"Dear Ed" Pulls His Puss Out of The Picture

Coming events casting their shadows before, has never been more realized than in the case of Ed. Flynn's appointment to the important position as Ambassador to Australia. We have always been taught that "where there is much smoke, there must be some fire" and before the closing of the investigation, which was to end Tuesday or Wednesday, Mr. Flynn withdrew from the race in which he heard the muttering thunders in the distance, saying that he did so to promote unity and to save any redudiation and further criticism.

It will be remembered that on the stand during the early part of the investigation, Flynn stated in these words, quote "Do you think that the President, after the many years of friendship we have enjoyed together, he would have appointed me unless he knew my character to be above reproach?"

When Flynn was sheriff in New York, he appointed Dutch Shultz, noted gangster and killer to the position of first deputy and on the stand he stated that he did not know it was Shultz whom he appointed when the appointment was made and thought he was appointing another man, all of which statements together with the scandalous paving block episode, which Flynn got from the city to beautify his palace all of which was obtained through graft, the paving being done as "free stuff."

After the testimony was not more than half in, Flynn, seeing Senator after Senator coming after him with tomahawk, he escaped just in time to prevent the President being put into a worse plight by pulling his car out of the mess.

W. H. Butterbaugh, Field Supervisor of the Crop and Feed Loan Office has stated that farmers of Lincoln County may now apply for feed and seed loans with which to finance the production of their 1943 crops. Applications are being taken by Mrs. Mary DuBois of Corona and Kivas Tully of Picacho.

A deal was consummated early this week, whereby Millard Longeley, purchased the Burnett's Cafe. Mr. Longeley is an experienced cafe man and will give the same good service in the future that Mr. Burnett has in the past. He solicits the continued patronage of all old customers and invites the business of the public in general. Give the new proprietor a call.

Expecting a car of Dawson Grate Coal next week. As the supply is limited, better order well in advance.

Train Wreck

Wednesday morning about 8 o'clock, two freight trains collided a short distance north of Ancho, derailing several freight cars.

The wreck held up passenger trains Nos. 4 and 44 until about 11:30, when after the track was cleared, the passenger trains pulled through.

The delay caused the town to be flooded with soldiers and civilians. The local business houses were well patronized.

Civilian Defense

In order that we may be prepared in the future to cope with the rationing program to be in effect by March 1st, the Council of Civilian Defense has been called upon to institute the Block plan to enlighten the housewives on different phases of the rationing necessity and also in the future we will need this immediate means of contacting the homes. It is planned so as to not work a hardship on any one or certain few, but there are sufficient number of zone leaders appointed so one will canvass a certain number of homes.

The Carrizozo Council of Civilian Defense has appointed Mrs. Ben S. Burns Chief of the Block Leader Service, who in turn will make her appointments of Zone Chiefs to be assisted by Sector Chiefs, all working under the leadership of the Chief of the Block Leader Service.

The organization of this plan in carrying it out is a very important factor in helping to do each and everyone's part in the effort at home.

Local Civilian Defense Council.

Ernest Prehm

After leaving for the Philippine Islands it was last May since Ernest Prehm was heard from, only to say that he was missing. All through those 8 long months, his family waited for some word but none came until the first of this week, when the war department wired the family that he was a prisoner of the Japs in the Philippine Islands. He was one of the defenders of Bataan.

We are in receipt of a nice letter from Raymond (Friday) Sherrill, who is now in the Coast Guard and located at Carlsbad, California. In his letter, Friday says he is much pleased with the coast guard service, sends his best regards to old friends, whom he would be glad to hear from. His address is Raymond Sherrill, A. S. U. S. C. G. Sec H. Sta. 24 B, 888, Carlsbad, Calif.

We are also in receipt of a letter from our old printer, Pvt. Joe Chavez, who is now stationed at Lowry Field, Denver, Colo. Joe was our printer in this office for 18 years previous to his being called into the service. He has made good on the study of radio, graduating in that professional line at Madison, Wisconsin, before being transferred to Denver.

Theodore Hobbie is here from his exciting experience in the Philippine Islands in the capacity of airplane mechanic. He was wounded at Pearl Harbor and was transferred to the Alamo gordo Airport, where he will stay until called to other places of duty.

Wanted—Wood. Apply to L. A. Whitaker, Country Club.

Mrs. Grafton

Mrs. Grafton was born Aug 23, 1875. She came with her parents Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Berry to New Mexico in 1884 and lived at Parous and Angus until 1939 when she moved to Lincoln. She was married to T. J. Grafton in 1890. Mr. Grafton passed away in 1934. The surviving children are Mrs. Emma Baird of Fresno, California, Hugh Grafton and Ena Stewart of Lincoln and nine grand children, Grafton Wayne, Mary Minn Beverly and Dale Baird, Jimmy Amalon and R. G. Stewart. In Aug, 1898 she was converted and joined the Baptist Church and lived a devoted Christian life.

The funeral service was held at the Angus School House by Rev. Long of Capitan after which she was laid to rest in the Angus Cemetery. Mrs. Grafton was interested in any charitable christian work and always ready to lend a helping hand to anyone in need. She was well known in Lincoln County and was loved by all who knew her and will be greatly missed by her many friends. We all mourn her death but we feel by our loss of a friend, she has gained an everlasting hope on high, and by that we can live with much consolation, and all the community join in extending our heartfelt sympathy to the bereaved family.
A Friend.

A. J. Bivens of Oscura has purchased the old Blaney place near Oscura and moved in the first of the week. Mr. Bivens will improve the place and has already made arrangements to operate a chicken farm, besides raising fruit and vegetables, for all of which, he will find a ready market. He bought the place from Frank Woodside of Three Rivers.

Rationing of all canned fruits and vegetables will begin March 1. Grocery stores will stop selling on March 20, and will sell nothing until March first. This move is made so that stores can stock up and mark such merchandise, in order to be ready for the rush, which will take place March 1. During that delay, all civilians must register at school houses and be provided with rationing books, similar to that which took place in the sugar and coffee rationing nearly a year ago.

PERSONALS

Paul Otero and Solomon Sanchez were here on business Wednesday.

Mrs Elizabeth Titworth Long of Capitan was here on business this Monday.

Stockman Carl Ryberg of his ranch near Corona was here on business Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson of Capitan visited Mrs. Ferguson's mother Mrs. Anna Brazel and friends here Saturday.

Rev. John Klassen left yesterday for Sanderson, Texas, where he will take charge of the Methodist parsonate at that place.

Mrs Roy Richard has returned home Tuesday from Oklahoma City, where she made a short visit to her husband, Pvt. Roy Richard, who is stationed near that place.

Owing to the resignation of Rev. Klassen, Rev Morgan, District Supt. of Albuquerque will fill the pulpit at the Methodist Church next Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs Edgar Goins of Tucumcari, Ala., are here this week, visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Moore, Jr. Mrs. Goins is Mr. Moore's sister and Mr. Goins is employed by the Tenn. Valley Corporation at his home town.

Carl Vigil, Mrs. Vigil and daughter Rita left last Saturday for San Diego, Calif., wherethey are visiting their sons, one of whom is being called into the armed service. Frank, their oldest son, is an airplane mechanic.

Business Men's Club

Members of the Business Men's Club met at the S. P. Hotel at six-thirty P. M. February 3, '43. Twelve members present and no visitors. Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Pres Kelt asked for a report of the committee on Soldier Entertainment. Rev. Klassen reported that he had not received any reply to his letter to the Camp Commander so the committee was granted further time. Mayor M. U. Finley expressed the regrets of the club over the leaving of Rev. Klassen to his new post and best wishes were given him by the entire membership. G. T. McQuillen suggested that the Club follow its usual custom and entertain the County and Court officials in the near future. It is decided to defer action on this suggestion until the first meeting in March.

Nothing further coming before the Club the same is adjourned.
Felix Ramey, Sec.

Women's Society of Christian Service

Will meet at the home of Mrs. Herman Kelt next Wednesday, Feb. 10.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Farm Implement Quota Boosted by 30%; Hitler's Disasters Mount as Russians Speed Up Caucasus-Ukraine Offensive; Tripoli's Fall Spurs Tunisia Drive

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Closer relations between the United States and Chile and a harder crackdown on Nazi espionage in South America were results expected from the recent action of the Chilean government in breaking diplomatic relations with the Axis. Shown above are Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles (left) and Senor Don Rodolfo Michels, Chilean ambassador, discussing the situation.

FOOD PRODUCTION: Gets New Incentive

Two significant steps to spur the "Food for Victory" campaign were taken when the War Production board authorized a 30 per cent increase in production of farm machinery and Secretary of Agriculture Wickard announced a program of federal credit designed to extend from $200,000,000 to $250,000,000 to farmers for stepping up essential food production.

The WPB increased the steel allotment for farm machinery from 137,000 tons to 177,000 tons for the first quarter of 1943. This new tonnage was in addition to an increase previously authorized for the production of repair parts for farm implements.

Mr. Wickard said loans needed mostly by small and medium-sized farmers would be extended through the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation. Size of loans will be limited only by the amount needed to do the production job. The loans will be of short term duration at 5 per cent interest.

