PERSONALS

Lt. Wm McKinley, Sr. is here visiting his son Billy.

H. H. Dishman of Corona was here on business yesterday.

W. L. Miller and small son were here from Nogal Monday.

Stockman H. O. Smith of the Capitan country was here on business Monday.

Mrs. Lulu Boone of the popular Beuna Vista Hotel in Capitan was here the first of the week.

Born—June 25, to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Littleton, a girl. Mother and daughter are doing nicely.

Wm. Balow, proprietor of the Balow Cafe in Ancho, was a business visitor in town Saturday.

Madames Violet Bosarge, Showers, and H. M. Duress of Capitan were here on business Tuesday.

Petty Officer 2nd Class Jack Greer of Norfolk, Va., was here the first of the week, visiting relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Harris of the Harris ranch in the Claunch country were here on business the first of the week.

Bert Pfingsten and daughter Betty were here from their home near Lincoln Wednesday, attending to business.

Lt. Alfred L. Hulbert of Lincoln, N. M., is attending the Antiaircraft Artillery School at Camp Davis, North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wood, Mr. and Mrs. George McDonald, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Withers, R. E. Kent and A. J. Bivens of Oscuro were here this week.

Well, maybe Leon Henderson isn't a great man. But he can always tell his grandchildren that he was able to get America's living so scrambled in one year that it will take the whole Republican Party to undo the damage.

Mrs. R. M. Clayton of Ancho was here on business Saturday. Mrs. Clayton took the place of Mrs. Geo. Simpson on the County Board of Education recently. Mr. and Mrs. Simpson are now residents of Roswell. The Simpsons sold their ranch property to Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lee.

W. C. Dean, who has his leg broken at the Capitan rodeo on July 3rd, left Wednesday for El Paso to receive medical aid for the injured member. He was accompanied by Seaman first class Raymond (Friday) Sherrill, who had here visiting his wife and friends while on his furlough. Friday will return to his duties on the Pacific coast with the Coast Guard.

Walker Leslie, son of Lisha Leslie of White Oaks, is here this week on a furlough from Seattle, where he has been stationed for some time in the Navy. Walker has seen three years of service and in one battle somewhere in the Pacific area, he was wounded in the right leg and still limps from the effects. He is at White Oaks visiting his father and other relatives.

The Whirlpool of Unusual Happenings

By A. L. BURKE

At Carlsbad last Thursday, Elva M. Shaffer was sentenced to 30 days in jail for driving while intoxicated, told Judge McGee that while pleading guilty, he asked for time to harvest his crops, whereon the Judge suspended the sentence until Oct. 7, so that he could do the work. Judge McGee did the right thing from the fact that he considered harvesting Elva's crops of more importance than sending him to jail where he could do nothing.

It happened in the big city of Chicago last week, that little Diane Cherie, two and one-half years old, strayed from her home, where she had been given the liberty to play in a nude condition on account of the heat. She wandered about town in that condition and after frantic efforts of her mother, the police finally located her. They threw a cloak around her, went into a store, purchased clothes enough to conceal her nudeness and while she was tot put them on without assistance, the two policemen who found her turned their backs to avoid embarrassing the young lady while she dressed. They then phoned the mother, who came and took her home.

New York:—Jack Trepel, president of the N. Y. Society of American Magicians, is accustomed to doing remarkable tricks in magic but when his act laid an egg he surprised even himself—and drew down the house. Doing his act at the American Theatre Wing Stage Door Canteen, Trepel took off a pair of white gloves and, according to schedule, a dove flew out. Instead of returning to the stage as it usually does, however, the dove flew straight into the lap of a Stage Door hostess—and laid an egg. Trepel has not repeated the act.

Little Mary Ann Neider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Naida of the Red Canyon ranch, suffered a severe injury last week, when assisting her mother with the washing, her hand was caught in the wringer, badly lacerating it from the wrist to the elbow. She was taken to the Turner Hospital, where after medical treatment, she was able to return home with her parents last Saturday.

Mrs. Fred Pfingsten and Mrs. Fred Pfingsten, Jr. came over from Lincoln Tuesday and returned accompanied by Fred Pfingsten, Jr., who had been confined at the Turner Hospital for the past week with an aggravated carbuncle on the back of his neck. "Peg," as he is affectionately called by his many friends, is getting along nicely, we are glad to say.

Mrs. Elizabeth Long, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Morrison, J. G. Moore and O. L. Wilson attended the meeting of the "Club for Constitutional Government" in Artesia last Sunday. They heard Dr. Gus W. Dyer address the meeting on "The Constitution," and all reported an enthusiastic meeting and very interesting speeches. The attendance was the largest since the Club's organization. Many new names were added to the membership.

DR. DYER ADDRESSES CONSTITUTIONAL CLUB

Artesia, N. M., July 11.—An overflow crowd here today heard Dr. Gus W. Dyer, Economic Advisor to the Southern States Industrial Council, speaking at a meeting of the "Club for Constitutional Government" accused the New Deal Administration of robbing the people of human rights. Dr. Dyer said, quote: "The gifts of human rights are God given and not gifts of the government. When a government fails to protect these rights, the people should rise up and destroy that government." "I say to you that if you take this lying down you will be the first bunch of cowards in this country to do so."

Dr. Dyer was given a tremendous ovation and answered numerous questions from an enthusiastic audience at a general discussion following his talk.

Mr. Niven Baird, Democratic member of the State legislature made a forceable talk on the

Mrs. Annie E. Lesnett, Pioneer Resident, Passes

Funeral services were held Wednesday morning 9 o'clock at Santa Rita Church for Mrs. Annie Elizabeth Lesnett, who passed away Tuesday at her Carrizozo home, after several months illness of complications. Interment was at Evergreen Cemetery. The Rev. Fr. Salvatore Giovanni officiated. Pallbearers were: Roy Shafer, Wm. Gallagher, Albert Scharf, Doyle Rentfrow, A. F. Stover and Wm. Norman. The flower-bearers were members of the Legion Auxiliary.

Mrs. Lesnett was born July 3, 1855 in Chicago, Illinois. She experienced the Chicago fire of 1871, when a fire started in a cowshed in the rear of a frame cottage. It spread and Chicago burned for two nights and a day and the ashes smoldered for weeks afterwards.

She came to Lincoln county, N. M., in 1876, and was united in marriage to the late Frank W. Lesnett, prominent Ruidoso rancher. She personally knew "Billy the Kid" as he really was and as he appeared to her. Her reminiscence of the hardships that she encountered during the Lincoln County War, was always a most interesting narrative.

Her religious philosophy of life displayed a fair and constructive understanding of all conditions that came her way. She enjoyed a large acquaintance among old friends, new friends, and always had time to harrow over again in a composed manner her many associations and experiences.

She is survived by one son Mr. Milton G. Lesnett at Carrizozo, three daughters, Mrs. Edith L condition of our government, criticizing very seriously both the State and National Administrations for their misconduct of our Domestic affairs.

In an address of welcome, Mayor Emory Carper of Artesia complimented the club officers and membership upon their sincere and untiring efforts toward returning our country to a government which will respect the Constitution, and pledged his support to the Club in no uncertain terms.

A resolution, introduced by M. C. Roberts of Texico, using most forcible language to be found in any dictionary, condemned violation of the oath of office by our National officeholders who approve Nationalizing of American Industry. It was passed unanimously by a cheering vote.

The next meeting of the Club was announced for Las Cruces to be held in September.—Contributed.

Crawford, Carrizozo, and Mrs. Geo. Dingwall and Mrs. A. E. Johnson of El Paso. Also, six grandchildren and one great grand child. Contributed.

Editor's Note: Well we do remember the kindly face, the friendly handshake, the ever-ready good word she had for her many friends. While she was able to make her customary calls around town, she always included this office, where we always enjoyed a pleasant chat with the estimable lady whose friendship we had so long enjoyed. Her life was a standing example of unselfishness, charity, benevolence and good-will.

Real Estate Transfers at Nogal

Bowen Zumwalt has purchased the W. L. Miller place and Shorty Dawson bought the Bowen Zumwalt place, directly across from the Floy Skinner home. We congratulate both buyers in the above-named deals.

We had a nice letter Wednesday from Mrs. R. L. Huffmyer of Duncan, Arizona. The Huffmyers resided here for a long time, after which they moved to White Oaks and after living there for about two years, they moved to Duncan, where they have since resided. While in this locality, Red and son Milton were two of our mainstays in baseball and we presume that Red still keeps up his good pitching. Milton is in the armed service. The Huffmyers send their best regards to old Carrizozo and White Oaks friends.

THE POWER OF PRAYER

Recorded in the Army and Navy files, are many instances of the power of prayer on the battle fronts and on the high seas, miracles have been performed and saved many lives of our boys who were faced with what seemed to be, certain death.

Not once, but often, our boys have prayed, at times silently and at other times audibly, in the face of death and in some manner, they were saved just when they had lost all hope. When Captain Eddie Rickenbacker and his associates were lost at sea, on a raft for three weeks, some read the bible while others prayed, but they never gave up. Eddie prayed, using his own language and appealed to the "Old Master" for succor. We know how, when hunger faced them a sea-gull alighted on his head and reaching up, he brought it down and they devoured it raw.

