KALTENBORN WAVES THE "BLOODY SHIRT"

A. L. Burke

Much to the surprise and disgust of those who listened to the commentary of H. V. Kaltenborn last week, when he told of his trip to Cuba and on his return to Miami, after seeing the ships leave port laden with soldiers bound for the front, he continued with the following story, in which he was fair enough to admit that he had said too much. He said that he visited one of the hospitals where the boys were confined, some without legs and others without arms.

He then followed by saying that he made a talk to the boys and in finishing up, he asked them how many there were who would vote for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, but no stabs, legs nor arms went up. Then he asked them how many would vote for Gov. Bricker of Ohio, but none responded. How many would vote for Wendell Wilkie, but no response came, but said Kaltenborn, quote: how many would vote for the Honorable Franklin Delano Roosevelt, when all stabs of arms and legs were raised high in the air.

We have heard lots of political propaganda over the radio, but none so distasteful and disgusting as that. When politics sinks to such a low level as to be a void of material, that they must resort to a target of misery in order to further the candidacy of a president of the United States for a Fourth Term, then we have descended to a level with indecency, degradation and all that goes with political gangsterism. When the President allows a henchman such as Kaltenborn to resort to waiving the Bloody Shirt as a last and most filthy ploy to gain sympathy for his election to a fourth term, it is a sad spectacle indeed.

There is one of two things, either Kaltenborn lied, or the poor boys thinking themselves put on the spot, disguised their real intentions with perhaps a fear that it might harm their chances for well-deserved pensions. Does that sort of political propaganda appeal to you who believe in true Americanism? In our opinion such disgraceful propaganda as that will work more harm to the fourth term campaign, than anything else we could mention. How the once mighty have fallen!

Leslie-Payne

In the city of El Paso on March 14, John O. Payne and Miss Dorothy Leslie, both of Capitan, were united in marriage. The new Mrs. Payne is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rbert Leslie of Capitan. She was born, reared and received her schooling there. Of late she had been employed in an Aircraft plant at Los Angeles. She is attractive and has many becoming characteristics.

The groom is the youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Payne, also of Capitan. He spent three years in the U S service which included one year in North Africa. He was mustered out of service Nov. 1, when he received an honorary medical discharge from active duty.

The happy couple spent their honeymoon at El Paso and Juarez and will be at home at W. B. Payne ranch at the present. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. John (Bob) Payne are offering their congratulations.

In a letter from our old friend Frank Todd received this week, he stated that he was compelled to dispose of his two large farms at Franklinton, La., on account of the lack of help. He then bought a small farm which with a limited amount of help, he will be able to get by. As in other lines of business, the New Deal is making it as hard on the business interests as it possibly can. Frank had two of the nicest farms in that locality, stocked with the best breeds of cattle, hogs and other stock, but the OPA and other alphabetical bureaus have compelled him to dispose of them and we presume, at a sacrifice. Sorry, Frank. Hope you have better luck at the next turn of the wheel.

Food Processing, Ice and Cold Storage Locker Plant

The Village of Carrizozo is endeavoring to add to its present Power Plant facilities a food processing and cold storage locker plant as well as an ice maker. All arrangements have been completed with the exception of securing the required number of applications for advance rentals, required by the WPB, to obtain priority assistance for construction of such plants.

Many applications have been received for lockers, yet there has not, as yet been a sufficient number to assure success with the War Production Board. Locker rentals begin at $12.50 per year for approximately five cubic foot lockers and range up to $17.50 for the larger drawer type. A butcher will be maintained at the plant to take care of meats and vegetables brought in.

No less than a modern processing plant is contemplated. The earlier the applications are completed, the better the chances will be to get our request approved before allocations made for such plants are exhausted, thus increasing our chances of getting the plant in operation this summer. Therefore the burden of getting the plant installed rests with the public.

Applications are being received at the Power Plant, The City Hall, Lincoln County Agency Bank, Carrizozo Hardware, Turner Hospital, the Telephone Co. office, and Lincoln County Motors.

Supreme Court In Adverse Opinion

Santa Fe, N. M., March 29—The New Mexico supreme court has returned an adverse opinion by a three to two vote on absentee ballots for legal voters in the armed forces of the country. The opinion was written by Justice C. R. Brice and supported by Justices Howard Bickley and Daniel K. Saddler. A minority opinion was submitted by Justice T. J. Mabry and supported by Justice Martin A. Throet.

The opinion effectually blocks efforts for a service ballot until a constitutional amendment has been submitted and passed by the voters. Such an amendment cannot be submitted until the next regular meeting of the state legislature, in January of next year.

The decision reaffirmed two former rulings by the state supreme court in the past, that legislation providing for absentee voting was unconstitutional.

Active Odd Fellows

Degree work still continues under the supervision of Team Captain J. F. Tom. Meeting nights each week are well attended and degree work is laid out for at least one month in advance. Interest increases as the degree team limbers up for the work to come. The Alamo-gordo three-linkers are planning a visit in the near future when a joint meeting will be held. At all meetings, visiting Odd Fellows are cordially invited. John E. Wright, Sec.

Mrs. Iva Greer of Tucuman visited relatives and local friends here several days this week. The Greers have two sons in the service Jack and Fred Greer, also a daughter-in-law Mrs. Fred Greer.

Business Men's Ticket

F. A. English, Mayor. W. A. Nicholas, Trustee. Marvin Burton, Trustee. Leandro S. Vega, Trustee. Clifton B. Zumwalt, Trustee. Morgan Lovelace, Clerk-Treas.

The above is the ticket put out without opposition and is composed of business men of Carrizozo, in its entirety. Mr. English, who heads the ticket, conducts two business enterprises, the Carrizozo Hardware Company and the Carrizozo Mercantile Co.; Mr. Nicholas is the agent for the Phillips 66 company; Mr. Burton operates the Burton Fuel Company; Mr. Zumwalt conducts the Lincoln County Motors, Inc., while Mr. Vega is proprietor of the Vega Feed and Grocery Store.

These gentlemen are deeply interested in the prosperity and growth of Carrizozo and as such, will be more than capable of steering the local boat in the right direction for the benefit of the taxpayers and public in general. This fact has caused the ticket to come out without opposition and shows the confidence in which the entire board is held. Mr. Lovelace has been Village Clerk under various administrations and it goes without saying that the people want him to so continue. From top to bottom, the ticket is a good one in every respect.

Sayrae Crockett, the Mayor of the Malpais, was here on business Monday.

JACK BENNY'S feeling that he hadn't been given adequate publicity, and that Bob Hope and Jimmie Durante had, brought up a reminiscence about Hope. Someone said that Hope works at it—that, if he sees four soldiers standing on a street corner he grabs a pianist and does a show for them. "Back in 1938," said somebody else, "Bob was doing a summer fill-in show, and we never could find him when we'd scheduled interviews, because he'd be off somewhere doing a benefit. He did benefits for churches, for clubs, for everybody who wanted him. He thought we were crazy to expect him to spend time on a newspaper interview when he could be working hard, for nothing, for someone else."

"Columbia Presents Corwin" stepped right to the top with the first broadcast; those Tuesday night programs have broken down the resistance of people who say haughtily that they never bother to listen to any broadcasts but music. Of course, Norman Corwin long since made radio history, he has always had new ideas, and is a pioneer in radio technique. He has won practically all possible awards. This series of dramatic presentations, done with excellent actors, ought to bring him a special one, and a host of new listeners.

