Lincoln County Woman Wins Canning Contest

Mrs. Santiago Herrera of San Patricio, New Mexico has received word from the Kerr Manufacturing Co. that she has been awarded a prize in the canning contest for Farm Security Administration borrowers which is sponsored each year by the company. Mrs. Herrera had one of the two outstanding jars entered in the New Mexico contest.

The local FSA office advises that Mrs. Herrera first began to can six years ago, that she canned a total of 450 quarts of vegetables for her family of six during 1942, and plans to can at least 700 quarts during 1943.

According to Mr. John R. Curry, local FSA Supervisor, many other FSA families in Lincoln County each year fill a canning budget similar to that of Mrs. Herrera. The canning budget is planned by the Home-maker with the assistance of the FSA Home-Management-Supervisor to fit needs of the individual family. He says that FSA families are making a real contribution to the war effort by growing and preserving their own food at home and that food rationing will excuse them no inconvenience. The Supervisor said that one homemaker told him a few days ago that she had not used a single one of the food ration stamps for her family except the ones for sugar and did not plan to use them as she had home produced milk, butter, eggs, cereals, and vegetables for year round use.

Head of Postoffice Department Resorts to Dirty Politics

Yesterday morning front pages of all daily papers contained news of the return to Washington of Postmaster General Walker who is also chairman of the National Democratic committee, after a three-week's political visit over the west, southwest and middle west. On his return he made up a report that things looked "rosy" for the Democratic party in 1944.

He also nosed into the political set-up at Chicago and said that as outsiders should keep their hands off of Chicago, he hoped the people would return Mayor Kelley, also Scott Lucas, U. S. Senator, both of whom are head-lights to the Kelly-Nash political machine, much like the old Tom Fendergast machine in Missouri.

Pardon us for a moment if we exercise the small amount of free speech we still have left. When Grover Cleveland was President of the United States and when the Democrats were in power, he issued strict orders that no government official should soil his official garment by interfering in anything political and termed the same an "offensive partisanship". Not only did he forbid it, but he fined many postmasters for violating that order. Now, we come to the point where the head of the postoffice department takes the lead and scours over most of the states to ascertain how the land lays for his party and the same being done at the expense of the taxpayers. How the mighty have fallen!

Carrizozo Lodge No. 30 I. O. O. F., held a well attended meeting Tuesday night. The Three-Lockers are preparing for an important increase in membership and the increase of interest, together with the anticipation of the war, is remarkable.

Mr. A. L. Burke
Carrizozo, N. M.

Dear Mr. Burke:

Enclosed is a small item that was published in the El Paso Times, Tuesday, March 22, 1943. The item fits me perfectly, including the age. I have gotten several telephone calls from around Carrizozo asking how badly I was hurt. The fact is the person referred was me. I haven't been shot or I haven't deserted the army. I like my work very well.

I am asking you to put a small item in your paper to the effect that I haven't been placed in the psychopathic ward as yet, and this person referred to just happened to have the same name as mine.

Thanking you for your favors,
I am,
Sincerely yours,
Jack Adams.

W.N.U. RELEASE

THE STORY SO FAR: Arriving simultaneously at the King Cole Ranch, Ann Lee and Cole Cody discovered Old Early Bill Cole had made two identical wills, leaving them all his money and the ranch. Rance Waldron, established at the ranch since Old Bill's death from a mysterious gun-shot wound, questioned the sanity of Old Bill and the legality of the wills. Late that evening, Ann's Aunt Jennifer stole out and watched Rance help a strange lurking man out of the house. She awakened Cole and told him what had happened. Together with Cal, the foreman, he trailed the fleeing horsemen to a deserted cabin. Aunt Jennifer, searching Rance's possessions, heard footsteps. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XIII

For one stricken instant the adventuresome Aunt Jennifer felt as though she were paralyzed. The next second she leapt and ran like a frightened deer; her racing footsteps sounded extraordinarily loud in her own ears as she dashed through Waldron's room toward the corridor. Then an even louder sound struck her ears, a man in the yard running faster than she could run, making for the outside door of Tom Gough's room. She gained the door she was heading for and heard the other door snapped open, and heard a man's heavy boots come pounding on.

She fled faster than ever, carrying her lamp in one hand, her letter in the other. The lamp chimney was shaken off and crashed to the floor, making a noise, it seemed to her, loud enough to wake the dead, but the flame, giving out more smoke than light, still burned on and showed her dimly the way she must go to gain her own room. She glanced back and saw the man speeding after her: it was too dark back there for her to make him out clearly, but she knew it must be Rance Waldron, and she could imagine his hard hands choking her to death.

By about three yards she won the race. But by the time she could slip into Ann Lee's room and get her key into the lock, he was at her door. By the fraction of a second she shot the bolt before his hand touched the knob.

Then she sped through Ann Lee's room and to the door that gave upon the corridor, and as she heard him coming there, too, she got that door locked.

There was a heavy silence, then Ann Lee's sleepy voice asking, "Is that you, Auntie? What are you doing?"

Then Rance Waldron's voice spoke up, saying curtly yet not over loud, "Miss Edwards, I think you had better let me come in. Or, if you like, you might step out here and give me a word of explanation."

"Not tonight, Mr. Waldron, thank you," said Aunt Jennifer with creditable calmness.

Ann Lee sat up in bed.

"What is it?" she whispered.

"What has happened?"

Again Rance Waldron spoke, more sternly this time.

"Miss Edwards, I won't stand for this sort of thing. You come out here and give me a good explanation or I'll smash your door down and come in."

Aunt Jennifer told her pat little lie then.