At another time, when it seemed they were dying with thirst a shower of rainfall passed them, but they kept on praying. It had gone but a short distance, carried by with the wind, the shower turned against the wind and came to them. They drank, filled all vessels at their command, even soaking their clothes and wringing them out to obtain the water which saved them from death.

In our first African landing, two severe storms approached either of which would have destroyed our vessels and crews, officers and the crews, prayed for assistance and as one old Frenchman told the story, he said the landing was made more perfectly than any that had been made for 68 years. The above true stories where our boys were saved are but a few of the many instances where acts of Providence are credited to miracles, when such acts of God, are purely natural, when we realize that God is everywhere and that "He is an ever present help in time of trouble."

FOUR NEW UNIFORMS

In a recent request for new uniforms for the Navy, Secretary Knox denied the request on the grounds that the uniforms now used are sufficient and moreover, that it would endanger the textile industry, which is now strained to a test point.

But when Admiral Ernest King came back from London, he walked into the presence of the President with a nifty new green uniform and it so pleased the chief executive, that he complimented the Admiral, who said, "I wish you would tell that to Knox?" Now comes the reversal of the Secretary's orders. The President ordered new uniforms not only one, but four color and one dust color. Therefore, Mr. Knox took a back seat and the President rode him down and embarrassed him in favor of the Admiral.

In view of such unnecessary expenditures as this new wrinkle, is it no wonder that we are repeatedly warned of the slowness in building escort vessels, airplane carriers and other things of more necessity than new uniforms for the Navy at such enormous cost to the taxpayers of this country who are already overburdened with taxes. The new green uniforms mentioned above was made by the King's tailor, in London and was of course, the President's first choice, of the four, but why "gripe," what are the billions for anyhow?

LECTURE ON CHINA AT METHODIST CHURCH

Public to Hear Lecture on China at First Methodist Church. Miss Elizabeth Vandertill, Itinerant Nurse of the American Red Cross, will speak on her experiences in China, at 11 o'clock Sunday morning at the First Methodist Church.

For five years Miss Vandertill was superintendent of the Water of Life Hospital, Kiukia ng, China, on the banks of the Yangtze. For two years she was superintendent of Presbyterian Hospital, San Juan, Puerto Rico. She was graduated from Columbia University, N. Y., and the University of Michigan. After training at the University of Michigan Hospital she qualified as a Registered Nurse. The public is invited to hear Miss Vandertill speak. She will be in Lincoln County for the summer in the interest of Red Cross work.

She will then return to Grand Rapids, Michigan, where she will resume her teaching position.

Miss Vandertill has become fascinated with the Land of Enchantment.

Mrs. Haldane Cravy, of Belen, nee Miss Haldane Stover, is here this week to meet her old friend, Miss Mary Lewis, who is here on her vacation visiting the home folks. Mrs. Lewis' oldest son, John, and small daughter are also here from Douglas, Ariz., where he has a position as foreman in one of the departments of the Phelps-Dodge Corporation. Mrs. Cravy was married in April, but the news failed to reach us until this week. All parties mentioned are looking fine.

Will a Trial of the 'War Criminals' Be Aftermath of 'Unconditional Surrender'?

They Didn't 'Hang Kaiser' In 1918, but Will Adolf Be as Lucky?

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

UNCONDITIONAL surrender" is the watchword of the Allies and, after that has been brought about, the Axis leaders who plunged the world into war will be placed upon trial for the crimes against humanity which they and their followers have committed.

Such is the promise of President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill and it is not likely that there will be any objection to that program from Joseph Stalin and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Certainly if the people of Poland, France, Belgium, Holland, Norway, Denmark, Greece and Czechoslovakia have anything to say about it, Hitler, Mussolini, Hirohito and their fellow international gangsters will not escape punishment as did Kaiser Wilhelm a quarter of a century ago.

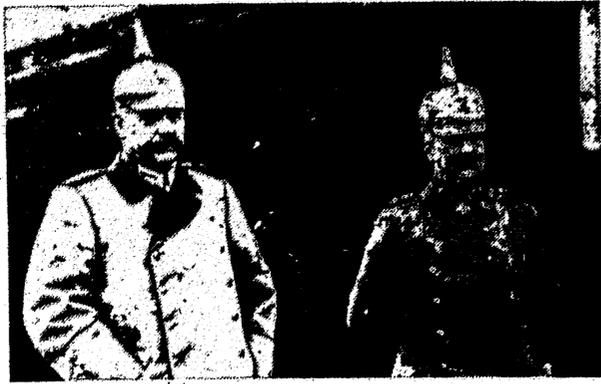

Back in 1917-18 "hang the Kaiser" was a popular slogan in the Allied countries even after the German monarch had abdicated and found refuge in Holland. That slogan helped continue Prime Minister Lloyd George in power in the British elections of November, 1918, and that the promise in it might be made good was indicated by Article 227 of the Treaty of Versailles, which was signed a few months later. The article said:

The Allied and Associated Powers publicly arraign Wilhelm II of Hohenzollern, formerly German emperor, for supreme offenses against international morality and the sanctity of treaties. The Allied and Associated Powers will address a request to the government of the Netherlands for the surrender to them of the ex-emperor in order that he may be put on trial.

Accordingly it was proposed that a tribunal, consisting of five judges, one each from the United States, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, should be organized to serve as a court of justice for the arch-criminal, and in January, 1920, a formal demand was made upon Holland for his surrender. But immediately the plan struck a snag. For the Dutch government announced that it was not a signatory to the Versailles treaty, therefore not bound by its terms and, moreover, its national honor forbade the surrender of the royal refugee.

Expressing the fear that the Kaiser might flee from Holland, the Allied governments repeated their demand. But Queen Wilhelmina and her ministers announced that this fear was groundless since by royal decree the Kaiser would be restricted to a certain section of Utrecht and forbidden to leave it. Warning the Dutch government that "the responsibility to now that of the Netherlands," the Allies left the matter there and as the Prussian warlord retired to his wood-chopping at Doorn where he lived to see an Austrian house-painter revive his old dream of world-domination and German aggression plunge the world into another holocaust.

The Kaiser, however, was not the only German leader whom the victorious Allies had marked for punishment. Another article in the Versailles treaty stipulated that "the German government recognizes the right of the Allied powers to bring before military tribunals persons accused of having committed acts in violation of the laws and customs of war. The German government shall hand over to the Allied powers all persons accused of such offenses."

A list of 900 names, which included almost all of the military and political leaders of Germany during the war, was prepared in accordance with this article. The publication of this list, which was headed by the names of Field Marshal Von Hindenburg and General Ludendorff, stirred up a violent protest among the people of Germany and the new rulers of that country pleaded with the Allies not to force them to hand over these war criminals, declaring clst-minded government of Argentina might—if he could get across the Atlantic, either by U-boat or airplane. But that is a remote possibility, so it looks as though the Austrian house-painter has little chance of living to a ripe—if dishonored—old age in exile.

Perhaps, like Napoleon, he would exclaim—"I prefer death." That was what the French dictator said when told that the British government was sending him to the barren rock of St. Helena. After his defeat at Waterloo, he surrendered to the captain of the British man-o-war, Bellerophon, and threw himself upon the mercy of the prince regent, who later became King George IV. Napoleon believed that he would be allowed to settle down in some comfortable little place in England and great was his dismay and indignation when he learned that his captors had other plans for him.

A Dictator in Exile.
It was then that he declared his preference for death and it is said that Lord Liverpool, the British prime minister, was quite willing to accommodate him, just as millions today would be glad to accommodate Adolf Schickelgruber if he expressed a preference for death to exile or imprisonment. However, delegates from Great Britain, Russia, Austria and Prussia who formed the "Convention of Paris" in 1815 to pass upon Napoleon's war guilt overruled the wish of the British prime minister and the exile to St. Helena was the result. On that cheerless little island in the South Atlantic, he spent the next six years as a military prisoner with the rank of a British general "out of employment." Under instructions from the British government, he was treated as Gen. Napoleon Bonaparte, not as the emperor of France—a fact that was particularly galling to the ego of a man who had dreamed of world conquest.

One of the horrors of civil war is the bitterness of feeling between citizens of the same country which frequently transcends the bitterness the people of one nation feel toward "foreigners" with whom they are at war. During the Revolution many Patriots had a greater hatred for their former friends and neighbors, who were Loyalists, or Tories, than they had for the British soldiers or the Hessian mercenaries. Similarly four years of war which began in 1861 engendered animosities that were to linger for generations.

If many Southerners hated "that ape in the White House," there were an equal large number of Northerners whose favorite song was a promise to "hang Jeff Davis to a sour apple tree." For the North, which could not admire the military genius of a Lee or a "Stonewall" Jackson, apparently could not concede that "that archtraitor," Jefferson Davis, had a single admirable trait. So their wrath for all "rebels" was concentrated on the head of the president of the Confederacy.

After Lee's surrender Davis, with members of his cabinet, fled south and he was captured in Georgia. He was imprisoned in Fortress Monroe and subjected to unnecessary indignities through the influence of certain revengeful members of the radical wing of the Republican party who were determined to bring him to trial for his "war guilt." Finally, after two years, Davis was released, with Horace Greeley and other Northerners, who had been his bitterest enemies during the war, providing his bail bond. His health broken by his prison experience and the public outcry for revenge having died down, no further effort was made to prosecute him.