Marie MacDonald's going through the Hollywood "streamlining" process—young lessons, dramatic coaching, dancing lessons, having her hair done a dozen different ways preparatory to playing a nice part in Hunt Stromberg's "Guest in the House." Before going to Hollywood two years ago she was cohost with Tommy Dorsey's band and specialty dancer and singer at two smart New York night clubs.

Nobody can say that John Carradine isn't versatile. He has the heavy role in Wallace Beery's new "Gold Town." Moviegoers know him by his work in "Stagecoach," "Reunion in France," etc. And he's recently been touring in Shakespearean repertoire!

If you had visited a rehearsal of CBS' "Crime Doctor" you would think you'd stumbled onto a bunch of small boys playing cops and robbers. "Take that—bang! bang! you're dead!" you hear, but it's a grown man saying it. It's all because of the shortage of blank bullets and the lack of a reasonable facsimile. There are enough cartridges for performances, but not for rehearsals.

Connie Boswell, the Blue network songbird, has been appointed head of a nation-wide morale boosting organization of people who have "arrived" despite physical handicaps. Connie has been an infantile paralysis victim since childhood.

Twentieth Century Fox did the country a service when they bought screen rights to "Winged Victory," the army air forces show now playing to packed houses in New York. The cast of 350 goes to Hollywood next month, starts the picture in June. It's a swell show, amusing, informative, soul-stirring. The cast includes a number of men who've made pictures and done radio work, as well as Corp. Layne Britton, a former make-up man who made up Joan Crawford, Robert Taylor, Greta Garbo, Walter Pidgeon, and even did his stuff on Charlie McCarthy!

Fannie Brice, who once was a star in the stage "Ziegfeld Follies," has been signed by Metro for its screen version of the Follies. She will appear in a sketch, "Sweepstakes," and will also do her famous Baby Snooks routine.

ODDS AND ENDS Radio statisticians are trying to discover if any other network announcer beats Milton Cross' record. The chief heckler on "Chamber Music Society of Lower Basin Street" is on his 23rd year as announcer. Dorothy Shay has arrived—originally appearing as guest on CBS "Carnival," she's now a permanent member of the show, co-starring Alex Templeton and Martin Gould. American Seed Raisers Grow Record Crops To Meet Unprecedented Wartime Demands

U. S. Producers Must Make Up for European Imports Now Cut Off

In a remote outpost of New Caledonia a sergeant bellows from the door of a mess hut, "Hey, Murphy, how about those vegetables?"

"Coming right up, Sarge!" And Private Murphy moves at a fast clip from the camp garden, laden with fresh vitamins and minerals in the form of sweet corn, tomatoes and string beans for the evening meal.

This scene is not as fantastic as it sounds, even in the middle of a war, according to the War Food Administration. It's a fact that Uncle Sam is sending many hundreds of tons of vegetable seeds to all parts of the world with the armed forces. Wherever a permanent camp is set up, and other factors are favorable, fighters who otherwise would get none of the bulky, perishable vegetables are themselves raising the familiar things they know and like with seed from home.

Seeds are so small, compared with the vegetables they produce, that they are an economical method of exporting food via either steamer or airplane. In European countries, for example, as much as five tons of tomatoes can be raised from a single ounce of seed. Rutabagas, another favored vegetable there, will produce as much as 500 bushels from the seed contained in a pint jar.

The total vegetable supply, through June, 1944, is estimated by the department of agriculture at 391 million pounds. Of the allocable portion, (379,500,000 pounds), 73 per cent or 277 million pounds will go to American farmers, to Victory gardens of which 22 million are caught this year—and to other civilian consumption. This is a somewhat larger supply than was available in 1943. Some varieties to which gardeners are accustomed may not answer roll call this spring, and there will be a scarcity of cabbage seed, but no U. S. gardener, says WFA, need be without plenty of vegetables.

Another allocation of 9,000,000 pounds or 2.5 per cent goes to Lend Lease outlets. About five million pounds will be available to Russia, and some four million pounds to the United Kingdom. An additional 1.3 per cent, or about 4,450,000 pounds, will be divided among the other Allied countries and liberated areas.

A total of 3,610,000 pounds, or 1 per cent, will be apportioned to U. S. territories, the Red Cross, friendly nations, etc. U. S. military and war services will receive substantial quantities.

All of these exports and shipments total only 4.0 per cent of the total seed allocation. The remainder of the allocable supply, 34 million pounds or 22.2 per cent, will go into what is known as "contingency reserve," a reserve to be used as seed reserves.

Seed needs during recent years have made increasingly large demands on America's domestic supply. Balancing available seed against claims to bring about a fair division among the claimant groups, and assisting the necessary expansion in vegetable seed production, has been a part of the War Food Administration's overall food production and distribution programs.

Seeds Came From Europe. Small vegetable seeds were produced almost entirely in continental Europe prior to 1939. When the outbreak of war cut other supply lines, it also stopped, for example, the importation of cabbage and cauliflower seeds from Denmark and Hol-

Legumes such as clover are a valuable source of natural nitrogen, as every farmer knows. More seed will be needed for cover crops in 1944, present estimates show.

Supply of Grass and Clover Seed Is Extremely Low In Face of Unusually Heavy Midwestern Requirements

Wet weather in Minnesota, which reduced the crop more than one-third in that state, was chiefly responsible for last year's smaller Blue Grass seed harvest. Production of 1,516,000 bushels of cured seed totaled only about one-third as much as the 1942 crop of 4,525,000 bushels; Nebraska and North Dakota also showed a considerable drop in pro-

Enough seed for five tons of tomatoes is in the little pile on the scales. According to the department of agriculture, one ounce of seed can grow into that much, if carefully cultivated, as is the practice in Europe.

land. Great Britain's growers, who once looked to the European seed market to answer most of their needs, faced a serious shortage. Seed requirements had increased in accordance with a 50 per cent acreage increase, while the accepted sources of supply diminished. Russia suffered a dangerous domestic seed shortage when Germany invaded the Ukraine. And other areas were in similar difficulty.

As a natural result, production of almost the entire load of vegetable seed for world needs was assumed by U. S. seedsmen.

What those growers accomplished is history, and the prospect for 1944 is for a still further increase in acreage and in yield.

The 1943 vegetable seed harvest was the largest in United States annals, latest figures showing production of 355 million pounds. This is a 91 per cent increase over the three-year (1939-41) pre-Pearl Harbor average of 186 million pounds.

Very few American farmers grow vegetable seeds as their only cash crop. However, many give vegetable seeds first place, particularly in the Pacific coast states. A government survey has shown that production of 29 out of 43 seeds topped the 1942 record harvest for a total increase of 21 million pounds over the 334 million pounds harvested last year.

Beans, peas and corn accounted for 331 million pounds of seed in 1943, 6 per cent more than the 1942 production of 313 million pounds. The figure for small or light seeds, such as beet, carrot and cucumber, totaled about 24.1 million pounds last year, 16 per cent more than the 1942 crop of 20.8 million pounds. The harvest on these small seeds fell below expectations due to a smaller yield per acre, for 27 of the seeds and a total harvested acreage 16 per cent less than was intended.

Yields Multiplied.