"I still have Cal Roundtree's gun, Mr. Waldron," she said quietly.

"Stick your ugly mug in here and I'll shoot it off!"

"I'll bust your door down, I tell you," said Waldron. "I know you haven't any gun. Cody picked it out into the patio and I saw Roundtree pick it up and halter it and carry it off with him. Going to open up?"

"No. Not on your life. And if you try it, I'll yell my head off, and I've got a voice that'll call the hogs home a mile, and the Cole Cody you mention will be here like a shot and will work on you the way he did this morning, only I'll bet my bustle he'll do a better and more lasting job this time."

"That's something to think about," said Waldron, and sounded reasonable and thoughtful. Then he fell silent. A moment later she could hear his footsteps, moving away.

By now Ann Lee was thoroughly frightened. She was sitting up, the bed covers clutched up to her throat as though for protection.

"What's going on here?"

The answer came quickly enough.

"Oh, Cole! God sent you to us! That horrid Rance Waldron is trying to break our door down!"

"I can't see you, Waldron," said Cody, his tone as steady and deliberate as before. "From your ax work I can guess pretty close where you are, though. Want to shoot it out in the dark? Or stick your tail between your legs and get out of here?"

Rance Waldron took his time in deciding how to answer.

"Shooting it out in the dark, Cody," he said after due thought, "is sheer luck. I haven't been over lucky of late; if it's the same with you I'd rather take you on by daylight."

"Suits me fine," said Cody.

Rance Waldron dropped his ax. His gun was in his hand as he said, "All right; I'm taking your word for it," and started back down the corridor to his room.

Then Bill Cole Cody stepped along through the darkness toward the rooms where Ann Lee and her aunt

"Well, what's the answer?" demanded Waldron. "I can't give you all night, you know, to make up your mind."

Ann Lee put her lips close to Aunt Jennifer's ear.

"There are windows!" she whispered eagerly. "We can slip through while he's battering at our door, and scoot like anything down to where Cal Roundtree is!"

Aunt Jennifer whispered back, "Go take a good look at the windows, Goosey. This is a regular old Spanish house; every one of these windows has iron bars like a jail; if you haven't noticed, I have."

"I'll give you about two minutes more to think it over," said Waldron. "That's because if I go shooting your lock off, I'm apt to wake that nosy Roundtree. I'll go to the kitchen and get a hand-ax; there's one by the wood box. I can handle that so he won't hear a sound. You've got until I get back to do your thinking. And I'll manage to keep an eye on your door so that you don't sneak out on me."

They listened for his departing footsteps and didn't hear a sound. So they quite naturally decided that he was still standing before their door, trying to trick them into sticking their noses out when he'd be ready to pounce on them. But he had tricked them in another way. What he had actually done was remove his boots, set them down gently and hurry in his socked feet to the kitchen, get the hand-ax and were imprisoned. He, like Waldron before him, struck a match or two. Arrived at his destination, he said, "Will you ladies open up to me? It's in the cards, I think, that I have a word with you."

It was Ann Lee's swift hand that unlocked the door; Cody, his gun still in his hand, since he trusted Rance Waldron in nothing, made no move to cross the threshold. His eyes, smoldering under his dark brows, took in all the loveliness of the trim little figure before him, gave no hint of his admiration, passed on to Aunt Jennifer.

"Do you care to tell me what the ruckus was all about?" he asked. "It might be a good idea." Speaking pointedly to Jennifer, he added: "You were right in what you told me a while ago. Cal Roundtree and I have found out a thing or two."

"Will you step in, Mr. Cody?" asked Aunt Jennifer. "You're right welcome."

"I'd be glad to do so, ma'am," said Cody politely, and stepped briskly into Ann Lee's room.

Aunt Jennifer closed and locked the door and wasted no further time giving Cole Cody, with Ann Lee all ears to take it in, her adventure of the night. She even handed the Jenkins letter to Cody who read it and then stood there frowning at it.

"I don't know what to do about it all," he said at last. "This letter found in his room, and the fact of his having hid a wounded man in his room all day, comes pretty close to pinning Mr. Rance Waldron's ears back. He—"

"A man hid in the house all day!" gasped Ann Lee. "A wounded man? Tell me about it!"

"It's my notion," said Aunt Jennifer tartly, "and I reckon it's Cole Cody's notion, too, that Rance Waldron and the man he's been hiding, are the two that held the stage up yesterday. Right, Cole?"

Cody nodded.

"Right, Aunt Jennifer. And more than that, Cal Roundtree feels certain that Tom Gough—that's the man Waldron has been hiding out—is the man who shot Old Early Bill. If all of us are right in our guesses, we'd better watch our steps. But if we round these two up and hand them over to the sheriff, what can we actually prove against them? We've got scraps of evidence, but it's mostly guesswork at that. Try a man for murder and let the jury find him innocent, and you can't ever haul him into court again. That's the law."

If by some off chance he thought that under the circumstances a contrite Ann Lee would break down and plead to be forgiven, he didn't as yet quite know his Ann Lee.

She kept her eyes down and her hands clasped before her, and said meekly,

"Perhaps, Mr. Cody, that the shot you received this morning was sent by Providence to remind one that the spirit of man should never be proud, whereas if you stood out there in the lamp light and Mr. Waldron popped a bullet into you, it would probably only show that you are a bigger fool than he is."

Aunt Jennifer said crisply, "Sit down, Mr. Cody. Seems as though you're always to save our bacon from falling into the fire. Let's have a bit of a war talk, shall we?"

