Hoover's Dilemma Over Farm Board Will He "Confess Blunder" or "Pass Back to Congress"

Washington, Sept. — The Farm Board, whose 'stabilization' operations have added enormously to the woes of a depressed agriculture, must go," declares the militant Baltimore Sun.

The Sun sees evidence on the part of President Hoover that "he recognizes as much." The method of giving the coup de grace to the Board, the Sun thinks, is important.

"If President Hoover adheres to the fully established facts of the case, frankly concedes that he made a major blunder in forcing his Farm Board scheme through a reluctant Congress, and calls it quits before further damage is done, there is a good chance he will find a relatively tolerant public and Congress," it says.

"If, however," the Sun continues, "President Hoover endeavors, as he has on occasion in the past, to pass the buck for the Farm Board folly to Congress and to avoid confession of his controlling role in the matter, he may well run into a snarl with disastrous consequences. The fact, clearly written in the records, is that the Farm Board was and remains Mr. Hoover's personal handiwork. There was almost no enthusiasm for the scheme in Congress, but the President would not approve relief plans that had sufficient Congressional backing to pass. So Congress, unwisely willing to take anything at all instead of nothing, took the Farm Board scheme. An effort now to make the fact that Congress passed the scheme serve as a peg upon which to hang upon it fully responsibility for the board can only serve to infuriate that body and risk dangerous reprisals."

The Word Moratorium

The word moratorium which is receiving considerable attention these days, is from the Latin and applies to a period during which a debtor is authorized to postpone payments due. The debt is not cancelled, merely delayed. A lot of people have been using the moratorium plan for years, but it hasn't been going under the name.

Let Those Best Able Bear Larger Load

New York, Oct. 25 — The more fortunate in this world's goods ought to take the same share in the adversity of the nation that they have taken in its prosperity. The way to do that is to increase the load upon those best able to pay, according to Governor Gifford Pinchot, of Pennsylvania, who spoke this afternoon before the Men's Club of the First Congregational Church, Flushing.

"Funds collected through local relief drives are only an addition," he declared, "to the basic burden carried at present by taxation. The cost of relief during the coming winter should be paid in whatever way will slow up recovery least. Clearly that means to take it out of funds that would otherwise be used for unnecessary luxuries, for stock market speculation, or for increasing still further the gap between what we can make and what we can use. Clearly again the cost of relief ought not to be taken out of funds that would otherwise be spent to increase consumption.

"What is the line between the man who contributes out of necessity and the man who contributes out of surplus? That is a matter that any man can guess about. My own guess is that it runs not far above an income of $2000 a year."

Governor Pinchot said no source of relief ought to be neglected. "All the money that can be brought together," he said, "will be much less than will be required to carry the unemployed and their families through the coming winter without bitter suffering. But the country ought to know where the burden fell last winter and where it is proposed that it shall fall during the winter just ahead.

"There has been much insistence from high quarters that the cost of relief should be carried locally. Campaigns for this purpose are under way. To those campaigns certainly all who are able ought to contribute in accordance with their means.

"But having done that, can we wash our hands of the relief problem? Can or should local resources alone answer the call? The impression is being created by constant repetition that this is all we are going to do—draw upon sources of local relief for what they will produce, and let it go at that. This seems to me the advice either of those who are blind to the facts, or of those who know exactly what they want and are out to get it."

"We know already that more relief will be needed this winter than last. We know already that hundreds of thousands of workers who contributed last year will not be able to do so this year. They will need help themselves.

"Who carries the load of private relief? Last winter the burden of unemployment relief was carried by far too largely by those upon whom it bore most heavily and who could least afford it. In striking contrast the great fortunes of America gave out of their superabundance to the common need nothing in proportion to their size, and nothing in comparison with the sacrifice made by men and women of little means.

"A definite, concerted, and well-planned effort to do it again is under way today. The bulk of the burden is to be left to local taxation, and a small proportion of the sum needed is to be collected by appeals to rich and poor alike.

"Everybody knows the essential thing we need to get out of this depression is to restore the consuming power of the great mass of our people. Certainly you can not restore it by decreasing it still further. Yet every dollar given by a wage earner or a small-salaried employe is taken out of consumption.

"It is true that the wage earner's contribution helps to keep some one from starving. But what does it do to get us out of the depression? Nothing whatever. What does it do to keep us in the depression? Something at least.

"If the purchasing power of the workers buys prosperity, then in this respect we are choosing a foolish method of meeting the relief emergency. If we had been looking around for a way to put the brakes on our overdue industrial recovery, we could hardly find a better one than taking money from the wage earner's income and savings to buy food—food long since out of the hands of the farmer and the purchase of which produces no present demand for more. That program can start no factory wheels.

