P.-T. A. Meeting Was Well Attended The local parents and teachers met last Friday night in the high school auditorium...

The president, Mrs. C. W. Young, called the meeting to order with the singing of the P.-T. A. song, led by Mrs. D. U. Groce.

After the business meeting the program was as follows: Song—"Our Battle Hymn For Children", led by Mrs. Groce. Talk by Supt. D. U. Groce. Talk by Miss Rider, county nurse.

Talk on Amendment No. 4, by Mr. John Hall. Song—"Together", led by Mrs. Groce.

Delicious refreshments were served in the Home Economics room by the Hospitality committee.

All citizens should help support their school and teachers. Your presence at the next monthly meeting would be highly appreciated.

Amendment No. 4 On the 19th inst. people of New Mexico will vote on the Constitutional amendment limiting the property tax rate to 20 mills.

This is solely an economic problem. In no way is it political. It will affect members of both parties alike.

In no way will the state administration suffer if this amendment carries, because the amendment adequately protects the state.

But the local governments will suffer; the small taxpayers will feel the result the heaviest. The Democratic administration believes that property taxes should be reduced but not in the hazy way offered by the amendment.

It has been stated that the liquor revenue would bring in $5,000,000. Tax experts say $222,000 will be the limit of the income from liquor.

Also people who have made a study of the tax question say that large corporations who are paying $100,000 per year taxes will be lowered to $50,000, or corporations paying $1,000 per year taxes will be lowered to $500, and that in order to raise the difference...

It would seem in the face of these arguments that it would be better to vote "No" on amendment No. 4.

Card of Thanks We desire to express our sincere thanks to our many friends and former neighbors for their numerous acts of love and sympathy in the death of our dear husband, father and brother.

PUBLIC HEALTH COLUMN CONDUCTED BY DR. J. R. EARP Director New Mexico Bureau of Public Health.

SLEEPING SICKNESS. This unfortunate name seems to have stuck and we have therefore taken it for our title as the popular name for what the doctors call encephalitis lethargica or epidemic encephalitis.

This sleeping sickness now prevalent in the middle west has nothing to do with African sleeping sickness due to the bite of the tsetse fly. The patient with encephalitis is not necessarily sleepy though stupor is the most common symptom.

Sometimes he shows what is called sleep reversal, being drowsy in the daytime and wakeful at night. The patient often has strange hallucinations—he sees creatures and hears noises that aren't really there.

These hallucinations get mixed up with his dreams. After all, dreams are a kind of hallucination.

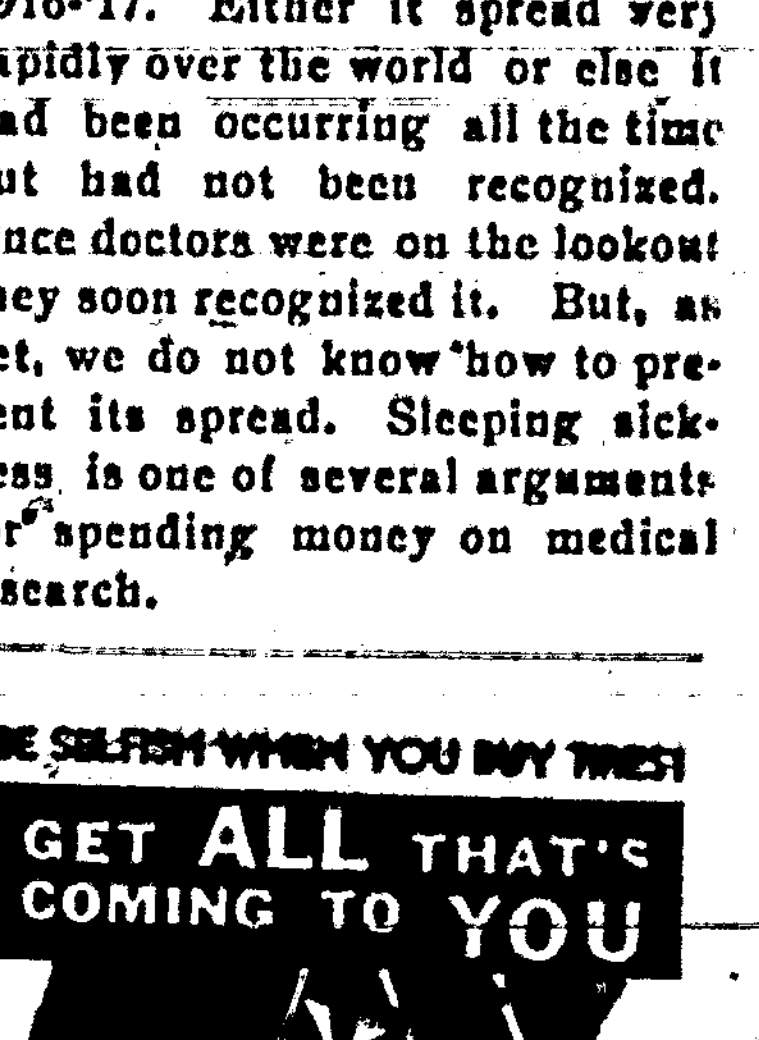

Often an early sign of encephalitis is great weakness, and there may also be dizziness. In the present epidemic headache has often been the first symptom and there has been nausea, vomiting and diarrhoea or constipation.