Phenomenal increases in acreage yields on some seed were recorded. Brussels sprouts, with an increase of 371 per cent, led the list. Other large increases were 220 per cent for okra, 225 per cent for mustard, 194 per cent for kale, and 172 per cent for salsify.

Total crop production for 1943 exceeded 1942 by 27 times for brussels sprouts, 370 per cent for mustard, 350 per cent for dill, 343 per cent for mangelwurz, 213 per cent for okra, 202 per cent for kale, 195 per cent for looseleaf lettuce, 161 per cent for Chinese cabbage, 170 per cent for chicory, 165 per cent for carrot, 153 per cent for onion, and 150 per cent for leek seed. Greatest decline in total production probably will be recorded for broccoli, cabbage, romaine lettuce, pepper, kohlrabi and parsnip seed.

Larger acreages of most kinds of vegetable seed, 39 out of 43, helped offset decreased yield per acre of a majority of the crops. Biggest reductions in acre yield were reported for cabbage, 40 per cent less than 1942; broccoli, 56 per cent; pepper, 70 per cent; parsnip, 73 per cent; kohlrabi, pumpkin, chicory and cauliflower, each 76 per cent less.

Total land in seeds harvested in 1943 was 423,391 acres, with 80,824 acres covering the small or light seeds and the remainder in garden beans, peas and corn. These figures compare with 397,234 total acreage in 1942, and 77,900 acres in the light seeds.

Production of certified seed potatoes last year set a new record, 42 per cent higher than the 1942 record crop. The harvest totaled 29,044,866 bushels, compared with 20,491,017 in '42. This represents more than 6 per cent of the U. S. production of all potatoes, and is nearly 2½ times the 10-year average (1932-41) of 12,619,399 bushels.

Hay and Cover Crop Seeds.

Seed for forage and cover crops is receiving more attention than usual this year. The 1944 conservation program emphasizes cover crops to help increase production, with a consequent need for more seed.

Harvest of legume and grass seeds will be encouraged in 1944 under the provisions of the Conservation Practices Program of the Agricultural Adjustment agency. Payment of $3.50 for each harvested acre will be allowed up to a maximum of 25 acres on any farm. Seeds included are legume and grass seeds, with the exception of timothy, red-top, Austrian peas, Kentucky blue grass, cowpeas and soybeans.

The clover seed harvest, taken as a whole, did not fare so well. Red clover seed acreage was expanded 15 per cent, with an estimated production of 1,142,000 bushels, 11 per cent more than the 1942 crop of 1,026,100 bushels. Acres harvested were upped to 1,270,000, an increase of 103,900 acres over 1942. Yield dropped from .93 of a bushel per acre to .59 of a bushel. Acreage increase was largely in Wisconsin and Michigan.

Timothy seed, with an estimated 1,493,000 bushels, dropped 11 per cent below the 1942 harvest of 1,678,500 bushels of seed. The decrease is reported due to a smaller acreage (394,000), since yield per acre of 3.81 bushels is only slightly less than the 1932-41 average of 3.21 bushels. Harvested acreage for seeds was smaller in all important states except Wisconsin and Pennsylvania but acreage cut for hay was larger than the previous year, apparently because of a greater need for timothy hay than for the seed.

More Lespedeza.

Lespedeza seed production totaled 153,920,000 pounds, a 67 per cent increase over the 1932-41 average of 95,604,000 pounds, but 6 per cent smaller than the 1943 crop of 170,500,000 pounds. A 9 per cent reduction in yield per acre more than offset a 3 per cent increase in planted acres. Yield was only 109.5 pounds, due to summer and fall drought, as compared with 216.6 pounds in 1942. Total acres were estimated at 814,000.

The harvest during the coming season of increased amounts of grass and legume seeds, vegetable seeds and of seed crops in general is highly advisable, says the War Food Administration. It will raise the national seed supply and provide for increased domestic farm production to meet expanding war requirements for food and fiber. And it will provide seeds to help meet the needs of the Allies and of the liberated countries as they are freed from Axis control. Making as much seed as possible available to European farmers when that phase of the war ends, will aid them to rehabilitate their land so that they can grow more food and fiber for themselves, thereby lowering their requirements for farm commodities from the United States.

Belt this year will be Sudan grass seed. Some states, such as Illinois, Kansas, Montana, Iowa and the Dakotas, have so far had so little rainfall that grasses which help to hold the topsoil will be in unusual demand. Sudan also provides good grazing. Wells are reported dry in many states, with dust already blowing in Iowa and Kansas. Two million pounds of Sudan seed are already scheduled for import during 1944, and an increase in domestic production is being sought by WFA.

FLAGSTONE TERRACE

Question: I have a spot in my yard about 6 by 12 feet that I want to fix up as an outdoor sitting room with a flagstone floor. What should I put in first and how many inches should I dig out? I have the flagstones and want to know if I should put cinders in first, and then lay the flagstones on top with cement between.

Answer: Excavate to a depth of about 10 inches. Cinders (not ashes) are then placed in the excavation, rolled and tamped well to within 5 inches of the level that you have decided on. Over this place a 3-inch bed of concrete (1 part portland cement, 2 of sand and 3 of stone, the stones no larger than 1 inch). Use no more water than necessary to make a workable mixture. Follow at once with the setting mixture (3 parts sand and 1 part cement). As soon as the setting bed is leveled, sprinkle with dry portland cement and lay the stone in the prearranged pattern. The stone must be thoroughly wet when you set it. Point all joints with a mortar mix of 2 parts sand and 1 part cement. The surface must be kept damp for several days.

Water Cistern

Question: We have a cistern in the basement which does not hold water above the faucet level. During a recent storm the cistern was full to the top at night, but the water had disappeared to the faucet level by morning. We have had three different people re-cement the walls and floor of the cistern. During my absence my husband put a thin coat of cement on the outside, and it looks terrible—but I guess he meant well. Can you offer some suggestion?

Answer: It is possible that your difficulty lies with the faucet; the constant water level at this point seems to indicate it. If the faucet is not used, remove it and plug up the hole; however, if it is necessary, remove the old faucet and replace it with a drain valve.

Cottage Floor Is Cold

Question: We have a four room frame cottage, heated with oil stoves. But the floors are not warm enough, and we would like to know if there is some way we could remedy this? There is no basement, but even though it is entirely closed to the ground all around the cottage, it gets quite cold. We do not want to go into anything too expensive. What can you suggest?

Answer: If there is enough space under the house, place blanket insulation, the kind that comes with a waterproof covering, between the floor joists. Your local building material or lumber dealer should be able to supply you with this type of insulation. Should this be impossible to do, cover the floor with a carpeting; a rug cushion under it will add to the comfort.

Piano Keys

Question: The smooth, glossy finish on the ivory keys of my piano has become very rough. What can be done to restore the original finish?

Answer: The ivory has been worn down, and restoration of the keys to their original finish cannot be done at home. A piano repairman could replace the ivory covering. You can, however, improve the appearance of the keys with a coat of white enamel. Rough the surfaces by rubbing with fine sandpaper, then clean them by wiping with turpentine. For a first coat use an enamel undercoat or flat paint, and finish with a good quality white enamel.

Shingles or Siding

Question: Which would be the more practical to use on the exterior of our house, shingles or siding? Do the shingles make a tight finish, or will they become loose in time?