"Local relief" means an increase in property taxes. "Local relief" hits the man who has bought a house and is living in constant fear of losing it. "Local relief" hits everyone who has a mortgage. "Local relief" hits property values which already have been sinking like lead. "Local relief" means chopping rungs out of the only ladder that will get us out of the hole.

"And 'local relief' strikes not only the present but the future by limiting the amount that can hereafter be spent for schools, roads, and other public improvements. To say that the responsibility for relief is local" means that those who pay city and county taxes—real estate and other property taxes—are to bear the most of the load. And a very large share of the money that pays property taxes is taken directly out of consumption, and reduces consumption to that extent.

"There are, upon the best evidence I can find, seven million unemployed in the United States. Their situation during the coming winter will be so dangerous that the President of the United States has been urged from many directions to call an extra session of the Congress to provide for the Nation's proper share in relieving their necessities. Among others, I saw the need, and I did my clear duty in asking for such a session.

"No extra session has been called. Instead, the National Government has undertaken, in other and far less effective ways, to secure relief. It is a task whose enormous magnitude and critical importance gives us pause.

"Yet there is more than one man in the United States whose personal wealth is so vast that, if it could be devoted to unemployment relief it would carry the whole national load.

"Each one of several men in America, alone, and by himself, could, if he chose, shoulder the entire burden of feeding, housing and clothing the unemployed, as it must be carried this winter, and still leave himself money enough so that neither he, nor his family need ever deprive themselves of anything throughout their whole long lives.

"In the present emergency the load of unemployment relief should be carried by those who can carry it with the least personal sacrifice.

"Giving on the part of those who pay the higher surtaxes on large incomes means no curtailment in comfort, no change in healthful surroundings, no deprivation of warm clothing, no restriction of good food, no change in ability to send the children to school, or to pay for the doctor or the dentist. It means no lowering of the scale of living, no lack of any of the ordinary protections, satisfactions, or securities of daily life.

"If ever there was a time when self interest dictated abundant giving on the part of the wealthy, that time is now. The present effort to take every possible cent of the cost of unemployment relief from the less well-to-do is not only unsound morally and economically, but it is utterly foolish from the point of view of the self interest of those who are guilty of it, and it is dangerous as well.

"To sum up, among the essential facts seem to be these:

"Those who advocate only local relief are shouldering enormous responsibility, for local relief alone cannot possibly meet the need.

"So far as it draws on contributions from people of small means, local relief will help to prolong, not to end, the depression.

"So far as local relief increases real estate and other property taxes, it will be a burden on people who are already, for the most part, overtaxed or mortgaged to the hilt.

"Local relief will be a burden on the future development of our communities, for it will decrease the amount that can be spent hereafter for schools and local improvements.

"If the burden of unemployment relief is to fall where it rightly and justly should, there is no way to escape an increase in the higher brackets of the Federal income tax, or an excess profits tax, or similar enactments.

"The tax system of America as a whole is designed to get the largest practicable part of the taxes, directly or indirectly, out of the average man. To this there is at least one great exception—the graduated income tax.

"An income tax is almost the only tax which must be borne by the person who pays it. It cannot be shifted. Here is one tax that puts the load where it can most easily be carried.

"The more fortunate in this world's goods ought to take the same share in the adversity of the Nation that they have taken in its prosperity. The way to do that is to increase the load upon those who are best able to pay."

Forgotten HEROES

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

"Bayonets of the Revolution"

AT THE Battle of Long Island, August 27, 1776, was one of the times when the fate of the American Revolution definitely hung in the balance.

That the affair at Long Island did not end in a total rout is due mainly to a young Maryland major named Mordecai Gist.

Gist was born in 1743, and as the threat of the Revolution became more serious he joined with other patriotic young men in that city in forming the "Baltimore Independent Company."

In 1779 congress raised Gist to the rank of brigadier general and put him in command of the second brigade of the Maryland line, which was sent South there to win further honors at the battle of Camden.

Gist's patriotism was expressed not only on the battlefield but also in his home. To his oldest son, born during the darkest period of the Revolution, he gave the name of Independent and to his youngest, born after liberty was won, he gave the equally apt name of States!

A Winner of the West

WHEN the French and Indian war ended, it was decided that English-speaking people and not French should rule the North American continent.

Six expeditions sent by the British to receive the surrender of the French posts in that country had been turned back—in some cases the envoys were stripped, beaten and threatened by drunken Indians.