All kinds of nerve disorders may develop later—jerking of the muscles, double vision, drooping of the eyelids, ringing in the ears, rigidity of the neck, profuse sweating, and so on.

This disease was first recognized in Vienna in the winter of 1916-'17. Either it spread very rapidly over the world or else it had been occurring all the time but had not been recognized.

Once doctors were on the lookout they soon recognized it. But, as yet, we do not know how to prevent its spread. Sleeping sickness is one of several arguments for spending money on medical research.

GOLD-MAD DAYS OF HISTORIC '49

Discovery of rich gold lodes in the old bonanza mining camp of Virginia City, Nev., has drawn its hundreds of fortune seekers from nearby territory...

"Once only a rumor was needed to lure thousands of men across a continent, or over the sea via Panama and the Horn to the wilderness that was California..."

"When Marshall found gold near Butte's mill, it was the richest strike in history. With their jackknives men gouged chunks of pure gold from hillside seams..."

"The news spread east. Folk commented on the find in a message to congress. No such excitement had ever swept the nation. By 1849 the whole world seemed gold mad..."

"The migration was so stupendous," says Cleland, the California historian, "as to outrank anything of its kind in the nation's history..."

"Then I guess it was your Aunt Josephine," Stephen said with a smile. "What did she say?" the children chorused and then were very still...

"But why, Uncle Stephen?" Barbara's hands clasped each other tightly. "Because," Stephen told them, "I asked her if I might keep you..."

"Yes," he answered, rumpling her bright brown curls. "All of us?" That was Kit, a flush in his thin dark cheeks, his hazel eyes very bright...

"Imagine San Francisco then gold crazy. Out on the treasure hunt months ahead of eastern borders. Its houses, cows, chickens, gardens, goods in stores—all were deserted..."

"Newcomers, pouring in now by sea, made frantic demands, of any price, for food, clothes, and mining outfits. In a few weeks population multiplied a hundred times..."

"Hops couldn't be built fast enough. Any room 20 by 60 feet," wrote Gen. W. T. Sherman, in his "Memoirs"...

"Mines or camps with such names as Hell's Delight, Hangtown, De Winton Tremena, Blue Belly Ravine, Poker Flat, Shritfall Canyon, and Petticoat Slide, hinted at the boisterous spirit of the time..."

"Sometimes I think he will," Barbara wrote to Bruce. "Wouldn't that be lovely? But sometimes I don't know. It's a very distracting feeling, like being in a lion's cage and not knowing whether the lion will chew your head off or not..."

And then it was decided. Stephen came home one evening looking tired and pleased and a little uneasy as well. He had presents for the children and some very important news...

"Our Aunt Josephine?" The color paled from Barbara's face. Her eyes were wide and startled. "Is she a crotchety old lady?" Stephen asked, pretending to be puzzled...

Barbara nodded. "Does she wear diamond ear drops and black silk dresses and white net collars with points that stick up under her ears?"

Barbara nodded again. "Does she live in a house with urns and elm trees on the lawn and carpets with roses inside?"

"Then I guess it was your Aunt Josephine," Stephen said with a smile. "What did she say?" the children chorused and then were very still...

"But why, Uncle Stephen?" Barbara's hands clasped each other tightly. "Because," Stephen told them, "I asked her if I might keep you..."

"Yes," he answered, rumpling her bright brown curls. "All of us?" That was Kit, a flush in his thin dark cheeks, his hazel eyes very bright...

"I was married," she said with great dignity, "when I was just past eighteen." "She's a very dear little girl," "Really, Stephen?"

"Do you think that?" he asked, looking at her from under darkly scowling brows. "I do, indeed." No use contradicting herself, Aunt Edith thought...

"There must be some reason why you should want to keep these children, a reason other than kindness and a desire to make them happy..."

"You haven't a high opinion of me, have you, Aunt Edith?" Stephen asked quietly. "You make me feel as though I had taken advantage of the confidence of a child..."

"A child? Well, really, Stephen—" "Do you think that, Aunt Edith?" "I have known you for some time, my dear," Aunt Edith said. "I can't think that you would completely disorganize your life unless there was a reason..."

There was a reason, of course. He might have told Aunt Edith that he had loved Barbara's mother. But he did not want to tell her. He was tired of explanations. He said "Good night" and walked out of the room...

Aunt Edith sat in the puffy armchair, thinking, fiddling the cards with a sound like a lingering sigh. Then she pushed back the card table and walked across the room to her desk...

When she returned to the chair, she spread out on the table a variety of tourist catalogues and time-tables and folders. With a small gold pencil she traced a leisurely journey across the continent. She made notations and added rows of figures. At intervals, she unbuttoned her lips to sigh...

Stephen told Natalie the story the next afternoon. She sat beside the library fire when he returned from the office. He suspected that Aunt Edith had sent for Natalie and had told her the distressing news. What did Natalie think about it all? Was he in for another unpleasant interview?

