The Green-Lucas Election Bill Would Destroy States' Rights

Mr. and Mrs. Red-Blooded American, what do you think of this? The Green-Lucas election bill for the votes of absentee soldiers will be intensely interesting to you after reading the following:

That bill if it is put into operation will do away with all State Rights of which as American citizens, we have so long been proud. The proposal is strictly a New Deal measure and is more open to fraud than anything that has ever been attempted before in this country. Listen: It provides among other things, that the government may issue a ballot with no names thereon of

From headquarters of the European theatre, we have a letter telling of Staff Sgt. Joe Cooper of Carrizozo, who won the Silver Star in North Africa. Sgt. Cooper was decorated for gallantry in action in Tunisia. He led a patrol into and behind the enemy lines, operating in daylight, under constant fire and obtained valuable vital information of much value to the progress of the entire operation.

We had a nice letter this week from our old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Jess Cochran, formerly of Nogal, but now residing at Alamogordo, in which they mention of having their son, J. W., who is in the service and stationed in the east, home for Christmas and it goes without saying that his presence made up the dominating part of the Christmas cheer. What a blessing it is to have the boys home, even for a short period as their furloughs will allow.

We had a letter from Dr. F. S. Randles this week. Among other things of interest, he tells of the region of Eagle Creek, where he is caretaker, being overrun with covotes. He also stated that the creek being dry all though the season has killed all of the trout and he looks forward to the state game commission stocking the creek with fish that will live in all kinds of weather. Doc has a dog by the name of Molly and that caused some of his neighbors to call the pair "Fibber McGee and Molly." Doc still flourishes his journalistic pen with much force and 100 per cent King's English.

candidates, only those of the major political parties, leaving spaces open for writing in the names of favored candidates. The canvassing of these ballots, according to this deal must be done by government officials, which as we know would be strictly New Deal and leave the filling out of the blanks to the election thieves, who could place the names of the New Deal candidates where they so desired. If that system of un-Americanism could be worked, it would soon become a political custom in all civilian elections. What a spectacle! Ponder it well, before it is too late.

4-H Orchard Club

Home orchards and home vineyards will be the chief 4-H projects taken by club members in the northern part of the county for 1944.

Each club member will plant at least five fruit trees or five grape vines. The project will be sponsored by the county agent, in cooperation with Mrs. Pallie Dishman, Local Leader, and school authorities.

The club will meet at two-week intervals to study topics pertaining to the project. Discussions will be conducted on Selection of the Orchard Site, Selection of Varieties of Fruit and Grapes, Planting, Pruning, Grafting, The Making of Grape Prunies, Identification and Control of Insects, and the General Care of the Home Orchard and Vineyard. Carl P. Radcliff, County Extension Agent.

We had a nice letter this week from our good friend Will T. Coe of Glencoe, who is now at the Phelps - Dodge hospital at Morenci, Ariz., where he has undergone an operation which will put his leg troubles with which he has been suffering for several years into proper shape — surgeons have given him the assurance that his troubles will soon be over. While there, Mrs. Coe has been forwarding him the Outlook and Will says quote: "I want to tell you how much company the Outlook has been to a Lincoln County boy who has been away from home." Good luck to you, Will.

China Relief

United China Relief sent to China for its 1943 relief program $8,612,155.02, it is announced by Edna C. S. King, chairman of the United China Relief Committee in Glencoe, N. M.

This is an increase of more than three and a half million over the sum sent in 1942, almost five million more than was sent in 1941. Administrative cost for 1943 was 5.92 per cent, including servicing the relief program in China, as compared with 8.73 per cent in 1942.

The 1943 relief program covered five fields of effort: education, medicine and public health, child care, direct relief and self-help projects.

Tradition Gives Lincoln Three 'Birthplaces' But Historical Research Establishes the Fact There Was Only One; It's Near Hodgenville, Ky.

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON Released by Western Newspaper Union.

ONE of the most famous of all newspaper cartoons, appropriate to the annual observance of Lincoln's birthday, was drawn by H. T. Webster while he was on the staff of the old New York World. It has become a Newspaper Classic, i. e., annually it is "reprinted by request."

It is: HARDIN COUNTY, KY., 1809

If you go down into Hardin county, Kentucky, today expecting to see the place where the new baby was born "down 'Tum Lincoln's," you'll be disappointed. For you won't find there the log cabin in which that historic event took place. But if you drive east into Larue county to the little town of Hodgenville, the county seat, then go 2 1/2 miles south, you will see, enshrined in a temple of stone, this rude little structure and you will be told that it stands on the very spot where it stood when Abraham Lincoln was born within its log walls on February 12, 1809.

Why this apparent discrepancy in the geography of Lincoln's birthplace? Well, the explanation is simple. When Tom and Nancy Hanks Lincoln became the parents of a son, their home stood within the boundaries of Hardin county. Years later Hardin was divided into two counties and the eastern part of it, including "Tom Lincoln's place" on Nolin creek, became Larue county. So there's some truth in the statement that "Abraham Lincoln was born in two counties," paradoxical though that statement may sound.

Other inconsistencies. Nor is that the only apparent inconsistency in regard to the site of Lincoln's birth. Several years ago, Rev. William E. Barton, one of the leading biographers of the Great Emancipator and the man who, perhaps more than any other historian, has cleared up many of the mysteries surrounding the name of Abraham Lincoln, wrote an article under the title of "Three Places Claim Honor of Being Birthplace of Lincoln." It reads, in part:

Hammer had seven birthplaces. Lincoln had at least three—according to divergent Kentucky traditions. First of the houses in which Abraham Lincoln is said to have been born is the Berry house at Beechford, Washington county, Kentucky.

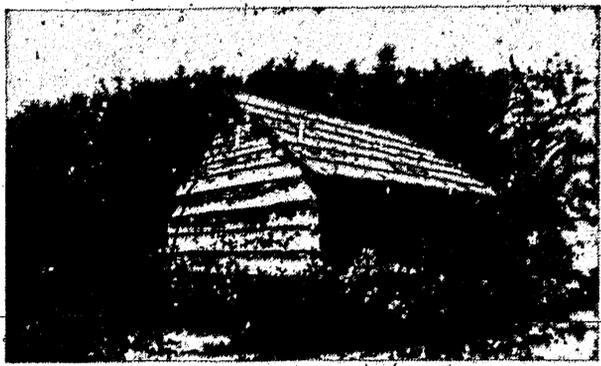

If we should go to Beechford, we will find the house is not there. It has been moved to Harrodsburg, where it stands as a kind of museum, not very intimately associated with Lincoln, who never in his life was in Harrodsburg.

The house today bears little resemblance to its former self. Fortunately, however, it was photographed while on its original site. In this house, the home of Richard Berry, the President's parents, Thomas Lincoln and Nancy Hanks, were married by Rev. Jesse Head, June 12, 1806.

