Senator Truman and Tom Pendergast Creation Seek to Belittle Republican Opposition to His Ideas of Dictatorship Rule

In his speech of acceptance for candidate for the office of Vice President of the United States, radioed from Lamar, Mo., on Aug. 31, the ghost-writer for his speech made some wonderful announcements. He said, that (referring to the Republican candidate, Thos. E. Dewey) that "there will be no time to learn," indicating by that Mr. Dewey is a minor novice, unacquainted with things of a national nature, war, peace or otherwise.

He characterized the Republican leader as having no experience with any of our national problems and made the oft-repeated mess of "not changing horses in midstream," after a change had already been made of changing one horse. Mr. Wallace already, although he failed to mention that fact. Another notable thing he said was quote: "the principles and policy carried out during the past 12 years for the men and women of this country will be continued under his leadership," which assumed the meaning that he would be continued forever and handed down to his much married, much divorced sons as the heirs apparent.

But he left out one thing which the people of this country would have been glad to hear—or would they? He failed to tell us how it was that he became a Senator from the state of Missouri. How it was that the gangster chief, Tom Pendergast of Kansas City picked him out for that position when Tom was in power and why he was so picked. How it was that the gangster chief found in him an "easy mark" that would bend the knee to him and do his bidding and why it is that the Republican party will publicly expose him to the people of this country in his true light during this campaign. His political career is so bedaubed with crookedness and political trickery that if he should have given his history to the voters, it would have been a sweet morsel for to have rolled under their tongues. But the truth will come out within the next six weeks and the reading will be fine.

Roper's Club Rodeo

Ralph Bonnell of Glencoe was one of our friendly callers at this office Tuesday and from him we learned that on the dates, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 16-17 the Lincoln County Roper's Club of Capitan will give a big Rodeo on the club grounds of that organization. Then on Oct. 8, there will be an exciting roping contest between Gerald Tully of Glencoe and Bob Crosby of Roswell. This contest will be watched with more than ordinary interest as both ropers know their stuff and the contest will be the most exciting held in this county for years past. Rodeo fans are forewarned of these events so that all may be provided with the proper information before the above several programs take place. Watch for particulars in this paper and on the bills.

Mr. and Mrs. Champ Ferguson of Capitan were guests of Mrs. Ferguson's mother Mrs. Anna Brazel Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Bello and small son Frankie of Claunch were shoppers in town Wednesday.

The Freshman Class is the largest class in high school having most of its old members and several new members. Two members are late in entering because of sickness and others are out of town. Mr. Followill was the class sponsor last year. Reporter.

Mrs. R. A. Walker is selling tickets at the Lyric Theatre.

Stitch and Chatter Club

The regular meeting of the Stitch and Chatter Club at the ranch home of Mrs. J. P. Turner was called to order Tuesday evening by the president, Mrs. Bessie Hodgkin. After the usual preliminaries all business having been dispatched the social part of the meeting began. Mrs. Turner, the hostess had been called to a joint meeting of the Municipal School Board and the Village Trustees who were in session at the city hall. This fitted very nicely into the scheme of things, because a surprise shower for Mrs. Turner had been planned by the president, Mrs. Hodgkin and members, who arrived at the usual time and went ahead with their deep, dark secret arrangements. When Mrs. Turner arrived home all were invited to the dining room to view the gifts, which were extremely beautiful.

Then the usual bridge games followed. No scores were kept, but everyone played with zest. After an hour or two of bridge refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. Turner, assisted by Mrs. Hodgkin, the club president. Catherine Hemphill, Club Reporter.

JUDGE FRENGER DENIES FORT STANTON PETITION

Judge Numa Frenger in a decision rendered Wednesday denied a petition of Mrs. Tom Burleson and associates for a court order requiring the Board of County Commissioners to establish a polling place on the Fort Stanton Reservation. The petition was brought as a result of action taken by the Commissioners in April in establishing a box at that place then by later action revoking it.

The Commissioners gave as their reason for rescinding the earlier action the fact that a polling place on government owned and controlled property was of questionable legality and would probably subject the voters of the entire box to election contest and possibly disfranchise all the voters using the box.

Judge Frenger in a statement made to the court complimented the Commissioners and stated that had he been a member, his action would have been the same as theirs.

He stated that the Commissioners by their first action showed their interest and their desire to accommodate the voters of Fort Stanton, and that after determining this action would in reality only cause endless confusion and expense to the county, they did what any good citizen using good judgment would do and rescinded it.

Families Like Meals With a Relish
(See Recipes Below)

Heat of Spice
"I've saved many a meal just by serving it with a good relish," homemakers often tell me.

This is the season to put up those small, precious jarsful of sweetness and spice to go with meat-thrifty meals. There needn't be many if your sugar rations are low, but do fit a few of them in your canning budget and classify them as morale builders.

Pickles, chutneys, catsups, conserves and relishes add that bit of something special to the meal. They're easy to put up because the sugar, spices and vinegar in them act as preservatives.

First on the list is a tasty blueberry relish that goes with mild-flavored meats like lamb or veal.

*Blueberry Relish.

- 4 cups blueberries (prepared)
  - 7 cups sugar
  - 1/2 cup vinegar
  - 1/2 bottle fruit pectin
- To prepare blueberries, crush thoroughly or grind 1 1/2 quarts fully ripe, cultivated blueberries. Add 1/4 to 1 teaspoon cinnamon, cloves, allspice or any desired combination of spices.

Measure sugar, prepared blueberries and vinegar into a large kettle. Mix well and bring to a full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in bottled fruit pectin. Skim; pour quickly. Paraffin hot relish at once.

