FOOTSTEPS OF SCIENCE.

We have written up the history of steam and it's application to water vessels and locomotive engines, showing that power to be the creation of the present century. Let us follow the footsteps of science a little further.

Science, which used to walk with such stealthy tread, stepping slowly and noiselessly, now seems to have put on it's walking shoes and to mean business. More than that, it would appear as though it had made the United States it's headquarters. It is only sixty years since Morse received aid from the Federal Government to stretch his telegraph wires from Washington to Baltimore, and sixty years since the atmosphere of this country was freighted with maledictions on the heads of those who voted the appropriation.—

About forty years ago another American, Field, set the skeptical world on fire and the rest in an uproar of laughter at the idea of laying a telegraphic cable at the bottom of the bottomless Atlantic, and conveying messages from the old to the new world and return. Why, of course, it could'nt be done—any fool would know better. When the cable was laid President Buchanan sent a message to Queen Victoria, congratulating her and the world on the consummation of the inventive project which was destined to weld still closer together the destinies of both nations. Little Vic. answered in a like spirit, but some strands of the cable parted during it's transmission, and when her message arrived it was as incoherent as a democratic speech at a midnight ward meeting. Then "I told you so," went up from the lungs of every funkhead in the country. But Field was not discouraged, nor the friends and devotees of science disheartened.—The defect was soon remedied, and for years electric messages have plied with lightning rapidity from continent to continent, and the self constituted wise men have been forced to acknowledge that science to them was a sealed book, and even when opened they could not read or understand it.

Then we might come down to Edison, another American scientist, who has taken the film from off the eyes of all the old world authors and left them bewildered. Indeed scientists of the old world have laid down their pens and in breathless anxiety are awaiting further developments from America. Such strides has science made during the past hundred years that one wishes from his innermost heart that less haste had been exercised in ushering him into the world, and that the day of his birth had been fixed at a day a century later that he might see to what height science would mount.

A Mystery.

How the human system ever recovers from the various ailments to which it is subject, after such enormous medicines which recently poured into it for the suppositive relief of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, kidney disease, blood disorders, &c., is a mystery that only can be explained by the fact that Nature has a wonderful power to throw off disease, and that she will do it in spite of the most outrageous drugging. Fortunately for suffering humanity, there is a remedy which is not a drug, but a scientific combination of vegetable ingredients, which acts in harmony with the laws of nature, assisting her in her efforts to throw off disease, and at the same time supplying the system with the elements it needs to build up solid flesh and strength. This remedy is Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which cures dyspepsia, biliousness, kidney disease, blood disorders, and all diseases resulting from a torpid liver, impure blood, or a run down condition of the system. In curing these diseases it cures all the symptoms, such as sick headache, dizziness, sour stomach, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, pain in the side, back and joints, nervousness, sleeplessness, general debility, etc. Sold by druggists under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. See guarantee printed on bottle wrapper. For pamphlet, address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

THERE was quite a colony of Roswellites in town this week.—Among them were Mrs. Zimmerman, C. Hamilton, Mary Shott, Mr. and Mrs. Hadley, Mr. and Mrs. Oyard and daughter Maggie, Ed. Love, Scott Jordan, Henry Clemens and little Johnny Snow.

CONSUMPTION CURED.

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

FROM THE HONDO.

Hondo, Sept. 1, 1891.

DEAR MAJOR:

Here we are, idle in the midst of hay harvest. For three days and nights the rain has poured incessantly thus preventing all outside work, yes, even estopping a man making his regular morning trip to the nearest tavern, thus inducing the blues. It was not a very heavy downpour but an uninterrupted drizzle until last night a heavy, old fashioned thunder storm crowned the disheartning aspect and left the roads in such condition as to confine everybody to the room who had one—and still the moisture keeps falling. You say, "Who can help that?" I say without fear of contradiction by an well informed person, it is all the doings of the head boss of the Agricultural Department at Washington. He, as you know, sent to Texas, as near the New Mexico line as practicable, an experimental expedition, which, according to all accounts, has made rain clouds at a cost of many thousands of dollars and to give out such quantities as to submerge Texas and New Mexico. This is all well enough, perhaps, but instead of raining in the desert of the Staked Plains, the clouds escaped control of their creators and came over here to do mischief. If the farmers down on the Pecos cannot cure their alfalfa crop, which, according to all accounts, is an immense one, Uncle Jerry will have law suits on hand for damages to make a poor man of him. But well he deserves it.—Why did he not, before making clouds at the people's expense, allow time for somebody to invent a machine to neutralize clouds, a sort of antidote as the scientists would call it, after which he could have made rain to order without damage to anybody.

