Donation For Der Hitler

Talking about "War Scrap," Sam Nickels of his Jake Spring ranch wants it to be known that he has a big 14-inch steel beam plow, a cast-iron stove, a big iron trough, a few pieces of rubber and other material, which he will donate as soon as he finds a way to get it to town. He says he'll even donate the gas for some flier if he promises to dump the whole works on top of Adolf Hitler from about 1000 feet up.

Dr. R. E. Blaney being the other visitor, explained that he was chairman of the scrap metal board, requesting that anyone having such material at their homes or places of business be pointed to him to be appreciated if they left the same in some convenient place, and that Mr. J. H. Fulmer of the Utilities Co., would have a truck to pick it up, after which the metal would be sent to the smelter at El Paso. Mr. Fulmer also said that the same would be paid for whether it be paid for or donated.

Mr. Dorsett suggested that such as might be donated and yet paid for, that the money thus acquired, be turned over to the Red Cross or some other organization of a like nature.

Attorney Hall being the speaker of the evening, gave a full and detailed insight as to how the income and other taxes were levied in different states and where funds were had by couples before marriage, how those amounts were divided after marriage, how the funds and other matters of valuation were divided after the death of either man or wife, and how and at what ratio, the financial matters of the wedded couple had during their lifetime and after death were divided among the children, etc. Mr. Hall's address was received with much appreciation and showed how well informed our local attorney was, as he handled his subject, which was so full of valuable information to his hearers, bearing on his subject which was, "Community Property Rights."

At the next meeting, after roll call and reading of the minutes, the President will turn over the meeting to L. J. Adams, Pres. of the Alumni Association, which will sponsor the event with a program in which, Mr. Adams will be the toastmaster. Shirley Phipps

The funeral of our esteemed citizen, Shirley Phipps, 66, who passed away Monday night, was held at the Baptist Church Wednesday afternoon, with the Rev. Klassen conducting the services. Mrs. Margaret English and Miss Ruth Petty sang, "The Unclouded Day" and "Where we Never Grow Old." The pastor preached a short, yet effective sermon in which he dwelt chiefly on the merits of the deceased. There was no appeal to human emotions, but on the contrary, he pointed his hearers to life and hope, rather than grief and sorrow. After the services at the church, Carrizozo Lodge No. 41, A. F. & A. M., took charge of the remains and at the grave, the Masonic litany for the dead was read by Past Master Marvin Burton.

Shirley Phipps was a man of excellent character; modest and unassuming, yet possessed of remarkable manly qualities. He always kept abreast of the times and out of current events, he selected that which was of the best for the public good.

He leaves to mourn him, his wife, a daughter, Shirley Rhea and one sister, to whom sympathy is tendered.

Swaying of the Jap Mind

Up to the fall of Bataan and Corregidor, the Japs had always lived in constant fear of the superiority of the white race. But after that and until the recent naval defeat, their courage reached a point where they thought the yellow race was far superior to that of any other in the world and boasted of it. They proved that fear by the cowardly attack of Pearl Harbor, taking advantage of the silence produced by the pending negotiations between their ambassadors and our administration at Washington.

Without a moment's warning, they showed their fear of the peoples of the new world, the United States, Mexico, Canada, Central America and the South American countries, by a bitter attack on our people who were awaiting the outcome of negotiations, which we hoped might terminate in peaceful solutions.

That attack, followed by those of Bataan and Corregidor, further stimulated the yellow devils to think that the time had come in which they would rule the world. But they had not considered that which was to come. They failed to realize that when the blood of the Allies was once aroused to a fighting point, the worm might turn in the direction to prove to them, that we the people of the Western Hemisphere were so far superior to them as to cause the old fear to again confront them.

Spurred on by their initial victories, they made an attempt to approach Australia with the thought that they could make their plans again work in that country. But General MacArthur was not to be fooled. Watchful waiting was the word sent out in all directions and when the attack was made, it resulted in the smashing of the Jap fleet so disastrously that after losing the flower of their armada and badly damaging the remainder, they were forced to flee in disorder. Being completely put to rout, filled them full of the same old fear which they had before the fall of Bataan and Corregidor.

But that reverse has not decided the war or even given us the evidence that the worst is over. Eternal vigilance must be the watchword, because they might make the attempt again and our forces must be prepared for it. In the defeat of the Japs, we have given them to understand that the war has just begun and we will pursue it to the bitter end. As the first blow does not decide a prizefight, neither does the first attack decide a war and the Japs have learned that lesson.

