University Students Have Narrow Escape

Last Sunday Miss Jane Spencer and her three young student friends from the University at Albuquerque, came very near having their Thanksgiving holiday spoiled, and narrowly escaped serious injury on a dangerous curve forty-two miles from here near Carthage, when their car struck a drainage ditch and turned over three times. Miss Spencer's guests were: Misses Gertrude Moulton of Albuquerque; Verne Gault, Tucumcari and Maxine Nordhouse, Albuquerque. They were in Miss Moulton's car, who was driving. Miss Spencer was thrown clear of the car as it turned over, and was uninjured except for being bruised and shaken. In a short time a truck passed and picked the girls up and took them to a house. Jane went on to Carthage and phoned her father. He and Dr. Johnson hurried to them, and brought them to the Johnson hospital where they were X-rayed, their injuries dressed and they were put to bed. Misses Moulton and Nordhouse each had a fractured collar bone, Miss Gault had a fractured hand and elbow. In the meantime Mr. Moulton and Dr. Lovelace did not know the girls had been rescued, so they hurried to the scene of the wreck with two ambulances from Albuquerque. When they reached Carthage and found the girls had been brought here one ambulance was sent back while Mr. Moulton and Dr. Lovelace came on here. Monday morning all returned to Albuquerque. The girls will be able to proceed with their studies in the University.

THE FIRST GOOD SNOW

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WHEN you find the first white hair, Sort of takes you by surprise. You have had your usual care, Clouds that came to summer skies, But the clouds have drifted on, And the sun has shone again— Though the spring has passed and gone, Never thought of winter then.

But some morning in the fall, Yes, some day before you know, You will find the meadows all Covered with the first good snow, It's a warning and a sign That the winter isn't far, And you fill the shed with pine, Knowing what our winters are.

When you find the first white hair It is time to think of things, Wipe your heart in warmer wear, In the faith that comfort brings, Draw up closer to the fire, To the loved and loving near, Think of things the old require, For the first good snow is here.

CAKE WISDOM

FROM the lowly gingerbread to the luscious melting sweetness of the Lady Baltimore, there are cakes and still more cakes. There are cakes for every occasion, birthday, Christmas, wedding and christening cakes.

With cake for dessert there is an infinite variety from which to choose. A square of gingerbread with whipped cream flavored with a bit of chopped preserved ginger and sweetened with its syrup—there is nothing equal to it, if you like ginger.

Chocolate cakes seem to hold the preference, they may be rich and luscious, full of soft rich fillings of fruit and nuts, or plain, covered with a fudge frosting, any kind, if chocolate, is welcome.

Ribbon cake, an old-fashioned favorite, is another pretty cake with its light and dark layers and fruity filling. Cup cakes filled with various fillings are always popular. Scoop out the center, leaving a shell thick enough to hold a chocolate nut filling or sweetened and flavored whipped cream and topped with a maraschino cherry. Chocolate cup cakes filled with a mocha or a caramel filling are especially tasty.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

REDDY COMES BACK WITH A BRIGHT IDEA

IN VAIN Reddy Fox sat on the bank of the Smiling Pool waiting for Jerry Muskrat to reappear. After awhile it became clear to Reddy that Jerry didn't intend to return. He got up and stretched. Then he yawned. He looked down in the Smiling Pool and his face was anything but pleasant. In fact there was an ugly look on Reddy's face.

"Now what did he have to think of that mud for?" growled Reddy to himself. "Everything was going fine until he thought of that mud. He was so interested in the plans for that

"Hello, Jerry Muskrat!" He cried. house for me that in a few minutes more I would have had him out of there to show me what to do and how to do it. Then he remembered that he had to have mud to build a house properly and that ended his interest. I believe he was as disappointed at having to give up the idea of that house as I am at not having him for my dinner. I must think this over. I certainly must."

The next night Reddy was back at the Smiling Pool, just as pleasant as ever, and, if Jerry Muskrat had only known it, just as crafty as ever. He waited some time for Jerry to show himself. You see, having remembered that no house could be built without mud and that there was no mud to be had where Reddy would want to build a house, Jerry had given up all thought of that house and concluded that Reddy had done the same. So he wasn't looking for Reddy to return this night.

As soon as he saw Jerry swimming Reddy called to him. "Hello, Jerry Muskrat!" he cried. "I've good news for you, I've thought of a way to get the mud for that new house, so we won't have to give up our plans after all."

In an instant Jerry was all interested, he headed straight toward the bank where Reddy was sitting. "How are we to get that mud?" he squeaked. "I've thought and thought and thought until my head ached, but the only way I could think of is to carry it from here, and that we can't do." Reddy grinned. "Listen," said he. "What is mud?"

"Why—why—why I suppose it is earth and water," stammered Jerry. "Exactly," replied Reddy. "Certainly. Of course. To be sure. Now don't you see how we can get all the mud we need?"

Jerry scratched one ear. Then he scratched the other ear. "No-o-o," he replied slowly. "No-o-o, I can't say that I do."

"Well wait until it rains!" cried Reddy triumphantly. "We'll wait until it rains and then we will get all the mud we need from the pile of earth I have thrown out in digging my underground house. Wasn't it clever of me to think of that. Now we won't have to give up the house after all and you will help me build it just as we planned. We'll make it the most wonderful house that ever was!"

For a minute or two Jerry Muskrat brightened up. Then he remembered that what Reddy probably had thrown out was mostly sand, and sand does not make real mud.

"You'll have to think again, Reddy Fox," said he, and told him why. So once more Reddy went away disappointed.

The New Mexico state superintendent of Public Instruction has requested from all counties the names of unemployed teachers.

Arizona State Highway Department officials disclosed that $23,264.45 of the $258,466.93 collected during September as gasoline taxes was apportioned to unemployment relief. The county governments received $61,590.12 of the amount and the state, $127,881.86.

A five-million-dollar improvement program, designed to aid the nomadic Navajo Indians to become an agricultural race, is in progress on the consolidated Navajo reservation. The new reservation is the result of the combination of Navajo territories in Arizona, New Mexico, Utah and Colorado.

Helen Hockenhill, 18, daughter of A. W. Hockenhill, the new governor of New Mexico, was winner in an election to select the most popular girl at the Colorado Woman's College. Miss Hockenhill defeated Helen Holm, president of the student council, by a close margin, the returns disclosed.

Nineteen miles of road construction through a portion of the Sitgreaves National forest has been completed by the Haft Canyon Civilian Conservation Corps, which has now moved to a new camp site twelve miles west of Miami. It is expected that further road construction work will be done by the C. C. C. next summer.

County attorneys of the seven Arizona counties in which banks or corporations have brought suits asking injunctions against collection of taxes assessed against them, met with Assistant Attorney General Charles Strauss recently, to consider a plan of action whereby the state hopes to have the action dismissed. The banks and corporations charge discrimination in the tax suits.

Congressman Dennis Chavez has been elected Democratic national committeeman from New Mexico to succeed the late Gov. Arthur Seligman.

The National Miners' Union has sent coal mine operators affected by the strike in Gallup an invitation to negotiate for settlement. It was the first definite move toward arbitration since arrival of Maj. John Moore, special investigator for the national labor board.

The rope and the scaffold as a means of inflicting death penalties for first degree murder was relegated to the ash heap recently, when Governor Moeur affixed his signature to a proclamation declaring the people by their vote on Oct. 3 had carried a constitutional amendment providing for execution by lethal gas. At the same time the governor brought into existence as state laws the basic science law and the deficiency judgment law.

The proposed $2,300,000 Pine River dam project on the Consolidated Ute reservation in southwestern Colorado would benefit white settlers in the area even more than the Indians, H. C. Neuffer, district supervising engineer for the Indian irrigation service, said recently. Neuffer said the dam would store a capacity of 100,000 acre feet and during normal flow of the river would supply sufficient water for irrigation of the 16,000 acres of irrigable reservation land and 35,000 acres of white settlers' land.

Hidden from sight for years and yet ridden over by scores of persons, a prehistoric Indian burial place has been discovered in the roadbed of the old Clouderst highway in the Sacramento mountains near Alamogordo. The discovery was made by a party of deer hunters who, while following the old roadway came upon a place where the summer rains had washed away a part of the road. Less than a foot below the surface of the roadbed sat an Indian skeleton, most of which had been exposed to full view by the flood, with a red terra cotta bowl over the skull. The bowl bore an intricate geometrical design made of five rectangular figures. The figures were so drawn that they formed one continuous line about the bowl without a break from start to finish.

