CARRIZOZO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, AUGUST 27, 1934

PRICE $2.00 THE YEAR

PERSONALS

Adolph Sultemeier and E. W. Wade of Corona were here on business Saturday.

Harry and George Straley were here on business from their ranches near Ancho Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jones and cute little daughter were here on business from White Oaks Monday.

Bill Balow of Ancho was in town on business the latter part of last week and as usual, made this office a friendly call.

Miss Sally Silvers of Ancho was the guest of Roadmaster's Clerk Miss Nina Norris and the Norris twin sisters Friday.

Mrs. R. M. Clayton is serving as temporary teacher at the Ancho school, filling a position where one of the teachers has resigned.

Tommy Cook is here from Kansas City for a visit with his mother Mrs. Elva Sherrill. Tommy is employed by the Witte Engine Works of Kansas City.

Mrs. J. C. Mosteler, who had been teaching at the Yaso school will teach at Lon for the fall and winter term. She attended the teacher's meeting here last Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Vigil, small son Pat and Miss Margaret Holguin arrived home from Los Angeles Tuesday, where they had been visiting relatives, while Lloyd was on his vacation.

Sisters Mary Pauline and Mary Regie, who had been attending the Catholic Teachers' College at Albuquerque for the past 8 weeks, arrived home so as to be ready for the opening of school.

We had a nice letter this week from Pvt. Jay Truax, now at Fort Bliss. Jay said that he had been promoted from Pvt. on the ground floor to KP in the middle chamber. But, as Jay puts it, quote: "I can take it."

Mrs. Leon Panebouef of Vaughn spent the week end with the E. Belio family at Claunch. On her return, she was accompanied by her niece Charlotte Belio, who will visit her aunt for about one week. Mrs. Panebouef is a sister to Mrs. Belio.

W. O. Grosenbacher the Wade Porter were here on business from Corona the last of the week. Mr. Grosenbacher is in the Angora goat business, and has an ad in this paper of interest to those in that line of business. He is a personal friend of Gov. Coke Stevenson of Texas.

We are in receipt of the announcement that Mark Sloan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brack Sloan, is under training at the Oklahoma University for a course in Army Air Force duty and academic instruction. Mark will undergo the above instructions for a period of five months, after which he will be classified as a pilot navigator.

Mrs. Barney Wilson and son Charles of Ancho were business visitors Monday.

Postmaster and Mrs. J. L. Graves of Nogal were here on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Norman are expected home from Hot Springs, N. M., where they have been for the past ten days.

Mrs. Albert Scharf of the local telephone office spent the major portion of her vacation being ill in bed.

Born - To Mr. and Mrs. R. Archie Perkins of Corona, a son, Gerald Randolph, August 21, 1943. - Congratulations.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wandell of Nogal were here on business Monday. While in town, they made this office a friendly visit.

Mrs. Nellie Reilly was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Scharf several days this week. Mrs. Scharf and Mrs. Reilly are sisters.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Corn were here Tuesday from their ranch home near Bingham, visiting the Roley Ward family, and also transacting some business.

Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson were here from Capitan Tuesday, visiting Mrs. Ferguson's mother, Mrs. Anna Brazel. Champ said he was all ready for the Rodeo.

Ex-County Commissioner Corbin Hester was here from Corona Monday attending to some business matters. He was accompanied by his father, Wm. T. Hester, who is visiting his son and family.

Miss Elsie Kimbrell, daughter of our friend and former County Commissioner George Kimbrell of Picacho was here last Saturday, attending the teachers' meeting. While in town, Miss Elsie made this office a friendly call. She will teach at the Picacho school for the coming term.

Pvt. 1st class Christobal Zamora, Marine Corps, formerly a captain of the Union high school football team at Lincoln, has spent 10 months overseas at Guadalcanal, Florida, Tulagi and Tanabogo. He went hungry most of the time. He is now recuperating in a Naval hospital at San Diego.

Mrs. Prehm of the Prehm's Department Store has received word from her son, Ernie, who is now a prisoner of the Japs in the Philippine Islands. He said he was well as could be expected under the circumstances. The word came through the American Red Cross. He also asked our people to take care of his mother while the boys are away from home.

Mrs. Vincent Reil has received a nice letter from Mrs. Frank Todd, formerly of Carrizozo but now residing at Franklinton, La., in which she speaks of hearing from many of her friends through the Outlook, which comes to them every week. She made Mrs. Reil's mouth water in relating about the many good things she was putting up in the way of fruit and vegetables. Frank's health is much better according to the letter since they have located there.

OPA BLAMED FOR CLOSING MEAT OUTLET

Midland, Texas, Aug. 24 - Removal of all operating restrictions in the livestock industry except point rationing, was urged today upon War Food Administrator Marvin Jones by M. C. Ulmer, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

In a Jones, Ulmer and D. A. Bantzen, manager of the WTCC, blamed the Office of Price Administration for present conditions in the livestock industry, adding: "There is meat scarcity in the midst of plenty. We plead for removal of all restrictions in the livestock industry except point rationing, and without subsidy to major or small packing interests."

Pvt. Jimmie LaRue of Fort Sill, Okla., will be here on his furlough to visit Mrs. LaRue and baby daughter in about three weeks.

C. E. May came in this week from Vallejo, Cal. and will make Carrizozo his home. Mr. May was at one time in charge of the Phillips 66 station here.

John Dale, Sr. of Ancho was here on business Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Goodson of Luna were shoppers in town Monday.

The entire board of the OPA at Las Cruces has resigned. - Look out, boys, you may get a spanking!

Announcement!

Beginning Monday, August 28, the Carrizozo Beauty Shop will be open each Monday and Thursday. This is only a temporary arrangement. The shop will be under the management of Mary Pickett Warden, an experienced operator.

Capitan Branch Line to Be Abandoned

Application to abandon the Capitan branch line from a point near Carrizozo Junction to Capitan, a distance of approximately 20 miles, has been filed with the Interstate Commerce Commission by the El Paso & Southwestern Railroad Company and the Southern Pacific Company. It was announced today.

Traffic over this branch, owned by El Paso & Southwestern and operated by Southern Pacific, does not justify its continued maintenance and operation, and further, the application states, its abandonment will enable the recovery of vitally needed material.

Freight service only is given over the Capitan branch twice a week and the shipments now being handled by rail can be readily moved by common carrier truck and by private and contract haulers over the paved highway paralleling the line, it is pointed out.

Description of New Deal

A reader of this paper calls attention to what he regards as a true description of the New Deal in the warning of Samuel to the people of Israel when they demanded that a king be chosen to rule over them. You'll find it in the 8th chapter of First Samuel, where the prophet used these words:

"This will be the manner of king that shall reign over you. He will take your sons, and appoint them for himself, for his chariots, and to be his horsemen; and some shall run before his chariots.

