This new union depot at the municipal airport of Chicago was dedicated recently. The building cost $100,000 and is one of the best equipped of its kind in the world.

Ice Box Proves Hot Box for Apartment Dweller

Evansston, Ill.—In the apartment building where William Dawson lives there should be a tourist bureau—or something. One night recently Dawson opened his kitchen door, entered, closed the door, went to the ice box, opened it, ate ham and pickles, then went into the living room, laid down on a sofa, and prepared for a nice comfortable sleep. He was settled only a minute when he heard movements in the kitchen. "Help! Burglars!" cried Dawson. "Help! Burglars!" came a voice in the night—and it wasn't an echo. Mr. Dawson was locked up by police for burglary. He had eaten the wrong pickles and ham. He lived upstairs he then discovered.

Fate's Adjustment

When fate has allowed to any man more than one great gift, accident or necessity seems usually to contrive that one shall encumber and impede the other.—Switburne.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

by WALTER TRUMBULL

Several years ago there was a chef at one of the New York hotels, who had an international reputation. The sauces he mixed were poems. The special dishes he planned were dreams. A big new hotel in Chicago persuaded him to go there and he was soon a great success. But he had two ambitions. One was to return to New York and the other to open a place of his own. Finally, he did both these things. He had friends among the better known artists, advertising men, writers and publishers. They all united to give him a great send-off. Artists decorated his place and drew designs for his menu cards and newspaper copy. Advertising men not only wrote the letter, but actually managed to have some publicity donated. There even was an editorial or two concerning the chef's new venture. For the first few days the meals he served were beyond compare. Then they began to fall off. As the food grew worse customers grew fewer.

"What is the matter?" asked one of the chef's well-wishers of another. The latter was a mixture of cynic and philosopher.

"The trouble is plain enough," he said. "He has to use his own butter."

That is a remark I never have forgotten. When I see men, who have been with concepts which were willing to spend money freely, going optimistically into business for themselves, I wonder whether they realize that they will have to use their own butter. Some of them start modestly and build up surely, but others begin as if they still had the same old financial backing. A man who can make money for others can't always make money for himself. There are, of course, always the others. They are the ones who give the rest of us a Kerosene lamps should be filled every day and chimneys washed once a week. To insure a perfect light, let every lamp have a new wick once a month, and just before lighting rub carefully the body or stand of the lamp, so that all the smell of the oil is removed.

If the sink has been unused for a considerable length of time through the house being vacant or the occupants away, rub mutton or beef tallow on it. The sink should be flushed every day with boiling water and now and again soda should be added to the water. By this treatment a lot of unnecessary bother may be saved, as when sinks are not properly cleaned they become greasy.

Leftover meat, even if there is very little, will make a tasty supper or luncheon dish if it is added to scrambled eggs, omelets or rice.

Odd "Remedy"

Among the curious remedies used in the past for epilepsy was the Greek suggestion that holding anise seed in the left hand would prevent convulsive attacks.

Highest Possessions

What are the things which the average human being values most? A Wisconsin clergyman has been asking this question of leading men all over the country, and the answers, as analyzed by Channing Pollack for the American Magazine, indicate that most of the desirable possessions in people's lives cost them nothing in money.

A list of fifty such valuable possessions, for instance, shows that 48 of the 50 had no monetary cost. The three leaders are: Health, love of work and capacity for it; ability to look any man in the eye.

Most of these things, comments Mr. Pollack, are very common possessions, and yet nobody would take a million dollars for any one of the lot.

Two Days of "Freedom"

for Husband and Wife

It is a mistake to think that two people can, in this Twentieth century, live their whole lives happily, successfully and abundantly on the basis that husband and wife are one, unless each party to the arrangement is free to follow his own tastes and fancies. Otherwise you inevitably get boredom and unbearable dullness. Dullness has wrecked many marriages which otherwise would have been successful.

I have eliminated the possibility of dullness. On two days each week I never see my husband. It has proved a really sound arrangement. I do what I like, go out with friends I choose, even though some of them he dislikes and others he thinks just silly. Still, he does not object. For those two days we live our lives apart as if we had no mutual responsibilities at all.

He chooses his own friends. Some of his friends I dislike as much as he dislikes some of mine. Others are just dull and uninteresting.

The days we are together we enjoy each other more because we have been apart. We are each of us refreshed and have something new to talk about. It is not a bad plan, and I might even say that it is a plan which many other people might find very suitable. They will be surprised at the results.—Anita Loos in the London Saturday Review.

"Wash your hands, (thus spoke my book) Before you ever take a look Upon my pages clean I do not like soiled finger prints. So kindly take these gentle hints, And when ink spots are seen I'm apt to get into a rage. And if you tear or tear a page It pains me through and through. I like to be spick-span and write And erasor fresh—it's my delight— Oh yes, indeed, I do."