He found, to his great relief, that he wasn't. Natalie smiled at him lazily, the smoke from her cigarette curling in rings above her sleek dark head. "Where are the children?" Stephen asked...

"Job took them to the zoo," she answered. "They ought to be back pretty soon." "May I have some tea?" "You look tired, Stephen. Was Aunt Edith very unpleasant?"

"Rather," he said, returning her lazy smile. "There was an old woman who lived in a shoe," Natalie teased affectionately. "Poor, poor Stephen!"

Stephen relaxed in a soft deep chair. He needed to talk to someone. Natalie was intelligent. She saw things clearly, he thought. He felt soothed and rested. The fire, the gathering twilight invited confidences...

"Aunt Edith thinks I'm in love with Barbara," Stephen said, breaking a comfortable silence. Natalie looked at him, an amused little smile curving the corners of her lips but she said nothing...

"She thinks," Stephen continued, "that I could have no other possible reason for wanting to keep the children. It makes me feel as though I have taken advantage of a child..."

"A child, Stephen? Barbara is eighteen," Natalie remembered that, at eighteen, she hadn't considered herself a child. "Of course in some ways she isn't," Stephen admitted, his eyes troubled and grave. "She's never had time to be really young. Aunt Edith shouldn't leap to conclusions, though. Babbie thinks I'm a nice old man. I think she's a dear little girl. Anything else is absurd..."

Southwestern Briefs

State and county warrants are tangible under the Arizona state intangible law. The New Mexico state treasurer's office issued a $5,000 casual certificate of indebtedness to pay expenses of the special election of September 19.

The sixteenth of September, Mexico's Independence day, will be celebrated on both sides of the border at Nogales and a patriotic program will be offered. George D. Corich, garage owner at Clayton, N. M., filed in U. S. District Court a voluntary petition in bankruptcy listing debts of $30,861 and assets of $7,955.

Mrs. John Morrow, 61, wife of former Congressman John Morrow, died at the Miners Hospital at Raton after failing to recover from an operation performed recently. Arizona highway department officials made plans recently to get under way by December 1 a $4,000,000 road program, estimated to give employment to 4,000 persons.

Irving A. Jennings, Phoenix, was elected commander of the American Legion, department of Arizona, at the annual convention at Bisbee. Tucson was selected for the 1934 convention. Tony Posey, alleged to have shot and killed his father-in-law, Newt Pendergrass, 55, Mayhill, N. M., rancher, surrendered to officers and was brought to the county jail at Alamogordo.

Thomas E. Campbell, former governor of Arizona and former president of the United States civil service commission, will resume his former profession of hydraulic mining engineering at Phoenix in October. Approximately $1,500,000 will be made available soon under the national recovery act for forestry service projects in New Mexico and Arizona. Of this amount, New Mexico forests will receive about $700,000.

Incorporation of the Gallup Oil & Gas Co., for $25,000 has been approved by the state corporation commission. Bruce Vaughn of Wingate, N. M., and Rudolph Yorkovich and Fred Mutto, both of Gallup, are directors. The Plinton-Avis Angora-Goat Association sold its spring clip of approximately 145,000 pounds to a Boston purchaser for $45,195. The sale was made at Roswell, N. M. The growers received 49 cents a pound for kid hair and 30 cents a pound for adult hair.

The federal government ordered State Sanitary Engineer F. C. Roberts, Jr., to inspect all Indian civilian conservation corps camps in Arizona. In addition, he was directed to inspect "water supplies used by common carriers in interstate traffic." Refunds totaling approximately 18 per cent have been obtained by Finley and Co. and W. H. Driggers from the A. T. & S. F. railway on shipments of cattle which moved prior to January 25, 1932. The shipments were made from New Mexico to Colorado and Kansas.

The Arizona NRA board has appealed to the federal government to place this state in the western instead of the southern district in classification of codes. Such classification, it was said, would place Arizona in a higher wage bracket for each code except agricultural processing. Warrants aggregating $3,974 for the month of August were mailed out September 1 to Maricopa county's old age pensioners. The board has approved 430 pension applications since the state's old age pension law became effective in July. It is estimated that pensions paid during the current fiscal year will total $74,000.

Representatives of the cotton industry in Maricopa county, Ariz., are endeavoring to establish a sliding scale of wages for cotton pickers. The present wages for cotton pickers are 75 cents per 100 pounds, but there is no established scale. The cotton men seek to set a sliding scale in proportion to the market price of cotton. Forty Allison, N. M., miners who have withdrawn from the National Miners' Union, have organized a local and applied for a charter from the United Mine Workers of America. Officers of the Allison U. M. W. A. are as follows: William Ferguson, president; Claude Wylie, recording secretary, and Charles Barker, secretary and treasurer.

Arizona representatives of organized labor, several hundred strong, will convene in Phoenix September 18, for one of the most significant sessions in the history of the Arizona State Federation of Labor. L. E. Moye, president, Tucson, announced. Due to the activity of organized labor under the National Recovery Act, the twenty-second annual meeting of the state federation will assume unusual importance, Mr. Moye said. Delegates from all sections of Arizona, representing all unions, will attend the session, which will last at least two, and possibly three or four days.

