SCANDAL.

Slander is a monster of hideous mein, yet there are many, in every community, who would get up in the middle of the night and feast upon it.

A scandal monger is always a coward. He, representative, be it man or woman, will go abroad, intent on defamatory work, and will say, "I have been told,"—"Who would have thought of such a thing?"—"I would not have believed it but for the authority I have, etc. And yet, as a rule, the parties so industrious in circulating the scandal are usually tarred with the same stick, whose linen would not stand comparative exposure, and who, could they see themselves as others see them, if they knew what was said about themselves, would call upon mountains to cover them from public gaze. A lustandless woman, as defenceless, maiden are foot balls for big headed, large footed buffoons and scandal mongers to kick at. Shame on communities that contribute, even by countenance, such impious wretches.

Character is hard to build up, but it is easy to destroy. Nothing is more brittle. A foul breath can and has causelessly, infamously sent to untimely graves as pure souls as ever left the Creator's hands—hearts, noble and trusting, have been bruised until broken by the cruel tongue of slander,—A propos, some anonymous poet as written—

A whisper broke the air—
A soft, light tone and low,
Yet barbed with shame and woe;
Now might it perish only there,
Nor further go.

Ah! me, a quick and eager ear
Caught up the little meaning sound,
Another voice had breathed it clear;
And so it wandered round
From ear to lip, from lip to ear,
Until it reached a gentle heart,
And that it broke.

Seldom does the mischief end with the life or death of the maligned. Relatives, those whose prou'est legacy should be the good name and high character of those ruthlessly thrown from eminences to the gutter, feel the pang, their lives are blighted and life endered not worth the living.

There are none perfect. All of us have moral blemishes. Why then, should we seek to expose those of others while striving to hide our own? Rather endeavor to fill up the pitfalls of our fellows than to dig them deeper and ghost as the victims fall therein—to devote time in impeding destruction rather than in accelerating it.

The scandal-monger is unpatriotic. In church, school, society, political and social place he is ever prominent. Unless the blood of the lamb cleanse the hearts of such an institution, [illegible] by our [illegible] the last ing of another scandal opens it's cavernous mouth and belches lava. Destructive lava, lava which consumes what is more valuable to the holder than the life which it embellishes.

The scandal-monger is a libel on humanity and a traitor to his race. For want of words of our own in which to anathematize him or her we employ those of the grand old Irish poet, Tom Moore:

Oh for a tongue to curse the slave,
Whose treason, like a deadly blight,
Comes o'er the councils of the brave,
And blasts them in their hour of might!
May life's unblessed cup for him
Be drugged with treacheries to the brim,
With hopes that but allure to fly,
With joys that vanish while he sips,
Like Dead-Sea Fruits, that tempt the eye,
But turn to ashes on the lips!
His country's curse, his children's shame,
Outcast of virtue, peace and fame;
May he, at last, with lips of flame,
On the parched desert thirsting die,
While lakes that shine in mockery nigh,
Are fading off, untouched, unlaved,
Like the once glorious hope he blasted!
And, when from earth his spirit flies,
Just Prophet, let the damned one dwell
Full in the sight of Paradise,
Beholding heaven and feeling hell.

THE BABY'S BATH.

The Powerful Effect It Exerts Upon the Health—Valuable Suggestions.

There is no item except care of food that exerts so powerful an effect upon the infant health as care or neglect of the infant's daily bath. Old wives often insist that some children, which means always their children, are too delicate to bathe. Young mothers often are frightened out of giving the bath daily because the child cries and looms unhappy. It is not the bath that injures a child, but the way in which it is given. The water may be too cold or too hot. There is only one way of settling this matter with perfect safety. That is with a thermometer. As a rule the water for bathing a young child should be ninety degrees. After it is a year old the temperature may be reduced to the temperature of the room. Never begin to bathe an infant until every article to be used in bathing and dressing it is laid out ready at hand. One of the most necessary articles of the bath is a good-sized tub. A large foot tub is better and cheaper for this purpose than the regular child's bath-tub because it is larger, and abundance of water is necessary. A rubber apron for the mother or nurse that bathes the child, and large blanket apron to spread over and envelop the child when first taken from the bath is a necessity to the child's comfort. Do not on any account receive a child from the bath on the rubber apron. The chill it will receive from such carelessness will counteract all good effects of bathing. Allow the baby to remain in the water from five to ten minutes, never longer. The flannel or blanket apron should be warmed to receive the baby when it is taken out, and the child should be dried with a soft linen towel as rapidly as possible, rubbing the body with a friction towel to stimulate the circulation. Dress the little one carefully, uncovering only part of the body at a time. If a child is properly bathed it will be hungry soon after. Arrange the bath-hour so it will come just before one of the morning feeding hours. Before the ten o'clock or eight o'clock hour is usually most convenient. If the bath is delayed till before ten o'clock it will come before its long mid-day nap, and a baby kept fed at regular hours and bathed regularly at this time will fall asleep after feeding if it is well, and often sleep till one or two o'clock. No intelligent mother will wake up a child to feed it. It is, however, prudent to regulate the hours of an infant's sleeping as soon as it begins life, when most of its time is spent in sleeping. Between its feeding hours of four and six in the afternoon the child had best be kept awake by gentle means. It will then be ready to sleep after its six o'clock meal, and usually will wake only twice or thrice times in the night, and then only just long enough to be fed. Most healthy babies, however, do wake up at sunrise, when it is well to feed and take them out in the morning air if possible, as they seem jubilant with high spirits, ready to shout with the birds and all before that the night has passed and the day has come.—M. L. Holbrook.

