Telephone operator to new girl she was breaking in: "Now honey, you say 'Just a moment, please,' not 'Hold on to your pants, mister.'"

Headline—United States to tell Russia where to get off.

Mebbe so, but we're playing with dynamite.

A number of fellows asked the town tightwad if he was going to the circus. "No; not me; you see one circus and seen 'em all," was his reply. "But this one's different; we hear that a beautiful girl is going to do an act without a stitch of clothes." The tightwad scratched his head and replied, "Well, maybe I'll take in this circus!"

An AP headline reports Russia is to occupy half of Germany.

Well, that's that!

France, after undergoing so many years of Nazi oppression, bombed and machine-gunned poor little Syria.

Radio reports that it was done with lend-lease supplies from the United States, with England's aid.

So you see, Amigos, we are all involved—through no fault of ours: we hope, we hope, we hope! George Washington said it—This country should keep out of foreign entanglements.

The Dailey Bros. Circus has come and gone. It was the first aggregation of that nature which has visited Carrizozo for the past 18 years. People from other places over the county swelled the crowd to a record-breaking point.

Note—It will rain on July 4th.

Mr. and Mrs. George Goodson were here yesterday and stayed over to attend the meeting of Comet Chapter No. 29, O. E. S., last night. The Goodsons are from Alamogordo.

Thos. K. Kar came up this morning from El Paso and returned to Three Rivers, where he did some official work for the S. P. Co.

Russia the Only Nation Demanding the Veto Deal—or Else

(By A. L. Burke)

Strange as it may seem to those who have been following up the San Francisco Conference Russia, aside from all other nations seeks to block the one remaining thing that would, if agreed upon, end the conference for the establishment of peace.

It would also seem to the man up a tree that a country like Russia, which had it not been for the aid given it by the United States and Great Britain, would have now been in the hand of Hitler, that she would at least, recognize the will of the majority in such important cases as the one concerning the veto power.

George Washington was right when he said "Keep out of foreign entanglements, for you will no more than get them out of one scrape, but what they will get into another." Senator Vandenberg said just a few days ago, "This bolting and determination on the part of one power, will keep us here all summer." More and more, as time goes on, do we see where the Father of this country was right, but such entanglements as these, wherein the people of this country have furnished the money and war materials and for which the people are taxed so heavily, have the idea that George Washington was just an early bird and lacked the understanding to deal with such matters.

We have said before and we repeat, that trying to straighten out things across the pond, will lead to disaster and keep us constantly in hot water when we could have avoided it. Take France, for instance—after being liberated from the Nazis, they now jump on to poor, weak little Syria and treat them bad, if not worse than they were treated. Mark our words—there are breakers ahead, but there is still hope of some way out of it—but how?

De Gaulle Intractable

(El Paso Times)

The De Gaulle government in France by persisting in its determination to reduce Syria and Lebanon to dependencies of the French is proving its absolute unfitness to sit as one of the Big Five in any world conference dedicated to a peaceful world of independent people.

Including France in the first place in the Big Five must have been regarded as a mere sop to satisfy the ego of the French, but unfortunately it only resulted in enlarging an already overly-swelled ego of the French leader.

Resumption of violence by the French was reported Tuesday, with the result it is now feared that the new crisis may not yield to a settlement apart from force.

De Gaulle refuses to submit to a tri-partite conference composed of the United States, Great Britain and France to thresh out the controversy in the Levant, insisting instead it be submitted to a Big Five conference, including China and Russia, with consequent delay.

The entire situation should be composed by the British Army in the Near East, with the approval of the United States, even to the point of clearing that section of Europe from French troops.

Secretary of State Stettinus' statement that American foreign policy now was based on the United States acting as arbiter in just such disputes as the Arabian question can find no time or place for exemplification than in the present situation.

Only those who have made a study of the Arabian and Moslem world can understand the gravity of the untoward action of the French government in laying the foundation of a new war of almost worldwide stops.

George Hobbs of the Ancho country was a business visitor here the first of the week and from him we learned that his two sons, Claude and Wayne are in the service. Claude is an EFC in Germany, serving as an anti-aircraft technician and Wayne is in the Navy, serving in the South Pacific.

In the Service

Sydney E. Goldston, Aerial Engineer on a B-29, is stationed at McCook, Neb., awaiting his call for duty overseas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Syd Goldston of Carrizozo.

A letter from SP operator Dan Conley in Duran states they are expecting Dan jr. home from the Navy about July 1. Jerry, their small son has returned from school at Abilene, Tex. He says Mrs. Conley's health has improved considerably.

Kenneth Yancy, Navy carpenter 2c, who was here on leave visiting the Jessa Garrison family, left for Brownfield, Texas accompanied by his niece Miss Queenell Garrison, where the two will visit relatives. Mr. Yancy has served overseas two years in the South Pacific. He is a brother to Mrs. Garrison.

The three sons of Mr. and Mrs. Ben C. Sanchez, Leo, Albert and George, Petty officer in the Navy, came home on leave, this being the first time they have been together in three years. Albert and George have seen a 2 1/2 year tour of duty in the southern Pacific.

Nurse Mrs. John Roy Harris, nee Miss Mary Lewis, is here from California visiting her mother Mrs. Mary Lewis and brother Rex. Her husband, Lt. John Roy Harris has been sent overseas recently.

Mrs. John Roy Harris and brother, Rex Lewis arrived here last Sunday from Los Angeles and Mrs. Harris, the former Miss Mary Lewis, will remain here with the home folks for the duration, her husband, Lt. Harris having been called overseas.

Mrs. Ethel B. Theel of Santa Fe, who has been visiting the Cash family for the past week, stayed over to attend the circus. She has a charming personage and her friends express the hope that she will visit us again in the near future.

Bonds Over America

Named for Col. Henry I. Dodge, Dodge City, Kansas, became one of the country's most picturesque cattle centers, the cowboy capital of the southwest. There the Santa Fe and Arkansas River Trails met. Travelers came with stories of Indian attacks on wagon trains. Cowboys drove in herds of thousands of cattle for shipment east on the railroad. Others rested and watered herds of young steers there before going north. The songs of soldiers and hunters mingled with the shouts of cowboys. Fearless, spirited men whose grandsons are now turning back the enemies for overseas founded that city. War Bonds furnish weapons and food for the men fighting today to fulfill their ancestors' dreams. U. S. Treasury Department

Paul Mayer Services; Lincoln County Pioneer

Services for Paul Mayer were held at 2:30 Monday afternoon from the Trinity Methodist Church, with interment at the White Oaks Cemetery. Mr. Mayer, age 90, passed away Friday morning, June 1, 1945, at his Carrizozo home after several year's illness.

