PERSONALS

Mrs. Grace Comrey of Nogal was a shopper in town Monday.

Bowen Zumwalt of Nogal and Randall Greer of Capitan were here Monday.

Colonel Jones and Jess Garrison spent Sunday fishing near San Antonio, N. M.

The Ryberg brothers, Carl and Harry were here on business Monday.

Mrs. Lulu Lewis and son Rex of their ranch at the head of the Malpais were here Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bonnell of San Patricio were here on business and made this office a friendly call yesterday.

Clyde Brawster, S P operator of Thrax Rivers, spent the first of the week here visiting Mrs. Brawster and his family.

H. M. Reddy and Earl Truax of Palo Verde were here on business Wednesday. Mr. Reddy is erecting a new residence at Palo Verde.

Colonel L. P. Bloodworth, a member of the Ruidoso Lion Club recently broke a leg at his home in Budeco. He is under treatment in a Denver hospital.

Bert Holland, popular S P Engineer was here the first of the week. He has been laid up for two weeks on account of illness from which he has recovered.

Chester Foust of Chicago was a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Tom James last week. He left for home on receipt of a wire stating his mother had passed on.

O. M. Harvey departed last Sunday evening for Albuquerque where he will enter the government veterans hospital for treatment. He was an overseas soldier in World War I.

Will T. Coe, Representative to the State Legislature, Mrs. Coe and baby daughter Bebe Carroll, came in yesterday from Santa Fe, where Mr. Coe has been attending the state legislature, the session having closed Wednesday. Will said that there was some good legislation enacted at the session, among which was one whereby Lincoln County can now have a hospital under certain conditions.

L. L. Simpson, President of the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce was a caller at this office Wednesday and placed an ad with us for a special attraction which that live-wire organization will show on Feb. 20, "Union Pacific." This picture will be shown at the Pueblo Theatre in technicolor and ranks high among the leading film productions of the present day. See the ad on page 8.

In the Service

Pvt. Leland Barnes Liberated

There was rejoicing by the parents of Pvt. Leland Barnes of Carrizozo that he had been liberated from a Jap prison by the forces of Gen. MacArthur, Vival.

Mrs. Pearl Sommersett's brother is in the service overseas. She is from Capitan.

Sgt. Lee I. Carl, is in France, according to a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Carl, received last week.

Boyd Loughray, electrician's mate 2-c, was last heard from by his parents at Gallup, Miss., where he was released from the Navy hospital at that place. He is possibly overseas at the present time.

Chas. H. Carl, Machinist mate of the Navy, is somewhere in the south Pacific.

Mrs. Dessie Landrum of Greeley, Colo., spent a few days here with her brother Homer McDaniel and family. Mrs. Landrum will be remembered as the former Miss Dessie McDaniel. Her husband is MM 2-c on a battleship in the Pacific, in the service since 1943.

Cpl. Manuel Padilla, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy Padilla, is seeing action somewhere in France.

Seaman Maurice Spear of Claunch is home to stay. The Spears also have a son in the Navy.

Pfc Lawrence Peebles desires his Outlook sent to an army camp near Santa Monica, Calif.

Trinity Methodist Church

In 1920 the idea of World Day of Prayer was accepted by the women of Great Britain, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South America. The day set apart for this great Prayer Day was to be the first Friday of the Lenten Season. This year Friday 16th day of February and at 7:30 in the evening at the Methodist Church we will observe the day and conduct the prayer service.

Everyone is invited to these services, and especially parents who have boys in the armed service. Fifty one different countries are using this worship service. Rev. John J. Loudin.

Joe Wigley, manager of the Capitan lighting system and Chief of the Capitan Fire Department was here yesterday and from him we learned that the Fire Department will give its sixth annual dance Feb. 17 at the old 8th grade gym. The firemen are the best of entertainers and all who attend will be assured of a good time.

As the Years Roll Around so Does the Proverbial Worm Turn

It was in the summer of 1900 that the Iowa State Federation of Labor was organized at Burlington, at which organization the writer was elected as its secretary. Small and weak as it was at that time, it is now as strong as that of any other of the middle western states. At that time and for years thereafter, the labor organizations were bitterly opposed to a standing army of any kind, profiting by past experiences, where the military was used to protect the big corporations which hired large numbers of men in the labor line.

At that time, there were very little, if any representatives, in congress who would come to the assistance of strikers and having no help of any kind against the powerful combinations, the strikers would finally lose out. So strong was the sentiment in labor circles against a standing army that parents among union men refused to allow their sons to become members of the State Guard, holding the opinion that the state guard was for no other purpose than to shoot down men when on strike and to a certain degree, it was the truth.

