Four Lives Lost in Big Eight Foot Water Wall South of Town Tuesday

Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock, one of the most disastrous happenings in our locality for years past occurred about six miles south of here in the big arroyo at Polly.

Daniel Chavez and wife of Duran, were returning from Tucson, Arizona, accompanied by a brother of Daniel's, Eutimio Chavez, wife and baby, whom they were bringing from the above named place to work for Daniel at Duran.

When they arrived at the Polly dip, which was 35 feet below the S. P. railroad track, there was but about six inches of water in the dip, which they crossed, but in ascending the northern portion of the dip, their engine died and having no brakes on their truck, the machine slid back into the dip, just at the time when the big avalanche of water came down. It struck the car and carried it over the dip, throwing the occupants into the swirling waters. Out of the five occupants of the truck, only Daniel Chavez was saved and that happened when he was thrown out of the whirlpool into a pile of rock and debris. As soon as the word reached here, forces of willing parties began search for the bodies, three of the missing four being found up to the present writings only the body of the baby missing.

The bodies of Eutimio and Mrs. Chavez, Mrs. Daniel Chavez and the baby are lost, but the baby's body cannot be found. Search still continues, but as the body of Eutimio was found by searchers seeing the toes of his shoes above the debris—the body of baby may be buried far beneath the shifting sands, which may be the little fellow's grave.

In view of this unfortunate affair, it would seem that with the money spent for campaign purposes to keep the New Deal in power, that a small sum could be spent to bridge that dangerous point on Highway 54.

In Invasion
2nd Lt. Leo M. Smith was one of the first 9th Troop Carrier Command pilots to cross the invasion coast. Lieut. Smith is a graduate of Las Vegas high school and attended the New Mexico A and M college.

We Listened

After first attending to business matters, listening to the proceedings of the New Deal Convention at Chicago and "burning a rag", we sneaked into bed Wednesday night with a dark brown taste in our mouth. The only "kick" we got out of the whole affair was the fist fight between the two different factions from Texas, the one for the Fourth Term and the one against the King. The convention will close Friday, which is "Hangman's Day".

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

AFTER 11 years and 50 pictures under her mahogany-tanned midriff, Ann Sheridan can afford to sit down and reflect on her life in Hollywood. Seemingly indestructible, Ann has plenty to reflect on. Hollywood holds no secrets for the flame-haired Annie. She's been around. She cooks.

"If this town ever gets down on me," Ann says, "it will have only itself to blame, because it was Hollywood that looked me up; not the other way 'round."

"As a matter of fact, I was mind-bogglingly my own business, studying to be a teacher at Northwest State Teachers' college in Texas, when I got word to pack up and leave for Hollywood."

Ann Sheridan

What happened was this: In 1933 Paramount studios conducted a highly publicized "Search for Beauty," when they wanted 15 of the prettiest girls and 15 handsomest lads in the land.

Surprise Beginning

Unknown to Ann, her sister, Kitty, submitted her picture to the contest's Texas district office. John Rosenfield, drama editor of Dallas News, served as the district judge. It was he who telephoned Ann at nearby Denton, Texas, and told her to catch the next train for Hollywood. That's how the whole thing happened. It should be noted that of the 30 youngsters who made the trip, Annie was the only one who stuck, cinematically speaking.

Annie's birthplace, Denton, Texas, is a hamlet 40 miles from Dallas. To save time-wasting questions, Ann has often said her birthplace was Dallas, but Denton it was, and she's proud of it. She manages to get back there at least once a year for family huddles with her mother, Mrs. G. W. Sheridan, her three sisters, Kitty, Mabel and Pauline, and brother George. Her dad died a few years ago.

Probably the big difference between Annie and her Hollywood sisters under the makeup lies in the fact that when the studio that brought her to Hollywood unceremoniously tossed her out, Ann didn't go home crying for mother.

Annie stuck it out, taking whatever parts a number of dog-meat companies tossed her way until, in 1937, she struck pay dirt—a good role in "The Great O'Malley," with Pat O'Brien, Humphrey Bogart, and a fine supporting cast at Warner's. Barring one instance in 1941, when a salary dispute led to a brief suspension, Annie and Warner's have been love-dovey ever since. She's never stopped delivering profits for 'em.

Never Misses

Seasoned and mature today, Ann Sheridan has proved to her bosses that she can play a great variety of roles. As Randy in "Kings Row" and as the Norwegian patriot in "Edge of Darkness" Annie laid solid claim to a reputation far removed from her original oomphs (and how she hates the word "oomph") roles.

At this writing, she's a brittle, amusing, sophisticated in "Dough-girls." In "Torrild Zene" she was hot and sultry, but not plain. She fairly sizzled her way through "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Name it and Ann does it.

The two attempts Ann has made at a happy marriage both foundered. She became Mrs. George Brent on January 5, 1942, and was divorced from him a year later. Previously she and Eddie Norris, now overseas, had a whirl at marriage which also cracked at the seams. Those close to Annie swear that she's about to take off with Steve Hannagan, the public relations expert. As I write this, she's joining him in Florida. Maybe by now she's Mrs. Steve.

Square Shooter

But if Annie and marriages don't seem to get along, she at least is tremendously popular with all the men at Warner's. From cameramen to press agents, they're solidly behind her. They like her. She's down to earth; completely natural, and can joke along with the best of them—and does.

