Where Help Counts Most

"Many families today are in trouble brought on or heightened by the absence of a father, a son, a husband. Many service-men need a link with home to know the heartwarming assurance that someone is interested, will do for his family what needs to be done in his absence.

The Army and Navy have asked the Red Cross to be that link, and to that end the Red Cross maintains a worldwide two-way system of communication between field directors on the war fronts and Home Service on the home front.

The organization which makes messages immediately effective is a triumph of planning, but the spirit which acts on those messages is a triumph of humanitarianism, channeled through Home Service to reach every serviceman's family."

Should any family of servicemen have need of assistance from the Red Cross, they are requested to contact the following individuals who represent the Red Cross in the several communities:

Mrs. Edith Crawford, Carrizozo; Mrs. W. E. Knott, Three Rivers; Mrs. W. R. Belden, Corona; Mrs. Wm. Hart, Ruidoso; Mrs. Kivas Tully, Picacho; Mrs. Sarah Fisher, Capitan; Mr. R. S. Fagan, Ft. Stanton. R. S. Fagan, Chairman, Home Service.

Lorenzo Mirabal Radios

Message From Japan Prison

To begin the following story let us explain that there is a radio operator at San Diego, Calif., who takes messages every night directly from Japan and converts them into records. These messages are from our boys in prison at Tokyo. He does this as his contribution to wives and mothers of American prisoners so that they may at least, receive some consolation from that source.

Last week he received a radio message from Lorenzo Mirabal of Carrizozo sent to his wife, Mrs. Ruby Mirabal, but thinking it might reach her sooner, he sent the record to the Chief of Police at Albuquerque. The officer in charge sent the record to Ruby, who tried it out on every phonograph she could find, but Manager Dukemantra of the local tel. station, who was the only party having the right kind of a needle that could produce the message and after a few trials, the recording came in clear enough to be understood.

The message came over plate as follows: "This is Lorenzo Mirabal sending this message to my dear wife, Ruby, in Carrizozo, N. M. I am well and hope you are the same and have been getting my letters. I hope and pray for you every night. I would love to see you and my dear little baby. I hope that I may see you soon. I must close now." Your loving husband, Lorenzo.

Mr. Ira Hayden, whose address is 4036 Logan avenue, is the operator, who receives these messages and anyone having relatives in prison in Japan, might be as fortunate as Ruby has in getting a message from a loved one in that prison camp. Ruby said that the message was plain enough to convince her that it was Lorenzo's voice. Mr. Hayden does not receive any compensation for such services, but in doing that, he contributes to the relief of distressed wives and mothers all over our land who have sons or husbands in Japanese prison camps. Write to him and he will be glad to answer.

The letters spoken of in Lorenzo's message have never been received by Ruby.

Promoted to Sergeant

Los Angeles, John E. Imhoff, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Imhoff of Corona, N. M., has been promoted from technician fifth grade to sergeant at the Los Angeles Port of Embarkation, where he is a member of the Headquarters Detachment. Sgt. Imhoff is assistant inspector of the Veterinary Detachment at the Port.

He has a brother serving in Army overseas.

School Carnival

Oct. 29-30th
Miss Lewis, popular teacher of the Carrizozo high school, announces a school carnival to be given at the new high school gymnasium on the dates of Oct. 29 and 30th.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fitzpatrick and children were here from the Fitzpatrick ranch near Nogal with a truckload of apples, for which they found ready market.

J. F. Tom Appointed

State Instructor I. O. O. F. At the State Convention of the I. O. O. F. held at Artesia last week, J. F. Tom of Carrizozo was appointed State Instructor for the order.

Mr. Tom has had a varied amount of experience in the workings of the order. He is highly proficient in the ritualistic requirements and his appointment was worthily bestowed. His duties will be to visit all lodges where officers and others are in need of instructions and as Mr. Tom is known among Odd Fellows as a "Walking Odd Fellows Ritual," he will prove to be just the man for the position. The order is to be commended on the wisdom of the appointment and Mr. Tom is to be complimented. "so be it," Col. Jones was appointed D. D. G. M. for Lincoln County.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Dale and daughter May Ellen of Dallas, Texas were here last week visiting Jim's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Dale of Ancho. They returned home Monday of this week.

A Couple of Solutions

(Health City Sun)

If this department felt like snickering, we would take a few hours off to snicker at the squirming and twisting of administration officials in their attempts to solve a couple of problems without risking political reprisals. The first is the question of manpower. The country needs men in the factories, and men in the fields. We have men in certain industries that are non-essential and we would like to have them get into something that would help the war effort. But the administration is scared to death to even suggest that a draft of manpower would solve the problem. It is perfectly ok to draft men to fight. You can draft a guy who is running a profitable business, take the son-of-a-gun right away from his business, and let the business go to the dogs. You can take him over to Italy, throw him on a beach, and get him shot all full of holes, and it is absolutely hunky dory. But you can't force him to work eight hours in a factory that is making war material. That would be just too—too dam much like taking away the freedom he is fighting for. You can kill him but you can't make him change jobs. Does that sound like sense?

The second headache is how to raise more taxes without putting on a sales tax. Everyone knows that the most obvious method, and the easiest way to get the money is through a small levy on everything we purchase. But every politician also knows that every time a customer pays a sales tax he makes a vow that he will get even with the guy who was responsible for it. And it is a poor way to get elected for a fourth term. So we are watching the antics of Washington as they try to figure out some way to solve a couple of problems the solution of which is comparatively easy.

Mr. and Mrs. John Haney of Hiawatha, Kansas, were here this week visiting the Wm. Balow and Hamilton families. Mrs. Haney is the youngest daughter of the Balows.

We are in receipt of a clipping from a San Diego paper where in a picture, the chairman of the Junior Chamber of Commerce was instructing members of the armed forces on how to play golf. Chairman Kroepel, Coporal Fortunelli of the army and Carl Degner, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Degner of Carrizozo. Carl is chief maintainer of submarines and his duty is to have the subs examined, repaired and made in a seaworthy condition before they are sent out. Carl who is of a mechanical turn of mind, put in about four months of study before receiving the appointment.

Geo. Strauss, Jr., Gains Promotion

Somewhere in North Africa, another of our Carrizozo boys has attained merited promotion. He is George Strauss, Jr., who is now a Chief Commander of a Bombing Squad. Since the beginning of the war, George has had a varied experience. After a series of training here, he went to Canada, took another course and was sent to different places across the water. He has been in bombing squads over Germany many times and in one engagement he was wounded and was confined in an English hospital for about two months. In view of his faithful service and excellent work, he was promoted to Chief Commander of a large bombing squad. Hats off to another of our home boys, who has made good. Congratulations, Captain Strauss.

Americans Will Salute Their Mighty Sea Force, 'Spearhead of the Attack,' on Navy Day, October 27

Tonnage of Warships And Auxiliaries Is Doubled Since 1940

By ELLIOTT PINE

Released by Western Newspaper Union.
This year, as every year for the past twenty-two, the nation pauses briefly to salute the navy, the marine corps and the coast guard on Navy day, October 27, for that is the birthday of Theodore Roosevelt who sired the beginnings of our modern navy. And it was the late President who backed up his word by donating part of his Nobel Peace award to the Navy League and its program.

The Navy League is now a nationwide organization with a vice president for every state in the Union and the District of Columbia. Its new honorary president is Governor Charles Edison, former secretary of the navy. Its president is Commodore Sheldon Clark, Chicago business man. Under a directive issued by Frank Knox, secretary of the navy, all commands of the navy department are directed to co-operate with the Navy League in this annual observance on October 27.

