Last Friday night a mysterious shooting took place in the northeastern part of the county. Abelino Lara, sheep herder for the Lowery sheep company, was sleeping in his teepee when two men appeared before midnight and called him out. One knocked him down; he sprang up immediately and started to run, then the other man shot him in the back four times. He will not likely recover. He had no idea who his assailants were. Officers are investigating the case.

The Desert's Price

Who doesn't enjoy a real western story—just any good western story? We offer our readers an exceptional western story, by an increasingly popular western author, and who can write of those "roaring Eighties and Nineties," those prospecting days of clean romance and swift action, as can William MacLeod Raine? His stories are unusual because he is a novelist of real ability, who has first hand knowledge of the things about which he writes, and the results are authentic tales filled with the spirit and atmosphere of the most colorful era of American life.

This is especially true of his story, "The Desert's Price," which begins in this issue. Turn to page 2 for the first installment of this tale of a desert feud, of lives filled with active living, with great hates, great adventures, great loves—a story that will hold you to the last word. "The Desert's Price" will appear serially in our columns, and we know our readers will enjoy every line of it.

Capitan News

Mrs. Harry Johnson and two daughters visited at the Province home this week. On their return home they were accompanied by Mrs. Johnson's father, E. W. Hulbert, who expects to spend the winter in El Paso.

Miss Lucille Everett will leave Saturday for Abilene, Texas, where she will enter A. C. C. College. Miss Everett is a graduate of Capitan High School.

Mrs. Oscar Snow has again organized her music class in Capitan. She will give piano lessons Monday and Thursday of each week at the home of Mrs. Ed Abeita.

Mrs. George A. Titsworth entertained a party of friends at bridge Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Dunlap, of Tatum, are spending this week in Capitan, combining business and pleasure. Mr. Dunlap is owner of our local light plant.

Quite a number of out-of-town people were here Saturday for the car drawing—Roy Stewart drove away in the prize car.

Home from Committee Meeting

Mr. and Mrs. M. U. Finley returned last evening from a pleasant and busy trip which took them first to Las Vegas to the annual meeting of the Game Protective Association. The most important item of news from there was the selection of Raymond Shramm of Albuquerque as president for the coming year. The next annual meeting of the G. P. A. will be held at Carlsbad.

Mr. and Mrs. Finley went from Las Vegas to Santa Fe where they attended the meeting of the State Democratic Central Committee which met there yesterday as per call. Santa Fe was selected as the meeting place for the nominating convention, the date of which is the 26th inst. Mr. Finley reported a harmonious meeting and the Democrats in a hopeful frame of mind.

School opened Sept. 5, 1932, with an enrollment in the high school of 108 and Grade school of 172. This enrollment is 15 percent more than that of last year and will be the largest enrollment this school has ever had. Everyone predicts Carrizozo will have this year the best school in their history.

Special Subscription Rate

For the next four weeks the price of a years subscription to the Lincoln County News will be one dollar per year in advance, new or renewal. Now is the time to subscribe to the home paper. Send it to the children who are away at school. Send it to the folks back home. Send it to the children who are away from home at work. It will be equal to a letter from Dad and Mother. This "Depression" price will last until October 1st. After October 1st the "depression" will be over.

School opened Monday with a large attendance. Among our new teachers are Miss Kell, Mrs. Trehiel and Supt. Cunningham.

The Young Democrats gave a dance at the Gym Saturday night. A large crowd was in attendance, and the affair was an enjoyable one.

Mrs. Gardenhire, son Lawrence, and daughter, Mrs. Jack Shaw, returned Friday afternoon from a motor trip through the greater part of California and Arizona. Mrs. Gardenhire, who was suffering from hay fever, was much benefited by the trip.

Abelino Lara, employed as a sheep herder, by the Lowrey Sheep Co., on the Gus Everett ranch, about twenty-five miles north of Capitan, was shot and seriously wounded about 9 o'clock Thursday night. It seems from reports that Lara was called from his tent, and as he stepped out he was met by a volley of bullets, four of which struck him in the body. Robbery is supposed to have been the motive for the act, as Lara was believed to have a considerable sum of money with him. The assailants fled, however, without approaching the fallen man. Officers went to the scene of the shooting Saturday, but we have not learned the result of their investigations.