I think Annie gets along better with men than with women. Her own sex often gets Annie peeved. She knows their little tricks and duplicities and doesn't like them. She comes clean and expects others to do the same. When they don't, she lets them know it. Don't try any devious tricks on Ann Sheridan. She'll take your head off.

Saying It With Music

Andre Kostelanetz and Lily Fein write from "somewhere in Iran": "We have organized a 50-man G. I. orchestra, including 16 violins. The players came from all distances by plane, truck and train. We are starting on our tour, after rehearsing five full days and evenings. Every one loved it. Most of the players were amateurs. What we lack in physical comforts is amply recompensed by the hospitality of every one."

WOMAN'S PART IN NATIONAL LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Judges 4:1-9, 13-16. GOLDEN TEXT—Who knoweth whether thou art come to the kingdom for such a time as this?—Esther 4:14.

Women of our day have unprecedented liberty of action and almost limitless opportunity to show their ability to meet responsibility and to accomplish great things. They are measuring up to that opportunity both in the armed services and in the multitude of tasks they are creditably carrying on in civilian life.

To those who seem surprised at their response to the nation's need, the church could well testify that women have always served well in those things which count most for God and country.

I. A Woman Can Rule (vv. 1-5).

God has established an order in the world which places woman where she best fits—in the home. There, under the guidance and with the help of her husband, she exerts her most powerful influence in the rearings of children. That is her normal, most effective and most blessed position.

But all too often conditions in the world are not normal, and woman, like man, is thrown out of the customary orbit of existence. Deborah faced such a day. Israel had sinned and been given over to the chastising hand of the Canaanite. Then God heard their repentant cry and was ready to send a deliverer—as He did in the case of each of the judges. Apparently no man was ready to take up the responsibility, or willing to thus serve God, and so He called Deborah. She sat under her palm tree and Israel came to her for judgment.

She typifies many women who have been the leaders of their people, and her story has been an inspiration to women in the church. May many more be encouraged to take up the weighty problems of moral and social righteousness, which the men of our nation (and others) do not seem to care or dare to attack!

II. A Woman Can Lead (vv. 6-9).

Barak was a man of ability. Deborah gave him full credit for his capable service (5:1, 12), but evidently he lacked that initiative which would send him into conflict with his people's enemies. Without Deborah he would not go (v. 8), under her leadership he was willing and courageous.

It is easy to ridicule Barak, and no doubt he deserves some measure of censure, but let us not be too severe on him. When the records are all in, it will be known that many of the feats of courage, the high and noble decisions, the victories in the fields of science and culture, and particularly those things that have been accomplished in and through the church, were the result of the leadership of some woman.

Many are the distinguished national and spiritual leaders who have said that all they were and had accomplished they owed to their mothers. Others speak with high appreciation of a noble and inspiring wife.

Think also of the many social and religious causes which have been largely carried on by determined and sacrificial women. Yes, a woman can lead, and often she must lead out to get the men to follow.

Not all the pursuits of life are lived out in peace or in preparation for war. The time comes when battle must be joined, and then we see that

III. A Woman Can Fight (vv. 13-16).

True it is that it was Barak who led his army, but he went out at the word of Deborah. Hers was the responsibility for strategy, for the determining of that important D-day, when the blow must be struck.

The courage of women in the battles for country makes an inspiring story. Not the least of that courage has been shown by those who have quietly stood "by the stuff" at home, who have bravely parted with their cherished loved ones, who have borne the dark hours of loneliness, uncertainty and often of heart-piercing sorrow. They shall not be without their reward (see I Sam. 30:24).

This is the place to say a further word of appreciation of the women of the church who have fought such a valiant fight against liquor, social degradation, vice, evil politics, etc. "Hats off to them!" May they be encouraged to go on.

Then too, one ought to say a word of sad and earnest admonition to those countless women who have used their great freedom in our day as a license to live wicked and ungodly lives. They do not have the courage to stand against the loose moral standards, the common acceptance of intoxicants, the immodest apparel of the day.

Christian women have the golden opportunity of setting a fine pattern of useful living now. Let them make the most of it, for the glory of God.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Jams to Help Save on Butter Next Winter

Berries for jams and jellies need picking over to remove the too-soft or wormy ones from the good. Use colander and large pans to make an easy job of this preliminary step.

Next winter when butter and other fats are scarce, you'll thank yourself for putting up a generous supply of jams, jellies, butters and marmalades to help spread bread and rolls.

Fruits and berries are plentiful now and good spreads can be made without using the one cup of sugar for one cup of fruit, in case your canning sugar is at a premium. In fact, in many cases you'll find that three-fourths of a cup of sugar to one cup of fruit will work perfectly well.

To assure success in making jams and jellies, watch cooking time carefully. In most cases, the juice from the fruit or berry is extracted slowly, but when juice and sugar are combined, cook quickly to finish so that none of the bright color of the fruit is sacrificed.

When the fruit or berry is low in natural pectin, use a commercial form and follow directions for sugar and juice.

Ripe Sour Cherry Jelly. (Makes 7 medium-sized glasses)
3 cups juice
4 cups sugar
1 box powdered fruit pectin

To prepare juice, stem and crush about 3½ pounds fully ripe cherries. Add ½ cup water, bring to a boil, and simmer, covered, for 10 minutes. Place fruit in jelly bag and squeeze out juice. If there is a shortage of juice, add a little water to fruit in bag and squeeze again.

