A CHRISTMAS RETROSPECT

I am what the mortal mind would call, an old man, yet I am a firm believer in Santa Claus, I hope the day will never come when my eyes fail to brighten and my heart refuses to quicken when the Christmas season rolls around.

I never want to forget the anxiety and gladness I felt when I went to the stockings on Christmas morning. May I always remember kindly eyes, fond embraces and kisses on those mornings of my early childhood. Gifts in those days of long ago, were not plentiful, but they were frugal tributes of tender love, gleamed from the scant returns of honest toil and self sacrifice. We are all but children of an older growth, and just as we retain the honest instincts of childhood will we continue to be tender-hearted.

To my many friends among what the world calls the old men, just a word on Christmas time, we have all met with reverses, but as old as you are, don't let it get you. Remember that repeated disappointments of times serve as stepping stones to success, but success depends on how many disappointments you can stand. Stay with it brother, remember that a winner never quits and a quitter never wins.

Business Men's Club

Minutes of the meeting of the Carrizozo Business Men's Club held at the S. P. Hotel, Dec. 23. 11 members present and no visitors. Pres. A. L. Burke, presiding. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Chairman Sabino Viduarri reported on the activities of the Christmas fund for the Churches Committee. The Committee was acclaimed by the Club for having received the largest donation yet received for this purpose. Rev. Klassen thanked the Club on behalf of the Methodist Church and a card of thanks from the Sisters of St. Rita school was read by the secretary.

Motion made by H. E. Kelt that the club extend season greetings by publication to the people of Lincoln county was seconded by John E. Hall and carried.

Season's Greetings from Lt. John Paul Jones of the Army was gratefully acknowledged by the Club.

This being the night for the Church Christmas Tree, the Club President A. L. Burke adjourned the meeting early so that the members could attend the programs.

Felix Ramey,
Acting Sec'y.

News of 1942 Tells of Churchbells in England, Gray Hair, 'Steaming Stars,' and a Breath Holder

By CLIFF LANGE
Released by Western Newspaper Union.
During the past year news of the Allies battling the Axis, war production, conscription, wage-price-labor control measures, all have shoved many stories to the back pages.

JANUARY
Dr. Howard E. Wilson in an address in New York city said that most Americans are guilty of "geographic illiteracy" and that Hitler's successes were made possible because of his knowledge of the geography and economics of the nations he intended taking under his "protection."

Later on two Boston, Mass., doctors, Herbert D. Adams and Lee V. Hand reported that a man, operated on for a lung ailment, whose heart had stopped beating for 20 minutes, was brought back to life and in good condition. They had kept his brain and the rest of the body supplied with oxygen.

FEBRUARY
Many of you have seen in the movies, or heard on the radio the personality known as the "Voice of Experience." He was Marion Sayle Taylor. "Was" is the correct verb, for he died February 1 at the age of 53, from a heart attack, in Hollywood.

In a middle of the month meeting, Dr. John W. Studebaker, U. S. commissioner of education, told a meeting of 1,500 educators in the East that schools must modify their course of studies. Schools should add technical courses, stress health education and Latin America.

Down in Puebla, Mexico, the Astrophysical congress was told that the Milky Way system is 180 million billion miles from the sun. Scientists meeting at Columbia university, New York, were told by Prof. Roger Williams, University of Texas, that an abundant supply of vitamins promotes "intellectual keenness" and also are "capable of fostering morality."

MARCH
Hold your breath on this one: Eugene J. Frechette Jr., 29, New Haven, Conn., junior at Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., brought honors to his Alma Mater by establishing a record by holding his breath for 20 minutes, 5 seconds in a laboratory test. OK, let out your breath now. What did your wife say when you told her that one?

These are said to be the graves of four of the six Nazi saboteurs who landed on Long Island and Florida beaches. Neither friends nor relatives claimed the bodies.

APRIL
Somehow or other, as the files are scanned of this year's news, it seems that vitamins received more than usual amount of news-coverage. For instance: The para-aminobenzoic acid of the vitamin B complex known as folic acid, (easier to say, too) was given to 30 gray-haired prison inmates. It restored the original color of the hair in more than two-thirds of the cases in eight months. The "libido" in almost all of the cases, varying in age from 20 to 37, was greatly increased.

Dramatic Critic's Selection of 10 Best Plays
Baron Munchausen, New York Daily News drama critic, listed the following as his choice for the 10 best plays of the season, ending June: "Junior Miss," by Jerome Kohn; "The Time to Come," by Howard Koch and John Huston; "The Moon Is Down," by John Steinbeck; "Angel Street," by Patrick Hamilton; "Juno," by Eugene O'Neill; "The Iceman Cometh," by Eugene O'Neill; "The Skin of Our Teeth," by Thornton Wilder; "The Sign of the Cross," by Robert C. Brown.

GASOLINE RATION CARD

If you haven't got one of these cards, you aren't driving your car—at least legally.

MAY
Here are a few of the Pulitzer Prize winners, as announced by Columbia university: Meritorious public service by a newspaper prize went to the Los Angeles Times; best national reporting award went to Louis Stark of the New York Times; local reporting prize to Stanton Delaplane of the San Francisco Chronicle; Ellen Glasgow's novel, "In This Our Life" also took first award.

JUNE
According to the U. S. census bureau, more than 24 million persons 25 years old, or older, completed at least eight years of grade or elementary school. More than 18 million in the same classification had finished high school.

JULY
Russian composer Shostakovich's Seventh symphony which he dedicated "to our struggle against Fascism, to our future victory, to my native city, Leningrad" was heard for the first time in the U. S. when played by the NBC symphony orchestra conducted by Arturo Toscanini in New York city.

AUGUST
This sounds as though it is not meant to be, but it is all in earnest. A witness, known only as Mr. Murray, testified before a senate military sub-committee on making concrete cargo-carrying submarines to save steel. In case you have doubts, remember that Sen. Josh Lee said he is convinced of the plan's feasibility.

SEPTEMBER
Along comes this month and you are told, according to London AP reports, an unpublished Sherlock Holmes story, "The Man Who Was Wanted," was found by Adrian Conan Doyle, son of the writer. He said his father didn't want it published because it just wasn't up to "scratch."

OCTOBER
The Sister Elizabeth Kenny method of treating infantile paralysis by hot applications, massage and exercise, which has caused so much furor in the medical world, is to be taught in six New York hospitals. Sister Elizabeth Kenny, an Australian, is director of a University of Minnesota clinic.