He was born at Geneva, Illinois, May 24, 1855, and educated in the public schools of his native state. He came to New Mexico March 3, 1881, and on the 15th of the same month located at White Oaks, where he resided until 30 years ago when he moved to Carrizozo to engage in the realty business. At White Oaks he was in the livery and grain business, also had mining interests.

He was a member of the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners from 1890 to 94. In 1913 he was made secretary of the Lincoln County Road Commission. Surviving is his wife, Mrs. Ula Mayer.

Editor's Note:—Mr. Mayer, up to the time of his last illness, was always identified in community affairs, more especially in such organizations as the Carrizozo Businessmen's Club, in which he was an active member. He was a neighbor of ours in business and many were the confidential talks we have had together on current events in which he kept well posted.

The funeral services were held at the local Methodist Church, conducted jointly by Rev. Loudip, pastor of the local church and Rev. Earl Keating of Hobbs, N. M. The floral offerings were many and beautiful. Mrs. Hazel Pierce Larlow of El Paso, cousin of Mrs. Mayer, sang three selections, "I Need Thee Every Hour," "Crossing the Bar" and "In the Garden," with Mrs. T. E. Kelley at the piano.

Rev. Loudin read the obituary and Rev. Keating preached a short impressive sermon, after which, the remains were conveyed to the White Oaks cemetery and there interred where those of numerous pioneers are resting.

To the People of this Community

Even if the war ended this very moment you still would be doing the best thing for yourself and your family by investing the biggest amount in War Bonds today you have ever saved for future spending.

From a strictly self-interest viewpoint you cannot afford to fritter away war wages in a market of scarce goods. New autos, new homes, new appliances, new radios, will not be coming off production lines instantly the last shot is fired by one of your tired relatives or friends. War Bonds will make wonderful peace-time ammunition when they mature $4 for every $3 you store away now.

E. S. Just to bring you out of that postwar dream, take another look at the headlines. There's still a war on. You and your money are needed to beat the Japs. The bonds you buy today are WAR bonds. There'll be time 10 years hence for you to think of them as PEACE BONDS.

CIO REBUKED AT SAN FRANCISCO CONFAB

WASHINGTON.—Here is the story no one could get at San Francisco—the inside story of why Sidney Hillman, Russian labor, and leftists of British trade unions happened to assemble their new world labor order on Oakland, across the bay, just at the very day of the opening of the world peace conference, a n d what they were up to.

All inquiries were pushed aside out there with the explanation that this new world labor power, called the World Trade Union Congress, was merely looking for reflected publicity from its proximity to the conference, or something similarly inconsequential.

It is no wonder the story was hidden securely beneath a rubble of confusing explanations because it would have disclosed a coup de conference planned by Mr. Hillman and his Russian associates—a coup which was squelched completely in a secret meeting of the conference steering committee, despite intervention by no less a power than Molotov himself. These are the facts:

PLAN WORKED UPON

Through him the Hillman crowd worked up a program whereby they would all get into the conference and into the permanent peace setup by being established as the group to handle world labor problems.

They succeeded in getting the economic committee of the conference to approve their entry as consultants. The economic committee includes strong representation of smaller nations, particularly Latin America.

A resolution carrying out this purpose was handed by the economic committee which is composed of all nations. After some warm discussion, that guiding committee of the conference decided it would not even go into the matter thoroughly and defeated the resolution.

When Hillman saw this coming he got Molotov to champion his cause, and it was the Russian foreign minister who pressed the matter as far as it went in the steering committee.

By his own admission, Hillman thus outlicked himself and disclosed his hand. That Molotov would champion his cause was all-too-obvious evidence to everyone on the inside that their fears and suspicions about Hillman's trade union congress had solid ground—that it was more Russian than world.

A few days later the Oakland meeting quietly adjourned without taking any noticeable action and Mr. Hillman went off to southern California for a rest.

The frustration of the coup represented a victory for Bill Green, the AFL president, who has been vigorously fighting Hillman's attempt since the last election to establish with the Communist a world labor front.

WORLD LABOR PLANS

Green demanded in resolutions passed by his executive council (May 8) that world labor be represented in the future world order by the International Labor Office, a successful creature of the old League of Nations.

Slowly he did not seek the place for his own AFL world group which is represented by an organization known as the International Federation of Trades Unions.

He did not seek to steal for himself the world authority and power which he would deny to the CIO crowd, but would leave it to an established League of Nations organization. His protection was impregnable.

I hear that even the British have become suspicious of Hillman's effort to align with the Communists in a front which would in some ways be as powerful as the peace setup of the nations and—if Hillman's coup had gone through—able to influence the judgment of nations. The Russian unions are not free trade unions.

I understand that even Sir Walter Citrine, the British ultra-liberal leader, in looking for open doors behind him to escape politely the agreement.

The British trade unions which were unanimously represented in that London gathering have now split, and I do not expect they will go very much further with Hillman and the Russian effort to capture world labor control.

Hillman, by this effort coming atop his domestic electoral activities, has lost much ground in Washington, particularly in congress.

Truman Treads Middle of Road In Naming New Cabinet Heads; Japs Tighten Hold on Homeland

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of the newspaper.)

Cabinet Changes—President Harry S. Truman continued to tread a middle path in politics with his recent cabinet appointments, taking a New Dealer, an extreme liberal and southern Democrat into his official family.

In naming New Deal Rep. Clinton Anderson (N. M.) and liberal ex-Senator Lewis Schwellenbach (Wash.) as secretaries of agriculture and labor, respectively, Mr. Truman literally went into congressional ranks to make his selections, again moving to re-establish friendly relations between the White House and Capitol Hill. As a member of the department of justice, Tom C. Clark, the new attorney general, has enjoyed the confidence of both liberals and conservatives alike, further strengthening Mr. Truman's hand.

Though the President accepted Mrs. Perkins' resignation as secretary of labor because of her desire to return to private life, he was said to have taken Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard's in an effort to bolster the department, and Attorney General Biddle's as a natural result of the cool relations between them. Among other things, Biddle had sought the reappointment of the district attorney who sent Mr. Truman's old political sponsor, "Boss" Pendergast, to prison.

The President followed the announcement of his new cabinet appointments with a request to congress for passage of legislation permitting the reorganization of the executive branch of the government. Under such legislation, he would be able to consolidate or eliminate various agencies as conditions would dictate for economy and efficiency.