Washington county people have a formidable group of affidavits from old and youthful people who declared that Abraham Lincoln was born there, that his people did not remove to Hardin county till he was a lad several years of age; and certain witnesses affirmed on oath that they saw him as a child playing about the door of the Berry house.

My own impression is that these people were truthful and that they may have seen the little lad, Abraham Lincoln, playing about this house. The parents of Abraham Lincoln were married in this house; he doubtless visited it in his early childhood and may have lived several months beneath its roof, but we must look elsewhere for his birthplace.

So we go to Elizabethtown. The house we wish to see is not standing, but we can find people who will assure us that Lincoln was born there and who will show us the unattractive location. What they are showing us is the place where Thomas and Nancy Lincoln spent their honeymoon, and lived from June, 1806, till the spring of 1808. Here Abraham's little sister, Sarah, was born. The cabin that stood here was the first house advertised as the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln and the picture is still frequently shown as such. This house was standing at the end of the

In this log cabin near Hodgenville, Ky., Abraham Lincoln was born on February 12, 1809.

Civil war. It was first photographed, apparently, for "The Campaign Document," in which William M. Thayer, in 1864, told of the "Character and Public Services of Abraham Lincoln." But Thomas Lincoln did not build this cabin, and Abraham was not born there and never lived there. The last vestige of this cabin has disappeared.

The actual birthplace of Abraham Lincoln was a log cabin which, after many removals, now stands not far from its original site on Rock Spring farm on Nolin creek, 2 1/2 miles south from where the village of Hodgenville now is, in what was then Hardin and now is Larue county, Kentucky.

A Romantic History. This cabin, which was the true birthplace of Lincoln, has a romantic history. It stood on a tract of 300 acres, known as the Sinking Spring farm, which Thomas Lincoln bought in December, 1800, for 60¢ cents per acre. Here little Abe Lincoln lived until he was four years old. Then his father abandoned the place because of litigation involving a flaw in the title and moved his family 10 miles northeastward to another farm of 30 acres on Knob creek, which he had previously purchased.

Several years later (two different dates, 1827 and 1835, are given for this event) a certain Henry Brother bought the Sinking Spring farm and lived in the Lincoln birthplace cabin for several years. Then, according to Beveridge, who quotes J. T. Hobson's "Footprints of Abraham Lincoln" as his authority for the statement, Brother tore down the cabin and used the logs for firewood. The accuracy of this statement, however, is doubtful and, as will be seen later in this article, it has been refuted.

There seems to be good reason to believe that the cabin was still standing on its original site in 1860 when Lincoln was elected President. Soon afterwards it was purchased from the man who then owned the farm by George Rodman who moved it to another farm about a mile and a half from the Sinking Spring farm. There it remained during the turmoil of the Civil war and after being used a number of years as a shelter for Negro families and as a tenant house, it was used as a school house in 1872 and 1873.

A certain John Davenport married the school-teacher and they lived in the cabin from 1875 to 1893, when it was bought by A. W. Dennett and moved back to its original site on the Sinking Spring farm.

The cabin was not destined to remain on its original site long, however. Soon afterwards it was bought by Rev. J. W. Bingham who took it down and shipped the 143 logs in it to Nashville, Tenn., for a centennial celebration there. Next it was moved to Central park in New York city where it was on exhibition for a time and in 1901 it was exhibited at the Buffalo exposition. The next owner was David Greer, who stored it in the old Postenhagen mansion in Long Island City, N. Y.

Bought by Collier. In 1906 Robert J. Collier bought the Sinking Spring farm and presented it to the Lincoln Farm association, "a patriotic organization formed by American citizens for the purpose of preserving as a national park the farm on which Abraham Lincoln was born." The president of this association was Joseph W. Foix, governor of Missouri, and its trustees were a group of distinguished citizens, including Mr. Collier, who also bought the Lincoln cabin. The logs were shipped to Kentucky, accompanied by a guard of honor sent by the state, for a homecoming celebration in Louisville and then taken to the Lincoln farm.

"The cabin, I am reliably informed, originally stood near to the spring," writes Barton. "After its first removal, it was recreated on the top of the slope leading up from the spring. When it was taken down for exhibition purposes, this site was marked by a post; and when the cabins were purchased and rebuilt, it was erected around the post which still stands in the middle of the cabin floor." The Lincoln Farm association, by popular subscription, not only raised an endowment of $50,000 to maintain the homestead but provided an impressive memorial at a cost of nearly $225,000 to house the little log cabin. In 1918 the title to the farm was transferred to the United States government which, in accepting the property and the administration of the endowment, agreed to maintain the farm, preserve the cabin and never charge an entrance fee to the public. Thus the farm became a national park.

In September, 1916, President Woodrow Wilson journeyed to Hodgenville to accept the new national shrine on behalf of the nation and on that occasion declared that it was "an altar upon which we may forever keep alive the vestal fire of democracy as upon a shrine at which some of the deepest and most sacred hopes of mankind may from age to age be rekindled." Unfortunately, however, the government did not keep its promise so far as maintaining the farm properly was concerned. During the next 10 years the place was permitted to fall into disrepair, owing to a lack of maintenance funds. Then in 1929 Rep. M. H. Thatcher of Kentucky reported as a "national disgrace" the fact that "the Lincoln memorial farm is now grown up in bushes and briars, gutters are being washed across the land, and at times the approach to the memorial is covered with several inches of oil. The spring where Lincoln drank as a boy and which supplied water for the household is flooded in rainy weather so as to foul the water. . . . Yet, this is one of the greatest shrines in the country, and the government of the United States, having taken over this property, is under at least a moral obligation to provide for its maintenance."

IF TACTICS AT HOME WERE COPIED AT THE FRONT Somewhere on the Italian Front.—American troops believed today that they were poised for a smashing attack but were not certain. "Our orders come from a high authority and are off the record," stated a puzzled major. "We may be attacking and we may not be."

(Later—The army is said to be confident it is about to go into battle but can't be certain. The trouble is said to be due to the fact that nobody having the operation in charge wants to permit his name to be used.

Makin.—It is stated on a high authority that American troops are in firm possession here after heroic fighting. Survivors sent up trial balloons today to find out for certain.

"I wouldn't care to say a word," said a battered doughboy. "I think I know what happened but I ain't anonymous enough to have any standing in print."

Algiers.—Failure to take definite objectives north of Rome were attributed today by a person of considerable prominence in the army to the fact that the units involved were given their orders through an unidentified radio commentator. The units would not accept the orders until they got the newspapers and saw what the war correspondents thought.

All the war correspondents could say was that they had been told by a "Mr. X" that a member of the high command in good repute had favored an attack, but not in his official capacity.

