Probate Clerk

Railroad, Not Truck

In justification of its proposal to substitute railroad controlled motor coaches for branch line trains that no longer pay operating expenses, Henry W. Hobbs, Southern Pacific attorney has replied to an open letter recently broadcasted throughout the state by the California Transit Company and answered, as Hobbs puts it, a discussion of "various phases of public utility regulation from the viewpoint of a bus operator desiring more business who is willing to have established carriers with which it now competes withdraw from the public service so that the local bus operator can enjoy a monopoly in public transportation."

If railroads were to cease operation for one week, Hobbs said, industry would come to a standstill and the nation would face famine; but the stoppage of all bus and truck lines in the country have little or no effect upon the wellbeing and prosperity of the public. For this reason, he insists, the railroads, being necessary in the public interest, are entitled to protection as well as regulation by the public service commission.

"In the transportation of passengers and express," writes Mr. Hobbs, "railroads necessarily have a heavy investment in fixed property; maintain their own roadbeds; are compelled by law to meet costly safety requirements; and, in California, pay 7 per cent of their gross receipts in taxes; whereas bus companies have no investment in roadway or other property; do not have to maintain their own roadbeds; have no costly safety requirements to meet such as 'full crew' laws, block signals, etc., and pay only 4 1/2 per cent of their gross receipts in taxes. Yet they have been generally permitted to enter the field of transporting persons and property in competition with railroads."

Hobbs concludes by declaring that in spite of the fact that the railroads are now required to make elaborate and costly showings in support of applications to substitute cheaper forms of transportation for trains that are not sufficiently patronized to pay operating costs the railroads will continue to do so because: "It is not in the public interest for the railroads to withdraw from the field in favor of a competitor who does not and cannot render to the public the same full and complete service it has heretofore enjoyed."

The Other Way Round

Theoretically, the perfect tax would be a tax on inaction. The proper man to tax would be the loafer, not the worker; idle land, not used; inactive capital, not active capital; lack of enterprise,

Farm, Stock and Poultry

The following notes, furnished by the Extension Department of the A. & M. College, may be of interest to a number of readers:

When pullets are housed and set to their winter task of egg laying, care must be taken to see that they get plenty of green feed: Rape, green clover, and alfalfa are satisfactory for this purpose.

Clean and oil all tools and machinery and store under cover before winter.

Egg production, hatchable eggs and the health of the farm poultry flock in the winter often depend upon the amount of direct sunshine to which the birds are exposed. Sunlight that has passed through ordinary window glass is not effective.

A well selected pure-bred dairy bull coupled by care, management and selection mean "Not More, But Better Cows."

"Hatchery Chicks For Greater Profits" is the slogan of a national organization of hatcherymen who have united the interest of better farm flocks through better breeding of chicks coming from the incubators.

As the days become shorter, electric lights should be used in the poultry houses, so that the birds have about 12 hours of light, natural and artificial.

The "loafer hen," who eats much and lays little, is the greatest drag on farm poultry flock profits. Replace non-layers with good, reliable stock, says the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and watch the profits grow.

The farm flock should not be a "pin money" proposition. Poultry and egg prices for the coming year indicate a good profit for the farmer who has the proper stock and gives it good care. Put good laying stock on the farm and realize a profit.

not enterprise.

Such a tax would not be practical, but it would be a just tax.

Our present taxes are based on an opposite theory.

We tax thrift, action, capital, enterprise.

We levy taxes in proportion to ability to pay, which means that the harder a man works, the more we tax him; the more thrifty he becomes, the more we soak him; the more efficient he grows, the more we knock him down.

If a man saves his money and buys a house, he is taxed; if he wastes his money in extravagant living, he is not taxed.

None of our taxes encourage production by the simple process of discouraging idleness, shiftlessness, inefficiency.

The devil himself could not do a neater job of hobbling the race. —Fort Atkinson, Wis., Journal

Property Assessments In New Mexico

For the year 1928, according to Bulletins of the Taxpayers' Association of New Mexico, the total assessment of all property in New Mexico is about one and a half million dollars less than the assessment of twelve years ago. In 1915 the total assessment was $318,147,120; in 1928 the total assessment was $316,675,816. During the same period the amount of taxes levied and the average tax rate have both increased one hundred and fifty per cent.

For the year 1915 the taxpayers paid an average tax throughout the State of fourteen dollars for each $1000 of assessed valuation. For 1928 the average tax rate is $34.60 for each $1000 of assessed valuation. In some communities taxpayers are paying $40 and even $50 and more for each $1000 of assessed valuation.

Increasing expenditures in the face of decreasing valuations can have but one result—an increasing tax rate. The conclusion is clear that those facts must be faced and certain questions must be answered: Can expenditures be reduced? To what extent is the increase in taxes due to delinquency on the part of certain taxpayers? What effect does a high tax rate have upon investments in property in New Mexico and upon the development of our resources? Are there other sources of revenue which are available to relieve the burden which falls upon property directly? Is New Mexico richer or poorer and is there greater or less taxpaying ability than in 1915? Is the tax burden fairly distributed and, if not, what measures can be devised to make it so?

The Taxpayers' Association of New Mexico does not at the present time undertake to answer these questions. Our assessing authorities and the State Legislature will have to deal with them. Knowledge and courage are essential in their solution. The task is a difficult one in view of the claims of different classes of property and of individuals for special consideration. Whatever courses of action may be followed, principles of fairness, and considerations of the public interest should prevail.

Community Hall Notes

To those interested in the repairs to the Community Hall recently made I beg to submit the following statement, of charges:

Kishbaugh and Heflin

The net proceeds of the Fair in the sum of $670.68 was applied on this and the $500.00 donated by the Carrizozo Woman's Club. The trustee made a note for $700.00 to take care of the balance and retire other small bills including the cost of 24 orchestra chairs that will be installed.

The Carrizozo Woman's Club have a locker and a cupboard, the Woman's Home Missionary Society have a locker and a cupboard with their own key. It is suggested that when dishes or other like articles are bought that if possible to do so each buy articles alike so that when all organizations join they can use their material and make a better showing than if each had different dishes etc.—The Trustee of the Community Hall will be glad to join in this uniform buying of equipment.

This building is now well equipped for a Community Center for which it was intended and when in use IT MUST BE TAKEN CARE OF.

Thanksgiving Proclamation

The season again approaches when it has been the custom for generations to set apart a day of Thanksgiving for the blessings which the Giver of all good and perfect gifts has bestowed upon us during the year. It is most becoming that we should do this, for the goodness and mercy of God which have followed us through the year deserve our grateful recognition and acknowledgment. Through His divine favor peace and tranquillity have reigned throughout the land. He has protected our country as a whole against pestilence and disaster and has directed us in the ways of national prosperity. Our fields have been abundantly productive; our industries have flourished; our commerce has increased, wages have been lucrative; and comfort and contentment have followed the undisturbed pursuit of honest toil. As we have prospered in material things so have we also grown and expanded in things spiritual. Through Divine inspiration we have enlarged our charities and our missions; we have been imbued with high ideals which have operated for the benefit of the world and the promotion of a brotherhood of man through peace and good will.

Wherefore, I, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, do hereby set apart Thursday, the 29th day of November, as a day of general thanksgiving and prayer, and I recommend that on that day the people shall cease from their daily work and in their homes and in their accustomed places of worship devoutly give thanks to the Almighty for the many and great blessings they have received and seek His guidance that they may deserve a continuance of His favor.

Ford Weather Tests

The "pyroxylin" finish of the new Model A Ford cars is the result of many years of experimental and testing operations in the Ford laboratories and paintshops. Pyroxylin is a lacquer finish with a cellulose base and, like most lacquers now used in the finish of automobile bodies, is a great improvement over the old paint and varnish finishes that used to crack, "check" and fade under exposure to weather.

