PERSONALS

Oil driller C. H. Murray of Capitan was in town Monday.

Wiley Davis of Capitan was here on business Wednesday.

John Dolan, who volunteered for the Navy is home on inactive duty for three weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McMillan have returned from San Angelo, Texas, where they visited relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Murphy of the Murphy Mercantile Co. of Capitan were here on business Monday.

W. F. Manire, son of Supt. and Mrs. L. Z. Manire, is attending the New Mexico University at Albuquerque.

Mrs. Chana Dolan, sons John and Bill were in Roswell last week where John volunteered for the Navy.

Miss Mary Lou May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. May of this place is attending the University of New Mexico.

R. A. Dean of the Bingham General Store and Corp. Wm. Dalbert McSmith were here last Saturday attending to some business matters.

Mrs. L. H. Dow and sister Mrs. R. L. Dow of El Paso left for Dawson Monday in answer to a call from that place advising them of the serious illness of their brother Henry Pepin.

At the meeting of the Odd Fellows Tuesday night, the attendance was excellent. The Second Degree was conferred on one candidate, with another in waiting for next week. Capt Bradley Smith, who is here from Fort Riley, Kansas, favored the lodge with his attendance.

Percy W. Blakely, local photographer, when asked by Mr. Walker, proprietor of the Lyric Theatre to operate the projection machines and upon looking over the projection booth, etc., Mr. Blakely noticed the similarity of his own studio business and stated it's a deal for he will be right at home here, serving the public with satisfaction is a pleasure.

Gladys and Illene Storey were visiting here for a few days from Roseburg, Ore. The girls have been visiting their sister Mrs. Virgil Peters in Deming. From here they plan to go to Albuquerque to visit their cousin Orvil Storey, who is home on leave from the Navy. They also bring best wishes from their parents to all their friends in Lincoln county.

Curtis Kohler arrived home last week, having served overseas for a long period and after a short stay here at the Freeman ranch, Mr. and Mrs. Kohler will go to Warrensburg, Mo., where they will engage in farming on the old Kohler homestead. The Freeman ranch will be left for young Captain Carl Freeman, who will occupy it after the duration. Mrs. Ralph Pruett, who has been visiting her sister at the Freeman ranch will return to her home in Tucson, Arizona.

PFC Benny Sandoval
Who has been wounded twice, and awarded the Purple Heart for gallantry in action overseas, is home to spend his furlough

Serious Trouble at Three Rivers

Last Saturday night at Three Rivers, a darkey who had been working for T. A. Spencer at his ranch near the station, came in and had a saddle which he was trying to sell. He had hardly got through with describing the saddle, when Mr. Spencer appeared on the scene and accused the darkey of stealing it.

In the controversy, Spencer drew a gun on the Negro and as he did, it was discharged. The shot missed the darkey and hit operator Stewart P. Apgar, tearing his scalp from the forehead to the back of his head. This caused Apgar to faint and as Spencer and another man were trying to revive him, the "Nigger" escaped. At the present writing, Monday, the sheriff's office has notified us that he had been captured by the state police on the White Sands between Tularosa and Alamogordo.

As the matter now stands, the darkey, who is an escaped criminal from Texas and is wanted there, lounges in the Alamogordo jail and Mr. Spencer has regained his saddle. It is fortunate for the operator that the shot struck so high, for had it struck him one-half inch lower, he would have sent his last message over the wires. But as it is, after receiving treatment at the Turner Hospital over Sunday, he was able to return to his trick at Three Rivers.

Woman's Club

Will sponsor a Bridge Tournament to be held July 27 at the Woman's Club Building at 7 p. m. Everyone who plays Bridge is invited to enter. Entry fee is $1, including refreshments served throughout the evening.

Prizes will be awarded to winners runners-up and winners of consolation must make reservations by July 22 through Mrs. Dewey Stokes, Mrs. Jane La Rue or Mrs. Ralph Petty.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Walker of the Lyric Theatre left Wednesday for Hot Springs and Elephant Butte Dam, where they will take advantage of the baths and Mr. Walker will try his hand at fishing in the dam.

Tech. Sgt. Fred Picture and family arrived here the latter part of last week from Darlington, N. C., and will visit Mrs. Picture's parents Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nickles at the ranch home at Jake Springs. He is on the B-29 bomber and had his overseas orders on him and left this week to go and fight the Japs.

Poor Harry Hopkins Quits Job of $15,000.00 and gets $25,000.00

(By A. L. Burke)

Harry Hopkins, who being an ardent New Dealer and alleged communist, who had held the ready-made job of close advisor of the President of the United States, resigned that post last week saying "ill-health" was the cause. In his resignation, he stated that after his post was filled, he would take a much needed rest and take a trip abroad, or in other words, take a hide-out similar to what Winston Churchill has done after the election in Great Britain. It has been said that Harry is very poor—is he? Now to take a "hide-out" like he intends to pull, will cost consider a big money, but it is to be presumed that he will take his sun-bath before he goes out of the advisors office so that the taxpayers can foot the bill for his trip.

On the heels of his resignation come the word that he has been "invited" to take the post of "Impartial Arbitrator of the Women's Garment Workers by its president, David Dubinsky (remember the name) and as that name would indicate, the owner of it would undoubtedly be a communist and being a good communist himself, the post just "fits his pistol." Some say, Harry accepted it reluctantly, but the $25,000 a year must have restored him to health and harmony. It reminds us of a story once told by the lamented humorist, Bill Nye. Bill said that a certain preacher had several offers of pastorates, but they all differed in salaries, so the preacher finally, after "praying and figuring" took the post where the most money was—funny, wasn't it. Rosenman, (get the name?) has agreed to take the heart-breaking job of special advisor and will suffer it out at $15,000 a year. This is the first in history, where their was a "ready to wear" job provided where there was no need of it, but Dear Harry had to have a job, and it was created by President Roosevelt

M-Sgt. Joe McBrayer
Home from somewhere in England. Joe is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy McBrayer of Carrizozo.

In the Service

Tech. Sgt. Fred Picture, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Nickles and Crewman on a B-29 Bomber, left the first of the week for Japan, to do his best in cleaning out the "Sons of Heaven."

Mrs. Wm. Snell, wife of Pvt. Wm. Snell of Nogal, made this office a friendly call the last of the week.

Pvt. Wm. Snell of Nogal is stationed at Camp Hood, Tex.

Joe Chavez, jr. has been inducted into the Navy and will leave July 20.

Pfc. Marcus Barela, who has been a Nazi prisoner, is here, spending his furlough with his wife and small daughter.

Mrs. R. T. Freeland, daughter-in-law Mrs. Pete Freeland and baby son were here from Capitan Saturday where Mrs. Pete Freeland is visiting the folks for a short time, having come from Roswell. Pete is in the Navy, being stationed in North Africa.

Capt Frank Shelton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Shelton of Corona, is in the Philippine Islands and sends his best regards to Corona and Carrizozo friends.

The Peak Brothers Hold Reunion

It actually rained a small amount here Monday evening and at about 6 o'clock; watchers here saw one of the most brilliant, beautiful rainbows over the mountains to the east and southeast, ever viewed in this locality.

One point of the rainbow touched old Carizo, extended across the sky, stretched itself over Church and the other point ended on Nogal. This made a reunion of the three brothers, Carizo Peak, Church Peak and Nogal Peak. The brilliant visitor cast its reflection to Alamogordo avenue, where for a short time it was plainly visible on the paving and extended from Petty's store up to the postoffice.

The rainbow united the three Peak Brothers for about ten minutes, then slowly faded away.

—The war with Japan will last for a long time, asserts Attorney D. R. Brenton, Meet Master Sergeant Joe McBrayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andy McBrayer, ladies and gentlemen. M-Sgt. McBrayer is a veteran, having been in the service about five years—overseas in England for 3 years. He says there's no place like home.

—It won't be long now until we invade Japan; we will teach those slant-eyed vermin the meaning of unconditional surrender, mentions T. B. Maddux of Roswell.

Meet Pfc. Benny Sandoval, just arrived from overseas, ladies and gentlemen. He has been wounded twice and was awarded the Silver Star. He is glad to be home.

A lady went into a butcher-shop and to her surprise bought two juicy steaks. The butcher then asked her if she wanted a roast and some hamburger, saying he had plenty. She purchased both of these items, and was flabbergasted. Next, the lady said she wanted the meat delivered. Whereupon the butcher pointed to the wagon and replied, "Sorry, madame—you've just eaten the horse!"