Thus, Navy day, while having the official sanction of the navy department, is actually a civilian endeavor, a civilian salute to our far-flung fleet and shore establishments and the men and women who make them function.

This is exactly what Theodore Roosevelt had in mind when he declared in that letter 40 years ago: "For the building and maintaining in proper shape of the American navy, we must rely upon nothing but the broad far-sighted patriotism of our people as a whole, and it is of great importance that there should be some means by which this patriotism can find an effective utterance. Your country offers just the means needed."

The Navy League is thus seen, also, as not of the character of just another emergency organization, or "war baby" designed to function only under the duress of conflict. It is a permanent gathering of citizens who pay homage not alone to the dead heroes but to the living and growing organization of ships, and planes, and men of the United States navy. Its purpose is one of patriotic education, and its membership fees are nominal for it is a non-profit organization.

This year the official slogan of the league on the occasion of Navy day is "Your Navy Spearhead of Victory." This is in contrast to the old traditional slogan of "First Line of Defense." And it is also in contrast with the 1942 slogan which read: "Your Navy First Line of Attack."

Commodore Sheldon Clark, president of navy league.

These sharply contrasting slogans tell a changing story of a navy under changing conditions and the final slogan suggests the promise of victory.

The question is raised, does the league and its patriotic membership cease to be a robust booster for the navy at the cessation of hostilities? Officials of the league say, no, that that is when the real work of the league must begin anew.

Perhaps, the peace slogan on a Navy day yet to come will be at once a grim reminder and a solemn warning that the men and implements of the navy must not again be relegated to the shelves of complacency over our national security. In that event the slogan may well read: "Your Navy Comes First in War and in Peace."

"Spearhead" is Big and Sharp. But this year, in the midst of the greatest war ever to sweep this troubled earth, the slogan "Spearhead of Victory" is eminently fitting. And what a "spearhead"! The mightiest navy of all time being created. Already it is immense, beyond the dreams of any nation, even the United States, until three years ago. Still it grows, day by day, week by week. More ships, more planes, more men, the navy demanded, and the American people have responded without stint.

In a report boldly revealing details previously considered tight secrets, the United States navy flaunts its strength to the Axis, and particularly to Japan. In three years, the report states, the total tonnage of all navy craft has risen from 1,875,000 tons in July, 1940, to more than 5,000,000 tons in July, 1943. The navy measurements are in displacement, not deadweight tonnage, which latter figure is more than twice as great as the displacement.

Warships, meaning battleships, light and heavy cruisers, destroyers, destroyer escorts, submarines and carriers, have been increased from 383 in 1940 to 613 in the July, 1943, report, and new ships are being delivered every month. Some 313 new combatant ships have been added in three years, totaling 1,117,054 displacement tons and costing more than three billion dollars. Of the original 383 ships, over 100 have been transferred to other nations, or converted to non-combatant uses.

Other naval vessels have been increased from 1,076 to 14,072, the great rise being accounted for principally by 12,064 landing craft. Other new ships were 1,274 mine layers and patrol craft, 634 yard and district vessels, and 181 auxiliary vessels, such as oil tankers, repair ships, etc.

Indicating the emphasis on air power, the navy has multiplied its planes from 1,744 in 1940 to 18,263 last July, and more are being put into action daily. The importance of air strength, both for offensive and defensive operations is so momentous that the traditional definition of sea power has been changed to "seair" power.

"The ability to build this huge naval force, and to continue to build at the present rate is one of the foundation stones of our military strategy," says the navy's report. "It underlies our amphibious attacks in the Pacific, the Atlantic, and the Mediterranean," goes on the statement. "It protects our long exterior supply routes running across thousands of miles of oceans."

"Most important, it makes feasible a strategy of attack, with all the risks it implies. Ability to build—or if necessary, to rebuild—on this scale is one of the basic advantages which the American navy holds over fleets of other nations."

So great is this construction capacity, in fact, that the navy has been able to sustain severe losses without serious loss of strength. Fifty-eight warships have been sunk or damaged so as to be considered useless. Of these, one was a battleship, nine were cruisers, four aircraft carriers, 32 destroyers and 12 submarines. By transfer to the navies of our allies, or by conversion to non-combat purposes, the U. S. navy has lost 123 ships, many of them classed as "over-age."

"The ultimate measure of a ship-building program's success is the array of new vessels, completed and ready to fight, which it turns out," the navy report comments. By this yardstick, U. S. warship construction passes the test with flying colors. Ships are being built faster and faster, and being delivered complete, armed and supplied, for combat on the high seas.

"The rise in naval ship completions is without parallel," goes on the report. "The number of vessels completed in the single month of June, 1943, for example, approximates the number completed in the first 18 months of the defense program. Combatant ships—battleships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers, destroyer escorts and submarines—make up the largest part of the navy program, and the step-up in their production has been especially sharp. The tonnage of combatant ships completed in the first six months of 1943 is more than 20 times the tonnage completed during the first six months of the defense program."

To make this astonishing output more graphic the report states that in July of 1940, the navy received five newly finished vessels, while in June, 1943, the number was almost 1,200 of various classes.

An even more remarkable multiplication has taken place in airplanes. From 25 aircraft delivered in June, 1940, the figure leaped to 2,000 by June of 1943. The report states that airplane production for naval use has grown faster than any other branch of the aircraft industry.

In the 36-month period, the report says, the navy has obtained 15,587 placement tons and costing more than three billion dollars. Of the original 383 ships, over 100 have been transferred to other nations, or converted to non-combatant uses.

"The rise in naval ship completions is without parallel," goes on the report. "The number of vessels completed in the single month of June, 1943, for example, approxiplanes built under its own contracts, and in addition about 8,300 planes constructed under army cognizance. Of these army planes, 7,800 were trainers and utility planes, and 450 combat aircraft. The program is concentrated on combat planes, continues the report. Recent emphasis is on bombers.

Of its new fighter planes, based on carriers, the navy proudly declares: "They are capable of matching performance with the world's best land-based fighters." They fire in one minute five times the weight of projectiles that their 1940 predecessors fired."

Ordnance Department. All combat ships and planes depend upon their guns for both offense and defense. It is the business of the ordnance department to arm these many new fighters, and to provide replacements. The navy is highly satisfied with the work of its ordnance department, according to the report. Contracts for guns of every caliber and type, and mountings and ammunition have been successfully filled by dozens of private manufacturing companies, in addition to the navy's own manufacturing plants, meeting exacting standards.

The rate of production in ordnance has increased 24 times over the 1940 rate. More than 68,000 of the four main types of naval guns and mountings have been turned out since July, 1940.

Shore Installations. During the three years mentioned, the navy has constructed docks, buildings and shore facilities costing 0 1/2 billion dollars. This program is being continued too, to keep pace with over-all expansion. Contracts for almost two billion dollars worth of work is in process of completion. The whole construction program, totaling $3,100,000,000, is approximately 81 per cent completed on July 1. Of this vast sum, $3,290,000,000 has been allotted to shipbuilding and repair, ordnance and aircraft facilities. One-third of the $4,800,000,000 appropriated for nonindustrial bases has gone into naval bases; the remainder has been devoted to advance bases, storage, fleet facilities, etc. Only the advance base program was less than 15 per cent finished on the first of July.

This great navy will be manned by a force of more than three million men. The navy's goal for the end of the year is 3,009,581, including some WAVES. So the two-ocean navy, long considered an impractical dream, is becoming a reality. Long the world's best navy, the United States navy is now to be the world's biggest also.

