Dives Pay Big Sum

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.— Payments of $11,000 a week by disorderly houses in one police district have been uncovered by District Attorney Monaghan, who is conducting a grand jury investigation of rum runners and gangsters' activities.

The revelations came with the arrest of four detectives, charged with extorting money from the proprietor of a disorderly house.

They were alleged to have collected $220 a week from a single disorderly house in a police district in which 50 such establishments were reported by the district commander to have been operating.

Olga Barton, proprietor of one of these places, in testifying against the detectives, John Casey, Warren Robinson, James Kelley and William Dixey declared that her payments for protection, starting at $45 a week, had been raised on demand to $220 weekly.

Assistant District Attorney Hermes told Judge Edwin O. Lewis, before whom the prisoners were arraigned, that each of the 50 establishments had paid similar amounts for protection, or a total of approximately $11,000 a week in a single police district.

Mr. Monaghan said one police captain had accumulated nearly $250,000 in the last two and a half years.

She has taken special courses in methods of all kinds from kindergarten to high school, and has had special courses in rural school management where particular stress was placed on conditions of schools in New Mexico. She has watched the development of schools and the progress in New Mexico Consolidation of the smaller schools and the creation of High Schools. She understands the school system of New Mexico and is well acquainted with the conditions of the schools and is thoroughly qualified to meet any situation. She is well qualified for the position she seeks and is interested in all educational work and progress.

Zoe Glassmire

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY CLERK

The Democratic party is proud of the candidate for the office of County Clerk, Mrs. Zoe Glassmire, daughter of John Doering residing at Glencoe. She served very efficiently for three years as Deputy County Clerk and is well and favorably known, because of her fairness and impartiality on all who called on her for assistance.

She graduated from High School at Lawrence Kansas and had two years there in the State University. She has served for eight years as teacher in Sunday Schools of this city. She is now an officer in the Eastern Star and Rebekah Lodges of Carrizozo; also Secretary and Treasurer of the White Mountain Association and Treasurer of the local Women's Club. In addition to this she is working at her uncle's (Mr. Mike Doering) store in order to send her son to school.

She is active in all community affairs and shows her willingness to work when called upon.

J. H. Jackson

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR COMMISSIONER, 3RD DISTRICT

The gentleman named above is one of the best known citizens in southern and eastern Lincoln county, where his activities for the past twenty years have made him acquainted in almost every household. He has been engaged in farming and stockraising, in a small way, during his residence in Lincoln county, but is best known through his supervision and building of roads since statehood. Beginning with the Laws-Mayer-Vega County Road Board in 1912, he has served in all highway administrations since that time, irrespective of politics, and this recognition of his worth in that capacity by all administrations is a guarantee of service of which any man may feel proud. Mr. Jackson is a sound, substantial citizen, popular where he is best known for his sterling honesty and fair dealing, and those friends are strongly behind his candidacy, urging his election and assuring every section of the county a square deal when Jim Jackson sits on the Board of County Commissioners.

M. B. Paden

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR COUNTY TREASURER

Was born and reared in Lincoln County, some 40 years ago, has spent most of the years of his life in Lincoln County. He attended the New Mexico Military Inst. at Roswell from which Institution, he graduated in 1905. From 1905 to 1923 in December he held many positions of trust and in Dec 1923 was appointed to fill an unexpired term as County Treasurer, this office he held during 1924 and was defeated the same year in November by the Old Rep. wheel horse E. W. Hulbert. During 1925-26 he managed the Paden's Drug Store and in November 1926 was again a candidate for the office of County Treasurer and was elected by a good majority. He made the bond and took the office Jan. 19-27 and has held the office for two years past, giving close attention to the duties of the office, and has made a most satisfactory official both in protecting the interests of the people and in a full compliance with his oath of office. It is with this record of a clean, honest and efficient administration of the affairs of that office that he once more comes before the people of Lincoln County asking re-election.

Mrs. Louise H. Coe

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATOR, 18TH DISTRICT

Mrs. Louise H. Coe, candidate to succeed herself as Senator from the eighteenth district comprising Lincoln and Otero counties.

Mrs. Coe needs no introduction to the voters of the 18th Senatorial District and very few of those who will be elected to the Senate of the State of New Mexico will be better equipped for their part in the Upper House of the State Legislature. Since graduating from the Roswell High School she has steadily added to her accomplishments and education, having taken courses at the University of New Mexico, the New Mexico State Teacher's College, the University of Texas and Columbia University, New York City.

As a teacher in the rural schools of Lincoln County, a teacher of English and Music in the Capitan High School, Principal of the Hondo High School and as County Superintendent of the schools of Lincoln County she has worked hard and been successful. Active in women's organizations she is at present:

President, Administrative Women's Organization in the New Mexico Educational Association.

State parliamentarian, New Mexico Federation of Women's Clubs.

Chairman of the Legislative Committee of New Mexico Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

In the Seventh and Eighth Legislatures she served with non-partisan board of education besides fostering and supporting other bills that became laws.

Mrs. Coe is a Democrat in politics and seeks re-election to office on the Democratic Ticket, but there is little question that her ability and worth will secure for her many votes of those who are allied with the Republican party.

Lincoln County is in the two Senatorial Districts, the 15th, composed of Lincoln Otero, Socorro and Torrance and the 18th, composed of Lincoln and Otero. In the event of the defeat of Mrs. Coe Lincoln County would have no Senator and Otero County two. A nice write up with regard to Mrs. Coe will be found in the October number of Sunset Magazine. Lincoln County needs Mrs. Coe in the Senate.

Give these candidates your earnest consideration.

"Religious Freedom"

In a speech delivered at Alexandria, Virginia, Thursday, September 20, Senator Carter Glass of that state, life-long member of the Methodist church, said:

"If there are any two religious denominations on this hemisphere that ought to stand responsible and immovable for religious freedom it is the Methodist and the Baptist, for no two men on earth ever learned the meaning of persecution more than John Wesley and Roger Williams, or, if some Baptist would prefer, I could go back further in history to the founding of his church by John the Baptist—he had his head cut off because of religious intolerance.

"Here, in Old Virginia, the very cradle of civil and religious liberty, we should have this issue ejected Thomas Jefferson, the founder of the Democratic party, considered the greatest Virginian that ever breathed, was the founder of religious freedom. When he came to lie down and die, with his own hand he wrote the inscription for his monolith. Said nothing about being a great minister from this country to France; said nothing about being the greatest secretary of state of all times; said nothing about being the honored vice president of the United States and governor of Virginia; said nothing about two terms as president of the United States, but he wrote 'Author of the Declaration of Independence and the Virginia Statute of Religious Freedom and the Founder of the University of Virginia.'

"My friends, if we, in Virginia, have so far departed from the faith of that great man as a legacy as to defeat Al Smith on a religious issue, we had better send some of those vandals to Monticello on the seventh day of November to carve from his tomb the inscription he wrote there with his own hand."

Testing the "Lung," New Submarine Safety Device

Lieut. C. B. Monson, United States navy, one of the inventors of the new submarine safety device called the "lung," testing it at the Washington Navy yard. It is destined to be the one avenue of escape to the sailor imperiled in the depths aboard a sunken submarine. The "lung" used today resembles a gas mask and weighs four pounds, and by the use of a mouthpiece the person is enabled to breathe.

BOTH WISE AND FOOLISH MUST PAY

By F. A. WALKER

THERE is sure to come some day to every human being now journeying through life an austere agent of nature, empowered to collect certain personal debts and obligations, long overdue.