NOVEMBER
As for Stalin, over in war-torn Russia, things might have seemed a little brighter when he was told that Sergei, acting Patriarch, has conferred the official blessing of the Russian Orthodox Church on him. Sergei is a native of Polish territory taken over by the Russians. Josef Stalin was called "the divine" and "the leader of our armed and cultural forces."

DECEMBER
Charles Van Hefty, a Chicago war plant engineer, served as an example to hundreds of other motorists in that city, and cities all over the nation. He had hoarded 25 gallons of gasoline just before the recent gas rationing went into effect. Neighbors kicked. Police investigated. Firemen supervised his pouring the gas down the sewer while they shot streams of water after it. Hefty was out 16 bucks.

DYNAMIC CHRISTIAN LIVING
LESSON TEXT—Romans 12:1-3, 9-21.
GOLDEN TEXT—Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good.—Romans 12:21.

Dynamic—there is a word with an attraction for both young and old. It speaks of power, but not just brute force. There is personality with its winsomeness, challenge, accomplishment, all around attractiveness and usefulness as the essential element of this kind of power.

It may surprise some of us to hear that this is the kind of life every Christian may, and ought, to live, by the grace of God. Not that each one will have the gifts of leadership, or the personal qualifications which mark some for places of public service, but that each may have divine power working in and through his life.

Such a life can be lived only as God's power is able to flow through a surrendered life. This must begin in the individual, and in the depth of his own heart. Then it will appear in his relationship to his brethren in the church, and ultimately in his life in the world.

I. In the Heart (vv. 1-3).
It is only the believer who is ready to serve God. The unregenerate man needs cleansing, not consecration. Having that, he is ready for the transforming work of God which will bring him out into a place of freedom and spiritual strength. Notice that this is brought about by an act of the will. We are to present ourselves as a living sacrifice. That is our part, God will respond in blessing.

Conformity to this world (v. 2) is the blight on the church and on the individual believer which so hampers the work of Christ in the world today. The worldly Christian is an anomaly.

The call then is for non-conformity to the world and surrender to the transforming grace of God. Then there will be both true humility (v. 3) and full confidence in God's power.

II. In the Church (vv. 9-16).
The dynamic living of the Christian is not something to be paraded before the world, a thing of which we may be proud. It begins, as we have seen, in the heart, and then gives itself in gracious, affectionate, earnest living within other believers.

FIRST-AID to the 'AILING HOUSE'

By ROGER B. WHITMAN
BRASS BEDS, NO LONGER POPULAR, CAN BE MODERNIZED

BRASS and metal beds are no longer as popular as they used to be, and are likely to "date" a room that would otherwise be modern in effect. One way to modernize them is to cover the head and foot with slip covers, preferably matching the curtains and upholstery. Another idea is to make use of sheets of thin plywood cut to size and shape, and covered with quilted fabric. Some of the large department stores have something of this sort in stock. It is usually possible to cut a high head, although to many people, a high head is an advantage for reading in bed. The metal on a brass bed is usually so thin that it can easily be cut with a hacksaw, or even a triangular file. Strength and stiffness is given by the rods within. These also can be sawed off. A strip of wood going from side to side can be fitted without much difficulty, and will supply any stiffness that may have been lost through removing the metal. In many designs the brass pieces are held only by screwed ornaments at the top. With these removed, the rods within can be cut off to any desired height. Paint or enamel is an appropriate finish, and no sign will be left of the original effect. The first step in this should be to rub the metal with sandpaper for the cleaning of the surface and also to provide a "tooth" to which the first coat can make a good bond. All possible traces of grease can be taken off by wiping with turpentine.

Watering the Furnace
Question: Water was heard coming down between the walls of my flat, and in the basement I found water dripping from all the pipes leading from the hot air furnace to the second floor apartment. On asking the tenant what she was doing, she explained that she was pouring buckets of water into each register to clean out the pipes, because of the dust that was coming into them. By doing this she has damaged the furnace and the pipes? As the pipes are tin, will they rust? Did the water go into the furnace?

Answer: That certainly was a most improper way to attempt to clean out the pipes. However, as the system was warm, the water that remained in the pipes would quickly evaporate. Some might get into the furnace, but it would be only into the air jacket, and I should think would quickly soak through the floor and be absorbed.

Government Publications
Question: You have spoken of Price List No. 72 of Government Publications. Does this cover all pamphlets put out by the government?

Answer: No; it lists only those covered by its title, "Publications of Interest to Suburbanites and Home Owners." There are many more price lists of publications, covering history, geography, wild life, commerce, agriculture, and all of the other subjects in which the various government departments are interested. These can be had on request from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C., without charge.

Chimney Lining
Question: The flue lining of my chimney fell apart. The man who cleaned away the pieces said that with an oil burner a flue lining was not needed. Should the chimney be relined?

Answer: It is not needed if your oil burner is properly adjusted, and if the chimney itself is tight and in good condition. If the mortar has begun to drop out and there are leaks, you will get an odor of oil through the house. If you have any doubts, you will do well to have the chimney relined.

Box Elder Bugs
Question: In the fall, box elder bugs come into the house and fast through the winter. Do they come down the chimney?

Answer: They may, but are much more likely to get in through open joints around insect screens and elsewhere. They are likely to appear in swarms in a house. When that happens, take them up with a vacuum cleaner, or with a vacuum sweeper, and burn.

Galvanized Gutters
Question: Galvanized gutters were installed on our house two months ago. We were advised not to paint them until spring, because the galvanizing would set into the paint. Is that advisable?

Answer: New galvanizing will not hold paint, but can be made to do so by wiping with cider vinegar, followed by washing. Two months' exposure should put the galvanizing into condition for painting without any other treatment.

Amazing Ways to Do Amazing Things Shown in Record of 1942 Accidents

In the topsy turvy year of 1942 one bit of Americana remained unchanged. Unusual accidents kept on happening as usual.

A roundup by the National Safety Council, Chicago, Ill., of dizzy mishaps for the year reveals that war or no war, a lot of people found time to do amazing things in amazing ways. For instance: Sakelesly Boosie Swank of Bridgeton, N. J., tried valiantly to fit a small giraffe on a pump customer. She tagged so hard she was taken to the hospital with a severe back injury. The customer took the giraffe.

Eugene B. Grable of Denver has never been a circus-trapeze performer, but he could be. Washing windows on the seventh floor of the U. S. National Bank building, he started to fall as the bucket on his safety belt gave way. Grable hurried himself backward with such force that he floated through the air with the greatest of ease. Cleared a 16-foot space and landed on his feet atop an adjacent four-story building. He broke both legs, but considered himself lucky. Joe Kocotny of Great Bend, Kan., had stored his car in a garage at Little Rock, Ark., to make an auto trip with a friend. As he and his friend were driving along near Mountain Home, Ark., their car collided head-on with another machine. Both cars were wrecked. When Kocotny crawled from the wreckage and looked at the other car, he saw that it was his own. It had been stolen from the Little Rock garage. Joe got legal "revenge."

