CARRIZOZO, NEW MEXICO, FRIDAY APRIL 19, 1935

NUMBER 46

Mrs. Sweet, Manager Carrizozo Eating House

Succumbs Sunday after an Illness of only Few Hours

Last Saturday afternoon about 8 o'clock, as Mrs. Sallie Sweet was performing her customary duties at the Carrizozo Eating House, she became very ill. She was assisted to her room and Dr. Johnson was summoned, but all that could be done by skill and loving friends was of no avail, and she passed away last Sunday evening at 9:15, after an illness of little more than twenty-four hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Sweet came to Carrizozo from Socorro in 1921, and conducted the Carrizozo Eating House until Mr. Sweet's death in 1929, since which time Mrs. Sweet has managed the Eating House with the assistance of her daughter, Mrs. Jimmie Lee.

She was one of the best known and most universally beloved women in the county, and her death is deeply regretted by everyone.

Quiet but with a heart of gold, and a nature that was kindness itself, Mrs. Sweet went her way doing good wherever it seemed most needed; so grief over her passing is just as touching, just as poignant as human hearts can bear.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. J. L. Lee, of Carrizozo, and Mrs. R. M. Muirhead, of El Paso.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, at the Peak-Hagedorn chapel in El Paso, followed by interment in the Masonic cemetery.

Exclusively New Features in Frigidaire

As a part of a nation-wide program celebrating the manufacture of the 3,000,000th Frigidaire and the start on the fourth million, Carrizozo Hardware Company, local Frigidaire dealers are having open house for all families who are planning purchase of electric refrigerators this spring.

"The experience gained in producing and installing 3,000,000 Frigidaires has culminated in a product that truthfully can be designated, as the finest refrigerator that man can build", said Mr. English today. "Every worthwhile feature in the entire industry, many of them exclusive with Frigidaire, will be found in the new models. Above all of these, however, the thing of which we are most proud is the development of the super-freezer, the remarkable cooling unit which provides great reserve power for basic refrigeration and safe food preservation in the very hottest of summer weather.

"Proved beyond all question by actual use during several seasons in homes of families in these locations which weather bureau records show to be hottest in America, the super-freezer now makes possible greater utility in many features which General Motors offers in the 1935 series. Among these, and available in nearly all of the sixteen different models, are, the cold control, the exclusive hydrator, automatic reset defrosting control, automatic ice tray releasing, and interior lighting. Acid resisting porcelain in food compartments, utility baskets for foot compartments, service shelf, quickube ice trays are other convenience features to be found in most of the new models. Detailed explanation of all these features and what they mean to the refrigerator user will be one of the attractions at the open house which continues through the spring.

LINCOLN LOCALS

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Penfield went to Roswell Saturday to visit their son, Lieut. Edward Penfield, at N. M. M. I. They returned home that afternoon.

Miss Nellie Miranda spent the week-end with her parents here.

Miss Celina Salazar left last week for Santa Fe, where she has accepted a position as stenographer with the Adm. Home Loan office.

The stork visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Sanchez and left a baby girl. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

Miss Raquel Herrera, of Capitan, visited Miss Susie Maes at her home over the week-end.

The Hondo-Tinnie baseball team played the Lincoln team last Sunday. A tie game resulted in nine innings; 3 to 3. They played the 10th inning, and Hondo won by three runs.

The Lincoln team expects to match a game with the transient camp boys from the Baca ranch.

Rev. Fr. Salvator, of Carrizozo, held a service at St. John's church on Palm Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Romero and Roman Maes and family returned last Monday from El Paso, where they had been under treatment.

Mr. George Titworth, of Capitan, was a visitor in town last Thursday.

Business Letter

Representatives of great advertising agencies, gathered at the annual convention of the American Association of Advertising Agencies at White Sulphur Springs last week, seemed cheerful. They know from their bookkeepers how business and industry are doing.

Arthur H. Kudner, who presided, and C. E. Kettering, who combines engineering skill with a knowledge of national psychology, both expressed sincere optimism. Also optimistic was Mr. Knudsen, who had driven to Baltimore and back, to attend the opening of a big new plant for the Chevrolet which is Knudsen's four-wheeler baby.

American businessmen at that meeting learned various things important to them. The skillful advertising man is as important in building a business as an engineer or architect in building a bridge or skyscraper.

The advertising expert is even more important for a bridge or tall building, once erected, stays, while a business may dwindle, or fall down, at any time, if its advertising is neglected or badly done. Businessmen that grudge the expense of advertising might as well begrudge clerk hire in their stores. The advertising man speaks to all the customers, before the clerks or the store see them. The industrialists economizing on the expert advertising advice, might as well economize on the oil that saves their machinery from destruction. Brisbane in El Paso, Texas.

Cobras Defeated by Alamo.

The Alamo Black Socks defeated the Carrizozo Cobras last Sunday at Alamogordo. The Black Socks had a good start in the first inning, scoring 3 runs, but from then on [Sallie] Ortiz who did the delivering for the Cobras controlled the game like an old veteran, allowing them only one more run in the remaining 8 innings. Manuel Chavez, Cobra catcher was the star hitter. He was 4 times at bat and made 4 hits. The Cobras, as a whole, made a remarkable showing after the first inning. The results of the game were 7 to 5 in favor of Alamogordo.

About 25 baseball fans from Carrizozo attended the game.

The Cobras will play White Oaks here Sunday. A good turnout is expected.

CORONA NEWS

Miss Alice Long has resigned her position as commercial teacher in the Corona High School to go to her home in Topeka, Kansas. Her marriage to Leale Shaw, of Albuquerque, occurred in Topeka on April 16.

Mrs. Stevenson, of Santa Fe, arrived Sunday to assume her duties as commercial teacher.

Mrs. P. H. Kersey, of Mesa, Arizona, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Clements.

An old-fashioned moonlight party will be held Friday night at the Simpson Ranch. The admission will be 10 cents for both adults and children. The proceeds will be used on the church building.

Crawford Mariner, Howard Mariner and Delbert Jolly were Alamogordo visitors Saturday.

An all-day entertainment will be held at the Gallinas school house Easter Sunday. It will include Sunday School classes, picnic lunch, Easter egg hunt and a program of music and readings.

School Notes

By Ota G. Jones Co. School Supt.

The Capitan P. T. A. is sponsoring a Boy Scout troupe for that community. At the last P. T. A. meeting of that city, Mrs. C. E. Mason, of Roswell, gave an interesting lecture on "Parent Education." On April 12th, Dr. Porter, of Fort Stanton, gave an interesting address to the San Patricio P. T. A. Much is being done in P. T. A. work throughout the county.

We are again reminding you that R. H. Grismom, educational budget auditor, will hold the budget hearing for the municipal, independent and rural schools in Carrizozo on April 26, 1935. The patrons of the schools, citizens, and any tax payers are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

A truck and the Hondo school bus had a head-on collision just south of Bonnell's ranch this morning, but no one was seriously injured. No other particulars are available at this time.

Mr. J. W. Ferguson of Coyote was in town yesterday.

ANCHO NEWS

Mr. H. M. Belknap returned home the 5th from a delightful four months visit with her son and family in New York city.

Mr. Craig and Miss Crawford spent an enjoyable week-end with Miss Berry on the Ruidoso.

