Business Men's Club

Only an ordinary number of members appeared at the meeting Wednesday evening at the S. P. Hotel. Jimmie Brister, the secretary of the club, who has been ill for a greater part of the week, was absent and a number of others were out of town.

Mr. Vidaurri spoke of the danger which confronts the school children who are compelled to cross railroad tracks and the failure of the company to separate trains so that they can get by, thus compelling them to be late for school.

Mayor Finley stated that the company would put in an underpass at the local station if the city would put up half of the cost which would be more than the city could stand.

OBITUARY
RICHARD S. BURCH

Richard Spencer Burch of Capitan, passed away early Saturday evening, October 10th. He was born March 15, 1885 in Bosque County Texas. He came to Capitan 41 years ago from Oklahoma, where he was a rancher. His wife Sally Fox Burch preceded him in death. He is survived by one daughter Mrs. Martha Robinson of Tionie and one son Tillman Burch of Capitan. His nephews James and Cecil Burch, Fort Reno, Okla., are here for the services. As his grandson Walter Robinson of Fort Devan, Mass., is expected to arrive for the services, funeral arrangements are pending with the Kelly Mortuary in charge.

Funeral services for Richard S. Burch of Capitan, who passed away early Saturday evening October 10th, were held Thursday 2 p. m. in Capitan at the Baptist church, with Rev. N. T. James officiating. Interment was made at Capitan Cemetery.

The family wish to thank their friends for the consolation of flowers and other expressions of sympathy with respect to the bereavement that came their way.

The Chuck Wagon Supper, at Ancho given by the P. T. A. was a grand success. The Ancho community is noted for its good cooks and splendid entertainments.

PERSONALS

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bello and Mrs. Clara Apodaca, were here from Claunch, Monday.

Mrs. Cap Straley and Mrs. E. Hart of Ancho were visitors in town yesterday.

Mrs. Geo. Titworth, daughter Elizabeth of Capitan and Mrs. Clarke of Ruidoso were here on business this Monday.

Our old friend, Engineer Bert Holland came in Tuesday morning and made this office one of his customary friendly calls.

Mrs. Lulu Lewis and son Rex, were here from their ranch at the head of the Malpais, the first part of the week.

AL. Whitaker has leased the W. J. Ayers ranch 8 miles south of here and located there Tuesday. The ranch is a good one and Whit is a good rancher.

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Greer of Tularosa and Miss Mollie Greer of Capitan, were here Tuesday, staying over and attending the Lyric Theatre that night.

Tony Trujillo, Sheriff of Otero County and candidate for State Auditor on the Republican ticket was here Tuesday night after a tour of the state. He said, "It looks good."

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Skinner and family have moved to El Paso where they will spend the winter and perhaps longer and have ordered their Outlook sent to their El Paso address.

Mr. and Mrs. Montie Gardenhira have moved from Ruidoso to Roswell, where Montie has a winter location with his horses. They seem to like the change very well and order their Outlook sent to their new address.

In our article of last week, concerning the sale of the Peaker ranch, we mentioned that the place was sold to White & Murphy. We beg to correct that statement by saying that the ranch was sold to R. A. Crenshaw instead of White and Murphy.

Mrs. and Mrs. Ben Sanchez have received word from their son George, who is in the Navy and stationed at Naval training station at Farragut, Idaho and likes the service very much. They have also heard from another son Albert, who tells of being promoted to first-class fireman at Sandling's Naval station. Good work, boys!

Changes in the station set-up at the local S. P. station are as follows: R. L. Yocum is station agent, Juan Martinez is General Office Clerk, Albert Roberts has taken Juan's place in the freight department and co-operating with Tennis Smoot in crew calling. Red Eaker has taken the first trick at the keys and Harry Miller went to Tucumcari.

J. F. Tom and G. H. Dorsett returned from Hobbs, N. Mex. Tuesday night at 12 o'clock, where they attended I. O. O. F. Grand Lodge. J. F. Tom had the honor of being appointed Grand Instructor. To save rubber and gas they appointed a District Deputy for each Lodge. Our representative recommended R. E. Kent. Bro. Stamps from Carlsbad was elected Grand Master. The next Grand Lodge will be held at Carlsbad.

LT. JOE H. DRAKE

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Drake and their daughters attended the graduation, and presentation of silver wings to their only son and brother, Joe Hunter Drake, from the Army Flying School of Roswell, New Mexico Tuesday morning Sept. 29, 1942.

After training in various parts of the country, we feel proud he was so near his home town when receiving his commission. Lt. Drake is another Carrizozo boy that aims to make good in flying and fighting for Uncle Sam.

R. D. TRUAX ALIVE

A recent wire received from Washington, to the Truax family advises that R. D. Truax, reported last as missing in action, is still alive, having been rescued from the sinking vessel. This is good news.

We have just received a nice letter from Mrs. George Murray of Silver City, who will be here soon on her way to Roswell where she will visit her son, Bill, who is attending the Roswell Military Academy.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Adams, daughters Lynda Gayle and Frances, were here Monday from Vaughn, where Frank is connected with the Bank of Vaughn. They visited old friends for the day, returning home in the evening.

Carrizozo Lodge No. 41 A. F. & A. M., held a big special communication last Saturday night at which two candidates received the Third Degree of Masonry. Messrs James Anderson, John Anderson, James Keller, Bill Hobbs, Albert Cotton, Bert Pfingsten, Sam Cox, Charles Ferris and J. W. Earley were in attendance from the lower valley

JOINT MEETING OF EXTENSION CLUBS

Twenty members of the Corona and Ancho Extension Women's Clubs met in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Lovelace October 12 to exchange ideas on the preparation of food and to give special consideration to nutrition problems in the home and county.

During the morning members from each club demonstrated the preparation of her favorite dish. Special dishes prepared were then served during the noon hour.

The program in the afternoon consisted of a discussion on nutrition in the home by Mrs. B. W. Wilson and a presentation of charts illustrating the nutrition needs of the county by the County Extension Agent, Carl P. Radcliff Murel Burnett, came home from Dallas yesterday and is today. We understand Murel is expecting a call to the colors soon and must get back so as to be ready for it. When he gets into the Army, he will furnish some entertainment for his buddies, with his glorious bass-baritone voice.

State Candidates

The candidates for state offices that are offered by the Republican Party represent the most capable group of men and women that voters of New Mexico have had the opportunity of electing in many years.