W. A. Hart of Ruidoso was a visitor in town Sunday, being the guest of Dewey Stokes while here.

Mrs. John Paul Jones and son John Gilbert left yesterday morning for Kessler Field, Bill, Miss., to join John Paul, who is now a lieutenant in the regular Army.

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE

WARNER Brothers' "Heroes Without Uniforms," a story of the American Merchant Marine, will be the first of a group of films telling us things that the government wants us to know. Lowell Mellett, co-ordinator of government films, recently submitted to industry leaders a list of 30 topics about which the government wishes the public to be informed. Originally it was planned to use his ideas as material for short subjects, but it now seems likely that some of them, at least, will be developed into feature-length pictures.

"Parachute Nurse" has what might be termed an All-Starlet cast, virtually an all-feminine one. When Charles Barton, the director, counted noses he found Marguerite Chapman, Shirley Patterson, Alma Carroll, and eight other beauty-contest winners.

Now it's Priscilla Lane who's having to learn card tricks. Jan Grippo, who tutored Veronica Lake for her slight-of-hand role in "This Gun for Hire" is doing the same for Priscilla, for "Silver Queen," in which she plays opposite George Brent.

Three of the cast of Columbia's "The Invaders" have signed rather unusual contracts. Glynis Johns, Eric Portman and Anton Walbrook have agreed to appear in Hollywood within three months after the war is ended; won't leave England till then.

When you see Paramount's "Wake Island" you'll see a setting that's absolutely authentic. The contracting firm which made the actual defense installations for the Wake Island marine garrison before the Japanese attack is in charge of construction at the Salton Sea location for the picture. It is recreating on the shores of the California island an exact duplication of the Pacific atoll establishment. John Farrow is directing "Wake Island," with a cast including Brian Donlevy, Robert Preston, Albert Dekker and Barbara Britton.

"Crossroads," the Hedy Lamarr-William Powell picture, brought up a slight dilemma at Metro. Powell, Basil Rathbone and Felix Bressart all had mustaches, and all were loath to part with them—but there was just too many for one film. Powell is a suave diplomat in the picture, Rathbone felt that a villain must have a mustache. Bressart couldn't bear to part with his. You'd have to see the picture to find out who lost out.

That's Ginger Rogers' mother whom you'll see as Ginger Rogers' mother in "The Major and the Minor"; she'll be making her screen debut. She had been a drama editor and a dramatic coach, she's been in charge of the younger players at RKO and this past year she's been installing a dairy at Ginger's 1,100-acre ranch in Oregon—but never before has she been an actress.

The famous musicians of the future may find themselves forming a "Those Who Were Helped by Major Bowes" association. For instance, take the Aquaviva brothers, Anthony, 17, a clarinetist, recently on the Major's program, said that if he won a prize he'd help his younger brother, Nicholas, to get the kind of tutoring he was getting. Anthony won $100, second prize. The Major suggested that he have Nicholas audition for the program. Nicholas, 14, won first prize. So Major Bowes, with the help of everybody who voted for the lads, helped them along.

ODDS AND ENDS—Returning to the lot where she was an important star, Evelyn Brent reported to Paramount to play a role in "Reckless Crew"; Richard Arlen, Jean Parker and Chester Morris co-star in it. . . . Harry Sherman may reunite several famous western stars in "Backlash Empire"—William S. Hart, Noel Gibson, William Farnum, Jack Holt and Richard Dix. . . . Vivian Leigh is being sought for the lead in "Froufrou's Creek." . . . William Farrow is in London during an air raid in his new "Lone Wolf" comedy thriller; last time he was actually there was during a typical raid during the last war.

PREPAREDNESS

Two million volunteer Red Cross workers—a militant army of mercy.

GIVING a pint of blood for the army and navy is a new form of patriotism in which thousands of loyal Americans are now participating.

This blood, processed into life-saving plasma for emergency transfusions, is collected from volunteer blood donors at 18 Red Cross Blood Donor centers. For technical reasons, these centers are limited at present to cities near laboratories which have contracts with the army for processing the blood into dried plasma, according to the Red Cross.

The program was launched in February, 1941, following a request by the surgeons general of the army and navy that the Red Cross provide 15,000 pints of blood to be processed into dried plasma. This program has now been expanded at the request of the army and navy to the point where over one million donors will be required. Eighteen centers have been opened, and donations are pouring in at the rate of approximately 60,000 a month.

