CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY, JULY, 27 1934

NUMBER 9

For Sheriff

We are authorized to announce Mr. A. S. McCamant as a candidate for re-election to the office of Sheriff of Lincoln County. During the two years he has served as Sheriff, he has been constantly on the alert for wrongdoers. At the time of taking his office, part of the county was a stronghold and hide-out for men who had criminal records, but due to the eternal vigilance of himself and his deputies the criminal element has been eliminated and the county is safe only for law-abiding citizens. Quick to take a stand, positive in his conviction he is well fitted for the office of Sheriff. He will appreciate your support; invites closest scrutiny of his record and if re-elected promises the same devoted attention to duty.

Frances Charles, Helen Stewart, Jack Wittingham and Buster Walker went to Capitán last Wednesday evening to attend a dance. Enroute home a blow out precipitated the car off the highway and it rolled over two or three times finally righting itself. None of the occupants of the car were hurt seriously, Jack's face was skinned, and Buster's ankle was sprained. But the car looked to be almost totally demolished. A traveling man picked them up and brought them in about 1:30 a. m. The accident happened about 12 o'clock.

Messrs. Burch and Simer of Capitán were in town on business last Tuesday.

Mrs. Emma Baird of Sanger, California has returned home after a visit with her sister, Mrs. Warden and other relatives.

The Vacation Bible School closed Saturday afternoon. The attendance was good and lots of good work was done during the week.

Joan Savage of Roswell and Jimmie Rogers of Albuquerque left Saturday afternoon after helping with the Bible School. They are in Pecos Mills this week helping conduct similar work.

Mrs. S. J. Pruett is about to get straight again after being confined to her home for the past ten days with a severe "summer cold."

The Ancho Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. Jack Lemasters in the tall pines of the Jicarilla district, Wednesday afternoon, July 25. Though there was not a full attendance of members, owing to the distance principally, those present report a delightful afternoon. Study leader, Mrs. Drake, being among those absent, there was no study period, but the Roll Call "Franklin Roosevelt" brought forth some interesting discussion. A pleasant social hour was enjoyed and delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cake, cookies and lemonade were served. The cool mountain breezes and the scent of the pines and the cedars, added much to the occasion. Visitors present were Mesdames Reasoner, Roselle, and Wade, all of Jicarilla.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Pruett entertained the Bridge Club at an enchilada supper, Thursday evening at 7 P. M. Games of Auction will follow.

Mrs. Allen Kile has returned from San Francisco, leaving Mr. Kile in the Southern Pacific General Hospital where he may remain for three weeks or more.

Century of Progress Report

To all who assisted in the Century of Progress Drive.

Lists of donors has been mailed back to each chairman and a complete list of all donations has been posted in the Post Office and handed to the local Press. A financial statement has also been given to each chairman.

NOTICE

Notice is hereby given that the Lincoln County Board of Education will receive sealed bids for contracts for the transportation of school children in the following districts for the school year 1934-35:

District No. 34, Asperus Canyon; 1 truck.

District No. 34, Erwin; 1 truck.

All bids must be in the office of the County School Superintendent at Carrizozo, New Mexico, on or before 7 P. M. August 25, 1934.

In awarding contracts the Board will consider the equipment of respective bidders and reliability of proposed drivers. The amount to be paid for said contracts will be governed by the budget allowance for respective routes. All bids must be stated in dollars and cents. All truck drivers will be required to carry liability insurance. Details concerning these routes may be secured from the Local Board of Directors of respective school districts or from the office of the County School Superintendent.

The County Board of Education reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

By Ola C. Jones, Secretary.

Mr. M. U. Finley made a business visit to Dexter last Tuesday.

Rev. and Mrs. F. C. Rowland of Hagerman visited the T. E. Kelly family a few minutes last Wednesday on their way home from Ruidoso. Mr. Rowland was pastor of the Baptist church here for several years.

