Republican Ticket.

FOR PRESIDENT,

Benjamin Harrison,

—Of Indiana.—

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

Whitelaw Reid,

—Of New York.—

Harrison and Reid!

The above is the slogan which will reverberate and freight the atmosphere from now on to the 4th of November, when victory will perch on the Republican banner—the red, white and blue.

It took the Minneapolis Convention a considerable time to do its work but it performed it well. Harrison received 166 more votes on the first ballot than the entire combine had was then unanimously nominated. Whitelaw Reid was nominated without opposition.

The administration of Harrison had been so clean that it was unassailable, and "let well enough alone," was the governing spirit actuating the representive Republicans of the Union in National Convention assembled. That he is stronger now than when he eclipsed the "stuffed prophet" goes without the saying. Nothing but the wiping out of the planets can defeat his re-election.

Whitelaw Reid adds much strength to the ticket. He has a national reputation as editor-in-chief of the New York Tribune and as international one as late minister to France.

The result of the convention did not just suit all Republicans. Blaine had many friends but his name was sprung too late. Yet all delegates left the convention hall, Harrison men, and Blaine men vow to work the following card to the Boston Journal, which has the true ring to it:

"The resolution, energy and persistence which marked the proceedings of the convention of Minneapolis will, if turned against the enemy, win the election in November. All minor difficulties should be merged in the duty of every Republican to do all in his power to elect the ticket this day nominated by the national Republican convention.

JAMES G. BLAINE."

Then the platform is an inviting and promising one. Protection is endorsed in the strongest terms, the doctrine of reciprocity is approved and the Democratic party is denounced for its guerilla attacks upon the tariff laws. The silver plank is an improvement on that adopted by the national convention of 1888, and the western representatives on the committee of resolutions seems satisfied with their work.

Very properly, and in language that has a familiar sound, free and honest elections are demanded, southern outrages denounced, the extension of foreign relations advocated, the Monroe doctrine affirmed, more stringent laws against pauper immigration advocated, opposition to trusts re-affirmed, the extension of free postal delivery to towns and villages approved, civil service commended, the admission of the remaining territories favored, the control of the Nicaragua canal by the government suggested, cession of arid lands to the state endorsed, the World's fair "adopted" as a national undertaking, the soldiers assured of watchful care and the temperance workers sympathized with. Incidentally, legislation for the protection of life and liberty of employes of transportation companies engaged in interstate commerce was recommended, sympathy with the cause of home rule in Ireland and the persecuted Jews in Russia expressed, an hostility to any union of church and state declared.

We will publish the full text of the platform on one of the inside pages of next week's issue.

We give in the following table the new apportionment for each state, the old states being divided between the two parties as they voted the last presidential election

Past, Present and Future.

Of the eighteen Presidents elected since the formation of our present system of Government, only seven have been re-elected—Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, Jackson, Lincoln and Grant.

Of these the first four were elected before such a thing as a party or political organization nomination was known of in our country.

Jackson was first placed in nomination by the Tennessee legislature and for the second term by the party organization known as the Republican-Democrat party. At that convention the dual name was dropped and the organization christened the "Democratic" party. Then the Whig party came in existence and these two organizations contested with each other for supremacy until the Republican party was born in 1855, when the Whig party was disbanded. In 1856 John C. Fremont, the first Republican candidate for the Presidency, was defeated by the Democracy, electing James Buchanan. This was followed in 1860 by the election of that grandest of all grand men, Abraham Lincoln who was renominated and re-elected in the midst of the Civil War because, as he put it of "the danger of swapping horses while crossing a stream." He was succeeded at his death by Andrew Johnson, who was forced aside in 1868 by the silent hero of the war General Grant, who, because of his wonderful war record and the intense love the people held for him, renominated and re-elected, not however, without causing a serious split in the party. Then came the magnificent Hayes with his spotless character, who in turn was followed by Garfield, with the courtly and able Chester A. Arthur as his successor, who was followed by Grover Cleveland only to be defeated for a second term at the polls. This brings us to our present able and clean administration of President Harrison, who is a candidate on renomination. That precedent and history are plainly against a second term is certainly true, and yet seven out of eighteen Presidents have been re-elected. These, however, have, since the organization of party lines and conventions for nominating purposes, been confined exclusively to war heroes, and in not a single case has this been deviated from. Whether this is the year in which the record is to be broken remains to be seen. That President Harrison has given the country one of the cleanest and ablest administrations it has ever enjoyed is admitted by his most persistent opponents.