A month later his party was attacked by hostile Indians and all of his followers, except two white men and three Indians, were either killed or wounded.

MAN SEEKING JOB HAS LIVELY TIME ESCAPING DEATH

Kind Virginians Aid Him After Many Mishaps Packed Into One Night.

Luray, Va.—The other night when McKinley Roosevelt Peoples, thirty-three, of New York city, came into Page county he was riding a freight train.

Two months ago Peoples says he left home, going to North Carolina to look for work. The futility of his quest discouraged him and he decided to return to New York, but being moneyless his only means of travel was by freight trains.

Knowing of the strict Virginia law against stealing rides, Peoples says he kept a weather eye out for railroad detectives and boarded a freight train in Roanoke bound for home.

Leaps From Train. Everything, he says, went swimmingly until about midnight, when, as his train was making about thirty miles an hour at a point ten miles south of Shenandoah, he saw a light on the car decks coming toward him.

He did so. His impact with the earth, though lessened by mud, was terrific and knocked him senseless, for how long a time he does not know.

A bright light glimmered in the distance at right angles from the railroad tracks, and Peoples decided to try his chances there for bandages.

When he was midway of the structure, which turned out to be a log, it broke under him and he was plunged into water over his head.

Then with his one good arm he pulled himself up on the bank, still headed toward the beckoning light.

Reaching the house from which the light shone, Peoples called lustily. The first to respond to his yells was a monster bulldog, which bounded over the fence separating him from the house.

The dog's owner, P. D. Hensley, the dog was finally forced to release his intended victim and Peoples was taken inside the house to receive first aid.

Dallas Girls in Ring to Blackmail Bosses

Dallas, Texas.—How certain pretty stenographers allegedly "dated up" their married employers and then blackmailed them intrigued police recently.

The self-styled president of the "Tired Business Men's association," indicted by the county grand jury on a charge of embezzling from a typist, was believed to know the details.

The police accused him of operating an employment agency for stenographers that amounted to a racket, with business men as the victims.

The scheme, the police explained, was this: The man got jobs for stenographers on condition they would sign contracts with him agreeing to go on parties with their employers and demand money later for eventualities of conduct they were to permit.

The "association president" got most of the money, the police said. One business man was reported to have paid $3,500.

Denver Boy is a Winner

Every mother realizes how important it is to teach children good habits of conduct but many of them fail to realize the importance of teaching their children good bowel habits.

Watch your child and at the first sign of constipation, give him a little California Fig Syrup. Children love its rich, fruity taste and it quickly drives away those distressing ailments, such as headaches, bad breath, coated tongue, biliousness, feverishness, fretfulness, etc.

Mrs. C. G. Wilcox, 3835 1/2 Wolff St., Denver, Colorado, says: "My son, Jackie, is a prize winner for health, now, but we had a lot of trouble with him before we found his trouble was constipation and began giving him California Fig Syrup."

The Snag

It was his first day as a caddy, and he had shown so much interest in the play that at the end of it his employer asked him how he liked it.

RED CROSS GIFTS BY RUSSIAN CZAR

Romanoff Fortune Devoted to Good Work.

The Romanoff reserve fortune of $100,000,000 was all given away to the Red Cross and other relief organizations two years before the Russian revolution.

Rumors are rife that "the vast fortune of the Romanoffs" still remains in the possession of the bank of England, but "by the summer of 1915 there was not a farthing left in the czar's name in the bank of England nor in any other bank outside Russia."

The private fortunes of the children of the czar, which had been deposited in German banks shortly before the war, shrank to a value of less than one cent, continues Grand Duke Alexander in Fortune.

Have the Republicans a Legislative Program?

Republican spokesmen, notably Colonel Bob Lucas, Executive Director of his party's National Committee, have been assailing Democratic criticisms of the administration on the ground that the Democrats have no program of their own to remedy the ills of which they complain.

This brings up the obvious question of what is the Republican legislative program, or is there any Republican legislative program?

The whole country, and most vehemently of all the farming sections of the country, are incensed at the failure of the Federal Farm Board to fulfill the administration's promises to rescue agriculture from the depths. Up to date no Republican orator, in or out of office, has indicated even vaguely what they propose to do to correct or make amends for the $300,000,000 or $400,000,000 blunders of the farm relief program enacted in the last Congress.

