Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Balow of Ancho were here on business Tuesday; Mr. Balow was a pleasant visitor at this office while in town. Bill says his wife is improving, after having been seriously ill of late.

Sgt. Gladney Zumwalt Reported Missing

The War Department has notified the parents of Gladney Zumwalt that he has been reported missing somewhere in the Pacific and that further details would be forwarded as soon as obtained. Gladney was operating a bomber at the time, the statement said. This should cause no alarm, as missing does not always mean the worst. He may be a prisoner.

Burke Gift Shop Enlarged

The Burke Gift Shop and Ladies' Ready-to-Wear has been remodeled and the store enlarged so as to give better service and accommodation to its many friends and customers.

Mrs. Fay Bost, who is well known for her efficiency, has accepted the management for the coming year and will be assisted by Mrs. A. L. Burke and Mrs. Friday Sherrill.

We understand there was a deal consummated this week whereby Herman Kelt became the new manager of the El Cibola Hotel. J. W. Harkey, the former manager's, lease having expired.

Will Robinson Talks About Old Masons

(Sidelines in Roswell Record)

Inspired by a recent paragraph in this paper about the death of an Oklahoman who had been for 75 years a Master Mason, and the passing of Edwin Comrey of Nogal, a Lincoln county student of the ancient craft draws attention to the translation of Martin Krider of Wichita, Kan., after a continuous Masonic life of 75 years, and the claim of Larned Lodge in Pennsylvania, where he was "raised" that he was the senior Mason of the world.

Edwin Comrey's membership was around sixty years when he crossed the level of time to that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns. As a matter of fact memberships of from 50 to 60 years are not so very usual. But once the man passes the Bible limit of three score and ten, continued service becomes increasingly unusual. That Brother Krider should have passed three-quarters of a century among the craftsmen, certainly proved that he was of stern and unyielding clay. Also that Masonry may become as vital a part of a man's life as his breath. Lots of men grow to be more than 75 years of age. When their Masonic seniority reaches 75 years, that means that he is getting close to 100 years in his own life span, in itself a most unusual thing. Krider was 97, which isn't missing the century much.

Mrs. Blanche Clayton of Ancho was here Monday, attending a meeting of the County Board of Education, of which body Mrs. Clayton is a new member, having taken the place of Mrs. Geo. Simpson, who is now in Roswell.

Mrs. F. A. English returned last Friday from an extended trip which took her to Scranton, Pa., thence to Syracuse, N. Y., where she was present at the graduation of her son, Frank, Jr., who will now undergo one year's training as interne, after which he will enter the regular Army Corps, being a Doctor of Medicine. After the graduation exercises, Mrs. English included New Orleans in her itinerary before returning home.

The U. S. Navy Recruiting Cruiser is making a tour of New Mexico to try and get recruits for the Navy. What the Navy wants are boys from 17 to 18 years of age and also men from 38 to 50 years of age. We would also like any women who are interested in the Waves and Spars to get what information they require. The age for women in the Waves and Spars is 20 to 49.

The Recruiting Cruiser is manned by four Navy men. A show is put on in each town visited. A show is scheduled for Carrizozo on April 6, 1943 at the High School Auditorium at 8 p. m. The Cruiser just came in from Tularosa and will go to Roswell from here.

Mrs. James Cooper

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon 2:30, for Mrs. James Cooper, (nee Lucy Allen Henley) of Ancho, at the home of her sister Mrs. Nellie A. Branum, Carrizozo, with the Rev. W. B. Andrew, Church of Christ, Tucumcari, officiating. Interment was at the White Oaks Cemetery. Mrs. Cooper was born November 1, 1885. She died suddenly Apr. 8, 1943 from heart ailment. She is survived by her husband Mr. James Cooper, her sister Mrs. Nellie A. Branum, two sons, Lin Cooper, U. S. Ryan School of Aeronautics, Hemet, California, George Cooper, Tucumcari, and daughter Mrs. Wayne Van Schoyck, Jr., Walsenburg, Colo.

"Boy From The Plains"

(Christian Science Monitor) In bold prominent relief, the above named paper gives complimentary mention to one of Peter Hurd's paintings, "Boy From the Plains" and follows with an article, the highlights of which, we are clipping as the same will be of interest to Lincoln County people to whom Mr. and Mrs. Hurd are so well known being residents of San Patricio, only a short distance from here. We follow the article in substance which was headed by the painting.

"Peter Hurd is as much a product of the West as the young plainsman whom he depicts in this interesting tempera portrait. Born in Roswell, New Mexico, in 1904, Peter Hurd attended New Mexico Military Institute and then spent two years at West Point. But before finishing his period of military training he decided to become an artist. He first studied at the Pennsylvania Academy and then with the painter, N. C. Wyeth, whose daughter he married. Together the Hurds own a ranch in San Patricio, N. M., where they raise polo ponies and where they both paint. War-time has, however, somewhat changed this pleasurable and well-rounded life.

Mr. Hurd has recently returned from an assignment in England where as a war correspondent accredited to the United States Army, he painted the men of our Air Force Bomber Command for one of the leading national magazines. One can easily imagine that the "Boy from the Plains," painted in 1933, was the prototype of his latest series of paintings.

The "Boy from the Plains" is in every way sensitively conceived and painted. The youth's freshness, adolescent charm, and even engaging awkwardness are vividly and accurately recorded, revealing the artist's perception and technical ability in the difficult medium of tempera on wood.

BUREAUCRAT'S DREAM

(Industrial News Review) Humanitarian idealism often outrips common sense. Such is the case with plans for compulsory health insurance.

Perhaps the most startling revelation contained in the Northwestern University report on compulsory health insurance, is the extent to which bureaucracy would expand under a government health insurance program. As the report observes, there are between 50 and 55 million employed persons in the United States at the present time. This, with members of families and dependents, would swell the number of potential beneficiaries to over 100 million, depending, of course, upon the type of coverage embraced in the system. Approximately 50,000,000 cases would receive medical attention each year in the United States. All of these cases would have to go through the process of certification, filing, inspection, payment, complaints, and adjustments. If an adequate staff and organization were provided, it would mean an army of government employees.

In the words of the report: "To practical politicians . . . such an expansion in the number of Federal employees means primarily one thing, namely, 'patronage'; patronage for whatever political organization may happen to be in power and a patronage that would surpass anything that politicians have dreamed of in the past."

Congress is struggling to curb bureaucracy, well knowing that unless it is curbed the American form of government would make the bureaucratic menace virtually uncontrollable.

Infant Harvey

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 for the two year old baby of Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey, with the Rev. T. N. James officiating. Interment at Evergreen Cemetery.

1st Lieut Bradley Smith and Mrs. Smith were here over the week-end from the Cavalry School at Fort Riley, Kansas on their way to a new station somewhere in the Great American Desert. The Lieut. made this office a friendly call and we are glad to say that he looked exceedingly well. Good Luck to yourself Sir and also to Mrs. Smith.

We have a letter before us from L. Storey, formerly of Ancho, but now in the armed forces and stationed at Naval Operating Base, Midway Island in the Pacific area, in which he mentions his many friends and wonders where they are. To all those who have not gone into the service and are still here, he sends his kindest regards. He is the son of Mrs. R. M. Storey, now a resident of Noble, Oklahoma.