Giving blood is a simple process, requires but a few minutes time on the part of the donor, and has no after effects. The blood is shipped daily in refrigerated containers to the laboratories, where it is processed into dried plasma, a light, straw colored powder that can be kept indefinitely and transported easily.

Numerous cases have been reported where plasma saved the lives of American soldiers and sailors suffering from burns and traumatic shock, and Red Cross plasma has been distributed to our armed forces operating in the Atlantic and Pacific war theaters. However, thousands of additional donors are needed to supply the full requirements for the army and navy, and to provide plasma for any civilian emergencies which may result from enemy action in this country.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

1541-B
1570-B

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1541-B is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50 and 52. Size 36 requires, with short sleeves, 4 1/2 yards 3/4-inch material.

YES! Pattern No. 1541-B is truly a miracle dress. Not only does it whisk away pounds, it improves and dignifies your posture, gives you a more slender figure and gracious poise. A fresh, youthful feeling is gained by the cleverly shaped side pieces—forming smart shoulder yokes at the top, gathered at the waist for a flattering fit and dropping the skirt line—as well as the low vee neck. From the point of this neck to the hem is a long straight line which draws attention to your height rather than your width! Graceful sleeves which just cover the elbows are suggested for this frock when it is intended for more formal wear.

Picturesque Play Set!
DON'T you find it fun to make your daughter's play clothes in cunning styles and pretty cottons? In Pattern No. 1570-B you'll find a play set for girls from 1 to 6 years old which has many practical features.

First comes a frock—delightfully cool with scalloped cap sleeves, a pert pocket, braid and button trimming and a button-down-the-back opening which makes it easy to get on and off. Second, there is an adorable bonnet to match, the crown of which buttons in place. The whole thing opens flat for ironing. Third is a pair of overalls—so sensible for play and so healthy, too, because in warm weather no top is needed and the wearer is exposed to a grand sun tan.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1570-B is designed for 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 year sizes. Size 2 requires 2 1/2 yards 2 1/2 inch material for ensemble, 3 yards bias braid for frock and bonnet. Send your order to:

Household Hints

Clean out cellar and attic to avoid undue fire hazards. Turn the old rags and papers over to organizations conducting defense salvage campaigns.

After use, dry steel wool in sun to prevent its rusting.

The ideal way to put linens away is to roll them. Mailing tubes are excellent, so are broom handles, window-shade rollers or sections of poles on which rags may have been rolled. Store linens in a cool—not hot or dry—place.

Do not add salt to the water when boiling corn on the cob—it would toughen the corn. Boil corn 10 minutes, drain and serve immediately tucked in the folds of a napkin. Never let corn stand in water after it is done; that would impair the flavor and texture.

SOMEONE called Dick Bartell, now with the New York Giants, "a ball player's ball player."

Born 35 years ago in Chicago, now in his 16th big league season, Bartell is still traveling at his top speed, as full of flame and smoke as he was ten years ago.

They've moved him around from Pittsburgh to Philadelphia to New York to Chicago to Detroit and back to New York again in this 16-season pilgrimage, but they haven't removed any of the old pep that packs his 145-pound system.

DICK BARTELL

The veteran Giant still spells aggressive with a capital A.

It's all quite simple when you talk to Bartell.

"I happen to love baseball," he says, "and I like to hustle. Once in a while I find the old legs are not what they used to be, but a short rest always takes care of that. It's the legs that get you, not the batting eye. Last year in my 15th season I still batted .263 in 194 games, a few points above my all-time average. I hope to beat .260 again this season with any luck."

Pastor's Two Records

Whatever morbid fate may attack Bob Pastor in his next start, probably against Joe Louis, you can still hand him two records.

No. 1—He deserves some brand of woodland chaplet for leading all ex-colleagues in the heavyweight group. No other campus-educated dome has yet matched Pastor's place among the major leather chucks. Ex-colleagues have found few happy hunting grounds in the ring.

No. 2—A near record from the prophet's corner. Pastor informed your correspondent last summer that he would win at least ten straight fights and thereby get his third crack at Joe Louis—a somewhat strange ambition.

The rabby heavyweight has more than kept his promise. A combination of gameness, smartness, speed and experience has lifted the ex-Violet more than once from near oblivion.