Almost as universal is the detestation of the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill, the presence of which on the statute books has been accompanied by decreases of some billions of dollars in our import and export trade and which, in addition, has driven more billions of American capital out of the country to establish industries abroad in order to escape the retaliatory and reprisal duties levied by foreign governments as an answer to the Republican tariff bill. Up to date none of the apologists for the party have indicated that the administration purposes doing anything towards the revision of that monstrosity—unless Senator Smoot's proteque suggestion that the rates would be raised still higher may be taken as committing the President to that course.

The other day the President called an impressive conference of conspicuous Congressional leaders of both parties and laid before them a series of legislative enactments that he thought would better the financial situation. In brief, these were liberalization of the rediscount privilege, in order that the Federal Reserve Banks could deal with issues of undoubted worth, but which under the present regulations they cannot accept as collateral; second, that the capital stock of the Federal Land Banks be increased in order to mitigate the distress in connection with farm mortgages; and third, a tentative proposal for the restoration of the War Finance Corporation if such a measure is found necessary to complete the thawing of the frozen assets that are menacing so many banks.

This can hardly be accepted as a new program, inasmuch as bills were introduced in the previous Congress practically providing for all of these things and could have been enacted had the Republican committees been willing to report them to the House and Senate.

The Republicans have a numerical majority in both Houses. They also have the Presidency, and it would seem that the obligation for a program were on their doorstep rather than on that of the Democrats. It is a new thought in legislative procedure that the minority party should devise the agenda for a Congressional session. In the first place, there is nobody with authority to speak for the minority. The Republicans have their official spokesman in the President, one

Las Cruces Rodeo

On Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 14th and 15th, Las Cruces will be the Rodeo center of the Southwest. This point was definitely settled at a meeting of the Kiwanis Club directors, when they voted to sponsor a two day Rodeo, to be staged at the Fair Grounds, the proceeds of which will go to the Kiwanis Club Underprivileged Children fund.

The daily program will consist of bucking contest, calf roping contest, bulldogging contest, steer riding contest, bareback riding contest, a wild horse race, and a colorful variety of other sports of the old west. In addition to the above contested events, which are open to all, a special bucking contest and calf roping contest will be held in which no one but cowboys who have never contested outside of the state will be allowed to compete.

The Rodeo will be under the personal direction of Johnnie Mullins, famous arena director, of Engle, New Mexico. Mr. Mullins arrived home a few days ago from White Sulphur Springs, Montana. During the past summer he was directing head of several of the larger Roundups and Rodeos held in the northwest. Johnnie is well known to the stockmen and Rodeo fans of this section. For the past eight years he has been arena director of the great Tucson Rodeo, "La Fiesta de los Vaqueros," and two years ago directed the big El Paso show.

A good Rodeo requires good stock, therefore, Mr. Mullins is shipping a carload of his top bucking horses direct from the Ringling Bros ranch in Montana. They are big, fat and strong northern bronks, not one weighing under 1050, and all are capable of taking care of themselves against the best bronk riders in the business.

Occasionally we run across a man who says that he does not believe in advertising and its power to sell goods. Like most men who make such statements, he does so without a knowledge of the facts. The chances are he has never given the subject any study beyond his own superficial opinion. It is difficult these days to understand how a man could entertain these views who gets up in the morning at the alarm of a Connecticut clock, buttons on a pair of Ohio suspenders, Iowa buttons sewed to Chicago trousers, puts on a pair of shoes made in Boston, washes in a Pittsburgh basin, using Cincinnati soap, a common towel made in New Hampshire, sits down on a Grand Rapids table, eats pancakes made of Minneapolis flour, Kansas City bacon fried on a St. Louis stove; buys fruit put up in California, seasoned with Rhode Island spices puts on a hat made in Philadelphia, gets into a Detroit tractor filled with Texas gasoline, hooks it to an Indiana plow, works all day on the farm, crawls at night under a Vermont blanket to be kept awake by a dog, the only home product on the place, and then tries to tell the world that advertising doesn't sell merchandise.

of whose duties is to recommend to Congress such legislation as he deems requisite for the nation's welfare. There is no such authority anywhere among the minority. Indeed, even if the latter caused ahead of the convening Congress, it would be impossible to arrange a legislative menu without knowing what the administration had to suggest.

Next House Close

Replies received from political experts by the Chicago Daily News, asking their opinions as to the probable result of the forthcoming special election in the six Congressional Districts where vacancies now exist, were announced by Paul R. Leach, political writer on the News, as indicating that the Democrats will possibly have a clear majority in the next House.

Two Democratic districts—Seventh New York (Brooklyn) and the Twentieth Ohio (Cleveland)—are conceded to the Democrats by the experts, and two normally Republican districts—Second Pennsylvania and First Wisconsin—are given by them to the Republicans.

