Herman Kelt Jr. Writes

Last Saturday morning we received a letter from Herman Kelt, Jr, who is in the Navy and stationed at San Diego, Calif., in which he writes pretty much like he used to talk and says in part; "Here I am, still going to school. I haven't as yet had a chance to get a shot at the little Japs, but I am ready to go at any time. I am going to a Machine's mate School and like it very much. In my opinion there is no branch of the service that can beat the Navy; it is surely a swell place

The hard thing about it is the first few weeks of training and getting all of the shots, to insure you against the Japs, but I don't think that would be so bad; I think it would be fun. Best regards to everybody."

Yours very truly,

Herman Kelt Jr.,

Class 8-43 U. S. M. T. S.,

REPUBLICANS WIN ANOTHER OFFICE

An error discovered in the Poll books of the Ancho precinct apparently gives R. P. Johnson, candidate for State Representative from Lincoln County, a commanding lead over his Democrat opponent, L. P. Hall. Earlier unofficial tabulation had shown Hall leading by two votes.

The re-count of Carrizozo box 14B made no change in the results as announced in this paper last week, except that larger votes were totaled for all candidates than was shown in the original count.

Judge Marshall, of Silver City sitting in place of Judge Prenger, conducted the re-count of the questioned box. Official results will be announced next week.

Business Men's Club

The Club met with the usual attendance, absence of certain members being due to deer hunting. In the absence of the secretary, the chair appointed Rev. John Klassen secretary pro-tem.

The matter of housing, which is causing so much inconvenience at Alamogordo, it was suggested that from the fact that we have a number of living quarters vacant at this time, it was moved by Mr. English and seconded by Mr. Lemon, that the secretary be instructed to write the Alamogordo Chamber of Commerce and request that body that we accommodate as many as 250 with houses and apartments, thus making living accommodations better and the men working at Alamo could come home once a week and remain over Sunday with their families, returning to work Monday morning. Motion carried. After much discussing as to how we can best work for winning the war, the meeting adjourned.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Heavy Artillery, Planes Dominate Action As British Strike at Rommel Positions; See 10 1/2 Billion Farm Income for 1943; Baruch Urged to Make Manpower Study

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

The above radiophoto from Cairo, Egypt, shows one result of the initial Allied thrust against the Axis in the western desert. A member of Marshal Rommel's Afrika Korps lies dead in the dust following the capture of a forward strong point in the Nazi lines.

SOUTH PACIFIC Costly Exchange

When Navy Secretary Frank Knox told his press conference that Jap fleet units had retired from the scene of action around Guadalcanal and that the "first round of the battle" was over naval experts began trying to figure out who got the decision in the encounter. U. S. citizens heard the bad news that the navy had lost the destroyer Porter and an aircraft carrier. (This was in addition to the loss of the carrier Wasp, announced earlier.) This brought to a total of four plane carriers that have been destroyed by the Japs in this war.

Then came news of a bit brighter note. Before the Japs left the area to "lick their wounds" and return for more action, U. S. forces had damaged two aircraft carriers, two battleships and three cruisers. More than 100 enemy airplanes were destroyed and about 50 others probably destroyed in what the navy described as the greatest battle yet fought in the Solomon area.

But the most important result of this heavy sea and air fighting was that it brought at least temporary relief to the hard-pressed marine and army units holding their positions on Guadalcanal itself. The Jap objective in launching the big battle had been to dislodge these outnumbered units who in mid-August had pushed the Japs out.

DESERT WARFARE: Allied Air Umbrella

Sand-bag warfare continued on the Atlantic between the North Atlantic sea and the Central Mediterranean in Egypt as Britain's eighth army struck Baghdad from the east at German and Italian positions.

Attorney Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces struck back savagely, the British army held on to early gains. Protected by hundreds of guns and a supreme Allied air umbrella, the British held every inch of ground from another section of the Atlantic line.

The great tank battles of previous campaigns in the desert were missing in the initial onslaught of the new British drive. Heavy artillery and planes played the dominant role. American tanks strengthened the drive, sweeping over enemy areas, shooting up troop concentrations, tanks and artillery.