School Notes

At this time, the Lincoln County Board of Education is very happy to announce that all schools under its supervision have been placed as FERA projects and work has begun on some of them. In the spring, these schools were placed as CWA projects and work was done on them until the same was discontinued. These unfinished and new improvements will be made on all schools concerned.

This week Mrs. Ola C. Jones and her sister-in-law Miss Lucille Jones are attending the meeting of all county school superintendents of the state. Mrs. Jones will lead the discussion on "County School Liberties, Materials, and Facilities."

Mrs. J. M. Beck and children, Betty, Billie and Allen returned last Sunday morning from a three week's visit to Holyoke, Colo.

Germany's Economic Crisis Now Worries the Nazi Government—NRA Seems Due for Modification—Plot to Kill Caffery Foiled.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© by Western Newspaper Union

RECOVERING from the terror and dismay caused by Hitler's "purging" of the Nazi party at a cost of some fifty lives, the people of Germany now realize that a serious economic crisis for their country is at hand.

Kurt Schmitt

spread out thinly; employers are urged to run their plants at their own expense, to take on more men and to increase wages under the theory that it is a privilege thus to serve the state. Observers believe the Nazi government is now trying to retreat from virtual Communism, which its leaders profess to hate, toward relative economic liberalism.

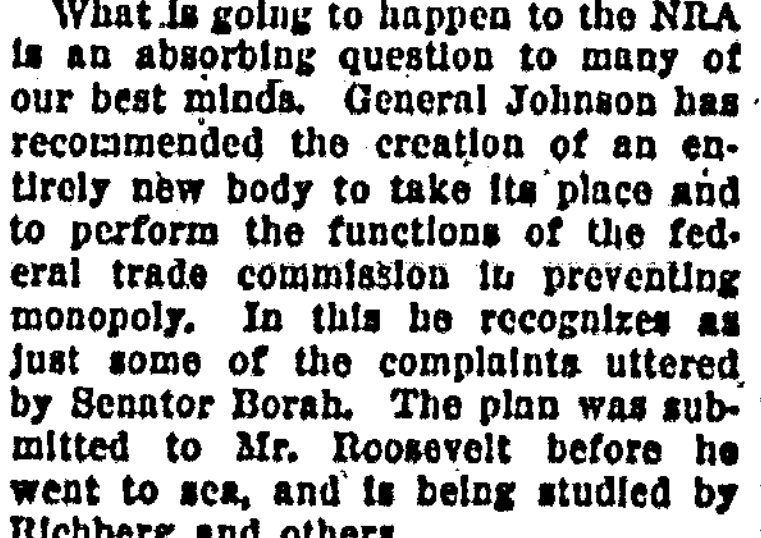

Chancellor Hitler sought to restore quiet in the reich by ordering a political truce and a call for peace, and he then left Berlin for a vacation in the Bavarian Alps. There is current among friends of the slain Nazi "traitors" an explanation to the effect that those men were truly the supporters of Hitler and were only preparing and arming selected troops to back him up in an attack on the reactionaries.

European diplomats were considerably disturbed by Hess's utterances, looking on them as the strongest provocation hurled at France in years. The Nazi charge that the executed Storm Troop leaders had been conspiring with France already had made the French angry, and Andre Francois-Poncet, French ambassador to Berlin, protested vigorously against it.

His position greatly strengthened by events in Germany, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfus of Austria reorganized his cabinet and declared unrelenting warfare on the Nazis in his country. He got rid of three ministers who were not working well with him and himself took the portfolios of public safety, defense, foreign affairs and agriculture.

out a new trade route across China, following the ancient silk caravan route. Last March General Ma captured him and held him for three weeks.

"ASSISTANT PRESIDENT" is what they now call Donald Richberg, because he is at the head of a kind of super-cabinet which holds power during the absence of President Roosevelt. The counsel for the NRA has his work cut out for him, and has gone at it with a will.

Donald Richberg

What is going to happen to the NRA is an absorbing question to many of our best minds. General Johnson has recommended the creation of an entirely new body to take its place and to perform the functions of the federal trade commission in preventing monopoly. In this he recognizes as just some of the complaints uttered by Senator Borah.