But more than five years of experiment and testing under all sorts of weather conditions have developed methods of mixing and applying pyroxylin so as to utilize to the fullest possible degree all of its natural advantages. The result is uniform, smooth, durable finish in attractive and lasting colors which has attracted particular attention wherever the new Model A Ford cars have been seen.

Long before the Model A Ford car was designed, The Ford Motor Company was experimenting with pyroxylin.

Today before the new Ford car is given its final dress of color, both the pyroxylin which goes on the body and the enamel with which the fenders are finished are given a chemical analysis and artificial and natural weather

False Pride

Emerson, or maybe it was Gene Tunney or Bernard Shaw, told of a deer that was proud of its antlers, and at the same time very much ashamed of its slender legs; but when the dogs and hunters came its legs were useful and would have carried their owner to safety, had not the beautiful antlers caught in the underbrush.

Hate's battle cry in all ages: "Damn you, be as I am!"

The weather and durability tests are interesting. The system gives, in a period of 100 hours, a test equivalent to about seventy days of exposure to weather. In addition to this severe artificial weather test, the test plates are exposed for long periods of time on the roof of the factory. Here the effect of sun, wind, rain and snow are carefully observed, and a very close relation between the real and artificial weather tests obtained

A Proclamation

IT IS RIGHT that we who are alive
 And masterful and free
 With hearts to hope and health to strive
 And blessed with eyes to see,
 Should sometimes, pausing in the stress,
 Acknowledge thankfulness—

FOR ALL the mornings that are fair
 And all the kindly winds that blow
 For all the cheerful faces where
 The busy thousands come and go
 For all the warm and peaceful nooks
 In which the weary may recline;
 For friendly looks and worthy books,
 For faith that may be yours and mine—

FOR EVERY glad and pleasing song
 For every pasture that is green,
 For all the streams that wind along
 Where ripples flash and willows lean,
 For all the triumphs we have gained,
 For all the errors left behind,
 For all the tasks that have remained
 For hopeful, eager men to find—

FOR EVERY gladdened mother's prayers,
 For all the bliss that lovers claim;
 For every charm that beauty weats,
 For pride, for honor, and for fame,
 For morning and the hope it brings,
 For every cheerful, friendly face,
 For skill to do the useful things,
 For night, with each star in its place.

IT IS RIGHT that we who may engage
 In triumphs yet to be,
 Who, in the world's sublimest age,
 Are masterful and free,
 Should sometimes, in the strife and stress,
 Acknowledge thankfulness.

Feast Ever Part of the Spirit of Day

The modern Thanksgiving day observance is so broad in its contrast with pioneer days that there is a smile in the comparison. Comfort, luxury, organization mark the celebration of the event today. The Twentieth century farmer produces his crops under ideal conditions. He has no treaties of peace to make with Indians in order to plant and cultivate his crops. In the diary of an old New Englander is this line: "An Indian promise is more than to have a pig by the tail," a sentiment born of difficulties with the savages. The Pilgrim fathers planted corn with seed in one hand and a rifle in the other.

Governor Wallace issued the first official Thanksgiving proclamation for Indiana, fixing the day for Thursday, November 25, 1823. No doubt there previously had been a general observance of the harvest's bounties among the pioneers of the state, but that was promoted by the churches, not by official designation of the day by the governor. President Lincoln officially restored the day in 1863, the first national act of the kind since the administration of President Madison. It is pleasant to picture how the Hoosier pioneers observed the day unofficially by "harvest home" festivals in the churches, when prayer and thanksgiving were the program of the worshipping.

Early Indianapolis was built along White river. Farms were cultivated in the surrounding territory, and a good harvest was the basis for rejoicing. Sometimes there was feasting, the origin of the idea of George Washington not having lost its meaning to the pioneer. Men went forth to the woods to bring in wild turkeys and other game that was worthy of being the "piece de resistance" of a harvest festival dinner.

Evolution of Today's Turkey.

Families gathered around tables set high with wild turkey, venison, squirrel and other meats of the forest. Apples and the native nuts were spread in plenty over the house, and the men, if they were so inclined—and they usually were—took a nap from friendly dogs just to add enthusiasm to the day. Sweet cider had a habit of becoming habitually hard about the middle or last of November, and this, too, played a part in the merry-making.

When the wild turkey became extinct, the domestic bird, now a national favorite in Thanksgiving feasts, found way to popularity. There is an impression that America imported the present species of turkey from Europe, but the fact is just the reverse. American turkeys were introduced first in Spain three centuries ago, and through processes of cross-breeding the present delight of America's Thanksgiving day was evolved.

Realists express the fear that unless the government experts at Washington, who are working on the problem, discover methods whereby domestic turkeys may be fortified against disease and proneness to die under adverse weather conditions, it will not be many years before turkeys will go the way of the Dodo bird—become extinct. Farmwives, in many parts of the country, do not attempt to raise turkeys because of the prevalence or disease known as blackhead and timberneck. The government's experts are exerting every effort to find cures for these diseases, but complete success has not yet been attained, although a few remedies have been found fairly successful. Heavy rains are hard on baby turkeys, which drown easily.

Turkey Supply Falling Off.

The result of these failures in turkey-raising has been a greatly diminished production, and, of course, prices soar in consequence. Southern Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, in the last several years, have been showing increased production in turkeys. Most of the birds that find way to the metropolitan markets are from Texas and other Southwestern states, where the climate is right and there is plenty of room for range. New England states, original home of the American turkey, do not now produce enough birds to supply the demand for the metropolitan markets, although every hotel in New York, Boston and Philadelphia announces on the bill of fare, "Very-meat turkey" or "Rhode Island turkey." The storage houses are filled with dressed turkeys that have journeyed out of the West, south and Southwest to make Thanksgiving a day of feasting for metropolitan epicures.

America's Thanksgiving dinner has, in the last twenty years, become a sort of international banquet. The turkey is a United States institution, but one finds on the table now Irish potatoes a la Hollandaise, or Spanish style; vegetables from the imperial valley of Mexico, eggs from Egypt, nuts and coffee from Brazil, almonds from Italy, grapefruit from Porto Rico, French pastry and perhaps Turkish cigarettes.

Thanksgiving day amusements have undergone as great changes as the bill of fare. The observance, as originally planned by the forefathers, called for attendance at church and an outpouring of gratitude for health and beautiful harvests. The Puritans held it to be a day of Sabbathlike sanctity. As the years rolled on, the element of rejoicing entered into the spirit of the day, and, after church in the forenoon and a feast at noon, the men engaged in martial games and banter, while the women sat around the "settling room" and discussed of affairs that held their interest. In the country communities there were games of horse-shoe pitching, hop-skip-and-jump, foot-races and wrestling matches. Men of the neighborhood vied with each other in these contests, which helped to make Thanksgiving day happy.

Thanksgiving Spirit Abides.

Changing years have brought changed customs, but the spirit of Thanksgiving still abides in the American heart, whatever the style of observance. In Indianapolis, as in other cities, scores of families are depending on the hotels and clubs to provide the Thanksgiving dinner, thus to ease the women of the household of the responsibility. Hotel and club managers here say they are booked almost to capacity with table reservations calling for covers representing 10, 12, 15 and 20 persons. In other words, the family is going to "dine out" and let mother's Thanksgiving day be one of rejoicing, not drudgery.

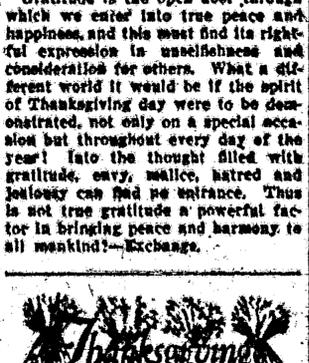

It would be impossible for all families to eat at hotels and clubs—mothers know that! You can't change a sentimental mother. The result is that, in thousands of instances, mother refuses to consider any other situation than that of having her children at home for Thanksgiving day dinner. Turkey may not be the crowning viand of the meal, for there still remain chicken, goose and duck to top the menu. Mother knows, too, of other morsels that are the delight of her children.