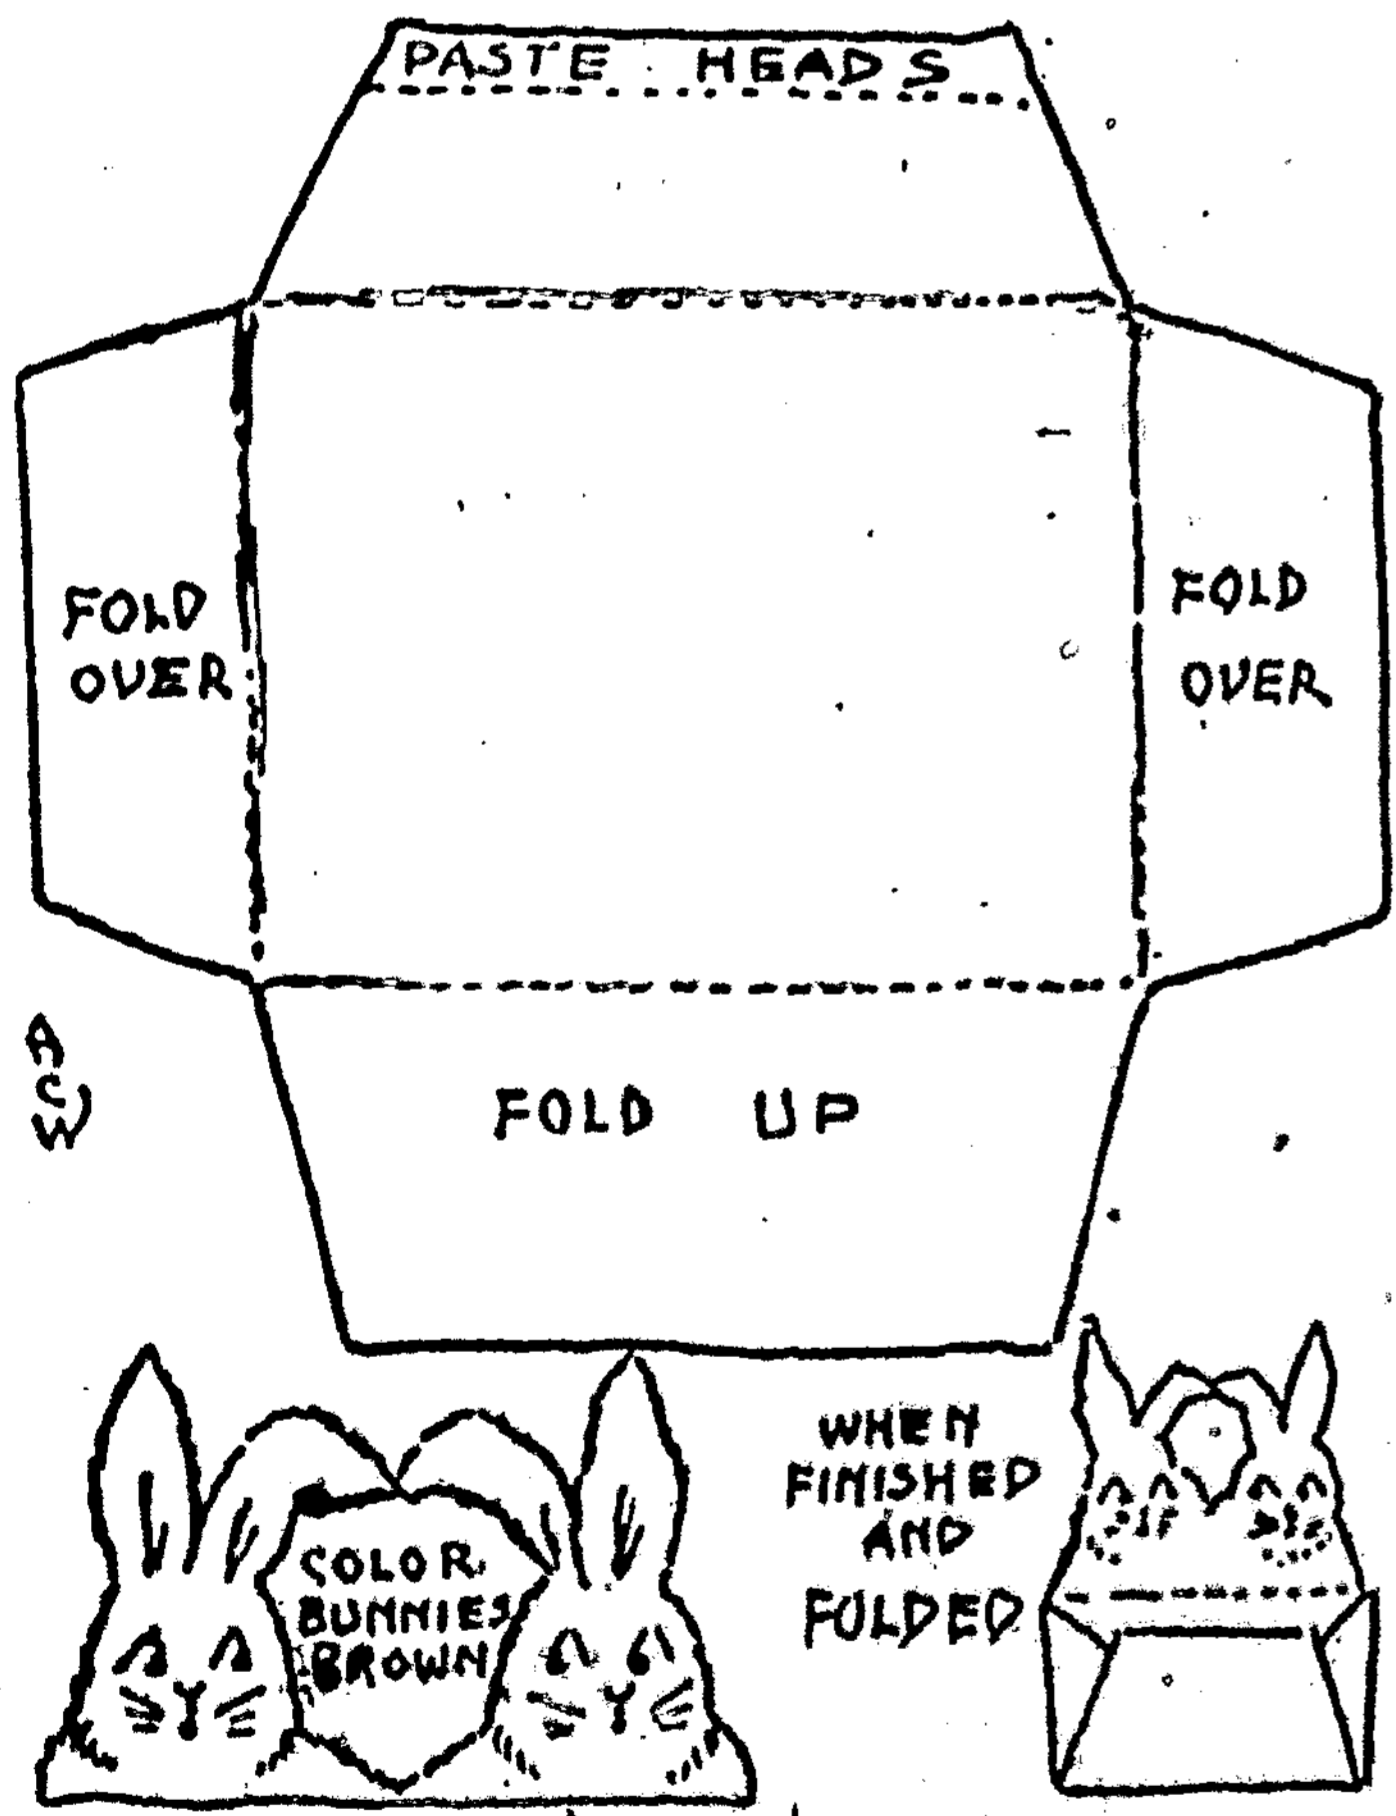

A child who tears and rudely spoils A pleasant book or snears or soils Its cover or a leaf Without a thought, is far from nice And if you will take my advice It is my firm belief That every single story book Will turn into a gloomy book Before your very eyes. How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

Baksheesh—SOME years ago, the Angora assembly decreed the abolition of Baksheesh—that time-honored Turkish institution christened by traveling business men and others, very eloquently and inelegantly—bribery.