The U. S. Recruiting Cruiser which was here Tuesday, stopped in front of the Outlook office and gave us a number of stirring marches in honor of Lewis Burke, who is a professional trombone player. We very much appreciated the serenade.

Nets Neat Sum

The Lyric Theatre Drive for Red Cross from April 1 to 8 netted the sum of $56.63 - congratulations.

Carrizozo Soldier Leads Trailer Life at Wendover

We have just received a press release from Wendover Field, Utah, which contains an account of Sgt. Wayne Zumwalt, Mrs. Zumwalt and daughter Donnie, who were the first to occupy the Wendover Field. They came in a house-trailer in which they are still living and enjoying the surroundings very much.

Mrs. Zumwalt is secretary to Captain Keys and Donnie is going to school.

The release which is quite lengthy, says that a mighty change has come over the Zumwalt family from ranch days in Lincoln County, N. M. to trailer life at Wendover Field, which is a bombing and gunnery range camp. The release was accompanied by a picture of the Zumwalt and Mrs. Abe Creekmore, who is one of the employees in the sub-dept of the camp. The picture was taken as they were seated at their table very much enjoying the meal, of which they were about to partake. Currently, the Sgt. is interested in constructing working models of bombers, more particularly of the H-40.

Shilling-Frambrough

At the Methodist parsonage in Tucumcari, March 31st, Mrs. Blanche Shilling of Santa Fe and William Frambrough of the above named city, were united in marriage with the pastor of the church performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Pete Frame were attendants.

The bride was a resident of Carrizozo when she was at the head of the Welfare Department and is well known here. The groom is a fireman and temporary engineer for the S. P. running between here and Tucumcari. As he is called by most of his friends, has been in the employ of the company for about 18 years. They will make their home in Tucumcari.

For Fat Fryers call at the Nogal Postoffice.

Deputy Food Administrator Executive Committee Member

State Cattlemen's Association Albuquerque, N. M., April 7—Lt. Col. Jay Taylor, Magdalena, N. M. and Amarillo, Texas, recently appointed the nation's Deputy Food Administrator, apparently with the manpower assignment of recruiting a land army of 3,500,000 ranch and farm producers has been for several years and is at present a member of the Executive Board of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, E. G. Hayward, Cimarron, President of the organization announced today. The nation's new Food Administrator, Chester Davis announced Taylor's appointment on April 3.

Lt. Col. Taylor has owned and operated a large ranch near Magdalena for years and has been an active figure in livestock organizations. His residence is maintained at Amarillo, Texas. He is a past-president of the American National Live Stock Association, Hayward said.

"In Jay Taylor's appointment to this all important food production post, the Administration has placed confidence in a man who actually understands the conditions before southwestern ranch operators, Hayward commented, and I am sure the livestock producers throughout New Mexico and the western part of our nation have the utmost faith and confidence in the ability and resourcefulness of Col. Taylor. With the serious manpower problems today confronting livestock producers and farmers throughout the nation, we feel that Taylor's appointment is a great step toward maximum production of food and solution of our problems."

Salopek-Hoffman

On April 1, at San Marcos, Texas, Miss Ann Salopek and Harold Hoffman were united in marriage at the Post Chapel with the Chaplain of the Army Post performing the ceremony.

The bride attended State College in 1940 and '41 and last September she entered Hotel Dieu Nursing School at El Paso.

Harold graduated from the Carrizozo High School in 1939 and enlisted in the Army Air Corps in 1942, being stationed at Santa Anna, Calif. He received his wings at Roswell in March, 1943. He is now in the navigation service. We offer our congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Dukeminier, daughter, Sherrill, sons Bobby Lee and Roy are here from Las Vegas, N. M. Mr. Dukeminier being here to take charge of the local telephone station on the retirement of G. T. Quillen on May 1. We extend the hand of welcome to the Dukeminier family.

DENIAL

It has been reported around town and surrounding country that I am going to sell out and leave Carrizozo. This report has no foundation. I have no intention of leaving here, and will continue practicing Dental Surgery as long as health permits. I take this opportunity to thank all those who have made it possible for me to stay here all these years. Dr. E. E. Slawey.

PETER AND JOHN WITH CHRIST'S GLORY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:3-9; II Peter 1:16-18. GOLDEN TEXT—A voice came out of the cloud, saying, This is my beloved Son; hear him.—Mark 9:7.

Christ is God! The one who comes to know that truth is ready to follow Christ, and to make Him known to others. The want of such a true conception of the Son of God weakens our convictions and hinders our usefulness.

"Where there is no vision, the people perish," said the wise man (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of Christ as God, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people perish in their sins.

Peter and John saw our Lord in His transfiguration, and the glow of that experience lighted their entire life and ministry. The touch of the supernatural was on these men and their message—for they had seen the glory of Christ.

I. The Amazing Glory of the Son (Mark 9:2-6).

The transfiguration of Christ is one of those wonderfully beautiful and deeply spiritual experiences which defy analysis or satisfactory description. Poetry and art have vainly tried to depict it only to become "in fact a confession of the impotence of the loftiest art to rise to the level of the divine" (Van Dyke).

Peter was so dazzled that he could only suggest that they remain there, forgetting for the moment that down in the valley was demon-ridden humanity waiting for the divine deliverance of the Son of God (see Luke 9:37-42).

What took place on the mount can possibly best be explained as the outshining of the inner glory of the Christ. He had laid aside His glory when He became flesh, but not His divine attributes as very God. There in the presence of God and the heavenly visitors that glory shone through His humanity and His appearance became dazzling in its whiteness.

II. The Approving Word of the Father (Mark 9:7, 8).

A cloud, like the cloud which filled the Temple of old (I Kings 8:10, 11), covered them, and the Father spoke out of it words of approval of His Son.

These words carry "both judgment and command; judgment concerning Jesus, 'This is my beloved Son,' and command to the disciples, 'Hear ye him'—that is, 'Listen to him'" (Lesson Commentary).

John and Peter came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the words of the Father. They learned more plainly the fact that He was God manifest in the flesh for the redemption of man. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment a foreglimp of His coming glory. What important truths—His deity, His redemption, His coming kingdom. Have we learned them as we have beheld His glory?

III. The Assured Faith of the Disciples (II Pet. 1:16-18).

These words were written by Peter when he was nearly eighty years of age—about thirty-five years after the transfiguration. John wrote sixty years after the event and said, "We beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father" (John 1:14).

The one who follows these eye-witnesses in believing in Christ may share their assurance expressed by Peter that we do not "follow cunningly devised fables" in making known to the world the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. Our faith is built on God's Word, and upon such testimony as this by eye-witnesses. Here is real ground for assured belief in Christ.

Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power lead to effective life and testimony for Christ. They may not be in outward manifestations, in fact they are most often in the inner recesses of man's soul; but they do transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God. One wonders if much of the dearth of power in the Christian Church is not to be attributed directly to the lack of such experiences with God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountain-top experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power. It came to D. L. Moody as he walked down a New York street, praying in agony. "Deliver me from myself. Take absolute sway." The story of what happened to him and through him as a surrendered instrument in God's hand is written large on the pages of history. Others have had similar experiences.

Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few, they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing, resulting in a stale and unfruitful orthodoxy that in turn produces a dreadful and unchristian religious system.

Retentive Minds

Many psychologists believe that everything we have heard, said or experienced in our lives is retained in the subconscious mind, but that most of these details rarely return except under exceptional circumstances.

Classic case cited is that of an illiterate servant girl who, while delirious, repeated numerous passages in Hebrew, Greek and Latin which she had overheard a former employer recite in his study.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Laboratory tests demonstrate that rubber can be made to stretch from 80 to 1000 percent and to have no stretch at all, as in hard rubber.

A critical piece of about half an inch of the substance we now know as rubber was selling for three shillings in London at shops in 1770. It was then called rubber because it could erase pencil marks.

The first articles of rubber to be manufactured were clothing and shoes.

American seamen are now equipped with rubber life-saving suits weighing slightly over 14 pounds. This new buoyant suit features a whistle, flashlight, knife and yellow hood and gloves to attract rescuers. Weighted shoes keep the wearer afloat in the water.

ON THE HOME FRONT with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

IT ALL started with a bright idea for making a simple, painted coffee table from odds and ends. The sketch at the lower left gives the dimensions and shows the simple construction. Two end sections were made first; the top and sides of these being fastened together with metal angles, as illustrated. A shelf was then nailed in and a 1/2 by 3-inch board nailed across the back of it. Two boards for the top of the table were then screwed to the end sections. Then the needle-lady came in. The table was painted putty color and then waxed. She bought a yard of slightly darker tan sateen and applied a design of bright blue and red morning glories and green leaves on it with stems and tendrils

In green-outline stitch. This was placed over the table top and tacked around the edge. A piece of glass was then cut to fit and 1/2 by 3-inch pieces were screwed to the sides flush with the top of glass.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared a sheet—17 by 22 inches—giving complete dimensions and directions for making this table. Even the gal who is just learning to do small chores with hammer, saw and screw driver can follow these simple, clear directions. To get a copy ask for Design 254, address:

Smile Awhile

Not This Time

A woman, visiting the movies, could find only two nice seats, one behind the other. Wishing to sit with her sister, she cautiously surveyed the boy in the next seat. Finally she leaned over and whispered: "I beg your pardon, but are you alone?"

Without even turning his head, but twisting his mouth and shielding it with his hand, the youth muttered: "Cut it out, my aunt's with me."

This Romance Seems to Be Headed for Washout

The romance-loving young man pressed the girl close to him. "Look into my eyes, honey," he breathed, "and tell me what you see there." The girl gazed into the young man's eyes. She sighed deeply. "I see the most beautiful things," she murmured. "You and I. A wedding ring. A preacher. A quiet honeymoon—and then a cottage and two happy persons growing old together gracefully." The young man jumped up and reached for his hat. "Where are you going?" cried the startled girl. "To the druggist's—to get you an eyewash!"

Buena Dias, Amigos Mios. Como 'ata, Senoras y Caballeros la everybody happy? 'ata Buena!

County Clerk Felix Ramey showed up his victory garden Sunday. It is quite cute; Mr. Ramey likes to put in his idle time in gardening. He has dug up and sown grass seed on the place across from the City Garage.

From "Good Morning" in the Roswell Dispatch:

W. J. Ferguson, 300 N. Union, held the distinction of making the first entry in the Roswell Ad Club victory garden contest. Mr. Ferguson isn't afraid of work. He is planning to make a garden out of a plot 60 by 60 feet. And if you don't think that's work, just try it sometime.

Some of the Roswell high school girls have solved the shoe rationing problem. They went barefooted and seemed to be enjoying it.

At the White House, Mrs. Roosevelt was chatting with Madame Chiang Kai-shek. Said the first lady of the United States: "I was offered $1000 to write my impressions of you."

Smiling, the first lady of China replied, "I was offered $5000 to write a magazine article giving my impressions of you." Both were ladies. They had to be decided to write about each other.

A handsome stealer in our town ran away with a friend's beautiful wife. The outraged husband claims she took his ration book with her.

The unfaithful wife will spend her life wondering whether the fussy friend married her for butter or for war.

A husband is now bringing court action to retain the custody of the ration book. How you can call your wife "sugar" when another guy has the coupon?—Dugs Baer.

Who said that? Home is one place you can always go after the other joints are closed?

Useless information—The weather in Lincoln County has been ideal of late.

So Hasta la Vista: Y'll we meet again.

Inquiry About Prisoners

Even if there is no official confirmation that a person is a prisoner of war, inquiry about anyone whose fate is uncertain may now be made through the American Red Cross. It was announced here today by R. S. Fagan, home service chairman of the Lincoln County Red Cross Chapter. Heretofore relatives were asked to delay inquiries until they were sure from prisoner lists that the serviceman or civilian was in custody of an enemy nation.

Messages to prisoners may be speeded by cable if the sender guarantees charges. The Red Cross makes no charges for handling a message or inquiry by mail.

Available Farm Machinery

To date purchase certificates have not been issued by the County Farm Machinery Rationing Committee for the following farm equipment which was allotted Lincoln County by State USDA War Board:

1 row planter (corn and cotton); tractor drawn; 1 harrow (with and without planting attachments); 2 sections, spike tooth harrow; 2 farm wagons; 2 peck and bean harvesters; 1 tractor duster; 1 garden tractor; 1 moldboard plow (tractor drawn or mounted).

Anyone interested in any of the equipment listed should make application immediately, since, after a reasonable time, the committee will consider all applications submitted and issue purchase certificates for machinery.

BANKS AND THE WAR

BILLIONS FOR VICTORY

Quietly, behind the scenes, the great battle of war-production financing is being fought and won. America's banks are in the forefront of this vital war activity. A survey recently made by the American Bankers Association shows that 421 of the nation's 15,000 banks have already loaned more than 5 billion dollars for war production. The total for all banks must reach astronomical figures. These billions spell victory for our cause—disillusionment and defeat for our enemies. If you need funds, by all means apply here.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Looks like a pretty expensive cigar you've got there, Judge."
"Yesree, it's a real good one, Bill. Won it from Chris down at the cigar store yesterday. He got pretty positive in a discussion we had and I had to take him up on it. Bet me three good cigars to my one that the three states that still have prohibition have less crime than the other states. Well, all I had to do was step across the street to my office where I had some recent F. B. I. figures in my desk drawer. Why, on the average, those three states have a worse crime record than the whole rest of the country. And there's a good sound reason for it, Bill. There's no such thing as a dry community. It's only a question of whether liquor is sold legally or illegally. And when it's sold illegally it means bootleggers, gangsters and more crime."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S. Forces Gain Ground in Tunisia; New Food Czar Seeks Speedy Solution Of Acute Farm Production Problems; Russ Offensives Endanger Smolensk

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

For conspicuous heroism as leader of a marine fighting squadron in aerial combat with Jap forces in the Solomon Islands, Maj. Robert E. Galer is presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor by President Roosevelt. The air hero's mother is shown helping to adjust the pendant on which the decoration hangs.