Headed by Joseph Tombe Candidate for Governor, who is a native and a life long resident of New Mexico, these Candidates are especially well qualified for the office they are seeking by reason of long residence in New Mexico and by intimate knowledge of the needs of the state and its people.

Clubs being formed in various parts of the state by both Democrats and Republicans in support of these candidates attest to the desire of the voters of New Mexico to replace the present State Machine with citizens who, when elected will represent all of the people.

For fair, impartial state government, without regard for nationality, or party affiliation, elect the Republican Candidates. They will give New Mexico an administration it can be proud of.

Republican Meetings to be held during the next week were announced to-day as follows:
San Patricio—Saturday Oct. 17 Hondo—Thursday Oct. 22 Arabela—Friday Oct. 23 Capitan—Saturday Oct. 24

Jack Greer Goes To Missouri U.

Jack Greer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. Greer of Tucumcari, who has been in the U. S. Navy at San Diego naval base for the past seven months, has been assigned to a naval training unit at the University of Missouri, Columbia, and he met his parents in Albuquerque Wednesday.

Graduating from Tucumcari High school in 1938, he was employed here until his enlistment, spending the last year as a barber here.

While at San Diego, he told his parents, he was employed in the station barber shop but studied engineering at night. Passing an examination for Diesel engineering work, with a high grade, he was given a chance to study at the university. He will be there for a number of months.—Tucumcari News.

Leo, R. Smith, who had been connected with the Bureau of Economic welfare at Las Cruces, left Wednesday for Belem, Brazil where he will be in the employ of the government for the duration, at least. He flew from Albuquerque to Washington to receive his commission and orders, thence by plane to Miami, Fla., and from there to Porto Rico, after which he will go by flying boat to Port of Spain and thence to Belem, which is at the mouth of the Amazon river.

Carl Degner was here from State College visiting home folks.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Stalin to Allies: 'Fulfill Obligations'; Records Prove U. S. War Planes Superior; Wages, Food, Rent, Profits Stabilized As Anti-Inflation Program Takes Effect

Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper. (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

America, too, is developing its force of Commando units as the above photograph from the Panama Canal Zone would indicate. Here, during training maneuvers, these "Bushmasters" are about to push their way through barbed wire entanglements as part of a simulated attack on an "enemy force." Highly trained and tough, troops like these are the spearheads of attacking forces.

INFLATION CURB: Roosevelt to Byrnes

Within 18 hours after he had been granted broad powers to halt the spiral of inflation, President Roosevelt named Associate Justice James F. Byrnes as the director of economic stabilization and moved to stabilize wages, salaries, profits and farm prices.

Byrnes resigned from the Supreme court shortly after he was named head of the new Office of Economic Stabilization.

Under the new legislation farm price ceilings cannot be set below parity or below the highest market level between January 1 and September 15, 1942, whichever is higher. If such ceilings are too low to reflect increases in farm labor and other costs since January 1, 1941, the President is directed to raise them. The legislation calls for a 90 per cent parity "floor" under cotton, corn, wheat, rice, tobacco and peanuts, the floor to be established by means of loans. The President may hold the loans down to 85 per cent, however, on corn and wheat used for feeding livestock and poultry.

Acting immediately, Leon Henderson, head of the Office of Price Administration, ordered that all rents be frozen at the level of March 1, 1942. Henderson issued his first stabilization order within 24 hours after the OES was created. He said the OPA soon would establish machinery to enforce national rent regulation and urged that, in the meantime, landlords who may have raised rents since March 1 reduce them to the previous level.

He asserted that evictions resulting from sale of rental property will be prevented.

In setting forth a wage and salary stabilization policy, President Roosevelt provided that there be no decreases for any particular work below the highest wages paid between January 1 and September 15 unless to correct inequalities.

BUSH SOLDIERS: In Surprise Advance

Rugged Australian bush soldiers turned the tables on the Japs in New Guinea and, through infiltration methods, recaptured Nauro in the Owen Stanley mountain range, high point of the Japanese advance, and then continued their forward march to the north.

Strong enemy opposition was expected, but failed to materialize. The march took the Aussies to Nauro, then to Menari, "without establishing contact with the enemy." Official communiques said nothing about what had happened to Japanese forces which at one time drove to within 24 miles of Port Moresby. However, Allied air strafing and bombing of pack trails is thought to have accounted largely for the Jap retreat.

Meanwhile, heavy bombers raided Japanese shipping at Rabaul, New Britain and Buin on Bougainville, in the northern Solomons, setting fire to two enemy transports and scoring possible hits on two cruisers and an unidentified ship. The marines continued to consolidate their positions in the Solomons and to strengthen the defense of the important Guadalcanal air base.

ALCOHOL: 'Total War'

Whiskey and wine have really gone to war.

Under terms of a directive issued by the War Production board the entire output of U. S. distilleries is now being diverted into industrial alcohol for wartime purposes.

There remains in the country, however, about 3 1/2 years' supply of beverage whiskey even though half of the nation's distilleries had gone into war production earlier this year.

RUSSIA: And Second Front

Even as Josef Stalin reiterated his demand for a second front to bring relief to sorely tried Russia, an official communique acknowledged relentless Nazi pressure everywhere on the Volga front. The communique neither claimed Soviet advances nor acknowledged withdrawals, but spoke of "incessant attacks" by the enemy.

In one sector within Stalingrad Soviet forces were reported to have demolished several blockhouses held by the Germans, killing about three companies of Nazi infantry. In a special bulletin the Moscow radio said that Soviet troops had driven the Nazis from an important point on the front west of Moscow, later beating off five counterattacks. In one of these attacks the Germans were reported to have lost 700 men—killed.

Dispatches from the front said that in northwest Stalingrad the Red army attacked in force in an industrial district, hammering through several streets and improving the Soviets' general position.

Despite local Russian successes, Premier Stalin pointed out the increased necessity for a second front and increased aid. He asked that the Allies "fulfill their obligations fully and on time."

Broadcasts from Vichy, France, and from Turkey said that Stalin had turned over to Marshal Shtoukoff the post of defense commissar, which Stalin himself had held.

YANK AIRMEN: In Biggest Raid

In the biggest daylight operation the U. S. army air forces have yet undertaken from England, American Flying Fortresses blasted a Nazi aircraft factory at Meaulte and an airfield at St. Omer in northern France and shot down 13 of Germany's crack fighter planes.