"Auntie!" Ann Lee glared at Miss Edwards, using one of the highest-grade glares she kept in stock. "For this war talk of yours hadn't we better step into your room?"

"This suits me fine," said Cody, and sat down.

"There is merit in my niece's suggestion, Mr. Cody," she said. "You'll note if you look about you that her room is in some disarray; you see the dear child had already retired and was fast asleep when the fireworks started. My room you'll find as spick and span as I always am. This way, please."

So the three went to the adjoining room and sat down, Ann Lee having returned to her own for the extra chair needed.

"Now for the war talk," said Cody. He reached for tobacco and papers.

"Cal and I figured the whole thing out about as you do. Cal thought it might be a good idea to hang the two of 'em right away, and save bother and fooling around. Maybe he was right. Yet come right down to it we don't really know a thing about either Rance Waldron or Tom Gough. But I can't see much to be done on it tonight. It's kind of late and me, for one, I'm clean tuckered with the shooting-up this young lady handed me and the ride tonight. Suppose we talk this over, getting Cal in on it, in the morning and maybe sending for the Judge and Doc Joe to help give us a steer?"

Ann Lee locked her relief; Aunt Jennifer nodded and said vehemently, "Mr. Cody, I want you to stay near to tonight, I'll sleep with Ann Lee, and you take my room. Won't you?"

Cody rose and bowed; it was a rather graceful bow, thought Ann Lee as she and Aunt Jennifer rose also.

They passed to their room; he stepped after them to the door, closed it gently and said a very quiet,

"Thanks, ma'am. And good night, ladies."

Egg Slices Ring Around Lima Bean Casserole (See Recipes Below)

Nutritious Dishes

Are you struggling with the problems of planning meals with rationing or depleted stocks of food? Do you get late to market some days and find you can't find what you wanted? Then, today's recipes and suggestions will be of real help to you—for these times are real problems for every homemaker.

Now that you are shopping not only with a budget but also with a point budget, you must plan carefully so as not to use all the precious points before your month is up. Use as many unrationed foods as possible, and budget those points carefully which you have to use. Never lose sight of nutrition qualities however, for your body must be properly fed to do its work.

Lima beans, rich source of vegetable protein, thiamin and riboflavin make an excellent meat extender. With three eggs and careful seasoning, it will have an unmistakable appeal—and plenty of hearty satisfaction:

Lima Beans California. (Serves 6)
2 cups dried limas
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup hot water
2 hard-cooked eggs
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon parsley, chopped
1 egg beaten
1 tablespoon lemon juice
To cook dried lima beans, soak in cold water 4 to 5 hours or overnight. Before dinner, cook in same water 20 minutes, add salt and cook 20 minutes longer or until beans are tender.

Cream butter, add salt, pepper, parsley, lemon juice, and beaten egg. Mix well, add hot water, then pour over limas and cook in double boiler until creamy. Turn into a hot vegetable dish and arrange hard-cooked eggs over top and sprinkle finely-chopped parsley in a border around dish.

Pump limas combined with another good protein food, cheese, in this dish, meet the requirements of a good main dish:

Lima Bean Cheese Loaf. (Serves 6)
2 cups cooked, dried lima beans, pureed
1 cup cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1/4 cup onion, minced
1/4 cup ham, ground
2 tablespoons parsley, minced
1/2 cup American cheese, shredded
1/4 cup milk

Lynn Says: The Score Card: When you plan meals these days, do it with ration book in hand. Remember, you're spending not only money but points and that requires extra keeping of accounts.

Plan meals in advance keeping in mind what you need and what points you can use to best advantage with it. Don't squander points. If, for example, you have an eight-point coupon, and need something valued at six points, try not to use the eight-point coupon except with anything which corresponds with it. Since canned and packaged goods will be at a premium, plan those menus carefully. Don't do without fruits and vegetables if the coupons are used up—have plenty of fresh, unrationed ones on hand.

This Week's Menu
Lima Bean Cheese Loaf
Orange-Apple Salad
Oatmeal Refrigerator Rolls
Snow Pudding. Custard Sauce
Beverage
*Recipe Given

2 tablespoons, chill sauce
1/2 cup meat stock

One cup of dried lima beans makes about 3 cups when cooked. Soak them overnight in cold water, then cook for 20 minutes, add salt and cook 10 to 20 minutes more until tender. To puree lima beans, put through a sieve.

Brown onion and green pepper in butter. Blend all ingredients except stock together thoroughly. Pack into a well-greased loaf tin. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 50 minutes. Baste frequently with stock.

An excellent tomato sauce to serve with this loaf can be made by sauteeing 2 tablespoons minced onion and 2 tablespoons chopped celery in 2 tablespoons butter.

Add to this 2 bay leaves, 1 teaspoon whole cloves, 1/2 teaspoon salt and 1 can tomato soup. Simmer 10 minutes, strain, and serve with loaf.

Several times recently when I have visited the butcher, he has offered me pork tenderloin. This is an excellent tasting meat—very rich in vitamin B1 or thiamin, which prevents nervousness, restlessness, listlessness and tiredness.

Breaded Pork Tenderloin. (Serves 4)
1 pound pork tenderloin
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup fine bread crumbs
1 egg
2 tablespoons water or milk
Meal drippings

Cut tenderloin into 2-inch sections. Flatten. Season with salt and pepper. Dip in crumbs, slightly beaten egg, diluted, and again in crumbs. Brown on both sides on hot drippings. Cover and cook slowly for 30 minutes.