As with our own law—prohibition—it was one thing to do the deed. It has been quite another to compel its observance. Money will talk. And the practice of baksheesh, centuries old, will not even get sick without a struggle.

Baksheesh as may be surmised, is a Turkish word, derived from the Arabic. Originally it connoted simply a legitimate and voluntary gift.

Slowly, however, during the passage of years, this idea of a free, legitimate gift gave way to the sense of payment regularly exacted for services rendered or favors tendered, for influence exerted by those in high places in return for value received, for the procurement of concessions and the like.

This is the institution of Baksheesh in the Near East. (By Mail Syndicate)—WNU Service.

The Kitchen Cabinet

Vanilla Ice Cream

—Add three table-spoonfuls of tapioca to two cupfuls of milk, one-third teaspoonful of salt and cook in a double boiler until the tapioca is clear and the mixture thickened. Stir frequently. Add one-half cupful of sugar, three table-spoonfuls of light corn sirup and continue cooking until all are well blended. Strain the mixture, stirring—not rubbing—through a fine sieve, then chill. Add two table-spoonfuls of sugar to the whites of two eggs and whip until stiff, add one cupful of cream, whipped, and a table-spoonful of vanilla; fold into the chilled mixture and turn into the tray of an automatic refrigerator and freeze three to four hours.

of mushrooms and allow all to simmer in the sauce until well heated. Fold in a well-heated egg and a dash of sherry flavor, using a table-spoonful. Serve with a border of small fluffy baking powder biscuits around the platter, the biscuits cut into diamonds, and well browned. For every day, salmon and tuna may be substituted for the crab and lobster and the mushrooms omitted. Add a dash of lemon juice just before serving. This makes a most satisfying luncheon.

Chesse Salad

—Mix one-half pound of grated cheese with a good boiled dressing, or mayonnaise is better; press it through a fruit press on head lettuce, dot with chopped olives and serve ice cold. (By Mail Syndicate)—WNU Service.

Wife Gets Laugh on Fugitive Mate

Hammond, Ind.—Mrs. Robert Quigley waited a long time to get the laugh on her flying husband so when her turn came she made it a hearty one.

Weeks ago when the Quigleys separated Quigley hastened across the state line into Illinois to avoid a suit charging non-support.

"Then," said Mrs. Quigley, "he bought an airplane, just to taunt me. Every day he'd fly across the border and dip the wings of the plane over my house. It got on my nerves, but I knew my turn to laugh would come and it did."

The turn came when Quigley's airplane motor failed while he was making the daily "dip." His ship crashed in Mrs. Quigley's yard. Police met him when he crawled out of the wreckage unhurt.

Motor Speedway Turned Into Water Race Course

When Cecil G. Nighy of Houston, Texas, found that the motor speedway he had built there was a losing venture because of the heavy rains, he turned it into a water race course, the first of its kind in the world. It is half a mile long and has a surface width of 100 feet.

Ordered to Thrash Wife

As the result of a court clerk's error a divorcee in Berlin, Germany, is suffering from the effects of a thrashing administered by her ex-husband, with court order. A few days after he had been divorced the man received official notice that he was to pay alimony, to enter her house, and to thrash her. He quickly complied by putting into effect the second and third parts of the order. Investigation disclosed that the order should have read to pay alimony, but not enter the house or thrash the woman.

Big Area Burned Over

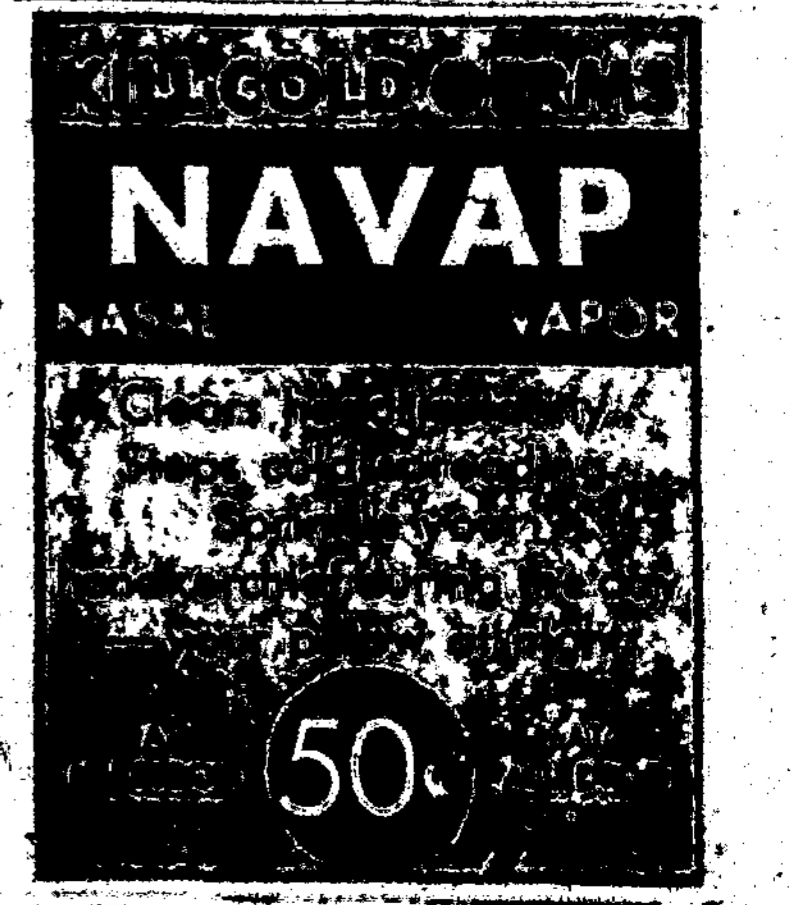

Forest fires in the United States in 1931 swept over a total of more than 62,000,000 acres, an area greater than the state of Ohio and Indiana combined. Careless smokers were responsible for more fires and greater losses than any other cause. The damage caused by these forest fires reached an estimated total of $63,008,350, not including damage to young growth, wild life, water-shed values and other intangible values which could not be measured in dollars and cents.