Answer: Both types of exterior wall covering are practical, and if properly applied wood shingles or siding should give you long service, when protected against the elements by paint or a wood preservative. The choice of one or the other is up to yourself. Inspect several houses covered with siding and shingles, and see which you like best.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Window screens, rust-proof and flexible, that will roll up like shades are among the rubber products promised for post-war service by B. F. Goodrich technicians.

In 1942, automobile graveyards wrecked 2,043,000 cars. It is estimated that 1,195,000 cars will have ceased their rubber-wearing activities in 1943 through the medium of the wrecker.

Don't forget the spare in retreating tires, for rubber not in service ages more rapidly than when in actual use.

Affect 16 Latin-American countries have soil and climatic conditions suitable for the growing of rubber.

Kidneys Must Work Well-
For You To Feel Well
24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination, sometimes worse than anything in a woman's life, may be due to kidney trouble. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.
Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the functioning of the kidneys and helps them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

Quick Pickup... Cookies and Milk
(See Recipes Below)

Fill the Cookie Jar

Sometimes I think the cookie jar is the favorite piece of equipment in the American home—especially in the kitchen. At least it's the most popular, and that's not just among the youngsters for many a time the oldesters make the path to the cookie jar just as often as the children.

If there are cookies in the house, then it's the kind of a house that spells "Welcome Home," for cookies are not just delightful to have, they often take the edge off hunger when it's most necessary—after school, or after a meal to give it the finishing touch.

Cookies aren't hard to make. They take less ingredients, and they go much further. Keep a list of favorites on hand that will keep the cookie jar filled, no matter how popular that jar is!

Save Used Fats!

Oatmeal and peanut butter have long been popular ingredients in cookies, but here they are together—guaranteed to be doubly popular: Oatmeal-Peanut Butter Cookies.

(Makes 4 dozen)

- 3/4 cup peanut butter
- 3 tablespoons shortening
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup granulated sugar
- 1/2 cup sifted all-purpose flour
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 cup water
- 1 1/4 cups oatmeal

Cream peanut butter and shortening; add sugars gradually, creaming entire mixture. Stir in sifted dry ingredients and water. Add the uncooked oatmeal. Chill dough. Roll dough thin on lightly floured board and cut with cookie cutter. Dough may also be rolled and chilled and sliced 1/4 inch thick. Bake on a greased baking sheet in moderate (350-degree) oven for 10 to 12 minutes.

If partitioned cookies are desired, frost with powdered sugar icing when baked and decorate with candied cherries and nuts.

Hermit Bars.

- 1/2 cup butter or substitute
- 1 cup brown sugar
- 2 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup milk or coffee
- 1 cup baking molasses or sorghum
- 4 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 2 teaspoons baking powder

Lynn Says

Make Cookies! It's fun to make cookies when you have the "know-it-all" right at hand. Make it easy for yourself by following these simple directions:

Start heating the oven before you actually make the cookies so all will be in readiness when you pop the sheets in the oven.

Assemble all the equipment needed. Assemble and measure the ingredients.
Prepare cookie sheets next. If cookies contain much fat, sheets need not be greased. Pans for bars should be buttered, lined with waxed paper, then buttered again.

Shortening creams best at room temperature. It should not be melted as this injures texture and flavor of cookie.

Eggs are usually well beaten before added to the shortening and sugar. If the quantity of eggs is small, they may be added directly to shortening and sugar.

SAUL BECOMES A NEW MAN

LESSON TEXT: Acts 9:1-9, 13-19
GOLDEN TEXT: If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature.—II Corinthians 5:17.

The lives of great men inspire us with an eagerness to make our own lives count for God and for country. Particularly is that true of the life of the apostle Paul, for he combined personal greatness with an absolute surrender and devotion to Christ, which made his life doubly effective.

We recall, however, that this peerless leader for Christ was at first the bitter enemy of everything Christian and we ask, "What changed this man?" The answer is—the redeeming grace of God—but that is the story of our lesson. He became a changed man as he went—

I. From Threatening to Trembling (vv. 1-7)

The enemies of God and of our Christ are often loudmouthed and terror-spreading individuals, who, for a time, strike fear into the hearts of men. Such was Saul of Tarsus, and such are the antichristian leaders of our day. They seem to be as powerful and able to sweep all before them.

But wait! Luther said of God's archenemy, "One little word shall fell him," and it is true. See what happened to Saul. Off on his journeys of persecution and destruction, bold and determined, he met Jesus on the Damascus road, and the great threatener is found to be "trembling and astonished" (v. 6).

The Lord is still on His throne, and one day every mouth shall be stopped (Rom. 3:19), and all His enemies shall tremble before Him. Would that they would do it while there is time to repent.

II. From Persecuting to Praying (vv. 8, 9; see also v. 11)

Paul utterly devoted to the rooting out of this hated sect of Christians was on his way with letters authorizing their imprisonment. It was all very official, zealous and marvelous in men's sight, until he met Jesus, and it all blew away.

Ananias, that faithful layman (may his tribe increase), was called of God to go and speak to the stricken Saul. When he feared to go, God encouraged him (v. 15), for the powerful persecutor had now become a penitent pray-er (v. 11). That's what a face to face meeting with Jesus did for Paul—yes, and will do for any man or woman.

III. From Scolding to Suffering (vv. 1, 13-16)

Saul doubtless gloried in the breathing out of threatenings and slaughter of which we read in verse 1. He was riding high in the seat of authority and of official approval. It was satisfying to his fleshly pride to make known his dreadful purposes of destruction and imprisonment for these helpless Christians.

Did we say helpless? Oh, no, they had on their side all the power of the Eternal One. He who touches the people of God touches the Lord Himself. Paul thought he was fighting a little sect of Christians, but found that he was fighting the Lord Himself (v. 5).

But now that he had met Jesus and was ready to turn in devotion to His sacred cause, he was to learn what it meant to suffer. Let us note well that suffering for the sake of one's faith may be entirely within the will of God, yes, and for His glory.

IV. From Spiritual Death to Spiritual Life (vv. 17-19)

Men have tried to explain the experience of conversion on the ground of psychology, as a cataclysmic change in the life of an individual who has gone through some great sorrow or trial, but it simply will not go down. There is in real conversion a regeneration which means a completely changed life.

Saul did have a sudden and moving experience on the Damascus road, but it was not just because of a blinding light and a mighty voice. It was a light "from heaven" (v. 4), and the voice of the Lord. Saul was "filled with the Holy Ghost," and received his sight. He was ready now to be used of the Lord as the greatest missionary evangelist and theologian that the world has ever known.

This change was one which reached down into his inmost being and transformed his beliefs. The Jesus he had hated, now became his all-consuming passion and love. He no longer looked to his works to save him, for now he knew the personal Saviour.

What happened within showed itself in his attitude toward those without. It always does. He now came to love the very people he had hated and persecuted, and turned every bit of his strength and ability into the task of working with them in the spreading of the gospel throughout the world.

Men and women—yes, boys and girls—today need this same change from death to life. Too long have we been trying to polish up the exterior of lives unchanged within

Crippled Children Easter Seals Appeal

Within the next week or ten days citizens of Lincoln County will receive letters of appeal from the New Mexico Society for Crippled Children containing a packet of Easter Seals. You will be asked to buy these seals. You purchase will enable the Society to carry on its sorely needed program of rehabilitation for crippled and handicapped children of New Mexico, a program which does not aim to duplicate the efforts of other agencies, but to supplement and include those children for whom funds from other agencies are not now available.

