COURT is in progress this week; a lot of people would sooner sell their stoves and go hungry rather than miss it.

Fresh soldier to pretty Carrizozo girl: "Can you direct me to your room?"

Ernest Key showed us a paper containing a group photo of Major Maude C. Davidson, of Ruidoso. She is an American nurse, made Japanese prisoner. Major Davidson lost a great deal of weight through starvation before she was liberated, falling from normal to 80 pounds. She is now in San Francisco, glad to be free.

—Well, KP, where have you been all morning? KP—Filling the salt shakers, Sarge, like you told me to. The Sgt. replied—But what took you so long? KP—It's a mighty tough job pouring salt through those little holes.

Why the absence of the tumbleweed in Lincoln county this year? It doesn't seem right by not having our old friend. One thing about the tumbleweed and the old-fashioned egg, they're strictly honest.

—It is said—The war against Hitler will be over in April, next month.—But we've heard like forecasts before. Let's hope this prediction is true.

The Nazi Homeguard says: How can Hitler expect us to stop the Americans when the entire German army can't?

A Nazi general called on the people's army this week—only three of them showed up!

Who said that: April showers bring May tumbleweeds?

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dow of Carrizozo hold the record—having seven boys and one girl in the service.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Bragg and little grandson Earl Bragg were here from their mountain home at Parsons Wednesday. Tom is improving nicely from his accident several months ago, when he fell from his horse and was dragged for a long distance, causing him to be confined to his bed for some time.

Mrs. Edith McKinley and her two little sons Bill and Carl who had been visiting Mrs. McKinley's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Norman, sister, Mrs. Jane Lu Rue and daughter Gladis for about two weeks, left for their home in Van Nuys, Calif. the latter part of last week.

Silver Moon Cafe Re-opened Wednesday

The Silver Moon Cafe which has been closed for several months after Mr. and Mrs. McKibben gave it up and went to Corona was opened Wednesday under the new management of A. O. Longley, who operated the cafe before the McKibbens took it on. Mr. Longley invites his old friends and former patrons to come in and solicit the trade of the public in general. See his ad in this issue.

Roswell Business Firms

Welcome Lincoln County

On page five of this paper you will find a welcome from the Roswell business firms to the people of Lincoln County to look them up when in Roswell and anything that you may not be able to purchase at home they will gladly supply you.

There are many things in our neighboring city which perhaps you cannot buy here and if such is the case they will be glad to help you. You are requested to remember the names as you see them in their ad and give them a call; your patronage will be much appreciated.

Hotel Improvement

The S. P. Hotel, formerly the Carrizozo Eating House is being raised and a new foundation about to be placed under the structure. The old building, which has stood for the past 40 years enduring the ravages of time, but the old foundation which had carried the heavy load for so long, finally gave way and the walls began to crack. It is a hard task, but the force of workmen are equal to it.

Convened Monday. The jury has been drawn, ready for the coming trials next week.

Torturing Fraternity

(Christian Science Monitor)

Torturing of prominent American and Filipino Freemasons by Japanese military and civil authorities here points to the fact that the Japanese regarded Freemasons as big a threat to their conquered empire as the Filipino guerrilla movement.

Whether Japanese feigned ignorance of aims of Freemasonry or whether they merely used this as a pretext to wipe out the institution here is questionable.

At any rate, Imperial Military Government authorities placed Masons in the same category as spies and saboteurs executing them outright or else administering punishments which had few greater extremes in Spanish Insular times.

Direct evidence of this was given in a story told this correspondent by Fred B. Stevens, 38d head of Stevens Importing Company in Manila, and Most Puissant Past Sovereign Grand Commander (acting) of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction of the United States of America chartered in Manila under California Grand Lodge.

Charlie Lattell of White Oak was a visitor in town Saturday.

Stitch and Chatter

Mrs. R. B. Moore entertained the club Tuesday evening; Mrs. Mildred Ramey was co-hostess. Instead of the usual card game everybody had a good time, talking and discussing civic matters. Refreshments were the most delicious home-made cherry pie with ice cream and coffee.

Short Cuts to Better Gardens

Many a Victory Gardener has learned a lot from experience in the past three years. Various knacks, devices, and methods have been found helpful in making vegetable and flower growing easier, more efficient, and more enjoyable. Here are a few of them picked up here and there:

There's the quick trick of making furrows for very small seeds by laying the rake handle flat on the ground parallel to other rows and pressing it lightly into the soil. The soil, of course, must be of fine texture and well prepared. The shallow depression left by the handle is just the right depth for lettuce, carrot, and other tiny vegetable and flower seeds which should not be planted more than a quarter-inch deep. The row can then be speedily covered by gently raking a thin layer of soil over it and tamping it down.

Mixing small seeds with a handful of sand or fine soil before sowing is a good idea. This method keeps the seed from blowing around and also from being sown too thickly.

Do you suspect the presence of that crafty nuisance, the cutworm, in your garden plot? The pest frequently hides in the soil and nips off young plants at the base during the night while you sleep. Tomato and pepper plants are often victims as well as other transplanted seedlings. To combat this enemy, a paper "collar" is a handy device. Cut a strip of flexible cardboard about six inches wide and long enough to make the proper size hollow cylinder for encircling the plant you want to protect. Fasten the lapped ends together with a couple of paper clips. Or, if available, use a paper cup with the bottom cut out. Slide the collar over the little plant when setting it out, sinking it about half way into the soil as shown in the illustration.

If your garden is 50x75 feet in size or larger, plan to include a wheel hoe among your garden implements this year if at all possible. You can do the job of cultivating in about one-third the time it takes with a hand hoe. Remember, however, in laying out the garden for wheel hoe use, a little more space will be needed between rows than for hand hoe cultivation. With a wheel hoe you can travel up and down the garden rows with little more exertion than running a carpet sweeper over a rug. Weeds are quickly destroyed, the soil is well stirred, and there's seldom a backache in this kind of garden care.

