Here's Your Chance to Go to Hollywood

If you want to enjoy a good piece of entertainment, pack your grips and go with Grandma to Hollywood, (Calif) Saturday, Feb. 21. MERE will be said later on. That's all for now!

Vernon Petty, S. P. detective of Tucumcari, spent Tuesday here visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Petty, sister Miss Ruth and brothers Ralph and Jesse.

Bester Anderson of the highway force on duty at Ft. Stanton, visited his mother, Mrs. Edith Crawford, relatives and friends here during the weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. George Simpson and Mrs. J. M. Shelton of Corona were here this Wednesday.

PERSONALS

Lloyd Hulbert of the Brickley ranch near Lincoln was a Carrizozo business visitor last Friday afternoon.

Deputy Nick Vega and Oracio Corona went to Vaughn the latter part of last week and arrested a certain merchant of that town, charged with the theft of two gas tanks in Carrizozo. Nick had a good description of the tanks and going into the man's store without detection as to his official capacity, he recognized the stolen property and the arrest followed.

Ben Greisen was a business visitor from Capitan last Saturday afternoon.

Avis C. Wiggins, minister of the Church of Christ, spent last week in Phoenix, Ariz., where he appeared twice on a lecture program sponsored by the Church of Christ of that city. There were 20 preachers there from five states.

Mr. and Mrs. T. G. James spent several days of the week in Santa Fe, visiting their son, Frank James and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burnett of the Burnett Cafe were Corona visitors this Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Albino Goebara of San Patricio were here last Friday to attend the Teachers' Convention.

Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson of Capitan were here Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. K. Karr and small son Bill have returned from a visit with relatives and friends in Iowa. They report severely chilly weather and lots of snow in the Hawk Eye state.

Sheriff A. F. Stover and Deputy Nick Vega made official trips to Alamogordo and Cloudcroft the first part of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Goodson of Ancho were shoppers here this Tuesday.

Wm. Thomas of the Thomas Garage of Corona was a business visitor here the latter part of the week.

Prof. L. V. Baker, Principal of the Picacho schools, attended the Lincoln County Educational Convention held here last Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Pete Johnson and small daughter of their ranch were here Tuesday, as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Eshom and family.

R. M. Clayton made a purchase this week of 1300 ewes from Louis Nalda of the Red Canyon ranch. Mr. Clayton, accompanied by L. A. Whitaker, went to the ranch Wednesday to check over the purchase, preparatory to removing the ewes to the Clayton ranch.

Lt. Carl E. Freeman is in Camp Roberts, Cal. Lt. Freeman is a graduate of the Carrizozo High School with the class of 1935. He was graduated from the New Mexico College of A. & M. in 1941. Senator Chavez Honored

Washington — Senator Dennis Chavez today became the first public official from New Mexico to have a theatre named for him.

In appreciation for his efforts in obtaining the U. S. Army air base for Roswell, the town's theatre has been named "The Chavez" and the Senator's name greets patrons nightly from the huge neon sign.

Requesting permission to rename the theatre, Ted Jones, New Mexico manager of the R. E. Griffith theatres wrote: "Since you put forth so much effort on the air base which has been secured for Roswell we felt it would be very appropriate for us to call this theatre the Chavez." The Senator replied that he was delighted.

RESOLUTIONS

We, the members of the County Teachers' Ass'n, do hereby express our appreciation to Mr. Thomas, president and other officers for their efforts in preparing this program. We hereby express our thanks to Dr. Ballenger, Messrs. Grissom, Mullins and White.

The members of this organization take part in all activities to forward our National Defense Program. We also wish to express our thanks to the Carrizozo Board of Education for the use of the high school building for all our meetings. A copy of these resolutions be sent to the Carrizozo Outlook and the Lincoln County News for publication.
Respectfully submitted,
J. F. McRoberts, Chmn.
Geo. E. Barber, Member.
Gloria Campbell, Member.
Resolutions Committee.

Mr. and Mrs. James Baxter and Jimmy, Jr., were Roswell business visitors last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leandro Vega were business visitors at Alamogordo Wednesday afternoon.

WHAT DO YOU THINK?

In a letter from one of our correspondents this week, he points out that inasmuch as we have iron ore deposits in our county as high grade as 50 percent pure iron, he wonders if we could not interest government officials to the extent of having a smelter put in in this section of the county. He claims that with the percentage of good coal at White Oaks, Oscura and Capitan, and also ample facilities for shipping, together with a possibility of developing enough water for a project of that nature, it seems to him that the government could easily be interested. He also claims that iron veins run all the way from the Gallinas through Jicarilla and over to the White mountains.

Mr. & Mrs. Jeff Herron

Of Terrell, Texas, wrote this office a nice letter this week. They are in the optical business and report business is excellent. They have a new Neon sign located on their establishment, which is up-to-date in every particular. Mr. Herron formerly operated a grocery and feed store here a few years ago. Jeff enclosed a picture of "Shorty" Doekray of Capitan and added "Hoeray for our side." The Herrons send best regards to their many friends here and over Lincoln County, and if you go down Terrell way, the latch string is always open and they'd be delighted to see you and talk times.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Bishop arrived here last week from Albuquerque and have located here as permanent additions to our community. Mr. Bishop is State Brand Inspector. They are residing in the Bell cottage next door to Lloyd's Cafe. We welcome them to our community.

Business Men's Club

At the weekly meeting of the club, 20 members answered the roll call and there was one visitor, Emil Reynolds of the Standard Service Station, who was the guest of A. L. Burke. As sponsors of the Boy Scouts, the club presented that organization with a Troop Flag, which was very beautiful. The flag will be used in the parades and at other places where it may be needed.

Mr. Hall made a report on the recent Red Cross Drive which exceeded its quota by $370.75. Business projects of various kinds were brought up by the members, both for the good and welfare of Carrizozo and vicinity. Mr. Whitaker brought up the matter of the President's Ball tonight for infantile paralysis sufferers, and asked all who so desired to contribute to the purchase of tickets, to apply to him.

One member spoke of a letter received from an out-of-town correspondent, who stressed the matter of endeavoring to interest government officials in establishing an iron ore smelter. Mr. Rolland said that to his knowledge, several engineers were already investigating the matter.

—G. H. Dorsett, Sec'y.

IMPROVEMENTS

Cliff and Glad Zumwalt of the Lincoln County Motors, Inc., are installing new electric computing pumps, and all Phillips products will be handled starting next week. They have installed new equipment for use in the repairing of all makes of cars. Next they will paint the buildings and install a large neon sign.

Obituary

Vera Bowers was born March 24, 1900, at Alexander, Mo., and died at Deming, N. M., Jan. 22, 1942. She came with her folks to the Cherryvale community in 1913. She graduated from Montgomery county high school in '17. She taught school for several years and in 1925, she married Vernon Mosier in Kansas City, where they resided until 1930, when they moved to Carrizozo, N. M., thence to Capitan and later to Deming. One son came to bless their home. Mrs. Mosier was a member of the Methodist Church and Women's Missionary Society. One of her greatest desires was that her son should dedicate his life to the ministry.