Will the "war criminals" of 1939 "get away with it" the same way that those of 1914 did? Will Schickelgruber emulate the Kaiser and find sanctuary in some "neutral" country? The list of such possible havens is small indeed—Sweden, Switzerland, Portugal, Spain and Turkey—and it is doubtful if any of these would welcome the arch-criminal of all history. The present Fas-ciist-minded government of Argentina might—if he could get across the Atlantic, either by U-boat or airplane. But that is a remote possibility, so it looks as though the Austrian house-painter has little chance of living to a ripe—if dishonored—old age in exile.

IMAGINARY INTERVIEWS: Benito and Adolf in July

Benito—Well, what do you advise me to do now?
Adolf—I have nothing to suggest at the moment.

Benito—This is a helluva time to reach that decision. You were plenty free with suggestions in the past.
Adolf—Things have changed since then.

Benito—You're telling me!
Adolf—What makes you so irritable and nervous? We haven't lost MY war yet.
Benito—You used to call it OUR war.

Adolf—Pull yourself together and look like a Roman emperor!
Benito—I keep pulling myself together but I don't get any results.

Adolf—You don't even talk like a Caesar any more.
Benito—Every time I talk like Caesar these days I imagine I hear laughter.

Adolf—What's this I hear about you wanting peace? You can't quit. You're in up to your neck.
Benito—Why don't you make it "OUR" neck?

Adolf—One neck will be enough.
Benito—Not from what I hear!
Adolf—Come, come, things can't be as bad as you think.

Benito—They can be as bad as we BOTH think.
Adolf—You're a pessimist. Every cloud has a silver lining.

Benito—Not any more. Every cloud I see has 100 bombers and a fighter escort.
Adolf—Have some sense. Try to be like me.

Benito—It's trying to be like you that made me what I am today.
Adolf—Whenever things look bad, think of Napoleon.

Benito—You can have Napoleon. I'll take his horse.

THE DIARY OF A 1943 VACATIONIST

My vacation began today. Packed my bags early and went into my own back yard at once, picking a nice spot between the clothes pole and the apple tree. It is not hot and uncomfortable enough in my yard to fit the requirements for a standard vacation, but it will have to do.

Tuesday
Feel quite rested, which starts my vacation off all wrong. Here it is the second day and I haven't had ptomaine poisoning yet.

Wednesday
It is so cool and quiet that it's disturbing. I had some sand, mud and shells dumped in a corner of the yard. Scattered a lot of broken bottles in it to get the effect of being at a popular bathing beach. Something missing. Didn't get quite the right atmosphere. Suddenly realized what was wrong. No banana peels, lunch remnants, eggshells or tin cans. Had them scattered around at once.

Thursday
Think of it! Three full days on a vacation and not annoyed once by invitations to make a fourth at bridge! Took a little trip around to see the sights. Finnegans saloon, Ye Old Homestead Tavern, Epstein's delicatessen store and a new excavation down at the corner where they must be putting in a new sewer pipe. Wish I knew where there was some poison ivy. I've had it every vacation in my life by this time.

Friday
Up early and peeked into the garage to see the flyover. It seemed so wonderful to look at it and know that I wouldn't be needing it. Haven't the slightest idea whether it has any oil or gas in it or how the tires are. And don't give a darn. Never recall being on a vacation this long before with automobile still in one piece. Have lived at this address 16 years, but this is the first time I ever knew my back yard was shoddy.

Just the same, I got a little yearning for an old-time vacation this afternoon, so ate four poorly cooked "all-hot", which gave the necessary feeling of distress to which my vacations have accustomed me. Had mom put some red ants in the desert this evening. Having a fine time. Wish you were here.

Saturday
I just can't believe it! A full week gone and I haven't had to have the doctor for sunburn, snakebite or a nervous breakdown! Six days without having to clean a white shoe!

Sunday
Got up early to write letters and postcards to my family. Suddenly realized I was home and in their midst. Never had such a feeling of joy and relief. Feel so relaxed, refreshed and rejuvenated that it makes me a little sick.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

GOD ENCOURAGES MOSES

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 3:13-14; 4:10-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—Certainly I will be with thee.—Exodus 3:12.

Encouragement is something much needed, and not too often given. The word means to put some new thing into the heart of another, that is, to hearten and assure him, especially in the hearing of a heavy responsibility.

Moses, in all probability the world's greatest military and national leader, was about to lead his people out from under the mighty hand of Pharaoh. His final preparation for that epochal deed and all the years to follow was a personal meeting with God.

Possibly it was the mistake Moses had made and which caused him to be sent into the back of the desert, that now caused him to move with—

I. Understandable Caution (Exod. 3:13).
There is something remarkably fine about real humility. It commends itself to our thinking as the proper attitude of a mortal being, particularly in the face of spiritual responsibility.

Neither God nor man dares entrust a high and difficult commission to a foolish man who brusquely "rushes in where angels fear to tread." The fact that one feels fully and unhesitatingly qualified to take over such a responsibility is almost a certain indication that he is not the man to assume it.

Moses' request for God's backing must have been acceptable to Him, for He gave Moses—

II. Unlimited Authority (3:14-16).
Moses went as God's messenger. He was authorized to put all the majesty and power of the Infinite One behind his words and acts.

The ambassador must have credentials. God's representative has them. When "they shall say"—what an important and difficult situation that creates. The one who speaks for God must expect not only the scornful bitterness of God's enemies, but also the unbelieving questions of those whom he seeks to serve.

"What shall I say?" asks Moses, and God answers that he may say that "I AM" had sent him. This name of God reveals Him as the eternal, independent, self-sufficient, self-existent, immutable, personal Being. Consider, Christian brethren, whose we are and whom we serve.

But Moses seems to have been unable to see beyond his own human infirmity even in the light of such a glorious revelation, supplemented as it was by miraculous powers, and we find him showing an—

III. Unjustified Humility (4:10-13).
Perhaps we should not call this humility at all, for in one so divinely called and encouraged it was an act of unbelief and almost impertinence.

When God calls a man He knows his limitations. Why then should one plead them as an excuse for not serving? The excuse of Moses that he was not a fluent speaker has been the standby of unwilling workers all through the ages. When asked to lead a prayer meeting, teach a Sunday school class, conduct a young people's meeting, thousands upon thousands have lamely thus excused themselves and missed a blessing.

The perfect answer of God (v. 11) merits attention. God made your mouth and mine. He gives us the power of speech. He asks not the eloquence of polished rhetorical phrases, or the flights of man's imagination. He wants but the incomparable eloquence of His own words on our lips.

No man should think too highly of himself, but let him beware lest he think too lowly about God. We are not sufficient for the opportunity. But God is more than sufficient.

Having called Moses, God saw to it that Moses went on with His work, even though now He had to call in Moses' older brother to help him. It was, in fact, an—

IV. Unnecessary Substitution (4:14-17).
Loving and patient is our God, but, mark it well, there is a boundary line to that patience. Moses went too far in his needless humility, and really reflected on the ability of God. God promptly substituted Aaron as the spokesman.

Gracious was He in thus providing a helper for Moses. But one wonders what Moses missed of blessing and power because of his slowness of heart. To decline the labor and the responsibility of service for God means loss far greater than we may ever know.

God's dealings with Moses speak eloquently to us of His willingness to enable and use a man who lacked some of the gifts for leadership. Let none of us be like Moses and become involved in needless worry about our gifts, and forget God's purpose and enabling power. When God calls, our gifts are not the controlling factor; in fact, they are not a great factor at all. The question then becomes, Is God able? Let us trust and obey Him.

Attempt to Kidnap Kaiser—a 'Fascinating Footnote to History'

An interesting aftermath of the "hang the Kaiser" cry of World War I days was the daring attempt of eight American soldiers—all from Tennessee—to kidnap the Kaiser in his refuge in Amerongen, Holland, and take him to Paris, there to turn him over to the Allied authorities.

Footnote to History

They almost succeeded in their bold plan, but even though they failed, they "did write a fascinating footnote to history." The result was the launching of an investigation by the Dutch authorities (in the course of which the ex-Kaiser fled a complaint that the unauthorized and unwelcome visit of these Americans to his castle "made me nervous!") who soon decided to hush the matter up and a threatened court martial which ended only in a mild reprimand for the leader of the party.

FLYING INSECTS

Question: In our bungalow we are bothered with flying insects that come down the chimney when the fire is out. To stop this we plan to put a piece of window screening over the top of the chimney. Would this interfere with the draft of a wood fire?

Answer: Window screening laid flat on the chimney would be quickly clogged with ashes. Instead of laying the screening flat, use it to make a box the size of the flue, to rise at least 12 inches above the chimney top. The opposite side should be left open, with long pieces that will extend down into the flue and hold the box in place. Wind blowing across the box will prevent ashes from clinging.

Waxing Linoleum

Question: What could I use on my linoleum to make it glossy? There is no sign of wear as yet, but it becomes very dull after cleaning. I'm tired of using wax which isn't lasting.

Answer: It should not be necessary to use wax as often as you apparently are doing. You can get special waxes, and tools with which to apply them for your own variety of directions, you can reduce greatly the labor of cleaning and waxing. A light rubbing up every day or two should be enough. Spots can be taken off with a damp cloth. Linoleum manufacturers do not advise varnishing or lacquering.

Hot-Water-Heating System

Question: You have recommended leaving the water in a hot-water heating system the year 'round, only adding water when necessary. Doesn't the water become "dead" and circulate slower and give off less heat?