Cairo reports that British troops have said that Allied forces had "trapped several German Axis troops" in a narrow pocket west of El Alamein near the Mediterranean coast.

While it was the armed intention of the British command to destroy Rommel and his army, some sources saw another effect. Germany might be forced to withdraw German planes and men from Russia to meet the even more critical threat on the desert.

RUSSIAN FRONT: Initiative Reversed

While the Germans continued to grind forward across the Natchik plains in the Caucasus sector the Russians had taken up the initiative in key regions further north. Stalingrad communiques were often similar in their content. This was typical of Russian announcements: "Soviet troops repulsed enemy attacks. In certain sectors our troops counterattacked and forged ahead somewhat."

Neutral military observers saw in the news from Russia that the Nazis had shifted the main weight of their drive to the Caucasus mountains. There the fury of the attack was unabated. Definitely the Russians were fighting defensive actions all along this front. Always the Soviet claimed the infliction of heavy losses of Nazi men and machines as they retreated before the furious, continuous onslaught.

IDLE DOLLARS: Are Stockers

Attributing the rise of money in circulation to the demands of war financing and huge wartime payrolls, Federal Reserve officials in Washington at the same time declared in effect that "idle dollars are stocker dollars." Yet there are "comparatively few" dollars being hoarded among the more than $14,000,000,000 now in circulation.

Treasury department and Federal Reserve experts have been carefully watching for signs of hoarding but there is no indication that it is widespread among U. S. citizens throughout the country.

A chart showing both money in circulation and wages paid shows that the upturn in the total money in circulation exactly parallels the rise in wages. While the 14 billion dollars is the largest amount ever in circulation in U. S. history government officials explained that any upturn in business as widespread as the present war spending always increases the demand for currency because it places cash in the pockets of those people without bank connections.

FOOD PROBLEM: Gets Attention

Although little official news came from Washington, it was reported that President Roosevelt is studying an urgent proposal for the appointment of an over-all administrator to stabilize the nation's confused food situation.

The recommendation, made by Donald M. Nelson, WPB chairman, with the approval of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, named no specific candidate for the job. However, two frequently mentioned candidates are Max Baucus, executive director of the Board of Economic Warfare, and Leo Marshall, food consultant to Nelson. Baucus was director of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration's surplus commodity food stamp plan during 1939-1940.

POSTWAR CHINA: To Need Billions

China must have from five to ten billion dollars to develop a postwar economy, Foreign Minister T. V. Song has reported to the People's Republic Council in Chungking.

The Foreign Ministry is working to establish contacts with the Chinese government.

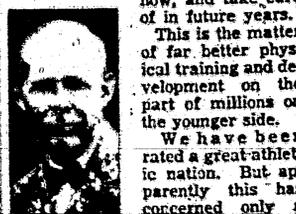

The Council of India's demands for independence from British rule is of deep concern to China. The Prime Minister is deeply concerned with the fate of China's Song.

CARGO PLANES: Year Contract

Andrew J. Higgins and New York's Higgins Aircraft Co. have been awarded a year contract for 1,000 cargo planes to be built in the next year.

THERE are enough problems confronting the country today without trying to dig up any new ones. But there is one we should meet now, and take care of in future years.

Grantland Rice

When you find, for example, that out of some 3,000 young recruits over 2,500 have taken practically no part in sport—that most of these barely can chin themselves; that they can't box, wrestle, swim, play baseball or football with any skill; that they are chummy—you begin to get part of the answer.

I know of one district where, out of 81 draftees, 66 were turned down on the physical side earlier in the war. There is something entirely out of focus with our form of athletic life.

The Younger Side

What this country must have is enforced athletic training, nationwide, from the ages of 12 to 18. Above all, it should include hiking, running, jumping and swimming.

Before the war we were facing a legless country, where kids live on wheels.

The program also should include such competitions as boxing and wrestling, basketball and baseball. A rough, body-contact game, such as football, should not be compulsory before 15 or 16. Kicking, passing and touch football at 16 is nicely—not hard tackling or blocking.

I believe that Texas, for example, overdoes high-school football. Too many hard games for underdeveloped kids can do more harm than good. Six or seven games a season for those under 18 or 19 is quite enough.