An Allied Bomber Base.—According to sources hitherto regarded as reliable, 300 planes left for an attack over the continent tonight. Another 200 planes were to have gone along, but wanted the mission confirmed in writing. "Am I in an air attack or not?" demanded an American gunner. "I think I am."

Washington is thinking along the same line. That's the best I can give you," replied a superior.

Menace to Peace Found! Dr. Alfred Rosenberg, German minister for occupied territories in the East, blames it all on American skyscrapers. He calls New York the concentrated giant of chaos, with 50 or 60 story skyscrapers the symbol of the destruction of the individual. "An old German farm," he says, "contains more spirit of freedom and creative force than all the skyscrapers of America put together."

Now it's all clear. The Chrysler Tower and the Empire State building started the war. Ah, those farms, so gentle, sweet and humane, with the people, envying nobody, searing violence and seeking no trouble whatever with anyone. Just contras' tem with those skyscraper people, 'red to the teeth, goose-steppin' and out of elevators!

Candidates for the Delousing Squad The American who noisily buys war bonds, gives a patriotic talk at a soldiers' canteen, whoops it up for the all-out war . . . and then takes a suite of rooms at a Florida hotel away from a serviceman and his family by offering ten times the normal rate.

William F. Vanderbilt's death brought back glories of the Vanderbilt Cup races, which he sponsored as a youth, and it was flabbergasting to see in the papers that the speed of the auto that won the first race was 52 miles an-hour. Or about the pace at which most cars, now turn a corner in traffic.

Cream Fr in the Drugstore. It seems there is a new racket. Doctors are permitted to issue prescriptions for cream. You'd be surprised how many patients are getting it for eve' ything from a common cold to fa'en arches.

And we hear of one man who was asked, as he tried to get a prescription for a few pints of rich cream, "What seems to be wrong with you?" "I seem to tire easily in my attempts to beat my ration rules," was the reply.

Jet Plane It's off the globe to circle! . . . All records out to crack . . . Whoosh! . . . Zipp! . . . Whee and Presto! The gold-dinged thing is back!

Can You Remember— Away back when the football season ended in midwinter? And when generals never announced where they would attack next or how soon they would achieve victory? When the bartender was joking when he said "Name your poison"? "OPA Runs Out of Resignation Blanks,"—headline. It may be necessary to ration them.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE By ROGER B. WHITMAN REFRACTORY CEMENT

Question: The heat of the past winter's fires has burned out the mortar between the bricks. I was told that I should use fire clay and that the fire back should have been laid up with fire clay instead of lime and plaster. I am told that lime and cement mortar are used in fireplaces. None of the lumber yards here know anything about fire clay. What can I use to repair the back wall of the fireplace?

Answer: Mason material dealers and plumbing and heating supply houses handle refractory cement and fire clay. Refractory cement is generally used and preferred as a mortar between fire brick. If you cannot get the material, try the following: Rake out the old cement to a depth of a half-inch or more; then brush out the loose particles. Soak the spaces with plenty of clear water and pack the joints with a fairly stiff mixture of one part portland cement, one-part hydrated lime and five parts of clean, coarse sand. Keep the new mortar damp for several days and do not use the fireplace for at least one week.

CHIPPED SINK

Question: How can I improve the appearance of my kitchen sink? Parts of the porcelain have been rubbed off, showing the black iron surface.

Answer: If the damaged places are not below the water line, get a white enamel made especially for patching chipped porcelain surfaces. After cleaning the spots brighten the exposed metal by rubbing with steel wool, then wipe with turpentine and apply a coat of special undercoat and follow with porcelain enamel.

Blackened Sills Question: I have had plants on my varnished window sills, and the water from these plants has gone on the sills and turned them black. Is there anything I can do to get them clean again? The black seems to be in the wood.

Answer: Take off the finish down to the wood with paint remover. The stains can be bleached out with a saturated solution of oxalic acid and denatured alcohol. Apply this liberally and allow to remain for several hours. Rinse well with clear water and allow the wood to dry thoroughly. Finish with a top quality spar varnish. If the woodwork has had a stain, try to match the color with the other woodwork before applying the varnish.

Javelle Water Question: Will you please tell me how Javelle water is mixed?

Answer: Dissolve one-half pound of washing soda in a quart of cold water, adding one-quarter pound of chloride of lime with the lumps crushed. This mixture is allowed to stand until the sediment has settled; then the clear liquid is drawn off, strained through a thickness of cloth and bottled. In use, one part of the solution should be diluted with three parts or more of water. If used for laundering, remember to rinse out very thoroughly; for, otherwise, the fabrics will be weakened—if not ruined.

Cleaning Aluminum Question: How can I remove a black line from the inside of one of my aluminum saucepans? This line was caused by a liquid standing too long.

Answer: Boil a half-and-half mixture of vinegar and water in the pan for 20 minutes or so; further rubbing with a special aluminum cleanser (to be had from your grocer) or fine steel wool and soap may be needed.

Galvanized Pipe Question: I would like to take down my galvanized furnace pipe. What can I do to prevent water forming on the pipe? Would the attic be a good place to store it?

Answer: After giving the pipe a good cleaning to free it from dust, coat both sides with light oil and store in the attic. If there are any rust spots, rub them off with steel wool or fine sandpaper before applying the oil.

Rusted Caster Holders Question: I am using a metal bed that had been stored and the casters are attached on sections that fit in the legs of the bed. The holders are quite rusty. What should I do to make them usable now?

Answer: Take out the caster holders and soak them in kerosene. After a half-hour or so, the rust can be removed by rubbing with steel wool or sandpaper. When the metal is clean, give it a coat of light oil or varnish. This will retard further rusting.

Hot Sword on Tongue Is African Lie Detector Modern science has nothing or African tribesmen in the use of a lie-detector. When witnesses at a trial conducted by Embu tribesmen of Kenya Colony are at odds in their testimony, they are tested by "tasting" a hot sword. A witch doctor puts a sword in a fire and daubs the heated end with paste. A witness licks it off, the sword is reheated, more paste applied, and the "tasting" procedure followed by each witness. Each man then goes around the circle formed by the tribal council, showing his tongue. Those whose tongues are blistered are most are considered to be lying, and they lose their case.

JESUS ON THE MOUNTAIN AND IN THE VALLEY

LESSON TEXT—Mark 9:2-8, 17-27. GOLDEN TEXT—I believe; help thou mine unbelief.—Mark 9:24.

The vision of the mountain top prepares the believer for service down in the valley. "Where there is no vision the people perish," said the wise man of old (Prov. 29:18). For want of a true vision of God, a knowledge of His truth, and the God-given constraint which makes men give themselves in sacrificial service, the people will perish in their sins.

But let men come to know the truth as it is in Christ, learn to know Him as the Son of God glorious and powerful, and then let them translate their knowledge of Christian truth and their personal spiritual experiences into the daily ministry to the needs of their fellow men, and there will be songs of salvation and joy.