HENRY J. MILLER DEAD.

Henry J. Miller, aged 37 years died in his room in the Cromwell block last night about 1 o'clock, from consumption after an illness of a few weeks.

Mr. Miller was born in Wayne county, New York, where now resides his mother, who is 70 years old, and a number of relatives and friends. A few weeks ago, M. S. Barbeson, room mate of the deceased, wrote to his mother, informing her of her son's illness. In her answer she sent the following words: "If Henry dies I have nothing more to live for." A telegram has been sent to a relative, residing near the old mother, telling him to break the news as gently as possible to her. Mr. Miller has a brother in-law, Mr. Dunning, in business at Concordia, Kansas, and he has been informed by telegram of the death.

Henry J. Miller started for the west in the spring of 1880, and in the fall of that year established himself in the general mercantile business at White Oaks, Lincoln County, the style of the firm being Dunning & Miller, he having charge of the business, Mr. Dunning remaining in Kansas. For seven years he did a thriving business, but desiring to see California, he sold out and left for Pasadena, where for about a year and a half he conducted a cigar store. This was during the boom in Southern California but on its decline he disposed of his stock at a good margin and returned to White Oaks. In May 1889, he came to Albuquerque in company with E. S. McPherson and A. Guittard, and with the latter bought out the business or M. C. Zirhut, on Copper Avenue. It did not prove a profitable undertaking and after several months the firm closed. Mr. Guittard and wife leaving and Mr. Miller remained here and had charge of the painting department of the carriage repository of J. Korber & Co., up to his death.

He was taken ill on the 25th of last September, and was constantly confined to his room. About a week ago his attending physician, Dr. Peafee, reported him getting along finely, but it seems he took a relapse from which he began sinking rapidly, dying at the hour mentioned above.

He was quite a fleshy gentleman and enjoyed perfect health until his present sickness, which is attributed to the drinking of the water now being used in this city. Mr. McPherson has been off and on with the deceased for 9 years, and states that he had the most agreeable disposition of any man he ever knew, possessing a generous whole souled heart. He made many friends here who will be pained to read the obituary of his death.

The body has been taken in charge by Undertaker Strong, and while no answer has been heard from his relatives it is likely the remains will be shipped east for burial.

The Democrat of Saturday says —" Mr. Dunning, brother-in law of J. H. Miller, deceased, arrived yesterday afternoon and will take the remains east with him to-day.

The Old Flag Waves

Glorious News.

The election returns received this week were calculated to inspire Republican soldiers with the conviction that God still reigneth and all the necks of His people are not hard nor their hearts perverse.

Going to press Friday morning we are without complete returns but those we have are inspiriting. Let us see:

Raventon, N. M., Republicano.
" Pennsylvania, democratic.
Wisconsin, democratic.
Illinois, Republican.

Roberts and Sena, sole survivors of the Lincoln County Republican ticket, either approved or endorsed.

Fuller, and we hope better returns next week.

LATEST advices report Joseph and Otero as running neck and neck. Otero has the biggest neck and we hope he'll crowd in.

THE new 5th district consists of the counties of Socorro, Lincoln, Chaves and Eddy, with headquarters for the present at Socorro; this is about the best disposition that could have been made of the matter; Judge Freeman is to travel over the district and after he becomes better acquainted with the condition of things there a change may take place, but that is for the future.—New Mexican.

ORIGIN OF BOCK-BEER.

A Narrowing Tale of a Feudal Lord, Dark Beer and a Goat.

The reputed origin of bock beer has been preserved in various legends which are current throughout Germany. At the town of Neustadt, in the [illegible] of a certain [illegible] during the feudal ages, an Easter [illegible] and being held, which was participated in not only by the townsfolk but [illegible] all the countryside as well. [illegible] this town a feudal Lord [illegible], who brought with him [illegible] quantity of light beer, which [illegible] very much. At the fair the [illegible] drinking a dark beer, which [illegible] looked upon with disdain. [illegible] occasion, upon the relative [illegible] light and dark beers a wager [illegible] decided the following year [illegible] should come around again. [illegible] to brew a quantity of its [illegible] by a practical test it was [illegible] how many mugs of each [illegible] before making the drinker [illegible] that would make a man [illegible] be awarded the palm. [illegible] that the constants [illegible] on the presence of a vast [illegible] to the ways the Lord [illegible] brown beer of the town [illegible] of the Neustadtmeyers [illegible] light beer. A certain [illegible] number of mugs emptied [illegible] Soon [illegible] became hilarious [illegible] could take a stein of rearing [illegible] long before his rival began to feel the effects of the light beer. Accordingly the dark beer was declared the winner of the contest and the townspeople sang the praises of their favorite beverage.