The simple process of falling behind in payments is a common one, brought out in most cases by indifference. In youth we ride madly disregarding reason and health.

But all at a sudden we find ourselves unhorsed, lying upon an unknown road, hurt in body and broken in spirit.

And beside us stands this abdurate collector who insists that we hand out our toll, to the last penny.

It seems as if he had never heard or seen us until that moment; but by report of his memory, he must have known us a long while.

"I know you all," says he, "the wise and the foolish, but it is from the fools that I gather the heavier tolls."

To those who in the springtime shunned wisdom and understanding, he presents a heavy bill. They must work it out in dismal shops where work is mental and a lifetime is required in which to cancel the debt.

From others, who in their early days were wild, indiscreet and evil-minded, who ran up obligations which in middle life must be paid in disease, repining and broken manhood or womanhood, he exacts staggering accounts, till all is gone and hope is fled.

From the vicious and depraved, he levies tolls in prison walls without tate or tret.

Thousands are piling up such debts today, which must in the days to come be paid in full.

Those who travel the primrose path, sow tares, waste time, sneer at instruction and forget their Creator in the days of youth, will sooner or later be compelled to pay for their follies with their last drop of blood and their last ounce of strength.

Only a few years ago these merry-makers were clear-eyed, happy and innocent boys and girls.

But now, as the grim messenger comes to gather his toll in pain, sorrow, sobbing and sickness, it must be paid, for nothing but this form of payment will suffice to cancel the account.

I HAVE SPOKEN

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

BRONZE arms across a copper chest. A statue, yet a living man, fits gives the council-fire his best.

Whether a challenge or a plan, Dora swift of thought and slow of speech,

When once his silence he has broken, He speaks to all, yet speaks to each, And ends the matter, "I have spoken."

But men who call themselves more wise, Because God chanced to make them white,

Argue and answer and advise, Debate and shout, and even write. Yet, if it is the truth we tell,

Truth needs no other sign or token. Let us speak wisely, and speak well, Then speak no further, having spoken.

For who can add more truth to truth, When once the sword of speech he girds?

Yet old men argue, yes, and youth, Obscure the truth with useless words. Will repetition make steel steel,

Or gold more golden, oak more oaken? Great clouds of words will but conceal The truth's high mountains. I have spoken.

then add one cupful of sweet cream and a little grated nutmeg, beating all together until well blended. Now fold in the well-beaten egg whites and pour into a pan lined with buttered paper. Cover the top with thin slices of citron. Bake in a round-tube pan one and one-quarter hours. Lower the heat slightly after the cake has fully risen and beginning to brown.

A glass of buttermilk with a sandwich will make a satisfying lunch and with a bit of fruit, it will be a well-balanced meal.

INTELLECTUAL INFANTS

By JOHN BLAKE

MOST parents realize that children like to ask questions.

They realize also that their offspring's queries are likely to be most persistent when the victim is trying to concentrate on something else, or when he doesn't know the answer to the question.

At such times many parents take refuge in "Don't ask questions, dear." This saves them the annoyance of turning their attention to the new subject; and it saves their pride if they don't know the answer to the question that is being propounded.

It is, however, a rather cowardly subterfuge. And it is rather discouraging for the child.

In the past curiosity has been looked upon rather as a vice. "Curiosity killed a cat," says some one when a child seems to be overinquiring. And that seems to be the end of the matter.

There are several kinds of curiosity. One is a snooping, meddling, gossiping sort often met with.

The other is the driving force behind great inventions and discoveries.

Columbus was not interested in prying into his neighbors' private affairs but he did want to know what was on the other side of the ocean.

Amundsen was similarly interested in the region between Alaska and the North pole.

Edison was curious to know if the human voice could be reproduced. Every great scientist, inventor and explorer that ever lived has been actuated by curiosity.

And so we see that curiosity, far from being a mere annoying inquisitiveness, may be a very noble thing

Of late the term "intellectual curiosity" has come into vogue. It is not a disparaging term. On the contrary anyone who is possessed of a bump of intellectual curiosity is generally conceded to be a highbrow.

Most children do not ask questions because they want to be annoying. They ask questions because they want to know the answers. In the same way did Socrates ask questions of the citizens of Athens.

A child has not been in the world so long as an adult. Consequently it has not had as much opportunity to learn things good and bad. Shall it be condemned for wanting to learn them?

If you stop to consider it, curiosity is rather a hopeful sign in a child. A dull person doesn't want to know about things. But an intelligent one does—about the things in which he is interested anyway.

It is irritating to be interrupted when you are in the midst of a train of thought. But if the child is really anxious to acquire knowledge his offense is certainly forgivable.

And no wise person is ever ashamed to admit that he doesn't know the answer to a question. Socrates, the wisest of the Greeks, said that his knowledge lay in his unashamed admission of his ignorance.

WHEN a quick touché dish is required, a can of two of sardines will make a very tasty dish.

Heat the sardines in their own oil until very hot, then place on buttered toast and serve.

When serving French dressing, change the seasoning by adding a teaspoonful of Worcestershire sauce and catsup. Chopped flavor vegetables such as onion, pepper, chives or a bit of garlic will offer another variety.

Eggs De Lesseps. Sauté four eggs in butter, taking care not to break the yolks. Place them on a hot platter and dust with salt; to the browned butter add a teaspoonful of vinegar and one teaspoonful of minced parsley. Serve with calf's brains boiled and then sautéed in butter. Pour the sauce over the eggs and serve.

Fruit Pie. Take one cupful of fresh fruit crushed, one cupful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of flour, the yolks of two eggs and a pinch of salt. Bake a shell of pastry and turn in the fruit mixture after it has been cooked and cooled. Cover with a meringue, brown lightly and serve cold.

Maderia Cake. Put the yolks of two eggs into a mixing bowl, then add one cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of butter; add two well-sifted cupfuls of flour two teaspoonfuls of baking powder

Kiddies' Bedtime Story

"TODAY," said the policeman's horse to some of the other horses, "we had a picnic—my master and I."

"A picnic?" the horses exclaimed in their own furthest. "No, no! We won't you on duty today?"

"Yes, we were on duty, but we had a picnic, too," the horse answered. "I'll have to tell you about it," he said.

"An automobile came along and in it were some people. That's the usual way, of-course."

"An automobile doesn't come along by itself."

"But no matter, you understand me. The people in the automobile asked my master how to get to a place where they wanted to have their picnic."

"There were a number of children and they had a fine dog with them, too."

"They told my master that when they stopped at their picnic grounds, the dog sat on the step along the side of the automobile so that people passing by would know that he was not a stray dog looking for food but that he was really a part of the picnic party."

"They said he always did this except for a few moments now and then when he went for a run or a swim or chasing sticks."

"My master and the people chatted for quite a few moments and then my master told them how to get to the place they wanted to reach."

"Before they left they offered my master some candy and my master said:

"Thank you, and my horse will have one if you don't mind. He loves sweet things. He has what is known as a "sweet tooth."

"Well, they fixed up a little box and in it were some pieces of cake and some candy and some sugar as a special treat for me."

"Of course I get sugar very often but it is always a 'special treat' for me."

"Then they hurried on."

"But my master and I had a picnic between busy times. Oh, it was such fun!

"My master told the people that I was brave but that I was enough of a 'child' to care for sweets."

"And he said he was a 'kiddie' that way, too. But he didn't say anything about his bravery, and of course they couldn't understand me."

