PERSONALS

Harry, Cap and George Straley, "The Three 'Meaquiteers' from Ancho, were here Tuesday.

R. E. Kent of Oscura spent most of the day here last Saturday, on a business mission.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wood and children were business visitors from Oscura last Saturday.

H. O. Smith, our old Amigo, was here on business from the Capitan country the last of the week.

Jack Adams is home again, having received an honorable discharge from the Army, where he was a staff Sgt. at Fort Bliss.

Mrs. Fannye Sherrill, clerk at the Burke Gift Shop, who was ill last week with bronchitis, has recovered and is now back at her duties again.

Mrs. Arthur Martinez is here from Topeka, Kansas, visiting her mother Mrs. Maggie Chavez and other close relatives. Arthur is in service at the above named place.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lacey of Nogal were here Saturday, accompanied by their grandson, David Wofford of Alamogordo, who is visiting his grandparents at their home in Nogal.

Our old friend Montie Gardenhire of Ruidoso was here on a business trip last Saturday. Montie operates a riding academy and takes tourists on trips to the mountains, which furnishes thrills from those unaccustomed to our wonderful mountain scenery.

Magdalena Madrid left Thursday, October 21, for Loretto, Kentucky, where she entered the Novitiate of the Sisters of Loretto. Miss Madrid is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jose Madrid of Carrizozo. She attended the St. Rita Grade School and the Carrizozo High School from which she graduated last May.

Vote for Sally Silvers for Carnival Queen.

NEW, SMART Ladies' Purses at the Burke Gift Shop

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Withers of Oscura were shoppers in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Brenton of their ranch near Nogal were here Tuesday.

C. H. Murray, well driller of Capitan, was a business visitor in town Monday.

Mrs. S. H. Nickels, who teaches school at Ancho, was here on business Tuesday of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Jarrett of the Jarrett ranch near Claunch were shoppers in town Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Barney Wilson and tall, young and good-looking son were here on business this Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald of the McDonald ranch near Oscura were shoppers here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Kennedy of the Kennedy ranch in the Jicarilla mountains were shoppers here Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davis and children were here on business from their ranch near Capitan Wednesday.

George Perry of the firm of Perry and Sons, well drillers of Glencoe, was a business visitor in town Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Luckey and small-cute daughter Martha Sue of their ranch near Nogal were shoppers in town Saturday.

Raymond Davis and Pete Cooper were here Wednesday and went on to the Lewis ranch, so that Pete could see Mr. Lewis before returning to his army post.

R. B. Moore, supt. at the local light plant and Bill Gallacher, Jr. were antelope hunting recently in the Roswell country—they report getting one antelope apiece.

The Misses Romero and Mary Pickett Warden have returned from their trip to Arizona, where they spent a week visiting Miss Beatrice's father, Joe Romero and sister Mrs. Krohne.

Gladney Zumwalt Dies in Action Somewhere in Pacific

On April 6, 1943, a message was received by Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Zumwalt to the effect that their son, Sgt. Gladney Zumwalt was reported missing somewhere in the Pacific ocean. On Oct. 6, they received another message from the Secretary of War, verifying the first message and giving the date of March 28, '43 as the time of his death.

Gladney Zumwalt was born Sept. 2, 1914, at Nogal, N. M. He graduated from the Carrizozo High School in 1935 in the same class with Saturnino Chavez; being Vice-President of his class and Valedictorian at the graduation exercises. After a few years spent in Arizona, he came home and

M. G. Norris has returned from Hotel Dieu hospital in El Paso, after undergoing treatment for an illness with which he has been troubled of late. You can't keep a good man down (for long)

Pete Cooper, who entered the Army 18 months ago, is here on a furlough to visit old friends. The first thing he did was to look up his old friend, Brooks Lewis, with whom he chummed for about two years on the Lewis ranch. Pete is located at Houston, Texas.

Time to Remit Withholding Tax

S. P. Vidal, Collector of Internal Revenue for the District of New Mexico, has announced that forms for remitting withholding taxes for the quarter ending Sept. 30, 1943 must be filed in his office on or before Oct. 31, 1943.

Collector Vidal further announced that since the "Current Tax Payment Act of 1943" provides for the depositing of tax funds in banks, the returns, when filed, must be accompanied by the full amount of tax due or evidenced in the form of certificates of deposit, showing that such sums have been deposited in the proper banks to the credit of withheld taxes. This return, due on or before Oct. 31, will be the first under this Act and will cover income taxes withheld from wages for the months of July, August and September.

The New Mexico Collector announced that failure to file these returns and pay the tax which is therein reflected will carry a minimum penalty of twenty dollars ($20). Mr. Vidal went on to say that he will be unable to recognize oversight, ignorance of the law, inability to compute deductions, lack of forms or any similar excuse as valid reasons for failure to file these returns and to pay the tax within the prescribed time.

Important Announcement

We have tried in vain to provide our old subscribers as well as new ones, with the chocolate cream candy, which we have been giving away for the last six years with one year's subscription. In view of the well-known fact that it is impossible to get candy of that fine grade until the war is over, we are going to do the next best thing. In other words, we are going to make our readers a gift. We will, until January 1, 1944, give the New Mexico Magazine, the regular subscription of which is $1.00, to all old subscribers and new ones alike, this magazine FREE of charge with every paid subscription of $2, which is the regular subscription of the Carrizozo Outlook. To make this more plain, we will give the Carrizozo Outlook and the New Mexico Magazine, both publications for the sum of $2.00. Cash must accompany each order. Here is your chance to get the two publications for the one price, $2.00.

Virtually every nationality in the world is represented in RKO's "Gangway for Tomorrow"; it has 130 speaking parts. But none of the cast portray their native countrymen. A Russian is played by a Pole, a Czech by an Austrian, a Pole by a German, a Frenchman by a Russian. Richard Ryan, an Irishman, plays a German officer. Margo, born in Mexico, plays a French girl. Just Hollywood!

An embarrassing moment came to Corleton Young, 20th Century Fox contract player, at the "Silver Theater" dress rehearsal, after the announcer had read an elaborate build-up which was given him. The entire cast, including Corlette Young, saluted.

Before Florence Halop made her fortunate appearance, talent scouts for the new "Duffy's" series were coaxed to find a new Miss Duffy to replace Shirley Booth that they resorted to ads in the Hollywood papers.

Sound effects proved better than the real article when Parks Johnson and Warren Hull visited the oil refinery workers at the eastern terminus of the Big Inch pipeline. They wanted to introduce the show with the gurgling of gasoline flowing from a filling station pump, and had a real one set up on the stage. But they finally used an ordinary egg beater and a hand bell.

Don't be surprised if Charlie McCarthy's "rather elderly, old-maid relative," Ophelia, becomes a regular member of that airshow gang. Maybe you heard her when she made her coast to coast radio debut recently on the new RCA "What's New" program. Listeners loved her, and Edgar Bergen thinks she might make a good permanent companion for Charlie and Mortimer Snerd.

Frances and Richard Lockridge, authors of "Mr and Mrs North," are probably unique among novelists whose works have been adapted for radio. Usually authors insist on editing all scripts, often to the dismay of script writers, producers and actors. The Lockridges have been inside the studio just once since the series started on NBC. They listen to the program at home.

After eight years as a CBS staff conductor, Lyn Murray quit to freelance his orchestra and chorus are doing a new series on CBS, he's conducting the orchestra on the new Gertrude Lawrence show, and is choral director on both "Mill Parades"—he's doing all right!

The Plow Is NOT the Enemy of the Farmer, Says a Noted Agronomist, Who Replies to That Charge in a Recently Published Book

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

IS THE plow the arch-villain in the tragedy of soil erosion that costs American agriculture two billion dollars a year through the loss of precious nitrogen, phosphorus and potash from the nation's farms? Or is it one of mankind's traditional benefactors? Will the plow eventually become an obsolete implement and a museum piece, or will it continue to be one of farming's main reliances?

Americans, especially farmers, who have learned to "revere the plow" and who read the book "Plowman's Folly" written by Edward H. Faulkner and published recently by the University of Oklahoma Press, or who saw articles in the newspapers based upon that book, no doubt were startled when Mr. Faulkner told them that the plow was an enemy rather than a friend of agriculture. But the old saying about there being "two sides to every question" has proved true again, for no less an authority than Dr. William A. Albrecht, head of the soils department of the University of Missouri, now comes forward to defend the plow and to offer a rebuttal to Mr. Faulkner's charges against it.