Wagon Girl. Wallace D. Smith of Louisville, Ky., was flying an airplane at a low altitude when he saw a girl he thought he knew. He waved at her. She waved back. Flashed and distracted, Pilot Smith saw his plane into a tree top, as absolute light came and another tree top, where he ended his trip. He abandoned down, hurried to the girl to assure her he wasn't hurt. She wasn't the girl he had thought she was, but a total stranger. He was distressed again.

Small Children Need Special Care During Holiday's Excitement

At Christmas time it is generally an accepted thing that each member of the household requires, and should get a handling which is very close to being called "special."

But it is the two-year-olds, or close to that, who really require special handling. Excitement is in the air. Even though excitement is a healthy emotion, too much of it is quite upsetting to the very small child.

For the two-year-old child the toys should be quite simple. The kind that makes them open their eyes wide, enables them to put them to a practical use, will stand a "good beating," and will not be the kind that will frighten or excite them.

Child training specialists, after observing many young children, also suggested that since a small child becomes tired very quickly from excitement, the parent should see that he gets his regular afternoon nap. They say parents won't be doing any kindness by letting him stay up.

Another thing is to prepare for him food which does look festive and different, but which will not put too great a strain on his delicate digestion.

Parents might open the little lady's, or little fellow's, gifts, but it is hinted that it will be the wisest thing to give the little one just one or two of the gifts at a time. Enthusiasm shouldn't be expected over each gift received. It will take time for their little minds to figure out something to do with it, and until they do, it isn't worth much.

Junior's Military Toys

Made Largely of Wood
Santa Claus' helpers anticipate a boom in military toys. You have noticed some of the advertisements and window displays already.

During the past four or five months the busy men at the North Pole have been making Springfield and Garand rifles entirely of wood, wooden machine guns which sound with an uncanny rat-a-tat-tat.

There will be few, very few lead soldiers. Most of them will be made of cardboard and plastics. Instead of the following toys being made from metal, wood will be used instead: Parade guns, cannons, anti-aircraft guns, forts, planes, jeeps, tanks, field ambulances, battleships, submarines and barges for Commandos.

Junior will be in civilian defense, too, when he gets his presents at Christmas time. There will be doctors' and nurses' outfits, air raid warden kits and blackout sets—all made of non-essential materials.

Christmas Cards Traced To Reign of Victoria

One of Queen Victoria's favorite painters, W. C. Dobson, is credited as being the originator of the present-day Christmas card custom. In 1846 he dispatched lithograph copies of a greeting card to his friends.

Prior to the exchanging of cards, Christmas letters were written to one's relatives and acquaintances.

Belief in Future

A little more courage of our storm-driven ancestors would stand us in good stead. I have wondered where the Puritans got their courage. They were strong men with an unshaken belief in God and their destiny. They believed in the future. We, too, must believe in the future of our country. It is worth fighting for. It is worthy of our confidence. Courage and enterprise will win.—Anon.

PREPAREDNESS AMERICAN RED CROSS

THE Junior Red Cross is the American Red Cross in the schools of the nation. It is also the world's largest youth organization, with more than 14,000,000 members in the United States.

The principal duty of the Junior Red Cross in war time is the making of comfort and recreational articles for our service men everywhere. During the past year, Junior Red Cross members made more than 3,000,000 such articles, such as games, recreation room furniture and writing kits.

The Junior Red Cross has also taken a very active part in the making of many essential articles for Civilian Defense organizations throughout the nation. These items included splints, stretchers, and first aid cabinets.

"Earn, buy, make, give," are the four steps all Junior Red Cross members take in raising and using the money they get in their national effort drive. They must earn the money; to buy the materials to make the articles to give to the hospital, army camp or Civilian Defense organization.

Junior Red Cross members have also been very active in salvage campaigns of all kinds throughout the nation, contributing more than half of the salvage gathered by children of school age throughout the country.

In addition to furnishing opportunity to learn by making these articles for service men and others, the Junior Red Cross affords children of school age basic training in civilian preparedness so that they may take their places later on in the volunteer activities of the Red Cross or the Office of Civilian Defense.

Effects of Color

Tests of the effects of color on human beings show that the average man, when asked to guess the comparative size and weight of two identical packages, one wrapped in dark and the other in light paper, will usually state that the dark one looks heavier and smaller than the light one, says Collier's. He will also overestimate a period of time spent in a red room and underestimate it in a blue room.

A Bit on the Humorous Side

Other Pursuits
For the fiftieth time the two rather careful boxers had fallen into a clinch.
"Turn out the lights!" shouted a voice from the gallery. "Them two lovin' hearts want to be alone!"
"Leave the lights alone!" shouted another voice. "I want to read!"

Time Out
An aspiring politician had a speech written for him by a friend, who included instructions in the manuscript for the speaker.
The would-be politician duly delivered himself of the oration and, when loud applause was accorded a statement he read out, he turned over a page and immediately convulsed the audience by adding: "Here, blow your nose and take a drink of water."

Big Game
"Vision and sight ain't the same thing," explained young B Jones to his pal. "Take last Saturday night. The girl I was with was a vision. The girl with you was a sight."

May—Old Mr. Gold is well-off, and if he wasn't such an old grump, I think I'd fish for him myself.
Etta—Fish for him? You mean you'd go bear hunting?

Or Manned
"So you were at Louise and the Lieutenant's wedding? How did the bride look?"
"Remarkably well groomed."

Earned It
Last night I met a chap with a black eye, so I said: "That's a beauty! Who gave it to you?"
"Nobody gave it to me," he said. "I had to fight for it."

That's Moving Up
"I see they're using alcohol to make tires now instead of whisky."
"I see. The effect has changed from reeling to rolling."

Some people are like a broken horn: They just don't give a hoot.

Beyond Capacity
Murphy was paying ten dollars a week for room and board. One day his landlady said to him: "Pat, I'm afraid I'll have to charge you two dollars more. You're such a big eater."
"Oh, no, don't do that!" replied Murphy. "I'm killing myself already tryin' to eat ten dollars' worth."

Household Hints

Beware of bubbles when varnishing. Have the varnish and the work at a temperature of at least 70 degrees and keep the work out of the dust.

Fruit and berry pies with lattice-style tops require less baking time than two-crust pies.