My mother-in-law took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and she induced me to take it. I am now on the fourth bottle and have also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. Electricity Corrodes Corrosion of pipe lines that carry oil has perplexed scientists for some time, but bureau of standards investigators, after a number of tests, have announced that they are of the opinion the action is due to electricity. Running through soils where the ground is of different chemical composition and of varying moisture content, the pipe is subjected to the results of a discharge and a collecting of electrical current at different points. The earth, in other words, becomes a sort of huge battery of cells formed by the different soil sections.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Grace J. Austin.

Dame Fashion, probably like most other mortals, has some of the properties of the chameleon. When she is surrounded with a great deal of one color, that color certainly gains astonishing value. Just the other evening there was a group at a literary gathering which brought this idea to mind. In the library where those present assembled there was a wonderful raspberry rug on the polished floor which made a foundation to enhance any effect of beauty. It proved there was quite an emphasis upon green in several of the costumes present.

Madam Novellat had brought with her from New York a scarf of green velvet brocade upon green chiffon which was extremely effective over her gown of beige crepe, dotted with dark brown polka dots, with which she wore a beige felt hat with brim, and touches of the darker brown in the trimming. The special beauty of her green scarf came from the fact that it was miraculously fitted to her, instead of being a straight strip. There was a pretty curve to suit the neckline, while a curving wave appeared on the other side of the scarf.

Lucy from New York wore an entire gown of the rich vivid green silk, sometimes called "billiard green," from the color of the covering of game boards. It had graceful lines and many artistic platings, while the fact that there was not even the slightest touch of another color or material gave it distinction. A beautiful Titan-haired girl wore a light green mixed pattern knitted gown, with sweater-blouse effect, while there was one green velvet jacket in the room.

There used to be a silly old couple, "married in green, ashamed to be seen," to go along with "married in white, you've done just right." But they describe of late from London an entire elaborate church wedding where the bride and all her many attendants appeared in green.

There has been quite a discussion going on in Dame Fashion's hearing, as to whether women choose their gowns with a feeling that these are to be a "background" or a "picture." Foundation for the discussion came from a message from Kansas City, brought from Paris, that jeweled handbags are to be in high favor for this winter in Europe, and that to bring out the beauty of these bags, many women are willing to wear background gowns of black or navy blue, without any ornament except the astonishing bag.

Dame Fashion appealed to a dress authority to know if the background picture dress was a matter of age. She replied with emphasis, "Age has certainly very little to do with choices for background or picture dresses."

"But are more people choosing the striking dresses, in these days?" "On the whole, I think perhaps more. Yet to try and dress of a single color is not necessarily a 'background dress.' It all depends on the treatment of the materials. Satin crepes and velvets, in single tone, are much in the mode. We have all seen a woman in a gown of unrelaxed black who made a more striking picture than if she had had on all the colors of the rainbow!"

Beige Angora Sweater and Green Kasha Skirt

Here is a snappy outfit that is popular this season with the coeds. A beige angora sweater is worn with a green kasha skirt. A wool scarf of green beige lends a jaunty effect. A green felt visor adds in secret with this sports ensemble.

Make Clothes-Pin Bag Out of Used Flour Bag

No special pattern is needed for making this useful clothes-pin bag. One can easily be cut out of wrapping paper folded so that the two sides will be alike. The only materials necessary are a used flour bag and three yards of some bright-colored bias tape. The greatest depth of the apron is 17 inches, the greatest width, 19 inches. The top edge of the pockets, which is bound into the belt, measures 4 inches.

Useful Clothes-Pin Bag Made of Used Flour Bag.

The flour bag may be bought from the baker for a few cents. The stamping is taken out by covering it with lard or soaking it in kerosene for a few hours and then washing out in lukewarm water.

If one is making the apron for a shower gift or to be sold at a bazaar, some simple decorations, such as clothes pins worked in red outline stitch may be added. This work should of course be done before the apron is assembled. The curved edges of the pocket part of the apron are bound first. Then the two parts of the apron are bound together all the way round. The belt is added and may be finished with button and buttonhole instead of the ends.

Red Is Prominent in Paris' Fall Fashions

Red is given a stellar role in fall fashions. It rivals black, and shares honors with brown. Red with blue, navy or brighter shade, has been listed among fashionables as something with which to conjure, and combinations in which red occur please all kinds of women.

Black is given the precedence over color for evening at most of the exclusive shops, and a special preference for nets may be reported from practically every style center. These net dresses follow the irregularities of the erstwhile popular chiffon gown, which is another way of saying that they are both long and full.

Shirtings occur, with and without tiers and circular panels, and these shirtings are relied upon to indicate, if not outline, the form. Sheer velvet is a medium useful for this proceeding. It is best liked in black, red, and brown, but it is found in small all-over patterns involving some, if not all, of these tones and sometimes others.

Brown really leads for day wear, and the entire gamut of tones is brought into play.

Lace trims the daytime frock, being frequently chosen for the yoke, yokes having become again important. Lace cuff, collar and gilet effects, especially in white, ash and such tones as are opposed to white, have the preference. The all-lace dress for evening remains in tune with the times.

In the wake of the gay and gaudy spangled jacket, the companion to the smart evening gown, is the elegance of the broadened jacket—metalized, as a rule, and, what is amazing, more or less form-revealing.

After a series of seasons in which clothes have merely hung in straight lines, it is startling to find them clinging, even fitted, and revealing lines not so straight, a curve or two being encouraged rather than frowned down.

Bowknots Trim Frocks Offered for Fall Wear

The bowknot shows its interesting curves in many forms of dress decoration, and on the fall models adorns sports and dress apparel alike.

A handsome afternoon frock in one of the new blues in transparent velvet follows the prevailing youthful lines of the long, slightly bloused-bodice above a wide, tightly molded hip circle, the skirt plain and short in the back and freely circular and rippling in front to uneven lengths.

A bowknot done in blue and gold metal thread is the center of interest at the neckline, and on each close-fitting sleeve, between wrist and elbow. This is just the type of frock the small woman or the college miss will appreciate as an example of sartorial simplicity and skill.

Likewise, the bowknot is used to good effect on many a clever sports costume, frequently being an incarnation of self-fabric in a different tone or a contrasting shade, and again of metal or braid.

Cape Back

A new light red crepe satin evening gown is fashioned with a cape back and panel neck ends that flare and round and fall below the hem in the back.

Suede and Kid

Blue suede and plain blue kid are combined in some of the fall footwear.

Between You and Me

"Common sense is the most uncommon kind of sense."

By HAROLD BELL WRIGHT

Nothing to Laugh At
The fellows what writes up the funny papers sure do poke a heap of fun at lover, but I'm telling you, love ain't nothing to laugh at—specially when hit's done got you married. —Preacher Bill.

YES, and between you and me there is no truer measure of one's character than one's sense of humor. Our real selves are revealed when we laugh. That which strikes me as funny uncovers my soul and presents me to the world as I really am.

Mark how the quality of a baby's laughter changes as years develop the child's character for better or worse. Listen to the laughter of carefree boys and girls. Consider the mirth of crime-hardened men and vice-scarred women. Hear the laughter of the idiot, the degenerate, the maniac. Observe the laughter of motherhood, of the lover and the beloved, of the drunkard, the defeated, the triumphant, the joyous, the pessimist, the cynic; of brutality, of reckless despair.

That Mona Lisa smile has puzzled and provoked men since that memorable day when Eve smiled at her man under the apple tree.