What are our Farmers' Alliance men doing? Let them at once rush forward and importune the Governor of New Mexico to keep this infernal rain machine expedition out of our Territory as long as they are unable to control their clouds after making them. The Press of the country should also help to suppress the nuisance.

Your friend and subscriber,

CRANKY.

A Move in the Right Direction.

The proposed Park, or summer resort, as urged by the people of El Paso, would include the most picturesque canons and mountains in New Mexico, viz.: the summit of the White Mountains and the canons and broad waters of the Ruidoso and Bonito on the east side and the canons and head waters of the Three Rivers on the west side. As a summer resort for our people husbands and fathers could visit their dear ones without traveling half way across the continent and the government would be preserving for future generations the beauty of our wild mountains, whereas should it be thrown open to the public for location the forests of pine and mountain trees would soon be cut down and all the beauty of the mountains be destroyed forever.

Many of the wives and children of Texas and New Mexico visit the Northern and Eastern States each year to avoid the heated term, and are necessarily put to great expense and families are separated for months, whereas if a summer resort were created as indicated such expense and separation would not involve.

Yes, the proposed Park could and would be made the most popular resort in the southwest, and at less expense than at any other place in the country, offering as it does all the natural wild scenery of our majestic mountains and expansive plains, covered with dense growths of timber, and the streams abounding in falls or cascades and swelling with mountain trout.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.

MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP, for children teething, is the prescription of one of the best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and has been used for forty years with never-failing success by millions of mothers for their children. During the process of teething its value is incalculable. It relieves the child from pain, cures dysentery and diarrhœa, griping in the bowels, and wind colic. By giving health to the child it rests the mother. Price 25c. a bottle.

AT a meeting of the citizens of White Oaks called at the request of Morris B. Parker, Deputy Mineral Agent to take action as to the exhibit to be made by White Oaks at the Columbian Fair in 1892, on Tuesday night, Col. Heman was called to the chair and M. B. Parker was chosen secretary.

Speeches were made by Wm. Watson, B. H. Dye, J. Y. Hewitt, Morris B. Parker and T. W. Heman.

Finally, on motion the Chair appointed a committee of seven to formulate a plan of action for our town to take and report same as soon as possible, so that a meeting may be called by the secretary to consider the same. The committee is Wm. Watson, B. H. Dye, Jno. Y. Hewitt, W. W. Fitzpatrick, E. W. Parker and J. P. C. Langston, and L. W. Stewart.

The general feeling was that White Oaks should make a good display at the World's Fair and that the public should assist our representative, Mr. Parker, in every way possible in order that it may be a creditable and worthy display, such as White Oaks and Lincoln County can so easily make.

IN Delaware and Maryland the peach crop is so plentiful that the growers are feeding hogs on the fruit. The hog that refuses peach as don't know what is good for him.

Reputation is what men and women think of us.

THE White Oaks Congregational S. S. has raised, during the summer, sixty four dollars and fifty cents [$64.50] and with it has been able to purchase the following list of books, also a suitable book case wherein to keep them neatly and in order. The books are all numbered and all are welcome to read them under the rules which are made to keep track of and preserve them.

Will all parents and friends of the children please send by them any old books which they may have at home, as some of the best volumes of the old library are still missing.

The World Ransacked.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited as when Syrup of Figs was first produced its worth was immediately recognized, and the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently, the Spring time or, in fact, at any time and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

REV. BUNTE, who has been absent some two weeks attending the Conference of the M. E. Church, South, returned this week having been remitted back to us for another year. He informs us that White Oaks is now a complete diocese and that hereafter services will be held in the chapel every Sabbath. Rev. Thomas, formerly pastor here, has been relegated to his late charge, San Marcial.

At a public meeting of the citizens of White Oaks, held Sept. 1, 1891, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved—That Prof. J. C. Carlock be and he hereby is requested to act as a delegate and representative from White Oaks at the El Paso R. R. Convention to be held Sept. 21, 1891.

Layton, pastor of the First Baptist church who pronounced the ceremony.—Mr. McDonald is one of New Mexico's leading business men, while Mrs. McCourt was one of the Territory's handsomest and most accomplished young widows. Mr. McDonald and bride left for Clayton and the East on the morning train.