NORTH AFRICA: Death of Empire

Tripoli's fall had various meanings for various interpreters. To historians it wrote finale to Mussolini's grandiose dreams of empire, for it was here the Duce had begun his disastrous expansion policy. To military observers it meant that the Allies could now concentrate closer attention on cleaning up the last Axis strongholds in Tunisia.

It had been apparent to observers that Marshal Rommel's retreat through Tripolitania had had Tunisia and not Tripoli as its goal. Rear-guard efforts to protect the main body of his retreat had constituted the only action in and around Tripoli.

Allied airmen had not only strafed doomed Tripoli, but General Montgomery's British eighth army and General LeClerc's Fighting French had constantly harried the retreating Afrika Korps.

In Tunisia the Axis had made strenuous efforts to cover Rommel's withdrawal by launching offensive thrusts against French positions southwest of Pond-du-Fahs.

While junction of Rommel's army with those of Nazi Col. Gen. Von Arnim would strengthen Axis forces in Tunisia, the Allies would similarly be strengthened by the addition of British and Fighting French troops to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's legions.

PRICE RISE: Predicted by Brown

As additional rationing and price regulations were promulgated, the American public learned that Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown's direction of the OPA would be less dramatic but no less firm than that of his predecessor Leon Henderson. Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen were assured by the new administrator, however, that the OPA would be operated solely for the protection of the American people. Frankly acknowledging that price rises were inevitable, Mr. Brown promised that such rises would be "slow and well-ordered."

HARD COAL: Miners Bow to FDR

Dangers of a crippling hard coal shortage were averted and a face-saving maneuver for labor executed when 12,000 Pennsylvania miners returned to work after a three-week old unauthorized walkout following a curt ultimatum from President Roosevelt.

The President had served notice that unless the miners ceased their wildcat strike within 48 hours, he would take "necessary steps" to safeguard the war effort.

A tangled skein of labor politics had complicated the eastern hard coal situation. Efforts of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and the War Labor board to get the strikers back on the job had failed. Strike leaders said the miners had walked out in protest against a UMW dues increase of 50 cents a month. The strikers, however, had also demanded a $2-a-day wage increase.

AXIS TRUMP: Subs Still Potent

Hurled back on all world fronts by the ever-increasing ferocity of United Nations attacks, the Axis still controlled one ace offensive weapon—German submarines.

Hitler was said by British Admiral Sir Percy Noble to be maintaining 200 U-boats of his fleet of 500 at sea all the time in an effort to keep the tremendous output of Allied war factories from the battlefields. Unofficial British estimates placed Nazi submarine construction at 15 to 20 a month—faster than naval experts believe the Allies are sinking them.

Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, reported that German submarines had sunk more Allied shipping in January than in December.

A brighter side of the picture emerged, however, when the Lend-Lease administration announced that the United States and Britain had sent Russia 5,000 tanks and 4,000 airplanes up to January 1 and promised that aid to the Soviet "will grow still more in 1943." Regardless of submarine wolfpacks, convoys were getting through.

RUBBER: Jeffers vs. RFC

With his synthetic rubber program facing further curtailment so that more convoy escort vessels can be built and more high octane gasoline produced for fighting fliers, Rubber Conservation Director William M. Jeffers assumed control of all rubber import programs formerly exercised by the Board of Economic Warfare through the Rubber Reserve company, a Reconstruction Finance corporation subsidiary.

WILLIAM M. JEFFERS

This action meant that henceforth Jesse Jones, as head of the RFC's Rubber Reserve company, which supplies the money for operations, would take orders from Mr. Jeffers instead of from the BEW on rubber imports. It meant, moreover, that Jeffers hoped to bolster lagging synthetic rubber production by imports as a means of keeping civilians supplied with automobile tires.

NAZI AIR RAIDS: RAF Welcomes Reprisals

Tragic as was the death of scores of school children in German bombing raids on London, aviation authorities hailed the renewal of Nazi attacks as a further opportunity to weaken the Axis in the air.

Every raid means a further thinning of Hitler's already over-extended air forces, these authorities pointed out. In the biggest daylight air assault on London since the 1940 battle of Britain, the Nazis lost 13 planes while the British lost two. Because of improved anti-aircraft defense, destruction and loss of civilian life were held to minimum levels.

The German raids have been in reprisal for gutting attacks on Berlin by large flights of RAF bombers raining down four-ton "block busters" on the Nazi capital, and spawning incendiary bombs that caused untold damage. British losses on these raids were comparatively light, officials revealed.

MORE BLOOD: Asked by Red Cross

Mounting war casualties prompted a request from the army and navy for the Red Cross to procure 4,000,000 pints of blood during 1943 or more than three times the amount obtained from donors last year.

Red Cross Chairman Dwight F. Davis disclosed that the request had come from Maj. Gen. James C. Magee and Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntyre, surgeons general of the army and navy respectively.

Washington Digest 'Hirohito Now' Strategy Gains New Proponents

New Line of Argument Developed in Favor of Immediate Action Against Japanese Empire.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, 1343 H Street, N-W, Washington, D. C.

Some weeks ago the story of the real purpose of the visit to America of Madame Chiang Kai-shek was told in these columns. Since then it has been confirmed by unofficial statements credited to "Chinese quarters"—that her mission was a show-down fight for an immediate offensive against Japan. In the interim two things have taken place. The Chinese government has let it be known unofficially that it realizes that America is so occupied elsewhere that a drive on Japan with China as a base cannot be expected at the moment. This would seem to be a retreat. It may be only a demarche, for suddenly, from several other quarters including Australian and Dutch with many American voices echoing in between, the demand for "Hirohito Now" action is being heard.

It may be team work. The Chinese course so far is this: Chiang Kai-shek, discouraged because of the futility of his pleas for additional supplies and help and America's failure to replace certain supposedly unsympathetic American representatives in Chungking, he ordered the Chinese military mission to the United States to come home. At the same time stories appeared to the effect that China felt that she was not being given a position of equality among the United Nations when it came to strategy and overall planning.

Polite Chinese

Then the head of the Chinese mission was called to the White House and it was explained that if he withdrew at this moment it would embarrass the United States—would he please take a nice long trip investigating American war-plants until the disturbance blew over. Perhaps he had the promise of more of the products of these plants. But that has not been made public. In any case, the Chinese, noted for their politeness acquiesced. A little later Britain and the United States signed treaties with China relinquishing their extraterritorial rights there.

But no sooner had this step been taken than suddenly voices, unofficial to be sure, but fairly strident, began asking if this "Hitler first" strategy was really sound? Couldn't Britain and the United States divide our efforts and still conquer?

By the time this reaches print there may be similar statements from official sources down under, or from the vitally concerned Dutch, but meanwhile, either self-generated or systematically inspired, continual calls for action in the Far East now are being heard.

Of course, this is not new. There were similar demands which had to be silenced by official utterances from Roosevelt and Churchill nearly a year ago which, if they had not sufficed alone, seemed effective when bolstered by the launching of the American and British expeditionary forces in Africa.

Airplane's Role

By a change in the face of the war, I refer particularly to the role the airplane is to play. Aircraft is a vital factor in offensive and defensive warfare, but it has been demonstrated that airpower alone doesn't win and hold. This has been proved by the success of the convoys which have "gotten through" in the face of terrible onslaughts by the Luftwaffe. Two things have served to cut down the airplane's offensive power. First, there is the improvement of anti-aircraft guns and second, increased experience in anti-aircraft warfare. I talked to a British naval officer who had been aboard two convoys which fought their way to Murmansk and three that weathered the fierce attacks in the Mediterranean taking supplies to Malta. He emphasized the fact that green gun crews could not meet the onslaught of the dive bomber. Trained crews could.

I talked with an American naval officer who had been through Coral Sea and the battles in the Solomons. He said that the anti-aircraft defense of our most modern warships was such that fighter plane defense was hardly necessary, that time and again it had been proved that this new equipment could raise a wall of fire which rendered air attack by the Japs futile.

Now, how does this affect the "Hirohito now" argument?

This way: We cannot leave Japan alone until we are quite ready and then expect to finish her off with an overwhelming airforce. As this is written, in spite of the constant and terrific bombing by Allied planes, the Japs have been able to complete and operate an airbase at Buna, the nearest Jap outpost to Guadalcanal. And further, the Allies, in spite of mass raids, devastating to ordinary buildings, have not been able to destroy the German submarine bases and submarine plants.

Navy and Land Troops

We must therefore depend on our navies and our land troops for the final destruction of Japan. And, it is argued, every day that Japan has to increase her fortifications, every day that she has to exploit the raw materials of her conquered territory, the harder it will be to beat her.

It is further argued that Germany cannot be absolutely beaten without terrific losses on our side, once she retreats within her own borders, a tight area, and can operate on a consolidated and shortened front.

She can be starved out. Therefore the argument is: Continue to move in through the rim of occupied countries until an iron blockade is formed about the Reich, but meanwhile begin an all-out offensive in the Far East; first, with the capture of enough of Burma to get an inlet to China; then, perhaps through the rest of Burma or Thailand move into China, re-arm, reinforce her, send in our own troops and attack Japan with China as a base.