FOOD: 3-Way Attack

No stranger to farm problems, food production or the delicate job of dealing with recalcitrant congressmen was Chester C. Davis, recently appointed chief of the new Administration of Food Production and Distribution. Former head of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, Davis knew the ropes in Washington and how to keep from getting tangled in them.

For weeks the capital had expected some action in the increasingly critical food production situation. By relieving hard-pressed Secretary of Agriculture Wickard of his food administration tasks and appointing Mr. Davis as sole food czar, President Roosevelt had created a new three-way agency, combining the Food Production Administration, the Food Distribution Administration and the Farm Labor Administration.

Closer working agreements between congress and the food administration and a minimum of official friction in dealing with war-created farm problems were expected to result under Davis' administration. Observers agreed that Davis had one of the toughest jobs in history, but they were betting he would win.

AIR RAIDS: Wop to Axis

Axis-held Europe will soon be subjected to round-the-clock air raids in which newer, bigger and faster American bombers will carry three or four times the bomb weight of present Flying Fortresses.

This prediction was made in London by Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commander of the U. S. Army Air Forces in Britain. American forces, he said, are now ready to build up a striking power on a par with that of the Royal Air Force. Soon, he added, will begin the sustained offensive in which the Americans will strike at Europe by day and the British will bomb by night.

General Eaker disclosed that in a series of 51 raids, the U. S. Army Air Force has lost fewer than 90 bombers.

NORTH AFRICA: Rough Road Ahead

The battle to clear the Axis out of Tunisia was going to take time. Rommel's army still had an offensive "kick." The struggle was likely to get tougher before it got better.

These facts emerged more clearly as the inexorable pressure of the Allied forces ringing the enemy was met by counter attacks which had regained for Rommel's army much of the ground lost when the British Eighth Army sliced into the Mareth line.

The communiqués did not indicate any lessening of the Allied effort. They merely served to show that the battle was by no means won at the present time. The conviction of an ultimate Axis defeat continued.

While the British stoutly contested the Nazi forces in the South, the Americans under Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton not only held their previous gains at El Guettar in the "waist" of Tunisia but pushed on east of Maknassy in a drive on the coastal road.

SOUTH PACIFIC: Prelude to Storm?

A lull in activity on both the Allied and Jap sides of the Pacific war had been taken by some observers to be merely the prelude to a storm ahead.

Action for some days was confined to local air and sea attacks in various sectors of the South Pacific. In the Solomon Islands, air raids were traded. American bombers strafed Rekata bay, while the Japs inflicted some damage on Guadalcanal. Further to the east, an American submarine torpedoed and sank a Japanese submarine. In Burma, American fliers attacked the long railway viaduct between Mandalay and Lashio, a bridge north of Rangoon and the Thazi railway junction. The RAF bombed Donbaik, north of Akyab.

ABSENTEES: Women Worst Offenders

Women war workers were charged with being guilty of almost twice as much absenteeism as men, in a report compiled by the National Industrial Conference Board.

Covering a "sample" group of 29 plants employing 108,620 persons, the report showed that in a single month 82,618 worker-days had been lost and that female employees averaged 1.16 days out of the month while male workers lost 0.65 day each.

Women showed a greater tendency to be absent for personal reasons, the survey disclosed. The board found that 50.4 per cent of their absences were in this compared with 47.8 per cent for men.

RAW MATERIALS: Allies Now 'Solvent'

William L. Batt, vice chairman of the War Production Board, announced that the United Nations have now achieved "solvent" in raw materials and "are assured of sufficient amounts of all kinds to meet any military needs regardless of the length of the war."

"No material is being used faster by the United Nations today than is being produced," he said. "It can be stated with complete safety that whatever the length of the war, ample raw materials are available to meet our military needs."

Batt credited the accomplishment to the combined raw materials board of the United Nations, established by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill in their White House conferences in December, 1941.

UNIONS: War to Cease?

Many a priceless hour of war production time had been lost in jurisdictional disputes between rival unions. Although some wrangles still appeared inevitable, the heads of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations agreed to take definite steps to end the difficulties.

Appearing before the senate's Truman investigating committee, William Green, president of the AFL, and Philip Murray, president of CIO, promised to reopen negotiations to end "union raiding," the maneuver by which one union seeks to oust another from representation of workers.

WAR BONDS: 'They Give Their Lives'

"They give their lives—You lend your money."

That is the slogan of the treasury department's second War Loan drive opening April 12, which has as its objective raising 13 billion dollars through the sale of government securities. A substantial part of this vast financing—the most stupendous in world history—will be loaned by people in ordinary walks of life.

Financial experts point out that there are in liquid funds in the U. S. at present, more than 40 billion dollars which should go into the purchase of government bonds. It is from this huge reservoir that the treasury expects to meet its new goal.

When Robert Ryan joined the army he knew that he'd have a job when he came back; he has a contract with RKO that assures his return to the screen at the war's end, at a salary exceeding the one he was getting when he left. His work in "Bombardier" and "The Sky's the Limit" was responsible for the scrapping of the old contract and the writing of the more favorable new one.

Bob Hope's set for another of those cross-country tours of army, navy and marine posts and bases, which is good news for the men who'll benefit; he gives them a swell show. In fact, he probably works harder at entertaining servicemen than at anything else.

Jack Miller, orchestra director for Kate Smith and "The Aldrich Family," can drop off to sleep any time. He dozed off in the studio before a recent "Aldrich Family" broadcast, so the cast slipped out and sent a page in to wake him and explain that the program was over and all visitors must leave. He spent a frenzied five minutes before he caught up with the truth.

ODDS AND ENDS The voice which Willy Maher uses for "Wilbur" on the Tammy Riggs broadcasts is going into the movies for the second time, as the lead in the Metro cartoon, "The Screwy Squirrel" . . . After three years' preparation, King Vidor is nearly ready to begin production of "America," starring Brian Donlevy . . . Helmut Dantine, the Nazi aviator of "Hrs. Minor," has a leading role in "Warner Bros." "The Last Man" starring Errol Flynn . . . "New Orleans" James French marches, strictly as it was back in 1865, has been received as a setting for "Saratoga Trunk" $250,000 has been appropriated for advertising and promotion of "Mission to Moscow."

SPENDING SPREE: 81 Billions in '42

Americans dipped into their war-swollen pocketbooks to the tune of $81,900,000,000 in 1942 in a spending spree that exceeded all previous records, according to a compilation by the U. S. department of commerce.

Officials of the commerce department warned that this spending spree would continue unabated in 1943 unless more effective steps were taken in price control, rationing and fiscal policies.

Star Dust

STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO By VIRGINIA VALE Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THE little town of Brawley, Calif., woke up one morning recently to find a motorized battalion of German troops, armed to the teeth, lining the streets. As the Mexican border's only 25 miles away, the townsfolk were a bit jittery. Then they took another look at the "invaders" and recognized them as Brawley high school boys, drafted by Columbia Pictures to represent a unit of the Nazi Afrika Korps in the picture "Somewhere in Sahara." Humphrey Bogart's starred in it.