'Teddy' Roosevelt, 'Sire of Our Modern Navy,' Endorsed and Supported League

Back in 1903 Theodore Roosevelt, then President of the United States, wrote a telling letter to a then small organization known as the Navy League of the United States. "All good Americans," he said, "interested in the growth of their country and sensitive to its honor should give hearty support to the policies which the Navy league is founded to further."

These policies are today an accepted national creed, namely, that an adequate navy is not only a first line of defense, but now—that there is a war—the implement for carrying the attack to the enemy.

DEVELOPMENT OF A DIRECTIVE

It all began with the following:
Little Boy Blue, come blow your horn;
The cows are in the meadow,
The sheep are in the corn;
Where's the boy who looks after the sheep?
He is under the haystack fast asleep.

Then an average letter writer took it up:
Dear Little Boy Blue:

Just a few lines to remind you about blowing your horn. I notice that the cows are in the meadow, also that the sheep are in the corn. I am looking into the case of the boy who is supposed to look after the sheep. Any information you could give me regarding the story of his slumbering under a haystack on my time will be appreciated.

Very truly yours,
Ultimately a Washington bureaucrat took over:

Gentlemen: In accordance with an act of congress passed June 6, 1943, we have conducted an extensive inquiry into the need for an adequate signal system in meadows and adjacent territories. The whole matter of stabilizing practices in these areas is being processed with a view to attaining the objectives as stated in the mandate of July 7. Considering the matter in the over-all and global aspect, it is the conclusion of our policy committee, following repeated hearings, that the following steps are necessary to restore confidence and maintain morale:

- 1—Immediate stimulating of the entire horn-blowing project.
- 2—A directive with reference to the proper number of blasts to be blown when the cows are in the meadow.
- 3—A signal system requiring a signal easily distinguishable from the former when the sheep are reported in the corn.
- 4—An intermediate or "blue" when the livestock has left; and a "red" signal in case where the sheep and cows have left the meadow and corn but may return.
- 5—Authorization for a complete study of the whole farm situation, and a checkup of the bugle crisis, with possible freezing of bugle calls at April levels in accordance with the so-called "Little Haystack" formula.
- 6—A congressional inquiry to ascertain the number of meadows in the country, the square miles of corn patches, and the wandering habits of sheep and cattle.
- 7—A census to determine how many boys in the country are under a mandate to look after sheep.
- 8—An appropriation of $5,000,000 to provide adequate handling of the haystack matter, to assure an adequate distribution of horns and to take all necessary steps to integrate, codify and co-ordinate all authorized operations.

For the purpose of keeping our files accurate, will you inform us of your correct name? It appears on our records as L. Boice Blow, Little B. Blow, and L. Ittle Boybluh. Very respectfully yours,
U. S. Cow, Sheep & Haystack Administration,
Washington, D. C.

LAMENT ON A DOUBLE DOSE OF LOVE

I find that I'm thrown with a whiz and a whee,
To an evening of romance—an amorous spree,
Consisting of love lost, of love-in-the-gain,
Of love unrequited, of love-on-the-wane,
Of love that is tragic, of love that is gay,
Of love of last winter, of love of today.
I'm lost in love's tortures, love's virtues, love's sins,
The moment a new double feature begins!

REFINISHING OAK FURNITURE

Question: I should like to do over my dining-room suite of very dark and massive oak. Should I take off all this stain (or varnish) down to the original wood? If so, what should I use? What should I get when I am ready to revarnish?

Answer: Remove the finish down to the wood with a solution of tri-sodium phosphate, three pounds to each gallon of hot water. Apply with a dishpan, and, after the finish has softened, scrape and wipe it off. Then rinse off all traces of the remover with clear water and allow wood to dry. If the wood is stained a dark color, you can bleach it with a hot saturated solution of oxalic acid. Leave this on overnight. Rinse well with clear water and allow wood to dry very thoroughly. Smooth, if necessary, by rubbing with 000 sandpaper; then wipe clean with benzine, being extremely careful of fire. If you wish a light, natural color, finish with three coats of a good quality quick-drying varnish.

INSULATED ATTIC

Question: Our bungalow has four inches of rock wool blown in on the attic floor. Two vents placed at the peak of the roof are not closed on cold days. Would it do any harm to keep these vents closed during the winter? The contractor even advised leaving two windows partly open in the attic this winter. What was his reason?
Answer: The attic space above the insulation should be well ventilated all year round. The purpose of this is to prevent any possible condensation on the roof rafters and sheathing boards under the roofing.

Wallpaper Cracks

Question: Our frame house has a brick chimney in the center forming part of the corners of rooms and hall. During the summer of last year the house was repapered. Now the paper is creeping and tearing in the corners nearest the chimney. Is this the result of poor paper hanging, or the heat in the chimney?
Answer: The condition is partly due to the heat of the chimney. More likely it is from unequal settlement; because of its great weight, the chimney is sinking into the ground, more noticeably than the rest of the house. Cracking at the corners where chimney meets the house walls will continue until settlement is complete. Cutting through the wallpaper at the corners will offset the wrinkling, but will also be somewhat noticeable.

Water Trouble

Question: I am having trouble with the supply and temperature of hot water. Because of the hardness of the water the heating coil is getting clogged up with lime, and the flow of water is insufficient. What should I do?
Answer: When hard water is heated, the lime is precipitated and adheres to the sides of water heater coils; this in time will clog the coil, cutting down the flow and making it necessary to use more fuel. A water softener unit installed in the water supply line will do away with your hard water trouble. Talk to your plumber about this.

Painting Papered Ceiling

Question: Would it be safe to paint over a papered ceiling with casein paint?
Answer: It is generally risky to paint over wallpaper, for the liquid in the paint may loosen the paste. If the paper is on firmly, it would be worth taking the chance. Remember, the pattern of the paper may show through slightly.

Condensation on Window

Question: Last spring I bought a new house that has casement windows, and I now find that in cold weather the windows get all wet. Is there any way to take care of this condition?
Answer: Snug-fitting storm sashes generally improve such a condition. You can get these sashes for installing on the inside.

IF THROAT IS SORE

IF A COLD has given you a miserable sore throat, here's how to relieve the suffering.
DO THIS NOW—Melt a small lump of VapoRub on your tongue and feel the comforting medication slowly trickle down your throat—bathing the irritated membranes—bringing blessed relief where you want it, when you want it.
DO THIS TONIGHT—Rub throat, chest with VapoRub. Its long continued poultice-and-vapor action loosens phlegm, relieves irritation, eases coughing, invites refreshing sleep.
VICKS VAPORUB

If you know a Navy man, don't ever call him a "gob"—sailors consider the name an insult. You can get on the right side of him though if you offer him a Camel—or better yet, send him a carton. Camels are the favorite cigarette with men in the Navy (Army, Marines, Coast Guard, too, for that matter) based on actual sales records from the service men's stores. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. S., and to men in the Navy, Marines and Coast Guard wherever they are.—Adv.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago, Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for October 24

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

HONORING OUR PARENTS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:12; Luke 2:48-51; Mark 7:6-13; John 19:25-27.
GOLDEN TEXT—Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right.—Ephesians 6:1.

Right relations between children and parents have much to do with the peace and prosperity of a community and a nation. Experience has demonstrated that to be true, but even more basic is the fact that it is in accord with the promise of God.

One of the bad breakdowns in modern life is that of proper honor and obedience to parents by children. In all too many homes God's order has been reversed and instead of honoring and obeying their parents, children (both young and old) have taken the place of "boss," and mother and father must obey if they want peace and rest.