Dr. Albrecht both agrees and disagrees with the author of "Plowman's Folly." He acknowledges that farmers in the silt loam soil areas of the United States have, in the past, plowed too much. As a result, the heavy rainfall in these regions has washed away priceless soil. But the question, "to plow or not to plow," cannot be answered "yes" or "no" nor is it safe to make hasty generalizations in any other respect while dealing with this subject. The crux of the whole question lies in the soil and climatic conditions of the geographical region involved.

"We need to plow less on some soils and, conversely, we need to plow more—and deeper—on others," asserts Dr. Albrecht. "We need to learn that the differences in degree of soil development according to climatic differences are factors in determining how important the plow is."

In "Plowman's Folly," Mr. Faulkner charged that the moldboard plow "now in use on farms throughout the civilized world is the least satisfactory implement for the preparation of the land for the production of crops." The truth is that no one has ever advanced a scientific reason for plowing. Moreover, he says that the plow is responsible for "all the erosion, the sour soils, the mounting floods, the lowering water tables, the vanishing wild life, the compact and impervious soil surfaces" that have harassed American farmers for a generation.

And there the University of Missouri scientist disagrees. He holds that even though the average farmer can't give a scientific answer to the question "Why plow?", the men of science can provide plenty of valid reasons for doing so. High on his list of reasons is the fact that this practice supplies the soil with oxygen which helps transform its chemical components into usable plant food for growing crops.

Aerating the Soil.

"Any microbiologist will testify that plowing aerates the soil," he says. "As a consequence of the change of atmosphere in the soil and because of the stirring by the moldboard plow, there is new life."

"The soil is a factory in which energy is expended. Tons of carbon are being burned to form carbon dioxide. Sulphur is oxidized into sulphur dioxide. Ammonia is changed to nitrate. Other similar combinations are taking place."

"A 40-acre corn field under maximum growing activity in July burns an amount of carbon equal to the coal used in running a 40-horsepower steam engine in order to form carbon dioxide. Can anyone deny the necessity of air for such a performance? Surely no one would close the draft by refusing to plow and thus destroy such crop producing power."

"This burning business in the soil by means of oxygen from the air must go on, if the plant nutrients tied up in chemical combination with carbon are to be released for repeated use by other plants that follow. Were this performance not proceeding in the soil, life on the globe would soon become extinct. The soil's productive power would soon be expended. As a result, the soil could offer nothing and no growth could occur."

Plowing scenes such as this will not soon vanish from the American scene, says a noted agronomist who refutes the charges in a recently published book that the plow is the enemy of agriculture.

Plowing has the further scientific value of helping the soil supply a larger amount of soluble nitrogen for growing crops than would otherwise be available, according to Dr. Albrecht. Studies of the nitrate supply in soil planted to corn forcefully support this finding.

Tests were made on three adjoining plots planted to corn. One plot was unplowed. The second was plowed. The third was both plowed and cultivated. The soluble nitrogen supply in the plot that was plowed and cultivated was at least 30 per cent greater than in the unplowed tract. In the plowed tract it was between 25 and 30 per cent greater.

"Crop yields correspond to the level of these nitrate supplies," says Dr. Albrecht. "The farmer may not know that these higher levels of nitrate are responsible for his improved crop yield. Nor may he understand that they are the result of his making the soil 'turn turtle' with his plow. He simply plows ahead of the corn to get a better crop. His inability to point out the underlying scientific channels through which the effects of plowing are transmitted to the crop, does not put the plow into bad repute in his eyes."

"Surely the hundreds of thousands of corn producers will not suddenly discard so ancient an implement merely because they cannot call to tends the period of sterility of the soil due to dryness." Crops are not declining or failing because plowing is drying out the soil.

"The forces that turn plowed land into bare, eroded fields are not the mold-board plow and the horses or tractor that pull it. They are the continued removal of soil fertility with little or no return of needed plant foods. Plowing is not the cause of the depletion of the fertility supply. Depletion occurs because of the fertility removed when the crop is hauled off to market. The plow is not the exploiter; rather it is the farmer. The plow is merely the tool that facilitates his exploitation at a faster rate and over more acres than before the plow was given him. The plow has helped him feed many of us too far removed from the land to appreciate its exploitation."

In urging that the plow be junked as an agricultural implement, Mr. Faulkner's book advocated the use of the disk harrow as a means of producing more and better crops, because it would incorporate crop residues, green manures and organic matter into the top soil. To this suggestion Dr. Albrecht had the following to say:

"The author of 'Plowman's Folly' condemns the plow because it inverts completely the upper portion of the soil profile. In its place, however, he advocates the use of the disk harrow which carries out a similar process, differing only in degree."

To Mr. Faulkner's contention that crop residues or organic matter from plants allowed to grow of their own accord should be incorporated into the top soil without the addition of manure, lime or other fertilizers, Dr. Albrecht replies:

"Such a proposal does not take into account differences in vegetation in type or quality. Weeds or forest trees as ancient as the sequoias are taken on a par in the 'Plowman's Folly' thesis with legumes as soil rejuvenating agencies. The author cites 'every wooded country' as a perfect example of soil maintenance, but neglects to mention the low level of fertility and the difficulty involved in maintaining life."

Mr. Faulkner's belief, that the prevalence of wild life on the western plains was due to the fact that this region was unplowed, comes in for some critical analysis, also. Dr. Albrecht points out that the unplowed wooded areas of New England which our Puritan ancestors first settled, supported only a few wild turkeys and squirrels.

In further refutation of the contention in "Plowman's Folly" that "principles which are valid in the forest are valid in the field," Dr. Albrecht asserts:

"In view of the fact that the soils differ as widely as they do under forest and under prairie, we surely cannot subscribe to the belief that all 'principles valid for the forest are valid for the fields.'"

Summarizing his views on the entire subject, Dr. Albrecht concludes: "The indictment of the plow by the book 'Plowman's Folly' will not stand against the facts of science nor the judgment of experienced farmers. This publication will fall far short of helping us to realize that 'the Garden of Eden, almost literally, lies under our feet almost anywhere on earth we care to step, provided we allow vegetation to grow and we cling to the disk harrow as a means of turning it under rather than to the mold-board plow.'" their aid scientific evidence, when someone concludes for them that the plow is the cause of increased erosion and other devastation that is so easily associated with it."

DR. WILLIAM A. ALBRECHT

Villains of Erosion.

To Mr. Faulkner's charge that plowing is solely responsible for erosion, Dr. Albrecht counters with the assertion that the real villains are continuous cropping and the steady removal of plant food elements year after year without any effort to replenish the soil's resources of nitrogen, phosphorus and potash.

"It is true that plowing and cropping a soil year after year bring with them declining crop yields," he says. "For these one might readily pounce upon the plow as the culprit in the case. But the fact is that declining crop yields have other causes than merely the plowing operation. They cannot be explained away by the simple belief that 'the explosive separation of the soil mass wrecks all capillary connections temporarily'; and that 'the organic matter sandwiched in further ex-

Plowing Is Useful in Keeping Up Fertility of Old Forest Lands

In expanding upon the statement above concerning soil differences in forest and in field, Dr. Albrecht has this to say about soil conditions in the forested Atlantic seacoast: "When the forest soils which the Puritans found were cleared of their trees and cultivated, they were soon abandoned as agricultural land by the pioneers who were willing to face the hazardous movement westward in search of fertile land. These facts have not commonly been related to the low rate and low quantity nutrient delivery by those soils of the lime, the phosphorus, the nitrogen and other chemical elements needed to make nourishing vegetation for the building of healthy animal and human bodies. "Soils which had come down to the low fertility level of vegetation before man plowed them, offer so little for animal body-building that the plow must stir them and they must re-

PSORIASIS

A patient consulted a skin specialist about a chronic case of psoriasis. Psoriasis is an inflammation of the skin in which there are red raised spots covered with dry silvery scales. When the scales are removed a red glistening surface is exposed with fine bleeding points. "It occurs in all countries, in both sexes, in the young and the old. It is not contagious or infectious but does seem to run in some families."