Fact is, folk, Thanksgiving day is just another Mother's day!—Indianapolis News.

Show Your Gratitude Throughout the Year

A beautiful story of true gratitude is told of a little child living in a poverty-stricken home. The mother had leased a door shutter up in one corner of her cabin so that her shivering little ones could shelter behind it from the icy wind. One of the children, creeping behind this year shelter, said: "Mamma, aren't you sorry for the poor little children that haven't any door shutter to go behind?" In this child was exemplified the true sentiment of the gratitude expressed by the Pilgrim fathers.

Gratitude is the open door through which we enter into true peace and happiness, and this must find its rightful expression in unselfishness and consideration for others. What a different world it would be if the spirit of Thanksgiving day were to be demonstrated, not only on a special occasion but throughout every day of the year! Into the thought filled with gratitude, envy, malice, hatred and jealousy can find no entrance. Thus is not true gratitude a powerful factor in bringing peace and harmony to all mankind?—Exchange.

Joy in the heart, though there's frost on the ground,
 Thanksgiving day is the day of good cheer—
 Happiness, contentment, faith should abound,
 All through the year!

Dame Fashion Smiles

By Grace Jewett Austin

Whatever did poor Eve do without any of the attractive shop windows?

Dame Fashion couldn't help but meditate on this the other day when she was having the serene and satisfying pleasure of wandering around among great islanded shop windows and gazing on that delightful mixture of admiration and imagination-ownership which is the satisfactory mood in which to do such inspection.

Quite a while ago—indeed so long that the radio concerts do not bring it to life again—there was a popular dialect song of which Dame Fashion remembers hazily a part of the chorus:

"Sprees yourself, honey; now jes 'sprees yourself!"

When you come right down to it, could there be a much better slogan for rules of dressing? If you wake up in the morning, and the world seems "greenery-yellow" as people said when they joked about the cathetic school of Oscar Wilde's time, yet if you know in reality that the world is pink with many blessings and good times ahead, for goodness' sake, do pick out a pink house gown in which to come down to breakfast.

Dame Fashion stood looking with admiring eyes at a row of town velvet gowns worn by smiling wax models in a show window, all shimmering and radiant. Along came a lady who remarked, "They say 'Worth would not make a brown gown for a woman over forty, so I suppose I cannot have one.'" Dame Fashion nearly shrieked at her to go at once and get one if she wanted it. If brown velvet expresses the mood for you, you ought to choose it if you are bordering on a hundred.

Just recently at a large woman's club luncheon of nearly two hundred finely gowned women Dame Fashion happened to be sitting near the president of the club as she made her address of welcome, and admiration was divided between the clear-cut words of the talk, and the beautiful gown worn by the president. Maybe part of the delight caused came from the pleasure of saying, "I told you so"—even if it is said only to one's self. Recently Dame Fashion had been following out the theory that pretty gowns deserve pretty names, just as the French modistes apply them.

Recently, Dame Fashion named Mrs. President's dress "Palm Beach" at once, for it had the shimmering gold of sandy beach, and it had bands of green like Southern seawater. Best of all, it was adorned at the side-front with real palms, white just above the plaited skirt there roamed a most engaging sea turtle, in pictured formal speaking of names reminds of these little lines that show how fruit names are creeping into wearing materials:

Put on your shoes of burgundy,
 With hose of honey-dew;
 Pick out a gown of gooseberry green,
 With peach of gorgeous hue.

With hat of plum, pulled o'er one ear,
 You'll look so very sweet
 That every watcher will say,
 "She's good enough to eat!"

Necktie Silk Is Used for Attractive Dress

Shimmering necktie silk, a new dress fabric, forms a smart afternoon dress, featuring a circular skirt. There are bows at the cuffs.

Lace Is Flattering Trimming

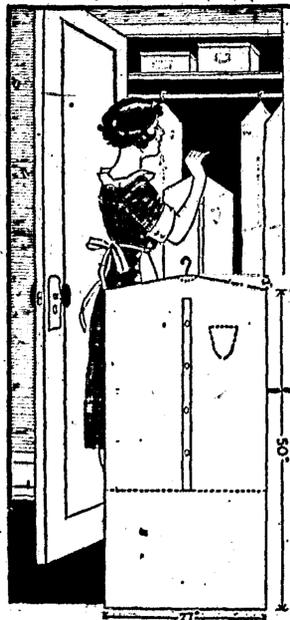

The woman to whom the softness of lace is becoming will delight in the new genre of velvet or satin, for many of them are lace trimmed. One charming model has a rather narrow ruffled collar and deep cuffs of lace, and a great bow of the same, whose the collar ends.

Garment Containers Can Be Made of Flour Bags

Good dresses deserve good care. Nothing takes more from the first, pleasing freshness of a dainty dress than to have it jammed in a closet against a lot of heavy, soiled street clothes. Garment containers should be in every closet, at least three for each member of the family. They are not at all difficult or expensive to make.

The material should be closely woven so that fine particles of dust will not easily sift through, should be washable, and inexpensive. Used flour bags are as suitable as anything you could get and make the covers come to a very small amount each. The bags may be had from a baker for a few cents each.

The chain stitching is quickly ripped by pulling each end. The stamping is next taken out by covering the inked places with kerosene or kerd and letting this stand overnight. Then wash the bags out in lukewarm water.

Three bags will make a full-sized garment case. Cut the three pieces of cloth to a width of 27 inches. One of them, to be the front of the bag, is slashed up the middle to within six inches of the top. One slashed edge is faced back and the other has an extending facing to form a pocket. Sew on snap fasteners at three-inch intervals. The top edges of the front and back are sloped down three inches to conform to the shape of the coat hanger, and are stitched, leaving an inch opening in the middle for the book.

The third flour bag is folded in half along the 27-inch width, and the long edges sewn to the bottom of the other two pieces. The sides are then attached up and the bag is complete except for the addition of a small pocket stitched on the inside to hold a perfume sachet or a few moth balls.

Tailored Coats to Wear in Place of Negligees

Tailored house garments are replacing negligees and kimonos in the affections of many women. Coats of wool made in this way in slightly longer than dress lengths are widely displayed in pastel shades of beige, rose, orchid-green, blue, yellow and red and black combinations. They are cut after the fashion of the loose-fitting wrap-around day-line models. Some of the fabrics are plain, others have plaid borders, which are used for the seams, cuffs and collars of the robes. A metal motif of small flowers is introduced on some models.

Coats are important in the winter collections of house garments and are shown in a lightweight-wool almost like a heavy net, and in silk. The designs are printed but do not rub off or lose their brightness either by dry cleaning or laundering. These coats may be worn over pajamas, over a slip to form a negligee or simply as a lounging robe. The colors favor somewhat darker backgrounds than usually noted in this type of garment, with gay designs worked out as borders or all-over-effects.

A two-piece negligee made regulation skirt length is shown with a jumper top with or without sleeves. The skirt is built on a very narrow yoke or may be had with an elastic top. These garments are particularly useful because they eliminate the flowing sleeves and long, trailing skirts which often prove cumbersome in the active woman about the house. They are shown in tailored, lace-trimmed styles, and in a variety of fabrics and colors.

Ostrich Is Revived for Decorating Evening Wear

Ostrich has always been beloved because of its soft becomingness. Fortunately for those admiring it in its revival, Jenny uses—in three big positions for a dark velvet evening dress, Chanel makes a more lavish use of it to fringe the skirt of a black chiffon gown, the ostrich held in by two sewed crosswise bands below the hip.

On a severely cut evening coat of black satin Zoulobovenger attaches an enormous collar and large ruffs of ostrich. This suggests Rich fur, the ostrich starting as beige and ending in very dark brown at the tips.

OLD FOLKS SAY DR. CALDWELL WAS RIGHT

The basis of treating sickness has not changed since Dr. Caldwell left Medical College in 1875, nor since he placed on the market the laxative prescription he had used in his practice.