A letter received recently by Senator Cutting (R), New Mexico, from the reclamation bureau said an investigation cannot be made at this time into the proposed diversion of waters from the San Juan basin in Colorado to the Chama and Rio Grande rivers in New Mexico. "We have recently had a number of requests to take up the investigation of projects in this class throughout the arid section of the United States," said a letter from M. A. Schnur, acting reclamation commissioner, "but in all such cases it has been necessary to reply that, in view of the large amount of construction work that has come under the supervision of the bureau of reclamation, it has not been possible to assign competent engineers and engineering equipment to such work. It may be that at later date this project could be examined and a report prepared," the letter states.

Pilot Johnny, Martin of American Airways was responsible for the rescue of a horse mired in a water hole near Tucson. Martin radioed local officials of the animal's plight and forest rangers were sent to rescue the horse.

Attorney General Arthur LaPrade has been urged to protest claims of Mexico for a share of Colorado River water. The legislator said that should Arizona be granted water sufficient to irrigate 5,000,000 acres of land, that Mexico's needs would be amply met by runoff water.

Perfect Wash Depends on Right Kind of Soap

Washday would be much more pleasant, housewives declare, if they could always be sure of a wash that's white and sweet and fresh.

Yet, with a hundred and one different kinds of soaps on the market, there are still plenty of women who hang out dingy, gray-looking clothes in spite of all their efforts.

Rule Number One for making sure of getting the kind of wash you can take real pride in is this—insist on a high-grade, quality soap.

It's not the shape or size of a soap that counts, but the cleaning power and actual washing help it gives you. You may find that some soaps bring you so little washing ability that they make more work for you. And they turn out a disappointing wash. What's more, the hard-scrubbing you have to do shortens the life of the clothes.

A good second rule to keep in mind is that the color of soap has nothing to do with the whiteness of your clothes.

Whiteness depends on cleanliness—and the soap that has more cleaning power is the one that will bring you the snowiest washes.

Bible Chapters Alike

The two chapters in the Bible which are often stated to be alike and are the 37th chapter of Isaiah and the 10th chapter of II Kings. They are not exactly alike, but there is very little difference. The 37th chapter of Isaiah has 38 verses, while the 10th chapter of II Kings contains only 37. Also large portions of the second chapter of Ezra and the seventh chapter of Nehemiah are identical. Two Psalms which are substantially alike are the 14th and the 53rd.

GRAPHIC GOLF

PUTTING SUGGESTIONS

IN TAKING the putting stance the player should make sure that he is not standing too close to the ball. Oftentimes golfers are stooped so far over that they are looking back at their feet instead of outward at the ball, their body tensed and not relaxed. With the eye looking forward one is better able to keep the hands on the inside of the line of play and also gain the proper path to the hole. The clubface is closed and the arc of the stroke kept low to enable a sweep in stroke. With this long, low arc the tendency to hit the ball on the upstroke is minimized. Although hard to notice, there is the same weight transference here as in other shots. This enables the left hand to travel further to the left, insuring a longer, flatter arc.

act measurements and careful mixing comes the baking. The oven should be slow for fruit cakes and those with molasses and brown sugar. Divide the time the cake should take into quarters. The first quarter it should begin to rise; the second, finish rising and begin to brown; the third, finish browning and began to shrink from the pan; the last quarter, test with a toothpick to be sure the cake is baked to the center.

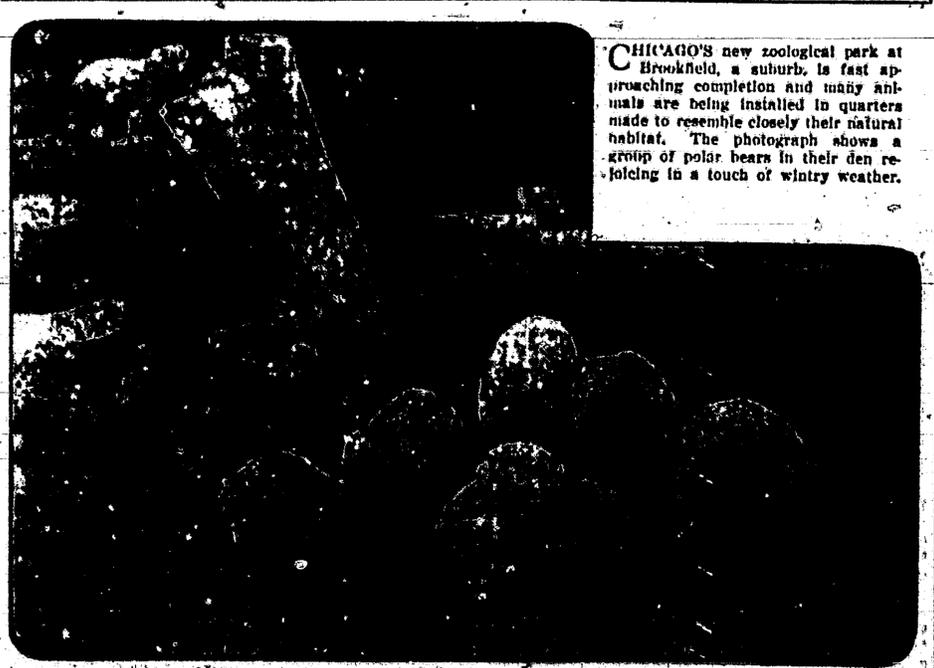

Cool on a rack to avoid a moist and puffy bottom when the cake is cut. If no rack is at hand use anything to keep the bottom of the pan free from the table.

Too much flavoring is like too much perfume—in poor taste. It is better to blend a few drops of vanilla, lemon and almond or two of any desired flavoring extracts.

Queen Anne's Lace By Frances Parkinson Keyes

SYNOPSIS

In a mood of disappointment, through her inability, due to the selfishness of her family, to put finishing touches to her costume for a country dance, Anne Chamberlain is irritated by the stolidity of her escort, George Hildreth.

CHAPTER III

The motoring party took place, not without violent opposition from more quarters than one. Neal broached the subject to his friend on the way home from the dance, and Roy objected to it with more vigor than Neal would have supposed him capable of displaying in regard to any subject.

"You asked Anne Chamberlain to go up to the mountains with you! Good Heavens, Neal, you don't know anything about the girl at all! She comes from one of the most worthless families in the whole town."

"Well, she's come a long way, then. You don't call her worthless, do you?" "No, I rather like Anne."

"Good! I like her very much; and she's darned attractive." "You must have seen plenty of good-looking girls."

"I have. And plenty of bright girls. And plenty of girls with lots of go to them. But I never saw one that combined all those qualities so thoroughly in one and the same person. I got her to tell me a little about herself. She said her father had had hard luck, and her mother wasn't strong."

"Hard luck! The kind of hard luck that comes from never doing any hard work! His farm is going to rack and ruin, it's mortgaged, and he's head over heels in debt besides. As for Anne's mother being delicate—well, she weighs about three hundred and fifty pounds, and she may have heart disease or kidney trouble. I shouldn't be at all surprised. If Anne hadn't worked her fingers to the bone and taught school besides these last two years, I don't know how they'd have lived."

"And you think a girl with that much spunk isn't worth knowing?" "Roy stared at his friend with growing astonishment. Neal had not only been awfully hit. He had been hit hard."

"I didn't say that she wasn't worth knowing. But—why, she doesn't even know how to dress!" "She knows that she doesn't know. And that being the case, she'll learn. Give her time. She can't be much over twenty."

"She isn't quite that." "Then you just wait and see what she'll look like by the time she's thirty! You don't object if I at least ask your mother to go with us?" "You can ask her. But I know she'll refuse."

"Surely she wouldn't expect me to insult the girl by inviting her to go off on an all-day trip with me without a chaperon!" "Good Lord, Neal! You don't need to invite her at all!"

"But I have. And she's accepted." "Then you both ought to be willing to take the consequences."

"Look here, Roy, I thought you were a friend of mine. You're not acting much like one."

Roy felt a pang of contrition. He was a gentle creature.

"I'm sorry, Neal. I shouldn't have spoken as I did. Anne's a nice girl."

Every one admits that. I'd be as sorry as anyone to see her get into trouble."

"It's inconceivable that she should get into trouble," said Neal loftily.

"Yes, of course. What I meant was—go ahead and ask Mother. I'll say what I can to her, too."

"Thank you," said Neal, still coldly. Because of his repentant spirit, Roy said even more to his mother than he had intended. But in spite of this intercession, Neal found her adamant when he first approached her.

"I couldn't think of it, Neal. It would make talk, going on a Sunday."

"It's the only day the poor girl can go. She works like a dog all the rest of the time."

"And I don't know her at all. It wouldn't seem natural starting off that way with a stranger."

"Why, I should think you'd like to get acquainted with her. She and Roy are such good friends."