"And he will appoint them captains over thousands, and captains over fifties, and will set them to till his ground, and to reap his harvest, and to make his instruments of war, and instruments of his chariots.

"And he will take your daughters to be confectionaries, and to be cooks, and to be bakers.

"And he will take your fields, and your vineyards, and your oliveyards, even the best of them, and give them to his servants.

"He will take the tenth of your sheep; and ye shall be his servants." - Gallup Independent.

Mrs. Ira Robinson was here from Nogal last Saturday and attended the teacher's meeting. Mrs. Robinson will teach in the Nogal school for the fall and winter term.

NOTICE

Effective Sept. 1, 1943, Pickup and Delivery Service from the Carrizozo Home Laundry is discontinued.

SINGING CONVENTION

The Lincoln County Singing Convention will be held at Ancho on the 4th Sunday in September, which will be on Sept. 26. Everybody invited. - Colonel Jones, President.

Frosty Drinks Will Cool You! (See Recipes Below)

Frost Yourself!

When the thermometer rises to the hundred mark, homemakers look for cool ideas...

In today's column I'm attempting to give you a parade of cool drinks to fit every occasion...

After you've prepared them, find the coolest spot on the porch, sink into the most comfortable chair...

One of the best bases for a good, cool drink is a citrus fruit. Doesn't it honestly cool you already to think of orange or lemon juice...

If you want something to serve company on a summer evening, here's a drink that will fill any order.

Hollywood Parade.

- 1 pint orange juice
1 pint orange sherbet
1 pint vanilla ice cream
1 pint chilled ginger ale

Beat orange juice, sherbet and ice cream with a whirl type beater until well mixed. Add ginger ale. Stir and serve at once.

Another kind of orange drink which is nice to fix individually for yourself in the afternoon when you're feeling a tad low is this:

Orange Cream.

- 1 egg yolk
3/4 cup orange juice
1/2 cup thin cream or evaporated milk

Beat egg yolk until light, add orange juice and blend thoroughly. Pour into glass and stir in cream. Sweeten to taste. Serve at once.

There are several delightful flavors obtainable in fruit powders that

The Score Card: Good news is in sight with the word that coffee supplies in the country are coming back to normal...

Those of you who are canning can get additional supplies of sugar with your stamps to make putting up fruit at home easier.

Fruits and vegetables are scarce this year because of lack of help to pick them, and therefore prices run high.

If you have a canning problem, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, Western Newspaper Union, 216 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill. Please enclose a self-addressed envelope for your reply.

are simply delicious when made into frosty, cooling drinks. Use the directions on the package for mixing...

Chilling fruit, juice, milk or beverage is of first importance in preparing your cool drink, but then you've probably already done this.

Combine first three ingredients. Then stir in next three ingredients which have been combined together. Mix thoroughly and chill until ready to serve.

Summer Dream Salad. Watermelon balls Grapefruit sections

Fresh whole raspberries Pineapple segments Orange sections Honeydew slices Blueberries Mint Salad dressing

Arrange fruit on a bed of salad greens according to a pattern. Serve with salad dressing and garnish with mint sprigs.

Salad Dressing. 2 tablespoons currant jelly 1/4 cup lemon juice 1/4 cup salad oil 1 teaspoon salt 1 teaspoon paprika 2 tablespoons granulated sugar or honey Crush jelly with fork and beat smooth. Add remaining ingredients and beat with hand beater until blended. Serve over fruit salad or mixed greens.

Sandwich Hints In making sandwiches, soften butter or margarine before using. Avoid melting butter or margarine as it seeps into bread and makes a greasy filling.

A good way is to mix 1/2 cup peanut butter, apple butter, or jelly with 1/2 cup of butter to extend the butter supply. This makes enough spread for 16 slices of enriched bread.

Varieties of fruit-nut bread, orange bread or cheese bread make a combination that really is a victory special. Wise use of enriched flour saves needed ration points.

When Mrs. Winifred Tennill's husband was drafted, she took his place at this machine in a war plant in Ohio. She is shown pressing a button which started construction of the first airplane parts made in the plant.

Mothers, sisters, aunts, nieces, sweethearts, and even grandmothers are pitching in to see that their soldiers at the fighting fronts are not endangered through lack of ammunition because of a labor shortage at home.

Two Million More Women Needed for War Plants; Twice That Number Ready, Says Census Survey

Must Replace Men At Lathes and Forges To Supply Armies

By ELLIOTT PINE

Released by Western Newspaper Union. Nearly two million more women must be recruited for war jobs before the end of the year, says the war manpower commission. This is as many as entered industry in all of the twelve months between March, 1942, and March, 1943.

These two million women will have to be found, along with 800,000 older men, handicapped workers and others not now employed, if vital production is not to lag in the victory phase of the great conflict, WMC officials warn.

According to census bureau surveys, there are about four million women available and willing to work, although these potential workers have only been registered in a few large cities. There are no doubt many thousands ready to help if they knew they were needed.

Women seem to be able to do almost any work that men can. Sceptics have had to admit, time after time, that they were wrong. For many years women have been employed in light factory work, like copying parts, packing, dipping chocolates, canning vegetables, and so on.

It's in the heavy industries that the entrance of women is most startling. Figures show that during a one-year period employment of women in munitions increased 63 per cent, 30 per cent in steel making, 60 per cent in electrical manufacturing, 62 per cent in chemicals, 104 per cent in shipbuilding, and 104 per cent in aircraft factories!

These huge increases were not in jobs generally called light. While there has been plenty of need for help in all the clerical and light factory lines, the real openings have been in the heavy mechanical trades. It stands to reason that with heavy metal construction multiplied many times by war demands, and millions of men going to war, there must be a great lack of technically trained employees.

More Than 15 Million. At the end of March, there were 15,200,000 women gainfully employed, according to Chairman McNutt of the War Manpower Commission. Of these 14,100,000 were in non-agricultural work, or about a million were on farms.

Of course, all these 14 million women were not strictly war workers, but most of them were doing things that were necessary, such as clerking in bakeries, or running elevators, or operating laundry machinery.

But it is the women in heavy industry who have come forward to fill the breach, somewhat to the joyous surprise of everyone. A sample list of the work women are doing is given by Laura Nelson Baker in "Wanted: Women in Industry."

She says women are "Sewing uniforms and barrage balloons, assembling radio tubes, drafting, wiring assemblies for bombers, inspecting, making gas masks, riveting, welding, operating gear cutters, lathes, grinders, drill presses and saws. These are but a few of the well-paid jobs that women are taking over from men. Often they show men up by their efficiency."