At the same time U. S. Boston bombers attacked docks at Le Havre, and escorting American and Allied fighters totalling 400 destroyed another Ave Nazi Focke-Wulf 190 planes.

Although officials did not reveal the number of Flying Fortresses participating in the raid, all the fortress planes returned safely. Six Allied fighter planes were lost.

Even as the speedy fighters and the mammoth fortresses and American medium bombers were roaring over France, engaging enemy fighters and bombing targets, Britain's secret Mosquito planes, fresh from their assault on Nazi-occupied Oslo, were pounding objectives in Belgium.

'BOX SCORE': Of U. S. War Planes

The "box score" of American fighter planes and bombers in combat over world battlefronts proves their superiority over Axis aircraft, according to a special house subcommittee report.

The ratio of enemy planes destroyed to U. S. losses in combat during the period from August 14 through September 14 was 7.5 to 1. During this period, P-38s destroyed 20 enemy planes in combat with a loss of five, and P-40s destroyed 14 enemy planes with a loss of only one.

From February 1 through September 30, enemy planes destroyed by army aircraft of all types on all fronts totaled 378. United States losses on all fronts totaled 114. For the month of August only, 78 enemy planes were destroyed as against U. S. losses of 15.

The report indicated that the Japanese Zero has a faster climb, higher ceiling and greater maneuverability, but that the American P-40 has a number of better fighting characteristics. Our pilots prefer the P-40 to the Zero, the report pointed out.

FULL DINNER PAIL: 'Definite Assurance'

There was a coffee shortage looming and plans were under way for meat rationing but a "considered statement" by Donald Nelson, chairman of the War Production board, carried definite assurance that "there will be enough food to eat" for the duration.

This statement was made to the house agriculture committee. The committee has been studying the farm labor shortage and has warned that this situation might cause an acute food shortage. While Mr. Nelson appeared to recognize the labor problem as an important one, he felt that "we are going to be smart enough . . . to meet the problem."

Meanwhile a vast loan program to farmers was being considered to aid them in producing full capacity crops. This prospective step calls for such loans to small-income farmers, with the funds to be used for obtaining tools, machinery, livestock and other items to aid increased production despite less available labor.

HOARDING GAS?: It's Plenty Dangerous

Hoarding of gasoline to beat rationing plans is not only unpatriotic, says the National Safety Council, but extremely dangerous.

"The motorist who tries to beat rationing by laying in a supply of gas literally is storing up danger and trouble for himself," says this safety bureau, and further warns that:

"No matter how careful the average person may be in storing gasoline, there is a definite danger that vapor will escape. This vapor is highly explosive, and a chance spark or flame may set off an explosion that can wreck a house and cause death or injury." Concludes this warning: "You may get an extra ride hoarding gas, but the chances are it will be to the hospital. There is only one safe rule for hoarding gasoline—Don't do it!"

YOUR USED TIRES: Can't Be Sold

As a further rubber conservation step, Price Administrator Leon Henderson acted to "freeze" all used tires and tubes in the hands of present owners until a normal rationing program can be worked out.

The OPA order prohibited the transfer of any used tires and tubes by dealers and consumers. It did not, however, prevent the sale to a consumer of an automobile equipped with used tires. Automobile dealers also are allowed to shift their used tires that are mounted on cars in stock to other cars also in stock.

The order permits car owners to have their used casings and tubes repaired and to have tires recapped if they qualify for the latter service.

MORE TROUBLE: For Vichy France

Edouard Herriot, former president of the now-defunct French chamber of deputies, has been arrested for challenging the Vichy government's policy of increased collaboration with the Axis.

The 70-year-old elder statesman of the Third Republic was reported held in his chateau outside Lyons, according to German and Italian radio announcements.

Recently Herriot and Jules Jeanneney, former leader of the French

senator, warned the Vichy government against trying to draw France back into the war against "our" Allies. Herriot also announced his resignation from the French Legion of Honor because the award had been given two Frenchmen fighting for the Germans on the Russian front. He has steadfastly refused to have anything to do with the collaborationist regime.

It was presumed that Pierre Laval ordered his arrest because he feared that he would go abroad and lend his invaluable prestige to the Fighting French.

MISCELLANY:

PRELIMINARY: U. S. citizens learned long ago that meat rationing to about 2 1/2 pounds per person per week was on the way but now the first step in the actual has been announced. This came in the form of a government order reducing civilian meat supplies by about 20 per cent by specifying to meat packers the amounts they should distribute to non-military distributors.

PEAKING OF SPORTS

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE financial status of the average big-time prize fighter once again became the topic of endless conversation when Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson canceled the Louis-Conn war relief bout.

Stimson acted after a series of conferences regarding plans to deduct $135,451 from the gate receipts, the remainder to go to the Army Emergency Relief fund. The cancellation was believed to be the result of an arrangement between the two fighters to repay debts, out of the proceeds, to Boxing Promoter Mike Jacobs.

Although the original announcement said that total proceeds would go to the relief fund, the committee in charge of the fight granted Louis $100,653 to pay Jacobs a debt of $59,805 and Co-manager John Roxborough one of $41,148. Conn was granted $34,500 to pay Jacobs a private debt—bringing Jacobs' total to $94,305.

A Wise Move Secretary Stimson acted wisely in cancelling the fight. There is no reason why Mike Jacobs should collect private accounts from money earmarked for army relief funds.

But the affair seems to show that Louis may wind up like many a champion before him—with little left of his fight earnings. Jacobs said Louis had owed him $84,000 before the Nova match a year ago. "He paid me out of his purse and took care of a lot of other debts," Jacobs said. "That left him almost broke again, so by the middle of October Joe started borrowing again."

As a rule, heavyweight champions are not successful financiers. When John L. Sullivan was the terror of the athletic world, he threw money away with complete unconcern. John L. didn't die broke, exactly. He died in Abington, Mass., in a little house he owned, though it was heavily mortgaged. It is estimated that in 10 years Sullivan made a total of $1,200,000. These were his own figures. John L. didn't live in the era of million-dollar gates, so his earnings were all the more unusual.

Ruby Robert Fitzsimmons died without much of a bank account. He owned an expensive home in New Jersey, also heavily mortgaged. His son tried to become a second Bob Fitzsimmons, but wasn't successful. Jim Jeffries, who took the title from Bob, owns a ranch in California. He has enough saved to live quietly and comfortably.