Sketches of new cabinet members follow:

- Anderson: Advocate of abundant production to stifle black markets and inflation. Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson, 49, recently attracted attention as chairman of house food investigating committee. Adopted son of New Mexico, Anderson built up successful insurance business and became large land owner, holding 1,000-acre cattle and dairy farm outside Albuquerque. He has served as treasurer, relief administrator and unemployment compensation director of the state.
- Schwellenbach: Elected to senate on highly liberal platform in 1934, Secretary of Labor Lewis Schwellenbach, 50, retired in 1940 to become federal judge. Yet of World War I, Schwellenbach soon entered politics after conflict's end, was defeated in bid for governorship of Washington in 1932 after calling for government ownership of utilities and use of idle lands and factories for unemployed. Noted for his liberalism, Schwellenbach's appointment was warmly received by both the AFL and CIO.
- Clark: Dark, quiet 6-foot attorney General Thomas (Tom) C. Clark, 45, is representative of the Deep South and the protégé of House Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senator Tom Connally. Prominent in Texas legal circles, Clark entered department of justice in 1937, becoming assistant and then head of the anti-trust division. As chief of war frauds unit, Clark reportedly has recovered more than $100,000,000 for the government and brought about the indictment of 1,000 persons.

JAPAN: Tighen Reins

Backed almost to the wall, Japan increased efforts to shore up the home front for the critical days that lie ahead. Even as the Japanese officials acted, B-29 bombers followed up their devastating attacks on Nagoya with equally concentrated assaults on Tokyo, striking at the thousands of tiny shops producing small parts for big industries. Steps taken to combat the U. S. avalanche included:

- 1. Mobilization and special training of 20,000,000 students and an agrarian militia to defend the homeland.
- 2. Suppression of all pacifist sentiment and punishment of persons failing to turn in Allied propaganda pamphlets.
- 3. Efforts to perfect the operations of the Kamikaze (suicide) air corps.
- 4. Granting of virtual military authority to Japanese employers to utilize the time of their labor as they see fit without regard to working hours, rest periods or other regulations.
- 5. Collection of nearly 5,000,000 bushels of surplus rice from agricultural districts now before bombings disrupt the transport system for distribution to shortage areas. Villages possessing no rice surplus must substitute wheat, corn, German millet or dessau grass.

SECURITY CONFAB: Clear Sailing

With the Big Five—America, Britain, Russia, France and China—having come to agreement on the vital issues of regional action and trusteeships, the heralded international security conference of the United Nations at San Francisco headed for a happy conclusion.

In agreeing to permit regional groups like the Pan-American countries to attempt to settle their own differences or repel the attack of an aggressor before calling upon the world security organization for assistance, the United Nations recognized the U. S.'s attachment to the Monroe doctrine, which the South American republics also took as their own in the Act of Chapultepec.

In the matter of trusteeships, the United Nations also bowed in deference to the U. S., consenting to unrestricted American occupation of conquered Japanese islands for military and naval bases until congress decides to revert control to the world security organization.

GERMANY: Conquest Complete

With the arrest of Grand Adm. Karl Doenitz by Allied authorities in Flensburg, Germany lost all status as an organized state, with her territory carved into three occupational districts and all central government abolished.

Jap Burial Customs

Marines who searched Okinawa's sacred burial vaults for Jap-hidden guns and ammunition learned of the burial customs of the inhabitants of this island.

The Leathernecks saw how food, writing paper, pen and ink, writing board, clothing and candles were placed on the lid of each plain, wooden coffin for "use" of the dead.

BAN DISCRIMINATION

Laws designed to prevent discrimination in employment because of race, color, creed, or national origin have been passed in New York, New Jersey, and Indiana.

New Jersey and Utah also enacted more general anti-discriminatory legislation. In addition to the law prohibiting discrimination in employment, New Jersey passed six laws banning racial and religious discrimination in public places.

FOOD OUTLOOK: Below Expectations

Hope for marked improvement in the meat situation by next fall and through 1946 was dampened by the Agricultural Adjustment administration's report that this year's estimated pig crops of 87,200,000 head would fall about 5,300,000 below War Food administration goals and result in a loss of eight pounds of pork per person.

At the same time, the AAA declared recent surveys showed that plantings of such important food and feed crops as corn, potatoes, dry beans, sweet potatoes, sugar beets and cane, peanuts and flaxseed also would drop below WFA goals.

If 2,500,000 head short of the 55,500,000 goal as estimated, the spring pig crop would affect fall and winter supplies of pork, while a 2,750,000 shortage in the 37,000,000 goal of fall production would be felt in the summer of 1946. To increase pig breeding, both congressional committees and the AAA recommended a boost in the present support price from the $13.00 per hundredweight level.

GREAT BRITAIN: To Vote

Cunning as an international politician, pugnacious Winston Churchill again proved himself no amateur on the home front, literally forcing Great Britain's first general election in 10 years at a time when he and his conservative party are riding the crest of favor as a result of Germany's defeat.

Not only did Churchill force the election, but he also resigned as prime minister, thus letting the door open for a thumping re-indorsement of his position when he himself runs for commons in the July elections. Until determination of a new government then, Churchill agreed to head a temporary regime.

In British politics, the prime minister customarily is the leader of the majority party in commons, with its 615 members. Thus should the conservatives ride to power again, Churchill again could be looked for to lead the government, or turn the job over to a fellow-parliamentarian like Anthony Eden. Because the Labor party failed in its attempt to postpone the election to autumn when conservative luster might have worn because of opposition to some of the liberal postwar proposals, it resigned from Churchill's wartime cabinet to resume the function of a critical minority.

MORE DRIVING: Up Gas Rations

Lessened demands following Germany's capitulation plus the tremendous production of the industry made possible an increase of from four to six gallons in the "A" card gas ration and the boost in the maximum "B" allotment to 850 miles a month for the whole country.

Because of the necessity of re-arranging manufacture, transportation and distribution facilities, the increased rations will not become effective before June 22 for the "A" and June 11 for the "B" cards.

With the bulk of U. S. shipping slated to haul supplies over greater distances to the Pacific theater, transport demands for fuel will be even larger than for the German-Jap fronts combined, thus dimming any prospects for an increase in oil rations for home heating.

REDEPLOYMENT: Ist to Pacific

One of the spearheads of the Allied drive across France and Germany, and the initial western force to join up with the Russians at the Elbe river, the U. S. 1st army was the first whose transfer to the Pacific theater from Europe was announced by the war department.

In revealing the shift, the war department said that many of the divisions of the original 1st will have to be reconstituted because of the release of vets under the point system. Personnel retained will be given 30-day furloughs in the U. S. before resuming duties.

Commanded by Lt. Gen. Courtney Hodges, the 1st was foremost among the Allied armies that stormed the Normandy beaches and pushed the Germans back into the Reich. Recovering from Von Rundstedt's surprise Belgian offensive, the 1st cracked the Siegfried Line, established the Remagen bridgehead east of the Rhine and raced Lt. Gen. George Patton's U. S. 3rd army across the waist of Germany.