CONFIDENCE FOR POSTWAR ERA LACKING

CHARLESTON, S. C.—The war cities down this Atlantic seaboard, bulging at their seams, are worried and confused about their postwar prospects (as every collection of people everywhere.)

Food is good, money plentiful. Rationing has been less painful than in Washington and New York. The people have gotten through the war better.

But just about half of the authorities are apprehensively anticipating depression and unemployment, while—singular as it sounds—the other half expect the opposite result, good postwar business, built on great private spending, with the towns holding much of their growth and the people retaining much of their improved financial position.

This divergence of opinion ties in precisely with a poll of national business management, recently made, showing also that about half the employers are optimistic, half pessimist.

The pessimist side, as I find it, is based upon logical reasoning running like this:

People have money in banks and bonds in unprecedented amounts. It is true, but their very apprehension about the future will keep them from spending it to buy all the things they need.

The constantly advertised attitude of the labor union leaders who are trying to pry big postwar spending appropriations out of congress, has strengthened the already latent fear among the people that a depression must follow a war.

This is a new and true condition which has not been noticed before, and it makes more critical the prospects that reconversion of factories to peace production will lag. The auto industry (which is the nation's foremost) will take at least six months to change over, they now say.

But perhaps the most impressive line of new thought on the subject is that our war production has been so greatly expanded, this nation cannot possibly absorb the products of its own machines. I have heard the contention from a foremost industrial leader that our airplane factories in one week can make enough planes for a whole year of our postwar needs.

Some means must be found of selling our production abroad, but no foreign nation has much with which to buy or barter and it takes a long time to build up an equalized foreign trade, not founded on credit (which in most instances would amount to giving our goods away at the American taxpayers' expense.)

Can Avoid Depression.

These are powerful and unquestionably true analyses of the problem ahead. Nevertheless the forecast can and should be avoided.

The divergence of opinion, in the first place, does not represent confusion. These authorities and employers are thinking of their own businesses.

Their split, therefore, seems to forecast that perhaps half the business of the country will suffer unemployment and depression, but that the other half logically can anticipate good business.

Then, furthermore, this much is true:

There never has been so much money in the hands of the people and never a time when people needed everything for living. The government has control over the release of men from the services, control over business reconversion through war contracts, control over every aspect of the economic situation.

I cannot bring myself to believe that there could possibly be depression in this country during the 2½ years following peace unless the government makes a bad job of this, too.

Every ingredient for success is present. Wisely managed capitalism, working under imaginative, clear-minded leaders, should certainly make all these ends meet.

The trouble today is no one has taken hold to furnish that leadership. The propaganda from Washington has been wrong in disturbing confidence. An inspiring leader there, who thought he could do the job, could soon correct this condition.

As for the reconversion of men and machines, good business brains certainly could work this out. If men of proven success were put to this task (as Knudsen, Nelson and all business was put to the war task at the outset) the technical features of reconversion would justify confidence, certainly this is no tougher than the war task.

The only real cause for pessimism then lies in the fact that Washington has shown no signs of furnishing the proper leadership. Politics and personal animities should be dropped for this business.

War Surplus Property of 103 Billion Dollars Will Be Made Available to Public

Some Goods Earmarked For Farmers, Balance to Enter Trade Channels

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent,
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Approximately a half billion dollars worth of consumer goods from surplus war stocks will be offered for sale during the coming year, through the medium of the procurement division of the United States treasury, according to reliable sources here.

Treasury procurement, however, is only one of six governmental agencies involved in the sale of surplus war properties, so the total may run to double that sum. The other agencies are Reconstruction Finance Corporation and its subsidiaries, handling capital goods, lands and war plants; War Food administration, selling food and foodstuffs; the Maritime commission, handling all marine equipment; the army and navy, disposing of materials abroad and certain small stuff here at home; and the Federal Housing administration, which will handle sale of government-owned housing projects.

Estimates are that the total potential value of surplus war properties will run approximately 103 billions of dollars, or more than the total sales of Sears, Roebuck & company for a hundred years at their present annual rate of sales.

During the first six months war properties have been on sale, only $135,184,000 was realized out of a total declared surplus valued at $980,000,000. From this fact it can readily be seen that sales must be stepped up considerably if the government is to realize a high percentage of the appraised value of the property. Of the amount already sold, receipts were approximately 75 per cent of appraised value.

For this reason treasury procurement, which will handle about 50 per cent of the total declared surplus, is planning increased activity during the coming fiscal year and is now asking an appropriation of $20,750,000 to virtually double its present personnel of about 5,000 employees in its 11 regional offices throughout the country.

This surplus material will cover every conceivable item of goods and commodities from small hardware items to defense plants and shipyards. It must be borne in mind, however, that the government is not in the retail business and the general public is not eligible to purchase this stock direct.

Farmers to Get Break

Intent of the law governing sales of surplus properties is that farmers are to get at least an even break in opportunities to buy these commodities which are in demand and applicable to farm usage. In some cases farmers are given preference. For instance the Defense Plant Corporation, a subsidiary of RFC, has held several auctions for the particular benefit of farmers, of commodities left over after war plant construction. This property included hoes, shovels, spades, paint, construction hardware and other items.

Treasury procurement, too, holds some direct auctions of livestock, such as horses and mules for benefit of farmers, but otherwise all commodities are sold through bona fide dealers.

Any dealer, including farm cooperatives, hardware stores, general stores, grain elevators, is eligible to bid on any of the commodities offered for sale in his region. Twice each week treasury procurement sends out a publication called the "Surplus Reporter" from each of the 11 regional offices listing items to be up for sale, method of sale, etc. Dealers can readily be placed on the mailing list by writing to the nearest procurement office in their territory. Procurement offices are in the following cities:

Region 1—Boston, covering Maine, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont.