If that is not done now Japan may be able to isolate China, may be able with silver bullets to win some of her provinces to puppet independence and completely paralyze that valuable ally and block off entrance through her territory, so it is argued by the "Hirohito now" advocates.

War-Wary Europe

The argument presented by the same proponents against waiting until we have finished "Hitler first" is two-fold: When Germany finally falls it will leave Europe and its people, especially its fighting manpower, so war-wary that it will be hard to interest them in a war half way around the world. We may get less help than we need for the job.

Second, the process of reaching into Japan island by island, is a slow process as we have found at Guadalcanal and on New Guinea. The northern half of New Guinea, a long-held Japanese stronghold, will be harder to conquer than the part now won back by MacArthur's men. We know that the Japs will not surrender. We know that in some places, like the Netherlands Indies, where a large part of the population is at best indifferent, the Japs can live off the land.

It would mean fighting every inch of the way against "no surrender" troops while the main Japanese armies were moving into China, fortifying the gateways to the continent.

Those are some of the arguments we may expect to hear frequently these days. Madame Chiang Kai-shek, when she recovers, may find it easier to be insistent upon aid than her husband's unsuccessful military men in Washington were.

Meanwhile the going in Tunisia is tough and the military men are inclined to say, "one field, well tilled" is enough of a job for them at present.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

WASHINGTON: Dependents of 1,304,002 enlisted men in the army are now receiving allotments, according to a war department announcement. The announcement revealed that up to January 1, a total of 1,819,000 applications for such payments had been received. Of these, 135,750 were disallowed temporarily, pending receipt of additional information.

LONDON: An 85-year-old San Francisco sea captain, George E. Bridgett, commanded a new Liberty ship in a convoy which recently brought relief to Malta; it was disclosed here. Captain Bridgett, believed to be the oldest active sea captain in the world, emerged from 15 years' retirement to make the run on a ship that had been built in 24 hours at the Kaiser shipyards.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well 24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood of every human being. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus food, excess acids and other waste matter that collect in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly. Nothing so simple as too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer from backache, headache, dizziness, rheumatic pain, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's? You will be taking a medicine recommended by the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out the poisons that collect in the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

IT IS difficult to know just which bouquet to toss at "In Which We Serve"; people agree that it is a really great picture, but they praise it for different reasons—for its direction, the excellence of the production, the remarkably good acting, by a cast in which Noel Coward's is the only well-known name. I think that it is great because of its sincerity—watching it, you don't think "That's a good performance"; you feel that you are actually watching real people, taking part in their lives.

Glenn Ford found that out when he arrived on the set of "Destroyer" at Columbia in a brand new sailor's uniform equipped with zippers. Lieut. Com. Donald Smith ruled the uniform out; he's technical adviser. Seems they don't use zippers in the navy because, if a job has to go over the side in an emergency and must get rid of his pants so that he can swim, buttons are much easier to open in the water than zippers are to un-zip.

Dorothy Lamour's first male protegee has red hair and freckles and is 6½ years old. He's the son of Dorothy's secretary, and Dorothy's grooming him for important child roles. You'll see him making his film debut with her in "Dixie."

A screen role became a real one for Fay Bainter the other day, when her only son, Reginald S. H. Venable Jr., announced that he had enlisted in the army and was about to begin officers' training. In "The War Against Mrs. Hadley" she portrayed the mother of a boy who enlisted in the armed forces. She's working now in "Salute to the Marines."

Whoever gets the rights to film Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker's life will know that he's won out over stern competition; even before Captain Rickenbacker's recent and famous adventure in the Pacific the major studios were interested in his life story.

Dick Martin, the young RKO actor, was discussing "Bombardier" with photographer Ernie Bachrach. "I sure hope I can get a part in that picture," said Martin. "It's going to be terrific." "I understand that Walter Reed has a good role," said Bachrach. "Good role!" exploded Martin. "Why, he kills off Kandy Scott, bombs Tokyo, and gets Anne Shirley—what more could an actor ask?"

Henry Travers, who played the rose-growing station master in "Mrs. Miniver," has been cast to portray Dr. Eugene Curie, father of Pierre Curie, in Metro's "Madame Curie," starring Greer Garson. It's the third consecutive film in which Travers has appeared with her—he played the country doctor in "Random Harvest."

ODDS AND ENDS—Dinah Shore's been signed to appear with Danny Kaye in Samuel Goldwyn's "With Flying Colors." . . . Lesley Woods of the "Joyce Jordan, N. D." air show has been dashing about New York during the cold weather in sequin-trimmed air suits. . . . Sheldon Leonard plays a racketeer in "Lucky Jordan" because Hollywood thought him the ideal gangster type—but when he appeared in "Margin for Error" on the New York stage the minions of the law voted him the ideal policeman. . . . Alice Weaver's the fastest-moving waitress on the screen, as shown in "Henry Alrich Gets Glamour"—but she's had actual experience as one, so why not?

Tree Farming on Mined-Out Land Answer to Coal Industry Problem

Stripped Acreage Being Turned Into Recreation Centers by Foresters.

Forest operators have been called on by coal mine operators to provide the answer to one of the most annoying problems which beset the coal industry—what to do with mined-out land.

Tree-farming is proving to be the answer. The forest operators knew what it should be, because to a lesser degree they had a somewhat related problem, which new crops of trees have helped solve.

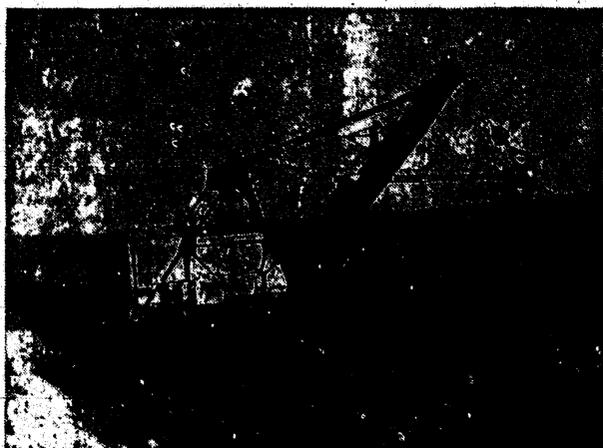

Coal miners call the devastated areas of land surface left by strip mining, "spoils." No word could be more fitting than "spoils" in the way the coal miners use it. After the strippers have finished, the earth surface looks to the public eye as if it had been plowed by blasts from hell.

The appearance of the stripped acreage to the public eye does not happen to be agriculturally true. The fact is that the strip miners' steam shovels have turned up virgin soil which otherwise could never have been touched by a plow nor have nourished a seed; aerated it by the shovels' action; enriched the tumbled earth by mixing through it broken-up limestone; and provided new surface contours which hold runoff water and raise the water level for the entire surrounding area.

Trees can turn these "spoils" into sections of recreational paradise, but until the foresters have done their work, the public remains blissfully ignorant of this.

The "spoils" can support vegetation, but the only plants passers-by see growing before the tree-farmers go to work are Jimson weed and an occasional volunteer brush. The shoveled-up earth is full of rocks that would defeat or break the strongest plow, and the ridges and depressions left by the shovels' turnover would exhaust livestock pastured there if acreage could be put to grass. Trees are an answer to this situation.

Strip Mining. Strip mining is practiced in 21 states. Mine operators prefer to call it "open cut" mining. By whatever name, it is the oldest mining method. Aboriginal man doubtless first found "black stone" would burn when he happened to light a fire on an outcrop. Then with his rude tools he forced the surface earth back to because the ceilings of slate over these veins are so thin and crumbly that no mine timbering could support them.

Submarginal Land. Most of the ground which bears coal close enough to the surface to be strip mined is submarginal which government agricultural experts have been urging for years be taken from ordinary agriculture and put back into woodland. In Indiana its value before mining averaged only $20 an acre in the nine southern counties where there is "open cut" mining. The college of agriculture of the University of Illinois rates grazing land on a score of from 1 to 10. "One" is tops; 10 is impossible. Before the strippers went to work, the land they shoveled in that state was rated 5.63—barely par. When they got through it was rated 7.49—good enough to grow trees. The strippers' shovels damaged surface fertility, but did not destroy it.

Stripping shovels do destroy earth top humus. The deep fresh earth they bring up to replace it lacks nitrogen. If humus and nitrogen can be returned, the new soil, because it is virgin, will be better than it was before. It has not been worked out by improper farming or bleached out by its minerals by uncontrolled water. It has been enriched by minerals mixed in from below. Formerly below average on the raters' scale, the land is now well above.

Trees are regenerating this land and making parks out of waste. In Illinois alone, only one of the 21 strip-mining states, 7,250 acres of strip-mined land in 12 counties have been planted with 7,000,000 trees since 1930, and the rate of forestation is increasing so that 2,000,000 trees uncover more of the hot and lasting fuel. The only difference between him and modern strip miners is that with steam shovels we can go deeper after the coal—60 feet down if necessary. Instead of bringing the coal to the surface, this method of mining carries the surface down to the coal.

Planting young pine trees on stripped acreage.

Surface earth is piled up in steep-banked hills with intervening valleys. The valley at the end usually becomes, in the course of nature, a lake storing run-off water.

