VOL. XXIII - NO. 18

CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1934

PRICE $2.00 THE YEAR

PERSONALS

Miss Daisy Samora and Miss Elvera Archuleta spent the weekend in Silver City.

Mesdames Bell and Bank of the Jicarilla country were business visitors here Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bello and daughter Charlotte of Claunch were business visitors Tuesday.

Miss Ruth Loudin will go to Capitan to teach Science in the high school. She will leave for Capitan the latter part of this week.

Rev. R. A. Long, pastor of the Baptist Church of Capitan was here last Saturday and while in town, he paid a friendly visit to this office.

Mrs. Raymond Davis, mother Mrs. Northrup and little daughter Sandra, were here from the Davis ranch near Capitan last Saturday.

Carpenter J. E. Tom has returned from the Geo. McDonald ranch, where he did some carpenter work for George on his ranch home.

Howard Bullard, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bullard of Columbus, N. M., is here this week visiting his many friends here and at Ancho.

Miss Mary Greer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Greer of Capitan, has returned from a pleasant visit with the Ira Greer family at Tucumcari.

Staff Sgt. and Mrs. Jack Harkey are here from Corvallis, Oregon, the Sgt. being on a 15-day furlough, which they are spending with Jack's relatives.

Wm. Nickels is here this week from Wilmette, Ill., and will visit for a short time with his parents Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nickels at the ranch home at Jake Springs.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Collier were here last Saturday from their ranch home near Alto, transacting some business matters and returning home in the afternoon.

Mrs. Ruth Long, of Strauser, N. M., is visiting her friend, Mrs. Jackie Silvers of Ancho. They made a pleasure trip to the mountain regions in the Ruidoso country last Sunday and remained for several days.

Roy Richard is here this week on a ten-day furlough previous to his being taken across the water to help thin out the Nazis and Japs. He has already had two shots for jungle fevers and will have two more when he returns to Oklahoma City.

Mrs. Jimmie LaRue, nee Miss Jane Norman, has returned from a visit to her husband at Fort Sill, Okla. Jane said that she found Pvt. Jimmie doing nicely but had lost some weight as a result of training, but Jimmie has the stuff that can "take it" — and how!

C. H. Murray, well driller was here attending to business matters last Saturday. He had just finished a well for Mr. Ted Collier finding an abundant flow of water at a depth of 140 feet. He also has finished several other wells of late, on the Nogal-Mesa, all of which are giving an ample amount of water.

Claunch Pinto Cooperators Rseed Abandoned Fields

Ranchers and farmers in the Claunch Pinto Soil Conservation District are taking advantage of the opportunity offered them through the district to get their old submarginal fields rseeded to grass.

During the month of July, J. W. Lee at Corona seeded a 10 acre abandoned field to crested wheat. The grass is up and with the sparsely covered weeds to shade it will make a very good growth this fall. Mr. A. C. Hester has also seeded an old field to crested wheat, and plans to fence the field so livestock will not tramp and eat the tender grass.

Clarence E. Neeley, Noel Hibler, R. G. Blackwell, and Douglas Hibler from Mountainair have also seeded old fields to crested wheat.

Mr. Frank Maxwell from Claunch got several hundred pounds of crested wheat through the district to seed 75 acres.

He has planted the field to sudan grass first. By leaving a 12 inch stubble or more on the field, the young crested wheat grass will be protected from severe wind erosion in the fall and spring.

There are fifteen other co-operators who plan to seed old fields to permanent pasture during August or the first of September. If you are planning to seed abandoned fields to grass see your local district supervisors who will advise you about how to obtain the seed and the best method to plant.

Mrs. Leo Sanchez has gone to Norman, Okla., to visit Leo who is in the Naval Training Station at that place.

Mrs. Mary Pruet, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Rhoda Freeman Kohler at the Freeman ranch, left yesterday for her home in Tucson, Ariz.

Sgt. Juan Padilla is here this week from Fort Bliss and will visit relatives until today, when he will go to some fort in California. Juan has received two papers from England from his brother, Corp Manuel Padilla.

1st Lieut. Bradley Smith and Mrs. Smith came in Monday from Yuma, Ariz., and will spend his leave-of-absence with Bradley's parents and sisters here. They look extremely well considering the fact that they came from a place as hot as Yuma.

Marvin Burton has returned from Calico Rock, Ark., where he visited his brother Paul and other relatives for about two weeks. Marvin had a nice visit but the jiggers and mosquitoes also had a good time feeding on New Mexico refreshments. He told us that he was more than glad to get back to the Sunshine State.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Fesperman and daughter-in-law Mrs. Billie Fesperman, who have been visiting the Harry Miller family, Mrs. Gussie Johnson and mother Mrs. Julia Miller for the past several weeks, left Tuesday, the Fespermans going to California to visit relatives and Mrs. Billie Fesperman returning to her home in Birmingham.

Business Men's Club

Sixteen members convened at Community Center building August 18th at 6:30 p. m. President H. E. Kelt, presided.

C. P. Radcliff announced Rev. Loudin had been appointed Co. Chairman for the office of Civilian Defense. John E. Hall asked how many members were now on the roster and the Secretary was instructed to report next meeting. John E. Hall brought up the vicinity of the depot and made a motion that a committee be appointed to take the matter up with the S. P. and get them to build such an underpass in the immediate future. Motion seconded and carried; Pres. Kelt appointed John E. Hall, Sabino Vidaurri, F. A. English, R. E. Shafer, and R. E. Lemon with full instructions to remain active until the job was done. Mayor Finley reported that water had been made available to the soldier encampment near the school house. Rev. Loudin announced that Sunday the fourth Sunday in each month had been designated as man's Sunday and all men were invited to hear Rev. Loudin next Sunday. — Felix Ramey, Secretary.

TRUCK ACCIDENT

Lieut. Harold Hoffman, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hoffman of Carrizozo, N. M., is now a graduate of the Army Air School at San Marcos, Texas and has received his Army Air Force navigator wings. He has completed 18 weeks of the sternest kind of training which involved 15,000 miles of practice combat flying and has been qualified to navigate giant Allied Bombers to Axis targets any place on the globe.

On Wednesday afternoon Aug. 11 the W. S. C. S. met at the home of Mrs. John Hall. The meeting was called to order by the president Mrs. Charles Hodgins who led the devotionals. After the business meeting Mrs. C. A. Snow had a very interesting program on the subject "The Volunteer Women in the Church." Mrs. John Loudin gave a talk on Woman's Work.

Mrs. Burns read an interesting letter from one of our boys in the South Pacific Islands telling us how the church helps them. Ruth Loudin sang a solo. The committee served delicious refreshments. Mrs. Condit joined the society. The next meeting is August 25th at the home of Mrs. John Loudin.

There is Church School each Sunday at 10 a. m. We need you to help us make it a success. At 11 a. m. each Sunday is Preaching Service. This is your church and the advancement depends on the people. One person alone cannot build a church.

Rev. John J. Loudin, Minister.

SINGING CONVENTION
The Lincoln County Singing Convention will be held at Ancho on the 4th Sunday in September, which will be on Sept. 26. Everybody invited

—Colonel Jones, President.
Mrs. B. A. Dudley is the new clerk at the local post-office.

GRAND JURY

The District Court Clerk's office has received word from Judge Frenger that he would probably call a Grand Jury for Lincoln County when he convenes the fall term of court, September 6th. Judge Frenger contemplates calling a Grand Jury as there may be some persons who have Criminal matters that they would like to take up with a Grand Jury instead of through preliminary hearing before a Justice of the Peace. Anyone having matters to take up with the Grand Jury should be ready when the term of court convenes.

No Sales to Minors

The problem of juvenile delinquency has been on the increase since we have been engaged in the present war, not only here but all over the nation. This is written both, as a warning and for the purpose of asking you to cooperate in this matter. As you know, there is a severe penalty for selling liquor of any kind to a person under the age of 21 years. We contemplate calling a grand jury this year in each county of this district to investigate into certain conditions. This information is being sent to all liquor dealers in this judicial district. If a person has a selective service card his age will be on it, and if he doesn't have one, you will know this he is under 18 years of age, as all males over 18 are required to register.

W. T. Scoggin, Jr., District Attorney.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO
By VIRGINIA VALE
Released by Western Newspaper Union

A NOVEL contribution to Hollywood's and radio's war efforts is the "Sew and Sew" club, headed by Penny Singleton, who's "Blondie" of the air and the screen. Penny organized the club to perform emergency sewing jobs on servicemen's uniforms, ranging from simple repairs to alterations. She has enlisted some of Hollywood's outstanding movie and radio luminaries as members of her unique organization. And anyone who encounters thousands of servicemen on leave in a strange city will realize how valuable it is.

Joe Howard, perhaps the oldest performer in radio, is still one of the most successful, judging by a deal that he recently completed. Joe, singing troubador of the "Gay Nineties Revue," over CBS Monday nights, sold Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer the film rights to "The Time, the Place and the Girl," a hit musical which he wrote and produced several decades ago.