AIR EVACUATION

More than 1,000,000 sick and wounded patients of the American and Allied forces have been evacuated by army air forces transport aircraft in all theaters from the fall of 1942, when mass air evacuation was initiated in the South Pacific.

Battle casualties comprised about 35 per cent of air evacuees in 1944, but this increased to approximately 50 per cent in the early months of 1945. The remainder were personnel hospitalized for sickness or non-combat injuries.

Cooperation for Peace Based on Compromise

Nations Must Yield Some Sovereignty to Lend Helping Hand Against Threats to World Security

By BAUKHAGE News Analyst and Commentator

WNU Service, Union Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

SAN FRANCISCO.—The tumult and the shouting dies, the captains and the kings depart, still stands Thine ancient sacrifice—an humble and a contrite heart. . . . so said Kipling in describing the end of a war ("far-called our navies melt away.") As I review this chapter of current history here at San Francisco where the world security organization is in the making, I am impressed with one thing: what has already been achieved containing merit and the seeds of hope for a peaceful world has been achieved by the sacrifice offered by the humble and contrite hearts.

That sounds somewhat idealistic, perhaps but let me explain. I think it is not an exaggeration to say that compromise is the keystone of harmony whether it is a question of interpersonal, interparty, interstate or international relations. And what is compromise but sacrifice?

Applied to the United Nations conference on international organization, sacrifice of national aspiration, and compromise which meant yielding actual selfish advantage of the moment in the hope of gaining potential advantage for the general good, have at least given evidence of good will. Good will, implemented by popular endorsement, means practical progress toward peace.

Does the citizen of Richmond, Va., who, after the secession of the southern states owed his allegiance to the Confederacy, enjoy any less rights today when the seat of his federal government is the capital of all the United States. Is the Scotsman in Edinburgh deprived of any privileges which he held when he was a subject of chieftain, laird or Scottish king? On the contrary.

U. S. Learns to Give and Take

The American representative who sits in the assembly or is chosen to the council of the proposed United Nations organization is no less the servant of John Q. Citizen of Bingsville than the mah he elects:

In proportion to their size, there are no less rivalries between San Francisco and Los Angeles than there are between any two nations of the earth. But cities and states of our federal union would no more think of attempting armed warfare with each other than any decent law-abiding citizen would think of shooting up his neighbor to get his radio, his wife or his parking privileges. We are that civilized. We accept the sacrifice of sovereignty of our home state to sovereignty under the United States.

When we advance to the point where we can sacrifice the degree of sovereignty of our nation necessary in order to guarantee world order we will be civilized enough to be sure that our sons won't run the chance of killing and being killed as part of a spectacle of mass murder which even the horrors of this war will pale.

The San Francisco conference can present a blue print of the machinery for peace. Only civilization itself can implement it. It is easier to understand things we can see and touch than ideas.

Brooks Harding was born in Nebraska and grew up with the normal nationalism of a boy who had never seen a foreign flag flying anywhere. He served in the last war in the artillery, later became interested in aviation. He had a small aircraft factory, and then a small leather factory in New York state.

He watched the League of Nations rise and fall. He saw the United Nations start. He became convinced that unless there was some outward symbol, some outward appeal which would stir the imagination and the emotions of the people, the second attempt at world harmony would fail as did the first.

And so he literally left all he had with the sole purpose of making his contribution in the form of a United Nations flag.

That flag has not been officially adopted but it flew in Washington and it flew in San Francisco—a plain white field with four vertical red bars symbolizing, he says, victory, equality, unity and freedom. It is sponsored by the United Nations Honor Flag committee supported by such contributions which he could make or which he could solicit in travels about the country.

He hopes for its official sanction. He feels that this banner may some day become the rallying signal for the people of all peace-loving nations, who without slackening their loyalty to their own country will respect and support the forces for international good which this emblem represents.

BARBS . . . by Baukhage

There were several noticeable shortages at the United Nations conference: stenographers who could talk Russian, taxis, butter (no end), news, time to get it, a good excuse to stay longer. There were some surprises: invitations one couldn't accept, comments on the weather, mutton chops, trolley cars on Market street, propagandists parading as newsmen, talk and work.

At one of the press conferences Secretary Stettinius who prides himself on getting names right addressed Mr. Kaltenborn as Baukhage. I got publicity—Stettinius and Kaltenborn got the red faces.

A full-length metal leg costs $250 which isn't much when you compare it with what a person would give not to have to wear one.

KEEP ON BUYING WAR BONDS

To the People of this Community

How long will the war with Japan last? Everybody has an answer to this question but our best advice is not to base your bond buying on whether you think it will take weeks or years to win in the Pacific. The best way to be on an all-out war effort basis.

General Douglas C. MacArthur gave you the tipoff on what to expect before your relatives and friends take over a wrecked Tokyo. In the Philippine campaign only 185 Japanese surrendered in a slaughter which cost them 300,180 men. Buy bonds in the 7th War Loan with a spirit of an American in combat. Give it to the Japs full force and with all your weapons. That's the way to do your part in the vital, mighty 7th War Loan. Now—all together.

To the People of this Community

You have a D-Day this week. You won't die, lose limbs, sight or mental faculties in battle. Your assignment is to buy extra War Bonds.

There have been many D-Day's in this war. D-Day on the Normandy beaches, D-Day on Tarawa, D-Day on Guadalcanal, D-Day on Iwo Jima, D-Day on Okinawa. What is it like for your sons, brothers, husbands, friends facing a D-Day in the battle zones? It's prayer and nervousness, nightmarish tension and thoughts of home. What's it like for you facing another home front D-Day? You are the only person who can answer this question. No matter what the final story is in this community you will not have met your responsibility unless you have bought more bonds than ever before in a war loan. The opening of the mighty 7th War Loan is an opportunity to rededicate yourself to the task of nailing down the victory.

VICTORY IN EUROPE AND THE TELEPHONE WAITING LIST...

"Now that the war in Europe is over, when will I get a telephone?" That is the question being asked by many people whose applications for telephone service are delayed.

In the Mountain States territory there are more than 56,000 orders for service now held on waiting lists.

Western Electric now has been authorized to resume unlimited manufacture of telephone instruments, but that does not mean that telephones will begin to roll off the assembly lines at once in pre-war quantities. Production is still limited by shortages of manpower and materials and by the needs of war.

But the shortage of telephone instruments is not the only reason for the telephone waiting list. Until the wires between the subscriber's premises and the telephone office are available, as well as the equipment in the telephone exchange, the instrument itself is of no use.