Answer: What you call "dead" water is preferred in a heating system, because such water causes less corrosion in the boiler, pipes and radiators than does fresh water. Fresh water contains air, which is corrosive to iron and steel, but when fresh water is reheated several times the air is driven off. The heating efficiency of the system is not affected by such water.

Moisture Spots

Question: Since the heavy summer rains, small cracks in our cement basement floor show spots of moisture. These cracks are near the corners of the walls and floor. The brick of the walls is crumbling. How should I make repairs?

Answer: You can check the crumbling of the brick by coating it with a cement base paint, the kind that comes in powder form, to be mixed with water. For the small floor cracks, begin by wire-brushing the area, wet it with clear water and then give it a coat of Portland cement mixed with water to the consistency of thick paint.

Garage Floor

Question: The garage attached to my house has a floor of crushed rock—screenings. This is being tracked into the house continuously. What can be done to this floor?

Answer: If the screenings are very fine, pulverized calcium chloride sprinkled over the floor will settle the dust; but if the aggregate is larger, an asphalt binder can be used. Your local road commissioner is familiar with both materials and can advise you where they can be obtained. The asphalt binder may be difficult to procure at present.

Yellowed Refrigerator

Question: My electric refrigerator has a yellow cast to it, was perfectly white when I bought the unit. How can I bring it back to the original whiteness?

Answer: It may not be possible to restore the box to its original whiteness, but you might try the following: Wash the enamel with mild soap and warm water, then rinse with a solution of Javelle water, about three tablespoons in a quart of water, and wipe dry. If the above does not help, have your local refrigerator service man spray a new lacquer finish on the box.

Doing Over Armchair

Question: The wood of an armchair is scratched badly. We want to stain and varnish the chair, but should prefer a dull varnish to the shiny kind. Can we get this?

Answer: Certainly; you can get a semi-gloss or dull varnish that should be just what you want. The present finish first should be rubbed down with very fine sandpaper, then wiped with turpentine; and, for a really good job, the first coat of varnish also should be rubbed down.

Camels are the favorite cigarette with men in the Navy (Army, Marines, Coast Guard, too, for that matter) based on actual sales records from the service men's stores. And though there are Post Office restrictions on packages to overseas Army men, you can still send Camels to soldiers in the U. So Simple and Easy to Make These Bedside Tables From Orange Crates

THESE orange crate bedside tables are useful and easy to make; they are very decorative, too, when fitted out as illustrated. These were lined with green oil cloth cut, fitted and pasted, as shown. The full skirt pieces were tacked to the top of the sides and lapped a few inches around the back. A top cover with a 3-inch frill was then added. The bedspread is trimmed with 6-inch frills of the muslin and 1-inch straight bands over seams and for the monograms.

Ordinary Glass Can Now Be Broken as Desired

Ordinary glass is now made so that it will break in any desired manner, says Collier's. For instance, pitchers, jars and other containers for the home are manufactured so that they will break in large pieces, lessening the danger of glass fragments getting into food.

Some glass ceilings, like those in the National Gallery of Art in Washington, are constructed to shatter in powder form to eliminate the danger of injury from falling pieces.

ASK ME? ANOTHER? A quiz with answers offering information on various subjects

Household Hints

Earthworms are beneficial to the soil in which they live and no effort should be made to remove them. If considered troublesome, lime water will bring them to the surface.

When melting chocolate, use a small round-bottomed bowl and melt over hot water. Bowl may be set in the top of teakettle or double boiler.

Rub up the nickel faucets with cleansing tissues every day. Such rubbing up will lighten the weekly cleanings.

Gather clover blossoms this summer, dry them, and scatter about the linen closet to impart a delicate fragrance.

Sunday routes are as extinct as wet firecrackers.

The tune is changed from "Dirty Gertie from Bizerte" to "Stacy Lee" (Sicily)

The days when the Supreme Court didn't meddle in politics were before Frankfurter.

Mrs. K. M. writes: I am a bookkeeper. My long and secret ambition is to play a steam calliope, the kind that is used in circus parades. I'm sure I'd attract plenty of attention.

Geo. Ferguson's orchestra was playing for the Carrizozo Entertainers, sponsored by Banker E. M. Brickley, quite a while back. He said, being that he had led everything else of a community nature, it was his secret desire to lead an orchestra. Whereupon George handed him the baton and he said "Let's try 'There's a Long, Long Trail A-Winding.'" We did so—and Mr. Brickley didn't do half bad in directing.

Who said that? Mrs. Roosevelt is in Arizona taking a rest—and giving us all one.

Life is a continual round of pleasure?

We note there has been a huge sum of dinero set aside to be used on road work. We want highway 54, (the El Paso thoroughfare) fixed muy pronto.

Prof. H. E. Alden, piano tuner of El Paso, is finishing up his duties here. The Prof. has been coming to the Carrizozo vicinity for a good many years and his presence in these parts is a signal for a first-class rain.

Note: Mr. Alden is a former Army bandmaster (and how!)

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Radcliff are taking daily hikes along about sundown. Mrs. Radcliff says she is taking the walks for HIS reducing, and Mr. Radcliff says he is taking the strolls in order to help HER to reduce (she has a schoolgirl figure)—Quon Sabel!

Maestro Clyde Brewster told this one—A millionaire had an idea that he would like to play the bass drum. He hired a director and a group of artists, with the understanding that he was to play the drum.—Can you beat it?

GLASS JARS FOR VICTORY CANNING

Plan to can every extra vegetable from your Victory garden and don't worry if your dealer hasn't jars with the kinds of caps you have been accustomed to using. Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, tells us that very few of the all-time favorite zinc caps are left on the home front because zinc is needed on the battle front, but all Mason jars (any brand) with smooth, even top edges can be sealed with glass top seal or two-piece metal vacuum seal closures.

Glass top seals consist of glass lid, rubber ring, and metal screw band. The rubber is placed around the projection on the bottom of the lid, then lid with rubber is placed so that the rubber rests on top of the jar. The bands are screwed down tight, then loosened slightly before the jars are put into a canner for processing and screwed tight immediately after the jars are removed from the canner. After the jars have stood twelve or fifteen hours, the bands are removed and used to seal more jars with glass lids and rubbers, thus making a little metal go a long way. That's one reason Government officials smile upon home canners who use glass top seals.

Another good top seal for Mason jars is the two-piece metal cap, called vacuum seal. The lid is slightly dome shaped, lined with white enamel and has a rubber sealing compound around the outer edge to take the place of a regular jar ring—(don't let anybody fool you—all sealing compounds contain rubber). If one is using old-fashioned open kettle (never use this method for canning vegetables), the lids are boiled a few minutes to sterilize, but need only be dropped into boiling water and kept hot if the jars of food are to be placed in a canner for processing. After the lid is placed on the jar, the metal band is screwed tight once for all. Tightening the band after the jars are taken out of the canner is likely to prevent sealing. The bands are removed from the jars twelve or fifteen hours after the canning is done and used to seal more lids on other jars. Jars sealed with two-piece metal caps are suitable for all types of canning except oven—a tightly sealed jar is likely to break when subjected to the dry heat of an oven. Bands for glass top seal and vacuum seal caps are not interchangeable because a deeper band is needed for the glass lids, but the two have one thing in common. Neither is rust-proof. That's because of the zinc shortage, but a quick wiping after each use with a cloth moistened with paraffin will prevent serious rusting. It will save time and trouble too, if a cloth is prepared ahead-of-time and kept in one of those glass jars that can't be used for home-canning. Then when the cloth is needed, set the jar in a pan of warm water until the paraffin softens. The "lightning" jar (so called because it is quickest to seal) requires very little metal and not too much rubber for sealing. Several manufacturers make this type jar. It seals with a glass lid and rubber held in place with wire balls. The wires used on one nationally known brand are of heat-treated, high-tension, stretch-proof, spring steel. This is the ideal jar for home canning any year because it is so easy to seal. The rubber is placed on the sealing surface or shoulder, the lid comes next, then the upper ball wire is pushed up until it rests in the groove in the top of the lid. Pay no attention to the lower wire, it takes care of itself until after the jars are removed from the canner—then it is pushed down against the side of the jar and that's all there is to sealing it. When buying jars, choose pints for peas, corn, and shelled beans—and quarts for all other vegetables. Half-pint sizes aren't being made, and half-gallons are unsuitable for canning vegetables because it takes too long for heat to reach the center of the jar.

YOUNGSTERS—HELP WITH HOME-CANNING!

Don't worry if you're too young for the WAACS or WAVES. There's another important job for you. Save all the extra vegetables from your Victory Garden by home-canning. A few jars a day take little time and add up to well-filled shelves by the end of the season. Food costs are high in the stores and may be higher, but food grown at home still costs a few cents a jar. There's a deep satisfaction in growing and canning your own food. Wait and see. You'll take inventory of your garden each day to see which vegetables are right for the table and how many extras there are to put in glass jars. Make it a point each day to gather everything at its prime, and make it a point of honor to get the extras into glass jars before they lose freshness. That's the big secret of delicious, nutritious, home-canned foods—freshness. Home-grown, home-canned foods often have many more vitamins than those bought at the store, because they are fresh. And when you get a reliable home-canning booklet, you'll be surprised at how many different things may be put away for later use in glass jars. Be sure to have the very best canning instructions and recipes. One fruit jar company offers a Blue Book free with a coupon packed with each dozen jars—or for ten cents if you have no coupon. The instructions are easy to follow. It is not necessary to have elaborate or expensive equipment. Form a canning club and have fun while you can!