Janice Gilbert, who's twenty, has been acting since she was eight, has been on the radio since she was ten. On "The O'Neills" she plays "Janice O'Neill" and also an infant and four children. But her most famous juvenile role is "Little Orphan Annie"—when she tours army camps, entertaining the boys, she gets vociferous requests for a session with "Annie."

The night Ann Ayars, Metro starlet, sang for the boys at Fort MacArthur, Calif., she got a rousing reception, but could have dispensed with part of it. Arriving in a pouring rain, she was escorted to the hall by a new recruit who led her smack into a deep puddle at the stage door. Ann fell in to her hips. She says that most of what the soldiers saw of her was mud!

Any Hollywood personage who discovers Lupe Velez watching him intently is likely to be uneasy; experience shows that Lupe's just gathering material for a devastatingly funny impersonation of him. Her imitations seldom reach the screen, but in "Redhead from Manhattan" she does several imitations of fellow stars. She plays identical cousins, both of whom are revue stars.

Lionel Barrymore was in a dangerous spot a while back, and it wasn't one of those things that are part of a scenario, when the actor knows he'll be rescued. Driving home, he miscalculated the depth of flood water near his ranch, and found himself sitting in his stalled car in water up to his neck. The swift current started moving the car toward deeper water. But neighboring farmers came along with chains and hauled the car back onto the highway. The car was ruined, but the famous-Barrymore wasn't damaged.

When Robert Ryan joined the army he knew that he'd have a job when he came back; he has a contract with RKO that assures his return to the screen at the war's end, at a salary exceeding the one he was getting when he left. Washington Digest

Little Evidence Seen of Farm Land Speculation

Rural America Seen as Bulwark Against Post-War Depression; 'Nervous Gentlemen' Admit Possibilities of Speculative Wave.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

If you see a cheerful glow along the horizon of rural America these evenings, you'll know what it is—not a prairie fire or the neighbor's barn, but the happy light of burning mortgages.

The farmers of America have had their lesson. They aren't throwing their money around this time. They are paying their debts. They are becoming the solid citizens of the nation. They are building a bulwark against a post-war depression that can save the nation financially, unless . . .

Right now, the financial health of rural America is better than it has been in many a long decade. But certain nervous gentlemen are beginning to worry. Will the farmer keep to the straight and narrow or will he be tempted to put down an option on distant hills which are beginning to turn an alluring green?

Listen to what one of those cautious gentlemen in Washington, Frank Wilson of the department of commerce, has to say. Why, you may ask, does the department of commerce, whose job it is to look after the welfare of the city man, worry about the farmer? Well, when the farmer goes broke, the city man closes up shop. But, a word from Mr. Wilson:

"While the level of farm values throughout most parts of the Middle West has increased 10 to 15 per cent in the last year, and the transfer of farm properties has been greatly accelerated, there is, as yet, no evidence of the recurrence of the destructive speculation in farm lands which followed the First World War."

So far so good. But here is Mr. Wilson's postscript: "Farm lending authorities throughout that area, however, admit that conditions are in the making from which a speculative wave might result unless price control measures can be effective in holding farm prices at or only moderately above present levels."

Mortgage Survey The department of commerce made a survey of the farm mortgage situation in 19 states where the bulk of the food production for war is being made.

The federal land banks and the Farm Credit Administration which has been watching this situation like a hawk has plenty of data. One out of every ten—or more than 100,000—farmer-borrowers from the 12 federal land banks and land bank commissioner repaid his loan in full in 1942.

In the 19 states the department of commerce studied, according to the 1940 census, there were more than three million farms, more than half of all the farms in the country. Their total value is well over half the total value of farm lands in the country.

The survey of this territory, just made public, shows that in 1940, '41 and '42, indebtedness of farmers to the Farm Credit Administration dropped a quarter of a billion dollars. This includes the drouth area in Kansas, one of the states hit hardest by the drouth, 10,000 farmers got out of debt and Kansas borrowers kept right on paying until they had deposited a million dollars in the "future payment fund" to anticipate labor installments. Similar statistics could be reeled off for other areas.

One thing that has helped the debt payment is the inability to get into further debt—for automobiles and other commodities which just aren't for sale.

Will that memory fade? Will the farmer's money begin to burn a hole in his pocket? Will those green pastures just over the hill begin to lure him beyond his means? As I said, the cautious folk in Washington are a little worried. These are some of the danger signals they see: A possible rise in values which cannot be exactly predicted or explained. But which is always a possibility, if not now, after the war. Then there will be an accumulation of cash; there will be a lot of war bonds in the safe deposit box or in the old sock. There will be a lot of husky young sons returning from the war for whom fathers will want to buy farms, there will be perhaps an increased demand for farm products.

as new foreign markets are opened or the United States begins to help feed a starving world.

In some places, there is evidence of the tendency toward speculation now. Lenders in Iowa are offering money against Iowa farm land as low as 2 1/2 per cent. Speculation in livestock is going on in some places. But there is no trend now toward the wild buying of World War I.

"And," says Mr. Wilson, "if the tremendous gains in the farm indebtedness situation can be held, the capacity of the great agricultural areas of the nation to absorb the flood of products that will come to all markets after the war will be tremendous."

The financial fate of post-war America is pretty much in the hands of the farmers. Let's hope he won't let it (and his spare cash) slip through his fingers.

Two-Way Attack On 'Beveridge Plan'

When the administration's "Beveridge plan" for increased social security and post-war adjustment was made public, congress proceeded to make it plain that they intended to pigeon-hole it. The general impression was that it was laid away because it was too "socialistic" to suit the right wingers or even some of the middle-of-the-roads.

But do not think that all the opposition came from one direction. The first adventure of the new social security program was, in reality, very much like the "Charge of the Light Brigade" for there were "cannons to right of them" and also "cannons to left of them" which volleyed and thundered. As I said, the offensive from the right was taken for granted. But the attack of the left wing, while not as vocal, seems to be just as vehement. There is proof in a press release which probably was released by very few papers. It comes from the "People's Lobby" in Washington, an institution which believes in "public ownership of natural resources, basic industries and essential processing and distributive agencies."

But the "People's Lobby" thinks the President's plan is nowhere near socialistic enough. In fact, it is just "another trick . . . to try to lull the people into a sense of false security while economic royalists continue, through ownership, to dictate the standards of living of the American people."

Washington—Geometric City The other day, I heard on a radio broadcast the statement that Washington was a geometric city. We have so many squares and circles and other geometric figures—Dupont circle that I pass every day, Lafayette square with its historic memories (not to mention its squirrels) where I spend my extra seconds; the Octagon house, built by a wealthy friend of George Washington, where society was lavishly entertained in the early 1800s, now preserved by the American Institute of Architects which bought it to preserve its stately beauty as well as to house their offices; the sprawling Pentagon building of the army, "a city with a roof over it."

With this in mind, I was suddenly impressed with the new patterns imposed on Washington since the war, the human figures, two of which I watched over my lunch in a restaurant the other day. At the next table were, not circles nor squares but human loops and bulges.

One was a slim man in eyeglasses. His nose was a loop, his smooth hair was looped back over his forehead. His gestures were looped, the back of the wrist bent and higher than his fingertips as he dangled his cigarette—I could only think of the paws of a lackadaisical pup begging for a sweet.