Nearly all departments of the Arizona state government have pledged themselves to purchase supplies and materials only from dealers displaying the NRA blue eagle. Four attaches of the intangible tax division of the Arizona tax commission were relieved of their duties as the result of litigation which has halted collection of the tax until the courts pass upon the constitutionality of the law. Those relieved were former State Senator Frank T. Pomeroy, deputy director; Ruth McBride, Stella Derbarto and Margaret B. Mattia.

CADDIE WIT

George Dunlap, Walker cup star, said at a farewell dinner before he sailed for England: "I'd make a better speech if I were as witty as the average caddie." "A man was playing on a municipal course called the Common, and his first drive sent a chunk of earth as big as a ball sailing down the field. "Well, well! Extraordinary!" the man growled. "Yeh," said the caddie, "it is a bit out of the common."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

"Proud and glad to do our part"

WITH President Roosevelt's acceptance of the NRA Automobile Code, Chevrolet, the world's largest builder of motor cars, officially begins operations in accordance with the administration's recovery program.

Although the official code was signed only a few days ago, it will be of interest to Chevrolet's many friends to learn that the Chevrolet Motor Company started to carry out the spirit of today's recovery program over three years ago!

At that time, we put into operation a "share-the-work" plan, whereby our workmen cooperated in spreading the work to give more men jobs. By means of this plan, as well as by regulating hours of work per week to meet retail demand, and by building up parts stocks in lean seasons, it was possible to carry 33,000 men on our payroll through the depression. For eleven months of each year since 1929, we have kept our employment within 10 per cent of this average. We are justly proud of that record. We are also proud to say that Chevrolet workmen did not, at any time during the depression, become a burden on public welfare departments.

On August 1st of this year, Chevrolet announced a blanket wage increase as well as the adoption of a 7 1/2-hour, 5-day week and the employment of 12,000 additional men. This wage increase was the second in the last 4 months, Chevrolet having been among the first to put a blanket wage increase into effect.

We feel that the President's recovery program deserves the whole-hearted support of every citizen and manufacturer in America. It is a bold, swift, courageous plan to start the ball rolling toward economic recovery. Its sincerity is unquestioned. Its objectives are admirable. And the direct, forceful steps the President and his associates are taking to make it a success, should stir the pride and admiration of every American.

We are proud and glad to do our part. And we are deeply grateful to the American people for the patronage that has enabled us to anticipate the present recovery program and to play our part today. After all, the immense number of men employed by Chevrolet is a direct result of the continued preference America has shown for Chevrolet.

Capitan P.-T. A. Meeting

(This interesting letter was unavoidably crowded out of The News last week - EDITOR).

The Parent-Teachers Association at Capitan met Sept. 4th for the first time this season. We had a splendid meeting and take this opportunity to thank the speakers.

The new officers were introduced by the retiring secretary, after which a short business session was held. Owing to the importance of the twenty-mill tax limitation, Mr. Louis Adams, our county treasurer, was invited to speak to the assembly on this subject. Mr. Adams presented the subject in a very interesting way, and the statistics furnished by him were very convincing, and, on behalf of the Parent-Teachers Association, I now thank Mr. Adams for this valuable service of presenting the facts to the people of Capitan.

We also wish to express our appreciation to Mrs. Marie Cavanaugh, our state representative, who spoke on the same subject.

The officers of the Capitan P.-T. A. expect to present an interesting program at every meeting. There will be speakers and papers read on subjects that are of utmost importance to our schools.

R. S. FAGAN, President.

VACATIONS and HEALTH

By Dr. ERNEST H. LINES
Sanitary Authority and Chief Medical Director
New York Life Insurance Company

CAMP LIFE

CAMPING in the woods or on the shore of some lake can be one of the most healthful ways to spend a summer holiday. This is particularly true of city office workers who should aim to get plenty of fresh air and sunshine, and a moderate amount of exercise, during the two weeks vacation usually allotted to them.

When selecting a camp site, go to one that is free from mosquitoes, flies and other insects which are not only unpleasant but also disease carriers and poisonous. Then choose a spot of ground high enough to be dry if it rains. Do not sleep on damp ground. An ample supply of woolen blankets should be provided, as well as warm clothing and sweaters if you are camping in a place where the evenings may be cool.

Matches, cigarettes and cigar stubs should not be thrown away carelessly when camping in the woods. Campfires should also be thoroughly extinguished whenever you leave the camp. Forest fires, causing injury and death, have often been started by careless campers.

Axes and hatchets should be used with care, for it is all too easy to cut a hand or foot badly. Sterilize all cuts, particularly those from rusty nails or old iron, to avoid lock-jaw or other infection.

Firearms

The National Safety Council reports that one-third of the deaths from firearms occur between ages 10 and 19, and another 20 per cent between ages 20 and 29. The hazard exists chiefly among boys and young men. Firearms should be carried only according to the accepted rules. If you don't know the rules, learn them before picking up a gun and tramping through the fields and woods.

Make sure that nobody is in range when you contemplate using firearms, and under no circumstances point a gun at another person. Your victim may never live to hear the all too common and weak excuse, "I didn't know it was loaded."