The need for our lesson of today is both great and acute. The future happiness of hundreds of thousands of children and the present welfare of thousands of neglected and boss-ridden parents will depend on the intelligence and faithfulness with which this lesson is taught in our churches, and the honesty of heart with which we all receive its truth.

I. The Command and Promise (Exod. 20:12).

We are told by Paul that this is the "first commandment with promise" (Eph. 6:1-3). The Lord was not making a bargain with man, or seeking to draw out obedience by a prize, but there is obviously a great reward in the observing of this commandment.

Then, too, as the children of God (if we are such) through Jesus Christ, the first and most important consideration to come before us is, What is the mind and will of the Maker of us all regarding this matter of the relation between parents and children? His words are plain—we are to "honor" our fathers and our mothers.

The word "honor" carries with it a great many things, but perhaps the three outstanding elements are respect, obedience, and affection.

Our Lord Jesus Christ, who is the Saviour and then the Example of believers, presents a beautiful pattern of true obedience to this commandment.

II. Willing Obedience (Luke 2:48-51; John 19:25-27).

The fact that Jesus was God manifest in the flesh only enhanced His conduct. He who is divine presents an example of obedience and consideration both as boy and man which we do well to emulate.

1. As a Boy (Luke 2:40-51). The boy Jesus, increasing "in wisdom and stature, and in favor with God and man" (v. 52), had come to His twelfth year and with His parents had gone up to Jerusalem to celebrate the Passover.

There moved in His heart the conviction that He must now be about His Father's business—an altogether proper and commendable purpose, but one which resulted for the moment in separation from His parents. This was far more serious than a physical separation, for we read that they did not understand Him (v. 50).

Tragic indeed are the consequences of our failure to understand our children. Notice, however, that Jesus did not withdraw Himself from their watchful care, nor refuse to obey them even though they failed to understand Him. Equally tragic are the results of hasty and bitter separations brought about by the disobedience of children.

2. As a Man (John 19:25-27). The value of our lesson will be greatly reduced if we see only the responsibility of children while they are young. We are the children of our parents as long as we and they live.

One marvels at the carelessness and hardness of heart that will permit men and women who have time and money for everything else, to neglect their aged parents and even shunt them off into a public institution for care.

III. Hypocritical Disobedience (Mark 7:6-13).

Such an important commandment naturally held a high place in the thinking of the community. To violate it involved a measure of shame which men sought to avoid. So the Jews of Christ's day devised a scheme which made it possible for a man to appear to be very religious even as he deprived his parents of the honor and help to which they were entitled by the law of God.

The man who was so avaricious that he did not wish to support his aged and needy parents could entirely evade that God-given responsibility by declaring that his property was "Corban," that is, dedicated by a vow to God. Thereafter no matter how great was the need of his parents they could receive nothing.

Thus do men make "the word of God of none effect" (v. 13) through their traditions. The method differs but the spirit persists even in our day.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

South America supplied 65 per cent of the world's rubber needs in 1890, while in 1922 only about 6 per cent came from that section. Far East plantation development accounts for the drop in the demand for Amazon Valley rubber.

Synthetic rubber is defined as a man-made combination of molecules that form a substance having the chief characteristics of erud rubber.

In 1938 the total of American-controlled rubber plantations was about 260,000 acres, mostly in the Far East. These plantations produced 40,000 tons annually, or about 8 per cent of U. S. imports.

Water Camel

Thirst is one enemy of armies and navies that may be frustrated by a generous supply of water. Typhus, another dreaded plague is another enemy that must be subdued in Africa, in the jungle islands of the Pacific.

So the "Lister Bag," more often called the "water camel," or just "camel," is used. The "Lister Bag" is a khaki colored canvas bag having a capacity of about 30 gallons.
It will require many War Bonds to provide enough "camels" for our fighting forces at home and abroad.

five pounds, and must not be more than 36 inches in length and girth combined. It should be marked "Christmas Parcel" so that it may be given special attention to assure its arrival before December 25.

Not more than one parcel may be mailed in any one week to the same member of the armed forces by or in behalf of the same mailer.

The parcel must be well and strongly packed. In a container of metal, wood, strong fiber board, or similar material, then wrapped in strong paper and tied with twine. The cover should be such that it can be opened readily for censorship.
The contents should be packed tightly.

Intoxicants, inflammable materials such as matches or lighter fluids, poisons, and anything that may damage other mail also are prohibited.

The mail should be addressed like this, for example—

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Armies Meet Stiff Resistance From Nazi's Defense Line in Italy; Japs Flee Solomon, New Guinea Bases; More Taxes Sought to Pay War Costs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union)

U. S. troops stalk carefully through battered Italian town on march to Rome. Doughboys are on lookout for snipers.

ITALY:

Fight for Rome

Beating forward to Rome, Allied armies ran into what appeared to be the Germans' first stiff defense line across southern Italy.

In taking up their new positions, the Germans entrenched themselves on the north bank of the Volturno river on the western coast, and along the open, narrow plain on the eastern coast. Between the two coasts, their troops dug into the rugged mountains.

In all the line ran 125 miles across Italy. Allied Generals Montgomery and Clark brought up reinforcements for the first thrust at the enemy's new positions, while U. S. and British airmen pounded German supply routes leading to the front.

Observers kept one eye cocked on the Balkans, where German and British units were fighting for small islands in the Aegean sea, from which an invasion fleet moving into Greece or Jugoslavina could be bombed.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC:

Jap Posts Crumble

The Japanese position in the Solomons and New Guinea is slowly crumbling. With the Allies holding the advantage in sea and air strength, the Japs have found it increasingly difficult to supply their distant outposts, and latest in the group to be abandoned was Kolombangara in the Solomons.

Unable to use big cargo or naval vessels because they would become easy prey for the superior Allied sea and air forces, the Japs are continuing to rely on barges for supplying their advanced bases, and, as in the case of Kolombangara, evacuating men. Operated at night, these barges are hidden along the seashores by day.

In New Guinea, the Allies beat back light patrols guarding the approaches to Madang. Jap air unit shipping base on the northeast coast. The Allies were skirting the enemy's main defenses in a wide, circling movement, to fall on the base from the rear in much the same pattern as their conquests of Lae and Finschhafen.

PEACE AIMS:

Three Faiths Agree

Identical peace aims have been enumerated by representatives of the three great faiths of the United States in a seven-point declaration. After months of study, the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America, speaking for the Protestants, Catholics and Jews, issued a seven-point postwar program.

Salient points are: 1. A just peace based upon recognition that "not only individuals, but nations, states and international society are subject to the sovereignty of God and the moral law"; 2. States must repudiate racial, religious or other discrimination; 3. Safeguards for all peoples, large and small; 4. Equal educational opportunities and political equality for minorities.

5. Guarantee of faithful fulfillment of international obligations; to provide collective security by limitation of armaments; to compel arbitration of disputes; 6. International economic collaboration "to assist all states to provide an adequate standard of living for their citizens"; 7. Security of the family and participation of labor in decisions affecting its welfare.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

GENERAL: So suddenly did the British Eighth army land in Italy near Termoli that a detachment was able to capture the German commander of the area in bed. ART: Rome's great art treasures are being taken from palaces and museums by the Nazis and are being shipped to Germany, as Allied troops approach the city.

PHILIPPINES:

Immediate Independence

To combat Japanese propaganda designed to obtain the support of the Filipinos in the war against the U. S., congress has received a bill to grant the Philippine Islands their independence as soon as possible rather than in 1946.

