No More Brass

On land or at sea our fighting men do their many chores by the sound of a bugle. All sorts of complimentary epithets are used to designate the bugler, but nobody has yet been able to provide a satisfactory substitute for a bugle although recordings are used at some permanent bases.

Aboard ship the men fall in at the order of "Pipe muster." On land the bugler sounds "Assembly!" But no matter where the bugle is used thousands must be bought out of the money we are investing in War Bonds. Back the attack with an extra $100 Bond in the 3rd War Loan.

Saturino Chavez, Jr. Killed in Action

This community was shocked the early part of this week, by the announcement that Saturino Chavez, Jr., had been killed in action in a fierce sea battle in Italy. The message was sent to his widowed mother, Mrs. Maggie Chavez, after which, the sad news spread rapidly over the town.

Sat was what is called a "tail gunner" on a bombing plane and one of the most important positions on the plane. In his position in the rear of the bomber, it was his duty to keep his buddies in the front warned of the approach of the enemy coming from the rear, as they could not see the movements from the front.

We do not know, but we presume that it was in that last fierce battle where we lost 30 of our planes, and crews killed. Sat had but lately wrote his mother about his crew blasting and sinking two German bombers and for his heroic part in the fray, he had received a medal for bravery in action.

Saturino Chavez, Jr., was a model young man. He graduated from our high school, after which he served as assistant cashier in the First National Bank of Carrizozo. He next was appointed as deputy in the office of County Treasurer and served for three county treasurers, namely, Louis Adams, Oscar Bamberger and Ernest Key.

He was an excellent violin player and at one time, had a splendid dance orchestra, which played for dances here and at other place over the county. His friends were legion, all of whom were deeply moved by the sad news of his death. He leaves to mourn his loss, his mother, Mrs. Maggie Chavez, one sister, Mrs. Bertha Martinez, two brothers, Reuben and Ezekiel Chavez and other close relatives here, to all of whom, the sympathy of our community is tendered.

Mrs. Sidney Goldston, who has been here this week from Roswell, tells us that her son, Staff Sgt. Sidney Goldston who had been stationed at Selman Field, La., has been transferred to Midland, Texas.

Para-Ski Troopers

When will this war end? Nobody knows, so the Army is continuing its training of Para-Ski Troopers. They're parachute troops who know their way about on skis or any other place in snow covered mountainous country.

A great measure of the success of Russia's victories last winter is attributed to these troops who move with the silence of a snowflake. Our work on the home front is not so hazardous as that of the Para-Ski Troopers but it is important that we perform our daily tasks and make every effort to increase our regular purchase of War Bonds.

The horse racing last Saturday afternoon drew a good crowd and the racing was very exciting. Jim Cash's horse, "Music" won his race over a black horse from Pinon, Lewis Farris' filly won her race from Preacher Dobbs' horse. This was a starter for more races which will be given this fall, we understand. The dance that followed at night was likewise well attended. Let's have another at least before cold weather sets in.

Letter From Mrs. Kelt

Oct. 8, 1943.

The Outlook Office,
Carrizozo, N. M.

Dear Friend Mr. Burke:
I just thought I would write a few lines to tell you I sure do enjoy getting the paper to see what is happening around my homeland. I only wish I could be a little closer so I could visit more there. I expect to make a visit for a few days some time soon. Just received a letter from Frank D. Kelt, my son, who is in the Air Force. A-S Frank D. Kelt. He is in Reno, Nevada, going to the University of Nevada for 3 to 5 months. He is going to be a pilot. He saw lots of country and sights on his way from Amarillo, Texas, to Nevada. He likes it fine so far there. He was one of 10 boys that was sent. He has been in service 3 months 28th of Oct. I just thought some of his friends from that part of the country would like to know where he was.

We have been having a little winter weather here lately. Guess winter is just around the corner.

I saw Mr. Bright at football game. Haven't seen his family lately.

Hope your wife and son are OK. We send our best regards to them and friends in Zozo. Hoping I may see you soon.

I am respectfully,
Mrs. M. M. Kelt,

Chuck Wagon Dinner, Dance and Wedding

Last Saturday night was a "Banner" night for Ancho, and we have always said that when Ancho does anything, it does it well.

In the first place, there was a chuck wagon dinner at the school house, at 6:30 and was not only followed by a dance, but wound up with a wedding the happy couple being J. R. Raines and Mrs. Mary Hall. Rev. Loudin was sent for from here, but due to some misunderstanding, he did not arrive until about 10 o'clock but the dance went on until Rev. Loudin arrived, after which the ceremony was performed. We are unacquainted with the bride, but are well acquainted with the groom. He has been following ranching, mining and has for the past year, been engaged in bean raising business near Claunch. We offer congratulations to the newlyweds, wishing them happiness and prosperity. The affair on the whole, was decided success.

FAIRY godmothers must have stood three deep around Florence Freeman's cradle when she was an infant; certainly she seems to have just about everything now. If you listen to "The Open Door" (it's on the air on NBC five mornings a week, and is considered one of the best of the radio serials) you know her as "Lisa Arnold." She's beautiful, an excellent actress, the wife of a minister and the mother of two children. She takes an active part in church activities. Watching a broadcast, it was fascinating to see how she and the other members of the company worked; gestures and facial expressions made me long for television!

After appearing in more than 30 pictures, lovely Lynn Bari gets her chance to satisfy a long standing ambition to sing in a picture. It's United Artist's "The Bridge of San Luis Rey." But she's booked to sing romantic Peruvian ballads in their original tongue. Nothing daunted, Miss Bari studied Spanish for three weeks and learned the songs in native dialect and all.

Mario J. Carol Natch, Tom Neal and other members of the cast of RKO's "Behind the Rising Sun" have their own reasons for hating the Japs. They had to wear Japanese armor for the picture, both the soft, padded samurai and the wooden armor, and as a result they developed blisters and calluses during the first week of shooting.

Rosalind Russell thinks you ought to know that there'll be no man shortage in "Ten Percent Woman." Both her leading men top the six-foot mark. Brian Aherne by two inches, Willard Parker by four. Parker, signed by Columbia after his performance with Gertrude Lawrence in "Lady in the Dark," will be easy for new fans to remember—he'll be one of the tallest men in pictures.

After Bob Hope took a terrific beating from Betty Hutton for a scene in "Let's Face It," Director Sidney Lanfield asked him if the same thing had ever happened to him on his air show. "Only," cracked Bob, "to the audience."

Gary Cooper nearly knocked the Paramount still department cold when he actually asked to have his picture taken, first time he'd ever done that. It turned out that he needed a passport photo in order to get permission to fish off the coast of California.

After motion picture executives had coaxed and coaxed Ingrid Bergman to come to Hollywood, some of them looked upon her with alarm when she finally appeared. She stands five feet 7 1/2 inches! And in the past movie stars have come in small sizes. "Put her on a diet," said she. "I suppose they thought a diet would shrink me!"

Mel Blanc, who plays the Happy Feetman on the Burns and Allen show, is star, quizmaster, stogie and sound effects operator on a twice-weekly quiz show which is recorded for our overseas fighting men; rings bells, toots horns, has a swell time.

When the Jack Benny-Larry Adler troupe made its first stop-off on the journey to Africa and points beyond, the commanding officer saw what a reception they got and sent coded messages ahead to commanding officers; decoded, they read: "Buck Benny Rides Again."

ODDS AND ENDS—Ellery Queen continues to lead all evening programs on the Pacific coast, according to the latest Hooper ratings. . . . Virginia Sale's seven-year-old twins have been signed by RKO for feature spots in "Curse of the Cat People" . . . Niles pictures will face the cameras at RKO during October. . . . 'A' Banners for Record-Breaking Crops Will Honor Farmers in 112 Counties of Nation

Food Processors, Too Will Be Awarded Achievement 'A's'

America's leading food producing counties will be awarded "A" banners by the army for their exceptional contribution to the year's food program, the War Food administration has announced. Presentation of the citations for outstanding effort will be made during Thanksgiving week, with similar awards being given to food processing plants which made good records.