Roy's mother looked at her guest for a moment with bewilderment. What was he suggesting. That her precious child, the only companion of her declining years—Roy—and one of those Chamberlains! It was unthinkable!

"I'm trying to cut him out. I thought perhaps you wouldn't mind. But of course."

Neal went into his bedroom, shut the door carefully behind him, and laughed. All is fair in love and war. He knew that he had won. When he emerged, Mrs. Griffin accosted him, and asked what he would like to take along for a lunch.

"None, meanwhile, was saying anything, too. She decided that it would be wiser to take the bull by the horns, and tell George about the invitation at once. They were on their way back over the hills when she broached the

BEAUTY TALKS By MARJORIE DUNCAN

MAKE-UP WEARS WELL

WE HAD a complete series of lessons in the home facial. And—since no treatment, whether at home or in a salon is complete without the finishing touches—we will start today a series of lessons in make-up.

First, let us dispel several wrong conceptions—the better to understand the why—and wherefore—of make-up and its proper application. Happily, the groundless superstition that make-up is a wicked art is fast fading away. Partly because natural make-up is the vogue, we are striving for that rosy, healthy quality of color that is natural—not the bold, artificial, too-top obviously rouged look. There's another reason why the old-fashioned notion (that make-up is bad) is losing favor. Both men and women prefer it. They have seen it make a magical and delightful change in wan, depressed, listless looking faces.

Perhaps the reason make-up was once considered wrong is the fact that in the past too many women applied it too badly. Wrong colors were used—dead white powder for instance. Faces looked clownish. Vivid rouge—and only one or two shades. Now there are as many rouge shades as there are skin tones. There's still another reason for the uncomplimentary reputation make-up once won. And that is: too many young girls and women rely on powder and rouge to cover up blemishes instead of giving the body and the skin the necessary care to keep the blemishes away and to preserve a smooth, clear, fine and healthy skin.

In other words, make-up in itself cannot give you a beautiful complexion if you haven't a flawless skin to start with. But make-up can make doubly beautiful the skin that is systematically cared for, properly cleaned, toned and nourished every single day, of our lives.

And this is one detail I want particularly to emphasize. Make-up will wear better on a clean and healthy skin. That is why beauty authorities tell you repeatedly: cleanse your skin before retiring. Cleanse again in the morning. Remove all make-up before applying a fresh dusting of powder or dab of rouge. If every woman stopped to give herself a quick facial before applying make-up, it would not be necessary to renew powder and rouge so many times—make-up wears better, and looks better on a clean, cared-for skin.

FINISHING CREAM

DIRTY skin needs a finishing cream—one that has a little oil in it to keep the skin lubricated and ward off any drying effect of powder, rouge or even exposure to the elements. But that does not mean a very greasy cream—encouraging shine and an unwholesome, oily appearance. In applying your finishing cream, remember that a little is enough. Use it sparingly and blend it carefully over face and neck, with the same movements you used for applying the cleansing and nourishing creams—upward and outward. Remember! Now with a cleansing tissue blot to remove any excess. Be especially careful to remove excess from around the eyes and nose.

If your skin is oily there is no need to burden it with a cream. There are delightful finishing lotions on the market. They give a velvety quality to the skin—soft, transparent, fresh-looking. And these lotions usually keep powder and rouge doubly clinging, warding off shine (women complaining of "shining nose" please note).

Seasonal changes come in for their share of consideration when foundation preparations are up for discussion. For in the summer, there is less complaint in general about "dryness." In the winter, on the other hand, even the normal skin tends to be somewhat dry. That is why the lotions are more popular during the summer and the creams during the winter.

Yet, even during the winter months—or should I say especially during the winter months?—the lotions are more popular for evening wear. Also if a more lasting make-up is desired, if you should be making a train trip, visiting a friend, or preparing for a busy round of social engagements the lotion is preferable. Master the art of applying it skillfully. Moisten a pad of absorbent cotton in cold water. Now pour a little of the lotion on the cotton. Shake the bottle thoroughly if directions say so. Work quickly. Pat face and neck and before the lotion has a chance to dry, smooth and blend very evenly with the fingers. If you let the lotion dry in patches before smoothing and blending, well, you won't have that nice finish I've talked about.

The young, fresh, fine and firm, perfectly normal skin needs no foundation cream or lotion. Skin tonic can serve that purpose.

With standards of personal loveliness going higher and higher our modern woman must look as perfectly groomed on an ordinary day as her forbears did on the very special occasions. And on the special occasions our modern woman surpasses even her own ideals of beauty.

Christmas Miracle

"DON'T you like it, all this?" asked Joel.

"Oh, well enough," replied Sonia, without enthusiasm.

It was evening, but the snowy path through the woods was easy to follow. Their feet broke through the crust with a crisp crunching.

"I thought this would be so different," explained Joel, "I'm fed up on the usual Christmas parties. Sometimes it seems as if we were not trying to remember Christmas."

The spruce trees on either side stood silent, and laden with snow. There was no sound in them but an occasional soft sighing, as if they sighed in anticipation of some expected miracle.

"Noise, people . . . dancing . . . I've liked it all as well as you, Sonia. But lately I've wanted something more. I've felt as if I were missing out, letting important things get by, and not really knowing it."

Sonia walked with a light, quick grace. She wore a white sports suit topped by a red cap and a tassel. She was very quiet—Sonia the sparkling, the much-sought-after, the most popular girl at parties. Joel moved closer.

"I don't want to spoil your Christmas fun by insisting on this country stuff . . . but I sort of thought—" he tried to keep his voice from sounding wistful—"we might even understand each other better if we got away from routine pleasure. Look ahead there, dear . . . see? There's a faint, clear light in the east!" Impulsively he put his arm around her. "Who knows? Maybe a star will rise for us!"

Sonia said maybe there would. Her tone was listless. She had too gracious a nature to be disagreeable, but Joel felt hurt at her irresponsiveness. He moved away, and they went on.

A rabbit darted across their path. An owl deep in the woods gave a faint, far call, almost human. "Come on, Sonia, let's sing a carol. I feel just like it. Let's sing a carol to the Christmas star," begged Joel.

"You're a silly boy," she said. But she knifed to his enthusiasm.

"When shepherds watched their flocks by night, all seated on the ground," began Joel.

Sonia joined in. Their voices rang eerily through the white, silent woods.

A Step in the Snow at the Other Side of the Bridge.

The very trees seemed to listen. As the final note died away, thinking to a mere thread, they heard again that far, strange call of the owl.

"That's the loneliest sound I ever heard!" cried Sonia. "Wouldn't the gang at home laugh at us for this crazy stunt at Christmas Eve?"

The girl reached for his hand, her voice bravely taking up the refrain. On through the blackness they walked, and their voices seemed to reach ahead of them, instead of floating upwards.

"There, what did I tell you!" Excitedly Joel pointed to the top of a tree. Just at the tip hung a star, beautiful beyond belief, trembling with a clear radiance. An ice prism caught the gleam and shattered it into a thousand glancing rays. "Our Christmas star, Sonia," breathed Joel. So they stood a moment, both caught up in a hush of wonder.

"Forgive me if I sound too solemn, Sonia—but somehow I think of Christmas as being a time of reverence as well as revelry. I wanted you to feel this, too, tonight with me. When we're married we've got to have some fine things to hold to, something bigger than ourselves; something that means Christmas—the real spirit of it."

She smiled up into his face. "You're a funny boy, but I'm awfully fond of you. I . . ." she broke off, startled.

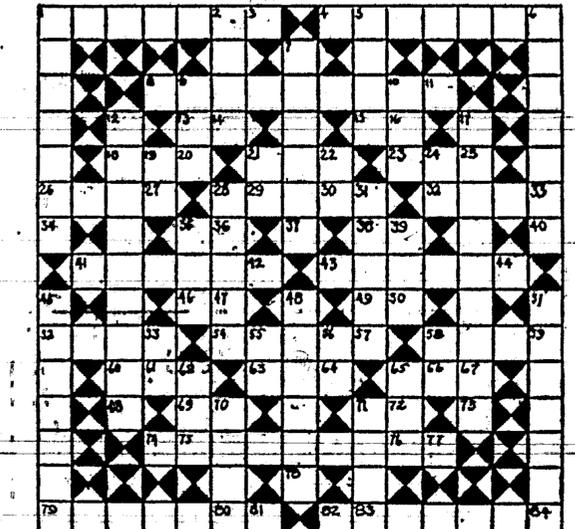

A step crunched through the snow at the other side of the bridge. The figure of a man staggered into view. "Hey!" he called, as he clung to the bridge rail for support. His voice barely reached them; he was panting for breath. "Them carols you sang . . . heard 'em away off . . . mighty pretty . . . I lost my way . . . couldn't find the road. I kept a-hootin', hopin' someone would hear me . . ."