Following introduction of the bill, President Roosevelt recommended that action be taken on the proposal, with provisions for economic freedom, postwar rehabilitation with U. S. help, and military security through U. S.-Philippine co-operation.

In attempting to consolidate their hold over the Philippines, the Japs have been dining the natives that the U. S. is insincere in its promise of granting them independence.

TAXES:

More Sought

Declaring that the American people are able to pay for at least 50 per cent of war expenses through taxes, Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson urged a reluctant congress to approve the government's program for 10 1/2 billion dollars of new levies.

The program calls for higher income and corporation taxes, and increased rates on tobacco, liquor, amusements and luxuries of all kinds. The program also was to stop new levies on candy, chewing gum, soft drinks, greeting cards and other items.

Present taxes are paying for about 30 per cent of war expenses, and the additional 10 1/2 billion dollars would bring the figure up to almost 50 per cent. In his statement to congress, Vinson declared that higher taxes also will serve to prevent inflation.

The government also proposed increased social security taxes for higher unemployment payments and temporary disability and hospital benefits.

DRAFT:

New Regulations

Although the senate killed Sen. Burton Wheeler's bill to postpone the induction of fathers until January 1, it moved toward providing stricter utilization of other manpower.

Through adoption of a substitute bill, the senate voted: 1. Occupational deferments would be limited to pre-war fathers, unless employers could prove indispensability of single or childless married men; 2. All deferments would be subject to review by the appeal board within the district where the employer was located; 3. A board would be appointed to study lowering present physical standards to make use of 4F's.

In the senate bill which went to the house for consideration, allowances to service men's wives were increased to $50 and to $30 for the first child, and $20 for each additional child.

RELIGION: Delegates to the 64th triennial convention of the Protestant Episcopal church, meeting in Cleveland recently, authorized procedure moving towards eventual "organic unity" with the Presbyterian church. MENINGITIS: The new wonder drug penicillin may be the answer to meningitis.

KELLY-NASH:

Team Broken

Death came to Patrick ("Pat") Nash in his 81st year, breaking up the political combination of Kelly-Nash, for 10 years the principal power of Illinois' Democratic party.

Pat Nash

Chiefly through their close organization of 10 of Chicago's West Side wards, Kelly and Nash could carry Cook county by 300,000 votes at every election. Although the late Gov. Henry Horner broke their hold on the state in 1936, he made peace with them in 1939, and since then their power lay unquestioned.

Nash mixed politics with business. As he rose up the political ladder through 36 years, he kept his sewerage business, at one time drawing 14 million dollars in contracts from the sanitary district.

Boss of his party, it was Nash who chose former Sanitary District Engineer E. J. Jelly to succeed Mayor Anton Cermak after the latter's death in 1933, thus creating the famous Kelly-Nash combination.

FARM:

Higher Meat Goals

Because stocks have outgrown feed supplies, the War Food administration will call upon farmers to market three million head of cattle in 1944 which they might otherwise keep for milking, breeding or fattening.

In all, the WFA will work for an increase of two billion pounds of meat over this year, to bring total production to 30 1/2 billion pounds. But because military, lend-lease and other government agencies will ask for 25 per cent more meat next year, civilian rations are not expected to be raised.

Because of the feed situation, WFA will ask for a 17 per cent cut in hog production.

Restrict Feed Sales

In a further effort to bring meat production in line with feed supplies, the Commodity Credit corporation prohibited sale of its wheat stocks for feed for fattening hogs over 200 pounds or building cattle beyond fair to good finish.

CCC also stipulated that feed mixers purchasing CCC wheat must sell their product only for dairy cows and hens.

With weekly wheat sales averaging 10 million bushels, CCC stocks stood at 123,013,000 bushels. As of September 25, sales approximated 119,290,000 bushels. Of the 23,721,000 bushels of wheat purchased from Canada, CCC reported virtually all delivered.

RUSSIA:

Crack Dnieper

Storming the Dnieper river at three points, Red troops cracked the Nazis' last strong natural defense line in Russia, and the enemy struggled valiantly to check the new drive before it could gain momentum.

Principal breach in the Dnieper front was 50 miles north of Kiev, where the Reds poured reinforcements and supplies onto the west bank after gaining an initial foothold. The Nazis' problem was to keep the Russians from building up a force strong enough to drive forward and then swing back and take Kiev from the rear.

In the north, the Reds recaptured the important rail junction of Nevel, a main artery leading to Leningrad from the south, with lines branching off into Poland to the west.

MOSCOW:

New Mission

Whatever has been passing in the brain of Joseph Stalin might become known to U. S. and British statesmen when they gather in Moscow for conferences with the Russians on present and postwar questions.

Mysterious Russia's mysterious man has already laid claim to parts of Finland, all of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania, eastern Poland and sections of Rumania. Courted by Germany for an armistice, he has told the Germans they can have peace with him provided they chuck the Nazis.

To hold Russia in the war against Germany, and yet work out means of satisfying her territorial demands without impairing U. S. and British interests, is the problem confronting Allied statesmen. Leading the American delegation at the conference will be Secretary of State Cordell Hull and the new U. S. ambassador to Russia, Banker W. Averell Harriman.

EUROPE:

Sufficient Food

Germany's conquest of Europe early in World War II has assured her of sufficient food to carry on the conflict. At present, German rations are three times higher than they were at the close of the last war.

Besides being able to draw on all of Europe for food, Germany's own 1943 production was at top levels. Bread and cereal crops were said to be one-third higher this year than last.

Washington Digest

Senators See Nazi Collapse 'Any Time'; War's End in '45

Cumulative Effect of Defeats on All Fronts, Plus Bombing of Cities, Expected to Hasten German Defeat.

By BAUKHAGE

News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

"It is my guess that the war will end by 1945," the senator said. "The collapse of Germany may come any time."

Pencils slid over copy paper. Mine, too. We sat around the long, green, committee-room table in the Senate Office building. Other press and radio men (and women) and a few visitors listened to the three senators who had made a 40,000-mile trip beginning in Maine, up through Nova Scotia, through Greenland, Iceland, Great Britain, Africa, the Near East, India, China, Australia, the Pacific islands, and back home.

I thought as I took down the notes for my broadcast that I wished many of the people who write to me, calling congress dumb, were there to listen to these men regaling us with first-hand information, facts, figures, impressions, which later they were to pass on to their colleagues in the form of long and detailed reports. Much of the material will never be printed.

The trip was spoiled by the papers, when it was proposed, as "another junket." But sitting there, listening to these men, there was no doubt in my mind that they had done a real job. They had slept in gaudy villas in Africa, they had camped in the fields with the troops, lain under thatched roofs, in bamboo shelters, taken their chances across wide sweeps of water in planes unaccompanied by any fighter protection. They had tried to find out the things you and I want to know—how the war is being fought.

Reasons Why

You have already read the gist of what those senators—and Senator Lodge, who made the journey, plus a side trip—said. The information will come out in reports and speeches before the senate and the house.

It was a long session but the thing that struck me was the second sentence which I quoted at the beginning of this article.

"The collapse of Germany may come at any time."

These men didn't pretend to be military experts or prophets. That statement of one of them—Senator Russell of Georgia—to which the others, Senators Mead of New York and Brewster of Maine, agreed, was based on what they had heard and seen including photographs of what Russell called "leveled Hamburg."

Another thing was the testimony of a French official who believed Germany would crumble soon. He was anxious that America be prepared to step in and take control. Unless we did, he insisted, chaos would spread, perhaps anarchy.