But Texas, at least, has erred on the right side. In too many other states the kids are under- and over-trained.

An Example

I got an eyeful of this poor condition while walking around with Lieut. Jack Dempsey of the coast guard. The coastguardmen were volunteers. There were several thousand from all over the map. They were keen, dead game, willing. But most of them had known little physical training before they came to camp. I'd say about four out of five.

As Jack pointed out: "They're terrible a balling. But many of them don't know their left hand from their right hand when they first come here, and they have a hard time obtaining themselves just once."

I never saw a more willing bunch though. They just never had a chance to learn. It's a shame we've had an athletic system that developed a comparatively few stars, instead of giving every kid a chance. It means a lot in more ways than one, and I don't mean on the physical side alone, which, of course, is important. There's also the mental side, which means self-confidence.

A young fellow who can handle himself also believes in himself, the ex-claim went on. "If he can fight a little, wrestle a little, swim or play some game fairly well, his head is up. But when he knows he is no good at any game, it is only natural that he has no confidence in himself."

Youth Training

So few today are a part of a program of athletic training for all between the ages of 12 and 18. After that they're on their own.

The training is almost any sport, will help develop stamina, speed, a certain amount of skill and self-confidence.

There are no other developing exercises than walking, running, swimming, jumping and climbing.

For best exercise use a small rubber ball—or any small object—to be gripped and squeezed in developing finger strength. Ask Lally Stone or Charles Kellner about this.

In the way of competitive games there are basketball, baseball, track, football, track and field, swimming.

Scoring Rules

We never yet have been able to set any limit in the scoring rules or regulations whereby long runs or touchdowns are not scored as first downs also. If a back runs 25 yards and is stopped, he requires a first down. If he runs 50 yards and scores, there is no first down.

A COURAGEOUS young man received the honor due him recently when the National League's most valuable player award for 1942 went to Morton Cecil Cooper, the big righthanded pitching ace of the amazing St. Louis Cardinals.

The award signaled a remarkable recovery by Cooper from an operation performed last summer on his elbow. The operation was a desperate—and successful—effort to prolong his pitching career.

The 28-year-old hurler from Missouri, who won 22 games to lead the Redbirds into the World Series and eventual world's championship, was named by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America. He received 13 of the committee's 24 first place votes and 263 out of a possible 336 points in the balloting. He was the only player whose name appeared on every ballot.

The rating was determined solely on the basis of the regular season. His rather unhappy experience in the series—when he was twice lambasted by the Yankees—did not enter into the balloting. Nor did the fact that he was knocked out of the box in the first inning of the All-Star game influence the voting.

Behind him in second place with 200 points was Enos "Country" Slaughter, Cards' slugging right fielder, who barely nosed out Mel Ott, manager of the New York Giants. These three and Martin Marion, Cardinal shortstop, were the only players to receive first place votes.

All Around Value

The award is based on the all-around value of a player to his club, as well as his individual performance. Ott, Slaughter and Marion deserved consideration—they were strong candidates for the top honor.

Cooper pitched the entire game in every contest that he won, and led the majors in shutouts with 10. The last mark is the greatest number of shutouts a National League hurler has achieved since 1933.

Manager Billy Southworth gave him the toughest, most important pitching assignments, so his 22 victories came the hard way. It was largely through his success that the Cards were sparked to success in the stretch battle with the Dodgers.

MORT COOPER

Cooper's selection climaxed an uphill battle. The arm ailment about the middle of the 1941 season apparently cut short his career as a major leaguer after three years of no more than mediocre success with the Cards. Last year he won 13 games and lost nine, even though out of action during a large part of the campaign. This was the most victories he had won in three years with the Cards. He gambled on an operation. The outcome is evidenced by his way through the National League this past season.

It is interesting to note that his 133 record brought him one vote for third place—good for eight points—in the 1941 balloting that gave Delph Carlin of the Dodgers the valuable player award.

Slaughter was ranked somewhere in the first 18 selections by 21 of the baseball writers, and Ott by 22. Mickey Owen, aggressive catcher for Brooklyn, came in fourth with 133 points.