E. Roehl.

NOT to be cape-conscious is not to know fashion as it is at this very moment and as it will be this coming fall and winter. Everything from suits to evening gowns is being caped in one way or another. If the cape is not an actual part of the dress, as it is in so many instances, then it is sure to be one of those cunning little separate affairs made of velvet or silk or lace, or "what have you," for designers are conjuring these graceful, shoulder out of most any medium.

These versatile capes are adding a genuine note of interest to the new modes for they offer unlimited possibilities in the field of design. Whether it be for the sports outfit or the afternoon costume or for wear during the formal evening hour the cape motif is made to lend itself to the mood and the occasion.

At all evening galas in Paris capes galore are to be seen, some half-jacket and some half-scarf and others just capes pure and simple. And then there's Hollywood, our own mecca toward which all eyes turn to see fashions at their best. There is no doubt about the reign of the cape vogue in that style center. Most any day you are apt to meet pretty Rochelle Hudson, she of the smiling countenance who is waving such a joyous salute in the picture, strolling on the boulevard in her youthful looking three-piece costume, with its jaunty little cape and its printed blouse, its colorful belt and tie.

And there's Julia Hayden a bit further on, tastefully gowned as the illustration to the right reveals her, all ready for a shopping tour. Brown and white tights fashions her jacket dress, which takes on a most convincing note of chic in that it flaunts a little print-lined brown velvet cape with a velvet belt to match. By the way, it is worth while to keep tabs of the many attractive velvet "sets" which complement the new costumes. It is very stylish to wear a girldie or belt of velvet to match one's hat. Charming three-somes are also made up of chapeau, cape-wrap and girldie, all of the same material, preferably velvet.

As to evening capes there is no end to the procession. The prettily frivolous little ruffled fancy cape pictured in the center is entirely of taffeta silk. There is just enough protection about it to serve for a midsummer evening, and as to "looks" it is without doubt a prize-winning number. No one who knows how to sew ought to be without one of these pretty shoulder wraps, for it's no trick at all to make one out of a yard or so of silk.

At fashionable midnight gatherings one sees such beguiling capes as these—a ruby red velvet model with a single scarf end thrown over the right shoulder; white satin made circular cut and bordered with white ostrich; pink taffeta outlined with a ruffling of the same; white transparent velvet, worked with rhinestones; many of white ermine.

Autumn days will witness besides of novel fur capes for detachable or rather separate fur pieces will be played up in great fashion during the succeeding months.

SMART HANDBAGS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Those very fine old fabrics that used to be seen in custom-made English riding habits are being presented by important designers in coats and suits, hats, handbags, and footwear for summer. Rib cord, as it is called, is a fine, softly luminous weave of extreme sturdiness. It is proving an ideal medium for pocketbooks and handbags. Here also is a trio of town and country handbags of zephyr and durezza which go equally well with suits or sports clothes.

Perforated Shoes
Perforated white buck is going to be one of the smart and comfortable shoe materials for summer sports.

FABRICS APPEAL IN FALL STYLES

Fabrics are the things that make a strong appeal in the fall styles. There seems to have been a concerted effort to give them a quality value. In addition there is an entertaining topography about them—even more exaggerated than it was in spring. Wools look like crepes, and crepes like wools, while velvets have so changed their complexion as to be barely recognizable. Bagheera velvet, rich and deep in tone and having practically no pile, is being widely used. By contrast there is a new velvet with a heavy pile that is pressed in such manner that it looks like a bunny's fur. Not so long ago we began to hear the word "croquignol" (a kind of small curly cake) used in connection with crepes. It described their crinkly surface. This season—suits, are going "croquignol." In fact, there are all sorts of new crinkles and wrinkles in crepes, satins and velvets; crinkled velvet is a fascinating thing to behold.

Perfumed Hosiery New Delight for Madame

Perfumed hosiery is the newest thing offered milady. And those scented with narcissus are the favorites. The Commerce department reported that in a recent test four pairs of hose were shown to 250 women—one just as it came from the factory, and three others scented very faintly. The perfume was so faint that only 5 per cent consciously noticed it, but 80 per cent said they liked the narcissus pair best. Twenty-four per cent chose the pair perfumed with a fruit mixture; 18 per cent picked those scented with anise.