I have heard that fear expressed by other Europeans.

Basis of Belief

What is the basis of the belief that Germany will collapse suddenly and perhaps soon? On the belief that history will, in some measure, repeat itself as it always does. That the civilian morale will crumble in Germany, that the spirit of hopelessness will spread to the army as it did in 1918.

Already we know that submarine crews no longer volunteer. They have to be drafted. This is where the rift began in Germany's morale in the last war.

And what will contribute most to Germany's collapse? Not the Russian victories alone; not the drive that will come when, as many believe, the British-American operations are intensified. These will turn the scale. But the cumulative effect of defeats on all fronts plus the bombing of her cities already at work will bring "victory through air power."

The Germans, a very high British official said to us not long ago, are a logical people. When the realization of the hopelessness of further fighting is established, they will begin the logical process of surrender.

And if you read the report of Chief of Staff General Marshall, you will see how the realization of the growth of Allied air power spreads slowly over the whole battle scene.

"The army air forces," says the general, "are now attacking the enemy on ten different fronts throughout the world. Their victories, wherever they come in contact with the enemy, testify to the gallantry and skill of American pilots and crews, to the mechanical efficiency of the planes and to the leadership of General Arnold and . . . (the other commanders)."

History of the War

Go through General Marshall's dramatic history of the war to date and you will see again and again how the Allied air might has gradually risen from the "days in the first phase" when, as the general says, "on all fighting fronts we were in a desperate situation due to lack of material," into the "later phase" when in the southwest Pacific, "air superiority was demonstrated by a loss ratio of four to one in our favor," until today when "the combined American-British bomber offensive against the continent of Europe gives promise of being a decisive factor in the ultimate destruction of the German citadel."

Now that the Allies are in possession of the Foggia air-bases in Italy, we can reach what the President described as the area of Germany hitherto "invulnerable." We are nearer the southern German cities now than the air force in the British Isles is to many of the cities against which it has hurled its most devastating blows, and those cities of southern Germany and Austria, hitherto "safe" are now as "vulnerable" as the cities of the Rhine and Ruhr, as Hamburg and Cologne.

The war is not over. The fighting potential of the German army, in number of men, equipment, generalship, supplies, and morale is as high as ever. But as I sat in the Senate Office building and heard the prediction, "the collapse of Germany may come at any time," my mind went back to the anxious faces, the nervous inquiries, that came to me the day that Britain and France declared war and I waited to leave Berlin where I had been broadcasting to America.

The greatest fear of the average German then was the fear of American participation in the war. We couldn't, the stupid leaders believed, "get there in time if we wanted to." They didn't guess we would come via the skyways. Now they know.

(Note: To anyone wishing a complete copy of the "record which Americans will never forget," which is what the President called "General Marshall's fine, soldierly record of achievements of our army throughout two of the most tremendous years of our history," I shall be glad to send a copy. Simply send me your name and address. No charge. See address at head of column.)

We Need Scrap

The words "all out" and "drive" have just about lost their meaning. And yet, somehow, somewhere, iron and steel scrap has to be collected. There is plenty of it in the country. For the government to collect it, it would take an army. There is only one way it can be gotten. That is through individual effort. It involves no cost. It simply requires a little effort and some time.

The mills now have only enough scrap to last two and a half months. The shooting has just started, uncountable tons of metal are going to be dropped on the enemy in the months ahead. If you wait for someone else in your community to come and get your scrap, the army and the navy won't get the steel they need. Your initiative is essential.

Civilian Awards

The war department has borrowed an innovation of private industry as well as one of the pioneers in developing this idea. Ezra S. Taylor of the Pullman Company, Chicago, Ill., will operate it.

Mr. Taylor has been appointed expert consultant to the secretary of war and is chairman of the department's new board on civilian awards. The board has been set up to increase material economies and generally improve efficiency by utilizing the ideas of the 1,300,000 employees of the department.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

The purchaser of a $1,000 bond pays for the whole cost of America's global war for four-tenths of a second.

To maintain its record of meeting every invasion need, the Merchant Marine must recruit from shore jobs a minimum of 35,000 experienced officers and men during the next year.

Enough steel goes into U. S. tin cans every year to build 900 destroyers.

Another use for the all-purpose American army jeep has been discovered. Converted from road to rail by changing to steel-flanged wheels, the jeep is being used in Australia as a switch engine in shuttling cars around railroad yards.

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

THE STORY SO FAR: Private Marion Hargrove, former feature editor of the Charlotte (N. C.) News, has been inducted into the army and completed the first few weeks of his training at Fort Bragg. Before getting into the army, Hargrove advises selectees to "paint the town red." Once in, "the first three weeks are the hardest" so keep "an open mind." Hargrove has had plenty of trouble learning the fundamentals of army life and as a result has spent a good share of his time on KP duty. Classified as a cook he thinks it's good experience. His sergeant doesn't agree. Hargrove has learned a large portion of army slang and is about to enlighten the civilian on this score.

CHAPTER VI

When Junior comes home from camp on furlough or for the weekend, he probably will throw out his chest, pull his shoulders almost out of joint, and speak a sort of jargon entirely unintelligible to you. There is no cause for alarm; Junior is merely exaggerating to show off his familiarity with military life.

You will not be consoled by this knowledge when he begins speaking this unknown tongue. In order to understand some of his conversation, you might tear out this page and tuck it away in the drawer with your recipes and patterns.

Goldbricking is an Army term signifying in a word, loafing. In its strictest sense, it means avoiding your fair share of the work, thus making the load harder for the other boys. When Junior uses the term, however, it merely means hiding from the work in the first place or stretching an easy job out to make it last as long as possible.

Battling the breeze is the military equivalent of "bullshooting."

Police, as nearly as it can be explained, means "to clean up" or "to keep clean." Examples are kitchen police, or kappce, canteen police, and police the area.

Fatigue duty is work that is not actual military training, but a part of the turnabout method of getting the dirty work done. Fatigue clothes are the blue denims worn for extra duty. Regular uniforms are called OD's, an abbreviation for "olive drab."

GI is short for "Government Issue." GI soap is the yellow laundry soap, a GI brush is a hard-bristle scrubbing brush, and a GI haircut is the regulation style which sacrifices two-thirds of Junior's wavy locks to cleanliness and sanitation.

The PX is the post exchange, or canteen, a co-operative enterprise which sells practically everything the soldier needs. Three times a month, canteen books of credit tickets may be obtained in denominations from one to five dollars. Ten per cent of the proceeds from these are returned to the battery fund, which is used to buy nonessentials for the battery.

The old man is the battery commander, who may also be referred to among yourselves as the BC or the skipper. The top kick is a first sergeant, the chief of the battery's noncommissioned officers.

Jawbone is an apt word meaning "credit." A Jawbone corporal is an acting corporal, who has neither the rating nor the pay of a corporal.

Over the hill is an artistic way of referring to unauthorized absence. AWOL is another expression for AWOL.

Food is chow or mess. Stew is slum or slumgullion. Salt pork, which you rarely see in the Army,

"Over the hill is an artistic way of referring to unauthorized absence—AWOL."

is called lamb chop. "They lam it against the wall to get the salt out of it, and then they chop it up into the beans."

To fall out, soldiers vacate the barracks quickly, before the sergeant gets really mad. To fall in, they take their places in ranks.

A yardbird is the lowest form of animal life in an Army camp. Under the common law, he is rated as one rank below a buck private. The yardbird, for this misdeed or that shortcoming, spends most of his time in menial labor about the battery area.