Senator James Hamilton Lewis of Illinois, in his capacity of chairman of the Democratic senatorial campaign committee, replied to the charge that the New Deal fosters monopoly by asserting that the administration intends to prosecute the monopolists. "At the demand of large business, stimulated by the national chamber of commerce," said Senator Lewis, "congress by the votes of both parties suspended the trust act to allow all business to economize by consolidation to save expense and provide larger development."

"This administration has just been able to discover the responsible parties to this conspiracy. It has not had time to take steps to punish it. It will proceed at once both to punish and obstruct further injustice." In another statement Senator Lewis indicated the President is willing to modify the NRA and perhaps some other New Deal policies.

BEING ambassador to Cuba is no soap. The authorities of the island republic have just uncovered an extensive plot to assassinate Ambassador Jefferson Caffery.

Jose Pedraza, chief of the Havana police, said the former officers were aided by one faction of the ABO political society, which recently withdrew its support from the Mendieta government, and planned a revolt in Havana, striking at police stations and army barracks simultaneously in a night attack after cutting electric lights off over the city.

THROUGH four counties of southern Illinois a tornado swept, and Jacksonville was especially hard hit. Scores of persons were injured and the property damage was estimated at a million dollars.

WHEAT production in the United States this year will be the lowest since 1896, according to the government report. For the second year since 1890 the yield will fall below domestic consumption.

Even more sensational than the report on wheat was the government prediction of a corn crop of 2,118,000,000 bushels. Private authorities had predicted a crop of 2,394,000,000 bushels, and it was believed that the government's figure would show little change.

THE world civil service commission of the Methodist Episcopal church, in session at Evanston, Ill., voted to participate in the campaign against dirty moving pictures that originated largely in the Legion of Decency organized within the Catholic church. This campaign is having its effect on the movie industry and the makers of film pictures have been deeply disturbed.

IT MAY be that William P. McCracken, Jr., will not have to serve the ten days in jail to which the senate sentenced him. The District of Columbia Court of Appeals, by a 3 to 2 vote, decided the senate had not the jurisdiction to inflict such punishment.

THOUSANDS of applicants for TPWA funds are sure to be disappointed, according to Secretary Ickes, who says nearly all that administration's money has been allocated or earmarked. President Roosevelt recently turned over to PWA about $400,000,000 of the maximum of $500,000,000 which congress authorized him to allocate for public works.

FOR the first time in history a newspaper office has been picketed by editorial workers. This was done by leaders of the American and New York newspaper guilds to the Long Island Press, published in Jamaica, L. I.

COMMUNIST agitators who fostered a farm strike in New Jersey didn't get far. The government conciliator stepped in and, finding most of the trouble was due to the efforts of the reds, soon made arrangements for the men to go back to work on terms that did not differ from those formerly prevailing.

WITH its eyes on the coming congressional campaign, the G. O. P. elephant is sitting up and taking notice. In other words, the Republican party is showing signs of a distant revitalization.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT made a brief but pleasant visit to Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, inspecting government projects and talking reassuringly to the inhabitants.

At Colon practically the entire population was out to see Mr. Roosevelt, and he was cheered all the way through the canal to Balboa.