We are not quite sure, however, how smart a fellow is who spends most of his career trying to spend his evenings in the same pit with Joe Louis.

A Big Show

Paul V. McNutt, federal security administrator, has suggested a set of American Olympic games, with the 48 states in a hot scramble for supremacy.

This would be a home-grown, homemade show of unusual interest, loaded with arguments and inter-sectional debates. It would have to be something more than a state-for-state contest, where the job of handling California in track and field might be more than any other single state could handle.

The main McNutt idea has unlimited possibilities. It could be worked into a matter of state pride and sectional pride, on a par with any college football rivalry. And it would be a big lift for nation-wide interest in harder, keener training.

Here is an idea that should be worked out under proper direction without too much waste of time.

The Rookie Crop

Unless the draft scepter operates shortly the rookie crop of 1942 will be high above the harvest of last year. Oscar Judd, Hank Terry and Johnny Pesky of the Red Sox; Nanny Fernandez of the Braves; Wildard Marshall of the Giants; Stan Medel of the Cards; Hal White of the Tigers; Bert Hass of the Reds; Vern Stephens of the Browns—these are only a few who have at least shown they belong in big league harness.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

By ROBERT McSHANE

NOW that Jack Blackburn, the trainer who had been with Joe Louis from the time he turned pro, is dead, the fight mob is wondering what effect this will have on the heavyweight champion.

Blackburn was a patient, keen strategist who did more for the Bomber than any other man. He guided Joe into the championship and saw him through 29 successful title defenses. He was one of the ablest ringmen of this or any other generation.

Blackburn, weighing between 135 and 139 pounds, fought the mighty Sam Langford seven times. He earned three draws out of those bouts, and many rate Langford as the greatest of all heavyweights. The fight experts of Blackburn's day remember just how good he was.

It is interesting to note that Blackburn met all comers, large and small. There was a good reason. Thirty or 40 years ago Negro boxers had trouble getting bouts and were forced to go outside their weight classification. So Blackburn fought men of such varying weights as Joe Gaas' 132 and Sam Langford's 175. Unquestionably Louis owes much of his success to excellent tutelage. Blackburn's insistence that Joe stay in shape and his sound advice between rounds of important fights played a major part in the champion's victories.

But Blackburn's death, although it's the heaviest blow Louis ever has received, should not affect him to the point where present-day competition will take his measure. And there's a good reason why optimism has a seat in Joe's corner.

Joe never has had a great deal of trouble when rematched with an opponent. Max Schmeling managed to knock him out in the 12th round of their 1936 battle. Joe avenged the defeat by putting Max to sleep in the first round of their 1938 contest.

Bob Pastor has met the champion twice, having run away from him for 10 rounds in Madison Square Garden in 1937 and having been knocked out in 11 rounds at Briggs Stadium in 1939. Godoy went the 15-round limit in their initial bout of 1940. The South American was knocked out in the eighth round of their second fight.

According to present plans, the champion will have only two more fights before retiring. He will meet Conn in June and Pastor in September.

This schedule, of course, depends upon whether he can get a leave from the army to go through the regular boxer's training program.

If tradition is maintained, Conn will meet his finish in a comparatively early round. The same is true (doubly so) of Pastor.

Most of Joe's trouble has resulted from meeting unorthodox opponents, including Paulino Uzcudun, Godoy and Conn. Their styles baffled him. If there were any young heavyweights nearing the top, especially unorthodox brawlers, the champ might be headed for trouble without Blackburn to advise him. But he already has had sufficient experience with his two remaining opponents.

There were only two times when Blackburn was extremely dissatisfied with Joe's physical condition. Before his first fight with Schmeling, Joe took up golf and spent his afternoons in the hot sun. Blackburn warned him against it, telling him the dangers of burning up. Subsequent events proved the accuracy of the dusky trainer's predictions. Joe never forgot that lesson.

The second disagreement came last summer. Joe insisted on getting below the 200-pound mark for his bout with Conn, against Blackburn's advice. Joe weighed in at 199 1/2 pounds—and came close to losing the title.

But most of the time the champ was more than willing to go along with his trainer's edicts.

The two men made an outstanding team. Blackburn was unbelievably quick to pick out a weak spot and to capitalize on it. Joe executed his orders with precision and dispatch. Blackburn will be missed, there's no doubt about that—but his absence isn't going to push Joe from the top rung of the ladder.