When Junior refers to a yardbird, you will notice, he is invariably speaking of someone else.

It was our afternoon off and we were lying around in our barracks, too lazy to dress for a movie or a trip to the Service Club. All of us were, that is, except Private Zuber. With an enthusiasm and energy foreign to a cook's afternoon off, Zuber was applying a blinding glaze to his shoes. This finished, he connected an iron and began sharpening the creases in his trousers.

"Going somewhere, I take it," asked Private Clarkin, the Jersey milkman.

Private Zuber grinned happily, and nodded. He donned his fresh clothing, gave his necktie several unnecessary tugs, and combed his hair for the twelfth time.

Private McGlauffin, late of the Minneapolis bar, laid down his copy of the Bartender's Guide, and sat up on his bunk. "Didn't you know?" he asked. "Zuber's girl's come down from Rochester. They're going riding."

"That's a fine thing," crowed Clarkin. "I haven't been for a spin since I've been here. Get your shoes on, Hargrove. And straighten your name plate, McGlauffin. We must make a good impression on our guest."

"You sure are a pleasant surprise, ma'am," Clarkin prattled on to the pretty girl in the front seat. "Fancy Ben Zuber even knowing anybody like you. You should see the homely looking things he brings to the dances here."

She smiled a polite thank-you at Clarkin and glanced sharply at Zuber. "I never could even get him to the dances at home," she said. "He wouldn't even look at the girls at all. Would you, dear?"

"No, ma'am," groaned the martyred Zuber, who spent almost all his evening hours writing letters to Rochester.

"Just to look at Ben," said McGlauffin, "you'd never think such a quiet-seeming boy could raise so much devil. It constantly amazes me."

Private Zuber's girl friend's smile was not so spontaneous this time, and there was a baleful gleam in her glance at poor Benjamin. "What have you been doing, dear?" she asked with terrible gentleness.

Private McGlauffin went on glibly. "Tell her about the time you got tight in Fayetteville and tried to take the policeman's hat away from him, Ben!"

The one-girl audience was shocked. Her expression, as she looked at Zuber, was one of anxiety and doubt.

Clarkin began again. "And the terrible fight he had that time—cool!" McGlauffin gave him a hearty dig in the ribs. To make sure that it had registered and created sufficient horrible curiosity in the feminine mind, he repeated it.

Private Zuber, gullible but helpless, dropped his shoulders further as the terrible ride continued. "Here's the Service Club, dear," he finally said. "Shall we go in and have something to drink?" He gave the three of us a pathetically beseeching glance.

"They don't sell lemon extract in there, Zuber," I suggested. Clarkin, McGlauffin and I exchanged looks that purposed to show a hidden knowledge of another terrible paragraph in the collapse of the soul of Benjamin Zuber.

We sat at a table in the Service Club drinking the sodas our victim bought for us. Clarkin looked long at his glass of water.

"The sight of water," he remarked, "reminds me of what the sergeant was telling Ben last week about daily bathing."

McGlauffin took pity on the innocent Zuber, who was dying for a cause he knew not. "We'll have to be going. We have things to do and I imagine you two young people want to enjoy each other's company."

"Yes," said Zuber's fiancée slowly. "Ben and I have so much to talk about." Private Zuber shuddered and his shoulders slumped tragically.

"We certainly have enjoyed the afternoon," crowed Clarkin. "Lovely time."

One of the first people I looked up when I went to Charlotte on leave was Ward Beecher Threatt, who writes a column of sorts for the Saturday edition of the Charlotte News.

"Well, Hargrove," began the postcard philosopher, "how's the Army agreeing with you? I've been aching to find out what you've been doing." This was a subtle slam at my column.

"Well, all things considered—" I began.

"Nothing like the Army," said Ward Beecher. "I wouldn't take a million dollars for the time I spent in it. Nobody'd offer me a million anyway. Have you got a rating yet?"

"Well—" I began again.

"Lord, did I have my ups and downs! Got all the way up to sergeant three times and was busted three times—for the good of the service." He paused to light another cigarette and I thought I saw an opening.

"Let me tell you about the trip over—" I said. "We left the—" "We started a crap game on the train," said Threatt, "and I had to wire home for money before I got to Rock Hill. Have you had a payday yet?"

"We'll have one—" I started.

"On that ocean voyage," he broke in. "I went for fourteen days without a cigarette. I followed one man all around the boat waiting for him to throw away a butt. Instead of throwing it on the deck, where I could have scooped it, he flung it over the rail. I followed another and just when I thought he'd be ready to throw it away, I asked him for the butt. The son-of-a-gun told me he had three different kinds of colds—and he threw his cigarette over the side. He didn't have another, he said."

"We landed at Brest," he said, "and we had to walk up one of the longest darned hills I've ever seen before we could drop our suitcases. The Frenchmen swarmed around us, selling everything from steamer trunks to fine-toothed combs. Twenty of us boys pooled our pocket money to buy a pack of cigarettes for fifty cents. What are you going to spend your first pay on?"

"Oh, I suppose I'll—"

"First payday I had I went out and bought myself a pack of cigarettes and lay awake almost all night smoking them. Best cigarettes I ever tasted. By the way, how's the food at Fort Bragg?"

"I find it very—"

"Over in France we used to take our drinking water and swap it to the French for wine. It was a toss-up which tasted worse—our water or their wine. Ah, them was the days! Like your uniform?"

"I think it's very—"

"Nothing like the ones we wore. There we were, in the hottest part of the summer, with these woolen OD's, Russian high collars, wrap-around leggings, and all the works. How do you like my costume?"

"Well, confidentially—"

"This field cap ain't the one they issued to me. I lost that one and had to help myself to this one. I wouldn't tell you where I got it. I used to get into more potato-peeling work for not getting this collar fixed right, too. Looks right distinguished, doesn't it?"

I looked at the modernistic clock on Ward Beecher's parlor table. I took my eyes off it quickly, lest he tell me again about how he won it at the firemen's convention.

"Well, Ward," I said, jumping desperately into a gap in the conversation. "I've enjoyed talking to you about my life in the Army, but I have to get along uptown again. I've got—"

"Sure thing, fellow," said the man of letters; "it certainly is interesting to hear from a soldier in this army. I could listen to you for hours."

When a sergeant tells you that it's the little things in life that are important, he's not just saying it. A sergeant who impresses that one corny slice of homely philosophy upon a rookie's mind is giving him one of the most important lessons of his Army life.

The soldier has a thousand and one small things to remember in his everyday life. Most of these he forgets at least once before a non-com catches them vividly on his mind with kitchen duty.

At retreat, the afternoon inspection of the soldiers, I always check everything before I fall out for the onceover. Are my shoes shined? Is my rifle cleaned and oiled? Is my name plate pinned straight over my left shirt pocket? Can I get by with this morning's shave? Do I need a haircut? Are all my pockets buttoned? When I make sure that everything is as it should be, I sigh with satisfaction and fall out.

The battery assembles in a neat, precise picture of mass formation. The battery commander orders the top kick to "Prepare the battery for inspection!" The top kick opens the ranks and the lines straighten out to perfection. From where I stand, everything looks perfect.

The battery commander begins his inspection. Until he gets almost to me, I feel almost smug; to think that for once I've stood retreat and not fallen short somewhere. To bask in my own perfection, I sneak a forbidden peek at my gun and uniform.

Then, to my horror, I see two shiny strands of stainless steel just below my belt—the chain on that daddled dollar watch! Your whole day can be spoiled by doodads such as that marring the neatness and simplicity of your uniform. Back to the kitchens, Dulcy!