It heals without forming blisters or leaving a scar. Although no pain or other symptom is present, it causes much distress and embarrassment.

The patient told the skin specialist that he had "tried everything," including physicians' prescription and the patent remedies but could obtain no permanent cure. Before he underwent treatment he wanted to know if the specialist could cure him.

The specialist frankly told him that he knew of no "permanent" cure for psoriasis but many of his patients obtained relief for months and years by two simple acts. They got out into the air and sunshine as much as possible and avoided entirely, or greatly reduced the amount of fat foods eaten. The very fact that the face and back of hands are seldom attacked by psoriasis would show that sunlight is a factor in preventing psoriasis. In fact some of his patients gave up his and other treatment, the psoriasis disappeared for months or years, and then returned. It is possible that in some of these cases "that cured themselves," the patients got outdoors more, ate less fat foods, and more vegetables and fruits containing vitamins A, C, and D. In others cutting down on fat foods and taking vitamin B1 has given relief.

In Hygeia, the Health Magazine, Maurice J. Costello states that natural sunlight, particularly when combined with salt water bathing, is the most pleasant and convenient and one of the best forms of treatment for chronic psoriasis. Sunbathing the body is both a temporary cure and a preventive of psoriasis. X-ray treatment is often effective but should be used sparingly under the supervision of a physician X-ray specialist.

The point is that while chronic psoriasis can be helped for periods of time by official and non-official preparations, sunlight and cutting down on fat foods give best results.

Emotional Spasms Prevent Swallowing

Some years ago I spoke about a middle-aged woman who had suffered for years with an arthritis that kept her almost bedridden. She began to complain that her food stuck "half way down" the esophagus, the tube carrying the food to the stomach; she was sure that a growth was blocking the tube. Her physician pointed out that if there was a growth or obstruction present, it would block the food every time she ate solid food whereas there were times when she ate solid food without feeling any block in the tube. In order to convince her he took her to the X-ray department of a large hospital and by the aid of a fluoroscope and mirror she was able to see food pass directly from throat down the tube to the stomach without any delay whatever.

There was no question but that she felt the delay must have been present at times but only because there was a spasm of the tube, not any real obstruction present. The cause of the spasm was emotional.

In Radiology, Drs. W. B. Faulkner, F. H. Redenbough and John R. O'Neill show that emotional upsets may produce a disturbance in the esophagus which can be discovered by the X-rays and by the use of the esophagoscope (instrument showing condition of esophagus). They noticed this first in a routine fluoroscopic (X-rays) examination of patient with a severe spasm of esophagus. The spasm, clearly seen, disappeared when a chance statement was made that pleased the patient while a statement that displeased the patient brought on the spasm again.

It can thus be seen that if a barium meal is given when the patient is upset or nervous a spasm may occur which causes a "blocked" feeling, whereas if patient is relaxed there will be no blocked feeling.

QUESTION BOX

- Q.—How can you correct outstanding ears?
- A.—A slight operation will correct outstanding ears.
- Q.—What are the symptoms of inflammation of the middle ear? Of the eustachian tube?
- A.—Symptoms are pain in ear and head, later ringing ear. Your physician may treat this or refer you to an ear specialist if he thinks it is necessary.

IT ALL started with a bright idea for making a painted coffee table out of odds, and ends of lumber. The sketch gives dimensions and shows the simple construction used to make the frame reinforced by useful shelves at the ends. So far the table was substantial but crude and that is where the lady with the needle came in. The table was to be painted cream color and then waxed. She bought a yard of slightly darker tan sateen and applied a design of blue and red morning glories with green leaves on it. This was placed over the top of the table and tacked around the edge. A piece of glass was cut to fit and the finishing boards were then screwed around the sides. Any interesting fabric could be used under the glass of the table top, or bright flower prints or a map would give a good effect.

Rapid Flashlight

A new portable photographic flashlight, using a mercury lamp about the size of a cigarette, goes on and off in one millionth of a second, and it can "freeze" the action of a wheel making 70,000 revolutions a minute, says Collier's. While the life of this lamp is only one second, it will provide a million flashes or the number used in 10 years by 20 busy newspaper photographers.

Do you know the new regulations on packages sent to men in the service? Here they are: You can send packages to soldiers anywhere in the U. S., although there are now Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men; and you can send packages to men in the Navy, Coast Guard, and Marines, wherever they are. And when you send that package from home, remember—the gift men in the service always appreciate is cigarettes. And the favorite with men in the Army, Navy, Coast Guard, and Marines is Camel (based on actual sales records in Post Exchanges and Cantens). Tack a burlap bag on the wall in the tool shed, and nearby have an open top pail nearly full of used crank case oil. All tools used outside and likely to rust are quickly cleaned on the burlap after use, and then dipped in the oil. Hoes, shovels, rakes and the smaller tools so treated never rust and are always ready for efficient service.

(See Recipes Below.)

Salads for Fall

Is a salad an integral part of your diet or do you set it aside just for summer months when vegetables are easy to obtain and serve in salad form?

Food authorities and doctors have long recommended the use of raw fruits and vegetables in the diet not only to guarantee more vitamins and minerals to the dietary, but to give the necessary roughage to the system. Vegetables contain a great deal of cellulose and are not as easily digested as the softer foods. This means they aid in proper function and elimination and belong daily in every diet.

Although we are limited in the amount of fresh vegetables obtainable in the fall and winter months, there are some available which offer many possibilities for salads. Cabbage, carrots, citrus fruits and apples are the most common. For a more substantial salad item, use cottage cheese. It will also give you a goodly amount of calcium, needed for proper bone and tooth development.

If your family has been shrunk by the fall here are two recipes especially designed for smaller families:

Tomatoes Stuffed With Green Pepper Slaw
(Serves 2)
Cut a thin slice from the stem end of each tomato. Remove seeds and part of the pulp. Sprinkle inside with salt. Invert and chill. Fill with finely shredded cabbage combined with green pepper, moistened with a dressing made of 4 tablespoons sweet cream, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 2 tablespoons vinegar.

Green Bean Salad
(Serves 2)
Place green stringless beans, cooked and chilled in individual lettuce cups. Combine 1 tablespoon vinegar, 1/4 teaspoon salt and pepper to taste. Beat with egg beater or shake in a jar until well blended. Mash 3 tablespoons Roquefort cheese and then add oil and vinegar mixture slowly, stirring until very smooth. Pour over beans and serve at once.

Surprise Vegetable Salad
Sliced boiled beets
Sliced boiled string beans
Sliced boiled carrots
Boiled green peas
Boiled lima beans
French dressing
Chopped chives
Boiled potatoes

Prepare and cook separately, in the usual manner, an equal quantity of all the vegetables mentioned in recipe. Boil potatoes with their jackets, peel while still warm and marinate in french dressing while still warm. When ready to serve vegetables, have them well chilled and arrange in layers in a large salad bowl, starting with beets at the bottom, followed by lima beans, then string beans, next with carrots, followed by peas. When all vegetables are used, pour over them a tart, well-seasoned french dressing. Cover the whole with a layer of potatoes, being sure that all the peas are covered. Sprinkle top with fresh, chopped chives and serve.

Lynn Says:
Salad Notes: Ingredients for a salad should be large enough to retain their identity. It's not a good idea to hide a vegetable the family does not like by chopping it very fine. Shred, but do not chop vegetables.
Simplest salads are the most attractive. A salad should taste as good as it looks.
Toss ingredients lightly, never stir ambitiously. Dressing need not cover every piece. Salad greens should always be clean, crisp, fresh.
Drain all vegetables thoroughly, before using. Serve them on clean, well-chilled plates, as cold as possible.
Vary salads from day to day. Try new combinations of color, vegetables and fruit.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menu
Pan-Fried Liver and Onions
Creamed Potatoes
 Parsleyed Carrots
Apple, Carrot Salad
Whole Wheat Bread
Lemon Chiffon Pie Beverage

Salad With Egg Dressing
(Serves 6)
2 heads of lettuce
4 hard-boiled eggs
3/4 cup cream
1/4 cup lemon juice or cider vinegar
Salt and pepper
Prepared mustard

Wash lettuce carefully and dry thoroughly. Put the yolks of the eggs through a ricer and let them drop to the bottom of a well-chilled salad bowl. Add a little prepared mustard and stir with a wooden spoon, adding the cream gradually. Season to taste with the salt and pepper, then add lemon juice and vinegar. Add the lettuce, toss lightly and sprinkle the chopped whites of egg over all. Serve on cold plates.