Keep Vitamins In Home-Canned Tomatoes

The tomato rates respect because it is chockful of vitamins (A and C), those invisible spark plugs that keep one feeling fit. Because tomatoes are an important food, it is imperative that every one not needed for immediate use be saved by canning, but they must be canned right, else there will be

Photo Courtesy Ball Bros. Co. little or no vitamin C left in them. Undue exposure to air after the skins are removed and over-cooking in an uncovered container destroy vitamin C. This is one reason that tomatoes should be prepared and canned as quickly as possible. Usually whole tomatoes have more food value than tomato juice, partly because a considerable amount of vitamin A is lost in the pulp that falls to go through the strainer when the juice is made, but mainly because greater exposure to air destroys vitamin C. If you want first-class canned tomatoes, use freshly gathered, firm-ripe, sound fruit—one small bad spot can ruin a whole batch. Wash the tomatoes before scalding; scald a few at a time. Remove all core, slip off the skins, and cut away green spots. Pack the tomatoes tight into clean hot jars—this is best done by pressing each tomato down with a wooden spoon. Add salt to season to suit your taste to the quart. Seal jars according to manufacturer's instructions and process 35 minutes in hot water bath. If tomatoes are not fresh from the garden, process 45 minutes.

No juice can be better than the fruit from which it is made, so be sure to use strictly fresh, firm-ripe, red tomatoes, which are free from all decay. Wash well and cut away any green spots or weather cracks. Weather cracks are those splits that form around the stem ends when hot sunshine follows a hard rain. Such tomatoes are unfit for canning or juice unless used immediately after picking. Leave the tomatoes whole and steam or bake them until they are soft; then press through a fine sieve, preferably a cone-shaped one; reheat the juice to simmering; pour into sterilized jars and process 30 minutes at simmering. The pulp will separate from the juice unless a very fine sieve is used or if too much heat is applied at any time. On no account boil the juice in an open kettle until it is thick. Well, that's a fine way to get rid of most of those precious vitamins. The best tasting juice is that made by pressing whole home-canned tomatoes through a sieve just before serving. Any seasonings liked may be added before canning, but the juice will be better if seasonings, except salt, are added when the juice is opened for serving, and even the salt may be left out.

SOME VICTORY RULES FOR CANNING VICTORY VEGETABLES

Photo Courtesy Ball Bros. Co. Canning without rules is like driving in a strange country without a road map—one is likely to go in the wrong direction. The wrong direction in canning leads to spoiled food—loss of canned food through spoilage is deplorable and unnecessary in time of peace, and inexcusable in time of war. Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director of Ball Brothers Company, gives the following sure-fire rule for successful home-canning:

1. Use jars intended for home-canning. Every one of them has a name lettered on the side.
2. Examine every jar to make sure that it is in good condition. Give special attention to the top edges of Mason jars. Most of them must be sealed with glass top seal closures or two-piece metal vacuum seals, because the zinc that used to go into the one-piece Mason caps has gone to the battle front. The glass top and vacuum seals can take the zinc cap's place on the home front only when used on jars with perfect top edges.
3. Do not stretch rubbers to test.
4. Wash and rinse jars, lids and rubbers. Then cover jars, zinc caps, and glass lids with lukewarm water, heat to boiling, and keep hot. Jars and lids to be used for old-fashioned open-kettle canning must be boiled 20 to 30 minutes. Wash rubbers and vacuum-seal lids, drop into boiling water, and keep hot until needed if to be used for processing (cooling food in jars). They must be boiled to sterilize for open-kettle canning.
5. Get canners and jars ready before starting to prepare vegetables.
6. Use vegetables that are fresh from the garden. The alien enemies, mould, yeast and bacteria, stand ready to sabotage any and all vegetables left standing over night or all through a long, hot morning.
7. Be sure that everything to be canned is at the right stage for canning. Shelled beans and peas should be young and tender—a few over-size or over-mature ones can cause the loss of the whole batch. The pods of string beans should be crisp and meaty—corn in full milk stage—and tomatoes red-ripe, firm, and sound. Wash all fruits and vegetables before breaking the skins.
8. Hot pack all vegetables except tomatoes. Hot pack means to cook the food a few minutes, then pour it into hot jars for processing. This is also the best way to can most fruits.
9. Fill no more jars at a time than your canner will hold.
10. Leave ample head space and plenty of room for liquid to circulate between pieces of food when filling jars for processing.
11. Tighten metal bands on two-piece metal vacuum seal caps before processing. Do not tighten again.
12. Partly seal for processing, all jars on which a jar rubber is used.
13. Place jars in the canner immediately after packing and process the time called for in the recipe. Remember, time guessing has no place in canning.
14. Take jars out of canner as promptly as possible after the processing time is up and complete the seal on all that are partly sealed for processing (see Rule 12).
15. Set hot jars as far apart as possible so they will cool quickly, but do not place in a draft.
16. Be sure every jar of canned food is sealed before it is put away.
- a. Take the bands off glass top seals after the jars have stood over night and test the seal by pulling gently on lid with finger tips. Don't put the bands back on the jars.
- b. Remove bands from vacuum seals 12 or 15 hours after canning and test the seal by pressing on the lid with the finger. If tightly sealed, there will be no "give" to the lid. Don't put the bands back on the jars.
- c. One-piece zinc caps are drawn down flat when sealed. Do not turn Mason jars upside down—this rule applies when using glass top seals, vacuum seals, and zinc caps.
- d. Test "lightning" jars after they are cold by holding them upside down and examining for leaks.
17. Be finicky when it comes to cleanliness. Get rid of house flies. Remember, they prefer food to foot tub for foot washing.
18. Don't ask your neighbor how to can. She may not be as up-to-date as she thinks she is. It is far better to get a good recipe book and follow directions to the letter. As good a one as can be bought costs only a dime.

S. P. COACH SPACE MUST BE RESERVED IN ADVANCE

for trips on or after FRIDAY, JULY 16

- ★ You will need a reservation for coach trips on S. P. trains on and after July 16.
- ★ We cannot make coach reservations by telephone.
- ★ No coach reservations will be made unless you have a ticket.

Many of our trains are overcrowded, with people standing in coaches and sleeping in the aisles. Frequently trains leave people waiting at stations because there is no room for them. Obviously something must be done to correct the situation.

Coach reservations will be made for definite trains, but not for specific cars or seats. This means that you will usually find a seat but there will be times when people will have to stand because of emergencies.

We cannot make coach reservations by telephone because of the load on telephone lines, and no coach reservations will be made unless you have a ticket. You must get your ticket and reservations at an S.P. ticket office. If you now have a ticket you will have to make a reservation.

Unless your trip is really necessary—PLEASE DON'T TRAVEL!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Entire Pacific War Strategy Changed By Latest Allied Attacks in Solomons, RAF and U. S. Air Force Rock Europe With New Series of Non-Stop Bombings

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Troops in Maj. Gen. Sanderford Jarman's anti-aircraft artillery command receive alert warning of approaching planes in practice drill and are about to release barrage balloons. Besides forcing enemy planes to high altitudes thereby affecting bombing efficiency, barrage balloons' cables are strong enough to destroy any craft striking them.

MACARTHUR ATTACKS: Advance in Pacific

Under cover of bursting shells and strong aerial formations, American forces in the South Pacific strengthened their hold on the Solomon Islands and opened up another front against the Japanese in New Guinea.

Protected by big guns of the navy and a protective canopy thrown across the skies by fighter planes, U. S. troops scored a surprise landing on Rendova and New Georgia islands in the Solomons, and soon were shelling the big Jap air base on Munda.

To the west, American units swarmed ashore on the Huon gulf of New Guinea, and soon were advancing toward the important Japanese position at Salamaua, already menaced by an Allied force which had hacked its way through the jungle to within 12 miles of the outpost.

Between these two theaters of operation, American forces occupied the Woodlark and Trobriand islands without opposition.

More than 100 Japanese planes were shot down resisting the American landings. Our own losses were 17, along with a 7,000 ton transport and several other ships damaged in the dangerous reedy waters of the Solomons.

FOOD SUBSIDIES: Banned by Congress

The administration's plans for the use of subsidies to "roll back" retail food prices were strongly jolted by congressional action in passing the Commodity Credit Corporation bill outlawing such payment except as incentives to producers.

As a result, the "rollbacks" recently instituted on meat and butter would be wiped out, with payments only being made on previous commitments.

In passing the bill, congress acted in opposition to administration support of the subsidy program. Prior to passage, the War Labor board came out for "rollbacks" to offset the increasing cost of living, which threaten its policy of limiting wage boosts to 15 per cent over January, 1941.

CHINA: Press Japs Back

See-saw warfare in China continued, with Chinese forces recapturing a large section of Ouchihkwon on the Yangtze river, thus driving the Japanese further out of the great rice bowl which they had threatened to overrun.

Assisting the Chinese in their successful counterattack was the American air force, which has been established in the southeast of China. Under leadership of Gen. Claire Chennault, the Yanks have been concentrating on Japanese locomotives, freight trains and other heavy equipment which the enemy finds most difficult to replace.

