home folks.