Snake Bites

Find out what poisonous snakes are prevalent in the district you intend to visit, and learn something about their appearance and habits. Rattles, copperheads, cotton-mouths or water-moccasins, and the coral or harlequin snakes are dangerous. Riding boots or leather leggings give considerable protection. If a snake bite does occur, don't lose your head.

Apply a tourniquet just above the bite, remembering to loosen it for a moment every fifteen minutes. Sterilize the skin and cut a gash courageously just above the bite with a sharp knife. Suction by mouth will help draw off some of the venom, which should not be swallowed or retained in the mouth. Get a physician as quickly as possible, and have anti-toxin for snake bite given if possible.

People going into localities where snakes are plentiful can obtain a supply of anti-toxin put up in small syringes ready for use. Alcohol is not an anti-toxin for snake venom. Do not depend on it.

This is the third of a series of 12 articles on Vacations and Health. The fourth, on The Open Road, will answer the questions:

1. What should be done before starting on a long automobile trip?
2. Is the condition of the car more important than the physical condition of the driver?
3. In driving far, how often should the driver stop for rest?

Mrs. Snell Passes Away

Pearl Jane May, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. May, was born May 27, 1897, at Nogal, New Mexico. She died Sept. 6, 1933. She was married to Mr. Walter Snell. To this union four children were born, two boys and two girls. Besides her husband and children Mrs. Snell leaves to mourn her passing her mother, four sisters, and two brothers. Mrs. Snell has been a member of the Nazarene Church since she was fourteen years old.

After funeral services conducted by the Reverend Jno. L. Lawson, Thursday morning, Sept. 7, 1933, the remains were laid to rest in Nogal Cemetery.

Ancho Items.

(CROWDED OUT LAST WEEK)

Tuesday, Sept. 5, was a red letter day in this community, the cause being the auction sale staged by J. R. Jenkins, a prominent stockman of Lincoln county. Ray Barber was the auctioneer. Several hundred horses were disposed of. An immense crowd was present, people coming from afar and near.

School opened Monday with an enrollment of one hundred pupils. The faculty is composed Wayne Harris, principal; George Craig and Miss Fuller, teachers of intermediate grades, and Miss Crawford, primary teacher. Ray Skaggs, Henry Dale, Henry Morris, and Virgil Hall are the truck drivers.

Mrs. Waltarine Lowe left last week for Rodeo, where she will teach school this winter.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Straley, accompanied by Mrs. Joe Roscoe, returned to El Paso after a brief sojourn here.

Mrs. C. C. Belknap went thru here recently enroute to Riverside, Conn., via Chicago, where she took in the Century of Progress Exposition. Her son, Carrol Belknap, and family reside in Riverside and Mrs. Belknap will be their guest for an indefinite period.

Misses Mary Louise and Edith Hall left Sunday for Hondo, where the former is a member of the school faculty and the latter will attend as a student.

A good many from here went to Corona to attend the rodeo last Saturday.

J. O. Miller, a former resident of Lincoln county, was here this week on a business mission. Mr. Miller is now a resident of Las Animas, Colo. He was accompanied by Messrs. People and Miller.

Mountain View Sunday school served a pie supper at the A. W. Drake home last Thursday, the proceeds being placed in a church fund. A good sized crowd was in attendance.

The Woman's Club held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Bryan Hightower last Wednesday, with Mesdames Miller, Adams, and Straley as special guests. Gorgeous flowers added charm to the spacious living room. Roll call was responded to by "What I Did This Summer". After a brief business session Mrs. Grover Pruett, study leader, took charge. The subject was "Pine Trees". The various uses of pinetrees were interestingly brot out. In the absence of Mrs. Warden, the hostess assumed the duties of social leader. In pencil contests Mrs. Allen Kile was prize winner. Mrs. Hightower rendered several musical selections which were enjoyed immensely. Refreshments consisted of sandwiches, cookies, and punch.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson are conducting a boarding house, which they started this week.

The J. M. Frame residence is nearing completion. It will be one of the most modern and up-to-date homes in this vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Penix and daughter, Mary Catherine, were here Labor Day to visit in the home of J. M. Frame. The Penix family have returned from Chicago where they attended the World's Fair.

On the thirteenth anniversary of her birth one day this week little Miss Miriam Hightower was honored with a party in her home. Games were indulged in. Mrs. S. J. Pruett assisted in entertaining, and delightful refreshments were served to a large bevy of young girls.

PROSPECTOR KEEPS ON PRODUCING GOLD

Takes Increasing Sums From Hidden Reserves.

Salt Lake City, Utah.—Commercial production of gold has declined tremendously in recent years in this section of the mineralized West, but the old-time prospector, working on his own, is taking wealth from its hidden reserves in ever-increasing sums.

The Salt Lake City assay office, a branch of the United States mint, is a clearing house for much of the intermountain gold. Similar offices are located at Boise, Idaho; Helena, Mont.; and Carson City, Nev.

Production Drops in Year.