Chili sauce has carried a high point value since rationing came into effect. It would be a good idea to put it up at home so as to save points for other canned food.

Chili Sauce.

- 1 gallon tomatoes
- 2 cups onions
- 2 cups sweet red pepper
- 1 pod hot red pepper
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons salt
- 1 tablespoon mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 3 tablespoons mixed spices
- 2 1/2 cups vinegar

Skin tomatoes before chopping. Chop all vegetables before measuring. Tie mixed spices in a bag. Mix all ingredients except spice bag and vinegar. Add spice bag after mixture has boiled 30 minutes. Cook until very thick, then add vinegar and boil until there seems to be no more "free" liquid. Taste and add more seasoning, if necessary. Pour, while boiling hot, into hot, sterile jars and seal at once.

Tomato Ketchup.

- 1 peck tomatoes
- 3 sweet red peppers
- 1 pod hot red pepper
- 4 tablespoons salt
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 2 teaspoons mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon whole allspice
- 2 sticks cinnamon
- 3 cups vinegar

Lynn Says
Pickles are Crisper: If you put up your pickles this way:

1. Use a pure cider vinegar. Be sure that you get a good product, neither old nor adulterated.
2. Follow every direction, every measurement, and do every step carefully. Cucumber pickles may be made either by a long or short process, but the longer process yields a better pickle.
3. When slicing several kinds of fruit or vegetable for pickling, have all of them about the same thickness.
4. Too much spice destroys both flavor and color. Use the ingredients in tested recipes only.

Lynn Chambers' Point-Saving Menus

- Stuffed Veal Roll
- Creamed Potatoes
- Parsleyed Carrots
- *Blueberry Relish
- *Cantaloupe

Bread and Butter Beverage.
*Recipe Given

Wash and chop tomatoes and peppers. Simmer until soft. Press through a fine sieve. Cook rapidly until reduced to about one-half. Add sugar, salt and spices (tied in bag) and boil until thick. Add vinegar about 5 minutes before removing from fire. Pour into hot, sterile jars and seal at once.

Two of the most popular types of pickles get a place in today's column. You'll like putting up both for variety's sake:

Bread and Butter Pickles.

- 3 quarts sliced cucumbers
- 3 onions
- 1/2 cup salt
- 3 cups vinegar
- 1 cup water
- 3 cups brown sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger
- 2 tablespoons mustard seed
- 1 teaspoon turmeric
- 1/2 tablespoon celery seed
- 1 pod hot red pepper
- 1 piece horseradish

Mix cucumbers, onions (sliced) and salt. Let stand 5 hours. Drain. Boil vinegar, water, salt, sugar and seasonings 3 minutes. Add cucumbers and onions and simmer 10 to 20 minutes. Do not boil. Pack into hot, sterile jars and seal at once.

Dill Pickles.

- 35 to 40 fresh cucumbers
- 2 tablespoons mixed spices
- 1/2 pound dill
- 2 cups salt
- 2 gallons water
- 2 cups vinegar

Wash and dry cucumbers. Put a layer of dill and 1/2 of the spices in a stone jar. Add the cucumbers. Put the remaining spices and dill on top of the cucumbers. Boil salt, water and vinegar 2 minutes. Cool to room temperature and pour over cucumbers. Cover with a plate weighted down to hold the cucumbers in the brine. Keep at an even temperature (60 to 65 degrees). Remove skum each day. The pickles are ready for canning when they are crisp, uniform in color and well-flavored with dill. This usually requires 2 to 4 weeks. Pack the cured pickles into hot jars, cover with hot brine and seal at once. If the pickles are to be stored a long time, process them in water bath for 15 minutes at a simmering temperature.

If you like fruity pickles, you'll like this one:

Peach Pickles.

- 1 gallon peaches
- 7 cups sugar
- 1 piece ginger root
- 2 sticks cinnamon
- 1 tablespoon whole allspice
- 1 teaspoon whole cloves
- 2 cups water
- 3 cups vinegar

Clingstone peaches are best for pickling, although freestone may be used. Pare hard-ripe fruit. Leave whole. Boil 3 cups sugar, the spices (tied in a bag) and vinegar for 3 minutes. Add 10 to 12 peaches at a time. Simmer until they are tender. Let stand in syrup 12 to 24 hours. Pack peaches into hot jars. Add remaining sugar to syrup and cook to desired thickness. Pour over peaches. Process 5 minutes in hot water bath.

It's Quite Simple to Expand That Old Wash Stand to Fit Large Space

By Ruth Wyeth Spears

IT IS easy enough to make a small serving table out of an old wash stand but, when there is a large wall space crying for an imposing piece of furniture and nothing but a small wash stand on hand, the problem is something else again. Here you see the solution achieved with odds and ends of lumber, a pair of wooden boxes, a little paint and some plain gingham with the old wash stand at the center of it all.

The lower sketch shows how the carpenter work was done. Note the piece across the bottom of the stand to cover the irregular line, also the hinged arms so that the skirt may open out, and the piece across the top of the stand to make it the same thickness as the arms.

NOTE—This furniture remodeling idea is from BOOK 7 which contains directions for more than 30 other ways to use things on hand and inexpensive new materials to make your home attractive. Send for this book today. It will help you keep your home fresh and gay while you save money for bonds and war stamps. Copies of BOOK 7 are 15 cents each. Order from:

"Here it comes—there it goes" can be said of the machinery desperately needed by American farmers if they are to keep up the burden of feeding America, her allies, and the conquered nations.

The optimistic statement to the Senate that American farmers are "seeing" the farm machinery they need brought forth the information that most of the machinery "seen" by North Dakota farmers is going past them on the way to Canada, Russia, New Zealand, Australia, England and Africa.