Designed by the army's heraldic division, the "A" banner compares with the army-navy "E" pennants awarded industrial plants. It will carry a blue "A" surrounded by a wreath composed of a head of wheat and half a gear wheel, all on a green field.

Nominations for the county farming awards will be made by state war boards of the U. S. department of agriculture, and regional directors of the Food Distribution administration will suggest deserving processing plants. The final 112 winners will be chosen by the War Food administration from these nominations. Allocations of the banners among the 48 states will be made on the basis of the relative farm population of each state. Some states will receive several county awards, due to the large number of farmers within their boundaries.

Factors which will be considered in the selection of the most productive counties, according to WFA, include: (1) extent by which 1943 goals were exceeded, (2) extent of the shifts made in order to produce war crops not previously grown in the county, (3) ingenuity shown in meeting production problems such as labor shortages, (4) record made in increasing yields per acre and per man, and in utilizing potential latent land and labor resources; and (5) extent of co-operation with other war programs.

Presentation of the "A" flags, which are to be flown from the courthouse of each winning county, will be made by a representative of the army at special ceremonies to be arranged by the winning counties. A representative chosen by the farmers will receive the production award.

Seasonal food processors—those little canning factories, those packers of dried fruit, makers of jelly and so forth, who operate only while the fruit and vegetables are coming in—are also eligible for a special award. For outstanding initiative in overcoming the obstacles in the way of producing processed food, or for increasing their output notably, seasonal processing plants will be awarded the Achievement "A" banner similar to that given to counties for farm production, but with a white star in the upper left-hand corner.

These little plants have joined enthusiastically in the nation's "Food for Freedom" program. The fact that they are not year-round operators makes them ineligible for the army-navy "E" award.

Standards Are High

The same rigidly high standards must be met for both the "A" and the "E" awards.

In awarding the "A," the War Food administration will consider, first of all, quantity and quality of production in the light of available facilities.

Other major factors bearing on their decision will be:

1. Ingenuity and co-operation with the government, in developing and producing war food products.
2. Co-operation in carrying out the purposes of the various food purchase programs.
3. Effective management; ability to overcome production obstacles; satisfactory management-labor relations, including the avoidance of work stoppages.
4. Training additional labor forces, low absentee records.
5. Accident prevention; health and sanitation.

Post-War Autos Will Be Better, but Not 'Fantastic'

Those fantastic dreams of tear-drop, rear-engine cars made of "super" materials with curved glass tops and plastic bodies, belong to the next decade. That's the opinion of Delmar G. Roos, a vice president of Willys-Overland-Motors.

Roos, who is credited with designing the hard-hitting Jeep, cited these points as an "engineer's approach" to post-war automobile design:

- (1) There will be a demand for

"Victory depends as much on our ability to produce food as on our ability to manufacture guns, planes and ships."
—Franklin D. Roosevelt.

A presentation ceremony will be held for every honored plant as soon as possible after formal announcement of the award. The ceremonies will be simple but impressive. In appreciation of the essential role being played by seasonal processors in the "Food for Freedom" program, the army and navy will cooperate with WFA in making the presentations.

To protect the prestige of the "A" and the honor it represents, War Foods administration will exercise extreme caution in making the award. The procedure for plant nomination, however, is simple.

Any employee of the Food Distribution administration in Washington or in the field may propose a plant for consideration. Likewise, the nomination may be made by one of FDA's regional directors, or through the Washington branches of the WFA. An Awards board will consider every nomination and recommend final action to the director of food distribution.

Because of the short period of time many operators are in production, prompt attention will be given to every nomination.

The Consumer's Part

Much as the breasts of farmers or factory workers will swell with pride when they see that "A" banner fluttering in the autumn breeze, they know it is but a symbol of the mighty effort that every American is making to win the war. Not only producers of food, but consumers too, have their part to play.

America's mighty home front forces are mobilizing during November in a nationwide campaign to help food fight for freedom. Ranking in importance with bonds, machinery, rubber, guns, tanks, chips and planes, food is a weapon of war that every civilian can turn against the enemy.

Rallying cry of the food army is the slogan: "Produce, Conserve, Share and Play Square!"

Citizens' groups in every community will advise the public of the meaning of these words, and of how each person can contribute to making the whole nation "food conscious." Four government agencies, the War Food administration, OPA, OWI and OCD, are co-operating to tell the food story. Briefly they explain each part of the program: Produce and Conserve.

American farmers have done a remarkable job this year in again breaking food production records, and they plan to continue the good work in 1944 with the planting of 360 million acres. Helping them plant and harvest is something other civilians can do on the production line. Home gardens also aid in making more food, as does work in processing plants during the rush season.

Farmers themselves can help prevent waste of food before it goes to market, along with transportation companies and other handlers. The homemaker's job is to save food in the kitchen, and to can and preserve as much as possible. Everyone can try to eat the right foods, those that are nutritious and plentiful, so as to more efficient vehicles at lower initial cost. This will mean lighter cars, but not necessarily smaller.

(2) Radical changes will be slow in coming.

(3) Auto manufacturers are not willing to gamble their reputation on "futuristic" models which can't meet the hard test of public use.

(4) Plastic bodies and curved glass surfaces, in their present form, are unsatisfactory; the bodies have stretch the available supply. Substitute when the items wanted are on the scarce list, even if it means changing life-long eating habits.

Another way to conserve is to buy and store vegetables that will keep well. This is particularly important in the case of white potatoes this year. The crop has been exceptionally large. Including both early and late potatoes, it is estimated that it will total more than 400 million bushels. Of this, 300 million bushels are late potatoes and are now being harvested. The late potato crop is 73 million bushels larger than the late crop of 1942, and the overall 1943 crop is 33 million bushels larger than the previous record crop of 1928, which totaled 427 million bushels. So it is plain that the farmers' response to the government's plea for increased production has been splendid. It is a great national asset to have this record crop of potatoes. It also presents problems of distribution which, if not efficiently handled, may result in the waste of, or the diversion from, human consumption of a large part of this bumper crop. Although the War Food administration, during the past summer, set aside 15 million dollars for the erection of additional storage for Irish potatoes and sweet potatoes, the 1943 crop will exceed by more than 50 million bushels, available approved farm and commercial storage.

Every consumer who has space in his cellar or other suitable place is urged to buy and store as many potatoes as he conveniently can, so that none of this supply of food will go to waste. Other vegetables, like onions and turnips that keep well, should also be put away in storage places. Apples and any other fruits that can be kept over the winter should also be stored.

Share Fairly

All Americans share the food with the men in uniform in camps at home and on foreign battlefields, with the peoples of the other United Nations helping to win the war, and with the countries liberated from Axis oppression. Farmers help each other to grow as much as they can by sharing seed, machinery, fertilizer and manpower in order to make "short" supplies go farther. Cheerful, willing acceptance of rationing rules results in fair shares for all, and plenty of food for fitness and health.