Wages were low and living conditions were far from the best. Laws for the benefit of the masses few and far between. Street cars had no vestibules to protect conductors and motor-men from the extremes of cold weather which prevailed in most of the middle, western and northern states. There were no safety appliances on the railroads and as a result, many railroad men suffered the loss of limbs and death from accidents, were frequent, in spite of the appeals to congress which went to the waste baskets. Why was all this, you may ask? We answer that there were two things mainly to blame; first it was on account of labor not being organized. Second, on that account, labor had not the power it has at the present time.

Labor representatives lobbied around the cloak rooms in the legislative halls until safety appliances were put on the railroads and street cars; guard railings were put around machinery in shops to prevent accidents, all done against the protests from the railroads, street cars and corporations in general. That benefit being derived through the strengthening power of the labor organizations they kept up the work until today we see what is the result. The slave apprentice system, child labor, sweat shops and kindred evils, have gone, let up hope, never to return.

Now, after all these years, the worm has turned. Where congress heeded not the appeals from labor, the legislators now invite the suggestions of labor and make it part of their work and effort to please the organization, where in times past, all or most of them made laws for everything except labor. What has caused the worm to turn? The answer to that is, labor now has the power to demand legislation and gets it.

Jim Greer, a guard at the Nazi prison camp in Fort Stanton, visited Mrs. Greer and his family yesterday.

Miss Thelma White of the White and Murphy ranch at White Oaks was a shopper in town Tuesday.

Keep on Growing in '45!

The war is not yet won on the food front! There is real need that men, women and children all over the country again take up the rake and hoe to help produce the nation's vegetable supply. Uncle Sam is asking for 20,000,000 better gardens this coming season.

How to improve on last year's results? Careful preparation of the soil comes first. Every time a garden plot is properly spaded or plowed to the right depth, and the top soil raked fine and loose, the general condition is made more favorable for plant growth. A too-stiff soil can be made more workable by the addition of sand or peat moss. A complete fertilizer in the proper quantity, no matter what the kind of soil, will replace in your garden the plant food used by last year's crops.

You can plan a better balanced garden than ever before. If the family is tired of "beans, beans, beans!" cut down the number of rows; plant more of some vegetable they can't get enough of. If, last year, all the radishes were ready for the table at the same time so that many of them grew old and pithy before they could be eaten, try sowing a short row at a time, with a week between plantings. Do the same with beets and carrots, greens and sweet corn. By a little preliminary planning, you can become a nepper hand at progressive gardening.

Lewis Burke

This, Amigos Mios, is the West Where men are men (and women are glad of it)

On Groundhog Day we heard our first Mexican song-sparrow. Reminds us of the quotation: "If winter comes, can spring be far behind?"

This groundhog business makes me tired, quoting an Old-Timer. Everbody knows the coming two or three months will be the most disagreeable of the season — the wind meets it's self going back (and you can quote me on that.)

"Madame," shouted the prosecutor, trying to prove a vital point. "While you were taking your dog for a walk, did you stop any place?"

"Sir," she said quietly, "did you ever take a dog for a walk?"

Jeff Herron, can you top this?

His juicy dog stories appear frequently in this column.

Mr. Herron, by the way, is in Philadelphia.

Arthur Perry in "Ye Smudge Pot" column of the Medford (Ore.) Tribune said it — The Duchess of Windsor is at the bottom of the list of the world's best-dressed women. She is down to her last 500 gowns, and a truckload of neck-wrinkle eradicators.

Quoting Quentin Reynolds — I'd like to live over again one day of my life: It was in 1918, we think we heard him say over the radio, Hitler was just coming into power in Germany. I was on an assignment as European correspondent — Hitler was right beside me. We didn't get the rest of the broadcast due to a-t-a-t-c, but we presume Mr. Reynolds thought it would have just been too bad for Adolph.

Yes, before we forget it — Quentin Reynolds was a guest at the Kudner ranch eight miles east of here before the war. Actor Spencer Tracy was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. James, supervisor of the Kudner ranch, while deer hunting last November.

Benton W. McGinness contributes this — Three discharged soldiers applied at the Federal employment bureau for work. The first, a paperhanger, was told there were no vacancies; the second, a floorwaxer, got the same report, as did the third, an electrician. They turned away disgustedly and the first mumbled: "Well, I'm a dirty scoundrel!" "My goodness," said the Receptionist, why didn't you say so in the first place? Fill out this card and go right down to the O. P. A!"

Deputy Collector to be in Carrizozo

A deputy Collector of Internal Revenue will be in Carrizozo, New Mexico on March 1, 2 and 3, 1945 for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in the filing of 1944 Income Tax Returns and 1945 Declarations of Estimated Tax where due. Filing deadline is March 15, 1945. The deputy collector will work in the Lincoln County Courthouse from 8 to 5 p. m. each day of his stay in Carrizozo. No charge will be made for the assistance furnished.