Region 2—New York, Empire State building; covering Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey.

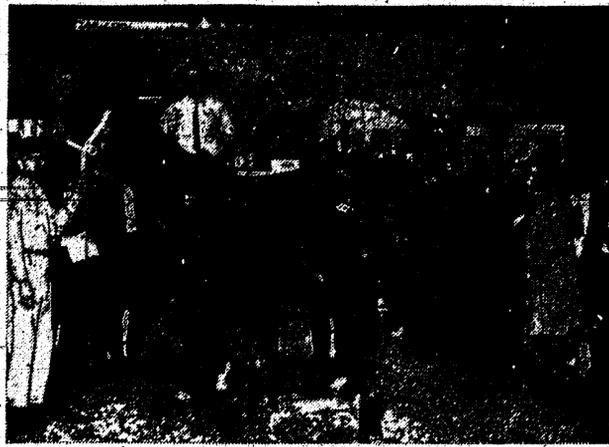

Region 3—Washington, D. C.—Covering Delaware, Maryland and North Carolina and Virginia.

Region 4—Cincinnati; covering Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia.

Region 5—Chicago, 200 N. LaSalle street, covering Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota; North Dakota, South Dakota and Wisconsin.

Region 6—Atlanta; covering Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina and Tennessee.

Region 7—Fort Worth; covering Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and Texas.

A large number of horses are being sold as surplus.

Region 8—Kansas City, Mo., covering Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and Nebraska.

Region 9—Denver; covering Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming.

Region 10—San Francisco, 30 Van Ness avenue, covering Arizona, California and Nevada.

Region 11—Seattle, 2005 Fifth avenue, covering Idaho, Oregon, Montana and Washington.

Large Assortment Given.

In advertising the products for sale treasury groups them under eight general heads as follows: furniture, general products, machinery, automotive, paper and office supplies, medical and surgical, textiles and wearing apparel, and hardware.

Furniture may include mattresses, bedsprings, household furniture, to office, shop, beauty parlor, barber shop, tables, stools and numerous other furniture supplies.

General products may include anything from live animals, lamps, water coolers, lighting fixtures, photographic goods, storage batteries and thousands of other items.

Machinery may include powered trucks, tractors, agricultural machinery and implements, farm trailers, farm service trics, wagons, dairymen's, poultryers' and apiarists' supplies.

Automotive includes all sorts of motor vehicles and trucks, automobile parts and accessories, tires, motorcycles and other automotive equipment.

One of the largest stocks is surgical and medical equipment including drugs.

Textiles and wearing apparel may include shoes, rubber goods, shirts, raincoats, sleeping bags, gloves, coats, pins, needles and dozens of other articles.

Other items include thousands of hardware articles such as kitchen supplies, wire, screens, nails, wheelbarrows, pushcarts, saddles, tableware, jewelry, musical instruments, small arms ammunition and others.

These lists merely give an idea of the thousands of different commodities which will be offered for sale on bids—and important to know—bids under ceiling prices which have been fixed by the OPA. On some occasions OPA has not fixed a ceiling until after the articles have been sold, so what happens then the treasury doesn't know.

Even dogs, trained in warfare, carrier pigeons and monkeys have been sold as surplus war property. A large number of monkeys have been sold to zoos after they have been used by the air corps to test altitude in compression tanks. Through these tests the lives of thousands of our aviators have been saved. Some of the objectives of the regulations governing the sale of this tremendous volume of surplus war property as set out by the war properties board seek to foster wide distribution of surplus commodities to consumers at fair prices; to achieve prompt and full utilization of the property with due regard for the protection of free markets; to prevent dislocation of prices from uncontrolled dumping; to avoid dislocations of the domestic economy; to encourage and foster postwar employment opportunities; to assure the sale of surplus property in such quantities and on such terms as will discourage disposal to speculators or for speculative purposes; to prevent insofar as possible unusual and excessive profits and to afford returning veterans an opportunity to establish themselves as proprietors of agricultural businesses.

This last objective brings up the regulations regarding the sale of lands by the RFC. All government owned land which is declared surplus will be offered for sale to the original owner, from whom it was purchased by the government at the price paid. If sale is not then made, it is offered to heirs or assigns. Then the property is divided into family sized plots and war veterans are given preference as buyers.

Thus farmers will have an opportunity to buy back their land and if they do not, war veterans are given preference. Although much of this land is farm land, hundreds of acres are included in suburban plots near or adjacent to cities and towns.

How Farmers Can Act.

Procedure for farmers to obtain a military vehicle, either truck or automobile is as follows: Make application to your local triple A office. The farm transportation committee, WPB, PAW, or ODT regional offices are authorized to issue letters of certification to essential users. After the certificate of need has been obtained sales must be negotiated through a dealer who has purchased the vehicles from procurement. No trucks, autos or other vehicles will be sold direct to consumers. There has been some complaint from farmers about the indirect method of purchase, but the procedure outline is about as direct as possible under the regulations.

A trip through the sample room of the treasury procurement division in Washington is a revelation. It's the most amazing collection of commodities imaginable: overalls, khaki shirts, fleece-lined sleeping tents and blankets, rubber lifeboats for five people; rubber and leather overshoes; nurses' shoes; tarpaulins, all-steel tool boxes, table ware, kitchen ware of all descriptions; medical supplies; surgical and dental instruments; snow shoes, jungle knives, imitation rifles; hardware of all descriptions, such as nuts, bolts, chains, hooks, and metal gadgets; saddles, signal lights, flashlights, spotlights, all-steel boxes which would be suitable for mailboxes or for locking away valuable papers; all-rubber suits; woolen mittens, leather gloves, photographers' supplies, even cameras.