Another Big Spender Jack Johnson spent a great share of his big income buying high powered automobiles. He had three of the best known makes at one time, none of them worth less than $7,500. After the defense of his title against Frank Moran in Paris, Johnson succeeded in spending $100,000 on champagne and high living. Incidentally, as an outcome of the same fight, Moran was forced to leave $20,000 in escrow in a French bank.

Jack Dempsey made more money out of the ring than any other champion. Jack Kearns once said on the radio that he and Dempsey went through $7,000,000 in gross earnings. Gene Tunney probably made it faster than any other champion. It took him only two years to earn $1,942,232. Tunney received $200,000 at Philadelphia for winning the title and Dempsey $600,000 for losing it. Tunney then collected $600,445 for defending the title in Chicago. Dempsey received $425,000 for failing to regain it.

But expenses of champion fighters often grow out of bounds. The topnotchers find themselves living beyond even their comparatively colossal incomes. Barney Ross, Jim Braddock and Jess Willard were additional victims of heavy spending.

The fact that Louis owes so much money to Jacobs indicates that his expenses are much higher than the average fan realizes. Louis never has been known as a big spender. He doesn't attract that particular brand of notoriety. It shows, too, that a fairly large percentage of his earnings must have gone to promoters and managers.

The situation, of course, isn't peculiar to heavyweights. Too many champions have worked hard for their money only to throw it away without regard for the future. Boxers, for the most part, are poor business men.

SPORT SHORTS

The average college football squad requires 2,100,000 square inches of adhesive tape per season. Coach Bernie Moore has a Japanese halfback working with his varsity squad at Louisiana State. Roy Jardine, former Michigan Ontario hockey league player, was wounded 11 times in the Commando raid on Dieppe. Whitley Kurovski, Cardinals' third baseman, was hit six times by pitched balls in seven straight games this season.

THERE was a certain cluttered up road leading somewhere between Avocourt and Montfaucon in France, late in September, 1918. The night was dark and the rain was even wetter than usual. There was an artillery captain, getting his battery through this muddle and mire, and he wasn't very gentle about getting the right of way.

"These guns go through," he barked, and you could see he wasn't particular about how they got through. Through the jumble and the tangle and the rain and mud and darkness this battery moved on its way.

The artillery captain was a fellow by the name of Larry MacPhail. He was a rough and ready officer looking for action, and he has been the same ever since.

Now he is on his way back to his old artillery job, and whether you like him or not, the army will. And that happens to be the main idea.

Then and Now

Larry MacPhail is no longer a kid. It has been almost 24 years since that night in France where refugees, stray army outfits and complete confusion almost blocked the road which MacPhail helped to open for his guns.

Since that time he has been the major factor in building up two pennant winners in the National League—first, Cincinnati's Reds, then Brooklyn's Dodgers.

There have been many times when he looked to be hard and ruthless, but he was always smart. As someone has said, "MacPhail's mistakes, and he had made many, have always been about minor matters. He has yet to make a mistake that was important."

If the charge that he has been hard and ruthless is true, there could be no bigger boost when it comes to the matter of winning this war.

McPhail and the Dodgers

MacPhail was talking about the Dodgers of 1942. "When the season opened," he said, "I thought we could win. We had done all we could to strengthen a team good enough to win the pennant the year before. But when we were ten games in front you will remember I told you that I was worried about what might happen."

"The year before we were only thinking about winning the pennant. Through this summer we have been thinking only about meeting and beating the Yankees. It was easy enough to see our pitching was crumbling. It was also easy to see that we were no longer hitting. The box scores showed that better than any large bale of words could hope to do. No one could figure at that time that the Cardinals, a young hustling team, would suddenly move into a .500 per cent pace. But that's what they did."

"Then there came the injury to Pete Reiser, who suddenly changed from a .355 hitter to a .348 hitter. These are no slights. The Cardinals had their share of hard luck last year.

"The main point is that we ran into a change in mental attitudes. Last season we were pennant-hungry and world series money-hungry. By this season we'd gotten ours. The Cardinals hadn't. And don't forget this Cardinal team is quite a ball club. I mean skill, speed, and spirit."

"Mental attitude," MacPhail continued, "is one of the big factors in any game. I've heard Bobby Jones say it was at least 75 per cent of golf. Any football coach will tell you the big part it plays in his sport. Of course, skill is important, speed is important and power is important. So is experience. But mental attitude is even more important."

"I recall late last summer when Whit Wyatt would walk into the clubhouse before some hard game and say, 'Listen, you bums, give me one run today. That's all I need.' "And when the pinch came, that's all Whit needed. This season you had the feeling that for many of our pitchers even three or four runs were not quite enough."

Lou Little said some time ago that 1942 would be football's best offensive season. Columbia's mandarin makes few bad guesses. It will take some remarkable defensive formations to keep the combined speed and power under check which most teams have to meet.

That Missouri backfield will be one of the best. It has speed, drive and experience, headed by one of the best in Steuber, a big fellow who can move.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Squash are very tender and so easily injured by frost that care must be taken to cover them in the field against injury. They should be allowed to harden in the field and then should be removed from the vines without breaking the stems.

For extra flavor in dark fruit cakes use cider or spiced fruit juices for the liquid.

Sift splices with flour so they will be distributed properly throughout the batter or dough.

For a flavorful top coating for meat loaves, spread with a thin layer of chili sauce the last 20 minutes of the cooking period.

Grass stains usually come out when saturated with lard or other fat, then washed several hours later in warm soapy water.

If pears have to stand a little while when you're canning them, it's best to keep them covered in salt water so they won't darken. Use two tablespoons of salt to a gallon of water. To help keep pears used in appetizers, salads or desserts from darkening, sprinkle them with a little orange, lemon, lime or grapefruit juice as soon as they are peeled and store in a cold place.

When buttering sandwiches dip knife in hot water frequently and it will be much easier to spread the butter.

Often a crust forms on rising dough. To avoid that, spread a little fat over the dough and cover it with a cloth.