Coats With Scarfs
Some of the new coats are sold with two scarfs—one in plain color to match the coat, the other in dots or figures. The idea is good.

Roosevelt's Charge Verified

Washington, August.—The denial of the State Department that it had ever approved a single foreign loan, which was made in response to Governor Roosevelt's statement that he would put an end to the "implied understanding" that foreign Bonds and securities have been "passed or approved by the State Department or any other agency of the Federal Government," was commented upon as follows by Senator Barkley in a recent statement:

"If this is true, why did the State Department, in response to a Senate resolution, cite as its authority for approving or disapproving such loans Article II of the Constitution? If this is true, why did the Senate on February 26, 1931, adopt the resolution proposed by Senator Glass, which is printed on page 6103 of the Congressional Record, declaring that the State Department had no sanction for any such action and instructing it to desist from any such practice?"

"The annual report of the Secretary of Commerce for the year ending June 30, 1928, the last period during which it was under Mr. Hoover's direction, contained the following interesting and illuminating statement:

"A record breaking volume of foreign stocks and bonds was offered to the American investing public last year, this partly explains the increased use made of the store of information on the finance of foreign governments and corporations that is on file in this bureau. American underwriters of foreign securities are now turning to the finance and investment division in constantly growing numbers for data to guide them in foreign financial commitments."

"I wonder if the President is still proud of this guidance? The State Department has on numerous occasions given tacit approval to these loans which it did not disapprove, and no investment or bank in the United States would under present practices touch a foreign issue which had not been referred to and passed on by the State Department. In at least one case it is known that pressure was brought by the State Department on certain banks and investment houses to encourage the sale of the securities of a certain foreign nation.

The Campaign Opens

"For the Department of State or any other agency or representative of the government to say that its action did not affect and even control the issuance of foreign securities in the United States is absurd."

Sec. Hurley's Speech A Detriment

While the Providence (R. I.) speech of Secretary of War Hurley made the first page of some newspapers, it also, unfortunately for him, made the editorial page. The result of the analysis it received at the hands of editors with a trained talent for correctly appraising political campaign bombast is that Sec. Hurley could be of more service to the Hoover campaign managers by refraining from a discussion of economic subjects and keeping his misinformation thereon to himself—especially in industrial sections.

Secretary Hurley's speech was supposed to be a reply on behalf of the Administration to the terrific and accurate arrangement of the Hoover regime by Governor Roosevelt in his Columbus speech.

Referring to Secretary Hurley's description of President Hoover's speech of acceptance as having left nothing to be desired "for depth of understanding, directness, candor etc.," the New York Times says:

"Almost exactly the reverse characterization could be made of Mr. Hurley's remarks at Providence. They left everything to be desired as an answer to Mr. Roosevelt's review of our Government policies since 1920. The speech would by itself fully justify the decision of the Governor to take no notice of what the President's spokesmen may say."

Also that "Mr. Hurley often failed to reveal 'depth of understanding' of the topic he was discussing, notably the tariff. He was less than candid when he charged the Democrats in Congress with indifference toward banking reform." The Secretary of War gave sole credit to Mr. Hoover for the creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, although the Times says, "it is well known that in the conference at Washington the President drew a heavy draft on Democratic ideas."

Mr. Hurley's pleasing personality and loyalty to Hoover "do not make him an effective campaign orator, especially on economic subjects." and "it seems poor policy to put him forward as the voice of the Administration in industrial centers like Rhode Island."

The Times epitomizes the Hurley speech as "birdshot" and "bombast." Either with ignorance or disregard of facts, characteristic of Hoover Administration spokesmen, Secretary Hurley expressed curiosity to know what basis of fact there was for Governor Roosevelt's statement that "we find two-thirds of American industry concentrated in a few hundred corporations, and actually managed by not more than 5,000 men."

The Baltimore Sun obliges him by citing an authoritative study of corporate concentration by Gardiner C. Means of Columbia University, published in the American Economic Review for March, 1931. Mr. Means found that there were 300,000 corporations exclusive of banks and insurance companies, yet 200 of these control nearly half of the corporate wealth. He also found that less than 2,000 men were directors of the 200 largest corporations in 1927.