Patently, it is up to the dealers in the 15,000 small towns of 5,000 or under population throughout the country, if farmers are to be able to buy this surplus war property. The dealer who is alert and watches for the sales dates may be able to lay in a stock of commodities. Farm Cooperatives particularly, who deal in most everything the farmer needs, might well be able to stock up on surplus commodities at prices which would be favorable to their customers or members.

In an effort to further inform these dealers about prospective sales and commodities for sale, the procurement offices in each region notify newspapers of an impending sale through intermittent releases.

Surplus Planes Also Available to Public

Civilians who have been suffering from growing pains around the shoulder blades may now permit their wings to begin sprouting. And it's all with the blessing of the United States government, through its agency, the Civil Aeronautics administration. It is now in the process of unloading approximately a million surplus airplanes for which it is finding civilian buyers. These are being unloaded through auctions held at eight regional offices every Monday. An average of 50 planes are distributed to each office and a total of 400 a week are finding their way into the hands of happy owners through competitive bidding. The airplanes thus sold are those which have been used by training centers and civilian flight schools in which army flyers have been trained. A listing of the planes on sale is mailed to all who request to be notified, and these invitations to bid list the type of airplane.

Hedda Hopper: Looking at HOLLYWOOD

RED-BLOODED girls with plenty of vim, vigor, intrigue, and mischief in their makeup are about to supplant the long cycle of admirable women who have held the foreground in motion pictures for the last two years.

And to Ernst Lubitsch, who has created many vagues in the 30 years he has been in our business, goes credit for the initial venture in 1945.

Shortly you will see Tallulah Bankhead in the red-blooded role of Catherine in Ernst Lubitsch's "A Royal Scandal." Catherine was a character both in history books and the Lubitsch film. She always got her man. Her technique was direct as the archer's arrow. Her methods fell short of murder—at least so far as her screen credit in this one goes—although the boys who wrote the textbooks gave her wider latitude.

Gene Tierney

"Catherine might be said to represent the wish dreams of all women, especially the very repressed and quiet ones," said Lubitsch with that merry, naughty twinkle which is as much a part of his trademark as his big black cigar or his trick of making-box office hits.

That Bankhead Touch
Of course, Hedda, Bankhead makes Catherine a little more attractive than any other actress could possibly make her. Because the Bankhead influence is a highly contagious thing, either on the stage or in films, every woman comes out of the theater colored by the Bankhead influence.

Since this is a day of action for women, with more females active outside the home than at any time in American history, I can see where the Catherine type is singularly timely, and I'll agree with that. We've had a spate of saints and scientists, from Jennifer Jones in "The Song of Bernadette" to Greer Garson in "Madame Curie." We've had cozy Mrs. Miniver and noble, strong-hearted wives like Claudette Colbert in "Since You Went Away." We've had Maria Veronica in "The Keys of the Kingdom" and Irene Dunne's two characterizations of admirable women in "The White Cliffs of Dover" and "A Guy Named Joe." And as the motion picture industry seldom stands still sufficiently long to allow moss to grow on the pavement before the box office window, I can see where a radical change will be good all the way around.

Since Twentieth Century-Fox is snapping up all the best sellers—they now own a list of 20 or more—and since the trend of current literature is toward meatier heroes and heroines, Darryl Zanuck will be the first to inaugurate the new vogue on the screen.

Little, but O, My!

Gene Tierney will draw one of the outstanding examples of this new type in the role of Ellen in "Leave Her to Heaven." Ellen is a girl with a will of reinforced concrete. She has no scruples whatsoever, even when it comes to shoving a little lad out of a boat when he interferes with her share of her husband's time and attention. Make no mistake, there are such women.

If "Forever Amber" can be scripted in a way to skirt possible Hays office objections this will be a role to end all roles of the type. Practically any star you want to name in Hollywood would give her eye teeth to get a crack at it. Hung in the bawdy setting of the court of Charles II—an utterly amoral era—Amber flaunts her beauty, conspires for power, matches her wits with some of England's best brains. Saving grace for the film's chance is the fact that the book at finish points a clear moral—you don't get to enjoy what you want when you go about getting it in the wrong way.

It looks as if Greer Garson, too, will get her chance at a bad girl role. It's the star part in "Drivin' Woman"—a character that, morally irreproachable, gives the effect of a ruthless beauty without shred of scruple.

Come to think of it, most great, acting roles center around red-blooded women. And bad girls certainly have something.

Alluring Lobbyist

I don't know any other Hollywood lobbyist in Washington who's had the Vice President play his or her accompaniment. Lauren Bacall did. As she walked to the piano, one higher up was heard to whisper to another, "Why, that gal's hips wink at you!"... The latest independent quartet, going right ahead making plans, is Pauline Goddard, Burgess Meredith, Dudley Nichols, and Jean Renoir. Pauline has one outside picture a year from Paramount. This will no doubt be done at RKO.

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS... by Lynn Chambers

Thrifty Lunches Use Vegetables, Noodles, Macaroni

Potatoes are easily creamed if they are cooked first, seasoned with onion and then blended together with smooth, tasty sour cream.

When points are low and luncheon presents itself, most of us are in a quandary. Are there foods to serve that are point-free and appetizing? Yes, there are, and I'm giving you several suggestions today which will make luncheon an easy matter to prepare.

I'd suggest that you make use of as many soups as possible for this mid-day meal. Use canned or dehydrated soups, if you're rushed for time. If you have bits of leftover vegetables, puree or dice them fine and add to a thin white sauce.

Hearty sandwiches go well with soups. You'll like cottage cheese, liver sausage, eggs and peanut butter combinations. A bit of crunchy celery will provide vitamins and minerals or crispy salads will add texture contrast to the bowl of soup and sandwich luncheon.

If the men folk come home for lunch and expect heartier fare, there is the macaroni family which you can put to good use. Use fresh or home-canned vegetables for flavor and color contrast with spaghetti, noodles and macaroni, add a well-seasoned sauce, and luncheon is all ready to be served.