On July 18 Dick Haymes made his debut on the air's "Here's to Romance." July 19 he made screen tests. At one o'clock on the 20th, 20th Century Fox executives looked at the tests—and at 4:30 Haymes signed a contract to make two films a year for the next seven years. Three months ago he was singing with Tommy Dorsey's band.

Hollywood's oldest summer school is composed of four students: Bonita Granville, Anne Shirley, Kent Smith and Rita Corday. They study Chinese. Their teacher is Edward Dmytryk, he is the director who, following his success with "Hitler's Children," was signed to direct RKO's "Behind the Rising Sun." He began studying Chinese some years ago.

Lou Crosby, radio announcer, will make his film debut as a Nazi soldier captured by Russian guerrillas in "One Hour of Glory," Casey Robinson production for RKO. Announcer for the Lum 'n Abner program, Crosby has one of radio's best speaking voices.

Most radio executives think that summer radio fare should be light and frothy to succeed, but the latest survey figures indicate that the public doesn't agree. "Screen Guild Players," Monday night CBS dramatic series that stars Hollywood's top names, leads all the others in listener popularity, according to Hooper and Crossley survey figures. This is the program on which none of the actors and actresses are paid; the money they would ordinarily receive goes to the Screen Actors guild, to aid indigent movie people.

Betty Rhodes has begun making her second Personal Album for OWI. These albums contain recordings of songs and informal talks and are sent to Alaska, Ireland, Africa—wherever American troops are stationed at a great distance from home. The singing star recently finished the feminine lead in a musical-comedy called "Salute for Three."

Kate Smith, in her 13th year as a radio star, has signed a new three-year contract. Her contracts are unique in that they're always for three years, and the options fall due at the end of each season, when the old one still has two years to run.

Cecil Brown has no crystal ball—but on May 20 the news broadcaster said "The Italians might pop up with a chastened Count Ciano, or Dino Grandi... or a Marshal Badoglio with new-found courage." Just two months and five days early!

ODDS AND ENDS—Ella Mae Morse, singer on the Johnny Mercer program, was dickered with two film companies while a third dickered for the use of Ella Mae's four-month-old baby in a movie. Feodor Chaliapin, son of the famous Russian singer, will play a Russian soldier in United Artists' "The Girl From Leningrad." Neil Hamilton, old-timer of the movies, is making a comeback; the first step will be the role of the husband in "Since You Went Away." Thelma Schoon, one of the most brilliant young actresses of the New York stage, has joined the cast of NBC's "Snow Village," the serial laid in rural New England.

Mussolini's Meteoric Career Recalled as He Makes Exit

How Italy's Master Rose to Power and Why He Collapsed

By ELLIOTT J. PINE

On July 25, 1943, Benito Mussolini, dictator of Italy for 21 years, tearfully resigned his offices, and turned his government over to King Victor Emmanuel. The immediate reason for the dictator's relinquishing of power is said to be his inability to obtain greater military aid from Germany. The Fascist council voted 19 to 7 against accepting his plan of abandoning more than half the country to the Allies, and of establishing a defense line in the north. When Mussolini realized that he could not enforce his will as he was accustomed, he stepped out, or according to other accounts, was forced out.

More basic than this dispute on war plans, however, was the increasing and bitter distrust of Mussolini, and the Fascist party he headed. The Italian people, most observers say, never wished to enter World War II. Defeats, losses and hardships have turned the people of Italy away from Fascism, and revolt was brewing ever hotter. When Mussolini went, Fascism ended too.

King Victor Emmanuel, who has always retained the shadow of authority, has given the official version of the situation in this statement: "His Majesty, the King-Emperor, has accepted the resignation from the offices of chief of government, prime minister, and secretary of state, which was tendered by His Excellency, signor Benito Mussolini, and has appointed as chief of government, prime minister, and secretary of state, His Excellency, Marshal of Italy, signor Pietro Badoglio."

At the time this statement was made public, it was pretended that Mussolini's ill health was the reason for his leaving office, but this rather weak excuse was soon dropped.

The new government thus established by the king and Marshal Badoglio is generally considered to signify the end of the Fascist party. The structure that held Italy tightly for two decades apparently has collapsed by the removal of one man. Actually the party has been crumbling from within for years, say informed correspondents.

Fascism Began 24 Years Ago. "Fascism" as a name dates from March 23, 1919, when Mussolini and 145 others organized the "Fasci Italiani di Combattimento" meaning, "Italian fighting groups." The word "Fasci" comes from the old Roman symbol of authority, the "Fasces," a beheading ax with a bundle of scourging rods bound on the handle. It can be seen on the reverse of an American dime.

During the following two years, this little party increased rapidly. While Mussolini did not actually found it, perhaps, he at least was one of its earliest and strongest leaders. He soon came out in front, a vigorous man of 30, with a compelling manner and oratorical persuasiveness.

He was born in 1884, the son of a village blacksmith and country school teacher, in Predappio, Romagna province. When he completed grade school, he became a teacher in a neighboring village, and soon took to stump speaking for the Socialist party. His political activities brought him into several clashes with the law. He became a writer, and rose to be editor of the Socialist organ, "Avanti."

During World War I, he served as a corporal, and he participated in the Fiume campaign of 1919. Soon after being discharged from service he met a few kindred spirits, and began the organization of the Fascists.

It was a time of great unrest and unemployment. Although victorious in the war, Italy had suffered heavy losses, and was oppressed by a ponderous war debt. Being a country naturally poor in resources and only slightly industrialized at the time, the post-war depression bore down more weightily than on other nations. Many were embittered about their frustrated hopes for territorial gains through the Versailles treaty. They blamed Britain and France for leaving Italy out.

The wealthy and conservative class feared the spread of communism, and many churchmen added their voices to the clamor. The national assembly was divided into numerous bickering and log-rolling factions, and the premier, signor Facta, was not a strong enough man for a crisis.

The March on Rome. Assembling the Fascist militia, the party's private army, in Civitavecchia, on October 27, 1922, he began the famous "March on Rome." When he approached the capital with 250,000 armed men, Premier Facta, and Marshal (then General) Badoglio begged the king, the same Victor Emmanuel, to stop the marchers with machine gun fire and the bayonets of the regular army. The king, who hated bloodshed, refused to give the order. Three days later, he acceded to Mussolini's demands, and appointed him premier. From that day onward, Mussolini has been continuously in complete control of Italy, until the other day. Ironically, he turned his power over to Victor Emmanuel and Badoglio, who might have stopped him 21 years earlier.

As soon as Mussolini found himself firmly in the saddle, he set about making himself and his party absolute. All political parties were banned except the Fascist, and many social, cultural and religious societies were closed down under the force of these laws. Party members were placed in every position of authority in the civil and military administration. Business and professional men soon found it to their advantage to join the party, or to get on good terms with some important member.

For a time, the Fascist regime appeared to be a decided benefit to Italy. Domestic order was restored, business and finance stabilized and encouraged, employment stimulated by public works, and a program of social benefits put into operation. The Fascist regime floated international loans, built hydroelectric plants, opened mines, drained swamps, introduced new manufactures, and in many ways brought temporary advantages and prosperity to Italy, accustomed to backwardness and poverty.

DON'T BOTHER THE PILOT—A propaganda poster showing Mussolini at the controls of a big bombing plane (he is an amateur flier), warned Italians in 1939 "not to disturb the pilot, especially when he is engaged in tempestuous navigation; nor ask the way at every turn."

This appeal for blind and unquestioning faith in the wisdom of the leader is the keynote of Fascism, as of all dictatorships. Mussolini "piloted" Italy into the war, then when the navigation really got "tempestuous" he "balled out."

But the Italians soon discovered the price of these gains was the loss of liberty. In 1925, Mussolini, or Il Duce, "the leader," as he liked to be called, had a law passed legalizing his position as prime minister, and rendering him responsible to no one but the king. This meant, in effect, that he could do as he pleased.

During the twenties Italy shared somewhat in the prosperity of the post-war world, but the great depression fell heavily on the nation, the more so because of its reliance on international trade. Its artificial prosperity began to crumble, despite tight controls, and unrest and dissatisfaction began to fester here and there, under cover.

Land Hunger. Meanwhile Mussolini was thinking of expanding Italy territorially. The League of Nations had prevented him from undertaking any small wars of conquest, such as were common in the 19th century. In 1923, he had a "causos belli" against Greece, but he did not push the issue to open war. Nothing occupied his large army excepting patrol action in North Africa.

In 1933, Adolf Hitler rose to power as chancellor of Germany, as head of the National Socialists, or Nazis, a party that had much in common with the Fascists of Italy. Mussolini soon welcomed his imitator, and began to plan international adventures.