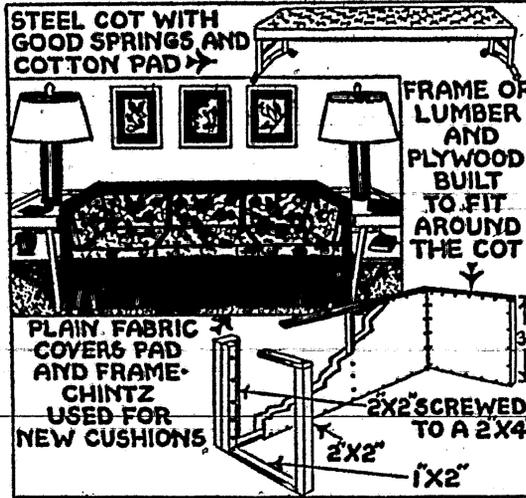

Raisins and Apple Sandwiches. Cover slices of brown bread, first with butter, then with raisins which have been seeded and minced finely. Put two slices together with water-like pieces of juicy apple between.

If a tablecloth is badly stained, rub the stains with ordinary washing blue some time before the cloth is to be washed. Then boil as usual and both blue and stains will disappear.

When washed woolen sweaters should be put in a pillowcase, and the case hung up, open, on the line. This allows the wind to blow through and avoids any chance of the garment shrinking or stretching.

Equip the guest room closet with plenty of hooks and clothes hangers. Add a shopping bag to hold soiled clothing. If a private bath is not connected with the guest room, towel racks on the back of the closet door will prove convenient. A waste basket, clock, ash trays and good lighting equipment for reading and dressing should be included.

THIS good looking davenport gives no hint that its early life was spent as an iron cot with a thin cotton pad. The sketch shows how the frame is made. It is covered with rather heavy green cotton material. The pad of the cot is also covered with this goods and the ruffle across the front is attached to it.

The separate cushions are covered with rose and green chintz and all seams are finished with deep rose cord welting. For the covering 12 1/4 yards of 36-inch wide plain material and six yards of flowered were used and 52 yards of welting at a few cents a yard.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

A single bicycle tire and tube gives rubber enough for the insulation of six Army radio sets.

Just because the synthetic rubber program has been upped to 1,000,000 tons production capacity by the end of 1943, the chances of our owners getting synthetic tires before 1944 have not been increased. We need will take the bulk of the synthetic.

In normal times, say 1940, the average car owner spends only $12 a year for tire and tube replacement. He spent $117 for production and $10 for all out of his annual $190 expenditure for car maintenance, exclusive of heavy repairs.

Picture 16,000 automobile tires and you have an idea of the amount of rubber used in the construction of a battleship—75 tons.

Aftermath of the Gasoline Rationing:

Albuquerque nearly had a riot among the more than 2,000 persons jammed before the rationing board trying to get basic or supplemental ration books for gasoline. Late comers tried to start a new line. Tempers flared and police were called.

At Winslow, Kas., one station manager, along about midnight, sighed and pointed to a cigarette paper with some tobacco sprinkled in it lying on the table. "I laid it there at noon but I haven't had time to roll it yet—How many, Sir?"

The Southwest, where derricks rise in abundance, hasn't accepted gasoline rationing as final.

Dear Santa - Please bring me eight gallons of gas and a New Tire, or a used one. I'm a good Hombre. P. S. - Believe it or not.—Rich Hust, former County Commissioner.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Stop Spending, and Save for the future. That has been good advice since biblical days. You cannot buy tires today, but you can start saving to buy that new set of tires when they go on the market again.

Your regular investment of ten percent or more of your earnings in War Bonds through your Payroll Savings Plan will provide the necessary funds to buy those tires later and help win the war now. Let's "Top that Ten Percent."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Save now to buy later, after the War. That's good common sense because if you spend now, you help to drive prices up for everything you buy. Durable goods are scarce so invest in War Bonds today and do that house remodeling when Victory is won.

If you have not done so, join a Payroll Savings Plan at your office or factory. If you are not investing at least ten percent in War Bonds, increase your regular deductions on your Payroll Savings Plan. Let's "Top that ten percent."

Essential in the equipment of every Soldier, Sailor, Marine or Flyer is a first aid kit, consisting of bandages and antiseptics for instantaneous use. These materials are packed into a compact box and cost about $1.50 each.

We need millions of these first aid kits for emergency treatment. They are also used by Red Cross workers, in field hospitals and wherever needed until hospital treatment may be obtained. Even a child could buy one or more of these kits through purchase of War Stamps. Buy War Bonds and Stamps every pay day and invest at least ten percent of your income in these government securities.

United States soldiers cross a stream in the Gona-Buna area of New Guinea. The occupation of Gona by Allied forces, directed by General MacArthur, left the Japanese pinned down in a narrow strip of coast in the Buna area, 12 miles south.

NORTH AFRICA: Air Battle Grows

Cheering word of ever-increasing Allied air strength in North Africa came from London and the Morocco radio as swarms of American and British planes in Tunisia provided cover for land operations.

Press reports tell of ground commanders telephoning for air coverage "as casually as calling for a taxi."

Chief battleground for the opposing forces had been Tebourba, a strategic junction 30 miles west of Tunisia and 25 miles south of Bizerte.

Continuing efforts were made to extend and equip new airfields from which Allied planes could operate.

On the opposite side of Africa, the British Eighth army was reported allowing Marshal Rommel's army no rest in the El Agheila area.

Generally speaking, news was good. The Red army drove seven miles deeper into enemy lines on the central front near Velikie Luki.

On the central front the Russians attacked with ski troops supported by tanks painted white.

Russian reports said the Nazis were trying not only to smash the Soviet offensive but also to start one of their own.

JAP DEFEAT: In South Pacific

When Allied forces, directed by General MacArthur, occupied the Gona area of New Guinea, the Japs lost the northern anchor of their ever-diminishing beachhead in Papua, which already has been badly sliced by veteran American and Australian jungle fighters.

This new defeat left the Japs hemmed in a narrow coastal strip centering on the Buna area, 12 miles to the south.

First announcement of the Gona victory was made by Prime Minister John Curtin, who gave the news as he was conducting a review of the war before the house of representatives in Canberra, Australia.

The Japs had landed at Gona on July 22 and from that area launched their invasion drive which took them across the Owen Stanley mountain range to within 32 miles of the Allied base at Port Moresby.

COMPLAINTS: From Italy

"Why do the British bomb our towns now instead of German towns? After all it was the Germans who bombed London."

That was one of the many complaints reported originating in Italy during the past 30 days.