Writer Blames High Duty For World Slump

(By Max Sterna)

Washington. — Blaming our high tariff policies for much of the world depression, Dr. James Harvey Rogers, Yale economist in a book out today...

The book "America Weighs Her Gold," is being read eagerly by business officials to whom advice on gold has been sent.

By our high and increasing customs duties, Rogers says, we have made our own industry difficult to export and increasingly difficult to import...

However ingeniously the domestic corruption and ruin resulting from our traditional tariff policies have been glossed over by some apologists...

The main part played by our tariff protective tariff in the present disastrous situation is beyond serious question. Aside from the political corruption which it has engendered...

OCTANE Ratings Now Are Demanded by Scientists and Big Buyers of Gasoline

The famous "Big Bertha" firing on Paris from behind the German lines—75 miles away! Scientifically regulated combustion did it—the same principle that gives high Octane "Standard" Gasoline its extra punch in your motor.

Octane Ratings are measured by complicated machines like this one. Aviators must have good motor fuel—so the U. S. War Department, Navy Department and U. S. Air Service all demand Octane efficiency in the gasoline they buy.

Actual Octane efficiency is an important index to the motoring performance you may expect from the gasoline you buy.

Tests Prove "Standard" is Winter's WIDE-AWAKE Gasoline

For winter driving, and cool-weather starting, the high merit of "Standard" Gasoline and Standard Ethyl Gasoline is particularly noticeable. Test after test has shown their superiority over motor fuels of lower Octane rating...

Does Advertising Pay?

The following story is credited to a former director of advertising for one of the largest oil companies now in operation in this country:

A merchant kept hens about a mile from his home, and daily his wife fetched home about fifty eggs.

For three consecutive days she found the nests empty. The henhouse door was intact and so was the lock, therefore how had the thieves got into the shed?

On the following morning, when returning fruitlessly from the shed, she met all the hens on the road nearly half way between the shed and the house. Whatever they were doing there she could not tell.

When she next went to tend the fire she was surprised and delighted to find a solution to the mystery. There in the coal bin were all the eggs.

"Now, how thoughtful of those hens to save me the trouble of fetching the eggs," she thought!

She fully understood the matter, when her husband got home that night and told her of having seen all their hens in a row on the fence, looking at a new poster that read: "Now is the time to lay in coal."—Ziegler (Ill.) News

Distributor Urges Ex-Service Men to Bring Discharges

Perry Sears, automobile license distributor who has his office at the Carrizozo Auto Co., is urging ex-service men to bring their discharges with them when they desire to purchase plates. He is stressing this point because several of the veterans in applying for licenses have forgotten to bring these discharge papers with them. Ex-service men are allowed a one-third reduction on the purchase price of the plates. To obtain these reductions they must produce their papers so that it can be legally established that they are ex-service men. Those who have their discharges on file with the county clerk can get their papers at the clerk's office in the court house.

It is presumed that J. M. Lujan, the state collector, is not planning to extend the time limit after January 1. If this policy is followed it will mean that owners of cars, who have not purchased plates by that time will have to pay an extra 15 per cent of the cost of the plates with an added $1 a day for every day the car is operated.

Cheerfulness is a most enviable possession to any man. Not one of us that does not delight to meet a cheerful man. His contact illumines our minds and warms our hearts. His presence is like the sun breaking through the clouds after the storm. We welcome his coming and miss him when he goes. It is a valuable trait, this simple faculty of being cheerful. The world needs more cheerful people.

There is this to be said for competition. It purges a business of its unsound faults, its uneconomic features. If the equipment is obsolete the firm with better equipment will produce at less and sell for less and get the business. If the quality of the product is not up to that produced by others the firm can not hold the business. If the management is taken too large profits, or too much is being paid out for labor and production, the business can not survive. Competition, more economical production will cut in on the business until it is forced to give up. The law of the business world like the law of the natural world is both inevitable and inexorable.

Keep Record of Your Eggs

"There's a big question mark in many hen houses these days," says C. S. Johnson, head of the Poultry Department of the Purina Mills. "And that big question mark is the reason a lot of folks don't make money with poultry. They don't know what it costs them to do business."

If you are one of those who says it's too hard to keep records on chickens, I must disagree with you, Mr. Johnson declares "because it isn't a hard job. You count your eggs every day, anyway. And you know how much feed you are using and what it costs. By dividing the total cost of all feed for a week or a month by the number of dozens of eggs laid during the same period, you will have the answer to what you are paying for a dozen of eggs. The difference between that figure and what you get for the eggs will let you in on what you are making. It will remove that question mark from your hen house from your business."

"The easiest time to keep records is when hens are laying lots of eggs," Mr. Johnson thinks. "Stick up on the interest in records, and eggs production will slacken every time. Keep up your interest in your records and if production starts to slump, you know exactly the day it starts and you are on top of it. Right then you start looking for the cause of the egg slump and a way to get production back to the peak."

In connection with keeping records, it should be mentioned that Purina Eggs Record Cards are so simple and handy they all but keep themselves. These egg record cards may be had for the asking at The Titworth Company, Inc.

Stops Headache in Five Minutes

A Wonderful Formula Ends Aches and Pains Almost Like Magic. Something Better and Safer. Thousands of men and women are now stopping throbbing, sick, dizzy, splitting headaches, as well as the excruciating pains of rheumatism, neuritis, toothache, etc., with a marvelous new formula that is said to be far superior to anything heretofore used. It contains no aspirin, acetanilid, etc., and is absolutely safe and harmless. This remarkable formula, called A-VOL, is being prescribed by thousands of doctors, dentists and welfare nurses because of the quick, efficient way it relieves all types of aches and pains without depressing the heart or causing any other harmful effects. A-Vol quickly stops the most severe pain, leaving the patient refreshed and feeling fine. Especially effective in women's period pains. To quickly prove yourself that this is truly a remarkable formula, just step into your nearest drug store and get a package of A-VOL for a few cents. Take a couple of tablets right there. If your pain is not gone in five minutes, the clerk will return your money.