Nevertheless, a year later, when Hitler began to threaten Austria, Il Duce offered to support that weak state. Next year Italy declared war

'Let Us Live Like Lions'

IN HIS SECOND YEAR of rule, 1923, Premier Mussolini was already showing his yearning to rattle the sword. He sent such a sharp diplomatic note to Greece on the murder of members of an Italian commission on the Greek-Albanian frontier, that world cancelleries feared a war was near.

on Ethiopia, Mussolini's first openly imperialistic move, and a successful defiance of the League.

Italian and German policies were moving closer together through similarity of interests, and Hitler and Mussolini began concluding a series of treaties and agreements that culminated in the formation of the "Rome-Berlin Axis."

Both Italy and Germany sent troops into the Spanish civil war. The Italian troops showed even their distaste for fighting, but the officers gained valuable experience with new weapons and tactics, especially airplanes and tanks.

Mussolini joined in signing the Munich Agreement that was supposed to assure "peace in our time" as Neville Chamberlain put it. Knowing that a great war was around the corner, Mussolini then turned his attention to bringing his army, navy, and especially his air force to full strength.

'Stab in the Back.'

When France was staggering to defeat in the spring of 1940, Mussolini thought he saw the long sought opportunity for important territorial acquisitions without much loss or risk. He entered to war on the side of Germany, hoping to get a few French islands. President Roosevelt characterized this move as a "stab in the back." From then on, Italy was in World War II. All looked rosy as long as the German blitzkrieg continued to smash ahead, but in 1941 English troops defeated the Italians in two widely separated African campaigns, and the Italian navy lost heavily in several actions.

Last year Italy went on the defensive. Mussolini sent some divisions to fight against Russia, others to North Africa, with the German Africa corps. Both sustained defeat and severe losses. The Italian people began to grumble ever louder against Fascism and Mussolini. He pinned medals on bereaved mothers and wives, made his famous balcony speeches, and tried to whip up morale with posters, parades of the youth organizations, and every other trick in his bag. But it didn't work.

Then came the North African campaign, when the Italian soldiers surrendered in large masses, plainly revealing their war-weariness. The invasion of Sicily moved so swiftly, not only because of the weight of armaments, but because of feeble resistance at many points. Everywhere the people welcomed the Allied troops.

When Rome was bombed, Mussolini's long hypnotic spell was broken. If he could not even protect the capital, said the people, how could he hope for victory? The Italians were tired of war, tired of privations and restrictions. Il Duce got out, just in time, according to majority opinion, to avert a civil war.

FASCISM ON THE RUN—A photograph showing Mussolini setting the pace for his army officers during maneuvers in September, 1933, ironically symbolizes the hasty exit of Fascism in July, 1943. This time, too, the running was fittingly led by Il Duce.

A SUBDUED AND TIRED OLD man, Mussolini, nearing 60, met Hitler a few months ago in a war conference. The former dictator, who once regarded "der Fuehrer" with disdain as an upstart imitator, has been forced to recognize the German as his master. For the last four years, Italy has been practically a vassal state.

Starewd and realistic Mussolini probably could foresee his own downfall during the course of these anxious discussions.

THE LIFE OF MUSSOLINI

Mussolini was once a tramp. Now he is twice a tramp. Forty years ago he was thrown off a caboose in Switzerland by railroad coppers. But that time he was able to get up.

His father was a village blacksmith and Benito was born with a bellows in his mouth. His dad had biceps like iron bands in his arms but Benito had them in his throat. Papa Mussolini shoed horses but Benito was no help. He would always try to talk a horse out of the idea it needed shoes and convince it that it would look better in patent leather boots.

Benito was supposed to shoo flies but he preferred to outbuzz them.

He never cared for the anvil or forge, finding it impossible to talk into an anvil or play recordings of his own voice in a forge. So he quit.

Pop, whose front name was Alessandro, also kept a saloon. This proves there were always queer ideas in the family. It is the only recorded case where a blacksmith alternately cried "Whoa!" "Back up!" and "What'll you have?" with no change of voice.

All this made the picture pretty confusing in Benito's boyhood. He would often find a teamster's horse in the barroom saying: "I'll take a cigar this time, pop" while the teamster was entering the blacksmith shop on all fours and demanding drinks for everybody in the house.

Natives love to tell about the time when pop put a brass rail in the smithy for the horses to stand on and drew beer through a bellows in the tavern.

Young Benito ran away to Switzerland. He started out with a quarter. No man ever went farther on two-bits up to a recent Sunday afternoon.

He became a soapbox orator. Discovering that people were crazy enough to think they knew what he was talking about, he never stopped talking. He became a newspaper publisher. Benito ran his own picture in the paper and the sheet went big because the public always goes for funnies.

He fought in the World war, improving his diction by threatening superior officers. After the war he came out with a program for saving Italy through a sustaining radio program. It was the only case up to that time of a man being his own radio artist and sponsor.

King Emmanuel thought it was a premiere for an American movie comedy and named Benito headman before he found it wasn't all in fun. It took him 21 years to correct the mistake.

For 21 years he spoke only from high altitudes and announced himself as a new Caesar with vitamins and cereone prizes thrown in. Then he met Hitler and everything went black. And we don't mean black-shirt.

It is now reported he is thinking of going back to the combination blacksmith chop and saloon. It's a long time since the homefolks have seen a horse.

PRIVATE PURKEY ADOPTS A CODE

Dear Mom—Well, I am now with my old Pal, Moe. (Just say them last two words over and think of a city in Sicily and it will give you a cue to where I am.) I can't come right out and say where I am so you will have to get it from hints. Like when I wrote to tell Annie to keep her big Trap closed it was a sort of code to tell you I was in a place called Trapani.

I guess we better agree on a code to keep track of me from now on. It will all have to be based on the idea that I will be able to keep track of where I am which is no easy trick on account of wa get rushed around so fast in this globe war. For instance, mom, if I write a lot about mess you will know I am in Messina and if I should write a letter and talk a lot about an insurance company you will know I am near Mt. Aetna. Catch on?

I am well and only had one close call in the invasion of Sicily. This was when I took four prisoners. A little later I decided to release them but they would not stand for it. They became very quarrelsome and refused to let me release them. I had to call for help. I also had a little row in one town when the natives started abusing us for arriving too late. They had wanted to give up 48 hours sooner. It was all straightened out when we explained our watches was slow.

Well, everything is going fine. I hope you and dad are fine.

Your loving son, Oscar.

When Japan meets its ultimate ruin it can at least have the satisfaction of stamping it "Made in Japan."

Ode to a Cow
She doesn't kick just once or twice
And even that is not so nice;
But many times her cloven feet
Inside my milking pail is put;
She doesn't stop at that, oh no,
She heaves at me a mighty blow,
And then quite suddenly I find
I'm sitting on my never miled.

ON THE HOME FRONT

THE upper sketch shows a combination living and bed room brought up to date with every inch of space used. The cushions (lower left) were replaced with a box-like compartment for bedding. This was made of plywood as shown at the lower right. It was padded across the front and ends with cotton-batting, and covered with the couch material tacked in place through a lath strip. Unpainted book cases were bought to go at the ends, and the lid of the bedding compartment was painted to match the book cases.

NOTE—Longer and longer grows the list that "money won't buy." But bright ideas for using the things you already have are not on that list. The one shown here is from BOOK 10 of the series of homemaking booklets prepared for readers. BOOK 10 also contains more than thirty other things to make from things on hand and available materials. ## You Can Stretch Meats and Have Delicious Meals

Leftovers need not recline on the refrigerator shelf when you can make them into delicious meat pies like this, simply and easily. Use leftovers from a roast with a few fresh vegetables and gravy to tuck inside the flaky piecrust.

Short on red points at the end of the week? There are several answers to the problem and I'm devoting the column to those suggestions today.

It's a good idea to be smart in your use of leftovers, and this is particularly true if you've splurged at the beginning of the week by purchasing a roast. After using the roast twice, you still have a bit of meat left on the bones, and if you fix it with an eye to camouflage, you can have a savory meal out of it.

Best way of extending meat when there's little enough of that is by using vegetables generously. Cut off what pieces of meat you can find on the bone and combine these with some lovely, fresh-cooked vegetables such as carrots, peas, onions, potatoes and perhaps a few strips of green pepper for flavor. Combine all together with some of your favorite seasonings and tuck the whole mixture into these individual meat pies. In this way, your leftovers won't languish in the refrigerator.

Making Meat Pies.
Sift together 2 cups all-purpose flour and 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cut into this 1/2 cup lard with spatula and work until the particles are the size of a small pea. Sprinkle 4 tablespoons water over the mixture, working it lightly with a fork until all the particles are moistened and in small lumps. Press dough into a ball, handling as little as possible. Flour board lightly. Divide pastry in half, roll lightly to an eighth-inch thickness. Using a 3 1/2-inch pie plate, cut circles from pastry.

Cut 1/2-inch wedge from circle to insure better fit into muffin tins. Press the pastry lightly to fit tins and lap over wedge. Fill with meat-vegetable mixture. Roll out remaining dough, cut in circles to fit over top of each muffin tin. Press edges of crust together. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) 35 minutes. Remove from tins and serve hot.