She leaves to mourn her loss her husband, a son, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bowers, three brothers, three sisters, other relatives and friends.—Taken from Cherryvale, Kansas, newspaper.
—The sympathy of the people of Lincoln County is tendered to Mr. Mosier, son Marvin and other relatives.

We wish to thank our many friends for the kind acts extended to us during the illness and after the death of our beloved wife and mother.

Vernon Mosier and Marvin.

Bob Russell, S. P. confidant, died at Tucumcari last night after being ill a few days with pneumonia. Mr. Russell had many friends here who will miss him.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Sparkman are here from the Jicarilla country on account of their daughter, who is confined in the Turner Hospital with pneumonia, but is improving at this writing.

In Rainbow Land

The regular meeting of Rainbow for Girls was held at Masonic Temple Thursday, Jan. 22nd. Business meeting closed in form after which invited guests were escorted to the assembly room to attend the public installation of officers. The installing officers were, Jane Gallacher, Installing Officer; Henrietta Degner, Chaplain; Mary Lou Phillips Welsh, Recorder; Louise Degner, Marshal; Mrs. T. E. Kelley, Musician. Each officer executed her work in an efficient manner.

Following is the roll of officers: Worthy Advisor, Charlene Page; Associate Advisor, Shirley Bee Phipps; Charity, Dorothy May Jones; Hope, Dorothy Hoffman; Faith, Marguerite Myers; Recorder, Jacqueline Dixon; Treasurer, Jane Gallacher; Chaplain, Elizabeth Jordan; Drill Leader, D. Ferguson. The color points and other officers will be named later. Mrs. Nora Phipps is the new Mother Advisor.

The White Bible, a gift of the Assembly to the retiring Worthy Advisor Jane Gallacher was graciously presented in well-chosen words by Mrs. Kelley. Jane responded in her usual pleasing way.

Mrs. Margaret English, Past Worthy Advisor, was presented with a Past Mother Advisor Pin, gift of the Assembly by Charlene Page, W. A. Mrs. English responded by words of praise for the Assembly, and thanks for the loving gift.

Mrs. Maude L. Blaney, Acting Mother Advisor since last August was escorted to the East where Henrietta Degner presented her with a beautiful boudoir lamp, with many words of appreciation of her work for and with them the past months. This was a great surprise to Mrs. Blaney but she managed to utter a few words of thanks to the Assembly for their thoughtfulness and for their courtesies during her time of service.

The next regular meeting of Assembly No. 7 will be held Feb. 12—13! Meet you there. Be on time and stay to the finish. Any girl 13 years of age desirous of becoming a member of the Rainbow make inquiry and join. 1942 dues are now due.

For Anti-Axis Pact

Dr. W. M. Fitch, chancellor of free American national council, who asked Congress that free Americans be allowed to affiliate with nations that signed anti-Axis pact.

CREED FOR AN AMERICAN IN AN ALL-OUT WAR

I am through with compromise, halfway measures, crystal gazing and the idea that it's all done by mirrors.

I am finished with talk for talk's sake and the "that's under advisement" and "in due time the matter will be attended to" technic.

I have canceled my subscription to the theory that "it all comes out in the wash," even if you haven't thought to provide soap.

I believe in my country's capacity to triumph, despite its tendency to argue, muddle, procrastinate and compromise.

I believe the "Never say die" spirit of America will completely supersede the "What's in it for ME?" motif; and that it's about time.

I believe the Spirit of '76 will submerge the Spirit of Every Man for Himself, Every Politician for the Main Chance and Every American for Softer Upholstery.

I believe in the American Way and I now believe it is the way upward and forward and not just a circular path around the artificial rosebuds.

I believe the country is beginning to understand that sacrifice is not merely something done with a goat.

I believe that patriotism is something beginning to show in the deeds of Americans and no longer something that was the main concern of orators during a five-minute interval at national conventions.

I believe that "The Star-Spangled Banner" is now a song to stir every American to the depths, and no longer a number reserved in the main for special school exercises, army and navy activities and for musical comedy climaxes.

I believe that this is a war in which Americans see the issue more clearly than they have seen the issue in any war since 1776.

I believe that the hopes of Washington and Jefferson and Abraham Lincoln must triumph over the hopes of Hitler and Tojo and Mussolini.

I believe that the Bible must and shall triumph over Mein Kampf; and that the kindly figure of the Man of Galilee shall endure to guide the way of mankind long after the chest-thumping, plaza-strutting, dictatorial, microphone addicts and bullies have dwindled to the size of long-forgotten bacilli.

I believe there is more in the Constitution of the United States, the Declaration of Independence and the American Bill of Rights worth fighting for than in any goal or set of goals ever proclaimed by all the war lords of history.

I believe Uncle Sam is all the more inspiring and all the more indestructible through his sudden awakening to the valor of the Chinese, the incredible toughness of the Russians, the fortitude of the British and the fine qualities of all those nations with which he is now linked, in one crusade.

I believe Americans can "take it as well as dish it out."

I believe they are going to prove it in a way that will win a new respect all over the face of this earth.

I believe there are reversals, hard blows and great sufferings for Uncle Sam ahead.

I believe he will toughen up and show that he is the Uncle Sam of Breeds Hill, "the rude bridge that arched the flood," Valley Forge, Ticonderoga, Princeton, Gettysburg, San Juan Hill, Manila Bay, Belleau Wood and Soissons.

I believe in America!

JOE LOUIS AND THE ARMY EXAM

Q.—Have you done much fighting?

A.—No, but what I've done has been effective.

Q.—Have you done any flying?

A.—Not since the first Schmeling bout.

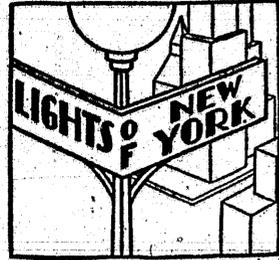

Q.—Any experience in tank work?

A.—No, that was two other champions.

There is a difference of opinion in the dress industry over the reported plan to shorten skirts by way of saving fabrics. Maurice Rentner of the Fashion Originators guild says they can't be made shorter without becoming police court matters. But we think he is wrong. Skirts got so short around the time of the last war now and then a husband got mixed up and put one on as a wristlet.

The splendid work of the Dutch in the war brings back to mind an old song Dr. Fred Beck used to sing at the Grays' outings back home: "Those Dutch, they say, they ain't got no style— They got style all the while, all the while!"

A robber entered an office at Broadway and Forty-second street at high noon the other day and stole $500. He was the only person in that area working at such an early hour.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Kathleen Howard, who has the humor of other grand dames of the screen without the acidity, declared during a recent New York visit that for years she has been wondering why she is always being cast as a brittle, forbidding old lady.