According to C. N. Gerry, in charge of the local office, gold production in Utah, dropped almost one-half in a year. The figure for 1931 was $4,108,323 and in 1932 it was $2,040,832.

Gold, most valuable of the metals, is largely a by-product in this state, where the production of copper and that of lead rank as major industries. Recovery of the yellow metal from copper ore has declined to almost nothing, due to curtailed copper mining operations. The true figure of commercial production, in this regard, probably is around 25 per cent of the 1931 mark.

Offsetting it are operations of the men who roam the desert and climb the mountains, believing implicitly in the old prospector's slogan that "gold is where you find it."

Small Operator Produces Most.

Of the almost three million dollars turned in during last year, a vast majority came from the small operator, the man who was forced back into mineral seeking because of the depression, bringing in its wake a lack of employment in the commercial mines.

Exact records distinguishing production of the lone prospector from that of corporations are not available, but the best guess is that the prospector now turns in more than twice as much gold as was the case before current hard times, while the corporations, depending in the main on copper, silver or other metals, lack customary gold recovery because of curtailed production.

The best guess now, Gerry said, is $28,970,074 per year for all metals mined in the state. In 1931 it totaled $48,653,464, and that is far less than the record of a decade ago.

The decline in value exceeds by far the drop in per ton, pound or ounce production because of the slump in copper, silver, lead and zinc prices.

Frenchman Loses Suit

Based on "Patriotism"

Metz, France.—A patriot who made an unusual claim for a war pension to the pension board has lost his appeal.

The claimant stated that on July 14, 1919, he decided to join in the patriotic jollifications over the return of the lost provinces of Alsace and Lorraine. He went out in the streets, already noisy with laughing crowds. To add to the noise he took his revolver and, once arrived at the town hall, he fired his pistol in the air.

The gun happened to be an old one. It burst and the patriot was injured in the hand. Before the pension board he based his claim for compensation for disability on the following points:

If there had been no war the lost provinces would not have been recovered; if they had not been recovered there would have been no rejoicing; if there had been no national fete he would not have fired his pistol and would never have been injured.

HEART of CANADA

One of Toronto's Busy Streets.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

NINE-NINTH of the area of all Canada and one-third of the Dominion's population are included in Ontario's borders. And Ontario, like a colossal motor, is the heart of Canada. Exceeded by other provinces in forestry and fisheries, only Ontario takes first place in farming, trapping, mining, electric power, banking, and manufacturing. Not only that; she is dominant in many cultural ways. And while Quebec, New Brunswick, Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia share the common frontier with us, all our relations—social, financial, and economic—are closest with Ontario. Toronto papers reveal our kinship in thought and behavior.

On the map you see Ontario shaped roughly like a tilted bust, its face against Hudson bay, measuring about 3,000 miles up and down. It lies above the Great Lakes and south of Hudson bay; roughly, also, Quebec is east of it and Manitoba on the west.

Its organized districts include Nipissing, Cochrane, Timiskaming, Sudbury, Algoma, Thunder bay, Rainy river, and Kenora.

Patricia district, still largely unexplored and uninhabited, is a wild area, comprising nearly two-fifths of the whole province.

Though Quebec was French, it was English-speaking people who first colonized what is now Lower Ontario, while it was yet under the governor at Quebec. To make life easier for French-speaking subjects, the British (by the Quebec act of 1774) left French civil law in force, although English criminal law was decreed.

At once language troubles and other problems came to irk the English-speaking colonists, now drifting up the St. Lawrence valley beyond the French settlements. Among other things, they wanted to own lands under the English freehold system, and not to pay yearly tithes to seigniors, as by French custom.

Creation of the Province.
To this Great Britain agreed in 1701. So a new province, called Upper Canada (now Ontario), was established. It embraced all land west of the Ottawa river, which still separates Quebec from Ontario. Even today the language changes as you cross this line.

You cannot find a "typical Ontario face" any more than you can identify a home-town mind in America.

When Col. John Graves Simcoe, first lieutenant governor, set up his new capital at Niagara village in 1792 and offered free land to all comers ready to serve the king, a stream of immigration began which was to form the character of the new province.

For years a steady flow came from the United States. Some were German Lutherans and Mennonites; many were United Empire Loyalists; but from Scotland, England and Ireland came another stream. Immigration has never stopped. Toronto today has an "East Side" as polyglot as New York's, though not so named. Incidentally, perhaps 50,000 of its residents were born in the United States. Of late years the French from Quebec, with their language, faith, habits, and newspapers, are drifting steadily west, in north Ontario.

Finns, Russians, Poles, Germans, and Chinese pack the mines and lumber camps. Greeks, Syrians, and Italians are here, engaged as cooks, waiters, barbers, bootblacks, gardeners, dry-cleaners, peddlers, hucksters—many growing rich, just as in the States. In one country town hotel one may identify five different races among the help. In mining towns like Sudbury, group after group may pass you in the Saturday night parade, their talk a lingual riddle such as fell on ancient Babylon.

Yet, pick the census reports to pieces and you see how completely British Ontario is, how predominantly English-speaking.