An unrestricted meat is tongue—you don't have to carry a ration book to get it at your butcher's. Learn how to cook it, and you will really discover a culinary delight for your family:

Tongue With Carrots in Spinach Nests.
1 fresh beef tongue
Water
2 teaspoons salt
3 1/2 cups cooked spinach
2 cups cooked, diced carrots

Cover tongue with water and add salt. Cover. Allow to simmer 1 hour to each pound of tongue, or until tongue is tender. Remove from water and skin. Serve hot, sliced. Arrange nests of spinach and carrots on platter around tongue.

Smothered Chicken. (Serves 4)
2 pounds chicken
1 pound mushrooms
1/2 cup milk
2 tablespoons butter or fat
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 tablespoon flour

Cut chicken in serving pieces and brown in fat. Slice and fry mushrooms until browned. Place chicken in baking dish, cover with mushrooms. Thicken remaining fat with flour, add salt and pepper, then milk and cook until thickened. Pour sauce over mushrooms and chicken. Cover baking dish and bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 45 minutes.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Seed-bearing pods high up in rubber trees are eaten by birds, which scatter the seeds. The pods, about the size of a goose egg, contain formations of gas which expand when the pods are thrown to the ground as far as 100 feet.

The French call rubber cooties from an Indian term meaning "weeping tree."

Mostly for use of roadside trees that please our owners, we have been cutting air pressure while trees are used, before setting will show up. These trees are being cut in an amount of pressure due to new links.

Temperature, topography and types of roads as well as driving habit of owners account for wide variations in mileage from identical tires. These factors may account for a tire turning in from twenty to twenty-five thousand miles, but in Chicago whereas from seven to eight thousand miles may be the mileage it will make in Texas.

IMPROVED INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for April 4

PETER AND JOHN BECOME DISCIPLES OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—John 1:29-42; Mark 1:16-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

Personal faith in Christ is the heart of Christian experience. Since persons are won by other persons it was vitally important that the Lord choose the right disciples at the very beginning of the Church. Outstanding among the twelve disciples were Peter and John, whose lives and letters we study during the next three months.

The manner in which they became disciples is of unusual interest—and is instructive as well. We will observe that our Lord is working in much the same way on the Peters and Johns of our own day. They came to Him by way of

I. Testimony—They Heard About Jesus (John 1:29-34, 41).

John, who modestly refrains from naming himself (v. 40), heard about Jesus from John the Baptist. His testimony is notable for its pointed presentation of Christ, and its unmistakable desire that they follow Him. John was an important man with a vigorous message, but he recognized that his only real business for God was to point men to Christ. He enjoyed having men follow him, but only that he might lead them to Jesus.

In doing Christian work we should learn so to bear our testimony that we may magnify Christ, and not ourselves. We must be careful to win men to Christ, and not to ourselves or our cause or church.

Peter was brought to Jesus by his brother Andrew. Andrew was a quiet, modest man of whom we do not read that he preached a single sermon. But he did do personal work (see John 6:8, 9; 12:21, 22). He has been called "Andrew the finder." May "his tribe" increase. We need more like him.

Hearing about Jesus is not enough. There must be the next step, the indispensable personal meeting with the Lord.

II. Experience—They Saw Jesus (John 1:35-39, 42).

The necessity of a personal experience with Christ is so clearly stated in Scripture that one can only marvel that it is so neglected in many churches today.

Neither John the Baptist nor, later, Andrew was content to tell about Jesus. They brought John and Peter to the Lord. John said, "Behold the Lamb of God" (v. 36); and Andrew brought him to Jesus' (v. 42). These sum up the soul-winner's duty. We must bring our family, our friends, yes, the stranger with whom we deal, into the presence of Jesus.

He will look into their eyes and into their souls and see in them all the gifts and graces which may make them useful to Him (v. 42). John was the brother of James and Peter the brother of Andrew—just two humble fishermen in the sight of men. But Jesus saw in them two of the most useful men who have ever lived. Let us give Him a chance to deal with our friends and acquaintances.

Hearing and seeing are both excellent, but they lack one final step—and here it is—

III. Action—They Followed Jesus (John 1:40; Mark 1:16-20).

First of all they followed Jesus in becoming believers on Him as the Messiah. That experience of John's we find in John 1:40, and of Peter's (by inference) in verse 42. There is no salvation apart from that act of the will which follows a knowledge of Christ.

In the passage in Mark we find Him calling them to leave their secular calling as fishers of fish to follow Him and become fishers of men. Before they could become what He wanted them to be, they had to do something—rise up and follow Him.

Their unquestioning response indicated their faith, but, more than that, it showed that they were the kind of obedient men who could be used of the Lord. Jesus might have called His disciples from the learned and the mighty. But one wonders whether they would have been willing to respond without argument, and to learn of Him without prejudice or preconceived ideas of theology.

God must often pass the mighty and the noble of this world, and call those who are foolish enough to believe Him—and obey (read I Cor. 1:17-29). The reason is given there—"That no flesh should glory in his presence." The glory belongs to the Lord, not to His servants.

Because they did obey they became "fishers of men." He led them, trained them, encouraged them, blessed them, and used them.

A disciple is a "learner," but he is learning for a purpose. Learning for its own sake, as an ornament or a selfish pleasure, is always a sad thing, but with the disciple of Christ it cannot be that if he rightly knows Christ.

The disciple is to win other disciples. That is the very heart of Christian witness.

Beautiful Quilt Made From Scraps of Silk

MANY an old-time art is being revived today and the art of making old-fashioned crazy patch quilts is one that fits into our times. All you need is scraps of silk and odds and ends of embroidery thread. The pieces are sewn to a foundation of light weight cotton material with a variety of embroidery stitches. This colorful patchwork may then be used for a new cover for a comforter. Another idea is to cover a worn woolen blanket with it. The result will be a warm and luxurious quilt that will last for years.