There is no more appealing picture than that of a crippled child deprived of the pleasures, enjoyment and opportunities to develop "like other kids". The humane hearts of Lincoln County citizens, through their purchases of Easter Seals, will make possible the restoration to health and happiness of many more of these little ones. So, when you receive your Seals, remember these children and send in your contribution. If you do not receive your seals write to Box 95, Carrizozo, or to 206 South Third St., Albuquerque, and ask for them.

Blessed are they whose prayers in deeds find wings,
 Whose hands in gifts of humble service bring,
 And in His lowly children serve their King.
 Blessed are they who hear the Master plead,
 In every cry or human woe or need;
 For in their hearts the Lord is risen indeed.

Bills Affecting Post-War
Agriculture In Congress

Surplus equipment, materials, and supplies for use in carrying out the work programs of soil conservation districts would be made available for this purpose at the end of the war under provisions of bills now before Congress. A. T. Pfingsten, chairman of the Board of Supervisors of the Upper Hondo Soil Conservation District, has been advised by Joe Wilkinson, chairman of the N. W. Mexico Soil Conservation Committee.

The bill which would provide this assistance to the post-war soil conservation program was introduced in the Senate by Carl A. Hatch of New Mexico and in the House by Representative W. R. Poage of Texas. This proposed legislation is the result of efforts of Gov. J. J. Dempsey of New Mexico, Wilkinson, and others interested in soil conservation and who desire to make conservative use of the vast quantities of surplus equipment, materials, and supplies at the end of the war.

New Mexico now has 42 soil conservation districts which have been organized under state law and which would be eligible to receive surplus equipment and other materials under provisions of this legislation, Mr. Pfingsten pointed out.

He said that, although it is too early to predict the end of the war and conditions which may exist at that time, it is safe to say that the nation will increase its soil conservation work and that this legislation will be a great step forward in providing for additional facilities which will be needed at that time.

Mr. Pfingsten pointed out that soil conservation work now is being carried on on by soil conservation districts in 45 states which have been organized under state laws, governed by local boards of supervisors elected by farmers in the district, and that the program of soil conservation is certainly resting upon a solid democratic foundation.

An army in the field fights on communications as well as on its stomach. Communications are the backbone of coordination.

Telephone service at home takes many kinds of facilities and as the needs of our fighting men continue to mount, these facilities are impossible to get.

Serious shortages are developing in many localities which prevent us from making installations promptly. We are doing our best to serve as many people as possible and regret any inconvenience that may arise if some installations are delayed. Our first obligation is to meet the needs of war, public health and safety.

Nazi Forces Retreat Toward Rumania As Russians Regain Rich Farm Lands; Allied Troops Drive New Wedge Into Germans' Main Defense Line in Italy

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Italy—Row on row, these little white crosses in Mount Soprano cemetery mark the graves of fallen American Doughboys in Italy.

OPA: Renewal Sought

Claiming that OPA has hollowed time price increases to half the level of World War I, Price Administrator Chester Bowles appeared before the Senate Banking Committee to testify for continuation of the agency for another year.

Cattle Subsidy

To bring cattle off the range and prevent a market glut in the fall, OPA considered increasing packers' subsidies by 30 cents to enable them to offer higher prices for the stock during spring and summer.

At the same time, government officials considered placing a floor under medium and lower grade cattle whose quality may be affected by the tight feed situation, with floors for the spring and summer above those for the fall.

SOLDIER VOTE: President Gets Bill

Passed by congress, the compromise soldier vote bill, allowing use of the short federal ballot if certified by the governor and state ballots are unobtainable, found its way to President Roosevelt's desk for signature or veto.

Once outspoken in his opposition to a bill limiting soldier voting to state ballots alone, the President took up the compromise measure with caution before acting, wiring all 48 governors to report to him whether they would permit use of the short federal ballot, which only lists the presidential and congressional offices without including the names of the candidates.

RUSSIA:

Free Ukraine

Germany's remaining foothold in the Ukraine was loosened as Russian troops smashed into Nazi lines along the Bug river, and as the enemy's forces fell back toward Rumania, the Reds regained the rich farm and mineral land.

EUROPE: Drive Wedge in Italy

Having driven a wedge into the German's main defense line by leveling Cassino with a devastating aerial attack by heavy bombers, Allied forces fought hard to advance up the road to Rome and get at the rear of the enemy clinging to U.S. and British troops on the Anzio beachhead.

Although the Germans' leveling of Cassino left that once fortified village standing directly on the road to Rome a pile of jumbled masonry, Nazi guns established in the surrounding hills continued to rake Allied troops, making progress slow.

PACIFIC: Troubled War-Lords

As U.S. army and naval forces kept up a running fire over the entire Pacific area, Japan's jumpy little war-lords had this to worry about.

Continued Allied bombings of Weewah, New Guinea, and Rabaul, New Britain, freder bases for Jap troops in those regions.

U.S. control of the Admiralty Islands lying along the supply route to Rabaul.

General MacArthur's increasing isolation of the 33,000 Jap troops hemmed in on Bougainville Island in the Solomons, with the U.S. fleet and air force in control to prevent major reinforcement or general withdrawal.

Navy and army bombers continuing attacks on the Jap fleet's big outpost of Truk, guarding the entrance into the waters of the enemy's South Pacific empire.

DRAFT: Tighten Deferments

In order to meet the services' demands for 1,160,000 men by July to bring military strength to 11,300,000, local draft boards have been directed to tighten up on all deferments, particularly for those in the 18-25 age group.

Under the new directives issued by Selective Service Chief Lewis B. Hershey, only indispensable employees, regardless of family status, are to be deferred, and only the state draft head or national headquarters is to pass on any deferments for the 18 to 25 year age group.

Only farm workers producing 18 units will be eligible for deferment, and careful consideration will be given to the cases of 470,000 farm workers under 26.

While Selective Service pressed for more men, General Hershey said few of the 3,485,000 4E's he found acceptable for military service. Only about 11 per cent of those with dependents, including fathers, have been taken thus far, he said, and only about 1 in 10 will pass physicals.

IRELAND: Faces Isolation

Traditionally strained, Ireland's relations with Great Britain have again tensed, this time over London's threat to completely isolate the Emerald Isle from the outside world if German and Japanese officials are permitted to remain in Dublin and carry on alleged espionage activities detrimental to Allied invasion forces massed in the United Kingdom.

Anxious to maintain its neutrality, one reason being given that its cities were open to destructive bombings, Ireland replied that it could not banish Axis diplomats without inviting war, and insisted that it had clamped down on any suspicious enemy activity.

As the U.S. refused to sell Ireland ships for carrying needed imports and Britain closed all travel between the two countries, Eire grimly awaited events, its economy already hard hit by unemployment caused by a scarcity of imported raw materials.

COLD STORAGE: More Meat, Produce

With cooler space 73 per cent occupied and freezer capacity 92 per cent filled, U.S. storage holdings as of March 1 were at record levels, with only apples at a low mark.

Beef stocks aggregated 270,300,000 pounds; pork, 792,700,000 pounds; trimmings, 151,300,000 pounds; lard and rendered pork fat, 354,300,000, of which War Food administration held 210,200,000.