He treated constipation, biliousness, headaches, mental depression, indigestion, sour stomach and other indispositions entirely by means of simple vegetable laxatives, herbs and roots. These are still the basis of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, a combination of senna and other mild herbs with pepsin.

The simpler the remedy for constipation, the safer for the child and for you. And as you can get results in a mild and safe way by using Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, why take chances with strong drugs?

A bottle will last several months, and all can use it. It is pleasant to the taste, gentle in action, and free from narcotics. Elderly people find it ideal. All drug stores have the generous bottles, or write "Syrup Pepsin," Dept. BB, Monticello, Illinois, for free trial bottle.

Drugs Excite the Kidneys, Drink Water

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may thank you.

This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

Miners

IT IS a fact that from the earliest times mines were supposed to have been guarded from intrusion by serpents and demons. It is thought that goblins are jealous of man's ability to find the hidden treasure in mines and they diffuse malevolent and poisonous influences to blast the lives and limbs of those that dare to attempt the discovery.

It is believed that there are six kinds of demons, "the fifth sort of which are subterranean, living in caverns and hollows of the earth, often killing and hurting well diggers and miners for metals, causing earthquakes and eruptions of flames, and strong winds." The existence of spirits in a metallic form would torment the workers in German mines and in some countries, by causing blindness, glaucoma or sudden sickness, often making it necessary to abandon mines known to be rich in metals. Thirteen miners were found dead, together from such causes.

The belief was prevalent among miners of a species called "knockers." They were heard underground in or near the mines. And by their knocking pointed out to the workmen a rich vein of ore.

There is an imp called "Gothoo" which causes the miners a great deal of trouble, deluding them with false lights, noises and flames. Another is the appearance of a demon in the form of a "black dog."

The demon feared most by the miners is the Knauff-krigen. The miners are often knocked down by devils which they call Knauff-krigen. After such falls the miners often die in the space of three and four days.

Chance and Games

WITH regard to "chance" games, or, to use a general term, gambling, luck may be said to be the presiding genius, and to influence, according to popular superstition, the good or ill fortune of those who engage in them. All gamblers believe that all their success (though their success is only temporary where games of pure chance are concerned) is not the result of skillful effort on their part. There is scarcely a gambler who is not ready to assert his faith in certain obscurities whereby he changed his "luck," by changing seats, reversing his hat or cap, a new deal, or the like. If luck is against a player, to turn three times around with his chair, "for then, the luck will change in his favor," is commonly done. It is considered that bystanders bring ill luck to players. If a child has small feet, she will lead an easy life.

A boy who will carry a dull knife will be a backslider. To make a blot on a love letter shows that the person you are writing to is thinking of you at the moment. If the smooth wedding one attend is not one's own, one will never marry. (The Daily Western Newspaper Digest.)

Oaks in History

There was a law in the ancient "Twelve Tables" concerning the ownership of acorns, should they by chance fall upon another man's ground. Scattered throughout the countries of the Old World are individual oaks, preserved and treasured through centuries because of some incident or ceremony that took place beneath their widespread branches.

RUSS OFFICER ONLY NAME TO FOOL CZAR

Buried With Great Ceremony in Empty Casket.

Berlin.—Among the strange stories being dug out of the archives of the Russia of the czars by Soviet investigators and writers is one concerning Paul I, the "mad czar," whose brief and stormy rule was brought to an end in 1801 by his assassination by a group of officers. This tale, as given in the German press, runs as follows:

"One day Czar Paul was awakened from his midday slumber by a loud cry for help outside his door. He angrily ordered his adjutant to give him the name of the wretch who had dared interrupt the imperial nap. The adjutant was in a pickle for a moment, but a happy thought saved the day. He answered calmly that the offender was 'Lieut. As Well As.'

Only a Name.

"Now this 'Lieut. As Well As' had a strange history. He existed only on the rolls of his regiment, thanks to the mistake of a clerk who, in copying the names of Lieutenants Petroff, Semionoff, as well as Ivanoff, had in error written 'As Well As' in capitals. When the mistake was discovered it was too late to make a correction, as the order was about to be submitted to the czar for his signature. Consequently, the regimental commander decided to enter 'Lieut. As Well As' on the rolls, so that the czar would have no occasion to reproach him for the mistake.

"This was the nonexistent officer named by the adjutant as the disturber of Paul's slumbers. The irate ruler ordered the offender to be sent to Siberia at once on foot and added a penalty of 100 lashes for good measure. There was nothing else to do but to continue the game. An escort of four soldiers was sent to Siberia, and from every important stage of the route reports were dispatched to the czar telling of the 'victim's' hardships.

Remembers Victim.

"About two years later the czar suddenly recollected the case of the exiled officer, and in a moment of magnanimity, pardoned him. From then on Paul kept 'Lieut. As Well As' in mind. Soon he made him a major and a few months later a general. Then the affair began to get risky, as the czar expressed a desire personally to meet his new general. As the members of his entourage dared not ask another officer to play the part of 'Gen. As Well As,' the czar was informed that the general was suffering from a serious illness, and a few days later it was announced that the valiant warrior had died. 'Gen. As Well As' was buried with full military honors. The whole regiment escorted the empty coffin to the grave; every detail was carefully observed and the name of the general was entered upon the list of dead dignitaries."

Private Citizens Aid Migratory Bird Survey

Ware Shoals, S. C.—How the United States Department of Agriculture is aided by private citizens in obtaining data on the habits and life histories of migratory birds was revealed here by W. T. O'Shields.

Capturing a chimney swift, O'Shields found it carried an aluminum leg band on which were numbers. He sent the numbers to the bureau of biological survey, which informed him that the bird was banded a year ago at Tallahassee, Fla., by Charles O. Handley and H. L. Stoddard. The information revealed by the bird's flight, the bureau said, will be valuable to its study of bird life in America.

The bureau added that such voluntary assistance on the part of persons anywhere in the country can be augmented by prompt reports on tagged birds.

South China Aspires to Economic Rebirth

Canton, China.—"Trade revival and promotion of native industries," is the slogan of South China merchants who are seeking to stage a comeback from the lean times experienced during the past year.

Co-operation with the government to eliminate communism, harmonious terms with labor, eliminate the foreign middlemen with Chinese and with other phrases are being passed about throughout the province of Kwangtung as Canton's merchant princes seek a trade revival and the prosperity that has not been Canton's for years. At a conference of delegates from provincial chambers of commerce, held here and attended by 300 representatives from all parts of the province, appeals were made for unified efforts toward a general trade revival.

Gambling War Disturbs Monacans and Riviera

Cannes, France.—The battle between Riviera casino interests and the world-famed Monte Carlo casino has now turned into a picture contest, with the general public enjoying itself and the police having difficulty keeping the signboards free of the lurid and bitter posters which appear during the night.

Both sides have also resorted to subsidizing papers and weekly magazines to back them. Monte Carlo is working to obtain an extension of its agreement with the French government whereby roulette will not be permitted in France. The present agreement ends in 1931.

Gulls Liked Strawberries.

Strange picnic guests were entertained at a clambake on the shore at Belfast, Maine, when a flock of seagulls, after circling about, swooped down and made an attack on a plate of strawberry tarts, although they left the apple tarts on the plate. Only one of the birds succeeded in getting away with one of the tidbits of dessert, and he was followed for some distance by the others trying to get a bite.

Letters "Relayed" in Early Colonial Days

In the English colonies in America before 1639 such postal facilities as existed were supplied by private enterprise. In 1639 the General court of Massachusetts took the first step toward the establishment of a government postal system. In Virginia each planter was required to convey the dispatches, as they arrived, to the next plantation, and so on. In 1672 the government of New York established a monthly mail to Boston, and this practice was followed in other colonies. Benjamin Franklin was identified with the early interests of the colonial post office. In 1737 he was appointed postmaster of Philadelphia. In 1753 the delivery of letters by penny post was begun. In 1775 the colonies combined to establish their own post office and to pay the necessary officials. The Continental congress appointed a committee to devise a postal system, which went into effect July 26, 1775. Benjamin Franklin was unanimously appointed postmaster general.