Measure sugar into a dry dish and set aside until needed. Measure juice into a 3 or 4 quart saucepan. Place pan over hottest fire. Add powdered fruit pectin and mix well. Continue stirring until mixture comes to a hard boil. Pour in sugar at once, stirring constantly. Continue stirring, bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard ½ minute.

Remove from fire, skim and pour quickly. Paraffin hot jelly at once.

Dried Apricot and Pineapple Jam. (Makes 11 8-ounce glasses)
4 cups prepared fruit
7 cups sugar
1 bottle fruit pectin

To prepare fruit, add 2 cups water to 1½ pound apricots. Cover and let stand overnight. Drain fruit, grind or chop fine and mix with juice.

Crush well or grind 1 medium-sized pineapple or use No. 2 can crushed pineapple. Measure sugar and fruit into a large kettle filling up last cup with water if necessary.

Bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Then remove kettle from fire and stir in bottled pectin. Skim. Pour quickly. Paraffin hot jam at once.

Marmalade, golden tinted and sunshiny as the summer day, will win

Taste-Tested Tips: Old-fashioned potato salad is a treat made with boiled dressing, seasoned with dry mustard. Try a sprinkle of paprika over the top, and serve with crispy, broiled bacon.

Eggs are still plentiful and are a treat when served curried with a rice or noodle ring. Green peas or beans with baby onions are a good accompaniment.

many favorites this winter:

Carrot-Orange Marmalade. (Makes about 9 glasses)
6 oranges
4 lemons
4 cups water
6 cups prepared carrots
5 cups sugar

Remove peel from the oranges and 2 of the lemons and chop. Soak in water overnight and drain, saving water.

Cut oranges into small pieces; dice carrots or put through a food chopper. Mix the peel, chopped oranges and carrots and cook, covered, until tender with as little water as possible.

Add sugar and water in which the peels were soaked and cook uncovered until thick and clear. Add juice of the lemons, cook 5 minutes longer. Pour into hot, sterilized glasses or jars.

Conserve is very much like jam, but it usually has raisins or nuts or both in it:

Peach-Cantaloupe Conserve. (Makes about 5 glasses)
1 pint prepared peaches
1 pint prepared cantaloupe
Juice and grated rind of 2 lemons
3 cups sugar
½ cup English walnuts

Wash and peel peaches and dice. Remove seeds from cantaloupe rind and dice. Combine all ingredients except nuts. Cook slowly until mixture boils. Boil rapidly until thick and clear. Add nuts and pour into hot sterilized glasses.

Homemakers who are hunting for new combinations for jellies will like these. Use the long boil method in preparing them.

The last step in jelly and jam making is an easy one. Pour paraffin over the hot fruit mixture as soon as it is ladled into glasses and skimmed.

Jelly Combinations.

Juices Used	Sugar Needed
Currant, 2 cups
Red Raspberry, 2 cups	4 cups
Plum, 2 cups
Crabapple, 2 cups	4 cups
Apple, 2 cups
Pineapple, 2 cups	3 cups
Crabapple, 2 cups
Cherry, 2 cups	3 cups

For those who wish to make jellies out of fruit juices, canned this summer, there is a simple procedure to follow. If there is not enough sugar to fill all your canning and jelly-making needs, then the best way of assuring yourself of jelly, is to put up the juice and make it up into jelly when you do have the sugar.

Follow directions for preparing fruit or berry juice as in jelly-making recipes. Do not add fruit or simmer unless recipe directs it. After juice has been extracted, place in jelly bag and squeeze out the juice.

Fill canning jars to shoulder and seal according to manufacturers' directions. Place jars into a boiling water bath (180 degrees) with water reaching an inch or two above the jars. Keep water at simmering temperature and process pints of juice 20 minutes, quarts 30 minutes.

Remove jars and finish sealing, if necessary. Cool as rapidly as possible but avoid a draft.

To Make the Jelly.
When you desire to make the jelly, use your favorite recipe or those with the commercial pectins. These jellies have the same texture as those made from fresh products.

If you wish additional instruction for canning fruit or berries, write to Miss Lynn Chambers, 210 South Desplaines Street, Chicago 6, Illinois. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope for your reply.

"I agree with you, Steve. Time after time... in their letters, in articles, in polls taken to get the views of our fighting men... they have indicated in unmistakable terms that they don't want any action taken on prohibition, either local or national, until they get back."
"Too bad there isn't a law or somethin' to be sure their wishes are carried out, Judge."
"There is in one state I know of, Steve. Just recently it passed a law prohibiting the calling of any prohibition election until a year after the peace is declared."
"That really makes sense to me, Judge."

Republicans Win
New York Beachhead
On Invasion Day

Democrats were stunned by a crushing defeat suffered on "Invasion Day," in a New York City Congressional district which had been Democratic for 63 years.

Republicans hailed the election of Ellsworth B. Buck in the 11th district over Thomas V. Cantwell, a Democrat who had American Labor party support, as an omen of victory throughout the nation in November.