For a long time there has been loud clamoring for a post-office in the San Andres. One has at last been provided for at Dripping Springs.

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION.

As per special invitation issued by chairman of executive committee the ladies of White Oaks met at Valaferra Hall on Saturday afternoon of the 11th, inst., to consult with committee, appointed at former public meeting, in regard to giving a public dinner on the occasion of the celebration of the coming Fourth of July.

Mrs. John Y. Hewitt was made chairman of the meeting and Mrs. Maggie M. Ruidisill, Secretary. The chairman explained the objects of the meeting, after which a report of the committee on Public Dinner was called for. Chairman of said committee reported that they had decided to give a public dinner provided that they could have the co operation of the ladies of the vicinity, as it would require a great deal of preparation.

A motion was made, "That we endorse the report just made and agree to do all in our power to aid said Dinner committee in carrying out their plans."

Eloquent remarks were made by Mr H. L. Ross, in regard to the intelligent helpfulness of the ladies of White Oaks on all occasions when called upon for aid and the flattering gratification it gave to the gentlemen of the Executive committee to have so many ladies present.

Mr. Hewitt then explained that the gentlemen would furnish the bread, meats and all other foods except pies and cakes.

The motion was put and carried by an overwhelming majority

A motion prevailed, authorising the chairman to appoint a committee of three to solicit from the ladies present.

Mrs. Zeigler, Miss Gumm and Mrs. Marshall Parker were put on the committee and proceeded at once to take the canvass. The result proved beyond a doubt that the coming Fourth of July Celebration of White Oaks, including a bountiful feast of good things to eat, will be a grand success.

Some of the ladies thought best to have a committee appointed to solicit from those not present. The following ladies were announced as a committee for that work, with instructions to report to Mrs. John Y. Hewitt, chairman of Dinner committee, within one week.

Committee—Mrs. Allie Hamilton, Miss McGraw, Miss Gumm and Mrs. Frank Parker.

After some further discussion, the meeting adjourned.

MAGGIE M. RUIDISILL, Sec'y.

While at the Minneapolis Convention Senator Teller told a Globe Democrat reporter that he well remembered the campaign of 1856, that it was in that campaign that he made his maiden political speech. Here, too, in 1856 we were employed as now in publishing a religious paper with the names of Fremont and Dayton flying from the mast head of our journalistic craft. Henry M. Teller was then a young, struggling lawyer in the same county, (Whiteside County, Ills.,) and Teller's amateur trumpet and our ditto bugle were called into requisition, and we blew them for all they were worth. The whirligig of time has brought our lines pretty closely together.

On the 9th inst., J. N. Strauner, one of Las Vegas' most popular citizens, was thrown from a wagon and killed. It is only a few weeks ago that Mr. S. was here in company with Maj. McKinley, U. S. timber agent. He was a genial gentleman and the news of his death shocked all who knew him.

TOO MUCH LEARNING.

Alarming Increase in the Number of Prospective Men.

The alarming increase in the number of learned men forms the theme of a statistical work which has just been issued by a Gottingen professor. Dr. Lexis' figures refer more especially to Germany, though they are not much less applicable to many other parts of both of Europe and America.

Taking the number of students entered on the books of the twenty-one Teutonic universities at 23,000—Berlin heading the list with less than 5,000, while Rostock brings up the rear with something over 200—the professor shows that fully one-half of these hopeful youths are doomed to a life of poverty and disappointment. The vast majority of these 23,000 hurschen are looking forward to becoming lawyers or doctors or pastors or schoolmasters or to some other way, either in private life or as servants of the state, to earn their bread by means of the education they are at present so laboriously acquiring.

This is not the first time that a similar alarm has been sounded. No less a personage than Prof. Virchow recently advised young men to abandon all thought of finding a career in medicine, and more than once, both in America and in Great Britain, figures have been published showing that there are no patients for half the doctors, or no clients for half the lawyers, or churches for a fifth of the curates who are every year let loose upon the world.