The use of cottage cheese with salads gives them a heartiness which is particularly necessary in the cooler weather. Here is a well-seasoned salad, pretty and colorful:

Apple, Carrot, Cottage Cheese Salad
(Serves 6)
3 apples, coarsely diced
2 cups shredded raw carrot
1 tablespoon onion, finely minced
1 cup cottage cheese
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Dice unpeeled apples and combine with grated carrot and onion. Add the cottage cheese tinged with mayonnaise, lemon juice, salt and pepper. Mix well. Serve on lettuce.

Molded Cranberry Salad
(Serves 8 to 10)
1/2 pound cranberries
1 medium-sized apple, unpeeled
1 orange and rind
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 package orange-flavored gelatin
1 cup hot water
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup chopped celery

Pick over cranberries, wash and drain well. Grind cranberries, apple and orange (including rind), saving any liquid which remains. Stir in sugar. Cover and set aside while gelatin is dissolved in hot water. Add cold water and allow to become partly jellied, then, add cranberry mixture and jelly. This may be poured either into a loaf pan or individual molds rinsed with cold water. Allow to jell, then unmold on lettuce.

Sandwich Fillings
Don't forget that raw vegetables with all their good vitamins and minerals are wonderful as sandwich fillings. Grind raw spinach leaves with crisp bacon, hard-cooked egg, onion, moistened with mayonnaise. Or, combine equal parts of raw carrot and turnip and mix with chopped chives, peanuts and mayonnaise. This is good on French bread.

BIBLE TEACHINGS ON ABSTINENCE (International Temperance Sunday)

LESSON TEXT—Leviticus 10:1, 2, 8-11; Proverbs 31:4, 5; Luke 1:13-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Beware, I pray thee, and drink no wine nor strong drink.—Judges 13:4.

Total abstinence from all alcoholic liquors is the only sensible and effective policy for Christian people. Some, who want to use alcohol themselves, like to stress the Bible's teaching of temperance. They point to the use of wine on the part of people in biblical times, although they fail to note that more often than not it was non-alcoholic. (See "The Bible and Wine," published by Loizeaux Brothers.)

Another thing they ignore is that we live in a different day with a mechanized society, when alcoholic beverages are offered through high pressure advertising and in highly distilled and potent form.

What we are most interested in is what the Bible teaches about the matter. We note that—

Abstinence is Necessary I. For Spiritual Obedience (Lev. 10:1-2, 8-11).

In the religious life of a nation one expects the leaders to set the example for the people to follow. Two things we may rightly demand of those who serve the nation in its religious life: (1) a vision of God and obedience to that vision in life and service, and (2) the exercise of sound, God-guided judgment in the affairs of the people.

But note what happens when the prophet and the priest turn to wine and strong drink. They err in vision (Isa. 28:7). That is, they have no clear concepts of divine truth, and lead the people into error. Further, we see that "they stumble in judgment."

To every true servant of God comes repeatedly the opportunity and the need of rendering judgment, that is, of advising and counseling those to whom he ministers. If his mind is befuddled by the use of alcohol (or, for that matter, by any other kind of worldly indulgence) he will "stumble," and cause his people to stumble.

A sad incident is related in Leviticus 10:1, 2, of the sons of Aaron. We are not told directly that they were intoxicated, but it is implied in the fact that there is an immediate injunction against the use of wine by the priests (Lev. 10:8-11).

II. For National Order (Prov. 31: 4, 5).

It is a notorious fact that the liquor interests strongly influence the political life of a nation. (See "The Wrecking of the 18th Amendment," by Ernest Gordon.)

While political leaders may make sanctimonious protestation that government agencies are not influenced by the liquor interests, it is common knowledge even to those who are slightly informed that the two are closely associated.

The result of that unholy alliance is rightly described in Proverbs 31:5—"They . . . forget the law, and pervert the judgment of any of the afflicted." Much of the sad disorder in the body politic is traceable directly to the door of the makers and sellers of alcoholic beverages.

It is a depressing and disturbing thing when the leaders of a nation are known to lean on alcoholic stimulants—the broken reed on which man can only be pierced. The destructive influence of their example can be imagined.

III. For Personal Usefulness (Luke 11:13-16).

John was to be born into a life of such blessed usefulness to God and man that he was to be a "joy and gladness" to his parents, "great in the sight of the Lord," and instrumental in turning "many of the children of Israel . . . to the Lord."

Such a life is worthy of emulation on the part of every young man and woman. What is the secret of it? Undoubtedly, fine Christian parentage had much to do with it.

Other elements also entered in, such as rearing and training, but of great importance was the fact (v. 15) that he was not to be driven by the false stimulants of this world, but by the infilling of the Holy Spirit of God. No "wine nor strong drink," but being "filled with the Holy Ghost"—there, young people, is the secret of a happy and useful life.

Note that John was to be "great in the sight of the Lord" (v. 15)—nothing finer or more distinctive could be said about a man. That greatness simply could not exist along with indulgence in "wine nor strong drink." Being filled with the Spirit precludes the use of intoxicants.

Let us bear that in mind when we are tempted to be led astray by the smooth arguments of those who talk "temperance" as a ground for indulgence. Our boys and girls—yes, our men and women—need a constant warning against the evils of alcoholic liquor. (See Alcohol, a Deceiver, Depraver and Destroyer, published by Moody Press, Chicago.)

IF YOUR DEALER IS OCCASIONALLY OUT OF CAMELS

—it's because hundreds of millions of Camel cigarettes are now being sent to men in the service. In addition to the government's own purchases for our fighting men, veterans' organizations, fraternal orders, clubs, friends and relatives everywhere are sending them Camels. Yes, Camels! After all, Camels are the favorite cigarette with men in all the services—Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard.*

First in the Service
—AND THE SERVICE COMES FIRST!

WHILE we have pushed Camel's production to new peaks to meet this overwhelming demand from Uncle Sam's fighting men and from the folks at home, yet if your dealer does not always have Camels for you, he asks you to be patient while he is temporarily out of them, believing you will agree that the men in the service should come first.

*Based on actual sales records, the favorite cigarette with men in the Army, the Navy, the Coast Guard, and the Marines is Camel.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Formal Declaration of War by Italians Adds Impetus to Allied Drive on Rome; Heaviest Air Raids Blast Nazi Plants; Action Increases in Southwest Pacific

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspapers. Unless news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

FORTRESS EUROPE: Hit From All Sides

Even as Allied forces crossed the swollen Volturno river under the cover of heavy artillery fire in southern Italy, hundreds of Flying Fortresses escorted by speedy Thunderbolt fighters delivered a hard blow at the Nazis' huge roller-bearing plant in Schweinfurt, Germany.

In crossing the Volturno, Allied forces chose to span the narrow river at its eastern point, where they began working northward toward the mountains overlooking the communication lines used by the Nazis to supply their embattled legions.

While the Germans held to the west flank of the river, they were brought under increasing pressure of Allied fire from land and sea. Hovering offshore, U. S. and British warships pumped big shells into German positions inland.

In blasting Schweinfurt's roller-bearing plant, a record number of 60 Flying Fortresses were reported missing. More than 100 of fighter planes upon which the Nazis are depending to check Allied air raids, were brought down by the raiders.

Italy Now on Own

Allied consideration toward Italy will be greatly influenced by the degree of assistance she lends British and U. S. armies in the war against Germany.

When Badoglio declared war on the Nazis, the Allies accepted his Italian government as a partner on the strength of its ability to help beat back the Germans and thus spare U. S. and British lives.

It was made clear, however, that Badoglio's regime, as it now is, would not be accepted as a political partner; and the Allies would only give Italy political recognition upon the formation of a liberal democratic government.

Because of Italy's weakened industrial and agricultural position, it was presumed that some sort of assistance, possibly through land lease, would have to be given her to equip and maintain her for fighting.

SUBSIDIES: To Dairy Farmers

To offset the increased cost of feed, the government will pay subsidies ranging from 39 to 50 cents per hundredweight on whole milk sales, and from 4 to 6 cents a pound on butterfat.