His partner was Mr. Bulge. The bulge began below the wrinkle in his vest and it was the only thing that kept him far enough away from the table to save his bulging nose from reaching the soup I could hear him inhaling. His hands bulged like the padded arms of an overstuffed chair in a hotel lobby. His cheeks were pink and bulging hams.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

The personnel section of the Japanese ministry of commerce has prepared a set of "laws of etiquette" which is to be distributed to Japanese officialdom throughout occupied Manchuria. The "laws" cover such details as "posture, attitude, salute, honorific address and address to subordinates." The manner of one's demeanor at meals and the manner of telephoning are detailed.

By removing unnecessary frills from scores of articles, ranging from hairpins to industrial power trucks, WPB last year saved 600,000 tons of steel, 17,000 tons of copper, 180,000,000 yards of cloth, 30,000 tons of leather, 460,000,000 feet of lumber, 227,000 tons of pulp, 35,000 tons of solder, 8,000 pounds of tungsten and enough man hours to build 23 Liberty ships.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

SAN JUAN: Expenditures on U. S. naval installations in Puerto Rico, hub of a network to fight enemy submarines, will total more than $100,000,000 by the end of this year, according to Vice Adm. John H. Hoover, Caribbean area commander, in a statement issued here. More than three-fourths of this sum has already been spent in the San Juan areas, he said.

MANAGUA: Primitive idols, grinding stones and ceramic objects that are expected to shed light on the life and customs of early Central American civilizations were unearthed by workmen excavating for the approaches to the Ochozogo bridge on the Inter-American highway near Rivas. The articles will be housed in the natural history museum of Managua.

Army Prepares to Rule Occupied Countries; Officers Taught Characteristics of Beaten Nations to Assure Efficient Administration

Specialists in Law, Finance and Communication Recruited for Service Training; Aim Is to Win Conquered Foe's Friendship.

Looking ahead to the time when land now under Axis domination will be wrested from them, the army is operating a school of military government under general supervision of the provost marshal general at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville.

Designed to train officers for future duties in military government and liaison work, the school provides a highly intensified 16 weeks' course for qualified commissioned officers in the army of the United States and to a small number of civilians with specialized training. The members of this latter group are commissioned in the specialist reserve section, Officers Reserve corps, prior to their attendance at the school.

When the United States army captures territory from the enemy, it is the responsibility of the commanding general of that particular theater of operations to set up a military government over the occupied land. He becomes military governor and is in supreme control until such time as it is possible to re-establish a civil government.

It is extremely difficult for the commanding general's regular staff to handle the countless details involved in the administration of a military government due to the press of their other duties and the specialized knowledge required in many cases. Thus the war department, through the Wickersham school of military governments and other special schools, is training officer personnel to act as top administrative officers and as junior officers in military governments under the direction of the theater's commanding general. A pool of technical talent has also been established, the members of which are called upon to fill technical and advisory posts.

Brig.-Gen. C. W. Wickersham

The experience gained in 20-odd occupations during our history is valuable, as is that gained by other of the United Nations whose experience is available to us. The policy of the United States army in regard to military government, and the one on which the teachings of the school are based, is as follows:

Military Government Designed to Win Conquered People

The military government should be just, humane, and mild as practicable, and the welfare of the people governed should always be the aim of every person engaged therein.

The school of military government obtains its students from recommendations of the 10 service commands, various supply and administrative divisions of the war department, the commanding generals of the various armies, from personal applications of officers between the grades of captain and colonel, and from a selected few of the specially qualified civilians commissioned in the Specialist Reserve section, Officers Reserve corps, who are members of the reserve pool of technical and professional specialists created by the provost marshal general.

Those with experience and training in the fields of public works (transportation, gas, electric and water systems); finance (taxation, monetary systems, etc.); public health (sanitation, medicine, disease control); education (supervision of school systems); public safety (maintenance of order, prevention of crime); legal (supervision of military and civil courts); communications (postal service, telegraph, telephone, etc.); public welfare (care of infants, children, the needy and aged); and economics (supervision of agriculture, manufacture, and trade) are selected for further detailed instruction at the school.

Teach Principles of Government, Character of Enemy Countries

Instruction at the school of military government is of two types: a lecture program, and a program of practical problems.

Under the first, students are taught the principles of military government, military courts, proclamations, ordinances, state and municipal governments, international law and public administration. They are also given detailed information regarding the conditions and characteristics of the countries and regions which may be occupied.

Under the second, the class, divided first into small committees, actually conceives plans for the setting up of military governments in certain selected cities, countries and regions. This affords students practical experience in applying the principles and methods they have studied in the lecture program.

Many factors must be taken into consideration before determining the particular type of military government to be set up in each territory. Location is important—whether it lies in the combat zone, in the zone of communications, or is an occupied country after the armistice. This condition greatly affects the procedure on questions having to do with protection of food and water supplies, rationing of food and clothing, guarding of banks and public buildings, establishment of blackouts, etc.

The final exercise in the course given at the school consists of drawing up plans for military government of the principal enemy countries. These final plans are put to practical use by the army. They are studied by the proper authorities for any valuable suggestions they may contain as regards to actual methods of operation when enemy countries are occupied. Students' solutions are studied by research groups at the school for the purpose of perfecting and refining them for future consideration and employment.

The commandant of the school of military government is Brig.-Gen. C. W. Wickersham, a prominent lawyer in civilian life. General Wickersham is a veteran of the last World war in which he was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal and the Legion of Honor. Prior to his appointment as commandant of the school, he served as assistant chief of staff, G-2, first army.

In addition to the school of mil-

tary government, courses in military government are offered at the provost marshal general's training center, Fort Custer, Mich., to selected junior officers and enlisted men of the corps of military police. These courses are designed to train men for future assignment to occupational police units in areas taken over by our armed forces.

Washington Determines Civil Policy; Army Administrators Such Policy

Since the army's mission insofar as military government is concerned is primarily an administrative one, many underlying policies of such a government cannot be determined by the war department. The political policy will be set by the state department, the fiscal policy by the treasury department, the Federal Reserve board, etc. Because of this limitation, the army selects a certain number of technicians for military government work from the nominations of certain government agencies such as state, treasury, and commerce departments, Board of Economic Warfare, etc.

These technically qualified civilians are formed into a pool. They are commissioned in the specialist reserve section, Officers Reserve corps, but kept on an inactive status until needed. They may be called to active duty for a training period, not to exceed four months, during which time they will receive army indoctrination courses and special instruction at selected colleges and universities on the areas to which they may subsequently be assigned, as required. In addition, certain civilian agencies have been asked to make special studies in the field of international law and economics, the results to be incorporated with existing information on military government.

Besides training officers for military government, the provost marshal general also trains liaison officers. With American troops stationed in many United Nations countries and territories all over the world, friendly contact between our soldiers and civil governments and civilian populations is of prime importance. To further this relationship and to promote a better understanding between these groups, is the important duty of our army's liaison officers.

ONE YEAR AGO—TIME GAINED AS YANKS HOLD ON AT BATAAN

April 9, 1942

Through the jagged jungle of Bataan a small, open car bearing a white flag chugged toward the Japanese lines. In the car were Maj.-Gen. E. B. King and Col. E. P. Williams who were to announce the surrender of 35,000 American and Filipino troops.