This noodle platter with vegetables sells itself as soon as it arrives at the table:

Egg Noodles With Baked Onions and Lima Beans. (Serves 6)

- 1 8-ounce package of egg noodles
- 8 to 10 small onions
- 1 can condensed tomato soup
- 2 cups lima beans, fresh cooked or canned
- 1/2 cup diced or grated American cheese

3 tablespoons drippings
Salt and pepper to taste

Parboil onions until tender, about 20 minutes. Arrange in shallow baking dish and cover with tomato soup that has been diluted. Add cheese. Bake in a moderately hot oven until soup is thoroughly heated and cheese melted. Cook egg noodles in boiling salted water until tender. Drain; add drippings and arrange on serving platter. Place baked onions around the mound of noodles and serve with tomato cheese sauce. Buttered lima beans are a colorful, tasty addition.

Macaroni and mushrooms are the basis for this flavorful dish:

Macaroni and Mushrooms. (Serves 6)

- 1/2 pound boiled macaroni
- 1 tablespoon butter or substitute
- 1 small onion, cut fine
- 1 teaspoon flour
- 1 cup beef or chicken soup
- 1 pint stewed tomatoes
- 1 tablespoon dried mushrooms, soaked and drained
- Salt and cayenne pepper
- 1 teaspoon parsley, chopped
- 3 tablespoons grated American or Parmesan cheese

After macaroni has boiled in salted water, place in colander and let cold water run over it. In the meantime, heat the butter and brown the onion. Blend in flour and soup stock, stirring until smooth and cook until thickened. Add tomatoes, strained, and let simmer 20 minutes. Add mushrooms, season with salt and cayenne pepper. Heat through, add parsley, place on platter and sprinkle cheese over top.

Spaghetti. (Serves 6)

- 1/2 pound spaghetti
 - 2 quarts boiling water
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 1 can tomato liquid
 - 2 cloves garlic, cut fine
 - 4 bay leaves
 - 1/2 teaspoon peppercorns
 - Salt to taste
 - 1/2 cup oil
 - 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
- Boil spaghetti in water to which salt has been added. Drain a can of tomatoes and place aside—the liquid with garlic, bay leaves, peppercorns and oil. Cook until well seasoned, then pour over cooked spaghetti which has been drained, washed and warmed. Serve sprinkled with grated cheese.

An unusual but delicious combination is this one which uses baked potato with shrimps:

Baked Potato Stuffed With Shrimp. (Serves 4)

- 1 cup cooked or canned shrimp, cleaned
- 2 large baked potatoes
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1 teaspoon minced onion
- 1 teaspoon finely minced parsley

Clean shrimp. Cut hot baked potato in halves lengthwise; scoop out insides. Mash; add butter, salt, pepper and milk. Beat well. Add onion, parsley and shrimp. Refill shells; bake in a hot oven at 450 degrees 5 to 8 minutes until lightly browned.

When potatoes are creamed, they are extraordinarily nutritious. In this case, sour cream is used in place of white sauce, and it's a captivating combination:

Quick Creamed Potatoes. (Serves 6 to 8)

- 3 cups Idaho potatoes, diced
- 1 small onion, cut fine
- 3 or 4 tablespoons thick sour cream
- Salt and pepper to taste

Place diced potatoes and onion into a heavy skillet. Add enough water to cover the bottom of the pan, about 1/2 inch deep. Cover tightly and cook until potatoes are tender but not mushy. The water should be nearly all evaporated by this time. Add the sour cream and stir constantly until well blended. Season with salt and pepper and serve at once.

An easy-to-prepare meat dish with noodles uses as vegetable onions and lima beans. A tomato-cheese sauce adds nourishment and flavor.

Potatoes are again highlighted, this time with salmon in a casserole: Scalloped Salmon and Potatoes. (Serves 6)

- 1/2 pound salmon, steamed and flaked
- 3 medium-sized potatoes
- 1/2 teaspoon sliced onion
- 4 tablespoons flour
- Salt and pepper
- 2 cups milk

Arrange layer of potatoes in greased casserole. Add half the salmon, onion, flour, salt and pepper; add remaining salmon, onion, flour, salt and pepper. Cover with remaining potatoes. Pour on milk, and bake in a moderate oven at 350 degrees for 1 1/2 hours.

THE COST OF DISCIPLESHIP

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 10:16-25, 29. GOLDEN TEXT—If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me.—Matthew 10:24.

2 What you have is not your own. In fact, if you are a Christian, both you and your possessions belong to God (see 1 Cor. 6:20; 7:23). To be His disciple involves the recognition of the fact that life is essentially a stewardship, holding our property and our persons in trust for Him.

The cost of discipleship is one which should be candidly faced. It is far more than the cost of joining a church or subscribing to a creed. That may and often does mean little or nothing, but to be a follower of Christ calls for thinking and living in accordance with His standards. We must—

I. Think Right About God (vv. 16, 17).

The picture of this rich, intelligent young man, a leader in his community, coming to Christ with his eager quest for eternal life is a most attractive one. He recognized Jesus as a master in Israel and a good man.

His thinking about our Lord did not go far enough, and Jesus corrected him at once. He pointed out that if he recognized Him as good, then He must be God. Far from disclaiming divinity, Jesus declared here that everyone who thinks right about Him must agree that He is God.

It is of the highest importance that the follower of Christ be clear that his master is God. Otherwise, his attitude toward Him will reflect his defective viewpoint, and his witness concerning Him will lead men astray instead of right. Correct doctrine is vitally important as the foundation of real discipleship. The one who thinks right about God will—

II. Live Right With Others (vv. 18-20).

The commandments to which Jesus referred were those which concerned a man's relationship to his fellow man. There is to be no violence to another person, no deceit or trickery, no dishonoring of confidence, but an active interest and love for one's neighbor as well as one's family.