Mrs. Roosevelt says she may have a White House vegetable garden this year. All we can say is that it ruins a railroad trip if you have to worry about weeding.

Our fear is that the First Lady, becoming quite confused, may get the timetable and the seed store folder mixed. It is pretty exasperating to find that string beans leave on track eight daily except holidays and carry a diner, while the 8:15 for Chicago must be planted in rows one foot apart and watched for bugs and worms.

She Gave Americans the Memorial Poppy

FOR the first time in a quarter of a century, Memorial day this year finds the United States at war. On that day, May 30, millions of Americans will be wearing a red poppy in memory of the men who gave their lives for their country. Most of those who wear them will be honoring sons or brothers or friends who perished during World War I, for out of that conflict grew the memorial poppy idea.

But to others this custom has a more poignant significance this year. For the blood-red flower they are wearing is symbolical of the blood shed by an American boy to whom they said good-bye only a few months ago—a boy who died at Pearl Harbor or on the Batnan peninsula or in the Java sea or the Pacific or Atlantic oceans.

How did the custom of wearing the red poppy on Memorial day originate? Visit the quiet little university town of Athens, Ga., and as you walk along its shady streets you may meet a sweet-faced, gray-haired, soft-spoken Southern woman whom the citizens of Athens know as "Miss Moina" but whom millions of World War I veterans call "The Poppy Lady." For it was Moina Michael who had the inspiration for this tribute to America's fighting men and who made the red poppy the symbol of their valor and their sacrifice.

The story of that inspiration and the growth of the idea is told in a book published recently by Dorrance and Company of Philadelphia—"The Miracle Flower," written by "The Poppy Lady" herself. In 1918 Miss Michael, then a teacher in the normal school of the University of Georgia, entered training at Columbia university for overseas service with the Y.M.C.A. On the Saturday morning before the Armistice a young soldier, visiting the hostess house maintained in the building where the Overseas Y.M.C.A. War Secretaries had their headquarters, laid on Miss Michael's desk a copy of a woman's magazine.

MOINA MICHAEL

During a spare moment she looked through the magazine and a strikingly colored picture caught her eye. It was the illustration for a reprint of Col. John McCrae's famous poem, "In Flanders Fields." As she read the poem, she found herself reading again and again the last stanza. —In a moment of sudden inspiration, Miss Michael seized a used yellow envelope and scribbled on it a poem "We Shall Keep the Faith."

At that moment she also took a pledge to herself always to wear a red poppy as a sign of remembrance. That day a committee from the 25th conference of Y.M.C.A. War Secretaries, then in session, brought her a check for $10 in appreciation of her efforts to make a home-like hostess house of their headquarters. She told them of the pledge that she had just taken and that she intended to spend the money for red poppies to wear in honor of the men who had died "in Flanders Fields."

Impressed with the idea, this committee reported it to the conference and soon afterwards many of the secretaries began asking Miss Michael where they could get poppies to wear. That afternoon she went on a shopping trip and returned with two dozen small silk red poppies which she gave them.

Subsequently other conferences adopted the red poppy as the emblem of the Overseas Y.M.C.A. Workers, to be worn in honor of the soldiers who had perished in the war, and through the efforts of Miss Michael many other organizations gave their support to the idea. In 1920 the American Legion at its national convention in Cleveland adopted the Flanders Field Memorial Poppy, the Legion Auxiliary did likewise in Kansas City in 1921, as did the Veterans of Foreign Wars the next year.

From America, the memorial poppy idea spread to England and many other foreign countries where, as in the United States, these little red silk flowers are made by the maimed, gassed and wounded men of World War I who have no other source of income. It is estimated that the profits from their sale totals more than $7,000,000 in all the countries where they are sold and every penny of this goes to the aid of disabled veterans and their needy dependents. In more ways than one Miss Michael's red poppy is a "Miracle Flower."

Alertness Keeps Farm Buildings Free of Rats

Constant Vigilance Is Way Menace Is Stopped

By R. E. GROSS

Use poison bait, fumigate, set traps or keep a good rat dog—but be sure to do something to protect your farm from the rat menace.

Rats multiply so rapidly, that frequent attention to the problem is necessary all the time, and especially now when farm efficiency is playing an important part in the nations Food for Freedom program.