The Whimsical Max.

Paul Jones of the family of the University of Pennsylvania, said on his recent return from Europe:

"I have a great admiration for Max Beerbohm, and in August I visited him in his villa at Rapallo on the Italian Riviera.

"I had visited him before, and had told him a story about James Joyce; but I forgot this on my second visit, and retold the Joyce story.

"The whimsical Max, when I finished, said:

"That's a good story, but, really, if you tell it to me again I shall have to tell it to you."

Treasure for America?

California may soon gain the altar from the famous Stoke Poges church. It was in the churchyard of this church that Gray wrote his "Elegy in a Country Churchyard." If the suggestion now before the local church council receives the final approval of the chancellor of the diocese, the altar will soon cross the Atlantic to adorn the "Church of the Little Flowers," near Los Angeles.

FRIDAY, NOV. 23, 1928

Nicaragua had an election the other day. It is said that it also went for Hoover.

The turkey gobbler is the great American bird, and not the hen nor the eagle as some have styled them.

Human nature changes little, if any. Prejudice and intolerance are just as prominent today as when the "birds first sang together." We boast of our twentieth century civilization, but it's only skin deep.

Al Smith, who was "crushingly" defeated on the 6th day of November, received double the number of votes ever given a Democratic candidate and a million and a half more than ever given a successful Republican candidate. That was one time the "absentee" vote just had to be corralled.

Own Your Own Home

Carrizozo is proud of the many homes that are owned by the people occupying them. But there are still quite a few people in Carrizozo who are paying rent. Should there be any who are seeking a way whereby they can build a home with the minimum financing charge, the government is willing to help them.

The department of commerce, thru the division of building and housing, has just issued a booklet entitled "Present Home Financing Methods," which is intended to explain to home owners and prospective home owners the easiest and cheapest methods of borrowing money.

The pamphlet is the continuation of a work launched while Herbert Hoover was secretary of commerce and is the successor to an earlier booklet entitled "How to Own Your Home," of which 350,000 copies were distributed. The booklet, likewise the earlier one, can be obtained from the superintendent of documents, government printing office for five cents, but remittances should not be made in stamps, as the government uses the mail free.

Home owners are given a clear description of the services performed by building and loan associations, life insurance companies, savings banks, trust companies and other agencies which lead to home owners and builders. Second and third mortgages and land contract methods of purchase also are described. Attention is called to financial pitfalls to be avoided.

While He Slept

Whether he is to be commended for his boldness or condemned for his foulhardiness, the thief who invaded Pete E. Johnson's room, in the court house, Wednesday, took Pete's watch, a five dollar gold piece and about everything else that was loose, is yet to be determined. The only clue to the perpetrator, at the time this was written, is that a young fellow feasted the same night at a local restaurant and tendered a $5 gold piece in payment therefor. We had not believed that Carrizozo was better or worse than its neighbors, but when a pilferer raids the sheriff's office, we must admit that we "knocked the highest permit on." At that, it is believed the light-fingered artist was an imported variety.

Thirty Deer Slain

T. E. Kelley, who keeps in touch with the game situation, has furnished us a list, which was increased from other sources, of thirty deer killed by hunters in this vicinity. Of course, those living in other sections of the county got theirs, besides many outsiders took out Lincoln county deer—the total, perhaps, killed in the county running close to 100. The names known, and furnished by Mr. Kelley are:

Ira, Lester and James Greer, John Harkey, Fay Harkey, Earl Harkey, Elvin Harkey, Morgan Reily, Bryan Cazier, M. U. Finley, T. J. James, A. D. Brownfield, Will Ed Harris, Doug Cain, Robert Poage, C. Six for the Price of a Four

Passing on to the motoring public the benefits arising out of tremendous volume production, the Chevrolet Motor Company, today, introduces "the Outstanding Chevrolet of Chevrolet History—A Six in the Price Range of the Four."

In making this important announcement, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager, points out that the sensational public reception accorded the car in recent years has enabled Chevrolet at this time to offer the added power, speed and smoothness of six cylinder performance at practically the same prices that contributed so much to the world-wide popularity of the four.

Preparations for the greatest year in its history are now being made by the Chevrolet Motor Co. Production of the new car was started last week and the company's fifteen giant factories across the country will be turning out cars to be shipped to dealers by December 15. Deliveries to the public will start January first.

Although no definite schedule has been set for 1929, Mr. Knudsen declared that production of the new car would probably exceed 1,250,000 units thereby surpassing all former records.

In its new offering Chevrolet has retained the highly successful valve-in-head principle. The motor is of the high compression type with a non-detonation head and develops 32 per cent more power than its famous predecessor; its acceleration is measurably greater and its speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements. The piston displacement is 194 cubic inches.

Despite this greatly improved performance standard, thousands of miles of testing under every road and weather conditions at the General Motors Proving ground in addition to many cross country runs, have shown that the new Chevrolet engine will operate with an economy averaging better than 20 miles to a gallon of gasoline. This is practically the same fuel economy enjoyed by the owners of the previous four cylinder model.

The motor develops 46 horse power at low engine speed and as a result of the automatic lubrication of the valve mechanism the motor is exceptionally quiet throughout the entire speed range.

Seven models of passenger cars and three commercial types comprise the line, which according to General Motors officials, embodies the greatest dollar value ever offered in an automobile. Included in the passenger car line are five closed and two open models. All bodies this year carry the famous Fisher stamp of craftsmanship. The commercial car line embraces a new and larger Utility Truck of one and one half ton capacity, a new light delivery chassis and the Sedan Delivery.

From an appearance standpoint as well as from inherent design, the car is completely new with a wide range of attractive colors and fine car appointments formerly found only on the more expensive makes.

Despite the score of advanced features, prices remain practically the same, chiefly as a result of the influence of tremendous volume production. The passenger-car range is from $525 to $725, f. o. b. Flint Mich. The prices, according to models, are as follows: Roadster $525; phaeton $525; coach $595; coupe $595; sedan $675; sport cabriolet $695; convertible landau $725, commercial car prices are; light delivery chassis $400; one and one ton Utility truck chassis $545; one and one half ton Utility truck chassis with cab $650 and the sedan delivery $595. All prices are f. o. b., Flint Mich.

Advanced orders will be taken immediately following the announcement with deliveries starting January first, officials stated. They also pointed out that to insure delivery early next year it would be advisable to place orders as soon as possible.

The plan of introductory showings with deliveries to follow after January first was adopted for two reasons, it was explained. In the first place, officials pointed out approximately five weeks will be required to change over the production line from the four to the six in the motor plant at Flint, Mich. Added to this was the necessity for inventory taking, which is customary at this time each year.

The new Chevrolet, which on its debut November 24, promises to write a new chapter in motor car history, is in every sense a proved product. Four years ago Chevrolet engineers began their research work, engineering, planning and General Motors Proving Ground testing. Associated with the Chevrolet engineers were the specialized engineers of the General Motors Research Laboratories.

Night and day, in doors and out, in good weather and bad, they designed, built and tested every modern type of motor so that no opportunity would be overlooked—so that every desirable feature might be harmoniously incorporated in the new product. Perhaps a thousand ideas were considered and discussed. More than 100 different motors were built up and given exhaustive test bloc and road tests before the cabinet of expert engineers, presided over by O. E. Hunt, Chief Engineer of the Chevrolet Motor Company, finally approved the new Chevrolet valve-in-head six cylinder motor.

Speed, acceleration, power and smoothness, to an unusual degree, are offered in the new motor. It is of the high compression type, fully enclosed and with a non-detonating head. It was a three and five sixteenths bore and three quarters inch stroke with a 194-cubic inch piston displacement.