Frozen fruit stocks were 23 per cent over those of a year ago, frozen vegetables 107 per cent, creamery butter 792 per cent, cheese 85 per cent, frozen eggs 75 per cent, and poultry 117 per cent.

Knitting Vet

Ninety-two-year-old Mrs. Christine Lorenzen of Clinton, Iowa, is an old hand at knitting for the boys, having first made mittens for Civil War soldiers, and other apparel for vets of the Spanish-American and World War I conflicts. Now, Mrs. Lorenzen knits for the Red Cross for World War II's heroes.

Declaring that Americans are suffering little deprivations compared with Civil War days, Mrs. Lorenzen said: "We had no coffee at all, and, sometimes, little to eat but corn bread."

WAGES: Control Attacked

Labor's efforts to revise the War Labor board's stabilization formula limiting wage increases to 15 per cent over January, 1941, were thwarted by the public's and industry's representatives on the board, who advised holding off consideration until congress goes over the whole question of price control.

In an effort to revise the stabilization formula, labor asked that the President be requested to modify the wage ceiling to reflect actual living costs, and the War Labor board hold public hearings to bring out facts which might justify higher pay. Steelworkers pressed for public hearings on their demands for a 17-cents-an-hour raise.

MONEY SYSTEM: Shaped for World

Long in consideration, the United Nations' plan for an international money system after the war is taking shape, with gold to play an important part as a result of Russia's support.

Based on a plan drawn by the U.S. treasury's monetary expert, Harry D. White, the new money system would require each country to contribute a certain percentage of gold to its own currency to a stabilization fund, which would then operate to prevent any nation's exchange from rising or falling.

White's plan differs from Britain's, which considered having each nation contribute to an international stabilization fund on the basis of its prewar trade, thus tending to favor countries which had heavy foreign commerce.

With a comparatively small prewar trade, Russia found the U.S. plan more acceptable, thus swinging the balance in its favor.

POPULATION

At the present rate of increase, the Russian population will number about 250,000,000 people by 1970, or 25 million more than there will be in all northwestern and central Europe, according to a survey by a League of Nations committee. The 1939 census of the Soviet Republics gave a total of about 170 millions. Current estimates place the figure at 180 millions.

The survey stated that the population of Europe as a whole is now declining.

GOP Leader Places Faith In Simple Election Formula

Harrison Spangler, Party Chairman, Sees Republican Victory as Result of Complete Effective Local Organization.

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

On a recent sunshiny Washington afternoon, I made a pilgrimage to the Republican National committee headquarters. As I entered the white-pillared portal of the modest little house they have rented on Connecticut avenue, a number of thoughts, which may be omens of good or ill in the coming election, floated into my ken.

The house was once a private home but now it is situated amidst shops and restaurants and looks across the avenue toward a towering apartment house taken over by the Civilian Defense administration.

As I ascended the stairway to the second floor office of Chairman Harrison Spangler, memories rushed about me and I was transported back to the days when the Republican party was suffering in the slough of its deepest despair. The rooms about me then housed one of the many trade organizations created by that wonderful and awful National Recovery administration presided over by the late and stormy General Iron Pants Johnson.

And later, as I chatted with Mr. Spangler, I was reminded of another circumstance, gently symbolic of the days when the elephant sulked, impotent and neglected, in his tent—the Republican committee was forced to move some two years ago from its snapper, modern quarters on Lafayette Square where it could gaze longingly at the White House on the right hand, and not too hopefully at the United States Chamber of Commerce on the other.

Tempora mutantur. But if the times and the quarters have changed, so have Republican spirits. "Roosevelt won't carry two states (or was it five?)" I was confidently informed by one of the modest laborers in the GOP vineyard.

Harrison Spangler made no tall predictions to me. He made no predictions at all. He simply told me about what he is doing, the results so far obtained. He has a simple faith that results already achieved are the precursors of victory.

Well-Used Word

Spangler's forte is organization, and that's the word he uses most. "The precinct is the squad," he said. "If you have good squads, you have a good regiment."

He has reduced the training of the squad to a very simple formula. Get one energetic worker and assign him or her 20 Republican voters. See that they vote. Mark Hanna used that system. It works. Iowa (Spangler's own state) uses it. Many others do.

The important word in the last sentence is "do." Important because Spangler used it in the present tense. In the days of the Blue Eagle, and for many years thereafter, any statement about an effective Republican political organization had to be used in the past tense. But tempora mutantur, again. Spangler believes that times have changed and have been changing for some time.

Chairman Spangler is not starting at scratch with his organizing; 23 states which have elected Republican governors, he pointed out to me, already have pretty good machines which are working now.

The chairman is a typical, successful businessman of a middle-sized town (Cedar Rapids, Iowa) in the Middle West. His speech and his speeches are pretty much basic English except when he "rises to pronounce" on party principles. Then he uses good old substantial political phrases marshaled in the conventional manner. But like all pre-convention committee chairmen, his job is to keep the over-specific. He can talk about candidates, but not a candidate, pro or con; he can talk about platforms but not about planks.

He is, according to his associates, a man of action. Already he has visited all of the northern states and that is what he is still doing, dividing his time between the field and the Washington office. He likes

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

PENNIES: Since the copper situation has improved considerably, the War Production board has decided to permit addition of enough of the red metal to pennies to restore the old copper-zinc ratio of 95 parts copper to 5 parts zinc. Production rate currently is at 150 million one-cent pieces per month. It is expected that the annual output will exceed a billion steel pennies.

FOOD PROCESSORS: There will be a need for at least 700,000 seasonal workers in canneries and other food processing plants this year, Paul McNutt, manpower commissioner, says. This is 100,000 more than were needed last year. Students, women, and part-time workers will be the only source, he believes, though prisoners of war and soldiers on leave can be called upon.

BRIEFS . . . by Baukhage

A campaign to fill 100,000 present and impending job vacancies on the railroads will be conducted by a newly established railroad manpower mobilization committee representing the united efforts of the government and railroad labor and management.

Indian BEEF

by HAROLD CHANNING WIRE

W.N.U. RELEASE

LEW BURNET is trail boss of the Cross T herd which is being driven from Texas to the Indian agent at Ogallala. The year is 1875. TOM ARNOLD, owner, is killed in a stampede. His will names Lew boss and owner until the cattle are sold, when STEVE and JOY ARNOLD will receive their shares. After overcoming difficulties and hardships, they enter Indian territory. Lew releases a demand by a party of Cheyennes for 600 cattle. CLAY MANNING, foreman and Range of JOY, wants to abandon the herd, but Lew insists on fighting. He sends a man back to Don's store to bring out the soldiers. The next afternoon the Cheyennes appear. Lew and his men prepare to shoot it out.

CHAPTER XIV

Lew nodded, turned and swept a circling gaze around the flat land. But this one party was all. And then a grunt from the old man jerked his eyes around. He half rose in his stirrups, held there suddenly rigid by the horrible beauty of that charge.

It came like a tossing wave with every horse thrown forward in the same instant. The Cheyennes rode flat, their black heads hardly above their animals' manes. A drumming on the earth ran ahead of them, nothing more. They didn't yell, and it was that unexpected deadly silence that made his blood run cold.