In the remaining two districts, normally Republican—First Ohio and Eighth Michigan—the News writer says the replies "indicate possible Democratic success."

Concerning the First Ohio District, where the candidates are David Lorbach, Democrat, and John B. Hollister, Republican, Mr. Leach writes:

"The Democrats are hopeful of pulling Lorbach through because in the election last fall Longworth won by only 3,000 votes instead of the usual 20,000, and because the municipal election comes at the same time. The big fight in Cincinnati is between the City Charter organization, backing up the city manager plan, made up of independent Republicans and Democrats, against the Republican machine. The Charter group has been dominant since 1927."

Of the Eighth Michigan District, the writer says: "The district has been leaning toward the Democrats lately and has a wetting."

The primaries in the Eighth Michigan District resulted in the nominations of Foss O. Eldred, Republican, and Michael J. Hart, Democrat modificationist. Eldred had less than 2,000 plurality over his nearest Republican competitor, who favored a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment.

A recount in the Eighth Congressional District of Illinois shows a majority for the Democratic candidate instead of the Republican candidate as previously recorded.

The action makes the present line-up of Congress: Democrats, 215; Republicans, 213. The Brooklyn and Cleveland districts, conceded to the Democrats, gave that party 217, which would produce a tie between the two major parties if the Republicans carried the four remaining districts. But the experts declare that there is a possibility of Democratic victory in two of these districts, either one of which would give the Democrats a clear majority in the House.

New Italian Super-Tariff Hits Many Items of American Export

Washington, Oct. — Following a recent increase in the Italian tariff, a new super-duty of 15 per cent has been imposed which affects the United States particularly on oil products, radios, automobiles, aluminum, farm machinery and type-setting machines.

The duty on radio receiving sets up to five tubes in size was raised from 880 lire (about $45.00) per quintal (220 lbs.) to 4,500 lire (about $230.00) and on sets of more than five tubes from 880 lire to 5,500 lire (about $280.00).

The new tax on gasoline brings that tax up to about 16 cents a gallon, oil at a little more than 2 cents and mineral oil a little less than 5 cents.

The Italian super-tariff does not apply to nations with which Italy has "most favored nation" trade treaties.

Of items coming under the new tax, America exported to Italy in 1930, $21,000,000 of petroleum and mineral oils, $3,000,000 in automobiles, and $3,217,000 in radio and other electrical devices.

The effect of the Hawley-Smoot tariff and the Italian retaliatory tariff which resulted therefrom is shown by the fact that for the first seven months of 1930 American exports were $61,400,000, and for the first seven months of this year only $30,248,000—a decline of more than 50 per cent.

Farm Prices Lowest

Washington, Oct. 21—Farm prices, paid to farmers, as of September 15, this year, dropped to the lowest level since 1910 in the price index issued by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Average wheat prices received by growers was 35.7 cents a bushel or nearly 50 per cent below the price a year ago.

Average farm price for corn was 43.2 cents a bushel, or less than one-half a year ago.

Average farm price for cotton was 5.9 cents a pound, compared with 9.9 cents a year ago.

Hogs sold for an average of $5.44 a hundred pounds at the farm, compared with $9.44 a year ago.

Fruits, vegetables, cotton and cottonseed showed major declines for the month.

In both years Farm Board "stabilization" schemes have been in operation.

Ancho News

Miss June Caldwell and Mrs. George Straley were week-end guests of Mrs. Walter Silvers in Duran.

The Frame, Bullard, Reynolds and Pruett families and Mesdames Belknap and Henderson, guests of Mrs. Wm. Fambrough, enjoyed a venison fry in the hills Sunday evening.

Glad of an opportunity to show in a small way, their appreciation of the generosity of the Pruetts in the use of their car for various club members, about twenty friends tendered them a surprise on the evening of their tenth wedding anniversary, Monday, October 26th. After a few games of auction, Miss June Caldwell, in the capacity of a "country preacher," read marriage lines of a fake ceremony reuniting this popular couple in the bonds of matrimony for another ten years. Guests were then grouped into "families of the ancestors of the Pruett family," and in the pencil contest following, the Brigham Young family took both first prizes, the awards going to Misses June Caldwell and Mary Pickett Warden. With the refreshments came a shower of tin upon the bride, and the merry-makers adjourned at a late hour.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Jones, accompanied by Misses Maudie and Mary Pickett Warden, spent Saturday and Sunday in El Paso.