Panel 2: Tell him to go fly a kite... he knows you don't feel like doing anything! Panel 3: Couldn't you take him this once, Jack? You know how he loves it! Panel 4: Don't you understand that when I say no, I mean no! Panel 5: I wish that noisy neighbor would mind his own business. Panel 6: Who's come over? Jack? He used to be a great baseball fan himself. Panel 7: I know... but lately he's been grouchy and restless... and he takes no interest in anything. Panel 8: I felt that why too before I cut out coffee. My doctor said I had coffee-nerve, and suggested switching to Postum for 30 days. I've been drinking it ever since. Panel 9: Good night... did she say Postum? Curse the luck... I can't work in the same house with Postum! Panel 10: Oh, I'll ask Jack to do his trick... he'll be better and get rid of those headaches. I'll get some Postum tomorrow. Panel 11: 30 DAYS LATER... Look, Mr. Man... tickets for a ball game. Panel 12: Honest, Dad... no foolin'! Panel 13: I felt that why too before I cut out coffee. My doctor said I had coffee-nerve, and suggested switching to Postum for 30 days. I've been drinking it ever since. Panel 14: Many people, of course, can drink coffee without suffering ill effects. But many others—and there are thousands of them—should never drink it. Perhaps, without realizing it, you are one of those. The caffeine in coffee may be working day and night to upset your digestion, undermine your nerves or rob you of sleep. If, for any reason, you suspect that coffee is harming you—why not try POSTUM for 30 days? POSTUM contains nothing that can possibly harm you. Things are looking up! 30 banks which closed under the Hoover regime have opened up this year, under Roosevelt's administration.

We can go into this campaign with plenty of enthusiasm. Never in the history of the state were things so promising! Never has either party had so much to point to in the way of accomplishment and progress, as have the Democrats now. Roads, streets, parks, water conservation every kind of public work has made rapid strides.

The Livestock Situation The cattle situation is undoubtedly serious. Nearly a million cattle already have been purchased by the AAA for relief purposes and buying is expected to continue through the winter. Many range outfits that are able to carry cattle through the summer are likely to face vastly more serious water and feed shortage in the winter, due to small supplies of hay. Cattlemen would do well to keep close watch on the market situation. Many cattlemen who are now selling off parts of their herds under the drought relief program are using the money to feed out the balance of their stock in dry lots. This may have a depressing effect on cattle prices in the fall and winter but the chances are that well-finished bullocks will be outstanding and in good demand. The outlook for cattle supplies over a long period indicates a shortage rather than oversupply. The determining thing is the ability of the consumer to purchase. There is one very serious feature connected with this whole situation, and that is; the sacrificing of our breeding herds. About a quarter of a century ago we went through that situation, requiring a long period of time to build up our herds. There is no occasion for duplicating the experience of that time and it looks as though those in control of the situation should encourage and facilitate the movement of feed to our breeding herds rather than to force them into the market at sacrifice prices. PETER RABBIT CALLS ON MELODY

YOU know what a great hind Peter Rabbit is to stay out all night. He did just that thing that night after listening to the twilight song of Melody the Wood Thrush.

"Just Love to Hear You Sing, Melody," cried Peter rather breathlessly.

Dear Old Mr. Patch. Everywhere, in the Old Orchard, the Green Forest, on the Green Meadows, his feathered friends were awakening. As he hopped along, lipperty lip, he heard those beautiful flute-like notes of Melody the Wood Thrush.

"Thank you," replied Melody. "I'm glad you like to hear me sing, for there is nothing I like to do better. It is the one way in which I can express my feelings. I love all the great world, and I just have to tell it so. I do not mean to boast when I say that all the Thrush family have good voices."

INSTEAD OF MEAT

IN MANY homes where the use of meat must be restricted a vegetable plate will be a most welcome addition; here is one:

In center of the platter hot stuffed peppers, at each end halves of new cabbage cooked, and a white sauce with cheese poured over it, sliced buttered beets on one side and browned potatoes on the other.

Taploca Omelet.

Stir two tablespoonfuls of tapioca into three-fourths of a cupful of scalded milk, one-half teaspoonful of salt. Cook for ten minutes in a double boiler. Remove from the fire, stir in four well-beaten egg yolks and a tablespoonful of butter. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and pour into a well-buttered hot omelet pan. Cook as usual; brown under the gas or in the oven.

serve, but like omelets, will not wait without falling. Here is one that will stand up even during the serving:

Custard Souffle.

Cream two tablespoonfuls of butter and one and one-half tablespoonfuls of flour. Pour on gradually one cupful of hot milk in which one tablespoonful of tapioca has been cooked for 15 minutes. Cook eight minutes in a double boiler. Separate four eggs, beat yolks, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and add to the milk mixture. Cool, add the stiffly beaten whites and bake 30 minutes in a moderate oven.