Japanese attacks near Shanghai and Swatow were also checked, with Chinese troops regaining several important points at Swatow, once famous treaty port on the Kwangtung coast.

WALLACE VS. JONES: Renew Feud

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes' efforts to patch up the feud between Vice President Henry Wallace and Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones apparently had come to naught as the two ripped into each other once more.

Cause of the controversy was Wallace's charge that Jones, as Reconstruction Finance chairman, had been niggardly and slow in advancing funds to Wallace's Board of Economic Warfare for the purchase and development of strategic material abroad. Jones struck back by stating that the BEW initiated only 5 per cent of the government's purchases.

Wallace started the ball rolling again by stating that the two disputants had agreed to have the BEW warfare ask congress for separate funds to continue operations. Then he repeated his charges that Jones' agency had been slow to act on BEW projects.

Flaring up, Jones called Wallace's statement "dastardly," and repeated his demands for a congressional investigation of the BEW.

BLOOD PLASMA

The latest miracle of transfusion—plasma—has been described as the No. 1 agent in saving the lives of our American soldiers.

Plasma is the liquid element in the blood in which the red and white cells float. By adding salt of sodium citrate to fresh blood, the blood remains unclotted and is allowed to stand for two or three days, during which the cells settle and the plasma then is poured off.

Formerly, it was necessary to "type" blood since it was discovered in 1900 that substances in certain bloods destroyed red corpuscles in other kinds. Plasma, however, removes these substances and makes use of the fluid general.

Dried or frozen, plasma can keep for weeks or months. It can be shipped to any part of the world and used. Through the agency of the American Red Cross, blood donors throughout the country are making plasma possible.

MINERS: 'Return,' Ickes Pleads

Despite the plea of Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes to return to work, about 150,000 miners remained idle. Most seriously affected were the steel companies' coal fields in Pennsylvania.

Declaring the miners' wage demands were among many received in Washington, Ickes said it was necessary for particular groups to submerge their personal considerations for the general welfare. He then asked the miners to return to the pits "on the eve of the greatest military operation in history."

More than 400,000 other miners were back at their jobs following their union's decision to return to work only if the government maintained control of the mines. Although granted a wage concession amounting to 20 cents a day, it was expected that the miners might press efforts to obtain compensation for travel to and from their working stations.

ARMY: Arms Program Cut

Emphasis of war production on aircraft, cargo ships and navy combat vessels has resulted in a reduction of the army ground supply program and delayed full equipment of its forces until 1944, Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell declared.

Because of the production drop, Somervell said, the army has been compelled to ship equipment in camps to the fighting front. Not only does this affect the training of troops, he remarked, but it also tends to lower morale.

Somervell said U. S. and British military chiefs had planned operations for 1943 predicated on a $5 billion dollar production program. But the War Production board stated the industrial output of this country could only approximate 75 billion dollars.

CHURCHILL: Must Co-operate

The United States and Great Britain must continue to co-operate in peace as well as in war to assure their security, Prime Minister Winston Churchill declared in a speech in which he also predicted heavy fighting "before the leaves of autumn fall."

Stating that Great Britain sought no profit nor desired any aggrandizement from the war, Churchill added that it would accept no compromise.

Rejoicing that May was the best month for the Allies in the U-boat warfare, Churchill revealed that 30 German submarines had been sunk in that month and new ships were being built at a rate of seven to every single loss.

WPA: Finis

Since its beginning in 1935, the WPA off-times was charged with squander, but when the time came for going out of existence, the agency returned $130,000,000 in unexpended funds and materials to the government.

Officials say that the records will show that WPA spent 10 1/2 billion dollars and employed more than eight million persons. Only a small staff was left behind for liquidation.

'When Will War End?' Nation's No. 1 Question

Ruhr Valley Bombings Seen as Concrete Evidence of Germany's Inevitable Defeat; Aviation Expert Revises Estimate.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building Washington, D. C.

Today Washington, deep as it is in the problems of the moment—on the home front and along the seething globe-scattered sectors where our men are fighting—is more deeply conscious of the future than ever before in history. And that feeling is clearly reflected in every town, city and cross-roads in the country.

The letters I receive express this interest in tomorrow, the many polls on post-war problems and the plans to solve them echo that interest, the comment of leaders, the organization of clubs and forums and committees to discuss them, add up to the largest and healthiest curiosity that the nation has ever seen.

The political parties recognize this and the Republicans are busy working on a constructive foreign-policy plank for their 1944 platform to meet the administration's post-war plans.

As the people look toward tomorrow, the first thing they ask is: "When will the war end?" You can't get an official prognostication on that subject and, personally, I would hesitate even to make a guess. But this week, there came to my notice two remarks, one from the German propaganda minister and one from the president of an American aviation corporation which I want to place figuratively in parallel columns—not only side by side with each other but in balance with previous remarks of both men.

Goebbels' Viewpoint

Some time ago, Herr Goebbels spoke of "the Ruhr," that little industrial area including the historic center of Germany's munitions manufacture, the Krupp works of Essen.

Goebbels was on record as saying that the destiny of the Ruhr was the destiny of Germany itself. And then only a few days ago, a broadcaster from Berlin admitted that the "havoc" wrought by the Allied bombers in that area was "incredible."

The other gentleman whom I wish to quote is R. S. Damon, president of the Republic Aviation Corporation, which builds those famous P-47 "Thunderbolts," the fighters which have done such an efficient job of protecting our bombers over Europe.

Some time ago Damon predicted that Germany would be knocked out of the war by 1944. But Mr. Damon has now revised that estimate. He says:

"Unpreparedness may have cost us many early rounds but now it appears possible that Germany will have been removed from the lists by the end of 1943. I believe this to be true because no nation, not even Hitler's Germany, can suffer the rate of attrition which is now being inflicted on the Nazis and survive for long. The aerial combat box scores are now so definitely in our favor and our constantly increasing production of fine aircraft and well-trained airmen precludes any possibility of those scores being reduced unless by a miracle, and the days of Hitler's miracles have ceased to be. Our air forces are now systematically and liberally pulverizing the industrial centers of Germany and without her industries, Germany cannot fight or even exist."

Mind you, I do not underwrite this prophecy but I think it is worth recording because both men have revised their views in the direction of a shorter war—Goebbels would never have dwelt on the importance of the Ruhr in the beginning if he knew he would have to admit the degree of its destruction—Damon, after similar consideration, reduces the time he believes it will take to knock Germany out.

Aviation's Growth

In both cases, we have a tribute to the tremendous growth of American combat airpower. Now let us look at the parallel growth in non-combatant airpower. We turn to no less an authority than the Office of War Information:

"By 1945, it is expected that transport planes in the 100,000-120,000-pound class will be flying in quantity, carrying loads of 15 tons at a speed of 250 miles per hour over distances such as from New York to Chicago.

"By 1946, it is expected that 70 per cent of the passenger travel, now relying on railroad pullmans, will go by air—about 20,000,000 passengers a year.

"Exclusive of certain military air-dromes, there will be about 885 major airports in the United States by the end of this year, all with paved runways of 3,500 feet or more, capable of handling the largest planes, where fewer than 100 existed in 1940. In addition to these, there are well over 2,000 smaller fields.

"To operate these planes and airports after the war, there will be the 3,000,000 air-minded and trained pilots, navigators, radiomen, airport engineers, traffic controllers and others who will be in the air forces by the end of this year."

The OWI predicts post-war flights of 11 hours from Washington to Paris and London; 7 hours from Washington to Mexico City; 16 from Washington to Moscow; 18 from Washington to Cairo or Buenos Aires and 22 hours from Washington to Tokyo (if Tokyo is still on the map).

I quote these statements to show how tremendously the world we are living in today differs from the world we lived in before Pearl Harbor—a change which must affect all phases of life tomorrow. Already, as far as the military go, the earth has shrunk from the comparative size of an orange to the size of a marble. When the war is over and we have had time to adapt what we have learned in the field of aviation to peaceful transportation, it will shrink to the size of a pea. When we shift our war effort to peacetime production, it will shrink still further.

Utopian Plans

Aviation is only one phase of the achievement the war has forced upon us; there are great plans bursting to become realities, many that seem so utopian that the cynics scoff—a world organization to enforce peace and achieve freedom from fear; world co-operation which will increase production and facilitate distribution to the point where there will be at least an approximation of freedom from want—to tick off only two of the four freedoms for which we are supposed to be fighting.

Discouraged at our inability to realize within our own vast borders all of the dreams of our founding fathers, we cannot believe that the high aims for unity embracing the whole world can be anything but pure fantasy. But if we can shrink the globe from orange to marble, a feat that would have been considered utterly incredible to our own grandfathers, must we say that we cannot build a world unity and a world understanding greater than anything heretofore conceived?

It took a dreamer to put the first wings on man—the laboratory and the machine shop did the rest. With the widespread will to a better future providing the psychological inspiration, who knows but that the energy which has made the prosecution of global war possible can be transmuted into a framework upon which global peace can be built?

It's a smaller globe, after all.

As we begin to think in global terms, we have to adjust our views of geography. For instance, suppose someone should tell you that the important port of Siberia, for which the Japs yearn but do not dare attack, the port of Vladivostok, were a hundred and fifty miles south of the poetic city of Venice with its streets of water? Of course, you would know better but could you say how much better?

Or if someone said flatly to you: "You can't tell me what South American countries a line running straight south from Savannah, Ga., would pass through," you would feel you could at least guess and get one right.