"Imagine anyone wanting to be a shrewish wife to W. C. Fields!" she exploded. "Well, I had to do that three times." Miss Howard's lady-like voice registered shock and her turquoise snood shook so with indignation that her gray curls fell loose from their mooring. "Really I don't feel a bit vile and you can tell by one look at me that I could not carry out a threat if I wanted to. But I've been the villainess in so many movies, including the prim, hateful housekeeper in "Ball of Fire," that the fans are writing in and asking if I'm secretly married to Frankenstein in private life."

Actually, the reluctant villainess is not married to anyone in private life. Instead, she lives pretty much alone—except for visits from brothers and sisters—just outside Hollywood which she regards as Valhalla on earth. Her abundant love for her fellowman, which has never been given a chance to show itself on the screen, is pretty well distributed among all professions and types. But the electricians and the prop men on the sets are her private discovery.

"They live in a world of their own," she explained, "and they know more about every little plane in your face than the most observing painter or other artist. They know when wrong lighting will make you look grotesque, insipid or just plain dull. Of course, in my case, they've never had occasion to dwell on the beautiful. But when they do, I'll have fun because I know they'll treat me right."

Experience: When "Best Foot Forward," the George Abbott musical in which just about all the players are juveniles, opened, Joan Edwards had only one criticism—the situation in which Rosemary Lane's gown is torn off by over-enthusiastic autograph hounds. Such a thing just couldn't happen, she averred. Miss Edwards has changed her mind. Accompanied by Jimmy Dorsey, she made a guest appearance at a high school dance near Paterson, N. J. And it was a lucky thing indeed for Miss Edwards that Dorsey had a spare overcoat with him. Not only did she lose her dress, but her sport coat as well in the rush of boys and girls eager to get free autographed phonograph records.

FARM WOODLOT NEEDS CULLING

'Loafer' and 'Robber' Trees Should 'Get the Ax.'

By PARKER ANDERSON
(Extension Forester, Minnesota University Farm.)

The farm woodlot needs "culling" at this time of the year just as much as does the flock of laying hens. If the woodlot is to produce well in the future, loafer and robber trees should get the ax.

Trees culled out this winter will more than pay for the trouble and labor in fuel, fence posts and lumber logs. Woodlots will gain from this practice, he says, because the remaining trees can grow faster and straighter.

It is a good idea to have an eye out for trees that will give cash returns in the future. Productive trees should have the best in soil fertility, water and sunlight. Large trees that "overtop" and steal sunlight from promising young growth are among those recommended by Anderson for culling.

To avoid too extensive cutting here are some suggestions:

Leave enough trees to cover the forest floor, but thin out dense thickets of young trees so the straightest and healthiest ones will have growing room. Keep your eyes on the tops—tree tops should be fairly close but with some room for growth.

Raise More Food, Farm Youth Urged

Farm boys and girls are being encouraged to increase country production of foods needed by this country through projects on pigs, calves, and chickens, according to word received from the U. S. department of agriculture.

Both the Farm Credit and Farm Security administrations are prepared to make loans to members of 4-H clubs and other rural youth groups—as well as to unaffiliated youngsters with responsible sponsors—to make more such work possible than in the past.

FSA will make loans to children of its borrowers where funds are otherwise unavailable, and FCA will make loans through local production credit associations. The State Extension services in co-operation with state agricultural colleges, will help to launch many of the projects, it is announced.

Many 4-H clubs and other rural youth groups have raised various foods as part of their work in the past. Last year, for instance, 4-H members grew 237,000 home gardens, 177,000 raised poultry, 150,000 raised pigs, and 74,000 had dairy cattle. The aim now is to increase the number of farm boys and girls growing foods deemed most vital to America.

Their contributions of milk, eggs, pork, and vegetables will not only add to needed supplies in the country but will make possible in many instances an improved diet for themselves and families, it is pointed out.

Carbon Monoxide Is Poultry Danger

Pink lungs reveal carbon monoxide poisoning in baby turkeys and chicks. According to George P. McCarthy, poultry husbandman of Texas A. and M. college, a grower may actually gas his turkey poult or baby chicks with a ventily brooder stove and bad ventilation. Deaths from this cause might be attributed to other reasons.

Investigators by the Denver branch of the U.S.D.A. into the high percentage of loss among baby turkeys delivered in good condition from hatcheries to poultrymen showed no external symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning, even when it was suspected. Chemical tests, however, were conclusive and physical examinations confirmed the positive cases by revealing the abnormally pink lungs which result from this type of poisoning.

McCarthy recommends that turkey growers provide good ventilation in their brooder houses without exposing the young birds to the hazard of drafts. Before placing baby chicks in brooder houses it is important to clean coal, wood and oil burning brooder stoves in order to remove all soot which might clog the burners and help form the dangerous gas.

Farm Machinery

Despite actual or threatened shortages of raw materials, last year was a year of record output of farm equipment, says the department of commerce. The monthly output of farm equipment continued steadily at the rate of $65,000,000 from April through September. Sales of farm equipment show an increase of 25 per cent over a year ago, according to entries in the domestic market, since exports of farm equipment were sparse.

A Near-President

After years of neglect, tardy honors at last have been paid to a great American—a man who served his country as United States senator, minister to France, secretary of war and secretary of the treasury, a statesman who just missed being President! From Atlanta, Ga., recently came word that the restoration of the burial place of William Harris Crawford had been completed.

Crawford was a native of Amherst county, Va., where he was born February 24, 1772. His parents moved to Georgia and there the father died in 1788, leaving his 16-year-old son to become the principal support of the family by teaching school.

Meanwhile he was studying law and in 1798 he was admitted to the bar. From the law to politics was a logical step and in 1803 Crawford was elected to the state legislature where he served until 1807. Elected to the United States senate in 1809, he made an even more brilliant record as a legislator there and from March, 1812, to 1813 he was president pro tem of the upper house.

At the end of Crawford's term in the senate, President Madison offered him the post of secretary of war but he declined. However, he did accept an appointment as minister to France and in Paris he received a warm reception. When Napoleon was overthrown in 1815, Napoleon returned to the United States where Madison again offered him the post of secretary of war. This time he accepted and held the position until 1816 when he became secretary of the treasury.

During that period in our history Presidents were nominated by congressional caucus and as Madison's term drew to a close his secretary of the treasury was the favorite to succeed him. However, when the vote was finally taken, James Monroe received 65 votes to Crawford's 54. The new President asked his rival to continue as secretary of the treasury and Crawford consented. He served until 1825.

When it came time to select a presidential nominee in 1824, Crawford's name was again prominently mentioned. In fact, he was the congressional caucus nominee, although there were only 65 out of 216 members of his party present when the vote was taken. By this time the caucus method of choosing a President had fallen into disrepute and three other candidates entered the contest. They were John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson and Henry Clay.

When the electoral votes were counted it was found that Jackson had received 91 votes, Adams 84, Crawford 41 and Clay 37. Since none of the candidates had a majority of all the votes cast, the election was thrown into the house of representatives, which was to ballot on the three high men. There Henry Clay threw his strength to Adams and the New Englander was elected President.

