Bank Callers Delay Their Farm Loans

Because personal calls for information by applicants for loans and their creditors have been greatly slowing the closing of loans at The Federal Land Bank of Wichita, the bank is appealing that they write, instead of making a trip for such information. The business of the bank is organized to be handled by mail. Its officers explain that no one can obtain anything by calling at the bank which he can not get by letter. Each caller at the bank consumes the time of officers in discussing his application which could otherwise be used in acting on a dozen applications, including his own.

In order to conserve the time of those closing loans and to continue doubling the number of loans closed, it is not possible to give special consideration to their applications while callers are at the bank. Locating applications during working hours for interviews is not feasible. A night shift at the bank locates applications and attaches correspondence and memoranda for consideration the next day.

It is a waste of time and money, according to the bank, for callers to come to the bank to attempt to obtain increases in the amounts of approved loans or modification of requirements. Those who do come are interviewed for a statement they might better have presented by letter and a memorandum of the interview is attached to the application by the filing department that night for consideration the next day, the same as though it had come by letter.

The Methodist Church

Rev. John L. Lawson, Pastor.
"Joy to the world, the Lord is come, Let earth receive her King."—The Christmas story which lessens the happiness of the season will again be beautifully sung at the High School auditorium at eight o'clock, Sunday evening.

Over a period of six weeks forty men and women of Carrizozo and White Oak have rehearsed the enchanting cantata and you are invited to mingle and share the happiness the occasion affords.
The charge for the use of the auditorium will be paid by the Lawson family in humble and happy recognition of the goodwill of the community and in friendly expression of a "Merry Christmas" to everyone.

The regular, morning, church service will be held at Captain at eleven and the Carrizozo, young people's League service will be held at the church at seven. The afternoon church service at August will be at the usual hour.
The Carrizozo Sunday School attendance last week was 102, Mrs. T. A. Spencer's class leading with 31 young people.

Dr. N. L. Linebaugh, Presiding Elder of the Roswell District will be here Sunday evening and hold the first quarterly conference of the new church year at the High School auditorium immediately following the musical program.

The Livestock Situation

(By J. A. McNaughton)
Los Angeles, December 9, 1933.
Hog growers are more than ever convinced that whatever process ing taxes are levied by the Federal government upon meat packers are actually paid by the producer in getting a lower price for his hogs. This was a evident when a tax of a half cent a pound was placed on hogs November 5, and it was still more apparent December 1st, when the processing tax was increased to one cent a pound.

Packers' bids were sharply lower on December 1st, when the additional processing tax became effective. It means that the hog grower must finally turn over to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration fund a total of $2.00 on each 200 pound hog he markets. At present prices, this means a tax of 33 per cent, figuring the home value of hogs at three cents a pound.

Hog growers are beginning to complain about the high tax. While they admit that it is possible that a large share of the tax may be returned to those who contract to reduce their herds and the number of hogs marketed by 25 per cent, they feel that, the heavy tax at this time is more than they can afford to pay. Hog prices are still very low and in few cases, do the prices received by the farmer approach the cost of production. They point out the administration officials have not yet even presented a definite plan for those who wish to contract and they do not feel it at all likely that the benefits that might come from paying the tax will be paid until Spring. In the meantime, they are paying a tax often means the difference between breaking even and suffering a severe loss on every hog marketed.

In the far western states, where production is only a fraction of the demand, hog men do not want to be forced to join in the government program calling for reduction of herds. To those who do not wish to contract to reduce herds, the tax is even more oppressive than to the middle western farmers who may be willing to join in the pork program. It seems manifestly out of the question for packers to absorb the heavy tax. The packer explains that he will continue to pay for the producers' hogs all that the "traffic" will bear. But they must figure the tax as a part of the cost. Instead of the grower getting five cents a pound that the hog may now cost the packer, the grower is actually getting four cents and the government is getting one cent.

The tax comes at a time when the usual winter marketing season is under full swing and when in normal years, market values are at seasonally low. It has been hoped by those who have had charge of the government hog program, that supplies would be greatly reduced this winter because of the six million pigs that were slaughtered last fall. Apparently even this huge reduction campaign did not cut down supplies as much as had been hoped, probably because of restricted purchasing power on the part of consumers.

Adobe News

"A RAMBLING OBSERVATION"
If we are big enough inside to view other people through twin eyes of love and knowledge, we will be surprised how strangely alike we all are. I enjoy the varieties of people God has created, I would not change them if I could.