Denies Soil Can Be Hurt by Fertilizer

Ohio Expert Shows Fallacy of Belief.

Do fertilizers hurt the soil? No, says C. J. Schollenberger of the Ohio experiment station.

An old objection is that they exhaust the humus. The answer, says Schollenberger, is that the increased growth of plants or fertilized land leaves a greater supply of humus in the soil than if land were not treated, and if larger crops are fed to live stock there will be more manure to return to the soil.

Another objection is that fertilizers increase the acidity of the soil. The one regular or large ingredient that leaves an acid reaction in the soil is sulphate of ammonia, declares Schollenberger. If all the nitrogen carried in a 4-12-4 were in the form of ammonium sulphate, only 125 pounds limestone would be necessary to correct the acidity created by the treatment. This amount is insignificant in comparison to the lime in most soils. Superphosphate, the chief ingredient of most mixed fertilizers, reduces the amount of soluble aluminum in the soil moisture.

Some have feared that nitrate of soda would create an alkaline condition in the soil comparable to the soils of the West. After using heavy application of nitrate of soda since 1894 in a rotation in which 650 pounds nitrate of soda were used, every five years, there was no harm to the piece of land at the Ohio station.—Prairie Farmer.

Better Yield of Wheat After Round of Alfalfa

Ten extra bushels of wheat an acre may be expected after a round of alfalfa, according to H. G. Eggert, Thayer county, Neb. The second crop usually is better than the first, which may burn, owing to the excessive amount of nitrogen and organic matter in the soil.

"I usually let the alfalfa stand five or six years," said Mr. Eggert. "Then I crop the land until yields begin to fall again. I had one ten-acre field that made 43 bushels an acre. I cropped it 17 or 18 years and the last wheat yield was 28 bushels."

Mr. Eggert rotates his alfalfa with corn, oats, wheat and sweet clover. Most of the crops are fed. He maintains a small dairy herd and raises a few hogs. Early preparation of the wheat seed bed, he has found, results in about five bushels greater yield over late preparation.—Capper's Farmer.

Soy Bean Meal Valuable

The Illinois Soy Bean Marketing association is urging the use of soy bean meal in rations for live stock in their state.

Arnold C. Vial, Du Page county, Ill., praises soy bean products. "It has been my experience in feeding soy bean meal that the average test of the herd of 40 to 50 cows runs one to four points higher than when feeding oil meal. During the months of April, May and June of 1923 I fed soy bean meal, and I find in looking over the records that my herd test raised from 3.38 per cent in April to 3.61 in May and 3.65 in June.

"In July I could no longer obtain the soy bean meal and my test dropped back to 3.5 when I substituted oil meal. In May and June I fed soy bean meal with the result that my test was raised from 3.39 to 3.48. In 1925-26 the results with the soy bean meal were just as pronounced. The average dairy farmer cannot afford to do without it."

Keeping Soil Sweet

The effect of lime seems to last much longer in some soils than in others. In Michigan, on one strongly acid soil, it was discovered that two tons of limestone applied in 1917 was still keeping the soil sweet in 1930. On another soil, however, which didn't seem to be so acid before the lime was applied, the effect of the limestone disappeared within nine years.

Apparently, no one can tell in advance how long the beneficial results from a lime application will last. The safe thing to do is to start making soil acidity tests seven or eight years after the lime application, to see whether another application is needed. Of course, the absolutely sure test is the seeding of sweet clover.—Wallace's Farmer.

Farm Hints

Grain may be cheaper feed than legume hay this winter.

A good farm record book accurately kept will enable a farmer really to know his business.

Blueberries, like cranberries, require an acid soil. Where only a few bushes are desired for the home garden, the required soil conditions may be created artificially by the addition of a few sacks of acid peat.

If the bees do not have 45 pounds of honey per colony for winter food and spring brood rearing, the supply needs supplementing with sugar syrup.

When frost kills the tomato vines they may be hung up in a protected place to ripen the green fruit still on them.

Soybean oil meal has almost exactly the same composition as linseed and cottonseed meal, but some experiments indicate that it is slightly more valuable, pound for pound.