The Sun points out that Mr. Means' findings for the year 1927 were prior to "the most hectic period in the history of the nation of making big corporations into bigger ones through mergers."

Citing these findings the Baltimore Sun concludes there is not more than an outside chance that Mr. Hurley will be tempted to examine the opus noted, "but any chance of having Mr. Hurley 'contact' the facts is well worth taking."

The sign "Detour to the Right" is not always followed by the traveler on Life's highway.

Red Cross Roll Call

Miss Thelma White of White Oaks will head the annual county-wide Red Cross Roll Call November 11-25th. She will bring to the Roll Call her experience as a Red Cross worker in Texas. Let every one who can, plan now to enroll as a member when the time comes! times such as we have just been passing through show the need of a nation-wide agency such as the Red Cross. In addition to its emergency relief in times of disaster, it has been called upon by the Government to distribute the millions of bushels of Farm Board wheat to the needy; and it is also now engaged in distributing the thousands of bales of Farm Board cotton, in the form of simple clothes to the needy. Lincoln County has been sharing in these benefits along with other New Mexico Counties. Fifty cents of every One Dollar Membership remains in the local chapter treasury, the balance going to Red Cross Headquarters to be used for disaster relief wherever needed. The northern part of our State received considerable aid from the National Red Cross this past winter during the heavy snows that cut many off from sources of food supplies and took a heavy toll in livestock. So when a roll call worker approaches you in November—have your membership Dollar ready so you will have an active part in Red Cross work.

Lincoln County Chapter.

Newspaper Changes

Two of our valued exchanges, the Carrizozo News and the Lordsburg Liberal, have changed ownership during the past fortnight. The News founded and conducted for a number of years by the late John A. Haley, and since his death by his widow, Mrs. Meda C. Haley, has been taken over by Mrs. Era Bradley Smith, for several years connected with the paper, being familiar with the work and acquainted with the people of Lincoln county.

The Lordsburg Liberal, for several years well conducted by Leslie Blackburn, a thoroughly capable newspaper man, has been relinquished to other hands on account of the publisher's health. The new owners are Messrs. Geo. W. Woodward, and son, Geo. W. Woodward, Jr., from Lincoln, Nebraska.

Our best wishes for success to both papers. The newspaper business is an intriguing game in normal times, and despite some drawbacks affords much pleasure to one who has once entered upon its existing demands of always telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth.

The DAIRY

STOCK IS ADVANCED

Breeders of Cattle Realize Its Importance

The progress of the dairy breeds is indicated by the increased amount of testing for production that has taken place during the past year. For instance, a report issued by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America shows that there was a 14 per cent increase in long-time record testing during 1931 as compared with the previous year. A total of 3,809 records in the ten months and yearly divisions of the Advanced Registry were reported, which is the largest number in any one year with the exception of 1924, when the high mark of 4,184 was reached.

The purpose of officially testing cows is to measure their producing capacity and select breeding stock from the best. All Holstein cows and heifers tested in the ten months division during 1931 averaged to produce 18,865 pounds of milk containing 470.5 pounds fat. In the yearly division for the same period, the average yield of all tested cows and heifers was 17,023.6 pounds milk and 577.3 pounds fat.

How Dairy Profits May Be Kept at High Point

- At All Times: Use well-bred dairy cows. Keep cows comfortable and contented. Treat cows gently and avoid exciting them. Follow a regular schedule of daily work. Weigh the milk of each cow at each milking time. Regulate the amount of feed by the milk records and the individuality of the cow. Allow free access to salt daily. Supply an abundance of pure fresh water never colder than that of a deep well. Use well-balanced rations made from a variety of feeds. Give cows six to eight weeks of rest between lactation periods. Follow the practice of the most successful dairymen. Join a cow-testing association and other organizations that help one to practice up-to-date methods of managing a dairy herd.—American Agriculturist.

Three-Time Milking

"How much, on the average, does milking three times a day increase production over twice a day milking? Does three times a day milking usually pay?" Where this is done for a short time only the increase is likely to be in the neighborhood of 10 per cent and where it is carried on for the full lactation period the increase is likely to be about 20 per cent. The question as to whether or not it will pay depends on many things.