Public Does Not Understand. The public fails to grasp the possibilities of such land. It sees a big mud-bordered pond surrounded by devastation. John Q. does not recall, if he ever heard, the statement of the U. S. Bureau of Mines that "strip mining is a means of preventing waste of natural resources that can never be replaced."

John Q. is no geologist, no engineer. He does not know that most of the strip-mined coal veins are less than three feet thick, so there would not be room for men to burrow through them if they could go underground; and that they can't go underground have already been planted this year. Favorite species for the "spoils" reforesters are black locusts and the evergreen conifers. Black locust for three reasons:

- (a) It is a legume, a tree bean.
- (b) It is a fairly fast-growing hardwood tree, even in poor soil, and sheds each autumn a large fall of big leaves.
- (c) From the time that it has reached a diameter of four inches it has commercial value; first as fence posts; later as mine timbers and ties.

The first of these reasons is most important to the "spoil" reforester because the peculiar function of the legumes, in the book of the soil chemists, is that bean-growing plants put nitrogen into the soil—the critical chemical lack of "spoiled" earth.

Humus. Humus is plant food—decayed vegetation. Its chief source is fallen leaves. The broad leaves of hardwood trees are its most prolific provider. The "spoil" reforester is faced with the problem of getting as much humus on the surface of the tumbled-up earth as possible, as quickly as possible.

If it were not for the need of layering humus on the soil the reforester might plant, except for black locust, no hardwood trees at all. He would concentrate on the evergreens. For the conifers, members of the great pine family, will grow on land too poor to support any other kind of trees. Out of the first 5,000,000 trees planted by the "Open Cut Mining Industry of Illinois," 1,781,900 were black locusts, and 1,462,000 conifers. The needle-like leaves of these evergreens drop only every three or four years, but it is a continuous process. Their "duff" does not make as much humus as broad hardwood leaves, but it is good humus.

Favorite conifers for strip "spoil" planting are those which are native to poor soils—such hard-scrabble evergreens as the Scotch pine, Norway spruce, and the red pine which struggles a gallant living out of the thin earth which veils the rocks of northeast Canada and the bleached hillsides of abandoned-farm New England and coal-country Pennsylvania.

Such species are grateful for the mineral food the strip miners' shovels have brought up from underground. They grow much more luxuriantly and rapidly on the "spoils" than they do on the untumbled land nearby, and far better than they ever did at home. A large proportion of the conifers included in the 6,000,000 trees planted on Indiana "spoils" during the 1930s are now 10 or 12 feet high, covering the steep-pitched banks of the lakes created by the shoveled-up contours. At least one observer is reminded by this reforested land of the Irish Hills of Michigan and the forest-bordered lakes of the Adirondacks.

Forests Replaceable. The forest products industries are able to give the open-cut mine operators constructive aid and advice because they formerly faced a problem which, while not so grave, was similar. Early loggers looked on forests as if they were mines. Both timber and coal are natural resources; the prime difference is that once coal has been mined it is gone, while forests are replaceable. Long ago loggers were faced by a triple economic problem:

First, land had to be cleared before it could be farmed. Woodcutters were the first pioneers, proud of their accomplishment when their axes "let light into the swamp" the life-giving sunlight without which corn could not grow.

Second, the country was in urgent need of harvested wood for construction lumber, for fencing, and for fuel. In 300 years it took seven trillion two hundred billion board feet of lumber to build this country.

And third, the pioneers were faced with seemingly endless mature forests. Only swift harvesting of some of them could save them from the deterioration of old age. As a matter of silvicultural fact, this is still true of thousands of thousands of square miles of forestland in America. Harvesting virgin ponderosa pine has in some sections resolved itself into a race against the beetle, plague of these aged trees. Harvesting some stands of virgin Douglas fir is a race against internal tree decay. If we are to continue to have forests in those sections many old trees need to be removed so that a new young tree crop can grow.

Enough farm land was finally cleared. In some sections of the country, too much. Some harvested forestland proved unfit to farm.

Trees were the natural and only useful crop these acres would grow. New England and southern loggers found themselves harvesting second and even third-growth trees. The evidence was inescapable. These trees were volunteer crops.

Trees can be grown over and over on the same land.

Where seed trees had been left in cut-over areas, natural re-planting with fire protection proved adequate new crops. But in some areas fire, erosion, or other causes have destroyed natural seed sources, young growth and the surface fertility of the soil. This was particularly true of abandoned stumpland. Fires had swept through the waste litter and dead snags left behind when the merchantable timber was taken out. This had destroyed the humus.

TO YOUR Good Health

RECRUIT MUST TELL ALL

When a recruit is being examined for the army, he should not hesitate to tell the examining physician his whole medical history. Unfortunately, unless he has had some definite ailment or injury, he may fail to mention his "attacks of indigestion" which he has blamed on eating the wrong foods or eating when tired or excited. He may feel that if he makes mention of these trifling attacks, the examining physician may get the idea that he is malingering, "swinging the lead." The result is that within a few weeks or even months of army life, he is brought before a medical board and sent to hospital for observation and treatment.

By failing to tell of his attacks of indigestion or bringing a certified statement of these attacks from his physician to the army medical examiner, he may put the country to considerable expense and himself to much inconvenience.

I am writing this because a report from Dr. J. M. Smellie, in the British Lancet states that of 247 cases of indigestion reported in one division 131 had definite organic disease of the stomach and first part of small intestine (duodenum) and were discharged from the service as permanently unfit. The remaining 116, after investigation and a short course of treatment, were returned to duty. Dr. Smellie states that when it has been definitely learned that a soldier has ulcer he should be discharged from the army "and immediately returned to civilian life where rest, diet and tranquillity of mind are possible. Before enlistment these individuals were leading useful lives in the service of their country and should be returned to such service. In the army they remain a burden to themselves and to others."

Most physicians and physicians who have had much to do with "indigestion" cases in civil and army hospitals will agree with Dr. Smellie, that a chronic indigestion patient is a real liability.

The thought, then, is that family physicians and patients themselves should have no false sense of duty, but should state by certificate and in person if there is a history of acute attacks or chronic symptoms of indigestion present.

Keeping Abdominal Muscles Developed

As youngsters when we wanted to show one another how strong we were we tightened the upper arm muscle and the whole strength of the body was supposed to be in proportion to the size of our upper arm muscle.

I went with an older brother to see Sandow, the strong man, and my brother pointed out the ridges of muscles across the front of his abdomen.

"That's what shows the strength of a man," my brother told me. "If you see those ridges stand out, it shows the man is strong everywhere. Why, Sandow's abdominal muscles are so hard he uses them for a washboard!"

I believed this at the time and in a sense have always believed it, because the strength of the abdominal muscles has so much to do with the general health of the body, the proper working of the heart, lungs, stomach, liver, intestines. Well developed abdominal muscles give the body the proper posture—abdomen is drawn in, chest stands out, head is erect—thus enabling all the organs in chest and abdomen to have room to work.

A report from a European physician points out that actual disease of the organs in the abdomen can be caused or aggravated when the organs fall downward due to lack of support by the abdominal muscles. This falling down of the abdominal muscles is called ptosis. By examining 100 bodies in which these organs were down low, he found that the distance the organs had dropped was in proportion to the weakness or weight of abdominal muscles.

Now it is not difficult to keep the abdominal muscles developed sufficiently to hold organs in place. It requires just a little thought and a little exercise daily. At all times we should try to stand and sit erect; stand as tall as we can. The exercise is "trying" to touch the toes, keeping knees straight. The slightest bend of the knees puts the work on the legs.

QUESTION BOX

Q. Is Vitiligo curable? Does it grow progressively worse with time? Can you tell me what causes this ailment?

A. Cause of Vitiligo—white spots on skin—is unknown. Some recent cases have been traced to a chemical used in tanning leather so that a cure may be discovered. There is no known cure at present. Painting patches with coloring matter obtained from your druggist is all that can be done.

American synthetic rubber will fill 60 per cent of the country's rubber needs, within two years of Paul Harber, according to a rubber chemist. This will be a speedy transition from natural rubber, Germany which started synthetic rubber development prior to 1914 can now only take care of 75 per cent of its rubber needs with synthetic.

Rubber tread trucks have been hauling about 18 per cent as many ton-miles on the railroad, CWT officials say.

Unit package rubber was supplied as a baby, the car owners of the country were wearing off 750,000 pounds of tread rubber from their tires every day, a government statistician asserts.

It Takes Both, War Bonds and Taxes, to Win—Victory Tax Special Direct Levy
Asked to Help Meet Heavy War Costs

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Approximately 50,000,000 American workers began to make an added contribution to the War cost this month in the form of a 3% Victory tax.

For many millions of Americans the Victory tax and the 1943 income tax are the first direct levies to be made by the Government to meet the staggering War costs. And it will take both . . . taxes and War bonds . . . to provide the supplies and materials to win the War and the peace afterwards.

The Treasury Department estimates that the Victory tax will raise approximately $2,600,000,000. Every person receiving more than $12 per week must pay the Victory tax upon that part of his income over and above the $12. For example, a married man with a salary of $50 per week, with two dependents, would make only a net payment of $1.08 per week after allowance for post-war credit.