I. Knowing (vv. 2-7).
The transfiguration of Christ doubtless meant much to Him in preparation for His coming death and resurrection. It was a foregleam of His kingdom glory.

In this lesson we are concerned with the experience of the disciples rather than the feelings of our Lord. Fundamental in both Christian life and service is a clear understanding of the person and work of Christ. One may come to Christ knowing little more than that He is the divine Saviour, and one may enter into Christian living with a meager knowledge of the doctrines of the Bible. But the Christian who fails to grow in knowledge will not grow in grace as he should.

God sets no premium on ignorance, in fact it is quite evident that the great blight on the Christian church today is the appalling lack of understanding of God's Word.

The disciples came to a fuller conviction that He was the Son of God as they saw Him transfigured and heard the Father say, "This is my beloved Son." They learned more plainly the truth of His coming death for the sins of all mankind. They saw in the indescribable beauty of that moment the foregleam of His coming glory. What important truths these are—His deity—His redemption—His coming kingship. Do we have a clear grasp of these truths? If not, let us search the Scriptures.

II. Growing (v. 8).
"Jesus only." He filled their vision and their hearts. They had made spiritual progress as they had seen His glory and heard the commanding voice of the Father.

Great experiences of spiritual renewing and power are necessary to effective life and testimony. They may not be in outward manifestation, in fact they are more often in the inner recesses of the soul; but they transform men and send them forth to magnificent living for God. One wonders if much of the dearth of power in the Christian church is not to be attributed directly to the lack of such experiences with God.

The disciples had an unforgettable mountaintop experience. Even so have many others found the secret of power.

Let us remember that such privileges are not reserved for a few, they are the birthright of every Christian. Power without knowledge is a dangerous and destructive thing, but knowledge without power is a dead thing.

Let us study God's Word, but let the truth be baptized in the overflowing spiritual power of a personal experience with God.

In regeneration all that Christ is and has for us is made available. If we have not taken out our inheritance let us do it at once.

III. Serving (vv. 17-27).

One of the lessons that seems hard to learn, and to keep constantly effective in the life of a Christian is that mountaintop experiences of spiritual uplift are not an end-in-themselves, but a preparation for service. All too often we come to regard such times of peculiar blessing, whether in the privacy of our own room or in the great conference of Christian workers, as something which should glow warmly in our own hearts, making us glad in the Lord, and not as a preparation for ministry to others.

Jesus and the disciples went up to the place of prayer, into the place of glory, and down to the place of service. How fitting is that sequence.

Much confusion exists in the church because those who have foolishly abandoned God's Word and substituted the energy of the flesh for spiritual power have been most diligent in service to humanity; while those who know and accept the truth about Christ, and who profess to believe in the power of the Spirit-filled life, have failed to serve their needy neighbors.

"But Jesus took him by the hand and lifted him up" (v. 27). Verses 24 and 29 indicate that the disciples might have done the same by believing prayer.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER
Tire life on rough gravel roads is about 40 per cent less than on smooth concrete pavements. This was proved by tests conducted by the Iowa State College.
Soap, if developed, is to be a growing factor in maintaining motor transportation. It has been estimated that 100 million pounds of soap will be required for one year's production of synthetic rubber.
Cameback, which gets its name because it originally had a hump in the center, is a growingly important product of the rubber industry. Over 20 million pounds of cameback are now being made monthly to repair tires.

Eggs Hatched by 'Human Incubators' in China
Eggs of a special breed of duck in China are hatched by "human incubators," men who carry the eggs in nets around their waists. The first period of incubation is taken care of by the mother (and), but for the last three days before the ducklings poke their beaks through the shells men carry the eggs.
This is supposed to improve the quality of the bird, which makes a famous dish known as "Peking duck."

Mix plaster of paris with vinegar instead of water and it will not harden so quickly when you are filling in cracks and holes in plaster.

Rayon fabrics must be handled carefully when wet. When dry, rayon regains its strength.

A sharp knife, rinsed in hot water, will do a good job of cutting cake and keeping neat cake and frosting edges.

Why not a spice bag to flavor that soup or stew? To make one, mix three sprigs parsley, six whole cloves, one bay leaf and a little thyme and tie them loosely in a small square of white cheesecloth. Drop the bag into the cooking mixture.

You can add a cute note to your skirt by cutting out musical notes from odd pieces of felt and sewing them around the hem. Or one applied on your sweater will make a nice conversation piece too.

If it is difficult to make wallpaper stick to chimney, ceilings or walls, apply a coat of aluminum paint before papering. Then the wallpaper will not crack or come loose.

Continual opening of the oven door changes the temperature and is a common cause of baking failures.

Honey should be kept in a warm place in the kitchen. If it does granulate, place the container in a pan of hot water until it liquidizes.

Chicken fat saved from stewed chicken may be substituted for shortening in pie crusts, biscuits, spiced or ginger cookies or cake.

Tower of Justice
Although a leaning pagoda of Indo-China leans more than its famous counterpart at Piza, Italy, it was built to lean as a "barometer of justice." As the administration of justice becomes less equitable, the tower, in native fancy, leans lower and lower. The remarkable tower is 60 feet high and was built 200 years ago.

4th War Loan Drive

Opens Jan. 1, 1944. Lincoln county has been assigned a quota of $115,600, of this amount $67,100 has been earmarked for 'E' bonds.

The September quota was $108,000.

The same committee which solicited for the 3rd drive is again being asked to handle the 4th war loan, Felix Ramey, Co. war finance chairman said.

Lincoln county was the 2nd county in the state on the sale of E bonds, figured at a percentage basis on quota during the Sept. drive.

There is no reason why Lincoln county can't be first during this drive.

Let's all get behind the 4th war loan drive!

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allied Nations Are Stunned by Stories Of Jap Atrocities to War Prisoners; Reds Surge Forward Below Leningrad; Fifth Army Continues March to Rome

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Beauty Parlor—Just like that, T-4 Joseph Drescher of Leavittsburg, Ohio, dropped into this chic little salon on Bougainville in the Solomons for a haircut, shine and manicure.

JAP ATROCITIES: 'Death March'

"Death March on Bataan." In these four ghastly words, the late Lieut. Col. William Dyess, who led a party of officers and men in escaping from Jap imprisonment, told a still more ghastly story of horror and atrocity committed against the heroic U. S. and Philippine defenders of Bataan by the enemy. On 85 miles of road leading from Bataan to San Fernando, Colonel Dyess related in a war and navy department release, U. S. and Filipino troops plodded along from dawn to dusk for six days, thirsting under a piercing sun. Sick and delirious were dragged from the straggling columns and cruelly put to death. In one instance, prisoners were forced to bury three Americans and Filipinos alive at bayonet point. Conditions in prison camps were equally atrocious, the army and navy report revealed. At one camp, the death rate was 20 Americans and 150 Filipinos a day in the first week. In the second week the rate jumped to 50 Americans and 500 Filipinos through starving and overwork.