One North Dakota farmer told of seeing six carloads of combines and three tractors passing his farm by rail in one week bound for Canada, while the entire northwest is being forced to curtail food production by lack of farm implements.

EGGS ON THE MARCH

This is the saga of 208,000 dozen eggs—and a New Deal bureau.

Back last May, the War Food Administration purchased the eggs in Minnesota, ostensibly for war purposes. The eggs were shipped to Cleveland, apparently to be sent into dry warehouse storage.

But the eggs were transferred to an egg-breaking establishment in Missouri. (No cracks, please). From there, the eggs (still not broken) were shipped to Omaha, and from thence back to St. Paul, from whence they had departed several months before.

They were sent from St. Paul to Chicago, where the Illinois Department of Agriculture caught up with them, decided something ought to be done about these eggs. They had become bad eggs, so the Illinois department official placed a seizure order against them. At last reports, the state officials were awaiting Washington approval to do away with these eggs.

It only cost $4,200 in freight charges to send the eggs on their cross-country journey.

THE CRYSTAL BALL

"In order to preserve their independence the people must not let our rulers load them with perpetual debt. . . .

"We must make our choice between economy and liberty, or profusion and servitude. . . . A departure from principle in one instance becomes a precedent for a second; that second for a third; and so on, till the bulk of the society is reduced to mere automatons of misery. . . . The fore horse of this fragrant team is public debt. Taxation follows that, and in its train wretchedness and oppression. . . ."

So wrote Thomas Jefferson in a letter to Samuel Kerchival in 1815.

Parrot gets Will Dudley's Goat

Will Dudley never liked his wife's pet parrot. Claimed the parrot called him "Stinky"—and ate his pipe tobacco. And the Missus said it served Will right. . . . he'd told her not to smoke his pipe indoors.

Well, Will and his wife both burst out laughing. . . . and made peace over a friendly glass of beer, allowing how it's pretty silly getting mad at one another's differences.

To make her point, the Missus grabs Will's pipe and throws it out the window. So Will grabs the parrot and throws him out too. Looks like unpleasantness—till in comes the parrot with Will's corn cob in his mouth. (And whistling "Home Sweet Home," Will claims.)

From where I sit, that's a mighty happy ending. If all of us would live and let live in a spirit of tolerance—whether it's tolerance for a parrot or a pipe—we'd be a whole lot happier and better off.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Nazi Armies Fall Back in France; Hitler's Hold on Balkans Shaken; Lend-Lease Totals 28 Billion

Released by Western Newspaper Union. (EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Carried on ox-carts, wounded Allied soldiers arrive at Myitkya airstrip, Burma, for transfer to hospital planes.

EUROPE:

Nazis Pull Back

As fast-moving Allied forces pushed the Nazis back throughout all of France, German spokesmen hinted that Hitler's high command planned a withdrawal to the Reich frontier so as to concentrate the greatest number of men on a short line.

But even as the Nazis fell back, swift armored thrusts by the U. S., British and French continued to slash at the harassed enemy's flanks and threaten his encirclement from the rear, and clouds of Allied planes roared over the battle-lines to dip low and gun the retreating German columns.

With the bulk of their forces crowded in the area immediately north and south of Paris, the Germans put up their stiffest rearguard resistance in this region. In southern France, Lieut. Gen. Alexander M. Patch's Seventh army fanned out quickly in all directions, with only scattered bands of enemy troops standing up briefly to slow the Allied drive.

After capture of the great French Mediterranean port of Marseille, American engineers went to work quickly to restore facilities damaged by the Germans and enable the Allies to funnel supplies quickly to their armies in the south. Use of Marseille's installations would relieve the troublesome practice of landing supplies on the sandy beaches in shallow draft craft.

Armistice arrangements for the German evacuation of Paris having fallen through, Free French armored columns were compelled to fight through a screen of Nazi defenders to liberate the city, with heavy U. S. howitzers backing up Gen. Charles de Gaulle's troops, and helping to break enemy resistance. Occupation of Paris with its 3,000,000 people in need of food and fuel for utilities, posed a supply problem for the Allies.

Turbulent Balkans

With formation of a peace government in Rumania, Adolf Hitler's unsteady grip on the turbulent Balkans grew unsteady, with Rumania's defecting threatening to topple Germany's whole southeastern front.

As young King Michael announced his country's willingness to accept Allied peace terms, Russia called for Rumania's expulsion of German troops from her homeland, or a war against Hungary to clear the latter for Transylvania, as the price of armistice terms.

Even as Rumania acted to quit Germany, Bulgarian peace proposals reportedly were forwarded to the Allies, who were said to have insisted upon the Bulgars' withdrawal from all occupied Greek and Yugoslav territory as one of the armistice terms.

To prevent any peace factions from obtaining a grip in Hungary, the Nazi-inspired regime disclosed all political parties, including the conservative elements.

Russ Pressure

Figuring in the Balkan countries' swing toward the Allied camp was the Russians' power-house drive bearing down from northern Rumania.

As the Reds hurled their might at the enemy lines, they bored down on the Galati Gap between the Transylvanian Alps and Black sea, barring the way to the heart of Rumania and the Ploesti oil fields. From this region, there was short going before the Reds would reach the Bulgarian frontier.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

USE OF AUTOS: A recent survey discloses that 74 per cent of car owners are driving their autos less than half the peacetime mileage. This reduction has come about through shorter and fewer trips rather than the laying up of cars for the duration. Gasoline and tire rationing have combined with patriotic motives to lessen car use, the survey continued.