"Yessing" the Cow

If anything will make a cow crazy, it is a bite of lush green grass in spring. It will make her forget the choicest alfalfa hay, the finest mixture of grain and balancing feed. Crazy as the cow is for this first grass, it is anything but a complete ration. The dairymen who says "Yes" to the cow's craving for early grass, and quits feeding grain, will get "No" for an answer when he asks the cow for a profit. Grass will keep the milk coming for a little while, because it is a tonic. But when the effect of the tonic is gone, it will take no end of good feeding to build up the milk flow again.—Farm Journal.

Splendid Holstein Record

Lyns Orlsby Ays, a pure-bred Holstein cow owned by Fencos Farms, Minnesota, is the one hundred and sixty-third black and white cow to produce in excess of 1,000 pounds butterfat in a year. In 365 days she produced 26,042 pounds milk containing 1,001.9 pounds butterfat or enough to supply all of the dairy needs of 270 persons for one year. She began her year weighing 1,735 pounds and closed it with a weight of 1,720 pounds.—The Holstein-Friesian Association.

Satisfying Dishes FOR a delectable dessert that is not only beautiful to the eye, but satisfying to the palate, try: Orange Cream—Soak two table-spoonsful of gelatin in one-quarter cupful of cold water and dissolve in one-half cupful of hot orange juice, adding one-half cupful of sugar. Fold in one and one-half cupfuls of whipped cream and one-half cupful of orange pulp cut fine. Serve with a fruit syrup.

Chocolate or caramel sauce or maple syrup with a few chopped nuts may serve for variety in sauces. Fold whipped cream into the pudding and serve with orange sections or bits of pineapple. Fold in chocolate sauce mixed with whipped cream. Canned fruit sauce, coconut, marshmallow sauce or canned fruits all make delectable sauces for the pudding.

Club Cookies.—Take one cupful of shortening, one cupful of sugar, one egg, one-half cupful of sour cream, one-half teaspoonful each of soda and cream of tartar and three cupfuls of pastry flour. Mix as usual and pat the dough out to two inches thick and chill overnight. Roll and cut into any desired shape. Bake in a moderate oven ten minutes.

Filling.—Take one cupful of stewed sliced prunes, one-half cupful of stewed apricots, three table-spoonsful of lemon juice, one-fourth cupful of sugar and one-half cupful of prune or apricot juice. Cook together, adding one table-spoonful each of butter. Cool before using.

TALES OF THE CHIEFS

By Editha L. Watson

JOSEPH

Chief Joseph of the Nez Perce tribe has been famed as one of the most remarkable Indians in the United States.

He was born in Oregon about 1840, and was a hereditary chief of the Nez Perce. His natural gift for oratory was of considerable use in his dealings with the white men.

His father, Joseph the elder, was careful to teach him not to sign treaties nor to sell the land of his people.

The elder Joseph and his son, who did not want to part with the land, had no share in this treaty and felt that they were wronged.

More and more sternly, the white men demanded that the Nez Percés should leave the valley and go on their reservation.

Almost 2000 miles through enemy territory, the remarkable leader brought his people. Their few warriors were opposed by nearly seven times as many soldiers.

Finally, fresh troops in front compelled a halt, and for four days the Nez Perce battled against the soldiers.

After their surrender, the Nez Perce were taken to Indian territory, where they longed for their Idaho lands.

In 1897, worried by encroaching whites, the grand old chief went to Washington, on behalf of his tribe.

Six years later, Joseph made another trip to the Capital. This was a friendly visit, during which he took part in an Indian exhibition.

Cyrus Townsend Brady, writing of the famous chief, has described his death as follows: "The other day a gray-haired old chief, nodding by the fire, dreaming perhaps of days of daring and deeds of valor, by which, savage though he was, he had written his name on the pages of history, slipped quietly to the ground and fell into his eternal sleep."

Spirits Err Twice; Divorce Ends Row

Cincinnati.—William R. Perkins, twenty-eight, testified his wife had accepted a "spirit's prediction" that he would die Christmas day.

DOG KILLS SNAKE TO SAVE MASTER

Hurls Her Body Between Child and Rattler.

Dayton, Ohio.—Myra V. Stolzenvoss, descendant of a long line of prize-winning Doberman Pinschers, is the toast of the town—a heroine who battled a rattlesnake to save the life of little Gene Brennan, her playmate.