He swayed, caught himself. "I been a-walkin' and walkin' for hours, but when I heard their songs, it put new courage into me . . . and I staved as fast as I could, straight for 'em! Maybe they saved my life . . ."

He touched Joel's arm. "I see what you're drivin' at," she whispered, "something nearer the meaning of things. Let's help the poor man. He's exhausted."

Someone will rise up and ask, "Where do we get the money?" Well, we spent many billions on war to destroy lives and property, why not do something sensible once and spend a lot of money for constructive purposes?

A great change is taking place today in the banking business and in transportation. Ten years will see much change in these two branches of industry. Another big problem that the race has to solve, is competition in industry—the question of whether organization or individualism will rule

The Seal Sale, starting last week, is being actively carried on in thirty counties in the state with committees and associations in charge. All the workers, numbering from 250 to 300, are laying special stress on the fact that proceeds from the Seal Sale this year are to be applied to the health survey. VACATIONS and
HEALTH
By Dr. ERNEST H. LINES
Medical Authority and Chief Medical Director

WHAT TO WEAR

YOUR vacation clothing should not sacrifice comfort and health for style, although there is no good reason why they cannot be combined to good advantage. During the heat of the day, wear clothes that are light in both weight and color. Cotton and linen are suggested. Avoid getting chilled at night, and have a sweater handy for use after vigorous exercise, or in the evening. Where and how you spend your vacation will largely determine the kind of clothes to wear.

Clothing may get wet from rain or perspiration, and in drying on the body it draws heat from the body itself. Cotton, linen and silk dry more rapidly, and therefore cool the body more quickly than wool. People who take cold easily should change their underclothing promptly if it gets wet.

All garments should fit the body loosely and not be tight anywhere, especially around the neck or waist. Suspenders are preferable to belts for men, and women should likewise carry the weight of their clothes on their shoulders. In many respects, modern women are more sensible than men in that they are not so likely to wear tight collars, or bands around the abdomen.

Proper footwear is exceedingly important if you expect to do much walking on your vacation. Shoes should neither pinch the feet at any point, nor be so loose as to cause a blister. Heels should be broad and not too high. High heels throw the weight of the body forward on the toes and off proper balance. This may result in backache and other symptoms remote from the feet.

Shoes and stockings should, of course, be changed and washed often during the summer months. Tight garters which cause a ring around the leg just above the knee tend to cause varicose veins. By blocking the upward flow of blood with tight garters the veins become dilated and later enlarged and unsightly.

Many people go bare-headed much of the time on their vacation. This practice is quite permissible, except during very hot weather when you may be exposed to the direct rays of the sun. Excess heat on the scalp may cause eye-strain or even sunstroke. A straw hat or other light head covering is a good precaution. It should fit loosely enough to permit the air to circulate around the scalp.

This is the sixth of a series of 12 articles on Vacations and Health. The seventh, on Exercise and Rest, will answer the questions:

1. How long should a person sleep? 2. How much exercise is advisable? 3. When may exercise be dangerous?

Mmes. B. Cotter and E. I. Griffin were joint hostesses at a dinner dance given in the E. I. Griffin store Thanksgiving day. The guests invited for the dinner were Mrs. Lois Woods, Messrs. Bob Cotter, E. I. Griffin and A. J. Cate. The guests who arrived for the dance following dinner were Mesdames Cooper, Misses June and Marie Cooper; Thelma, Ruth and Anne Glover, and Ruby Hefner; Messrs. Julian and Letcher Glover.

Frank Hefner and Henry Wilson were in Carrizozo on business Saturday.

Miss Ruby Hefner and mother spent Saturday night as guests of Mrs. Alice Wilson.

Mr. D. F. Sawyer has received the government contract to transport the mails between Carrizozo and Adobe. The contract went into effect on Dec. 2.

Miss Velma Wilson and mother, Mrs. Alice Wilson, spent Sunday night with Mrs. Frank Hefner.

Mr. E. I. Griffin has a tank under construction. Mr. Bob Cotter is overseeing the work.

Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Sawyer were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lairmore Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Wilson and Miss Velma Wilson returned from Roswell Friday evening.

Mesdames Bob Cotter and E. I. Griffin visited at the Holiday and Golf homes last Sunday.

Mrs. Lola Moon visited Mrs. D. F. Sawyer last Friday.

Mr. Cooper is transacting business in Ruidoso this week.

Old Man Depression is losing ground every day, thanks to the good old Democratic Party Work has begun on the new road to Gran Quivira, thus furnishing employment to more jobless men. Those from Adobe who have secured employment are E. I. Griffin, timekeeper; J. A. Lairmore, Frank Hefner and Jess Kilgore.

HOT AIR

Hot Air will hold more than cold air. The more you heat air the thirrier it becomes. In summer the air of New Mexico is hot and somewhat thirry. In winter it is cold and just as thirry as in the summer. But when the cold winter air is heated up inside our houses it becomes excessively thirry; so thirry that it drinks greedily all the moisture inside our nasal passages which become dry and unhealthy and an easy prey to the virus of the common cold.

The winter diseases—colds, coughs, bronchitis, influenza, pneumonia—are all caught more easily because our mucous membranes are dried up by the too thirry air inside our heated homes. It is also true that in winter we live more closely together and so spread our infections more easily from one to another.

It pays to moisten the air. Keep a kettle boiling on the kitchen stove. If you do not live in the kitchen you must find some other way to keep the air moist. Aim to evaporate three or four

SANTA FE TRAIL

NOTICE!

TO THIEVES, THUGS, FAKIRS AND BUNKO-STEERERS,

Among Whom Are

J. J. HARLIN, alias "OFF WHEELER," SAW DUST CHARLIE, WM. HEDGES, BILLY THE KID, Billy Mullin, Little Jack, The Cuter, Pock-Marked Kid, and about Twenty Others:

If Found within the Limits of this City after TEN O'CLOCK P. M. this Night you will be invited to attend a GRAND NECK-TIE PARTY.

The Expense of which will be borne by 100 Substantial Citizens, Las Vegas, March 24th, 1882.

When the Rope Was Law on the Santa Fe Trail.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

A MARKER is to be placed at Ingalls, Kan., by the Santa Fe Trail association as a memorial to Jehediah Smith, one of the early pioneers of America's West.

The Santa Fe Trail, a hard, horse-worn highway, often 100 feet wide, so beaten and packed that it couldn't be plowed, and with not a white settlement on its whole savage-haunted length, stretched across virgin land. On buffalo meat alone the plainsman often lived, and from green-hide made clumsy, sacklike boots to save oxen's feet from stones and hot sand. A good day's march was 15 miles. Over this amazing pathway of the plains drove the longest wagon trains the world ever saw, trains often miles long, with four and even eight creaking wagons rumbering abreast. What a colossal traffic it was, pushing out to win the West! At its peak, 3,000 wagons and 60,000 ox yokes used in one season!

Franklin, Mo., in Kit Carson's youth, was the outpost of civilization. St. Louis, with 4,000 people, was the only other large town in Missouri. From there clumsy boats, battling sand bars, snags, and muddy whirlpools, their passengers often slogging at deer or wild turkeys on the wooded river banks, beat upstream to Franklin, where the Santa Fe Trail then started.

Franklin boomed with the fur trade. It fairly seethed with excited men, oxen bawled; mules kicked and grunted through mud and dust of the crude town's crowded streets creaked heavily loaded wagons of Conestoga type, canvas-topped, schoonerlike wagons, loaded with bolts of calico, ginghams, velvets, cotton goods, cutlery, firearms, tools, and light hardware, and drawn by four or five pairs of oxen or mules; and, breasting this west-bound stream, up from Santa Fe, from El Paso, even from far Chihuahua, pack trains came drifting in, laden with Mexican silver, with beaver pelts and buffalo robes. Big-hatted, swarthy "Spanish" men in red blankets and light trousers—men who fought with knives and spoke a "purring" tongue strange to Missouri folk—mingled with returning caravans.

Little Left of Franklin. Far outpost of empire Franklin was in those exciting days. It saw the cheering legions pass. But now its symphony of life is lulled. Long ago the hungry river claimed most of it. Few, indeed, of the hastening host who pause now for hot dogs or cigaretttes even dream what stirring scenes were staged here when the Mexican flag still waved from western Kansas to California.

Yet its name, like Daniel Boone's and Kit Carson's, endures in the annals of the West.

As for the trail itself, sweeping on from the Big Muddy to ancient Santa Fe, now it is busier and better than ever. Railroads and motor highways, paralleling its course, handle today's vast commerce. Now millions ride in speed and safety where pioneers beat their stubborn way against thirst and hunger, daring torture and death in the forays and ambushes of Pawnee, Kiowa, Cheyenne, Comanches, Osages, and Arapahoes.