POSTWAR PEACE:

Powers Confer

Meeting in the quaint, old Dumbarton Oaks estate in Washington, D. C., representatives of the U. S., Britain and Russia began momentous conferences on preserving postwar peace, with emphasis on the need of force as an ultimate resource. China was to join the conference after the Reds had finished their talks, since Russia is not at war with the Japanese and is unwilling to discuss repressive measures against them.

John F. Dulles

Accepting the invitation of Secretary of State Cordell Hull to discuss postwar peace plans, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey sent John Foster Dulles, his advisor on foreign affairs, to the capital to consult on the conferences. Hull issued his invitation after Dewey expressed concern that the major powers might overlook the interests of the smaller nations.

Although the conferees were said to agree on the principle of employing force to suppress future aggression, plans under discussion called for the use of force only after measures for peaceful settlement had failed.

ANTI-TRUST:

Railroads Named

Charging maintenance of non-competitive rates, prevention of improvements and facilities of western lines, and suppressing development of other forms of transportation, the government filed an anti-trust suit against the Association of American Railroads; the Western Association of Railway Executives; 47 railroads; and the investment houses of J. P. Morgan and Company and Kuhn, Loeb and Company.

Focusing its attention on western rail operations, the government declared that establishment of higher rates in that territory than in the east placed it at a competitive disadvantage, retarding its economic growth. The government also claimed that movement of perishable commodities has been delayed by unwillingness to speed up schedules, and efforts have been made to stunt the development of truck and water transport.

In naming J. P. Morgan and Company and Kuhn, Loeb and Company in the suit, the government charged that they controlled major railroad financing and possessed substantial industrial interests in the East.

LEND-LEASE:

Aid Mounts

Declaring that continuation of lend-lease was essential for speedy victory until both Germany and Japan were brought to their knees, President Roosevelt revealed that the U. S. share of such assistance approximated 23 billion dollars up to July 1, while other countries contributed in excess of 3 billion.

Of the 23 billion dollars, Britain received over 9 billion; Australia and New Zealand, 1 billion; Africa, the Middle East and Mediterranean, 3 billion; Russia, almost 6 billion; China and India, 1 1/2 billion; and Latin America, 172 million.

As an indication of the gigantic contribution U. S. industry has made to the war, figures showed that this country lend-leased 11,000 planes and 300,000 trucks and other vehicles to Russia; 6,000 planes and 9,900 tanks to Great Britain; and 4,800 planes, 51,100 tanks and 73,000 trucks and other vehicles to the Mediterranean area.

AGRICULTURE:

Seek to Avoid Glut

Looking forward into the postwar world with all of its economic problems, the War Food Administration has sought to develop a procedure designed to avoid the accumulation of vast stores of surplus foods which might constitute a market threat when hostilities cease.

Under WFA plans, the agency now buys food only for foreseeable demands, and declares that any commodities required for relief in liberated countries will first be withdrawn from surplus army and lend-lease stocks before purchases are made in the domestic market.

In establishing a surplus sales division, which is to sell current food stocks when demand is high to make room for fresh supplies, the WFA has set up machinery for future disposals.

World Plans

Drawn up with the avowed ambition of improving the efficiency of farm production and distribution, and bettering the economic conditions of rural populations, plans for a permanent international agricultural organization have been submitted for approval to the 44 United Nations by their food conference committees.

To act in an advisory capacity only, the proposed organization would consist of a governing body in which each nation would be represented, with efforts directed toward promoting research, spreading information and offering recommendations.

Other objectives of the plan include the elevation of nutritional standards throughout the world, and the development of agriculture as a contribution to an overall economic expansion.

PACIFIC:

Bombers Active

With thousands of Japanese troops stranded on the enemy's string of outer defense islands from the Solomons down to New Guinea, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's air command concentrated on the bombardment of shipping lanes through which supplies might creep to bolster the sagging garrisons.

At the same time, Adm. Chester Nimitz revealed that navy planes continued their attack upon the strategic Bonin islands, which lie approximately 600 miles from the Japanese mainland and just above the U. S. occupied Marianas, in an effort to soften up these stepping stones to Tokyo.

In pressing their bombardments, General MacArthur's airmen ranged over Mindanao, important basing point for enemy shipping in the southern Philippines.

Fatherly Marines

Having been removed from hillside dug-out on Tinian island in the Pacific, these notice children were scrubbed clean by battle-hardened but fatherly U. S. Marines, then outfitted with new clothes and sent to rear areas.

WAGES:

AFL Wants Boost

Declaring that the President possessed the power to raise wages, and that the stabilization act calling for a balance in the nation's economy afforded him the grounds for such a move, the executive council of the American Federation of Labor asked for abandonment of the "Little Steel" formula, limiting pay increases to 15 per cent of the January, 1944, level.

At the same time, the council charged the International Office Workers' union, which would embrace a vast number of white-collar employees, who, as a class, have felt the squeeze of rising living costs more than any other group, since most wage increases have been enjoyed in the heavier war-boomed industries.

In appealing for higher wages, AFL President William Green declared: "The working men and women of this nation have been made to suffer from a maladjustment that exists between wages and cost of living. This maladjustment has broken and depressed their peacetime standards of living."

U. S. LAND

More than 34 million acres have been acquired by the federal government for war purposes, exclusive of land taken over by the Defense plant corporation, according to Senator O'Mahoney of Wyoming.

The war and navy departments have stated that 6,750,000 acres of their holdings are surplus for postwar purposes. Of this, 1,876,000 acres are tentatively classified as good agricultural land, 2,197,000 acres as grazing land, and 2,107,000 as forest tracts.