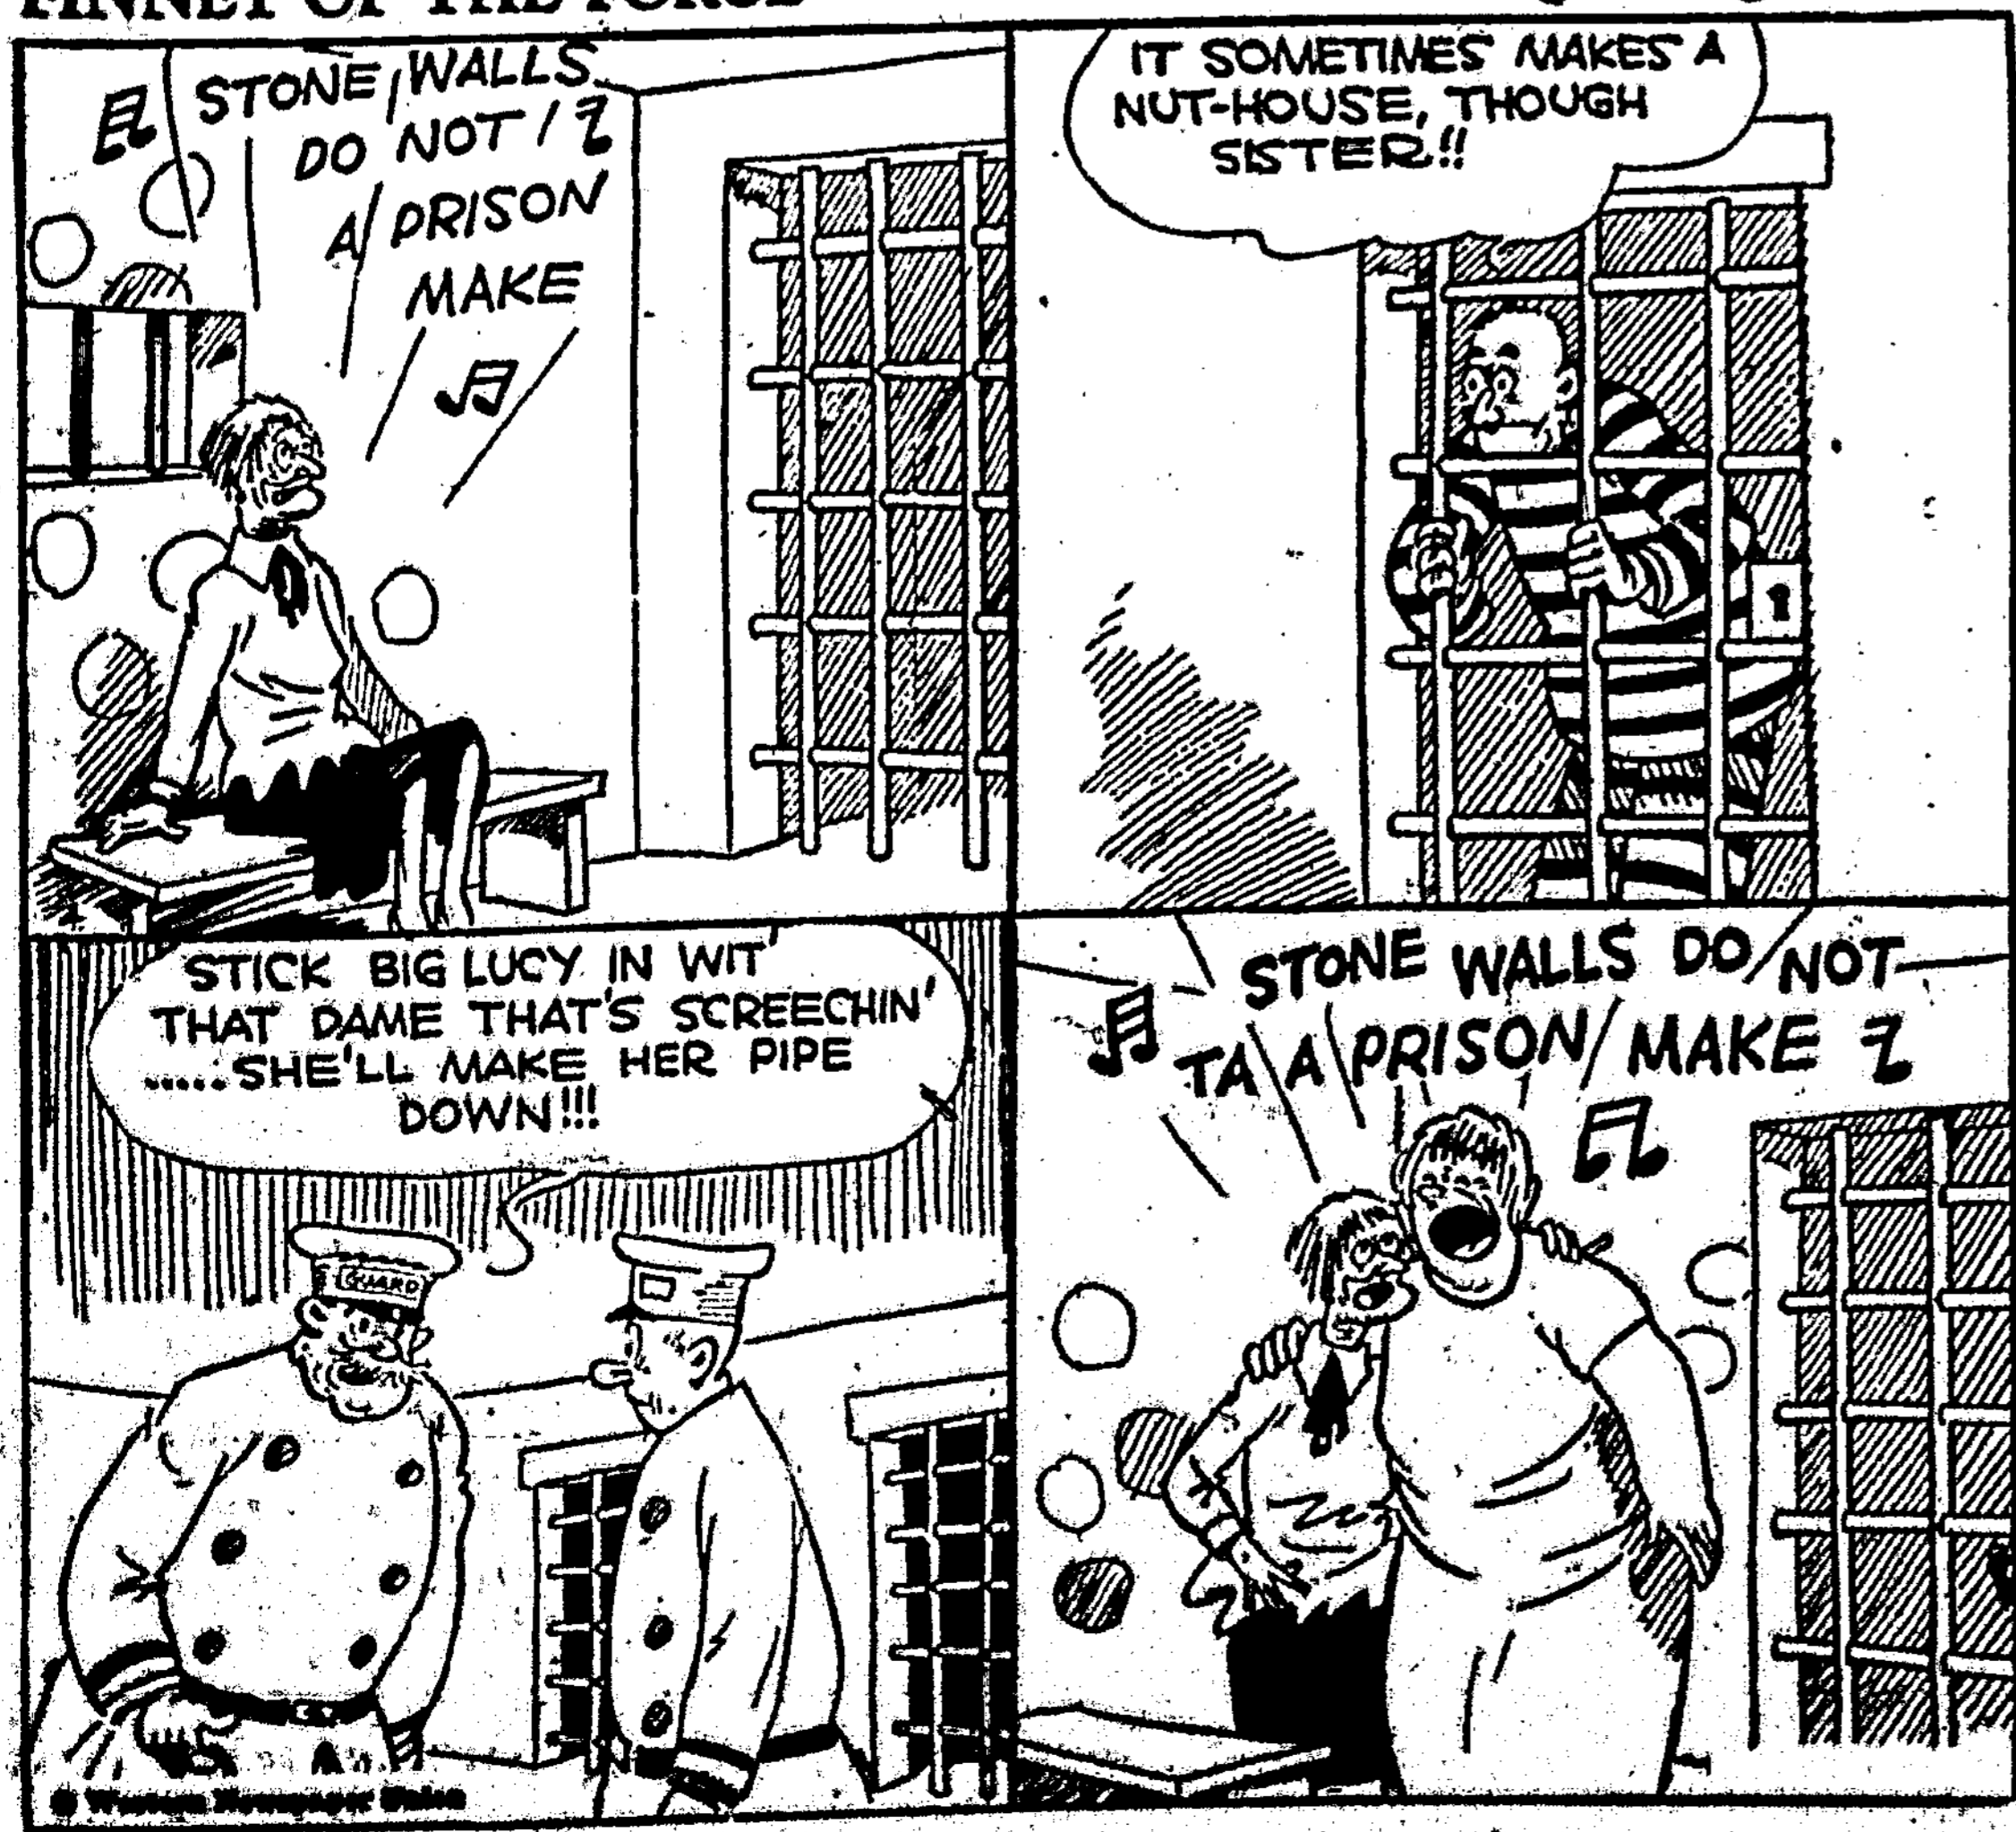

THE FEATHERHEADS

Help! Help!

FINNEY OF THE FORCE

Making Things Worse

IT WASN'T in the least like Christmas. Sally stood at the window and surveyed the dripping trees, the soggy road. A gray fog lay upon the hills; the sky was the color of gun metal.

"I wouldn't care about any old weather," thought Sally dimly, "if Eric were here. Of course I understand that he had to go to town to meet his cousin Lena. He couldn't decently do anything else, but this is our first Christmas together... and it's sort of lonesome out here in the country."

Sally was twenty-three. She and Eric had been married a little less than a year. For months they had speculated on the best way to spend Christmas together. At first they had decided to go to New York, only 40 miles away, have dinner, go to the theater and then some exciting night club. But gradually they discovered that they were not as interested in celebrating the holiday in this manner: Sally and Eric had been to plenty of dinners, plenty of dances and plenty of night clubs. They were a bit fed up. After considerable argument and trying to find out what the other really wanted, they came to the grand conclusion that they would get a thrill out of Christmas at home in their little house in the country.

"No party," said Eric.

"No guests," chimed in Sally.

"Nothing... but Christmas and us!" They had shaken hands solemnly on this.