But the same sources also report that Italy has little chance of breaking away from German domination and seeking a separate peace.

The almost incessant bombing of Turin, northern Italian industrial center, continued unabated.

CHICAGO: Three Nazi sympathizers, under sentence to die January 23, were granted a stay of execution while the U. S. circuit court of appeals studies the findings of their recent trial.

LONDON: Continuation of the German reign of terror in Bohemia and Moravia was charged by the exiled Czech government, a spokesman for which said that 36 more Czechs had been executed by the Nazis.

WASHINGTON: Newspaper men covering this wartime capital now need about 40 press passes to get them into the various buildings and offices around the city.

NEW ORLEANS: Andrew J. Higgins, shipbuilder extraordinary, is definitely going to build 1,300 cargo planes for the U. S. army.

STRATEGY: Nazis First

Much interest throughout the United Nations has long centered on the broad or general plan for defeating the Axis.

One of the most recent explanations of such strategy, and one of more plausible presentations of it is that advanced by Prime Minister John Curtin of Australia.

Thus the campaign in the South Pacific and on the Australian continent becomes one of a "holding" action.

He pointed out that the closest co-operation exists between the Australian government, General MacArthur and Admiral Chester Nimitz, commander of the U. S. fleet in the Pacific.

CANNED FOOD: New Restrictions

America's housewives are finding less and less use for their can openers.

Many canned foodstuffs are eliminated for civilian consumption for the duration upon a new order of the War Production board.

Canned foods henceforth eliminated include apples, applesauce, apricots, numerous types of berries, grapefruit segments, orange juice, dehydrated vegetables, powdered skimmed milk, bacon and other meats, fruit for salad, okra, succotash, various fruit juices, white asparagus, chili con carne, meat loaf, Vienna sausage, sausage in oil, frozen and storage cream, various fats, syrups and sea foods.

CASUALTIES: Total War

Well into the second year of World War II, U. S. citizens were pondering the official announcements from Washington which reported for the armed forces during the first 12 months of the fighting.

War department reports showed that army casualties totaled 35,578 and of this number 2,009 (including 490 Philippine Scouts) were killed; 2,332 were wounded; and 29,000 (including 10,500 Philippine Scouts) are missing in the Philippines and the Dutch East Indies.

Navy department officials said that they had reported or were in the process of reporting to the next of kin 22,629 casualties for the year.

According to Japanese and German figures 3,138 U. S. civilians are interned, said the OWI report.

3-CENT COIN: May Avert Shortages

If mint officials have their way new 3-cent coins may jingle in your pockets some day in the not distant future.

Officials asked authority to make such coins in case the copper shortage becomes so acute that there won't be enough pennies.

Director of the Mint Nellie Taylor Ross has asked the nation's school children to undertake a "help win the war" campaign by putting idle coins, especially pennies and 3-cent pieces, to work meeting business demands, and thus save many tons of vital metals.

DETROIT LABOR:

Approximately 800,000 essential war workers in the Detroit area have been frozen to their jobs in an all-inclusive order by Montague A. Clark, Michigan director of the War Manpower Commission.

The order lists 34 categories in which employees may not change jobs without specific government authorization.

WARM CHRISTMAS: Despite the quiet Old world atmosphere which characterizes Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, its observance of Christmas is identical with that of the United States in many respects.

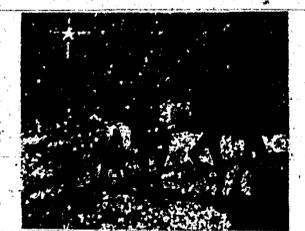

U. S. Christmas Is Melting Pot Of Traditions

Christmas in America really is something! It is an observation of traditions heralding from all parts of the world.

While there is no conclusive proof that December 25th is the exact anniversary of the Lord's birth, astronomers and historians have calculated that it must have occurred about the time of the winter solstice—e. i., the time when the sun is farthest from the earth.

This was a season of great feasting among the Romans: the festival of Saturnalia, celebrating the return of the sun in its course.

During the Fourth century, when the Roman emperor Constantine recognized and championed the Christian faith, the celebration of Christmas became an established custom: inheriting the feasting of ancient peoples, the devotion and sacrifice of the early martyrs, and the message of hope and love which the angel of the Lord had declared unto the shepherds of Bethlehem.

The very first Christians solemnized the Mass of Christ, whence the word "Christmas" has been derived, at this time.

Of course, the Roman emperors objected at first and many of the early faithful were put to death for having observed and celebrated, not Saturnalia, but the festival of the birth of Christ.

In America this year, we will cherish the ancient traditions: we will deck the halls and fill the stockings, light the trees and sing the carols, and humbly join our churches in the solemnization of Christ's Day so that the faith of our fathers may be renewed in the hearts of ALL people who look to Him Who was born in the manger for salvation, in faith believing that He is the Way, the Truth, and the Life, and His Kingdom is everlasting.

Yule Candy a 'Must' For Kiddies: Here's Sweet Tooth Remedy

How it so happened that candy and Christmas became synonymous in the minds of children as turkey or chicken or geese in the minds of grown folks, no one knows definitely.

Fortunately, candy is one of the most available products at Christmas time. If you are in the candy-making mood, here is a recipe for chocolate fudge which will appease the sweet tooth of both young and old:

- Cheesecake Fudge. 2 squares unsweetened chocolate, 1/4 cup milk, 2 cups sugar, Dash of salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Add the chocolate to the milk and place over a low flame. Cook until the mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly.

Incidentally, someone said that there must be a Good Fairy guarding ever not only the young children with an insatiable desire for candy, but also the grown people with a similar desire.

Washington Digest Higher Prices Asked for Extra Effort by Farmers

Time and a Half for Factory Workers' Overtime, Manufacturers' Cost-Plus, Proves Demands Not Excessive.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. There is a package in Washington addressed to the farmers marked "Do Not Open Until After Congress Convenes."

Several straws indicate that the wind is blowing in this direction. The house early this month unanimously passed a measure which directed that the cost of all farm labor be included in computing parity prices.

Since the election is over, nobody can attribute purely political motives to the congressmen who supported the measure.

One official said to me: "When you go to a contractor and say that he has got to double his production or get it out in one-half the ordinary time, you are not surprised when he expects a bonus."

When you ask the farmer to raise more than he ordinarily does—he is usually raising all he thinks he can anyway—it is natural that he expects some sort of material reward.

These are some of the arguments which you hear these days when the question of raising farm prices is discussed.

Subsidies Not Popular

Already it has been found necessary to subsidize the cheese markets. If you expect to get all the dairy and pork products you need, the argument runs, it will be necessary to pay the farmer a little bit more for his milk and hogs.