SADDLE and RIDE

By ERNEST HAYCOX W.N.U. Release

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan has decided to play a lone hand against Ben Herenden, a rancher bent on running the cattle country his own way. The two men have been enemies for years, having first fought over Clay's wife, Lila, who died hating him and believing she should have married Herenden. Morgan is a solitary figure, devoted to his nine-year-old daughter, Janet. Although two women, Catherine Grant and Ann McGarrah, are in love with him, they know he cannot forget Lila. Of his former friends, only Hack Breathitt has not gone over to Herenden's side. Gird Grant, Catherine's brother, hesitated about joining Herenden, but became Morgan's sworn enemy when he discovered that Catherine had been to his ranch. Hack Breathitt, seen camping with Pete Borders, a rustler, is being watched by Herenden's men. Clay has learned that Government Valley, a piece of land he and Herenden both want, is to be auctioned at Sage City, 190 miles away. Hack meanwhile fights with some of Herenden's men. He gets away, but he is a fugitive now and knows it. Clay gets to Sage City just in time to hear Charley Hillhouse, Herenden's foreman, bid "Eight thousand."

Now continue with the story.

A woman came to the door, young and still pretty, with pure black hair.

CHAPTER VIII

Hillhouse said again, in a steady, stubborn voice: "Eight thousand." The other three men were speculators. It was a small, it was written on their good clothes, their white faces and their soft hands. One of these said reluctantly, "Eighty-two."

"Eighty-three," said Hillhouse. Morgan said: "Ninety-three."

Now the speculators looked around and moved together and one of them whispered something and shook his head. The land-office agent looked hopeful. He said: "Ninety-three is the bid."

"Ninety-four," said Charley Hillhouse.

Morgan said: "I didn't ride a hundred and ninety miles to play around with a piker, Charley. Eleven thousand."

"Eleven is the bid," said the land-office agent. "Another bid, gentlemen?"

The speculators said nothing. One of them shook his head. The land-office agent turned to Hillhouse. He said: "Another bid?" Hillhouse put his hands in his pockets, and slowly brought them out. "No," he answered, "that's all. I've got to stick to a limit, and we're past it now."

"Sold at eleven thousand."

Morgan stepped toward the table. "My check all right?"

The land office showed an instant discouragement. "Of course not."

One of the speculators laughed and Hillhouse made a half-turn. "Then my bid of ninety-three is good."

Morgan reached into his pocket. "No," he said, dryly, "I just wanted to know. I've got the cash."

Hillhouse turned from the room without further talk; the speculators slowly followed. Morgan counted out the money, in bills. He stood over the desk, propping both hands on its edge to hold himself up while the land agent took his name and address and wrote out a receipt.

"You'll get a deed in the next few months."

Morgan said: "When did you mail out notice of that sale?"

The land agent stared at him. "About six weeks ago."

Morgan folded the receipt between his fingers, creasing and re-creasing it, his head bent down. He murmured, "thanks," and left the room. He passed the speculators in the hall.

Charley Hillhouse waited for him on the porch. Charley had a cigarette lighted. He removed the cigarette, heeding his words very carefully; he had his eyes half closed, and stared ahead of him into the dust-yellow, sun-brightened street.

"I want to tell you this, Clay. When I work for an outfit, I stick by that outfit. I'm foreman of Three Pines and long as I am Three Pines comes first."

Returning from Sage City three days later Clay Morgan came through a low gap of the Burnt Hills and found somebody occupying the deserted homestead house on Salt Meadows. It was twenty-five miles from this point northward to his own ranch, and though the shanty was an old one he had not known of nesters being in it.

Riding into the yard, Morgan gave his name. "You must be new here. Nobody's tried to make a living on this spot since Yardsley left, four years ago."

The man was around thirty, long and on the lean side, with the freckled skin and dry creased lips and the gray-green eyes of a Southerner. He looked like a worker rather than one of that shiftless rattletrap breed Morgan had so often seen camping on the edge of the range. He said, "I'm Fox Willing. Been here four months." He was pretty brief with his talk, a reserved man with the mark of a short temper on him, but there was in his eyes at the moment something Morgan had often noticed in other nesters: a half-concealed hatred, a veiled fear.

A woman came to the door, young and still pretty, with pure black hair.

She shaded her eyes at Morgan; he saw fear definitely on her face. It was time to eat; in fact Morgan smelled food in the air. But Willing sneered at the air about range etiquette. He simply stood his ground, waiting for Morgan to speak or ride on. Morgan said: "Maybe you could put me up to dinner."

Willing's answer was reluctant. "Sure, Mr. Morgan. Step down."

Morgan helped himself to the boiled potatoes and canned tomatoes—and to the meat. It was fried steak and when he saw it he realized it came from one of his own cows.

Willing ate with his eyes downcast; a taciturnity close to sullenness covered him. The woman didn't touch her food. She sat with her arms in her lap, a growing strain on her face. She was about his own age and he could tell she had been through a lot of misery.

Morgan appreciated the meal, but he was glad when, hat in hand, he returned to the yard. He walked toward his horse, both the Willings behind him. The shed was only a dozen paces beyond and he had the definite inclination to go over there, open the door, and have a look at the beef for himself. He knew it was there and he didn't want Willing to think Long Seven was run by a fool too blind to see the signs. He rolled up a cigarette, trying to figure out some way of telling Willing this without hurting the woman's feelings. There was a lot in her and she was pretty badly troubled at this minute. Willing was like most nesters. Cattlemen had pushed them around until they figured it wasn't any crime to steal beef when they could.

He lighted his cigarette and stepped into the saddle. There was immediate relief on the nester's face and the woman's shoulders relaxed; they had braced themselves for the worst. Morgan removed his hat, smiling at the woman. "I wish both of you good luck. You'll need it." Then, with the reins half-lifted, he added: "It occurs to me that you may get pinched for grub this winter. If you do, I'll be glad to see that you get a quarter of beef occasionally. When you see any stray cattle of mine up here this winter in the snowdrifts, just drive them back. We'll consider it a fair exchange for the meat. But"—and now he looked at the blank, gray-green eyes of the man—"come to me when you want it. I do not like to think of beef being butchered and wasted on the desert."

The tension left Willing's shoulders. The woman's lips softened and her eyes grew warm. After that he crossed the yard and came down at last to the lower edge of Government Valley. Far up the flats he saw the remnant barracks of the old fort, and for a moment he paused to have a look at this land which now belonged to him.

He slanted across the valley and rode up the narrow length of his older range, reaching home-quarters in the middle of the afternoon. As soon as he left the saddle old Mose gave him the latest news: Hack Breathitt had been pulled into a fight at War Pass, killing Liard Connor. Now Hack was hiding in the hills with Sheriff Nickum on his trail.

"I'm going to town," decided Morgan at once, "and ought to be back around eight."

Old Mose said: "The way things are now, I wouldn't skylark on the trail after dark."