Gene is the three-year-old son of her owner, Louis Brennan. His pet now is in a dog hospital, where she is receiving the best of medical attention and she is showered with little bits calculated to cheer the heart of a dog.

The dog and Gene were romping around a rock pile. A wild rose among the rocks attracted the child's attention.

Myra V. barked frantically, grabbed the rear of Gene's rompers and pulled him back.

Gene started again for the red rose. The dog leaped against him and knocked him down.

Again, the boy started for the rose bush and again the dog's teeth caught the rompers and pulled him away.

The boy, provoked, struck the dog. She yelped and retreated. Gene reached for the rose.

With a wild bark, Myra V. hurled her body between the boy's hand and the red rose. Her teeth sank into the neck of a rattlesnake, coiled about the stem of the rose bush just below the flower.

The serpent's fangs sank into the dog's body. For long minutes the pair battled in a death struggle, which ended with the snake lifeless and the victor lying exhausted beside it.

Gene's mother had heard the boy's scream, had seen the end of the fight. She took the dog to a hospital. Doctors said that Myra V. would live.

Arrest Cow as Burglar, Now She is a Fugitive

San Jose, Calif.—This isn't a bull story; it's about the only cow in history known to have been arrested as a burglar.

Patrolman Kenneth Alsherge and L. E. Gupilli received a radio alarm that a burglar was breaking into the home of J. O. Montgomery. They sped to the residence and, on reaching it, deployed with ready shotguns, prepared for any emergency.

Patrolman Gupilli sighted a huge something near a window of the house.

"Stick 'em up!" ordered the officer. "Then Patrolman Alsherge yelled: 'Don't shoot, Gup! I don't think she means any harm.'"

Then the "burglar" gave vent to a mighty "Moo-ooo-ooo." She was standing in a flower bed under a window of the home.

Officers placed her under arrest, charged with burglary. But because the city jail had no provisions for criminally inclined cows, she was staked out in a vacant lot near the jail.

But when police went to produce Bossie next morning for her preliminary hearing she was missing. Now she's a fugitive from justice and a warrant has been issued for her arrest.

He Uses Originality in Catching Express Thief

New Britain, Conn.—To apprehend a thief who had been stealing consistently from express trucks, Detective Sergeant Patrick J. O'Mara had himself nailed into a packing case and put aboard an express truck. Through a peephole, he saw a youth looting the truck. Later he arrested the thief on a street.

Homemade Alarm Nets Church Poor-Box Thief

New York.—To prevent repetition of poor-box robberies in St. Agatha's Catholic church, Brooklyn, the sexton, Thomas McNamara, set up a homemade burglar alarm. It worked. Edward Smith was held for the grand jury on a charge of taking 85 cents from the box.

Fine Slayer One Cent

Richmond, Va.—Pleading guilty of a charge of involuntary manslaughter, Mrs. Nannie Rowland was fined one cent and costs for the fatal shooting of Calvin Ward. The sentence was fixed by the jury.

THREE BROTHERS SLAIN TOGETHER BY A RIVAL GANG

Pittsburgh Trio Trapped in a Restaurant While Eating Breakfast

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Three brothers who recently left the suburb of Wilmerding to take over by force a lucrative alcohol peddling territory in Pittsburgh paid the penalty of their ambition. Gunmen, supposedly employed by a rival liquor gang, walked into a Wylie avenue restaurant and without warning shot and killed the trio.

The victims are John, James and Arthur Volpe. One of them was eating an early afternoon breakfast and the others were lounging at the restaurant's cigar counter when the killers—three or more, reports vary—entered.

One Follows Assailants

There were three quick bursts of gunfire; then three more. James and Arthur Volpe fell dead in the restaurant. John, although shot in the chest, staggered out the door to the street, apparently trying to follow the men who had fired at him. One of them turned and fired at him as they started to drive away in a car. Volpe toppled into a gutter, and a Catholic priest who was passing stepped from an automobile and administered the last rites for the dying. The gang leader expired with his head on the curbstone.

Sam Bizzano, an employee of the restaurant, was seriously wounded by one of the bullets fired at the Volpes.