While the people were still assembled a [illegible] goat, which is known in Germany as [illegible] broke into the space where the drinkers were sitting and rushing between the legs of the befuddled Lord threw him flat on his back, where, such was his condition, he was compelled to lie till he was picked up. From this circumstance comes the name of the dark-brown beer which still comes at Easter time.

Another legend is to the effect that the Jesuit monks were accustomed to hold a feast in the spring, at which they slaughtered a young goat or kid. To drink with this they brewed a dark, sweet beer which was considered a delicacy and which, when it became known outside of the monasteries, was hailed with delight by the people, and under the name of bock beer became an established institution.

CHURCH SCANDAL.

For weeks the tongue of slander has been waiting it's dish of lollipop, promised it by the sages of scandal. On last Sabbath the morceau came but it lacked in flavor what the cormorants anticipated. The Rev. Lane had been accused of every crime in the decalogue, and a commission had been appointed to investigate him.—After much labor the smallest of [illegible] last Sunday the committee reported, after an elaborate investigation, instigated by a devilish inquisition, reported as follows:

White Oaks, N. M.
Oct. 31, '90.

We, the committee duly appointed by the authorities of the Congregational Church do hereby make the following preliminary report:

We came to White Oaks to investigate, impartially, rumors and reports, which had, and were seriously affecting the work of the Congregational Church and School. We extended an invitation to all who had facts bearing upon the issues before us, to present them.—We are grateful for the kindness with which we were received and the clearness and willingness with which the testimony was given.—We have taken down, in writing, a large quantity of evidence, have called on many of the citizens, have heard all sides, followed all clues, interviewed all persons whose names were in any way mentioned, and with justice to all sought to trace each rumor to it's source. As a result, we find trouble of long standing in the community, intense feelings and bitter animosities, which have been exceedingly painful and unpleasant, not only to those most concerned but to the citizens generally. These conditions have seriously crippled all religious and educational work, and if continued, with the present decreasing population of the town, would in time render work with benevolent funds of the Congregational Church inexpedient and well nigh impossible.

As a committee of the Church we did not come to either investigate or vindicate the character of men and women not members of the Church of Christ. Rumors, which charge citizens of this town with the gravest and most atrocious of crimes, viz.: the destruction of moral character, we have followed till we have found their sources. But in every single case of rumor or report affecting the christian character and ministerial standing of the pastor of this church, or the purity and worth of other members of this church, we have been unable, after the most diligent and penetrating inquiry, from a large number of witnesses, find proof of the accusations by any absolute, positive fact. We find a cordial support by the community of the work carried on by the Congregational denomination in the church and the school in this place and that the present membership is united and zealous to do the work of Christ.

The evidence taken is on file in Albuquerque. The final and full report will follow in due time.

He (under his breath)—"Wait till I catch Tom Brown."—N. Y. Sun.

WOMEN AND HOUSE-WORK.

Home Duties Wholly Compatible with Good Intellectual Work.

Home-work, in moderation, is healthy and pleasant. It is the want of just such an unemotional vent for their restless energy that produces many victims of nervous prostration. It is also wholly compatible, if brought under any proper system, with great intellectual work. Moreover, the creating and guiding of a home is the best gift the world has to offer. When one thinks of the good or bad art and record-note literature of the present day, is it not melancholy to reflect upon the wasted energy that might have gone into beautiful and helpful lives? The discretion is costly, indeed, whose price to the woman's joy in the superintendence of her home. If she, with all the incentives of love and pride, despises the daily cares that make the comfort of the household, how can she expect them to be rightly met by a hired housekeeper, whose only interest is money-getting?

"No man can serve two masters;" and, therefore, it seems to me self-evident that any woman who accepts the gift of a home thereby pledges herself to devote to it her best service. The neglect of her first duty and highest privilege can not lead to any true work in other directions:

Painted a vein:
The artist's first action must be cast
Of putting down the woman's. I forget
No perfect artist is developed here
From an imperfect woman.

sang a true poet and noble woman. There are women whose God-given talents require to tread a lonely path. There are many others to whom the supreme treasure of a home is denied. But the best work of artist or poet or physician will ever spring from the hidden, passionate womanliness that appreciates to the full the greatness of the sacrifice or loss.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SPIDER-WEB TELEPHONE.

The Effect of a Tuning Fork on a Hungry Old Spider.

While a gentleman was watching some spiders last summer it occurred to him to try what effect a tuning fork would have on the insects. He suspected they would regard the sound just as they were in the habit of regarding the sound of a fly. And sure enough they did. He selected a large, ugly spider, that had been feasting on flies for two months. The spider was at one edge of its web. Sounding the fork, he touched a thread at the other side of the web, and watched the result. Mr. Spider had the buzzing sound conveyed to him over his telephone wires; but how was he to know on which particular wire the sound was traveling? He sat in the center of the web very quietly, and felt all around until he touched the thread against the other end of which the fork was sounding; then taking another thread in his jaws just as a man would take an extra piece of rope, he ran out to the fork and sprang upon it. But he received a little way and looked at the fork. He was puzzled. He had expected to find a buzzing fly. He got on the fork again, and danced with delight. He had caught the sound of the fly, and it was music to him.—Our Young People.

Excellent Train Service.