In order for the deputy to render maximum assistance to taxpayers it is necessary that taxpayers desiring assistance bring wage receipt Form W-2, and any other information they may have regarding their 1944 Income and possible deductions.

Any taxpayer who had $500 or more of gross income during 1944 is required to file a return. Any taxpayer who had less than $500 income from which tax has been withheld (and has no other income) must file a return on Form 1040 in order to obtain a refund.

Funeral of Ray R. Sale

Was held Sunday afternoon at the Kelley Chapel with Rev. Loudin delivering the sermon, after which the remains were taken to the local cemetery and there interred by Carrizozo lodge No. 41, A. F. and A. M.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The funeral was largely attended; many out of members of the Masonic order were present.

More Flowers in the '45 Victory Garden

Grow bouquets as well as beans this coming season! Flowers can add plenty of pleasure and zest to the plainer duties of vegetable gardening. More beauty in gardens can definitely be classed as part of the "better gardens" program our government recommends for 1945.

Where space is limited, the simplest way is to devote a few rows to easy-to-grow flowers that can be used for cutting material. Or, a border of flowers can surround the entire garden or part of the garden to make the vegetable plot an attractive part of the home grounds. Surprisingly enough, when the vegetable rows are well laid out and cared for, they are as pleasing to look at as the flowers themselves.

Annual flowers grown in rows in the garden can be cared for in the same way as vegetables. Asters are suitable. Be sure to get seed of the wilt-resistant type. Bachelor buttons are always lovely for cutting. So are calendula and calliops and gailardia. Both nasturtium and salpiglossis are at their best in bowls or vases and are better adapted to growing in rows than in a flower border. African and French marigolds, Giant and Lilliput zinnias can be cultivated with a hoe the same as carrots or corn.

Medium and low growing flowers are usually best for bordering the vegetable plot. Petunias in rose, blue, and white are colorful and neat. Lilliput zinnias in a blend of bright hues will furnish a band of brilliance between garden and lawn. Harmony marigolds or one of the newer dwarf varieties with a wealth of bloom and compact habit will form a line of splendor around any vegetable plot. Dwarf bachelor button, Jubilee Gem, and ageratum are good blues to edge the brighter blossoms, and a white edger like Little Gem alyssum is always in good taste.

A fence around the vegetable plot often affords excellent opportunity for flowers. Morning glories, such as Heavenly Blue and Pearly Gates, twining on the fence, will form a soft background for other annuals in front. Cosmos or Pink Queen cleome are beautiful tall selections next to a fence. Giant zinnias and African marigolds, as well as many other medium-growing flowers, are of proper height for a second row. Dwarfs such as those already mentioned will add interest to the foreground.

One of the secrets of easy flower border culture is to leave plenty of space between plants to permit using the hoe during the flowers' early growth. Later, as the plants grow larger, filling in the gaps and smothering any weeds that might dare to start, little cultivation is likely to be needed.

CHAPTER XVII

The surprise was that another plane had now been found several miles from the bomber. It was supposed to be a fighter, being smaller, and it had burned upon crashing.

We found the reported prisoner, but he was dead. While being questioned he had tried to escape, had killed several Chinese, had wounded others, and in turn had been mortally wounded.

My first aerial engagement started a story in Delhi—I found out about it four months later. The story told there was to the effect that I had engaged an enemy bomber over China, and regardless of its escort of two Zeros, had shot it down.

Well, it was a laugh. But I'm fairly certain the one Zero didn't commit suicide—I'm prone to believe that some good, honest lead-poisoning from six fifty-caliber American machine guns had a lot to do with it.

Major Tex Hill was the Squadron commander of the outfit that I had come to live with at Hengyang. He was a blue-eyed Texan, lean and lanky, six-foot-two of fighting blood.

I'd seen Tex shoot down Japs in the sky, and I had followed on his wing to learn the tactics of the AVG. I knew that if there is any man I owe my life to during the months I fought in China, it is Maj. Tex Hill.

I can hear Tex now, after he had studied the plotting board that the interpreters were covering with little red flags showing the positions of the approaching Jap fighter ships.

Tex was the son of the Chaplain of the Texas Rangers. Before the AVG days he had been a Navy pilot flying off carrier decks, and in the Flying Tigers he had been second only to Bob Neal as the leading ace.

Tex was the most truthful man I ever met—even his subconscious thoughts were truthful. He used to tell me that one day after Madame Chiang Kai-shek had pinned a medal on him for shooting down some Japanese planes over Toungoo, she had asked him the next time he shot down one of those Japanese planes to please think of her and dedicate it to the people of China.