The disciple of Christ cannot effectively serve Him in this world without a proper attitude toward others. He must not sin against them, that is clear; but what is more, he must be known as one who loves them.

Note that this young man could honestly say that he had kept these commandments. Few of us could make such a claim, but he did. And Jesus did not question it or rebuke him. In fact, He loved him for it (see Mark 10:21).

What a fine character this young man had, what limitless possibilities for usefulness, what promise for the future! But something was lacking, something stood in his way. Jesus went directly to the heart of his trouble and told him that he must—

III. Act Right About Money (vv. 21-22).

Toward persons, his life was rightly related, but toward his possessions—ah, that was another matter. He was rich and his money stood between him and God, between him and a life of service and spirituality.

When a man has money and uses it for God's glory and the good of his fellow man, it is a blessing to him and to others. But when money lays hold of a man, and it has him instead of his having it, spiritual disaster is ahead, and not far away.

It is proper to be prudent, thrifty, and ambitious, but when the gathering of wealth becomes the uppermost thing, even these worthy qualities become the enemies of a man's soul.

Note the astonishment of the disciples (v. 25). They, too, though they had little or nothing, had been smitten with the awe for riches.

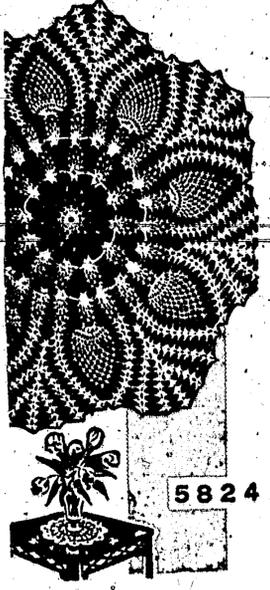

Do not miss the glorious assurance of verse 26. Nothing is impossible with God. He can even save a rich man, and does it!

Now there is more to discipleship than sacrifice. God has a recompense for His children. Let us

IV. Expect the Right Reward (v. 29).

No one has ever lost anything by serving the Lord. He gives liberally and makes a hundredfold return for every sacrifice we make. Christian workers can testify that God has literally fulfilled this promise to them. But the greatest reward of all waits beyond the end of this earthly life. Over yonder there awaits us the prospect of eternal fellowship with the Lord we love and serve, and with all those who share with us the place of being disciples, followers, and servants of Christ. This life brings many precious moments of joy and satisfaction. There is friendship and comradeship in labor. There are a thousand blessings even here, but the greatest of all is the prospect of being forever with the Lord.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

Inadequate traction is one of the causes of automobile smash-ups in winter traveling. Inadequate traction can be due to smooth tires that should be re-treaded.

Rubber had a strong influence in the spending of 17 1/2 billion dollars on street and highway construction and maintenance in the U. S. in the ten years ended 1942.

The materials used in the making of cord fabrics for synthetic motor vehicle tires are the same as used in pre-war natural rubber tires—cotton and rayon.

Last Full Measure of Devotion
They have not died in vain. We shall offer them honor and remembrances, and perpetuate where future generations may read the names of those who fought and died that a great nation might live. We shall build monuments to their memory, so that we may build stronger in our hearts those things for which they fought. For the strength in all our hearts, is the strength of the land for which they gave their all.

GOD IS MY CO-PILOT

Col. Robert L. Scott

WNU RELEASE

The story thus far: After graduating from West Point, Robert Scott was his wings at Kelly Field and takes up combat flying. He has been an instructor for four years when the war breaks out, and he is told that he is now too old for combat flying. He appeals to several Generals and is finally given an opportunity to get into the fight. He flies a ferry pilot and this does not suit him. After visiting General Chennault he gets a Kittyhawk and soon becomes a "one man air force" in the skies over Burma. Later he is made commanding officer of the 23rd Fighter Group and still keeps knocking down Jap planes. He tells the story of Capt. Elias.

CHAPTER XXI

When I finished the job and pulled up again, I could barely see the last of my flight several miles away. I gradually climbed after them, forgot to look around, and just sat there, "dumb and happy." Just sat there too long over enemy territory, without looking around every second. Without thinking about it, I had become a straggler.

In a high-powered engine, as soon as we go into combat we take military power from the engine—that is, we take as much boost as the engine will stand without "detonating," put the prop in low pitch, high speed position. As you leave the combat and the area, if you're not too excited the hand automatically pulls the prop controls to maximum cruising position to save fuel and to keep the engine from running hot. I began subconsciously to do this.

Just then, very dreamily, I heard—pop-pop-pop-pop. I raised my head slightly to try to see my other fighters ahead, and pulled the throttle back just a little more. That popping sounded like engine detonation to me. Then I tensed, for I had seen that my manifold pressure was barely 5 inches (on the manometer gauge), and therefore I could not be detonating from too much boost. At the same instant I heard again the pop-pop-pop, and became all attention in a flash; my nose went down—I had been climbing—my prop went back to low pitch and my throttle really went forward enough to cause the engine to detonate. A cold shiver went down my spine, there in that hot glass cage. I skidded the ship to the left and looked around as my speed built up fast.

What I saw in the sun, ahead of me, chilled me more. I saw winking lights and the blurred outline of an airplane—and not so far away. Then I saw another, and I guess there were others. I could see the orange lights winking down at me even in the glare of the sun. They were Japs firing at me, and I had only slightly more than a thousand feet.

Cold turkey and a straggler! While I fumbled with my mike button to my radio to call Holloway and Baumbler for help, I realized the futility of it. I don't believe my dry throat would have made a sound anyway. I just acted—and thank the Lord, my reflexes let me do something. I turned directly towards the ships with my nose down, and pulled up firing. I know now that if I had turned away from them they would have shot me down in their cross-fire. As it was, I surprised them and went underneath them very fast and into the sun. Thus, when they looked around, I had the sun in my favor, and from that time on I was using it. But as I pulled up firing, I held the trigger down and "froze." I heard the cannon of the Zero—I felt the recoil of my six guns—I felt things hit "Old Exterminator"—and then I saw a cloud of black smoke in front of my nose. I shut my eyes involuntarily and dove again.