Richmond Hust

L. R. (Richmond) Hust, 73, old resident of this county passed away at home of his daughter Mrs. James Greer last Sunday night at about 10 o'clock, after an illness of several years.

Funeral services were held at the Baptist Church with Rev. Oldham presiding and interment was had at the Nogal cemetery in the family lot.

The floral offerings were beautiful and the large attendance was composed of the many friends of the family from here; Nogal and elsewhere over the county.

Richmond Hust was born in state of Missouri in the year of 1872 and came to this locality in 1890. Throughout his lifetime, he followed farming and stock raising. In the year of 1892 he was married to Miss Rebecca Hurley and to that union was born, nine children, three of whom passed away years ago. Survivors are Marlon, Three Rivers; Otis, Oklahoma; George, Tularosa; Elmer, serviceman in France; Roy, El Paso; Gladys Greer, Carrizozo. Three brothers William of Capitan; Seth of Weiser, Idaho and Carol of Oregon. One sister Mrs. Melvin McGregor of Weiser, Idaho, and ten grand-children and one great-grand-child.

"Rich" Hust, as he was known by his many friends, had no enemies, but was one of those home-spun friends to everybody with whom he came in contact. His manner of living was to make friends instead of losing any. He was strongly patriotic, charitable and generous to everybody. Surviving relatives have the sympathy of our community.

Presque Isle, Me.—Pfc. Joe A. Morales, 27, veteran of 32 months service as a gunner in the European Theatre of Operations, arrived at the Presque Isle Army Airfield today aboard an Air Transport Command plane of the North Atlantic Division's "Snowball" fleet. He has been awarded the following medals of decorations: American Defense ribbon, ETO ribbon and the Good Conduct medal. He is the son of Salvador Morales, Carrizozo, N. M.

Kimbrell Awarded Bronze Star Medal

By direction of the President, and under the provisions of AR 600-45, as amended, and Memorandum No. 35, Hq. Ninth U. S. Army, 8 Sept. 1944, an amended, the Bronze Star Medal is awarded to the following:

Richard H. Kimbrell, 38400819, Corporal, MD, xxx xxx, 378th Infantry Regiment, for heroic achievement in connection with military operations, on 4 April 1945, in the vicinity of Hamm, Germany.

Cpl. Kimbrell drove his jeep repeatedly to the north end of the canal bridge in Hamm, where he evacuated casualties under artillery and sniper fire. Corporal Kimbrell's courageous actions on this occasion resulted in affording wounded men the earliest possible medical treatment, reflecting distinct credit on him and on the military service. Entered military service from New Mexico. His home is in Picacho.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Chavez had the pleasure of a visit during the first week of July from Mr. Chavez' brother, Rev. Henry J. Chavez, S. J. Father Chavez was enroute from Aulesville, N. Y. to his new station at Sacred Heart Catholic Church in El Paso, Texas. While in El Paso, Father Chavez will also assist in editing "La Revista Catolica," a Spanish weekly with a wide circulation throughout the Southwest and Latin-American countries. Mr. Chavez is Public Welfare Supervisor in Carrizozo.

Mr. and Mrs. Willy Hansen and baby daughter of the Golden Key Night Club near Capitan were here the last of the week.

USELESS COWBOY

By ALAN LeMAY

THE STORY THUS FAR: Melody Jones and George Fury rode into Payneville, strangers, and mistaken for the wanted outlaw, Monte Jarrad, were rushed out to her ranch by Cherry, Monte's girl. As a posse was after them Melody and Fury were taken to the Rowntree deserted cottage. He changed his saddle for Monte's and started out. Monte found Cherry and was told the latest developments. Melody returned to Payneville, entered the bar and met Lee, who told him that he knew he was not Monte. He kept Melody covered until Lee came in, covered them both while he marched Melody out. Lee intended to shoot it out with Melody when they were alone on the trail.

CHAPTER X

"What good's the corpse of any man?" Lee Gledhill asked. "No, I don't want him. Leave him stay where he lays."

"Where you got off the trail, you bull-headed bazoop," Melody said, "is on this here idea I killed him. I never done so. Because he ain't daid. He's a hell of a sight more alive than one of us is going to be, if you keep on like you been. Blame it," he finished, "I'm getting tired of this!"

"Then how come you got his saddle?"

"I got it off'n his girl, damn it." Lee Gledhill was beginning to glare with that look of outrage which comes to a man who is becoming bewildered, and bitterly resents it.

"I'm supposed to think she was wearin' it?"

"I put it on Harry—on my pony—as a favor. The idea was maybe it would fool some jackass like you, long enough for Monte to get away. But I'm blamed if I'll go through with it no more. If I'd knowed the botheration this here was going to be, I wouldn't of tetchted the whole thing with a prod-pole."

Lee was looking at Melody weirdly, now. "How well do you know Monte Jarrad?"

"Don't know him any. I never seen him, yet."

"So you aim to have me think—" Lee Gledhill's voice was strange—"you want me to think you was damn fool enough to let some girl talk you into a thing like this here? You figure I'll believe that such a damn fool could ever have got his full growth?"

Melody thought he had him there. "Here I be," he said, "ain't I?"

Lee Gledhill said, looking almost frightened. "I never lusted to nothing like this." He turned eadgy again. "What's the name of this girl?"

"Monte's girl? Cherry de Longpre."

"That's her name, all right," Gledhill admitted, worse bothered than before. "Monte spoke it frequent." He stared hard at Melody as if looking at an incredible, perhaps dangerous monstrosity. "I don't believe you, natcherly," he said. "It ain't in human reach to swaller no such a lie as that lie is. But you never killed him. That I know, now."

They did not have to ride far, as it worked out. Cherry de Longpre was already nearing Payneville, powdering the road.

As Melody and his captor topped a long rise, a tower of dust was boiling toward them. Lee Gledhill drew Melody off the road into the brush; but Melody almost immediately recognized the de Longpre buckboard, with Cherry driving, and George Fury beside her on the seat. George's horse was tied on behind.

Melody was able to apprise Lee Gledhill in time for Lee to flag the buckboard. Cherry had a hard time pulling down the hard-run team, but got them stopped a hundred yards beyond. Her hands kept tensing and slackening the lines, to hold the rebellious horses, and she looked at Melody and Lee with poker-faced questioning as they came up. "Well?"

Lee Gledhill took a good look at George Fury, then reached over and took Melody's gun out of his chaps pocket. He stuck it into the loose top of his own boot. George stayed quiet, but his eyes were bright and awake, like a watching owl. "You again, huh?" Melody said to George.

George looked sheepish. "I come back," he grunted.

Lee Gledhill went to the buckboard wheel, backing his horse around in such a way that he could watch both Melody Jones and George Fury at the same time. "Your name Cherry de Longpre?"

"Might be," Cherry said sharply. "Like the snap of fingers. 'Take off your hat, if you want to talk to me!'"

Lee Gledhill hesitated, annoyed that she should catch him up, and make a thing of it, when he was thinking about something else. Scuff-sneer. Sulkily he obeyed, and started over.

"You maybe heard of Lee Gledhill," he said. "Uh-huh—I see you have."

"Anybody's heard of him," said Cherry, noncommittally. "There's handbills out, even, crierin' a reward."

A faint innocence came into Gledhill's face. "Been readin', huh? All right. Good. Because I'm him. And seein' you study up every handbill you see, I reckon you know I side-side Monte Jarrad."

"You might even be named Luke Pachter, and work for the express company," Cherry said, with a bang of ice in every word.

"All right," Lee said again. "Never mind who I be. It don't change what I'm here for, any. I want to ask you one thing. What became of Monte Jarrad?"

Her hands were motionless now, and the whole girl was motionless; she watched the riders sidelong, and for moments did not seem to breathe. "I suppose I must have seen him about twice in three years," she said at last. She looked at Melody with a hard, blank stare. "Who's that you've got there?"

Lee Gledhill studied her steadily for a long space. He was looking at her squarely now, holding George Fury in disgust. "You mean to tell me," he said slowly, queerly, "you set there and tell me—you don't know—you don't know who this man is?"

Cherry de Longpre looked Melody Jones straight in the eyes, but her own eyes were blank. There was no message in them, either; any more than he could have found in a couple of puddles of gray rain.

"I never saw him before in all my life," Melody Jones stared at Cherry de Longpre unbelievably. Cherry looked sad and dreamy, showing no sign of tension.

"Yew befewzled numpus!" George Fury shouted at Gledhill. "Has everybody gone crazy here but me?"