Incidentally, Cooper is sure that the 13 votes he received for first place must have some special significance. During the Cardinals' summer campaign he couldn't get past his 13th victory while the No. 11 was on his stomach. He discarded the number and started a winning streak.

SPORT SHORTS

Ed Walsh of the Chicago White Sox pitched in 56 games in 1942.

Steve Dimec graduates select a player of the day after each game and he is given a scroll and $5 was paid upon graduation.

Travis Miller Knapp, 28, pitcher in the touring team on the Illinois football squad. He finished with 100 points in 1942.

Joseph Chisholm, former big league catcher, was responsible for 700 base runs in catching 100 games with Minneapolis this season.

FOR years Hollywood has complained that there were too many extras for too few jobs. Now it begins to look as if the shoe might be put on the other foot. For the extras are getting jobs in war plants. The other day at Columbia they were shooting a big banquet scene for "The Power of the Press" with Lee Tracy, Gloria Gibson, Guy Kibbee and Otto Kruger. There were also 150 dressed-up extras—and practically all of them were studying books on welding, die sinking, etc., between shots.

PREPAREDNESS by the AMERICAN RED CROSS

A NATION at war must guard its health. One sure guard, and one of the best forms of preparedness is proper diet.

Since World War I, the American Red Cross has offered the nation's housewives nutrition courses, designed to teach both men and women how to eat and keep well and strong. But Americans felt that since they were the best fed people of the world, they must also be the best nourished. In that belief they were mistaken.

The army reported that one-third of all applicants for war service were being rejected because of poor health—bad teeth, heart trouble, poor eyesight, skin diseases—all traceable to undernourishment. America's mothers and housewives were shocked into action.

Within the past year, more than 250,000 women have won Red Cross Food and Nutrition certificates by attending these courses held by Red Cross chapters in more than 1,850 counties throughout the United States.

In these Food and Nutrition courses, women learned the importance of preparing and serving the right amounts of the right kinds of foods—foods which contained the needed health protective qualities to keep their husbands fit for jobs in the shipyards, the farms, the mines, the steel mills, and to build their children into physically stronger Americans.

Uncle Phil Says:

The Unattainable Lures
There's no such thing as the biggest half in spite of the fact that we all want it.

Too many people who talk about war aims have concrete opinions—thoroughly mixed and permanently set.

The father of a bright baby is always ready and willing to concede that smartness is hereditary.

It is necessary that the who commands well should have at some time obeyed.

They're More Vital
Some men need so much more self-restraint than others.

It isn't more optimism we want, but more hop-to-it-ism.

Habit may be either good or bad, depending upon whether you rule it or it rules you.

You'll never get a reputation for generosity by sharing your troubles with your friends.

Subconscious Training

The ease with which the subconscious mind can train itself is illustrated by the case of a certain somnambulist, reports Collier's. The man placed a tub of cold water beside his bed when retiring so he would step into it and be awakened when starting his nightly sleepwalks.

The plan worked successfully a few times and then his subconscious mind began to make him get out on the other or "safe" side of the bed.

IRENE DUNNE

it. She's had a lot of stage experience in Canada and England, and is a leading radio actress, with beauty and talent to burn. Several movie companies have been dickering with her, and why not—last year she won the Drama League's award for the season's most distinguished performance.

When the Red Cross army and navy nurses who were feted at Abbott and Costello's roller-skating party left for foreign duty they took with them a book of radio scripts from the comics—material for the soldiers' own entertainments.

Raymond Massey played a touching farewell scene, his biggest one, when, in Warner's "Action in the North Atlantic," he bade good-by to his wife, played by Ruth Gordon. When the picture's done he'll join the Royal Canadian army as a major; he was an officer with them in the last war.

If you're homesick for the dear old days of vaudeville you mustn't miss Metro's "For Me and My Gal," with Judy Garland and Gene Kelly. It'll send you away singing the old songs. Judy and Kelly will do "Anchors Away" after she finishes "Girl Crazy."

"My Sister Eileen," with Rosalind Russell, Brian Aherne and Janet Blair, is as funny as the stage play, which is saying a lot. Even though the Hays office stepped on the script—but lightly—it hasn't lost much. Don't miss it!