Mr. T. K. Martin of Bingham, N. M. passed through Adobe last Saturday en route to Texas to resume his work with the Santa Fe. Mrs. Martin accompanied him as far as Carrizozo.

Those of Adobe who attended the dance in the Gaines home Saturday night were: Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Cotter, Mrs. E. I. Griffin, Mrs. Lois Woods, Miss Ruby Hefner, Misses Thelma, Anne and Ruth Glover, Misses Julius and Letcher Glover and Wynne Withers.

Mr. Jess Garrison of Bingham, New Mex. passed through Adobe on his way to Carrizozo where he is employed in carpentry work.

Miss Ruby Hefner spent Sunday as a guest of Mrs. Lois Woods.

After making a swing around the country, National NRA administrator, General Hugh Johnson, fixes the opposition to the National Recovery plan at one percent. It is unfortunate, that, even a one percentage of the people should lead their efforts towards a delay of better times.

Mr. E. I. Griffin made a business trip to Socorro last Thursday.

Tom Hefner called at the D. F. Sawyer home Saturday morning.

Mr. John Cooper returned from a business trip to Ruidoso.

A Christmas Present for Yourself

This is the time of the year when most of us are thinking intently—and perhaps frantically—about the problem of Christmas gifts. And here's a good suggestion: Give a present to yourself; not for entirely selfish reasons, but in order to help those to whom Christmas this year might be just another day.

The kind of a gift that will accomplish this purpose is one that provides employment and entails the purchase of basic commodities. And nothing fills the bill more completely than property construction. Give yourself a new furnace or a roof or an electric kitchen or a garage or some new furniture. Better yet, if it's possible, give yourself a new home.

Local contractors and dealers in building materials would be glad to advise. They can show how real savings can be made by building now. Anyway buy yourself some kind of a present. You'll never regret it.

Dramatic and unprecedented, with vast potential achievement—that describes the new Civil Works Administration. It is, in the words of the President, a blow at the dole, at mentally debilitating charity which is often as psychologically destructive to the individual as it is socially destructive to the country at large. The purpose is to give 4,000,000 men work this winter. All able-bodied persons now receiving relief, are to be given regular, useful jobs at real wages. Two million people fall in this classification. Two million more, not on the relief rolls, are also to be provided with jobs. Great stress is laid on the influence this will have in increasing the public income, and sending more of the blood of money through the veins of trade.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Mayor McQuillen and Mr. Strauss are kept very busy in directing CWA activities. This work carries much responsibility, as there are so many different projects all over the county.

This is a time when there isn't any room for knockers. We are facing so many problems of readjustment. People's nerves are strained trying to put over the various big jobs which have been planned, and before giving voice to any criticism, we should consider whether or not we could handle the same things even half so well as is being done.

A fine dance was given at community hall last Saturday evening. The crowd was fair sized and the Revelers furnished their usual splendid brand of dance music.

The Teachers' Association met in historic Lincoln last Friday for a one day session. They report a most enjoyable day. Mr. J. Verl Groce of Carrizozo proved to be an excellent leader, for the general singing which is always enjoyed so much.

Whatever happens, don't forget to visit the Carrizozo Hardware Company tomorrow between the hours of 2:30 and 5 p. m. Take the children to see Santa Claus.

The Woman's Club Annual Christmas Bazaar held at El Cibola hotel last Saturday, was a success. The lovely and comfortable lobby furnished an excellent place for the display of fancy work, etc., and made such a pleasant place for social chatter.

Mr. L. A. Whitaker of Oscura was here Tuesday on business.

Mr. G. L. Strauss went to Oscura Monday in connection with the CWA road work which is in progress down there.

Mrs. J. V. Taylor of the I-X ranch spent part of this week here at El Cibola hotel.

The Titworth Company will have their annual prize drawing on Dec. 23rd. Read their ad in the Lincoln County News for particulars.

Lovely gifts are to be found at Ziegler's to please every member of the family. Their ad appears on page 8 of the News.

NEW FORD V-8 for 1934

THE UNIVERSAL CAR

The New Ford V-8 for 1934 is now on display at the showrooms of Ford dealers. Surpassing even the great Ford of 1933 in economy, beauty and comfort, it is truly the car of this modern age—the culmination of thirty years Ford progress. It combines the proved performance of the V-8 cylinder engine with two important new features—Dual Carburetion and perfected Clear-vision Ventilation. See this car today and drive it at the first opportunity.