U. S. War Prisoners Seek 'Escape' in Camp Doings

Yanks Like Plays and Develop Liking for Soccer Football, but Letters From Home Greatest Source of Cheer.

By BAUKHAGE, News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

It is not often that we get direct communication from Americans in Germany, and so I am not ashamed to say that when I perused a communication from that source, I did not at first recognize what the frequently used abbreviation POW stood for.

Comparatively few Americans know the meaning of those three letters; perhaps none know what they mean to the POW himself.

POW is prisoner of war. According to the latest figures I have from the war department there are now 41,234 American soldiers, sailors, marines, merchant seamen held by the enemy!

The officials of the Red Cross know exactly what the conditions are under which those prisoners move and live and have their being in Allied prison camps in Germany or in the more than 40 hospitals for Allied wounded in the Reich or occupied countries. They have regular reports from the International Red Cross representatives who visit the camp regularly. The Red Cross says in effect: "So far as we know, the Germans have treated American prisoners in accordance with the Geneva agreement."

That is all it says! But even if the Germans live up to both the spirit and the letter of the Geneva agreement, the lot of the prisoner of war is not to be envied. Recently, I studied some of the newspapers issued by men in the prison camps. Some have been released for publication. Others have not. Not that those withheld revealed any dark secrets of suffering. Quite the contrary. They simply prove what Kipling said about men who live in barracks not growing up to be plaster saints, and some of the humor might be a little, shall we say, unsaintly.

The reason for this is expressed in the word escape. There are two kinds of escape which a prisoner thinks about. One is a safe get-away through the barbed wire and past the machine guns and quick-trigger sentinels. If he is wise, he doesn't spend too much time on such cogitation. The official advice to POWs is "don't try it."

The other kind of escape is defined by Webster as, "mental distraction or relief from the bondage of reality or routine; as, literature of escape."

The somewhat highly seasoned humor of some of the jokes and cartoons in the prisoners' papers are, technically speaking, "literature of escape,"—this and the description of things they do to provide escape from the monotony of prison life.

Yank Ingenuity Shows

In Stage Productions As always, the drama provides one of the easiest and most effective mental distractions and I am told that the time, effort and ingenuity that is put into the learning, producing, staging and costuming of plays by these men is remarkable.

"The Kriegie Times," issued by the American airmen in Stalag Luft III, in Sagan, Germany, which I have before me as I write, is perhaps not typical because it was an edition especially for the home folks. But it has a story on page one headed "Theater" which begins with the statement which started me off on this topic. It says, "The Kriegie (local nickname for war prisoner) is assured of 'escape' in the theater." Then it explains that in order to accommodate the whole camp in an auditorium which seats only 20 per cent of the members, five performances of each play are given. And they include real drama.

The article records as recent productions that sure-fire, never-die farce, "Charlie's Aunt"; "Our Town," the popular American play, nostalgic and easy to stage because it requires no scenery; "Tobacco Road," a popular, earthy piece with a run longer than the retreat from Stalingrad; "The Man Who Came to Dinner," whose appeal perhaps lies in the fact that "the man" couldn't get away, either; and "Flieger Frolche," an original musical comedy. (Flieger is flyer in German.)

"Female costumes," it is explained, "are hired through German sources when possible, usually fabricated out of sheets and men's clothing."

The newspaper (a typewritten sheet) says that "scenery, furniture and stage properties have been constructed from wooden Red Cross boxes and burlap, covered with magazine paper and painted with cold water paint."

In another item, the paper comments that "the handy man is the hero of the camp."

Of course, there are sports, but limited ground space makes baseball impossible in this particular camp since a homer over the fence is irretrievable. The boys have learned to like soccer, learned from their English comrades, as a form of what they call "mass murder."

Softball is a favorite sport, and with the arrival of fencing foils, fencing. There are some classes, but they are not dealt with in detail. Another nostalgic diversion was described although not admitted as such, since no note of sentimentality enters the sheet. It was a baby contest, the entrants photographs supplied, presumably, by wives from home. A "Miss Stalag Luft III" was later to be selected from the pictures of wives and sweethearts.

The schedule for a typical day runs like this:

POW's Day Leisurely

But Monotonous

The day starts at 10 a. m. with roll-call (following a breakfast of coffee, bread and jam). Then call-athletics, showers for the few designated that day (they go in lots of 24), classes, library, cooking schedules (the men take turns at the culinary arts). Mail (if there is any) is distributed at noon. Last roll-call comes at four p. m., then a few turns around the perimeter of the camp, supper, bridge and poker (for cigarettes). Then "some good talk, much foolish dreaming before midnight sends the Kriegie to bed with the hope ever that the new day brings peace."

Of course, in this little typewritten journal which has had to pass the German censor there is only here and there a hint of certain inner feelings toward the hosts; one note on the showing of a German film speaks of a "none too spellbound audience."

It is difficult to get an intimate view of a prisoner's life from these brief notes or, indeed, from the letters the prisoners write home. But those persons who have read all the confidential reports and also many letters passed on to them by relations tell me two things: one, that, generally speaking, American prisoners in German camps are not badly treated and are not in want; second, the first months are the hardest. Most prisoners build up some kind of "escape" mechanism and manage to keep up their spirits and morale by adapting themselves to their environment.

Naturally, the question is frequently asked: "What are we doing for our prisoners in Germany?"

The thing they want most is provided for most of them—letters from home. The next are the food packages which are paid for by the army, packed by volunteer workers and shipped by the Red Cross from their four shipping centers, two in New York, one in Philadelphia and one in St. Louis. Most of the packages, assembled like motor cars on a moving line, are packed by loving hands—that group which bears the scars of war as deeply as the combatants themselves, and described prosaically in army language as "the next of kin."