"Who the hell is this?" Gledhill demanded of Cherry. He kept his gun on George Fury, and the corner of his eye upon Melody.

Cherry looked at Gledhill with ostentatious significance, and tapped her forehead. "Different," she told him. "Confused like, but helpless."

"Never you mind her," George shouted at Gledhill. "She's in it."

carbine stood. The carbine whipped up, not smoothly, as a rifleman might have taken it, but with a direct, purposeful practicality, as she might have caught up a broom. She planted the muzzle hard in the middle of Lee Gledhill's back.

"Get your hands up!" she blazed at him. "Melody, take his gun!"

Lee Gledhill's whole body went rigid with a jerk, as if he had been struck by lightning. Then very slowly his hands came up. Melody took Lee's gun, and recovered his own.

She snapped orders at Melody and George, and her cool, indifferent weariness was gone. "Saddle my pony," she fung at them. "I ride that old punkin-seed mare. Then throw down the corral bars, and turn everything out. Put those broom-tails into a stampede that will carry them halfway to Texas!"

"What about this feller's horse?"

"We'll lead him with us."

"Horse thieves hang," Lee Gledhill said, "where I come from!"

"You'll find him tied about five miles down the trail."

George Fury kept Lee Gledhill's hands up while Cherry changed into riding clothes. By that time Melody had saddled her round-bellied old roan, and he held it for her to mount. Cherry came close to the animal, then stood hesitating.

"What you aim to do?"

"This time I know you're leaving the country! I know because I'm going with you and see that you do."

"You think a heap of that Monte jigger, don't you?"

She didn't answer him.

Melody looked depressed. "Okay," he decided. "You love him, then."

"I always thought I did. Since I was fourteen years old."

"And nothing he done ever changed it," Melody kept on.

"I don't change easy," Cherry said. "Who ever loved a man for what he did, anyway? That's got nothing to do with it. If it did, the population of this country would die out quick!"

Cherry stole a quick glance at him; but there was no more bitterness in his face than there had been in his tone. She spoke in a monotone, not looking at him.

"There's one other thing I want you to do. Not now—some time, after all this has blown over. I want you to come back here then, and turn up the express company's strongbox. I want you to give it back to the people it belongs to."

"Cain't."

"I can't make you do it, if you won't."

"Tain't that. I jest don't know where it's at."

"I'm going to show you."

He turned and looked at her, but she did not meet his eyes. "Monte told me where it is," she said. "He told me when he thought he was going to die. There's an old, old cabin that near everybody has forgot. Monte's used it before; but he'll never use it again. It has dove walls, four feet through. There's a slab sill to the only window. Once when Monte was hiding out, he dug a cache in the wall, under that slab. It's near big enough to hide a man, if a man could breathe in there. And that's where the strongbox is, with more money in it than you ever saw in your life. So I guess you know I trust you, now."

"Where did you say this cabin—"

"I'm taking you there."

They rode a mile in silence. The slow dusk of the mountain country was closing in. "I suppose," Melody said at last, "you'll be going back to the Busted Nose, then, after you show me where it's at."

"I don't know. And I don't care much. I'm sick of the whole forsaken thing. But I'm going to see you fetched out of this, before I do anything else."

"What? Why?"

"Because you don't know how to take care of yourself, or what's good for you—that's why!"

"I don't know why," Melody said, "you set yourself to all this trouble, now."

There was bitterness in Cherry's voice, not his.

"I don't blame you for saying that," Cherry said. "If ever a man had a right to get sarcastic, you're it."

"I didn't mean it that way."

Cherry angered unaccountably. "You never mean anything," she lashed at him. "You never complain about anything, or demand anything, or let out a holler—butter wouldn't melt in your teeth! But I know what you're thinking, just the same!"

"I carved his name on a tombstone," she whimpered, "and dropped it square on top of you! How was I to know you wouldn't run? You spoiled everything just because you wouldn't run. But I should have told you. I should have told you what I was trying to do, so you could have had open eyes."

Her voice sounded so queer that he leaned forward over his saddle horn to peer into her face; and he saw that she was crying.

"You'd of been wrong," Melody said gravely, "if so do done. Because I'd of told you to go chase a string-bee, and I'd of rode on."

"I wish I was dead!" Cherry burst out hysterically.

"Don't feel that way," Melody consoled her. "I wouldn't of missed it."

Kathleen Norris Says:

Many Wives Aid the Enemy

"Mollie," she says, "is a perfectly good girl, but she has her friends at the house—all the time, who are laughing and making candy and going to afternoon movies."

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

MORALE WRECKERS

THINGS have just been running down at home since Ted and Larry went away to war," whined a woman to me in the market the other day. "You see," she went on, "Larry was making good money and he helped out a lot, and by this time I suppose Ted would have been a wage-earner, too. Now with just Betty and Dad at home, we are the most dismal group you can imagine, and the money trouble doesn't help to console us! I can't wait to have the boys get back, when we can get all straightened out, pay our debts and start over."

I looked at this woman in amazement. She loves her sons; she will grieve bitterly if either is taken by war. And yet she could stand there and tell me, with a sort of melancholy pride, that the welcome provided for the boys of the family is going to be complaints, debts, anxieties, responsibilities—no heartening assurance of the family's solvency and security, no encouraging plans for rest and recuperation—just the old tedious complaining and protesting against the general injustices of fate.

Another woman wrote to her son that she and his grandmother, who have been living together, have had so serious a disagreement that they are going to law about it. She asks him to answer several questions by return mail: Does he remember his grandmother saying that his mother had been mixed up in an unsavory love affair before her marriage; will he testify that his grandmother often called his mother ugly names, and so on.

The kindly son, wasting the best years of his life in the bleak Aleutians, must sit down and handle the quarrels of the two undisciplined women.

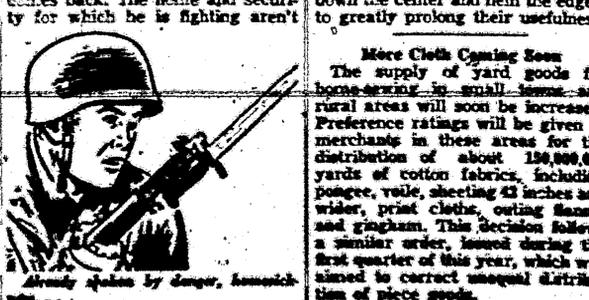

Kiss Down His Wife.

Another woman writes her son disparaging letters about his wife. Mollie, she says, is a perfectly good girl, but she has friends at the house all the time who are laughing and making candy and going to afternoon movies, and the mother-in-law thinks it is a shame to have Bob's money wasted that way.

And again a homesick man must open letters that fill his heart with bitterness and despair.

As for the "Dear John" letters—these have become a recognized aid to the enemy! The "Dear John" letter is a missile that opens with the shattering phrase, "I have been thinking of us and our married life, and I believe we would both be happier if we were to obtain a divorce and make a fresh start with other mates."

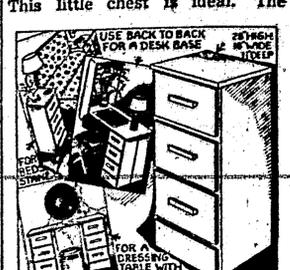

Don't smile at this and dismiss it as only an occasional thing. It is a very real and desperate menace to the morale and peace of mind of our fighting boys. Hundreds and hundreds of these cruel notes go forth daily, and the effect they have on a man whose nerves are shaken already by danger, by the loss of comrades, by homesickness, mosquitoes and strangeness may be imagined. The woman he loves doesn't want to see him any more. The little children who cried when daddy went away won't be his children when he comes back. The home and security for which he is fighting aren't Always spoken by danger, homesick men...

These Useful Chests Are Easy to Make

DOES it surprise you to think of making good-looking useful furniture at home? The secret is to start with something simple. This little chest is ideal. The block front construction of the drawers makes them as easy to put together as a box.

A chest of this kind is always useful in an odd corner of the bathroom, kitchen or a closet. But, when you have made one, you are sure to want a pair for use as a dressing table. The desk may be used for a dinette table. Or the dressing table may have a longer top.