Buck polled 14,269 votes against 10,764 for Cantwell, whose vote was made up of 8,567 Democratic and 2,197 American Labor party ballots. Buck's vote was 57% of the total vote cast. This constituted a gain of 15% in vote percentage in two years.

What was most distressing to Democrats was the apparent rejection of their No. 1 argument for the fourth term: "Don't desert the commander-in-chief in time of war."

If voters cast their ballots against the commander in chief on invasion day, Democratic leaders acknowledged that they cannot be expected to be swayed by appeals not to change horses in the middle of the stream on election day.

The Republican victory in a traditionally Democratic district in New York city adds to the tangible evidence of the Republican trend registered in recent months in special congressional elections in Colorado, Pennsylvania, Kentucky, Kansas, Missouri and other states.

NOT MUCH LEFT FOR SUPPORT OF NEW DEAL

From the way legitimate labor, farmers, industrialists, small business men such as grocers, meat market operators, etc., are deserting the Roosevelt support for a fourth term it appears that the only support the New Deal can count on now is the CIO radical labor movement which is an outgrowth of the New Deal and fathered and mothered by Franklin D. and Eleanor Roosevelt, and the communists. Outside these two organizations and the New Deal payrollers, several million strong, there seems to be no real support left for the New Deal. But—so far as financial aid is concerned—the CIO will, if necessary, furnish millions in cash and if the purchasing of votes by New Dealers can be continued as in the past this may prove to catch more suckers, but in the end with the concerted opposition to be found everywhere this year we are certain that after the November election the New Deal will be a dead pig.

Republicans Will Win!

The Republicans will win in '44 because the people of this nation are finally awakened to the urgent need of a change in Washington. They now realize individually, that the time-worn phrase, "Constitutional government" is the antithesis of the New Deal policy that favors government by men rather than government by law; regulation of public and private affairs by executive orders and fantastically conceived "directives" rather than by congressional enactments; and irresponsible expenditures of unlimited public funds by impractical and visionary executives who ignore or contravene statute requirements and the will of the people. Too, the majority of Americans are now agreed that no man is indispensable, whether he be the chief executive or one of his palace guard appointees.—Andrew F. Schoepel, Governor of Kansas.

F. D. R. IS FAR FROM INDISPENSABLE

The New Dealers say Franklin D. Roosevelt is the one man the nation can't do without in winning the war. Washington newspaper correspondents, noted for their disinterested attitudes, say he is only a "show" man when it comes to usefulness in Washington.

Look Magazine recently made a survey of opinion of Washington correspondents, asking whom they considered to be the most useful Washington official.

Was Roosevelt first? —Not on your life.

Was Roosevelt second? Not at all. Franklin D. Roosevelt was THIRD man in the race.

In other words, Franklin D. Roosevelt is very dispensable. He can be done without.

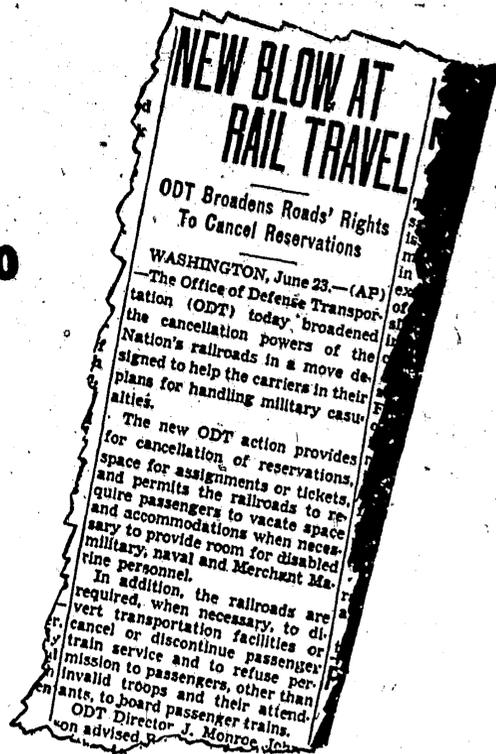

First most useful man, according to the correspondents, was a soldier—General George C. Marshall, chief of staff. Second most useful man, according to the correspondents, was Cordell Hull, secretary of state.

The same survey made a poll to determine the 10 least useful persons in Washington. Among those getting high score were Frances Perkins, secretary of labor; Henry Morgenthau, Jr., secretary of the treasury; Claude B. Wickard, secretary of agriculture; Henry A. Wallace, vice president of the United States; Francis Biddle, attorney general—the majority of the Roosevelt cabinet.

Also voted among the ten least useful were John E. Rankin, Democrat representative from Mississippi; Harry L. Hopkins, special assistant to the President; Joseph F. Guffey, Democratic senator from Pennsylvania, and Paul V. McNutt, director of the Federal Security Agency.—Ohio Republican News.

We want you to be forewarned

As you may have read in the newspapers, the Office of Defense Transportation has given the railroads authority to take train space from civilian passengers at any time, to make room for wounded service men.

We sincerely hope that people planning trips not essential to the war effort will cancel their plans so that more room will be left on trains, and so make it unnecessary to take these drastic steps. We are going to take care of these wounded men first. They come first with us, and we believe they come first with you. But we and other railroads would dislike very much to cancel reservations at the last minute, or to make people already on trains give up their space.