There's one good thing, however, about forgetting to take off your non-lusher watch chain for retreat, or to put on your leggings for reveille, or to straighten the shoes under your bunk! After the first time, you remember them!

There's a right and a wrong way to carve a lamb roast! If you want to get the most out of your meat, place the shank bone to the right of the carver, the thick, meaty section to the right of the platter.

Plan Long Career, Much Variety for Leg o' Lamb Roast

If you plan a long and much-varied career for your roasts, you will not only have delicious meals from them but you will work a wonderful saving on points.

Take a roast leg of lamb, for instance. If you have it on Sunday baked in all its glory to a nice golden brown, you can still have meat on Monday by creaming the leftovers and serving in a noodle ring, and then again on Tuesday with vegetables as a salad. Yes, there you have three deliciously different ways of serving from just one cut of meat. A wonderful point-stretcher? Yes, indeed!

Don't be scared of the leftovers when you chart your course ahead. Giving the roast this three-way career makes it an economical purchase even for smaller families.

Proper cooking prevents excess shrinkage. Proper carving will avoid needless waste. A slow oven is best for roasting to prevent shrinkage.

Roast Leg of Lamb.

Do not remove fell. Put leg, skin side up on a rack in roasting pan. Season with salt and pepper. If using a meat thermometer, make an incision into the roast, and insert center of thermometer so bulb reaches center of roast and does not rest on either bone or fat. Place roast uncovered into a slow oven (300 degrees) until done. Three to 3 1/2 hours is the time limit required. If a thermometer is used, the meat is done to medium when it registers 175 degrees F. or well done when the thermometer registers 160 degrees F. When serving, garnish pear halves, centers filled with mint jelly and leaf.

How to Carve Lamb.

The leg of lamb should be placed before the carver so that the shank bone is to his right, and the thick, meaty section to the right side of the platter. Different roasts will not always have the same surface uppermost because of the different right and left legs. This, however, does not affect the method of carving.

Insert the carving fork firmly in the large end of the leg and carve two or three lengthwise slices from the near thin side. Turn the roast so that it rests on the surface just cut. The shank bone now points up from the platter. Insert the fork in the left of the roast. Starting at the shank end, slice down to the leg bone. Parallel slices may be made until the stitch bone is reached. One-quarter to three-eighths of an inch is a desirable thickness. With the fork still in place, run the knife along the leg bone—releasing all the slices.

Is there lamb leftover from Sunday? Cut up the remainder of the lamb in cubes and serve it thus:

Creamed Lamb and Peas in Noodle Ring.

(Serves 6)

Noodle Ring: Cook 9-ounce package of wide noodles as directed on package, drain and rinse. Combine with 4 tablespoons melted butter or substitute and put in greased 1-quart ring mold. Set mold in pan of hot water for 10 minutes.

Lynn Says:

Cabbage is King! Cabbage is an important source of vitamin C, and is best served raw to provide roughage in the diet. Serve it shredded with the following combinations:

Grated raw carrots, onion, minced, cooked dressing.
 Chopped cucumber pickles, diced celery, dressing.
 Diced apples, raisins, dressing.
 Pineapple, dressing.
 Grated raw beets, parsley, dressing.

Diced celery, apples, chopped nuts, whipped cream flavored with sugar and vanilla.
 Chopped cabbage, tomatoes, onion.

ON THE HOME FRONT

with RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THE war is bringing many changes in the things we use and the things we do. Women as well as men are learning to handle tools. If a chair is lacking we make one. If we cannot have springs we find a way to make it comfortable anyway. That is the spirit of the times.

Perhaps you have made lawn chairs all with straight cuts of the hand saw. Have you ever stopped to realize that it is almost as easy to cut curves with a compass saw? Curves add comfort as well as beauty and a tufted cushion distributes the weight so that springs are not missed so much. The curved pieces of the charming chair sketched here are shown at the left. You can see how easy they are to cut out of odds and ends of one-inch lumber that you may have on hand. The reinforcing pieces are all straight cuts.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has prepared an accurate pattern for all the curved sections of this chair. Complete dimensions and directions for the chair construction and for making the tufted cushion, with list of materials included. This is pattern #23 and costs 15 cents. Send your order to:

MOTHER-IN-LAW CHEERS LONG SOUGHT RELIEF!

Had Been "Irregular" for Years!

Have you often despaired of ever finding normal regularity? Then, by all means, read this unsolicited letter:

"For many long years, my mother-in-law had suffered from common constipation. She used to take all kinds of pills and medicines, but got no lasting relief. Upon starting to use KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN, her trouble cleared up. She feels like a new person, and she says she wants me to tell the world how your product helped her. Mrs. Melba J. J. 734 East 10th Street, Grand Rapids, Mich."

How do scientists explain the apparent "miraculous" relief? Simply this: ALL-BRAN is one of Nature's most effective sources of "cellulose" elements—a lack of which in sufficient amounts in the diet is a common cause of constipation. These elements help the friendly colonic flora stuff up and lighten the colonic wastes for easy, natural elimination. KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN doesn't work by "purging"—or by "sweeping you out." It is a gentle-acting, "regulating" food!

If this is your trouble eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly. Drink plenty of water! See if you don't find the welcome relief you've hoped for! Insist on genuine ALL-BRAN, made only by Kellogg's in Battle Creek.

BACKACHE

for fast diuretic aid WHEN KIDNEY FUNCTION LAGS from this need.....

Functional kidney disturbance due to need of diuretic aid may cause stabbing backache. May cause urinary flow to be frequent, yet scanty and smarting! You may lose sleep from "getting up nights" often—may feel dizzy, nervous, "headachy."

In such cases, you want to stimulate kidney action fast. So if there is nothing systemically or organically wrong, try Gold Medal Capsules. They're best known for prompt action for 30 years. Take care to use them only as directed. Accept no substitutes. 35¢ at your drug store.

GREEN-DAUGHERTY

Golden Wedding Anniversary:
At the home of the bride's father, J. L. Green, seven miles above Weed, N. M., on the Aguacilla. On the evening of Oct. 25, 1893 gathered friends, neighbors, and relatives from far and near to witness the marriage of Miss Evie Green and Mart A. Daugherty. They were united by our beloved Mountain Missionary Rev. R. P. Pope. After the ceremony a feast, and social which lasted until late in the evening was enjoyed by everyone. Among those present were the late Mrs. R. H. Pierce, of Alamogordo, then living at Eddy, N. M., and her eldest daughter Mrs. Roscoe James now of somewhere in California; also Mrs. Jesse Green of Alamogordo and her oldest children, both aunts of the bride.

The Daugherty's have one daughter, one son, and three granddaughters. They made their home in the Sacramento Mountains until 1907, when they moved to Nolan, Texas, where they would be very glad to see or hear from any of their friends on this their Golden Wedding Anniversary.—Contributed.

An Unintentional Error

In our article last week about the sad fate of "Tall Gunner", Saturnino Chavez, we made what the printer would call, a "Helpful Henry" (a leave out) that is, in making mention of the names of Saturnino's brothers, we omitted the name of Manuel Chavez. We gladly make this correction and hope our good friend Manuel will overlook the error.

COMMENT

Now I lay me down to snore. Insured for several thousand more.

If I should die before I wake, My wife would get her first real break.

But should I live for twenty years My wife and I need shed no tears We can retire and fish and rest; Back come my bucks with interest.

In old age we can keep our house And not live with our daughter's spouse, So thank God for the great endurance, Of the man who sells insurance.