No. No. Naples is 150 miles north of Vladivostok. You can't name any South American country south of Savannah, Ga., because the western coastline of South America is east of such a point. Guess again.

One Bit of Tough Detail That Smith Didn't Mind

Two men worked side by side in a War Production board office. They never spoke, but each watched the other. One man left work daily at four o'clock. The other toiled on till six or later.

Some months passed. Then the harder-working of the two approached the other.

"I beg your pardon," he said, "but do you mind telling me how you can clean up your work every day at four o'clock?"

"Not at all," said the other man. "When I come to a tough piece of detail, I mark it, 'Refer to Mr. Smith.' I figure that, in a department as large as this, there is sure to be a Mr. Smith. And I must be right; those papers never come back."

The harder worker started to remove his coat.

"Brother," he said, "prepare for action. I'm Mr. Smith."

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be aching backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of sleep and strength. Other signs of kidney trouble are: uric acid or uric acid crystals in the urine, or uric acid sometimes burning, stinging or too frequent urination. W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY SO FAR: Robin Dale, a young artist, goes to Moore Bay to see her fiance, Will McPhail. Just after her boat, the White Queen, docks, Will is accidentally killed. Learning that Will's brother, Angus, blames her for his death, Robin goes to Angus' fishing cruiser to wait for him. She falls asleep and awakes later to find the boat at sea, bound for Labrador. Angus' crew consists of Pat Donohoe and a cabin boy named Romeo. Robin and Angus are taking when another cruiser draws abreast of them. On deck is a man named Jenkins, who was a passenger on the White Queen. He raised his hat to Robin, then to go. Now they are fishing for salmon.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IX

While Pat and Angus were working the easternmost pair of nets, Robin saw a large craft coming toward them from the west; and when it drew near she called Romeo on deck to see it. She thought in some surprise that he seemed uneasy at what he saw. The new boat ran past them at reduced speed; and an officer looked at them for a long time through glasses, and she realized this was some kind of Government vessel.

"It's like seeing a policeman," she decided. "When you're driving and see a uniform, you always slow down and feel guilty."

Then she saw Angus leave the net and go alongside the cutter, at anchor to receive him. Pat Donohoe returned to join her here, and as he climbed aboard, Robin said quickly: "Listen!"

The plane they had seen a while ago was returning. She heard it far away, and after a moment they saw its lights, low above the water, growing swiftly nearer, the roar of its engine loud and louder till the plane itself burst out of the purple dusk close by. Its pontoons touched; it taxied toward the coast-guard boat; they saw it moored astern.

It was dark when Angus returned. A boat from the cutter fetched him; and they were all off to meet him. The boat rowed away; and Angus looked at them in the darkness and spoke briefly, in French. Romeo asked a question; Angus answered too casually; and Romeo and Pat went below. When they were alone, Robin asked quietly:

"What is it? What is happening?"

"What? Oh, you mean the cutter? Why, they're on patrol all the time."

She smiled in the darkness at his evasion, did not press the question; but afterward when they were under way, she and Angus at table together, Romeo in the galley, Pat in the pilot-house, she asked without warning:

"Does Mr. Jenkins know they're watching him?"

She saw his eyes turn sharply toward the galley where Romeo was busy. Then he looked at her again. "Miss Dale," he said, "talk can't mend a broken plate. But it can break one."

"I'm sorry." She saw that there was real concern in him, doubt and uncertainty.

When she woke next morning, the sun was high; and the cruiser was at anchor. She dressed and went on deck and saw that the small dinghy which they carried lashed in chocks on top of the cabin was gone, the falls dangling. She was alone. The cruiser lay in a wide shallow bay bordered by a sweep of wooded shore. In one place there were some cleared fields and a scattering of houses and a dock and warehouse. This must be Beaver River. There were small fishing craft at anchor here, sharp-stemmed, with stubby masts; there was one larger schooner; and she saw the coast guard cutter coming up from the westward.

Angus came at noon with news. "Miss Dale, that cruise boat isn't stopping here. I'd forgotten they change their route on this trip. She's going home by way of Corner Brook. Nothing's expected here for ten days, except the schooners to take the salmon. I don't know what to do with you." He said doubtfully: "There's a steamer going on to Labrador tomorrow, but that won't help you get home."

"I've certainly made a nuisance of myself. What can you do?"

"We'll stop at Corner Brook ourselves within a week or so." His tone was tentative.

"We're pretty far out of the world, aren't we?"

"Pretty far out of—your world, yes."

"No, I mean out of—other people's world. My world is where I am. Wherever I am is mine. For then it's the place I belong in then." She smiled. "I don't mean to be philosophical; just practical. If you can stand being put out of your stateroom—may I go on to Corner Brook with you?"

He said, coloring slowly: "I think you know I'll do anything you want. I owe you—anything."

She spoke in quick reassurance. "Please, all that's forgotten. You were—tired, distracted."

He spoke gravely. "You're... well, you've a lot of steadiness, and honesty, and strength. I'm not good at putting things in words; but I want you to know that I'm glad my brother had the happiness of loving you before he died."

She was at once warm with happiness and choking with tears. There a nothing she could say. That she would go on with him as far as Corner Brook was settled.

An hour or two later, Romeo brought the boat to anchor near them; and at sunset they went aboard her and got under way. Pat took the wheel, and Romeo turned to in the galley. Robin, in her stateroom, heard the chatter of his activity there; and he began to sing in a rich, rather sweet tenor. When she came out into the cabin, she said to Angus:

"He has a pleasant voice, hasn't he?"

Angus nodded. "Yes. Sometimes he plays the accordion and sings at the same time. I always enjoy it."

The engine stopped. On any power-driven craft at sea, or on a plane in the air, the sudden silence of the motive agency is startling. Angus looked around in quick surprise; and then the door between engine room and cabin opened. Mr. Jenkins was there in the doorway. His checked suit was stained with grease, sadly rumpled and soiled. He held a pistol in his hand. Angus stood up sharply; but Mr. Jenkins said in gentle tones:

"You might as well sit down, Mr. McPhail. While I explain."

When Robin saw Jenkins appear from the engine room, she had a sense of familiarity, as though all this had happened before. Even the pistol in his hand seemed to belong and be darned! But you understand, I'll jump you if I can."

"Sure, I would myself. If you do, you take your own chances. No hard feelings. That's understood." Mr. Jenkins was streaming perspiration now; but the pistol in his hand was steady and ready. "I'm a pretty good shot, McPhail. I don't want to kill you. I'm in a devil of a hole! If I have to kill you to get clear, I'll do it; but I'd rather not." He added frankly: "There's some chance I won't get away. If I'm caught, I don't want a killing proved against me."

"Naturally. You don't want to be hanged."

"Right. So if I have to start shooting, I'll take a crack at your knee first. That will be just about as bad for you, as killing you. Lots of men would as soon be dead as one-legged. It will be as bad for you, but not for me. They wouldn't hang me for shooting your leg off. See what I mean? I'm just telling you, McPhail. I have to use you and your boat, but I don't want to hurt you."

McPhail said: "What do you want?"

"Why, right now, I want you and the young lady to go into the stateroom there, without any fuss. I want you to promise to stay in there with her till I tell you to come out."

He added, frowning a little at his own perplexities: "You see, McPhail, Romeo's got Pat Donohoe at the point of a gun, forward. We've got to tie him up. I shut off the engine till we could get things straight. I can take your word, but I can't take Pat's. That Irishman would swear to anything, and then kick me in the head the minute I turned my back. I'll have to see him tied up before I can be easy in my mind. Romeo can't do it alone. So I want you to go in the stateroom with Miss Dale here, and promise to stay there, both of you, till I call you out." He looked at Robin thoughtfully. "I don't want to hurt either of you," he said.

McPhail considered. "Just now, you've got the bull by the tail and can't let go. You've got me under your gun here, and Pat under Romeo's forward; but you're not getting anywhere. The boat's drifting. If we stay here long enough, the patrol boat will be back and pick us up."

"Right," Mr. Jenkins agreed. "So you'll know I'm pretty jumpy. You won't want to push me too far, McPhail."

"Suppose we make a bargain?"

Mr. Jenkins said wearily: "Now, McPhail, you know we can't bargain. You wouldn't take my word for any promise I made. Let's just do what I say. You and Miss Dale go in the stateroom and promise to stay there while we fix Pat so he can't make trouble. We won't hurt him, you understand. Then I'll start the engine and we'll pull our freight out of here, and then we'll all calm down. I don't want anybody coming along and asking questions. Be sensible, McPhail." He added in a soothing warning: "And don't get any ideas, will you? I know you had guns aboard here; your shotgun, and Pat's rifle. But they're not where you left them. I took care of them. Don't start anything, McPhail."

"You can't hide a boat this size where a plane can't see it. You're bound to be caught. So you won't do any killing."

"Don't get me wrong, McPhail." Mr. Jenkins told him almost pleadingly. "If I can get clear away by killing you, and can't do it any other way, I'll kill you in a minute." He added simply: "But if I do kill you and Pat, I won't kill Miss Dale. You might think of that."

McPhail nodded, his lips tight. "I have thought of that. Very well, we'll go in the stateroom and stay there; but suppose I call to Pat first, tell him not to make a fuss? Will that help you?"