These packages go, one for each prisoner, every week.

The prisoners also can receive personal packages every 60 days. They get books and other prescribed articles.

The Red Cross has eight ships of its own which, up until recently, have been landing regularly at Marseille, where packages have been shipped in sealed cars to Switzerland. These goods went through un-molested. Lately some of the shipments have been made to Lisbon and re-shipped on smaller shuttle vessels. The disruption of traffic in Germany has recently interfered with the system. Other routes are being planned.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Special diet packages go to our men in German POW hospitals.

As soon as a prisoner is captured in Germany he is taken to a transit camp where a Red Cross "capture kit" is waiting. Since he usually doesn't take his baggage with him into Germany, especially if he arrives by parachute, he gets brush, comb, razor and such necessities.

Many of the German prisoners of war captured in Normandy have volunteered to help with the harvest in Great Britain.

All major youth organizations are cooperating in the drive to raise an army of school-age milkweed pod harvesters in order to get milkweed floss needed to replace kapok in life jackets for the armed forces.

QUEENS DIE PROUDLY

By W. L. White W.N.U. FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz, pilot of a Flying Fortress, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck in the Philippines. Eight of his men were killed while fleeing for shelter, and Old 59, with many other Forts, was demolished on the ground. After escaping to Australia, what is left of the squadron flies to Java, where they go on many missions over the Philippines and the Java sea. The boys in Java hear what happened to the Maribeach and the Houston and morale sags. Bud Sprague, who got his commission in the morning, dies that afternoon. The Japs take Bali, and all Java is caving in. Sgt. Warrenfeltz volunteers for a very dangerous mission.

CHAPTER XVIII

"I had only four bombs—we hadn't had time to load more before the air-raid alarm blew and we'd had to clear off the field—so I sighted on the last ship and let go all four in a stick.

"If you're dropping instantaneous fuse bombs, of course you see the splash of deck planking and debris the instant it hits, but it doesn't do much damage—all on the surface. But these were delayed-action fuses. From that altitude there isn't much to see when they first crack the deck. There's a little pause, and then there's the sweetest geyser of deck splinters, and foam, and machinery, and Japanese infantry corporals you'd ever hope to gaze down at. As I think I said, we blew her stern off. I kept peering back until the debris subsided, and I could see solid blue water between the two halves of the ship.

"We got back to Madiun Field just in time to take off in the face of three strafing Zeros, our side gunner—a National Guard boy we'd picked up in Java; the rest of his outfit all stayed and got captured—knocking one of them down almost before we got our wheels up. When the other two went away we re-landed, and found a bomb somewhere had knocked our electricity out. We had to refuel by hand, using flashlights. Also we were using them trying to repair our brakes when all of a sudden came a terrific Bang! It shook the ship so badly it knocked one guy off the wing, and he fell face-down on the field. Of course we were sure that the Japs, seeing our flashlights, had dropped a bomb. But no. Oh, no!

"It was just the methodical Dutch, carefully scorching the earth by blowing up our ammunition dump, which by some miracle we weren't near at the time.

"It seemed the order had just come through to evacuate, because the Japs were coming, and what with the language difficulty, this was their way of announcing it. The funny thing was, for weeks they'd had a gang of men working to improve that field and repair the runways. These guys kept right on sweating away up until the minute the order to evacuate came through—then they went ahead sweating just as hard to blow up what they'd just been fixing.

"We were jittery—been going through a lot of strafing—but finally got our plane refueled, and loaded twenty-four men aboard. We still had no brakes on the right wheel, but we all hoped together in unison that we'd clear the runway. We did.

"It was two o'clock in the morning. As we climbed for altitude we could see refineries flaming all over the island—fires and explosions—and as we circled the field in the dark for the last time, the Dutch down below us threw a switch and blew up that beautiful new concrete hangar. It had huge arches like a bridge span, control tower, and everything—It all came rolling up at us in a parting salute.

"Now we were headed for Australia, buzzing along at about 10,000 feet."

"Getting into Broome, Australia, we began to worry about that busted brake, and the momentum we would have when we hit the field with all these men aboard. We could lighten ship by having the guys bail out, but the trouble was we had only nine chutes. But when the pilot called the airport, they reported they had one runway which ran uphill and was soft at the far end—perfect for us, so we made a beautiful landing."

"I was still back in Surabaya," said the pilot, Frank Kurtz, "because I had a couple of jobs to do. The day we got Warrenfeltz off in the Corregidor relief ship, the Colonel had told me he was leaving Malang for Jogyakarta—the town we called Jockstrap—and that I'd better join him there and he'd send me out to Australia. All the other boys of the 19th were going that day.

"But I asked him if I couldn't stay over just a little longer. I was thinking of the fighter pilots. No one was looking after them. When a plane is cracking up, everybody tends to think of themselves. Why bother about the fighters? They got in, didn't they? Well, let them get out again. The trouble was the fighters had got in with belly tanks, hopping via Timor and Bali, which were now held by the Japs.

"The Colonel said I was absolutely right—maybe I could help them. 'You're under your own orders,' he said. 'I leave it to your discretion as to how and when you come out. Best of luck.'

"It wasn't until I'd hung up that I realized that when the 19th had left Java, there wouldn't be any way for me to get out. The hotel by now was empty fast of foreign uniforms—I'd bade the first echelon of our Navy goodby. Poor old Java was being left to sink by herself, but since the newspapers were still about four days behind the actual news, the people didn't realize it yet. Things were moving fast.