Since Esther Williams finished work in "Andy Hardy Steps Out" she's been waiting so sorely for her next assignment that somebody asked her how she did it. "When I was badly defeated at my first swimming meet," said she, "my mother said, 'Remember, you have to lose a long time before you win.' And that's practically perfect advice for all young actresses, most of whom need it."

On his return from South America Orson Welles saw his "Journey Into Fear" for the first time in finished form, and set out for Hollywood and the RKO studios to shoot a new ending, inspired by current world and war events. Dolores Del Rio heads the cast.

ODDS AND ENDS—John Tyra, young baritone of the St. Louis Municipal Opera company, gets the role of "Ravenel" in the re-make of "Show Boat" at Metro. . . . Alan Hale says he gets 96 miles to a gallon of gasoline in his bike scooter. . . . So Director Lloyd Bacon has bought one. . . . Olivia de Havilland studied First Aid for scenes in "Princess O'Rourke"—and then learned that she was to be the victim. . . . There's a scarcity of artificial hair these days, so Warner Bros. ordered atmosphere and bit players for "The Adventures of Mark Twain" to grow their own beards. . . . Chester Morris heads a troupe which stages weekly shows at service camps.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

In the home, plants give off moisture through the leaves, from the surface of the soil, and from the pot itself if it is of the porous type, so provide sand, sphagnum moss or similar material, to keep the pots moist. And, if possible, keep the temperature down to below 68 degrees.

It is not usually advisable to let prepared but uncooked vegetables stand for any time in water; it frequently causes a loss of mineral content.

When unsalted fats are used to replace butter or margarine in baking, additional salt may be needed.

Broiled vegetables brown better when dipped in salad oil or melted butter.

Take some garden soil, mix in some compost and fertilizer, and put it away where it won't freeze. Then next winter or next spring when you want to do some extra potting of plants, you will have some nice soil ready.

When painting a room the following hints may be found useful: Don't be in a hurry to finish; put down old newspapers before work and remove all curtains and hangings; keep handy a rag soaked in turpentine to wipe off "mistakes"; start painting in the darkest corner of the room and work toward the light; don't drown your brush—immerse it about half an inch; use a piece of stout cardboard with a straight edge to protect woodwork or wall that it is not desired to splash.

A Gentle Way to Treat Constipation!

Get up and cheer, constipation sufferers! If you are one of the millions of people with normal intestines who suffer due to lack of "bulk" in the diet—here's news of a gentler, pleasanter way to win welcome relief!
You see, many medicinal laxatives prod the intestines into action or draw moisture into them from other parts of the body. But KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, a crisp, delicious cereal, acts quite differently. It works principally on the contents of your colon, helping you to have easy and normal elimination. Eat it often and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped, by this simple treatment, see your doctor.

COVENANT AS TO FRANCHISE—For the further protection of the holder or holders from time to time of said refunding revenue bonds, the Village and its Board of Trustees covenant and agree with the holders of said bonds and the Trustee named herein that the Village will, in the event of default in the payment of the interest accruing on or the principal becoming due on said refunding revenue bonds and the institution of proceedings to foreclose the deed of trust herein provided for, grant a franchise for a term of twenty-five years for the benefit of the holder or holders of said bonds or the receiver appointed on such foreclosure or the purchaser upon foreclosure sale as the case may be, such franchise shall be reasonable in its terms and the conditions under which the public utility shall there after be privately operated. It is expressly understood that this franchise is presently granted by the Village to take effect upon the occurrence of the condition that proper foreclosure proceedings are duly begun in the District Court and the franchise shall become immediately effective for the benefit of the receiver appointed by the Court and thereafter for the benefit of the purchaser upon foreclosure sale. The franchise herein granted, however, is subject to and conditional upon the approval by the Court or any other agency of the state which may be given jurisdiction over such matters and shall not become operative until such approval is secured. In event that said franchise is not approved the Village covenants to give a franchise which shall conform with the requirements of Session Laws of 1941, Chapter 185, Sections 3 and 4.