Casserole of Salmon.

Take two cupfuls of cooked, shredded salmon, two tablespoonfuls of tapioca uncooked, one cupful of milk, two tablespoonfuls of butter, one-fourth teaspoonful of salt, a dash each of pepper and paprika. Mix in the order given and bake ten minutes, then cover with small baking powder biscuit and finish baking.

Fruit Omelet.

Beat the yolks of six eggs, add two tablespoonfuls of sugar and one-half cupful of orange juice. Fold in the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs and pour into a hot, well-buttered omelet pan. Cook slowly, lifting the edges until a golden brown on the bottom. Spread one-half thickly with orange marmalade, and fold. Serve at once.

Birds are much warmer blooded than human beings. Their bodily temperatures range from 100 degrees in the wingless kiwi to from 107 to 111 among sparrows and warblers. Birds with temperatures intermediate between these two classes are the emus and penguins, 102 degrees; and ducks, fowl and game birds, the temperatures of which range from 105 to 107 degrees.

Across Nigeria

Native African Dancing Girl.

Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNU Service.

As Peter, rolling over the thousands of smooth roads of the United States, it is a thrilling adventure to mount a side-car equipped motorcycle and "three wheel" across Nigeria from Lagos, the chief port on the shore of the Atlantic, to Kano, near the northern Nigeria border.

Off down the main street of Lagos you roar, followed by half the black population of the city, all craning their necks to see what is going on. Soon you are popping along through the coastal jungle.

Towering walls of tropic greenery, push in on the narrow road from either side, clasp limbs and tendrils overhead, and drop long, mucous tentacles through the gloom. Southern Nigeria is thickly populated, and as you jolt along over the trail you know from the sounds that float out from the jungle that back behind those seemingly impenetrable walls are hundreds of little farmsteads and plantations.

Every now and then you catch a glimpse of one through the matted tangle of ferns and creepers—just a squat, overgrown grass beehive of a hut, surrounded by a patch of cocoa trees, Guinea corn (durra), or peanuts, with a woolly-headed Yoruba husbandman grubbing in the mold and half a dozen little black man-cubs romping in the sun; or occasionally a village of a dozen huts or so whirling the day through in pagan content.

They are not bad folk, these Yoruba, considering their opportunities—ambitious enough for the climate, law-abiding, and quicker at thinking than the average West African. They number more than 3,000,000 and most of them occupy the country south and west of the Niger to Dahomey.

Most Yoruba men wear loose-flowing robes. A woman wraps a piece of home spun about herself and the "plcken" that clings to her back. Little girls wear a fringe or a string of coral beads around the waist; little boys seldom fret about clothes.

The various tribes or "families" are distinguished by facial marks inflicted during infancy and rubbed with ashes and irritating herbs to produce a permanent scar—a custom frequently met with in negro-land. In many localities the people file deep notches in their incisors, but otherwise they take good care of their teeth, brushing them constantly with the frayed end of a small stick. In one or two localities, to propose marriage a man sends his toothbrush to the lady by one of his friends. Modesty demands that she refuse it twice, but if she really wants him she takes no further chances.

Taking Tea With the Alaka.

On the evening of the first day out from Lagos you put up with some American missionary friends in Abeokuta, 64 miles inland, and the next day go to pay your respects to the Alaka, black potentate of this branch of the Yoruba nation and ruler over some 200,000 souls. He serves tea from exquisite china, with all the aplomb of an ambassador from the Court of St. James, and speaks Oxford English.

But his face, anthracite-black and shiny beneath the ponderous silver coronet given his predecessor by Queen Victoria, is slashed with the Egba tribal marks, and his thick lips open and close over a row of filed teeth. And across the courtyard you see one of the Alaka's wives and her several inky offspring sitting on the floor eating consecrated with their fingers out of a big carved calabash.