Don't try to tell me that Adam would ever have eaten that disastrous apple if Eve had not laughed at him for being afraid.

You women know exactly how it was done. You are doing it to this day—every one of you. And I suppose that as long as God continues creating us male and female you will continue smiling your loving, teasing, mocking, daring, sly, knowing, fond, provoking.

Wright Philosophy

Think it over and you will see that words are very much like people.

By universal consent our most beautiful word is mother. But the biggest, broadest, tallest, strongest, most comprehensive, most inspiring word in any language, I think, is the word WE.

And the meanest, most contemptible, vicious, poisonous and deadly word in any tongue is that little two-letter arrangement, ME.

The surest thing—the one sure bet—is to stake your all on the man who has the WE habit.

Between you and me, no friendship can long endure without the spirit of WE.

There are people who seem to have learned only one letter in the alphabet: I.

You need to look out for them; they are dangerously ill, and it's catching.

The man who thinks ME in stead of WE always defeats himself in the end.

tolerating, inviting, maddening, superior, Mona Lisa smiles.

Intelligence, or the lack of it, is indicated by one's mental attitude. Laughter indicates a mental attitude. A feeble mind laughs at the antics of a fool—a strong soul pities the poor unfortunate. Degeneracy laughs at nobility—nobility finds no mirth in degeneracy. Ignorance laughs at wisdom—wisdom sees nothing funny in ignorance. An idiot laughs at everything. The libertine makes fun of the man who assumes the decent obligations of fatherhood; the father strong in the joys which the rake has missed, pities the last-remembered fool.

A just valuation of the vital elements of human life, character and racial development is a mark of true greatness.

The most vital element of human life, character and development, is mating love.

No, I am not at the moment speaking of marriage. Marriage may be the realization and expression of mating love or it may not. There are marriages of convenience, pleasure, ambition, convention. Men and women have wedded for spite, or pride or money or because they were drunk. I am not discussing these.

I am only trying to say that the mating love which finds expression in the union of a man and woman in the establishment of a home, the birth of children and the filling of those children—physically, mentally and spiritually—to take on in their turn the responsibilities, joys, sorrows, victories and defeats of human life, is the most vital factor in human existence.

Yes, we hear much talk these days about the evils of divorce and kindred ills. It is a good thing that some of us do worry over these tendencies of the times.

Yes, and I have read that the ancient Chinese used to torture criminals by tickling them to death. (I suppose that was the origin of the familiar expression: "I thought I'd die a-laughing.")

Well, just between you and me, our modern jokemasters are ruining more characters, wrecking more homes and killing more happiness than all the other agents of evil combined.

No, no, I did not say that every jokemaster was an agent of evil. But you know as well as I that the surest way to destroy a man's influence, bring his dearest dreams to naught and utterly spoil his life is to make him and his life work an object of laughter.

The shafts of ridicule are poisonous arrows. They are certain death. That the archer, himself, is sometimes pricked by his own points makes the weapon no less deadly.

The real cause of our domestic troubles is; we have killed love with laughter.

We treat this most vital thing in human life as a joke. Infidelity, divorce, free love—all these germinations in ridicule of mating love.

Certainly! Love and laughter go hand in hand. The twinkling eyes, the merry voice, happy laugh, the winsome smile—these are the signal flags of love. But the coarse jest, the vulgar allusion, the sneering smirk—these signal the defeat of love.

A wedding means more, much more, than is signified by the cans, old shoes, ribbons, rice and laughter. The parson or priest may solemnize, the law may legalize, but only mating love can make a marriage.

Tell a boy often enough that all men are liars and he will grow up a liar. Train a girl in deceit and insincerity and distrust and she will trust no one and believe in nothing. Assure the child that no one is honest and the child will develop into a crook. Ridicule a youngster's ambitions and he ceases to have any.

Well, from boyhood to manhood, from girlhood to womanhood, the youth of the race are taught to laugh at mating love. And then we complain when they fail to take it seriously.

The comic sections and funny columns of our newspapers, magazines of humor, student publications; the stage, motion pictures, popular songs—almost every influence to which youth is subjected, laughs at mating love and with ridicule makes marriage contemptible. The crudest wit and coarsest humor, the dirtiest thought, the most obscene jokes are continually aimed at love. And then we raise a cry because the rising generation fails to accept love understandingly.

I wish I could convince the youths and maidens of my country that they need not be ashamed of love, but that they do need to shout down the braying asses who, by subjecting love to ridicule, make it contemptible.

I wish I could help them to see that these paid fools, who imagine themselves clever wits because they make snoots at God and crack obscene jokes about life, are not funny.

Between you and me, it is quite time that some one shouted "Scat!"

Listen—A degenerate idea of love is infallible proof of degeneracy. Those who laugh at mating love betray themselves. Think it over.

Cut out the cheap comedy—Cease to ridicule love and our divorce courts will close in a generation.

Holland Bulb Farms of Marvellous Beauty

The most casual visitor traveling in the train from Leyden to Haarlem in the spring has his attention arrested by the splendor of coloring on either side, for the Dutch bulb farms are probably as rich in bloom as any other in the world. Field after field of exquisite flowers strike the eye. From early April, when hyacinths bloom, to late June, when the Spanish frizes are at their best, the fields hold carnival.

One of the most curious details in the work of the bulb farmer is observed late in the summer, when the hyacinths are prepared for purposes of propagation. In other years a bulb was slashed transversely and set in the ground. By the following summer it had thrown off a number of young bulbs. Accident taught the growers a better method.

Among the bulbs were some out of which take had eaten the bottom, and in all such cases, in the place where the bulb had eaten, an extraordinary number of baby bulbs were found to be growing. The bulb had reproduced itself 50 or 40 fold.

The growers took the hint. Nowdays they cut away the bottom of the bulb from the center and stand the bulb in the sun for a time. Then they plant it out, and every section raises little ones and nourishes them with its own life. Next season the parent bulb has disappeared and 30 or 40 little bulbs have taken its place.

Cure of "Backseatitis"

A Detroit mechanic, with a nervous wife and a sense of humor, recently found the burden of the former's "back-seat driving" too much for his own nerves. Consequently, he purchased an airplane wheel and post, mounted the same on a block, to which he also attached a set of brakes, and placed it in the tonneau of his automobile. When he drove the car to the front of his home that evening and helped his wife into the car, she took with amazement at the extra parts, then told him that "you can take that junk out." He did, and offers to lend the contraption to others similarly affected, as a "sure cure." —Detroit News.

Of Historic Interest

Gettysburg college is the oldest Lutheran col. in America. The historic Dobbin house, the first school building west of the Allegheny river, still stands within the town. Free museums are open to all visitors. The home of Theodorus Stevens, patron of education, is on one of the main streets.

How many people you know end their colds with Bayer Aspirin! And how often you've heard of its prompt relief of sore throat or tonsillitis. No wonder millions take it for colds, neuralgia, rheumatism; and the aches and pains that go with them. The wonder is that anyone still worries through a winter without these tablets! They relieve quickly, yet have no effect whatever on the heart. Friends have told you Bayer Aspirin is marvelous; doctors have declared it harmless. Every druggist has it, with proven directions. Why not put it to the test?