Morgan caught up a fresh horse and headed for War Pass, reaching there slightly before six. His first errand was to go into the post office and pay his respects to Fred Rich.

"Fred," he said, "that notice of sale was posted a little late."

"I took it out myself, the same day it came."

"They mailed it from Sage City last month," stated Morgan.

Fred Rich's face showed a whiteness suddenly around the base of his nose. "I guess it got held up somewhere," he murmured. But he met Morgan's glance only for a moment, soon looking down. He had been caught in a lie and knew it.

"I guess it did," said Morgan dryly, and left the post office. He heard Rich call out, "Clay, I want no trouble with you, but he didn't turn, hating to see any man's face show that dead, cheap guilt. The bank was closed and so he climbed the hill to leave the unused part of his money with Harley Stewart and went at once to Ann McGarrah's. Ann and Janet were eating supper. He sat with them, listening to Janet's cool voice recite the little things that had happened to her, watching the way Ann McGarrah's faint smile came and went away. Janet left the room. Ann McGarrah sat back in her chair. Her arms were round and firm on the table. She had a way of looking at him, straight and intent, with a shadow across her eyes. Her lips were red and pleasant; they had a gentle strength. "What is on your mind, Clay?"

"Odds and ends, I guess."

"Did you have luck?"

"I bought the piece. How did you know I was on that business?"

"It was all over town, half an hour after you left."

He said, "I'll be back for Janet in a minute," and walked to the store porch. He stood here briefly, watching the street until he discovered Jesse Rusey paused. In the shadows at the corner of the hotel—an obscure shape patiently waiting. He crossed to Rusey, observing the marshal's short solid shape swing around to him. Rusey's voice was inflexibly courteous, giving Morgan his due, nothing more and nothing less. "Evenin', Clay."

Morgan said: "Who started the ball Friday night, Jesse?"

The marshal's head tipped. Secret care flowed from him. His voice, when he spoke, was unselfish and without favor. "They was jiggerin' around from point to point—Breathitt and Connor and Bones McGeen. Breathitt met Connor once, down by Old Town, but neither of them was ready. Connor floated up the street, past the dance hall. McGeen dropped back into the crack by the bank. Hack showed around the corner of the dance hall, and met Connor. He paused, weighing his words with an extreme thoughtfulness. "It was a case of love at first sight, only Breathitt got in the first kiss. Bones was wastin' his shots all the time, just stunkin' up the wind. Hack got out of town two jumps ahead of his own funeral. Tell Hack, if you see him, I'll throw him in the cooler if he don't that again. There's a rule against smokin' up this town."

"Tell it to McGeen," said Morgan.

"He's been told," retorted Rusey. "I'd tell it to anybody—even to the Almighty."

A long halloo shrilled through the shadows and a cloud of children raced down the street. Ann McGarrah waited on the porch, slim against the store lights. Janet, out of breath and softly giggling, trotted toward her. Morgan turned toward these two. "Time to go," and watched Ann McGarrah's face show a darkening at his tone. Janet's hand came obediently to him and they strolled up the street. At Gentry's he saddled Janet's horse and boosted her up, and rode from War Pass.

The night was soft and luminous and fragrant. Earth's warmth rose around them but the wind drifting from the south brought in sharp, cool eddies of coming winter. The two of them rode in silence across the rutted desert and took to the steep road up Mogul.

Morgan said: "You did fine, Janet. I guess I was pretty proud, sitting there and listening. Don't ever be afraid of anything ahead of you. Never borrow trouble. Walk right up to it. Listen to the crickets. They've been singing like that a thousand years, and they'll be doing it for another thousand. Nothing changes, honey. Remember that when you feel like running away. When you feel like running away, nothing changes and nothing ever really dies."

Sometimes when he talked to her like this he felt the absorbing attention she paid him. Sometimes her mind was away on its own dreams, locking him out—as Lila locked him out. She spoke suddenly and seriously, as though she hadn't heard him:

"Will you ever marry again, Daddy?"

"Now why should you think of that?"

She said in her small, still voice: "I just wondered. Maybe I could like another mother."

GROWTH IN CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:40-52; II Peter 1:14. GOLDEN TEXT—But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.—II Peter 3:18.

Growth is a normal thing. We expect it of the child, and when it fails we know that something is wrong. Just so there is something very decidedly wrong in the life of the Christian who fails to grow in grace. If a child fails to grow we are alarmed, but if a Christian does not grow we hardly notice it, or at most only express our regret. We need a revival.

I. Normal Children Will Grow (Luke 2:40-52).

While Christ was God manifest in the flesh, He was at the same time true man, and as a boy He developed and grew in a normal way.

Unless we meet the tragedy of arrested development we need have no concern about the fact that a child will grow physically, mentally and spiritually. The Lord has placed in the babe in a mother's arms the potential qualities of the man or woman to come. Our chief responsibility is to provide the opportunity for the development of those abilities and qualities which the child has, and of guiding that growth in the right direction.

That is all a parent has to do, but it is enough to call for all the wisdom, judgment, patience and skill of the best of us. Yes, and even that is not enough; we need the wisdom of God and His grace upon our lives to do this vital work as we ought.

The qualities in a boy or girl which will count gloriously for God will be dreadfully effective for Satan if we permit him to get control of our children. May God help us to be alert and skillful in helping our boys and girls.

While it is true that we can do more for the guidance of physical and mental growth than spiritual (because that is a matter of the grace of God), we can lead the steps of the little child to the house of God; we can teach him to pray and to trust God, and we can set an example of godly living before him. That is all we can do; but again we say, it is enough to demand our best effort and more.

II. Normal Christians Will Grow (II Pet. 1:1-8).

In Christ there are "all things that pertain unto life and godliness." There is no need of some added experience, or some new and striking endowment, for all the unbelievably great possibilities of Christian grace and growth are in Him. We need only to recognize that fact and yield to Him, and there will be the full development of Christian life and experience.

We have, in practice, so far departed from the normal in Christian life that we can hardly believe that the above is true. In place of the normal Christian life according to God's standard, we have established a standard based on the average Christian life. If we equal it we are satisfied, and if perchance we surpass it we count ourselves among the "more spiritual" ones. And all the time the average standard is far below the normal Christian life which God not only expects, but is ready to enable and empower us to live.

Peter tells us in this passage that the great and precious promises of God in Christ are not only to enable us to escape the corruption of this sinful world, but to go on to a place where we will neither "be barren nor unfruitful" Christians. How will this come about? Verres.5-7 tell us.