Section 9. FORM OF DEED OF TRUST AND FRANCHISE—The Deed of Trust and the Franchise herein provided for shall be respectively in the form hereto annexed as Exhibits "C" and "D" hereof which are hereby incorporated by reference herein and expressly made a part hereof.

Section 10. ORDINANCE IRREPEALABLE—This ordinance is a contract with Holders of the refunding revenue bonds hereby authorized to be issued and shall not be repealed until said bond issue has been paid and satisfied in full both as to interest and principal.

This ordinance after its passage shall be recorded in Village Book of Ordinances kept for that purpose, authenticated by the signatures of the Mayor and Clerk, shall be published in a newspaper of general circulation in said Village, and shall go into effect five (5) days after its publication. Adopted and approved this 24th day of January, 1942.

Trucks Now Rolling Over Alaskan Highway

U. S. troops and supplies are now rolling into Alaska over the Alaska Highway (Alcan), which was finished months ahead of schedule. The 1,600-mile road ends at Fairbanks. Photos show (right), a bulldozer knocking a trail through virgin forest; lower left, a "carry-all" puts the finishing touches to a section of the highway as trucks bring up gravel for surfacing; upper left, scenic view of the Alcan as it winds through the Yukon. Circle: Brig. Gen. William Hoge and Maj. E. J. Stann, executive officer, discuss route at Whitehorse.

Uncle Sam's Watch Dogs of Sea and Sky

In lower picture three 20-mm. anti-aircraft machine guns chatter out a song of potential death and destruction as their crack crews man them during gunnery practice on a U. S. airplane carrier. (Inset): The TO-16 hovers watchfully overhead as two U. S. navy batllewarsons plow through the seas off the American coast. Navy blimps are becoming increasingly popular for patrol and escort work along the coast.

Captured in Battle With British Corvette

In a midnight Atlantic ocean battle the corvette Dianthus rammed and sank a U-boat which had been imperiling United Nations supply lines. After the U-boat was blown to the surface with depth charges the Dianthus rammed it four times. A number of German prisoners were plucked up by the Dianthus, which rejoined her convoy in time to rescue survivors from a torpedoed merchant ship. Here are some of the U-boat prisoners disembarking from HMS Dianthus at a British port.

Court's in Order on U. S. Carrier

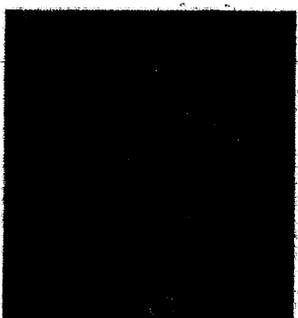

The court of Neptune Rex, ruler of the Eagle Main, convenes on the deck of a U. S. aircraft carrier as the ship nears the equator. While the court prepared to convert "pollywogs" (men who have never crossed the line) into shallopets, other members of the crew keep a sharp lookout for the enemy.

THE TRIAL OF ADOLF HITLER

Bailiff—Mr. Schickelgruber to the bar!
Hitler—You can't do this to me! A Voice—Wanna bet?

Q.—What is your occupation?
A.—I was a paper hanger until I gave it up.
Q.—Why did you give it up?
A.—My wall paper selections drove the customers crazy.
Q.—Why didn't you let them make their own selections?
A.—I wanted to be boss of everything, even then.

Q.—You also did some oil painting, did you not?
A.—Yes, but that's not among the crimes I'm being tried for, I hope.

Q.—It should be. You also were an architect?
A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Did you have any clients?
A.—Not after they saw my blueprints.

Q.—When did you decide to give up honest ways of making a living and found a new order?
A.—One day when I looked into a full-length mirror.

Q.—What happened to influence you?
A.—I saw a reflection of Napoleon.

Q.—Only one?
A.—Sometimes I wonder.

Q.—To what do you attribute your rapid rise to complete domination of the German people? Was it something you ate?
A.—No. It was something THEY ate.

Q.—Where were you on the night of August 31, 1939?
A.—Ach, if I could only forget it!

Q.—Why did you invade Poland?
A.—It was not an invasion; it was counter-attack with pursuit.

Q.—Do you still think anybody here will believe that one?
A.—No, but it's my only chance.