Many times women have found better ways to do the operations men have been doing for years. There have been many improvements in working conditions put in for the benefit of women that will no doubt remain when men return to the factories. Some of the changes introduced are, according to Mrs. Baker: "Safety devices, opportunities to change posture and position, machines at the right working height, and other provisions against fatigue are now in general practice. Steel jigs too heavy for women to lift were replaced with masonite jigs weighing less than one-tenth as much. Engineers put a new lever on a spinning lathe so it could be operated with 70 per cent less exertion than before."

So women are able to do things that used to require strength and endurance, by having a few changes made. In fact, strength is becoming less and less important as machines take over the duties of muscles. Overhead cranes carry castings and other parts around from lathe to lathe, and shop trucks haul materials and tools about the huge plants. In really big factories, particularly in the aircraft industry, the workers ride about in busses.

Even with all these aids, war work is no "featherbed." In the shipbuilding yards, for instance, women do strenuous, dirty work, wearing cumbersome costumes for long hours. Forty-eight-hour weeks are common, and overtime is the rule some places that have been launching ships at unbelievable rates.

Get Same Pay As Men. Women shipyard workers are paid the same scale as men for the same kind of work. The scale is quite attractive, too, but the work, as said before, is hard, and somewhat dangerous. Every shipyard maintains a plant hospital with doctors and nurses in constant attendance. Workers are urged to report every accident, no matter how trivial.

In the aircraft industry, too, many thousands of women are helping to turn out the 7,000 planes a month that are needed to smash the Axis. Airplane manufacturing requires people able to work to fine tolerances, to be amazingly accurate, and yet speedy. In the modern plane there are hundreds of operations necessary, and women are working at most of them. Except for a few highly technical jobs, where women have not yet been able to get in the years of experience necessary, they are doing everything from drafting to test-piloting. At the present pace, women will be able to make complete airplanes without any help from men!

This is a highly paid field, with much overtime work. Most women engaged in it have taken considerable training before entering, and many have had some technical education in high school or college. There are comparatively few airplane factories, and most of these are located near big cities, as Los Angeles, Detroit, and Chicago. Because it is such an attractive field, women have gone into it eagerly, and there is not so much demand for new workers here perhaps, as in the huge ammunition plants that have made the United States the "arsenal of democracy" women can be found in many capacities. This lady war worker is taping shell cases for anti-tank guns at the Frankford arsenal in Philadelphia.

Some of the less glamorous industries. One of the latter is the chemical industry. Here the work is not so arduous as in the manufacture of ships or planes or tanks, but it is just as vital to the success of the war. The wage rate is not so high as in the metal working crafts and similar lines, but it is still very interesting.

Chemical workers generally need some training before starting in the plant, but high school chemistry is often sufficient background for one of the advanced positions. There is opportunity for after-war careers in this field, probably more than in most other lines.

Safety Pins Necessary, Too. While manufacturing of planes, guns, tanks, and other weapons and equipment used directly in combat is holding the spotlight, there are thousands of other articles most important to the army and navy that are made by companies turning out their regular peacetime products.

Army quartermaster corps officers say that they buy at least 10,000 articles in the open market, that is, the same goods that are made for civilian use. Women are needed to make all these things, both for servicemen and for civilians, who must live during wartime too.

Those women who are employed on farms are doing a most necessary job, of course. They should not be tempted to leave their food production to go to a factory. Food is a "munition," and is so recognized in military circles. With all this change in the traditional role of women, however, social minded thinkers are pointing out alarming possible after-effects when the war ends. They ask whether women who have been earning high wages and have achieved a large measure of independence are going to be content to return to their homes and live on the comparatively lower standard that their husbands' income will provide? Or whether there will not be more friction than ever between married people, as wives who formerly worked at high rates become dissatisfied with the frequently drab task of maintaining a home and caring for children?

Sociologists, clergymen, jurists and others interested in social welfare are perturbed about what may happen. There is also grave concern voiced about the effects of the times on children of war workers. Mothers who are away from their children for long hours are not able to give them that care and affection that no agency can supply. Many children do not get even the inadequate supervision of playground directors, kindergartens or nurseries. The results of haphazard parental direction in formative years may be a serious matter, a few years hence.

But this is war, and war is always profoundly disturbing to the social fabric. More optimistic commentators believe that America can recover from these shocks and come out of the war with conspicuous gains. Having millions of women who can do skilled work is hardly a thing for any nation to deplore. New products will mean a higher standard of living and thereby better health and educational opportunities for all.

It must be remembered that the civilian economy must be kept running, and that making cartridges and plane parts are not the only vital services in wartime.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

by Roger B. Whitman

Roger B. Whitman—WNU Features.

You may not be able to replace worn or broken household equipment. This is war. Government priorities come first. So take care of what you have... as well as you possibly can. This column by the housewife's friend tells you how.

OLD BARN

Question: A very old barn and tenant house were constructed of one-inch white oak and poplar boards, unfinished. Buildings have never been painted or finished. How can we finish and preserve the walls, preferably in a rich brown?

Answer: A good quality shingle stain will probably be best suited for the rough lumber. Many paint manufacturers make a creosote shingle stain in a wide range of colors; or you can make your own by mixing four parts raw linseed oil, two parts coal tar creosote oil and one part japan drier. For a darker stain, add color-in-oil, thinned with linseed oil to the consistency of paint. Use the color in the proportion of two parts in the above formula. Apply with a brush.

Overcoating

Question: My white clapboard house is in a section made smoky by a nearby mill. We had planned to paint the house, but now have been advised to cover it with a rough cement-like product blown on the wood. This can be washed when ever necessary. We know nothing about it and would like your opinion.

Answer: I should not advise anything with a rough surface, for it will catch dirt and make washing difficult. Find out whether the material is in use by owners in your neighborhood and get their opinions of it.

Leaky Cellar

Question: In heavy rains, water seeps into my cellar where the foundation wall and the upper frame and brick veneer meet. How can this be cured?

Answer: In a brick veneer house, water soaking through the brickwork runs down inside and may collect at the bottom of the space between the veneer and the sheathing. It is then likely to run off through the cellar. The remedy is to drill small holes through the brickwork at the bottom of the space, so that water can drain off to the outside.

Swollen Shingles

Question: Shingles on the back of my new house are swollen out of place. I am told that this is due to dampness, but that in dry weather the shingles will return to place. Can you advise me on this?

Answer: In dry weather you will undoubtedly find that the shingles will shrink and that no harm will be done. I should recommend giving them a coat of top quality shingle stain at that time.

Bluestone Binder

Question: Our driveway consists of several inches of cinders, with two or three inches of bluestone. What can be used as a binder for the bluestone?

Answer: An asphalt emulsion is made for the purpose. Your road commissioner can furnish you with the names of firms who carry this product.

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 32:7-10; 34:4-9, 27, 28.
GOLDEN TEXT—The Lord is long-suffering and of great mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression.—Numbers 14:18.