The Ancho Woman's Club met at the pleasant country home of Mrs. Bryan Hightower, Saturday, Oct. 24th, with Mrs. Barney Wilson presiding in the absence of the Club President, Mrs. S. J. Pruett. Preceding the opening of the meeting, Mrs. Hightower, Mrs. Frame and Mrs. Reynolds entertained with instrumental and vocal selections. The recital of the Club Collect was followed by the roll call, "My Favorite Magazine." Closing a lively business session, an election of officers for 1932 was held, resulting in the following official roll:

President, Mrs. A. W. Drake; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. Bryan Hightower; 2nd Vice-President, Mrs. Allen Kile; Secretary, Mrs. J. E. Frame; Treasurer, Mrs. L. L. Peters; Librarian, Mrs. T. J. Straley; Parliamentarian, Mrs. G. Pruett. Installation will be at the first regular meeting in January. The name of Mrs. Henderson was added to the membership roll. Plans for the Halloween costume dance to be given at the school house Saturday night, Oct. 31, were discussed and completed. To this party the Woman's Club extends a cordial invitation to everyone, as an expression of the Club's appreciation of the liberal help accorded to all its enterprises. A committee composed of Mesdames Henderson, Frame, Hightower and Kile, was appointed to prepare a draft for the 1932 Year Book. After a couple of games in which first prizes were won by Mrs. Belknap, and the consolations by Mrs. G. Pruett and Mrs. Reynolds, delightful refreshments of sandwiches, cake, coffee and cocoa were served.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Allen Kile, Nov. 14

Town Board Meeting

A meeting of the Mayor and Board of Trustees of the city was held at the City Hall Monday evening to consider matters in reference to the Police Department. The editor of the News had a birthday last Saturday and Mesdames Crawford and Dingwall, assisted Mrs. Haley in arranging a birthday party as a pleasant surprise. Eighteen guests were present and cards furnished the entertainment for the evening. Mrs. Wayne Hamilton won high score, for the ladies, Mrs. Finley won low score. Allan Johnson carried off the honors for the gentlemen. A large and beautiful birthday cake was served. It was decorated with candles, but we will let those who did not count them guess at the exact number. Our heart was greatly warmed by the beautiful and useful presents received, and also by the numerous good wishes expressed.

FAMOUS OLD THEATER OF WEST IS DOOMED

Salt Lake City House Gives Way to Progress.

Salt Lake City.—The Salt Lake theater, which for fully 60 years has been a part of the very life of Salt Lake City, has had its last performance. This theater is one of the oldest in the country. It has continued without interruption to house only the first-class road shows, including practically all the leading American actors and not a few from other nations as well, for the last 60 years. The posing of the old playhouse is stowed with recent regret in Salt Lake, because it has been a public institution, and a vital part of the city's life for so many years. Many residents whose hair is now gray remember the theater from their earliest childhood, and many have taken part in performances there. Old as the building is, it is still good for many a season did not the plans of the American Bell Telephone and Telegraph company subsidiary which has purchased the structure do cease otherwise. Huge tree trunks hold up the floors and are still in good condition.

Nailed With Wooden Pins.
Erected in an age when iron was scarce and what there was in the territory had to be hauled by wagon a thousand miles across the plains, the building is held together by wooden pins. Some credit the splendid acoustics of the building to this fact. In fact, the favorite place for real lovers of music to witness the operas which have come here has been from the gallery.

In pioneer days it was frequently the practice to bring a small company of stars—perhaps only one or two leading performers. The remainder of the standard plays produced were enacted by local talent. Contrary to the common attitude of the churches in those days, that of the Mormon church was to favor the theater and to utilize its appeal to the public as a means of advancing higher ideals. Not that partisan religion as such was thrust upon the audience at the play house, for it was not, but the attitude of the church was an encouragement to whatever histrionic ability was latent in the community. Maude Adams was perhaps the best example of a leader of the drama who received her early training in the old show house. It is related that her first public appearance on the stage was as a baby in some production which called for the appearance of a real baby instead of a doll.

Local Talent Stars.
During the periods when stars were not available, the stock company made up of local talent, continued its productions. The theater was also the meeting place for many sessions not essentially connected with the stage. It provided the only large auditorium in the city for many years outside of those operated by the Mormon church for its general conferences. Some of the more remarkable scenes of Utah's stirring political history were enacted within that same theater.

Naturally, when the Mormon church, which long held controlling interest through its leading officials, became tired of footing annual deficits, which have been all too common of late years, and sold the property to the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company, there was some protest. The Daughters of the Utah Pioneers, which is the most active public organization interested in preservation of pioneer history, took a leading part and attempted to see what could be done. It was for a time thought feasible to move the building to some site of less commercial value. A firm on the Pacific coast was interested in such a proposal and sent its engineer here to see what could be done.