Strike at Supplies

To make sure that there will not be another Tarawa when doughboys land in the Marshalls astride our supply lines in the mid-Pacific, U. S. bombers continued pounding defense installations in the islands. On New Britain, Allied bombers struck hard at shipping in the port of Rabaul, which feeds barges supplying Jap troops through coastal depots. With their bombers striking at enemy supply lines, U. S. troops drove farther inland, both on New Guinea and on Bougainville.

RUSSIA: Form Trap

Fighting raged on two widely separated sectors of the 600-mile Russian front, with the Reds fanning out below Leningrad in the north, and the Nazis counterattacking to strengthen their position 60 miles from the Rumanian border in the south. As the Reds surged forward below Leningrad, they chewed two big holes in the Germans' positions on the northern and southern ends of this front, threatening to swing toward each other and throw a loop around the enemy's rear.

Reject Mediation

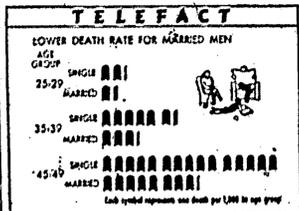

The U. S. offer to mediate Russia's claim to one-third of prewar Poland was rejected by the Reds, and the situation became even more complicated with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's declaration that Great Britain could not recognize any territorial changes made during the war without consent of the parties concerned. Russia's rejection of the U. S. mediation bid emphasized Stalin's disposition not to deal with the present Polish government in exile, which he has accused of strengthening Germany by its requests that an impartial commission investigate Nazi charges that the Reds slew 10,000 Polish officers near Smolensk.

FARM PRICES: Supports Announced

Subject to congressional approval, the War Food administration announced support prices for 34 principal farm products, with the only big decrease being the $1 per hundredweight for hogs effective October 1. Loans for corn and wheat would be made at 85 per cent of parity, and for cotton, rice and tobacco at 90 per cent of parity. Potato supports would be pegged at 90 per cent of parity compared with 92 in 1943. On a per bushel basis, support prices would be higher on soybeans by 14 cents, flaxseed 10 cents, barley and grain sorghums 10 cents and sweet potatoes 10 to 20 cents. Peanut supports would be raised by $10 a ton, sugar beets $1.50 a ton, and sugar cane 30 cents a ton.

NEW TAXES: Only Hope Chest Spared

Only the hopeful young misses stocking their hope chests got any kind of a break from senators and congressmen drawing up a compromise $2,000,000,000 tax bill. With over $1,000,000,000 in so-called luxury levies agreed upon, only silver plated flatware (knives, forks, etc.) escaped taxation. Otherwise, the lawmakers decided upon a 20 per cent tax on jewelry. In raising $1,000,000,000, the legislators recommended a 25 per cent tax on cosmetics and toilet articles; a 10 per cent tax on every 2 cents of amusement admissions; 30 per cent tax on cabaret or night club bills, and $20 annual tax on pool tables and bowling alleys. It was also recommended that air mail postage be boosted to 8 cents and locally delivered mail to 3 cents.

CIVILIAN TIRES: Less Predicted

Because chemical difficulties have been encountered in processing oil into synthetic rubber ingredients and military requirements have increased, a cutback in civilian tire production from 30 to 20 million casings for 1944 loomed. Production of heavy duty tires for busses and trucks also was expected to fall below expectations, since a mixture of natural rubber is required for manufacture of these casings and the natural rubber stockpile has dropped to a low level, partly because of the failure of South American growing programs to fully develop. The rubber pinch also has affected recapping plans, with the government again specifying, reclaimed scrap for retreads.

PETROLEUM WAXES: Waterproofers

To help meet the military services' crying need for water and other proofing, the petroleum industry produced 300,000 tons of waxes in 1943, a notable achievement since certain grades have a wax content of only three-fourths of 1 per cent. In 1944, emphasis will be placed on production of micro-crystalline waxes, which have proven especially useful in packaging food rations because thin coatings resist moisture and the substance retains its flexibility in low temperatures. Micro-crystallines are further useful in proofing army shoes against mustard gases and protecting metal parts from the elements.

WHISKY: None to Be Made

Because industrial requirements for alcohol in 1944 will approximate 632,000,000 gallons and keep distilleries operating at 150 per cent of their rated capacity, no whisky will be manufactured this year, War Production Czar Donald Nelson declared. Alcohol reserves had dropped to 80,000,000 gallons by December, 1943, a dangerous level, Nelson said, because synthetic rubber plants, arsenals, powder plants and tank terminals for lend-lease require a working inventory of 30,000,000 gallons. To assure 1944 supplies, Nelson said the War Production board was seeking to secure sufficient molasses and corn for distilleries, to persuade the British to meet their own requirements by processing molasses from the Caribbean, and rushing new grain alcohol plants to completion.

TELEPHONE RATES

Interstate telephone rates will be reduced March 1, by agreement between the Bell Telephone system and the Federal Communications commission. Subscribers will be saved about eight million dollars a year, it is estimated. Putting night long distance telephone rates into effect at 6 p. m. instead of 7 p. m. will account for most of the reduction, or about $4 million dollars. The remainder is accounted for by a lowering of the overtime rate on interstate teletypewriter service.

FAO Draws Up Plans for 'Family of Nations' Buying

Food and Agriculture Organization Aims at Expanded Production, Increased Trade Within Countries Involved.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

When the President introduced his second bill of rights into his State of the Union message to congress and skillfully linked the past and future with it, he set up old arguments among the elite of Washington's cracker-barrel set.

When "Old Dr. New Deal" was set aside as the guardian of American welfare, some folks hereabouts insisted that he had plans for considerably extending his practice later—that his friend, Franklin D., was planning on a "World New Deal". Like all smoke, it signals a fire somewhere.

There is no doubt that even though the realistic Mr. Churchill and the realistic Mr. Stalin didn't see eye to eye on everything as they looked at each other across the green table at Teheran, we have reason to believe that both are pretty well sold on what they each think can be done in the way of a little international "welfare work" which would raise the decibels which measure the hum of business in their respective countries.

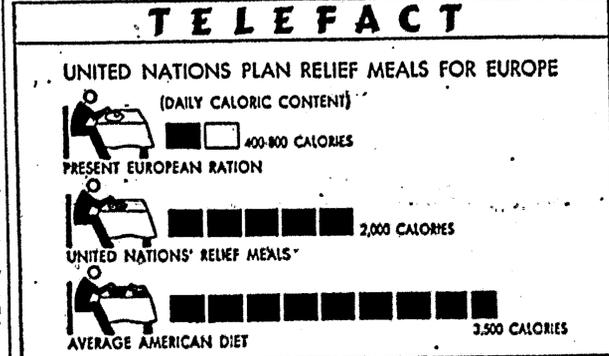

The President presented to congress the various human "rights" he visualized, as you recall, and there will be more specific data concerning them which he will submit to the legislators later, either just that a business man would use on it. Believe it or not, the men who are figuring out free lunches and the production programs to make them unnecessary hereafter are doing it scientifically, and even if you don't like the word, on a "businesslike" basis.