Based on increased feed costs, the different rates were fixed to assist farmers who have to purchase more feed than formerly, with maximum payments going to farmers in drought counties where feed crops suffered damage.

Subsidies will be paid after farmers submit such satisfactory evidence as creamery statements as to the amount of milk or butterfat sold to their AAA county committee. In all, 3 1/2 million dairy farmers are expected to qualify under the $2 billion-dollar program.

The whole subsidy question appeared to be headed for a thorough going over again, with the house banking and currency committee advising congress to allow subsidy payments to producers only, and not to reduce retail food costs.

RUSSIA: Battle Rages

The great battle for the Dnieper river raged.

With Russian forces across the river at several points, German troops fought desperately to prevent their organization for full scale encircling attacks, which would trap the Nazi armies from the rear.

Far to the south of the 750-mile front, the Reds assaulted Nazi positions protecting their forces in the Crimea. Since the Germans held shortened defense lines in this sector, any Russian breakthrough would compel them to fall back to the Dnieper river and thus extend their battle front, or else trap at least 100,000 Nazis.

Standing behind prepared positions, the Germans bitterly resisted the Reds' repeated attacks on their northern lines guarding the Baltic states and old Poland.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC: Strike Jap Air Posts

Now that Allied ground forces have driven the Japs from most of their Southwest Pacific outposts, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's command is concentrating on the elimination of all enemy air bases which might be used to harass further drives to the north toward the Philippines.

For this task, imaginative General MacArthur is using large air fleets: Hundreds of Liberator and Mitchell bombers poured 350 tons of bombs on Rabaul, leaving that important Japanese supply depot for their entire Southwest Pacific front, smoking in ruins.

After Rabaul, General MacArthur's bombers trained their sights on remaining Jap air bases in the Solomons, and with U. S. fighters, attacked the main airdromes from which the enemy has been raiding Allied posts to the south.

Southwest China Periled

Trying to seal off the back door of China, three strong Japanese columns drove toward Yunnan province's capital of Kunming.

The Japs attacked along the Burma road, which leads into China at the point of the enemy's new attack. Chinese forces bitterly resisted the Japs' drive, with the aid of the 14th U. S. air force, which pounded the invaders' gas and oil dumps and military installations.

With the Japs dominating much of the eastern coast of China, key to the entrance of the country lies in the southwestern section, known as Yunnan province. This section assumes important significance with talk of Allied plans of driving into China from Burma.

LABOR: Lewis Back in AFL

John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers were welcomed back into the American Federation of Labor at its 63rd annual convention in Boston, with formal re-entrance delayed until settlement of disputes between certain AFL unions and the UMW's District 50, which organized in their fields.

Once ridiculed by Lewis as an "Old Lady," AFL President William Green swallowed his pride and, pleading for unity in labor, led the fight for the UMW's re-admission against opposition from the floor of the convention, mustered by the Progressive Miners Union, which stayed in the AFL when the UMW boycotted it in 1935.

Re-entrance of Lewis' 700,000 miners into the AFL will boost the organization's total membership well over the seven-million mark.

CONFEDERATE GENERAL'S Widow Aids Uncle Sam

Widow of the famous Confederate general of the Civil War, Mrs. Helen Dorthea Longstreet is learning riveting in Georgia so that she might take her place in a production line to help Uncle Sam win World War II.

Refusing to disclose her age, gray-haired Mrs. Longstreet resides in a trailer camp outside of Marietta, Ga., and reports for instruction each morning in slacks.

Since the general's death in 1904, Mrs. Longstreet has worked as a newspaper reporter, postmistress in Gainesville, Ga., and an employee in the veterans bureau in Washington, D. C.

INDIA: Famine Relief

To relieve famine conditions which reached their worst peak in Bengal province, the central government of India placed a ban on the export of all grain from the stricken country.

At the same time, officials said every effort was being made to obtain more shipping for importation of food. However, it was said that India's famine was of such proportion that imports alone could not entirely appease the hunger.

RECOVERY: Would Use Old Models

In order to speed reconversion to civilian goods after the war, War Production board officials have suggested manufacture of 1942 models with tools already available.

If plans were made for the production of new models, in the automobile industry for instance, WPB officials said at least 18 months might be required for retooling.

WPB could enforce manufacture of 1942 models, it was said, if it retained its control over the allotment of materials. Such control would be lifted when industries would be on the way toward development of new models during the ordinary course of production.

SALARIES: U. S.'s Highest

Highest salaried official in the U. S. in 1941 was Hollywood executive Louis B. Mayer, who drew $349,705 from Loew's, Inc. Second highest was C. G. Swebilius, who received $331,800 from the management and engineering firm of the Dixwell corporation.

Movie stars were high on the list of the top-salaried. Claudette Colbert drew $300,000 from Twentieth Century Fox; Ginger Rogers received $355,000 from RKO and Twentieth Century, and Charles Boyer was paid $350,000 from Paramount, Universal and Warner.

On the basis of tax rates applying to 1941 rates, $254,554 would be paid on a million dollar salary; $307,034 on $500,000, and $103,174 on $200,000.

POSTWAR: Peace Plans

To prevent future aggression and to preserve the peace of the world, a senate subcommittee proposed that the United States act through constitutional processes to join with free and sovereign nations in the establishment and maintenance of international authority.

The subcommittee's proposal was considered as a likely compromise between advocates of broad participation in international plans for preserving world peace, and advocates of limited participation, who have insisted on U. S. freedom to decide her action on any particular measure for maintaining order.

The subcommittee's proposal was little different from the Fulbright resolution adopted by the house, calling for the creation of appropriate international machinery with power adequate to establish and maintain a just and lasting peace and as favoring participation of the U. S. therein through its constitutional processes.

LIVING COSTS: Up 6%

It costs about 6 per cent more to live this year than last, according to a survey released by the department of commerce. In the first six months of the year living expenses rose about 7 per cent above 1942, but in July a decline was recorded for the first time since the war began.

By August the level dropped to slightly less than 6 per cent over last year. A slight rise during the autumn and winter months will not affect the overall picture.

Allies Ponder Possibilities Of Russ-Nazi Peace Treaty

Soviet Offensive May Mean Sudden End of War With Germany; Stalin Holds High Cards In Diplomatic Game.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Washington watches the swift march of events across the Russian plains. The renewed offensive, more than half a month before even the Russian people dreamed it was possible, has quickened all nerves.

For the Russians, it means the possibility of a sudden peace. And while Moscow dreams of the end of the war just around the first snow-covered mound on the battlefield, the Allies are considering the possibility of what it means to them.

For there is always that haunting memory of a remark of Stalin's in the back of their minds—the remark that the destruction of the Reichswehr was not a condition of German surrender as far as the Kremlin is concerned. In addition there is the realization of the presence of those German divisions still intact beyond the Alps, not to mention the others still nearer.

Not (we are assured) that Stalin will make a separate peace with Germany but if a peace treaty is written on the stalwart backs of a victorious Russian army, what terms can the Allies insist upon that Stalin need feel called upon to approve unless his own many possible desiderata are agreed to by Britain and the United States?

It does not make the task any easier for the gentlemen in London and Washington now carefully selecting what the well-dressed diplomat should wear in Moscow. One thing is very certain, no old fashioned regalia will be in style. There will be no opportunity for the polite game where one can risk a little bluff with fair assurance of drawing a wild joker to four of a kind, or color if Russia holds all the cards.

What Russia Wants

The optimists say that Russia wants nothing that an honest world cannot afford to offer, and is willing to give in return all that an honest world need ask for. The pessimists say that even if Britain and America can be converted to full faith in such an attitude and intent on Russia's part, how are you going to convert communist Russia to an equal faith in the attitude and intentions of the capitalistic nations?

Unfortunately, Britain and the United States have a somewhat painful diplomatic record in dealing with Germany when Adolf Hitler held his aces—the strongest air force in the world and a sizable army. We all bowed down at Munich and, indeed, (though it has been forgotten) there was some rivalry for the credit in achieving a peace in our time that was no peace. However, with the help of Russia, the Allies were able to take Hitler's aces in the end.

And so in certain discreet circles it has been suggested that the Allied weakness in the diplomatic field as far as things to trade with Russia are concerned, might become a strength if the Allied joint general staff became the negotiators. These gentlemen might be able to offer what Russia wants most (which is what we all want)—security. And these gentlemen might likewise make demands which Russia would desire to consider, namely, co-operation with compromise, refusal of which could lead to nothing better than what Hitler got in the end.