Mrs. J. E. Hall is enjoying a visit from her sister who lives in Coleman county, Texas.

Mrs. Kile has returned from a visit to her sister at Duran.

The White Oaks players presented "Poor Father" to a well filled house, Saturday night. This play is a dandy and we appreciate the opportunity of having it played in our community.

Those going from Ancho to the Singing Convention at Capitan were J. C. Johnson and family, A. W. Drake and family, Price Miller and family, L. P. Hall and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Peters, Mr. Meeks and son, David, Mr. Craig and Miss Crawford. They report the convention very interesting.

Mr. J. M. Frame is now driving a new Chevrolet purchased from the City garage Carrizozo last week.

Mrs. Belknap is in Corona operating the third truck at the depot.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Penix and daughter were Sunday guests at home.

Another Community program and party Friday, Welcome folks. The Stamp-Baxter Music Co. presented the Lubbock quartet at the School House Wednesday.

Governor's Day

Governor's Day at the Carlsbad Cavern has been set for Saturday, May 11. Governor and Mrs. Tingley will be there, as will also Governor and Mrs. Alford of Texas. It is expected that at least three thousand High school students from the two states will visit the cavern on that date.

Mrs. G. L. Strauss and Mrs. R. R. McPherson visited Capitan yesterday.

It snowed yesterday on the surrounding mountains.

2nd Annual Spring Activity Day

Lincoln County Field and Track Meet here next Friday

Spring Activity Day will be held in Carrizozo this year on Friday, April 26. The public is cordially invited to attend the events, all of which will be free of charge. In the morning, high school and grade school track events and marble contest will be held. A basket lunch will be held at the Community Hall at noon only for contestants and those who bring baskets. At one p. m., all pupils will participate in general singing, followed by harmonica and declamation contests for the grade and high schools. Curricular and commercial contests will follow, after which an awarding of trophies will conclude the program.

Spelling matches, arithmetic drills, penmanship contests: 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th grades, only.

Teachers and contestants are requested to be on time.

In track meet participants are divided into four classes: Class A boys, 80 pounds up; class B boys under 80 pounds; class A girls, 70 pounds up; class B girls, under 70 pounds.

Carrizozo Girls Win

Mrs. T. E. Kelley, Mrs. John Harkey, Edith Dudley, Zane Harkey and Inez Ward attended the Tri-State Music festival at Carlsbad last week-end. Thursday they attended the concert; on Friday, the contests were held. Entrants from Texas, New Mexico, and Colorado were registered. Inez won first place in hymn playing. In a class of eight Zane was one of the three winners.

Friday night visitors attended another concert. Saturday morning nearly 500 went through the Carlsbad Cavern. About 300 people attended the festival from the three states. The state meet will be held in Carlsbad next year. The Carrizozo party arrived home Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Ed Harris and Mrs. Brice Dugger attended the funeral of Mrs. E. H. Sweet in El Paso last Wednesday.

MARRIAGE

By ANNE CAMPBELL

ABOVE the din of the children, Above the sweeping and dusting, Above the ugly and sordid, Like a white bird thrusting Into the heavenly blue, There rides the thought of you!

Above the worry and planning, Above the day's endless labor, Above the ceaseless adjustment, Like a shining saber, Cleaving the clouds that will form Is your love, true and warm!

Above the monotonous hours, Above the wreck of our dreaming, Above the illness and sorrow, Like a bright star gleaming, Shines ever constant and true, Your love for me, my love for you!

of the suit. Can you possibly tell me how to make my coats last?

Yours truly,

A. STITCHENTYME.

Answer: Make your pants and vests first.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I am a girl eighteen years of age and for the first time in my life I went "slumming" last night. I felt hungry and went into a cheap restaurant and was surprised to see men eating with their knives. Can you tell me why people eat with their knives?

Sincerely,

I. PHEEL FINE.

Answer: Merely to sharpen their appetites.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I heard my folks say as how fish gives yuh brains. If what they say is true, what kind of them there fish shall I eat?

Yours truly,

ALF. ALFA.

Answer: Judging by your letter, I suggest a whale.

Dear Mr. Wynn:

I read in this morning's paper that some arconaut flew his airplane to an altitude of 10,000 feet. Would you like to be up that high with an airplane?

Truly yours,

Upson Downa.

Answer: I'd hate to be up that high without one.

BEDTIME STORY FOR CHILDREN

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

DANNY MEADOW MOUSE WISHES HE HAD STAYED HOME

WHEN Danny Meadow Mouse crept into the little hole in the bank of the Smiling Pool his heart was beating so fast that it hurt. Then too, he was so tired that it didn't seem to him he would be able to move again for a long time. You see, crossing the Smiling Pool was a long swim for such a little fellow as Danny Meadow Mouse. He had not been in the water for a long time before, and so of course swimming tired him much more than it would have done had he been in the habit of swimming every day. It wouldn't have been so bad if he hadn't been obliged to swim just as fast as he possibly could. As it was, the Big Pickeral who lives in the Smiling Pool had almost caught him. So between his terrible fright and his hard work Danny was quite used up.

He laid down and for a while just panted and panted, and all the time wished that he had stayed at home where he belonged on the other side of the Smiling Pool. By and by his heart stopped beating so fast, and he didn't have to pant so to get his breath. You know the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows recover climbed out on his big, green lily pad. Danny looked down into the water and his heart gave a little jump. Half hidden under some lily pads was the Big Pickeral who had so nearly caught him. Danny didn't need to be told that the Big Pickeral was lying there in the hope that Danny would once more take to the water.

Suddenly an ugly black head with wicked looking horny jaws was thrust out of the water in the middle of the Smiling Pool. It was the head of Snapper the Big Snapping Turtle, and the very sight of him made Danny shiver, for he knew that nothing would suit Snapper better for a dinner than a fat meadow mouse. More than ever Danny wished he had stayed at home.

QUESTION BOX

by ED WYNN, The Perfect Fool

Dear Mr. Wynn: I heard a woman tell another that her husband reminded her of a furcane. What do you think she meant by that?

Truly yours,

ROSE Z. PESSEY.

Answer: She simply means that he smokes all day and goes out at night.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I heard two men discussing animals. One said that while in India he saw a "man eating tiger." The other said that once while in Boston he saw a "man eating rabbit." Do you believe that?

Yours truly,

JOE KANTSEMIT.

Answer: Well, it's possible.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I heard two actors talking the other day and one of them said he was looking for a man to take down some foot notes. I am a musician but have never heard of footnotes before. Were they kidding? If not, what instrument were they talking about?

Sincerely,

SIM PHONY.

Answer: Foot notes, my dear sir, come from a shoe horn.

Dear Mr. Wynn: I am a tailor and am at a loss to know why I am having so many complaints about my clothes. The strange thing is that my customers all say the same thing. They claim that my coats wear out twice as quickly as the rest

A SYMPHONY OF SALADS

IS THERE ever any salad more appetizing and attractive than nice fresh shrimp? Take two cupfuls of cooked shrimp—fresh. If possible, canned will do—add one cupful of finely cut tender celery, one-third cupful of sliced olives (the stuffed ones), one-third of a cupful of french dressing, let stand to season, adding salt and cayenne. Then when serving add mayonnaise and serve on lettuce.