The motor develops 32 per cent more horse power than its famous predecessor and has an abundant source of reserve power for fast getaway, heavy roads and steep grades.

The speed has been stepped up to satisfy maximum requirements and in acceleration the new motor is vastly superior to any previous Chevrolet model. This remarkable acceleration is due partly to the use of a new accelerating pump. When the accelerator is suddenly depressed this pump forces a small quantity of gasoline into the manifold of the carburetor, giving the car the instant power and get-away so necessary in modern traffic. On actual dynamometer tests the new engine develops 46 horsepower at low engine speed. At all ordinary speeds it develops from three to four times the amount of power required to drive the car.

Torsional vibration is imperceptible at any speed through the use of a heavy 46 pound crank shaft which is perfectly balanced statically and dynamically. A further contribution to the exceptional quietness of the motor is the automatic lubrication of the entire rocker arm mechanism and of all valve operating parts, which in addition are completely enclosed.

There is a combustion splash flow method of lubrication with the oil supplied through an oil filter at the bottom of the crankcase by means of a newly designed vane type pump. There is an oil pressure gauge incorporated in the new instrument panel.

Assuring maximum cooling efficiency there is a large chromium-plated Harrison honey-comb radiator with water pump and fan.

The clutch is of the single plate dry disc type and requires no lubrication.

The new rear axle is similar in design to that used on the most expensive cars. It is of the sim-floating type with a strong, one piece, banjo-type, pressed steel housing. Six heavy duty New Departure annular ball-bearings and extra heavy cut spiral bevel gears make for smooth driving operation.

The steering gear is semi-reversible of the ball bearing full worm and gear type. The new shaft is solid, replacing the tubular type formerly used. It is mounted in a bracket securely riveted to the frame. The beautiful seventeen inch black finish steering wheel has a rubber covered spider.

Dependable non-locking four wheel brakes with rear service brakes in two self-aligning segments contribute to the quiet, safe operating features of the car.

The service brakes on the 11 inch drums on the rear wheels of the external contracting type and those on the front of the internal expanding type. The emergency brake lever is conveniently located on the driver's right and operates a braking system independent of the service brakes.

Long chrome vanadium shock absorber steel springs of the semi-elliptic type are one of the factors accounting for the easy riding qualities of the new car. The springs are set parallel to the frame, assuring safety as well as comfort at all speeds. The front springs are each 36 inches in length and the rear springs 54 inches. The wheel-base is 107 inches.

Appointments are the richest and most luxurious ever offered by Chevrolet. The seats are wider and more restful. The driver's seat in all closed models is easily adjustable, forward or back, a feature recently introduced on a few of the high priced cars. Rich, long-wearing up

THE LONG, LONG TRAIL

Nights are growing very lonely,
Days are very long,
I'm a growing weary only
Listening for your song.
Old Remembrances are thronging
Through my memory,
Till it seems the world is full of dreams,
Just to call you back to me.

CHORUS

There's a long, long trail a winding,
Into the land of my dreams,
Where the nightingales are singing
And a white moon beams;
There's a long, long night of waiting
Until my dreams all come true
Till the day when I'll be going down
That long, long trail with you.
All night long I hear you calling,
Calling sweet and low;
Seem to hear your footsteps falling
Everywhere I go;
Tho' the road between us stretches
Many a weary mile
I forget that you're not with me yet
When I think I see you smile.

holsteries and specially designed Terasted hardware contribute to the environment of distinction.

Added safety in night driving has been accomplished through the use of a light control switch at the left of the clutch pedal. Instead of dimming the lights the same effect is attained by changing the angle of the new two-beam head lamps by pressing the floor button with the foot.

A new body style takes its place in the new Chevrolet line, supplanting the Imperial Landau. It is the convertible landau sedan on which the top rear quarter may be completely folded down.

All models are equipped with parabolic type headlamps, with parking bulbs, operating from the lighting switch. A theft proof electro-lock is also standard. There is a storage battery with composition case; motor driven Klaxon horns; complete tool kit; wetherproof pedal enclosure; automatic spotlight and rear vision mirror.

Both open cars have curtains that open with the doors, and a full vision windshield with weather strip and wiper. Coach, coupe, sedan, cabriolet and convertible landau are equipped with military sun visors, a Fisher v type windshield with automatic type wiper and narrow windshield posts which eliminate blind spots. There are adjustable driver's seats in all closed models and cowl lamps on the cabriolet and convertible landau. Balloons tires, 4.50 by 20 are standard on all passenger models.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL

Mrs. L. B. Crawford visited her mother, Mrs. Lesnet, in Roswell this week.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Ferguson and the boys were down from their Mesa home yesterday. Billie didn't forget us, when the hunting season was over, and we had a delicate morsel.

Lino Herrera, while engaged in street work one day this week, had a finger nail torn from one of his fingers. The injury, notwithstanding it was a small one, was most painful.

Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Spencer and A. N. left Tuesday afternoon, by auto, for Columbia, Missouri, where Jane, Billy and Truman are attending school. They will be absent about three weeks.

Mason Hull, traveling engineer on the S. P. New Mexico division and one time resident of Carrizozo, returns to duty today, after his vacation here, among friends, and in the mountains, hunting game—which the other fellow got.

In the recount of the ballots in the Lincoln box, Saturday, Meyer Barnett lost two votes, but that still left him three ahead of John L. Bryan, his Democratic opponent. Mr. Bryan, was, accordingly, given a certificate of election.

J. McSmith writes us from the hills—where he has been engaged in trapping—that he had not, at the time he wrote us, heard anything about the election. Well, Mac, we are sorry to say, everything went Republican, including Texas, and if you can get any comfort out of that it's more than we've been able to do.

W. H. Broadus, Optometrist, was here two days this week from Santa Fe, sitting glasses. Dr. Broadus has been visiting us monthly the past year, but his recent move to Santa Fe disarranged his plans for a time and interfered with his regular visits. However, his itineraries are again adjusted and he will again be here two days out of each month.

Rube Copeland passed through Sunday evening of last week, on his way to Hurley, where after a short visit with members of his family he will go to California. Mr. Copeland has been living with his son William and family the past year, on the Bonito, after having spent five years in California. Rube landed at Blaser's Mill with his parents in 1869, and holds the record as the oldest citizen from the states in this section of New Mexico.

Hunting Party Returns

The Mogollon hunting party returned this week, with their quota of deer. The weather was unpleasant some of the time, but on the whole was fair, and the hunt was successful both from a recreational and material standpoint. In the party were: Mrs. Nellie Braum, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Clouse, Mr. and Mrs. George Dingwall, Mrs. Jane Gallacher, Mr. and Mrs. Will Gallacher and little Jane. There were also some friends of the Gallachers, who joined in hunt and camp.

Thanksgiving Dance

The Carrizozo Golf Club will entertain Thanksgiving, at Community Hall, with a dance. The Mountain Boomers will furnish the music and this aggregation supplies a peppy band. If not otherwise engaged, attend this dance, meet old friends and have an enjoyable evening.

CAPITAL REVIVES OLD-TIME DANCE

Debutantes Lengthen Skirts for Staid Steps.

Washington.—Turning completely away from the jazz of recent years, Washington society this winter will revive the stately, old-fashioned cotillon as quite the latest and most correct thing in dancing.

Debutantes who figure largely on the season's calendar are eagerly planning lengthened frocks of frills and furbelows to match the dignified figures of the cotillon. They are consulting hair dressers concerning false knots of curls to attach to their bobbed locks.

Invitations for the first of the affairs to be given at the Mayflower hotel December 10 by the Washington Bachelors are already out. The list of the committee in charge is thickly sprinkled with honorables and generals and commanders.