Here's a salad that's rich in proteins and can be used to pitch in for the main dish when points are on the slim side:

Green Lima and Bacon Salad.
(Serves 5 to 6)
2 cups cooked green lima beans
2 hard-cooked eggs
1/2 cup salted peanuts, chopped
2 teaspoons onion juice
4 strips crisp bacon
1 cup diced celery
1/2 cup chopped pickle
1/2 teaspoon salt, if desired
Mayonnaise

Lynn Says:

Tips on Keeping Cool: Acting cool and thinking cool actually works a magic in making you cool. It's important to plan your day ahead so that it runs smoothly and so there will be a minimum of confusion—for that always makes weather hotter.

Dress cool, eat cool. Dress sensibly, keeping plenty of clean summer clothes on hand—things that can be done up with soap and water in a hurry and need little ironing. Crispy salads—even in the imagination—cool you off, and of course, frosty drinks.

Do your hot kitchen work in the cool morning hours. Make whatever preparations you can on the food front and store in the refrigerator, ready to pull out for dinner with a minimum of rush and hurry. Keep things simple, and you'll keep cool.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menu

- *Broiled Liver Sausage and Tomatoes.
- Potato Chips Green Salad
- Rye Bread Iced Coffee
- Chilled Cantaloupe
- *Recipe Given

Combine ingredients, add salt and mayonnaise. Serve on crisp lettuce with bits of bacon.

Have you discovered that cold sausage and meat loaves are low in point value and that they go further than the same quantity of fresh meat? And, if you really like a hot dish for a meal, that the cold meats are equally delicious when served hot? You'll like these suggestions:

Bologna Spaghetti.

(Serves 4)

- 1/2 pound bologna
- 1/2 cup onion, sliced
- 1 tablespoon bacon drippings
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/4 teaspoon pepper
- 1 1/2 cups tomato juice
- 3 cups cooked spaghetti

Dice 2 slices of bologna in skillet and brown with onion and bacon drippings. Add to this seasonings and tomato juice and simmer until thickened. Add cooked spaghetti and heat thoroughly. Serve with several slices of pan-fried bologna.

*Broiled Liver Sausage and Tomatoes (Serves 4).

- 1/2 pound liver sausage, sliced
- 4 large tomatoes, cut in half
- 1/2 slices of onion

Cut liver sausage into slices about 1/4 inch thick. Remove casing. Place the slice of liver sausage on the broiling pan with tomatoes that have been cut in half and brushed with butter, seasoned with salt and pepper. Broil for about 8 minutes. Liver sausage need not be turned. As soon as tomatoes have broiled for about 4 minutes, top them with onion slices, if desired.

Frankfurters With Potato Salad.

(Serves 4 to 6)

- 1/2 cup bacon drippings
- 1/2 cup vinegar
- 1 beaten egg
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 4 cups cubed, cooked potatoes
- 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 pound frankfurters

Heat bacon drippings and add vinegar, egg, salt, pepper, sugar, potatoes, green pepper and onion. Stir until thick. Cover frankfurters with boiling water and allow to stand 7 to 8 minutes. Arrange frankfurters on top of potato salad for serving.

Here's a lovely, luscious dessert that will go with any of the above main dish suggestions. It's easy to make and very nutritious:

Here are the golden brown, rich, luscious pies being taken from the muffin tins all ready to serve. If you have a fresh fruit salad with the meat pie and a beverage, your whole meal's complete.

Apricot Whip.

(Serves 6 to 8)

- 1 No. 2 1/2 can apricots
- 2 cups milk
- 2 eggs
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Drain apricots. Mash with spoon. Chill. Scald milk. Beat eggs slightly, then add sugar and salt. Add milk slowly, mixing well. Cook in double boiler stirring constantly until mixture coats metal spoon. Take from fire, add vanilla and chill. When ready to serve, fold in chilled, mashed apricots.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for August 22

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

GOD GIVES LAWS FOR HIS PEOPLE

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 23:1-9; Galatians 3:23-28; 5:13-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind; and thy neighbor as thyself.—Luke 10:27.

Our God is a God of order. To have order we must have law, hence God gave His people not only the fundamental law of humanity's moral sense of right and wrong, and the Ten Commandments which are the basis of all codes of law, but also those detailed regulations needed for the law's interpretation.

The law of God was not intended to establish a legalistic system of salvation by work, but, as revealed in the New Testament, it was to guide and bring us to Christ, in whom it finds its true fulfillment.

These are matters of fundamental importance and suggest the need of a careful study of our three Scripture portions.

I. The Law Established (Exod. 23:1-9)

At Sinai the Israelites were brought into the presence of God in a dramatic and solemn assembly to hear the words of God from the mountain. These were later written as the Ten Commandments on the tables of stone. Here they learned in a new way of the majesty, the righteousness, and the love of God.

The Ten Commandments are recognized as the foundation on which all legal codes, ancient and modern, are built. They cover man's relation to God and his relation to his fellow man. They are unsurpassed as a comprehensive and compact statement of the moral law.

The passage in Exodus 23 gives us some of the rules and regulations for daily life which are in a sense an interpretation of the law. This portion gives us an idea of the type of laws provided by God for His people and reveals "the moral flavor of the whole divine legislation."

The thing which impresses us as we read of the divine requirements of justice toward all, of love for one's enemies, of refraining from false witness, of refusing all bribery, is that God's standards are very high.

God's law is good, it is right, of divine quality and perfect purity. It has, however, an even higher purpose than providing direction for life. We learn of that as we hear

II. The Law Described (Gal. 3:23-28)

What was the purpose of the law? It was and is a servant of God to lead the needy sinner to Christ. The word "tutor" in verse 24 does not refer to one who teaches, but the servant who saw to it that the school boy, possibly a bit reluctant, arrived at his destination.

The law convicts of sin and makes it evident to the repentant one that he needs divine help if he is ever to meet its demands. The law really puts a man in prison (kept in ward," v. 23), and makes him look to Christ to set him free.

When one trusts Christ he comes into the place of a son. He enters upon a spiritual maturity which makes it no longer necessary to have a tutor directing and disciplining him. He has entered into a new relationship by faith, and is a child of God.

Does this mean that the law has been set aside or abrogated? Not at all. Jesus Himself said, "Think not that I am come to destroy the law... I am not come to destroy, but to fulfill" (Matt. 5:17). This is our third point.

III. The Law Fulfilled (Gal. 5:13, 14)

Paul had warned against the folly of legalism. In Christ men are free from a slavish bondage to the law. But men, desiring to substitute license for liberty, were using the grace of God as an excuse for self-indulgence and sin.

Christ has set aside all the ceremonial requirements of the law; for He became the perfect, once-for-all sacrifice for sin, which was infinitely superior to all the offerings of the Old Testament law. He thus fulfilled the type of the offerings.

The moral requirements of the law were gathered up in Him, and in Him we have only one law to fulfill, the law of love. Obedience to that law meets all the moral requirements of the Old Testament law.

Liberty to the Christian is not a freedom to do as he pleases, not "an occasion to the flesh" that he may live in selfishness and sin. We are free only to be bound by the blessed law of love.

The tablets of stone were (and still are) important. Their laws have never been set aside or withdrawn. But in Christ God has done what He spoke of through Jeremiah the prophet. He has put His law in the Christian's inner being, and has written it in his heart. (Jer. 31:33).

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have. As well as you possibly can. This column by the homeowner's friend tells you how.

DIPPING FLUSH TANK

Question: Water drips from my flush tank day and night. We are told it is from condensation, for there is no leak. How can the dripping be stopped?

Answer: Your water supply is evidently very cold, so that the flush tank becomes chilled; condensation results when warm and damp air is cooled by the contact. Usually, the dripping will not last more than an hour or two after each filling of the tank, for the fresh tankful quickly loses its chill. If the dripping continues, it is because of a leak in the tank by which the tankful of water is kept at its low temperature. The leak can be stopped by putting in a new inlet washer or repairing the outlet of the tank.

Gas Range

Question: I have had a gas range for about three years, but have found it unsatisfactory for baking. A mechanic who inspected it for a leak says that it is not getting enough air because it is too close to the back and side walls. Before having it moved I'd like your opinion on whether greater air circulation will make it better for baking.

Answer: I hardly think so; for the trouble is very evidently in the adjustment of the burners. Ask the gas company to send an engineer to make an inspection. He will make tests to learn the cause of the trouble and will correct it.

Drain Cleaners

Question: A plumber tells me that I should not clean a clogged drain with a chemical; for later it may become clogged in the pipes. Is this so?

Answer: Drain cleaners are either caustic potash or caustic soda. Caustic potash in boiling water converts the grease in the pipe to a soft soap, which washes away. Caustic soda, on the other hand, combines with grease to form a compound that is nearly insoluble. It is probably this to which the plumber refers. The label of the can should state the formula used.