Another well liked salad is Waldorf Salad.

Take one cupful of diced celery, two cupfuls of finely cubed apples, one-half cupful of broken pecan meats. Cover with a tablespoonful of lemon juice and one of olive oil, adding salt and a teaspoonful of sugar. Let stand for an hour, then serve on lettuce with a mayonnaise dressing.

Who doesn't like the tender and delicious chicken salad?

Chicken Salad.

Cut the light meat of chicken into cubes. For each quart of the finely cut chicken add a teaspoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of lemon juice, a salt-spoonful of white pepper and a few dashes of cayenne. Mix and stand aside in a cool place. Add two-thirds as much tender celery cut into bits, a half cupful of shredded almonds and let stand until serving time. Cover with mayonnaise and serve on lettuce, garnished with olives, capers and hard cooked eggs.

Almonds, Pineapple and Cabbage Salad.

Shred a tender head of cabbage, add one cupful of shredded blanched almonds and a few slices of sliced pineapple. Serve with salt, paprika, and sour cream. Line a bowl with lettuce leaves and heap in it the salad. Serve with cheese and crackers.

Salmon Salad.

Drain the oil from a can of salmon. Remove the skin and bones and shred. Cut four boiled potatoes into cubes, add three sweet pickles finely minced and two cupfuls of finely chopped new cabbage. Season with salt, pepper and serve with a hotted dressing.

IDEAL FROCK FOR AFTERNOON WEAR

Something different in the way of smartness is this youthful afternoon dress. Its yoke, round in front and buttoning into a chic triangle at the back, points the way to shoulder width, which every style-conscious woman knows is most important this season. The smart bodice is tucked at the yoke-line for flattering fullness. Then, too, the skirt—coming to a nice point above the waistline, back and front—boasts a slimming back seam and Kickpleat for extra "back interest." This design would be particularly lovely in metal flecked crepe, either silk or wool. Short sleeves are included with the pattern.

Pattern 9206 may be ordered only in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20. Size 16 requires 3 yards 30 inch fabric. SEND FIFTEEN CENTS in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this pattern. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE. Complete, diagrammed Sew Chart included. Send your order to Sewing Circle Pattern Department, 232 West Eighth Street, New York.

Dental Hygiene

The Road to Health

By DR. R. ALLEN GRIFFITH

DENTAL PAIN KILLING

THE fear of pain is man's heritage. An American dentist reduced that heritage forever by making the first practical use of nitrous oxide (laughing gas) as an anesthetic.

Anesthesia really was discovered on December 11, 1844, by Horace Wells, a dentist of Hartford, Conn., when he offered himself as a possible martyr to suffering humanity, by inhaling nitrous oxide and having a tooth extracted. In January, 1845, Doctor Wells took his discovery to Boston and operated before the medical college. He was ridiculed and pronounced a fraud. The wise men of Boston pointed the finger of mockery and cried "humbbug," determined to break upon the rocks of derision any man from the country who supposed the wise men of the city ridiculous enough to believe his story. Dentists in their eagerness to relieve human suffering and pain, have for years successfully used local anesthetics such as cocaine and novocain. In later years they have developed the use of a combination of nitrous oxide and oxygen, the safest general anesthetic known. The death rate from nitrous oxide and oxygen is estimated at one in a million, against one in thirty thousand in ether.

Dentistry's latest gift to suffering mankind is conductive anesthesia or nerve blocking, by which the area controlled by a nerve is rendered insensible to pain. Surgery is now able to perform major operations such as laparotomies and amputations by injecting the nerve trunks with novocain. What would be man's fear and dread of dental and surgical operations without the gracious sleep of anesthesia?

Through anesthesia, dentistry has given to humanity one of its greatest boons, and it is hard to conceive that in the past few years, bills have been introduced in some of our state legislatures to prevent dentists from giving anesthetics. However, it is only in line with the profound scientific ignorance of politicians.

The dentist has succeeded in taking the "dent" out of dentistry. Where an individual suffers from pain in his teeth, it is his own fault. The modern up-to-date dentist has so many ways of relieving pain that no one need suffer from their teeth. His latest and greatest gift to humanity, however, is the prevention of systemic disease through the proper care of the teeth.

Proper dental care will not only prevent pain and preserve the teeth but will preserve general health as well.

TEETH AND TONSILS

WHEN you smile in a mirror what do you see?

Do you see a clean, healthy mouth and a row of pearls, or a neglected oral cavity with decaying, uncared-for teeth?

The mucous membrane of the mouth is highly-resistant to the invasion of bacteria. If this were not true, we would all be in constant trouble from mouth infections, for it is easy to demonstrate that every mouth in any civilized community contains a great variety of bacteria, most of them of highly virulent strains.

During the past few years it has been the practice to remove the tonsils, but to overlook their source of infection, the teeth. Let us see how the tonsils become infected.

The substance of healthy tonsils is composed of small nodules of lymphatic tissues arranged in groups of 12 to 15 crypts and connective tissue, blood vessels and a few nerve fibers. From the crypts numerous follicles branch out into the substance of the tonsil by means of irregular channels.

Surrounding each follicle is a plexus of lymphatic vessels, and the whole is covered by mucous membrane.

While well protected from the outside, yet, because of their peculiar construction and the numerous lymphatic plexuses and crypts, they are ideal incubators for micro-organisms that may once succeed in penetrating the lymph channels. The lymphatic vessels of the gums terminate in the submaxillary glands. The lymphatic vessels leading from the plexuses surrounding the tonsillar crypts also pass to the submaxillary glands. It is therefore readily seen that bacteria may pass almost directly from the gum margins to the tonsils.

Bacteria passing into the lymph channels may easily pass on to the tonsils and be enormously multiplied, both in number and virulence, and be passed through the submaxillary glands to the deep cervical glands, and finally on to other parts of the body without the surface of the tonsil even being disturbed. This is why the removal of the tonsils, while immediately helpful, does not always remove the source of the trouble. The same condition still remains, and operation after operation frequently succeed each other as the lowered resistance of some other point causes it to become infected.

If the teeth are properly cared for first, and the crypts of the tonsils carefully cleaned out, the tonsils may frequently be saved. In any event the teeth should be the first consideration, for in treating diseases resulting from local infection the original point of infection must be eradicated.

Picture of San Francisco Bay in 1937

© Calif. Toll Bridge Authority.

UPON an aerial photograph of San Francisco bay, with Oakland in the background, architects for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge have drawn in to scale a representation of the world's largest bridge, 3 1/4 miles long (nearly four miles over water), which will connect Alameda and San Francisco counties. The west half of the bridge is a suspension structure comprising twin suspension bridges anchored into a huge concrete monument in the center. A double-deck tunnel pierces Yerba Buena Island, occupied by army, navy and lighthouse services, and the double-deck bridge continues over a 1,400-foot cantilever span, 5 through truss spans, and 14 deck truss spans before it lands on a fill extending out from the Oakland shore. At the eastern shore, treaties carry the bridge traffic on to three branches—one for Berkeley, one for Oakland, and one for the business section of Oakland and Alameda. The piers of this bridge—51 in number—set new marks on engineering frontiers, going deeper below water than any previous substructure has heretofore been built. Some of the piers go as far as 237 feet below low tide. The two suspension bridges have 2,310-foot main spans. The lower deck carries two tracks for interurban electric cars and three lanes for heavy trucks, and the upper deck carries a 55-foot highway for six lanes of automobiles. The clearance for ships at high tide is 227 feet, 37 feet higher than the masts of any ship now afloat.