God is righteous, and cannot look with approval or in forgiveness upon sin until His mercy has been stirred and set free to act by repentance. Then He whose wrath is hotly kindled against man's transgression shows Himself as the tender and gracious God, "keeping loving-kindness for thousands, forgiving iniquity and transgression and sin."

This grace of God is fully revealed in Christ and the redemption which He brought to man, but is prefigured in the experiences of Israel under the law.

I. God's Wrath Kindled (Exod. 32:7-10).

There are those who would have us think of God as a benevolent old gentleman who is easily hoodwinked by clever sinners who can talk fast to cover their iniquity. Even if He does see it, He is supposed to be so tenderhearted that He overlooks their sin.

Such folk had better read these words, "That my wrath may wax hot." The wrath of God is a real and awful affection of the divine nature and it is revealed against man who sins against His holy law.

The special sin of Israel on this occasion was idolatry, which is the setting up of some material symbol to represent the invisible God. Moses had been with God in the mount for 40 days. He had been the Lord's representative in their midst. His presence had evidently been the chief stabilizing influence.

Having their eyes set on a man, or a material object to take His place, they had lost sight of the invisible God. So they proceeded to establish this idol which would provide a center of worship. At first it was evidently intended to remind them of God, but soon it led them out into heathen revelry (Exod. 32:6, 17, 18).

Whatever a man puts between himself and God, even though he may at first intend it to be but a reminder of God, will lead him away from God. Ritual, symbols, theology, scholarship, all good in their places, may become the idols which separate present-day man from God.

II. God's Mercy Invited (Exod. 34:4-9).

Aaron had only a weak "alibi" to offer. The golden calf had practically made itself (see Exod. 32:24). How quick man is to justify himself instead of admitting his guilt. No doubt our excuses sound just as silly as Aaron's in the ears of God.

Moses knew better. The sin was dealt with in drastic fashion. When one deals with a wild ravenous beast, there is one remedy—"shoot to kill." Not only were the leaders of the wickedness slain, but the ground gold of the calf image was put into water, which all Israel drank. Thus were they all marked as sharing the guilt of this idolatry.

There is a lesson here for us. America is far from God. We need to seek His face in repentance. But let us remember that we (that is, Christian men and women) are a part of America. It is our guilt, and we ought to be on our faces before God, pleading for God's mercy upon our land.

Moses was now ready to seek the Lord's mercy for his wayward people. He is the intercessor, the intermediary. God had a man who had compassion and love in his heart, and the Lord heard him. Loving-kindness and tender mercy flowed forth in place of flaming anger.

Note that God has not changed. He is the unchangeable One. His wrath is still hot against man's sin, but man has repented, and moved out of God's wrath into His love and grace. That too is always being shown to His obedient children.

III. God's Covenant Renewed (Exod. 34:27, 28).

Moses had broken the first tablets of commandments. The people had sinned and were not then ready to listen to any word from Jehovah. But now they were prepared to receive it, and God renewed the covenant as He again gave Moses the law.

There is no need for despair in the heart of the one who deals with God. The missed opportunity for obedience and blessing may be gone forever, but God is still on the giving hand ready to meet the returning prodigal, ready to give beauty for ashes (Isa. 61:3) and to restore the years that the locust has destroyed (Joel 2:25). Amazing grace!

In the keeping of these commandments, Israel was assured of the blessing of God. As we pointed out last week, the real fulfillment of the law came in Jesus Christ, who did not set aside its requirements, but met them all, for all who believe in His name.

Locksmiths Are Few
Although there are 50,000 establishments in the United States which can duplicate a key, there are only 2,000 bona fide locksmiths who have mastered the secrets of all lock combinations. There are no schools for locksmiths, no trade or correspondence courses. The art of locksmithing usually is passed on from father to son, and the secrets of the profession are carefully guarded. Locksmithing requires great skill and sometimes courage, particularly when a safe must be opened after being "sprung" with nitroglycerin by unsuccessful thieves.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

It did have a bearing on rubber use—the close to 24 billion gallons of gasoline used by highway vehicles in 1941. California led the states with a mark on the edge of 2 billion gallons. These are numbers for the "A" card holder to conjure with.

Tires for our fighting aircraft consume from 35 to 95 pounds of rubber, depending on the size of the plane. Inner tubes take from 24 to 5 1/2 pounds.

At a rubber plantation in Haiti, a 75-foot tree was pulled to the ground by the weight of cryptostegia vines which had fought one another to climb it.

GRAND JURY

The District Court Clerk's office has received word from Judge Frenger that he would probably call a Grand Jury for Lincoln County when he convenes the fall term of court, September 6th. Judge Frenger contemplates calling a Grand Jury as there may be some persons who have Criminal matters that they would like to take up with a Grand Jury instead of through preliminary hearing before a Justice of the Peace. Anyone having matters to take up with the Grand Jury should be ready when the term of court convenes.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Italy's Industrial Belt Feels Weight Of Continued Allied Bombing Attacks; Grain Crop Production Shows Decline; U. S. Airmen Hit Both Ends of Pacific

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

ITALY: Toe and Thigh

An the bulk of the German forces streamed across Messina straits from Sicily to the big toe of the Italian boot, Allied bombers struck at Italy's industrial belt high on the thigh of the leg-like peninsula.

As the final curtain was being drawn on the Sicilian campaign, suicidal German rearwards planted themselves in the craggy island's hill tops and mountain sides, and with mortar and machine gun fought Entering Palermo with American troops, Private Joseph Mole of Jamestown, N. Y., found a 14-month-old abandoned wife named Josephine, seen in his arms. Relief authorities took over her care.

Allied advances fiercely, as the bulk of their forces were evacuated.

In those last hours, the German rearwards' position became more precarious as daring units from Gen. George S. Patton's American 7th army landed behind their lines and aided by naval batteries and dive bombers slashed their way through bayonets to firmly entrench themselves on shore.

Despite heavy anti-aircraft fire which was said to have thrown up a wall of steel, waves of Allied bombers hit the important industrial center of Milan. Terrific detonations could be heard on the Swiss border miles away as the bombers pushed their way through the flak to drop their incendiaries and block-busters.

DRAFT: Induction Order

Now that Selective Service officials have authorized the drafting of fathers October 1, plans have been drawn for induction according to the importance of a man's occupation.

Under the new plan, a new classification known as "super-eligibility" would be created, under which certain skilled jobs in direct war production would place the employee last in the draft list.

The plan also would extend the list of non-essential jobs, holders of which would be eligible for immediate call, regardless of number of children. In this case, such men would be given the opportunity to switch to more essential industries. Thus, these non-essential occupations would be called first, before essential and "super-eligible" employees. About 300,000 fathers are to be drafted this year.

RUSSIA: Fighting Unsurpassed

Russia's rearing manpower rolled like a tidal wave over the endless Russian plains, and Germany's stubborn armies gave under the weight.