Where millions of buffalo roamed the plains with the thunder of stampeding hoofs and died from arrows, spears and rifle balls, now millions of meat-bearing animals lift bovine faces to stare at passing trains and motor cars—slow-moving, safe in fenced fields, chased by no wolves, Indians, or hungry white men on horseback.

Windmills, wells, and city water systems—lots of water now where men wild with thirst once vainly dug with bleeding fingers in dry stream beds, or walked out on parched plains to die slowly and quietly.

Kit Carson would find lots of changes, could he come back. "Lifting hair," as he called Indian scalping, is practiced now only in the beauty shops of towns along the trail. It is not easy now to trade beads or cheap firearms for hunks of virgin silver in Santa Fe; nor would the town cheer a man coming arriving from Missouri or call a holiday should a dry goods peddler arrive.

The ancient tree-lined plaza, where pioneer freighters ended their long trip across the plains and unloaded their big wagons, is still the center of life in Santa Fe. At evening time, when soft breezes sigh among the trembling elm-leaves, the local songsters, dark-eyed and flirtatious, promenade this ancient plaza and smile as ravishingly as in Kit Carson's romantic day. But none of them would leave home now for a red-headed beaver trapper, even if the trapper had licked every other rival at the sanding.

How the Trail Altered.

Originally the trail ran upstream from Franklin, crossed the Missouri at Arrow Rock, and stretched west through what is now Lexington and Independence, Mo. A rich region this, where, as settlers multiplied, a vigorous culture developed, with its familiar homemade walnut furniture, ash hoppers, big soap and sorghum kettles, looms, and spinning wheels. Today, where Washington Irving saw myriad prairie chickens, or "parakeets," as pioneers called them, one passes big pens of white Leghorns. Endless "Old Trail" garages take the place of way-side blacksmith shops, where former pilgrims stopped to shoe a horse or set a tire. Where always tended hemp and tobacco, big dairy plants are busy now, their painted barns and silos replacing the weather-beaten tobacco sheds of other days.

As commerce grew, boats pushed farther up the Missouri, passing Franklin. By 1831 Independence became the starting point for traffic across the plains. Plying the river then was one government-owned boat used for exploring the Western Engineer. An early narrative says: "In place of a bowsprit she has carved a great serpent, and as the steam escapes out of its mouth it runs out a long tongue, to the perfect horror of the Indians."

Independence, in its palmy days, was the tunnel through which westward travel poured. From here went not only Santa Fe traders, but Mormon trains for Utah and the thousands of covered wagons for the long Oregon trail to the Northwest. In "The Western Guide Book and Emigrant Directory" for 1840, is a rude map, showing all the great overland trails, as starting from Independence, Mo.; but the big blank spots on this map and its meager details reveal how little we know of our western country only 40 years ago.

Birth of Kansas City.

A few miles up from Independence Landing, where the Kansas, long called the Kaw, twists north into the Missouri, fur traders and freighters found a flat, shelving rock, an easy place to land goods. Near here, by 1833, a new town, Westport, came into being.

In time it became the starting point for Santa Fe. Gradually, as merchants and farmers followed the fur traders, this colony spread through a gap in the bluffs and came to be known as "Kansas," after the local tribe of Indians, incorporated as the "Town of Kansas" in 1850, its name was changed to Kansas City in 1880.

Southwest into Kansas the old trail runs; thence west along the north bank of the Arkansas river, which formed part of the boundary between the United States and Mexico until the war of 1846-48. A few miles west of where Dodge City stands the trail originally crossed the river, at Cimarron Crossing, following the Cimarron valley over southwest Kansas and on to Las Vegas, New Mexico. But this road crossed many miles of waterless land, and later pioneers blazed a longer but more watered path. This latter branch became, in time the main thoroughfare, especially for wagons. It follows the Arkansas river into Colorado, through La Junta and Trinidad; thence over Raton Pass, and to Las Vegas and Santa Fe. Today the Santa Fe railway and the popular Santa Fe motor highway use this same route or closely parallel it.

From Franklin, Mo., to Santa Fe, the old trail is now well marked by monuments set up by the Daughters of the American Revolution.

Old Orchards Can Be Made Produce

Fall Fertilization Needed; Followed by Plowing and Pruning.

By W. M. Case, Extension Horticulturist, Colorado Agricultural College, WNU Service.

There are many old and neglected orchards that could be brought into profitable production with little cost and labor.

When an orchard has been neglected for a number of years, the trees become overgrown with wood, due to lack of pruning. Cultivation has also been neglected and the spaces between the trees are covered with pasture grasses and weeds; the soil is hard and fertility is lacking.

The first thing to be done is to plow the orchard in the fall as deeply as possible. Tree roots in neglected orchards are unusually close to the surface, and hence care should be taken in plowing the first time not to tear up too many roots. The depth can be increased with each successive plowing, as the roots will go down when given a chance. Before plowing, the land should be given a good coat of barnyard manure.

Next in importance is the pruning. This should be done between February 15 and April 15. When trees have been neglected for some years, they are usually full of wood and need thinning. It is not advisable to do all the pruning in one year, as it tends to encourage the growth of suckers or water-sprouts. It is better to take two years in which to bring the trees into shape.

Flax Seed Crop Short; Also Light in Weight

The extremely short flax crop of this year, estimated at less than 8,000,000 bushels, makes it important for farmers and seedsmen to obtain flax seed for sowing next spring, says the United States Department of Agriculture. About 2,000,000 bushels of flax seed will be required for sowing if the usual acreage of nearly 3,000,000 acres is sown, and it is evident, therefore, that many growers will find it good business to hold a part of the present crop for seed.

There was a shortage of flax seed in some localities last spring following the short crop of 1932, but the situation now appears to be even more critical. The production in 1932 was nearly 12,000,000 bushels and the farm price during the fall was less than $1 a bushel, which caused many farmers to hold flax for higher prices.

The department specialists are of the opinion that farmers who plan to sow flax next year should obtain their seed supply while good seed can be obtained near at hand and at approximately market prices. As flax seed is likely to be light in weight, due to the drought and heat throughout the flax-producing area, a supply of seed greater than required should be provided so that in recleaning the light seed can be removed. The shrunken seed should be ground and mixed with other grain for feed, or sold on the market for crushing, the department says.

Bot Control

Farmers who expect to treat their horses for bots this fall will get better results if they wait until one month after the first freezing weather lasting for a day or longer, says the United States Department of Agriculture. This recommendation is based on recent experimental work of the bureau of animal industry, showing that the larvae of the common bot spend from 21 to 23 days in the tongue of the horse before migrating to the stomach. Previous recommendations for treatment of bots have been based on the belief that as soon as the eggs—laid on the hair of a horse—hatched the larvae went directly to the stomach. With the new knowledge of the life cycle of this parasite, control measures may be more effectively used. As soon as freezing weather appears, the eggs may be destroyed by washing the animal with a 2 per cent solution of cresol. Then, after about 30 days, have a competent veterinarian supervise treatment of the animal with carbon disulphide to rid it of the parasites in its stomach.

Wilt in Alfalfa

Wilt is about the most serious disease of alfalfa. Diseased plants become dwarfed, especially when the plants are more than one-half mature size after the field has been cut. Other indications are yellowing of the leaves or mottling and wilting, as if injured by frost. The disease is spread by hay from infected fields, or flow water passing from a diseased field, and perhaps to some extent by mowers. Rotating crops and destroying all plants from a diseased field are control methods. Seed is not known to spread the disease. —Wallace's Farmer.

Where Crops Fit In

There are some crops which are not well suited to very fertile soils. Buckwheat, for example, often produces too much straw and too little grain on rich soils, especially those soils which are very high in nitrogen. Oats are likely to lodge badly on soils too rich in nitrogen. On the other hand, a fertile soil is essential for profitable yields of wheat and barley. Rye will grow well on rich soils but it is also a particularly good crop for light to fertile soils.

Christmas Dinner On A Battleship

By Charles Frederick Wadsworth.

MR. AND MRS. BLANK, let us say, are having some of their kindfoks for Christmas dinner, on a farm, ranch or plantation, or in a cottage somewhere in America.

The conversation turns to a boy of the neighborhood who is in the navy. "I wonder what Frank is doing today," wonders Uncle George.

"And what he is having for Christmas dinner," Aunt Josie speculates. "Navy beans and sowbelly, I betcha," opines Grandpa, who served in the Civil war.

"Let's see," says Pa. "Frank's on a battleship, isn't he?" "Yes, it's the Arkansas." This information from Ma.