TAMMANY - The thought that provokes an article on this subject is not because the Republicans are shouting "Tammany," hoping to gain some political advantage - merely dragging a "red herring across the trail" to hide some of their own political speculations of much more recent date - but with the hope of enlightening some Democrats who are taking the bait, hook, line and sinker; in other words, certain Democrats have shown a disposition to "strain at a gnat and swallow a camel;" and it is to them we wish to speak. If, by means of comparison, we're compelled to mention the Republican party and some of its leading lights, whose actions have been denounced by the Supreme Court of the United States - the greatest tribunal in the world - as un-speakable chicanery, faithless public servants, debauchery and graft that has ever infested our national government, and all so plain and of such recent date, that "he who runs may read," are mentioned, the responsibility must rest where it belongs - with the perpetrators and the party that permitted it.

Tammany, which is under fire because Al Smith is one of its members, was organized in New York in 1789, as a counterweight to the so-called "aristocratic" society of the "Cincinnati," and derived its name from a famous friendly Delaware chief named Tammany. The society was originally a social organization, but about 1800 it entered politics, and was allied with De Witt Clinton, the greatest among the early governors of the state of New York; and later came to be recognized as the leading Democratic organization in the city of New York

"Tweed was the corrupt boss of Tammany in the 70's; but the 'Tweed Ring' was broken up by Samuel J. Tilden, and Tweed went to prison where he died. It should also be noted that Tilden and Tweed were of the same political faith, and both members of Tammany; but that did not restrain New York's honest and able governor from the punishment of crime wherever found. If there be those who have forgotten the name of Tilden, let it be said that he was the Democratic governor of New York at the time, and proceeded to bring Tammany to time, punished its corruptionists and forced it to take a back seat in governmental affairs, where it remained until it had purged itself of grafters. The man who humbled Tammany was the same man whom the Democrats named for president in 1876, was elected, and yet never took his seat because the office was stolen. Democrats who are so loudly proclaiming their fealty to political party derive any satisfaction from this statement, they are welcome to it.

As an evidence that Tammany has undergone a change, she has been in almost exclusive control of New York city since those stirring days of the 70's and say what you please, New York, under Tammany rule, is far the best governed city of three largest municipalities in America - and just by comparison - its two sister cities, Chicago and Philadelphia, governed by local Republican rings, are so rotten that the man in the moon holds his nose as he passes over them. The fifty-year-old motto to a certain class of Democrats, when looking at Tammany, seems to have a greater significance than the present day beam in graft-ridden Philadelphia, ruled by the Vane Republican machine, and gang-controlled Chicago, the Thompson-Crowe balliwick, where honest people fear for their lives.

However, these are minor affairs, comparatively speaking, as they relate very largely to local government; but Democrats surely cannot have forgotten a matter that has been going at Washington the past eight years, during which time a little oil deal - two of them, in fact - took place, and when the litigation concerning these oil transactions reached the Supreme Court, that august tribunal departed from its usual custom, and handed down an opinion that bristled with denunciation of faithless officials; and yet the moral sensibilities of the American people have become so dull over this eight-year orgy of graft and corruption that little attention was paid to the grave condition of affairs that were so roundly condemned by the Supreme Court.

All the time this attempted steal was going on, neither the president nor any member of the cabinet raised a hand to prevent it. When the exposure was made, by congressional investigation, neither the president nor any member of the cabinet offered assistance, and to this good day, neither the president nor any member of his cabinet, of which Mr. Hoover was one and is now the Republican candidate for president, have ever lifted a voice in condemnation of the greatest steal attempted in our history. Some Republicans may call this throwing mud; we call it pouring oil.

Democrats who are holding up their heads in holy horror at the very mention of Tammany, and proclaiming their support of a man for the highest office in the nation who sat silently by while the heritage of the coming generations were bartered away, may be hoodwinking themselves, but those acquainted with the situation, and who are not governed by prejudice, fail to appreciate their view.

Democrats Coming

A number of Democratic candidates and other speakers will be in Carrizozo Saturday, October 20, and speak at a meeting to be held in Community Hall that night. Everybody of all political persuasions cordially invited to attend.

Announcement

I hereby announce my candidacy for Representative of the 16th District, as the Democratic nominee, and respectfully solicit the support of the voters of Lincoln county.

Announcement

I regret that I have been unable so far to visit every precinct in the county, meet the voters and solicit their support in my candidacy for reelection to the office of commissioner of district No. 1, on the Democratic ticket. Additional Quarters. Saginaw, Michigan, one of the finest industrial centers in the middle west because of its proximity to Great Lakes water transportation, is fast regaining the fame it knew back in the rugged days when it was the timber capital of America. Today, Saginaw is the home of the Chevrolet foundry with a pouring capacity of 1,000 melting tons a day. The first of next year, by reason of intensive construction work now progressing, Saginaw will be the home of one of the world's largest foundries with a capacity of 2,000 tons a day, and will boast one of the world's most modern inland docks at which pig iron and sand will be unloaded from lake points to be cast into millions of Chevrolet castings. Foundations of the 212,364 foot addition, which will almost double the present floor space, are now completed. As early as December 1, it is anticipated, the foundrymen will be at work in their new quarters. And by the time the ice breaks on the Great Lakes next spring, the great 650 ton deck will be receiving the lake freighters with a loading capacity of 40,000 tons a month. The present foundry, originally the Gray Iron Foundry of the Saginaw Products Company, a subsidiary of the General Motors Corporation, was built in 1919 and was taken over by the Chevrolet Motor Company in September, 1927. Prior to that time it had been specializing on Buick, Oakland and part of Chevrolet's cylinder block and head castings. The present foundry in the relatively small space of the present buildings, has been showing a daily output almost the equal of foundries with three and four times the room and double the man power. Arnold Leuz, superintendent of the Saginaw foundry, and generally credited as being responsible for the remarkable output record, says that a concentrated effort, more than revolutionary equipment, has accounted for the showing. The new foundry, however, Leuz says, will introduce several innovations. There will be many labor saving devices. The new cupolas will be so constructed as to be capable of 20 consecutive hours operation instead of the nine they now operate. Mechanical charging of the furnaces will be another new feature.

"Keep ahead of me," I directed. "We're almost at the mouth of the creek and the cabin is close by."

From the opposite bank of the creek came a demoniac shout, and I believed we had been sighted. Yet the cry was different from a discovery-cry. It was too ferocious. They had come upon the scalped Frenchman and were voicing their rage. I am convinced the dead man served us well by slowing up the pursuit until we had entered a natural opening, in the middle of which stood Frazier's cabin. The girl gasped and stumbled, and I almost fell over her. Once more I picked her up, this time carrying her cradled in my arms and then threw all my energy into my legs. Howls of triumph sounded in the woods behind me and on my right. Guns were fired, but I heard no sound of the lead.

"I'm all right! Let me down!" she begged. But the goal was too near. The savages began to show at the end of the woods just as we gained the door, with me yelling for Frazier to open for us. There was no response and my heart sank as I pictured a locked door and the savages doing us to death while we made a last fight. Then my heart beat high as I beheld the rawhide latch string. In another moment we were inside and I was thrusting my long rifle through a loophole. I spotted a ravening Huron as he was scrambling back to cover.

"You're powerful strong, mister," the girl shyly remarked. There was a quality in her voice I had never heard before, and I glanced at her in surprise. The face was enlivened with color. She threw off her hat and allowed her brown hair to tumble about her shoulders.

"You're a mighty brave little woman," I awkwardly replied. "We'll hope to get out of this. But we mustn't be taken alive."