Little has been said of this permanent food organization of the United Nations. You hear about UNRRA, which is supposed to take care of what might be called "strategic feeding"—that is, taking care of the peoples in countries the Allies reoccupy (hungry men and women are no help to anyone). The motive is less altruistic than military. But you may not have heard of the work of the FAO—that's an entirely unofficial abbreviation of the Food and Agriculture organization which Gove Hambidge of the agriculture administration of the department of agriculture made up himself. He was appointed one of the secretaries of the commission appointed at the conference in Hot Springs last May.

Work 'Going Well'

Hambidge says the work of this FAO is going well. It has drawn up the plans for this job of permanent feeding. Not "free" feeding permanently, but a plan for "family buying"—family of nations buying. Naturally there is plenty of chance for to keep his hand in in case he contemplates, as the cracker-barrelers suggest, further personal activity later, or merely wants to keep Americans thinking about all these things, come the idea of November.

About Relief

No matter how you look at it (unless you are a 100 per cent "atew-in-their-own-juicer") you have a sort of vague feeling that we ought to do what we can to help out people who are starving or freezing no matter where they are. I say that advisably and for proof turn to the record. One of the earliest memories of my childhood is tagging up Main Street on my mother's hand and seeing a dishpan in front of the "Silver Dollar" (not the original) filled with dollar bills. My mother dropped in a quarter and hurried past the sinister abode. Passersby tossed in their currency for the sufferers of some Chinese famine or Italian earthquake (perhaps Pompeii and Herculaneum, I don't recall).

America is always willing to go down deep in its pockets for "relief." But it doesn't seem to like it if government runs the show. Nobody on Main Street knew how much of the dishpan's contents reached the quaking Italians or what-have-you and how much never got past the "Silver Dollar's" back room, but nobody cared.

On the other hand, even when the money is triple-checked by the government and investigated by the opposition, if it is taken out of the general kitty, Americans don't like it. That's playing Santa Claus. When they can shell out individually, it's all right—which may be perfectly logical from a psychological viewpoint. However this may be, your government is going right ahead and preparing a program for taking out the wrinkles and concealing the ribs of a starving world just the same. It is also doing something more, helping the starvers raise more of their own food. They are trying to organize the job with the same business acumen differences of opinion but Hambidge puts it this way:

"Pa wants a certain kind of engine. Ma has her eye on the upholstery. Sis prefers a certain body color. Junior—he's thinking about the gadgets on the instrument panel. But the main thing is—they all want a car. They end up by getting one that isn't quite what anybody expected—but one that's durable, and a good buy, and gets them where they want to go.

"In other words, they compromise. Each one gives up his own pet ideas to get a car that will be serviceable for the whole family. "And that's what will happen," says Hambidge, "with the Food and Agriculture organization. The International commission has been working out a constitution—a broad plan of operation, showing what the organization will do and how it will do it, and a general budget, so we'll know what the work will cost. Along about March, probably, they will have these plans ready to submit formally to the 49-odd governments. If there's quick approval—the organization should be set up and ready to go not too long after that."

Two things FAO is aiming at: expanded production within the countries involved, and increased trade between the countries involved. Some countries, for instance, just can't produce enough of the right kinds of foods to feed their people properly; others can produce certain foods—like wheat, for instance—only at very great cost.

The FAO, its members say, aims to get away from the old isolationist idea that prevailed almost everywhere before the war—with every country trying to meet all its own needs which ended up with a smashing big depression and a whopping big war. What the FAO can do to prevent such world catastrophes, according to Hambidge, remains to be seen.

That is what this very silent committee, or commission or whatever you want to call it, is doing—making an attempt at prophylaxis—an attempt to cure the disease instead of the symptoms.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

FOXHUNT: Since sporting Englishmen have been too busy with war to conduct the usual foxhunts, with horse and hound, the little animals have increased in boldness and have become a menace to poultry, lambs and game. A party of 500 soldiers and citizens, setting aside sportsmanship for the duration, killed 30 of the little red beasts in a great drive in Kent.

FEATHERS: The war has opened a new market for a domestic product—chicken feathers. They are now used for stuffing pillows and cushions. Before the war, 80 per cent of down feathers came from Europe and China. These were mostly from ducks and geese. New methods of preparing chicken feathers make them more sanitary, and softer than formerly.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

Prewar model baby carriages, strollers, walkers, and pushchairs will reappear on the market in about six weeks, according to the WPE.

Net cash farm income for the three years 1941 through 1943 was over 2 1/2 times as large as net income for the five years preceding the outbreak of war.—The People's Lobby.

War Food administration has announced it will soon release about 440,000 cases of canned pork and beans to civilian consumers.

The Japanese explanation of the main points of their taxation law revision bills, when translated by U. S. government monitors, comprised a single-spaced document a little more than four feet long.

Indian BEEF

by HAROLD CHANNING WIRE

W.N.U. RELEASE

LEW BURNET has been engaged by TOM ARNOLD, owner of the Cross T, to act as trail boss on the drive from southern Texas to Ogallala in the spring of 1935. Tom, his son and daughter, STEVE and JOY, are moving to Wyoming. Tom must deliver 3,000 longhorns to the Indian agent by September 1, or lose a profitable contract. Lew has reason to believe that the Indian Supply Co. is trying to delay the Cross T herd, and he suspects that Clay, Steve and ED SPLANN are working in league with the company. Lew heads west and runs into a furious dust storm that chokes and blinds men and cattle alike. The herd is near death from thirst when the storm ends and a misty rain falls.

CHAPTER VII

Far off, in what he knew now was south, Lew picked out the first column of his scattered herd. Two others were separated from it by perhaps three miles. On behind them he found the white tops of the wagons. But as he moved his gaze on slowly around the sharp horizon there was no sign of water nor the double butte to set him on his course. His moment's gratefulness sank to a heavy dread. They had come too far from the last watered camp. The cattle couldn't go on. Another day would bring its killing heat, for clouds that followed a dust storm never held long.

He was staring east; he gave his head a sudden jerk to clear it. He wiped one hand across his swollen eyes. They weren't tricking him. As if from the grass roots smoke twisted upward over there. It rose and shaped a pillar, broke and rose and broke again. Willy Nickle . . . sending up his talk!

He spurred his tired horse south. Halfway toward the scattered columns he drew his gun again and fired it. He pulled his horse around into short fast circles.