All sorts of novel stunts and favors are being planned. There will be two orchestras, one imported from New York. Favors, by which the men will find their partners, will eclipse anything seen in Washington for many a day. The older members of the Bachelors' club who are versed in the ceremonious etiquette of a former day when society shone in stately splendor instead of scintillating jazz, will lead the younger generation through the figures of the cotillon.

Not alone the cotillons, but the fact that many of the season's debutantes will emerge into the social limelight with not only one coming-out party, but two, makes this season unique. Heretofore one tea or one ball was deemed sufficient to give Miss Debbie her due, but now many of the younger set are demanding both.

Sends Lock of Hair to Protect Legacy

Washington.—A lock of "brown hair with a reddish tint" was in closed in a letter, signed with the name of Mrs. M. J. LaMay and post-marked Redlands, Calif., which was received by Theodora Cogswell, district registrar of wills. The writer warned him that a "blonde woman" would impersonate her in an attempt to gain a legacy.

The legacy formed by Cogswell that the "blonde woman" has discovered where property of the writer is located and "will claim to be me and fool you if she can." However, with all the description and novel identification, Cogswell is still in a quandary, for the writer failed to designate the identity of the expected from whom the legacy is expected. She declared that she would later forward Cogswell an address where an answer could locate her.

CITATION BY PUBLICATION

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE THIRD JUDICIAL DISTRICT OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO, WITHIN AND FOR LINCOLN COUNTY.

Librada M. Trujillo, Plaintiff, vs. Jesus Trujillo, Defendant. Civil No. 3755 Divorce.

TO JESUS TRUJILLO, Defendant, Greeting:

You are hereby notified that Librada M. Trujillo, has commenced a suit in the District Court of the Third Judicial District of the State of New Mexico, within and for Lincoln County, for an absolute divorce and the care and custody of two minor children; as more fully appears from the complaint now on file in my office, being Number 3755 in the district court aforesaid.

You are further notified that unless you enter an appearance, file answer or other pleading in said cause on or before the 17th, day of December, 1928, said complaint will be taken as confessed and judgment rendered and the relief granted as prayed for in the complaint.

You are further notified that W. P. Harris, whose postoffice address is Vaughn, New Mexico, appears as attorney for plaintiff.

Witness my hand and the seal of the District Court on this the 24th, day of October, A. D., 1928.

Telephone News

NEW MEXICO IS SERVED BY 670 BELL EMPLOYEES

Nationwide Service Provided By An Army of Workers

Each time a telephone subscriber in New Mexico lifts his receiver he commands an army of telephone workers. More than 338,000 are needed to provide the telephone service of the nation, and in New Mexico alone there are 670 employees.

Of course, the largest group are the operators, who are needed to set up the talking connections between neighbors, to nearby states, across the continent or across the ocean. In New Mexico they handle an average of 196,000 calls every day. In the entire Mountain States territory, this company's operators handle approximately two million calls daily.

One principle guides the efforts of all this company's employees—the spirit of service—a determination that telephone service must be continuous and uninterrupted; that the message must go through.

A STATEMENT OF POLICY

"Undoubtedly a very great factor in the continued progress and improvement of telephone service is the intangible but quite real spirit of service that has become a tradition in the telephone business. The people who are engaged day by day in trying to maintain a high standard of telephone service are doing their part, and a most important part, in increasing the quality and keeping down the cost of service."

Walter S. Gifford, President, American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"It is the constant aim of employees of this company to adhere to this ideal of service."

F. H. Reiff, President, Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The Livestock Situation

While the several years following the world war were lean ones for the stockman and caused many good men to loose the results of his lifetime work, yet there are compensations which are more and more evident every day. Forced liquidation caused the sale of thousands of breeding cows and heifers but the producer of pure bred, as well as the average range operator, found that the very cream of his breeding herd was worth comparatively little more than his culls, so his disposition was to cash his plain-bred cows and heifers, retaining the best bred animals.

A trip among several of the large cow herds in the western states indicates that close culling out actually occurred, with the result that today the breeding herds of cattle are probably superior to any previous period in the history of the cattle business. It is well that such is the case for the cowman must advance with the times and improve his product just as every other business man or manufacturer must do in serving the public.

The riddance of the plainly bred animals and the scrub cows and bulls through pressure of liquidation of loans and urge for case certainly accomplished such a result. It, of course, went even further in forcing some cowman to ship well bred animals to market for beef and this blood and type was lost to the industry forever.

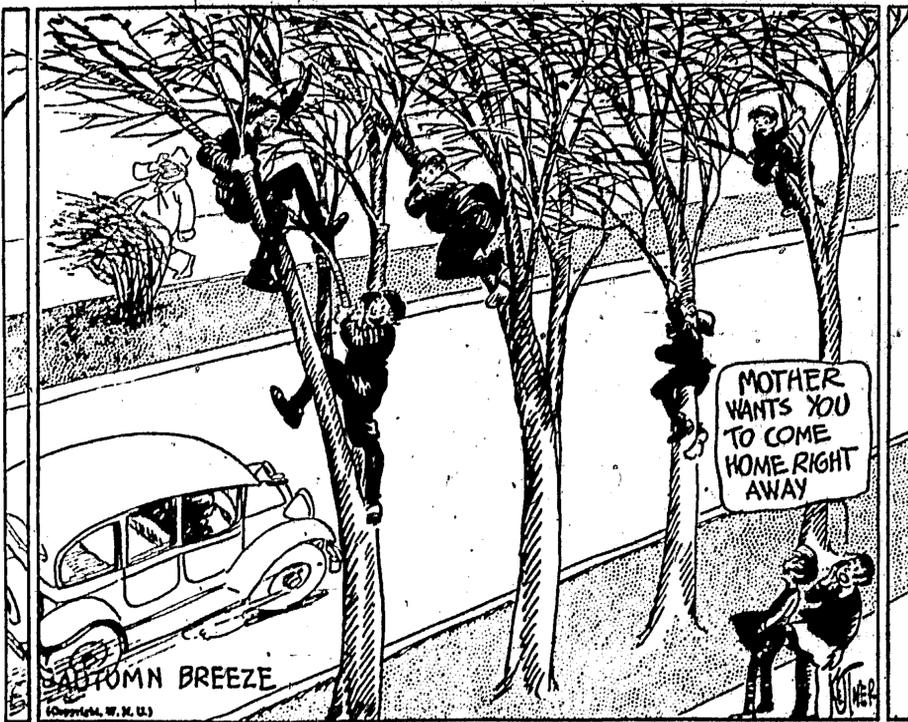

But with the majority of the breeding stock now available for production purposes of higher average quality, it means that the cattlemen are in better position to cater to the demands of the consumer. Better bulls and better cows mean better beef, quicker maturity of the calves and a product of better quality which finds a more ready sale to the consumer.

Another factor is that the good cowman attempted to retain those animals with good constitution and proven progeny. This means a higher percentage of calf crop annually, thus aiding in cutting down ranch overhead. It may vice 7:45.

LIVE STOCK

FOR SUCCESS IN GROWING CATTLE

Success in growing cattle for market depends to a large extent upon the start which is given the calves. This, aside from the calf's breeding, is probably the most important consideration. In straight beef production only a small quantity of feed in addition to milk is needed for the calves up to weaning time, but nevertheless they should be taught to eat grain and hay so that the change during weaning will not result in loss of flesh.

When calves are intended for baby beef they should be started on some grain, when between four and six weeks old. A mixture of equal parts, by weight, of shelled corn, whole oats, and wheat bran is satisfactory. The corn, and oats may be fed ground, until the calves become accustomed to eating; then they may be fed whole. When fed whole they are less likely to cause scour. The grain allowance should be increased gradually up to weaning time so that the lack of milk will not hinder growth and fattening.

Calves from cows that are milked should be taught also to eat supplemented feeds within a few weeks after birth. The quantity of grain and hay consumed at first necessarily will be limited, but should be increased gradually until the calf can do without milk when from six to eight months old. Fall calves that are fed skim milk and other feeds during the winter months put on very good gains on pasture the following summer.