Telephone manufacturing plants are busy making magnetic, acoustic, and electronic equipment for our fighting forces in the Pacific. War must come first. When progress in the war against Japan permits the reconversion of these plants to civilian purposes, and all the needed facilities become available, then installing them will be the biggest job in our Company's history—one to which we all look forward.

We do not like to keep people waiting for telephone service.

NOTICE OF PENDENCY OF SUIT

THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO:
 To each of the above named defendants against whom substituted service is hereby sought to be obtained, GREETING:

You and each of you are hereby notified that the above named plaintiff has filed his complaint against you in the above numbered and entitled case and court.

(D. C. Seal.) S. E. Greisen, M18 J8 District Court Clerk.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

TOM: "It's mighty nice to receive a compliment like you've just given us, Judge. We do take our responsibilities very seriously and try to do the right thing with everybody. In spite of it, we get criticized now and then."

OLD JUDGE: "I know... you've got to take the bitter with the sweet in times like these. Speaking of criticism, and I mean really unfair criticism, reminds me of the spirit beverage business."

FRANK: "How is that, Judge?"

OLD JUDGE: "Simply this... can you think of any other business in which the seller is responsible for what the buyer does with his merchandise? If a person eats too much cake and gets indigestion, the baker isn't blamed. Nor is the coffee merchant criticized if someone drinks too much coffee and can't sleep. But the seller of spirit beverages gets blamed plenty if one of his customers overindulges. Doesn't seem quite fair, does it, Tom?"

TOM: "Frankly, it doesn't, Judge. We've never looked at it that way before."

USELESS COWBOY

By ALAN Le MAY W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY TELS FAR: Melody Jones and his side-kicker George Fury rode into Payneville, a cow town on the route to California. Melody got into an argument with one of the natives, called Ira. A girl, called Cherry, came upon them and told them they were unsafe and had to leave town. She got their horses and directed them out. They saw posters and they realized that Melody was a wanted man for murder. They were wanted for murder and robbery. They had mistaken Fury for Monte's half-wit uncle, "Roscoe." When they arrived at Cherry's ranch, they were greeted by a stranger, who also pretended that they were Monte and Roscoe. The stranger was Cherry's brother, Avery.

CHAPTER V

"It's certainly nice of you people to take me and my uncle in," Melody said with a complacency that chilled George Fury. "I expect we can just as well stay on a while, if it's all right with you."

He let his eyes wander off into the night as he spoke, but he sensed the stiffness that instantly came over Cherry de Longpre and her brother.

"Might even be," Melody went on, "me and my Uncle Roscoe could bring myself to do a little work around here, to kind of pay for our keep. I see you got plenty horse flesh out there, maybe me and Uncle Roscoe will set in to break a few bald, come morning."

He smiled a little, contentedly, and let his eyes slide across the faces of the others to see what effect this announcement had taken. He got his answer at once.

Cherry de Longpre looked Melody squarely and blankly between the eyes. Her tone was cool and perfectly level, but there was a shakiness behind it. "Monte," she said with finality, "it's time to be on your way."

"Oh, I ain't in any hurry," Melody said.

Avery de Longpre's words came in a slow whisper. "Oh, yes, you are!" Until that moment Melody had not known that Avery's gun was in his hand under the edge of the table.

Melody didn't believe that Avery would actually shoot; at least not while everyone sat quiet. It was George Fury who peered Melody, George's hands gripped the edge of the table, and he had got his heels under him; he could uncoil like a spring from that position. And he was watching Avery like a pointer. Melody knew what George was going to do. He was going to overturn the table on Avery, making the gun fall as it fired, George would hope. That would put out one of the lamps, and probably the old fool would try to kick down the other lantern, which hung from a rafter eight feet from the floor. There was a moment of paralysis.

"Take it easy, Uncle Roscoe," Melody said to George Fury.

"He's got his gun in his hands," George grated.

Cherry said quickly, "You shouldn't clean your gun at the table, Avery." She sounded out of breath.

"He's holdin' it in his two hands," George repeated.

"Where did you figure he would be holding it?" Melody said, "if he's cleaning it? In his mouth?"

Cherry's eyes were fixed hard on Melody, ignoring the others. "Saddle your ponies," she ordered him. "Saddle up and get out of here! Right now!"

Melody looked at her without hurry. "You look right pretty when you spunk up like that," he said.

"There's a posse after you," Cherry said desperately. "Can't you get that through your head? The Poison-berry country is full of men who would be glad to kill you on sight. You'd be dead now if it wasn't for me! Now you get out of here, while you still can!"

"Shucks, now," Melody began.

"You heard her," Avery spoke.

Fever Crick was sitting goggle-eyed, and his jaw was wobbling; but Avery was steady as a rock.

Slowly Melody stood up, and George got warily to his feet beside him. George never took his eyes from Avery for an instant.

"Ride fast," Cherry said, "and keep going! Don't turn your horses this side of the line, if you want to live."

Melody looked at her a moment, then back to George again. He said sadly, "Well, come on, Uncle Roscoe."

Melody and George rode off into the dark at a sullen walk, resenting the push-around. Five hundred yards below the Busted Nose they splashed into a little thread of mountain stream, and let their ponies stop to drink, since the riding ahead promised to be both long and slow.

"Far be it from me, George said, "to stick-a spoke in your damn wheel. Well do I realize that you're three hoots and a yelp too smart for a man to tell you nuthin'. But a half-wit Injun that got hisself in your fix would have sense enough to die by his own teeth!"

Melody wasn't listening to him. "I been thinkin'," he said now, "you know somethin'? I don't think this Monte Jarrad is up here at the Busted Nose at all."

George Fury's had seemed to rise slowly on his head. "You rode in there because you think he was there?"

"Sure. But I see different, now. He wouldn't never of brung me here, except unless the real Monte was the farthest away place he could get. She's trying to use me to lead the posse off him, not at him."

"George stared at him angrily. "Let's get but of this," he said gruffly, pulling up his pony's head.

"It just comes to me," Melody said. "I come up here to find out where Monte Jarrad is. And I come away without finding out."

"Why didn't you ask them people?" George said with all the sarcasm he had. "Them's the ones that know! Are you going to set there all night, or come on?"

"Neither one," Melody said, gathering his reins. "I'm going back."

He turned Harry Henshaw, and started back up the trail.

Cherry and Avery stood listening to the receding hoofbeats of George's and Melody's horses. Avery took off his black California-style hat—the one with the flat top—and scratched his head with the same hand. When they could no longer hear the hoofbeats, Cherry and Avery looked at each other side-long.

Side by side they walked out to the barn now, moving a little reluctantly.

Here Avery took down a canvas wind-breaker, and pulled out the nail upon which it had hung. A hidden latch lifted, and some of the boards swung inward—a make-shift trick door.