The population of the State of Nevada is 45,761 a decrease of 16,505, or 26.51 per cent since 1880 when the State had a population of 62,266. In every county but two decreases are shown, going, no doubt, to the decadence of mining interests.

$200 Reward for Ore Thieves.

The common experience of this camp knows that much is lost by the mine operators by the stealing of gold in specimens, if not in smaller and bulkier form. Therefore, the "Old Abe" Company offers a standing reward of Three Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction, or for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of stealing any of the property of the Old Abe Co., even the smallest specimen of ore. The rule of this company is to mill all specimens. Therefore none of the ore from this mine can be honestly held as specimens. And as the receiver, with guilty knowledge, is as guilty in law as the thief, this offer applies to the holder of Old Abe specimens.

YOU WANT

a San Francisco paper and of course you want a good one. The WEEKLY EXAMINER fills the want completely, for it is the best. It gives you every week not only all the news, but the best literary and miscellaneous matter published on the American continent—that is its specialty—being the best. It wants your subscription—wants particularly—and offers not only to you, but to every other subscriber, one or more attractive premiums.

In the first place, it gives every subscriber, one of the four magnificent etchings or printings described below, and delivers it safely at his address, postage paid.

"The Retreat from Moscow," by Meissonier.
"The Roman Chariot Race," by A. Wagner.

Each of these pictures is 21x33 inches, and they are elegantly reproduced in the finest, showing every line and color of the great originals, either one of which could not be purchased for $100,000.

"Women and Children First," by C. Napier Hemy.
"Christ Leaving the Pretorium," by Gustave Doré.

Each of these pictures is reproduced in photogravure, 8x12 inches, and is eminently suited for framing, and will adorn the walls of the most refined house.

Each subscriber has the choice of any one of these four pictures, which will be mailed him in a tube direct from the EXAMINER office as soon as the subscription is received.

In the second place, it will give 3,000 premiums, valued in the aggregate at about $125,000 to its subscribers this year. If there are 50,000 subscribers, one in ten will get one of these premiums; if there are 100,000, only one in twenty. But no matter how many there are, each and every one of these premiums—which range in value from 25 cents to $5,000—will be given absolutely without cost to some of those who have paid $1.50 for the WEEKLY EXAMINER for one year. The EXAMINER is thoroughly responsible, as you know, or as Wells, Fargo & Co. or any bank or commercial agency in San Francisco will assure you, and the leading men of the city will see that its premiums are distributed exactly as agreed and that every subscriber no matter where he is located, will receive just what is assigned to him.

Of course you want your home paper also, and you can just as well as not save a little money by taking the EXAMINER with it. The price of the WEEKLY EXAMINER is $1.50 per year, including the premium picture and your share of the $125,000 list of premiums, which are fully described in the twelve page Premium Supplement, which will be sent free on application to

W. K. HEARST, Publisher, San Francisco, Cal.

The EXAMINER and the LEADER, the combined price of which is $3.50, will be sent you for one year, postage paid, for $3.00. Send the money to the office of the LEADER and your subscription will be promptly forwarded to the EXAMINER, and you will receive therefor the EXAMINER'S number 1 receipt. You can get a Premium Supplement by applying at this office.

FOOTSTEPS OF SCIENCE.

We have written up the history of steam and it's application to water vessels and locomotive engines, showing that power to be the creation of the present century. Let us follow the footsteps of science a little further.

Science, which used to walk with such stealthy tread, stepping slowly and noiselessly, now seems to have put on it's walking shoes and to mean business. More than that, it would appear as though it had made the United States it's headquarters. It is only sixty years since Morse received aid from the Federal Government to stretch his telegraph wires from Washington to Baltimore, and sixty years since the atmosphere of this country was freighted with maledictions on the heads of those who voted the appropriation.—Morse was called a crack brained enthusiast, his discovery was denominated as the outcroppings of a diseased imagination, and much fun was had over the idea of communicating intelligence over wires. Newspapers caricatured it and suggested that the next thing heard of would be of men absent from home transmitting kisses and such washing to loving wives.—But how the Congressmen were berated for their freedom with the people's money, for giving public treasure to a fool. Like unto nearly every inventive genius the great genius Morse was poor—he had'nt money enough to buy a yard of wire or a twenty foot pole. There were but few who could realize that Morse's idea was practical or practicable. But there in power gave science and Morse the benefit of the doubt and subsidized the project. Soon thereafter the wires were stretched between the central capitol of the Nation, Washington, and it's sister city, Baltimore, and a correspondence ensued between the two which fact was heralded throughout the country by the public press, only to be laughed at and that agency charged with being bought up by venal Congressmen anxious to cover up and hide their malfeasance in giving the public money to an old humbug, to establish something that any child or fool knew to be impracticable. Soon the evidence of genuineness became stamped on the invention throughout, telegraphic despatches being conveyed by it. Morse died, but the project of his active brain still lives, shows signs of growth, for telegraphy has evidenced many since it's inception and is yearly stood in greater good.