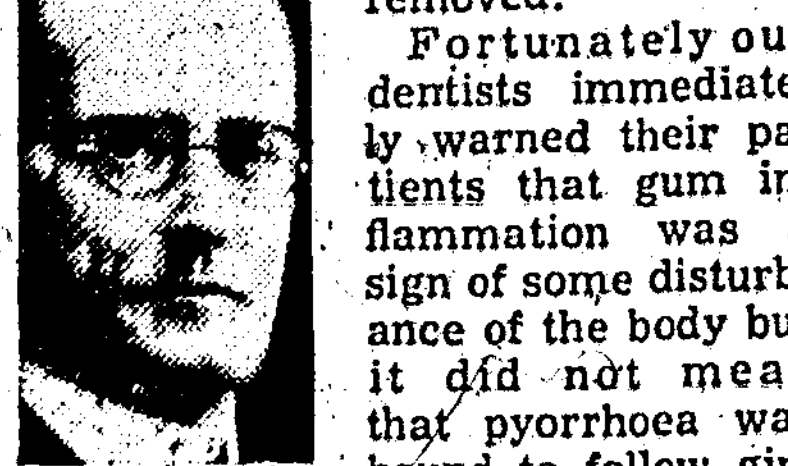

Food is critical war material. The government asks each citizen to pledge himself to accept no rationed foods without giving up ration stamps, and to pay no more than top legal prices. When rationing rules and price ceilings are not observed, un-American "black markets" appear. Do without, if what you want can't be purchased fairly.

Record food production has been achieved for the past seven years, yet America still doesn't have enough to answer all the demands of war and also to fulfill the unusual wants of civilians with tremendously increased purchasing power. For the duration of the war and for several years after it ends, the farmer's problem is not going to be whether he can find a market for what he produces, but whether he can produce as much as he can sell. Ever-increasing demands will continue to exceed the supply.

PYORRHOEA

A few years ago the reading public was told that inflammation of the gums (gingivitis) was a forerunner of pyorrhea and that once pyorrhea occurred, all the teeth should be removed.

Dr. Barton

Fortunately our dentists immediately warned their patients that gum inflammation was a sign of some disturbance of the body but it did not mean that pyorrhea was bound to follow gingivitis. Also that both gingivitis and pyorrhea could be cured or corrected by proper treatment. Gingivitis is an inflammation of the soft tissues around the teeth; it may be caused by some general disturbance in the body.

In the Journal of the American Dental Association, Dr. Willa Yeretsky, Grand Rapids, Mich., states that many teeth need never have been lost at all; they were sacrificed because it was thought that inflamed gums caused pyorrhea—pus in the gums.

Dr. Yeretsky outlines the causes of gingivitis—poor-fitting plates, impaction of food at certain places because of faulty contact points between upper and lower teeth, formation of calculus which is deposited from the saliva, the digestive juice of the mouth. As calculus is the chief "local" cause of gingivitis and cannot be deposited on the teeth if the number of organisms in the mouth is kept low, it can be seen how necessary it is to keep the mouth as clean as possible.

Dr. Yeretsky points out that it is eating the wrong foods that causes the saliva to deposit calculus and set up inflammation of the gums. The gums themselves are not receiving the right kind of nourishment to prevent gingivitis.

The diet outlined to keep the gums in a healthy condition is: Daily, one-half pint of orange or tomato or grapefruit juice. Twice daily, protein in the form of meat, eggs, fish or cheese. Four or five eggs, at least, should be eaten every week. One portion of the following vegetables: lettuce, cabbage, watercress, Swiss chard, brussels sprouts, turnip greens, cauliflower, kale, broccoli, beet greens.

Once daily, one or more of the following vegetables: carrots, beets, peas, corn, pumpkin, onions, cucumber, squash, turnips, artichokes, asparagus.

Carbohydrates, one at each meal to fill balance of diet: bread, potato, noodles, macaroni, cereals, with fortified bread, or whole grain cereal at two of the meals.

One pint of milk every day; may be in form of cottage cheese, cream coup, or custard.

Low Par Invites Vincent's Angina

When an organism is found in every case of a certain disease, it is reasonable to assume it to be the cause of the disease. Thus in Vincent's angina—ulceration of the throat and mouth with sometimes a light gray membrane present—two organisms are always found—fusiform bacillus and Vincent's spirillum. These organisms or their poisons cause Vincent's angina.

The causes are local or general. Local cause is lack of rinsing out the mouth and cleaning the teeth. Lime deposits occur under the margin of the gums between the teeth together with particles of soft food; the tartar and food particles rob the gums of the power to resist the organisms which multiply very rapidly. The gums swell and collect more poisons and also interfere with the proper circulation of the blood in the gums. If pure rich blood is prevented from nourishing the gums, the tissues lack sufficient power to fight the organisms.

Another local cause is faulty restoration of teeth by the dentist. The systematic or general causes of Vincent's angina are (1) lack of vitamins B and C, and (2) lack of certain gland substances.

From the above information given us by Dr. Schluger, we learn that if we brush our teeth and gums regularly—keep the mouth clean—and yet we have attacks of Vincent's angina then we should look further for the cause.

"General physical disability, whether due to fatigue, lack of sunshine and exercise, following a surgical operation or long illness, can be the underlying cause."

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What causes large bruises on the arms and legs? These appear almost instantly if I knock myself, and sometimes they appear without reason.

A.—These spots are often due to gland changes as we grow older.

Q.—Could a milk gland enlargement in a woman 70 years old cause a lump on the breast?

A.—A milk gland that is causing no pain needs no attention.

SOME people have a talent for making guests comfortable and they are not always the people with big houses and what used to be called a spare room. Many a hostess today is graciously sharing limited space in a house or apartment because war conditions make her feel that is part of her contribution.

This sketch shows an ingenious frame under which a folding cot may be stored in a hall or other out-of-the-way corner. The frame has a full skirted cover of denim trimmed in bands of flowered chintz. On top there stands a medicine closet with feet made by gluing spoons in place. This cabinet gives a convenient place for toilet articles and the mirror door is well lighted with wall brackets connected with a floor outlet.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be aching backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that proper treatment is what they need. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nationwide reputation. Are recommended by good doctors the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Breakfast Needs

How many notches are you pushing up the nutrition yardstick at breakfast time? There are three meals a day, and if your family is to receive the necessary amount of nutriment during that day you should take care of as many of these requirements at one meal as possible.

Another reason in favor of the nutritious breakfast is that it helps the family to be up and at the day's work with more zip and pep than if they just have the roll and coffee, bite-and-run excuse for breakfast.

Always have fruit or fruit juice to begin the day. Not only does it help to start the day off in good style, but it gives you some quota of your vitamins and minerals and calcium.

Eggs in one form or another have always been a breakfast favorite. Serving them during this morning meal is a splendid way of getting in at least the one egg a day or four or five a week requirement in hand. However, if you feel that eggs are too expensive to serve every day for breakfast, use fruits that contain iron, such as prunes and oatmeal and whole grain breads to make up on the vitamin B1 needs.

It's smart to introduce variety into the breakfast just as is done in the other meals. Vary breakfast breads as much as possible, the ways in which you fix eggs, the fruits served, and the cereals or other foods such as pancakes, waffles, french toast, etc.

Here's a waffle recipe guaranteed to please palates and ask for encores:

*Walnut Waffles.

- (Makes 4 to 6 large waffles)
- 2 well-beaten egg yolks
 - 1 1/2 cups milk
 - 2 cups pastry flour
 - 3/4 teaspoon salt
 - 4 teaspoons baking powder
 - 6 tablespoons melted shortening or oil
 - 2 stiffly beaten egg whites
 - 1 cup broken walnut kernels
- Combine beaten egg yolks and milk. Add flour sifted with salt and baking powder. Then add melted shortening or oil. Beat until smooth, then fold in egg whites and nuts. Bake in ungreased waffle iron.

Toast is an old standby and even more delightful if the bread used is varied occasionally. Here are two new favorites:

*Raisin Nut Bread.

- (Makes 1 1-pound loaf)
- 2 tablespoons shortening
 - 4 tablespoons brown sugar
 - 1 egg
 - 2 cups sifted flour
 - 3 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon

Lynn Says:

Top of the Morning! A recent survey of students' breakfast habits revealed the following facts. About 50,000 students were contacted.