"It just might. I won't trust him, anyway; but it may save him getting hurt." He opened the door beside him. "Go ahead," he directed. "But McPhail—be careful what you say."

Angus nodded, and he raised his voice. "Pat, can you hear me?"

The big Irishman's answer from the forecastle sounded surprisingly near. "Aye, sorr."

"I'm making a deal with them, Pat," McPhail explained. "Let them tie you up. They'll be nervous and dangerous as long as you're loose. Take it easy, and do whatever they say. Nobody's going to get hurt if we keep our heads. Understand?"

"I hear what you say, sorr; but shame it is, to be sure."

"We've Miss Dale to consider."

Pat submitted grudgingly: "Aye, sorr, if you say so."

"I do say so. Miss Dale and I have given our word to be quiet, to make no trouble. You let them tie you up."

"Aye, sorr."

McPhail looked at Mr. Jenkins. "All right?"

"As far as it goes. But if he makes a move, you'll understand I can't take any chances. He's a powerful man. Now you and Miss Dale go into the stateroom. You first, I don't want her crossing between us."

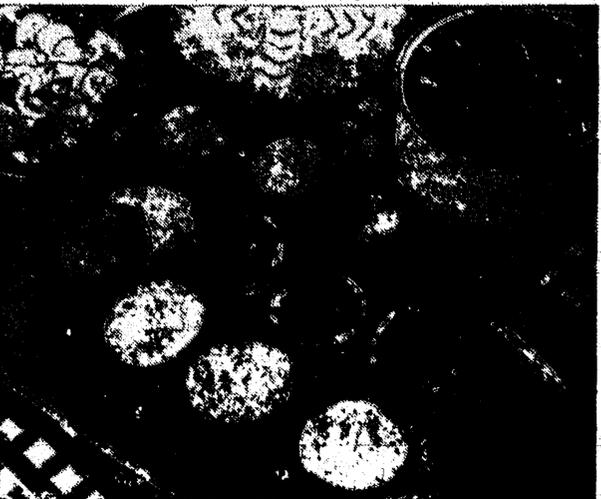

"Very well," McPhail smiled grimly. "I'll stand up and walk directly into the stateroom."

Barbecued Beef on Buns Tastes Good (See Recipe Below)

Fun Outdoors

Your family will like eating outdoors for nothing seems so good as beef barbecues or hamburgers served in the open when appetites are their sharpest, or coffee made on a make-shift stove from a couple of large bricks maneuvered to hold the old granite coffee pot in place.

Food is good and wholesome, and there's plenty of it whether you cook it at home and wrap it up to take with you to the spot of your choice, or if you gather twigs and cook to order. Make use of the back yard for your barbecue, or take-to-the woods or lake, even if you have to use the bicycle. The change from eating on the dining room table will be a welcome change and will do wonders toward perk-up summer appetites.

Make outdoor eating as convenient as dining at home. Be sure to include such things as salt and pepper, napkins, plenty of cups, plates and silverware in your basket to make the family comfortable.

A spicy sauce with beef or veal makes up a delicious barbecue. The pound and a quarter of meat is enough for 12 buns—just in case you're interested in stretching those precious red points.

Barbecued Beef on Buns.
 1 1/2 pounds beef or veal
 1 cup thinly sliced onions
 1 clove garlic, chopped (optional)
 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
 1/2 cup catsup
 1 1/2 teaspoons salt
 1/2 teaspoon pepper

Cut meat in 1-inch cubes and brown in hot fat. Add 1 cup water and simmer 1 1/2 hours until tender. Brown onions and garlic in hot fat and add to cooked meat with remainder of ingredients. Make on outdoor stove or wrap carefully in container with plenty of towels to keep warm, and take to barbecue. To serve, spoon on to warmed buns.

Hamburgers are still a great favorite for outdoor eating, particularly now since hamburger still has fairly low point value. This recipe makes tasty and tender, well seasoned hamburgers:

Prize Hamburgers (Makes 24 Hamburgers)
 4 pounds hamburger
 1/2 cup chili sauce
 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 1 1/2 tablespoons salt
 1 teaspoon onion salt
 1/2 teaspoon celery salt
 24 buns, toasted and buttered

Mix hamburger well with sauce and seasonings. Form into 24 patties.

The Score Card: Ceiling prices are in effect for such vegetables as cabbage, carrots, lettuce, spinach, snap beans and tomatoes.

Watch for changes in point values on meats and other red stamp foods. Look, too, for the ceiling prices on many cuts of meat. The butcher usually posts ceiling prices on his wall.

Your butter and cheese man can collect your points before he leaves your order. In this way he won't wake you up if he comes early, or if you're not at home later in the day. Should he fail to be able to fill your order, he must give you a ration check for points given him but not used, and you can turn this in to your local war price and rationing board.

Uniform prices for poultry have been established, and the campaign against the poultry black market is swinging into shape.

Your Barbecue Supper

- *Beef Barbecue on Toasted Bun
- Small Whole Tomatoes
- Cucumber Wedges
- or
- Chef's Salad
- *Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie
- Coffee Milk Pop
- *Recipe given

Place ribs in shallow roasting pan, meaty side up. On each piece place an unpeeled slice of lemon, a thin slice of onion. Roast in hot oven (450 degrees), 30 minutes. Combine remaining ingredients, bring to a boil and pour over ribs. Continue baking in a moderate oven (350 degrees), for 30 minutes. Baste ribs several times with sauce.

Let the green salad for the outdoor supper be as green and sprightly as you can make it. A smart idea in making the salad is to toss all the greens together, but add the salad dressing only just before eating to allow the salad to keep its crispness:

Chef's Favorite Salad.
 1/2 head of lettuce
 2 cups spinach leaves
 2 tomatoes, cut in wedges
 1/2 cup sliced radishes
 1 green pepper, cut in rings
 3 green onions
 1 stalk celery, cut in pieces
 1/4 cup french dressing

Break lettuce into bite-sized pieces and toss together with other vegetables. Just before serving, add dressing and serve from large bowl. Have all ingredients well chilled.

If you have a host of hearty eaters and would enjoy a luscious pie, the combination of strawberries with rhubarb is a happy choice: "Strawberry-Rhubarb Pie."

1 cup sugar
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 2 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca
 1/2 cup orange juice
 3 cups cut rhubarb
 1 recipe pastry
 1 cup sliced strawberries
 1 tablespoon butter

Combine sugar, salt, nutmeg, tapioca, orange juice and rhubarb; place in 9-inch pie pan lined with pastry. Top with strawberries and dot with butter. Arrange whole pastry top or lattice covering. Bake in hot oven (450 degrees) for 10 minutes, then in moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 minutes.

On the other hand, fresh fruits by themselves or with a few cookies may be more to your liking. Be sure to wash them carefully, so they do not bruise, wrap them in waxed paper, and toss them into the red-checked tablecloth that you're fastening together at the corners.

HOUSEHOLD TINTS

Never pour water on burning fat; it spreads blaze. Extinguish blaze with flour.

Try adding a few drops of lemon juice to rice the next time you cook it. It makes the rice beautifully white and keeps the grains whole.

Keep linens white by packing them in an old pillow case which has been soaked in bluing until it is a deep indigo.

Red and yellow paints mixed together give you orange; red and blue, purple; yellow and blue, green. White paint added to any of these colors will lighten them.

Cleaning is hard on the hands, so equip yourself with extra rubber gloves and wear them every time you do this kind of work. Rub some cold cream under your nails before starting work—you will be delighted to see how quickly you can clean your nails after a good bath.

Green peppers used for salads are better if first parboiled. Boil the peppers for five minutes, pour off the water, then place the peppers in refrigerator until ready to use.

Water or food left in an aluminum pressure cooker pits the surface and makes it dark and tough.

SNAPPY FACTS

ABOUT RUBBER

Recapped tires will render satisfactory service—if the tire carcass is in good condition, good workmanship is exercised, inflation rules are observed and speed is kept to 35 mph. Have your tires recapped at a reliable shop.

Scientists have developed the fact that when a car is driven at 50 mph there is a centrifugal force of two tons trying to pull the tires apart.

That our standard of living is affected in many ways by the shortage of rubber will be appreciated when it is known that normally about 50,000 items were made with rubber.

NEW DEAL THINKING

(Albuquerque Journal)
Randolph E. Paul, general counsel and tax expert for the U. S. Treasury, addressing a group of lawyers in New York, declared that personal income tax rates must be increased and exemptions lowered, beginning in 1944, to provide more revenue for the Government.

The American people, he was quoted, can stand 50 per cent higher tax payments than they are making this year—a year when such payments hit an all-time record.

Typical New Deal thinking!

Sure we can stand 50 per cent more taxes—even 100 per cent, if the Government will go all out with its familiar paternalism and assure us all a bowl of mush and a little side-meat occasionally.

Why is it no Administration man can ever bring himself to mention that the American people can stand a 50 per cent (or greater) cut in non-war expenditures, in nonessential Government agencies and activities? Why not tackle the problem from that angle for a change, instead of always seeking to put more burden on the taxpayer who already is groggy.

S. P. Dispatcher and Mrs. D. A. Saunders, a n d granddaughter Judy Nickerson were here yesterday from El Paso. They remained over for D. A. to attend the communication of Carrizozo Lodge No. 41. A. F. & A. M. While here, they were guests of Mrs. Elizabeth Sprales.