The present schedule of train service on A. T. & S. F. R. R. from New Mexico is an excellent one.

A fast express leaves La Junta, Denver and Pueblo daily each afternoon, making the run to Kansas City and from Wallace to La Junta, by daylight, arriving at Kansas City evening of second day, and Chicago morning of third day after day of departure. This train carries Pullman palace sleepers from El Paso to Kansas City, and Los Angeles to Chicago, with Pullman tourist sleepers Los Angeles Kansas City making direct connection at La Junta for Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver, and at Burton for St. Louis via the 'Frisco Ry.

The train from San Francisco (with palace sleepers to Kansas City and tourist sleepers to Chicago) leaves Albuquerque daily about noon, strikes darkness near Wagon Mound, arriving in Kansas City evening of next day, and in Chicago the following morning. An additional Pullman sleeper is attached at Las Vegas, running through without change to Denver via La Junta and Trinidad.

The Santa Fe Route runs by its fast time, fine equipment and reasonable rates, to merit the patronage of the traveling public.

Inquire of local agents, or write to G. T. Nicholson, G. P. & T. A., Topeka, Kans.

Free Reading Matter.

There are various schemes for supplying reading matter at a trifle above actual cost. What would you think if you could get good literature free?

Drop a postal to G. T. Nicholson, G. P. and T. A., A. T. & S. F. R. R. Co., Topeka, Kansas, and ask for a copy of "To Mexico by Palace Car." You can also procure free copies of "A Santa Barbara Holiday," "Guide to San Diego Bay Region," "Las Vegas Hot Springs Guide," and folders relating to Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Newspaper Laws.

1. If subscribers order the discontinuance of their papers the publishers may continue to send them until all arrearages are paid.

2. If subscribers refuse or neglect to take their papers from the offices to which they are directed, they will be held responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.

3. If subscribers remove to other places without informing the publishers and the papers are sent to the former address, they are held responsible.

4. The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

5. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrearages, is sent to the publisher.

The United States postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest any one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the United States allows his subscription to run along for as long time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, of course the postmaster is to mark it "refused," or by some careless error not notifying the publisher leaves him liable to arrest and fine the same as for theft.

MR. LEE. "Why, Addie, you needn't cry about it! I only said Mrs. Allen was a very well-informed woman, and I wished you was a fellow her example."

MRS. LEE. "Yes, and last week you said you wished I could manage to look as stylish as Mrs. Allen—and she makes all her own clothes. But she has what I haven't."

MR. LEE. "What is that?"

MRS. LEE. "Oh all, she pays all of her information from the Magazine they take. I admit that she knows all that is going on, and is bright and entertaining in conversation; but I could do as well as she does if I had the same source of information. She lent me the last number of her Magazine lately, and I learned more in one hour's reading, about various social matters and the topics of the day, than I would pick up in a month by my occasional chats with friends. It certainly covers every topic of interest, from the news of the day down to the details of housekeeping; and everything is so beautifully illustrated, too. Every time Mamie goes over to the Allens' she comes home and teases me to get you to take Demorest's Family Magazine, as the stories are so good. Even the boys voted for it every month, as a place is found for them also in its pages; and Mr. Allen swears by it. It is really wonderful how it suits every member of the family!"

MR. LEE. "I will perhaps have a better send for a Specimen Copy; for, if it has anything like what you say it is, it will amuse and instruct the whole of us."

MRS. LEE. "I see that W. Jennings Demorest, the publisher, is East 14th First, New York, is offering to send a Specimen Copy for 10 cents, so we can't lose anything, as each number contains a 'Pattern Order' entitling the holder to any Pattern she may choose, and in any size—which alone makes each copy worth 20 cents; and I just want a basket pattern like Mrs. Allen's. The subscription price is only $2.00 a year; and I must say I can't see how they can publish so elegant a Magazine for so little money."

GRAND PREMIUM OFFER!
A SET OF THE
WORKS OF CHARLES DICKENS,
In Twelve Large Volumes,
Which we Offer with a Year's Subscription to this Paper for a Trifle More than Our Regular Subscription Price.

CHARLES DICKENS.

Wishing to largely increase the circulation of this paper during the next six months, we have made arrangements with a New York publishing house whereby we are enabled to offer as a premium to our subscribers a Set of the Works of Charles Dickens, in Twelve Large and Handsome Volumes, with a year's subscription to this paper, for a trifle more than our regular subscription price. Our great offer to subscribers collates any ever heretofore made. Charles Dickens was the greatest novelist who ever lived. No author before or since his time has won the fame that he achieved, and his works are even more popular to-day than during his lifetime. They abound in wit, humor, pathos, masterly delineation of character, vivid descriptions of places and incidents, thrilling and skillfully wrought plots. Each book is intensely interesting. No home should be without a set of these great and remarkable works. Not to have read them is to be far behind the age in which we live. The set of Dickens' works which we offer as a premium to our subscribers is handsomely printed from entirely new plates, with new type. The twelve volumes contain the following world-famous works, each one of which is published complete, unabridged, and absolutely unabridged:

DAVID COPPERFIELD,
MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT,
NICHOLAS NICKLEBY,
DOMBEY AND SON,
BLEAK HOUSE,
LITTLE DORRIT,
OUR MUTUAL FRIEND,
PICKWICK PAPERS,
BARNABY RUDGE AND CHRISTMAS STORIES,
OLIVER TWIST AND GREAT EXPECTATIONS,
THE OLD CURIOSITY SHOP AND THE UNCOMMERCIAL TRAVELER,
A TALE OF TWO CITIES, HARD TIMES AND THE MYSTERY OF EDWIN DROOD.