Most students do eat breakfast, but there are still some who go without it. Over half of them have rolls or bread of some kind, but more than half do not have breakfast food of any kind.

The larger percentage did not have fruit or milk—a must item for students' breakfasts.

About a fifth of the amount interviewed do not have meat or eggs for breakfast.

According to their own opinion, most of them feel they do not have an adequate breakfast.

- 1/2 cup chopped nuts

Cream together shortening and sugar. Beat egg and add to creamed mixture. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon and allspice. Add to creamed mixture alternately with milk. Fold in raisins and nuts. Pour into a greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate (350 degrees) oven 1 hour.

Date Bread.

- (Makes 1 1-pound loaf)
- 2 1/4 cups sifted flour
 - 4 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1 1/4 cups chopped dates
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 1/4 cups milk
 - 4 tablespoons melted shortening
- Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat eggs, milk and shortening and add to dry ingredients. Stir only until flour is well moistened. Pour into greased loaf pan. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 1 hour.

A delicate treat for breakfast is the lacy, golden morsel corn cake which originated down south. It should be served with butter or margarine and honey:

Lacy Corn Cakes.

- (Serves 6 to 8)
- 1 1/4 cups white water ground cornmeal
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 2 eggs, well beaten
 - 2 cups milk
 - 1/4 cup shortening, melted

Add salt to cornmeal. Combine well beaten eggs, milk, melted shortening and pour into cornmeal, stirring until well combined. Pour batter, which should be very thin, into a pitcher and stir thoroughly before pouring each pancake into a well greased griddle or skillet. Turn the pancake as it begins to brown. They should be paper-thin and have a lacy effect.

No one could ask for a more satisfying breakfast than the luscious sweetness of maple syrup combined with light, fluffy tender buttermilk pancakes:

Buttermilk Pancakes.

- (Serves 6 to 8)
- 2 cups sifted flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking soda
 - 1 teaspoon salt
 - 2 eggs, well beaten
 - 2 cups (scant) buttermilk
 - 2 tablespoons shortening, melted
- Sift together flour, salt and soda. Mix beaten eggs, melted shortening and buttermilk. Add to flour mixture gradually, beating until smooth. Fry in hot, greased griddle. Serve with maple syrup.

Cereal Tricks

Keep your breakfasts interesting by using plenty of unrationed cereals in different, delicious ways. For example, you can add a little melted shortening to cereal flakes, form a nest in a muffin pan, drop an egg into it, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and bake in a slow (325° F.) oven until firm. If the family tires of one cereal, make a cereal medley of several different prepared, ready-to-eat cereals and serve with fruit or berries, sugar and cream.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JESUS AND THE SABBATH

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:8-11; Isaiah 58:13, 14; Mark 2:23-3:6.

GOLDEN TEXT—And he said unto them, The sabbath was made for man, and not man for the sabbath.—Mark 2:27.

The sabbath was essentially a day of rest and worship; hence the principles which surrounded it and directed its life may be applied to our day of rest, which is the first day of the week—the Lord's day.

That word "rest" sounds a little strange in this busy world of ours, and yet it is an important one. It means quiet for the struggling one; calm for the troubled; repose for the weary; tranquility for the disturbed; cessation of labor for the worn-out one.

God in His infinite wisdom saw that without rest man would soon destroy himself, and He made provision for one day in seven when labor should cease and man should be free for that recreation of soul and body which should fit him for the labor of the week.

Our lesson answers two important questions about our rest day, namely, Why? and How?

I. Why We Keep a Day of Rest

(Exod. 20:8-11; Isa. 58:13, 14). The chief reason is that God commands it. One day out of seven is for our re-creation by rest and worship. That should be sufficient to cause His people to "remember" the day "to keep it holy."

Doubtless it is true that essential war work and related activities must be carried on, even on Sunday. God did not forbid works of necessity. But even though there is this need, who will deny that many use Sunday for work that is not essential—and countless others devote it to godless pleasure.

Notice that the day of rest was to be not only for the family, but also for servants and for visitors. The employer who unnecessarily operates his factory or office on Sunday violates this commandment. Note also, that the man who is to rest on the seventh day is supposed to work on the six days.

The precept of Exodus 20 is enforced by the promise of Isaiah 58. The man who delights in keeping God's commandment regarding the day of rest, will find that God delights in and honors him. Both men and nations have found this to be true.

II. How We Keep a Day of Rest

(Mark 2:23-3:6). The formalists of Christ's day, the Pharisees, had overlooked the heart of God's law and the holy living which it was intended to produce, and had bound up even the observance of the sabbath (which was intended to be a day of rest and gladness) in such a mass of technical "thou shalt not" that it was a day of fear. They had a false outward profession of worship and had entirely missed the true spirituality of God's law, a fact which drew upon their heads the anger and rebuke of our Lord.

The two incidents in this portion of our lesson reveal that under the cloak of earnestly observing the law of the sabbath, the Pharisees were actually covering their own hypocrisy and their hatred for Christ. The accusations against the disciples because they had taken and eaten grain was not on the ground that they had stolen, for the law (Deut. 23:25) guaranteed that right to the one who passed through his neighbor's field. The Pharisees contended, however, that the disciples had worked on the sabbath in picking and hulling the grain.

The healing of the man with the withered arm, revealed that back of their professed concern for the sabbath was a real hatred for Christ. It is an appalling thing that in the house of worship on the very sabbath day, these men, outwardly so religious, were plotting against our Lord.

"They watched him," and even so the enemies of the Cross watch us who are His followers. They are not concerned that the man with the withered arm, or with the withered soul may be helped, but only that they may find something to condemn.

Jesus cuts across human hypocrisy and hatred to declare that the true keeping of the sabbath is to do the work of God. No work of necessity (like plucking the grain) or of mercy (like healing the withered arm) is ever out of place on the day of rest.

A word of caution is needed, for some have sought to interpret this Scripture as providing biblical ground for doing all sorts of things on their day of rest. That day is for man's good, not for his destruction. His greatest good is served by rest, worship, spiritual development, Christian fellowship, and the doing of deeds of necessity and mercy.

The desecration of the Lord's Day in our time is a serious matter. Let us not contribute to its deterioration. America needs Sunday as a day of rest and worship.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

CRUMBLING MASONRY

Question: What can we do about our basement walls? The mortar between the bricks, above the ground line, crumbles; also, some of the bricks. The stone below the ground line is very crumbly also.

Answer: For repointing the mortar joints, begin by raking out the old cement in the joints to a depth of a half inch or more, then brush out all loose particles of cement. Wet the surfaces with clear water and repoint with a fairly stiff mortar mixture of one part Portland cement and three parts of clean, coarse building sand. Another mortar mixture widely used for repointing consists of one part Portland cement, one part hydrated lime and five parts sand. Use only enough water to make a workable mixture. It would help to give the inside walls, brick and stone a coat of cement base paint. This is a powder to be mixed with water, and it can be obtained from a dealer in mason materials. It also would help to coat the outside of the foundation walls down to the footings with liquid tar or asphalt.

FILLING DEPRESSIONS

Question: After removing decorative panels from plastered walls, what is the best method of filling in and leveling the depressions made by the removal of the panels?

Answer: Small depressions and slight indentations can be filled with a packing compound. Larger areas should be filled in with patching plaster. You can get both these products at your paint store. Follow printed directions on the containers.

Painting Wall Cloth

Question: The upper part of our kitchen walls is covered with a good variety of wall cloth. This, however, has become old-looking because of the many times it has been washed. I should like to redecorate it, but do not know if it is advisable to put new material over the old, or to have it painted and with what kind of paint. Please inform me how to proceed.