Nye's Committee Offers Drastic War-Profit Bill—Austria Decides to Enlarge Its Army—Progress of European Peace Negotiations.

By EDWARD W. PICKARD
© Western Newspaper Union

SENATOR GERALD P. NYE'S munitions committee, which has spent seven months investigating the doings of the manufacturers of arms and armament, reported to the senate its measure designed to take the profits out of war and provide for the conscription of industry in the event of another armed conflict involving the United States. The bill is decidedly drastic, giving to the President in war time powers that are practically dictatorial, permitting him not only to fix prices but also to license all industry and control raw materials. It also has taxation features that will arouse considerable opposition. It would raise individual income taxes to 6 per cent in wartime, levy surtaxes up to 84 per cent on incomes in excess of $10,000, and seize profits of corporations in excess of 6 per cent return on invested capital.

The Nye bill gives the President very broad powers to fix prices of commodities, to license industry, to enforce profiteering and to prevent the hoarding of goods. It provides for the drafting of industrial leaders, who would be permitted to remain with their companies, subject to military law and given rank and compensation not exceeding that of a brigadier general.

Meanwhile the house military affairs committee reported the McSwain bill, similar to the senate measure but without the tax features. This lack made the more radical members angry but when they tried to amend the bill they were routed, 233 to 71.

The Nye senate committee, after reporting its bill, continued its inquiry. It heard a rather sensational bit of evidence to the effect that Roger S. McGrath, an insurance company agent who was described as a friend of the President's son James, had sought successfully to obtain two naval building contracts for the Bath Iron Works up in Maine.

FOLLOWING the example set by Hitler, Austria has decided to disregard the limitations on its military strength set by the treaty of St. Germain and to increase its armed forces immediately. The official communiqué issued by Chancellor Kurt Schuschnigg did not say how big the army would be or whether conscription would be restored. The annual spring parade of the army at the Ringstrasse in Vienna was revived, and the troops appeared in the new uniforms.

It is believed Hungary and Bulgaria soon will ask permission to increase their armies and re-introduce conscription.

SOVIET Russia is ready to line up with Great Britain, France and Italy in promoting the general European security pact which is the basis of England's plan for peace.

This was brought out by the visit to Moscow of Capt. Anthony Eden, British lord privy seal, and his conferences with Dictator Josef Stalin and Maxim Litvinov, Soviet foreign commissar. According to the joint communiqué given the press, these statesmen "were of the opinion that in the present international situation it is more than ever necessary to pursue the endeavor to promote the building up of a system of collective security in Europe as contemplated in the Anglo-French communiqué of the third of February, and in conformity with the principles of the League of Nations."

It was made clear that Germany and Poland would be welcome to enter the arrangement, but that it would go ahead even without them. Captain Eden then went on to Warsaw to talk things over with the Poles; and even as he was departing from Moscow the Soviet press launched another fierce attack on Germany. Michael Tukhachevsky, vice-commissar for defense, in an article in the newspaper Pravda, declared Germany would have an army of 349,000 by the summer, exceeding the French army by 40 per cent and almost equaling the Soviet army in size.

He charged Hitler with "killing France to sleep" with anti-Soviet war talk in the hope France would not realize her own peril. Tukhachevsky's view that Germany contemplates attacking France was supported by an authorized article in the weekly Journal de Moscou which asserted the leaders of the reform realized "the exceptional risk to which Germany would be subjected by invasion of the French territory by the U. S. S. R.—a country possessing powerful armaments and unlimited opportunities for improving and increasing these armaments."

It is thought probable the Journal said that under certain circumstances...

Hitler will prefer other fields of aggression, and an intensified revision of the map of Europe will be started not in the east but in the west.

PREMIER MUSSOLINI is highly skeptical of the success of efforts to persuade Germany to enter into general peace plans for Europe. In his newspaper, Popolo d'Italia, appeared an editorial, probably written by Il Duce himself, warning his fellow countrymen that no miraculous results may be expected from the conference of foreign ministers in Stresa. It asserted that the western European powers "must stabilize their line of common action against several eventualities which can be foreseen, and they must take definite responsibility."

It then charged that the French and British are impeding Mussolini's wish to take action against Hitler because of their preoccupation about their own internal policy.

Premier Flandin and Foreign Minister Laval of France were reported to have devised a vast, new, flexible plan to organize the peace of the continent within the framework of the League of Nations.

POLAND appears to have decided to play a lone hand in the European embroglio, though she remains friendly to Germany. It is reported that Captain Eden's visit to Warsaw was as disappointing as was that of Sir John Simon to Berlin. The Polish government is determined to sign no pact that would commit the nation to fight for Russia against Germany or for Germany against Russia and France, nor will it permit either German or Russian troops to be transported across Poland. The Polish statesmen say they will sign a series of bilateral pacts, and will go as far as any other nation in parallel disarmament. They assert that they have no alliance with Germany, though their mutual troubles have been settled for the next ten years, and that the alliance with France still holds good.

FROM Tokyo there came a statement indicating that Japan would give at least moral support to the European powers that are seeking agreements to counteract Hitler's move for the re-arming of Germany. It was given out by Eiji Amai, the frequently quoted spokesman for the foreign office. He said Japan will hold aloof from the European crisis and that there would be no far eastern Locarno pact, but that "we cannot think of any alliance with Germany." Tokyo, asserted Amai, is ready to discuss with Russia some degree of demilitarization of the eastern frontiers.

FOREIGN nations that discriminate against American imports have been warned by President Roosevelt that they must discontinue that practice under penalty of economic reprisals by the United States. In a letter to Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau the President outlined his foreign trade policy and disclosed the fact that the administration is considering denouncing existing trade pacts with Germany, Italy, Portugal and Denmark because of discrimination. He proclaimed the new Belgian-American reciprocal trade agreement, and also decreed that, pending the conclusion of negotiations for new pacts now in progress, the reduced duties and other concessions granted Belgium will be extended to Canada, Spain, The Netherlands, Switzerland and Lichtenstein for six months.

DEBATE on the Copeland-Tugwell "food, drug, cosmetic and advertising bill" was lively in the senate, and the opposition was led by a Democrat, Josiah W. Bailey of North Carolina, who urged the retention of the present food and drug law with such amendments as changed conditions require.

"I understand the Department of Agriculture was created to foster agriculture and not to govern advertising," Senator Bailey said. "It is inconceivable to me that it should take charge of medicine, cosmetics, and advertising. There might be an argument that the department has made such great triumphs in agriculture that it is seeking new worlds to conquer. But I believe that if some one should make that boast, I should agree that it had exceeded Samson in the slaughter of pigs, but had fallen far short of doing as good work in the matter of cotton as has the boll weevil."

STANLEY REED, the new solicitor general, obtained from the Supreme court permission to dismiss the government's appeal in the Belcher lumber code case. Therefore there probably will be no decision as to the constitutionality of the national industrial recovery act by the chief tribunal before congress takes action on the bill to extend the recovery law.