After weaning, alfalfa or clover hay and silage may form the greater part of the roughage and one-half to three-fourths of a pound of cottonseed meal or linseed meal given in addition to grain. The grain ration may be increased gradually until the calves are receiving a fattening ration.

Calves that are to be finished on pasture may be handled in about the same way as those to be fattened in the dry lot. The grain allowance may be smaller at first but after the calves are turned on pasture it should be increased as they become able to utilize greater quantities of grain.

Calves that are to be "fed out" as long yearlings or two-year-olds or sold as stockers and feeders may be fed considerably more cheaply during the first winter. The winter ration may consist principally of silage and cheap roughages, but some concentrates should be used to keep the calves growing in a thrifty condition. They should be run on pasture the following summer and sold in the fall as feeders or fattened out the following winter as long yearlings. If it is desired to keep them longer, the cattle may be "oughed" through a second winter and fattened the next year.

Salt Fed Regularly to Hogs Ideal Plan

Salt fed regularly to hogs will pay in added pounds of pork. Without it they cannot make the fastest and most economical gains nor remain in the healthiest condition. Hogs do not need as much salt as cows, but they must have some in order to carry on the digestive functions properly. Salt is used chiefly in making the hydrochloric acid of the digestive juice.

Salt may be fed free choice style to hogs. However, if they have been without it for a long time there is danger in feeding it that way until they become accustomed to it. A pig getting too much salt will die of salt poisoning. There is little danger if it is fed in the form of large hard chunks or briquets.

If hogs are used to salt it may be fed in flaked form in boxes or self feeders. It is well to mix the salt with the feed. A pound of salt to 100 pounds of feed mixture is sufficient. Salt may also be added to the mineral mixture.

Colt Needs Attention During Winter Season

A colt should be fed rolled oats or coarse ground oats three parts and one part coarse bran. Begin feeding it as soon as it is a month old, using about one-half pint of this mixture, and increasing it according to the breed and size of the colt until at six months old it is receiving four quarts daily on good pasture and good hay. If the foal's dam is working, wean it at four months of age; otherwise at five to six months of age. If milk is obtainable, begin at weaning time feeding the colt one quart three times a day. This will produce bone and tone up the coat. Above everything else, remember to have the colt out in the sun every day that it shines. Keep it out of rainstorms and snowstorms after the winter coat begins to grow. Brush the coat often.

Garbage-Fed Hogs

There still is a great difference of opinion among producers of garbage-fed hogs as to whether the hog raised on garbage from the beginning is better than if on the market at about 100 pounds weight. As a rule the hog accustomed to garbage early in his life should be more successful, since this feed is bulky and a greater stomach capacity is necessary. The hog raised on garbage is started as a garbage-fed pig and his stomach is capable of being distended.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

T. A. Spencer made a business trip to Santa Fe Monday.

Miss Lorene Stimmel was with home folks for the week end. Miss Lorene is teaching at Bogie.

C. E. Wright, who has been in Sacramento, California, has returned to his run on the local line.

Mrs. Albert Woods and little son Sidney Clay left last week for Mineral Wells, Texas, for a visit with relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Rogers were here Friday to Sunday from Albuquerque. Mrs. Rogers is a sister of Will Ed Harris.

L. D. Cain was down from Nogal Wednesday. Doug was in the lucky hunters' class—he brought down a 210-lb. buck.

An epidemic of colds, or flu, struck this community early in the week and laid out, for a time, a number of our inhabitants.

Sam Bigger, old time printer and editor who quit the tripod for the farm, was here Saturday from Capitan, and we enjoyed a short visit with him.

A. V. Swearingin has been ill and unable to perform his duties as yardmaster. Van has been in the yards since the establishment of the division here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Weidinger and daughter June, who have been visiting the Rentfrows, went to Clovis Wednesday to visit other relatives before returning to their home in San Francisco.

Jim Brown, postmaster and merchant at Ocuero, was a visitor Saturday. Jim says the railroad company is doing considerable work near Ocuero, raising the roadbed, etc., and that business has improved to a great extent as a result.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ed Harris returned last Friday afternoon from an extended trip west, going as far as Los Angeles where they remained two weeks. They came to El Paso where they had left their car and picked up A. D. Brownfield who accompanied them home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson were in Tuesday from the Bounto. They recently closed out their interests in this county and are leaving this week for Portales, Roosevelt county, their future home. Jim has bought a filling station and will also run a few cows. Many friends regret to see this family leave Lincoln county, where they have lived all their lives, and good wishes attend them.

Carrizozo High School Orchestra in Concert

The Carrizozo High School Orchestra will give a short concert at the Crystal Theatre Wednesday, December 5th at 7:30 p. m. This concert will include Marches written by Sousa, The Desert Song, a waltz from the operetta "The Desert Song" and Alita, a delightful flower song and a xylophone duet.

The picture to be shown after the program is a United Artist production, Mary Pickford in "My Best Girl". This picture will be quite an attraction as Mary Pickford is a star who all enjoy.

The Orchestra has been practicing regularly since school started on the numbers to be played on the program and expect to give a musical treat. The organization has twenty members, the latest additions to the orchestra being Gladys Dozier and Tom Brown, both playing clarinets.

The proceeds from this concert will be used in the spring to help defray expenses to the state contest which the orchestra expects to enter. All the orchestra members will sell tickets at 25-50 cents, to buy your ticket from them for a good program and a good picture is assured.

Baptist Show Increase

"Baptist of New Mexico show an increase of ten per cent both in membership and gifts over last year," according to the Rev. F. C. Rowland, pastor of the local Baptist church who has just returned from State Convention at Tucumcari.

"This Convention went on record as favoring a more strict enforcement of the 18th amendment; and for an equal penalty to the purchaser as for the seller and maker of the liquor."

"It went on record also as not favoring the appropriation of public funds by our State Legislature to any religious body or sect," according to the pastor. "The next convention meets at Santa Fe in 1929."

Woman's Club Notes

The Carrizozo Woman's Club met Friday, November 18 at the home of Mrs. R. E. Lemon, Miss Melas drama, chairman, had charge of the program. She presented a one act play, "Not a man in the House," which was a scream from beginning to end. The ladies who did not attend certainly missed a treat.

The State President is asking each club for a dollar per member this year to be applied on the Donahue Loan Fund which is a fund to help girls through school. Our president expressed the wish that our club would contribute 100 per cent of its quota. This is a most worthy cause. None of us who have a daughter or daughters can feel absolutely sure that she will never need to ask aid from such a fund. Here is a chance for all of us to really help deserving girls.

A portion of our time was devoted to "Safety First Week." At the close of the meeting the hostess, assisted by Mesdames Beck, Cleghorn, Huppertz, and Lemmon, served delicious refreshments of cake and coffee.

The ladies all departed feeling that they had spent a most enjoyable and profitable afternoon. The next meeting will be held at the school auditorium, December 14. Miss Delp, chairman of applied education, has charge of the program. Come. See our new school building.

STEEL ECLIPSE

Windmill

Starts sooner—pumps longer

Two windmills stand just across the road from each other. With the first sign of a breeze one started up smoothly and quietly. When the breeze became a wind, the other started with a groan and lumbered away only as long as the wind raised a dust in the road. Then it stopped abruptly as it had started, while the other continued pumping for some time—then it finally came smoothly to rest with the last trace of the dying breeze.

That is the difference between a cheap windmill and just a windmill. It is the difference between accurately machined and fitted gears and ordinary cast gears; the difference between trenched ground and polished shafts and ordinary steel shafts.

In other words, it is the difference between the Fairbanks-Morse Half-Offset Steel Eclipse Windmill and just a plain windmill.

Come in and see this great advance in windmill construction. See the self-aligning feature—the center lift feature—the mechanism that enables the Eclipse to actually pump water during two-thirds of every revolution of the wind wheel. You will form a new idea of how good a windmill can be.