The Government has made every effort to make the impact of the new tax as light as possible. The law, in effect, provides that in the case of married persons whose sole income is from wages or salary, 40 percent of the Victory tax paid (up to a maximum of $1,000) plus 2 percent for each dependent (up to a maximum of $100) may be used as a credit against whatever Federal income taxes the individual may owe at the end of the year—provided he has purchased certain War Bonds, or paid old debts or paid life insurance premiums equal to the amount of this credit. In the case of single persons this credit will be 25 percent of the Victory tax paid (up to a maximum of $500). Should the Victory tax credit exceed the individual's Federal income tax, the unused portion of the credit may be refundable to the taxpayer.

Even with the Victory tax, the 1943 income tax, and all other taxes paid by individuals, the average American will have more money with which to buy War Bonds than he has ever had before. Here are the statistics which explain that statement:

In 1940 the total income payments made to the American people amounted to about 76 billion dollars. In that same year the total personal taxes paid, Federal, State and local, were roughly 2.5 billion dollars, leaving 73.5 billion dollars of disposable income. During 1943 total income payments are expected to rise to 125 billion dollars and total personal taxes under existing revenue legislation will be 15 billion dollars—leaving 110 billion dollars of income at our disposal as against only 73.5 billion dollars in 1940.

In 1943 Mr. Average American will still be carrying a much lighter tax load than his Canadian or English brothers-in-arms. In Great Britain total national and local taxes paid by individuals at present amount to 31 percent of the national income. In Canada, total individual taxes amount to 25 percent of the national income. In the United States, total personal taxes, Federal, state, and local, will amount in 1943 to 18 percent of national income. Our English allies invest an additional 10 percent of national income in War savings. Our Canadian allies invest an additional 11 percent of national income in War savings. We Americans, to match the record of our Canadian neighbors, would have to invest this year 20 percent of our national income in War savings. To match the English record we would have to invest 23 percent of national income in War savings.

"It Takes Both"

It takes an Isbell and a Hutson . . . a Sammy Baugh and a Dick Todd to form a forward pass combination. It takes both . . . War Bonds and Taxes to provide the necessary finances to win this war—a war for freedom and humanity. Are you doing your part?

War Stamp Sales Over Half Billion Dollars, Album Drive Opens

Appealing Margaret C. Russell of the War Savings Stamp tactics, up this new Treasury poster which will be seen from coast to coast. It pictures retailers' slogan, "SAY YES." A drive is underway for Americans to buy additional War Stamps to all albums and convert them into War Bonds.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The nation's retailers from the tiniest hamlets to the mighty cities are acting as a spearhead in a great Treasury Department campaign to sell the additional War Savings Stamps needed to fill more than 100,000,000 albums now in the hands of the American people.

According to a report released by the Treasury Department today, sales of War Savings Stamps totaled $559,777,000 for the period from May 1, 1941, through November, 1942. Stamp sales have risen from less than three million dollars per month when they were first introduced to the public to an average of more than fifty million dollars per month at the present time.

The Treasury's slogan, "A half-filled album is like a half-equipped soldier," has been adopted officially by retailers for the campaign. The importance of the drive is seen in the fact that a War Bond potential of nearly two billion dollars hangs in the balance. Every War Stamp album, converted into a People's Bond, for which the purchaser pays $18.75 and which matures to $25.00 value when held for 10 years, adds its force to the war effort. The Treasury Department is counting upon the country's school children to play a powerful role in the success of the SAY YES drive. The volume of stamp and bond sales is at the rate of $200,000,000 for the current school year.

Joseph C. Grew Warns
Half-Effort Will Not Defeat Japan

By JOSEPH C. GREW
United States Ambassador to Japan until the outbreak of war, and author of "Report From Tokio"

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In describing one of the big air battles over Guadalcanal a recent newspaper account tells of an American flyer who parachuted from his crippled plane to the waters of Lunga Bay. The Navy craft which picked him up next went to the rescue of a Japanese pilot seen struggling in the water nearby. As the rescue boat reached the Japanese flyer he suddenly pulled out his revolver, aimed it at the drenched American pilot and pulled the trigger. The cartridge failed to explode. Then the Japanese officer turned the gun on himself with suicidal intent. Again he pulled the trigger and again his revolver failed him. At this point an American sailor knocked him out with a boat hook and pulled him aboard the American craft a prisoner.

Almost daily one reads eye-witness stories such as this one, and all of them clearly demonstrate that war with our enemy in the Pacific cannot end in compromise.

For ten years I lived in Japan. The truth as I know it from close observation is this: Nothing less than the exertion of our maximum capacities, individually and collectively, in a war of offense will bring our beloved country safely to the longed-for haven of victorious peace.

The Japanese are pawns of a senseless but mighty militarism—a warrior caste which is ruthless and cruel beyond comprehension.

This is a total war, the only answer to which is a total American victory. It is a war in which half measures of any kind mean incredible waste of material, energy and human life. In this sense a half-filled War Savings Stamp album is symbolic of a half effort. There are, I am told, roughly 100 million partially complete War Stamp albums now in circulation. These uncompleted Stamp albums are, in a measure, like a 100 million threats to a speedy and victorious peace. On the other hand, for every War Savings album completed and cashed in for a Bond, you the owner have helped some soldier or sailor take a forward step on the uphill road to total victory.

Rosebud

Rosebud is eight, and the most beautiful shade of caramel fudge. To her loving Mamma and Pappy she is known, on approximately alternate days, as "Angel" and "You devil child". It was on her devil-child days that Rosebud tied the knots in the shirts that Mamma had taken in for washing, and poured the whole of the vanilla bottle into the lamb stew, just, she said later through bitter tears, to "flavor it up some".

On her angel days Rosebud is equally imaginative even if a more restless occupant of the little shack down on Vinegar Hill. Once when Mamma was out doing day work, Rosebud got a wave of cleaning fever and scoured every pot and pan in the kitchen so that they literally glistened. Another day, left alone, she tidied up Mamma's and Pappy's room to such a point of apple-pie order that it was a week before Pappy could find an undershirt.

Rosebud is a great reader of the newspapers. Mamma and Pappy don't take one, but there are plenty of perfectly good newspapers blowing round Vinegar Hill. It was out of one of them that Rosebud got her idea for spending the ten cents the Sunny had put under her pillow the night her tooth came out. After breakfast Rosebud disappeared down the Hill and reappeared soon after with a beautiful ten-cent War Stamp pasted firmly into a brand-new book with neat little squares for more stamps. She displayed her investment to Mamma. "I declare you're an angel child," Mamma said. Rosebud went on sitting on the kitchen floor staring with large brown eyes at the empty squares in her book. From time to time she took hold of one or another of her teeth and wiggled it, gently.

Mamma was engrossed in a particularly big washing. Rosebud was as quiet as a mouse and Mamma forgot about her until, coming in from the yard with her arms full of dry sheets, she encountered her child with a large hammer in her hand. Seeing the devil in her angel child, Mamma shouted at her, "Rosebud! Come yere with that hammer! What you planning on doing?"

But what was done was done. In Rosebud's other hand was another tooth. Her mouth was stretched in a broad if slightly bloody smile. "I ain't doing nothing, Mamma," she said, "I'm just filling up my stamp book."

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Old Bill Cole, having been fatally shot by an unknown assailant, made two identical wills, leaving his money and the King Cole Ranch to Ann Lee and Cole Cody, children of his two old cronies, Bert Lee and Buck Cody. Bert Lee, who claimed relationship, put in an appearance at the ranch just before Old Bill's death. Meanwhile, both Ann Lee (accompanied by her Aunt Jenifer) and Cole Cody were on their way to the ranch by stage coach. During the journey the stage was held up by bandits. Long Peters, the driver, and a passenger, Andy Jenkins, were shot, but Jenkins saved the money he was carrying in a carpet bag.

CHAPTER V

And so, at least in so far as Mr William Cole Cody and Miss Ann Lee were concerned, all was well and the night was filled with beauty. There was little talk between them; at first just a few words referring to what had just happened, then silence. The high seat of a lurching mountain stage is at no time the ideal spot for any steady flow of conversation; further, just now Cole Cody, driving a team new to him, the horses still of a mood to jam their necks deep into their collars and take the bits in their teeth and run away, had his work out for him—then, too, he had to keep his eyes focused watchfully on a road none too good, full of bends and kinks and spotted with chuck holes and crossed by ridges and hollows, a tricky road by daylight to a man familiar with it, far worse than that by night-light to a stranger.

He had buckled the stage driver's leather belt about him for anchorage; the girl kept a hand locked on the iron guard rail at the back of the seat. But whereas he had to watch the road, she was free to watch him out of the corners of her eyes. There were times when there was a little approving half-smile on her lips. At times with the swaying of the stagecoach her sleeve brushed his; she was warmly aware of the slight contact. She approved of this and the way he walked and talked and bore himself.

Unconsciously she drew a long, quivering sigh—

And it was just at that moment, as the stage having rocked through a bit of starlit clearing was about to plunge into another of the dark, forested canyons, that Cole Cody put on his brakes and pulled his horses down, and said hastily—his voice sounded curt to her,

"Look here! You've got to get down and ride inside!"