OUTSTANDING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE NEW FORD V-8

BETTER PERFORMANCE. Greater power, new speed, quicker acceleration, smoother performance, more miles per gallon especially at higher speeds, and quicker starting in cold weather—all these result from the new dual carburetor and dual intake manifold. New water-line thermostats enable the engine to warm up more quickly and to maintain an efficient operating temperature. Added engine refinements reduce oil consumption, further improve operating economy and reduce maintenance costs.

NEW VENTILATION SYSTEM permits clear vision, prevents drafts and provides desired amount of fresh air in any weather. Individual control for front and rear side windows. When ventilation is desired the window glass is raised to the top. Then the handle is given an additional half-turn. This slides the glass back horizontally to form a narrow slot. Through this slot air is drawn out by the forward motion of the car. This simple ventilation system maintains draft-free circulation, insures passenger comfort, prevents fogging windshield in cold or stormy weather. Both windshield and cowl ventilator can be opened to supply additional air needed for comfortable warm-weather driving.

DISTINCTIVE NEW APPEARANCE enhanced by the newly designed chromium-plated radiator shell and grille, new hood louvers, new hub caps. Interiors are attractive, with new tufted upholstery, new mouldings, new cove-type headlining, new instrument panel, new arm rests, new hardware. Swivel-type sun visors in De Luxe bodies prevent glare from front or side.

FENDERS IN COLOR. On De Luxe cars fenders are in color to harmonize with body colors—wheel covers optional. New enamel finish on all bodies and fenders has greater wearing quality and more enduring luster.

GREATER RIDING COMFORT results from increased spring flexibility. The spring leaves are newly designed for quiet and easy action. Shock absorbers are improved. Seat cushions are deeper, with new softer springs. New type, individual bucket seats provide increased comfort for front-seat passengers in the Tudor Sedan. Adding to comfort is the new driving ease of the 15-to-1 steering gear ratio.

Men Who Helped "Make" Christmas

Joel Roberts Poinsett

First Portrait of Santa Claus

Washington Irving

The First Christmas Card

Einar Holboell

James Kirk Paulding

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

WHEN you read the title of this article, did you exclaim, "Men who helped 'make' Christmas—why, what does that mean? There was only one man who made Christmas and he was born nearly 2,000 years ago."

True! If it had not been for the birth of Jesus Christ, there would be no occasion for celebrating December 25 as Christmas day. And if that celebration had been kept to its original form, there would be no occasion for writing an article such as this.

But the fact is that there has grown up around the celebration of Christmas a great variety of customs, traditions and practices which we now regard as essential parts of that observance even though they may have departed from its original meaning. Some of these have had such a gradual evolution that it would be impossible to ascribe them definitely to any one person. But there are others which we can trace directly to one or more individuals—hence the theme of "men who helped make Christmas" what it is now in this article.

Certainly Santa Claus seems to be an essential part of the Christmas celebration. Speak of him and there rises to mind a picture of a plump, elf-like little man who radiates laughter and good cheer. Why should he be that sort of person instead of the stern, gaunt, rather forbidding figure, solemn and majestic in trailing robes, carrying in one hand a basket of presents and in the other a birch rod, as an awful warning to naughty children, such as he was when he was known as Sinterklaas, or the Bishop-Saint Nicholas, by the first Dutch settlers in this country?

The answer to that question is the names of three writers—James K. Paulding, Washington Irving and Dr. Clement G. Moore—and an unknown American artist. It was Washington Irving who, in his "Knickerbocker's History of New York," in 1809 wrote the first description of the now type of Santa Claus and made Sinterklaas, or St. Nicholas, the patron saint of the Dutch colonists of New Amsterdam, the archetype of all of those jovial, many-breeched, long pipe-smoking burghers.

The next writer to paint a word portrait of Santa Claus was Irving's friend and collaborator, James Kirk Paulding, who in his "Book of St. Nicholas," first published in 1827, said Santa Claus was "as gallant a little Dutchman as ever smoked his way through the world, pipe foremost."

But it remained for Dr. Clement Clark Moore in his poem, "A Visit from St. Nicholas," to give a more definite word portrait of St. Nicholas and pretty definitely establish in the mind of the public what Santa Claus looked like.