Answer: First, clean the cloth thoroughly; and, when absolutely dry, give it a coat of enamel undercoater, possibly two coats, followed by a coat of top quality enamel. Follow printed directions on the can. The wall cloth will take the paint very well.

Scratched Maple Furniture

Question: Maple furniture looks tacky, and is scratched. How can I make it look better without changing the color?

Answer: For small scratches rub with the meat of a pecan nut. Rub varnish into larger scratches, using a fine camel's hair brush. For scuffs and gouges use stick shellac, which resembles sealing wax. It comes in a variety of colors and shades. Soften the shellac stick with a heated knife or a cheap screwdriver and work it into the gouge. Then rub down with a very fine sandpaper (0000). Polish with a thin coat of paste wax, well rubbed, or a milky liquid furniture polish.

Boat Paint

Question: What is the best priming coat to put on a new boat, built of cypress, before painting?

Answer: No special priming is needed for cypress. Use a good quality paint intended for marine work, following the directions on the can. See that the wood is thoroughly clean and dry before painting.

Weeds in Driveways

Question: I have seen your advice on the use of salt and calcium chloride to kill weeds and grass in driveways and stone walks. Would this harm vegetation on either side of the walk?

Answer: Yes, it may, if large quantities of the solution are spilled carelessly on the roots. What is used between the stones will not injure nearby plants.

Bathroom Walls

Question: The upper part of our bathroom walls is covered with wall paper; the lower part is plaster, which soon after each painting shows cracks. Could you suggest some wall covering, except tile, to put on the plaster?

Answer: A linoleum wall covering would be serviceable, easily cleaned and not expensive. The better stocked linoleum dealers can show you samples. An oil cloth wall covering also could be used. Either material would prevent cracking.

Same Old Story

(Health City Sun)

The ancient and odorous city of Santa Fe has witnessed many a court trial concerned with embezzlement, thievery, larceny, breach of trust, and kindred crimes, committed by public officials against the peace and dignity of the state. In fact Santa Fe can boast of as high a percentage of the public till, as any place we can think of, and the trials of these criminals always furnished entertainment and education.

Right now the court is busy trying to untangle the affairs in the Bureau of Revenue, where it is charged a telephone girl got away with plenty of mazuma over a period of years.

As this case proceeds, New Mexico citizens are furnished with a graphic picture of bungling and mismanagement going on in one of the state largest financial bureaus. Even the auditors were not able to find out for sure how much money was short. Running through the entire proceedings is a record of inefficiency, helter skelter book-keeping, and neglect that always comes from the appointment of political office holders to technical jobs.

This trial has been a long time in coming to a head. The criminal has a long time in coming to a head. The criminal acts charged against the defendant were scattered out over a long period of time. But we can be sure that the case will be forgotten thoroughly and speedily when the verdict is brought in. And we can be equally sure that the same waste and bungling will continue to run through state affairs as long as political machines are built.

ITALY: Take Big Base

The once beautiful port of Naples smoldered in ruins as Lieut. Gen. Mark Clark's Fifth Army clattered through its streets.

Before giving up Naples, the Germans destroyed the elaborate docks and warehouses and other installations that had made the port one of Europe's finest.

The German retreat at Naples also was influenced by Gen. Bernard Montgomery's flanking movement along the Adriatic sea coast to the East.

WORLD AVIATION: Seek U. S. Share

Returning from a 40,000-mile tour of the battle fronts, Senators James Mead, N. Y., Richard Russell, Ga., and Ralph Brewster, Maine, declared U. S. commercial aviation companies would be denied use of airports built in foreign countries by America.

The senators called upon congress to make provisions now for U. S. use of the airbases by including agreements in lend-lease assistance. The senators also declared that while the U. S. was supplying the Allies with 65 per cent of their oil, Great Britain was not fully exploiting her tremendous petroleum reserves in Persia.

Any attempt to reduce the importance of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command in the South Pacific by placing him under the supreme direction of Lord Mountbatten would be bitterly resisted by Australian Prime Minister John Curtin, the senators said.

RUSSIA: Near Poland

Russian troops drove within 100 miles of the old Polish border in the northern sector of the long front, while other Red forces assaulted prepared German positions on the west bank of the broad Dnieper river to the south.

Falling to hold their new line, the Germans would be pushed out of Estonia, Latvia and Lithuania, and they would lose substantial control of their Baltic sea route to Finland.

Stiffening German resistance and appearance of massed artillery along the west bank of the Dnieper, indicated that the Nazis were determined to make use of the broad river as one of their last natural defense lines along 750 miles. Russian crossings to the west bank in some sectors were met by prompt German counterattacks in an effort to prevent the organization of sizeable Red forces for continuation of their drive.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

WAVES: Members of the WAVES, the navy's woman auxiliary, will not be permitted to serve overseas, by a provision in a bill reported out by the senate naval affairs committee.

JEW: A separate force of Jewish soldiers may be established by Great Britain for service in Burma. It is announced from London. One or more divisions may be recruited in Palestine and the Near East.

GAS: New Rations

Because the Midwest and Southwest were exceeding their gasoline allotments by 75,000 barrels a day, the OPA reduced their "B" and "C" coupon rations from three to two gallons.

At the same time, "B" and "C" coupon rations in the Northeast were cut from 2 1/2 to 2 gallons, while "A" coupons in the East were boosted from 1 1/2 to 2 gallons.

In announcing the new rations, OPA declared that it was intended to force the use of at least one gallon out of the three gallons on the "A" coupon for occupational driving.

FARM: Guarantee Payments

Appearing before a congressional committee, War Food Administrator Marvin Jones asked for an additional 500 million dollars for the Commodity Credit corporation to provide farmers with guarantee payments in the 1944 production program.

The CCC now has a fund of 500 million dollars. It is intended to use this money for loans on major crops like wheat, cotton, corn, wool, tobacco and potatoes. With the extra 500 million dollars, guarantee payments would be advanced on vegetable oil crops, dry beans and peas, sugar beets, fresh truck and fruit crops, and canning crops.

Jones sought authority to buy surplus crops and absorb loss through resale at lower ceiling prices. He also asked power to recall perishable commodities like fruits and vegetables which the government might obtain through price-supporting purchases, at less than parity.

DRAFT: Asks New System

Tightening up of deferments of men under 30 years of age and the draft of dads by age groups was proposed by Senator Robert A. Taft during debate on Senator Burton Wheeler's bill for postponing the induction of fathers until January 1.

Taft's proposal would grant deferments of men under 30 only if the deferment were approved by the men's own draft board and the draft board having jurisdiction in the territory where the deferment would be granted. Fathers under 25 would be called into service before those over 25 but under 30. Those over 30 would be called last.

Taft also proposed that the President establish a medical commission to study the possibility of lowering physical standards to draw more single 4F's into the service.

For Higher Allowances

Higher allowances for children of service men provided for in a senate bill, were supported by the army.

The bill would raise the monthly payment for one child from $12 to $18, and for every child thereafter from $10 to $11. The present payment of $50 to wives would be continued, with the government contributing $28 and the service man $22.

An army spokesman also advocated higher allowances for other dependents. Where a service man is not supporting a wife or child, it was recommended allowances to one parent be boosted from $37 to $50 monthly, and for two parents from $47 to $55. In cases where the service man is supporting a wife and child, allowances for a parent would be raised from $30 to $27, and for two parents from $30 to $35.

The army said it was in no position to withhold payments to financially independent or unfaithful wives.

POST-WAR: Study Peace Policy

Reportedly believing that other nations might take the Fulbright resolution as an indication of America's unlimited indulgence in world politics after the war, the senate foreign relations subcommittee moved to write a bill of its own, broadly expressing America's post-war peace policy.