The scene of the shooting was near the center of the city, in the so-called hill district, part of the territory being disputed by the brothers and their rivals.

Think Killers Imported

Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh announced he was working on the theory that the gunmen were outsiders brought in to accomplish the wiping out of the Volpe mob. Orders for a roundup of criminals in the hill district was ordered.

"We won't stand for out of town gunmen—killing our people, even our racketeers," he declared.

The Volpes had long been powerful in Wilmerding, where they combined their underworld activities with political sovereignty. Recently their power waned in the suburbs and they transferred their organization to the city. Reports had been current that their "muscling in" on established gangsters had brought an underworld decree of death for them. Detective Tom Mulvihill asserted that he heard two months ago that all were "on the spot."

A fourth brother, Louis Volpe, is now in the county jail awaiting trial on a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Invisible Rays Guard Prison-Farm Convicts

Chester, Pa.—Invisible rays serve to prevent escapes from Broad Meadow farm, new Delaware county prison near here.

The rays are cast by photo-electric cell lights set up in the rear of the new prison building. They are so designed that an alarm is sounded when a person passes through the area in which the rays operate.

Electricity plays other important parts in the arrangements of the new prison.

In the tower are eight powerful floodlights illuminating the grounds and the exterior section with the brightness of daylight. On the corners of the prison buildings are 32 other floodlights for illumination inside the wall.

The lighting system is so arranged that it can be adjusted to burn brilliantly or changed to dim glow at will of the operator. An emergency system, operated by storage batteries, provides light automatically and immediately in case of failure of the regular service.

The large doors at the prison rear are operated by electricity, and cooking, baking, and refrigeration in the kitchen are done with the same power source.

Blind Youth Walks Far to Visit His Mother

Copenhagen, Denmark.—William Petersen, inmate of the home for blind boys here, has accomplished a rare feat. In one night and one day he traveled from Copenhagen to Korsner, a stretch of 114 kilometers, alone and on foot over a frequented road which led him through towns, a large number of villages and required the navigation of many dangerous street crossings.

Young Petersen, who has been blind from birth, felt homesick for his mother who lives in Soedding, island of Fuenen. One evening he decided he could wait no longer; he set out alone.

He Liked the Revolver, Did the Pleasant Man

San Francisco.—"What have you in the way of a nice revolver?" a pleasant appearing, young man asked "Chick" Gray, salesman in a sporting goods store.

"Well, would this one do?" Gray asked, handing the man a revolver. "Very well, thanks. Is it loaded?" "Yes."

Chevrolet Sales

Detroit, Mich., Sept. — On the basis of dealer reports of Chevrolet sales for the first twenty days of August, this month, normally the dullest of the summer season, shows promise of exceeding July by a comfortable margin, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company, declared here today.

Up to August 10, sales for the month were reported as 17,038 units compared with 14,698 in the same days of July, a gain of nearly 16 per cent. For the past several years, July sales have consistently run ahead of the August total, Mr. Knudsen said. He pointed out that the new federal tax on automobiles was felt hardest in July, so that that month was sub-normal in relation to other months of this year; but he stated that he did not believe the tax accounted for the full amount of the gain made to August 20 over July.

He attributed a share of the increase to a substantially improved sentiment country-wide, and a gradual rebuilding of confidence, with the result that people able and intending to buy a new car, but who have been postponing the purchase through fear of the future, are now entering the active buying lists.

Some sections reported an increase to August 20 over the same period of the month last year, and August is the first month since early spring in which a reporting period in any month exceeded the corresponding period of the previous month, the Chevrolet president said.

Queen of Dances
The waltz is said to be the most famous and consistently popular dance in all history. The origin of the waltz is obscure in the dim past. In its modern guise it appeared in 1780, and "Ach du lieber Augustin" is said to be the first tune to which the waltz was danced.

Mr. Knudsen discounted the idea of the stock market action having a direct bearing on the sales chart, other than as a restorative of confidence, although he said it may have accounted for a few additional sales in the East Atlantic section. But, he added, the firming of commodity prices, especially cotton, is having a substantial effect through the South, Texas particularly, and the lower middle west.

Dealer stocks of both new and used cars have been measurably reduced so far into August, and now are at a minimum for this season of the year, the Chevrolet executive stated.