"That day we heard a big Jap force was closing in off the north coast, headed for the Java beaches. We got reports from scout planes, even from submarines, but we didn't know just how big it was. Because hanging over it was a Jap fighter screen so thick that our recon planes didn't dare fly through to see.

"We got a few reports from a tiny island which lies out in the Java Sea north of Surabaya, but ominously its radio went dead. We realized the Japs had put a landing force ashore there.

"That night out went the tiny Dutch Navy—it was all they had left—which pounded them under cover of darkness and then pulled away.

There's a little pause, and then there's the sweetest geyser of deck splinters.

It did some good, because in the morning we found the Jap advance guard, which had been headed right for Java's beaches, now pulled back a little, under that bomber-and-fighter screen, waiting for the main force to come on up.

"Colonel Eubank was now in Jockstrap, and by telephone I put a problem up to him. The position of our fighter pilots in Java was hopeless now—any minute their field would be hit by Jap bombers and put out of operation. I wanted them to turn their P-40's over to the Dutch fighter pilots (who had nothing left now but three Hurricanes which had been rescued from Singapore) and come on out to Australia with us where we could continue the war.

"Further air defense in Java was hopeless. We had broken camp at Malang—Jap bombers were swarming over the island.

"But Van Oeyen, the Dutch commander, wouldn't listen. He was a stout old infantry officer, and he had given orders to fight to the last.

"We had to plead our viewpoint with Van Oeyen. Yet it would be hard to explain to men who were defending their homes and families in this beautiful island, whose lives, when it fell, would be over.

"That night, fifty miles off Surabaya, the naval battle was resumed. The main Japanese invasion force, ringed by submarines, was headed for our beaches. At midnight the United Nations Navy moved in to throw their little all into the balance. This final night the Dutch struck no glancing blow. It was now or never. They moved in and fought them toe to toe, the Australians at their side. It was pitiful, of course, and hopeless, as all of them knew. But the gallant Dutch preferred to die fighting out in the night rather than go skulking home to wait for the Rising Sun tanks to come rattling down their streets.

"Side by side, the Dutch and the Australians plunged through that outer ring of Jap submarines. The American forces took up the last defensive position, skirting the Jap back edge, firing on the run. It was our duty not to dissipate ourselves in lost causes, but to do what damage we could, and conserve our strength to strike again.

"Java died that night in the gunfire which came rolling in over the water. It took until dawn for the Jap battle fleet to crunch to bits the Dutch and Australian navies.

"But early the morning before I had put in a telephone call to America. It was to Margo, but it was government business and the Dutch, when they understood what it was about, said they would pay the charges themselves. They said the connection might not be made until midnight. I privately wondered if it would go through at all. Java was collapsing fast all around us.

"But I said I'd take it whenever it came, knowing I'd get no sleep that night—maybe little sleep for many nights. So at midnight I started for the telephone office. Just as I was leaving the hotel I ran into Commander Peterson of the Navy's Patrol Wing 10. By now he was almost the sole survivor. He seemed surprised to see me, told me he was just leaving for his plane—the last of the Navy was leaving Java. He asked how I expected to get out. I said I didn't know. 'Come with me now,' he said, 'and I'll take you out to Australia.' I couldn't. There was that telephone call. And also I mustn't leave those American fighters to be swallowed up in the collapse tomorrow. So I thanked him; we said goodby.

"Walking to the telephone building I could hear a dull rumble in the hot midnight air coming from far over the water. The few people in the blacked-out streets assumed it was distant thunder. I knew it was the little Dutch Navy in its final agony out there in the dark.

"Then I waited in that dim-lit mosquito-filled telephone building for that call. Sitting on a bench, with the help of a flashlight I made my notes for the call. Then I paced the floor. Each time the window opened, letting out a little light, I was sure the half-caste girl was telling me the call had been completed. I had other pressing business, but none more pressing than this. I thought of the eager face of the boy just before he went out into what looked like almost certain death."

"From Florida," said Margo, "I could hear the telephone operators working, setting up that line all around the world, from here where it was noon to midnight in the tropics. And finally Frank's own voice. 'Have you got paper and pencil?' he asked. Now take down this name: Mrs. W. H. Warrenfeltz, of Hagerstown, Maryland. Her son Bud is going on a mission and he wants her to know there probably will be some money deposited to her account in the Hagerstown bank from New York. Tell her Bud sends his love to Billy, Jane, and all, and of course to her. He wants her to use half the money to buy her home, and the rest is for her to live on, and he wants her to be happy, however it comes out."

"Then I told Margo the boy was going on a most dangerous mission. We didn't know how dangerous until after he left, for his course took him right across the path of the main Japanese fleet. And now," Frank said bitterly, "this little story has a happy ending, so far as the War Department's auditors are concerned. Because the five thousand dollars which Bud Warrenfeltz thought his mother was going to get, when he went out to face the Japanese fleet, was never paid. It never cleared through the New York banks before Java fell. I suppose those New York bankers were more prudent than Bud, and took no chances on Java paper. So Bud's mother didn't get any money, and even Bud himself never got through to Manila. Let's hope he's a Jap prisoner."

"After I'd written down the message to Mrs. Warrenfeltz, it seemed that Frank just wanted to visit," said Margo. "Of course it was wonderful to talk to him, because for some reason there didn't seem to be any censors clicking in on the line."

"The censors had all caught the boat," explained Frank. "In a few hours the Japs would have Java, so it didn't much matter what they knew."

"But after we talked about fifteen minutes I began to worry," said Margo. "Living on an Air Corps salary, you have to think of money. As we talked I couldn't help thinking it was six dollars and a half for every minute, and I said we'd better hang up. Then he explained we could talk all we liked, because it was a government call."