NOTE—Book 7 of the series available to readers shows another crazy patch design and gives directions for more than 20 stitches and combinations of stitches to be used for this work. Book 2 of the series gives directions for 42 other stitches that you will want to use for your quilt. Books are 15 cents each, and requests should be sent direct to:

Unless your trip is really essential, you'll do your country a service by staying home

Transportation is a key war industry. The war load on the railroads is mounting steadily.

Southern Pacific trains are very crowded—not comfortable as they used to be.

Military and other essential travel comes first. And when these essential travelers have been taken care of there is really no room on the trains for people traveling unnecessarily.

Unless you absolutely have to travel, we advise you to stay home.

Thanks for your cooperation.

BANKS AND THE WAR

Banking's Manpower

America's banks have felt the impact of war from many sides. They have been called upon to perform numerous war services, such as selling War Bonds, purchasing the Treasury's securities and financing war production. On the other side of the ledger it is interesting to see what is happening to Banking's man (and woman) power. Of a total of 280 bank staff members in 1942, 90 were lost to war production and armed services in 1942. The American Bankers Association estimates that 100,000 more will go in 1943. The road ahead looks rough, but Banking will "carry on."

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, there's been quite a bit of talk going around about prohibiting liquor in various spots around the country... around the Army camps for one thing. What do you make of it?"

"Well, Henry, I size it up about like this. It looks to me like the folks who are doing the talking are shooting a little bit higher than most people seem to realize. Sort of like the salesman who gets his foot in the door and before you know it he's sold you a bill of goods. Wouldn't surprise me a bit if what they're really aiming for is to take in the whole country again. We all know it didn't work the last time. All we got was bootleg liquor instead of legal liquor... plus racketeers, gangsters and the worst crime wave the country ever saw.

"Seems to me we've all got our hands full to win this war without starting up an argument we just got through settling a few years back."

Butchering Permits Required

"Black Market" operations have made it necessary to control the slaughter of livestock for sale. The control measures consist of the licensing of farm slaughterers, local slaughtering plants, and butchers. The law becomes effective April 1, 1943.

"Farm Slaughterers" include all resident farm operators who in 1941 delivered meat from the slaughter of livestock having a live weight of not more than 10,000 pounds.

"Local Slaughterers" include all persons who in 1941 slaughtered livestock with a total live weight in excess of 300,000 pounds.

"Butchers" include all persons other than farm slaughterers who in 1941 slaughtered livestock with a total live weight of not more than 300,000 pounds.

Farmers who slaughter exclusively for home consumption on their farms are not covered by the order. Those covered under the Food Distribution Order may obtain permits through the County USDA War Board.

If you are affected by the above order, you are urged to attend a meeting which will be held at the Carrizozo High School Building, Saturday, March 20, beginning at 10 a. m. A representative of the State War Board will be present at the meeting to discuss the details of the Food Distribution Order.

Sec Co USDA War Board

Anyone interested in any of the equipment listed should make application immediately, since, after a reasonable time, the committee will consider all applications submitted and issue purchase certificates for machinery.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The Bofors anti-aircraft gun is designed for greater range and heavier calibre than the average anti-aircraft or rapid fire gun. They are mechanically intricate and more costly. The two-gun Bofors mount costs approximately $88,000 while a Bofors quad-mount runs up to $140,000.

We want our fighters to have the best equipment possible and your purchase of War Bonds will help pay for these guns, giving them an advantage over our enemies. Buy War Bonds every payday. At least ten percent of your income, or as much as you can buy will help pay the war cost, provide you with a nest egg for the future, and pay you good interest.

WAR CHIEF SAYS U. S. REQUIRES 11 MILLION MEN TO WHIP AXIS; HOME FRONT MUST BE ADJUSTED

Patterson Claims Nazis Have 13 Million Men at Their Command; Jap Also Strong in Pacific Area.

By ROBERT P. PATTERSON, Undersecretary of War

Questions raised in recent weeks as to whether America shall have the army of 8,200,000 men which its military leadership has determined to be the minimum with which we can expect to defeat our enemies have not, it seems to me, given due consideration to military necessity.

We are out to win this war. The nation has entrusted the responsibility for this victory to its military leaders. This leadership—the joint chiefs of staff of the army and navy, after the most careful analysis of our enemies' strength, has decided that we must build an armed force of approximately 11,000,000, which includes an army of 8,200,000 for 1943-44.

Our own men have been in contact only with the smallest of the Axis armies—a part of its Tunisian force of less than a quarter of a million men. But the striking force of this powerful foe has already been felt by our troops.

The German field armies are assisted by more than one million men in semi-military organizations, such as the military police, engineers, and supply depots, which in our army are included among service troops.

Reliable sources indicate that the combined number of those in the German and Italian armed forces and those directly assisting them runs well over 13 million. It is evident at this point that the superiority of our enemies in the European theater is of ominous proportions.

A similar analysis in the Pacific area does not brighten the picture. The Japanese army exceeds by many divisions the forces that the United Nations have been able to equip and place in opposition.

Yet the United Nations, and particularly this country, have the potential power to overcome this numerical superiority. These potentialities must be converted to actuality. They must be harnessed and driven toward a single goal, the defeat of our enemies. In that drive our country, the latest of the major powers to enter the war, must play the most important part.