Faith supplies in itself (rather than "add to," v. 5), if there is "diligence" (that is, true Christian devotion), a number of other splendid qualities. First comes "virtue"—really moral courage, or nobility of character. What a fine step forward! Then comes "knowledge," that is, a discernment which will give practical skill in effective daily living for Christ. Such spiritual discernment will naturally lead to "self-control"—something much needed by most Christians.

The self-controlled one will always have "patience," that is, the endurance to stand every hardship and trial. We need to be more patient not only with others, but also with ourselves, even in this matter of Christian growth of which we are speaking.

A life like that is a life of "godliness," which will blossom out into real "brotherly kindness." There isn't too much of that in the world today, even among Christians. Let's revive it! Then what? The one who loves his brother will love the whole world (charity, in v. 8, should read "love"). Why not? Are we not all brethren, who know Christ, regardless of race, position or creed?

Let such virtues "abound" (v. 8), and no Christian life will lack in rich fruitfulness for God in Christ. If Christian people would let the new life within them grow, it would surprise us and them what God would do through them for His own glory.

'Versailles of the Plains'

THIS month marks the 75th anniversary of the "Versailles of the Plains"—the famous Medicine Lodge peace council of 1867. Not only did it bring together a galaxy of frontier notables, both red men and white, but it was attended by a greater number of journalists than had ever before assembled for such an event. Some were destined for fame in other fields and among these were

TWO EXPLORER-FRIENDS

Being "the man who found Livingston" and the most celebrated African explorer of his day brought world-wide renown to the name of Henry M. Stanley.

Henry M. Stanley

But that wasn't his real name. Born in Denbigh, Wales, on June 10, 1841, he was christened John Rowlands and that was the name he bore until he was 21. In the meantime he had come to America as a cabin boy and deserted his ship at New Orleans where a local merchant named Henry Morton Stanley, finding the young Welshman wandering destitute about the streets, gave him a home and later adopted him.

When Rowlands' benefactor died without making any provision for him in his will, the young man went to Arkansas where, at the outbreak of the Civil war, he enlisted in the Confederate army. Taken prisoner at the Battle of Shiloh, he later changed his allegiance and put on the blue uniform of the Union navy, at the same time assuming the name of his foster-father, Henry Morton Stanley.

The dispatches he wrote about the naval assault on Fort Fisher found a ready market in some of the eastern newspapers and influenced his decision to become a journalist. He continued sending news to these papers when the ship on which he was serving was ordered to Turkey and after leaving the navy he made a journey across the plains to Denver and Salt Lake City. As a result of his stories about life in the Far West, the Weekly Missouri Democrat of St. Louis engaged him to accompany General Hancock's expedition against the Indians in the spring of 1867.

His correspondence during the Hancock campaign and at the Medicine Lodge peace council had a human interest, "feature" quality, which distinguished it from the factual reporting of other correspondents there and James Gordon Bennett of the New York Herald was quick to recognize his genius. The result was Stanley's joining the Herald staff, the famous "find Livingston" order from Bennett and his successful accomplishment of that mission which brought him deathless fame.

During Stanley's later career as a successful explorer, one of his closest friends was another correspondent and explorer whom he had first met at the Medicine Lodge council. He was Thomas Wallace Knox, a native of Pembroke, N. H., where he was born June 28, 1835. Like Stanley, Knox was left an orphan at an early age and, like the young Welshman, he had an adventurous spirit which caused him to give up his position as principal of an academy in New Hampshire and join the gold rush to Colorado in 1859.

In Denver Knox became a reporter and then city editor of the Rocky Mountain News but at the outbreak of the Civil war he joined the army as a volunteer aide and served through two campaigns. Next he became a war correspondent for the New York Herald but, being wounded during a skirmish in Missouri, returned to New York and newspaper work.

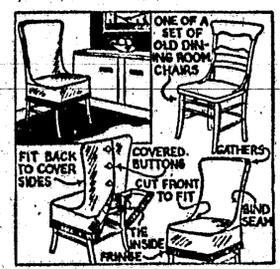

After the war Knox joined an expedition organized to establish a telegraph line through southern Asia and on this journey he traveled through Siberia 3,500 miles on sledges and 1,500 miles in wagons. During the seventies he traveled all over Europe, Africa, and Asia and became one of the most prolific writers of travel books of his time.

Knox is said to have written on an average two books a year and by the time of his death on January 6, 1890, he was the author of more than 30 volumes. His first, and probably his best known, was called "Camp Fire and Cotton Field" and dealt with his experiences as a Civil war correspondent and the manager of a plantation in the South. Almost as famous were his "Overland Through Asia," the record of his journey across Siberia in 1868, and his series of 15 books for boys, published under the title of "The Boy Travelers."

ON THE HOME FRONT With RUTH WYETH SPEARS

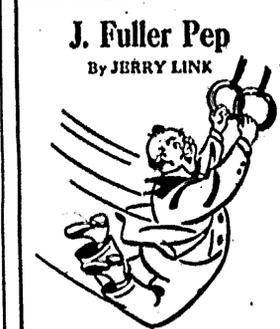

ANY dining room may be made fresh and smart with built-in cupboards, a little paint and inexpensive curtains. But what may be done to bring a set of out-moded chairs up-to-date? The one sketched at the upper right is typical of many that are substantial and sturdy though scarred by long use. All they need is an up-to-date frock to make them perfectly at home in a modern dining room. If your chairs do not have the supports shown at the sides of the seat they will be easier to slip-cover. This cover is of medium blue cotton rep with darker blue for the bias binding and the cotton fringe around the bottom. Large button moulds are covered with the slip cover material for the button-up-the-back opening. If you are not expert at making bound buttonholes, snaps may be used under the buttons. The narrow ties sewn to the corners of the inside of the seat cover hold it neatly in place.

NOTE: This chair cover is from Book 5 of the homemaking booklets available to readers at 10 cents each. Directions for other dining room chair transformations will be found in BOOK 7, together with an interesting array of conservation ideas which make use of materials around the home. - But don't take the United States!

We had a request for some Mexican Heavenly Blue Morning Glory Seed from a friend in Hastings, New Zealand. We complied with the friend's wishes. We had word from our Amigo, stating that they were in full bloom — and covered with giant - size baby blue flowers. This party is so delighted with them, that he made the request to send two packages of the Mexican seed to his sister in Johannesburg, South Africa. — Senoras y Caballeros, these flowers are growing in far-off places.