After Adams was inaugurated, he asked Crawford to continue as secretary of the treasury, but the Georgian pleading ill health—he had suffered a stroke of paralysis in 1824—declined the honor and returned to his home in Georgia.

However, by 1827 his health was good enough so that he was able to take on the duties of a circuit judge and he continued in this office until he died at Elberton, Ga., on September 15, 1834. His death was a fitting conclusion to his active life for he literally "died in the harness." He was away from home on the circuit, fulfilling his judicial duties, when the end came.

Few men have ever filled the post of secretary of treasury more capably than Crawford. As a member of the senate he had done much to bring about the reincorporation of the Bank of the United States and because of this Madison first offered him the treasury portfolio. This proved to be a wise choice, for Crawford, taking over the tangled financial affairs of the nation at the close of the War of 1812, handled the situation with extraordinary skill and was able to turn the treasury over to his successor with its finances on a sound basis.

JESUS CALLS FOUR DISCIPLES

GOLDEN TEXT—Luke 5:1-11. "Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men."—Mark 1:17.

Followers of Christ are those who have not counted their goods nor their persons their own, but have willingly yielded all to Him. Obviously many who profess to follow Him have only done so in that measure which will not interfere with their own plans and interests. They need to study this lesson with care.

The call of Christ is one which demands willing and wholehearted obedience.

I. Yielded Possessions (vv. 1-3).

These disciples had already responded to the ministry of Jesus and had followed Him for a time (see John 1:35-4:54), but they did not yet know the fullness of surrender to Christ and had now gone back to their old work of fishing. May they not be typical of many in our day who know the Lord and have for a time followed Him closely, but have again become engrossed in their daily vocation, perhaps just making money?

Jesus was now ready to call them out into a lifetime of service, and the first thing He did was to ask the use of their chief possession, their boat. That was not by chance that it was.

It was not by accident that it was Peter's boat which was just at hand when the Master needed it. Such things do not "just happen." The destinies of men are in the hands of God, and with His children the simplest happening is known to and controlled by Him. He who numbers the hairs on our heads, He who observes the fall of the sparrow, knows about everything that happens to us.

II. Yielded Service (vv. 4-7).

Having completed His teaching by word, Jesus had a special object lesson for Peter and the others concerning the fruitfulness of service apart from His guidance and control, and the blessed results which come from obedience to Him.

Taking them where he found them, He showed the disciples that He was the Master even of their secular vocation of fishing. He is the One who knows more about your business than you do, who can give or withhold His blessing. All that we have has come to us from His hand, and it is all within His control.

This Almighty One was ready to call these fishermen out into the greater business of fishing for men by revealing to them His mighty power to bless and prosper the fisherman—who becomes a fisher of men.

III. Yielded Lives (vv. 8-11).

The yielding of their possessions, the yielding of their work into His hands in obedience, led up to His call for the yielding of their lives.

Often we speak of God's claims upon the life of the Christian as though it were the fiat of an autocrat, one who demands his rights. God might well do so, for He has full authority and power over all of us, but He is a gracious God and gently leads His children along to the place where they make their own decision to leave all and follow Him.

The work of God in the world is carried on by men. The joy of proclaiming the gospel was not given to the angels, but to redeemed men and women. Knowing the regenerating grace of God in their own lives, they have been called during all this Christian era to go out to tell others.

In preparation for that ministry our Lord needed yielded lives, which He sought and found in these humble fishermen. They were "not visionaries or dreamers, but were practical men with common sense. They had been disciplined in the school of common toil. . . . Though unlearned so far as formal theological training was concerned, these men were teachable. Under the tutelage of the Son of God Himself they received matchless informal training. . . . leading to a record of service which the world will never forget. It is that sort of teaching that counts. We, too, may learn in the school of Christ, through a study of His Word, assisted by His Spirit, and through the yielding of our lives to His control" (B. L. Olmstead).

Christ no longer walks this earth to seek and call out disciples as He did these men, but the blessed succession of those of whom it may be said, "They forsook all and followed Him" (v. 11), continues to this day.

We repeat what we have said before, that one of the thrilling things about teaching Sunday school is that somewhere, in some class this next Sunday, God is going to touch the heart of some boy or girl who will be a leader for Him for the next generation.

Star Dust

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

MICKEY ROONEY'S marriage to Ava Gardner, the pretty girl from North Carolina whose movie career has so far consisted of a few minor roles, depleted the ranks of Hollywood eligibles—and that's a serious problem. There has never been enough bachelors there to go around. Now the draft, enlistment in the armed forces, and matrimony have made it harder than ever for a pretty, unattached girl to find a presentable, unattached male escort.

Franchot Tone, George Brent, Rooney himself—all seemed bent on pursuing the single life, no matter how many girls they were said to be engaged to. Then matrimony hit them all, like a hurricane. Pity the press agents, who'll have to find substitutes, when they want to get publicity for a film starlet by announcing her engagement to a movie celebrity!

The death of bachelors isn't going to bother Martha O'Driscoll, Paramount starlet; she herself removed one from circulation when she announced her engagement to Walter Brewer, a non-professional, and the brother of Mrs. Hal Roach Jr. She appeared in "Reap the Wild Wind" in one of the principal roles and recently finished work in "Pacific Blackout" in the feminine lead.

Betty Field has had a lot of good roles; in "Shepherd of the Hills" she wore makeup on her body that made it look as if she were covered with dirt, in addition to having drab clothing. Now, in "Mr. and Mrs. Cugat," in which she is co-starred with Ray Milland, she has 15 changes of clothing—Edith Head, who designed the garments, said she had the highest budget wardrobe that Paramount will provide for any of its glamour stars this year, so far once Betty will have something to wear on the screen!

Claudette Colbert goes Betty Field one better, though—she wears two wedding gowns in "The Palm Beach Story," in which she marries Joel McCrea twice—once in 1937, once in 1942—and both costumes are tops.

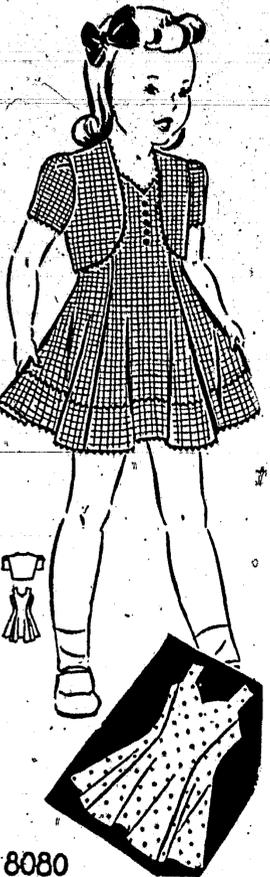

When the call to duty came, it found Carole Lombard ready and obedient. She did not lose her life in that call, she gave it, as willingly and freely as any soldier upon the battlefield. Her memory shall be cherished and revered down the ages by all who love that honor and freedom for which the fun-loving beloved wife of Clark Gable made the supreme sacrifice, when an airplane, carrying the film star, her mother and 29 others, including 15 army fliers, crashed near Las Vegas, Nev., none surviving. Miss Lombard was returning to Hollywood from Indianapolis, where she had gone to assist the U. S. treasury in the sale of defense bonds.