Septic Tank Care

Question: In my summer home I drain my plumbing in the fall and fill the traps with kerosene. In the spring I let the kerosene drain off into the septic tank. But a friend says that this may affect the bacterial reaction there. Is this so?

Answer: Yes, it is true, but can be corrected. Drain off plenty of water to flush the tank. Then dissolve six yeast cakes in tepid water in a wash basin and let it drain down into the septic tank. This will start up the bacterial action. Repeat in a week.

Patriotic Prints

Question: I want to put up patriotic pictures in my boy's room. What do you suggest?

Answer: The Army-Navy Relief Campaign, Post Box 666, New York City, is putting out four-color prints of Paul Revere's Ride that should be appropriate. They can be had for 25 cents in coin or a 25-cent defense stamp. In addition to getting the prints, you would be supporting a most worthy cause.

Basement Playrooms

Question: Where can I get literature about basement recreation rooms?

Answer: Manufacturers of insulating wallboard and asphalt tile have photographs of basement playrooms in their catalogues. You will also find recreation-room plans for basements in Popular Mechanics Magazine Yearbook; the publisher's office is at 350 Fifth Avenue, New York.

Space for Coal Bin

Question: What should be the height, length and width of a box I wish to make to hold one ton of stove coal? I feel sure that I have not received my full quota.

Answer: One ton of coal takes up about 35 cubic feet, but this is only an average; the dimension varies. A box measuring 3 by 3 feet by 4 feet high should hold a ton.

Cellar Floor Paint

Question: How can I prepare my cement cellar floor for painting, and what kind of paint should I use?

Answer: The floor should be cleaned and free of grease spots. The paint should be of a kind that is proof against the effects of lime; there are several varieties to be had at a large paint store.

Little Chap Won His Bet With Both Thumbs Down

Green, who was the local athletic champion, had been holding forth at great length. None of the club regulars could do anything about it. But presently one of the visitors looked up.

"I'll bet," he said cheerfully, "$10 that I can wheel something in a wheelbarrow from one street lamp to the next, and you can't wheel it back!"

Green looked him over—not a very hefty sort of fellow. Whatever the stranger could do he could.

"Taken," he said.

A wheelbarrow was borrowed. The stranger rubbed his hands, picked up the handles. "Get in, old man," he said.

The Self You Live With

A self is not something you are endowed with at birth. It is something you are continually creating as you live your day-by-day life. "Ye must be born anew" is as true in modern psychology as in traditional theology. Every resentment that you encourage, every grudge, every despondency, every smug conceit—and on the other hand every self-mastery, every high fortitude, every facing of naked truth—makes either for breaking down the self or for building it up.

For mental self-command—the habit of constructive thought-direction—is more important for a wholesome life than physical soundness.—Winfred Rhoades.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Scientists have found that rubber is the only substance that can be stretched tremendously and resume approximately its original form. Too much stretching, such as in under-rated tires, causes "fatigue"—and deterioration.

The first manufacture of rubber footwear outside the United States took place in 1856 in Scotland.

If gasoline consumption is a gauge of the war, more miles are run in July and August than any other months. Of the gas used in 1941, 9.3% was consumed in August and 9.4% in July. February was the low month, with 6.4% of the year's total.

Comments—
I note we have only 3 gallons of gas to use for 'joy riding.' I'll say that the group in Washington is pretty clever by doing this, as it will mean more votes in the thickly-settled East.
—A. T. M.

By Will Robinson in the Roswell Record:

Mayor M. U. Finley of Carrizozo saw to it that the recommendation of the Business Men's Club that the army scrap crew be planted plenty of free water for their fly camp there was granted. There wasn't any way to supply the free bathing they asked. Water is plentiful for needed uses in Carrizozo, but there are many citizens who haven't taken a real bath in years. Wishing it could be done, there was no way in which the city council could give the scrappers service they can't get for themselves.

Drivers in the east are saying that the small quota of extra gas allotted them is like throwing a hungry dog a bone with a string tied on the same.

Can you beat it? — It is the consensus of opinion that New Mexico is a Rocky Mountain state. We are told by the "power-what-am" that we are no longer living in a western state, but in the South.

"I thought I was moving out of a southern state, but I find I'm in one again," J. G. M. declares.

— Wonder how Tulsa, Okla. and San Antonio, Texas will like this skimpy new gas law?

— By Will Robinson in the Roswell Record:

After wishing that he had $1.50 to pay for a scrawny little frying chicken, editor A. L. Burke of the Carrizozo Outlook gave first page position to a statement from the local rationing board telling the people to pay no more than 35.5 cents a pound for the same, and not to exceed 40 and 6 tenths cents for dressed hens. This schedule will help everybody who has the $1.50.

Quoted from a letter...

"My conscience hurts me today.

"When I was washing up before getting off the train this morning, I learned that six sailors and three soldiers had sat up all night. These men were making this trip under orders—yet there was no sleeping space available for them.

"When I think of the effort you of Southern Pacific, along with other railroads, are making to care for our service men—and then remember that I obtained a berth that should have gone to a service man—it humiliates me. I was due back for a War Bond meeting today and at the time it seemed important. But compared with taking accommodations away from soldiers and sailors my presence here was highly unessential.

"It has been a good lesson for me. Hereafter I shall travel only when I know I'm not depriving service men of sleeping space..."

How's YOUR conscience today?

The letter quoted here came from a western newspaper editor and publisher. This man has a conscience that can't be lulled to sleep by easy self-reassurances.

We hope many other prospective travelers will listen to the "still small voice" of their conscience when it asks questions like these:

How much business and how much pleasure are involved in the train trip I plan? Is it really important for me to visit those relatives back East this war year? Couldn't I get just as much rest and relaxation a little closer to home?

Today the railroad is hard-pressed to find space for essential travelers: People whose trip must be made to keep business and war production going... Service men on well-deserved furloughs, possibly the last before combat duty... Parents going to visit their son when the latter can't get away from his post. When people travel for pleasure, or other non-essential reasons, they prevent such deserving travelers from getting on the train. Yes, we sincerely mean it when we say: "Don't take the train unless your trip is really NECESSARY."

United China Relief

New York, N. Y., Aug. 6.— During the first six months of 1943, United China Relief forwarded to China, for war relief there, $3,651,633.23. This is $378,164.73 more than was sent during the last six months of 1942, and $1,828,845.40 more than during the first six months of 1942. The money is transmitted by radio through the Bank of China.

It is believed that these gifts represent the largest sum of money transmitted for relief to any of our allies during any six months period since the beginning of the war.

In cooperation with the National War Fund, United China Relief expects to send to China, during 1943, a total of eight and one-half millions.

In spite of the cessation of the campaign during the past six months, due to the National War Fund's impending this fall, United China Relief has received in gifts $3,098,220.97, which is only $37,982 less than the amount received during the last six months of the 1942 campaign for United China Relief.

"Smoke Eaters"

A battlewagon loaded with various explosives, bombs, torpedoes, oil and gasoline is not the safest place to be with a fire raging, so all but the smaller ships of our Navy are equipped with elaborate fire fighting apparatus.

It may be that this equipment never will be used during the entire course of the war, but it must be paid for out of the War Bonds and Stamps that we are setting aside each payday. U. S. Treasury Department

Posse Rodeo

Regardless of the war, gas and food rationing or anything else, the people of Lincoln County will be treated to another big Rodeo given by the Sheriff's Posse on the dates of August 28-29.

We all want to win the war and we are going to win it too. We also want some fun and entertainment in the meantime. Just because we are in the war, is no reason for us to go about clad in mourning. Because some of us are limited on gas, shouldn't cause us to forsake having a good-time, which the Posse is preparing for us. If one has but an A book, he can make arrangements with his neighbor, who has a C. or perhaps a T. book and clubbing together in that manner, we can all attend the Rodeo. There will be plenty of chances to come and have a fine time.

If you will turn to page 5 of this paper, you will see a description of the events to take place during those two days. Aside from the usual rodeo events, there will be a big dance at Harry Miller's Pavilion on Saturday night. So, come along folks, we'll be expecting you. And speaking of refreshments, the Carrizozo Woman's Club will provide all you want in that line. Committees are working right now and plans will be carried out to your satisfaction. You'll regret it if you don't come—but shucks, you'll come and we know it.

Catania's Capture Marked Beginning Of Axis Last Stand in Sicily Battle; Red Offensive Crumples Nazi Flanks; Yanks Continue Gains in Pacific Drive

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

TELEFACT

WHERE THE AVERAGE CIVILIAN INCOME WENT

PER CAPITA 1941 $668 1942 $817

SICILY:

Last Stand

Forty thousand Axis troops were all that were left to stand between the Allies and complete conquest of Sicily as the last phase of the battle developed. Of the 40,000, it was estimated that 35,000 were German and the rest Italian.