Something hit my ship with the same sound you get when you suddenly fly into heavy rain. I opened my eyes and everything was dark. I smelled the smoke and cordite and gasoline and thought I was on fire. Just then I realized I was still firing. I reached up, grabbed the handle, rolled the canopy open—and saw light. I rolled it shut again and realized that the blackness had been caused mostly by oil on my windshield. The speed of my dive had blown most of that off now, and though I couldn't see very well, I could make out the horizon.

With a long sigh of relief I leveled the speeding ship over the rice paddies, and as they say in the slang of fighter stations, "I took off like a scalded dog." I S-ed and skidded but tried not to lose speed. Looking back, I saw the smoke and oil that I had gone through, and down under the place where I had been I saw fire and a plume of smoke—one Jap that wouldn't fly again. I think I was halfway home before I fully realized that I had shot it down and hadn't run into it.

For twenty miles I skimmed over the paddies, "jinking" to fool the enemy who might be pursuing, skidding to make him miss, and watching my boost read seventy inches of mercury. The engine heated up and the coolant light came on to warn me, before I eased the throttle back a little. I called Ajax Baumbler on the radio and told him I was hit—had been intercepted, my engine was heating up and I didn't know what all was the matter with the ship, but I was on course for home and going like a bat out of hell. Ajax stood by to take my position if worse things should develop and I should have to land.

But the coolant light finally flickered and went off, the engine cooled off when I got a little of the boost off and stopped abusing it. And I breathed again, feeling that I'd been holding one's breath for fifteen minutes. All was clear behind me, and I gradually climbed to ten thousand and went back home to Hengyang. All the boys came out to see me. Of course Elias was missing and they'd been worried lest I was a goner too. There were cannon holes in my wings and tail; one had gone just across the back of the canopy. There were smaller holes in the fuselage from the cockpit back to the tail; there was oil from the spinner of the prop to the tail. Oil from your own ship can hardly get on the very tip of the nose of your ship, and this was proof that it was Jap oil.

As we looked the plane over, I got more and more settled down from my narrow escape. But then I realized that my ship, which I had now flown in combat from April until September 2nd, was badly damaged. "Old Exterminator" was shot to pieces.

We had tea in the alert shack and sent the other mission out to dive-bomb Nanchang and strafe the trains from Kukiang to the North towards Hankow. Also we got the Chinese net looking for Elias, and reported that I had shot down one Zero near Kukiang.

General Haynes led some missions on Canton, and after fair bombing results the fighters stayed behind and engaged the enemy Zeros. Lieut. Pat Daniels shot down his first Jap, and Charlie Sawyer got his third. In the next raid of the bombers General Haynes again led. Maj. Butch Morgan—who the newspapers used to say was the only Yankee on General Chennault's staff... "Wonder how he got there?"—was leaning over the lead bomb-sight and directing the bombing. This objective was to burn the docks of Haiphong on the coast of Indo-China.

Fighter pilots ready to take to the air on a moment's notice. They had plenty of opportunity to fight all the time. They never had to sit on the defensive and worry. And, strangely enough, they liked it.

The small bomber force of six B-25's went in with only three P-40's for escort. Maj. Ed Rector led the fighters, with Lieutenant Marks on one wing and Pat Daniels on the other. Just to make the bomb load against the Japs heavier, the fighters carried a five-hundred-pound bomb on each ship. With these they dive-bombed the docks after the bombers had blasted them and set them on fire. Here the attack was entirely successful; the fighter-boys came back and said it was the best bombing that they had ever seen. The bomb train had covered the Haiphong wharves from one end to the other, and when the ships went back to their forward field to refuel and return to base, the smoke was covering the town. Rector led his three fighters down in a strafing attack over the wharf fires and kept the fire-fighters from working.

We were brought back now from the Kweilin-Hengyang front to watch the situation in Burma and to harass the Jap to the South in Indo-China. Our situation was peculiar in China—we were just about surrounded by the Japanese on all sides except to the North, toward Russia; and that was so far and over such mountains that it seemed not to matter. To our backs was Burma, filled with Japs. To the South was Indo-China and Thailand, and out to the front and Northeast were Japanese. Where in hell could you find a worse situation?

But we got to fight all the time; we never had to sit on the defensive and worry. We liked it and there was never a word of complaint.

I had to wait at Hengyang a day longer than the others, for my ship was being repaired enough for me to fly it to the repair depot at Kunning. At Kunning the blow fell: the engine of "Old Exterminator" was bad and there were no more new or serviceable engines. The cannon from the Zero had damaged the wing so badly that pullouts would be dangerous. The fuselage was peppered with over two hundred holes from the last five months of combat.

But the old ship wasn't junked or salvaged, for we needed parts too badly in China. There were new planes on the way to us now in monthly increments, but we could take this plane and put several back in commission. The scheme that was devised helped my morale greatly, for to have junked the old ship that had been my fighter for five months would have been like seeing the horse that you've ridden for twenty years cast aside and destroyed. I could remember too well that day when I landed at Hengyang and looked at the damage the ship had suffered. There had been a lump in my throat and I had felt as though my sword had been taken away. "Old Exterminator" had taken me nearly five hundred hours' into combat against the enemy. That's over a hundred thousand miles—and you just ask any pilot if that isn't a long way on trips where people shoot at you.