And Hitler's own words, spoken when he addressed a meeting of his party chiefs and generals recently, are worthy of note. The Fuehrer suggested for Germany what Britain and the United States might well contribute to negotiations with Russia in addition to their diplomats and their armies and navies.

The Fuehrer Says

"The (Nazi) party's struggle for power," said Hitler, "set an example for today's struggle of destiny of the German people . . . arms alone mean nothing if not backed by the will of men."

The Germans made a fatal mistake twice in one generation. They failed to count on the will of the American people. If that will is made clear today, if America's intention is written clearly that all may see, the intention which we profess—a decent peace, justice and security for all—and if that will and intent is backed by the force we have, nothing can resist it. That is really the thing which can win the peace, as it has made the winning of the war possible, whatever credit may justly go to others who have battled our common enemy.

Visitors to U. S.

The war has brought a great many Englishmen to the United States who otherwise might never have known any more of America than they learned from the movies. Many are highly trained specialists, others are broadly educated, like those in newspaper and radio work. I have met a number, especially of the latter group. And I am struck by one thing which they comment upon—the widespread education in America.

That is one thing which will make up one of England's No. 1 postwar reforms—a real public school system. We, in America, underestimate our own schools on the one hand and overestimate our literacy on the other.

At first, the army demanded that a man be able to read and write or he was deferred. This lost nearly a million men to the armed forces—four states have 36 per cent or more adult illiteracy.

According to latest information, 85,000 illiterates have already been reclaimed for army service which means that they have been taught to read and write and do simple arithmetic. It is said that there are facilities for giving the same basic instruction to 750,000 more.

But that is by no means the extent of army education. A statement from the Office of War Information the other day said, speaking of the serviceman: "Unless he comes from a well-to-do family, his educational opportunities are in fact rather better in than out of the services."

That is probably something that few parents thought of when they waved good-bye at the station. They did not realize that the army and navy are operating the largest adult school in the world. One out of every ten adults in the country, 11 out of every 14 able-bodied men between 18 and 38 will probably be students in that school system by the end of this year. A million boys will be in the preinduction courses, the system's prep schools. Nine out of ten of these men will receive advanced training as specialists.

The Future

Much of the education received will be carried over as useful in civilian life, for one out of three of every army and navy job is identical with a civilian job and over two-thirds of the men in the service develop skills that can be used in civilian jobs.

These figures alone, I believe, show that when "D Day" comes, the millions discharged will not be a careless, riotous lot, good for nothing but to fight. As a matter of fact, the vast majority will have, if they have anything like the feeling I and most of my comrades in the last war had, an overweening desire to settle down to a job and the building of a home, "no more to roam." Some, of course, who had the itching feet will have developed chronic cares, but it is doubtful if those rolling stones would have gathered much moss anyhow.

For the majority of the men who make up our armed forces who want and expect to fill civilian jobs, the careful classification of skills which is a vital part of the army and navy system is going to work in reverse in getting them jobs afterward. In preparation for this, experts are already assembling accurate descriptions of jobs which men learn to do in the service, keeping a cumulative record of the work they do, preparing additional tests which will give a clear picture of their achievements and talents to the prospective employer. They are also preparing to tell the serviceman what job he is best fitted for and offering help which will better prepare him for it.

I doubt if ever before in history the military has taken on such a responsibility for fitting the boy back into his natural groove when the fighting is over. This is a total war, everybody is in it, and those who have been forced to take over the abnormal duties of fighting are not going to be set adrift.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

BASEBALL: It is reasonably certain that major league baseball will continue to be played in the 1944 season, club presidents agree. There are between 30 and 40 players in the two leagues who have been rejected by the armed forces on physical grounds, and several others are over 35. With this nucleus, it is expected that satisfactory teams can be organized.

CHECKS: A million checks every working day, or 300 million a year, will soon be the rate of issue of the federal government, according to W. A. Julian, treasurer of the government. He explained that payments to families of service men account for the huge number of small checks. Expenditures are now running around seven and a half billion dollars a month, he said.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Motorists should endorse their gasoline ration coupons immediately and not wait until they buy gas. In a recent broadcast, Tokyo radio announced that "the military administration over the Philippines has been terminated." The broadcast quoted an announcement from Lt. Gen. Shigenori Kuroda, Japanese army commander of the islands. Certificates will be awarded to all soldiers who successfully complete prescribed work in the Army Specialized Training program at colleges and universities, according to the war department. It is anticipated that college credits will be granted if the trainee returns to college after termination of the military service.

See Here, Private Hargrove!

by Marion Hargrove

THE STORY SO FAR: Private Marion Hargrove, former newspaper feature editor has been inducted into the army and has spent some time in training at Fort Bragg. In his advice to prospective selectees, Private Hargrove had advocated a pre-induction period of "painting the town red." Once in the army he thinks "an open mind" is the best policy for the "first three weeks are the hardest." Some of the more fundamental phases of army life have gone over Private Hargrove's head and his conduct has landed him often on KP duty. He has been classified as a cook. Between his KP duty and his regular cook assignment he has spent considerable time in the kitchen.

CHAPTER VII

One of the nicest things about working in the kitchen in Battery C of the 13th Battalion has been the knowledge that its number-one chow hound, Buster Charnley, would drop around after supper and the conversational fat. It's like a letter from home to listen to Buster's slow and mournful drawl, and his refreshingly dry humor is a pick-me-up at the end of a long, hot afternoon.

Buster came prancing up the chow line, the other evening with a grin that started at the back of his head and enveloped his face from the nose down.

"What's eating you, Walter?" I asked him, "besides that egg-sucking grin?"

"Leaving here, boy!" he sang. "You won't see me around for three months. And when you see me, son, you'll see stripes on my sleeves and a look of prosperity on my clean-cut Tarheel face!"

The man behind him wanted to get to the mashed potatoes, so Buster had to move on down the line. I got the whole story from one of the kapeeps while I waited for him to make his evening call.

Of the 200-odd men in Battery C, two men had been selected for three months' training at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. At the end of their three months, they will come back as gunnery instructors, with a non-commissioned officer's rating and a specialist's extra pay on top of that. Mrs. Walter Charnley's little boy Buster was one of the two men selected.

One of the sergeants near here came back from a recent leave with one of the most glorious shiners that ever darkened the human eye.

"Run into a door?" I asked him. "Give a guy the wrong answer," he replied simply, "or rather, the answer he didn't want."

I looked at his face; his teeth were all there and his jaw was still in one piece. I looked at his hands; the knuckles showed the marks of service.

"I was at a party," he went on, "when this fellow who lives next door to my folks wants to know 'how's the morale in the Army?'"

"Leaving here, boy," he sang; "You won't see me around for three months. Then I'll be wearing stripes on my sleeves."

"Excellent," I tell him; "excellent!" He looks me up and down sort of pitying-like and wants to know don't I read the magazine stories about how poor it is. Well, I tell him, "I spend all my time with the boys and I believe what I see more than what I read."

"He goes on from there making cracks at the Army and the country and the suckers we are for giving our time for what's not worth fighting for in the first place. I listen politely for a while, because even though I'm not in uniform I don't want to look rowdy. I stand as much as I can and then I ask him to his feet. It isn't long before his three brothers join the fight. It was one of the brothers put his finger ring in my eye."

"Brother," I told him, "that ain't a black eye. That's a badge."

"I lost the fight," he said.

"You won the argument, though," I told him.

"I'd like to use the sergeant's name, but he made me promise not to."

"I told the Old Man," he said, "that I got the shiner playing baseball."

"How can I fit you into a coat," moaned Supply Sergeant Israel, "with you fidgeting around like a pack horse at the post? Stand still, fella, you, stand still!"

"Heavens to Betsy, Thomas," I complained, "you're getting to be the fustiest old maid in the outfit. I'm not squirming!"

"In the first place, my man," he said, "don't call me Thomas or try to get overly familiar with your olders and betters. In the second place, don't argue with me. In the third place, don't fidget in the first place. And in the fourth place, don't agitate me unnecessarily. I'm at the end of my patience with you and I ain't feeling in no holiday spirit anyway."