The invasion of Europe has started, and how great the toll of wounded will be nobody knows. We have our wounded from the Pacific coming in too. And more and more cars must be taken for them from the restricted amount of equipment left after the regular military requirements are met.

We cannot guarantee that if you start a trip you will be able to get space returning. You must face that fact. If you're away from home on a pleasure trip and emergency space cancellations must be made, you may have great difficulty getting back.

For some time we have been urging people not to travel except on essential business. We haven't enjoyed doing this. For many years we have been trying to promote travel, and it "goes against the grain" to suggest that people stay off the trains. The very fact that we have issued these appeals should indicate the seriousness of the travel situation. And the new ODT order emphasizes this still more.

Why don't we provide more cars, more trains? Virtually no new cars can be built during war time. Materials are scarce, and car builders have been making guns and tanks and other war equipment. With the biggest army and navy in our history, about 63% of all Pullman sleeping cars have to be used exclusively for military service. Travel by men in uniform on furlough, or traveling on orders, plus the greatly increased volume of business travel due to the war production effort, taxes the capacity of the remaining equipment used in regular passenger train service. There are no more passenger cars available. We must get along with what we have.

We have now reached the point where there just isn't room on our trains for people who don't have to travel.

People planning a vacation or other non-essential trip may think "There's always room for one more."

Well, there isn't.

If you are planning a train trip not essential to the war effort, we strongly advise you to change your plans, now.

EUROPE: Yanks Gain

Developing their offensive on the western end of the French battle-front, U. S. troops drove through marshy land to envelop the communications hubs of La Haye and St. Lo against the bitter opposition of an enemy taking every advantage of the soggy ground and hedgerowed landscape.

Other Fronts

Calling maced artillery into play from dominating heights, the Germans poured fire on Allied troop movements in Italy to slow their steady drive up the long peninsula to the rich agricultural and industrial regions of the north.

DIPLOMACY: French Problem

U. S. support of the De Gaulle administration of liberated French territory without formal recognition of it as a legal government was the latest diplomatic problem up for settlement in Washington, D. C. with De Gaulle's arrival in the nation's capital for discussions with President Roosevelt.

With the Allies pressing closer to Japan's inner supply lines feeding her booming war industry, U. S. subs and air forces can be expected to take an increasing toll of enemy shipping, navy secretary James Forrestal declared.

LEND-LEASE: Steady Shipments

Lend-lease shipments of food to the Allies continued at a steady pace during the first five months of 1944, with some commodities being sent in larger volume and others in smaller amounts, with little net effect on domestic supplies.

'Black Widow'

Although military officials have concealed details, a full and rear view of the new twin-fuselage 'Black Widow' fighter plane with a central cockpit, was released. Said to be the largest and most powerful pursuit plane built, the 'Black Widow' is especially equipped for night fighting.

BUGS: Man's Allies

Acting in conjunction with the U. S. department of agriculture, the nation's farmers are turning predatory bugs upon destructive insects to assure crop growth.

ROBOTS: Inflict Casualties

With all Britain stirred by the robot menace which continued to exact its toll of casualties and damage, Prime Minister Churchill told the parliament that over 10,000 people had been killed or wounded by the flying bombs and he could give no guarantee about the future of this form of attack.

Midwest 'Nationalist' View Result of 'Honest Doubt'

Isolationism in Prairie States Is Not "Head in Sand" Viewpoint; Stems From Fear of Entanglements.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C. The flag over the White House lazily embraces its staff; squirrels and starlings loaf on the wide lawn; the east gate is still locked but the pacing sentry is gone and only the friendly White House police and secret service men guard the western portal and scrutinize the credentials of visitors, most of whom they know.

Some things of political significance have happened since the Republicans chose their candidates in the sweltering heat of the Chicago Stadium, now warming the blood of their opponents.

There is one outstanding reason for the need of some very careful planning on the part of the administration supporters even though they feel confident that the country will not "swap horses in the middle of a stream."

Of course, you don't have to be a cynic to admit that the vote which usually wins a presidential election is a vote against the man or the party in power. The preponderance of that vote is motivated by the good old American idea that in government, variety is the spice of the nation's life.

Because the Republican leaders realized this they tried to subordinate all other efforts to the end of minimizing the importance of anything which administration stands for, which affects the war and international relations. That is why harmony was achieved as it was not achieved at the Philadelphia convention, and why the fiercely conflicting forces were silenced behind closed doors leaving the delegates on the floor as harmonious as a Hayden string quartet.

Strong 'Nationalist' Feeling in Middle West

How strongly "nationalist" the Middle West is is not realized. One Republican who has done as much as any to try to work out a compromise between the Wendell Willkie philosophy of foreign relations and the isolationist viewpoint said to me when the tempest in the sub-committee drawing up the foreign policy plank was having its fiercest conflict:

"You have no idea how the isolationist sentiment out here has grown in the last few weeks. These people don't want to be isolationists but if they are forced to go on record with a choice they will choose that way."

That was finally avoided. Partly by building up a "world-state" straw-man and knocking it over, partly by insisting on phrases capable of wide interpretation, and turning the interpretation over to the candidates. The second compromise—Bricker's acceptance of the vice Railroads Forced to Turn Down Over-Sized Freight Twice in recent years the railroads have been unable to accept pieces of freight for transportation because of their large size. In one case, a giant oil tank had to be towed from Hoboken up the Hudson and through the New York state barge canal and the Great Lakes to Chicago. In the other case, the large pipes for Boulder dam, owing to their 30-foot diameter, had to be fabricated at the site in a plant erected for the purpose.