NOTE—Pattern 222 gives large cutting diagrams for all parts of this chest of drawers and illustrated step-by-step directions for its construction. A complete list of materials is included. To get Pattern 222, send 15 cents with name and address direct to:

JOAN EDWARDS has it to her credit that she wasn't discovered by her uncle, the star-maker, Gus Edwards, but got to the top by herself. But the young star of "The Hit Parade" did want her uncle to be present at one of her broadcasts, so she arranged to go to the Coast for some guest performances, and have her uncle, who has been ill for so long, brought to one of them. Joan as the mother of lovely young Judy Ann, aged 1 1/2, is a different person from the talented singer and pianist the public knows; she'd like to spend a lot more time with that young lady if she could. But she's tied to "The Hit Parade" for years to come.

It's nothing new for Director Mitchell Leisen to lend his own belongings as props for pictures. He did it for the eighth time for "Masquerade in Mexico," when Dorothy Lamour had to be shown with a lot of smart luggage. The property department couldn't supply matched bags, wardrobe cases and a steamer trunk—so you'll see Dorothy surrounded by Mr. Leisen's very expensive traveling kit.

Alexis Smith wound up her role in "The Two Mrs. Carrrolls" at Warner Bros. on a Saturday afternoon, and immediately walked across the studio lot to begin work in "Night and Day," based on the life and music of Cole Porter; she's seen as Mrs. Porter.

For three years Metro has been grooming Jacqueline White for big things; she was signed up right out of college, and has had just one picture role, in "Song of Russia." She gets her first big role in "The Yearling," playing opposite Gregory Peck.

"Queen for a Day," the Cinderella show aired daily over Mutual, will become a picture; Ed Golden's bought the film rights, and it will be released through United Artists. In case you haven't heard the show, it's the one on which a queen for a day is chosen from the studio audience, and then is given her every wish. In the picture the Queen will probably drop in on various movie stars.

Two famous mysteries, written in the last century, will reach the screen by way of the Warner Bros. studio. They're by Wilkie Collins. One is "The Moonstone"—and they're better than many a modern whodunit.

Rise Stevens takes another step up the ladder with that new radio show of hers that is the summer replacement for "Information Please." And it's a novel idea to have a different musical director each week, from one of the leading motion picture companies.

Several weeks ago Lulu McConnell, feminine star of the hilarious "It Pays to Be Ignorant," was ordered to a hospital by her doctor. She was a good patient till Friday came; then she defied doctors and nurses, got up and dressed, and was off to the studio for her broadcast. Like the show's other stars, she's an old-timer in the theater. "When I can't get to the broadcast, I'll be dead," she told Tom Howard.

Woody apartment seekers in Hollywood rejoiced when a sign "Apartment for Rent," was hung outside one of the buildings of the Monogram studio that faces the street. Gale Storm was to do a scene for "The Gay Nineties," inspecting the sign—but before camera crews could get there the street was so crowded that it took half an hour for an assistant director to convince them that it was just for a picture.

ODDS AND ENDS—Jane Withers will probably have her own show in the fall. Alice Faye may abandon movies completely, and do an air show with her husband, Phil Harris. . . . Hi Brown, producer-director of "Inner Sanctum," has directed over 35, 000 broadcasts, and during one year had 15 of his own shows on the air. . . . The Ray Bolger show, replacing the Jimmy Durante-Carry Moore one, has a staggering line-up of stars signed for the summer and early fall. . . . Judy Canova's husband left for overseas when their baby was two weeks old—but the proud parents drank a toast to the baby.

GOD'S PURPOSE FOR ABRAHAM

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 12:1-9. GOLDEN TEXT—In thee shall all families of the earth be blessed.—Genesis 12:3.

Separation, which means release from the influence of those things which hinder full development, is a blessing even though it may be difficult. God had a great purpose in mind for Abram, but to accomplish it He had to get him out of his own country, away from the downward pull of heathendom, and out into a new adventure of faith with Him.

Down in the midst of those who worshiped the heavenly bodies was a man who had found that there was no satisfaction for his soul in such worship. He had found the true God, and was ready to respond to His call. We find Abram . . . I. Hearing God's Call (vv. 1-3).

Men who have been used to accomplish great and good things in the world have, like Abraham, been willing to step out into the dark. They have not foreseen greatness nor even a vision for it, but have gone out at God's call, obeying Him day by day, and He has been responsible for the outworking of their destiny.

How important it is to have the listening ear, and the obedient heart. He was attentive to God's word, and willing to take Him at His word.

Abram was strongly attached to his homeland. He was a man of such strength of character and obvious ability, that he undoubtedly held a place of real importance in his own country. To leave that and go out to an unknown destination (Heb. 11:8) called for real faith—and Abram had it!

God had a purpose in calling him out—the establishment of a great nation. Through Abram all the nations of the earth were to be blessed. That stupendous eventuality hung in the balance until he decided to obey God, and we are glad he did.

When God takes anything from us, we can be sure that He is planning a greater blessing to take its place. Material loss often brings spiritual blessing. Separation from family may give a broader relationship to others. Sacrifice for the Lord's service brings hundredfold returns (Matt. 19:29).

II. Responding to God's Command (vv. 4-6).

As the Lord spoke, so Abram departed. He was to be the channel of God's blessing, and he put himself in God's hand for His use. The lives of each of us may, in our own way, be the channels of God's blessings to those round about us; but only if we, like Abram, respond to His call.

The migration of Abram from Chaldea to Canaan is one of the most important events in all history. It was one of the grand turning-points in the story of the human race.

The fact that Abram took with him his entire family into the promised land, reminds us that we are not to go alone into the Lord's heavenly kingdom. We are to take our families with us.

Note also that Abram brought his substance, his riches, with him. That tells us anew that when a man comes into the household of God through Jesus Christ, he is to bring his purse with him. Consecrate your substance as well as yourself and your service to God.

The journey of Abram ended (v. 6) in what is said to be the most beautiful spot in all of Palestine—but even here difficulty faced him, for "the Canaanite was then in the land."

Even so, the Christian life is not one of ease and idleness, but of heroic endeavor and victory. The Promised Land is a type, not of heaven, but of the Christian's life and experience. We, too, find the Canaanite in the land. There is a constant struggle with the world, the flesh and the devil; but there is victory in Christ.

III. Receiving God's Blessing (vv. 7-9).

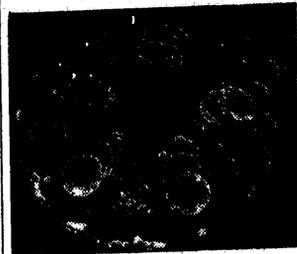

God kept His promise to Abram. True he did not see the entire fulfillment of it, but is that necessary to the man of faith? God says it, we believe it; it becomes our present possession by faith, though the enjoyment of it may be yet to come.

Note that wherever Abram pitched his tent, he built an altar. He was not too hurried or busy to remember God. We, too, are pilgrims and strangers in this world. Let us not fail to raise an altar to God. Whenever we may be, let us leave a testimony for Him.

For such a man, God could well have a high purpose. He was among that noble company who in all ages have "simply obeyed each day the divine orders which were given them, took each day the way of prayer, of righteousness, of duty; content if they had light enough for that and the next step, leaving to a higher will all that should come after. And God charged Himself with their destiny" (J. G. Greenough).

HOUSEHOLD MEMOS by Lynn Chambers

Heap Salad Bowls With Vitamins For Summer

Help Yourself to Vitamins: This pretty as a picture salad bowl is made simply by alternating rows of lettuce wedges and mounds of potato salad, garnished with slices of hard-cooked eggs. It's hearty enough for a main dish, even without meat.

Summer is the time to heap high the salad bowl and bring generous portions of nature's bounty of vitamins and minerals to the table.

Active summer play and strenuous work calls for big servings of health and energy producing foods. That's why the salad bowls play a major role in the menu passage.

There's another reason, too, why salads are going to be important this season. When the butcher has no meat and the cupboard yields nothing of interest to the home-maker, she can bring out to her refrigerator and bring out lovely greens, juicy fruits and berries, toss them together and serve an eye-appealing salad. If more substantial salads are desired, especially for main dishes, they can be flecked with the white and gold of protein-rich eggs, unrationed, luscious bits of chicken or well chilled and subtly seasoned fish.

Vary the trimmings and change the dressing, and no salad can ever become monotonous. If oils and fats for salad dressings are scarce, put them together with sour cream, fruit juices, vinegar or cooked dressings that require little fat.

Here are two main dish salads that will go over big with the family. One stars eggs and the other chicken:

Star Deviled Eggs. (12 Eggs)
12 hard-cooked eggs
1 tablespoon salad dressing
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 1/2 teaspoons mustard
1 1/2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon pepper

Remove shells from eggs. Cut a slice from both ends, cutting the slice at the round end deep enough to expose the yolk. Cut deep gashes into the egg white around the rounded end to give a saw tooth edge.