WHEN the Illinois legislature, at the behest of Governor Horner and the federal administration, passed a state-recovery-act-the-New-Dealers hailed this as an example that all states should follow. Now County Judge Homer W. Hall at Bloomington has held that the act is unconstitutional. He also declared the national automobile code inoperative as applied to Illinois.

Under the state recovery act, the judge remarked, an unlawful delegation of the authority of the state legislature has brought about a situation whereby violations of the state act can be prosecuted by the state only through the sanction and by the authority of the federal director of codes.

THROUGH the efforts of Donald Richberg, chairman of the NIRA, an agreement was reached by the bituminous coal operators and the United Mine Workers, whereby the prevailing coal code is extended to June 16 and a threatened strike of about half a million miners averted. The present wages and hours of work are continued. President Lewis of the miners insisted the union had not yielded to the operators; but the fact remained that if it had not consented to the agreement Mr. Richberg could and would have extended the code by executive order.

SCORES of agents of the Department of Justice's division of investigation were carrying on a concentrated search for three men now listed as the worst "public enemies" at large, according to Chief J. Edgar Hoover. The three are: Alvin Karpis, twenty-five, a leader in the notorious Barker-Karpis kidnap and bank robbery gang; Raymond Hamilton, twenty-two, killer who broke jail while awaiting execution, and Thomas H. Robinson, Jr., twenty-eight, kidnaper of Mrs. Alice Speed Stoll; wealthy young society matron of Louisville, Ky.

ONE of America's leading sculptors, Augustus Lukeman, died in New York at the age of sixty-four years. After Borjulu was ousted by the Confederate memorial committee in 1925, Lukeman took over the work of carrying the huge memorial on the face of Stone Mountain in Georgia, completing it in 1928. He was chief of sculptors at the World's fair in Chicago.

OBEDIENCE alleged directions from the yacht on which President Roosevelt was fishing in Florida waters, the majority in the house refused to accept the restrictions injected in the work relief bill and sent it back to conference to have these removed.

The restrictions objectionable to the administration were those requiring senate confirmation of administrative officers of the program and that in loans and grants to states at least one-third of the money should be expended for direct labor. The latter requirement, according to Secretary Ickes and others, would result in the exclusion of rural electrification, alum clearance and similar projects.

Defending the move to send the bill back to conference, Buchanan of Georgia said: "The President is assuming responsibility. All we ask is to give him a bill that he can work on in shifting from dole to employment."

In replying to Buchanan, Representative Robert Bacon (Rep. N. Y.) contended that the labor provision was needed in order to "kick out pet local projects" and afford as much direct relief of unemployment as possible.

"Congress has reached a pretty low ebb," declared Minority Leader Bertrand Snell (Rep. N. Y.), "when it can't even pass on a conference report without receiving orders from the Chief Executive."

FOR the second time the United States Supreme court reversed the convictions and death sentences of two of the Scottsboro negroes who were accused of assault on two white girls. The court held that since negroes in Alabama are not permitted to serve on juries, they are denied "equal protection of the laws" in violation of the Fourteenth amendment. It declared the state court erred in not quashing the indictments.

This was a big victory for the colored race, but in another decision by the Supreme court the negroes were the losers. The tribunal ruled that the Democratic party in Texas is a voluntary association, not subject to control by the state legislature, and as such may exclude colored persons from voting in its primaries.

DIRECT negotiations with Italy over the border disputes were broken off by the Ethiopian government, which sent a new note to the League of Nations. Special measures were taken to protect foreigners in Addis Ababa. The Italian government did not take this rupture seriously, still hoping a peaceful arrangement might be reached without the intervention of the league.

PROVIDING FOR THOSE OVER 65

Statistician's Figures Show Enormity of Task.

On a subject which at the moment is engaging the attention of thinkers and economists everywhere, the following analysis, from the New York Times, will be of interest:

"Realizing that no old-age pension legislation can ignore the progress that science has made in prolonging human life, the administration requested the Committee on Economic Security to present figures to show what the country must face if it is to support those who attain the age of sixty-five and who are unable to support themselves in gainful occupations.

"Since 1900 the number of the superannuated (by which term those who are sixty-five and over are meant) has been steadily increasing. Then it was 4,000,000, or a little more than 4 per cent of the population; now it is 7,500,000, or 5.4 per cent; by 1970 it will be 15,000,000, or 10 per cent.

"The obvious remedy is to save for the proverbial rainy day. But how? The committee makes the point that a man of sixty-five may expect to live until he is seventy-six or seventy-seven. He should have saved about $3,500 to enjoy an income of only $25 a month for his declining years. But ten and a half million families, the best earners in the United States, save in their whole lives a total of only $71 out of earnings that lie somewhere between $1,000 and $2,000 a year. If $3,500 is the capital that a man of sixty-five needs to maintain himself on $25 a month—how it can be done on that allowance the committee does not reveal—we must find over two billion a year to support him and his kind. And this is only a beginning.

"Old age yields to youth in industry. It is not hard-heartedness or inability to appreciate the ability, experience and ripe judgment of forty-five or fifty that makes it so much easier for a man to win a place while his hair is still brown or black, but the exigencies of a corporation pension system. If an employee is to retire at sixty-five at the expense of his employer he must have behind him at least twenty years of service. It follows that men who are now fifty and out of work are not likely to find permanent positions again with large firms that have instituted pension systems.

It may be that this presentation of the case is too bleak. The evidence is strong that a population tends to become stationary. At some future date, which may be only a half century hence, births and deaths will balance each other. If technological unemployment is but a passing phenomenon, it follows that there will be more and more old workers and that the good jobs will not all be filled by youth."

A special Easter program given by the Sunday School at the regular Sunday School hour, 10 o'clock A. M.

Sunday evening at the 7.30 hour a special Easter sermon; special music rendered for this service; so please give us the pleasure of your presence, or else attend the service at the Baptist Church, for we would be glad to know that on this day, every one attended some Church service.

The pastor is asking all the Methodists in the town and the community who have not already joined this Church, and any others who desire to join the Church, to be present at this evening service and the opportunity will be given you to affiliate yourselves with the Church. Now search out all the old Church letters and be present and let us make this a great service for the Church and for our Christ.

Messrs. T. C. Moto and Fortune of Lon were business visitors here last Saturday.

Weekly and Daily Press
Opposes Wagner Bill

Washington: Newspaper publishers both large and small, speaking through the American Newspaper Publishers Association and the National Editorial Association; bombarded the Wagner Labor Disputes Bill during the closing days of hearings conducted by the Senate Committee on Education and Labor, charging that the bill would render large papers powerless against union racketeers, and turn small papers throughout the country into closed shops.

The spokesman for the N. E. A., composed largely of publishers of weeklies and small dailies, pointed out that the Association opposed the original Wagner Labor disputes bill last year, the bill that exempted from its provisions those employing 10 persons or less, and that most emphatically these publishers opposed the present bill which makes no such exemptions.

"There would be no limit to the annoyance and expense that would be heaped upon small publishers by this bill," said Mr. Funk. "We protest and question the constitutionality of any law that attempts to say who an employer shall hire."