To the north, the Reds drove on Smolensk from two sides, leaving the Nazis a 140-mile gap in which to retreat along the corridor Napoleon Bonaparte used over a hundred years ago to pull his ragged and beaten army out of the country.

To the south, the Reds bore down on Kharkov, like they bore down on Orel, from three fronts, the north, east and south. Possessed with no natural fortifications, battered Kharkov, once the mighty "Pittsburgh" of Russia, lay exposed on the barren plains to the Reds' massed fire power and troops.

BUSINESS: Biggest Merger

Originally incorporated in New York state in 1891, the Western Union Telegraph company, with a capital of $170,000, almost immediately established a policy of purchasing or consolidating with less formidable competitors.

Biggest step in the policy loomed recently when stockholders of the Postal Telegraph company voted to merge with Western Union, now more than a $340,000,000 enterprise, world-wide in operation.

AGRICULTURE: Below '42

Total production of the five leading grain crops was set at 5,282,000,000 bushels for 1943, 700,000,000 less than harvested last year, on the basis of estimates of the department of agriculture.

Because of favorable growing conditions in July, the department looked for a corn crop of 2,874,711,000 bushels against last year's harvest of 3,175,154,000; a wheat crop of 834,894,000 against 981,327,000; an oats crop of 1,189,546,000 against 1,244,255,000; a barley crop of 349,848,000 against 420,150,000, and a rye crop of 33,314,000 against 57,341,000.

Combined production of the four feed grains—corn, oats, rye and barley—was estimated at 111,000,000 tons below last year's yield. Soybean harvest was set at 200,320,000 bushels.

Milk production held close to last year's level and egg output was at a peak, except in the West.

PACIFIC: Hit Both Ends

While American troops hemmed in the last surviving band of Japanese on New Georgia island in the Solomons, U. S. airmen hit their Liberators off of the Alaskan runway and headed them for the northernmost chain of islands of the Japanese empire.

As the Liberators rumbled over these islands, known as the Kuriles, 40 enemy lighter planes rose up in defense. But the Americans opened their bomb bays and death and destruction tumbled on the designated target areas. Two Liberators were shot down, but the others swung their noses homeward to complete the 1,700-mile trek.

Bad weather made the jungle on New Georgia a stew, but nevertheless less U. S. Doughboys slogged through the mire to complete encirclement of the remnants of the Japanese force on the northwest coast of the island.

ALLIED MEETING: Politics and War

With Allied forces at the gates of the European fortress, with Marshal Pietro Badoglio's military government of Italy reportedly receptive to peace terms, and with Russia having indicated willingness to negotiate with a "democratic" Germany purged of Nazism, Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt came together for their sixth personal meeting of the war.

Flying to the North American continent with Churchill was a staff of military and naval chiefs, and joining them for discussion were ranking U. S. army and navy officers. The combination of these staffs indicated further operations of joint character, such as those in North Africa and Sicily, where the services of the two nations teamed for effective action.

As Churchill and Roosevelt met, Russia threw a bombshell into the diplomatic picture by declaring that Premier Joseph Stalin had not been invited to the conference, and therefore neither he nor an accredited Soviet representative would attend. Russia's diplomatic jockeying to share in the dominion of Europe after the war will be one of the Allied leaders' chief considerations.

MISCELLANY: SPORT OF KINGS

A group of 64 thoroughbred yearlings, offspring of such famous racing sires as Blenheim II and Sir Galahad III, sold at an average price of $3,507 at the Lexington, Ky., sales.

STAR: While flying over Europe to take pictures for the aircraft gunnery school, Clark Gable's plane was hit 15 times, but returned to base.

GAS: Ration Change

Reduction in the gas ration in the Midwest and Southwest was planned by the Office of Price Administration following Petroleum Administrator Harold L. Ickes' report of a critical fuel shortage. Formerly, rationing had been imposed in the area to limit driving and conserve tires.

Harold Ickes

According to the plan, A, B and C coupons will be cut from four to three gallons. Many holders of C cards will find their gas allowances trimmed from a maximum of 720 miles per month to 480. Preferred motorists like doctors, ministers and certain war workers will continue to receive unlimited supplies according to need.

It was said increased movement of oil to the East through the newly completed "big-inch" pipe line would draw from the affected areas supplies, contributing to any reduction in the gas ration there.

TAXES: Who Pays

Of the total of 22 billion dollars collected by the U. S. treasury for the fiscal year 1943 which ended June 30, the states of New York and Illinois contributed almost 20 per cent.

The treasury's figure showed that the people in eight highly industrialized states paid 59 per cent of the government's total revenue. Besides New York and Illinois, these states were Connecticut, Massachusetts, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan.

By contrast, the treasury said North and South Dakota, each with a small population, paid about .03 of the total revenue.

Of the revenue collected, more than 10 billion dollars was in the form of individual and corporation income taxes.

LABOR: Shun Lewis

Big, burly John L. Lewis found the road back to the American Federation of Labor, from which he once booted to form the CIO, blocked.

Headed by AFL President William Green, the union's executive committee officially refused to accept the United Mine Workers' application for re-entrance. Instead, the council said that the matter would be referred to the AFL annual convention.

In rejecting Lewis' application, the council showed no disposition to bargain with him. Whereas Lewis had insisted that the UMW be accepted as presently composed, the council called for dissolution of UMW's District 50, which has been unionizing various branches of labor. Otherwise, the council said, District 50's activities might interfere with established AFL unions.

MINERS: Seven weeks after passage of the Smith Connally anti-strike bill, 30 coal miners, including officials of various United Mine Workers locals, stopped into federal court and asked that the case be thrown out on constitutional grounds.

The miners' counsel declared that the anti-strike law was in opposition to the first amendment of the Constitution guaranteeing freedom of speech, and the 13th amendment to the Constitution against involuntary servitude.

Many Tax Laws Suggested To Get 'Nervous Dollars'

Compulsory Savings, Personal Excess Income Tax, Spending Levy Found Unpopular or Unwieldy; Orthodox Bill Seen.

Washington, D. C. As far back as biblical days, the tax collector was an unpopular person.

Today you don't see the tax collector but you know who writes the tax laws and the folks who do (congress) lead a most unhappy life, especially in an election year such as we are approaching.

The complicated problem they face can be simply stated—think it over and figure out what you would do if you had to write a tax law. The problem is this: how to collect the most dollars and lose the least votes.

Soak the rich? Well, they have the money and it hurts them the least, but unfortunately there are not enough of them to soak. It is too bad because they are so few in number that their votes don't matter so much. (Only 40,000 people or approximately one eight-hundredth of those with incomes earn over $10,000 a year.)

Tax the rest? That will bring in the biggest total but they are the ones with the votes.