There is, however, another important consideration in connection with the whole food and fiber production program.

Officials who served in the department of agriculture through the last war will testify that although there was efficient food distribution, a lot of smart processors and middlemen feathered their nests at the expense of the farmer and the public.

No reviewer can adequately deal with another man's book. If he could he might just as well write it himself.

At Yorkshire, England, Aviation Cadet Derek M. Sharp fell out of a training plane 500 feet up.

Not Mr. Wickard's View There are some, of course, who take an extreme view of this subject.

Naturally, there will be strong opposition to increased farm prices from the Office of Price Administration and various other bodies, which are supposed to speak for the consumer or which represent the strong anti-inflationist views.

The President has made it plain that he will be the arbiter when such conflicts arise. The formula for parity cannot be altered without legislation since it is already defined by law.

Secretary Wickard, who moves slowly and conservatively, has been gaining power as he advanced. There is more and more evidence of a return to influence of the old line departments as against the wartime agencies like the OPA.

The department of agriculture will be there when the mushroom agencies have strutted their hour and disappeared.

Japan Must Learn

"Japan must not only be defeated but crushed . . . maimed and left helpless for a long period."

Speaking not, he says, in the voice of wartime emotionalism nor as the retired colonel or a sedentary editorial writer, Nathaniel Peffer, Far Eastern expert, makes the above statement.

I know Mr. Peffer, have known him since I heartily disagreed with many of his ideas, clear back in college days.

I discovered that Mr. Peffer was merely an old fashioned parent who believes in administering chastisement to a bad child.

Two sets of obstacles interfere with a healthy Japan that can live peacefully in the family of nations, Mr. Peffer explains.

The external are lack of natural resources of her islands. Therefore, he says, after her period of repentance, the opportunity to buy raw materials and the opportunity to sell the finished products must be established.

No reviewer can adequately deal with another man's book. If he could he might just as well write it himself.

SADDLE and RIDE

By ERNEST HAYCOX W.N.U. Release

THE STORY SO FAR: Clay Morgan has decided to play a lone hand against Ben Herendeen, a rancher bent on running the cattle country his own way. The two men have been enemies for years, having first fought over Clay's wife, Lige, who died hating him and believing she should have married Herendeen. Morgan is a solitary figure, devoted to his nine-year-old daughter, Janet. Although two women, Catherine Grant and Ann McGarragh, are in love with him, they know he cannot forget Lige. Of his former friends, only Hack Breathitt had not gone over to Herendeen's side. Now Hack is dead, shot by Herendeen's foreman, Charley Hillhouse. Gurd Grant, Catherine's brother, joined Herendeen when he learned that Catherine had been to Morgan's ranch, but the cold bloodedness of Hack's murder has made him break with Herendeen. Warned by Fox Willing, a "nester" he once befriended, Clay discovers that Herendeen is stealing his cattle. He is nearly killed when he goes to Herendeen's ranch for a showdown, but he is saved by Lige White, one of Herendeen's friends. Like Gurd Grant, he is fed up with Herendeen's high handed manner. Clay and his men drive his cattle back into Government Valley, Clay's range. In the fight with Herendeen that follows, Lige is badly hurt. Now Clay is talking to Janet, who has discovered that she likes Catherine Grant better than Ann McGarragh and is not sure she should.

New continue with the story.

He noticed Charley's hat placed over Hack Breathitt's face.

CHAPTER XVIII

In the following silence Clay at once sensed that Janet was struggling with her loyalty to Ann McGarragh. She said: "I don't know, Daddy. Do you like her a lot? As much as you like Ann?"

He said: "Maybe I do, Janey. I'm going to town now. Better sleep."

She turned in the bed, her small body curled beneath the blankets and her head sinking into the pillow. She murmured: "It is like having a mother. It really is."

He went out of her room. There was a difference in women nobody could explain, an understanding, or a touch, or some mysterious fragrance of personality some had and some did not have.

Fox Willing was in the room with Lige White; the rest of the crew had left the house. Catherine waited for him downstairs.

"Janey wants you to stay on tonight."

She moved around the table. She put this distance between them deliberately, no longer smiling. "I can't do that, Clay. Not now."

He said: "I keep forgetting it wouldn't look right to you. Well, I don't know what you've done to Janet, but you did it."

She said with some concern: "You don't mind, Clay? I wanted her to like me—and that's why I came!"

He said, still in wonder: "How did you do it?"

Her eyes showed him a warm, deep shining. "She's still a girl, Clay, wanting to believe little-girl things and live in the land of make-believe. She knows those things aren't so, but she wants the comfort of them a little while longer. And I talked to her as though those things were good things."

"Wait until I get back from town and I'll ride home with you."

"I'm not afraid of the ride, Clay." But she closed her lips, color rising on her cheeks.

"Hate to have you go alone."

"Then I'll wait."

Harry Jump joined him in the yard, but Morgan shook his head. "I won't be long, and you've got to watch this place."

Jump had saddled a fresh horse for him; and now he lined out for town along a road smothered by a deep, moon-shot fog whose thickness touched him and seemed to break as he went through it. The lights of War Pass didn't show until he had turned into the main street. He went at once to Doc Padden's house, halting him out. "Lige White's in a bed way, at my place. I'll go back with you."

Padden said, in rough regret, "Everything happens. Wait a minute." He went into the house for his hat and bag and walked down Custer Street with Morgan. "You heard the latest? Hillhouse killed Breathitt. He brought Breathitt into town and went out again."

"They were near the stable when Morgan stopped. 'In town?' he said. 'Go ahead, Padden, I'll catch up with you.'"

Padden said: "Hillhouse bought a quart of whisky and started back to Three Pines. I guess it was on his soul, as God knows it should have been. Billy Wells came in a few minutes ago. He saw a team and wagon standing at the edge of Cache River near the Cottonwood ford, so he went over to look. Hillhouse sat against one of the trees. Guess he finished the bottle first. There was one bullet hole through the tree and another through his head. He killed himself."

Padden was a rough-handed man, made so by the kind of gunshot medicine he practiced; but he had his moments of insight and now walked to the stable without looking around. Morgan stood in the street's dust until he saw Padden ride away, then he turned down the street, left his horse by the hotel, and entered Padden's office. A night lamp burned here, wick turned low. He screwed up the light and took it with him into the adjoining room.

The first thing he noticed was Charley's hat placed over Hack Breathitt's face.

And when he saw it he knew at once the hell that had been in Charley Hillhouse's mind—his relentless zeal and his memories of olden times confusedly mixing and torturing his eyes. This last small act of grace, the placing of the hat across Hack's eyes, told the whole story of Charley's suicide. The wild and bitter winds governing Charley had blown him at last out of life.