"Then he'll have a swell feed," comments little Bill, who reads a lot and thinks maybe he will join the navy himself some day. Just to satisfy the curiosity of Pa and Ma, Ma B. L. A. P. K. Aunt Josie, Uncle George, Grandma, Grandpa, little Bill, and the neighbors generally, suppose we all step into the quartermaster's office on the U. S. S. ARKANSAS and sit at a mahogany desk with Chief Commissary Steward Jimmy—East and find out all about what the boys on a battleship have to eat at Christmas time.

"First," says Chief Jimmy, as he takes out his fountain pen and reaches for a sheet of letter paper with "U. S. E. Arkansas" printed at the top, "I'll give you the menu we served last Christmas."

- MENU
- Celery Hearts
- Oleives
- Sweet Pickles
- Fruit Cocktail
- Cream of Tomato Soup
- Saltines
- Roast Young Turkey
- Oyster Dressing
- Cranberry Sauce
- Glazed Potatoes
- Green Peas
- Cauliflower
- Candied Sweet Potatoes
- Butter Sauce
- Hot Finger-Rolls
- Tomato and Lettuce Salad
- Thousand Island Dressing
- Assorted Fruits
- Nut Hard Candy
- Hot Mince Pie
- Ice Cream
- Chocolate Cake
- Coffee
- Cigars and Cigarettes

"That dinner," says Chief Jimmy, "was served to the crew of 1,100, at a cost of $1.10 per man. In addition, the crew had as guests 200 orphans and other needy children."

"Is that customary?" Chief Jimmy was asked. "Yes, the crews of ships in port make that a regular practice," was the reply. "Last Christmas the Arkansas was in port at San Diego."

It was suggested that the quantities of food required for Christmas dinner on a battleship might astonish some of the folks "back home."

And Chief Jimmy made this memorandum of the main items, reading each aloud as he put it down:

Celery, 400 lbs.; olives, 20 gals.; canned tomatoes, 150 lbs.; crackers, 200 lbs.; turkey, 1,200 lbs.; cranberries, 300 lbs.; Irish Potatoes, 600 lbs.; sweet potatoes, 600 lbs.; green peas, 200 lbs.; cauliflower, 300 lbs.; hot rolls, 2,400; ham, 400 lbs.; lettuce, 200 lbs.; fresh fruit, 1,200 lbs.; nuts, 800 lbs.; candy, 600 lbs.; pies, 200; ice cream, 40 gals.; cigars, 1,100; cigarettes, 3,100 pkgs.; coffee, 100 lbs.

At this point Grandma might well have exclaimed: "My gracious! Six hundred pounds of Irish potatoes! It would take a week to peel them!"

"How about that, Chief? Do you have any labor-saving devices in the galley?" ("Kitchen" to landlubbers.) "Oh, yes," says Chief Jimmy. "The potatoes are peeled by power peelers, of which we have two, each with a capacity of a hundred-pound sack in approximately five minutes. But the boys dig out their eyes with paring knives in the grand old-fashioned way. We also have eight navy standard oil-burning ranges, and twelve steam boilers, each of sixty-gallon capacity, for vegetables and so forth. The meal is prepared under my direction by twenty ship's cooks and eight bakers. Fifty-five mess men serve it."

"Of course you serve a good quality of everything?" "Only the very best," says Chief Jimmy. "Besides the regular government inspection, all foodstuffs are again inspected at ship-side, and any offending that is not up to specifications goes right back!"

And there you have the story of a Christmas dinner aboard one of Uncle Sam's battleships.

Find the Drift of Child's Mind

Desire to Please Is Not to Be Classed With Plain Deceitfulness.

There is a difference between telling a falsehood and saying something to please. Children frequently get blamed for lying when in reality they are simply trying to express what they believe the person with whom they are talking would wish them to say. In adults there is a form of diplomacy which is akin to this. With the child his idea is simply to be agreeable. With the adult the intention is to so couch what he or she says that it will not offend but please, while at the same time the words will carry the point even to binding the other, if there is acquiescence. This sort of thing is so customary in smooth business and diplomatic relations that the persons or groups have to be shrewdly cautious in what they say, and keen in their interpretations of what they hear.

With the older persons the exact significance of words and terms plays an important part. A fine vocabulary is essential. Shades of meanings must be conveyed and the interpretations gauged on them. Carried to its highest point such juggling with words becomes an art, and almost a science. The truth need not be distorted, but such understanding of it must exist that finally the groups come to a mutual agreement.

A child often has an uncanny intuition of what the adult wants to hear, and says it, using his limited vocabulary. Frequently what is said is not strictly true, but the motive back of the words is not to deceive, but to please.

For example, a child returns from a party and is asked by her mother, "Did you have a good time?" The child realizes parties are meant for good times. Mother wants to hear she had a good time. She will please her mother by telling her she enjoyed herself. Perhaps her pleasure was not nearly so much as she had hoped. Why bother mother by saying so? Sometimes a child will tell her mother she is getting along all right in her studies, because this is what her mother will like to hear. She is reproved when the report card shows low marks, or the teacher tells her parents she wishes the child would do better in classes. There is a tinge of chagrin in the child's mind that she has not done as well as mother would wish, but also she does not want to have her bothered by hearing what she knows will be unwelcome word.

Parents have to help their children to realize that what they actually want to hear is the truth. They have a part to do. They can express a certain amount of sympathy with a child when she is disappointed and says so, and also relieve the unhappiness by finding the pleasant features and getting them to stand out in prominence. Parents can also express so much pleasure over the good marks of a child that she or he is stimulated to do better still. To be severe with a child who is endeavoring to do well at school and does not get the hoped for marks is inviting her to say what she knows will please, even though later the truth is known.

Wood for Paper-Making

At the present time there are only a few species of trees that are used for paper-making, says the American Tree association. We are finding new ways of utilizing additional species, but two-thirds of our pulp comes from spruce, fir, and hemlock. These three species supply practically all the raw material from which the coarse paper used for newspapers is made. Pastboard and coarse wrapping and packing papers are made from pine wood. Most of the finer grades of paper that are used for magazines and books are from poplar and other hardwood trees.

One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified crocote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs, crocote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to crocote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the crocote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and sticks the seat of the trouble. Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (adv.)

A Quicker Way To Ease Headaches

HERE I AM... A BIG DINNER PARTY ON HAND... AND ANOTHER OF MY BAD HEADACHES. WHAT CAN I DO?

EVERY TRY BAYER ASPIRIN? TAKE 2 TABLETS AND YOUR HEADACHE WILL BE GONE IN A JIFFY!

2 BEFORE THE DINNER. THAT BAYER ASPIRIN YOU SUGGESTED IS SIMPLY WONDERFUL! MY HEADACHE WAS ENTIRELY GONE IN A FEW MINUTES—

I KNEW IT WOULD BE... BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST!

A Discovery that's Bringing Fast Relief to Millions

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuralgia, toothache, the fastest safe relief. It is said, get discovered.

These results are due to a scientific discovery by which a Bayer Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. A Bayer Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

"When you buy, though, see that you get the Genuine BAYER Aspirin. For Bayer Aspirin's quick relief always say "BAYER Aspirin."

WHY BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Tablet in a glass of water. Note that the tablet touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate. How does it do in your stomach, hence its fast action.

Does Not Harm the Heart

MAKES YOU LOSE UNHEALTHY FAT

Make No Mistake—Fat Is Dangerous—Ask Your Doctor

To take off fat—take one half teaspoonful of Kraehen Salts in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—one bottle lasts 4 weeks—get it at any drugstore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the SAFE and HARMLESS way to lose fat—your money returned.

Reduces From 154 to 128

Less than 4 weeks ago I started taking Kraehen Salts. I had lost 26 lbs. of fat. Now I weigh 128. I feel so full of energy I can't seem to work fast enough. Mrs. E. M. Hamilton, Cantonville, Pa.

While losing fat with Kraehen you gain in physical attractiveness—you look and feel younger—no more gas, acidity—no more constipation.

News Review of Current Events the World Over

Business Men, Bankers and Others Assail President's Monetary Policy—Russia Recognized, Envoys Named—Welles to Leave Cuba Soon.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD

AMERICAN business, as represented by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, is now out in open opposition to President Roosevelt's monetary policy. The board of directors of that nationwide organization, which is headed by Henry L. Harriman of Boston, adopted a resolution declaring that the President's course was gravely retarding business recovery and re-employment, undermining the government's credit, preventing the expansion of normal credit and prolonging the demoralization of foreign trade—in other words, doing just the opposite of what Mr. Roosevelt hopes it will do. The directors demanded of the administration "complete avoidance of monetary experimentation, greenbackism and fiat money."