Your train, as you reach Ottawa, halts almost in the lobby of a vast, chateaulike hotel. Only a few paces, by subway, and you step unexpectedly into crowds of Englishmen smoking pipes, gesticulating French politicians from Quebec, and animated women strolling toward a ballroom where mining mankind away to music in new-model coats and gowns.

American Industries There.
Peer out of your train window as you reach Toronto or Hamilton. Look at the familiar names on factory signboards. There seems hardly any well-known United States product that is not also made in Canada under the same trade-name. Scattered over all southern Ontario you see factories making farm and other machines, motor cars and parts, chemicals, electrical goods, foods, items of rubber and glass. Familiar advertisements run in the papers; window-displays are the same as one might see in Pittsburgh or Minneapolis.

The reasons for this migration of American industries are plain; proximity, common language, similar tastes and living standards, and particularly the import tariff; also, many American firms too small to finance a factory in far-away Europe or the Orient have here only to move across the line.

"What share of all the things you sell is made in Canada?" one asks at a sporting goods shop.

"About 80 per cent now," says the clerk; "and it's growing each year. All these bicycles, sweaters, fishing tackle, bats and balls, boots and socks—they are all Canada-made."

You think of Bret Harte's "Roaring Camp" when you see Kirkland Lake's gold camp on Saturday night. In crowded, crooked streets a dozen men to every woman; stores open till midnight—even the hardware and furniture stores. Finns and Chinese wear big 20-dollar gold pieces as watch charms; a crowded movie showing "Ten Nights in a Barroom"; brawny Russian miners sprawled in barber chairs, getting an over-Sunday polish; the smell of fresh-cut pine, and the noise of saws and hammers, as bo-hunks work by floodlight on a new "hotel"; young engineers in caps, sweaters, and high-laced boots, socially playing cards in a crowded lobby, snapping the cards down noisily.

Outside a killed bagpipe band goes whining by, on its way to a Legion party; motor cars file past, bringing a shift of miners, tin lunch boxes in hand, from a mine which some days yielded $122,000 worth of gold.

For, he it known, 78 per cent of Canada's gold is found in the 30-odd fields of Ontario. And this boom town of Kirkland Lake—with its Teck-Hughes, its Lake Shore, Kirkland and Wright-Hartman mines, where men bore holes 4,000 feet deep—is one of the greatest gold centers.

Ontario's Nickel.
Go to Sudbury, home of the great International Nickel company and of the Frood mine, and the rush and roar is the same. Here still more Finns, a "Finlandia" cafe, and Finns buying talking machine records of Finnish songs, and Finns squatting about shoe shops and cigar stands, playing more Finnish tunes on mandolins and singing bolsheroous Finnish songs in a "beverage bar."

How dramatic the story of Ontario nickel, first found by accident. Some odd-looking "red mud" drew the attention of a worker, in building the Canadian Pacific railway, during 1883. The red mud was nickel ore. Then the world used only 200 or 300 tons a year. However, a Glasgow engineer, James Riley, in 1880, found how to harden steel with nickel. Soon the United States navy began to use nickel-steel in armor plates, and other navies quickly followed. The world war kept Canada digging nickel day and night.

After peace, when the Washington disarmament conference reduced battleship building and cut the demand for nickel, the International and the Mond Nickel companies, now consolidated, acted with courage and resourcefulness. "By technical research they found new uses for nickel," says Thomas W. Gibson, deputy minister of mines. "Now it is shown to be as useful in the arts of peace as in the shock of war, and the mines of Sudbury supply 85 to 90 per cent of the world's consumption."

In 1911 Ontario mined only about $42,000 worth of gold. In 1931 more than $43,000,000 worth was recovered. From only about $2,500,000 in 1900, Ontario's output of all metals has increased enormously. In 1931 it was nearly $73,000,000.

Made Jefferson President

Matthew Lyon, Irish Boy Who Was Sold for a Yoke of Oxen and Was Congressman From Two States—Kept Burr From White House.

Nearly two centuries ago, July 14, 1750, there was born in Ireland a boy destined to become a big business man, to represent two of our states in congress and to cast the deciding vote for a President of the then unthought-of United States of America, Mary Gilbert Smith writes, in the Boston Globe.

His father, a member of a prominent family, was executed for his part in the White Boys' insurrection. His mother married again. Young Matthew Lyon, studious and enterprising, was well treated by his stepfather, who was proud and fond of the boy.

But he had heard of the strange new land beyond the seas and longed to try his fortunes there. One morning when he was fourteen he bargained with a sea captain to carry him to the province of Connecticut in return for his services as cabin boy. He had a guinea which he had saved from his pocket money, and he gave this to the captain for safe-keeping.

The captain hid him in the hold, so that no one would find him before the vessel sailed, and took the precaution to lock him in. Had he not done so, young Matthew's adventure would have ended that same morning. When his stepfather came seeking him, and called to him affectionately, the lad would have responded at once had he not been restrained by the locked door.

When they reached Connecticut, the captain betrayed the boy's trust by selling him into service as a "redemption" one of those impetuous emigrants who paid for their passage to the New world by serving as bond-servants for a number of years.