Pauline Goddard takes to the woods in "The Forest Rangers," playing a girl of the backwoods who contends with a city-bred rival for the affections of Fred MacMurray. Seems as if it would have been more appropriate to let her play city gail

They tell us there's a new word for "omph," which Hollywood had been tirelessly hunting. Hop came from the army. A back-private was visiting the Paramount studio, and saw Jean Phillips, blonde ex-starring role in "Dr. Broadway." He looked at her once, twice, and turned to the bystanders. "Wow!" said he. "She's got wood!"

ODDS AND ENDS—Band leader Sammy Kaye, who, with Don Reid, wrote the stirring song, "Remember Pearl Harbor," is donating all the royalties from sheet and record sales to Navy Relief. . . . If you've made a habit of listening to those heart-stirring radio programs in which excited British children talk to their parents at home, you'll be glad to hear that Motra has bought "Journey to Margaret," a book about one such child. . . . Chester Morris and Jean Parker, co-starring in "Torpedo Boat," both wore something red on the first day of shooting. . . . Victor Borgs tries out his routines for the Crosby programs on the pre-view audiences of other people's broadcasts.

HERE is an adorable new fashion idea for little two to six-year olds. A simple, princess jumper topped with a gay brocel! Thus it is a frock to wear any season, any day—and a charming style too for all little figures. For outdoor play, in warmer seasons, the bolero may be removed. So simple to make that you can finish it in a few hours, here is an outfit to add

Household Hints

To remove brown stains from light-colored ranges, dip a cloth in turpentine and apply to stains. With a little pressure the stains will come off.

Store dried fruits in their original packages, tightly covered, or place them in covered fruit jars. It is best not to wash them until time to use.

The unsightly ring left by cleaning fluids, when used to remove spots, may be avoided by placing under the spot a pad made of thick absorbent cotton.

Apply paint remover with a brush. When paint begins to curl remove with a putty knife. Remover takes time and cannot be hurried.

Few More Years Would Have Toughened Uncle

The oldest inhabitant had celebrated his hundredth birthday and the reporter of a local paper called on him for an interview. "To what do you attribute your longevity?" the reporter inquired. The centenarian paused a moment and then, holding up his hand and ticking off the items on his fingers, began: "I never drank alcoholic liquors, or overate, and I always rise at six in the morning." "But," protested the reporter, "I had an uncle who acted in that way, yet he only lived to be eighty. How do you account for that?" "He didn't keep it up long enough," was the calm reply.

Looking Toward The Days Ahead

WITH THE ADVENT of war, we are facing new problems in every state we serve. These become more complex as the arming of the nation gains impetus. Directly or indirectly, every one of us will play a more important part in this unprecedented endeavor as momentous days roll along in 1942.

Naturally, in this emergency the country turns to the telephone for quick communication. Not only are more calls being made from each telephone, but the average length of calls has increased. We are adding new facilities as fast as obtainable where the need exists, but shortage of materials has already curtailed some of these planned additions. First things must be kept first!

We offer these suggestions with an appreciation of your past cooperation:

1. Don't trust to memory or old lists for telephone numbers. A wrong number is a wasted call.
2. Answering your telephone promptly saves time and facilities.
3. Give persons you call enough time to answer.
4. If there are delays on your calls, we hope that you will realize we are exerting every effort to keep them to a minimum.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Submarine Activity Highlights Action Of United States and Enemy Navies; Russian Troops Use Nazi Technique In Important Victory Over Germans

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

U. S. NAVY: A Hint or Two

Nothing in the U.S. of detailed communiques about naval activities was coming out of the Pacific, but occasionally there was a hint or two which showed that Uncle Sam's Union Jack was not waving aimlessly about in those waters.

One of these was a dispatch from a correspondent aboard one of the battlewagons, who wrote to the press that the navy was active, was sinking Jap submarines, was on the lookout for unwary Jap ships and dropping them to the bottom of the sea, but was not allowing itself to be trapped.

He also stated categorically that among the objectives of the navy was to prevent a repetition of Jap attacks on Midway and Johnson's islands, or on Pearl Harbor.

RUSSIANS: Cut Off Nazis

Using the favorite Nazi technique of parachutists behind the lines, the Russians had struck a vital blow in the Moxhatk sector and believed they had trapped a force of about 100,000 Germans who had no recourse but to surrender or face annihilation.

Clouds of parachutists were dropped behind a fairly stable German position, one which the Russians had been hammering with artillery fire for more than a week.

This is a recent photo of Field Marshal Walter von Reichenau, who, according to Berlin reports, died after an attack of apoplexy. He was given a large share of credit for the sweeping Nazi victories in the West and was regarded as the general closest to Hitler.

These forces consolidated, allegedly destroyed seven Nazi battalions of infantry and burned a railroad train containing 23 cars of war material. The Germans, their supply lines cut, were trapped.

It was believed by Red headquarters that the surrender would follow as a matter of course, without serious further resistance.

Field Marshal Von Reichenau, famous leader of the Germans' Ukrainian army, responsible for the successful southern drive against the Russians last summer, dropped dead of apoplexy, and a state funeral was decreed for him.

Thus Hitler had lost by death another famed commander, after relieving Von Brauchitsch of command not long before.

MAC ARTHUR: Spirited

Although MacArthur's men on the island of Luzon had continued to put up a spirited resistance to overwhelming numbers of Japanese invaders, there were certain aspects of late communiques which had pointed to the fact that the battle must be entering its decisive stages.

And Washington was holding out to the American public no hope that there could be any outcome but final defeat, though temporary, in that theater of the war.

The Japs had evidently turned MacArthur's right flank somewhat, if not completely, and reports of a landing on the Bataan peninsula were highly disquieting.

The brave little army was putting up a terrific defensive fight, but Washington observers pointed out that much of its success depended on maintaining communications with Corregidor, and it was up to the right flank to maintain this connection.

Tokyo communiques had shown that MacArthur's army was fighting bitterly to maintain this.

LABOR: A Peace Offer

John L. Lewis, who admittedly threw a personal monkey wrench into the machinery of labor unions which sought to make peace between C.I.O. and A.F.L. prior to the war declaration, now had extended the olive branch of peace "as a war move."

The bushy-eyebrowed leader of the United Mine Workers, originator of the breakaway from the A.F.L. in the first place, back in 1930, wrote to Philip Murray, head of C.I.O., suggesting that a peace negotiation be started. He also wrote in the same vein to William Green, president of A.F.L.

President Roosevelt repeatedly had sought to bring about just such an outcome.

Each effort had failed. It had been more than a year since the last try was made.