Although heavily outnumbered by the 10 Allied divisions reported in action, the Axis relied on strong natural entrenchments hewed into the rugged mountains to hold up the British-American drive. The advance against these positions was difficult with the infantry slowly picking its way up the craggy but barren slopes in the face of stiff mortar and machine gun nests which had held their ground even after fierce Allied artillery barrage.

MINERS:

For Travel Pay

Pride might cometh before the fall, but in John L. Lewis' case, it was his interest in drawing underground pay for his 500,000 United Mine Workers that accounted for his appearance before the War Labor Board which he had an often berated in the past.

John L. Lewis

The agreement also calls for an eight instead of a seven hour day and a six-day work week, which, with the underground travel pay, would increase miners' daily checks by $3.

Stating that 1,402 miners died from risks in the pits last year and 72,000 were seriously injured, Lewis said the extra working hours would increase the men's exposure to such accidents. Furthermore, he declared, the miners received just $37 more a year than the lowest classification of government clerical workers.

GRAIN:

Going East

Six hundred million bushels of corn were used during the second quarter of 1943, the department of agriculture reported, with supplies as of July 1 totaling 872 million bushels. Of this amount, 842 million bushels remained on farms.

As of July 1, the department stated that there was a supply of 290 million bushels of oats; over 200 million bushels of barley, and 46 million bushels of rye. Approximately 300 million-bushels of wheat were found available for feed.

In relation to livestock, feed supply is reported to be 20 per cent smaller than last year and 14 per cent below average.

STRIKE

In the first test of the Smith Connally law, 1,005 employees of two plants of the Allis-Chalmers company in Springfield, Ill., voted to strike in protest of the National Labor Relations board's refusal to grant District 50 of the United Mine Workers an election to determine its claim as collective bargaining agent.

A total of 656 voted against a strike. The ballot read: "Do you wish to permit an interruption in war production in wartime as a result of this dispute?"

RUSSIA:

Offensive Climax

The height of the Russians' summer offensive was reached with the fall of Orel. After a month of hard fighting, Marshal Timoshenko's forces swept into the city, even as the bulk of 250,000 Germans was being withdrawn to new positions to the west.

Gen. Timoshenko

October, 1941, Orel stood in ruin as the Russians moved in, with Nazi rear-guards tackling the Reds in hand-to-hand fighting in delaying action in the streets of the city. In taking Orel, the Reds threw the full weight of their artillery, planes, tanks and infantry into the battle. Slowly, they ground down German resistance on the north, south and east sides of the city.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:

At Munda

The American attack on Munda in the Solomons stands out as a classic of military strategy. In the final stages of the battle against a fanatical enemy resisting to the death, American forces drew a tight noose around the Japs, with one column moving to the west of the defenders' line while two other columns hammered in from two ends on the east.

When American planes failed to sufficiently reduce the Japs' hidden pill-boxes hewed in the jungle brush, 13-ton tanks were called into the fray, and these cracked through the dense foliage to advance on the enemy's well-concealed positions and draw their fire. Their gun-fire guided the tanks to their entrenchments and these were quickly subdued with point-blank barrages.

TAXES:

Corporations Share

What is the corporations' share of the nation's tax burden? Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau revealed that preliminary statistics show that 603,052 corporations filed returns for 1941. Except for 40,166 which were inactive with no income data, these corporations paid over seven billion dollars in normal, surtaxes and excess profit taxes. The government collected nearly 13 billion dollars in revenue for 1941, which would indicate that corporations accounted for almost 60 per cent of receipts.

Morgenthau reported that of the corporations reporting for 1941, 364,628 showed profits, with net income of 18 billion dollars. Approximately 43,648 more corporations made money during the year than in 1940.

MISCELLANY:

WAR PRISONERS: One out of every ten American soldiers in Japanese prison camps has died of disease since the Philippines fell, the war department reveals.

WOUNDED: Seventy per cent of wounded Russian soldiers recover and return to the battlefield, report British army surgeons who have been on a mission to the Soviet Union.

Faster Than Sound

To Lt. Col. Cass S. Hough of Plymouth, Mich., fell the rare distinction of traveling faster than sound, or more than 780 miles per hour, while undertaking two experimental flights for the U. S. army air force. Last September, Col. Hough's P-38 Lightning climbed up to 43,000 feet. Then, he coolly noted the plane into a powerdive and she zoomed downward at the record speed before leveling off at 18,000 feet. Last February, Col. Hough took a P-47 Thunderbolt to 39,000 feet, and repeated the previous performance.

According to the 36-year-old daredevil, he made his first flight on impulse. As his plane went screaming downward, he said, it felt as though a ton of bricks lay on his back, and he could barely lift his arms to write down the recordings of his instruments. When he leveled off at 18,000, everything went gray, he declared, but he never lost consciousness.

FARM LAND:

Value Rising

With the value of all farm land now above World War I level, government officials were becoming anxious over the possibility of another realty boom which would collapse with a disastrous drop in prices as in the twenties.

Between March and July of this year, farm real estate rose another 3 per cent. The increase occurred throughout all of the geographical regions and in two-thirds of the states. In Indiana, farm property sold 40 per cent above the 1935-39 average.

With commodity prices up one-fourth within the last 12 months and farm income for 1943 expected to exceed 1942's record levels, farmers were said to be active buyers in the market. What with high commodity prices prevailing, speculators also were supposed to be purchasing property for resale.

WAR ARSENAL:

80 Pct. Complete

Of the government's planned construction of 14 1/2 billion dollars of war plant facilities, approximately 12 billion dollars has been completed, Chairman Donald Nelson of the War Production board announced. That represents a completion of 80 per cent of the program compared with 61 per cent at the start of the year and 34 per cent last summer.

Greatest gains in the program were in the construction of plants for guns, combat vehicles, aircraft and ammunition. Facilities for producing ammunition are 93 per cent complete.

According to Nelson, the records for other programs showed synthetic rubber, 61 per cent finished; 100 octane gas, 39 per cent; iron and steel, 75 per cent, and chemical products, 60 per cent.

Production Lags

Production of armaments and other goods needed by the army is lagging seriously, Lieut. Gen. Brehon B. Somervell, chief of army supply services, warned. He said that 300 million dollars' worth of supplies have not been delivered according to schedule in the last three months. Output of factories has been going down steadily, he continued, with July figures "decidedly worse" than those of June.

At the same time the treasury reported that actual war spending during July was half a billion dollars less than in June, this being the first month in which war costs have turned downward. Commentators say this decline is another indication of lower production, rather than smaller needs.

Urging all contractors to fulfill their contracts, General Somervell said: "If as a manufacturer, you are scheduled to produce a certain quantity of war material by a specific date, you have undertaken a specific military obligation."

CARGO PLANES:

Back to Metal

New developments prompted the army's cancellation of contracts for all wooden transport airplanes and the return to metallic construction. The wooden craft were designed to operate from small, unimproved landing fields and carry 4,500 pounds of cargo at medium range. But partly because of Allied air dominance, good airports have been put in use in distant combat zones, and the demand has shifted to faster, longer-range planes.

Furthermore, it was reported, aluminum production has increased in a volume sufficient to take care of additional plane building, while certain woods suitable for the type of transport designed are growing scarce.

GAS

Production of gasoline and other petroleum derivatives can be increased by recovering oil now left in wells, and by processing natural gas, oil sands and shales, Dr. Gustav Eglon, renowned scientist, told a joint congressional committee.

He urged governmental aid in developing synthetic gasoline methods but added that he did not think the making gasoline from coal was advisable immediately. He said the eight million men would be needed to manufacture a year's supply.

Washington Digest

Definite Foreign Policy Essential to America

The Issue: Shall Nation Adopt Policy of Participation in World Affairs or Shall We Aim at Nationalistic Goal?

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Today America faces its first real problem as a world power.

Italy lies before us. General Eisenhower, as commander of the Allied forces of invasion, suddenly becomes a statesman. He is a soldier. He can win battles. Now, he is the man ultimately responsible for directing American world policy. What is American world policy?

Eisenhower is firm in his decisions, certain in his own procedure, because he is responsible only to his Commander-in-Chief. But who is his Commander-in-Chief? Roosevelt. A man who may suddenly leave the scene in the midst of battle, if the American public so decrees.

And then? Has America any firm foreign policy, unfettered by partisan political restriction, a clear-cut path that a fighting man or any other man can follow?

In a few short weeks from now, a group of busy, hard-pressed men are going to sit down on Mackinac Island and try to write what American foreign policy they think ought to be sponsored by the Republican party.

These men have to face the question of committing the Republican party to a definite foreign policy. And paradoxically, by committing their party to a definite foreign policy, they may free both political parties of all commitment on foreign policy. For if the Democrats frame similar resolutions, they can save America from a vicious split—one which, if it is not avoided, will crash party lines and can destroy the two-party system, the rock of our democracy.

The issue which America faces is simple: shall we, as a nation, underwrite a policy which will implement our participation in world affairs or shall we retire unto ourselves and pursue the nationalistic policy which says in effect: let the rest of the world stew in its own juice?