The above are without question the most famous novels that were ever written. For a quarter of a century they have been celebrated in every nook and corner of the civilized world. Yet there are thousands of homes in America not yet supplied with a set of Dickens, the usual high cost of the books prevailing people in moderate circumstances from enjoying this luxury. But now, owing to the use of modern improved printing, folding and stitching machinery, the extremely low price of white paper and the great competition in the book trade, we are enabled to offer to our subscribers and readers a set of Dickens' works at a price which all can afford to pay. Every home in the land may now be supplied with a set of the great author's works.

An eminent example of American Enterprise, Energy and Perseverance.

In the hands of young men this great system has been so carefully managed that it has earned a reputation second to none for convenience, safety and the luxuries of travel. It is fast becoming the popular route for transcontinental travel, in connection with the Southern Pacific railroad.

It has opened up an almost unlimited field for pioneer enterprise in the far West. No other railroad can carry a man, who is seeking a home to golden opportunities such as are open along a thousand miles of this great system.

Special freight rates are given to settlers and immigrants.

—He (sitting at the piano)—"What shall I play, Miss De Tempo?" She—"O, I do wish you would play that favorite of yours—'The Races.' I think it's called." He—"I don't understand." She (innocently)—"Why, Mr. Brown told me yesterday, when I asked him where you were, that you were out at the park playing the races, so I supposed you would be willing to play it for me." He (under his breath)—"Wait till I catch Tom Brown."—N. Y. Sun.

WOMEN AND HOUSE-WORK.

Home Duties Wholly Compatible with Good Intellectual Work.

House-work, in moderation, is healthy and pleasant. It is the want of just such an unemotional vent for their restless energy that produces many victims of nervous prostration. It is also wholly compatible, if brought under any proper system, with great intellectual work. Moreover, the creating and guilding of a home is the best gift the world has to offer. When one thinks of the flood of bad art and second-rate literature of the present day, is it not melancholy to reflect upon the wasted energy that might have gone into beautiful and helpful lives? The education is costly, indeed, whose price is the woman's joy in the superintendence of her home. If she, with all the incentives of love and pride, despises the daily cares that make the comfort of the household, how can she expect them to be rightly met by a hired housekeeper, whose only interest is money-getting?

"No man can serve two masters;" and, therefore, it seems to me self-evident that any woman who accepts the gift of a home thereby pledges herself to devote to it her best service. The neglect of her first duty and highest privilege can not lead to any true work in other directions:

Paste all to exist:
The art'st that act is no at the cost
Of putting down the woman's, I forgot
No perfect artist is developed here
From an imperfect woman,
sang a true poet and noble woman.

There are women whose God-given talents require to tread a lonely path. There are many others to whom the supreme treasure of a home is denied. But the best work of artist or poet or physician will ever spring from the hidden, passionate womanliness that appreciates to the full the greatness of the sacrifice or loss.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

SPIDER-WEB TELEPHONE.

The Effect of a Tuning Fork on a Hungry Old Spider.

While a gentleman was watching some spiders last summer it occurred to him to try what effect a tuning fork would have on the insects. He suspected they would regard the sound just as they were in the habit of regarding the sound of a fly. And sure enough they did. He selected a large, ugly spider that had been feasting on flies for two months. The spider was at one edge of its web. Sounding the fork, he touched a thread at the other side of the web, and watched the result. Mr. Spider had the buzzing sound conveyed to him over his telephone wires; but how was he to know on which particular wire the sound was traveling? He ran to the center of the web very quickly, and felt all around until he touched the thread against the other end of which the fork was sounding; then taking another thread as far as a man would take an extension of rope, he ran out to the fork and sprang upon it. But he reversed a little way and looked at the fork. He was puzzled. He had expected to find a buzzing fly. He got on the fork again, and danced with fatigue. He had caught the sound of the fly, and it was music to him.—Chicago Tribune.

Excellent Train Service

The present schedule of train service on A. T. & S. F. R. R. from New Mexico is an excellent one.

A fast express leaves El Paso, Deming and Silver City each afternoon, in time for Rincon, and from Wallace to La Junta, by daylight, arriving at Kansas City evening of second day, and Chicago morning of third day after day of departure. This train carries Pullman palace sleepers from El Paso to Kansas City, and Los Angeles to Chicago, with Pullman tourist sleepers Los Angeles Kansas City making direct connection at La Junta for Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver, and at Barton for St. Louis via the Pelasco Ry.

The train from San Francisco (with palace sleepers to Kansas City and tourist sleepers to Chicago) leaves Albuquerque daily about noon, strikes darkness near Wagon Mound, arriving in Kansas City evening of next day, and in Chicago the following morning. An additional Pullman sleeper is attached at Las Vegas, running through without change to Denver via La Junta and Trinidad.