Beyond, an unexpectedly spacious cave was revealed under the hay-tiers, made by blocking up the bales only one deep, like masonry. Avery had built this, and built it fast, while his father was off chasing wild horses. Fever Crick, whose jolly tongue was trusted by nobody, had taken Avery's story that he had hauled in more hay. This crude

"Naturally," Avery pointed out, his tone aggrieved, "everybody knew that you was the only one would have the nerve to hit Ira. Even Ira think it was you. He just picked hisself up and offered you a drink." Avery looked puzzled.

"Offered him a drink," he decided. "I should have known Waggoner had no sense," Monte blamed himself. "Why was he a stage driver if he had any sense?"

"Sure, Monte," Avery said again. "It was Lee and Virg picked him," Monte said. "Waggoner was supposed to see that the shotgun messenger got left behind at Slinkwater. He was supposed to drive the stage alone. It's Waggoner's fault that the shotgun rider got his. It's Waggoner's fault that I'm lying here!"

"Sure, Monte." "And it's his fault now that the posse's on top of me again."

"Sure, Monte."

"Quit saying that!"

"Okay, Monte."

"Don't you see," Cherry said, "that the posse will only take off after this tramp cowboy?"

As they stooped and wormed their way out of the hide-out under the hay, Monte called Cherry back. She turned reluctantly, anxious to be away.

"There's something you might better know," Monte said, "and guide yourself according."

"Never mind this wrapping nobody around no finger," he said. "Unless you want to get them shot right in the stummick. Under stand?"

Cherry looked at him steadily, for quite a bit. She pinched her lids together, but when she opened her eyes they were dry. "I don't know about you," she said at last. "Some days, I don't think you try."

Nobody was in the lighted kitchen of the Busted Nose as George and Melody returned to it, leaving their horses hidden in the brush. Fever Crick, who now seemed to have passed out, was snoring in the lean-to; but otherwise their reconnoissance raised no one. Avery and Cherry de Longpre had disappeared.

"I'm thinkin'," Melody said. "The girl knows where Monte is. So she's the one I got to find out from."

"So naturally all you got to do is ask her," George said.

"Well, no; that's the part I ain't got figured yet," Melody admitted. "I don't rightly judge she'll say, 'That's where the hitch comes in.'"

"Oh," said George. His eyes were flicking around the kitchen, tirelessly hunting a ray of hope. "Ain't there some way to git you out of this?"

"Oh, now George—don't start all that again. I'm tryin' to find out somethin'."

"Then we might jest as well try to git'er done," George said grimly. George had come to the foot of the ladder nailed to the wall; it gave access to the loft above the kitchen. "Don't make a sound," he whispered; and suddenly skinned silently up the ladder into the loft.

When George had disappeared, a considerable silence followed, during which Melody had no clue to what George was up to, nor what was happening. Melody began to show nervousness for the first time. He called up the ladder in a reaching whisper. "Hey, George!"

There was no answer from above. Perhaps nothing in the world is so creepy as calling into the dark to some one you know is there, and getting no reply. And now Melody heard the voices of Cherry and Avery, outside; they seemed to be some distance off, but coming closer rapidly.

Melody Jones swung up the ladder in a couple of long pulls, and stuck himself half way into the loft.

"Come on! The rest of the way!" George spoke close to his ear.

"Quick!"

"One thing," George whispered, "they'll never be agurin' on us here."

(TO BE CONTINUED)

"I didn't say he did. He has the same initials, is all." Then as she looked at Monte, her eyes turned strange. "He, looks—he looks something like you used to look."

Monte didn't go into that.

"Avery and I did the only thing we could have done," Cherry went on. "The whole thing was a bad cut, that's all. Except for him, the posse would have dusted right on through to California, I suppose. As it is, they'll be back here by tomorrow night. They'll comb this basin until a coon-cat couldn't hide in it. The only thing I could think of doing, so long as they're dead set on thinking he's you, was to help them think so—and send him tearing on his way. He's plenty stupid; but even he knows he's in trouble, now. He'll pound out of this country as fast as horse flesh can take him. The posse will be days catching up with him."

"He hit Ira Waggoner," Cherry said.

"Why?"

"Didn't come out with no reason," Avery said.

"Damn it, he must of said something!"

"I swear, Monte, he never said 'Hurrah,' or 'Excuse me,' or 'ho-ho-ho!' He just walked up to him, and—boom—he's endways. I never see such a business."

"It was a picture," Cherry confessed.

"Naturally," Avery pointed out, his tone aggrieved, "everybody knew that you was the only one would have the nerve to hit Ira. Even Ira think it was you. He just picked hisself up and offered you a drink." Avery looked puzzled.

"Offered him a drink," he decided. "I should have known Waggoner had no sense," Monte blamed himself. "Why was he a stage driver if he had any sense?"

Melody Jones swung up the ladder in a couple of long pulls, and stuck himself half way into the loft.

"Come on! The rest of the way!" George spoke close to his ear.

"Quick!"

"One thing," George whispered, "they'll never be agurin' on us here."

By VIRGINIA VALE

IT SEEMS unfortunate that so lovely a title as "Hold Autumn in Your Hand" had to be changed to "The Southerner," but perhaps that's a better title for this very realistic picture. Directed by Jen Renoir, it is beautifully photographed. Zachary Scott and Betty Field give excellent performances as the young farmer and his wife who are willing to endure terrific difficulties in order to live in the country and work for themselves. In fact, the whole cast is excellent, and of course the direction is superb. At a preview the only complaints were that the picture was too real, so don't see this one if you go to the movies to laugh.

Lola Lane, who's been absent from the screen for several years, returns in one of the top character roles in RKO's "Deadline at Dawn," supporting Bill Williams, Susan Hayward and Paul Lukas. With her Lola won screen fame, in the "Four Daughters" series; the others aren't interested in making pictures any more, but she couldn't leave the screen permanently.

Six Hollywood beauties—two red-heads, two blondes, two brunettes—representing the Goldwyn Girls from "Wonder Man," the new Danny Kaye picture, are making a 30-day tour of military hospitals in the Eighth Service Command area, in Texas and Arkansas.

Ralph Edwards is well started on another million dollar E bond drive—and what most folks don't know is that he's gone into those drives on his own, not demanding, as many another radio star has, that the treasury department underwrite the drive. If you've listened to Edwards' program recently you know about the young G.I. who'll get a plane if audiences buy enough bonds.

Joan Fontaine was called to the wardrobe department at Paramount to see a new costume; it turned out to be an elderly woman's. Wondering why she ought to be interested, she looked at the model—found it was her mother, who'd secretly got herself a role in "The Lost Week End."