Until we took the Philippines, America was able to leave the great and vital problems which should have no political tinge, outside partisan politics. We have had other problems which have remained essentially non-partisan.

The Problems

Take labor. A vital question. But has labor ever voted solidly for one ticket or the other? No. The AFL will cast its traditional Republican votes in the coming election as it always has. Some of the CIO members will vote to support the administration. Others will vote as they damn please.

Slavery—really a labor question. That did nearly wreck the republic because it was made a partisan issue when it was not an issue at all. Many of the influential southerners were just as ready to free their slaves as the rabid abolitionists, heated with emotional fervor, failing to grasp the economic significance; were to force them to.

Again, unless a cold, calm discussion and understanding of the question of foreign policy takes place, we may face another split which, although it need not mean civil war, may mean a horrid dislocation of our whole political system.

When we went into World War II after Pearl Harbor, the word "isolationism" was forgotten. Today it has come back into our vocabularies and is being batted about, like other political footballs, by people who really don't understand its implications and are woefully ignorant of what disension it may cause.

Politicians want to overlook it. They can't. This group of Republicans, headed by Deneen Watson, and a whole flying squadron of Democrats, too, are insistent that they be allowed to "let the people know." They are going to speak their pieces. And the only hope of lifting this discussion out of partisan politics is a "settlement out of court," an agreement by both parties on a single foreign policy.

Let's get back to that hot and perspiring day in Washington late last month when Deneen Watson and his colleagues from this self-appointed Republican organization, the Republican "foreign policy association," walked across quiet Lafayette park opposite the White House and presented themselves to Chairman Spangler of the Republican national committee.

Results of Session

It was some time before the results of this meeting between Watson and his colleagues and Chairman Spangler of the Republican national committee leaked out. Those with an anti-Republican slant, wove the words dropped into a threatened split in the Republican party, a drive to nominate Wendell Willkie for president.

To the person who tried to be objective, it was neither. Mr. Spangler has one job—to keep the party together, to eschew any favoritism for any policy or any person. Naturally, these persistent persons who called upon him were presenting a problem. I believe it was that fact rather than what his critics said that indicated there was a leaning toward the "status quo" attitude, the desire to remain a purveyor of platitudes and follow the tide rather than to face it.

This issue—full participation in world affairs versus a return to nationalism or isolationism, if you will—is, according to our most earnest non-partisans, the most important issue which has faced the public and should not be a political football.

Briefly, what the men with their sleeves rolled up at Mackinac in September have to face is this: shall we, good Republicans, come out frankly for world-co-operation or dodge the issue?

What the Watson association demands is more than that and something the Republican national committee must face: will the party officially get behind a nation-wide campaign to "educate" the people on the international issue?

Unfortunately, personalities do get mixed up in these things and Wendell Willkie has become the symbol of the international view. That is why it is essential, if the party is to take the issue out of partisan politics and disassociate it from any of the individuals aspiring for the Republican candidacy, that they must go on-record.

Walter Lippmann has written a book called "American Foreign Policy" and the point he makes is this: until 1900, politics did stop at the water's edge. We had a foreign policy (or thought we did) which was the Monroe Doctrine. According to Lippmann, we were living under a delusion. Namely, that we had under the Monroe Doctrine declared our whole policy—America for Americans (period) which implied, of course, that the rest of the world could do what it pleased so long as it kept off our grass.

We believed that we could enforce that policy ourselves. That was not correct. We were really depending on the British fleet to enforce it. It happened to be to British advantage to agree, so there was no trouble.

Then we mixed in world affairs, found we had to fight our own battles, and did it—look over Hawaii, the Philippines. But we didn't provide the means to hold them. And so, disagreeing on the various steps necessary to carry out our foreign policy, we failed to provide the means to do so—Britain was busy elsewhere, and one morning we lost the Philippines and came within an eyelash of losing Hawaii.

And so we now face the necessity of framing a new foreign policy which must include the willingness to provide security for our own shores and those other contiguous shores (South America and Canada) which might be used by an enemy against us. Or we have to take part in prophylactic measures—to stop the danger to our security in advance.

That issue once clarified by the two political parties will leave us free for a good, old-fashioned free-for-all political campaign, and if the best man wins, or the worst man wins, his policies can't affect the international welfare of the nation.

Failure of both parties to clearly set forth their views on foreign policy may well create a third party movement which could wreck the two-party system, the rock on which our Republic is founded.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Awards amounting to $1,000,000 will be given to Chinese inventors for the promotion of science and technology for successful research on products vital to the national defense.

Corn cannot be used for manufacture of distilled spirits and high wines, a recent directive of the War Production board says.

The season when the largest supplies of poultry are on the market will probably begin in September and October.

Christmas packages may be mailed to American soldiers overseas without a request from the soldier, from September 15 to October 15, the war department has announced.

DEEP WATERS

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY SO FAR: Robin Dale, a young artist, goes to Moose Bay to see her fiancé, Will McPhail. When Will is accidentally killed, his brother Angus blames Robin. She goes to Angus' fishing cruiser to see him. While she is on board, the boat falls, carrying her, Angus, Pat Deeshee and a cabin boy named Romeo toward Labrador. The boat is seized by a man named Jenkins. Caught running contraband alcohol, Jenkins is trying to escape from a government patrol. It stinks, leaving them stranded on an island. Angus, Pat and Robin are trying to get some chocolate hidden in a cave held by Jenkins. Robin has just vetoed their plan for a rushing attack.

New continue with the story.

CHAPTER XIV

The two men turned together; but Robin said quietly: "Wait, please. Suppose he kills—both of you?" They stood before her like guilty children, the heat of battle dying in their eyes. Then Angus nodded in a sort of submission. "She's right, Pat," he said. "We can't risk that. We'll try to manage without a fight."

Pat after a moment suggested uncertainly: "If there's no fighting to be done yet a while, sorr, we could be after building that rock pile you mentioned. The work will keep us warm. It'll need to be plenty high, eight or ten feet anyway, for them to see ashore."

Robin said: "I can help some." Angus looked at her appraisingly. Rain drove about them, though thin now. Her heavy sweater was sodden with water, hanging about her hips. Her head was bare, her hair wet and dripping; and her lips were white with cold; her teeth clicking. He stripped off his leather jacket, came toward her.

"Sorry I didn't think of this before," he said. "Put it on. It's soppy wet, but it will break the wind a little."

"No, please," she urged. "I'll have to take my chances with the rest of you." "You can't stand as much as we can. Here," she submitted; and Pat pulled his stag chit off over his head and came chuckling to make her put it on. They laughed together at the figure she made, lost in its immensities. It hung like an overcoat, almost to her knees.

The two men turned to attack the task, and Robin followed them. The rounded ledge, like a hump that was bare of boulders and rock fragments. The materials for the cairn they meant to build would have to be carried laboriously to the peak, or if they were too heavy to lift, rolled over and over up the ledge. They went methodically to work; but Robin chafed to stay near Angus, to help him when she could, to talk to him. When they were away from Pat she said slowly:

"Will you tell me honestly—just how bad this is? Was that story true, the one Pat told about the people who could see shore, freezing and starving?"

"I never heard it," he said. "But Pat's Newfoundland horn and bred. Probably it was true."

"I came to Newfoundland fishing with my father once. We had fog for two weeks, even up the Codroy. Fog and rain and cold. Maybe it won't clear off for days."

"Those spells do happen," he admitted spherly. "But we're not badly off—for a few days. We can keep warm by huddling together at night."

"How long will it be, do you suppose, before someone comes? Will that plane be hunting?"

He smiled at her in a quiet reassurance. "Don't try to think ahead. Live an hour at a time. And don't be frightened. Fright tires you out. Keep steady. A person can go a long time without food, if he's not scared. We've plenty of water as long as it rains, and there'll be some in pools in the ledge afterward; and when it stops raining, if the sun comes out, we can dry out, we can dry our matches, manage a fire. We'll pull through."

They were working while they talked, panting side by side, climbing to the peak of the ledge, he with a great rock in his arms, she with a lesser one. She realized suddenly that she was happy, toiling thus beside him. Life was becoming simple, reduced to fundamentals. She smiled and said:

"That cake of chocolate is the most important thing in the world, right now, isn't it?—That and Mr. Jenkins' oilskins, and a chance to get out of the rain."

He nodded.

"Yes, of course."

She said, half to herself: "It's queer to think we might all die here. People do queer things, have queer feelings when they're afraid of dying." She smiled at her own thought. "Angus, I know an old man in Maine. He has a big orchard, and he told me an interesting thing once. He said that if an apple tree is dying, it bears better than ever toward the end. He said if you broke down a branch and left it hanging by the bark, that branch would think it was dying, and it would have lots of apples on it; or if you take a two-year-old tree and tie a bit of copper wire around the bark at the foot, the tree will think it's going to die, and it will bear apples long before it would otherwise. He thinks the trees are trying to pass life on while they still can."