They had talked over the dinner, which Sally was to prepare herself (the maid having begged to be let off to go to her family for the day). They had decided on the kind of Christmas tree they wanted; Eric had gone out two days ago and chopped it down. They had trimmed it with the glitter of make-believe icicles and silver-blue lights. They had shopped furiously, buying quantities of jokes and silly presents. These two young things, very much in love and full of zest and ideas, swept away the more obvious entertainments in one gesture. They were as excited as children.

Then at 2:00 o'clock of the afternoon the day before Christmas, while Eric was chucking to himself over some ridiculous gift he was wrapping up for Sally, the telephone rang.

Eric talked very hurriedly into the transmitter. And in a low tone, Sally could hardly hear what he said. When he hung up the receiver he announced that he must leave for town at once. "But why?" asked Sally.

"Well, he hesitated, 'you see I've got to meet Lena. She's just come.' 'Lena? Who in the world is she?' Sally's voice became a bit edgy.

"Oh, er... a sort of cousin. Terribly sorry, old girl. I'll tear over in the buzz-buggy and be back in no time."

So, he had gone. And the trees dripped. And the sky grew dark. And Sally cried a little and decided that Christmas eve was the horriest she'd ever spent.

She tried to remember if she had ever heard Eric speak of Lena before. "A wretched name," she said aloud, "and probably a perfect all-time of a girl. One of his odious relatives." She waited and waited. Christmas eve was going to be spoiled. She could tell that. Why hadn't they gone to New York like everyone else? Then this Lena pest would never have roped in Eric.