After examining the structure the engineer declared such a contract entirely feasible from the mechanical point of view. The building, in other words, old as it is, would stand removal, but the cost would be between $100,000 and $125,000. This latter proved to be the stumbling block. Desirable as the project was considered, and important as had been the part the theater played in the history of the city, state, and the West, no one cared to undertake to raise the $125,000, and the project was reluctantly abandoned.

Birthday Party.

Edith Norman, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willie Norman entertained twelve guests on her twelfth birthday which was last Monday. Lovely refreshments were served to the little people by Mrs. Norman, and Edith was the recipient of many beautiful gifts.

INTEREST IN SELF CAN BE OVERDONE

In Some It Seems an Incurable Affliction.

"It is wholly legitimate, and it may even be commendable, for us to take an interest in ourselves," said Mr. Cato Ninetalls; "but it may be overdone. The common, and rather facetious, argument that if we don't take an interest in ourselves nobody will take an interest in us is not well grounded; for, in the case of some of us, other people must take an interest in us as a matter of self-protection, if for no other reason; and, furthermore, so many of our actions more or less directly affect others that an interest in us is inspired by circumstances; so we cannot charge even an excessive interest in ourselves to the shortcomings of other people.

"In the case where interest in ourselves is overdone, one of its greatest attendant evils is loquacity. As an incentive to a flow of words, I doubt whether anything equals it. I have noticed that those who are the most garrulous talk mostly about themselves, their relatives and their affairs in general. It is not at all likely that the question of whether their listeners are interested in such things ever occurs to them. They are interested in them, and that is enough to stimulate a prolixity that goes stumbingly, exhaustively and exhaustingly into the minutest unimportant details. They may even have a notion that they are highly entertaining conversationalists, and so wonder why they do not enjoy greater popularity.

"One thing that is certain is that people who talk so much about themselves and their interests as some people do are not always—and, in fact, seldom—worth listening to; and another is that they could say all they have to say in one-half or one-quarter, or even one-tenth the number of words they use if they would quit repeating themselves, sometimes in different words, but more often in the same words—but they would not enjoy themselves nearly as much, however great the strain they put on their listeners. With them it is clearly a case of talk for talk's sake, which, as far as my observation goes, is an incurable affliction.

It has been said that conversation is good in proportion as it is impersonal, and perhaps it is; but I would say that a better statement of the case is that conversation is scarce in proportion as it is impersonal. Those who don't talk too much about themselves are few, and, I think, are generally regarded as reticent, which always has a tendency to arouse suspicion. So it would appear that in our social relations we have the difficult choice of either boring people or causing them to distrust us."

Resignation is a way of resting.

Man-Made Morality

Rebecca West, the novelist, said at a dinner in New York:

"Morality, most of it, reminds me of a young man who wags the answer-to-correspondents editor on a newspaper.

"A question came in to him one day:

"Do you think it is right for a girl to sit in a man's lap even if she is engaged?"

"His answer to the question was:

"Yes, if it were our girl and our lap. Yes, again, if it were some other chap's girl and our lap. But if it were our girl and some other chap's lap, decidedly no, no, no. We don't approve of all this modernity."

When You CAN'T QUIT

Fatigue is the signal to rest. Obey it if you can. When you can't, keep cool and carry-on in comfort.

Bayer Aspirin was meant for just such times, for it insures your comfort. Freedom from those pains that nag at nerves and wear you down. One tablet will block that threatening headache while it is still just a threat. Take two or three tablets when you've caught a cold, and that's usually the end of it.

Carry Bayer Aspirin when you travel. Have some at home and keep some at the office. Like an efficient secretary, it will often "save the day" and spare you many uncomfortable, unproductive hours. Perfectly harmless, so keep it handy, keep it in mind, and use it. No man of affairs can afford to ignore the score and more of uses explained in the proven directions. From a grumbling tooth to those rheumatic pains which seem almost to bend the bones, Bayer Aspirin is ready with its quick relief—and always works. Neuralgia. Neuritis. Any nagging, needless pain.

Get the genuine tablets, stamped with the Bayer cross. They are of perfect purity, absolute uniformity, and have the same action every time. Why experiment with imitations costing a few cents less? The saving is too little. There is too much at stake. But there is economy in the purchase of genuine Bayer Aspirin tablets in the large bottles.