Some 58 miles and you come to Ibadan, a pagan metropolis sprawled over a score of hills. Largest city in tropical Africa is Ibadan—250,000 people, sweating, working, loving, dying, year after year back there in the jungle. One wonders what life holds for them. And yet, in strolling through the market place, you note that at least every third citizen is smiling. Poor, benighted heathen—they do not know any better than to enjoy life as they find it!

There are 250,000 people, and not a sewer pipe within the city limits. But Manufactures in Ibadan.

You stop to inquire the way, in a street which seems to be the manufacturing center of the town. On the left is a whole row of coal-black silversmiths squatting cross-legged in their 2-by-4 mud workshops and tinkling at their little anvils. And next to them three cheery chaps in G-stings, who hammer out aluminum earrings and anklets, and there are half a dozen ebony craftsmen who make long, barbed spears so esthetically chased that it must be a real pleasure to get stuck with one of them.

Further down are the potteries. You stop to watch three well-muscled young wenchies rhythmically battering away at a gigantic wooden mortar of clay with mighty 6-foot pestles. Their sturdy shoulder-blades ripple pliantly beneath black satin skin, and they smile, coyly and display their clean, white teeth when you tell them in sign language what good figures they have.

The market place of Ibadan is a bizarre and fascinating jumble of sights, sounds, and smells, of which the smells—especially those emanating from the "juju" section—are perhaps the most bizarre and the least fascinating. Half the population of the city, it seems to you, is selling something, squatting cross-legged on the ground with the something—peppers, kola nuts, ornaments, salt, or what not—arranged in neat little piles before them. Of the other half, milling about from stall to stall, a very few seem to be buying something, but the most are "just shopping." It reminds you of home.

The jabbering is heterogeneous and terrific. Here are merchant and mason in heated climax, the half-hour haggles which precede every sale in this land, where small turn-over and big talk-over are the rule of trade; and over there a knot of chattering young things with their heads together, busily slandering in her absence the girl who has just won the most eligible young man in town—exactly like civilized people!

To Jebba and Beyond.

Beyond Ibadan the highway soon loses all desire it had ever had to amount to something in this world, and before you get to Ilorin, 82 miles farther, it peters out into nothing but a thin trail through the tall grass. Jebba marks the approximate northern limit of the Yoruba tribes. Eighty miles upstream on the Niger is Bussa, where the famous Scots explorer, Mungo Park, was drowned while trying to escape a native attack. Bida, capital of the Nupe people, is about 80 miles east of Jebba, as the crow flies, on the route to Kano.

Beyond Jebba are beautiful roads for half a mile; then you cross the lordly Niger on the railroad bridge. A mile the other side of the river you plunge back into the bush, and never see those two little ribbons of steel again till you get to Bida, three days later.

Life in Bida seems most bizarre and exotic at first. Pocket-size, pot-bellied nanny goats trot up and down the streets on business, with their teats dragging on the ground. Dignified-robed patriarchs on bicycles bump into them and swear in Nupe. Six black, thick-lipped heralds blow shrill blasts on 4-foot brass trumpets before the gates of an enormous mud-walled palace.

The emir passes on a stunted pony, both wrapped in pomp and circumstance. Turbans, unholstered robes, a sunshade, and a horse-tail for the emir; tassels, gold trappings, and a high-backed red saddle for the tired little pony; and the drummers, knives, and swaddled courtiers string out behind on foot.

Kano, with a population of about 90,000, is a crossroad of West Africa, the foremost commercial and manufacturing center in the west-central Sudan.

Golden Relics of Old Race

Discovery of Ornaments and Trinkets of a Long-Past Period Has Aroused Archeologists to Speculation as to the Makers.

Four or five years ago several poor and ignorant natives were plying their way in a canoe up the Rio Grande de Cocola, a large river in western Panama about 80 miles south of the Panama canal. The dry season had lowered the river. As the small craft made its way upstream, the keen eyes of one of the natives noted something glittering in the bank.