"Lor's mol! Fall into their dirty hands! Of course not." And from her blouse she pulled forth a thirteen inch Highland pistol. I always held the Highland to be more showy than useful, as its light weight and large bore made it kick villainously and shoot inaccurately. Yet it would remove one very quickly from all fear of the torture-stake.

I took time to glance about the room, at the shelves and stock of trade goods, at the smith's tools in the corner, and some guns hanging from one wall. In surveying the room I discovered a most vital necessity was lacking. There was no water in the cabin.

I picked up two kettles and unbarred the door. "You mustn't go out!" she shrilly screamed.

"We must have water. The creek is near. The Indians haven't had time to circle around to the south of us. You have the two rifles. Watch from the back of the cabin. Don't fire unless more than one breaks cover."

"I'll follow!" "Watch out for me."

I was through the door with the kettles and running toward the creek before she could offer more objections. I reached the water and dipped the kettles full before the savages opened fire. My dash to the creek had either taken them by surprise, or else they had withdrawn a bit to hold a powder. I believe they had withdrawn with a few men standing guard; for the firing did not become general until I was halfway back. At that distance from the cabin I heard the girl's rifle go off.

Running gently so as not to spill any of the precious water, I was pronouncing my race won when a tall savage emerged from the woods on my left and approached at right angles. He fired an arrow while moving at full speed, and then dropped his bow to draw his ax. The girl appeared in the doorway with my long rifle and leaned the heavy barrel against the end of a log. As the whip-like crack rang out the Indian leaped high and came down in a heap.

Still controlling my ax, I was within two rods of the door, where the girl stood leaning against the rifle, when a savage turned the corner of the cabin and darted between me. I set down one kettle and pulled my ax. To my surprise the Indian whirled about and jumped toward the girl. With a scream she sprang back and he followed, realising it was excellent strategy to kill my companion and bar the door against me, leaving his companions to kill me later.

With a howl of fear and warning, I dropped the remaining kettle and leaped after him. As my foot touched the threshold, the cabin was filled with a deafening explosion and much smoke, and the savage was falling limply into my arms. I buried him outside, where he fell on his back, his face blown away. The girl was scribbling on the floor, her hair partly covering her face, the Highland pistol clutched in her two hands, and her eyes staring like a cat's. I was reminded of the scene in Der Rosenkranz.

"Lead the rifle!" I cried. Then pausing from the while and falling to discover any of the enemy in the opening, I ran back to the kettles and completed my errand.

With the door secured, I surveyed the opening from the rear loophole. Something bronze on the grass, a dozen rods from the forest, attracted my attention and finally resolved itself into an Indian. "Quick with a gun!" I told her. "There's one out there in the grass." She sprang to my side with my rifle and gave a glance, and then said: "La mister! He won't hurt nobody. That was my first shot when you was gone for water."

"My heart stopped pounding when you went with them kettles," she whispered, winking her eyes very fast. "There was no danger. We must have water. I'll be choking with thirst before night. And if they set the roof alight—

"I know," she quietly said. "Call me I'll be loading that pistol. It shoots most mortal."

Leaving her to stand watch, I secured the muskets from the wall and rummaged the trader's stock until I had found powder and bullets. I loaded the weapons and set them aside. On a shelf I found a small quantity of smoked meat, tough as hickory bark, yet a food one could manage to chew. I told the girl to eat while I took her place at a loophole.

"I'm thinking," the girl remarked—the branch of a tree moved slightly and I watched it suspiciously—"I'm thinking there's more'n one way to stop a fire," she went on, raising her voice to attract my attention.

"I'm thinking there's an Indian climbing a tree, but I can't see anything to shoot at," I grumbled. "If it would only rain!"

"I'm light and spry as a cat, and there wouldn't be any danger," she continued.

"What's on your mind, little woman?" I asked without turning from the loophole.

"These contraption hides in on my mind most heavy. If we could use 'em they'd save what water we've got."

Now I was interested. She was standing by a pile of dried deerkins. She explained:

"If they was on the roof the fire-arrows would slide off. They're hard and smooth."

Her wit gave me hope, and I asked: "How to make them stay? We haven't time to peg them on. If we try that they'll rub us."

"I'm thinking," she muttered, tilting her small head and holding her chin in her hand. "Cedar's your best choice a horse many times. Yes, I calculate that would do."

Instantly she was all energy. From the collection of smithing tools she secured a sharp-pointed punch and with the back of an ax began making holes along the edge of a hide.

"Don't watch me. Watch outdoors," she sharply ordered. I turned back to the peep-hole. I could hear her pulling the hide about and talking to herself as she worked. She asked herself if she could find some rawhide strips and in the next breath told herself she could at least make some. Then she was cooling in delight. I stole to the door in time to see a bush move near the mouth of the creek. I stopped its agitation with a bullet from my rifle, but doubted if I had done the enemy, any damage. Several shots from the opposite end of the cabin took me to the rear loophole. I stumbled over a pile of skins in passing, but had no time to observe the girl. Two or three balls chunked into the logs, but there was no Indian in sight. Fearing it was a ruse to hold my attention I darted to the door again and remained there while I reloaded my rifle.

"Lawful heart! If you wouldn't keep hypering back and forth," she complained. "Now you can look."

And she proudly dragged forward two deerkins, looped together by short sections of rawhide.

"We'll saddle the ridge-pole with these just the same as you'd saddle or blanket a horse," she explained. "That'll be better than pegs. I'll git up on the roof and throw them over the ridge-pole as fast as you pass 'em up to me."

The scheme was feasible. It was simple. It would require but a few minutes to saddle the house with hides. There would remain a strip on each side, but these I could reach from the ground with separate hides. However, I objected to her mounting the roof.

"Your job is to pass 'em up to me," she sternly required. "My part is as easy as slipping off a wet log. I can be up there before you could git started. If they come at us, I can be down and inside the door in a jiffy. Git 'em separated out so's we can work fast."

Then she unbarred the door. Before showing ourselves we reconnoitered from all sides of the cabin. There was not much danger of a musket ball hitting her slim body; and arrows, to hit the roof, must travel so high as to give us warning. I gathered up several sets of the double skins and threw open the door. The savages must have been puzzled by our appearance. None showed along the woods, nor were any lead or arrows fired at us. I dropped the skins and gave the girl a hand, and she was scrambling up to the ridge-pole before the watchers could guess our purpose. I passed up two skins and she deftly draped them over the ridge-pole. I passed up two more. The Indians woke up and began screaming like demons. Guns began banging, and I called to the girl to come down.

"Throw 'em along! I won't budge till you do!" she cried. I tossed up some more and ducked back to the door and secured both rifles.

"More! More!" she cried. I handed them up, but warned her:

"Jump down at once. They're coming!"

She took time to fix them properly and then dropped lightly into my arms. Some fifteen savages were breaking cover at different points. I picked out the leader of the nearest band. He commenced leaping from side to side, but I was patient and shot him off his feet. The moment I fired, she had taken the empty rifle and had pressed the short French one into my hands. I fired it and missed. We entered the cabin and dropped the bar.

The Indians advanced swiftly, knowing our rifles were empty. Could they close in before we could reload, they planned to thrust their guns through the loopholes and stop our fire while they battered down the door. But they had not counted on the trade-muskets. We emptied these rapidly. One man went down with a smashed leg. Two of his companions carried him into the woods. The others streaked back as rapidly as they had advanced. Thus far all the honors were ours. I made the girl drink some water and posted her at the back of the cabin while I covered the other three sides.