Spokesmen for scores of employer organizations, employee representation units, and others who would be exposed to high-pressure tactics of union organizers, expressed vigorous opposition to the bill. The long hearings ended with a ringing repetition by James A. Emery, general Counsel of the National Association of Manufacturers, of Abraham Lincoln's warning that: "No man is good enough to govern another man without his consent."

The Wagner bill would give to majority employe groups and labor dictators absolute control of employment rules and policies.

Mr. Milton E. Bernet, Vice president of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph Co. of Denver, Colorado was in town Wednesday visiting Mgr. G. T. McQuillen.

Christian Science Services

"Doctrine of Atonement" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, April 21st.

The Golden Text is: "Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time without sin unto salvation."

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel?"

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures", by Mary Baker Eddy: "If Truth is overcoming error in your daily walk and conversation, you can finally say, I have fought a good fight... I have kept faith, because you are a better man. This is having our part in the at-one-ment with Truth and Love."

Spring Activity Day

Carrizozo, New Mexico
April 26, 1935
5th, 6th, 7th and 8th Grades

Penmanship
2:00 2:30

This will consist of an exercise, capital and small letters and digits with the Zaner System used as standards. Mrs. Snyder of Carrizozo will be in charge. The papers will be numbered and three judges will select the winning papers for each grade.

Arithmetic
2:30 3:00

The arithmetic contest in the four grades will be conducted simultaneously, in four groups, under four teachers who will give the tests, note the time, and grade the papers, after which they will be rechecked and the winners selected. Suitable tests will be prepared for each grade beforehand and approved by Mrs. Jones. The following may be practiced for speed and accuracy; addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of whole numbers, fractions and decimals, written problems etc. according to grades. Mrs. Baker of Hollywood 8th grade; Mrs. Ward of White Oaks 7th; Mrs. Franks of Corona 6th grade; Miss Crawford of Ancho 5th grade.

Spelling Contest Oral and Written
3:00, until through

The Stanford Speller will be used and words may be pronounced up to and including lesson thirty, after which a list of words from the Ayres Scale will be pronounced if necessary. The contestant will pronounce the word correctly after the teacher, and will commence spelling, but may go back and start the word at any time providing he has not completed the word. If, in written words, the contestant fails to cross "t's" and dot "i's" that word will be considered wrong; also "scratch outs" or letters written over letters. Mr. Bruce of Ramon 8th; Mr. Gilbert of Lon 7th; Mr. R. V. Traylor of Ruidoso 6th; Mr. Cummins of Capitan 5th grade.

N. B. The Ayres scale is the manual used by the New World Speller and may be secured by writing to publishers of said book.

CHAPTER I

The Lawrence family, although in the best sense of the word pioneers, had not come to the Golden West by means of covered wagons. They had left their Boston moorings, like the gentlefolk of means and leisure that they were, in the year of our Lord 1840, and had sailed elegantly for Rio, for Buenos Aires, and around the Horn. They had lollered in Valparaiso and in Lima for some weeks, taking things easily, in a leisurely day, and had in due time come up the stormy coast of California, and had dropped anchor in the opalescent harbor of peaceful Yerba Buena.

For San Francisco had been still familiarly known as Yerba Buena, then, and the blue waters of the bay had lapped the strand at Montgomery street. The globe trotters, magnificent Phillip Lawrence and his frail, Indian-shawled, pretty wife, had remained on the ship for a few days, for the settlement on shore promised small comfort for tourists.

Early in their second week, however, they had been obliged to seek lodging ashore. This was for two reasons, one important, one ridiculous. The important reason was that an heir to the Lawrences was about to be born. The absurd reason was that some preposterous person had discovered gold, or had pretended to, at a place called Sutter Creek, and that everyone in Yerba Buena had promptly lost his senses.

Phillip and Abigail Lawrence naturally did not lose their senses. They were rich anyway; they were above this undignified scramble for lucre. Phillip had an income of three thousand a year, and Abigail's father owned five sailing vessels, including this very Abby Baldwin in which they had made their wonderful honeymoon trip.

But the sailors, and indeed the officials of the Abby Baldwin, had felt differently. They were not above acquiring fortunes, and they had instantly deserted the ship and made for the gold region. The rumor of gold, spreading like prairie fire between breakfast and the noon dinner, had found the ship emptied by sunset. Phillip and Abigail had signalled a Chinese crab catcher, and in his little shallop with stained brown sails he had rowed them and their carpet bags ashore.

They had gone to "the Frenchwoman's," a quaint looking adobe house on a hill, with an upper balcony and shutters. There were no windows, but there were tents of mosquito netting over the bed, and the bare floors were clean. Downstairs was merely a level of dim arcades, earthen-floored and smelling of spilled wine, where men lounged on benches, and where the Frenchwoman herself tended the bar. But the upstairs room had been comfortable enough and Abigail had eaten a shore meal of fish stew, dumplings, fresh soft black figs, sour bread, and thin wine, with some appetite.

This would do for the present, she had said. But one could not live quite like a savage, after all, and immediately after breakfast tomorrow Phillip must find a really nice place, and a nurse. If not, then they would have to go back to the ship.

So much for Phillip's benefit. But when he had gone out after supper Abigail had felt very low-spirited indeed. They had been eleven months getting so far, and the baby was due in a few weeks' time. Perhaps it would be weeks before they could get a crew on the Abby Baldwin.

Phillip had returned flushed, distressed, and annoyed from his search the next morning; he had returned flushed, distressed, and increasingly annoyed from the searches of the following days. The Frenchwoman's was not only the best, it appeared to be the only possible place for Abigail to stay, and to contemplate a confinement there, with the noise and drinking and the smell of wine below stairs, and with nobody but whiskered old Madame Bouvier to attend her, was madness. Desperate, Phillip had rented a spanking team and a loose-wheeled buggy and had begun to drive about the adjoining country looking for shelter.

For it had become obvious now that the crew was not going to return to the Abby Baldwin. The ship was rotting at her anchor, in a dismal company of other deserted vessels, and the sun beat down upon their empty decks week in and week out, while the hides, coffee, and rope packed beneath slowly decayed.

Abigail had covered passionate pages with the story of their adventures, and had put the letters into the canvas flap of her trunk, under the faded picture of the little girl with the rope of roses. Some day they would get home again, Phillip, she, and the baby, and what a story they would have to tell!

Meanwhile, fifty miles southeast of cozy Yerba Buena, they had found refuge in a rancho. It was managed by a widow, one Rosetta Castellano, who lived farther south in another hacienda, and was willing to rent this one to the strangers. It had contained no furnishings whatsoever when the Lawrences had moved in.

But many trips to the Abby Baldwin had pretty well transformed the dismal place. Phillip, breathlessly grateful that somehow, with the aid of a Mormon doctor from Benicia and the care of two stolid, wall-eyed Mexican women, Abigail had actually brought forth a first-born daughter, had made no complaints. He had had carted down wagon loads of chairs, carpets, china, bed linen, books—all the personal possessions of himself and his bride.

A bride! Poor Abigail had laughed forlornly on the first anniversary of her wedding day. It had found her weak and weary, stretched on a mattress on the floor of one of the cool rooms, with a burning August day hammering away at the spread level across the rancho outside. Beside her had been Annie Sarah.