He bent to tumble a big boulder over and over up the ledge. She tried to help him, but he put her aside. "I can manage," he said. "You'll hurt your hands."

"He thought people were the same way," she suggested. She said: "Maybe Mr. Jenkins would give that chocolate to me if I asked him."

He looked up at her quietly. "Miss Dale, in a tight place, any woman is a liability. Don't expect chivalry from Jenkins or Romeo."

"You and Pat gave me my clothes. They might give me my chocolate, if I asked them."

"If they knew it was there they would eat it. Naturally. Unless they've already done so."

"I wish I hadn't left it there. When Pat called that he could see land, I forgot all about it."

He did not answer. He rolled the boulder laboriously upward to add to the little pile already gathered on top of the ledge. She found one she could carry; and by the cairn, Pat met them.

"Sorr," he said, "by the feel of the wind, it's colder." He added, pointing: "The land's off that way,

"The handiest rocks are on the other side, in a fissure of the ledge."

Jenkins said: "Okay. You and Pat work from there and we'll work from here. I don't want to get too close to you. You might get funny—and I'd have to kill you after all."

Angus nodded. "Right," he agreed. He turned away; and Pat and Robin followed him. During the hours that followed, while the wind blew colder and the skies began to clear a little, the four men worked top speed at this task that might bring rescue; but Mr. Jenkins and Romeo never forgot to protect themselves against surprise. They took care not to come near either Pat or Angus. If Mr. Jenkins approached the growing pile of rocks when they were near it, he dropped his load twenty or thirty feet away, left it for them to fetch. He worked stoutly enough, and so did Romeo; but they maintained an equal vigilance.

Robin worked as she could; but she had to rest often, and when she rested, cold drained life and strength out of her. She was desperately hungry, and the thought of the chocolate, and the question whether it was still where she had left it, was like a madness in her. She thought she might somehow manage to reach the shelter unseen and recapture it; and once the thought took form, it obsessed her. She began to watch for any chance.

But for a long time the enterprise was clearly hopeless. Jenkins and Romeo were lugging boulders up out of that break in the cliff where the shelter lay, and one or the other was almost always there. Midday came and went. Once the sun shone briefly, then lost itself again in a driving scud of low clouds. The four men became more and more absorbed in this business which engaged them. They were drunk with their own labors, blind with a mounting fatigue, working in a rickling haste. The small huddle of houses ashore was visible now, miles away; for the fog had thinned, and the wind blew hard and cold. The men raced to accomplish as much as possible before dark came down. Once Mr. Jenkins mounted the growing pile and looked toward shore and waved his arms; and he even halleoed as though his voice might carry over the intervening miles.

But in mid-afternoon Mr. Jenkins and Romeo had already carried all the usable material from the upper part of the break in the cliff face up to the growing pile. Rather than descend the steep slope thirty or forty yards, they worked along the level, farther and farther from the cleft. Robin saw this; and since in the intoxication of their fatigue they paid less and less attention to her, she began by slow degrees to move nearer and nearer the spot where all her thoughts centered. Pat and Angus, on the other side of the dome, were out of her sight except when they approached the growing cairn. Romeo, 150 yards away to the south, was hidden behind an intervening ledge. She chose a moment when Mr. Jenkins, the only man in sight, had his back turned to her, and dropped down into the cleft and darted to the shelter.

She had left the chocolate among the loose rock piled together as a windbreak at one end; but when she came there now she felt a sick dismay. Romeo and Jenkins, to improve the barricade she had built on that side, had added other rocks to those she had piled there. It was deep buried. She began to drag the rocks away, working in desperate haste, peering into the cracks among them.

She saw at last the thing she sought; but she had to move still more boulders before she could draw the cake of chocolate free. She managed it, and turned to crawl out into the open air.

Then she stopped still, on hands and knees, sick with terror. Mr. Jenkins was there, a dozen feet away, watching her with an ironic smile.

"I don't want either of you too near me. It gives me the fidgets," he took a step toward them, said over his shoulder: "Come on, Romeo, work up a sweat and you'll feel better about that pretty face of yours." He told Robin grimly: "Romeo's afraid the girls won't like him any more, after the way you cut him up. You'd better keep away from him. He doesn't like you as much as he did."

He came on, and Robin stared, past him, trying to see into the shelter, wondering whether they had found the chocolate. Hunger was a wolf in her. She had never wanted anything as much as she wanted that cake of chocolate now.

Angus held her arm, drawing her back as Mr. Jenkins and Romeo came toward them. A moment later they stood in two groups, twenty feet apart; and Mr. Jenkins surveyed the situation. This small island was humpbacked, as its name implied. Its top was naked rock, rising to a high point fifty yards away from where they stood. There Pat and Angus had already piled some loose rocks together. On the bald ledge a few rounded boulders were scattered here and there; and Angus said now:

"The handiest rocks are on the other side, in a fissure of the ledge."

Jenkins said: "Okay. You and Pat work from there and we'll work from here. I don't want to get too close to you. You might get funny—and I'd have to kill you after all."

PATCH TEST FOR TUBERCULOSIS

Parents do not like the idea of any test that means puncturing the child's skin with a hypodermic needle. Needless to say, the child dislikes the idea even more. However, the parents realize that it is important to learn if their youngster is of the type likely to develop tuberculosis, so that methods to prevent this may be immediately used.

For years what is known as the patch test on the skin, was used, which meant that tuberculin was placed on the skin and a patch of adhesive tape placed over it. This was considered a reliable test but what is called the Mantoux test, where hypodermic needle injects tuberculin under the skin, is now in more general use.

In an effort to test the value of the patch test, Dr. Henry A. Reisman, Jamaica, N. Y., and Maurice Grozin, Flushing, New York, used it in 1,000 patients attending a hospital clinic. All were given both the patch and the Mantoux tests. The results were recorded in the American Journal of Diseases of Children.

The patch test consists of moistening a piece of paper toweling with tuberculin, allowing it to dry. This piece of paper is placed on a small square of adhesive tape and then applied to the skin with paper moistened with tuberculin next to the skin. This is allowed to remain for one or two days. If the test is positive (child more likely to develop tuberculosis) the skin is red with little raised blisters which will break down. In the Mantoux test the skin will likewise be greatly reddened if child is positive.

Dr. Reisman and Grozin state that the patch test has the following advantages: 1. It is painless and does not frighten the child. 2. It requires no boring, puncturing, scratching or rubbing of skin. 3. It requires no needles or syringes. 4. There are no instruments to sterilize. 5. There is no danger of infection. 6. There is less risk of damaging the tissues. 7. There is no fear of a reaction where patch is applied or any check to the system. 8. Technique of the method is simple. 9. The size of the reaction will be no larger than surface of skin covered by adhesive tape.

Fever May Indicate Infection Is Present

The cause of any rise in temperature may be due to some functional disturbance, some natural or harmless condition such as a stomach upset—or to some infection in the body.

How can the physician tell if the rise in temperature is due to some natural or harmless disturbance or to infection?

In the Wisconsin Medical Journal, Dr. Max J. Fox, Milwaukee, states that persistent low grade fever or rise in temperature occasionally follows some infection for some time. If this rise in temperature is prolonged for two or more weeks after the infection has passed, what is called the pyrexia (high temperature) test should first be tried to find out the cause.

The temperature in children seems to go up and down readily without apparent cause, and children in whom the rise in temperature is due to some functional or natural condition, not to infection, should be allowed to be on their feet.

The pyrexia test is as follows: The patient is given a series of four 3-5 grain doses of one of the coal tar products—acetyl salicylic acid, antipyrin, acetanilid or others—at four-hour intervals and the temperature is recorded every two hours. The usual effect is a fall in temperature in two hours after each dose and a rise by the end of four hours. The patient is then given no drug for 24 hours, to allow the drug to get out of system, and is then given a sleeping or quieting drug. The temperature is recorded every two hours for the following 24 hours. If the temperature is normal or below normal for 10 to 12 hours, it is assumed that the fever is not due to infection and the patient is allowed to go about his usual work or activities.

This is a simple method of finding out whether or not any infection is present. If present, child remains in bed and does not spread infection. If no infection is present, the child can return to school safely.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What would cause lumps to appear in back of the ear?
A.—Little lumps behind ear may be enlarged glands due to a scratch or sore higher up on the head.

Q.—What causes nervous indigestion?
A.—Most cases of nervous indigestion are due to nervousness and emotional disturbances. Your physician can arrange for an X-ray examination and learn if any organic condition is present.

When armored knights met, it was customary for each knight to raise the visor of his helmet as a means of identification. This gesture has come down through all armies in the form of the salute. Traditional, too, is the Army man's preference for Camel cigarettes. With men in the Army, Navy, Marines, and Coast Guard, actual sales records in their service stores show that Camel is the favorite. It's one of the favorite gifts with service men. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U.