Keep the farmstead free from all piles of waste material or supplies stacked in such a way as to offer shelter and feed for rats. This is the first and most urgent measure. Supplies should be kept in rat-proof buildings or in stacks located away from buildings. Waste should be removed or destroyed.

Leave No Holes or Cracks. Repair foundations, floors and sills of buildings, leaving no holes or large cracks offering a start for gnawing. Foundations must be intact to a depth of two feet below ground level. Sheet metal or wire screen tacked over holes or cracks and to the edges of doors are a sure stop.

Wood walls are rat-proofed by covering with half-inch mesh wire screen to a height of four feet above the ground and placing a smooth strip of galvanized metal above the wire mesh.

Rats can burrow through decayed, crumbling concrete or even sound new concrete while it is still soft and moist. Everlasting diligence is required.

Suggestions on Plows

Before using a new plow, engineers suggest that the farmer measure the down suction and land suction of the share, and make a record of the measurements. Later, when the share needs sharpening, it can be given the same degree of suction.

A wobbly rolling colter increases draft and makes a ragged plowing job. Hence colter bearings should be adjusted snugly to run true and vertical but freely, replaced if badly worn. Generally colters are set to cut one-half to one inch wider than the share, and the width of two fingers above it.

Best position for the jointer on a plow is just far enough behind the colter hub to prevent dirt and trash wedging against it and low enough to cut a three-cornered ribbon of soil about 4 inches wide and usually not more than 2 1/2 inches deep. Farm engineers say when a jointer is used without a rolling colter, its point should be set approximately over the point of the share, the same as when a disc jointer is used.

Normal Loss

Shell Eggs Shipped to Isle Getting There OK

Shell eggs, produced on United States farms, are getting to Great Britain with losses in transit amounting to no more than normal losses in domestic shipping, says G. T. Klein, extension poultryman at Massachusetts State college.

This was indicated by a recent report to the British house of commons by Major Lloyd-George, undersecretary to the minister of foods, in which he stated losses amount to no more than 5.3 per cent.

These losses, says Mr. Klein, are largely due to spoilage and breakage and compare favorably with normal losses in shell eggs shipped from producing areas to consumers throughout the United States.

This should be good news to the American poultryman who has wanted to know whether his eggs were reaching Great Britain without severe loss and in condition to be of use to the English people. Shipment of eggs under the Lend-Lease act has enabled the British government to increase allotments to stores and thus supply consumers with a greater number than they have had previously through the rationing system.

Trailers and dormitories to be made available for temporary war housing by the Farm Security administration under a recent presidential allocation of $13,000,000 will provide 12,250 dwelling units for workers in 24 war-industry areas, the U. S. department of agriculture says. Housing facilities in these areas are expected to be ready for occupancy early in March.

Wilkins Was at Winning Post and Knew It Not

Wilkins felt that he could never ask Valerie to become his wife because she was an angel, whereas he himself had many little weaknesses of which no angel would approve. Valerie, on the other hand, kept thinking it was about time he popped the question.

One moonlight night, he spoke. "Valerie, w-will you-you m-marry me?" he stammered, hardly daring to hope she had heard him.

"You bet!" she replied, briskly, already deciding on white satin and four bridesmaids.

"I know, darling. I know," he almost wept, "but if you'll only say 'Yes' I'll never back another horse as long as I live!"

"Mebbe," says I, pickin' up that little compliment, "that's because I feel so good most of the time." For, you know, folks, when you feel good your disposition's apt to be good, too. But to do that, you got to eat right, which includes gettin' all your vitamins. And KELLOGG'S PEPS is extra-rich in the two most often absent ordinary meals—vitamins B and D. Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of all toxic impurities. The set of three—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause head-ache, dizziness, one may suffer morning headaches, persistent backache, attacks of dizziness, feeling up tight, swollen feet, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all work out. Present, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The best treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Christian Science

"Mortals and Immortals" is subject for next Sunday. Golden Text is: "They that are after the flesh do mind the things of the flesh; but they that are after the Spirit the things of the Spirit." Citation from Bible: "In God I will praise His word, in God I have put my trust; I will not fear what flesh can do unto me." Passage from Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals have a very imperfect sense of the spiritual man and of the infinite range of his thought, To him belongs eternal life."

Shortage of Singer Sewing Machines

Government regulations cut the manufacture of civilian articles made of metal, may cause the discontinuance of the sale of Sewing Machines in the near future. Large government contracts may take all surplus stocks.