I buttoned the handsome winter blouse and he stepped back to inspect it with the eye of an artist. "Every time my wife gets mad at me, she has her picture taken to send to me. The picture I got today showed she's going to eat my heart out unmercifully when I can't put off my furlough any longer and I have to go home. And with domestic difficulties on my hands, I have to fit my winter uniforms."

He yanked at my coattail, straightened the collar and scratched his head. "Hargrove—37—long," he yelled to the boy at the desk.

"Man that is born of woman," I comforted him, "is of many days and full of trouble."

"Git off the platform and into this overcoat," he sighed. He held the coat while I got into it and he slapped my hand for fidgeting again. "Sometimes I wonder why I go to so much trouble keeping you boys dressed right. Here I spend the whole afternoon wiping sweat out of my eyebrows, just to see that your clothes fit you and you won't look like a bunch of bums—which you are."

"Do you know what some ungrateful kitchen termite said the other day? He started putting it around that the Army could double itself in half an hour by filling up the extra space in its trousers. Do your trousers fit you bum?" He straightened the pleats in the back of the overcoat and gave the tail an unnecessarily vicious yank.

"Did I say they didn't?" I groaned, raising my arms despairingly. "Just because somebody else says you stretch the coat in the back so the man will think it fits right in the front, you have to go picking on me!"

"Me pick on you?" he screamed. "It's a wonder my nerves ain't completely shot! Do I come around and put signs on the door saying, 'Walk Up One Flight and Save Five Dollars'? Do I throw gunny sacks on your bed and ask you to take up the cuffs two inches?"

"With my thankless job, it's a wonder I haven't collapsed before this. I wish I was a permanent kitchen police instead of a supply sergeant." Hargrove—37 long!

"This battery is my baby," Corporal Henry Ussery said, loosening his belt for a real bull session. I've watched it grow from thirty-one men to what it is now. It was hard work building up this battery to what it is now, but it's worth it when you look around and see what you've done."

The assembly sighed en masse and decided to loosen its belts. Ussery was wound up again.

"When I got here, there wasn't anybody here but the instructors. We spent four weeks eating dust and running rabbits. There I was—I'd spent thutteen months learning the old drill and tactics to where I reckon I had it down better than any man in the whole Army. Then they started this 'minute Army,' with a bunch of green ignorant Yankees—and I had to teach them what they had to know!"

The bull session nodded wisely and Corporal Ussery went on. "Now, this young Corporal Joe Gantt, for instance. Now, this Corporal Gantt, when he first came in, was one of the greenest rookies in the bunch. But he snapped out of it and made corporal in four months."

"Was that soldiering," a voice broke in, "or handshaking—as the Latins used to say, mittus floppus?"

"Much as I can't stand Gantt, I'll have to admit it was soldiering. That's the way it is. You sweat your head off hammering the drills and the callisthenics and the military courtesy and guard duty and the physical hygiene and the manual of arms into them. They're all clumsy and awkward as a bear in an egg crate at first, but then you can see them, after a while, snapping into it and getting better and better. By the time we've had them thutteen weeks, and they're ready to be assigned to their posts, they're as keen and alert as a bunch of West Point cadets. They're extra good cooks and better soldiers."

"Isn't a good soldier a specialist at griping and growling?" somebody asked him.

"Griping is an art, just like gold-bricking is an art. Before you leave here, you learn that you don't enjoy griping a bit when you spread your energy all over everywhere, griping about everything. You learn to choose one thing and specialize in griping about that."

"If you want to be a specialist at griping, you have to get on your toes. You get to where your clothes are comfortable. Where you used to think the food was terrible, now you pretend that you don't get enough of it. You like the beds and by nine o'clock you're sleepy. So you have to find something special to gripe about. If you haven't got any originality at all, pick you out one special soncom and gripe about him."

"Now, you take Private Hargrove, for instance. First came here, he griped about me telling him he was carrying his rifle wrong. Now he gripes when I tell him he's carrying it right. He might have something there. He still carries it like it was a 75-millimeter gun. He's getting so shiftless, even at griping, that he can't find anything to beef about except not getting any mail. I'm going to write all his creditors, so he won't even be able to gripe about the mail."

Somewhere on the wild coast of South Carolina, the battalion in which I cook is being treated to a weekend to combine business with pleasure. We can romp in the Atlantic while we get a "taste of the field." With the wind blowing the sand into kitchens and pup tents alike, it will be nice to get back to

At night we sleep, or simulate sleep, in pup tents made by our own hands with loving care.

Fort Bragg for a taste of the food we eat. A vexed soldier here doesn't grate his teeth. He crunches them.

We made the trip here in lorries, which are the mechanical age's nearest approach in appearance to covered wagons. You've probably seen them rolling noisily but smoothly through town—large canvas-topped trucks with a folding bench down each side inside. You'd expect to be hauled out of one of them, beaten to death, at the end of a 130-mile trip. They give a tolerably bumpy ride, just tolerably.

When we started pitching camp, about a quarter of a mile back from the beach, we found the place already inhabited by cannibals. These creatures, which masquerade as harmless flies and even camouflage by the harmless sounding name of sand flies, must have vampire blood back in the line somewhere.

I don't bear any grudge against the easygoing, good-natured house fly—in fact, I feel rather cruel when I squish one for tickling me—but it arouses my pioneer fighting spirit to see a stunted horsefly light on my bare leg, make himself sassily comfortable and start draining off my life's blood. But what can you do? Slapping one only serves to make him mad at you.

At night we sleep, or at least we simulate sleep, in pup tents made by our own hands with loving care, blood, sweat, tears, two pieces of waterproof cloth, two lengths of rope, and a handful of turned lumber.

I share my little duplex with Private Warren, the new student cook who told me the story about the man at the boarding house. When I stumbled home last night, primed to the gills with a blend of sand and salt water, I discovered that we had an overnight guest! The chief cook on our shift, in the task of packing the field kitchen, had neglected to put his own field pack (tent, half, blankets, etc.) on the truck, so he decided to drop over and have us put him up for the night.

A pup tent, as you probably don't need to be told, will accommodate two men, provided neither of them walks in his sleep. If three men are to sleep in one tent, at least two of them must be midgets or babes in arms. Cooks should never sleep two to a tent, because of their tendency toward plumpness.

We arranged ourselves in the tent by wrapping knees around the tent poles, putting all feet outside for the night and raising one side of the tent high enough to make a rustic sleeping porch of the whole affair.

The guest proved to be one of those loathsome creatures who pull all the covers to their side of the bed. We had quite a lot of trouble with him, since he slept in the middle and rolled up in both our blankets. We remedied this by waiting until he started snoring, then recovered our blankets, rolling ourselves in them and throwing a raincoat over him.

The three-man arrangement was very uncomfortable for a while. When I finished opening my eyes by scooping the sand from them, I found that I had rolled through the opened side of the tent and spent the night under a myrtle bush ten yards down the slope.

During my first off hour, I succeeded in getting a tan which must have darkened the very marrow of my bones. My chest, back, and legs looked the color of a faded danger flag and smelled like the roast pork that the cook forgot to watch. After that, the sun and the sun went their ways and I went mine. ## MR. TWITCHELL VIEWS WITH ALARM

Paul R. Burkholder, associate professor of botany at Yale, predicts that we will be eating "vegetable steaks" and drinking "soybean milkshakes" in the near future. The professor says this will come about with the conquering of "ignorance concerning nutrition values, the elements of an adequate diet, and vitamin B content."

Elmer Twitchell threw down his paper and made a wry face. "Somebody's always lowering my morale," he sighed. "The very thought of a vegetable steak is terrible. It'll be pretty awful if all we get out of this World War is a tenderloin of artichoke!"

As for milkshakes, Elmer admitted the ones he has been getting lately tasted pretty funny and the drug-store clerk might be using soybeans in them right now.

"I want a federal commission for the Control of the Soybean," he declared with feeling. "They're letting it run wild. And I'm for less talk about vitamins and less scientific exploration into what's in vegetables today that nobody suspected was there yesterday."

"Oh, for the days when a man sat down at the table and simply ate what was put before him without any thought of vitamins, proteins and all that! The good old times when all he had to decide was if the vittles tasted good!"