They had brought her in hot dusky grapes, and hot dusty figs, and warm wine, and finally goat's milk, to solace her in her ordeal. Except for that, neither Mexican woman had volunteered anything. They had watched the frightened, doubtful, breathless struggle apathetically, until their oily brown hands had actually grasped Annie Sarah. After that they had seemed capable enough.

Anyway, it had been gotten over, somehow, and Abigail had been free to cry a little, thinking of her room at home in an orderly, shaded Massachusetts village, with Ma's lavender-scented linen on the smooth bed, roses in a green glass vase on the bureau, and the lace curtains blowing softly in and out of the opened upstairs window. Lilacs, trembling grass, and Grandpa's grave in the graveyard, and doughnuts and currant jelly—oh, dear!

As soon as the baby and the mother were well upon the road to normal living, Phillip and Abigail had seriously discussed going home.

Then old Senora Castellano had died, and her sons had wished to dispose of the Santa Clara hacienda. Four hundred acres for nine hundred dollars, Phillip had considered it a wise investment. There was fruit—some fruit—there already, there were sheep and cattle included in the sale price. If figs and grapes would grow there, why not other fruits—peaches and pears?

He would take his wife and daughter back to New England, he promised, on the first suitable ship; it would be a long hard trip for a woman with a baby, but the journey across the plains would be worse, and there was no further hope of the Abby Baldwin.

No, upon consideration it had seemed to Phillip that this sunshiny, sheltered flat region, well inland, was the coming district, and that by holding onto this property ten years, fifteen years, he and Abigail could not fail to be among the prosperous pioneers of the new world. Phillip was one of the men who had shot dead the gold craze with an epigram: "a flask in the pan."

Meanwhile Fanny Lucy had been born. "Look here, young lady, aren't there any boys where you came from?" Phillip had said, half serious, half teasing, as he held his second daughter in his arms. Abigail had looked at him, anxiously. But he had not been really angry.

Only it had been rather trying that a fine ship had left for South America and eastern ports on the very next day. She had delayed so long in San Francisco harbor that Phillip and Abigail had really hoped to be able to sail on her. But Fanny Lucy had delayed, too, and had unconsciously affected her parents' destinies thereby. For letters had gone to Boston on that ship, and letters, four months later, somehow had struggled over-land in answer. The respective families of Abigail and Phillip had been perfectly delighted at their venture, and wrote that they were certainly envious of the dwellers in a country where there was no snow, no thunder, storms, and no poverty.

Abigail wrote glowing accounts of her new life to the family at home. She and Phillip were going to build a really nice frame house, with bay windows, a bathroom, and a cupola. Everything they touched prospered; people called them "the Lucky Lawrences."

And Abigail had eight daughters and one son, and the girls all married, during the late Sixties and early Seventies, in a land in which women were still rare and prized.

San Francisco grew like a mushroom, and Phillip might have opened a thousand doors to great wealth, had he been a man to see. But he closed one after the other with his own hand, and went blindly on in an infatuation of satisfaction with his rolling acres, his miles of fruit trees, the growing family over which he ruled supreme.

Some of the girls went east when they married, some lived in San Francisco or Stockton, some died. It was not a salubrious day for pioneer women, with one out of every seven dying in childbirth. Some were poor, opening boardinghouses, scripping in lonely crossroad villages.

But no one of them ever forgot that she was a Lucky Lawrence, and belonged to a distinguished New England family. They talked incessantly of the significant fact that the Lawrences had not come to California as pioneers—oh, dear not! Mother Lawrence had come to San Francisco harbor on her wedding trip, on one of Grandfather Baldwin's own trading ships.

The one son, Patterson Lawrence, duly married, too, and lived in the house with which his parents had replaced the old adobe hacienda.

Abigail, and after her her daughter-in-law, in their fervor to encourage shade in that hot, dry country, planted everything upon which they could put their hands, close to the house. They did not foresee that the pampas grass and the verbena trees, the peppers and roses and evergreens, would grow closer, thicker, darker every year. Eventually the pretentious old frame building, with its scallops of mill work and its bay windows, its cupola and balustraded roof, was caught tightly in dusty heavy foliage, and the garden filled with mossy, slippery patches where even in summer no light crept in on the sickly grass.

For thirty years the House of Lawrence had been in eclipse, and the garden showed it. Acre by acre old Phillip Lawrence and his son Patterson had watched their fortunes decline; the old pioneer of the Yerba Buena days lived to see the end of the century, and the end of his own prosperity, and died, leaving what remained in hands even less capable than his own.

For Patterson Lawrence was a poet, who lived merely to gather worthless old books about him, to dream over the painstaking penning of insignificant essays, which were rarely printed and for which he was never paid.

At forty he married a poet's daughter, who had been precariously existing for all her sixteen years upon bread, water, and the "Sonnets from the Portuguese," in a shanty on Rincon hill. Editha, before her early death, brought to the House of Lawrence two sons and three daughters. Sixteen when she married, ten years later, when Ariel was born, she quietly, happily expired, to music, as it were.

For Patterson had been reading poetry to her, the four older children, by some miracle, quiet and occupied down by the creek, and Ariel in her mother's arms taking a fourth-day view of life, when death came.

"She looks as if she were listening, Faki. She's going to be a great poet, and make all our fortunes!" Editha had said. And one minute later she had slipped away, leaving the prospect to the little Ariel's childhood.

Bible Critics Silenced in Face of Evidence

The crucial question about the potsherds inscribed with Hebrew writing, discovery of which is announced from the site of ancient Lachish in Palestine, is that of date. Hebrew scholarship at the university at Jerusalem undoubtedly is adequate to deal with the problem from the standpoint of language and script, as are the experts of Doctor Starkey's expedition to deal with it as field archeologists. Something must be allowed, perhaps, for enthusiasm engendered by a truly remarkable discovery, and time must be granted for would-be critics to be ancient dates assigned to examine the evidence for themselves and express approval or marshal their contrary arguments. If it be true that the documents found date from 1000 to 1000 B. C., the discovery is difficult to overestimate in its importance to Biblical studies. Like so many happenings of recent archeological years, it gives the Biblical text that has come down to us added stature as a historical document.

Most of the previous discoveries which have done this were Babylonian. It has been a generation since the originals of the Bible stories of the Creation and of the Flood were found on cuneiform tablets, but it is only a few years since the Flood was identified, both at Ur and Kish, as an unquestionable historical event, even though it may not have submerged quite so much of the world as literal interpreters of the Biblical text sometimes imagine. The story of Creation emerges as a Sumerian account of how Mesopotamia was reclaimed from the sea and the rivers. Most recent of all the confirmations are the discoveries at Ur which reinforce previous knowledge of Sumerian customs and law to show almost perfect verisimilitude in the Bible stories of Abraham. Even the dream of Jacob's Ladder, Doctor Woolley suggests, may have been a memory of white-robed Sumerian priests marching up and down the great ladder-like stairs of the Ziggurat at Babylon, original of the Tower of Babel. Considered quite aside from its devotional and religious characteristics and purely as a historical document, the Bible has experienced within two generations one complete swing of the pendulum of expert opinion. From slavishly literal acceptance of every word and punctuation mark, opinion of Bible scholars swung far to the opposite extreme of doubting every historical event recorded, even the Exodus or the existence of Abraham. Now the balance is becoming truer. Proof satisfactory to the most rigid logician now is available for many of the Bible episodes. More appears with every thorough bit of excavation that is done. The dream of the first excavators of Bible lands that they would add light and solidity to the stories in the Book they loved gradually is coming true.—New York Herald Tribune.