Restrictions on both men's and women's ready-to-wear will be all the more reason for sewing at home.

Why not get a sewing machine before stocks are depleted, and they are still available?

SINGER Sewing Machines are demonstrated at the Burke Gift Shop by Mrs. Fay Best. Come in and make your selection before it is too late.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Strategists See Jap Flank Attack On U. S. Communications in Pacific; Eastern Supply Routes Safeguarded By Allied Occupation of Madagascar

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

To David Fairfax Oyster, 18, of Chevy Chase, Md., went the honor of being the first (and youngest) high school cadet accepted in the navy's aviation program. He is shown being sworn in by Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox, the first cadet to enter navy's Class V-3 by which high school graduates may qualify for commissions in the air force.

AUSTRALIA:

A Jap Headache

For over a month the United Nations had been letting the world know, with Japan included, that their strength in Australia was assuming increased proportions. American troops in large numbers have been poured on to this continent to aid in its defense and to participate in the expected offensive action to recapture the East Indies and the Philippines.

Evidence of this increased strength has been indicated by the news dispatches of hard-fought air battles off the coasts of this important outpost. In one week-end, Allied headquarters reported a toll of 20 Jap planes destroyed and four Jap ships blasted by planes in scattered battles to the north and north-east. In one thrilling 35-minute fight a four-motored Jap flying boat was severely damaged, according to these reports.

This activity added impetus to the reasoning projected by military strategists to the effect that Japan was concentrating naval forces preparatory to a flank attack on U. S. communications in the South Pacific.

Japan must cut these vital lines if she would stall the threatened offensive against her. With the U. S. occupation of the French island of New Caledonia these communication lines of the United Nations have been further secured.

Alarmed by this news, Japan's opening moves were seen coming from the Marshall Islands either through the Gilbert and Ellice Islands or through the Solomon Islands and the New Hebrides. Added to these developments was the earlier report that strong Jap naval forces which had gathered in the Bay of Bengal as a threat to India had suddenly disappeared. Only the Japs knew where they were headed, but the United Nations expected next to see them along the sea lanes between San Francisco and Sydney.

RESOURCES:

Strong opposition to the war department's plan to lower the draft age to 18 or 19 was seen in congress as Louis B. Hershey, national selective service director, instructed state draft directors to include men of the 20 to 21 and 36 to 44 groups in the June call.

At present the army and navy both are accepting voluntary enlistments of 18 and 19-year-old youths. Lowering the minimum draft age would make approximately 2,500,000 young men eligible for conscription.

An alternate plan was suggested by Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida. This would call for the pre-draft military training for those less than 20 years old. Success of either proposal depends largely upon the war department's ability to convince the house and senate military committees that they have exhausted military man power resources in the 20-46 age brackets.

However, Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, stated that no draft or registration of workers is contemplated.

'Quickie' Commissions

The practice of granting army and navy "quickie commissions" to unqualified civilians was condemned by Rep. Charles I. Fiddle of Pennsylvania, chairman of a house subcommittee on army matters.

At the request of Fiddle, who declared that congress must stop such

WAR LABOR SUPPLY:

Reaches High Peak

Chairman Paul V. McNutt of the War Manpower Commission has estimated that the number of men employed in war work by the end of 1942 may reach 17,500,000, compared with 1,500,000 at the beginning of 1941.

McNutt said that although labor, like materials, must be re-directed for war production purposes, no draft or registration of workers is contemplated.

GALLANTRY: On Corregidor

From Corregidor, America's last stronghold in the Philippines, came another story of heroism and devotion to the flag of the United States.

This second incident, similar to one of mid-April, told how a captain and three enlisted men risked their lives to run up their shot-down flag atop a 100-foot pole.

The communique described the incident in this manner: "Again our flag on Corregidor was the target for a Japanese artillery attack, and again it was rescued by gallant American soldiers.

The enlisted men were: Corp. Louis A. Clark, Gypsum, Kan.; Pvt. Harley H. Leard, Durant, Okla.; and Pvt. First Class Roy O. Bailey, Kansas City, Mo.

NAZI WARSHIPS: Three Cripples

Last February when the three Nazi warships, the battleships Gneisenau and Scharnhorst, and the cruiser Prinz Eugen, made their startling escape from the Nazi-held port of Brest through the English channel, a naval offensive in northern waters to cut the United Nations Arctic supply line to Russia was forgotten.