Steamers Among Clouds

The Pacific Steam Navigation company's motor ship La Paz recently left Liverpool for South America. In her hold was packed a complete steamship, capable of carrying 100 passengers and heavy cargo. At Mollendo, in Peru, all these thousands of plates, rivets, funnels, boilers, engines, fittings, and furniture were to be repacked into trains and carried 220 miles to Puno, on the shores of Lake Titicaca, 12,500 feet above the sea, where the ship was to be assembled for entering the lake service. This is the eighth steamer to be sent to Puno in this way; the first was sent in 1861.

A "hidden quart" stays up in your motor and never drains away. Riding along the highway, I saw a lone stalk of corn hitting its head above the weeds and briars. The grain of corn had fallen from a passing wagon in its early spring, and had been washed into the rubbish, and now it was doing its best to produce. It had a fairly good color, but I knew it would produce nothing. It stood alone by the roadside, and was being choked by vegetation. That stalk of corn would have produced a large ear if it had been in the cultivated soil and with the other corn of the field. We do not claim that church membership will save a man, but we do claim that it will help him tremendously in producing fruit. We have seen some fairly promising men and women, (Christian men and women) who were not members of any church, but they were out in the world. They had planted themselves where the ground is not cultivated and where the weeds and briars grow in profusion. Any one can grow so much finer and produce so much more fruit when he locates himself in God's field, and there mingle his life with the lives of God's chosen ones. The finest fruit in the soul life is to be found—not out among the weeds and briars—but right in the center of God's kingdom.

Dies in California

On October 6th, Roy Gummm passed away at La Mesa, California. Heart failure was the immediate cause of his death, and burial was in San Diego. Mr. Gummm was reared in White Oaks, but left here a number of years ago. This is sad news to all old timers who knew Roy Gummm. The News extends sympathy to the bereaved relatives.

County School Notes

Thursday was the Seniors' day in assembly and they did a very good job of entertaining by showing that Mr. Shakespeare, in his well known play "As You Like It," was wrong when he said that man plays many parts in the world, or on the stage of life. The Seniors showed that there were really only five ages, instead of seven, according to Mr. Shakespeares. These ages were represented as the five classes in high school, from the lowly Freshman to the old and worn out Post Graduates. They also read a challenge, stating that they would meet members of any other class in any kind of extra-curricular contest.

Friday the county nurse made her weekly talk to the girls, and the boys had a football meeting.

And Saturday came. The game with Hondo was to be played that day to decide the championship of the county. Came the kick-off, and only a few minutes later, a big surprise. Hondo scored against our boys, the first team to do so this year. The boys fought hard, but it seems not quite hard enough. Hondo beat the boys with a final score of 12 to 14. Maybe too many of the boys had been deer hunting and missed practices, which they should have attended. Something was surely wrong but we hope that it blows over, and that Friday's game with Vaughn is another victory for C. H. S.

Monday we came to school as usual. We went to classes the first two periods as usual. But when the assembly period came, we missed something. By noon we were sure that this something was the presence of professor Groce. Mr. Groce had a rather painful although not necessarily serious accident enroute to Corona Saturday evening. He accidentally discharged a 22-cal. gun in attempting to load it, the bullet entering his left leg below the knee. However, Mr. Groce was back with us Tuesday and Orchestra practice went on much in the old style, as did all his classes. We wish Mr. Groce a speedy recovery and hope that he will soon be back with all his old activity and never resting energy.

Also on Monday, the different clubs met, and the Dramatics Club elected officers as follows:

President—Elmer Catt, Vice-Pres.—Katherine Kelt, Business Manager—Dorothy Dozier, Stage Manager—Ansel Swearingen, Asst Stage Manager—Ralph Hall, Sec.—Treas.—Carol Hines.

This club is already making plans to give a play and intends having a very successful year.

Pians have also been made for a Science Club and Debate Club. Tuesday, the regular day for speaker in Assembly, the speaker did not arrive for some reason and the time was spent with a report read by Mr. Gillette, of the Fifth Fair and Track Meet, financial and otherwise.

Entertains at Bridge

Mrs. Doyle Reutfrow entertained the Tuesday Evening Bridge Club this week at her comfortable home, across the Mal Pais. Two tables played and the high score went to Mrs. Elizabeth Gallacher and the guest prize was won by Mrs. J. M. Beck. The ladies enjoyed the magnificent drive to the Point of Rocks and Mrs. Reutfrow proved to be a most charming hostess. The refreshments were delicious sandwiches, salad and coffee. The guests returned home at a late hour.

Lost—Friday afternoon, in vicinity of Fair Building, Ziegler's and Rollands, a gold pin in shape of circle, set with diamonds. Valued as keep-sake. Reward to finder. Report to News Office.