Army Determines Size After Careful Study of Its Needs

Offensive action requires superiority in numbers. This is the reason we need an army of 8,200,000 including officers by the end of this year. The navy, the marines and the coast guard need 2,600,000 this year. That makes a total of 10,800,000 men and women that must be in the armed forces by the end of this year. This will be less than 8 1/2 per cent of our total population. Thirteen and a half per cent of the German population is in the armed forces.

Ten million, eight hundred thousand is not a figure pulled out of a hat. It is the requirement determined by those charged with the heavy responsibility of winning this war.

General Marshall says that we need so many planes and so many tanks to win the war. Is there anyone in America who would question his judgment? Admiral King says that we need so many escort ships and destroyers to beat the Axis. Is there anyone in America who would question his judgment? The expert views of our military leaders are accepted on our needs for guns and ships. Why should anyone question their judgment as to the number of men that they need to use these weapons and map these ships?

The staffs of the army and the navy under General Marshall and Admiral King, in full possession of the facts, have made the military decision that a force this size is necessary to win the war. Our Commander-in-Chief, the President of the United States, has approved this program. It is America's answer to the Axis. The Axis, I assure you, does not like that answer.

In making this decision full account has been taken of the ability of American industry and labor and agriculture to produce the supplies needed by our forces, by our Allies and by our civilian economy. Full account has also been taken of the ability of our rapidly expanding merchant marine to deliver soldiers and supplies overseas. The conclusion reached was that it was a hard job, but that it could and must be done.

American troops land in North Africa. They are the vanguard of a proposed force of 8,200,000 men who will be needed to defeat the Axis, war officials say.

But there are critics of the army program who ask, "Why should we fight? Why not give more supplies to the British, the Chinese and the Russians and let them fight for us?"

The British, with the smallest available manpower and subject to savage aerial attacks, have come nearer than any other of the United States to the full-time war employment of every man, woman and child. The Chinese have been heroically fighting for 5 1/2 years. The Russians, by brilliant tactics and with indomitable courage, have killed more Nazis than all the other United Nations combined. We should give tribute to their dead, for they have sacrificed countless lives. But their manpower is not inexhaustible.

We're in the War, Too, and It Will Be Won the Hard Way. This is our war just as much as it is the war of the British, the Russians and the Chinese. We are sending supplies to the utmost of our ability to these and the other United Nations. We will continue to do so. But it will be our soldiers and sailors, and those of our Allies, that will win the final victory.

Elemental truths are often the most difficult to grasp. Throughout all ages people have tried to avoid facing up to the reality that war is grim business; have longed for an easy war; and have hoped that somehow, some way, victory could be gained without risking too much or without experiencing the stark unpleasantness of the conflict. But all the wishing in the world does not change the nature of war and its impact on all peoples engaged in it, whether in the battle lines or at home.

The hour for realism has arrived for every American. We must brace ourselves for mounting casualty lists and reverses on the battle front, and for more arduous labors and sacrifices on the home front.

Realism must extend from the foxholes and pill-boxes on the firing line to the factories and homes of America. When our country is at war, none of us can escape the responsibility of viewing the routine, as well as the emergency duties of life, in the light of their bearing upon the final result—unconditional surrender by our enemies.

This nation has done a magnificent job in production for war. But there is an even heavier task ahead. We will have serious problems because of the increasing drain on our manpower. But similar problems have been solved in England, Russia, Germany and Japan. Non-essential activities are out for the duration and these countries are fully mobilized—to a much greater extent than we. On every one rests the equal obligation to give service either in the armed forces or on the home front. Why should we suppose that we can wage war successfully without mobilizing our human resources with a thoroughness at least approaching that of our enemies and of our principal allies?

Army Requirements Come First; Nation Must Get Into Industry. The needs of the armed forces must come first. The problems of turnover and absenteeism must and can be solved. Each of us must work to the utmost of his capability.

We must also tackle our farm labor problem with vigor. There are white collar workers in non-essential industries who can go back to the farms from which they came. There are victory gardens to be encouraged. More work can be done by women. Farm machinery can be pooled. Many steps can be taken to increase production on the farms.

We cannot solve our manpower problems by whittling down the size of our armed forces. The problem must be tackled at its source. Every one wants to do his or her share to help win the war and must serve where he or she can render the best service. The decision cannot be based upon personal desire.

With vast territories and resources at their disposal, the Axis cannot be defeated by a blockade. Victory will come from decisive military action, backed by an armed force and ability so overwhelmingly superior that the enemy's further action will be futile.

In World War I, it was our American Expeditionary force of 2,000,000 added to the strength of our Allies, that made the enemy surrender. On November 11, 1918, the Allies had 32 fresh divisions in reserve. The Germans only had two. The Allies had a total of 213 divisions. The Germans had 135. The Germans were aware of these figures. Their ability to reason from figures is well known. They decided that they could not win, and they quit.

Now, as then, the enemy must be made to realize that they cannot win. Now, as then, we must make them see that we are going to see the job through.

Some 15,000 motor trucks are used for the collection and delivery of shipments. All told, the express service operates on a total mileage of 282,456.

THE BLUEPRINT FUTURE
No more worries, no more care,
No more future need to fret;
Everybody'll get his share
From his country. Wanna bet?

No more forging to the front—
It was something of a crime—
Dead the "rags to riches" stunt;
Laws will do it all in time!

Gone the old trail-blazing way
Of the fit and tough and free,
Government will see that they
Find trails opened by decree.

No more "shack to palace" stuff—
Out with "May the best man win!"
Smooth'd will be all journeys rough—
Congress will protect YOUR chin!

No more strong types pressing on—
No more extra-feathered nests...
Bid the pushing-type begone!
Bar the whiskers from all chests!