The Santa Fe Route aims by its fast time, fine equipment and reasonable rates, to merit the patronage of the traveling public.

Inquire of local agents, or write to G. T. Nicholson, G. P. & T. A., Topeka, Kans.

Free Reading Matter.

There are various schemes for supplying reading matter at a trifle above actual cost. What would you think if you could get good literature free?

Drop a postal to G. T. Nicholson, G. P. and T. A., A. T. & S. F. R. R. Co., Topeka, Kan., and ask for a copy of "To Mexico by Palace Car." You can also procure free copies of "A Santa Barbara Holiday," Guide to San Diego Bay Region," Las Vegas Hot Springs Guide," and folders relating to Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Newspaper Laws.

Dr. T. Greenwood, editor of the Western Rural, has taken some pains to collect and compile the decisions of the U. S. Courts on the subject of newspapers, and the following, which we find in the Washington Post, is the result of his investigations. The decisions are based upon the postal laws and upon legal principles:

1. Subscribers who do not give notice to the contrary are considered wishing to have their papers continued.

2. If the subscriber orders the discontinuance of his paper, the publisher may continue to send it until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take the papers from the office to which they are directed, they are responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers remove to other places without informing the publisher and the papers are sent to the former address, they are responsible.

5. The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office or removing and leaving them uncalled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrearages, is sent to the publisher.

The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest any one for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the man who allows his subscription to run along for some time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused," or leaves it in the office or with the neighbors, is liable to arrest and fine the same as for theft.

EYE.

Mr. Lex. "Why, Eddie, you needn't say about it! I only said Miss Allen was a very well-informed woman, and I wished you would follow her example."

Mrs. Lex. "Yes, and last week you said you wished I could manage to look as stylish as Mrs. Allen—and she makes all her own clothes. But she has what I haven't."

Mr. Lex. "What is that?"

Mrs. Lex. "Oh, she gets all of her information from the Magazine they take. I admit that she knows all that is going on, and is bright and entertaining in conversation; but I could do as well as she does if I had the same source of information. She lent me the last number of her Magazine lately, and I learned more in one hour's reading about various social matters and the topics of the day, than I would pick up in a month by my occasional chats with friends. It certainly covers every topic of interest, from the news of the day down to the details of housekeeping; and everything is so beautifully illustrated, too. Every time Mamie goes over to the Allens' she comes back and teases me to get you to take Demorest's Family Magazine, as the stories are so good. Even the boys watch for it every month, as a place is found for them also in its pages; and Mr. Allen swears by it. It is really wonderful how it suits every member of the family."

Mr. Lex. "I will, perhaps I had better send for a Specimen Copy; for, if it is anything like what you say it is, it will please and instruct the whole of us."

Mrs. Lex. "I see that W. Jennings Demorest, the publisher, 15 East 14th Street, New York, is offering to send a Specimen Copy for 10 cents, so we can't lose anything, as each number contains a 'Pattern Order' entitling the holder to any Pattern she may choose, and in any size—which alone makes each copy worth 20 cents; and I just want a basket pattern like Mrs. Allen's. The subscription price is only $2.00 a year; and I must say I can't see how they can publish so elegant a Magazine for so little money."

Dobbins' Electric Soap.

THE BEST FAMILY SOAP IN THE WORLD.

It is Strictly Pure. Uniform in Quality.

THE original formula for which we paid $50, over twenty years ago has never been equaled, or changed in the slightest. Their aim is to be identical in quality to-day with EXPERIENCE TWENTY YEARS AGO.

It contains nothing that can injure the most delicate fabric. It lightens labor and whitens as no other soap in the world does—without shrinking—leaving them soft and white and like new.

READ THIS TWICE

THERE is a great saving of time, of labor, of soap, of fuel, and of the fabric, when Dobbins' Electric Soap is used according to directions.

ONE trial will recommend its great merit. It will pay you to use it until tried.

THE best that can be produced, is extensively imitated and counterfeited.

Beware of Imitations.

INSIST upon Dobbins' Electric. Don't take Electric, Electro-Magic, Philadelphia Electric, or any other brand, simply because it is cheap. They will rot clothes, and are dear at any price. Ask for and take no other. Nearly every grocer from Maine to Maui can keep it in stock. If yours hasn't it, he will order from his nearest wholesale grocer.

READ carefully the instructions around each bar, and be careful to follow directions on each outside wrapper. You can't afford to wait longer before trying for yourself this old, reliable, and truly wonderful

Dobbins' Electric Soap.

BEWARE OF Imitations.

...Some years ago a farmer of the district observed that the leeches native to the marshes attained to a great size when many cattle were turned out to pasture, and particularly where horses formed the stock. This suggested the idea of making a specialty. He had a pond excavated, and this he was able to turn to the best advantage. In one place, he rented a piece of land which he divided into squares, surrounded with water in these squares ... inches deep, and ... of them ... hundreds of ... sum of ... and to ... their winter ... to the surface very lively, ... a gorge upon their natural food. ... this the leeches collect ... of this ... horses, which ... by him at an average price of twenty francs per head. ... were those ... into the ponds than they ... upon by the leeches, who ... instincts were aroused ... the water became agitated ... are not infrequent of horses becoming so exhausted by these ... blood-suckers as to plunge into the water, where they are sometimes suffocated before assistance can come to hand.