At 6:30 the telephone jingled. Sally flew to answer it. "Sally, darling, I'm a bit delayed. Just called up to tell you not to worry. Traffic heavy

"Oh yes," said Sally in a cool polite voice.

"I'm bringing Lena home, dear. I know you'll like her. Expect us about quarter past seven."

Sally was in a rage. How dare he spoil their cherished Christmas by bringing home a stranger? How cruel... how thoughtless!

At quarter past seven she heard the car rush into the drive before the door. Her heart hardened. She went to the kitchen and looked into a closet. The front door banged. "Her, Sally! Her! Where are you? Come here and meet Lena!"

She heard footsteps in the dining room. The swinging door pushed open. Then before she could catch her breath, Eric had her by the hand. He literally dragged her into the dining room, through the living room to the front door. "Get me trust Lena right away," he laughed. He thrust her out of the door on to the tiny porch. "Lena!" shouted Eric. "God bless'er—there she stands!"

Sally blinked. Tears of rage dried in her eyes. "Lena?" she murmured in a foolish little voice. "Eric... what have you done?"

A small, smart car stood by the steps. Light from the house flowed along its polished sides. It panted gently with a quiet engine.

"Meet the wife, Lena," said Eric and made an elaborate gesture of introduction.

"Whose?" demanded Sally.

"Yours, woman! Christmas present! Delayed in delivery! Had to go in to get her. Thought I'd give you a whirl! Like the looks of the dear girl!"

"Oh, Eric... she's superb. You wonderful boy!"

The trees dripped. The fog closed in. The country road became soggy than ever... but Sally declared it was perfect Christmas weather.

"I feel I really ought to offer her a piece of turkey," said Eric at dinner. "with a little gasoline gravy!"

Carrizozo Hi School Notes

(By H. S. Reporter)

Don't Miss This

On Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the Community Hall will be held one of the largest gatherings of athletic celebrities ever seen in Carrizozo. Members of basket-ball teams from as far back as 1911, when the first team made its appearance in Carrizozo will appear in the suit he or she wore at the time they were members of the High School teams. To see the change time has wrought in costumes alone will be well worth the price of admission. The following ex-high school stars will appear in person and in basket ball suits: Kittie Reily Allen, Elsie Farley Charles, Beulah Brazel Hartley, Patsy Johnson Barnett, Clara Brazel Snow, Sally Johnson Ferguson, Laura Dalton Norman, Erva Adams Claunch, Ada Corn Gray, Grace Taylor Bakers, Jeanette Johnson Cazier, Lillian Johnson, Lois Jones Reynolds, Ethel Johnson, Vera Richard Cooper, Jean Reily Branum, Georgia Rustin Branum, Hada Corn Hightower, Mary Lu Townsend Welsh, Johnny Townsend Cabella, Ella Bell, Margie Rolland, Evelyn Grumbles, Margaret English. Also Clinton Branum, Louis Adams, Wayne Richard, Buck Anderson, Walter L'Fleur, George Cooper, Clayton Hust, Ernesto Lopez Florentino Lopez, Fay Harkey, Carol Hines, Mack Shaver, Mose Lewis, Eddie Johnson, George Young, Morris Lemon, Don English, Raymond Price, Floyd Parker, Paul Raines, Manuel Chavez, Hazen Davis.

There will be a game between the ex stars and the present high school teams, both boys and girls.

The purpose of this display of talent is to raise money for new suits for the high-school basket-ball teams.

Admission is 25c and 10.; the date is Monday, December, 21st. The time 7:30 p. m'

Let us all be there and have a good laugh, see a good game and help a good cause.

The Seniors pulled a "stunt" in assembly last Thursday, and there certainly was a lot of length to it, even if the most part lacked body. The program consisted of a quickly thrown together bunch of foolishness with the exception of a couple of good musical numbers by Jack Aguayo with his guitar, and two seniors and a post-graduate composing a trio. Jack, however, was the main attraction, and was called back several times.

Friday evening Miss Dia Herringua presented her operetta, with one hundred and fifty grade children taking part. The program went off very well, and a large crowd was in attendance. Miss Herringua has worked hard and faithfully on the presentation, and surely must have had a great deal of patience to have trained those grade children to such perfection. The gross receipts, which went to the Community Hall, were $34.15.

Saturday night the High school boys defeated the town team with a score of 20 to 17.

This was a hard-fought battle and gave each team some very good practice.

Tuesday Mayor McQuillen came down and delivered a short address on the telephone. Mayor McQuillen's talk was of a very instructive and enlightening nature and we are anxious to accept his invitation to visit the Central office and have him explain in detail the workings of this necessity in the life of the present generation.

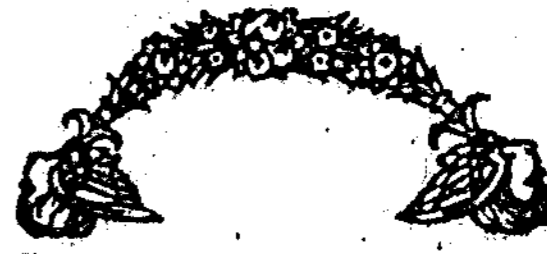

We have a ticed that Miss Melan has run off the copies of the semester exams, and Oh! how we'd like to get just one squint at them.

Ziegler's Store Robbed Again Saturday Night

Robberies are becoming so frequent as to cause people to feel a little nervous as to the safety of their property. Sunday night a week ago some plunderer broke one of large front windows at Ziegler Bros store and carried off some shoes and a coat and vest. Then last Saturday night a more thorough job was done. They broke the glass out of the front door and got away with about $600 worth of goods including suit cases full of ladies' coats and dresses, gents' furnishing goods, suits, knives about $30 worth of cigarettes and in fact a little of everything.

The first occurrence of this kind was at Prehm's Bargain House. The next sufferer was one of the pool hall owners. Then came Rolland's Drug Store where a good-sized haul was made amounting to something over $250. Ziegler's was the last victim as above described. Fortunately Mr. Ziegler recovered all but about $100 worth of his goods. The majority of people were surprised and sorry to learn that some of our local young men were connected with part of these depredations.