Q.—You also attacked Belgium, Holland, Norway and other small nations in violation of treaties. You are charged with the bombing of defenseless towns, wanton destruction of shrines, schools and great historic sites, machine-gunning refugees, the murder of hospital inmates and general barbarism. What is your plea?
A.—I deny everything.

Q.—On what basis?
A.—On the grounds a cooked goose can't depend on its memory.

Q.—You signed a pact of friendship with Russia and then stabbed her in the back without warning. What about that?
A.—When I sign a pact of friendship it should be warning enough!

Q.—Won't you please cease being arrogant, insolent, boastful and altogether offensive?
A.—I'm not being arrogant, insolent, etc.; it's just my radio manner.

Judge—That reminds me; I think the prisoner's radio speeches should be added to his crimes.

Q.—Do you remember that speech where you said you would never take off your uniform until you had licked the world? Whatever became of that uniform?
A.—After four years without being removed it became so infested with cooties that I became the world's outstanding subject for delousing by unanimous consent.

Judge—I think we have heard enough. The jury will retire for ten seconds and reach a verdict.
Hitler—No jury ever reached a verdict in ten seconds.
Judge—This one will.

STRAIGHT MAN
A man I like is Marshal Smuts—He never deals in "ifs" and "buts."

Well, those bundists convicted and on their way to serve prison terms, were all shown in the newspaper photographs, grinning if not keering at the rest of us as if it were all a very funny matter with quite a light and airy side. Which renews Elmer Twichell's campaign to Cease Glorifying Indefensible Grinning. If there is anything that offends most Americans it is these snapshots of all sorts of law breakers, leering while police and court officials stand about smiling sweetly, too. What's the laugh? It escapes us.

Woman's Rights Champion

THE recent election of Mrs. Myra Bradwell to the Editor's Hall of Fame at the University of Illinois, because she was the first woman to become a member of the Illinois Press association, was an event of more than local significance. For Mrs. Bradwell, the able editor of the Chicago Legal News who was three times elected vice president of the state press association, was also an attorney and as such she became a national figure as one of the pioneers in the fight for equal rights for women.

Born in Manchester, Vt., on February 12, 1831, Myra Colby emigrated to Illinois in the early 1840s. She was educated at a "ladies seminary" in Elgin, Ill., where she later became a teacher.

After teaching school for a time in Memphis, Tenn., she returned to Chicago where she met and married Judge B. Bradwell. With no idea of becoming a practitioner, she began studying law under the tutelage of her husband. Later she decided that she might be a valuable assistant to Judge Bradwell in his business, so she applied herself vigorously to her studies and passed the Illinois bar examinations. But she had to obtain a formal license, since the Illinois statutes provided that no "person" could practice law in the state without obtaining a license from two of the justices of the supreme court. Therefore in 1872 she presented her application and was surprised to learn that she was not a "person."

As a married woman, Mrs. Bradwell could not make a contract, the court said. Since she could not make a contract, she was not a person! "And, even if the legislature did not exclude women from the practice of law, it must have intended to do so because we adopted the common law of England and for a woman to have entered the courts of Westminster hall as a barrister would have created hardly less astonishment than if she should be elected to the house of commons" the learned justices continued.

But Myra Bradwell was not convinced by this logic. She cited the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, enacted four years earlier, which said that no law could abridge the privileges and immunities of a citizen of the United States. She was a citizen of the United States, then why should her privilege to practice law be abridged? Evidently the Illinois justices didn't recognize the Fourteenth amendment for they refused to grant her a license.

Thereupon Mrs. Bradwell sued out a writ of error against the state of Illinois in the Supreme court of the United States. Her case was argued by United States Senator Matt. Carpenter of Wisconsin, but the Supreme court not only upheld and approved the ruling of the Illinois court but made some additions of its own. Instead of only one opinion being handed down, there were many affirming the decision.

However one was different. At the conclusion of all the opinions was this notation: "The Chief Justice, Samuel Portland Chase, dissented from the judgment of the Court, and from all the opinions." But that was small satisfaction to Myra Bradwell. She had appealed to the highest court in the land for justice and it had been refused. She never again renewed her application for a license to practice law. Several years later she was much surprised to receive a certificate of admission from the Illinois supreme court, the very court that had first refused her original application! Thus she also became the first woman member of the Illinois Bar association.