Many of these will have to come from cities. A WFA official said "We will need approximately 12 million workers on farms to meet peak October requirements in harvesting. That means about 700,000 city workers must be recruited." UNREST: Uprisings in Honduras and Nicaragua are reported as unrest appears to be spreading throughout the small nations of Central America. A dispatch from San Salvador stated that the president of Honduras had already resigned, and that a passive resistance movement was developing against the president of Nicaragua. Guatemala too, was the scene of rioting.

About 32,500 recruited workers from Mexico, 5,250 from Jamaica, 5,100 from the Bahama Islands and 300 from Newfoundland are working on American farms. QUEENS DIE PROUDLY

THE STORY THIS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, flying Fortress pilot, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed fleeing for shelter and Old 99 was demolished before it could get off the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the squadron flies to Java, where they go out on missions over the Philippines. On one of these missions one of the motors of Kurtz' Fort is hit and they begin to lose altitude. They stay with it, however, make the bomb run and try to make Malang Field on Java, but change their minds, turn back. The boys are brought up at a U. S. magazine which publishes a complete diagram of the E model Fortress.

CHAPTER XI

"Pilot to Radio," calls Captain Skiles over the interphones. "Radio answering Pilot. Go ahead," answers Sergeant Bourdieu. "Get the emergency rations out," says Skiles, "and the jungle kits, and set them by the door." "They'd given us up at Belem, but when they heard us circling up in the fog they went down the field in a truck, throwing out lighted flare pots to mark the runway. Our gas was so low that before the ship was parked the No. 1 engine cut out. "Next morning we were off for Natal, and landed there at one o'clock. We were gassing up and the crew chief was supervising the loading—the natives rolling out the steel drums, and the crew chief unscrewing their tops to hurry it up—when he happened to stick his finger into one that seemed a little heavy and, by George, it was full of water! The barrel looked like any other barrel, the native looked like any other native. Of course it was sabotage, but what could you do! Brazil wasn't in the war yet. Somebody hoped that one drum of water would have brought us down with sputtering motors out in the Atlantic.

"We took off for Freetown, Africa, at ten o'clock. It was an eleven-hour flight. We stayed with the British there and got along with them fine. It was a fighter station. They gave us a nice feed and all the warm beer we could drink—it was New Year's Eve.

"Then we started across Africa, and finally sighted the Nile, and I ate dinner at the British sergeants' mess at Khartoum.

"When we got to Iraq," said the Gunner, "we began to smell the war. The British there told us not long ago the natives, led by Nazis, had revolted, and two thousand rebels had tried to take the field away from the little garrison. All the British had on it was one plane, so old it looked like a box kite—cruised about seventy miles per hour.

"So they'd taken an empty gas drum, loaded it up with brace chains, rivets, and bolts, and in the middle put a hell of a lot of sticks of dynamite and a fuse. It was so big it would hardly go into the door of the plane.

"Then they flew over the rebel army, and when they had figured the best place to drop it, they lit the fuse. But when they tried to roll it out, it got stuck in the door of the plane. The British said they were quite worried for a bit while that fuse burned on.

"Finally they jammed it through the door and on out, but it exploded about fifty feet off the ground. They said it killed about fifty rebels.

"A couple of hops later we were in Bangalore, in India, where there was a Welsh regiment stationed.

"Then we flew on down to Palembang, Sumatra, and crossed the equator in a hell of a snowstorm at 12,000 feet, with snow packing in between our engines.

"There we first saw the Dutch. Compared with the English, they seemed more rugged. But we liked them, even though they give you a loaf of bread, a hunk of baloney, and a cup of tea and call that breakfast, lunch, or dinner."

"On the seventeenth of January we had reached Java," continued the Gunner, "and were looking down on their rice paddies in a drizzle which washed everything a vivid green. Then we flew over Surabaya and up between those two conical mountains that guard the pass into Malang Field.

"Then we went down to barracks to meet the 19th. Well, there'd been quite a change. As a bunch they looked nervous and hollow-eyed, compared to the way we'd remembered them back in the States. Looked like a few of them had been drinking quite a bit off duty, maybe trying to forget what they'd been through. You had to stop and remember that those poor guys had been fighting a defensive war with those D's.

"They'd look enviously across the field at the tall guns of the new E's we'd arrived in. No doubt it was a lot better combat plane. 'Yeah-uh,' they'd admit, 'but wait till a Jap gets on your tail and then see what happens.' They all looked so tired I wondered what I'd look like after a while.

"We found out they were sending us out on a raid the very next morning—which should show how badly they needed us—so after we came back I went out to check again on my guns."

"We needed the new boys badly," said Frank. "We'd got word weeks was on the way. You see the American Navy's PBV—big flying boats—had come out of Manila, and now were operating off Java, from the big Dutch naval base at Surabaya, but mostly from coastal coves and the wide mouths of rivers. Patrol Wing 10 they were called, and a swell gang they were. Of course we thought it was God-awful stuff they were flying—those clumsy twin-engined boats with the tail sweeping up in the air—but they certainly did a job.