Until this time the chamber has been supporting the President and Mr. Harriman has been active in promoting the aims of the administration. He attended the meeting of the board, as did P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company; Redfield Proctor, president of the Vermont Marble company; Paul Shoup, vice president of the Southern Pacific railroad; Chester I. Barnard, president of the New Jersey Bell Telephone company, and nearly all the rest of the 52 directors.

Besides attacking the President's monetary policy, the board adopted three other resolutions of similar tenor. One protested against the expenditure of large sums by the public works administration for financing projects in competition with private business enterprises which are now rendering adequate service at reasonable cost.

Another protested against the public works administration's plan to engage in the building of federal housing projects, and insisted that such financing should be through private housing corporations.

In a resolution on the NRA, the chamber urged that industrial codes should be administered through the trade associations of each industry.

AS HAD been expected, Prof. O. M. W. Sprague, special adviser to the treasury, resigned, and in doing so he told the President, once his pupil at Harvard, that the Roosevelt dollar devaluation policy not only will fail to raise prices substantially in the absence of trade recovery but will ruin the credit of the government and precipitate an inflation panic. "I believe," Sprague said in his letter, "you are faced with the alternative either of giving up the present policy or of the meeting of government expenditures with additional money."

Having finally lost all hope that the President might be persuaded to change his course before it is too late, Professor Sprague said he was resigning to take the field against the Roosevelt policy, believing that the last chance of averting a currency inflation debacle lies in arousing public opinion.

Another of the President's financial advisers, though unofficial, James F. Warburg, New York banker, joins with Sprague in protest against the present monetary policies. Like the professor, he will undertake to arouse public opinion against them. This he announced at a meeting of the American Academy of Political Science in Philadelphia. At the same meeting Prof. Irving Fisher, Yale economist, said the President's monetary policy was "substantially right"; and Senator Thomas of Oklahoma asserted that he was opposed to inflation, which will cause general surprise.

Members of the advisory council of the federal reserve board, composed of prominent bankers in each federal reserve district, met in Washington and adopted a resolution favoring the re-establishment of the currency on a gold basis, together with safeguards to be agreed upon by international action. The resolution was circulated privately among all the member banks in the federal reserve system.

ACTING Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau replied to criticisms by saying that "the credit of the United States is as good as the Rock of Gibraltar"; but at the same time he let it be known that, in order to bolster up the prices of government securities, which have been dropping, the Treasury department itself would buy federal bonds with some of its surplus funds.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S answer to these protests against his policies, as obtained by Washington officials who communicated with him at Warm Springs, was to direct that the program of deprecating the dollar for

The action of the chamber was coincident with the delivery of an address by Mr. Roosevelt at Savannah, Ga., in which he denounced the critics of his recovery program as "tories" and "doubting Thomases" and warmly defended the "experiments" he is making. He promised that "the principles and objectives of American self-government will remain the same."

Washington correspondents said that an ambitious second-stage reconstruction program was being formulated there for the President in his absence. Important features of this plan are sound money on a devalued gold standard; a balanced budget to come from proceeds of a devaluation, liquor monopoly and other "painless" revenues; a revived foreign trade on parity currency and real progress in resumption of foreign debt collections.

Seizing upon the appellation used by the President, critics of his course have organized the Association of American Tories and it is gathering many members. The originators of the association decided they should have a king for their President, so they selected for that post Rufus King, a well-known author.

SECRETARY of the Interior Ickes, as public works administrator, announced that he had turned $100,000,000 over to the new federal housing corporation that is undertaking slum clearance work in cities throughout the country. The undertaking, he said, would be started in Detroit with a model housing project.

RESUMPTION of diplomatic relations with Russia and the recognition of the Soviet government came, as was expected, on the eve of the President's departure for Warm Springs. He and Ambassador Litvinov issued a joint announcement of the happy ending of their negotiations, and Mr. Roosevelt immediately designated William O. Bullitt as American ambassador to Moscow, which greatly pleased the Russians.

Within a day, or so, the Soviet government announced that its ambassador to Washington would be Alexander Antonovich Troyanovsky, formerly diplomatic representative at Tokyo and now vice chairman of the Russian state planning commission. This gentleman was born in Russia in 1882, studied in the University of Kiev, and lived in France until 1917, and served in the Russian revolutionary army.

With recognition by our government, Russia agrees not to allow its agents to propagandize against the government of the United States; guarantees religious freedom and legal protection for American nationals in Russia, and waives all claims against the United States growing out of the American expedition into Siberia in 1918-21. No promise whatever was made by Mr. Litvinov concerning the attitude of his government toward the payment of $708,563,000 in debts owed by Russia to the United States government and to private American citizens.

FOLLOWING his conference with Ambassador Welles in Warm Springs, President Roosevelt issued a formal statement concerning the Cuban situation which was designed to let President Grau know that the United States is not ready to recognize his government and will not do so unless he can persuade the island factions to cease their warring and agree among themselves.

The statement reiterated the administration's policy of recognizing any government, regardless of its partisan or factional color, which proved itself representative of its people and able to secure their support. But it was made clear that the present Cuban government, assailed as it has been by one revolutionary attempt after another, did not at present meet these conditions.

Mr. Roosevelt supplemented his statement by the announcement that, though Ambassador Welles would return to his post in Havana after visiting Washington, he would soon be replaced by Jefferson Caffery and would resume his former position as assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs. This is in full accord with Mr. Welles' desire though he has been unwilling to retire from Havana under the heavy fire directed against him by the supporters of the Grau government. The latter had been organizing a great protest demonstration designed to keep the ambassador from landing at the Havana docks and serious trouble was feared. Mr. Roosevelt's announcement, it was hoped, would ease this tense situation.

PREMIER ALBERT SARRAUT'S government was upset by the French chamber of deputies by a vote of 221 to 247 due to its insistence on retention of the gold standard and balancing the budget. Its defeat was really brought about by the determination of the unions of civil servants not to submit to any financial sacrifices in the interests of the state. There was a belief in Paris that Edouard Herriot might again be called on to form a new ministry.

SECRETARY OF STATE HULL, who doesn't seem to cut much of a figure in the administration, is to have a new assistant secretary, President Roosevelt appointed to this post Francis B. Sayre, son-in-law of the late President Wilson, and he will succeed Harry F. Payer who has been transferred to the position of special foreign trade adviser to the RFC. Mr. Sayre is a professor in the Harvard law school and will remove from Cambridge to Washington as soon as arrangements can be made with the university.

As adviser on foreign affairs to the government of Siam, Mr. Sayre has had wide experience in the negotiation of political and commercial treaties. Since 1925 he has negotiated treaties between the Siamese government and the governments of France, Great Britain, the Netherlands, Portugal, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, and Italy. He holds decorations from all of the principal nations of Europe.

LIEUTENANT COMMANDER BETTLE of the navy and Major Fordney of the marines finally found a day of favorable atmospheric conditions and made their long-delayed flight into the stratosphere. Their big balloon ascended from Akron, Ohio, and reached an altitude of 61,237 feet. This beat the existing record by about 8,000 feet, though Russia's stratosphere explorers claimed to have risen above 62,000 feet. Bettle's balloon and aluminum ball came down in a southern New Jersey swamp and the two daring explorers extricated themselves safely and were taken by airplane to Washington where they were received by the secretary of the navy and other officials.

NEWFOUNDLAND is about to lose its status as a British dominion and be demoted to that of a crown colony. This course has been recommended by a royal commission that has been investigating the dominion's tangled financial affairs. The report of this body charges that Newfoundland's debt, which has reached the point where the interest consumes 50 per cent of the state's income, is "largely due to reckless waste and extravagance and to the absence of constructive and efficient administration." Newfoundland was the first of Great Britain's overseas colonies. Labrador is included in its government, and one of the suggested solutions for the island's difficulties has been to sell Labrador to Canada, paying the public debt with the proceeds.

SEISMOGRAPHS all over the world showed the other day what scientists declared was the greatest earthquake ever recorded. But fortunately it occurred way up toward the North pole, between Greenland and Baffin Island where there was nothing to destroy except land formation and no lives to be taken.

ERNEST W. GIBSON, who formerly was a congressman from Vermont, will go back to Washington to represent that state in the senate. He was appointed by Governor Wilson to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Porter H. Dale.

WISCONSIN'S farm strike fizzled out, so it was called off by the heads of the Farm Holiday association and the milk pool. The pickets were all withdrawn and shipments of milk and other farm produce to the markets were resumed. The milk pool leader said another "holiday" probably would be ordered in February.