When Andrew Stone produced "The Great Victor Herbert," he gambled on two newcomers to the screen—Mary Martin and Susanna Foster. He gave Diana Lynn her first big chance. Now, in "Bedside Manner," he introduces two new discoveries—Claudia Drake, who made her picture debut when she was one, and has done a few pictures since, and Renee Godfrey, a beautiful model. The picture stars Ruth Hussey and John Carroll.

Dinah Shore and Joan Edwards are all set to embark on concert tours, thanks to their radio popularity. Dinah will have Raymond Scott's orchestra, and cover five cities; Joan, who'll play piano solos as well as sing, visits eight between "Hit Parade" programs.

It'll be difficult for others to top the party given by the "Can You Top This?" stars to welcome members into their One Thousand Club. All listeners whose contributed jokes have hit 1,000 on the laugh meter are eligible for membership, but only members living fairly near New York could be brought to the party. Guests were bidden to a dinner party, and entertained at a vaudeville show, then taken to the broadcast.

Eight-year-old Clare Foley was delighted when she heard she'd play the role of "Janie's" kid sister in "Janie Gets Married," which stars Joan Leslie and Robert Hutton. The reason—the bannister in her house in the picture is swell for sliding-down purposes.

ODDS AND ENDS—Peter Lorre's signed to terrify us in Warner's picture for another year. Ted de Corsia, "Sgt. Fido" on the Ellery Queen show, tells the other actors asparagus on his farm. Martha Tilson's heard on Milton Berle's "Let Yourself Go" every Wednesday night, and seen wherever "Grime, Inc." is being shown. Frank Sinatra, Mervyn LeRoy and Frank Ross have united to make a feature-length picture designed to promote religious and racial tolerance; it will include some songs by Sinatra, and be released by RKO. Proceeds will go to a charity active in juvenile work, to be selected by them.

Household Hints

Do not use sheets or pillow cases for laundry bags as they are not woven to stand the strain.

The water in which rice is boiled is just right for starching organdy blouses and white shirts.

An electric griddle for pancakes works more efficiently if wiped with olive oil.

Cover the bottom of your scouring powder can with adhesive tape. Then when can stands in your white enameled sink, it will leave no rust stains.

Fancy household linens, put away to save time and effort, should be washed and aired occasionally to keep them fresh and white. Ironing is not necessary.

SNAPPY FACTS about RUBBER

Gulf Coast oil-producing companies use a rubber-tired vehicle called a "marsh buggy." It is equipped with tires 120 inches in diameter and with 33 1/2-inch cross-sections. The OPA set price ceilings at $1,075.15 for casings and $328.34 for tubes.

Hawaii is currently producing very small amounts of natural rubber. It is the only tree rubber being grown under the American flag except for experimental plantings in Florida.

Undamaged tire plants in Belgium and France that have fallen into the hands of the Allies are to be put to work retreading truck tires for Army vehicles which would otherwise have to be discarded.

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

MOST of the wars of the world have been fought on California soil, around Hollywood, for the cameras. And believe you me, that includes the fracas that started in the Garden of Eden and is still going on—the battle of the sexes.

All kidding aside, Hollywood has become an expert military tactician, recreating combats from the dawn of history right down to the most modern warfare of World War II. Hardly a major engagement in the eternal struggle of man against man has not been waged for the studio cameras.

Within the shadow of Hollywood's peaceful hills Greek phalanxes have marched and died, Cortez and his Spanish invaders have sent Montezuma to his doom. The French have flooded the streets of Paris with the blood of civil war, stormed and captured the Bastille, and sent Marie Antoinette and Louis XVI to the guillotine. We've re-lived the defeat of the Boche at Verdun. And the heroism of Doolittle and his bombing crew over Tokyo has been brought to the screen to thrill the hearts of all who believe in the Allied cause.

Now It's China

Right now Hollywood is doubling for China, and Leslie Fenton is staging a Jap bomber foray against the China coast for "Pardon My Past." Fred MacMurray, who plays a merchant seaman, gets a chance to see how the Nips work from overhead—and, incidentally, so does the audience.

In contrast, "A Thousand and One Nights" uses Vasquez Rocks, several miles outside town as the desert near Bagdad.

For "Counter-Attack" Zoltan Korda took Paul Muni and Marguerite Chapman to Burbank, Calif., which appeared for this film as a portion of Russia invaded by the Germans. Last year Korda took a troupe to the Mojave, which served as the North African desert when Humphrey Bogart rode across it in a tank in "Sahara."

Ancient History

In contrast to the modern mechanized wars, the movies went back to the beginnings of history when Hal Roach made "1,000,000 B. C." The battles, which employed crude weapons of flint and stone, were as factual as archaeological experts could make 'em. Yep, Hollywood posed the stone age and got away with it.

Many other wars of antiquity have been fought for the movies. D. W. Griffith recreated the battles of biblical times for "Judith of Bethulia," which had Chatsworth, Calif., doubling for Palestine.

A few years later D. W. built Babylon right in what is now the heart of Hollywood. The walls of the city towered 300 feet into the air, and these walls were wide enough to accommodate two chariots racing abreast.

Cecil B. De Mille used the old Paramount lot to house Rome, and he had that city sacked by the barbarians for a flashback sequence in "Manslaughter."

Egypt in Own Back Yard

For "Cleopatra" C. B. built portions of Egypt and even reproduced the battle of Actium in the studio tank. Claudette Colbert was an Egyptian queen and sailed the studio's "Nile" in a luxurious barge that the real ruler couldn't have equaled.

The battle of Chateau Thierry, with John Gilbert participating, was one of the highlights of the unforgettable "The Big Parade." A few palm trees and native huts and presto! California became the Philippines for "The Real Glory," which had Gary Cooper in the star role.

The Mojave also did duty as North Africa for two versions of Ouida's novel "Under Two Flags." Napoleon's retreat from Moscow, one of the greatest of all military operations, was shot in the environs of Culver City when MGM made "Conquest," with Garbo and Charles Boyer.

Dunkirk, one of the gravest adventures of this war, was the climax of Ty Power's "A Yank in the RAF." Since, Ty has gone into uniform off the screen. Robert Taylor did a role in "Bataan" before he answered the call to the colors. Both have seen action more thrilling than they ever underwent before the cameras.

One of these aces, men are going to stop acting like kids and put away their deadly toy guns and cannons. When men really grow up and learn to settle quarrels by arbitration—just talking things over—there will be an end to war.

Which is a wonderful thing to look forward to—except, maybe, for movie producers.