They heard his shots that time and saw his signal. Little figures of men started out toward him. He rode on and met John Quarternight first. The old man's beard was muddy white, his eyes puffed almost closed.

"Boy," he said, "we got here. Wherever that be. There's someone's camp, though, yonder."

"Willy Nickle, I think," Lew said. "I'm going to look. I'll leave you to gather up."

The creek was still two miles off, and before he reached it the smoke ended. Riding into a little grove of trees, he found only the embers, no sign of Willy Nickle at first, until he saw the forked stick. It had been thrust into the ground with one prong like a thumb pointing downstream. He followed in the stick's direction.

Sheltered from wind and rain, a snug retreat, Willy Nickle sat, contentedly smoking his black clay pipe. He threw up his left hand in a silent salute and dropped it. His gentle face was brown and smooth from a recent shave.

Lew grinned and shifted over into one stirrup, halting. "Well," he said, "we had a wind."

Willy nodded. "So you did."

"I guess," Lew said, "we clean missed the double butte. Came too far north maybe. But here's a river."

"South branch of the Pease," said Willy. He took the cherry pipstemy from his mouth and pointed with it. "If a man heads out of here quarterin' east of north he'll hit a creek of the Red. He'll follow that to the Red herself, ten miles above Doan's store. Two days, maybe, if his men have made it."

In three days they were still crawling through low hills south of the Red. Blindness healed slowly in both animals and men. Three had ridden in the cook's wagon. Clay and Steve rode with Joy. They both had bandages smeared with axle grease over their eyes and sat up with her on the seat.

He had a queer feeling sometimes, seeing them in a row like that. When he dropped back along the herd he could see their fun and hear them laughing together. They sang a lot. Old songs that he used to sing with her. It took him back to Three Little Apaches; only it was Clay's big shape there now instead of his.

But today all of his crew were in their saddles, eager to reach the Red. That meant something. It was halfway to Dodge. It was the last of Texas soil. Beyond the Red River lay the Indian Nations and the north. Every trail drive marked it with a celebration of some kind.

He rode the point with Quarternight and could see old Rebel John was feeling what he felt. A man would never feel this lonesomeness about leaving any place up north. He was sure of that; not a Texas man. There was Tom Arnold riding back behind the horse herd—what must this crossing the Red River mean to one like him? It must go hard. He was leaving the biggest part of his life down here, the best part. What was Tom looking ahead to in Wyoming? Not much, so far, if he was counting on Steve. That had been his hope at the start. Well, what was he looking ahead to himself? Nothing that he could see. Not the ranch he'd planned there on the Powder when he had thought he was going to build it up alone. You didn't put two bulls in the same pasture. Get this herd to Ogallala. Beyond that he didn't know.

His head bobbed to the slow walk of his horse. He let it nod, peacefully drowsy, until Quarternight's quick voice came across to him.

"There she is!"

He looked up. The fold between the hills had widened. Beyond its mouth lay a five-mile level shelf of grass. Far-off red bluffs marked the river, high and shining in the sun.

He grinned and said, "A man's glad to see that old girl somehow."

"Glad when he's across her."

"Well, sure," he said, "that's right." Men had reason to want this river behind them. No other, except perhaps the Canadian with its quicksands, farther north, had taken so many lives.

In a little while he was pointing out upon the open shelf, as flat as a floor, and he could look far east along its great bend. No other herds swarmed across its grass. Doan's store and the main trail's crossing were ten miles downstream.

"We're alone here, John," he said. "That's good."

Behind them the crack of rope ends against leather sounded like pistol shots. Swung men were crowding the longhorns on. But even the cattle had sensed the river and walked at a faster pace of their own accord.

His plan had been to cross at once and go into camp on the north side. There would still be time for an at-ermoon's rest and the night's fun. But riding ahead, he reached the lower bluffs of the south shore and looked down upon an angry, churning stream. The Red was full from bank to bank. There had been heavy rains somewhere west.

He swung back and met the point and told Quarternight, "She's up, John. Too high to swim. We'll have to hold over." He shook his head. "I don't like it much. We may get some neighbors we don't want." He waved his swing men up. "No use worrying about that now. I'll ride down to Doan's after we water and see what herds are on the trail."

Under the added pressure of swing riders he bent the point west toward a creek. He let the herd spread out there to drink and afterward left them standing drowsily under a two-man guard.

"Lew, is this a holiday?" asked Clay.

"Part."

"Then I'm riding down to Doan's."

It was an ordinary-enough request; a man could get a few things at the store. But that was not the reason, he felt, with Clay. He shook his head. "None of the crew's going there. I don't figure it's safe."

Clay's stare sharpened on him. "Kind of high-handed, aren't you? Maybe you'll find it hard to make that order stick!"

He didn't answer. But afterward, standing ankle deep in the water, shaving in front of a mirror propped against a willow fork, he went back to find Clay's meaning. It wasn't clear. If a man deserted against the trail boss' order he might as well quit. Clay wouldn't do that. He continued his shave. The scar made his cheek stiff.

He had forgotten about Clay's threat and he felt good, cleaned and dressed once more, walking back into the shady grove of the camp. Then he saw Ed Splann.

Splann had not been at the river and he had wondered. Only Jim Hope and Tom Arnold were on guard with the herd. But he was here in camp now with his horse saddled. His clothes that he had worked and slept in for a week hadn't been changed.

"Thought I'd tell you," he stated bluntly, "I'm riding down to Doan's. You won't need me till night."

Lew walked past him and tossed his war bag into the cook's wagon. He turned back and said, "Not this trip," and started on.

Splann's surly growl jerked him around: "What the hell kind of a boss are you?"

He walked up close, his high shape coming above Ed Splann's broader and more powerful build. He could feel the scar burn hot and red. But there were times like this when he let his voice come out of him in a slow drawl. "My friend," he said, "I'll tell you what kind of boss I am. No man in my outfit fools me any. You don't." He let it hang there, watching Splann weigh it behind his pale eyes.

They narrowed coolly. "You think you, know something. What?"

"You've got no warning coming," he said, his voice still held to that quiet way, "but I'll warn you this much. I'd as leave have a rattlesnake in my bed as a spy and traitor in this camp. You don't need to ride to Doan's; I'll see your friends for you. Is that clear?"

A wicked brightness leaped into Splann's eyes. "You talk tough. You got anything to back it up? Show or lay down, Burnet. I've called your hand!"

He didn't underestimate this man. There was the experienced gun fighter's arrogance about him. He let his muscles go slack and ready and felt only that cool alertness as he said, "Any time."

He could almost see the huge right shoulder begin its lift that would bring the gun up out of its holster. His own fingers curved when Splann's eyes went past his and swung back. A subtle change came over him. He leaned forward a little, confiding, "Burnet, you stay clear. You've got a lot to learn, some things you don't want to know. And you've got a lot to lose." His eyes moved again.