"I used to enjoy my meals. I was a good feeder up to about ten years ago. I thought a soybean was a Chinese bran. Proteins were never mentioned in my set. For all I knew of them vitamins were something in geometry. Then I began to hear a lot of talk about nutrition values with warnings about what certain things in a square meal could do to me. I began to get nervous about eating at all."

"But I managed to get along pretty well for a while although eating ceased to be the fun it had been all my life. Then came the glorification of the various vitamins, with every radio program yelling about 'em. The vitamin ballyhoo went so far that about four years ago I found I couldn't look a dinner plate in the face without misgivings."

"If the hostess said 'Won't you have some more lamb stew, Mr. Twitchell?' I couldn't say 'Yes thanks,' like I used to. I had to stop and think it over, wondering if Yale had gone into the matter of lamb stews and turned in a verdict."

"It was the same way with everything. I grew cautious about liver and onions, furtive with regard to a New England boiled dinner and very apprehensive about that old standby, ham and eggs."

Elmer was weeping. "It's just too bad," he sobbed, "why can't they do something about Yale professors, chemists in general and the soybean and vitamins A, B and C in particular?"

New York's policemen have just been equipped with a cowhide bag holding a .39 caliber pistol, a medium red lipstick and a powder puff. We expect any day now to hear some desperado shriek, "She pulled a lipstick on me!"

"Use your gun as you do your lipstick," cautioned Mayor LaGuardia to the policemen. At first we thought this highly dangerous advice. We thought it might do a lot of damage to a lady's lips. But it seems the Mayor added the clause, "use it only when you need it; don't overdo either."

This may be hard for a policeman to follow. What the Mayor probably meant was, "Don't blaze away with your lipstick the minute you get in a tough spot; try pacifying the offender with a little rouge and a kick in the shins first."

It is reported that throughout Germany the people are soft pedaling the "Hell Hitler" to such a point that the Nazis are rebuking them and demanding more oomph in it. Possibly the Germans are feeling a terrific urge to scrap the greetings and substitute "In Der Fuehrer's Face."

Ima Dodo's boy-friend Stupe McGonigle says he can't get into the war because they're only going to take fathers.

The Nazis have 30 different ways of expressing it when they have taken a big licking. And they will soon be able to use them all at one time.

REMOVING STUMPS

Question: What is the best way to dispose of tree stumps and roots permanently?

Answer: Bore as many and as deep holes as you can in the stump—straight down—two-inch holes the full length of an auger will suffice. At a time when the wood is dry, fill and refill the holes with kerosene until the wood is impregnated. Then set fire to it, being extremely careful when doing so. If the stump is near the house or valuable plantings, this method is too dangerous to use. Another method is to saw the stump down below the level of the ground, and after boring the holes fill them with a strong, undiluted commercial "weed killer," which is a preparation you can get at a garden supply store. This will work down into the roots and consume them, as well as the stump. Do not allow this weed killer to get on the grass, for it will kill all vegetation that it touches. It would be well to keep your pets away from it. Another method, but very much slower, is to saw the stump as I have mentioned, and then cover it with earth and keep it so covered. In time the earth will rot the stump. Still another method is to use a mechanical stump puller. There may be a man in your neighborhood who can do the job for you. Of course, the puller will leave a large hole in the ground.

Cleaning Plaster Walls

Question: You have said that tinted plaster walls can be cleaned by brushing and with a vacuum, rather than by washing. Does this apply to kitchen walls that are quite greasy and blackened? Is casein paint satisfactory for a kitchen? How should the wall be prepared?

Answer: Because of the film of grease on kitchen walls, they should be washed in preparation for painting. Use washing soda or other grease cutter in the water, and allow to dry thoroughly. The walls should be sized before painting. Casein paint is too absorbent to be satisfactory in a kitchen. I recommend a good grade of enamel undercoater; the surface will be so hard and glossy that dirt and grease cannot sink in.

CRACKED WINDOW SILLS

Hard Water Crust

Question: A blue enameled roasting pan was used as an air moistener and kept filled with tap water. This was hard and the pan now has a heavy crust all over it. Scalding water breaks off chips of the crust. How can I get it all off?

Answer: A sudden change in temperature will take off the crust; for it is not attached very tightly. Fill the pan with boiling water and then, after emptying it, plunge it into cold water.

Decorating Chairs

Question: I would like to decorate chairs, tin and wooden ware, house ornaments, etc., according to the Pennsylvania Dutch method. What paints should be used for such work? Oil paints are too heavy, lacquer too thin.

Answer: Artists' oil paints generally are used for painting small ornaments. Your dealer in artists' supplies can advise about thinning the paints.

Stained Porcelain

Question: What can be done to remove stains from porcelain, apparently caused by the sweat of a glass containing grape juice?

Answer: Sweat or condensation have not caused the stain. Fruit acids cause permanent stains on porcelain that is not acid resisting, and there is no way of removing them.

THE "Sunflower" is one of the easiest of the quilt designs to make—the diamond-shaped pieces are easy to cut and a block works up quickly. Use brown-flecked percales, tiny patterned cream and yellow calicoes, grass-green and leaf-green cottons. Do the center in vivid yellow. Quilt has 12 pieced blocks, each 14 inches square—12 plain blocks.

To obtain cutting patterns for the Sunflower Quilt (Pattern No. 5161) complete piece and finishing directions, amounts of all materials specified, send 16 cents in coins, your name and address and the pattern number.

This Rookie Hadn't Heard Of Any Ruminant Admirals

A young candidate for the navy was being put through a general knowledge test by a board of admirals.

"What kind of animals eat grass?" one of them asked.

The candidate fidgeted and stared out of the window, but said nothing. The question was repeated but he still remained dumb.

"Surely," said one of the examiners, kindly, "you can answer a simple question like that? I will repeat it. What kind of animals eat grass?"

"Animals!" gasped the boy.

"Why, I thought you were saying 'admirals.'"

Water in Manufacturing

The importance of water in the manufacturing of some strategic materials may be illustrated by the fact that nearly ten gallons are required to produce one gallon of gasoline, 300 gallons to make one gallon of alcohol and 60 tons to manufacture one ton of ingot steel.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

In the 45 years between 1829 and 1934, the output of rubber produced by the Far East plantations jumped from half a ton to 98 per cent of the world's supply—1934 shipments were 1,000,000 tons. The first official record, that for 1829, shows that four tons of rubber were produced from 4000 acres under cultivation.

The greatest enemies to the long life of natural rubber are sunlight, heat, oils, greases and solvents. The ultra-violet rays of the sun penetrate the surface of rubber, causing it to oxidize; heat causes deterioration, and oils develop swelling and softening, making the rubber more susceptible to damage.

Where Help Counts Most

"Many families today are in trouble brought on or heightened by the absence of a father, a son, a husband. Many service-men need a link with home to know the heartwarming assurance that someone is interested, will do for his family what needs to be done in his absence.

The Army and Navy have asked the Red Cross to be that link, and to that end the Red Cross maintains a worldwide two-way system of communication between field directors on the war fronts and Home Service on the home front.

The organization which makes messages immediately effective is a triumph of planning, but the spirit which acts on those messages is a triumph of humanitarianism, channeled through Home Service to reach every serviceman's family."

Should any family of servicemen have need of assistance from the Red Cross, they are requested to contact the following individuals who represent the Red Cross in the several communities:

Mrs. Edith Crawford, Carrizozo; Mrs. W. E. Knott, Three Rivers; Mrs. W. R. Belden, Corona; Mrs. Wm. Hart, Ruidoso; Mrs. Kivas Tully, Pecos; Mrs. Sarah Fisher, Capitan; Mr. R. S. Fagan, Ft. Stanton.

Judge Frenger Renders Important Liquor Decision

(Alamogordo News)
In district court here Tuesday Judge Numa C. Frenger delivered an opinion and decision in a case which has considerable importance for the Southwest. He held that the part of the New Mexico State liquor law which makes it unlawful for "any citizen or resident of the State" to bring into the State more than one pint of liquor in a 30 day period, as unconstitutional, and in violation of both the State and Federal constitutions. Judge Frenger held that this law discriminated against New Mexico residents where non-residents could bring into the State any amount of liquor.

The decision was given in the case of the State versus Frank Martinez and Apollinar Paz charged with liquor law violation. These defendants were represented by Attorney George A. Shipley of Alamogordo.