The Indians, however, had no stomach for another assault in force, and the forest became quiet. I told the girl she was to remain inside while I stepped out and covered the lower part of the two sides.

Old Year Dead When Harvest Is Gathered?

That the calendar by which we count our days does not fit in harmoniously with the seasons is pointed out by an editorial in Liberty Magazine.

"It has long been obvious," explains the editorial, "that starting the calendar on the first of January is all wrong. The year ends with the harvest, when the last grain is in, the leaves are fallen, and the earth has gone to sleep. The closing day of the calendar might well be that day on which we turn away from outward things and set about the business of having a little steam heat."

"It is unlikely on the whole, that the calendar makers will agree to end the year with the fall and begin it with the spring, as is most and proper," concludes the editorial. "We must take January 1 as the beginning of the year because Julius Caesar fixed it that way and nobody has changed it."

FIND SOUND WAVES THAT DEAL DEATH

California Scientists Conduct Successful Tests.

Berkeley, Calif.—Death dealing sound waves! An experiment in this strange new field has been successfully carried out by three University of California scientists.

They demonstrated that high-frequency sound waves, emanating from a crystal vibrating at the rate of 750,000 times a second, will kill large protozoa.

So terrific and so instantaneous was the effect of the lethal sound waves, that the gill filaments of the protozoa were torn from their bodies.

Strange fields of conjecture for scientists of the future have thus been opened.

Tell of Work. A. R. Olson, associate professor in the department of chemistry, one of the experimenters, pointed out that previous experiments had been conducted in this same field; that he and his associates, F. O. Schmitt, research assistant, and C. H. Johnson, teaching fellow, have merely carried on the work to a higher degree of perfection.

Beneficial rather than destructive results are more the goal of the local scientists. Bloodless surgery has been accomplished by the same methods used to kill the microscopic organisms.

In carrying out the experiment, which was begun two years ago, they found it necessary to invent and to build much of their own apparatus. They perfected glass needles to carry the sound vibrations, the points of which were so fine as to be almost invisible.

This delicate instrument was necessary because all the experiments must needs be carried out under powerful microscopes. They were exploring in a world unknown to the naked eye.

First a drop containing the protozoa was placed on a microscopic slide and a glass cover laid over it. The slide was then laid over an oscillator dish.

The oscillator dish contained a crystal which was caused to vibrate by the passage of an electrical current through the liquid in which it was immersed.

In conducting the experiment with planarian worms, the glass needle was used. The large end of the needle was placed in the oscillator dish, and the point of the needle directed against the worm.

So delicate was this operation that the scientists used an extremely sensitive instrument, the micromanipulator, with which to guide the needle. They discovered that when the needle point was placed against the worm, even though lightly, the vibrating point instantly burned the worm. If the shank of the vibrating point was placed across the worm, the body would be severed.

Other men have worked on this phenomenon of the effect of high frequency sound waves, it was explained, but none have developed the technique to such a high point. With the glass needle, as perfected on the Berkeley campus it is possible to observe the effect of sound waves not only on each tiny cell, but even on parts of the cell.

Chinese Typewriter Perfected by American
New York.—A test of the comparative might of the pen and the word in China, through the use of the modern, rapid-fire evolution of the pen, is now made possible by an American invention. This is a Chinese typewriter. The machine is based on the newly adopted Chinese alphabet, known as "Chu Yin Tzu Mu."

The Chinese language is ideographic—that is, it presents picture ideas, but the Chinese typewriter operates like its English cousin. Its keyboard has 48 characters, comprising all the phonetic symbols, 21 compound signs, Chinese numerals, tone marks, a symbol indicating emphasis, parentheses and a period.

The characters are set sideways. To read such a sheet, it must be given a quarter turn after removal from the machine.

DR. CALDWELL'S THREE RULES

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not habit forming.

The Doctor never did approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Get a bottle today, at any drug store and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open. For a free trial bottle, just write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. ### Berlin Business Men Forced to Exercise

Berlin is rapidly becoming a city of fences in the truest sense of the word. Busy squares are being fenced in; low wire fences are being erected between the tracks of the street cars, where they run on a strip of grass in the center of the road; everywhere substantial metal fences are being put up. This is done to force the pedestrian to cross certain squares and thoroughfares only at specially marked corners. The population, however, is not exactly grateful to the authorities for thus taking care of them, for the fences enclose too much of the old Prussian discipline. Not infrequently it happens that a man who has to catch a train or who is otherwise in a hurry jumps a fence and thus many a sedate business man is gradually acquiring considerable athletic skill. —Exchange.

SCIENCE SEEKING ABORTION REMEDY

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
More than $50,000,000 a year is a conservative estimate of the losses from the great annual plague of abortion. Dr. John R. Mohler of the United States Department of Agriculture points out that ten years ago the losses from tuberculosis and abortion were approximately equal. In ten years the tuberculosis losses have been halved and the abortion losses doubled.

In advising live stock growers in regard to the abortion problem Doctor Mohler, who is chief of the bureau of animal industry, does not minimize the seriousness of the condition, but he holds out hope for eventual solution, reports marked progress in the understanding of the disease, gives suggestions for identification and control of the disease, and warns farmers, stockmen, and dairymen against medicinal agents for the "cure" of abortion. "Up to the present no medicine for the cure of abortion has proved an effective agent. The variable activity of the disease in a given herd has made it difficult to measure the value of remedies and has led to giving undeserved credit to substances of no value."

"Abortion," says Doctor Mohler, "strikes directly at the source of our cattle supply, and at the very organ, the udder, upon which the functioning of our whole dairy industry depends. The heavy toll of the disease includes not only the loss of calves, loss of milk flow directly incident to the abortion, temporary and permanent sterility and other breeding troubles, but also the reduced milk flow due to the presence and activity of abortion bacilli within the udder."

The bacillus that causes the disease was discovered about thirty years ago by Professor Bang of Denmark. Subsequent study has revealed many facts about the disease and the organism. The bacillus may live for months in dead animal tissue; it may be killed by careful pasteurization and by ordinary disinfectants; its favorite habitat is the pregnant uterus and it does not remain long as a rule in the non-pregnant one; but it may reach the udders of infected cows and there maintain itself for long periods and continue to infect the milk.

One misconception popularly held, says Doctor Mohler, is the belief in the importance of the genital organs of the bull as a means of spreading the infection. This may at times be of importance, but it is not considered an important agency of the spread of infection. Calves are rarely infected. Two types of the bacillus are recognized, one affecting hogs and one cows, and the strains of bovine bacilli differ widely in virulence.

"The principal channel of infection," Doctor Mohler says, "is the digestive tract. This is contrary to the early belief which incriminated the genital tract as the principal portal of infection. Infection is spread by the aborting cow through the products of abortion and the discharge which follow in enormous amounts." Doctor Mohler emphasizes particularly the danger of infection from an infected cow that has given birth to a calf in a seemingly normal manner. "Cases of apparently normal birth, accompanied by infection in the placenta and discharge, are grave dangers because they are unsuspected."

Discovery of these facts and the fact of the bacillus maintaining itself in the udder for long periods have thrown light on the problem and point the way to better control methods.

ARE YOU SUPERSTITIOUS

By FRANK ELLIS, JR.

Numbers in Buddhism

IN BUDDHISM, the three causes of demerits are: Lust, anger and ignorance. The first has for its destroying agent fire; anger has water; and ignorance, wind. The three precious things are Buddha, the law, and the assembly. There are three great divisions in the sacred books. The images of Buddha are only represented in three positions; sitting cross-legged, standing, as if ready to advance, and reclining on his side with his head resting on a pillow.