Footsteps crackled in the dry leaves, and then Joy called gayly, "Lew! Come and look!"

She passed beyond them looking pleased, with something bundled in her arms. She was barelegged and her long hair, washed and dried, was soft around her head.

Splann's eyes followed her through the trees. Then they came back with a knowing shrewdness. "You take my advice and you'll get your pay. One thing about you ain't hard to read." He wheeled and led his horse toward the picketed mounts.

Joy was up on her bed in the wagon, sitting crosslegged with both hands covering her lap. "Lew . . . eggs!" She lifted her hands. "Turkey eggs. I found a nest!"

He leaned in to her and turned them with mock gravity. "Real eggs. Think of that." But it was her scrubbed fragrance he was aware of, her soft hair and skin that was warm and glowing. It put a tight quietness in him that was not mockery. Then she laid both of her hands on his.

The laughter was gone from her eyes. She looked up soberly. "Lew, I've been sorry about something. Dreadfully sorry. I mean back there when Steve went blind. I wasn't hating you. It was only that everything seemed so wrong. I understand what you're going through these days. I shouldn't make it any harder."

He pulled his hand from under hers. "I've never asked for pity, Joy, not from anyone. Let me pity myself if I want to. We all do that sometimes. But I don't want it from outside."

"This isn't pity! Don't you understand?"

Something turned her lips soft and gentle, parting them with a slow and even breath. Her dark eyes searched his face. "We've meant so much to each other. Nothing must end it. I want you to know that."

She stirred him with an irritable violence. "That's past, Joy. We aren't children any more. You've grown up and what I have is not a brother's feeling."

"I know it." Her voice was hushed.

"Look here!" He put his hands roughly on her arms and pressed them against her sides. He hurt her and wanted to hurt. "You've got one man. What do you think? You can still offer some little part of you to another?"

"No. It's only—" She faltered. His grip tightened. "Joy, this is nothing you can play with. You'd better not try!"

Her breath was quick. He could feel the tremble of her body beneath his hard hands. He let her go and stepped back. "Anything you want from Doan's store?"

She didn't answer but only shook her head, staring at him. He wheeled from her, shaken by the violence of the feeling she had aroused.

In five miles he reached the bend of the river shelf and saw an unexpected sight beyond. Far on east of the bend a dozen trail herds flooded south of the Red made dark blot against the grass. That was the crowd he had missed by taking an unknown route. He could not judge the number from this distance, anywhere up to forty thousand, a bare fraction of the longhorns pouring north.

Let Hearts Be Gay on Valentine's Day! (See Recipes Below)

Cupid's Share

Hold on to your heart! Here comes Cupid ready to do tricks to your heart on Valentine's Day! It's time for a party with cute Dan Cupid reigning on a mighty throne. February's a short, short month but with plenty of opportunity for party-giving. You can have a Lincoln's or Washington's Birthday party, of you can be extra gay and colorful with a Valentine's party. These should be extra popular this year with the pepped-up pace of romance. If anyone in your crowd is about ready for a shower or wedding you might take the cue from Valentine's day and make Cupid's decorations your theme.

Pink-and-white or red-and-white are the gay color schemes and you can carry these out in both food and decorations. A simple but dramatic table picture is seen in the picture in today's column. Three large, red valentine boxes are set on their side in a row to form the main interest for the table. If you want to enlarge on this, get other pink-and-white or red-and-white decorations such as nosegays of roses and tie with a swirl of ribbon.

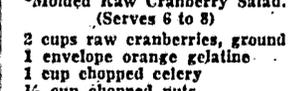

If you would rather carry this out in flowers, get a nice centerpiece of red-and-white flowers. But have a heart, somewhere along the way. If you have a valentine mold make a valentine cake or jelly mold and work out an arrow with a packy tube or, if the cake is iced you might even put on an arrow made out of red paper.

Here is a luscious salad that takes it easy on rationed foods:

- *Molded Raw Cranberry Salad. (Serves 6 to 8)
- 2 cups raw cranberries, ground
- 1 envelope orange gelatine
- 1 cup chopped celery
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 2 cups water
- Juice of 1 lemon

Pour 1/2 cup water in a bowl. Add gelatine to water. Add 1 1/2 cups water and sugar and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice. Set aside to cool.

Grind raw cranberries, chop nuts and celery fine. Add these ingredients to gelatine. Place salad in Cherries can make food decorative for any Valentine party whether they are used in cake or pie: Champion Cherry Pie.

Crust:

- 1 1/2 cups bread flour
- 10 tablespoons lard
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 5 to 6 tablespoons ice water

Sift flour and salt together, add lard and blend. Add ice water gradually and cool.

Filling:

- 2 1/2 cups pitted sour cherries, drained
- 1/2 cup cherry juice
- 2 1/2 tablespoons fine tapioca
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon butter

Soak tapioca, sugar and salt in cherry juice and let stand while pastry is being made. Then mix well with cherries, add butter and put in pie tin. Bake pie for 10 minutes at 450 degrees then reduce temperature to moderate or 350 degrees and bake for 20 minutes. Turn off oven and let stand at oven temperature for 20 minutes before removing from oven.

one large or several individual molds and let jelly until firm. Serve with lettuce or greens.

These clever ham roll-ups add a colorful and festive note to your menu. They're simple to make if you just follow directions:

- Ham Roll-Ups. (Makes 4 Roll-ups)
- 2 tablespoons fat
- 2 1/2 tablespoons flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- Pepper
- 1 cup milk
- 1/4 cup grated American cheese
- 4 slices leftover boiled or baked ham, sliced thin
- 8 asparagus tips

Blend fat, flour and seasonings. Gradually add the milk. Stir until thick and smooth. Add cheese and stir until it has melted. Cut ham in thin slices 4 x 6 inches. Roll two asparagus tips in each slice. Secure with toothpick, place in a shallow pan and surround with cheese sauce. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) 15 minutes. Insert sprigs of parsley at end of each ham roll. Serve at once.

Get out your heart-shaped cutter if you want to make sandwiches for a simple children's supper party or for valentine refreshments for grown-ups, serve heart shaped sandwiches filled with chicken salad and garnish the platter with buttered beets cut in heart shapes. Strawberry and vanilla ice cream with little sugar cookies—a tiny motto candy heart placed in the center of each cookie—is effective.

This chicken sandwich spread may be prepared the day before it is used to fit in the day's schedule:

- *Chicken Sandwich Spread.
- 4 cups finely minced chicken
- 1 can pimientos, finely minced
- 1/2 cup pickle relish
- 1/2 cup grated onion, if desired
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Mayonnaise to moisten

Thoroughly mix all ingredients and store in refrigerator until ready to use.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action

Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its lack of exercise and infection—throws heavy strains on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pain, swelling—feet constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to speed off harmful acids and waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!