The President says we need 100 billion dollars to run the war this year. The treasury says that out of every dollar collected, 90 cents goes to pay the war bills.

So there have been a number of schemes concocted which are aimed at getting the nervous dollars, the ones most likely to create inflation. Presumably they are the dollars that belong to the people who are now getting a lot more money than they did before the war. It would be just to take the "excess profits" to pay for the war especially because the people who are getting a lot more than they are used to are the ones who spend most freely.

So compulsory savings has been suggested. That is, making Uncle Sam collect a part of everybody's income, which would be returned after the war. Then there is a scheme to tax spending. In other words, tax the dollars which are spent on extras, dollars that get back into circulation and push up the inflation spiral. Not the dollars that go into homes or life insurance or paying old debts, but the dollars that romp off for more clothes than you need to wear, more food and more gadgets than you ought to get along with in wartime.

Then there is another tax—the personal excess income tax.

That is a tax on the amount of money that you are receiving now that you weren't receiving before the war.

Lacking Popularity

None of these methods is popular. There is a sentimental objection to compulsory savings. It smacks, according to its opponents, too much of totalitarianism, of an interference with the individual's personal habits. The President is opposed to it—and his wife agrees with him—the treasury is opposed to it.

The spending tax is said to be too complicated and likewise appears to be unpopular with the treasury. Then there is this personal excess income tax of which you will soon be hearing more. The chief objection to that tax seems to be that it is too hard to work out; that it is too hard to make it just and fair. Even the Nazis who tried it gave it up after about a year's trial.

When the personal excess income tax comes up, you will hear many arguments against it. Like many of these other "unorthodox" methods, it requires the establishment of what is called a "base period" to establish a comparison. That is, some period of time during which the amount earned by the individual is taken as a base. Then what he is making now is compared with that "base" and the difference taxed. But that is a pretty hard thing to work out because so many adjustments would have to be made for special cases that the government would never be able to examine each case and pass on it fairly.

Take the young doctor. The year before the war, he may have been graduated from medical school. Probably he had little or no income then. Then he begins to practice and in wartime, doctors are in demand. He may have made a fair income this year. Would it be fair to tax the "excess" if it were the difference between this year's earnings and the "base period" when he was earning nothing at all?

Too Many Inequities

Then there are many men who are getting more money now because they work longer hours or have received just and deserved promotions—all these things immediately come into the picture when you begin to straighten out the inequities, when you really try to tax a just percentage of a man's income.

And so the predictions which are being made in Washington now are that the next tax bill will be a pretty "orthodox" affair, it will simply have about the same kind of exemptions, a little higher percentage tax, and will be rushed through at the last minute after as many members of congress have objected to the clauses which they think will be unpopular with their constituents. The government needs the money and needs it quickly. The people don't want to be taxed any more than can be helped and the congressmen will lean over backwards trying to please the people.

Meanwhile, the treasury tells us that most of the money which is being earned due to the great increase in production caused by the war is going to people whose incomes are less than $5,000 a year—seven-eighths of it. So at least seven-eighths of the taxes ought to come from that group.

When Your Back Hurts

And Your Strength and Energy Is Below Par It may be caused by disorder of kidney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and nervous when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood. You may suffer—nervous, backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up at night, leg aches, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's Pills have been tried and tested many years. DEEP WATERS

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS
W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY SO FAR: Robb Dale, a young artist, goes to Moose Bay to see her fiancée, Will McPhail. When Will is accidentally killed, his brother Angus blames Robb. She goes to Angus' fishing cruiser to see him. While she is on board the boat sails, carrying her, Angus, Pat Donohoe and a cabin boy named Romeo toward Labrador. The boat is seized by a man named Jenkins. Caught running contraband alcohol, Jenkins is trying to escape from a government patrol. When the boat sinks in a storm they are stranded on an island. Jenkins surprises Robb in the act of getting a cake of chocolate she has saved for Angus and Pat.

side, and she fell, and Pat's heel caught her in the temple. It struck her senseless. Then the two men fell on top of her. She was under their thrashing bodies, forgotten by them both while they fought.

Up to this moment, neither Romeo nor Angus had appeared. They were both too far away to hear Robb's scream; but they heard the pistol shot. Romeo instantly raced to take a hand in whatever here went forward. Angus, even before the shot, had some forewarning. He was on the opposite side of the island when he discovered that Pat had disappeared. With as many rocks as he could carry in his arms, Angus went toward the cairn to see where Pat had gone; and he had almost reached it when he heard the shot. He dropped his load and raced up to the cairn, and saw Romeo coming from the left, scudding like a rabbit along the break of the cliff toward the cleft from which stounds of battle rose.

Angus raced to cut Romeo off; but he was still ten or fifteen yards short of doing so when Romeo reached a spot just above the shelter. The man stopped there and stood it. His didn't. Or maybe it was his back. "I heard it crack." He grinned. "He saved my life, peace to him."

Angus said flatly: "Romeo's somewhere around. Look out for him. I've got to tend to Miss Dale. She's hurt." He turned back to Robb, and lifted her into the shelter and laid her there and eyed her doubtfully, not sure what to do. Clearly, she was alive, for her breath stirred and she made gasping sounds; but there was a lump on her forehead, and her knuckles were bruised and broken, and her sweater torn. He held a handkerchief open in the spiteful little rain till it was dripping wet; then began to bathe her forehead and cheek and throat.

CHAPTER XV

"Sol!" he whispered. "Cheating, sister? What have you got?"

She clutched the treasure tight against her breast. "It's mine!" she cried.

"Now don't be greedy, sister!" He came toward her. She was still on her knees in the low, cave-like shelter. At the thought of being caught there, panic swept her. She scrambled out just as Mr. Jenkins reached her. He caught her wrist with one hand, the cake of chocolate with the other. She clung to it, holding it with both hands against her body; and she screamed in a shrill, metallic way. He cried:

"Blast you, let go! Shut up!" He looked over his shoulder, still wrenching at the chocolate, and she bent her head and bit his hand.

He swore mightily, and he struck her hard in the face. Her head rang, and her legs gave way and she fell on her knees, still clinging to the cake of chocolate. He caught her wrist again, with his left hand, and there was an insane rage in him now. He drew his pistol and struck her knuckles with the barrel of it.

Then, behind him and a little above him, not a dozen feet away, the big Irishman came charging into view, Robb saw him. She cried Pat's name; and Jenkins, instantly reacting, jerked her around to serve as shield as big Pat-Donohoe came on.

Since he first saw Robb on the wharf at Quai Rimouski, Mr. Jenkins had changed his mind about her half a dozen times. Beginning with the casual interest he might have felt toward any pretty girl, he had progressed to a lively resentment at her presence aboard McPhail's cruiser.