Living or dead, the essential things of a man seemed to remain on his face. It was so with Hack. The disbelieving, cheerful insolence was still present. Born restless and full of scornful courage, he had carried these qualities with him; wherever he was now, Morgan thought, he'd be showing hell or heaven the same half-gay and half-ironic expression. Maybe, Morgan added, it was the best way out. For during these latter days he had seen a faint disillusionment in Hack, as though the youthful freshness and the strong appetites were wearing thin. Well, it was a new trail for Hack now; he could travel it with the same gusty pleasure that once had been his.

Morgan replaced the hat and returned the lamp to the other room. On the street he felt the brush of air on his cheek, and stood a moment in thought. These men had been close to him. Their passing left an empty place, reminding him that his wish to keep his youth alive was a futile wish. Suddenly, this part of the past was gone, leaving him high and dry, and presently other parts would go. It was a mistake to look behind, to try to hang on to what was over and done with. For him it was a strange thought and a powerful one; it pulled at his very roots and made him feel insecure.

He turned toward his horse. Jesse Rusey came from the shadows near the hotel. He said, "One Moment, Clay . . ." But at the same time, looking across the street, Morgan found Ann McGarragh on the store's porch. Her eyes were on him and, silent as she was, he felt the gull of her will or of her wish, and so he walked toward her.

Rusey held his position by the hotel, watching Morgan and Ann McGarragh go into the store and close the door behind them. A light came through the window, reflected from the back room of the store; in a moment another door closed and this light died. Rusey rubbed a hand across his chin. Distant in him was a faint envy at Clay Morgan's opportunities, and a worldly man's curiosity. For Rusey's philosophy was a gray philosophy, wrung out of his cool, perpetual watchfulness. All people had wants. Some wants were little and some were big; some came cheap and some came high—but to all people sooner or later came a time when they placed their pride and all that they believed in against the one thing they most wanted and made their decision. Usually they sold out. For in the world Jesse Rusey so closely watched, wants always came first. He knew what Ann McGarragh wanted. He knew her pride and her scorn of the ordinary follies and appetites. Now he stood, rubbing his chin, faintly amused that all these qualities had bought her nothing, and knowing she realized it; knowing too she was close to her own decision. He had his curiosity and shrugged his shoulders and turned up the street. But he stopped again, still in the shadows.

At that moment Herendeen entered town with the Ryder brothers. Parr Gentry came from the stable and for a little while there was talk between these men. Later, Herendeen went up the hill to Doc Padden's house. A few minutes afterwards he returned to the group, shaking his head. Parr Gentry pointed down the street and all of them turned to stare at Clay Morgan's horse still standing by the hotel.

Ann McGarragh followed Morgan into the store's living room. She came about and paused in front of him, quick to see the rough usage he had been through. Always, in action or in trouble, his eyes had a smoky coloring and this was present now.

"Sit down, Clay. If you're hungry, if you want anything—"

"No, not right now. I've got to get back to the ranch. I sent Padden ahead. Lige White's been shot. We had a brush with Ben in Government Valley."

"What—"

"We drove him back. But nothing's settled."

She said: "You know about Hack? Of course—you came from there."

He sank into the chair, his long legs pushed forward. She stood near him, looking down. She put her hands before her, locked together, and for a moment she had the expression of a little girl on her face, half-wistful and half-stormy. She said: "You shouldn't—you shouldn't. Suppose it had been you instead of Hack? And when you meet Herendeen, which one will it be? You are sure to meet. Everybody knows that. It is as certain and as brutal as death. Well, it is death. Clay, is there anything I can say to stop you?"

"No, not now, Ann."

"Not now, and not at any time," she added quietly. "I have never been able to change you. Never. In any way at all."

He said: "Why worry about it? You know me pretty well. I know you pretty well. Let's be satisfied with that."

She walked away from him. At a corner of the room she turned, facing him over the distance. "What do you know about me? What do you really know?"

"I told you once, and you didn't like it."

"When you said it, Clay, you never meant it. It was a joke—and I hated you."

He shook his head, puzzled and gently amused at her. "There is fire enough in you to burn up the town. You swing like the weather—never still. You could be the kind of a woman, I think, to throw furniture at a man when you got mad. You could crucify him—if you loved him. And be sorry afterwards, I guess."

"Oh, Clay," she said, humbly, "not a scold—not a spitfire."

"No," he admitted. "Just Ann McGarragh who wants things perfect."

Her eyes grew darker and darker. "Clay," she said, near to a whisper, "you don't mean to be cruel, but you are. If—" She shrugged her shoulders, quickly changed the subject. "How's Janet?"

"All right. Catherine came up to see her today." He watched stillness come to her face, a listening in-tentness—a coolness holding away her dislike. Then he said: "They seem to get along mighty well."

She said: "Don't you want coffee?"

"Better get back and see how Lige is making out," he said, coming to his feet.

She walked toward him. She stood in front of him, quite near—this small, supple girl so intense and so crowded with willful pride. She was dark, she was vivid; her lips were red and firm across her oval face and he caught the fragrance of her hair and was affected by it. Looking up, she drew a long, long breath. He never was able to define the look he saw in her eyes that night—it was like fear or shame, or like a woman forcing herself over some obstacle she dreaded. Her voice was taut and very slow. "It is hard to learn some things, Clay. Hard to learn that sometimes nothing comes by waiting, or by praying. And very hard to find out that a woman has to change as she swears she could never change. All that I am is right here in front of you, but it never has been enough—just to be in front of you. Is it something cold about me, or something of an old maid in me? I don't know. But only once did I ever see anything in your eyes that I put there. That was when I wore a dress which left my shoulders bare. I was a woman to you that night."

She lifted her arms. They touched his shoulders and lay there, with the smallest pressure in them, pulling him. He saw her lips lengthen and part, he saw her eyes widen, as though she opened herself to him completely. Reaching forward he kissed her, catching the force of her sudden-giving body. But even then there was a difference, a strain, a lack. When he stepped back they both knew it. She caught her breath sharply, turning away. And said in a dulling voice: "No, not for me. Well, good-by."

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS

Toast the New Year With Gay Pineapple-Cranberry Duff (See Recipes Below)

Welcome, 1943

Ring in the New Year with a resolve to keep your chins up, your budgets balanced and your meals victory and vitamin minded. Never mind trivial resolutions, just keep the important ones; and you'll be doing your part in the way you can best—and that's the best job, you, Mrs. America, are qualified to do.