The process of catching leeches is a simple one. It is mostly carried on by young girls and lads, who, during the summer season, enter the ponds, wearing long, waterproof boots, thick leather, and furnished, each of them, with a sort of camp-stool and a canvas bag. Seating themselves in the ponds, they disturb the water with their feet, and immediately the leeches, imagining that human prey has plunged into the ponds, swarm around the leech-fishers and fasten themselves quickly upon their boots. Selecting the full-grown leeches, the fishers pull them off, and put them into the bag; and in this way as many leeches are taken by them in a few hours. The leeches are carried home, and have to be sorted according to size and placed in tubs filled with moist clay, into which they immediately burrow. The tubs are then covered with strong paper, and in this state the leeches are taken to market.—N. Y. Ledger.

What Aluminum Will Be Used For When Its Price Is Reduced.

Owing subjected to the gold-beater a piece of aluminum three inches square may be beaten into a sheet a foot square, so great is its tenacity. Only two metals known can be beaten into a sheet as thin as it can be. They are gold and silver. It is used for every thing and put to every purpose to which iron, steel and brass are now put. GRAND PREMIUM OFFER!
A SET OF THE
WORKS OF CHARLES DICKENS,
In Twelve Large Volumes,

Which we Offer with a Year's Subscription to this Paper for a Trifle More than Our Regular Subscription Price.

Wishing to largely increase the circulation of this paper during the next six months, we have made arrangements with a New York publishing house whereby we are enabled to offer as a premium to our subscribers a Set of the Works of Charles Dickens, in Twelve Large and Handsome Volumes, with a year's subscription to this paper, for a trifle more than our regular subscription price. Our great offer to subscribers eclipses any ever heretofore made. Charles Dickens was the greatest novelist who ever lived. No author before or since his time has won the fame that he achieved, and his works are even more popular to-day than during his lifetime. They abound in wit, humor, pathos, masterly delineation of character, vivid descriptions of places and incidents, thrilling and skillfully wrought plots. Each book is intensely interesting. No home should be without a set of these great and remarkable works. Not to have read them is to be far behind the age in which we live. The set of Dickens' works which we offer as a premium to our subscribers is handsomely printed from entirely new plates, with new type. The twelve volumes contain the following world-famous works, each one of which is published complete, unabridged, and absolutely unabridged:

DAVID COPPERFIELD,
MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT,
NICHOLAS NICKLEBY,
DOMBEY AND SON,
BLEAK HOUSE,
LITTLE DORRIT,
OUR MUTUAL FRIEND,
PICKWICK PAPERS,
BARNABY RUDGE AND CHRISTMAS STORIES,
OLIVER TWIST AND GREAT EXPECTATIONS,
THE OLD CURIOSITY SHOP AND THE UNCOMMERCIAL TRAVELER,
A TALE OF TWO CITIES, HARD TIMES AND THE MYSTERY OF EDWIN DROOD.

The above are without question the most famous novels that were ever written. For a quarter of a century they have been celebrated in every nook and corner of the civilized world. Yet there are thousands of homes in America not yet supplied with a set of Dickens, the usual high cost of the books preventing people in moderate circumstances from enjoying this luxury. But now, owing to the use of modern improved printing, folding and stitching machinery, the extremely low price of white paper, and the great competition in the book trade, we are enabled to offer to our subscribers and readers a set of Dickens' works at a price which all can afford to pay. Every home in the land may now be supplied with a set of the great author's works.

WORLD

Under one management.

A. T. & S. F.

An eminent example of American Enterprise, Energy and Perseverance.

In the hands of young men this system has been so carefully managed that it has earned a reputation second to none for convenience, safety and the luxuries of travel. It is fast becoming the popular route for transcontinental travel, in connection with the Southern Pacific railroad.

It has opened up an almost unlimited field for pioneer enterprise in the far West. No other railroad can carry a man, who is seeking ... to go ... golden opportunities such as are open along a thousand miles of this great system.

Special freight rates are given to colonists and immigrants.

HUMOROUS.

—Lumley says he isn't much on grammar, but he knows that the noun wife is in the imperative mood.—Washington Capital.

—Inquiring spectator (at the races)—"Which horse was it that won?" Speculative speculator (gloomily)—"I don't know the name of the horse that won, but I know the names of most of the horses that didn't win."—N. Y. Weekly.

—"That was a very brave act of yours in stopping the runaway horse, young man. Here's a hundred-dollar bill for you." "That's a good deal of money for me." "Nonsense! When a man saves my life I believe in paying him what it is worth."—Epoch.

—When night has let her curtains down, with fear and plaint to hum,
Mosquitoes, thirsting for our blood, around our pillows comet
We watch, we wait with bated breath, while strikes the midnight chime,
And hit our cheeks a stinging slap—and miss 'em every time.

—Boston Courier.

—"Do you know," said Dedrocke, "that there is nothing more depressing to me than to go into one of those big dry-goods stores." "Why?" "It worries me to hear those people yelling 'wash' so promiscuously."—Merchant Traveler.