Pressing gently at the bottom, force out the yolk. Press yolk and egg white that was cut off through the sieve. Add remaining ingredients and beat until smooth. Refill shells. Garnish tops if desired.

To serve as a salad, lay on top if sprigs of watercress or other greens. Or, use as a garnish for other salad platters.

Buffet Chicken Salad. (Serves 8)
2 cups cubed, cooked chicken
1/4 cup french dressing
4 cups boiled rice, chilled

Lynn Says
Different Salad Dressings: If fruits and vegetables do not give enough variety to make salads interesting, season the dressing itself for flavor plus.

Club Dressing: To 1 cup of mayonnaise, add 1 tablespoon chopped currants, 1 tablespoon chopped raisins, 1 tablespoon chopped nuts.

Indian Dressing: 1/4 cup of chow-chow to 1 cup mayonnaise.

Tartar Dressing is excellent on fish salads. To 1 cup mayonnaise, add 2 tablespoons chopped sweet gherkins, 1 tablespoon capers, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and 2 tablespoons chopped olives.

Thousand Island Dressing is easily tossed together. For a cup of mayonnaise, use 1/4 cup chili sauce, 1 tablespoon green pepper and chopped stuffed olives.

Egg dressing is lovely to look at when made by adding 1 chopped hard-cooked egg, 1 tablespoon chopped pimiento and 1 tablespoon India relish to 1 cup mayonnaise.

A bit of leftover meat? Add it to the eggs. Especially good are diced ham, tongue or dried beef.

*Recipe given.

Salt and pepper to taste
Boiled dressing or mayonnaise
Lettuce or greens
Jellied cranberry sauce
Deviled eggs

Combine chicken and french dressing. Chill about 1 hour. Meanwhile cook rice until fluffy and season well according to taste. Just before serving combine chicken, chilled rice and enough salad dressing to moisten. Season. Arrange in individual lettuce cups on platter or salad bowl. Garnish with thick slices of cranberry sauce and deviled eggs. Top with additional dressing, if desired.

There's nothing so cooling on a warm summer night than a jellied tomato salad. Although this recipe provides for a simple salad, it may be varied by adding leftover or chopped, fresh vegetables to it.

Jellied Tomato Salad. (Serves 10)

1 quart hot, stewed tomatoes
1 teaspoon salt
2 packages of lemon flavored gelatin
1/2 cup sliced, pickled onions or 1/4 teaspoon onion juice
1/4 cup sliced stuffed olives
1/4 cup diced green pepper
1 cup diced celery

Dissolve gelatin in hot tomatoes. Add salt and cool. When gelatin begins to congeal, add the remaining ingredients. Place in a large mold, rinsed with cold water, or in individual molds. Chill until firm. Serve on salad greens with either french dressing or mayonnaise.

A fruity salad doubles for the dessert, if so desired. This one is especially good when served with tiny cakes or finger cookies:

Ocean Breeze Salad. (Serves 6)

2 tablespoons lemon juice
2 cups diced honeydew melon
1 cup watermelon balls or slices
1/2 cup white grapes, split and seeded
2 cup grapefruit sections
3 tablespoons preserved ginger
1 1/2 tablespoons gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1/4 cup sugar
3 tablespoons chopped maraschino cherries

Mix gelatin and water and let stand 5 minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Combine fruits, lemon juice, sugar and ginger. Chill thoroughly. Add gelatin and pour into a mold. Chill until firm. If it is obtainable, 1/2 pint whipped cream may be added to fruits before they are mixed with the gelatin.

Green, White and Gold: As picturesque as a garden in full bloom is this simple salad made by placing chilled deviled eggs on crisp sprigs of watercress. Use extra dressing if desired, and serve for luncheon or side dish at garden supper.

Your salad can be better than just "passing" if your dressings are smooth and well seasoned so they can complement the other ingredients of the salad bowl. Here are several good basic suggestions:

Cooked Dressing.

1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 teaspoon salt

Dissolve sugar in vinegar and stir until it dissolves. Beat in milk until mixture thickens. Pour over cabbage or other greens.

Sour Cream Dressing.

1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup sugar

Mix ingredients in order given. Chill.

Thousand Island Dressing.

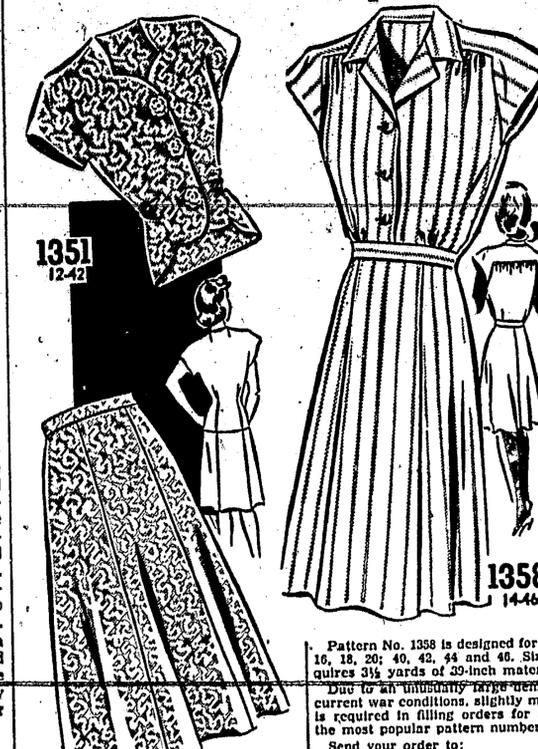

1 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chili sauce
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle

Mix all ingredients in order given. Serve over vegetable salads.

Household Hints

If you wish to make an extra hole in a strap and haven't the necessary belt punch, drill the hole with brace and drill.

By adding a pinch of salt to the white of an egg it will beat to a stiff froth more quickly.

After washing blankets rinse them in water in which a block of camphor has been dissolved. They can then be stored without fear of attack by moths.

If you loathe breakfast-rushing, then before leaving the kitchen after supper set out the percolator, one or two pans, cereal, measuring cup, glasses and dishes. It will give you a flying start in the morning.

Tommy and Sis, They Can't Miss

Through his profits as a junior direct salesman of a Kansas newspaper, nine-year-old Tommy Jovalls is the proud possessor of a $100 and a $50 War Bond. But he doesn't own them alone. He asked the man at the post office to make them out in the name with his two-year-old sister, Frances, as co-owner. He presented them to her on their joint birthday last month.

Tommy has been "in business" since last July. Every afternoon after school, he pines his wares up and down Kansas Avenue in Topeka. "It was his own idea to save his money," according to his father. "As soon as he started, he began bringing his money home to his mother, and asked her to save it for him. He wanted to put it into War Bonds. He wanted to do something for his America."

Asked what he intended to use the bonds for, Tommy replied, "Some day I want to go to college, and I want Frances to go, too."

Fat-Salvage Bee To Aid in Licking National Fat Shortage

It's been ages since we had an old-fashioned "bee" in these parts, but just as we've always pitched in to help a neighbor, so must we pitch in for our country.
To help make hundreds of folks are trying to make up the deficit of over 1,200,000,000 pounds. But their fats aren't enough.

Women in small cities, towns

"Do's and Don'ts" for Your Success in Canning Tomatoes

The huge number of new home canners who sail through with flying colors, while those who boast of years of experience founder, is amazing. Or is it? Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company, manufacturers of glass fruit jars, sees nothing unusual in the situation because she finds it easier to teach a person who has never canned than to "unteach" one backed by years of haphazard experience.

To prove her point, Miss Kimbrough calls attention to the fact that tomatoes rate top place in both ease of canning and spoilage after canning. What's the answer? Sheer carelessness plus old-fashioned open-kettle canning. Anybody can rig up a water-bath canner for processing fruits and tomatoes. A lard can or a wash boiler, fitted with some sort of platform to hold the jar half an inch or so from the bottom of the utensil is all that is needed for a water-bath.

Carelessness Causes Spoilage
Spoilage of water-bath processed tomatoes is usually traceable to carelessness in selection and preparation or failure to follow the manufacturer's latest instructions. Pre-war instructions should in most instances be forgotten. Remembering them gets a lot of old-timers into trouble.