Sen. Tom Connally

The senate moved to write a bill of its own, broadly expressing America's post-war peace policy. It was thought that in so doing, support could be rallied for Sen. Arthur Vandenberg's provision assuring America of independence in determining her action in any program.

As chairman of the senate's foreign relations committee, Sen. Tom Connally led in the move to kill the Fulbright resolution. Connally has indicated America should await further development in world politics growing out of the war before committing itself to any course.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC: Fight to Last

Stubborn Japanese fought to the death as the Allies closed in on their base at Finschafen. But the Allies were able to bring superior forces to bear from the north, west and south, and the Japs lacked the numbers to shift to meet the attacks.

While the Allied air force continued to pound Jap bases throughout the entire Southwest Pacific area, U. S. airmen reported the appearance of a "super-Zero" enemy fighter plane. Not only can this new plane outdive our P-38, it was said, but also affords the pilot better protection than the old Zero because of heavier armor.

Cavalry Riders Again

As a result of the mountainous terrain of Sicily and Italy, cavalry has come into its own again in this war.

Former cowboys and rodeo performers are riding the horses that are being ridden over rocky and craggy country where motor vehicles cannot be driven, to deliver food, water and other supplies to troops. Sometimes they escort mule packs.

Perched atop their mounts, the cavalrymen are often in position to detect machine gunners hidden under natural cover, and when they do, they pepper them with the small, yellow grenades.

WHEAT: Canadian Purchases

With sales of wheat as feed running about one million bushels a day, the Commodity Credit corporation has gone into Canadian markets to bolster its stocks, recently estimated at 129 million bushels.

Total purchases from Canada have reached 30 million bushels, of which 22,500,000 bushels have been shipped into the country. Of the unshipped total, 3,500,000 bushels are waiting to be moved over water from northwestern ports.

Since July 1, CCC wheat sales principally for feed have approximated 111,500,000 bushels.

MEXICO: Settle Oil Claims

In final settlement for oil properties which it took away from American nationals in 1933, Mexico agreed to pay a total of $29,137,700, of which $5,141,700 represents interest at 3 per cent.

During negotiations for the settlement, the American nationals had claimed the seized properties had a valuation of hundreds of millions of dollars. But a commission of experts trimmed this claim to $23,935,931.

Under terms of the agreement, the present balance of payments will be made in four annual installments.

U. S. WAR PLANTS: 13 Billion Stake

Speaking before a congressional committee, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones advocated the sale of the government's 13 billion dollars worth of war plants and other property to local interests after the ending of hostilities.

The government now controls 50 per cent of aluminum production; 92 per cent of magnesium; 10 per cent of steel; 100 per cent of synthetic rubber and high octane gasoline; 50 per cent of machine tools, and 90 per cent of aircraft. In addition, it owns 47,000 square miles of land, the area of six New England states.

TIRES: Quota Reduced

Motorists will have to get along with fewer tires in October than in September. The Office of Price Administration has reduced the quota from 829,000 to 645,000 for this month.

Under the new ruling, only motorists who drive 901 or more miles per month can qualify for new tires. By another change, used tractor and other farm vehicle tires were removed from the ration list.

Washington Digest

Three-Nation Agreement Essential to World Peace

Evidence Points to Existence of Conciliatory Atmosphere Between U. S., Russia and England; Common Sense Pact Necessary.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Through the past days, Washington has been anxiously watching a very trying, very delicate and difficult operation—the attempt to break in a stubborn three-horse team which has never pulled together before.

The difficult journey toward an understanding to be reached by personal conversations across the table between Britain, the United States and Russia has begun. Following perhaps secret tripartite conferences between representatives of the three nations is the planned meeting of the heads of the three foreign offices. Questions frankly discussed with-unresolved problems left open (if plans don't go amiss) will then be taken up between Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill personally.

It is a tremendous undertaking. This three-horse team has never run in harness together before. America has never been harnessed at all. Soviet Russia has had only one short and violent experience—that with Germany—which ended in disaster; and as for Britain, she is accustomed to being lead-horse; therefore, a lot of patience will be needed to hitch all three abreast.

There is a whole library of documentation to prove that an all-for-one, one-for-all agreement among these three nations is impossible. But it must be remembered that there were 13 powerful reasons once why a United States of America was impossible too.

The present goal is not the formation of a triple alliance. The present problem is simply to get a common sense agreement between three nations without which a post-war situation is bound to arise which Prime Minister Churchill described as "confusion." And when he used that word, he made a new high for English understatement. Few doubt that he meant war.

Arguments Against

As I said, there are plenty of reasons which can be cited why the United States and Britain and Russia cannot possibly agree but there are other reasons why they can.

There are two things which stand out in most people's minds as evidences that Stalin is not playing ball now and doesn't want to. One is the recurrent complaint in the official Russian press and earlier statements by Stalin himself to the effect that Russia is decidedly displeased with the Allies for not having built a second front by invading Europe from the British Isles. The other is the Moscow sponsorship of a Free Germany committee which appears to hold out better terms to Germany than unconditional surrender which the Allies demand.

Recently, I talked with a military man who suggested that perhaps the call for a second front after the invasion of Italy was part of an agreement with the Allies to confuse Germany. Churchill has said that he was accused by Stalin, when the Russian drive began this summer, that the Russians were confident that they could withstand German attack. As things have turned out, the Germans have not been able to counterattack. They have ordered a general retreat. It was admitted by military experts at first that this is a planned and orderly retreat. After the invasion of Italy, the Germans admitted that it was a general retreat. Now it looks like a rout. In other words, the creation of the "third front" in the Mediterranean has forced the Germans to give up the idea of attempting a counter-offensive. But since the slender hope of Hitler lies in disension among the United Nations, why should Russia let him know that she was satisfied with any Allied action?

Free Germany Committee

As to the Free Germany committee, Russia itself has not made any direct official statement concerning it, has not officially backed up its program. It is composed of German prisoners in Russia who demand of their fellow-countrymen that Germany get rid of her present rulers and surrender. That in itself is something everyone wants to see. How much short of unconditional surrender that is, certainly is open to friendly discussion. We know that it worked in regard to the Italian surrender terms.

Now, what are the main propositions which Britain, America and Russia do not see eye to eye?

In the first place, there is the question of "spheres of influence"—the Balkans, the Middle East, the Mediterranean.

I have been told by persons presuming to speak with authority, that Russia suggested the creation of the Mediterranean commission, a body made up of representatives from Moscow, London and Washington, meeting on equal terms. That commission, whoever thought it up, was agreed upon. Historically, Britain has always refused Russia any hand in Mediterranean affairs. That would seem to be a step forward and even before the commission could start functioning, Russia was allowed to have her say concerning the terms of the Italian surrender. Agreement was reached as to the terms.

That would seem to indicate that a conciliatory atmosphere has been created in advance. Unless Russia is absolutely unwilling to make compromises, we can expect reciprocity when the questions of the Balkans and the Middle East arise, where there have always been similar conflict of interests.

The Baltic States

Another very sensitive question is the difference of opinion as to the treatment of the small nations which lie on Russia's western frontiers, notably the Baltic states. It is said that Russia feels that as soon as the German armies are driven back into the Reich, these border states, especially Lithuania and Estonia, a part of Poland and perhaps a part of Rumania (we leave the others aside for the moment, including Finland) are an integral part of Russia.

The United States, on the other hand, has always stood for the rights of small nations, for self-determination. Of course, Russia argues that plebiscites which indicate a desire to join the Soviet Republics have already been taken in part of the territory and if they were taken again, they would show the same results. That they express the will of the Nationals is denied by representatives of these countries in Washington.