Lewis, in his letters, said:

"It is my opinion that under conditions existing at present there is a justification for the belief that a further effort could achieve success.

"It is obvious that if accoutement could be achieved, with unified and competent leadership the results would be advantageous and in the public interest. Heretofore this has not been possible.

"Conditions are now changed. America needs unity in every phase of its national economy."

SUBMARINES: German Losses Heavy

The war in the Atlantic, particularly since the United States started patrolling, has resulted in heavy submarine losses for Germany. A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, declared.

He said that thousands of the Reich's best submarine personnel had been drowned or captured, including many of Hitler's top-flight commanders.

He said:

"A heavy toll is being taken, and it seems clear that one of the great problems of the enemy is to man his new submarines with sufficiently trained crews.

"Meantime the strength of the royal navy is growing despite heavy and repeated casualties.

It was one of his first statements since the loss of the Repulse in Singapore waters.

He was unable to deliver it in person because he was busy with Prime Minister Churchill, who had just flown in from Bermuda, thus terminating his stay in the United States.

Churchill was greeted like a returning conqueror, and was cheered to the echo wherever he appeared.

'HELLFIRE': Important Surrender

Poles, British and Free French were in the British force which stormed and forced surrender of Halfaya pass, the "hellfire" stronghold which twice before in this war had changed hands on the Libyan front.

The pass is a break in the escarpment near the Libyan-Egyptian frontier, and forms a supply route which saves the British or Germans, as the case may be, a 100-mile detour by a southern route.

Fifty-five hundred Germans and Italians surrendered at Halfaya pass, raising the total of Axis prisoners taken in the British victory to 31,000.

The taking of Solum, another "resistance pocket" back of the British lines had cut off Halfaya's defenders from aid from the Mediterranean, and they were surrounded by land. Any supplies they got fell from Axis planes, and the British had mastery of the air.

So Halfaya fell, and the victory was hailed by the British as of far more import than immediately appeared.

MISCELLANY:

Washington: More than 100 German, Japanese and Italian business concerns have been padlocked and 28 others were operating under federal supervision.

Cleveland: Dr. Abba Hillel Silver, Zionist leader, said Britain or America should arm defenseless Palestine in order that the Jews may defend their homeland and assure their independence.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By ROBERT McSHANE

Released by Western Newspaper Union

HEAVYWEIGHT Champion Joe Louis' brutal conquest of Buddy Baer removed any lingering doubt concerning the champ's claim to top honors in modern boxing history.

Not since the time he almost tore Max Schmelling apart has Joe looked as good in the ring. And it must be remembered that Buddy was bigger, younger and stronger than the German. Joe couldn't miss. Baer might just as well have tangled with a bolt of lightning. In fact, it would be hard to convince the younger of the boxing Baer brothers that his opponent was a mere mortal.

From John L. Sullivan to Joe Louis there have been 15 heavyweight champions. As champ, Joe has risked his title more often than any man since the days of John L. Since winning the belt from Jim Braddock in 1937, Louis has knocked out 18 men and defeated two others by decision.

By way of comparison, Jack Dempsey knocked out four of the six men whom he as champion faced. He won one other fight by decision before losing to Gene Tunney. Jack Johnson knocked out only two contenders for his title, winning one other fight by decision and fighting one draw.

It's customary for many die-hard to belittle Joe's opposition. In some instances such an attitude isn't far from wrong. But it isn't stretching the truth to say that Louis has faced as tough—or tougher—competition than either Dempsey or Johnson.

Dempsey fought Bill Brennan, Billy Miske, Georges Carpentier, Luis Firpo, Tom Gibbons and Tunney. Brennan never was particularly dangerous. Miske was in poor health, Carpentier lacked the weight, Firpo lacked speed and Gibbons had been whipped decisively prior to the championship match. Tunney won the title.

All this doesn't reflect on Dempsey—the most spectacular heavyweight of the lot and the top showman. It wasn't Dempsey's fault that his competition—like Louis—left something to be desired.

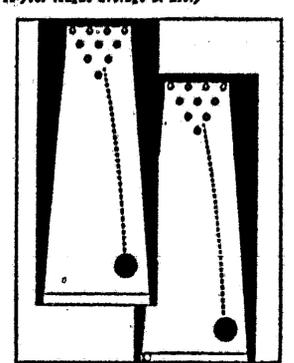

Johnson, as champion, outpointed Jim Flynn, knocked out A. Spaul in Paris, fought an eight-round draw with Jim Johnson, won in 20 rounds from Frank Moran and lost the title to Jess Willard.

Joe's knockout record is impressive. In his 58 professional fights he has stopped 48 opponents. Including his 27 knockouts as an amateur, the champ has knocked out a total of 85 opponents in 100 fights—a percentage of .850.

Bowling—the Right Way

By LOWELL JACKSON

(This is one of a series of lessons in bowling by Lowell Jackson, one of the country's outstanding bowlers. Mr. Jackson has a 200 game to his credit and has a 12-year league average of 215.)

"Two spot-bowling methods."

SPOT BOWLING.—Spot bowling is a science and my advice is not to attempt it until you are sure that every phase of your approach and delivery is truly grooved.

One style allows the bowler to find a spot at the foul line from which his grooved delivery produces the most strikes and he tries to release the ball at that spot every time he delivers it. This type of spot bowler goes to the foul line with the sole purpose of releasing his ball at that spot. He never looks at the pins until just before the ball is delivered, and he then watches the roll of the ball.

Another style of spot bowling finds the bowler picking a spot at the foul line and placing his ball on that spot every time, not lifting his eyes to see the pins until after the ball has left his hand.

When rolling your second ball in an effort to spare, you keep your eyes focused on the alley and not on the pins.

The Canadian Open Golf tournament, only national golf tournament still being held in Canada, will take place as usual this year.

Baseball's minor league lost approximately 300 players to the nation's armed forces from October 1, 1940, to December 30, 1941.

It is expected that neither the United States military academy nor the naval academy plans any curtailment of sports. Both service teams expect to have powerful football teams in '42.

Nelson's Winning Game

A short white back Craig Wood, U. S. Open golf champion, rated Byron Nelson as the finest all-around shotmaker in golf.

Nelson backed up this generous tribute from the Open titleholder by coming back in 30 at Miami late last month to win the $10,000 Open by a matter of five strokes.

Since few know Grantland Rice more about Nelson's game than Leo Diegel, a smart observer, we asked the diagnosing Diegel to let us in on the secret of a great golfer's style and success.

"I've known Byron since he was a Texas kid," Diegel said. "I've studied his game as it changed with the years. I think I can tell you something about him.

"In the first place, I would say that Byron Nelson, like most of those Texans, is one of the best competitors I've ever known in golf. What makes a great competitor, you might ask? My answer is determination, unbroken concentration on every shot and his refusal to be discouraged by a few bad shots or a few bad holes. Nelson sinks his teeth in every round, concentrates on every shot, and battles it out to the last putt. He has a fine golfing philosophy, which so many lack—and that is to take the breaks of the game as they happen to come, good or bad.