—Clerk (entering theatrical manager's sanctum)—"There is a young man waiting who wants to read a play to you, sir, and another who says he's come to horsewhip you for a sock of contract." Manager (taking off his coat)—"Oh! show in the man who's come to horsewhip me."—Judy.

—Tommy—"Are we going to take Mr. Sot with us when we go to see grandma next week?" Mrs. Figg—"Of course not. What makes you ask such foolish questions?" Tommy—"Cause I heard pa tell Mr. Bragg that the mice would have a high old time while the cat was away next week, that's all."—Terre Haute Express.

—Justice—"Officer, what is the charge against this prisoner?" Officer—"Well, yer honor, I was cal'ed into the theayter to arrist him for disorderly conduct." Justice—"What was he doing?" Officer—"They told me he was a-hissin' the villain in the play for stealin'. I let him off after quietin' him." Justice—"Then what is he being here?" Officer—"I arrested him as he was leavin' the theayter a-whistlin' a protest."—Judy.

The Buccaneers of Old

Plundered the skull and cross bones, their ensign, defiantly at the mastheed. Your modern pirate, not on the high seas, but upon the high reputation of standard remedies, steals under various disguises. His lair and secret traffic has never to any degree affected Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, although that standard invigorant and corrective has long been the pirating mark at which his sharks have been directed. Cheap local bitters, composed of fiery unrectified stimulants, with no infusion, or extract possibly, of some spent bark, are still sometimes recommended as identical with or similar to, or preferable to, the Bitters. Many of America's choicest family physicians and parish specialty, when they meet malarial and pyrexial diseases, choose the standard, rather, or combine it with, dyspepsia, nervousness, kidney troubles, constipation and rheumatic ailments, and only on this, but on many contingencies.

MARRIED—Nov. 6, by Rev. N. W. Lane, Pablo Otero to Romana Chavez, both of Lincoln Co., N. M.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

Mrs. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, for children teething, is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians in the United States, and has been used for thirty years with never failing success by millions of mothers for their children. During the process of teething its value is incalculable. It relieves the child from pain, cures dysentery and diarrhœa, griping in the bowels, and wind colic. By giving health to the child it rests the mother. Price 25c. a bottle.

For comparison sake we instance that two years ago Joseph received in White Oaks 175 votes—Otero's 107—Lincoln gave Joseph 101 and Otero 76—Nogal, Joseph 33, Otero 32.

—Moneybags—"Tell me, are you want to marry my daughter? Well, you know I have three, and as the marriage of each I shall give her husband ten thousand dollars. Which one do you want?" Count Mushroom—"I'll tell you what we'll do. I'll marry—I'll marry in Utah and—"

The World Enlightened, Etc.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will contribute to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, since when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

THE LEAF-CUTTING BEE.

Strange Doings of a Particularly Industrious Insect.

Of all our visitors, however, the most interesting is the leaf-cutting bee, who comes to work upon an old-fashioned blush-rosebush which forms a part of a side wall of our parlor. Bees, you know, are such busy creatures that they can not even make a call without taking their work with them, and it was the faint sound of his industry that first drew attention to our new friend on a leaf of the rose-bush. Looking closely to see what the stranger was about, we were amazed to find that, having placed herself astride of the edge of the leaf, the bee was deliberately cutting out with her jaws a piece of the leaf, rolling it up beneath her as she did so. We tried to trace her flight when the cutting was done, but this astonishing visitor baffled us in our pursuit by disappearing quite suddenly into the earth—just where we could not discover.

When all these strange doings were related at the dinner table the family punster declared that such a performance of a bee on a leaf was clearly beyond belief, and had not the bee continued her visits, giving all an opportunity of forming her acquaintance and seeing her work, the truth of our account of Mrs. Bee might still be doubted.

Happily she was not easily disturbed, and at a call from some watcher in the out-door parlor, "The bee is at work," we could gather quite closely around to observe her, when she had carefully chosen the leaf that best suited her and began the work of cutting it. Toward the close of the summer the selection of leaves was made with greater care, sometimes as many as six leaves being inspected before one was found sufficiently tender for her purpose. Often when Miss Bee started for home her roll of work was so heavy that she fairly tumbled off the leaf with it, and had to pause an instant to recover her balance before bravely carrying it away. But where did she take her load, and what did she do with those nicely cut pieces of leaf? She was too busy to tell us; and, although we were eager to return her calls, we could not discover her home, and could not imagine why the cut rose leaves so industriously, until we happened upon a book, Fors Clavigera, one day which told us all about it.

It seems that these bees build nests of the leaves of the rose and other trees under the surface of the ground or in old wood. These nests are sometimes six inches deep, and generally consist of six or seven cells, each shaped like a thimble, the closed end of one thimble fitting into the open end of another. When a cell is formed of the pieces of leaf, such as we've watched the bee cut out, it is filled with honey, and so nicely are the cells built that they hold the liquid honey without leakage. On the cell full of honey an egg is deposited, and then the cell is closed with three circular bits of leaf for a cover. Mr. Ruskin says the bee pushes down the little cell covers "with a tucked-up rim quite tight, like the covering of a pot of preserves." Think of such young bee having a nice little pot of honey all to itself!—Harper's Young People.