Mrs. Bradwell established the Chicago Legal News, the publication which won her membership in the Illinois Press association, in 1860. It was the first weekly legal newspaper ever published in the western states and Mrs. Bradwell was both its editor and business manager for many years. The Illinois state legislature gave her a special charter for her paper and passed several acts making its contents evidence in the courts and a valid medium for the publication of legal notices. She was also "a leader in promoting professional ideals in journalism."

Record War Bond Sales Is Goal Of Women At War Week Nov. 22

WASHINGTON, D. C.—America's women in the cities and on the farms—in war factories and in their homes—are determined to make Women At War Week the greatest War Bond selling effort since Pearl Harbor.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt sounded the keynote for the Treasury Department's Women At War Week, Nov. 22 to 23, with an appeal to women to save on "Little Savings" to provide money for War Bonds.

"We women want to do our part of the strenuous job because unless we do, we will not be able to face the men when they return and claim our share of the future responsibility for building a peaceful world," the First Lady declared.

The overall direction of Women At War Week rests with the Women's Section of the War Savings Staff under the leadership of Miss Harriet Elliott, Associate Field Director, and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., Chief of the Special Activities Unit.

From coast to coast women in every community have made plans for torchlight parades, fashion shows, teas, rallies, window displays, Stamp and Bond booths, pageants, civic sings, balls and Mardi Gras.

In each locality administration of the one week drive rests with the local War Savings Committee which has worked out activities adapted to their areas.

Mrs. Morgenthau, in a special message for Women At War Week, declared that the spirit of America's pioneer women lives today more strongly than ever.

"The average American woman began to rise to new heights on Sunday, Dec. 7, 1941," Mrs. Morgenthau said. "This winter the average American woman will be spending less in order to save more to invest in War Bonds and Stamps. She will not please God, ever have to fire a gun or fly a bomber. But she will, please God, always do everything she can to help buy anything—and the best of everything—that fires or flies or floats in this terrible war."

Merion Hunt, S. P. water serviceman of Three Rivers, was a business visitor here the first of the week and made this office a friendly call.

Wm. Thomas of the Thomas Garage in Corona was a business visitor in town the first of the week and while here, was a pleasant caller at this office.

Water Superintendent and Mrs. Floy Sklener of Nogal were business visitors here Monday. While in town Amigo Mlo Floy made this office a friendly visit.

Mrs. Margaret English and small son Frank Charles are in Tucumcari, where Mrs. English is employed as bookkeeper for a large lumber firm, we understand. Mrs. English, who was very popular in musical and civic affairs of a local nature, will be sadly missed. She has a glorious voice—and knows how to use the same.

Our old friend John Scharf is ill this week.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Keller and small son Jackie of Roswell were here on a deer hunt as guests of Jack Cleghorn, leaving for home with a 204-pound deer.

Mr. and Mrs. John Dale of Ancho were shoppers here this Monday. While in town, Mr. Dale made this office a friendly visit.

Ex-Sheriff A. S. McCamant, formerly of Corona but now located in Roswell, was here Wednesday and made this office a friendly call.

Mrs. Clyde Adams, nee Miss Irma Poage, of Lamers, Texas, wrote this office an interesting letter this week. The Adams operate a Jewelry store and report business excellent. Mrs. Adams is expecting a visit from her mother Mrs. Stearns this week. She sends best regards to her many friends here.

A nice letter was received this week from Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kennedy, who own a beautiful ranch in the mountains near that Jicarilla.

Postmaster and Mrs. J. L. Graves of Nogal were shoppers in town today, Friday.

HOGS SHOULD BE MARKETED AT HEAVY WEIGHT

Farmers in Lincoln County can help meet the national pork war goals by marketing this year's pigs at heavy weights. All the pork and lard American farmers can produce is needed in the national war effort.

Special hog rations and protein supplements can be used to get faster gains and to make grain go farther. Studies by the Department of Agriculture reveal that five to six bushels of corn fed with 50 pounds of protein supplements will add as much weight to a hog in less time than 10 bushels of corn fed alone.