How much Moore drew upon Irving and Paulding for his description is not known but there is a curious parallelism in some of his words and some of theirs, although Moore, himself, 40 years later said that "a portly, rubecked Dutchman living in the neighborhood of his father's country seat, Chelsea," near New York city suggested to him the idea of making St. Nicholas the hero of his Christmas piece for his children.

Then in 1839 a book called "The Poets of America," edited by John Keese, was published. It contained Moore's poem and the illustration for that was a picture of Santa Claus. (Reproduced above.) Who the painter or the engraver was is unknown but it is believed that this was the first time a picture of Santa Claus was ever printed. Thus it was Washington Irving, James K. Paulding, Clement G. Moore and the unknown illustrator of Keese's "Poets of America" helped "make" Christmas by giving us our present idea of the patron saint of the holiday.

What would Christmas be without Christmas hymns and Christmas carols? And what song has been more often sung on Christmas Eve or is more beloved than "Silent Night, Holy Night"? It was on December 24 of the year 1818 that Josef Mohr, assistant pastor of the newly established St. Nicholas parish church in the little village of Oberndorf, near Salzburg, Austria, handed to Franz Gruber, a schoolmaster of Arnsdorf, who was organist for the church, a poem with the request that he write for it a suitable melody arranged for two solo voices, chorus and a guitar accompaniment—the reason for the latter being that the organ in the little church had broken down.

So Franz Gruber sat down at his grandfather's desk immediately wrote a simple melody for the poem and that night on Christmas Eve, in St. Nicholas parish church was for the first time sung "Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht."

To the fact that the little organ in Oberndorf had broken down is due the widespread popularity of the hymn. The organ builder, Karl Mauchner of Fussen in Bavaria, had been sent for to make the necessary repairs. He heard the air and hummed it in his native country, where it became very popular in a short time and soon spread all over the world.

Thus it was, too, that Josef Mohr and Franz Gruber, two Austrians, helped "make" Christmas.

Do you enjoy sending out Christmas cards to your friends? If you do, then you should know the name of Sir Henry Cole, an Englishman, for it was he who originated this custom. Later famous as a social and educational reformer, Henry Cole was a pioneer in illustrating children's books with woodcuts of famous paintings. In 1840 he conceived the idea of sending decorative cards to his friends, bearing his good wishes for their happiness at Christmas. So he went to his friend, J. C. Horsley, a member of the Royal Academy in London, for the design and the result was the card which is reproduced above.

But few Englishmen followed Cole's lead and the business of making Christmas cards got under way very slowly in England. It was even slower in getting started in this country. In 1873 Louis Prang, a lithographer of Boston, exhibited samples of his flowered business cards at the Vienna exposition and they attracted considerable attention. He had an agency in London and one of his women employees there (her name is unknown) suggested to him that he put a greeting in place of the name of his firm and issue them as Christmas cards. This was done the next year, so that 1874 marks the beginning of the Christmas card in this country.

So Sir Henry Cole, the Englishman, and Louis Prang, an American, can be added to the list of men who helped "make" Christmas.

Do your letters go out bearing a Christmas seal as well as a postage stamp these days? If they do, it's because Einar Holboell, a clerk in the post office at Copenhagen, Denmark, while sorting the mountain of Christmas mail in 1893, had the idea of another stamp for letters which should combine a Christmas decoration idea with some practical purpose.

He went with his plan to the head of the postal service and others with influence and authority. And so, when the first Christmas seal committee held a meeting to discuss the purpose and use of the possible income from the Christmas seal, and it was decided that the first object was the erection of a hospital for tubercular children, and, in general, the income from the seal should always be for the fight against tuberculosis, in one form or another.

Upon application to the then King Christian IX, Holboell secured the permission to have a likeness of the deceased Queen Louise on the first Christmas seal, and the king became so interested that he himself selected the picture which he wished used.

The success of the venture was overwhelming. The first printing of 2,000,000 seals was immediately increased to 6,000,000 and over 5,000,000 were sold. Since that time the Christmas seal sale in Denmark has brought in enough money to erect large numbers of sanitariums and convalescent homes for tubercular patients. Holboell, the modest postal assistant, became postmaster at Charlotten Sund, near Copenhagen, and a Danish cross of Knighthood was his badge of honor. He died of heart trouble in his sixty-second year on February 23, 1927.