How Americans can fail feeling [illegible] with perpetrating [illegible] of the genius of the [illegible]

About forty years ago another American, Field, set the skeptical world on fire and the rest in an uproar of laughter at the idea of laying a telegraphic cable at the bottom of the bottomless Atlantic, and conveying messages from the old to the new world and return. Why, of course, it could'nt be done—any fool would know better. When the cable was laid President Buchanan sent a message to Queen Victoria, congratulating her and the world on the consummation of the inventive project which was destined to weld still closer together the destinies of both nations. Little Vic. answered in a like spirit, but some strands of the cable parted during it's transmission, and when her message arrived it was as incoherent as a democratic speech at a midnight ward meeting. Then "I told you so," went up from the lungs of every lunkhead in the country. But Field was not discouraged, nor the friends and devotees of science disheartened.—The defect was soon repaired, and for years electric messages have sped with lightning rapidity from continent to continent, and the self constituted wise men have been forced to acknowledge that science to them was a sealed book, and even when opened they could not read or understand it.

* * * *

Then we might come down to Edison, another American scientist, who has taken the film from off the eyes of all the old world authors and left them bewildered. Indeed relicts of the old world have laid down their pens and in breathless anxiety are awaiting further developments from America. Such strides has science made during the past hundred years that one wishes from his innermost heart that less haste had been exercised in ushering him into the world, and that the day of his birth had been fixed at a day a century later that he might see to what height science would mount.

FROM THE HONDO.

Hondo, Sept. 1, 1891.

DEAR MAJOR:

Here we are, idle in the midst of hay harvest. For three days and nights the rain has poured incessantly thus preventing all outside work, yes, even estopping a man making his regular morning trip to the nearest tavern, thus inducing the blues. It was not a very heavy downpour but an uninterrupted drizzle until last night a heavy, old fashioned thunder storm crowned the disheartning aspect and left the roads in such condition as to confine everybody to his room who had one—and still the moisture keeps falling. You say, "Who can help that?" I say without fear of contradiction by an well informed person, it is all the doings of the head boss of the Agricultural Department at Washington. He, as you know, sent to Texas, as near the New Mexico line as practicable, an experimental expedition, which, according to all accounts, has made rain clouds at a cost of many thousands of dollars and to give out such quantities as to submerge Texas and New Mexico. This is all well enough, perhaps, but instead of raining in the desert of the Staked Plains, the clouds escaped control of their creators and came over here to do mischief. If the farmers down on the Pecos cannot cure their alfalfa crop, which, according to all accounts, is an immense one, Uncle Jerry will have law suits on hand for damages to make a poor man of him. But well he deserves it.—Why did he not, before making clouds at the people's expense, allow time for somebody to invent a machine to neutralize clouds, a sort of antidote as the scientists would call it, after which he could have made rain to order without damage to anybody.

What are our Farmers' Alliance men doing? Let them at once rush forward and importune the Governor of New Mexico to keep this infernal rain machine expedition out of our Territory as long as they are unable to control their clouds after making them. The Press of the country should also help to suppress the nuisance.

Your friend and subscriber,
CRANKY.

CONSUMPTION CURED.
An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for the speedy and permanent cure of Consumption, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma and all throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this recipe, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. Noyes, 820 Powers' Block, Rochester, N. Y.

A Move in the Right Direction.

The proposed Park, or summer resort, as urged by the people of El Paso, would include the most picturesque canons and mountains in New Mexico, viz.: the summit of the White Mountains and the canons and head waters of the Ruidoso and Bonito on the east side and the canons and head waters of the Three Rivers on the west side. As a summer resort for our people husbands and fathers could visit their dear ones without traveling half way across the continent and the government would be preserving for future generations the beauty of our wild mountains, whereas should it be thrown open to the public for location the forests of pine and mountain trees would soon be cut down and all the beauty of the mountains be destroyed forever.