Fortunately for young Matthew, his services were secured by James Bacon, one of the wealthiest merchants in Connecticut; he was worth half a million when he died—a vast sum for those early days. His example and precepts did much to set the ambitious boy on his way. Trade at that time was largely by barter. Bacon gave a yoke of oxen for Lyon's services until he was twenty-one.

In after years when the young Irishman was a candidate for office this incident was distorted by his political opponents to show that he was of low origin and unfit to be a representative in congress. Lyon never apologized for the manner of his entry into Connecticut nor told of the deception that had been practiced upon him. Rather, he acted as if it were something he was proud of. He swore "by the bulls that redeemed me" to beat his opponents—and he did.

Of his work here, J. A. Graham, in a book published in London in 1797, says in part:

"Fair Haven joins on Skenesborough (now Whitehall, N. Y.) and is the most flourishing manufacturing town in the state. It owes its consequence to its founder, Colonel Lyon, whose enterprise and perseverance in promoting and carrying on manufactures has been of infinite utility to the public. He has erected a furnace for casting all kinds of hollow iron ware and two forges, a rolling mill for the making of nail rods, a paper mill, a printing press and corn and sawmills.

It is a curious fact that Colonel Lyon has executed a good deal of printing at his office, on paper manufactured by himself of the bark of the basswood tree, and which is found to answer every purpose for common printing. He has held some of the first ofices of the state and no man in it can be more qualified to do so, as his knowledge of the finances and situation of the country is scarcely to be equaled, nor does his integrity ever suffer him to lose sight of the real good of the people. His friendship and generosity are as great as his ambition. His passions and all his pursuits are exerted for the benefit of mankind."

Zenas H. Ellis of Fair Haven, who lives in the old Matthew Lyon home, has gathered a notable collection of Colonial relics, including a copy of the above-mentioned book and one of Franklin's autobiographies. "Together with Essays Humorous, Moral and Literary, chiefly in the manner of the Spectator, Printed and sold by J. Lyon, Fair Haven, Vt., 1793."

James Lyon was the eldest son of Col. Matthew Lyon. The book is printed on paper made in Colonel Lyon's mill and bound in leather tanned in his tannery.

It was James Lyon who published at Fair Haven the paper in which was printed Matthew Lyon's article attacking President John Adams, which caused Colonel Lyon's arrest under the alien and sedition law. He was fined $100 and sentenced to four months' imprisonment at Vergennes.

He was in jail at the time of the congressional election, but his constituents rolled up so large a majority for him that he was released to return to congress. The largest crowd assembled in Vermont in early days sped him on his way. He arrived in time to cast the decisive vote that made Thomas Jefferson President over Aaron Burr.

The restless spirit of the pioneer now urged Matthew Lyon to turn from things accomplished to a new country where everything was yet to be done. In Fair Haven he was at the head of a household of 10. Leaving his sons in charge of his many enterprises, he went to Arkansas and later to Kentucky, the next state after the original 13 to be admitted to the Union. Here he made his home for the rest of his life, and from here he was again returned to congress.

Radio May Be Weapon in Pest Extermination

Several years ago the writer made some preliminary tests on small quantities of infested wheat with a view to determining if radio methods could be effectively used to exterminate the eggs and larval forms which may be concealed within the material, as well as the adult insects.

Thirty and six-meter waves were used, the former of low capacity and the latter of high capacity. The 30-meter low-capacity waves were effective in exterminating adult insects in small quantities of wheat within a period of about 90 seconds, but the eggs later hatched out. With the 20-kilowatt, 6-meter waves, an exposure of six seconds was sufficient to exterminate eggs, larvae and adults.

The testing plant has been in operation for a year and many kinds of infested materials have been successfully treated, including wheat, corn, flower and garden seeds, tobacco, spices, nuts, beans, peas, cocoa beans, packaged and bulk milled cereals, and so on.

Results of the writer's research work indicate definitely that weevils in all stages of their development, from eggs to adults, can be exterminated without injury to the germinating properties of grain, or appreciably affecting the moisture content, and without adversely affecting the food value. There are indications that the germinating properties of wheat and other seeds treated may be enhanced.

Worms, mites and other infestations of cocoa beans, spices, tobacco, nuts, packaged cereals, and so on, can be exterminated without injury to the products treated. Where the equipment is properly installed there are no adverse effects upon persons working or stationed in the vicinity of the apparatus.—J. H. Davis in the Scientific American.

The Times Must Be Getting Much Better

With an increase in production of cars and trucks in August of this year, which more than tre-bled August, 1932, W. S. Knudsen, president and general manager of the Chevrolet Motor Co., an-nounced that it had passed the half millionth car in the year's output.

August production of 73,433 units was 204 per cent over the same month a year ago. It brought production for eight months to 511,433 units, as com-pared with 394,000 for the full twelve months of 1932.

When compared with 1930 and 1931, August, 1933, shows large increases, approximately 22,000 over the former and nearly 20,000 over the latter. The sizeable in-creases over those two years and the exceptionally large margin over August of last year show clearly and emphatically how business has turned for the better, Mr. Knudsen said.

The month just passed ranks fifth in point of production in August history. It was exceeded only by August of 1926, '27, '28, and '29.