In 1800 the idea reached America and when Jacob Rilla, a native of Denmark who had become an American, saw the queer little stamp on mail arriving from his homeland he immediately sent a letter of inquiry to Denmark. The reply was a personal one from Mr. Holboell, who explained in detail the method of procedure. Through an American woman, Miss Emily Bissell, the idea was presented to the American Red Cross, which, after several years of successful sales, turned the project over to the American National Anti-Tuberculosis association, which has since had charge of it.

So Einar Holboell, the Dane, Jacob Rilla, the Danish-American, and Miss Emily Bissell, the American, helped "make" Christmas.

If William Eustis, secretary of war in 1800, hadn't turned down the suggestion of President Madison that Joel Roberts Poinsett be appointed quartermaster general of the army, we might never have had those brilliant crimson flowers which we know as poinsettias as a part of our Christmas decoration. Here's why:

Joel Roberts Poinsett was a native of South Carolina, who studied medicine for a time at Edinburgh university and later graduated in military science and mathematics at Woolwich academy. His health necessitated a long period of travel in Europe and Asia, after which he returned to America and requested President Madison to furnish him with military employment. Madison made the suggestion of the quartermaster-generalship but Eustis objected. So Madison offered Poinsett a mission to South America for the purpose of establishing friendly relations with the people there and investigating the prospects of their struggle for independence from Spain.

This led to his becoming something of an authority on Latin-American relations, to his appointment to a special mission to Mexico in 1822 and his appointment as the first United States minister to that country in 1823. While holding that position he first beheld the exotic beauty of a brilliant red flower native to that country. When Poinsett returned to his home in South Carolina in 1829 he brought with him some of the seeds of the plant and just a hundred years ago, in 1823, he sold some of the plants which he had grown in his hothouse to Robert Bulet of Philadelphia. Bulet named the flower "Euphorbia poinsettia" and although the scientific name has since become "Euphorbia pulcherrima" the name poinsettia, honoring the man who brought it to this country, has stuck and it has become one of our chief floral decorations at Christmas time.

Poinsett later became secretary of war in Van Buren's cabinet, after which he retired from public life. In the cemetery of the town of Statesburg, S. C., is a simple marble tablet which bears this inscription "Sacred to the memory of Joel R. Poinsett, who departed this life on the twelfth of December, 1861, in the seventy-third year of his life. A pure patriot, an honest man, and a good Christian."

To this might be added "He helped 'make' Christmas."

Sweet Clover to New High Record

Varieties and Strains for Almost Every Condition and Purpose.

Prepared by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.—WNU Service. Illinois farmers already have adjusted their crop acreages to the point where they are growing almost eighteen times as much sweet clover as they were thirteen years ago, but this crop may be expected to spread to new prominence under the wheat program of the agricultural adjustment administration, according to a new bulletin, "Sweet Clover in Illinois," which was recently released by the experiment station of the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois.

As a soil improvement crop for the acres which will be retired from wheat production, sweet clover has no superior among the legumes, according to the authors of the bulletin.

Experimental work started by the University of Illinois College of Agriculture in 1905 helped pave the way for an increase in the state's sweet clover acreage from 48,000 acres in 1919 to 850,000 acres in 1932. It is pointed out in the bulletin. These studies have been expanded and continued up to the present. The new bulletin reports the results of experiments made as early as 1917 and as late as 1932.

With new demands being made upon the sweet clover crop by the agricultural adjustment program and other farm developments, varieties and strains are being developed and adapted to almost every condition and use, according to the bulletin. Of the more than twenty-five known species of sweet clover grown in various parts of the world, more than half have been tried in the United States. The biennial white-flowered sweet clover, Mellilotus alba, is the most important and constitutes more than 80 per cent of all the sweet clover grown in the corn belt.

Another reason why sweet clover is expected to play a leading role in the agricultural adjustment program is the fact that the culture of it is easier than that of the other common legumes. The usual dates of seeding are the latter part of February and the first of March in southern Illinois, and the latter part of March and the first of April in northern Illinois. Early seeding is important. Unhulled seed may be sown in wheat as early as December.

A large proportion of Illinois farmers use sweet clover both for pasture and soil improvement. The crop can furnish more grazing than almost any other common corn-belt pasture plant.

Complex Mineral Feeds Needless Farm Expense

Farmers can economize on the feeding of complex mineral mixtures to livestock without any danger of cutting down their returns, according to a circular, "The Feeding of Mineral Supplements to Livestock," issued by the College of Agriculture, University of Illinois. The publication is an up-to-date revision of a previous circular on the same subject by H. H. Mitchell, chief in animal nutrition.