In a few minutes greedy hands were tearing at the soil, for they had found pieces of gold. The fact that the gold articles were objects of art, beaten into curious and beautiful shapes by hands long dead, did not interest the natives. But it did interest scientists. When word of the find came to the Peabody museum of Harvard university, a party of archeologists went down to investigate. The scientists worked in secret for three years, and have now returned with a store of gold objects worth a king's ransom. In the opinion of Dr. S. K. Lothrop, leader of the expedition, they represent the art of a civilization in Panama that has hitherto been unknown to science.

The chance which brought scientists to the spot was due to a shift in the bed of the Rio de Cocola. In changing its course the stream cut through an ancient burying place. The gold ornaments which excited the interest of the natives were part of the funeral dress of some long-forgotten chieftain, buried not only with his richest possessions of metal and pottery, but surrounded also by his wives, retainers, servants and slaves.

The abundance of similar finds made by the Peabody museum party in its three-year sojourn in Panama was almost without precedent. Describing the results of the expedition recently in the New York Times Magazine, Doctor Lothrop reported that from one grave alone, measuring no more than 12 by 14 feet, more than 2,000 objects were removed.

The grave contained a score of bodies, laid out in rows upon massive stone slabs. Piled over and around the bones were 60 different objects of gold, including four heavy pendants, set with semi-precious stones, six gold necklaces containing thousands of beads, four large and heavily embossed golden discs, twenty-eight discs about 3 inches wide which had once been sewn on a shirt, four pairs of gold cuffs and twenty-four rods of gold with decorated tips, for insertion in the ears.

There were 225 pottery vessels, both for domestic service and for religious offerings. There were 67 stone axes and chisels, five gold chisels, 21 stone knives, 100 stone arrow points, pipe, mirrors of hematite set in limestone discs, pendants and beads of agate, statuettes carved from the ribs of the manatee or sea cow, some of them overlaid with gold; wild boars' tusks set in gold.

sting-ray spines and saw-fish teeth used as spear points, sharks' tooth necklaces, crystals, gilded copper ornaments and many other objects.

"Such a list gives but a pale picture of the reality," said Doctor Lothrop. "Gold does not tarnish in the earth and it appeared gleaming in the sun as our knives and brushes removed the accumulated layers of dirt. Intricate designs beaten in high relief met the eye; huge breastplates embossed with mythological monsters; gold cuffs running in sheets from wrist to elbow, each pair stamped with a distinctive design or property mark (corresponding to our coat of arms); complex castings of strange anthropomorphic gods fashioned in molds over delicate models in wax.

The richness, variety and fine workmanship of these possessions indicate that a well-established, wealthy and highly organized culture produced them. Doctor Lothrop and his associates believe, from a study of the relics, that the Panama peoples were unrelated in culture either to their neighbors the Mayas and Aztecs to the northwest, or the Incas to the south. In short, the discovery of these graves has brought to light remains of a hitherto unknown American civilization, as great and important in its way, perhaps, as any of the others.

relate that a party of Spaniards, in search of gold left the coast of Panama in 1515. Moving inland, they came to a district ruled by a powerful chief named Parita, who by a stratagem administered such a crushing defeat to the Spaniards that they were driven off.

Several years later a band of Spaniards searching for him found his body elaborately decked for burial, surrounded by bound captives who were to accompany him to his grave. His body was adorned from head to foot with golden ornaments and many others were in baskets nearby. Stripping the body and robbing the baskets, the Spaniards returned to the coast with more than 300 pounds of gold.

Parita and his subjects were probably remnants of the once-great civilization which produced the ornaments and relics recently uncovered by archeologists.—From the Literary Digest.

RELATIVITY THEORY

The Einstein theory embodies the idea of the relativity of all motion. The hypothesis in the main is that it is impossible by physical experiment to measure the absolute motion of the body through space; that there is nothing out in space in the nature of a fixed set of co-ordinates with regard to which motion can be measured. There is no such thing as absolute motion of one body with respect to another.