Even with Quarternight's calm voice warning him, "Take it easy," he dropped in his saddle and swung up the long barrel of his gun. He knew what Quarternight was counting on. This was the moment of the Indians' greatest advantage. Why they must strike with this fierce strength, then always stop and boast before they fought, he didn't know. But this one time maybe they wouldn't. The wave was sweeping on within three hundred yards. He lined his rifle sights, and then his eyes caught no signal. Every man was suddenly upright, with the horses thrown back on their hindquarters, rearing and plunging to a halt. Their arms flew up. Rifles that had been hidden beneath the naked bodies glinted in the sun.

They sat in an unbroken line, motionless, until one rider started out at a wall from the others. Off two hundred yards he stopped and crooked his arm and shouted something. He had only a strip of blanket cloth around his waist and between his legs.

Lew yelled across to him, "No savvy!" The Cheyenne yelled back something that sounded bad. He wasn't Crazy Bear.

Quarternight raised his rifle. "Boy," he said, "first lick's half the battle. Might as well show him what we've got." He squeezed the trigger once. The horse wheeled and stumbled, bolting back into the line. The old man's whickers parted in a wicked grin. "There now. Watch out, they'll make a run!"

They were yelling now, high and gobbling like a flock of turkeys. Suddenly, their horses pivoted and they were lying flat again, racing in a circle around his herd.

He slapped his buckskin with his heels, riding with both hands free. The men strung out from him needed no order; there were old Indian fighters in this crew. Swinging off from the cattle, they rode their own smaller circle, abreast of the Cheyennes' running line. But he had to yell at young Jim Hope to make him stay with the horse herd. He saw Clay start from Joy's wagon, turn and go back.

Little black puffs of smoke began to rise and drift above the Indians, wild shooting, at too long a range for their old-fashioned guns. He kept an eye on Quarternight just ahead.

They were half around the herd when the old man threw up his arm. "Hold in, boys! Here they come!" He let out his rebel yell.

Lew swung his buckskin with his knee and halted, facing out. Some instinct cut of Quarternight's Apache days had let him time the moment of a charge. For the Cheyennes had pivoted again. They came on in a solid running front.

The blast of Springfield-Allins was like the rattle of beans in a gourd. Beyond his own sights he saw a gap break wide open. It was a withering fire. Horses went down. He saw the way the Cheyennes plunged with them, unable to kick free of the rawhide loops that held their legs. He felt cool and a little sick.

The charge broke and scattered. He called, "That's enough," and admired the stolid courage that brought some of the red men back to pick up the wounded. Then off at a distance out of range the ragged line continued its circle. But that blast had taught them something. At three quarters around the herd they pulled in and bunched up close together. He could see their arms making signs and hear the gobble-talk.

He fed a handful of shells into the side of his rifle and said to Quarternight, "That'll make 'em powwow some. All we need is time."

It was past noon. Any moment ought to bring Joe Wheat and the cavalry up over the edge of the plain. With his gun filled he took a long look off southeast beyond the bunched Cheyennes, and thought once there was something but couldn't be sure.

The Cheyennes abruptly stopped their gabble. It left a strange dead hush. He saw their horses move a little. All their painted faces turned. Clay Manning's yell was like a shot.

He jerked around and saw Clay near the wagons and heard him shout again. North beyond the long-horns a lone mounted Indian had risen from the ground. A blanket whirled above his head. He was alone for an instant. Then the earth seemed to open behind him, pouring up horses and brown men.

Things have a way of happening, swift in the action yet tormentingly slow to the quick flashing of a man's mind. Lew felt himself move. But it was like those dreams in which he struggled against an unseen force that held him back. He saw forty or fifty Cheyennes pour up and strike toward the herd at its farther rim. They were after cattle.

Quarternight yelled, "Let 'em go! Watch here!"

From the south a bunched run was coming on again. He pivoted back and steadied his horse and emptied the magazine of his rifle. Once more those ranks broke.

Off across the herd the Indians had struck in a flying wedge. Their terrific impact sent a wave of motion through the massed pool. It rolled backward as the long-horns turned and rammed at those behind them, and even before that struggle reached the edge near the horses and wagons he knew what it would do. He grabbed his reins left-handed and threw his buckskin forward. Less than fifty yards separated him. He could see Joy's white face and Clay Manning fixed

He could see their arms making signs and hear the gobble talk.

In his saddle close to her wagon seat. These things he saw while his horse was running toward them and yet seemed to be standing still.

He yelled at Clay. The waves of fighting longhorns had struck their terror into the horse herd. He saw Jim Hope and Moonlight Bailey fail to hold them. Owl-Head Jackson's four-mule team plunged and reared against his tightened reins. But it was Joy's team that he aimed for in this flash of time.

There was that instant when Clay Manning could have saved her, as the mules bolted, tearing the reins from her grip. He could have grabbed their bridles or caught the girl from the seat. Instead he tried to turn the horses, saw his mistake too late. Their running flood hit him and carried him on.

With Clay gone there was no one near the girl. Her mules were kicking as they ran. His own buckskin was snapping like a dog at the horses and cattle that blocked his way. He clubbed the bony skulls of longhorns with his rifle. A lane parted. He was half across before it closed again. Their horns were lances stabbing at his legs. He kicked at them and tramped them down and in that struggle could no longer watch the wagon.

He was almost through when he saw it and the half a dozen Cheyennes who had raced back on that side of the herd to cut it off. They swept around it, running. The next moment they vanished completely from the earth.

A last stubborn chain of long-horns blocked him. As he broke free he heard Quarternight's rebel yell. He looked back. The two war parties had joined, scattering west behind a bunch of split-off cattle. To the south was a moving spot of blue.

The wagon's white top was ahead of him then, down in a hidden channel of some ancient stream bed that twisted away to the east. The mules had halted, tangled in their harness. The seat was empty. A trampled swath of footprints led back toward the Wichita range.

His first minutes' run down the channel's looping course was blind and unreasoning, thinking only he'd catch them around the next bend. One of their mounts had the extra burden of carrying Joy. It would slow their pace.

He quirted his tiring buckskin for better than a mile and the swath of trampled grass ran on vacantly ahead. He gave in then to his knowledge of their swifter ponies. His own had already given its best.

To crosscut between one bend and another he swung up the channel bank. He looked south and suddenly pulled his horse in and rode in short, fast circles. At the same time he drew his forty-four and shot it into the air. The far-off spot of blue was plain now—Joe Wheat bringing the cavalry troop. Yet at more than two miles they couldn't hear his gun and gave no sign of recognizing his riding signal. They kept on toward the stalled herd.

Back there, equally two miles away, he could see the little darting figures of men spreading out to catch the horses. While almost out of sight beyond them the split-off bunch of cattle were vanishing to the west.

The channel wandered back and forth, the banks gently sloping, its bottom smooth and green. The short cuts let him gain a lot. They'd keep under cover themselves, following down the crooked way. He watched backward, hoping any moment that some of the outfit would show up. But they might be trailing directly along the Indians' trail. Each time he plunged into the winding course there was only the empty trampled grass. Those devils could move!

His run brought the black Wichita looming up into the fog that had held low overhead all day. Light around him began to fade. The channel straightened. He saw water of North Fork Creek beyond the narrow mouth.

He loped on for half a mile and the hunch that had pulled him this far became like a magnet losing its force. The wash lay empty on ahead. A sense of every moment taking her farther from him with those brown devils made his skin crawl. No use going on this way any more. He pulled to a stop and sat listening. Any sound from the canyon mouths would carry far in the still air. Not even a blue jay's warning chatter broke the Wichita's dead hush. His heart went cold. He was turning to head back down the stream when there came a coyote's quavering bark.