"Oh!" she said. She whipped back from him, as far away as the seat allowed. She was having such a wonderful ride! The wind in her face, her hat blown back and the wind in her hair, her lips partly opened to let the cool fresh air stream across them—living only in the moment, looking less at the dark world about her than at the glitter of the heavens above. So she said, "Oh!", an "Oh!" like on ice.

He was still slowing his team down, not looking at her but straight ahead.

"And tell Bert Nevers I want him up here with me. You can help your aunt with the two wounded men."

What a crude sort of beast he really was. She no longer felt the cool air against her face, her cheeks were burning hot. She bit her lip before she spoke. Then her voice sounded gay and it also sounded quite determined.

"But I prefer to ride outside. It was stuffy in there and I like the wind in my face. I was miles away, thinking—"

"He had the horses at a restful standstill now and turned briefly toward her.

"I've been a fool," he muttered. "I wasn't thinking—"

"I've heard that all men are fools," she said brightly. "Are you going to drive on? I am not getting down!"

"I tell you, I wasn't thinking!" He was urgent, and sounded harsh. His eyes had only flicked at her, then turned ahead again, to the road entering the deeper dark in the canyon. "Just because those two highwaymen rode off doesn't necessarily mean that they've gone for good. They may waylay us again. You mustn't be up here! Let Bert Nevers come up; if there's any trouble he can use Long Peters' carbine."

"I won't do it! I am going to stay here. Whether you like it or don't like it, Mr. Cody, I am staying here!"

"You'll do nothing of the kind. Look here, Miss Lee—"

"I won't look. And I won't go down!"

"I'll make you get down! I'll drag you off the seat and throw you inside!"

She laughed at him, treating him to her scorn at his best.

"You just try it!"

He put one hand on her shoulder, the other bawled with the reins—and Miss Ann Lee slapped his face, good and hard. And his temper blew off the lid. Lord, Lord, this girl was the most unreasonable little child of a thing that was ever born to drive a man mad.

He yielded to the urge within him and caught her hard and fast in the circle of his free arm and drew her ostentatiously close to him—and kissed her on the mouth. Good and hard. A kiss every bit as emphatic as a slap.

She gasped and jerked away and scrubbed her mouth with her hand and then with all her might she slapped him again! The blow jarred him; after it was over he could feel the shape of her hand, fingers and all, etched in fire along his cheek and jaw. For an instant he sat rigid. Then again he dragged her to him and again he kissed her, and it was a long kiss, his lips crushing hers, before he would let her go.

"I didn't do that for any fun I get out of it," he told her in a cold fury. "It's just the best way I know to slap you back, you little wildcat."

And, making sure that she saw, he scrubbed his lips savagely with the back of his hand.

And she slapped him! And, as he was reaching out for her she let the carbine slide off her lap and scrambled out of the seat and half leaped, half fell over the wheel to the ground.

Aunt Jenifer's voice called up, "What's wrong? Why are we stopping?"

He took a long breath to steady himself, then answered.

"I just saw a wildcat— Oh, never mind! We'll be going right on. I want Bert Nevers up here with me. Miss Lee will ride inside after this."

Bert Nevers came as desired, retrieved the fallen gun, climbed up beside the driver.

"What's all this about wild cats?" he demanded.

Cody threw off the brake and started. A scream stopped him. It was Aunt Jenifer.

"Mr. Cody! What on earth! Ann isn't even in yet."

"That's all right, Aunt Jenny," said Ann's voice—if it really was Doc Joe stood up.

"Get the men inside," he said. "I'll go ahead and have a room ready." He went into the hotel.

The Judge threw away his cigar and reached to his pocket.

"Bad hurt?" he asked, and stood up.

"Not Peters. The other man, Andy Jenkins is the other, I'm afraid he's in pretty bad shape." His eyes had followed the departing Doc Joe. "He the doctor?"

The Judge nodded and went down the steps to watch proceedings and to direct. Already the stage doors were open, folks were getting down. He saw a couple of females, didn't pay them any attention. He watched Long Peters descend under his own power. Men standing close lifted little Andy Jenkins out; at first they and the Judge, too, thought him dead already. He was carried into the hotel, Long Peters following.

Men were asking rapid-fire questions: Just what had happened? Where? When? The two women, looking a bit bewildered as so many earnest-eyed men milled about them, clung to each other and looked for escape. Upon Bert Nevers, known to many here, fell the duty of giving a running account of the hold-up, and Aunt Jenifer and Ann broke free.

One of the men, though still held here to listen to Bert Nevers, followed the two with their appraising eyes.

Cole Cody, standing on the steps leading to the raised platform before the hotel, looked down over the throng a moment. He himself was accosted and asked to tell about everything; curly he jerked his head toward Bert Nevers.

"He knows all about it; listen to him," he said, and moved away.

Cody didn't look back to see Aunt Jenifer and Ann Lee make their way into the hotel lobby. Ann, looking with quick interest in all directions, saw his back; in the swing of his stride and in the set of his shoulders and even in the way he wore his hat she read something of the man's mood. He was still furious; he was impatient to be done with the stage and all it contained, all that it suggested to him. She had the swift impression that he was headed straight for the first saloon and meant to wash a lot of things out of his memory with good strong liquor. She was, in this, quite right.

Young Mr. William Cole Cody felt not only desolate and down-in-the-mouth, but mean and ugly. He made something of entering the Last Chance Saloon; he struck the swing door with his shoulder as a man as worn through his veins with belligerence might smite an enemy. The half-door, flung violently back, struck a man about to depart and all but swept him off his feet.

This man glared and showed his teeth. Those teeth of his were as white as snow, as glittering as a hound's teeth and about as sharp. He was a small, aged Mexican-Indian, Porfirio Lopez by name, a stranger here in Bald Eagle and, tonight in no mood at all to be knocked around. His slim brown hand ran like the slide of a striking snake to his side—just under his ornamental jacket. It would have been with him just then a supreme joy and a perfectly superb relief to slit somebody's gullet from ear to ear.

And then he saw who it was! "Don Codito!" he cried. He dropped all thoughts of his knife and caught both Cody's hands in the warm Latin way. "Gracias a Dios! Look Señor! Me, all over, I weesed I was thead! I ask for to thiel And now! I kees your hands, the two! All of which meant, Thank God! When I was ready to die, here you are! You!"

"You are drunk, Porfirio," said Don Codito. "Go to bed."

Porfirio laughed like a coyote. He pulled his hair, looked at his hands, saw that he had caught some few harsh black strands between his lean fingers and tessed them upward.

"Boracho, Señor?" That laughter of his showed those teeth of his to all advantage; and still in his laughter there was the snarl of a coyote, the threat and surrender of a wounded wolf. He said quite simply, "This is one other time, Señor Don Codito, you save my life. We are going to drink one with the other. You will honor me in this little thing, this thing that is so big, Don Codito?"

Porfirio began, frank and unhidden in all he did, to cry.

"Pretty soon," he confessed, "I am going to cry like one babe. The fines' man in this world, the fines' man, I am a-tellin' you, is sick; he is pretty sick." (Only Porfirio said "seck.") "He is goin' to die! Alei I jump on top my best horse, an' I ride 'n I ride an' I ride, Señor. You believe me? More than one hundred, more than one hundred and twenty-five, more than one hundred and fifty (feifty) miles, I ride! An' so, here I am—an' he is already dead!" He put his head down on the bar and let his tears run at large.

"I'm sorry, Porfirio," he said in voice as gentle as his heavy hand.

Porfirio jerked up his head, tessed back his black mane of hair, getting it cleared away from his burning black eyes—and began to laugh.

STUDY IN AMERICAN STRENGTH
("Three American airmen, Edward Mallory Vogel, Tennessee; Izzie Goldberg, the Bronx, New York; and Edwin J. Sipowski, Waukegan, Ill., killed in a takeoff in San Juan Harbor, were buried side by side with a Protestant chaplain, a Roman Catholic priest and a rabbi officiating. The flag for which they fought flew over them." — News Item.)

A chaplain, a priest and a rabbi—Protestant—Catholic—Jew—Three Yanks in three simple cakes—

Three colors, red, white and blue

A hush on a tropic island
As notes from a bugle fall—
Three rituals slowly chanting—
Three faiths in a common call!

A lad from the Bronx; another Who joined up in Tennessee;
A third one from far Waukegan—
A typical bunch, those three!
A crash in a naval airplane . . .
A rush to its crumpled side . . .
And nearby Old Glory marking
The reason the trio died.

They answered a call to duty
From church and from synagogue—
From hillside and teeming city . . .
Three names in a naval log!
Each raised in his separate concepts—

Each having his form to pray—
But all for a faith triumphant
When rituals fade away!

A prayer in Latin phrases—
And one with more ancient lore;
A Protestant simple service—
All one on a distant shore!
"Qui tollis peccata mundi" . . .
And, "Enter ye unto rest!" . . .
A blessing from ancient Moses . . .
For three who had met the test!

This is the story mighty
Making our sinews strong:
Boys from the many altars
Warring on one great wrong!
This is the nation's power,
This is its suit of mail:
Land where each narrow bigot
Knows that he can't prevail!