Tomatoes should ripen on the vine and be used as soon as they are firm ripe. They should be canned the day they are gathered, but if kept cool they may stand as much as 24 hours before processing. This is mentioned because some persons must depend upon a market for their supply. Any tomato containing a decayed spot, no matter how small, should be discarded. Canning those from which such spots have been removed leads to spoilage. Soft and over-ripe ones and those from which small spots have been cut may be made into chili sauce or ketchup—never, never into juice. Juice requires sound tomatoes.

The jars, caps, rubbers, and canner should be ready before one prepares the tomatoes. Every tomato should be carefully washed before it is scalded for skinning. If you have no wire basket, a square of cheese cloth will serve the purpose of holding tomatoes for scalding. Simply put enough tomatoes for filling one or two jars on the cloth, catch up the four ends of the square, and hold the "bag" in boiling water from one-half to one minute. Then, if you like, dip the bag in cold water, making it a little cooler to remove the skins. Next use a sharp pointed knife to remove every bit of the core, slip the skins, cut away any green or white spots and drop the tomato into a clean hot jar. Cut tomatoes if they won't go in whole. After two or three tomatoes are in the jar, press them with a clean wooden spoon (one which has been boiled) until they crack and the juice runs out to fill the spaces between the fruit. Yes, "fruit" is right. We call them vegetables because they grow in gardens. When the jar has been filled to within about one inch of the top, add salt to suit your taste, and adjust the cap according to the manufacturer's instructions. After two or three jars have been filled, ease them down in the canner.

Have the water in the canner steaming but not boiling when the jars are in, the water in the canner should cover them an inch or more and should be brought to boiling as quickly as possible. Keep it boiling steadily but gently. When processing time (from 30 to 45 minutes) is up, remove the jars, stand them out of a draft and several inches apart to cool. If most of the pulp goes to the top of the jar and the juice stays at the bottom, it is because the tomatoes were poor quality, picked green, packed too loose, or the water in the canner boiled too hard.

The cold pack, water-bath processed method is probably preferred by the majority of authorities on the subject but for the last few years there has been a trend toward hot packing.

Selection and preparation for hot packing is the same as for cold packing. After the cores and skins are removed, the tomatoes are quartered and cooked until they have boiled gently for 5 minutes. Then they are put into hot jars and processed 20 minutes in a hot-water bath canner.

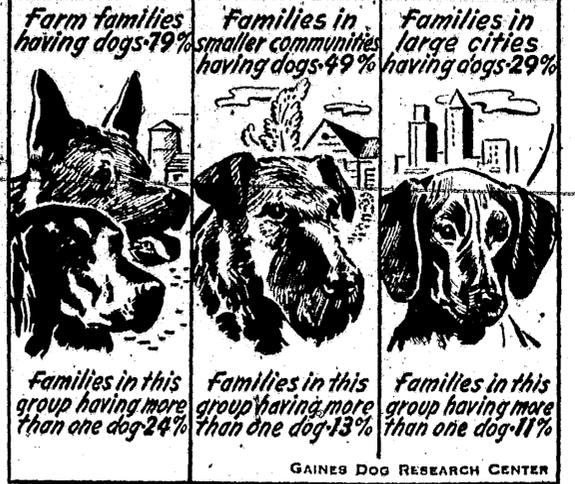

Boil Tomatoes Slowly
Open kettle? That's what causes most of the spoilage! Those who are not willing to adopt the more modern methods should remember that the prepared tomatoes should be boiled slowly for 20 minutes, then poured into hot jars. The kettle of tomatoes and the pans of water holding jars, caps, and rubbers, should stay over the heat so that a jar may be lifted out of boiling water, placed on a cloth folded in a pan, then filled with boiling tomatoes, and sealed lightning quick.

Mason jars which are to be sealed with zinc caps and ideal jars may be filled to the top but should not be overflowed. About one-half inch head space should be left when glass top or two-piece metal Vacuum Seal caps are used.

Yes, open kettle canning is hot work and results are uncertain, so why not now, since food is so priceless, change to better methods? Of course, the newest is not always the best. For example, oven canning, new in comparison to some of the others, has been given a fair trial and condemned because it is unreliable and dangerous.

A great many persons like to process tomatoes ten minutes at five pounds in a steam pressure cooker. This is safe enough but tends to over-cook the tomatoes, so our best home canners use a water bath for processing all acid foods.

DOG AN OMNIVORE OR A CARNIVORE?

Meat as Part of Well-Balanced Diet Found More Beneficial Than Meat Alone

Science is revising its ideas on the nature of the dog and his nutritional requirements, says the Gaines Dog Research Center, New York City.

Most people, even dog experts, have thought of the dog as a carnivorous animal. Actually, the dog's digestive tract is definitely that of an omnivore—the same order of life to which man belongs. That the dog's metabolic processes are much like those of man has been pointed out by such eminent researchers in the field of nutrition as Prof. C. A. Elvehjem of the University of Wisconsin and Prof. Clive M. McCoy of Cornell University.

In support of the new view these facts have been cited:

1. There are in the United States great numbers of dogs that have passed through their whole lives in good health without tasting fresh meat or raw bones.
2. At the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, good growth in dogs has been obtained on a diet which contained no meat at all.
3. In various other experiments it has been found that straight red muscle meat, as fed under our civilized conditions, is far from being a complete food—in fact, it is far less satisfactory than meat fed as part of a well-balanced diet.

In his authoritative work, "Nutrition of the Dog," Prof. McCoy states that a dog kept on a modern dry food receives the identical good nourishment as a dog in the wild state who subsists on, let us say, rabbits—head, for example. The bones in the dog food provides the required calcium and phosphorus. The meat scraps, milk products or soybeans in the dog food furnish the protein otherwise provided by the muscles of the rabbit. The corn or wheat products provide the carbohydrates which the wild animal would have to get from the plant products in the stomach of the rabbit. And the cod-liver oil or concentrates mixed in with the good dry food provide the vitamins which the dog in the wild state obtains from the rabbit's liver.

The condition of America's dogs after three years of war amply substantiates Prof. McCoy's thesis, according to the Center. When the manufacture of canned dog foods was discontinued in 1942, many dog owners approached the task of changing their pets' diet with trepidation and fear. But they could have saved themselves needless worry, as their experience proved. The dogs not only took readily to the dry foods but proceeded to thrive on them. Because of their success with dry dog foods, there is now a big question whether canned dog foods will ever again regain the leadership they held before the war, it is stated.

LABOR LEGISLATION FORCED BY STRIKES

WASHINGTON. — A fair-trade practices bill for labor (Richberg) is supposed to be around congress until the coming expected wave of union strikes generates an irresistible demand for its adoption—then it, or something like it, is passed. This, indeed, is the sotto voce program. Such delay may sound like a back-end way to handle an expected national crisis, because the bill proposes to avert the strikes by providing machinery for just settlements, not only in the public interest, but in the long-range interest of the unions. Yet you can see what is beginning to happen to the legislation in the probable absence of Alabama's Senator Lister Hill from the list of sponsors.

Donald Richberg

This was supposed to be a four-senator bill, introduced by two Democrats and two Republicans, in fact, the same ones who sponsored the declaration of senatorial peace principles, Ball, Burton, Hatch—and Hill. But on this bill, Hill says he was "just too busy" to fill out the B2H2 leadership, so it became B2H1. Most people think the real reason is that the CIO was instrumental in Hill's recent re-election.

The "too busy" treatment is likely to be applied generally to the proposal, because nothing in its announced purposes can very well be openly opposed by the unions, or anyone.

Basically, the bill would require the arbitrary unions to moderate their public-be-damned policy. Disruptions of public service, such as in the Fifth Avenue bus slowdown in New York recently, where the drivers just decided to run an hour or so late, as well as strikes in public utilities, milk deliveries, etc., would be prevented by judicial compulsory arbitration.

This is in the sound interest of the unions, because all now are suffering from the conspicuous public-be-damned policy of a few unions.

The bill was not written by manufacturers or employers, but by an old union lawyer, Donald Richberg, who composed the most successful labor law ever enacted, the Railway Labor act. Under it the railway brotherhoods have prospered better than other labor unions, and without strikes.

The senatorial sponsors are not anti-labor people either, but somewhat left-leaning. The way they described their general purposes is this:

ONE BOARD PLAN

They would break up the competitive handling of labor through various government agencies now, and put all conciliation and mediation activities in a new five-man board. A second board of three would handle complaints of unfair practices by labor or employer, not just labor alone, as now.

The Wagner act would be further amended to make unions democratic and to limit the closed shop to places where the union controls at least 75 per cent of the workers and is open to all members, and thus is not in itself a closed shop handing employment down from generation to generation in its own ranks, or otherwise limiting workers' rights.