Many of the wives and children of Texas and New Mexico visit the Northern and Eastern States each year to avoid the heated term, and are necessarily put to great expense and families are separated for months, whereas if a summer resort were created as indicated such expense and separation would not involve.

Yes, the proposed Park could and would be made the most popular resort in the southwest, and at less expense than at any other place in the country, offering as it does all the natural wild scenery of our majestic mountains and expansive plains, covered with dense growths of timber, and the streams abounding in falls or cascades and swelling with mountain trout.

AT a meeting of the citizens of White Oaks called at the request of Morris B. Parker, Deputy Mineral Agent to take action as to the exhibit to be made by White Oaks at the Columbian Fair in 1892, on Tuesday night, Col. Heman was called to the chair and M. B. Parker was chosen secretary.

Speeches were made by Wm. Watson, B. H. Dye, J. Y. Hewitt, Morris B. Parker and T. W. Heman.

Finally, on motion the Chair appointed a committee of seven to formulate a plan of action for our town to take and report same as soon as possible, so that a meeting may be called by the secretary to consider the same. The committee is Wm Watson, B. H. Dye, Jno Y. Hewitt, W. W. Fitzpatrick, E. W. Parker and J. P. G. Langston, and L. W. Stewart.

The general feeling was that White Oaks should make a good display at the World's Fair and that the public should assist our representative, Mr. Parker, in every way possible in order that it may be a creditable and worthy display, such as White Oaks and Lincoln County can so easily make.

In Delaware and Maryland the peach crop is so plentiful that the growers are feeding hogs on the fruit. The hog that refuses peaches does'nt know what is good for him.

Reputation is what men and women think of us.

THE White Oaks Congregational S. S. has raised, during the summer, sixty four dollars and fifty cents ($64.50) and with it has been able to purchase the following list of books, also a suitable book case wherein to keep them neatly and in order. The books are all numbered and all are welcome to read them under the rules which are made to keep track of and preserve them.

Will all parents and friends of the children please send by them any old books which they may have at home, as some of the best volumes of the old library are still missing.

DEAF-MUTE EDUCATION.

The Modern System of Teaching the Speechless the Art of Speaking.

A modern theory, through which the condition of deaf-mutes has been wonderfully changed, acts upon the supposition that such afflicted persons are mute only because they are deaf. There is no defect in the vocal organs, but the fact that no sounds can be heard led to the supposition that they can not be imitated. Science, however, has at last succeeded in remedying so serious a disability. Speech is accomplished both by the motion of the lips and vibration of the throat. Sight will give us intelligence in regard to the first, and touch should supply knowledge of the second.

In beginning to teach deaf-mutes the art of speech, they are first placed before a mirror, and taught to form with their lips the different vowel sounds used in speaking. But this is not all. Sounds are produced not only by the lips, but by the larynx, the vibration of which is strongest in the region known as the "Adam's apple." The pupil places his finger upon his master's throat while that vibration is going on, and then, touching his own, strives to imitate it. Then, when he is in possession of these elements of speech, he has only to combine them in order to produce syllables, words and phrases.

The course of instruction is not, however, a very rapid one, since a series of exercises known as the preparatory period has first to be accomplished. It is an interesting fact that, before learning to speak, the lungs, larynx, tongue, lips and eyes have to be so exercised as to be in a state of readiness to operate.

Each inspiration draws into the lungs an average of thirty cubic inches of air, but in speaking, at least one hundred and twenty cubic inches are used. The deaf-mute must, of course, be taught to inhale a sufficient quantity of air, and to regulate respiration, otherwise his air supply would fail, and his speech become jerky and disagreeable.

If the larynx also were not given preliminary exercise, the spoken word might be feeble or discordant, while the tongue, unaccustomed to any work but that of managing the food, must learn to accommodate itself to a different set of motions.

The lips of deaf-mutes are always far less supple than those of persons normally developed, and consequently require systematic exercise. The eyes do not need to be taught, because, as they have always been on the watch to supply information usually furnished by hearing, but they are taught to attain greater power of flexibness, that the attention may be concentrated without diversion upon the lips of any person speaking.

It has been observed that the sense of touch is less delicate in the deaf-mute than in other children, and this, also, demands special exercise.—Youth's Companion.