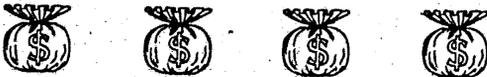

So, Hasta la Vista (Atah lah Veeata)— Til we meet again.

BANKS AND THE WAR

Yes, You Still Can Borrow

In war as well as in peace, people need money to meet special conditions. While borrowing for non-essential purposes is discouraged by the government, the various loan regulations recognize that people will always need funds for certain sound reasons. If you want a loan, see us. If your purpose is one for which loans may still be made, we will welcome your application. It costs nothing to get the facts, and this is the place to get them.

VOICE OF EXPERIENCE

Buy War Bonds and Stamps!

How to make your car last a lot longer

Five neighbors, with only 6,000 miles left on their tires, can, by taking turns driving, each ride 30,000 miles before any re-treading is necessary. Start or join a driving club today and save precious tires.

Don't bump into or scrape curbs. Check pressure weekly. Thirty per cent under-inflation reduces tire mileage 50 per cent. Drive "50 or less." Avoid "aqueaking" on turns... many extra tire miles will result.

Visit a Pontiac dealer at least once a month for a wheel alignment check. A wheel one-half inch out of line will drag a tire sideways 87 feet in every mile. Have him switch tires every 4,000 miles, too.

Pontiac's FREE "Motor Doctor" inspection prevents little troubles from becoming costly repairs. Regular inspection by your Pontiac dealer is the cheapest way to preserve something you can't replace until the war is won.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Winter flying jackets for both the Army and Navy Air Corps are regular equipment for our aviators. They cost from $12 to $18 and are made of horsehide leather lined with sheep shearing.

Purchase of one $18.75 War Bond, for which you receive $25 in 10 years, will pay for one of these jackets so necessary for our airmen flying at high altitudes and in northern climes. So you and your neighbors can do your bit by investing at least 10 percent of your salary every pay day in War Bonds to help pay the cost of this equipment for intrepid American flyers. Join the parade, and help top the War Bond Quota in your county. U. S. Treasury Department

TO RELIEVE
RHEUMATIC PAINS

Money Back—If This Recipe Fails
Good news travels fast—many of the thousands of folks who now take lemon juice for rheumatic pain—have found that by adding two tablespoons of Allens to one tablespoonful of lemon juice in a glass of water, they get faster relief for the aches and pains caused by rheumatism, lumbago,
It's no surprise either, for Allens is a 18 year old formula to relieve rheumatic aches and pains. In fact—if it does not help your money back. What could be fairer?

NU-WAY CLEANERS
Work Called For & Delivered

Here's another reason why we will keep 'em rolling!

On July 31, 5,137 Southern Pacific men were serving in our country's armed forces; on August 31, 5,836 men; and on September 15, 6,214. That's a lot of men from one organization!

To these men, the ideal of service is nothing new. Railroadng has always inspired devotion to duty, and a conductor wears the stars on his sleeve just as proudly as a sailor wears his "hash marks."

We miss these men badly, for we worked side by side with them. We also miss their long training and experience in railroad work—training and experience that just can't be replaced overnight.
But we're going to do our best to back these men up, wherever they may be.

We who are left have the job of getting troops, equipment and war materials over the line to the places where they're needed, when they're needed. And though the traffic peak in the next few months will be the greatest we have ever faced, we promise our men in the service that we will not let them down.

So if you see an extra glint of determination in an engineer's eye, or a passenger representative on the road night and day accompanying troop trains, or a section hand swinging his pick as if the ballast were full of Japs—you'll know why they have a personal interest in this war, and a personal determination to do their part to keep 'em rolling.

Mary Lee Taylor's Golden Rice Ring Broadcast Oct. 15

- 1 cup washed, raw rice
- 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
- 3 cups boiling water
- 6 tablespoons finely cut onion
- 3 tablespoons melted butter or other shortening
- 1/4 cup Pet Milk
- 1 1/2 cups grated American cheese or Green Beans (See below), packaged variety
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper

Cook rice until tender in boiling water and 2 teaspoons salt. Drain and rinse with hot water. Grease an 8 1/2-inch ring mold. Cook onion, milk, cheese, remaining 1/4 teaspoon salt and the pepper. Cook very slowly until cheese is melted. Then add cooked rice and heat thoroughly. Pack into greased ring mold. Keep warm. Turn out and fill center with Creamed Green Beans (See below). Serve at once. If desired, garnish outer edge of ring with thin slices of carrot, cut crosswise then halved. Serves 6.

Note: The rice mixture may also be packed in a greased loaf pan, then turned out and the creamed vegetable arranged around it.

- ### Creamed Green Beans
- 3 cups green beans, fresh, cooked, or canned
 - 1 1/2 tablespoons butter or other shortening
 - 3 tablespoons sour cream
 - 1/4 cup liquid oil
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 - 1/4 cup Pet Milk

Drain green beans and save liquid. Melt butter in saucepan. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Stir in slowly 1/4 cup liquid of green beans. Boil 2 minutes, stirring constantly. Stir in milk. Then add drained green beans and heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Serve at once in cases Golden Rice Ring (See above). Serves 6.

YOU WOMEN WHO SUFFER FROM HOT FLASHES

during 38 to 52 Years of Age!

If you—like so many women between the ages of 38 and 52—suffer from hot flashes, weak, dizzy, nervous feelings, dizziness, "irregularities", are little at times—due to the functional middle age period in a woman's life—start at once on Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It's the best known medicine you can buy that's made especially for women.
Pinkham's Compound is famous to relieve such distress. Taken regularly—it helps build up resistance against such symptoms. It also is a fine stomachic tonic! Thousands upon thousands of women—rich and poor alike—have reported benefits. Also beneficial for younger women to help relieve distress of monthly functional disturbances. Follow label directions. Worth trying!

Make every market-day BOND DAY!
For our fighting men, for our country's future and for freedom we must meet and beat our county War Bond quota and keep on doing it. Pick up your War Bonds and Stamps on your second stop in town . . . right after you've sold your eggs, milk, poultry, stock or grain. No investment is too small and no investment is too large . . . the important thing is to buy every time you sell!
U. S. Treasury Department

It's common sense to be thrifty. If you save you are likely. War Bonds help you to save and help to save America. Buy your ten percent every pay day.