Carefully conducted experiments have failed to show any need for complex mineral mixtures in general practice, the circular points out.

Minerals should be used in the feeding of livestock only as supplements to rations that have been properly balanced in other respects, particularly in respect to protein. Mineral supplements, therefore, need contain only a few minerals in which farm feeds are known to be deficient. These can be supplied cheaply and mixed on the farm.

All mineral mixtures should contain common salt and a calcium supplement. As a measure of safety some form of calcium phosphate may be used, particularly for dairy cows and for growing animals subsisting mainly on pastures grown on poor soils.

Down the Lane

Insects devour one-tenth of the world's crops.

Oats rank third among the important cereal crops of the United States.

Land formerly planted to rice in the Hawaiian Islands has yielded a big potato crop.

Forty per cent of the United States tobacco crop has been exported, on an average for the past several years.

Hail losses paid by the Montana board of hail insurance were heavier in 1932 than in any other year since 1917.

In experiments by University of Minnesota agriculturists to determine best crops for best soil, corn gave the highest acre values.

Garbanzo, a Spanish bean or pea, has been successfully introduced into the lower Rio Grande valley of Texas.

This year more than ever, it will pay the dairymen to get rid of unprofitable cows and to feed liberally the high producers.

Spread manure with about 60 pounds of superphosphate added to the ton of manure, promptly on the fields that are to grow corn, beans, or cabbage next season.

ADDS ONE MORE DIVORCE QUIRK

Decision Made by Referee May Be Good Law, But—

The dowager duchess of Manchester left her residuary estate to her son, the present duke, and his wife—$1,050,000 in trust with an annual income of $183,000. When the will was signed the wife of the duke was the former Helena Zimmermann, daughter of a Cincinnati millionaire. Now a referee appointed by a Supreme court justice in Manhattan decides that the present duchess is the beneficiary, the former Kathleen Ethel Dawes, of Greenwich, Conn., whom Manchester married the day his first wife's divorce decree was effective, December 17, 1931.

The referee, attempting to interpret British law, holds that the rights of the former duchess ended with her divorce. "The provision should not be considered as referring to the particular person who was the duke's wife at the time of the execution of the will."

So the dowager duchess is in the legal picture as bestowing half benefits in an estate of nearly two millions, not on the "wife," the mother of her grandchildren, whom she knew, but on some unknown woman whom the duke might later marry. Most reasoners will hold that the intention of the testator is ignored. Incidentally, the fortune is largely American in origin. Consuelo, the dowager, was the daughter of Antonio Xanaga de Yalle, of Ravenwood, La.

Apparently the mother had some idea of the marital instability of her dual son, for she granted the use and enjoyment of a lot of family jewels to "the wife for the time being" of the duke "during her marriage with my son." In these days complications of this sort may happen in the best of families. Internationalism is rarely involved. Whether the report of this referee will be affirmed by the court we can only guess. It has a keen interest for students of modern divorce law.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Her Christmas Dolly

The Christmas Present By Helen Gaisford

Shepherd's Little Boy Martha Manning Thomas

THE gay Christmas colors of the packages in Gloria Parson's arms made a bright spot in the whirling snow.

She picked her way along the snow-covered path to the Stevens' cottage. Old Mrs. Stevens answered her knock. "Why, Gloria! it is Christmas, isn't it?"

"Yea, indeed," Gloria replied. "Time to be merry! Now this wreath goes on the window, so! And here is a bit of fruit cake and some other goodies.

"Bless your kind soul," Mrs. Stevens answered. "I don't know how to thank you for all you've done for old folks.

"Why you aren't forgotten, Mrs. Stevens," said Gloria. "I could never forget you."

"No, you've been a dear, but sometimes—"

She was interrupted by a knock at the door, where there stood a tall, broad-shouldered man.

"Then, as she gasped in astonishment, he put her down. "Mother," he asked, "don't you know your own son Jim?"

"Why, it is—it is my boy!" she clasped him to her. "Father," she cried, "it's our boy Jim come home again."

"I'll just say Merry Christmas and run along," Gloria began, but Mrs. Stevens would not hear of it.

"I just want to thank you for all you've done for them," he told her. "You can't think much of me, letting them down this way.

"Yes, indeed, my son."