Since January, these troops had been waging a valiant battle against a numerically superior and better equipped Japanese army in the tropical fastness of Bataan.

From the foxholes dug out of the earth; from behind the towering brush; along the scraggly mountains and hillsides, and under the torment of blazing sun, these men fought off the invaders for four months.

Those four months gave the United Nations precious time to feverishly reform their ranks in the Southwest Pacific. Those months occupied the bulk of a Japanese army that might otherwise have driven into Australasia.

By April 9, however, the limit of their resistance had been reached. Their numbers dwindling, their supplies running low—without adequate support of aircraft, tanks and guns—they were being pressed farther and farther back toward the sea. A few managed to escape to the rockbound fortress of Corregidor, which also later surrendered.

The spirit of this army was best described by Lieut. Norman Reyes, a young Filipino officer broadcasting from Corregidor April 9. He said: "... With heads bloody but unbowed, they have yielded to the superior force of the enemy."

"The world will long remember the epic struggle that Filipino and American soldiers put up in the jungle fastness and along the rugged coast of Bataan. They have stood up uncomplaining under the constant grueling fire of the enemy for more than three months. Besieged on land and blockaded by sea, cut off from all sources of help in the Philippines and in America, these intrepid fighters have done all that human endurance could bear."

After paying due respect to the gallantry of the American army in a speech February 20, President Manuel Quezon of the Philippines then stressed the role the Filipino played in the courageous struggle on Bataan.

"By our decision to fight by the side of the United States, by our heroism and by our loyalty to the American flag, we won a battle greater than we lost," Quezon said. "Our decision and our heroism have won for our people real freedom for all time."

"You know what President Roosevelt said in his proclamation to the Filipino people on December 28, 1941. These were his words: 'I give to the people of the Philippines my solemn pledge that their freedom will be redeemed and their independence established and protected. The entire resources in men and materials of the United States stands behind that pledge.'"

"In the name of the Philippines, I am a signatory to the Atlantic charter. We are one of the United Nations. And whether the war is over before or after July 4, 1946, the date fixed for the establishment of the Philippine republic, I am certain we shall have our own representation in the peace conference."

Real Cooking Problems Abound on Guadalcanal

Housewives who think it a burden to plan and prepare meals for the average American family might grow old in a week facing the problem of marine corps cooks on Guadalcanal.

With no electric or gas appliances, and without American markets and main stores, these uniformed culinary experts have to feed the biggest-eating, hardest-to-please families of all.

With no electric power plants or natural gas supply, all meals have to be prepared on wood or kerosene stoves. Because the tropical heat makes storage of fresh foods difficult, canned foods must be used almost exclusively. This reduces the possibility of variety in the fare. Troops served by the galley are continually on the move. Each troop movement means a change in galley site.

A part of the unit is generally on some special detail which makes it late for meals.

Among the canned rations hash, stew and beans predominate. It takes genius to make hash anything but hash, stew anything but stew and beans anything.

One cook who baked pies before he ever thought of joining the marines, has managed to enhance the hash and stew by disguising it in the folds of some of his excellent pastry and calling it meat and vegetable pie. And another can at least make soup from the beans.

ELMER TWITCHELL AND THE VICTORY GARDEN

Elmer Twitchell issued a communique today announcing that he has launched his spring Victory Garden drive again. "I never won a victory over it yet," he said sadly, "but I am going to try one more."

"I can't give you much time," he told reporters, "I'm going over the whole situation to check up on gains and losses in my campaigns so far, find out where I am, consolidate my forces and decide on my 1943 tactics."

"What's your tactical position?" a reporter asked.

"I'm not positive," he replied. "This is only my second summer in the field. Last summer it was tough and go most of the way, with a pretty serious defeat at the finish. I held my own until August when overwhelming forces just about ruined me."

"Are you more confident of victory this season?"

"I am stronger than I was a year ago. I've trained hard all winter. I've got some new weapons and I have the will to win."

"Do you intend to wage a defense or offensive war?"

"I found out last summer that you can't get anywhere with a Victory Garden on the defensive. Those damned bugs love it if you stay on the defensive. That's right up their alley."

"Don't forget," Elmer resumed, "that all these garden pests and blights were in a much better position than I was when the fight started. They had been doing nothing else but waging an all-out war for years. I was green at it."

"Was it the element of surprise that bothered you?" he was asked.

"Not so much surprise as the power and determination of the enemy," he replied. "And of course their reserves are inexhaustible. I'd lick 'em and think I had wiped out the last bug, and up would come another battalion of 'em. That sort of thing gets pretty discouraging."

"Who do you think was your toughest foe?" a reporter asked.

"I thought General Aphis was tough early in the season but later the Mexican Bean Beetle proved harder to beat. His armored attack on bean vines is terrific. Then came the Japanese Beetle. He used heavy tanks and is strictly a suicide fighter."

Elmer seemed depressed just reviewing last year's garden campaign.

"I threw them all back up to midsummer, but then General Cutworm attacked in force, using blitz methods. He was supported by waves of corn borers, potato bugs and snails."

"How about your chemical warfare?" he was asked.

"Oh, I gave 'em all I had, but they had too many fresh shock troops to throw in. But do you know what really broke down my morale last season?"

"No."

"The neighbors' chickens," concluded Elmer. "That was what got me. I thought they were neutral. They were Fifth Columnists!"

A Guernsey keller on a farm in Elmwood, N. Y., suddenly stopped contented grazing, tore across the field and dove into a swimming pool. Such behavior is hard to explain. But we must remember that a new can't get into the headlines today by merely doing the things mother used to do.

FIRST AID AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

REPLACING FUSES

EACH electric circuit in a house, and there may be several, is protected by fuses, which burn out when a circuit is overloaded. Replacement of a fuse for the restoration of the circuit is a simple matter, but in order to do this, it must be known which of the fuses protects the blown-out circuit. A home owner who is looking for something to do on a rainy day can spend some of his time by marking his fuse box to indicate the circuit controlled by each fuse. This may mean unscrewing a fuse and then going upstairs to see which of the lights will not go on by the throwing of its switch. A method that involves less running around is to use a small radio set, turning it on loudly enough to be heard in the cellar, or wherever else the fuse box is located. The unscrewing of a fuse that stops its playing proves the control of the circuit of the room in which the set is connected. The set is then moved to another room and the process repeated until all of the fuses are identified. A diagram of the fuse box can then be made, indicating the circuit controlled by each fuse.

No fuse should be unscrewed without first opening the house switch to avoid a possible short circuit from a slip or a mishandling. But it should again be closed, of course, before continuing with the test.

Noise Through a Ceiling

Question: What can be done so that we will not hear the people upstairs when they walk?

Answer: Carpeting the floors in the upper rooms is one way. Fair results can be obtained by insulating the ceiling below. Apply a layer of insulating board directly on the ceiling, then furr down the ceiling, fastening the furring to the walls and not to the ceiling. Nail another layer of insulating board on the furring, or place a blanket insulation between the furring strips, and finish off with gypsum wallboard. Do not expect perfect results, for that will require a change in the floor structure.