The TIRE SENSATION of '34

THE NEW Firestone CENTURY PROGRESS TIRE

Beyond Comparison IN QUALITY AND PRICE WITH ANY FIRST QUALITY TIRE MADE

As the millions of World's Fair visitors saw tires made in the Firestone Factory and Exhibition Building, we asked thousands this question: "What do you value most in a tire?" Car owners from every state in the Union were interviewed—drivers of automobiles, trucks, and busses—and out of it all came one answer: "Give us Blowout Protection, Non-Skid Safety, and Long Wear, at moderate price."

Firestone engineers used every resource in developing a tire with these qualifications and selling to the public at a price in reach of every car owner. The answer is the new Firestone Century Progress Tire.

COMPARE QUALITY — CONSTRUCTION — PRICE

This new tire is in EVERY way the equal or superior of any other first quality tire built, regardless of brand — name — or by whom manufactured, or at what price offered for sale. Call on the Firestone Service Dealer or Service Store and examine it. We know you will be sold on the rugged quality. You will want to equip your car with these new tires.

REMEMBER — you save money buying today, as rubber is up 442% and cotton 190%. Tire prices cannot remain at these low levels.

Mr. G. T. McQuillen is making his plans for a trip to the Century of Progress in Chicago. He intends to go in the early part of September.

Mrs. Pinkie Skinner received word this week that Patsy Jo, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Skinner died last Thursday in the Baptist hospital at Clovis, and was buried Friday. The baby was only sick four days.

Mrs. Sarah Gray is resting comfortably today.

The Revelers at Community hall. Come one, Come all. If you don't dance, You can look on at this ball.

On the occasion of the visit of the Worthy Grand Matron of the Eastern Stars to her home lodge at Mimbres last Saturday, many friends were specially invited to attend. Special guests from here were Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hupperts, their daughter Helen, and Mr. M. M. Brickley, who is Worthy Grand Patron of the state. They enjoyed the trip; found things flourishing and the drouth partly broken in that part of the state. They returned home Sunday.

Showers at various points in the county make us hopeful that our turn will come soon.

Letter from Exposition

Hotel Sherman,
Chicago, Ill.,
July 23, 1934.

Editor News:
After entering the Exposition grounds, the first thing I did was to find out where the New Mexico building was located. It is located near the Florida Bldg. The exhibit is a very creditable one. An Indian rug weaving booth meets your gaze to the right as you enter. Two or three booths resemble adobe houses. Old "Josefa Maria" bell, cast in the year 1555, and many other relics, are on exhibition. The attendants are attired in native costumes. Mrs. B. B. McGee of Las Cruces is hostess for month of July. She is the mother of Miss Mayme Fay McGee, teacher in Carrizozo during last term. Quite a few people visit this building daily.

The Exposition is grander than last year in many respects. Many new buildings and concessions have been added, and all the old ones have been repaired.

The crowds attending the Fair are as large or larger than last year in July.

The Ford Motor Co. has a large new building, park and theatre grounds, and a circled road on which they have a model of every car, made by them. A ride in any one of the models made by them may be had for the asking.

Everybody who has the money to spare should see this Century of Progress Exposition. I think I'll "stick around" at least ten days longer.—M. DOWNING.

Livestock Program
Moves Right Along

According to E. C. Mauldin, State Supervisor of Drouth Relief for FERA, approximately the allotted 2,000 head of cattle are being moved in New Mexico per day under the Emergency Drouth Livestock Program. About 1,000 others, too diseased or emaciated to be moved, are being disposed of on the spot, daily.

The cattle being shipped are going to slaughter for canning and processing, for the most part. There is, however, another class recently designated which consists of cattle too thin for canning and processing, but good enough quality to be saved by shipping to grass.

The Bureau of Animal Industry makes the inspection and passes the cattle for shipment. It condemns them, after the purchases are made by the Agricultural Drouth Relief Service. The shipping and distribution are made by FSRC which is represented in New Mexico by the FERA.

A number of selected dairy cattle are to be redistributed under the Rural Rehabilitation program. These will all be selected by expert judges of dairy cattle.

Mr. T. A. Spencer is in charge of cattle buying here.