The rush to the learned professions began, it is sometimes affirmed, after the depression in agriculture, and the corresponding rebound from the commercial prosperity of fifteen or twenty years ago. This may, no doubt, be partially true. But, as the same phenomenon has been noticed in every other country, the explanation must be sought a little deeper. The real cause will, we venture to think, be found in the ever-increasing tendency on the part of parents and their sons to look to the "gentlemanly professions" instead of the more lucrative and more certain callings of a less "genteel" description. In Germany and America, this fault is perhaps exhibited in its most exaggerated form, simply because in those countries professional training is cheap and the preliminary education abundant or easy to attain. But we see it everywhere else. Since the school boards brought the three R's within the reach of every child, it is notorious that these youthful graduates have displayed a repugnance to the useful lives in which they have been born. They want to "better themselves" by becoming city clerks or nursery governors. It is the first result produced by an unwonted state of affairs. By and by education will get too common to be marketable. It will then be regarded simply as a preliminary to any calling, and not as a necessary antecedent of what the Germans call "bread studies." A carpenter, or a blacksmith, or a machinist, or a storekeeper will discover that he is none the worse for being a good scholar, and will even find that in the enhanced esteem, the greater [illegible] and the enlarged chances [illegible] which it gives him, he is quite a gainer by his education as [illegible] and sought to earn his living by [illegible] of it directly.—London Standard.

An Eastern Horse-Stealer.

The following instance of endurance of pain would not have disgraced a Spartan. A notorious thief coveted the horse of a wealthy native, who, however, by some chance became aware of his intention, and redoubled his vigilance. The man succeeded in getting two of his comrades engaged as grass-cutters, and one dark night managed to slip unperceived into the stable. His friends covered him entirely with grass, and he was just stretching out his hand from underneath it to untie the rope when the beast started and became restive. The owner, perceiving it, for greater safety, tied the animal by a rope to two iron pins, which he hammered into the ground. It so happened the arm of the thief was just then lying extended under the grass, and that one of the iron pegs was driven through his right hand. He never so much as uttered a sigh, and though the agony must have been excruciating, he only set real when he thought the danger of being caught was over. He then pulled the peg out of the mangled hand, with his left untied the horse, mounted it, and succeeded in carrying it off. This was an exploit on which he ever afterwards prided himself. However improbable it may appear, the truth of this story may be relied on.—N. Y. Ledger.

A Sympathetic Employer.

Old Gent—And so that is your employer going to the funeral of one of his clerks?

Young Clerk—Not a clerk, but a distant relative of one of the clerks.

"My! my! I'm sure that is very thoughtful."

"Yes, 'most too thoughtful. Whenever one of us loses a relative and tells him about it he always goes to the funeral, confound him!"

"Eh! And do you object to such kindness of heart?"

"Don't kindness of heart, sir. He goes to make sure that the funeral isn't an excuse for a day off."—N. Y. Weekly.

Newspaper Laws.

Dr. Tuckerman, editor of the Workman of Cleveland, has taken some pains to examine and compile the decisions of the U. S. Courts on the subject of the rights of subscribers. The Washington Post, as the result of his investigations, the following, which may be relied upon as correct:

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered wishing to renew their subscription.

2. If the subscriber orders the discontinuance of his periodical, the publisher may continue to send it until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers remove to other places without informing the publisher, and papers are sent to the former address, they are held responsible.

5. The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office or removing and leaving them unclaimed is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrearages, is sent to the publisher.

The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest and collect for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the man who allows his subscription to run along for some time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused," or have a postal card sent notifying the publisher, leaves himself liable to arrest and fine the same as for theft.

An Eastern Horse-Stealer.