We took the guns out of the ship that General Chennault had given me in April and put them in my new P-40E. They were well broken in, and the Armament Officer, Captain Hoffman, who had been with the AVG and in my squadron in Panama seven years before, had worked them into perfection. I had had no jams or stoppages in over a month. The landing-gear we put on another ship; the instruments were scattered throughout the group; the armor plate was taken out to make a hot-coke griddle for the mess. All parts of the fighter were cannibalized, and in a month were spread out over eighteen P-40's in the organization. I remember especially that the automatic fuel-pump was put on a P-40B, which permitted the lighter ship to go higher than it had ever gone before, and on its second flight with the booster pump, the pilot, Lieut. T. R. Smith, shot down a Japanese observation plane over Kunning.

I never did go out and look at the old engine that had come out of my first fighter. After all, an engine is interchangeable anyway, and we got used to different ones. The shot-up shell of the fuselage, and the wing that had held me up over a hundred thousand miles of enemy country, I didn't want to see again. I just thought of my six fifty-caliber guns flying with me in my new fighter as the real soul of "Old Exterminator." And I thought of the hundreds of parts from Air Corps number 41-1456 that were helping to keep eighteen ships of our Group in the air.

For the men of the Group, the cannibalized ship had been a help, but to me it had been a tradition to keep. In my mind, no matter how long I myself might be fighting in China, "Old Exterminator" would be on all these flights—some of it would be on every mission that we flew. And thus it would fly forever.

On September 25, Maj. Ed Rector led the assault of a flight down to raid Hanoi in Indo-China. I led the support, and we kept a thousand feet above the first echelon. Our mission was to escort ten bombers for the bombardment of Gia Lam airfield. We went South and "topped-off" our gas load at a secret base, then routed our flight to the West of Loakay to keep from alerting the Jap warning net. Until we were close to Hanoi, we kept well West of the railroad that led to our objective.

Even with these precautions to keep from alerting the enemy, we found the Japanese I-45's in the air and over the field as we came in from the West. The twin-engine fighters absolutely ignored our fighters and made runs on the bombers, but they didn't get very far with their orders. Rector took the first four P-40's in on the leading Japs and hit them five hundred yards behind our bombers, who were already dropping their eggs. I saw two of Ed's flight gang-up on the first steeply climbing I-45, but before they could shoot it down Daniels went in fast to within a few yards of the Jap and shot him down in flames. As the ship exploded I thought Pat Daniels' plane was on fire too, they were so close. We all confirmed the first ship for the eager Daniels, who was from Van Nuys, California.

The bombers were on the way home now, and we sighed with relief and tried to catch the Japs. Ed Rector took the next ship he got his sights on and blew it apart. Then he fought all the way to the ground with two others. Marks shot down one, and the others were about equally divided.

I caught a flight of three I-45's going hell-bent for the bombers from below and to the rear, and shot the last one in the formation down with a short burst. It was point-blank range and occurred very fast. I first saw a thin trail of gray smoke that looked like the usual condensation cloud that forms behind the wings of fighter ships doing maneuvers at high altitude, when the atmospheric conditions are just right. And then flame poured from the right engine. It spread up over the cockpit and stretched thirty feet back in the slipstream. I moved up towards the second enemy fighter and didn't see the same go down.

Purple Heart. The men complained because they didn't hear commercials, so he invented some. In addition to military duties he directs "Weapons for Victory," heard on CBS Thursdays.

Producer Charles R. Rogers launched Jane Powell, the 15-year-old singer, in "Song of the Open Road," then cast her in another musical, "Delightfully Dangerous," with Ralph Bellamy. So now Metro, from whom he borrowed her, is prompting her career.

They hit on something new at Republic Studios when six dressing rooms, exactly alike, were set up alongside the sound stage where "Bells of Rosarita" is being filmed—the dressing rooms were for Roy Rogers, the star, and for the five Western stars doing guest appearances in the picture. The novel note was the six hitching posts provided for the stars' favorite horses.

In 1940 an ex-barker from the World's Fair applied to New York's Neighborhood Playhouse for a scholarship; after a test he received a $500 scholarship and $50 a month to live on; he added to that by guiding tourists through Radio City. Recently the Playhouse received a large check for their scholarship fund from Gregory Peck, the lad who was helped in 1940, now a Hollywood success as a leading man.

David O. Selznick's research department recently received an astonishing inquiry from the famous Haskins Information service of Washington; Haskins wanted to know the title and name of the author of the poem read by Lionel Barrymore in "Since You Went Away." The researchers replied that in Hollywood the poem was known as "The Star Spangled Banner," written by Francis Scott Key.

Remember Ernie Pyle's beautiful, written description of the soldiers' farewell to Capt. Henry T. Waskow of Belton, Texas, after his death? When directing that scene for "Story of G.I. Joe," William Wellman merely read the men that description. The scene was perfect in one take.

Lawrence Tibbett got two swell fan letters from Guadalcanal, one from his son, Larry Jr., one from Clark Burghard, his step-son; they'd tuned in "Your Hit Parade" and were amazed to hear him singing. They said his "Don't Fence Me In" really pleased the boys.

When the play in which Mary Astor appeared in New York closed, people lamented, for she looked so lovely that they hated to have her disappear from Broadway. So it's good news that she's at least going to do another picture soon—Metro's "Blonde Fever," a sophisticated comedy based on Molnar's play, "Deilah," in which Philip Dorn will appear with her.

Madeline Lee, blonde, five feet two, does those baby's cries and gurgles you hear on "Mr. District Attorney" and a lot of other programs; she specializes in them. The different expressions of moods depend on how much handkerchief she has pressed to her mouth!

ODDS AND ENDS—Amos 'n' Andy don't have guest stars on their program every week because unless a guest star is type cast for the show they won't invite one. Jack Carson finished his charade in "Mildred Pierce" and went into "The Time, The Place and The Girl" the same day. Humphrey Bogart to play opposite somebody else than Lauren Bacall for a change; he and Barbara Stanwyck will share the top roles in "The Two Mrs. Carrrolls." Lloyd Nolan, the sympathetic neighborhood cop of "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn," is walking the beat again for 20th Century-Fox, as a politician in "Circumstantial Evidence."