A chaplain, a priest and a rabbi—Protestant—Catholic—Jew—Knowing that forms are nothing
If but the cause is true;
Challenge all craven bigots!
Tell them, as brave men die
Fighting for fullest freedom—
Tell them they lie . . . they lie!

3—Why don't you take a nice ride over the week-end?
4—This car will give you more pleasure than anything you ever owned. I'm telling you.
5—We did 400 miles the first day and 540 the second.
6—The train service to Miami is all right, but I love to go by auto.
7—What're you doing tonight? Wanna go for a ride?
8—Slow down to fifty miles per hour.
9—Cars Bought, Sold and Exchanged.
10—I just can't imagine what we would do if we didn't have a limousine.
11—We're putting up the sedan and just using the beach wagon.

LAUNDRY TUB LEAKS ARE USUALLY IN SEAMS

THERE are frequent complaints of the leaking of laundry tubs made of slabs of concrete, soapstone, or something similar. These leaks are usually in the joints. To close them, the joints should be opened by scraping them with the handle end of a file, to make a groove into which a patch can be forced. A patch that lies only over the surface of a joint will not be permanent. A joint in a tub made of concrete slabs can be closed by packing with a mixture of one part portland cement and three parts clean building sand, with only enough water for the mixture to be plastic. Before applying, the concrete of the tub should be thoroughly soaked with water, and the patch put in by hammering with the flat end of a tool like a large screw-driver. As soon as the patch hardens, the tub should be filled with water until the patch is covered and left filled for two or three days, to give the cement time to attain fullest density. A leaking joint of a soapstone tub should be cleaned out in the same way, and then packed with white lead paste. This should be allowed to dry for several days until the paste has hardened.

Repainting Old Linoleum
Question: What is the best way to repaint an old kitchen linoleum, and what is the best type of paint to use. The linoleum is good, but the paint is worn off on the traffic lanes. The present color is a combination of green, black and cream. Now I want to repaint it in a combination of red and white.

Answer: Use a solvent type of varnish and paint remover. Apply with a brush, taking two or three yards at a time. When the old paint has softened, remove with fine steel wool. Wash the area immediately with lukewarm water and a neutral soap. Rinse well and allow to dry. Finish the whole floor in this way, giving it ample time to dry. If you use one of the inflammable types of remover, be sure to extinguish the pilot light of your range; the flame of a gas refrigerator also should be put out. Have plenty of ventilation in the room. Before applying paint wipe the surface with turpentine.

Any good floor paint or floor enamel can be used in two coats. A solid color shows footprints. This can be offset by stippling; that is, the spotting of the floor color with paint of another tone. For a kitchen floor, a practical combination is medium brown for the ground color and tan for the stippling.

Stippling is one with a sponge having a flat surface, which can be cut with a sharp knife. When the ground color is dry, the stippling color is painted on a piece of board; the sponge is pressed on the wet paint and then on the floor. The pattern of the sponge thus is transferred. The process is learned easily and is quick in application.

Cleaning Tapestry Chair
Question: How can I clean a tapestry-covered chair?

Answer: Use soap jelly in the form of a stiff lather, which you can raise by beating a quantity of soap jelly in a bowl with an egg beater. Apply the lather with a soft brush to a rather small area, brushing continuously and adding more lather until the area is clean. (The lather should not be too wet.) Then wipe off the lather with a cloth wrung out of clean water. Wipe dry, in the direction of the nap. Continue in this way, being careful not to leave uncleaned streaks: Before using this method, apply the lather to some obscure part of the fabric to find out whether or not the colors are fast; if the colors come off, you should use a dry-cleaning method. Grease spots should be taken out with a cleaning fluid.

Books on Construction
Question: Could you recommend a book that would be a source of information to an amateur builder?

Answer: The Manual Arts Press, Peoria, Ill., and Theodore Audel and Company, 48 West 23rd Street, New York city, publish such books. I suggest that you write to these houses for their catalogues.

Frost in Cold Weather
Question: Does mild freezing (20 degrees at the lowest) injure paint?

Answer: I suppose you refer to paint in cans. It will not, but do not attempt to use paint at temperatures below 60 degrees; it becomes very heavy when chilled and does not spread well.

ON THE HOME FRONT
RUTH WYETH SPEARS

THIS colorful afghan was made by clever fingers from the best parts of old woolen garments put together with odds and ends of bright yarn. Even trousers and fitted jackets yielded strips of the size required.

By holding the goods up to the light it is easy to find the unworn parts. These are cut out roughly; washed with mild soap in lukewarm water; rinsed with a little soap in warm water; and pressed while damp. The pieces are then cut accurately according to the measurements given here. Single crochet stitch is used around all pieces, and the sketch shows how the pieces are sewn together.

NOTE: Today nothing should go to waste. Even furniture may be reconditioned and made to do the duration. Book 7, in the series prepared for readers, contains 32 pages of illustrated directions. Readers may get a copy by sending to:

WHEN BACKACHE STABS!

Because of need of a diuretic aid, try famous GOLD MEDAL CAPSULES!

If you're miserable from a nagging backache, or have to get up nights often—due to slow-functioning kidneys—try Gold Medal Capsules, a stimulant diuretic. When kidney function lags, excess waste may accumulate in the blood causing aches and pains; and flow may be highly concentrated causing passages to be frequent but scanty, often to smart painfully, with resulting lack of "pep" and nervous, "low" feelings.

To relieve the distress of such symptoms, millions have demanded Gold Medal Capsules. Get a box today. Only 35 cents at any drug store—but insist on the real article, used for over 30 years by millions. Get original GOLD MEDAL CAPSULES. See the Gold Medal on the box!

Got It By Mother—Did you stamp and mail my letter, son?
Johnny—Yes, that is, I slipped it into the mail box without a stamp when nobody was looking.

Give Cupid a Break... Bake Him a Cake (See Recipes Below)

Valentine Notes

Along about this time, even though it isn't spring, there's a note of precious sentiment that gets into the atmosphere. Perhaps it's those bits of bright red and lacy paper the children have been pasting into heart shapes, the rhymes they've been making. Yes! Valentines!

Cupid has a way of darting into this season and winning us over—even if only with a cardboard arrow springing out of a froth of red and white paper cutouts of hearts. Why not plan to give yourself up to a party with a Valentine theme?

Let's make it simple but festive for even simple gayety will do loads for your morale. Except for the cake in today's column which is a wee bit party-ish, the rest of ingredients in the party are streamlined to save your time.

Our color scheme for the holiday runs into red-and-white, so our main dish is going to be a variation of the old favorite chicken and cranberries.

*Jellied Chicken and Cranberry Loaf. (Serves 6)

- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 2 cups well seasoned chicken broth
- 6 small thin slices chicken
- 2 cups minced chicken
- Cranberry mixture

Soften gelatin in a little broth, add remaining broth and heat until gelatin is dissolved. Pour a little into the bottom of an oiled 1-quart loaf pan. Divide remaining gelatin between 1 cup dark and 1 cup light meat of chicken. Add alternating layers of chicken and cranberry, chilling each layer thoroughly until set before adding the next.

Cranberry Mixture. (For Chicken Loaf)

- 1 pint cranberry juice
- 1 1/2 tablespoons gelatin
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of cayenne
- Juice of 1/2 lemon
- 1 cup minced celery

Soften gelatin in a little cranberry sauce; dissolve over hot water. Add remaining juice and seasonings. Cool and add celery.

Since the main dish is a combination salad and main dish—if served with a lettuce or watercress garnish and mayonnaise if you want it, balance the menu with some attractive assorted sandwiches. Sandwiches should be light snacks for this type of party, so we'll fall back on the old standby, cream cheese.

Cream Cheese Rolls.

Mix 1 package of softened cream cheese with 1 tablespoon of mayonnaise and a dash of worcestershire sauce. Blend thoroughly. Take thinly

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: It looks very much as though you will cook what you can find with more foods announced as to become rationed. Canned and frozen foods along with meats will be less easily available.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are to be unrationed so keep your budgetwise and marketwise eyes cocked for bargains. Turnips, carrots, beets, citrus fruits and apples will appeal to wise menu makers.

Canned soups which you obtain and pay more for now are usually more concentrated and you can get more food value from them. You'll like using dehydrated soups, too, the chicken-noodle combinations being winners.

Plan to pack whole wheat flours and dehydrated pancake mixes into your shopping bags. The former will help you get vitamin B in the diet, while the latter is a fine time-saver.

Valentine Party.

- *Chicken Cranberry Loaf
- *Assorted Sandwiches or *Graham Gems
- *Cupid's Cake
- Tea Hot Chocolate
- *Recipe Given

sliced white bread, trim off crusts, and spread with cream cheese mixture. Roll, cut in half and brush with melted butter. Toast in broiler until evenly browned.

Other good cream cheese combinations, using heart or diamond-shaped bread slices, include cream cheese and apple butter or cream cheese and currant jelly or raspberry jam.

Hot muffins that pull no nutritional punches would be good food for the cool, smooth jellied chicken and cranberry loaf. Try these:

*Graham Gems.