He did not actually see her slip down into the cleft to go to the shelter today. His back was toward her at the moment. But he glanced that way an instant later and, since she was no longer in sight, he knew at once where she had gone.

But he did not start toward Robb without a first cautious look around. Romeo was beyond him, laboring with a great boulder, a hundred yards or so away; and Angus and Pat were out of his sight on the other side of the naked dome where the monument was rising. When he was sure of this, Mr. Jenkins, as quietly as a cat, slipped back toward the head of the cleft.

When he came where he could see her, Robb was in the shelter, working in panting haste, shifting the rocks which he and Romeo had piled across the end of their refuge to shut out the wind. Mr. Jenkins came quietly down below the break of the ledge, so that no one could see him from the cairn above; and he watched in a lively curiosity. He was standing there, three or four paces away, when she turned to crawl out of the shelter with the cake of chocolate in her hand.

When Robb screamed, big Pat Donohoe had just reached the cairn with two or three rocks nursed in the cradle of his arms. As he dropped them, he heard her cry; and without a moment's hesitation, he raced that way. She and Mr. Jenkins did not hear his pounding feet; but Robb, looking past Mr. Jenkins, saw Pat on the ledge above them and cried his name. Mr. Jenkins had that much warning. He whipped around, and he drew her in front of him like a screen, the pistol in his right hand. At the same time, Pat's foot slipped and he fell awkwardly sidewise, sliding over the lip of the ledge, landing absurdly in a sitting position ten feet away from where Mr. Jenkins stood with Robb fast in the steel circle of his arm. The breath went out of Pat with a grunt; and Mr. Jenkins, lips tight across his teeth, said sharply:

"Get up! Get out of here!"

But Robb cried, "Here, Pat!" She threw the chocolate toward the Irishman. The throw was awkward. The precious stuff landed on a sloping ledge and slid downward; and Mr. Jenkins swore at Robb and thrust her aside so that he could retrieve it. But she clung to his right arm—the pistol was in that hand—juggling at him, holding him back; and Pat, seeing his chance, came to his feet like a released spring and made his leap. Mr. Jenkins jerked free his pistol hand and fired.

When Mr. Jenkins fired, Pat was a lion in mid-leap. He felt the bullet like a flame stab his leg; but it did not stop him. Mr. Jenkins tried to twitch aside out of the way of Pat's charge; but he was driven back and down, Pat's great hands grappling for the pistol and for Mr. Jenkins' throat.

Robb, by the impact of Pat's leap, was knocked spinning to one whipped a knife from its sheath at the hip and balanced it in his hand, looking down into the cleft as if to pick a fair target.

There was not time to come to him before he threw the knife. Angus scooped up a rock half as big as a brick; and as Romeo raised his hand, Angus threw the rock with all his might at the man's head. It missed that mark, but it did strike Romeo's elbow fairly, with a sharp, cracking sound. Romeo's knife flew out of his hand, and he screamed with pain and whirled and saw Angus almost on him.

It was in McPhail's mind to get his hands on Romeo's throat and do a thorough job of it; and the intent was blazing in his eyes. Romeo dodged and darted away—and Angus saw Pat and Mr. Jenkins by the shelter just below him, locked together, rolling over and over in a light and silent fury. Also, he saw that Robb lay as flat as a beaten rug under their thrashing bodies.

He forgot Romeo. He reached them in two jumps. Mr. Jenkins at the moment happened to be upmost. Angus hauled at Mr. Jenkins; and since Pat clung like a terrier to his foe, Angus threw them both aside together. They rolled down the slope, and Angus picked Robb up, holding her awkwardly, shaking her, trying to think of some effective thing to do.

Then suddenly he was cool and sane again. Robb was unconscious, dead perhaps; but there would be time to tend her later. Pat and Mr. Jenkins, still locked together, had somehow disappeared around the corner of the shelter, down the steep rocky slope toward the sea. Angus, wondering why Pat needed so long to handle Mr. Jenkins, turned to help.

But Pat needed no help. When Angus left Robb and swung that way, he saw Pat crawling laboriously up the slope toward him. There was no sign of Mr. Jenkins. The rain fog dropped smotheringly about them, and Angus called sharply:

"Where's the Jenkins?"

Pat looked over his shoulder; and a gull on patrol in the fog looked down, turning its head sidewise the better to see what lay broken on the rocks. It wheeled sharply, with excited cries, and Pat Donohoe said:

"The gull's found him, down below. Rest his black soul!"

"Dead?"

"He is that! We fell off a ten-foot shelf, locked together like two sweethearts; but he was undermost when we landed, praises be! If it hadn't been for him to break my fall, not even my head could have

Angus said flatly: "Romeo's somewhere around. Look out for him. I've got to tend to Miss Dale. She's hurt." He turned back to Robb, and lifted her into the shelter and laid her there and eyed her doubtfully, not sure what to do. Clearly, she was alive, for her breath stirred and she made gasping sounds; but there was a lump on her forehead, and her knuckles were bruised and broken, and her sweater torn. He held a handkerchief open in the spiteful little rain till it was dripping wet; then began to bathe her forehead and cheek and throat.

He had forgotten Pat. The Irishman crawled nearer on hands and knees till he came to the front of the shelter. He watched Angus for a while; and presently he said in a mildly persuasive tone:

"She's took nought but a crack on her head, sorr. She'll be fine!"

Angus nodded, still without looking around. "I guess so. I don't know, can't tell whether she's hurt or—just knocked out. She's coming around." He continued his ministrations; till Pat said, apologetically:

"Sorr, could you maybe be stopping the blood from running out of my leg here? I'm all thumb-hanged like. I can't seem to manage it alone."

Angus looked around at him, in a quick surprise; and Pat lay softly down on his face and sighed and closed his eyes. Angus caught the big man in his arms.

It was time. Pat's leg was broken by that single shot which Mr. Jenkins had found time to fire. Walking uncomplainingly while Angus tried to revive Robb, he had rolled up his trouser leg and pulled off his shoe and rock drenched with blood; but then increasing weakness left him helpless to tend himself. The bullet had entered just beside the shin bone, had come out through the back of the calf above the ankle. When Angus saw the wound, he understood how Mr. Jenkins had been able to fight so long against Pat's greater weight and strength.

With his thumbs he put pressure on till the hemorrhage slackened and stopped. He rolled his handkerchief, put a bit of rock in it, tied it around Pat's leg and twisted it with his knife for leverage. He tried to remember what to do next; and then Robb, in the shelter behind him, came back to her senses. Her head seemed like bursting, and her world was all confusion; but her first conscious thought was of that cake of chocolate. She had dropped it somewhere, somehow. She must find it. She crawled out past Angus; but when she saw what he was about, she made a low pitying sound, and Angus said:

"Oh, hullo! I had to take care of Pat. He was bleeding badly. Are you—hurt much?"