"Well, I think she's great. I've made my pile, and I'm going to stay home from now on.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Al Smith Joins "Tories" Who Demand Sound Dollar—Opposition to Roosevelt's Monetary Policy Grows—Californians Lynch Two Murdering Kidnappers.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

MORE loudly every day is heard the demand for a return to the "sound money" by the increasing number of those whom the President has termed "torics"; for, as the time for the assembling of congress nears there is a fast growing fear that the inflationists in that body will move for the starting of the money printing presses.

That the dispute over the President's monetary policy is not partisan is emphasized by the stand taken by Alfred E. Smith in an open letter written for the December issue of the New Outlook but released to the press in advance.

Mr. Smith expressed his disbelief that "the Democratic party is fated to be always the party of greenbackers, paper money printers, free-silverites, currency managers, rubber dollar manufacturers, and crackpots."

He added that if this is to be so "the issue is more than a partisan one, because we are dealing today with the party which actually holds responsible government office, which is not merely advocating cure-alls in a campaign, but which has in its hands the present welfare of 130,000,000 people and the future of our most cherished American institutions."

"What we need in this country is absolute dependability in our money standards. It is the only thing which will restore confidence. The latest fiscal moves of the administration have undermined public confidence. They have created uncertainty.

"Uncertainty paralyzes business, discourages private initiative, drives money into hiding, and places the entire burden of sustaining the population on the central government.

"In the absence of anything definitely known to be better, I am for a return to the gold standard. I am for gold dollars as against baloney dollars. I am for experience as against experiment. If I must choose between private management of business and management of a government bureaucracy, I am for private management.

"I am ready to go through a certain amount of deflation if the choice is between this and outright money inflation. If I must choose between the leaders of the past, with all the errors they have made and with all the selfishness they have been guilty of, and the inexperienced young college professors who hold no responsible public office, but are perfectly ready to turn 130,000,000 Americans into guinea pigs for experimentation, I am going to be for the people who have made the country what it is.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT himself made no comment on Mr. Smith's letter, but it drew from General Johnson, NRA administrator, who was at Warm Springs, a characteristically violent burst of denunciation. The general also made an unwarranted attack on Professor Sprague, calling him a "lithero obscure professor" who "by a dramatic resignation obtained his little hour or two to strut across the stage."

Loft, Inc., which operates a chain of restaurants and candy stores throughout the country. General Johnson ordered the company to remove the Blue Eagle from its stores in Washington, and charges made against it by the New York compliance board were under investigation, President C. G. Guth of the company denied the accusations.

THOUSANDS of furious Californians stormed the jail at San Jose, fought a desperate battle with the police and dragged out Jack Holmes and Thomas Thurmond, confessed kidnapers and murderers of Brooke L. Hart, the young son of a prominent merchant, and hanged them to trees in the city park.

ROGER TOUHY and three companions, tried in St. Paul for the kidnaping of William Hamm, Jr., fared better than did the California kidnapers and murderers. The four Chicago gangsters were acquitted by a jury. It was the first defeat for the federal government in the kidnaping cases in which it has figured since passage of the so-called Lindbergh law at the last session of congress.

MISSOURIANS followed the example set by the San Jose Californians and resorted to lynch law to punish the negro assailant of a young white woman. A mob at St. Joseph battled with the police and National Guardsmen and took Lloyd Warner from the jail and hanged and burned him. Gov. Guy B. Park declined to comment.

FRANCE has a new premier and a new ministry. Camille Chautemps has succeeded Albert Sarraut, who was overthrown by the chamber of deputies, and has formed a government that includes fourteen of the former cabinet members, among these being Paul-Boncour, Daladier and Sarraut, and many believe the new cabinet is designed to prepare the way for the return of that veteran Socialist. Herriot was turned out of the premiership a year ago because he wanted to pay the war debt due the United States; and has refused to take part in the government until after December 15—the anniversary of his downfall and the date when another installment is due.

THE Co-operative Farmers National Grain corporation, which has been fighting for years for full membership in the Chicago Board of Trade, proposed an amendment to the grain exchange code which would compel the board to grant it and other co-operatives full trading and clearing privileges.

Gov. W. I. Myers of the federal farm credit administration, in a letter to Farm Administrator George M. Peek, which went into the record, gave the full support of the government to the amendment.

Two other governmental spokesmen, Dr. J. W. T. Duvel of the grain futures administration and Wendell Byrd, special assistant to the attorney general, likewise approved the Farmers' National proposal. In view of these manifestations of federal sanction, it was regarded as virtually certain that the amendments would be approved despite the serious opposition of the exchanges.