"They came in with the news that on reconnaissance they'd picked up an enormous gang of Jap surface ships, coming toward us down Macassar Strait. It was the same gang we'd pounded at Davao. They had to be stopped. Had to be! So the Colonel sent out everything he had, which was just six Forts, and the Dutch sent their little Navy, which couldn't scare them much alone, plus some old Martin B-10 bombers they'd bought from us before the war."

"Take-off was at 3:30 in the morning," said the Gunner. "We'd planned to bomb from a good altitude, but the weather was so bad that we had to drop down to 15,000 as we approached the target. It broke light about seven and we began to see the gray, hazy sea, and the mountains piled up on both sides of the Strait below us.

"We were about ten miles from the target when we saw that Jap surface gang. I'm not a Navy man, but I was knocked over by it. They were strung out in two lines, transports with escorts—destroyers, cruisers, battleships riding the flanks, stretching back as far as we could see. I was as bowled over as a ten-year-old kid watching his first Sells-Floto circus parade start by. Only then I thought, 'My God, here we were, only six Forts, with all this power against us!'

"When we sighted them we separated into two flights, following radio command, and almost immediately their ack-ack fire opened up on us. We went in in a column of V's, each flight picking its ship, and by the time we were over them, the Japs had their anti-aircraft fuses just right. Just after we'd dropped our bombs, the Jap pursuits hit us. I'd been watching them spiraling up from their aircraft carrier—in flights of three, keeping formation as they spiraled, fifteen Zeros in all.

"When they'd got their altitude, they paired off.

"Each pair would pick a Fort and go in for the attack, one hitting it from the side while the other would come in from behind. Remember, it was the first time any Zero had ever seen an E-model Flying Fortress. The one who came in from behind would throttle down to our speed and, in a leisurely way, try to shoot the tail off.

"It happens a couple came nosing up around our tail the first thing. Just like the boys of the 10th had said, they first opened up with their four little .25-caliber wing guns, getting everything nicely lined up with their tracers before cutting loose with their cannon.

"Well, our tail gunner, Sergeant Irvin Schier, waited, letting them come on in. Then just as they were about to uncork their cannon, he let them have it—knocked hell out of them. If they hadn't been dead they'd have been terribly surprised.

"We'd finished our bomb run, so then we headed for a cloud. But Major Robinson, the leader, came back with his flight for a second pass, and picked off another transport. Then we headed for home. Every Fort got back, and we'd picked off seven Zeros. For days the damned fools kept up those tail attacks, and it was the same old grind—we'd average four Zeros a mission.

"They tell it that one day five Zeros are sitting under a cloud when we come by. Four of them go in for tail attacks and are shot into confetti, so the fifth is smart—he goes home with the news. But for a while there it was a tail-gunner's heaven."

"You never forget your first battle mission," said the Bombardier, "only I of course had a bomb-sight angle on the whole picture.

"Just before we took off Major Robinson called all pilots, bombardiers, radiomen, and navigators into the hangar room for a critique. He had a new idea.

"My plane is to be in his flight. When we make our pass over the target, my navigator is to watch Robinson's bomb doors, and when Robinson's bombs appear, then he releases four of mine. I meanwhile sighting the target. Then the planes behind me release when I do. In this way we'll make a wide pattern, and get away from the target faster than by making a double run.

"We have clear weather, climbing for our altitude through a few scattered clouds, and thirty minutes away from the target we reach 30,000 feet and then level off, following the Borneo shore line of Macassar Strait. We're all at battle stations, I fiddling with my bomb sight. Presently we hear the top turret gunner over the interphone.

"Planes! he's calling. 'Formation of planes, right rear, high!' They were coming down at us from 32,000 or 33,000 feet, but from the navigator's compartment I couldn't see them yet.

"Then they peeled off for the attack, concentrating on Robinson's plane. I could hear the gunners calling these plays over the interphones—couldn't see the Zeros myself yet, but I could see their tracers going into the tail of Robinson's plane. Then we turned in on our bomb run, and I'd catch glimpses of the Zeros as they overshot Robinson, some of them coming fifty feet from his plane."

"But I'm busy on my bombing run. I've picked my first live target, a row of three transports, broadside to our line of flight. Everything else seems to be going smoothly. I can hear Charlie Britt on the top turret gun, hammering away at Zeros, and I cuss him a little because it shakes my bomb sight.

"Now we're on the run, coming in on the target, and I've set my drift in the sight, plus our true altitude and true air speed, so I can put those cross hairs on the target.

"Now the pilot and I switch our earphones over to command, so we can listen to any orders Major Robinson wants to give from his lead plane, while the copilot stays on the interphones, so he can pick up what our gunners are doing.

"And in a minute I hear it. Major Robinson is calling. "Robinson to Flight. I've been badly hit in the tail—having trouble holding the nose of my plane down. I'm turning the formation."

"We had been coming in straight at the coast of Borneo. Now, turning, we go down the coast, the Zeros swarming around us like flies around a hunk of rotten meat.

"The first one I really saw came up from beneath us. I'd known he was there, because tracers had been coming up from under the ship's belly past my face, as if someone down under there was throwing up handfuls of live, smoking coals.