"I didn't tell her what government it was on," said Frank. "She didn't know that the Japanese were taking over tomorrow, and they would get the bill."

"After that it was wonderful," said Margo. "Frank was coming through as clearly as if he were in a pay station downtown. He told me there would be no more calls for a while, and from that I guessed that maybe in a week or so the Air Corps would be retreating to Australia. I didn't dream that the Japanese were already just off the beach, that Frank didn't know how he could get out."

"He talked a lot about a letter he'd written me months ago from the Philippines, a few days after the first Japanese attack, when he thought there was no chance of his getting out alive—explaining that while he'd meant every word of it, yet he'd been tired when he wrote it, so I was not to take it too seriously.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for September 10

DAVID ANOINTED KING

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 16:1-5, 11-13. GOLDEN TEXT—Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart.—1 Samuel 16:7.

Outward appearance, by which man judges, is almost always deceptive. God knows the heart and is able to evaluate a man correctly. In calling David, the ruddy shepherd boy, to be king, God cut across the ideas of men, but He was, as always, right.

I. A Man from God's Storehouse (v. 1)—"I have provided."

God's great storehouses are full of blessings, material and spiritual, but He also has a great and constantly replenished reserve of men and women from which He calls and sends them forth. The thing we must guard against is the setting of hindrances in His holy way, either in our own lives or in the lives of others.

A man power shortage is very serious, for it simply cuts off the stream of production without which action becomes impossible. There should never be any shortage of man power in the Lord's work, and there would never be any if all His creation were willingly subject to Him.

God was ready to set aside Saul, and He had David ready. Samuel the prophet was still grieving over Saul's failure. In a sense that feeling for Saul was most commendable, but it could not go on.

When men, even of our own families or circle of friends, persist in rebellion against the Lord, we must not let our grief hold us back, but move on with the man of God's choice.

II. A Man Who Had to Be Sought (vv. 2-5)—"Send and fetch him."

Usually those who are quick to offer themselves for an important place are not the ones for the place. And those who are sitting around doing nothing but waiting for some honor to come to them, are not the ones to choose.

"Let the office seek the man" is the highest ground, even in politics; surely it must be the proper procedure in spiritual activity.

David might well have wanted to be at the place of sacrifice and the feast that day, but since all his family were there, and someone had to care for the sheep, he did it. A man like that, hard at his work, is well worth seeking when something important needs to be done.

The interesting story of Samuel's effort to find one among Jesse's seven sons (vv. 6-10) is well worth reading. Samuel still had the idea that a king must be prepossessing and able to thrill men by his appearance. He should have learned better from his experience with Saul.

III. A Man of Spirituality (vv. 11-13)—"The Spirit of the Lord came upon David."

The Holy Spirit, ever active in all periods of Bible history, became the abiding presence in the believer's heart after Pentecost, but during the Old Testament period He came on chosen individuals for a particular work. As David was anointed king the Spirit came upon him for that service. In spite of his failings (when he forgot the Lord) David was throughout his reign a spiritually-minded man who wanted God's will and His glory to be uppermost.

God never calls a man without enabling him for his task, and the chief and indispensable enabling is that of the Holy Spirit's power. Like David, we may enter upon a God-appointed responsibility without fear or question, simply trusting the Holy Spirit to take, transform, empower, and use us for God's glory.

IV. A Man Willing to Serve (vv. 14-18).

Upon Saul there came tremendous moods of despondency. These were "from the Lord" (v. 14) in the sense that God permitted His disobedient and rejected servant to suffer the result of his self-will and failure. How awful it is for anyone to be out of the will of God and conscious of His disapproval.

To help Saul in those dark hours David, the sweet singer of Israel, was willing to serve with his voice and his harp. How many thousands of times David has served all the generations since with his psalms. He was a man of gifts, gladly given for the Lord and for others.

Bear in mind that while David was not yet publicly crowned, he was already anointed to be king. Yet he was ready to serve the one whose place he was to take even in his hours of dejection and hateful ill-will.

Dose of Laughter Gives Stimulus and Relaxation

If laughter could be ordered at the druggists, any doctor would prescribe many laughs every day. A dose of laughter is a combination of stimulus like that of vitamin tablets plus the relaxation of bromides. Laughter is exercise for the diaphragm, which is neglected in most exercises except deep breathing.

If you could X-ray yourself when you laugh, you would see astonishing results. Your diaphragm goes down, down, and your lungs expand. You are taking more oxygen than usual and that oxygen passes into the blood exposed in your lungs. As you laugh, the rate of exposure to oxygen is doubled or trebled. A surge of power runs from head to toes.

Few people realize that health actually varies according to the amount of laughter. So does recovery. People who laugh actually live longer than those who do not laugh.

Due to an unusually large demand and current war conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular, pattern numbers. Send your order to:

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Normally there are 20 per cent more tire failures during the summer months than others. Tests have shown that at a temperature of 90 degrees tires wear out twice as fast as at 60 degrees and that at 100 degrees they wear out five times as fast as at 40 degrees.

Even with production being restored at Far East rubber plantations and our synthetic plants working at peak, authorities believe there will be a tight rubber situation for some time following the end of the war.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Judge, would you mind tellin' Charlie here what you told me the other night walkin' home from lodge. I can't word it just the way you did."
"Sure thing, Tim. Here's what I told him, Charlie. There's no such thing as votin' a nation, a state, a county, or even a community dry. We had proof enough of that during our 13 years of prohibition. What you really vote for is whether liquor is going to be sold legally or illegally...whether the community is going to get needed taxes for schools, hospitals, and the like, or whether this money is going to go to gangsters and bootleggers. That's the answer, boys... simple as A-B-C."