Great Britain leans toward an acceptance of Russia's views however. The point has yet to be settled with the United States.

An additional point, which is really the one which has always caused suspicion on the part of Britain and America, is the question of communist propaganda spread by Russia for the purpose of overthrowing all capitalist governments. This is balanced by the fear on the part of Russia that capitalist governments are bent on destroying her as a communist state.

This is a tough one admittedly but not beyond the solution by honest men. Nor do honest men despair of its settlement.

Post-War Russia

From a purely cynical and material standpoint, it can be argued that post-war Russians will not attempt any move against Britain or America, either from within by propaganda and intrigue or from without by military attack because they will be an exhausted nation when the war is over. Competent observers believe it will take several generations for Russia to recover. Therefore, Russia's chief advantage will be gained by co-operation with other nations rather than by threats of aggression. To some degree, that also applies to Britain. Unquestionably, the United States will emerge from the war the greatest military power in the world. Only a combination of powers could defeat her. There rests, then, the moral responsibility on America of wise and generous use of her power—noblesse oblige.

This, I admit, is the bright side of the medal. But until the attempts toward tripartite discussion and agreement have utterly failed, there is no reason why the media should not be presented, shiny side up.

When I hear you and others say that men of 30 and 40 years are poor fighting material I wonder if the white race is not going into decay or that civilization does not do more harm to men than good.—New York.

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

THE STORY SO FAR: Private Marion Hargrove, former feature editor of a North Carolina newspaper, has been inducted into the army and has spent some time in training at Fort Bragg. In his story he has given prospective inductees considerable advice. Immediately before induction he advocates a period of "painting the town red." Once in the new soldier should "keep an open mind" about what he learns because "the first three weeks are hardest." Private Hargrove has been missing the point of some of his essential training and as a result he has had considerable KP duty. Some of his friends have been advanced to Corporal and his sergeant has asked why he was not promoted.

CHAPTER V

"Me?" The idea had never occurred to me. "I'm just not the executive type, I suppose. Back at the News, the boss told me that if I stayed there sixty years, I'd never get promoted. I'm just not the type that gets promoted."

"Let's look at the record," said the sergeant. He pulled his little black notebook from his pocket.

"On the drill field Saturday morning, you pulled forty-eight boners out of fifty marching commands. Everything you did was backwards."

"Friday morning you fell out for reveille without your leggings. Saturday you had your leggings but no field hat. Monday morning neither of your shoes was tied and none of your shirt buttons were buttoned. Tuesday morning it was without leggings again."

"A mess sergeant, according to military legend, is a cook whose brains have been baked out."

"I'm never really awake," I protested, "until ten o'clock."

"You ain't awake then," he scoffed. "Every Monday morning without fail I have to wake you up at least a dozen times. I have to look behind all the posts around here to see which one you're sleeping against. You snore and disturb your classes, too!"

He was exaggerating there, I told him, I don't snore. And I'm sleepy only on Monday morning. The rest of the time I'm alert and energetic.

"You're too energetic sometimes!" he roared. "Just this morning, when the lieutenant was coaching the platoon in rifle sighting and you were on fatigue duty as usual that was a pretty one! You ran up and down the battery street twenty-two times in thirty minutes and you saluted the lieutenant every time you passed him! Do you think he ain't got a thing to do but return your salutes all morning?"

This was evidently a rhetorical question, so I didn't answer it. "You don't salute an officer every time you see him when you're right there at his side practically all day. You salute him the first time you see him and the last time you're going to see him."

"And then when the lieutenant explains that to you," he sighed, "then what do you do? The next time you see him, you salute him again and then ask him was you supposed to salute him that time!"

He put his head in his hands and drummed sadly on the toe of his foot locker. He raised his head after a time and looked into the notebook again.

I knew what was coming next and I edged toward the door.

"And then you low-rated the mess sergeant's recipe for creamed beef on toast and told him his chow was the worst in the Army. And you said you was going to start eating in the next battery. That hurt his feelings so bad that he burned the potatoes for the next three meals!"

I promised to apologize to the mess sergeant. The sergeant read out of his notebook for five or six minutes more, enumerating the things I had consistently done wrong.

"Now, do you know," he asked wearily, "why you don't get the red stripes when they give them out?"

"I suppose I'm just not the executive type," I told him.

A mess sergeant, according to military legend, is a cook whose brains have been baked out. This does not apply to the mess sergeant in our battery, whose feelings are easily hurt by cruel remarks and who weeps tears into the mashed potatoes when he's picked on. This is simply the old Army definition of a mess sergeant.

All of us rising student cooks are eligible to become mess sergeants. Staff Sergeant Adams told us in our first cooking class yesterday morning. Then we can sit out in the cool dining rooms and yell back orders for the cooks to yell at the student cooks to yell at the kaypees.

This is not the beautiful goldbrick life that it seems, though. The mess sergeant has to make requisitions and keep records on all the rations, he has to make out the menus, see that the food is prepared properly and supervise the work of the cooks, the student cooks, and the kaypees. Besides this, he must listen to all the gripes about his food and to the threadbare jokes about cooks who get drunk from lemon and vanilla extract.

All this he must do, with his brains baked out.

The cook, lucky little rascal that he is, also leads an ideal life. He is allowed to believe that he knows more about cooking than the mess sergeant will ever know, although he is not supposed to tell the mess sergeant that he does. He works one day and sleeps the next two.

If the cook is not feeling cheerful, he can pick on at least one student cook and at least five kaypees. On the battlefield, he is in the safest position behind the lines, since the food is endowed with more sentimental value than the top sergeant. The jokes about Army cooks being shot at from both sides are not based upon fact.

However, friend cook has to greet the morn before the morn gets there. On the days when he works, he has to get up between 3:00 and 3:30 o'clock in order to prepare a substantial breakfast for about two hundred healthy, growing boys whose appetites are exceeded only by the size of their mouths and the power of their lungs.

Yesterday we started to school, with cookbooks and manuals and loose-leaf notebooks for our homework. The only way in which it differed from public schools was that the naughty boys didn't have to go and sit with the girls. Also, the dunce seat, instead of being in the corner of the classroom, was said to be behind a large sack of potatoes in the battery kitchen.

The only hope for an easy time in class was gone in this school. There's no percentage in bringing a shiny red apple to a teacher who has the key to at least one well-stocked pantry.

In the kitchen, they tell us, all the cleaning-up work is to be done by the kaypees, so that the cook may be doing more important things. This, unfortunately, doesn't apply to the daily task of cleaning the stoves thoroughly. The stoves, it says here in the books, are the cook's tools and he must do his own grinding.

It isn't worth the time to wait for the stoves to get comfortably cool before you begin the twilight beautification of these overgrown infernos. In order to avoid the rush at the theater, and to let the kaypees off early, start work now.

The stoves must be cleaned inside and out—thoroughly. First, shake down the fire. All the live coals must go into the ashpans under the grate. That much is simple. Then remove the ashpans, red coals and all. It must be dumped into the ash can out on the garbage rack. This entire procedure should be simple, too, it says here. All you have to do is catch the front handle with a heavy glove and catch the little hook in the rear with the far end of your cap lifter. Here we go!

Carry the ashpans well in front of you. Ain't it hot! When you get to the door, simply open it with the toe of your shoe. Like this. Like—

Doesn't seem to work. Try again. Try pushing the right screen so that the left one will swing slightly toward you. Ready? Slightly push the right screen. Something seems to be wrong here.

During this time, you will become increasingly aware that the glove over the ashpans handle is becoming hotter and hotter. Just as you get your toe into the door, the heat penetrates the glove and you decide—very suddenly—that perhaps it's best to drop the whole matter. Drop it slowly, carefully, tenderly—if you can. Do not drop it upon the wooden floor. Look around, if you think you have time, and locate an overturned boiler on which to set it. Whew, that hand's hot! No boiler? Then drop it anyway!