"As he pulls up out from beneath us and banks away, I get in a couple of good bursts at him with the little .30-caliber machine gun we have down there in the nose. I couldn't really see if I'd hit him or not. Then:

"Robinson to Skiles. Go ahead." "Skiles answering Robinson," says our pilot.

"Take the lead," Robinson tells him. "I can't keep up with the formation. I'll drop behind. And slow the formation down so I can keep up."

"We're still going down the coast, remember. And now:

"Skiles to Robinson. Go ahead," comes over the interphones. "Robinson answering."

"Do you want to make another pass at the target?" asks Skiles.

"Yes, Skiles, take the formation over the target again."

"We make our turn, the rest following, and head back.

"Just then a Zero dives down on the formation from behind, going between me and the plane on our right wing—about a hundred feet away—and then it levels off in front of me. I happened to have the gun in the right-hand socket of the nose, so I can really lay it on him with my little .30-caliber sewing machine. It's taking plenty of stitches, but I can see my tracers slapping into his wing, close to where it joins his fuselage. He wobbles, goes into a dive. He is well out in front with plenty of forward speed, so it's almost like watching a bomb leaving my plane, which I can follow all the way down. This doesn't happen often. Usually I shoot at them, they go on back behind, and the wing gunners confirm whether I really got them or not. But now:

"Robinson to Flight. Use as your target that heavy cruiser moving out from shore."

STAGE SCREEN RADIO By VIRGINIA VALE Released by Western Newspaper Union.

THAT Bob Hope is quite a man. Though he was half a continent away, Columbia Pictures had to reshoot an entire scene for "The Impatient Years" because he stole it from Jean Arthur and Lee Bowman. Cameras whirred while Jean and Lee went through a tender farewell near a railroad station newsstand. They did a swell job. But when Director Irving Cummings screened the rushes next day, there on a magazine cover was Mr. Hope, perfectly in focus; with a wide grin splitting his face. Naturally the mood of the scene was completely ruined!

If Warner Bros. stick to the facts during the making of "Night and Day," the Cole Porter life-story, they'll have to hire Xavier Cugat and his Latin-Americanos, who work for Metro, for the film. One afternoon some years back the boys were rehearsing at the Waldorf, when Cole Porter walked in with a fox-trot he had just written. He asked Cugat to have them play it—it was "Begin the Beguine."

After being under contract to Warners' for more than a year without making a picture, Joan Crawford is set for her first starring picture for them. It's "Mildred Pierce," a story involving a divorced woman and her grown daughter. Miss Crawford recently worked in a scene in "Hollywood Canteen," playing herself; she danced a jitterbug number with Dane Clark.

Shortly before her variety hour left the air last month, Kate Smith got a taste of working on Sundays, when she was a guest on four Sunday shows—"We the People," "Silver Theater," "Bandwagon" and "Hall of Fame." When she returns to the air in September she'll be heard from seven to eight, EWT, Sunday evenings—it will be the first Sunday series in her entire 13-year radio career.

Pat O'Brien, costar of "Marine Raiders," has been asked to make a recording of a "Knute Rockne" pep talk adapted to war instead of football, for use in the official training schedule of every marine going through the San Diego boot camp. The request came after O'Brien, in San Diego for the filming of the picture, was a guest on the marines' "Halls of Montezuma" radio program, and as "Rock" gave his boys a pep talk. Commanding officer Col. George Hall had the idea of having Pat record the talk as a permanent feature of training.

Of all the roles which Jay Jostyn, "Mr. District Attorney," has enacted, one of his favorites is that of a virile sea captain. He played it on a midwestern station many years ago, on a series based on the adventures of sea-faring men, and it was very, very salty. And Jay, who at that time had never been on anything larger than a row-boat, had a wonderful time.

Eddie Cantor, who's spent the last two months in New York broadcasting from nearby hospitals and service headquarters, is on his way back to Hollywood; en route Eddie will play his self-named "Parple Heart" circuit of rehabilitation hospitals.

Many howls provided by Harry Savoy come during his ad-lib warm-ups before the broadcasts (NBC, Thursday nights). Recently he walked on stage, was introduced by Jimmy Wallington, and asked the audience to take out their handkerchiefs and wave them at him. "Thanks," said the Crown Prince of Confusion, "that's the first clear laundry I've seen in months."

ODDS AND ENDS—Special lootake for Kay Kayser's Columbia picture, "Battle-ship Blues," will be filmed by Rocky Mount, N. C., his home town. . . . Flower Parry, ex-wife of Jackie Coogan, returns to the screen in an important role in "Hollywood Canteen." . . . Of all the movies in New York, soldiers, sailors and seamen receive free tickets at New York's "99 Park" one night recently, most wanted to see "Back Home in Indiana." . . . A new song by Cole Porter, "Don't Fence Me In," will be sung by Roy Rogers and his Sons of the Pioneers for their special appearance in the all-star musical extravaganza, "Hollywood Canteen."

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Add new rubber-producing plants: the Hevea pumila Inn and the Chromolaena macrophylla. Both widely grown in China, if anyone is interested in these tongue twisters!

The peoples of the world should be the ultimate beneficiaries of the war-born, large-scale competition between natural rubber and synthetic rubber, in the opinion of John L. Collyer, president of B. F. Goodrich. He anticipates that this benefit may be in the form of lower-cost materials to the public and the wider use of rubber made possible by its low cost in many new applications.