CHINA seems to be headed for another civil war of major proportions. The famous Nineteenth route army, which defended Shanghai against the Japanese early last year, has revolted against the Nanking government and issued a declaration of independence of Fukien province. It is rumored the army has reached an understanding with the communists in Kiangsi province. The fact that Fukien's chief political principle is continued opposition to Japan has caused apprehension that it is likely to provoke Japanese intervention. The province contains extensive Japanese interests and is regarded as a Japanese sphere due to its location opposite the Japanese island colony, on Formosa.

ON DECEMBER 5 the fascist grand council will be convened to discuss the question of Italy's membership in the League of Nations, and informed opinion in Rome is that Italy will withdraw from the League unless France consents to the holding of a disarmament conference in Rome under the four-power pact that was engineered by Mussolini. So far the French have refused to participate in any such conference outside of Geneva and the auspices of the League. Three Italian newspapers already have hinted at the possibility of the withdrawal of Italy. One of them is the premier's Popolo d'Italia.

Finds Imaginary Golf Conducive to Slumber

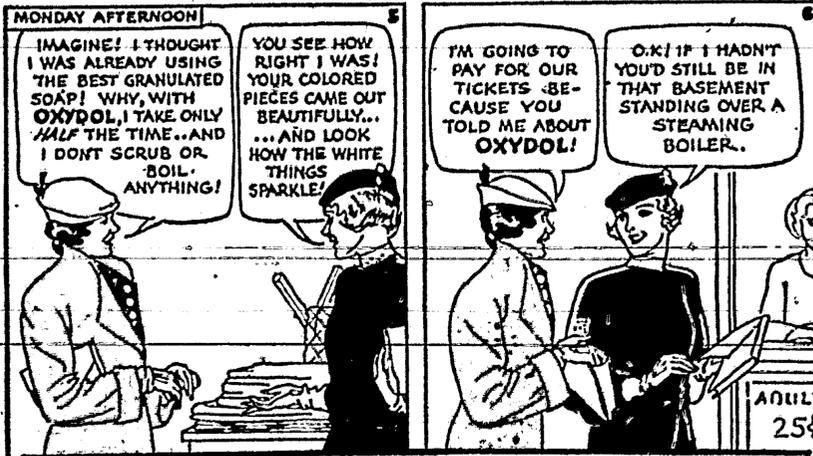

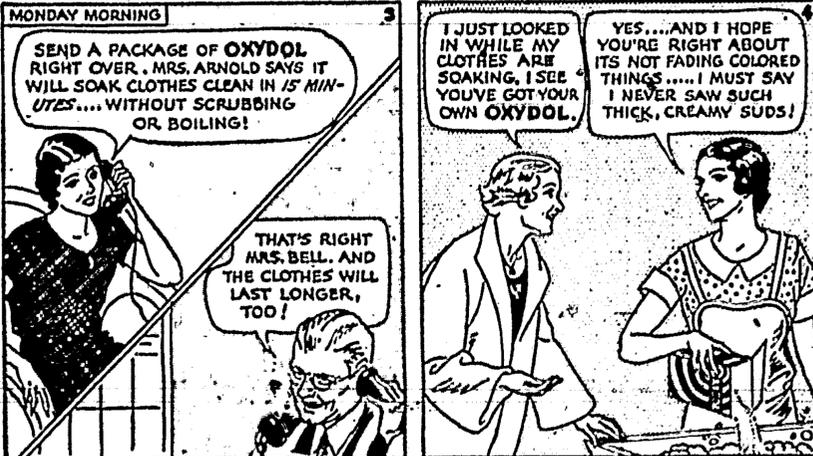

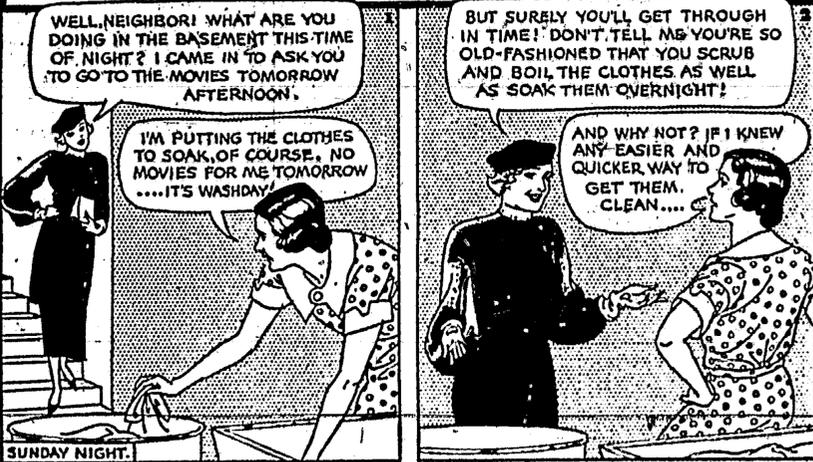

"Popples is nothing to it," quoth a British enthusiast who finds that, when troubled with insomnia, he can put himself to sleep by playing imaginary rounds of golf. "After that," he says, "with an engaging modesty, I play to form and allow for many lapses from grace." He adds that he has found it great fun, and that only very seldom has he had to play a second round before sleep comes to his rescue. Rushing this information to the effort in recalling the scenery. Next, he always assumes that his tea-shot is a good one. This is not because he always does hit a good one in real life, but because he has found that the missing of drives has some subtly wakeful influence. "After that," he says, "with an engaging modesty, I play to form and allow for many lapses from grace." He adds that he has found it great fun, and that only very seldom has he had to play a second round before sleep comes to his rescue. Rushing this information to the London Times, the correspondent makes a little suggestion of his own. "A far better plan," he announces, "would be to go to bed and then give audiences, one at a time, to a series of players who have had bad luck. Surely such a narrative ought to numb the too active senses, if anything can."

WHAT! MOVIES ON MONDAY? YOUNG MRS. BELL SCOFFED AT THE IDEA UNTIL SHE USED This Remarkable New Laundry Soap That Soaks Clothes Clean in 15 minutes

NEW LAUNDRY SOAP BREAKS ALL RECORDS FOR FAST WASHING AND WHITE CLOTHES Soaks Out Dirt In 15 Minutes, Yet Is Utterly Harmless to Color, Fabric and Hands

NO time-saving, labor-saving development of recent years has brought forth such a chorus of approval as Procter & Gamble's amazing new Laundry Soap Discovery! Everywhere, after trying it women are exclaiming—"Will the wonders of science never cease?"

For this remarkable invention is an utterly new-type laundry soap. A soap that multiplies itself 500 times in suds. Which means you get at least twice as much suds as from old-style soaps. A still faster-washing, still whiter-washing soap that's utterly SAFE for colors, fabrics, and hands.

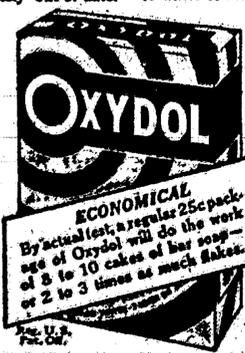

This remarkable new discovery is called OXYDOL. And you'll find to your surprise that it makes other soaps—"granulated," bar or flake—hopelessly out-of-date.

Women believed they had the fastest soap already! Then found it was slow, alongside OXYDOL. For OXYDOL utterly banishes boiling. It ends washboard scrubbing. It cuts soaking time to 15 minutes—gets clothes out far sooner. They believed they had the whitest washes they could possibly get. And are now amazed by washes 4 to 5 shades whiter than before.

By impartial scientific test, ONE washing with OXYDOL gets clothes whiter than 2 to 4 washes with other soaps. But that's not all!

You'll find clothes actually last longer, washed with this new soap. That the faintest colors DO NOT fade. That it is easier on hands than any soap you've ever used. For no strong agents, no chemical bleaches are in OXYDOL. Just pure soap elements so blended with others as to protect clothes against fading. OXYDOL simply can't hurt anything clear water won't!

DISSOLVES Dirt—In Any Water, Hard or Soft

Its creamy, "free-acting" suds dissolve dirt out in 15 minutes. No boiling, no back-breaking scrubbing is necessary. Nor any "water-softener," either. For the right amount of water-softener is already there. Different from ordinary soaps, OXYDOL is specially fitted to water conditions in each district where it is sold. The water in this district, for example, has been tested for "hardness" by expert chemists. The OXYDOL you buy here contains just the right proportion of "softener" to fit it. With OXYDOL you'll do your wash in 25% to 40% less time. You'll get a whiter, sweeter-smelling wash than ever before. Everything will iron beautifully—no soap streaks or smudges anywhere. And you'll never be bothered with fading colors or red, soap-bitten hands. These things we promise you. What ever your former favorite, try OXYDOL next time you wash. You'll never go back to slower soaps or harsher soaps again. Procter & Gamble.