Now the British admiralty has explained why such action has been lacking. An announcement from this source indicates that the three ships will be out of action for some time. They were severely damaged, say the British, by torpedo and bombing attacks on their channel flight, and by British mines and submarine attacks later.

Thus instead of six powerful warships to attack at British and U. S. fleets, the Nazis have only three capable of immediate action.

Guiding force behind the Royal Air Force's devastating bombing raids on Germany is Air Marshal Arthur Travers Harris. Continuous raids on strategic Nazi industrial plants and bases have resulted in a reported German request for a "bombing truce."

NON-VIOLENCE: Gandhi's 'Defense'

Mahatma K. Gandhi once more proved his power over India's masses when the All-India Congress party's working committee decided to urge a policy of "non-violent non-cooperation" if their country is invaded by Japan.

The Congress thus returned to the ideas of Gandhi in spite of the more belittling attitude of Jawaharlal Nehru and other party leaders who have stated that India must fight. Peace-loving Gandhi has advanced his policy of non-violence to the point of opposing the scorched earth policy.

The British government again took the line for India's stand. The Congress party's resolution declared that such a policy was necessary.

FOUR DESTROYERS:

A new world's record was established at Kearney, N. J., when four destroyers set down the ways in a mass launching which Gov. Charles Edison of New Jersey described as "the equivalent of a splendid naval victory."

The destroyers were the U. S. S. Fletcher, the U. S. S. Radford, the U. S. S. Quick and the U. S. S. Merwin. The exceedingly brief time in which they were constructed plus their completion (96 per cent complete) were the factors responsible for the world's record.

MISCELLANY:

Chicago: Uncle Sam's wartime call for more food will be answered by a 27,000,000-acre increase in the area planted to 14 major farm crops this spring, according to a statement of the Middle West Soil Improvement committee. "To make this additional acreage yield bigger crops," said the statement, "farmers will have to rely on soil management, including intelligent rotation, application of the correct analysis of fertilizer for particular crops and soils and the growing of fertility-building legumes.

London: Seventy Czechs, taken to Germany for forced labor, were reported shot after a strike in the plant where they were working.

Friday: The execution of 53 French hostages in reprisal for the assassinations of two Nazi soldiers was announced together with the sabotage of two more German troop trains in the occupied zone.

Salt Lake City: Seventeen persons were killed when a United Air Lines Mailliner plowed into a mountain peak while circling for a midnight landing during a wind and sleet storm.

S. troops is shown (left) scouting in the tough jungle country of Surinam, better known as Dutch Guiana, one of the places where we now maintain forces to protect American interests. Right: A U. S. army lookout high in the trees of the Surinam brush. The keen eyes of the observers posted there spot any strange activity in the jungle.

Students Go A-Farming at Farmingdale, L. I.

There is a threatened shortage of farm-labor this year. In upstate New York alone 25,000 men and boys are needed this summer, and some 7,000 boys from city high schools have enrolled for farm training. Many of these are being trained at the State Institute of Agriculture in Farmingdale, L. I. At the left you see students at work in the dairy section of the institute. Right: Some of the students who are taking a course in farming.

Herring Army to Satisfy Army Appetites

Every year millions of herring have swarmed up the Taunton river to spawn at the headwaters near Middleboro, Mass., and have been caught by Indian traps and white men's nets. This year, the U. S. army has put in its order. Photo shows hundreds of herring being pulled in with a dragnet. In this spot the daily catch runs up to 1,000 barrels.

Skipped Lifeboat

Kalmer Samsonov, 27, of Riga, Latvia, was a handy crewman to have on the Meboat of a torpedoed U. S. ship. He is showing how he rigged a sail of blankets. He steered the ship by the stars and made a camera record of their three-day experience.

QUOTA MINUTE MAN

I'm a reporter on a small town paper. It's mostly home news I cover. But we on the home front all realize what our men in the Army, Navy and Air Corps are going through! The least that we can do to back them up is to invest 10 percent of our incomes in War Bonds and Stamps every week or every pay-day.

Our government has set a quota for Lincoln County in its War Savings Program, and we don't want to fall down on the job while every other county in America equals and exceeds its quota. Every citizen of this county must make up his mind to buy War Bonds and Stamps to the limit in order to meet this quota set for us by the United States Government.

Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Sanchez were visitors from the Lovelace ranch near Corona last Friday.