I imagine that most any man among us would have said "Yes" to the Madame, and the next time we shot down a Jap we would have told the great lady all about it.

Well now, you hold that picture of Tex Hill for a minute while I show him to you in another light.

One day over Hengyang, after we had broken the Japanese wave with our assault and support and there were some fifteen Zeros burning around among the pagodas of this Hunan capital, I saw an odd sight down below.

As the two fighters drew together in this breath-taking, head-on attack, I saw their tracers meeting and for a second I didn't know whether the ships ran together or both exploded in the air.

Things kept right on happening at Hengyang, for after all there are Japanese bases fanning out in many directions—East, North, Northeast, South, and Southeast.

Maj. "Tex" Hill, AVG and squadron C.O. and Col. Merliam C. Cooper.

sent their bombers to worry us from up there, and before we caught on how to do it, they made life miserable for us.

Just when the full moon in the clear sky would begin to light the ground like daylight, the telephone would start ringing, the Chinese interpreters would begin to stick the little flags into the map, and we'd know that the Jap was on the way.

Just about the time the head hit the pillow and the body felt a little comfortable the alert would go again. I'd hear the tinkle of a small dinner bell and the plaintive voice of one-of-the-houseboys—"Jin-bao, Jin-bao—please get up, master—Jin-bao."

General Chennault got us to pick the best and most experienced pilots for the night interception missions. We'd use two to four ships and place them at different altitudes over the field, and wait for the Jap in the light of the moon, with our lights out.

Alison was a superior airman, fighter pilot, and officer, and was the ideal combat leader. A Florida boy, he knew the Allison engine well enough to have designed it.

no Chinese in the city of Hengyang would ever forget the night.

We got our four ships into the air at staggered altitudes. We heard the radio reports from Richardson giving the latest positions of the Japs. Reported over Changsha, Then North of the field. Then all was silent while we waited.

Then I saw the five bombers, against the moon. They were at 13,000 feet. I know I swore because they were below me, and I could imagine the cursing of every one of the others who were at the wrong altitude, for we could not change altitude until the first attack.

The seconds dragged, and then we heard Johnny say, "Okay, I see 'em." And now we saw their exhausts, looking like ten bushel-baskets of blue fire.

Six lines of tracers went into one of the bombers and glowed brighter than the two bushel-baskets of exhaust fire. The first Jap bomber trailed fire, slowly turned on its back, and spun crazily towards Hengyang, right over the town.

On the ground the mechanics and the Chinese interpreters had a grandstand seat for one of the best moving pictures that has ever been—except that this was real.

The lone fighter now was sliding over behind the other bombers, and the second one was exploding and turning over. The third one tried to turn, seemed to hang for seconds against the full moon, then dove in flames in a pitch that got steeper and steeper.

The number four enemy ship had turned back now, with an engine shot out, but Ajax Baumbler got it ten miles North of the field.

From the ground, the watchers told us later, they could hear the fifty-caliber guns above the noise of the smaller calibre Jap guns.

But something was the matter with Alison. We could see his ship and it was not flying normally. Every now and then it would stream fire that was more than just a backfire.

Alison called in that he was hit, but would try to land his ship on the field.

To land a crippled fighter in daylight is quite a feat but to attempt to land one at night, one that has been shot to pieces and may burst into flames any second, is more than that.

HOUSEHOLD TIPS

To prevent hard candies from sticking, sprinkle them with granulated sugar.

If your electric clock becomes noisy, soak a piece of soft cloth in kerosene and place in opening in back of clock.

When making doughnuts, put a piece of raw potato into the hot fat to help prevent the doughnuts from burning.

Folding clothes as evenly as possible before running them through the wringer will save much time on ironing day, especially when clothes must be dried indoors.

When you have an empty castup bottle, punch holes into the top and use as a sprinkler. Handy when sprinkling clothes.

To open a sugar sack held together by chain-stitches, hold the single-thread side toward you and open the sack from the right-hand edge.

Pour hot vinegar in your teakettle and let stand overnight to remove lime deposit in bottom of kettle.

A practical meal tray for the convalescent is made by using a muffin-pan. Put individual servings of the food in small custard cups that will fit the muffin rings.

A hole in the kitchen linoleum may be mended with chopped cork that has been mixed with liquid glue. When this mixture has been thoroughly set, sandpaper it smooth, then paint the spot to match color of linoleum.

If clothes-line space indoors is limited, use two lines parallel and hang such pieces as towels, shirts, etc., from line to line, leaving just enough space between for air circulation.

Gas on Stomach

Relieved in 5 minutes or double money back When excess stomach acid causes painful, suffocating gas, sore stomach and heartburn, doctors usually prescribe the fastest-acting medicine known for symptomatic relief.