The following instance of endurance of pain would not have disgraced a Spartan. A notorious thief coveted the horse of a wealthy native, who, however, by some chance became aware of his intention, and redoubled his vigilance. The man succeeded in getting two of his comrades engaged as grass-cutters, and one dark night managed to slip unperceived into the stable. His friends covered him entirely with grass, and he was just stretching out his hand from underneath it to untie the rope when the beast started and became restive. The owner, perceiving it, for greater safety, tied the animal by a rope to two iron pins, which he hammered into the ground. It so happened the arm of the thief was just then lying extended under the grass, and that one of the iron pegs was driven through his right hand. He never so much as uttered a sigh, and though the agony must have been excruciating, he only set real when he thought the danger of being caught was over. He then pulled the peg out of the mangled hand, with his left untied the horse, mounted it, and succeeded in carrying it off. This was an exploit on which he ever afterwards prided himself. However improbable it may appear, the truth of this story may be relied on.—N. Y. Ledger.

A Sympathetic Employer.

Old Gent—And so that is your employer going to the funeral of one of his clerks?

Young Clerk—Not a clerk, but a distant relative of one of the clerks.

"My! my! I'm sure that is very thoughtful."

"Yes, 'most too thoughtful. Whenever one of us loses a relative and tells him about it he always goes to the funeral, sometimes him!"

"Ah! And do you object to such kindness of heart?"

"That's kindness of heart, sir. He goes to make sure that the funeral isn't one we cannot let a day off."—N. Y. Weekly.

Mr. Major Lewis.

Dr. Tackerman, editor of the Workman, Cleveland, has taken some pains to collect and compile the decisions of the U. S. Courts in cases in which Lewis is concerned. The Washington Post, as the result of investigations, the following, which may be relied upon as correct:

1. Subscribers who do not give express notice to the contrary are considered willing to renew their subscription.

2. [illegible] may continue to send [illegible] until all arrearages are paid.

3. If subscribers neglect or refuse to take periodicals from the office to which they are directed, they are responsible until they have settled their bills and ordered them discontinued.

4. If subscribers remove to other places without informing the publisher and papers are sent to the former address, they are held responsible.

5. The courts have decided that refusing to take periodicals from the office or removing and leaving them unsettled for is prima facie evidence of intentional fraud.

6. If subscribers pay in advance they are bound to give notice at the end of the time if they do not wish to continue taking it, otherwise the publisher is authorized to send it, and the subscriber will be responsible until an express notice, with payment of all arrearages, is sent to the publisher.

The latest postal laws are such that newspaper publishers can arrest and prosecute for fraud who takes a paper and refuses to pay for it. Under this law the man who allows his subscription to run along for some time unpaid and then orders it discontinued, or orders the postmaster to mark it "refused," or leaves it uncalled for and notifying the publisher, leaves himself liable to arrest and [illegible] the same as for theft.

GRAND PREMIUM OFFER!

A SET OF FINE

WORKS OF CHARLES DICKENS,

In Twelve Large Volumes,

Printed and Bound with a Type of Unquestionable Beauty, Paper of a Fine Finish, Every Sheet Clear and Distinct, Attractive Throughout.

Knowing as largely increased the circulation of this paper during the past year, we have decided to make another generous offer to our many friends and patrons, a few of which are to be found in every community in the land. We have secured a large number of complete sets of the works of Charles Dickens, in twelve large volumes, bound in English cloth, in a very handsome manner, with a very fine impression on fine paper, in a style that would readily command $2.00 per volume in any bookstore. The publishers, with a very fine edition on their hands, are anxious to dispose of the same at once, in order to realize the money invested, and have made us a very liberal offer for the entire lot. We propose to use them as premiums, and in order to secure a large number of subscribers at once, we will send a complete set of the works of Charles Dickens, in twelve large volumes, bound in English cloth, to any address, postage paid, on receipt of only $2.75. This is not a book to be sold by subscription, but is one that every family should have in their library, and is the regular publishers' price. Each volume contains a fine steel portrait of the author, and the whole forms a most complete and valuable set of books for reference, containing, as they do, the history of the lives of nearly all the characters that have ever been created by the fertile brain of this most celebrated author. Every home in the land should have a set. Every member of the family should read them. They are bright, sparkling and entertaining, and contain a fund of information that cannot be obtained elsewhere. Every volume is complete in itself, and each one is sold separately if desired. Bound in cloth, $2.75 per volume; in half calf, $5.00 per volume. Sent to any address, postage paid, on receipt of price. Address all orders to this office.