The superstition respecting climacterics, or critical periods of life, was very strong during the Middle Ages; and even down to recent times. The mythic numbers seven and nine so frequently occurring in the Bible had their influence with many persons.

It was believed that the constitution of man changes every seven years; that the whole of the solids and fluids of the body changes during that time, the old cast off and new matter formed. At seven years of age a child had left infancy, at fourteen he had attained puberty, at twenty-one he had reached manhood, and so on.

The power of the seventh son of the seventh son to heal diseases is believed.

The Scotch spawife (fortune teller) generally pretended that she was the seventh daughter of the seventh daughter, and was supposed, in consequence, by the lower orders, to possess second sight.

What is Luck?

THERE are few words in our language of such unlimited application as that of luck, a word influencing to a large degree the thought, speech and actions of individuals generally. How many men are there who laugh at the idea of being considered superstitious who often carry such trinkets as a coin with a hole in it for "luck," a rabbit's foot, a lost key, a tooth and other similar rubbish? If found out, the only reason for carrying such trinkets in their pockets, they will be candid enough to confess. Is that it has become a sort of a pocket-piece, of a habit, they have carried it so long. But they will not confess their weakness or admit that they are the least bit superstitious.

Many who smile at the superstitions of the ignorant, entertain pet superstitions of their own. Superstition has played a great part in the lives of some of the great peoples of antiquity. Some of the older superstitions have been supplanted by more modern ones. People will continue to allow superstition to play a great part in their lives and destiny.

Even Steven

"The alchemist can always find a balance in the scheme of life," said George Bernard Shaw. "A throng of little rich, idly draped over the luxurious furniture of a fashionable London hotel caused a friend of mine to remark scornfully: 'These rich people make me sick, just sitting around doing nothing. What is the use of having money if you don't know how to enjoy it?' 'But why fret about it, old chap?' I replied. 'Are you any better off? What is the use of knowing how to enjoy money if you haven't any?'"

Rid of Constipation. Improved Both Health and Looks

"I suffered from stomach and bowel trouble for a number of years. I finally got so bad that I had no life or energy left, and felt that there was no help for me. I was completely worn out all the time, had a distressed, haggard look on my face. My mind was dull, my eyes blurred, and I was unable to take an interest in anything."

"I commenced using Milks Emulsion in May. It occurred to me that the best way to let you see the wonderful improvement Milks Emulsion had made in my health and appearance, would be to send you the picture that I happened to have taken a few weeks before I started using your Milks Emulsion, and to have another picture taken now, and send both to you."

"I am still taking your Milks Emulsion and improving each day. I know I would have been in my grave had it not been for your Emulsion. I love to take it. It is so pleasant and agreeable."

"I only weighed 108 pounds when I began to use Milks Emulsion, and now I weigh 138 pounds. It has cleared up my complexion, made my eyes bright and a difference in my looks, as you will see by the two pictures. I don't look like the same woman. To my mind it is Nature's beautifier."

"I try to get everyone that I meet to take Milks Emulsion as it is the most wonderful medicine in the world." Yours truly, MISS SARAH KA'FE KNIGHT, 722 Anderson St., Bristol, Tenn.

Hot Oil Employed to Wipe Out Mosquitoes

Hot fuel oil, sprayed along the shores of the lakes in the Canal zone, is a most efficacious weapon against malaria-laden mosquitoes. This oil, a big factor in the fight which is culminating in certain abolition of the insect, has destroyed breeding places in the Pedro Miguel and Gatun lakes.

The method used to spray the oil necessitates the use of a rowboat carrying a tank containing 150 gallons of oil, and a crew of three men. One man rows, one works a hand pump and the other handles the spray nozzle. The hot oil is sprayed on the shore line as fast as the boat can be propelled. This surface filming has been found positive and complete.

Wind action and wavelets carry the oil into every nook and cranny, even to a considerable distance from the point of application. A rigid inspection follows every oiling to determine if it has been done thoroughly.

Elsewhere than in the lake areas, mosquito breeding is controlled chiefly by training of streams and by draining and filling.

Cat's Varied Diet

On a farm in Illinois, Miss, says the Ilustrious Globe, lives a cat that is positively omnivorous. Like most other felines she eats meat, fish and milk, but her diet does not stop there, however. When the lady of the house was surprised to find bits of cucumber on the ground near the kitchen door, she watched the cat for a while. Finally she saw kitty go to the garden, break off a good-sized cucumber and carry it to the house, where she broke it open and ate it. Since that time the cat's appetite has been treated with various other vegetables and it responds heartily.

Salts Fine for Aching Kidneys

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally. Else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help eliminate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Alfalfa Pasture Ideal for All Farm Animals

It is a well recognized fact that alfalfa is the best hog pasture crop we have. Every hog producer should have a patch of it for that purpose. He should have more than that; he should also provide alfalfa hay for his brood sows, as well as for his fall pigs. The fact is that alfalfa hay should be provided for all farm live stock. It can be grown on practically every farm, though in most cases liming of the soil will be necessary in order to get a stand.

Mature brood sows that are being fed one pound of corn per 100 pounds live weight, per day, and one-fourth of a pound of tankage per head per day in addition, will eat half to three-fourths of a pound of alfalfa hay daily. The great value derived from the feeding of it lies in the fact that it gives bulk to the ration and because it furnishes protein, mineral matter and vitamins. Its vitamin content seems to be extremely valuable.

Legume Roughage

It is impossible to say too much in favor of legume roughage as compared with timothy hay as a feed for live stock. It is invaluable for dairy cows, for growing cattle and sheep, and, in fact, for all classes of live stock on the farm. It is even of great value for wintering brood sows. Not only is the high feeding value of legumes the reason for using a greater average of these crops. They are, as every farmer knows, important soil improvers and builders.

For State Senator

I wish to announce my candidacy for State Senator, 18th District, on the Republican ticket, and to respectfully solicit the support of the voters of said District.

J. E. Gregg.

For County Clerk

I hereby announce my candidacy for County Clerk on the Republican ticket, and will appreciate the support of the voters of Lincoln County for that office.

Respectfully,
S. E. (Ben) Greisen.

The Mal Pais Road

Where the road will cross the mal-pais, the flow is three and two tenths miles wide. A bridge or causeway of earth will be run across the rocks which will make it possible to lay surfacing down in the typical smooth roadway of the type prevalent in this country. This first link will be complete sometime next year and will serve as not only a link in a transcontinental road but also as a pathway to a new wonder for the tourists of the nation to add to their itineraries.

STEEL ECLIPSE

Windmill

Starts sooner—pumps longer

Two windmills stood just across the road from each other. With the first sign of a breeze one started up smoothly and quietly. When the breeze became a wind, the other started with a groan and lumbered away only as long as the wind raged a dust in the road. Then it stopped as abruptly as it had started, while the other continued pumping for some time—then it finally came smoothly to rest with the last trace of the dying breeze.

The difference between machined and polished bearings and ordinary bearings; the difference between running in oil and running with dry gears.

In other words, it is the difference between the Fairbanks-Morse Self-Oiling Steel Eclipse Windmill and just a plain windmill.

Come in and see this great advance in windmill construction. See the self-oiling feature—the master lift feature—the mechanism that enables the Eclipse to actually pump water during two-thirds of every revolution of the wind wheel. You will form a new idea of how good a windmill can be.