You will find that dropping the ashpans, even though you did it gently, has released a small amount of floating ash, all of which will be absorbed into your mouth and nose. Patience, brother. See that the ashpans isn't lying where it will burn anything, such as a perfectly good wooden floor. Pour cold water on the glove, wait for the resulting steam to blow away, prop open the door as you should have done in the first place, and try, try again.

This time you will almost reach the garbage rack before the glove again gets hot. Slide, Kelly, slide! You won't get there without dropping the whole pan into the clean road, but at least you tried.

Beat-the-pan against the ash can several times for sound effect. Return to the kitchen, where the mess sergeant, who was watching you through the window all the time, will direct you to return and clean it up.

By the time you have finished and look about you, the kaypees have finished their work and are sitting around gaping at you as if you were a steam shovel. A very, very black steam shovel.

Isn't gas a wonderful fuel? Private Sher and I were sitting out on the back steps to dodge the cleaning work going on inside when we saw the sergeant bearing down on us from the other end of the battery street.

"It's no use scooting inside, Hargrove," said Sher. "He's already seen us. Look tired, as if you'd already done your part of the work." Private Sher is the goldbricking champion of Battery A and always knows what to do in such an emergency.

We both draped expressions of fatigue over our faces and the sergeant skidded to a halt before us. He reached into his hip pocket for the little black book and aimed a finger at both of us.

"Bums!" he shouted. "Bums! I worked my fingers to the bone yesterday morning getting this platoon to pretty up the barracks for inspection. Comes inspection and two privates have dirty shoes lying sprawled all over the floor under their bunks! PRIVATE HARGROVE and MISTER Private Sher! Report to Corporal Farmer in fatigue clothes."

We reported to Corporal Farmer, who looked at his list of jobs. "As much as you don't deserve it," he said, "you two goldbricks are in line for canteen police."

Mr. Private Sher and I walked up the battery street toward the canteen.

"Is this canteen police business good-or-bad?" I asked.

"Oh, so-so," he said. "You have to clean up the papers and cigarette butts around the post exchange first thing in the morning. Then you come around and check up three or four times during the day."

I stopped, aghast. "What do you do between times?"

"Just be inconspicuous," said Sher. "That's all there is to it. Please pick up that candy wrapper over there. My back aches."

We cleaned up the grounds around the post exchange and sat for a while in the shade, watching a battery going through calisthenics. With beautiful precision, the soldiers swung their rifles up, down, to the right, to the left. They went through the quarter, half, and full knee bends and the shoulder exercises and the rest of the routine.

"Those boys seem to be improving," Mr. Sher said.

"Result of hard work," said Maury. "Personally, I get awfully tired watching this. We'll wear ourselves out. Let's go over to my kitchen and handshake for a bottle of milk."

"No," I protested. "We must go to my kitchen."

"To avoid a tiring argument," suggested Private Sher, "we will go to both our kitchens. We can't be thrown out of both of them."

After successful forays on both kitchens, Private Sher began to yawn with boredom. "My dear Hargrove," he said, "we must stimulate our minds. Let us adjourn to my place for a game of checkers." Private Sher's "place" was only one flight of stairs removed from my squadroom, so we adjourned.

After two games of checkers, Private Sher waved his arms. "This is folderol," he said. "You are no checker player, Hargrove. You have no idea of tactics. Let us sit by the window and watch our comrades drill. There is something stirring in the sight of fine young men perfectly executing a marching order."

While we were sitting there being stirred, another corporal disturbed us. He wanted us to go with him to haul coal.

"Much as we would like to help you haul coal, my good man," said Maury, "we are now actively engaged in the work of policing up the post exchange. Feel free to call upon us at any other time."

The corporal placed his hands on his hips and stared at us. "You're being punished," he asked, "with canteen duty?"

"There's no need to be vulgar," said Sher. "If you will excuse us, it is time for us to go again to look for cigarette butts around the post exchange. Coming Mr. Hargrove?"

"Coming, Mr. Sher. And a good day to you, corporal!"

OUR OWN DOMESTIC RELATIONS ARBITRATION BOARD

Q.—Are you Case 709½?
A.—I am.
Q.—Why the one-half?
A.—I have a feeling I'm not all there.

Q.—Go on and tell your story.
A.—Well, about 40 years ago I met a young man and we started keeping company. We loved each other on sight.

Q.—When was that?
A.—About 1903.
Q.—Go on.
A.—In 1939 I suddenly began to think things over and it occurred to me that he had never proposed.

Q.—He professed to love you and yet never talked of marriage. Is that right?
A.—He says that's right but I think it's all wrong.

Q.—What do you want to know?
A.—I want to know if I should keep up this flirtation. I think if he doesn't want to marry me after 43 years he may never want to.

Q.—Let's hear from the man. You have heard this lady's story, sir, what do you think of it?
A.—It must be good. It was accepted for this radio program!

Q.—Is it true you have been going with her since 1903?
A.—That's an exaggeration. I would never think of going with a girl since 1903 and never proposing to her.

Q.—Well, how long have you been going with her?
A.—(firmly)—Since 1904.

Q.—Don't you think you should consider asking her to become your wife?
A.—I am willing to.

Q.—Could you put that in writing?
A.—I could.
Q.—Why haven't you done so?
A.—I understood no scripts were allowed on this program.

(The three judges make conflicting decisions in the case. The interrogator tosses a coin and decides that unless the man gets serious in the next ten years, the lady should consider that he is trifling with her affections.)

Q.—Now Case 907. What is your problem, lady?
A.—I'm having trouble with my mother and sister. A few years ago I married a man who ran a livery stable. There was no money in it. So we both went over to my mother and sister's flat to live until the auto became obsolete.

Q.—Your mother and sister objected? Why?
A.—They only had three rooms. Mother is 69 and sister works in a boiler laundry to pay expenses. They both said we couldn't live there for nothing.

Q.—That seems reasonable.
A.—Yes, but my husband offered to give them all his horses and buggies and four sets of harness.

Q.—What did they say to that?
A.—Mother didn't care for horses. My sister tried on two sets of harness but they didn't become her.

Q.—Let me ask the mother a question. Madam, couldn't you accept these horses for the time being?
A.—My daughter has to pay all the bills and she only gets $11 a day. THAT AIN'T HAY!

Q.—(Judge)—Is the sister here?
Mother—No, she was trying out a horse and buggy last night and it ran away with her.

Interrogator—What do the judges think of this matter?
First Judge—I think the child should go to some good college.
Second Judge—I agree, unless it can be shown that the money has been refunded.

Third Judge—Where am I?
Interrogator—No pointed questions, please!

Powder Monkey

On board ship and in the artillery their buddies call them "powder monkeys." Not disrespectful, just a personal, intimate term between friends. Civilians call them gun crew. During a battle the crews of "powder monkeys" must work like trojans bringing the ammunition to the guns.

The gun may fire an anti aircraft 50 calibre shell or a broadside from the 16 inch guns of a great battleship, but in either event the "powder monkey" must pass millions of dollars' worth of ammunition to make the gun effective, and your savings in War Bonds are necessary to supply the financial ammunition that provides this shells.

School Days

When our fighters fly at 400 miles an hour with a Jap Zero or a Messerschmidt on their tails there isn't much time for cogitation so the Army and the Navy show as many motion pictures of actual dog fights and air battles as possible to our student fliers.

Pictures of trainer flights, bombing flights and fights by fighters are all a part of the routine for our student pilots and must be drilled into them just as it is necessary for us to remind ourselves daily of the necessity to buy an extra $100 Bond in September. U. S. Treasury Department