PICKWICK PAPERS,

A TALE OF TWO CITIES, HARD TIMES AND THE MYSTERY OF EDWIN DROOD.

The above are without question the most famous novels that were ever written. For a quarter of a century they have been celebrated in every nook and corner of the civilized world. Yet there are thousands of homes in America and yet unsupplied with a set of Dickens, the usual high cost of the books preventing people in moderate circumstances from enjoying this luxury. But now, owing to the use of modern improved printing, folding and pressing machinery, the extremely low price of white paper, and the great competition in the book trade, we are enabled to offer to our subscribers and readers a set of Dickens' works at a price which all can afford to pay. Every home in the land may now be supplied with a set of the great author's works.

While in our employ we had several occasions to scold her and the invariable result was it was "the old crank" who got the big end of the scoldings. Call again, Jennie—a few hand-shakes over the cholera chasm and white-winged peace will heaven both lumps.

DEATHS.

At 5:30 Wednesday evening, at the light of W. J. Littell Sr's life went out. He lacked but about a month of being 64 years old and had been sick only a week. We have not the data to write his obituary for this issue but will perform the mournful duty next week.

Thursday morning at 3:15 J. Robert Johnson died. He was 31 years of age, a miner, and a resident here since last winter. It is understood that he sprung from an influential Florida family.

JOSE M. TENJILLO, a notorious horsethief whose haunts are on the Rio Bonito in Lincoln county, is again at large. His latest exploit consists of making a sneak from the Lincoln county jail. This is the same fellow who escaped from the penitentiary last spring and stole Frank Chaves' horse, riding him as far as Pena Blanca and then turning him loose. He has served two terms in the penitentiary and is an expert in the business of jailbreaking, having created durance vile in Arizona, Colorado and El Paso. A description of the man is as follows: Height, 5 feet and 9 inches; Mexican; dark complexion, "jail-breached," two scars, one on each side of the face; has been shot through left wrist; speaks a little English.—Santa Fe New Mexican.

CAPTAIN and Mrs Bush left on Wednesday morning for White Oaks, N. M. where they will spend the summer. The Champion will be there before them as they started in a prairie schooner, which was fitted up in fine shape.—Amarillo Texas Champion.

Wall Paper a Specialty.

Please give me a call.

Across the Range, to the Far West, on steamboats, cars and stage-coaches, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is carried as the most important item in the materia medica of the traveling public. It deprives villainous, brackish water of its hurtful properties and execrable flavor, counteracts the pernicious effects upon the stomach of bad or indigestible food, remedies cramps, heartburn and wind upon the stomach. It is a fine defense against malarial disorders, nullifies the effects of excessive heat, cold and damp, relieves sick-headaches, and is an incomparable cure for nervousness and biliousness. The fatigue of travel often tells most disastrously upon invalids and convalescents, occasionally to such an extent as to jeopardize life. Persons in feeble health, apprehensive of bad effects from travel, will, if provided with the Bitters, be far less likely to have their fears realized.

$100 Reward for Ore Thieves.

The common experience of this country shows that much is lost by the miners and prospectors by the stealing of gold in specimens, if not in amalgam and bullion. Therefore, the "Old Abe" Company offers a standing reward of Three Hundred Dollars for the arrest and conviction or information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person guilty of stealing any of the property of the Old Abe Co., even the smallest specimen of ore. The rule of this company is to mark specimens. Therefore none of the ore from this mine can be honestly in specimens. And as the receiver of stolen property is as guilty in law as the thief, this offer applies to the buyer of Old Abe specimens.

GINSENG.
THE POWER OF MAN.

"The Chinese prize the Ginseng root more highly than gold. They call it Ginsing, meaning the Power of Man. When prized the root usually has been sold for $5.00 per ounce. Now, why do I say the above? Because Ginsing is said to give the person using it great vitality, and I am a believer in it. You lack vim, nerve force, energy, power. You feel it's gone. Take a simple tonic for strength, you say. Some weary at all times. Listen to me, I say. Please don't do before taking Ginsing Bitters, and if you are not satisfied after you have used one bottle, you can get your money refunded free, absolutely free of all charges. Write to-day.