- 1/2 cup flour
- 1 cup graham flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 4 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1/2 cup milk

Sift the flour. Sift again with salt and baking powder. Add egg and milk and beat only until mixed with dry ingredients. Bake in small, buttered muffin tins in a hot (400-degree) oven for 20 minutes.

A delicious mouth-watering cake to top off the party is just the thing you need to make it a success:

*Cupid's Cake.

- 1 1/4 cups egg whites (about 10)
- 1 1/4 cups sifted sugar
- 1/2 cup sifted cake flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Measure egg whites and place in a bowl. Sift and measure sugar and add flour.

Add half of sugar and 1/4 teaspoon salt to flour. Sift 5 or 6 times. Beat egg whites until frothy, add cream of tartar, beat until egg whites are slightly stiff but still glossy. Fold in sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time. Fold in sifted flour a little at a time. Fold in vanilla and pour into a hot pan that has been set in a hot oven, 425 degrees.

while cake is being mixed. Bake in a hot oven 20 to 23 minutes or until cake springs back when touched. Invert pan to cool cake.

Frozen Strawberry Filling.

- 1 package lemon-flavored gelatin
- 1 cup boiling water
- 1 package fresh-frozen strawberries
- 1 cup whipping cream

Add boiling water to gelatin, stir until dissolved. Break strawberries into separate pieces, add to gelatin and stir carefully. The cold strawberries will cool the gelatin and at the same time thaw the syrup around the berries. If strawberries are thawed, cool gelatin before adding strawberry mixture. Whip cream and fold in 1/2 cup of whipped cream into strawberry mixture.

With a sharp knife cut out center of cake with a sawing motion, leaving a 1-inch shell around top of cake. Lift out center of cake and tear off pieces of center to fill hole at bottom of cake left by tube. Use this extra cake and put into filling or frost small pieces and roll in coconut. Pour strawberry filling into cake. Frost outside of cake with remaining cream. Part of this frosting may be used through a cake decorator tube to add valentines to sides and swirls to top of cake as shown in picture above. Put cake in refrigerator for 1/2 hour or long enough to set filling. Serves 10.

JESUS AFFIRMS HIS DEITY

LESSON TEXT—John 8:12, 23-30, 58-59. GOLDEN TEXT—He that hath seen me hath seen the Father.—John 14:9.

"The Light of the World Is Jesus!" Who does not remember with what delight we as children sang, "Come to the light, 'tis shining for thee... The light of the world is Jesus."

How precious was the truth that thus flooded our souls. Jesus is the light. Just as the sunlight sheds its glory on an awakening world at dawn, so He sheds abroad the light of God in the hearts of men. As this portion of God's Holy Word is studied and taught, may the light break forth on many a soul caught in the bewilderment of this dark world.

But that is only one of the great thoughts around which our lesson centers. As Jesus here reveals Himself as divine, we consider four simple words, each fraught with rich meaning.

I. Light. (v. 12). The text says: "Then spake Jesus." When? Just after He had silenced the hypocritical accusers of a woman taken in sin, and had spoken the word of peace to her troubled soul. She was to "go and sin no more" because she had met Him who is the light of the world. They that follow Him "shall not walk in darkness"; they are the children of light, they have the very light of life shining in their hearts and lives.

Not only does Jesus light the believer's heart, but this light shines into all the dark corners of this wicked world, exposing sin and hypocrisy, and showing the way back to God.

II. Salvation. (vv. 23-30). "Who art thou?" That is the question every man must ask and answer as he considers Jesus. Even neglect is an answer—a rejection.

The answer of Christ in these verses goes to the very heart of the matter, for He takes the people right to the cross of Calvary. When they had crucified Him, they would know. Did not the centurion say: "Truly this was the Son of God" (Matt. 27:54)?

It is true today that no man knows Christ until he knows Him as the crucified Saviour. Teacher, Example, Guide—all these He is—but they are not enough, for we sinners need a Saviour. May many today follow the example of verse 30.

III. Freedom. (vv. 31-33). Free! Four letters, but what a depth of meaning! Chains have fallen off, prison doors are open. The one who was bound is free.

But here we are concerned with an even more important liberty, the freedom of the soul. Many there are who boast of their independence but who are naught but slaves. Jesus said: "Whosoever commiteth sin is the servant of sin" (v. 34), not its master.

How shall they be freed? Note three things in these verses:

(1) A condition, "If ye continue in my word." This means not only a profession of faith, but a daily appropriation and realization of His truth in life.

(2) A promise, "Ye shall know the truth." The philosophies of men profess to be a seeking after truth, but how few there are who look to the one place where it can be found—in Jesus Christ.

(3) A result, "The truth shall make you free." Truth always sets free. Men are enslaved because, as in some foreign lands, they have not had the opportunity to learn the truth or because they have rejected it.

Men profess to seek truth in their research and in the process of education, but without Christ they cannot have real truth. Educational systems which rule Him out are deficient and lead to bondage rather than freedom.

IV. Eternity. (vv. 58-59). Taking up his statement that they were Abraham's children (see vv. 33, 37), Jesus enters into the sharpest controversy with the unbelieving Jews of His entire earthly ministry. They were claiming kinship with a great man of faith who in his day had looked forward to the coming of Christ (v. 50). Now He was here, and instead of receiving Him as their Messiah they were ready to kill Him.

Not only did they claim Abraham as father, but also God. Jesus told them that in their sin and unbelief they were of their "father the devil." It is possible, then, to be very religious, to follow the traditions of one's fathers, and yet to be children of the devil.

All this led up to their sharp rebuke in verse 57, which denied to Christ anything but an earthly existence and which led Him to the statement of His eternity. He identified Himself definitely and clearly with the Eternal One—the great I AM of Exodus 3:14.

Christ is God, and is therefore "infinite, eternal, and unchangeable in His being, wisdom, power, holiness, justice, goodness and truth" (Westminster Catechism).

Household Hints

The secrets of washing woollens successfully are: (1) plenty of suds; (2) luke-warm water throughout the washing and rinsing; (3) no rubbing or twisting; (4) drying at moderate temperature, avoiding both heat and intense cold.

When clothing is spotted by rain, place a clean damp cloth on the material and press it with a moderately warm iron.

Draperies that shrink may be remedied this way: Add a fold of contracting color to the bottom of the old curtain, using a harmonizing color or cording between the two materials, and the effect will be very pleasing.

The first time the cork is taken out of a tube bottle, dip it in melted paraffin and allow it to dry before replacing—it will never be sticky and hard to remove.

Furniture for a man's room is appearing in bleached and limed finishes rather than in the dark oak which used to hold sway.

When using an aluminum saucepan for boiling eggs, add a few drops of vinegar to prevent the pan from discoloring.

The popular wrap around turbans should be washed frequently because they are handled so much. Those made of silk, rayon or knit wool can be laundered with lukewarm water and mild soap if the color is fast.

A speck of salt greatly improves chocolate, caramel and white frostings and candies.

When plain pillow slips made from tubing are partly worn, rip or cut off the seam at the bottom and sew the slips again with the fold in the center. It will double their life.

To clean a soiled felt hat rub it with a very fine grade of sandpaper.

No Stoppage of Business With Change of Hands

A gangster walked into a bank and made a clean sweep. While he was busy stuffing the money into a bag the cashier set off the burglar alarm.

The gangster hurried off in his car and soon the police arrived. "Which way did he go?" panted an officer.

The cashier pointed down the avenue, and the police pursued. At that moment a customer entered the bank.

"Good morning," he said to the cashier. "I'd like to draw $500 from my account."

The cashier pointed out the door. "Yes, sir," he advised. "Just follow those cops!"

Huge Wheels

Giant flywheels in some stabilizing gyroscopes in large ocean liners require nearly three hours to reach their maximum speed of 15 revolutions a second, while the water wheels in some turbines in hydro-electric plants will run on momentum, unless the brakes are applied, for more than 12 hours.

LOSS

In a small news item report is made that the Peosco Valley Packing Plant at Roswell which has supplied most of the meat stocks for the southeastern section of the state, will close down until next April because it has exhausted its supplies of rigidly rationed packing materials. It may be assumed that there is no dearth of beef, or pork or other meats but only such items as are required for processing live animals to edible stocks. The circumstances indicate that the area which has been served by the Roswell packing plant must look to some distant and out-of-state source for supplies during the next ninety days. Because of increasing handicaps upon such other sources there will be difficulty in obtaining replacements of supply.

One of the probable causes of the closing is the increased requirements of markets in the Roswell area for meeting vastly increased needs of military forces stationed in the several training camps and posts in the area. Although such plants do not undertake to furnish military needs to the exclusion of civilian demands the large numbers of military personnel who seek civilian service so multiply demand that customary sources are unable to keep up with the parade. —

Sheriff's Posse

Monday Night, Jan. 25, at the office Sheriff Stover, the biggest meeting of the Sheriff's Posse held since its organization.

Secretary John E. Hall made a complete report of the last rodeo, clearing up everything to date,
which was approved by the Posse. The customary Hat drawing took place before adjournment, County Commissioner and Marshal Atkinson was the lucky Posseman.

After adjournment, the posse accepted an invitation from Dr.
Turner to go to the Country
Club, where they saw the moving pictures of the large crowd of Possemen.