Further logical limitations would cut down the number of capricious strikes now expanding in the country.

Labor could stop all the national opposition arising against it in many states where laws or constitutional changes are being advocated or enacted, to protect public interest against the unions, if they would take the mild and reasonable purposes of this bill, or alter them to suit the situation. If they would say the word to senators like Hill, the bill would go through in a minute.

Unfortunately too many labor leaders now are shortsighted reactionaries who want to defend the status quo and prevent any reform of existing unsatisfactory conditions.

So it is quite possible congress will not only wait until the strike-horse runs away but the whole labor barn burns down, before taking up this key to lock the door.

Excessive use of power always kills itself by its own excesses. History is bulging with undeviating examples. Latest one is Hitler, who convinced his own defeat by carrying his power to lengths which caused an overwhelming opposition to be aroused. Statesmen, labor leaders or other humans seem unable to realize that power lasts only as long as it is wisely used.

Those who read this column weekly on the legal power built up by the Black faction of the Supreme court for unions to fix prices, realize the trend of this faction.

They 'Beat Plowshares Into Swords'—Workers* In a Farm Implement Factory Are Turning Out One of Greatest Fighting Machines of the War

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

WHEN the completed history of our struggle with Japan finally is written, considerable attention should be given the story of how an agricultural implement parts manufacturer—whose products are used every day in every rural section of America, developed one of the most spectacular fighter vehicles of the war.

The company is Ingersoll Steel & Disc division of Borg-Warner corporation. The war weapon its engineers designed and that one of its factories manufactures is the Beach-Buster (LVT-3), the very latest development in amphibian invasion tanks.

The Beach-Buster made its combat debut at Okinawa. Its performance met with favor from high navy and marine officers—so much so that space in the history books of the future might as well be reserved now so its story may be told.

To the Japs, the amphibian tanks that have equipped our invasion forces—the LVT-1, the LVT-2, the LVT-3 and now the Beach-Buster, have proved a lethal headache. So, while the record of their wartime usefulness cannot be completed until final victory, a sidelight on their development and manufacture is in order now. It is a recital of which every American, and particularly every farmer, can be proud.

As early as 1933 the problem of designing an amphibian tractor, capable of taking relief deep into the mangrove swamps of the Florida Everglades, was assigned to Donald Roebling, a year-around resident of Clearwater, by his father.

Young Roebling sprang from a line of inventors, his grandfather, Col. Washington Roebling, being the designer of the famous Brooklyn bridge. And he and his father had seen with their own eyes the devastation, human misery and helplessness that had been left in the wake of the 1933 Florida hurricane.

Roebling knew that only a vehicle that operated equally well on land and water could do the job that was needed. For six years he experimented at Clearwater with models. He designed and tested hulls and tractor treads, power plants and gear ratios. And finally, the first Roebling amphibian, the LVT-1 or Alligator, rolled from his machine shop at Clearwater.

That vehicle later was demonstrated to the navy off the Virginia coast at a time when our military forces were occupied in peacetime war maneuvers. British military officials eyed the performance of the LVT-1 with keen interest, for they were already at war.

Early in the fall of 1941, C. S. Davis, president, and Roy C. Ingersoll, vice president of Borg-Warner, were called by the navy to Washington. They agreed to study design and suggest improvements of the Roebling amphibian tank, for even then we were close to war.

The result of that agreement was typically American. Not a marine expert but an automotive engineer Ben A. Swennes, was charged with responsibility in the job. He began experiments and design in the Borg-Warner laboratories at Rockford, Ill. An Ingersoll factory at Kalamazoo, Mich., contracted to build 50 of the Alligators for the navy. And folks along historic Rock river, which winds through downtown Rockford, began to stay awake nights because of "that fellow Swennes' strange goings-on!"

While Swennes was applying automotive principles to a sea-going job and, as he himself now admits, "incorporating unorthodox designs that no marine engineer would waste time with," the Ingersoll company began and completed its first "am-track" contract. Meanwhile, such agricultural necessities as heat-treated spring teeth for barrows, cultivators, weedeaters and rakes continued in production. Later, Ingersoll received a contract to manufacture the LVT-2 on a design supplied by the navy. Hundreds of LVT-2s were manufactured before the often-accelerated contract was completed, ahead of schedule.

Meanwhile, Swennes had put together an amphibian tank that today, as the Beach-Buster, is reputed to incorporate a greater amount of automotive design than any marine craft that floats. It worked. But before it was presented to the navy's bureau of ships, Swennes, watching tests in Florida, was seized with an inspiration.

Returning hurriedly to Rockford he worked for 48 uninterrupted hours, emerging with the design for a ramp gate which can be raised and lowered at the rear of the "am-track." This single feature is credited with saving hundreds of lives. Using it, our invasion forces unload men, equipment, ammunition or supplies while facing the enemy. An entire tonload of material may be yanked out in a matter of moments. The importance of this is more fully realized when it is known that the Beach-Buster easily handles 10,000 pounds of cargo or 50 men fully equipped.

Danger of stalling in the face of the enemy is avoided by the tank's hydraulic transmission which "feels" for the beach, shifting automatically to the required gear ratio without attention from the driver as soon as the tracks on which it runs encounter any obstacle.

Numerous battle reports have come back to Kalamazoo, to the men and women who make the amtracks, of the prowess of their product. "Tough landings they have made easier. Almost impossible landings, like Tarawa, Saipan and, most recently, Iwo Jima, they have made possible." Rear Adm. C. H. Woodward told them last March when the navy returned, for permanent exhibit, the pilot "Model B" amphibian tank that Swennes had designed at Rockford.

Other facts were revealed by Admiral Woodward: Tarawa proved the LVT absolutely indispensable for successful amphibious attack; that at Saipan the LVTs were stars of the show, sliding over reefs, hitting the beach with guns blazing, plowing through the jungle; and, most amazing, that the LVTs made a surprise 125-mile sweep in a flanking movement around the southern horn of Leyte.

He Invented a Rolling Disc Blade to Cut Tough Prairie Sod

S. A. Ingersoll, founder of the company, had decided as a farm boy and lumber business already was established.

It is told of him that in those earlier times, S. A. Ingersoll was a man of many duties. Simultaneously, he was plant manager, workman, salesman, shipping clerk, traffic manager, bookkeeper and treasurer. So that his income might be supplemented and the opportunity for steady employment spread more evenly among his employees, the senior Ingersoll became also a barrel maker, catering to the needs of fruit growers. He built and operated a canning factory.

Twenty years after the business was started, he moved it to Galesburg, Ill. It was there during World War I; supplying necessary parts for farm implements when the plant was completely destroyed by fire. Undismayed, Ingersoll workers continued their production, during a bitter winter, while new walls and roof were built around them.

E. Rockey, commanding the fifth marine division, wrote to his friend, Roland D. Doane, Ingersoll sales manager: "Naturally the tall-gate jobs were much more useful, but all of them (LVTs) really saved our bacon in the early days of the show because they were the only vehicle that could negotiate the sand hills leading from the water's edge to the fighting zone."

"So the LVTs carried the beans and bullets directly from the ships to the front line units and carried the wounded on the return trip and they did this for some five or six days before we could get our motor transportation running."

Such reports heartened the Ingersoll workers. But production schedules were upped again and again. In the fall of 1944 additional employees were sorely needed, and Ingersoll officials tried a novel experiment.

Into such typical rural Michigan communities as Paw Paw, Augusta, Vicksburg, Schoolcraft, Decatur and Lawton—10 towns, all told—within a 30-mile radius of Kalamazoo—moved the caravan in whose success the American people had a stake.

The caravan was fashioned around a newly completed Beach-Buster. Accompanying it were navy veterans, including a navy nurse, just home from battle duties. The vets told their stories. And follow-up crews received job applications the next day from those who wanted to join Ingersoll. Many were from farmers who had harvested their crops. The caravan idea rates as the spearhead that helped Beach-Buster employment rise at Ingersoll's from a peacetime 300 to more than 1,200 persons.

National recognition of the production record of these workers followed last March 20 when Vox Pop broadcast its regular weekly program from Kalamazoo, interviewed plant employees. It came again on May 21 when the Army-Navy "E" was awarded the Borg-Warner factory.

Ingersoll inaugurated another novelty with free rides on the amphibians as a reward to workers for superior attendance records. The practice interfered not at all with routine as all tanks are "battle tested" on land and one in every 50 is tested on water before they are placed in pairs on flat cars and started westward from Kalamazoo.