Warped Coffee Table

Question: What can I do to straighten out a walnut coffee table?

Answer: If the table is valuable, you should engage a cabinetmaker to take out the warp. But if you wish to try doing the job yourself, follow this method: Remove the top and rest it on blocks of wood, with concave side up. Place weights of 30 to 50 pounds on the high ends of warped corners. After some days the top will straighten. The underside of the top should be well varnished or shellacked to check absorption of moisture; the top also may need this treatment.

Dry Well

Question: What is the right way to make a dry well to take the water that runs off the roof? How far should it be from the foundation wall?

Answer: Dig a hole of ample size and line it with brick or stones laid up without cement, leaving the earth bottom bare. The top should be far enough below the surface of the earth to be covered with a slab of reinforced concrete. Over that there should be eight inches or more of soil. The dry well should be at least ten feet away from the foundation walls; further still, if possible.

Decalcomanias

Question: My white-painted kitchen has a lovely border of decalcomanias that I wish to protect when repainting the walls. Is there any way of doing this?

Answer: You can get Scotch masking tape that is used by painters for this and similar jobs. After painting, the tape can be removed easily without damaging the decalcomanias.

Removing Soot

Question: Is it advisable to use a vacuum cleaner to get soot out of a furnace before starting it for the winter?

Answer: A vacuum cleaner will do a good job of removing the soot, but I should not advise your using a good one for this purpose. Once the machine is used for cleaning a furnace it should not be used for general house cleaning.

Nails

Question: I want to put on asbestos siding, but cannot get copper-alloy nails. Could I use galvanized nails, or would they rust and run?

Answer: If you can get them, use hot-dipped zinc-coated nails. Heavily galvanized nails would do as well.

I LICKED MY CONSTIPATION

Of course, it wasn't due to anything organically wrong with me. It was just ordinary constipation, due to lack of "bulk" in the diet.

A dose of some medicinal laxative gives only temporary relief for such constipation. You got to find something that gets at the cause and corrects it. I found just that—in KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN is a wonderful-tasting breakfast cereal and a swell way to start the morning. Eat it regularly, drink plenty of water and—if your constipation's like mine—you'll "Join the Regulars" too! ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, Michigan.

FEVERISH COLD SUFFERERS NEED EXTRA B Complex Vitamins

Intensive Scientific laboratory and clinical studies proved this startling fact... proved that additional B Complex Vitamins are used by the body cells in feverish illness. With those deficient in these vitamins, the feverish stage of a cold demands an extra supply. If you're suffering with the fever of a cold, perhaps your limited diet does not supply enough vitamins! Don't risk a deficiency. Start taking GROVE'S B Complex Vitamins immediately. Unit for unit, you can't get finer quality, potency guaranteed and they're distributed by makers of famous Elmer's Quinine Cold Tablets. And you get the wonderful benefits of these amazing vitamins at a regular price. Only 2¢ for the regular size. Only $1.00 for the large size—over a month's supply. For such a small cost, you can't afford to risk deficiency. If you reach the feverish stage of a cold, start taking GROVE'S B Complex Vitamins!

OBITUARY

Mrs. James A. Cooper, Lucy Allen Henley, youngest daughter of Thomas W. and Nancy M. Henley was born near Angus, Lincoln County, N. M., Nov. 1, 1885 and departed this life April 8, 1948 after a very short illness.

She was married to James A. Cooper July 16, 1906. To this union were born four children, Lillian Gladys, who preceded her mother in death; George Thomas, of Tucumcari; Lin B. of Hemet, Calif., and Lealy Eleanor Van Schoyck of Walsenburg, Colo. Besides her husband and children she is survived by seven grandchildren, one sister Mrs. Nellie A. Brantum of Carrizozo and three brothers, R. H. Henley of Fresno, Calif., W. A. Henley of Wilbur, Wash., and John W. Henley of Kearsney, Texas; also numerous nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were conducted at the home of her sister, Mrs. Brantum, with Bro. W. B. Andrews of Tucumcari, officiating. Mrs. Boat, Yochem and Lemar and Messrs. Colonel Jones and W. B. Andrews sang "The Old Rugged Cross," "Mock of Ages," "Nearer, Still Nearer." Will Ed Harris, H. M. Kennedy, Jim Hall, F. P. Oglehorn, Herman E. Kelt, Wm. W. Gallacher acted as pall bearers. After the last sad rites her body was taken to White Oaks and laid to rest in the family plot. The floral offerings were many and beautiful and were prepared and arranged by the loving hands of her niece and nephew, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jones of Tucumcari.

She was a gentle, kindly Christian woman, loved by all who knew her, and her friends are numbered by her acquaintances. She will be greatly missed by her sorrowing family and friends.

SOME DAY

I wonder if we realize?
That those we cherish neath His skies,
Are God's own treasures on display
And he will take them home someday.
To teach us all, the while we live
Unselfishness, the need to give.
Although they're ever seem'd apart
They really were His, from the start
And in His wisdom doth decreed
That they should nearer to Him be
His arms, so tender, from above,
Embrace them in Heavenly love,
Parting, this always seems so sad
But do we realize, we've had
The chance to love and know that they
Await our coming; that someday
When earthly work, and life, shall cease
Again they're ours, mid eternal peace?—Contributed.

Make-Up Man Quits After 33-Year Service

Tom Jones, make-up man on the night shift of the Newspaper Printing Corporation, jolted his pages of Monday's edition of The Times into place and walked out of the plant into retirement.

He wound up his newspaper work on the same location that he started to work for the Buis-Rood Printing Company 33 years, six months and one day ago in San Angelo, when he was 15.

GREGORIO PINO

On Monday of this week, Gregorio Pino, who had been ill for several weeks past, passed away at his ranch home near here. The funeral was held Tuesday at the Santa Rita Church with Father Salvatore conducting the same. Burial was local. He leaves to mourn his loss, five daughters and one son, to all of whom the sympathy of community is tendered.

Spund The Alarm (Clock!)
(Christian Science Monitor)

The Alarm clocks are coming back. WPB has lifted the ban on their manufacture. It has recognized (what was not thought of when the stream of alarm clocks was stopped at source) that the round-faced little fellow is a soldier too, whose sentinal duty is essential to helping toward the war of civilization against barbarism.

The very circumstances that brought manufacture to a stop brought a new and increasing need for alarm clocks. When the sleeper has a war job it is especially important to wake up and be at it. Mrs. Carter's expedition (as she told it to Mr. Johnson and he to Boswell) is nowadays impractical. Mrs. Carter had a candle—her night light—a piece of string, and a heavy weight; it was possible for an ingenious woman so to juxtapose these objects that after a definite period of time candle would be extinguished, string would drop weight, and weight would awaken Mr. Carter.

The article appearing in this paper last week to the effect that Julian Martinez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Sanchez of Carrizozo recently promoted to Motor Mechanics Mate School, was erroneously sent here from Dodge City, Kansas Army Air School and did not refer to Mr. and Mrs. Ben Sanchez of Carrizozo, but this office printed the message as it was sent from that Army Post. We were by correct that part of the message. He was not a son in the Sanchez family here.