PHYSICISTS of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology are now ready to proceed with their attempt to smash the atom, for the huge generator designed by Dr. R. V. Van De Graff successfully passed its test at Round Hill, Mass.

A 7,000,000 volt direct current bolt of man-made lightning split and cracked from the two giant aluminum cylinders which act as terminals of the generator and flashed between each other and to the roof and walls of the converted hangar which houses it. This first test, witnessed by a handful of distinguished scientists and the anxious designers and makers of the generator, more than fulfilled the hopes of physicists who believe that when it is in operation to its full capacity of 10,000,000 volts it will tear the veil from the innermost secrets of nature.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM GREEN of the American Federation of Labor says that unemployment in the United States reached 10,070,000 in October, an increase of 11,000 over September, but that this increase was exceptionally small for that time of year. He gives warning that unstinted co-operation of the citizenry will be necessary to keep the number of jobless from growing much larger during the winter, but he sets forth these favorable factors:

Average wages increased slightly from September to October, amounting to $1.20 a month, or 1.4 per cent. Cost of living rose only one-half of 1 per cent, slightly reducing the individual worker's loss of real income since March, bringing this down to 1.1 per cent. Dollar buying power of workers in October was $600,000,000 per month above March. Real buying power—that is, increased wages reduced by increased cost of living—rose 23.1 per cent above the March level.

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR, chief of staff, in his annual report to Secretary of War Denn, declares that the army's strength is now "below the danger line." He warns that our military standing is seven-tenths in world relative strength and, and speaks of the "obvious state of unrest now prevailing throughout the world." The general's recommendations for increasing the army's efficiency include: A boost in regular army enlisted strength from 120,000 to 165,000, with immediate exemption of the enlisted man from the 15 per cent government pay cut.

An expenditure of nearly $200,000,000 on aircraft, modernization and motorization of the field artillery, mechanization, anti-aircraft equipment and general motorization. Maintenance of the National Guard at existing strength with 49 drill periods and two weeks' active training annually.

At least 120,000 reserve officers with two weeks' annual training for at least 30,000. At present there are 119,000 reserve officers but only 87,000 are eligible for active duty training. Restoration of the 1932 instruction and personnel scale for the R. O. T. C. and C. M. T. C. The chief of staff said the army's mobilization of the civilian conservation corps was in striking contrast with the 1917 mobilization and gave "renewed evidence of the value of systematic preparation for emergency."

But, he added, the heavy drain on the army's 12,000 regular officers in marshaling these 300,000 men "has brought regular army training in the continental United States to a virtual standstill and has almost destroyed the readiness of units for immediate and effective employment on emergency duty."

LIEUT. COL. ABELARDO HEIRERA, the hated chief of the Matanzas military district under the regime of former President Machado of Cuba, and four other former officers paid with their lives for the many murders of which they were accused. They were taken from San Severino castle at Matanzas, lined up before masked men and shot to death with machine guns. The five men had been prisoners since August 12, the day Machado was driven from the island. Chief of the crimes attributed to them was the killing of the five Alvarez brothers, prominent anti-Machado revolutionists, in 1932.

ROBERT LEY, trade union commissioner under the Hitler government of Germany, has announced plans for the reorganization of Germany's labor unions into a giant group to which employers and foreigners also will be eligible. The changes will become effective January 1, it was indicated, and meanwhile unions will not be permitted to accept new members. Under the reorganization scheme, every employer must join in his own name rather than in that of a firm.

Never-Ending Search for Safe Insecticides

Largely through the research of the Department of Agriculture, many improvements in insecticides, and fumigants have been perfected. The welfare of the American apple industry is dependent in considerable measure upon lead arsenate, more than 50,000,000 pounds being used annually. Calcium arsenate has proved to be the most effective insecticide in checking the cotton boll weevil. New fumigants have been developed by the department for eradicating insects in stored grain, which avoid the fire hazard connected with the use of carbon disulphide.

Dr. Henry G. Knipt, chief of the bureau of chemistry and soils, explains that one of the serious problems connected with the general use of insecticides is the possible effect of their residues upon human health. Restrictions as to arsenic content in products for both domestic use and for export have been met by improved methods of washing fruit, but these methods add to costs and may cause storage losses. Department experts constantly are experimenting to develop more effective insecticides that are harmless to man.