With the help of navy engineers, constant tests are being conducted on the amtracks and refinements that are indicated by battle performance added. The headquarters of Ben Swennes has been moved to Kalamazoo and the results of his research are proved daily on lake, land and in swamp.

Co-ordinator of all this activity is R. S. ("Bob") Ingersoll, son of Roy and grandson of the late S. A. Ingersoll, founder of the company. His two uncles, Harold G. and Stephen L. Ingersoll, are directors of the Borg-Warner organization. Harold manages the Ingersoll plant at New Castle, Ind.; Stephen L. established the West Pullman works in 1929.

When the emergency of World War II arose, four Ingersoll plants—at Chicago, Chicago Heights, New Castle, Ind., and Kalamazoo, Mich., were in operation.

Those who knew him say that had S. A. Ingersoll been alive to participate he would have found abiding satisfaction in the promptness with which all four were converted from producing implements of peace to instruments of war. For here truly is a company that has beaten plowshares into swords.

HONORARY DEGREES FOR 1945

Wenkel, Thaddeus Z. — Citizen extraordinary: During the entire period of the war you at no time sought, through patronage of underground restaurants, to secure choice oversized steaks on meatless days; You never tried to outwit your neighbor at the butcher market. Furthermore you ate more fish than any man in your community, and didn't demand that it be cooked in butter. We award you the best degree in the house, that of PGS (Patriot and Good Sport), and we are glad to throw in a box of cigars.

Powsley, Wilmer K. — Outstanding American: You are one of the few men in the country who has never blasted WPB. You consistently gave it as your opinion, "I think it has one of the toughest jobs in the land. I'd hate to have to solve its problems." Help yourself to any degree you like and will you stay for a hot dog?

Abercrombie, Jarvis X. — Public official unique: Although occupying high political office, you have never vilified critics, denounced the press, set yourself up as the last word on all subjects or favored spending five dollars where one would suffice. Furthermore you were tolerant, gracious, hard-working and efficient, even when the photographers were not around. We confer on you the degree of Public Servant Extraordinary, in three colors and with red coupons attached.

Wheik, Amos R. — Wottamawf Asked to serve as a judge on one of those radio programs airing the misfortunes of simple people on the radio you indignantly refused, stating vehemently that you thought the use of the air waves to make spectacles of people in distress and befuddlement (even when they seemed to like the hookup) was cheap, tawdry and inexcusable. Have one of our best degrees and help yourself to anything else within our control. You are a man among men.

Jones, Felix M. — Among the citizens of this great country you are a standout. A clerk in a business serving the general public, you have, despite the war, behaved as if customers were welcome. You have retained your prewar smile, tried earnestly to retain goodwill and on only one occasion did you treat a patron as if he were a bum. (On that occasion he was, in fact, a bum.) It is our pleasure to give you a degree in four colors, and how are you fixed for cash?

Popps, Zeke Z. — A business man who knew very well that your frequent trips to the big city were not vital, you cut them out in order to make the problem of transportation and hotel rooms for servicemen less complicated. Furthermore you did it without boasting. And, getting the same results by phone, you refrained from bawling out the toll line operator in case of slight delays. You get the large sized sheepskin and two mint juleps.

ELMER RECALLS IKE'S BASEBALL DAYS

"I played pro baseball in the Kansas State league once under the name of Wilson. Never mind what position; that's one of my secrets." —General Eisenhower.

"I remember the general well in that Kansas league," declared Elmer Twitchell, eminent baseball fan today. "He played any and all positions, and, brother, could he sock!"

"He had everything, including a great head. The first time I ever saw him play ball I said he would go far. Of course, I ain't claiming I knew he would go as far as Africa and Europe."

"Among other things, Ike was a smart pitcher. He had a fast one that's never been equalled. It was the same one he used against the Schickelgruber Giants the last three seasons."

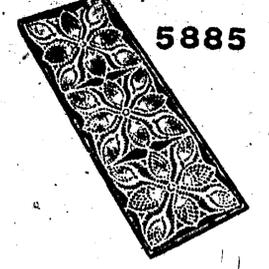

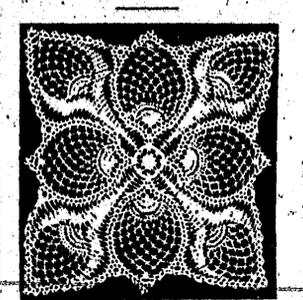

"And he had a change of pace. His slow ball would break right across the middle just when the batter had decided to let it go past. How he fooled the Krant batters this last summer with that one."

"Ike could play shortstop, too. He was fast and he would go after everything. He was a deadly pegger, too. Look at how he threw out 'Bonehead' Hitler in the last game of the series with the bases full."

Can You Remember: Away back when people didn't think the rice presidency was very important? And back when any man anywhere, before voting a strike or slowdown, would first make sure that they would lose the public with them?

Mussolini's imperial Pullman which often took him to those Brenner Pass huddles is now in the hands of the Allies in Rome. What to do with it is a problem. Why not turn it over to the G.I.s for crap games exclusively?

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disturbed Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—the risk of exposure and infection—brings heavy strains on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fall to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.
You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up at night, leg pain, a full head, constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney trouble are: frequent urination, a burning, stinging, or itchy feeling in the bladder, or too frequent urination.
Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to get off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

To Destroy State's Liberty

When one tries to analyze proposed Federal legislation such as the Wagner-Murray Bill (S-1050), one is tempted to give up in confusion.

Under this one bill a political agency in Washington is given the power to tax employers and employes billions of dollars per annum; to grant loans aggregating a billion dollars in the next ten years; to provide grants to states and local governments for public health services; to make grants to states for general assistance of the needy; to provide for the creation of United States Employment Service in the Social Security Board; to establish a national social insurance system covering, as the bill says, "any services of whatever nature performed after December 31st, 1945," with few exemptions.

Apparently the bill would end state unemployment insurance systems.

A new social security tax of 8 per cent on wages up to $3,600 a year would be levied, 4 per cent by the employer, and 4 per cent by the employe. This bill, by grants and gifts of money to states, would make the Federal government dominate the health, welfare and security systems of every state. The people would become wards of the Federal government.

The all-god objectives of the bill are already being brought about in the various states by voluntary action, without Federal compulsion and taxation.

This bill is another big step in program to reduce the states to the position of mere administrative agencies of the Federal government.

Granting that the motives of the sponsors of the bill are the highest, the effect of this proposed legislative panacea for the woes and ills of mankind will be disastrous to individual independence in the United States.—Industrial News Review.

Greer-Frye

Last Saturday evening, July 7, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Greer of Capitan, Miss Mollie Greer and Melvin B. Frye of Thomasville, Pa., were united in marriage with Rev. Hood of the Capitan Methodist Church performing the ceremony. The groom's best man was the bride's brother, Randall Greer and the bridesmaid was Mrs. Jeff Dockery of Lincoln. A double-ring ceremony was performed.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Greer of Capitan. She was born and reared in this locality and has many friends, all of whom are offering their congratulations.

The groom is a clerk in the supply office at Fort Stanton. He is an energetic young business man and the couple will make their home in Capitan, where the best wishes of the community will attend them.

For sale at W. S. Norman residence: 1 crib, 1 high chair, 1 nursery chair, 1 youth bed, 1 pair springs; double-bed size.

Letter from Mrs. Hughes

We had a nice letter this week from Mrs. David C. Hughes of Foresthill, Calif., in which she informs us that her brother, Capt. Frank Shelton of Corona is now in the Philippines and is doing fine, like the good soldier that he is.

Mrs. Hughes is the former Miss Louise Shelton of Corona. Her husband, Mr. Hughes and his two brothers own a large lumber yard and saw mill near Foresthill, where they saw about 15,000 feet of lumber daily. Mrs. Hughes is far from being idle herself. She is district Foresthill Fire Dispatcher for the Tahoe National Forest, a civil service position and one in which women have only filled since the war began. The Hughes family are building a new home at Foresthill. She sends her kindest regards to her many old friends here, Corona and elsewhere over the county.

Coming Event at Ruidoso July 14

On July 14, there will be a benefit dance at Ruidoso Lodge, Ruidoso, N. M., given by the Parent Teacher's Association. The music will be furnished by Coe's Ranch Cowboys Orchestra and that means that it will be good. We all know that when Ruidoso does anything, it does it well and that goes for this coming event. Everybody welcome. Come and have a good time.