It held him rigid. Too early in the evening for those animals to be on the prowl. He pulled his rifle from its scabbard and saw his buckskin's little black-tipped ears swing and point. There was danger here. But he could locate nothing up where they directed. Slowly he moved the horse again.

"Hold on, son!" Old Willy Nickle stepped from the willow fringe.

"Willy!" he said and rode toward him. "You old coon!"

"Been coon' you," said Willy. That was all just then. He turned his gentle changeless face and stared off blankly. But he might be learning things; you never could tell. Lew waited, keeping down his sudden impatience.

"Well," he said in a moment and brought his eyes around. "There's the Indians knocking about here, so there is. Cheyennes. They give you a fight? Seems like I was watching from the hills, but was too much fog."

"We held them off," he said. And then it burst from him: "They got the girl!"

Unconcerned, old Willy said, "So they did."

"You saw them?" He moved his horse. "Which way?"

Willy stood there calmly looking up. "Now you hold on. Don't you never go trailing Indians up too close. It was Crazy Bear had her on his pony. Him and six of his bucks. They're in the hills by now and they'll be watching back. No, you give an Indian time to think he's safe."

"Time!" he said. "With the girl?"

"They'll wait for that," said Willy. "Take a white man now and he'd risk his hide to stop. But Crazy Bear, he'll want to parade her in camp first and maybe get some buck to fight him for her. Seems like an Indian has always got to mix it up with fighting. Well, this nigger don't know why." He looked north up the creek, nodding.

"You ride on now, easy." He stepped back and was gone.

This was no time to doubt old Willy Nickle. Yet it wasn't the way he'd get on the hunt himself. He'd find the trail and ride it. But he knew that Willy was half Indian in most things by now, wise to all their tricks and able to understand the language of any plains tribe.

In a little while a canyon stream came down to join North Fork. He was standing on its bank. "They turned up here," he said and pointed. "See, they're leaving sign." "Means they don't think they're followed. That's a heap careless for Cheyennes. Must be likker in 'em yet. . . Well, it's plain where they're headed."

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

THERE are many ways to go off the deep end in Hollywood, and our town overlooks none of them. I've suspected that plush sanctuaries of the cinema magnates must all be lined with soft, yielding pads as standard equipment, with a bunch of straitjackets in assorted sizes lying ready in the corner.

The surest route of all to blithering madness is becoming identified in a big way with one of those incredible extravaganzas called a Hollywood musical.

A musical show in the movies comes off the silver screen to you as a smooth, perfectly timed, fast-moving entertainment. The master magicians of the film lots make it look easy. That's the greatest illusion Hollywood achieves. A musical is born in labor—of blood, sweat, and tears—delivered amid anguish, perfected with gnashings of teeth, and back fence bickering among the overlords.

It's well known that Broadway musicals in their gestation period produce many acute cases of the heebie-jeebies, then sometimes flop. The Hollywood prototype is a hundred times worse. It never flops, because the pattern has become standard and is now fool-proofed.

An Idea With Big Results

When Buddy De Sylva gets an idea twirling in his brain, something pretty special happens. This time it will be a remake of "The Virginian;" in which Gary Cooper made his big hit. It will be in technicolor, with Jim Brown and Gall Russell (who were together in "Our Hearts Were Young and Gay") doing the leads. The story is being modernized by Albert and Frances Hackett; and Paul Jones, who does the "road" pictures, will produce. Plans are to make this a super-duper. Incidentally, David Selznick is so interested in Jim Brown that he'd like to buy part of his contract, but Paramount's not selling.

And Frances Howled
On April 23 the Sam Goldwyns will celebrate their 13th wedding anniversary. Besides being mighty proud of it, Frances is happy that in all those years she has changed coats only three times. That's no mean achievement, when you consider that they serve mighty tasty food. Once, Frances remembers, she was late picking Sam up at the studio. He was out on the street tapping his foot on the sidewalk. When she asked whether a former girl friend (name deleted) had always been on time, Sam replied, "Heck, no! That's why she's not here and you are!" R.K.O. bought eight Zane Grey stories.

They'll do 'em all. They include "The Lost Man," "Sunset Pass," "Wild Horse Mesa," and "West of the Pecos." They'll be triple-A westerns.

Setting Things Straight
So many persons have claimed they inspired "Coming In on a Wing and a Prayer" that I asked Jimmy McHugh about it. He said, "I got the idea from listening to Bill Stern on the radio. He was talking about this pilot who came in with three engines gone, and a prayer. And it was through that that I got the idea." Jimmy's a fabulous character.

Anne Baxter's stock is rising. She'll play the lead opposite Fred MacMurray in "Life of Rickenbacker."

If Greta'll but Listen
Harry Edington and Greta Garbo are huddling again. Harry may take her under his wing once more. It was his guidance at the start of her career that got her off on the right foot. If she listens, he can do it again. . . John Phillip of Elkhart, Ind., has been in pictures for years, but goes home at least once a year. He never really got a good part until Arnold Pressburger gave him one in "It Happened Tomorrow." His friends in Elkhart wouldn't believe he'd got a good part, so he wired Pressburger, who sent the film on to him in his own home town, where he gave his friends the first peek at it.

What a Woman!
Mona Gardner, here writing Greer Garson's life story, is so busy doing the lives of others she almost forgot her own, until I asked how she started writing. It's a fabulous tale, and will make a howling comedy, with war as the background. Talk about a writer—she only began in 1939. She has more personality than most picture stars. And what she doesn't know about the diplomatic service! She was married to a member of our embassy in Tokyo.

Temperature of Theater Goes Up With Excitement

The emotional excitement of a hair-raising Wild West show or a tense love scene has been known to raise the temperature of a theater from 8 to 10 degrees. Temperature rises similarly in auditoriums while following a heated debate, an eloquent speech, or a stirring song. Eyesight of patrons is also believed to be improved when the film is accompanied by the stimulation of music.

Good Bye to Charlie

No matter what the final court result of the Chaplin trials may be, it is plain enough that the day of the great-film comedian is over so far as the entertaining field is concerned.

The regular producers will have none of him, and it is very doubtful whether the public would patronize offerings made at his own expense. There is a limit beyond which neither actors nor individuals may go. Nor does it matter that there may be an element of gold-digging in the matter. It is plain enough that such moral codes as we have were flouted, and also that Chaplin is going the way of "Fatty" Arbuckle.

That there are few voices raised in his behalf indicates plainly that the American people are disgusted with him. —Roswell Dispatch.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

I was just tellin' my brother Fred this morning, Judge...there's never been a time in our lives when we got to live up to that old sayin' "United we stand, divided we fall" more than we have to today."

"How true that is, Herb. And for the life of me, I can't figure out why, at a time like this, some folks insist on raising a question like prohibition. I can't imagine anything that would tickle our enemies more than to get us folks over here taking sides against each other, arguing about an issue like that. We've got a he-man's job on our hands to win this war and we can't be wasting our minds, our money and our strength fighting about something we tried for nearly 14 years and found couldn't work."

"I say there's a time and a place for everything, and this is no time or place to be doing any fightin' except the kind that's going to win the war."