The Nelson Swing

"Nelson," Diegel continued, "has the soundest swing in golf. He is the finest long iron player I ever saw. He has one odd feature, and this is his wrist action. At the top of his backswing you will see almost no break of his left wrist.

"Byron doesn't cock his left wrist at all—or only slightly. He uses a strong, firm left hand and wrist that is always in control of the clubhead, which he never lets dip. He hasn't nearly as much body action as many good golfers have, for he lets his body work with his hands and arms. He also has almost perfect head action. I mean by this that his head remains in place until the ball is hit.

"I don't know of any golfer who has a more compact style of swinging a club. Everything is under control. He has cut the margin of error to near zero.

His Weakest Shot

"I would say Byron's weakest shot was the short chip," Leo said. This is due to his lack of even slight wrist action on this stroke. He isn't bad just off the green, but he isn't as deadly as he is on other shots. I have often seen him play long irons from 200 or 220 yards away just as close to the pin as he would from 20 yards away.

"Another factor is his perfect confidence in his own swing. I've also seen him drop 8 or 10 balls on the turf in just average lies, take out a driver, and hit them all over 250 yards as straight as a rifle can shoot.

"Too many golfers bother too much with unimportant details. They don't concentrate enough on what their hands and wrists are doing with the head of the club. Too often they think about everything except swinging that clubhead through the ball.

"You don't swing a club with your hips and shoulders. You swing it with your hands. If you watch Nelson you get the idea that he isn't using anything except his hands. Of course, he does, but he lets the rest of it sit in, not work against his hands.

Tough Competitors

"Why is it those Texans are such tough competitors?" Diegel asked. "They come along with Ralph Guldahl, who wins two National Opens in a row. Then they give you a Jimmy Demaret who wins eight big tournaments in a few months. Then along comes Ben Hogan and Byron Nelson. Hogan is one of the most successful golfers that ever played. You may recall that he finished in the money 56 consecutive times before he slipped a little. Then at Miami he finished second after leading the field for three rounds.

"Hogan uses his wrists and body much more than Nelson does. Ben, weighing only 135 pounds, has to do this—to get the distance needed today. Hogan has a far greater body than Nelson does, and more flexible wrists. Ben lets the clubhead slip at least 12 inches or two feet more than Nelson does. Byron uses little more than a three-quarter swing.

"Nelson, Hogan and Sam Snead make one of the most interesting studies in golf," Diegel said. "All three are great golfers—three of the greatest we've ever had.

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by ALAN LEMAY

INSTALLMENT NINE

THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterson, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, has come to Honolulu to attempt getting the property. In an effort to find out something about the WAYNE family, now in control of Alakoa, the island, she accepts a date to go sailing with Richard (Kong) Dick Wayne. Against her wishes, he takes her to Alakoa. While there, James Wayne, Dick's uncle and manager of the property, is found dead from overwork. Next day on the way back to Honolulu Dick tells Karen he loves her, but they quarrel over her claim to the estate. Dick later tries to work out a compromise settlement with John Colt and when he fails he tells Karen and Colt that their adventure is to end soon. He goes back to Alakoa and is in the midst of a conference with his two half-brothers, Willard and Ernest Wayne.

Now continue with the story.

A faint flicker of self assertion reappeared in Ernest Wayne. "You can't order us."

"You see," Dick said, "as this contest for Alakoa sifts down, all the original aspects of the case are going to have to be investigated with the utmost thoroughness—and made public. You understand that, I suppose?"

Willard Wayne said with an unnecessary intensity, "Just what do you mean by that?"

"I mean that it is very likely—even inevitable—that a lot of things are going to be brought to light that nobody's thought about for a long time. Isn't that so?"

"Don't know what you're driving at," Ernest mumbled.

"How well, for instance," Dick Wayne asked them, "do you think that you knew James Wayne?"

"We've worked with him all our lives," Willard said impatiently.

"And yet, did it ever occur to you he might know some things you never suspected at all?"

"Nonsense!"

"For example," Dick went on, his voice lazy, "take the exact circumstances under which old Garrett Waterson left here—just at the time the Waynes bought this island."

"That has nothing to do with it," Ernest declared. "The entire transaction was closed before Garrett Waterson—disappeared."

"This disappearance," Dick prodded them; "the tradition has been that he set sail southwest, in his own schooner, and was never seen again—wasn't that it?"

"Well? Can we be expected to account for—"

"Didn't you happen to know," Dick Wayne asked them, "that when Garrett Waterson sailed, our father was with him?"

They were not looking at him now; but their eyes were fixed upon each other, and an unspoken question passed between them.

Tonga Dick leaned forward, his face hardening. "The old rumor is that Garrett Waterson must have been lost at sea," he bore down on them. "And yet—and yet, our father came back—"

Dick saw Willard Wayne's heavy neck redden; the color rose and rose until Willard's eyes, no longer slow and mild, stared bleakly out of a purple congestion. Ernest, however, turned a sickly green, and behind his glasses his eyes could not be seen.

Dick's own eyes turned ugly. "So you did know that?" he said. "You've known it for a long time, haven't you?"

"Stop," said Willard Wayne thickly. "You don't know what you're saying!"

"I take it," Dick said, "that I was not supposed to know about that little circumstance."

Willard's voice rose. "I object to your tone," he blustered. "I object to the whole line you've taken. It isn't up to us to go raking through the dead ashes of the past!"

"You've told me what I wanted to know," Dick said. "You put me in mind of a couple of tide pools full of octopus—easy to see to the bottom of, but not pretty to look at. I can understand now why James Wayne never trusted either one of you!"

"What—what—?" The edge of Ernest Wayne's voice sounded frayed out, raveled. "What do you mean?" he finally got out.

"How long," Tonga Dick asked them, "have you two supposed yourselves to be the sons of a murderer?"

Ernest Wayne stood up violently, both hands gripping the edge of the desk. "That's a lie!" he shouted.

Willard Wayne sat motionless.

"Well?" he said at last.

"I don't wonder that John Colt scares you out of your wits," Dick said. "I should think he would!"

There was a silence then, raw and uncomfortable. Willard Wayne spoke to Ernest, his voice heavy and dead. "You see, I was right. We have to go back to Honolulu—at once—tomorrow. Some way, somehow, we've got to settle out of court with John Colt, at any cost."

"Yes," Ernest said.

Dick could see the man visibly twinged between a cupidity that could not face loss and a cowardice which was afraid of something else. It was not a pretty sight.

"You won't have to go to Honolulu," Dick said sardonically; "you can save yourselves the trip. John Colt will be here within twenty-four hours."

"Colt? Here? What could make him come here?"

"I make him come here," Tonga Dick said.

The eyes of the two brothers snapped sharply to Dick's face. Probably they did not believe him; but they were grasping at straws.

"You hold something over John Colt?" Willard asked.

"Do you mean," Dick asked incredulously, "am I in a position to blackmail Colt?"