"I don't think so. Just my head, and my hands, I guess. And I'm sort of—sore all over. Where's the chocolate?" He thought her mind was wandering; but he said: "I came to try and get it, and I did, but Mr. Jenkins caught me here; and then Pat came. Did Mr. Jenkins get it? Where is he?"

She looked around to see where Mr. Jenkins was, and discovered the chocolate, crushed and flattened where the men in their fight had rolled on it. She retrieved it jealously, forgetting Mr. Jenkins; and Pat came groping back to consciousness again. She said: "Here it is! See?" Pat groaned, and she cried: "Oh! Give him this, Angus! Let him eat it."

"He doesn't need it yet. We've got to take care of this leg of his."

Let me, she said. She loosened the tourniquet, watching the wounds of entrance and of exit to see what flow of blood there was. "No big artery cut, I'm sure," she decided.

Angus recognized competence in her; and he watched her wet his handkerchief to make a cold pad to compress the wounds. He turned to look around, and saw Mr. Jenkins' pistol in a cranny among the rocks and picked it up. Then, remembering Romeo, he climbed to the ledge and saw the man not twenty yards away, stealth in his posture, creeping near. Angus raised the pistol, and Romeo whirled and ran, zigzagging like a snipe in flight to dodge the bullet he expected. But Angus did not fire. When Romeo was out of sight, McPhail remembered the knife the man had dropped and looked for it, and found it where it had slid down off the ledge.

Robb called to him: "We need something for a bandage." Angus descended to her side. A bandage? Some garment they might tear into strips. In this windy cold, no rag they wore could be spared. But Mr. Jenkins was somewhere below them, and he had no more need of clothing.

"I'll find something," Angus told Robb, and went down the rocky slope. He came to the ledge on which Pat and Mr. Jenkins in their fight had fallen. Mr. Jenkins lay like a rag beaten limp by rain, on his back, his eyes open; and Angus was shaken by the sight, till he realized that Mr. Jenkins was alive. Was watching him.

WOMEN, ARISE!

Mrs. Elmer Twitchell is out with a demand for a Fifth Freedom. She wants Freedom From Returning Bottles.

"If there is one thing the women of America are sick of," she writes, "it is returning bottles. It is getting worse and worse every minute. Once upon a time it applied only to milk bottles, but today the Pay-a-Deposit-and-Return-the-Bottle nuisance has become epidemic. I have figured it out and I think two-thirds of a housewife's time is spent saving bottles, finding something to put them in and remembering to tote them back. It's awful."

"Aren't you exaggerating?" asked Elmer.

"No," insisted Mrs. Twitchell. "What do men know about it? When did you ever return a bottle? If we women left it to the men not a bottle would ever be taken back and the deposit reclaimed."

"Oh, I often take them back," argued Elmer.

"Twice in eight months, if I remember correctly," said the wife. "Everything from a demi-tasse pill bottle to a soda pop, beer and maraschino cherry bottle has to be carefully kept, stowed and then carted back. When I drive the flivver to the market it counts as if a grocery store was moving and I was carrying two loads. It's a major job remembering what bottles go to which stores."

"And you should see the faces on the storekeepers when they see me coming in with empties. They've got troubles enough without checking my returns, and they show it."

"So what?" asked Elmer.

"So, how about arousing the women of America to a revolt or something? I'm starting a drive. I think I'll found an organization to be known as the American Women's League for Fewer Deposits on Bottles."

"Can I help?" asked Elmer.

"Yes," replied Mrs. Twitchell. "Take back those two baskets of empties down by the furnace. I've been trying to think of it for a week."

A candy magnate has bought the Blue Network for eight million dollars. And yet there are people who still go on insisting that all candy does to a fellow is to increase his weight.

Of all the thrills that come through purchases, the acquisition of a great radio chain must be close to tops. What sensations must come to a man as he planks down a check and realizes all the power, prestige, influence, opportunity and fun he has bought, with all those commentators, quiz kids, masters of ceremonies and bazzoo players—thrown in!

What emotions he must feel as he realizes that he has signed a check and that in return he owns all those time signals! All those theme songs! All those sound effects (particularly the hoofbeats)! All those milks, amplifiers and gadgets!

EVERY homemaker knows how many steps could be saved if table linens could have a special closet in the kitchen or pantry. In one home that we know of space for such a closet was going to waste all because cupboard doors or drawers would interfere with the door shown here in the small

The high compartment has a door of plywood. Below this are shelves with a curtain on a shade roller. The curtain runs up and down between the shelves at the left.

After filling jars in canning season test them for leaks by tapping the bottoms with a knife or spoon. The sound will tell whether or not the jar is sealed.

Creamed hard boiled eggs served over split muffins is a good dish for meat-eating days. The proteins of the enriched flour used in your muffins, together with the proteins of the egg and milk add up to plus values.

When the word went out that soldiers overseas wanted packages from home—the response was so overwhelming that Uncle Sam reluctantly had to call a halt. Today, due to shipping space, there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men—but you can still send packages to soldiers in the U. S. and to Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen wherever they are. When you do, remember—one of their favorite gifts is cigarettes, and the favorite brand is Camel. Sales records in Post Exchanges and Canteens show that Camel is first choice with men in all the services. So send him that carton of Camels today.—Adv.

NO SUGAR NEEDED IN EASY-TO-MAKE ALL-BRAN MUFFINS

Here's an already favored recipe that's gaining new wartime fame . . . for yourself how the flavorome crispness of KELLLOGG'S ALL-BRAN gives these delicious muffins a texture and taste all their own!

Kellogg's All-Bran Muffins

2 tablespoons shortening 1/4 cup milk
1/2 cup corn syrup 1 cup flour
1 egg 1/2 teaspoon salt
1 Kellogg's All-Bran 2 1/2 teaspoons baking powder

Cream shortening and corn syrup thoroughly; add egg and beat well. Stir in All-Bran and milk, let soak until most of moisture is taken up. Sift flour with salt and baking powder; add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin pans two-thirds full and bake in moderately hot oven (400° F.) about 30 minutes. Yield: 8 large muffins, 3 inches in diameter, or 13 small muffins, 2 1/4 inches in diameter.

BACKACHE MAY SCREAM FOR SPEEDY ACTION

When KIDNEYS need diuretic aid
When overstrain or other non-organic, non-systemic cause slows down kidney function, the back may ache painfully. Natural kidney flow may be lessened—frequent but scanty—often smarting. "Getting up nights" may run sleep.

To relieve such symptoms, you want quick stimulation of kidney action. To help attain this, try Gold Medal Capsules. It's easy-to-take diuretic has been famous for over 30 years for such prompt action. Take care to use only as directed on package. Only 35¢ at drug stores. Accept no substitute. Get the genuine Gold Medal Capsules today. They act fast!