Bracken Goes Crosby

When you hear Crosby's voice coming out of Eddie Bracken's face in "Out of This World" you'll scream with laughter. The whole thing is a burlesque on swooning Sinsara. It's funny, but with greater care it could have been another "Once in a Lifetime." . . . George Marshall, director, turns accidents into assets. When Don Costello had his toe broken by Alan Ladd during a scene in "Blue Dahlia," Marshall had the incident written into the script and they kept on shooting.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for June 10

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected, and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE MINISTRY OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Mark 1:14, 15; Luke 4:18-21; Mark 8:27a, 29, 31. GOLDEN TEXT—I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly.—John 10:10.

The dawn of a new day had come! The long-promised and expected Messiah came to break the 400 years of silence by His personal presence.

We learn of His coming, His life and ministry, His death and resurrection, and find the promise of His coming again in the four Gospels. They are our complete lesson for this Sunday, but we obviously cannot review them in their entirety in our limited space.

Our Scripture references speak of His ministry in presenting the good news of the gospel to needy mankind.

I. The Good News Preached (Mark 1:14, 15).

Jesus always honored preaching as the primary and, the effective means of spreading the good news of the gospel.

The forerunner, John the Baptist, had borne his witness. Jesus had come, had been baptized, and as John was cast into prison, He began to preach, "Repent ye and believe the gospel." The key verse of Mark is 10:45: "For even the Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The characteristic words are "straightway," "forthwith," and "immediately." The Greek word thus translated appears about forty times in the book.

The Servant of God went quickly about the Father's business. Christians, can we say the same for ourselves?

II. The Good News Practiced (Luke 4:18-21).

The daily ministry of Jesus as He lived here on earth is summarized in the prophecy of His coming which was given by Isaiah the prophet. As we read these words, we realize that we who profess to follow Him need to learn more of His spirit of tender and loving service to others.

It is significant and appropriate that Jesus' declaration of Himself as the fulfillment of Isaiah 61:1, 2 was made in the synagogue on the Sabbath day. He met with the people in the house and at the time set apart for God's worship. He opposed spiritual deadness, the misinterpretation of the truth, the distortion of religious principles; but He was not, as some would have us believe, a religious free lance who despised the established worship of His people.

Having been prepared by the thirty years of privacy, and more particularly by the baptism and the temptation in the wilderness, He appeared at the synagogue in Nazareth to declare Himself as the fulfillment of prophecy.

Those who teach that Jesus was only a young Jewish teacher with a new philosophy of life have evidently not read the Scriptures: He knew Himself to be God's Son come into the world to bring the good news of salvation by His own blood to poor, sin-captive, blinded and bruised humanity. He is the Saviour. Look at Isaiah 61:1, 2 and note that Jesus stopped reading before the end of the sentence, "The day of vengeance of our God" will come when Christ returns. This is the day of grace. Sinners are urged to accept God's love now, and thus to escape the terrible day of judgment which is to come.

III. The Good News Prepared (Mark 8:27a, 29, 31).

Jesus preached the gospel of the kingdom. He went about doing good, but always He knew Himself to be the Christ, the One who was to die for the sins of the world and to arise again for the justification of those who put their trust in Him.

Even those who deny to our Christ the recognition of His deity, and the devotion of life which is His just due, must, if they are at all intelligent, admit that no man ever lived who has made such an impact on human history. Even now, unbelieving men speak of Him as the founder of Christianity, a mighty leader, a wonderful example, or an unequalled teacher.

It is not enough that we stand with the mass of humanity who may thus admire Him, but who do not count Him as Saviour and Lord. The question comes to us as it did to the disciples, "Whom say ye that I am?" "Thou art the Christ"—this alone suffices as the foundation for Christian testimony and conduct.

Although Jesus was not yet ready to have His Messiahship proclaimed to the public, He was prepared to teach His disciples concerning not only that important truth, but of His rejection and death.

Note the divine "must" (v. 31). While it is true that wicked men showed their hostility toward our God and His Christ by hanging Him on Calvary's cross, yet it was to die for our sins that He came into the world. The cross has rightly come to represent God's love to the world rather than man's hostility to God.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Sandwich Inspiration for Lunches (See Recipes Below)

Summer Planning

The sun's in its heaven and there's work in the garden that needs doing. Or, perhaps it's the wash ready to come down from the line that needs folding and sprinkling. Vines hang heavy with berries, crying to be made into jams and jellies. In the midst of all this hum of activity, it's lunch-time.

I know you hardly want to take the time to stop to make it, but the family will be indoors shortly. Something quick and easy to fix, and yet palatable enough to keep them sustained until dinner? That's the order and here's the way to carry it out:

1. Puree vegetables left over from dinner the evening before and store them in the refrigerator. All you need to do is make up a thin cream sauce quickly and add vegetables to it; reheat and serve.

2. Keep a stock of sandwich fillings on hand and let the family "spread" them for themselves during lunch time. It saves you work.

3. Salad ingredients are a "must" for hot weather time. If there is washed lettuce chilled until crisp along with washed tomatoes, cucumber, green onions, radishes, green peppers, and some of the fresh fruits kept on top, it's easy to toss a salad together in the time you could blink an eyelash. A variety of dressings will keep salads from becoming monotonous.

4. Draw heavily on fresh fruits for desserts. Plan to make ice cream, cake or cookies once a week to have on hand for a quick solution to the dessert problem.

Sandwich Spreads.

1. Bacon-Cheese Filling
3 ounces cream cheese
1/4 cup chopped, cooked bacon
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon horseradish
1 tablespoon milk

Blend all ingredients thoroughly. Store in refrigerator until ready to use.

2. Chopped Meat Spread
1 cup left-over meat, ground or chopped
1 teaspoon mustard
2 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
1 tablespoon chopped pickle
Mayonnaise to moisten

Mix all together. Spread on buttered bread when ready to use.

3. Peanut-Butter and Chili Sauce Spread
1 cup peanut butter or peanut crunch
1/2 cup chili sauce

Mix together and use for spreading whole wheat or white bread.

4. Egg and Green Pepper Sandwich Spread
3 hard-cooked eggs, finely chopped
1/4 cup pimiento, minced

Lynn Says:

Sprightly Summer Ideas: Garden or head lettuce is good for you and good to serve when "wilted." Over freshly washed lettuce, pour bacon fat in which a little chopped onion has been browned. Toss together with oil and chopped hard-cooked egg.

Spinach nests make menus sparkle when served with eggs à la king, creamed spinach or shrimp.

Young beet greens take on new flavor when cooked and mixed with grapefruit section just before serving. Melted butter, salt and pepper are all the seasoning you will need.

Sour cream and cottage cheese, mixed thoroughly together are a good duo for sliced cucumbers, tomatoes, celery and green onions.

Green beans, peas and lima-beans profit from a little bacon cooked with them.