Plan every meal so carefully that you will make use of every bit of food you have. That means doing the most by your leftovers and fitting them into your meal-program. Economy is the watchword—elaborate food is out for the duration. Vitamins, minerals and proteins are your cue to balanced meals.

By way of initiating this program you will note that even the New Year buffet supper I've planned fits into the guide outlined above: the chicken may be leftover from your holiday dinner as may be your spinach and beets for vegetable and salad.

Scalloped Chicken (Serves 6)
1 cup cooked, cubed chicken
1 1/2 cups buttered crumbs
3 hard-cooked eggs, chopped
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1 1/2 cups medium white sauce

Cover bottom of baking dish with crumbs. Add chicken, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Pour sauce over all, cover with remaining crumbs. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven 25 minutes.

The casserole of chicken is simplicity itself and is especially fine with the spinach timbales because it provides a bit of sauce that goes well with them:

Spinach Timbales (Serves 6)
3 cups cooked, chopped spinach
2 tablespoons butter, melted
3 eggs, slightly beaten
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup soft bread crumbs
Salt and pepper
Dash of nutmeg

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: More foods have come in under the ceiling price list. Foods exempt from March ceilings but under the new ceilings are poultry, mutton, butter, eggs, cheese, canned milk, onions, white potatoes, dry beans, corn meal, fresh citrus fruits and canned citrus fruits and juices. Take this list to the market with you and make sure you do not pay any more for these items than you paid for them between September 28 through October 2.

The 2 1/2-pound meat allowance must include meat for you, your dogs, cats and other pets. It includes meat eaten in your house by guests, meat eaten by you in restaurants, and bone gristle and waste that comes with edible meat. It includes bacon, sausage and canned meat.

It does not include scrapple, or the variety meats like liver, heart, kidneys, tripe, and brains. The allowance includes beef, lamb, veal, mutton and pork—but excludes poultry, eggs and fish. Stretch your meat allowance with these and meat extenders like oatmeal, cereal and bread crumbs.

Coffee rationing will mean that you have to consider other sources for hot drinks these cold days. First, you can probably stretch your coffee by using a "coffee stretcher"—using half coffee and half stretcher. You'll like fruit juices, hot and cold, milk for drinking, hot soups, bouillon and consommé.

New Year's Eve Buffet

*Scalloped Chicken
*Spinach Timbales
*Victory Bread
*Beet-Horseradish Salad
Olives and Pickles
*Pineapple-Cranberry Duff
Fruit Cake
Mints
*Recipes Given

Combine all ingredients in order given. Pack in 8 well-buttered custard cups, set in a pan of hot water, in a moderate (350-degree) oven 45 minutes. Unmold and serve with casserole.

A crisp gelatin salad that carries out the colors of the season and that is packed with vitamins and vigor is this:

Beet and Horseradish Salad (Serves 8)
1 1/2 tablespoons gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
2 cups boiling water
1/2 cup lemon juice
1/2 cup sugar
1 1/2 tablespoons horseradish
1 tablespoon vinegar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup chopped cabbage
1/2 cup chopped beets

Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in boiling water. Add lemon juice, horseradish, vinegar, salt and Worcestershire sauce. Cool until slightly thickened. Add chopped cabbage and beets. Pour into mold and chill until firm. Serve with watercress or lettuce and mayonnaise. One of the vitamins in great demand is vitamin B1—the vitamin required for healthy nerves and stamina. Here is a bread which draws its vitamin B1 from the whole grain cereals—wheat flour and wheat germ, and is delicious because of its sour milk, molasses and raisins:

Victory Bread
1 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup whole wheat flour
1 cup wheat germ
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 cup seedless raisins
1/2 cup molasses
1/2 cup sour milk
1/2 cup melted butter

Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and soda. Add whole wheat flour, wheat germ, sugar and raisins. Combine molasses, sour milk and melted butter and stir quickly into flour mixture. Pour into a greased oblong pan or two loaf pans. Bake in a moderate to slow (300-degree) oven for 1 hour.

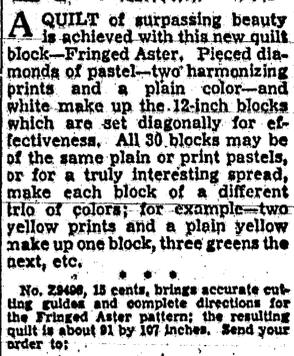

Easy does it! That's what you'll say when you whip together the fascinating cranberry and pineapple drink that looks so-o pretty with its swirls of pink fluff atop each glassful. Serve it as the dessert with paper thin slices of that fruit cake you put up before Christmas. The drink is a grand one to substitute for coffee, and requires no sugar either:

Pineapple-Cranberry Duff (Makes 8 small glasses)
1 1-pint, 2-ounce can of unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice
1/2 of 1-pound can cranberry sauce

Chill both juice and sauce thoroughly in the can before opening. Beat sauce with rotary beater until fluffy, add pineapple juice gradually, beating all the while. Pour into glasses and serve at once.

A QUILT of surpassing beauty is achieved with this new quilt block—Fringed Aster. Pieced diamonds of pastel—two harmonizing prints and a plain color—and white make up the 12-inch blocks which are set diagonally for effectiveness. All 30 blocks may be of the same plain or print pastels, or for a truly interesting spread, make each block of a different trio of colors; for example—two yellow prints and a plain yellow make up one block, three greens the next, etc.

No. 2349, 15 cents, brings accurate cutting guides and complete directions for the Fringed Aster pattern; the resulting quilt is about 91 by 107 inches. Send your order to:

Golf vs. Bowling

The odds against making a hole-in-one in golf are about 30,000 to one, while the odds against making a perfect score of 300 in bowling on new alleys with new pins is about 200,000 to one. In other words, it is far easier to shoot a hole-in-one than it is to make 12 consecutive strikes.

Thoughts are deathless.

Use everything; abuse nothing.

Don't give praise merely to win approval.

Every village contains a potential Lincoln.

Anyone can be courageous in the absence of danger.

The question is: what are you; not who were your ancestors.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The sixteen-inch coast gun is the most powerful of all American guns and costs about $2,000,000 each. It will throw a shell weighing up to a ton many miles. The Coast Guard also has an eight-inch mobile railway gun which will hurl a heavy projectile about 18 miles.

For defense of our homes, the Coast Guard needs many of these powerful weapons. You can do your part to help pay for them by borrowing at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds and Stamps every payday. U.S. Treasury Department

Smitty says--

"An office boy like me doesn't make much money, but I'm putting 10% into War Bonds every payday 'cause it's my duty."