No more Algiers—not a one!
No more bootblacks making good;
Legislation will, my son,
See to that, it's understood.

No more hare-and-tortoise game—(Hares will be controlled, and how!)—
Tortoises will get the same
Breaks that hares are getting now.

No more "Upward, onward!" cries
No more praise for ambitious keen;
Everybody lives and dies
On the lower mezzanine.

No more bothering to plain,
No more "upward to the sky";
Welcome to the standard man,
Each one like the other guy!

No more "hitch your wagon to
Some far star that brightly
gleams";
Hitch it to the planners who
Also standardize your dreams.

DELAYED
Where is the spring that should be here?
Where are the songbirds, gently humming?
Gone are the snows of yesterday—
But more keeps coming.

A half dozen men convicted of black market meat operations have been given jail sentences in New York. We understand they are already figuring out ways to "cut" the terms, evade the sentences and get around the whole matter.

If the black marketeers go to the hoosegow we trust the food will be of a quantity and quality to give them plenty of cause for complaint.

The height of irony would be one of these meat racketeers behind the bars lamenting, "The place ain't so bad, but the feed is awful."

The trouble with many people is that when they speak of getting down to bedrock they think more about the bed than the rock.

It may be true, but it seems highly improbable that a man turned on his radio recently and did NOT get a war commentator.

Elmer Twitchell thinks there should be some sort of a flag or insignia to paste in the windows of the homes of husbands whose womenfolk have gone to war.

He suggests a design, the background of which shows a sink full of dishes. In the foreground would be unwashed plates, denoting:
1 plate—Wife in uniform.
2 plates—Wife and daughter in uniform.
3 plates—Wife and two daughters in uniform.
4 or more plates—Every female relative in uniform. Come in and help dry the platters.

Ima Dodo can't get the withholding tax idea straight. She thinks it means congress is going to put a point valuation on money and withhold everything from salaries over eight ounces.

There will be a 5 to 10 per cent rise in liquor prices soon. This is fair warning just in case your present bank won't accommodate you with a big enough loan for another bottle.

Elmer Twitchell can't wait for shellfish to be rationed so he can annoy the waiter by asking how many blue points he will have to give up to get a half dozen blue-points.

The National Resources Planning board's 40,000-word plan for taking care of everybody from the cradle to the grave eliminates all troubles and responsibilities. Except those that will arise if its methods of eliminating them are ever tried.

As coal—with heart to match.

CISTERNS

THE time is approaching when a cistern can be filled with water so pure that it will not develop smell or taste. The first step should be the thorough cleaning of the cistern. Next, the flow pipe from the roof should have a switch to permit the first part of a rainfall to be diverted, so that waste matter on the roof will be carried off. Switches for this purpose can be had from hardware dealers. The top of the cistern should be tight to prevent the entrance of surface water and to keep out small animals and insects. A ventilator in the top can be a pipe two or three feet long, with layers of cheese-cloth tied over the top, to permit the passage of air. Rains in the late fall and early spring should be allowed to enter the cistern, for these, as well as the melting snow in winter, are free from vegetation and other waste matter. I know of cisterns built in this way and filled by this method to supply pure drinking water far into the summer. Some of them are large enough for the water to last for a year.

Jill of All Trades

The electric bulb socket holds no mysteries for the wartime handy-woman. She has learned to rewire and repair faulty sockets as part of her home repairs course. She has also learned how to keep her various electrical appliances in tip-top shape, thus saving electric power and avoiding accidents in the home.

Well in Cellar
Question: Will a well in the cellar cause dampness or make the floors cold? There is no furnace in the cellar. If so, would it still be damp if I filled in the well? I can get town water. The cellar only is under the kitchen.

Answer: A large body of water, such as the well, in your cellar naturally would give off dampness. A good, dry cellar with a concrete floor would keep your house drier and warmer than one having an earth floor, with a well in it. My choice would be to fill up the well and get the town water. If you do not wish to put down a concrete floor at this time, you should protect the underside of the upstairs flooring with a blanket type insulating material nailed between the floor joists. Get the kind that is one or two inches thick—the thicker the better—and covered all over with waterproof paper.

Mahogany Cabinet
Question: We have a mahogany-stained cabinet which we should like to refinish with light gray enamel. Is there a "sealer" that we could use without having to remove the present finish? Or should we take off all the present finish?

Answer: If the old finish is in fair condition you can finish the piece in the following way: Dull the gloss by rubbing lightly with very fine (000) sandpaper. Then clean the surface by wiping with turpentine, and apply a coat of shellac. When this is dry, dull the gloss again, wipe off the dust, and then put on a gray flat paint and finish with enamel.

Tar Paper Roof
Question: What is the best way to preserve a roof finished with roofing tar paper?

Answer: When the roof surface begins to show signs of drying or slight brittleness, mop on a coat of a good brand of liquid-tar roof coating. If the roofing is asphalt, use liquid-asphalt roof coating. Never put tar over asphalt, or the other way around.

DEMONSTRATIONS CONVENTION "demonstrations"—those amazing exhibitions of hysterical enthusiasm, usually manufactured rather than spontaneous—had their origin in the Republican convention of 1860 in Chicago.

The two leading candidates were William H. Seward of New York and Abraham Lincoln of Illinois. The New York delegation brought along a prize fighter named Tom Hyer and a band which marched about the streets playing martial music.