"Somewhere in that man's life," Willard Wayne said, "there must be something that he doesn't dare have turned up. It's been our only hope, all along, that we could find out what it is. And if you've got hold of it?"

Dick Wayne had meant to tell them, tonight, what he knew. He had meant to tell them that their father had not killed Garrett Waterson—had even meant to give them an irrefutable proof. But now his temper broke, and he could not bring himself to tell them anything at all.

He stood up. "Get out of here," he ordered them. "Get out of here, and stay out! I can't stand looking at you any more!"

A faint flicker of self assertion reappeared in Ernest Wayne. "You can't order us—"

Willard Wayne stood up and signaled to Ernest with his eyes. Together, after a moment's hesitation, they left the room.

CHAPTER IX

Dick Wayne went to bed, but it seemed to him that he was not allowed to stay there long. The first light was hardly showing in the sky when his brothers were at him again, literally clamoring at his very bedside.

Evidently they were angry, in addition. "What is the meaning of this?" Ernest Wayne demanded, spinning a yellow sheet of paper onto the bed.

"What's the meaning of what?" "Nobody but you," Ernest accused him, "could have had that radio message sent."

Dick picked up the paper, and by the poor but increasing light read what was typed upon it. Instantly he was more wide awake than as if he had never slept at all.

"When did this come in?" "Just a few minutes ago," Willard told him. "You ought to know. There isn't anybody else that could."

Tonga Dick looked at the message again. It read:

MAKE NO SETTLEMENT UNTIL I ARRIVE GARRETT WATERSON

Dick's first reaction was, for special reasons of his own, one of immense relief. But his next thought, which followed immediately brought him a new uncertainty. The new turn of events relieved him of certain necessities; but it also took the game out of his own hands in a way that he did not like.

Ernest Wayne's nervousness did not permit him to wait Dick out. "Well—what have you got to say?"

"This message is genuine," Dick told them.

"This is incredible—this is fantastic," Ernest said unsteadily.

"Some kind of a hoax," Willard added.

"There's no hoax about it," Tonga Dick assured them.

"How do you know this?" Willard demanded.

"I work for him," Tonga Dick said.

"You what?" Ernest Wayne bleated.

"He's lying," Willard expressed himself.

"And just why," Dick asked with elaborate patience, "should I be lying?"

"Willard," Ernest said, "do you suppose this thing could possibly be true? Because if Garrett Waterson is alive, and we can produce him—do you see what that means? John Colt's case is absolutely exploded."

"Is it?" Dick said.

They were stopped once more. Ernest and Willard were both deathly pale, overwhelmed by more unforeseen uncertainties than they were able to handle.

"You mean," Willard said at last, "that Garrett Waterson really is incompetent?"

"I mean," Dick said, "that the whole situation is going to be just exactly what old Garrett Waterson chooses to make it."

"What on earth," Ernest asked Willard in a bewildered way, "are we supposed to do now?"

Tonga Dick kicked out of bed with a movement of exasperation, and hunted around for a bath towel.

"I tell you what you're going to do," he roared at them. "You're going to go and tell Taura I want three eggs for breakfast. I have no doubt it will take both of you to handle that problem—you don't seem to be able to do anything alone. Get out!"

Ernest and Willard Wayne morosely watched Tonga Dick as he ate his breakfast. He was able to enjoy that, in a way. Uncertain as he was about what this new turn of the wheel might mean, the confusion of his brothers was so much greater as to provide a form of entertainment.

Even when they had abandoned the presumption that Dick was lying, they could not get over their suspicion that the man who had signed himself Garrett Waterson was an impostor.

"I ran into Garrett Waterson while I was knocking around the South Seas," Dick explained. "Later, Uncle Jim found it convenient to have me carry certain messages to Garrett Waterson. That's all there was to that."

"Messages? What messages?"

There was no reason for holding back anything now. He had been employed by old Garrett Waterson on condition of complete secrecy as to Waterson's whereabouts, identity—even his very existence. He had decided to break that pledge, rather than permit John Colt to seize Alakoa in the name of Karen Waterson or anyone else; but now that Garrett Waterson had come into the open of his own accord, that consideration was abolished.

"For a long time I didn't know what messages," Dick told them. "I believe I know now."

They failed to catch him up on that, and the oversight emphasized their bewilderment.

"But why on earth," Ernest demanded, "should he have wished to hide himself? That's the mystery here."

"There's no mystery about it," Dick declared. "The only reasons his actions look mysterious to you is that they were perfectly simple. Garrett Waterson was always a man of violent temperament. Everything he did was in terms of violent extremes; the projects he attempted, the fights he got into—even his eating and drinking—everything was always on a spectacular scale with him. When he was overtaken by ultimate ruin, his reaction to that was violent too. He left Alakoa, and Hawaii, in a tremendously bitter state of mind. He wanted to get away from the past, and from the part of the Pacific that he knew, and never again see anyone who had known him."

"It's fantastic," Ernest declared. "It's completely unreasonable. I never heard of anything like it."

"Dropping from view is one thing," Willard said heavily, "and going to extraordinary lengths to hide yourself, and conceal who you are, is something else."

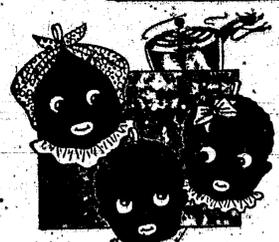

"Waterson went to extraordinary lengths in everything he ever did," Dick retorted. "The Pacific is a big place and there are more than twenty-five thousand islands in it; but only a few of them have any white inhabitants, and I suppose Garrett Waterson knew half the people in the Pacific. He couldn't imagine leaving the Pacific any more than he could imagine living inland, so of course it was pretty hard for him to evade the people that he knew. When a man is trying to drop out of sight, and fails at it for a while, it's apt to become an obsession with him. He gets to thinking that everybody he sees is talking about him, secretly. So he draws apart more and more—until at last—"

"It's completely unreasonable," Ernest Wayne said again.

"Human nature always seems unreasonable to people who don't know anything about it. Unreasonable is what it is; you just have to get used to it."

Measured for Tickets

When traveling by train in China one often sees the strange and amusing spectacle of child passengers being carefully measured with a ruler by the conductor. The reason for this is that in China the fares for children traveling on trains runs not in proportion to their age, but in proportion to their height. Children under two feet six inches are allowed to travel free; those up to four feet four inches are charged half fare. Children taller than that have to pay the full fare.

12 wisners (1 lb.)

Turn on oven and set at moderately slow (350° F.). Cook spaghetti until tender in boiling water and 1 1/2 teaspoons salt. Drain and rinse with hot water. Grease baking dish holding about 6 cups. Mix together vegetable soup, diluted milk, grated cheese, remaining 1/2 teaspoon salt and the pepper. Cook over boiling water until cheese is melted, stirring constantly. Fold in spaghetti. Put in greased baking dish. Arrange wisners on top. Bake about 20 minutes, or until mixture is bubbly hot. Serves 6.