To match these noise-makers, supporters of "Old Abe" hired a Chicagoan "whose shout could be heard above the most violent tempest on Lake Michigan" and a leather-lunged Dr. Ames, who, though a Democrat, also consented to whoop it up for Lincoln. But the real "blow-off" came when Lincoln was nominated on the fourth ballot. An eye-witness has described the scene as follows:

"The immense multitude rose, and gave round after round of applause; ten thousand voices swelled into a roar so deafening that, for several minutes, every attempt to restore order was hopelessly vain. . . . A man appeared in the hall bringing a large painting of Mr. Lincoln. The cannon sent forth roar after roar in quick succession. Delegates tore up the sticks and boards bearing the names of several states, and waved them aloft over their heads, and the vast multitude before the platform were waving hats and handkerchiefs. Another chapter in convention 'demonstrations' was added in the Republican convention, also in Chicago, in 1880. Roscoe Conkling of New York led the forces that had determined to nominate Grant for a third term. At the first mention of Grant's name, a demonstration began which lasted nearly half an hour. Conkling, noted for his 'aristocratic coldness,' unbent enough to stimulate enthusiasm in the galleries and among the delegates by waving hats and handkerchiefs." Robert G. Ingersoll started waving after wave of frantic cheering when he grabbed a woman's red shawl and waved it aloft.

Men tore off their coats and used them for flags. Then the Grant delegates seized the standards of their states and started a parade around the hall—thus starting a custom which has been perpetuated to this day.

U. S. Steel Reports 1942 Production 28 Per Cent Greater Than World War I Peak

United States Steel Corporation's Annual Report for 1942, reporting attainment of a steel output (tonnage production) 28 per cent greater than in the peak year of World War I, has been released as "a production story—and a financial story—of a great war effort."

Production in 1942, at a cost of more than 30,000,000 net tons of steel, as well as the manufacture of a steady flow of products entering into thousands of uses in the war effort, were described by Irving B. Olds, Chairman of the Board of Directors, in his review of the year contained in the Corporation's forty-first annual report. The victory parade of steel ingots was listed as only one of several principal contributions of U. S. Steel to the war effort. These contributions were enumerated as follows: "First, a record volume of steel and other materials needed not only for the production of essential war products but also for the creation of new facilities to make such war products has been produced. Second, the technical ability representing hundreds of generations of accumulated research and experience has been made available for the requirements of the war effort. Third, the construction and operation of vast new facilities for the Government in connection with the war effort have been undertaken. Fourth, the funds of dollars of U. S. Steel's funds have been expended for various facilities contributory to the war effort."

A one-page condensation of the financial record of the Corporation for the year described in the language of what disposition was made of the $1,263,951,622 received by the Corporation from sales of its products and services during 1942. The total of $1,263,951,622 was 27 1/2 per cent greater than the $992,400,000 of the preceding year. The net income of the Corporation was 75 1/2 per cent greater than in 1941.

Among achievements cited in the development of the airplane landing mat. The serious problem of landing planes on hastily built air fields was solved with the war-time invention by Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corporation, a U. S. Steel subsidiary of interlocking steel sections. It was pronounced the outstanding development of the year in the field of aviation by the Chief of the Army Air Force. As mass production methods were evolved, other companies were licensed to use the process, and thirty smaller manufacturers are now producing these landing mat sections in quantity.

The report reveals that in 1942 one subsidiary, Federal Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, completed more destroyers for the Navy Department in shorter building time than any other shipyard in the country. A new shipyard built by the subsidiary, the Navy Department began operations five months after ground was broken. A fully equipped shipyard for the production of the latest type of tank landing craft was constructed and is being operated for the Navy Department by American Bridge Company, another subsidiary.

An interesting comparison of the use of U. S. Steel's own resources and of Government funds for the expansion of emergency facilities undertaken by U. S. Steel from June, 1940, to the end of 1942, shows that the ratio of U. S. Steel's investment to the use of Government funds was 66 of its own money to every dollar of Government funds used. The company with a ratio for all industry of 27 of private funds to one dollar of Government funds. In the expansion program, U. S. Steel's private investment was $32,000,000, compared with $48,000,000 of Government funds expended, making a total of $80,000,000 expended in the program. —AP.

Started Express Service by Carrying Packages

Some expressmen in Boston have observed the 103th anniversary of express service by paying a visit to Mount Auburn cemetery, Cambridge, Mass., where the impressive William F. Harnden memorial still stands on Central avenue.

This monument was erected by the express companies of the country in 1866 as a tribute to the enterprise of Harnden, the "original expressman," who started the express service in March, 1839, by carrying packages in a carpetbag and traveling by rail and steamer between New York and Boston.

Frail of body but determined, Harnden, only 26 years old, organized the first express company and saw its traffic, scope of operations and competitors grow to formidable proportions, by the time of his death in his 38th year.

History indicates that Harnden succeeded in extending his service abroad and eventually brought in over 100,000 immigrants to this country, to provide labor so greatly needed during the era of railroad construction in the '40s and '50s.

Today, express service maintains 23,000 offices and employs 57,000 people. In 1941, over 172 million shipments were handled.

Some 15,000 motor trucks are used for the collection and delivery of shipments. All told, the express service operates on a total mileage of 282,456.

Government Urged To Advertise In Small Papers

Representative Jerry Voorhis, of California, in House of Representatives, February 26: "One of the most important institutions in this country is the newspaper that serves the small city or town or the rural area. These newspapers will have a tough time during this war. I rise now to make an appeal that in any Government advertising program, whether it be for the sale of bonds or the recruiting of personnel for the armed forces, some of that advertising should be granted to the small papers of the nation. These papers are more thoroughly read by the average person who takes them than are the larger newspapers in the cities. Advertising space with them would produce more per dollar expended than almost any other kind. I urge this upon the Treasury and any other Government department or agency doing advertising of that sort."