CUTTING PATCHES FOR QUILTS

By GRANDMOTHER CLARK

When making a patch quilt the patches must be cut out right if the finished quilt is to look neat. Sewing seams the same width is also very important. These two points should always be watched as work progresses, to obtain good results, and not have trouble after work is well under way. Cut the patches from accurate cut-out diagrams. The cut-out diagrams shown here are a set for the "Dresden Plate" and "Basket" quilts, and include allowance for seams. Any width for seams may be used but always use the same width in one quilt, to come out right. Directions for use are very simple. Place cut-out on material so the longest dimension follows the weave. Mark outline with pencil and cut out material carefully.

Send 10 cents to our quilt dept. and we will mail you both of these fiber cut-outs set No. 83A and 10A. Address Home Craft Co.—Dept. D.—Nineteenth and St. Louis avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

When writing for any information include a stamped addressed envelope for reply.

Easter Music

IF CHRISTMAS is the greatest day in the year for children, Easter holds a similar position for the adult members of the race. The world prepares to welcome it with hymns, psalms and spiritual songs, wherever the light of Christianity has penetrated. It is a festival of far greater antiquity than Christmas, and at one time marked the dawn of a new year. The vernal equinox occurs about the 21st of March, when winter ends, and spring introduces the coming summer.

The oldest records of history tell that Easter was always a religious festival, though far more ancient than Christianity. Bonfires were kindled in Rome and the sacred fire in the temple of Vesta was renewed on the 1st of March each year. Similar customs prevailed in Germany and England. These customs lingered in certain parts of the British Isles into the Nineteenth century. In Scotland they were called the Need Fires, which were produced by the friction of two pieces of wood, which created the flame. This was quite a religious ceremony, and was accompanied by singing, dancing and the Beltane games. The Beltane cakes were precursors of Easter cakes, a survival of which is still with us in hot cross buns.

The music of Easter is generally of a more advanced character than that of Palestrina Was Commissioned to Write Suitable Music.

Christmas. Carols predominate at the Christmas festival, but there are few carols at Easter, where the music is more in keeping with the Resurrection and Ascension of Christ.

Easter has probably had greater influence in the development of music than any other period of the year. The Council of Trent assembled at this season in 1562, when the great reformation in church music took place. Composers of this time had introduced profane melodies as the principal theme in the masses, and all kinds of ornamentation of an unsuitable character. The council swept the whole system from the church, and commissioned Palestrina to write suitable music for service. He did this, and has since often been referred to as the savior of church music.

It was the story of the Resurrection of Christ that inspired Schütz to write the first oratorio on that subject. He wrote "The Passion," according to the four Evangelists, and "The Seven Last Words," and history accords to him the title of "The Father of Oratorio."

What would Handel have done without Easter? "The Messiah" stands out as his greatest effort, and there is no composition, even today, which has as great an influence on the people as this oratorio.

The Resurrection of Christ has inspired more lofty thoughts and aspirations in poets, painters and composers than any other subject, and has produced greater works. After the long, cold winter days we are waiting to welcome the Easter sun, so we may join in greeting as we sing, "Christ the Lord is risen today, Alleluia."

EASTER GREETINGS

Southwestern Briefs

Tombstone, Arizona's half century old white Banksia rose bush, said to be the largest in existence, is beginning to blossom.

Pontus H. Ross, director of the University of Arizona agricultural extension service, stated recently that Arizona's cotton outlook is better than at any time since 1929.

Births and deaths in Arizona during February showed increases over the same period in 1934, according to the state health department. There were 643 births and 544 deaths.

Arizona has taken the first step to bring direct relief and increased payments to its indigent and unemployed through passage by the twelfth legislature of the luxury tax.

L. G. Griffith, formerly district engineer for the northwest section of New Mexico for the FERA, has taken over the administration of FERA for San Miguel county. He succeeds Nathan Jaffe.

Miss Amy Thompson, Holbrook sophomore, has been elected president of the Associated Women Students of Arizona State Teachers College at Flagstaff. Miss Thompson will take office next fall.

Plans for a three-member "Cactus League" circuit to serve major league baseball teams during the spring training season has brought favorable comment from the Chicago White Sox and the Pittsburgh Pirates.

According to P. H. Ross, director of the University of Arizona agricultural extension service, the AAA modification of restrictions on wheat planting for 1935 will not affect southern Arizona, where the bulk of the state's wheat is grown.

Checks are beginning to go in for the New Mexico Warm Springs foundation and details are being worked out for the application for FERA aid in constructing the proposed hospital for crippled children at Hot Springs, the governor has announced.

Appointment of Ned Gold as director of press and public relations for the FERA in New Mexico, succeeding Mrs. W. W. Nilson, has been announced. Gold announced the FERA bulletin will be issued once a month hereafter with the 10th set as the publication date.

The New Mexico open season on bass, crappie, perch, catfish, Bream sunfish and bluegill opened April 1, and will remain open until Nov. 30, according to regulations issued by the state game department. The general open season on trout and salmon starts May 20 and runs to Nov. 15.

Sulphur Springs Valley's oldest landmark—a large frame building erected in Wilcox, Ariz., fifty-two years ago and used as a morgue for slain bandits, headquarters for peace officers, dance hall and warehouse—is to be removed. It will get a new foundation, floor and roof for further warehouse service.

Navajo women would rather face the evil Chindi spirits of the dead than make a speech, but just the same they are the actual rulers of this largest of American tribes. Mrs. Laura McCabe, the only woman leader among the 45,000 Navajos in northwestern New Mexico declared that the women gave the orders.

Arizona's three institutions of higher learning have moved to obtain $1,720,000 from the Public Works Administration to be used in extensive improvement and building programs as a result of the state Supreme Court's decision upholding the constitutionality of the law granting them to enter loan negotiations.

Whether or not construction on the Red Bluff dam on the Pecos river south of Carlsbad, N. M., halted recently after a wide divergence in core drill reports and actual formations uncovered through excavations were found, rests, it was reported reliably, with government engineers, who have been ordered to inspect the project.

One of the largest single tax payments ever made in Maricopa county was announced recently by the treasurer's office. Totalling $619,373.96, and including state, county and irrigation district assessments, the payment was made by the Arizona Citrus Land Company, with large holdings in the Beardsley project, near Phoenix, Ariz.

Bones enough to form possibly completely seventeen or more human skeletons were encountered recently by CCC workers in the ground on top of Fort Marcy, piled into a pit two feet deep by two feet wide and three or four feet long. The bones were identified as those of Indians and later removed to the laboratory of anthropology at Santa Fe.

University of Arizona animal husbandmen, who are pointing the benefits of their breeding of registered Hereford bulls to the registered breeders of the state, are justly proud of their achievements. During the Southwestern Livestock Show in Tucson, the university herd was called the best college herd in America by R. J. Kiser, secretary of the American Hereford Association since 1911.

Farmers in the Heber (Ariz.) section are wondering whether to plant new crops again this year in the face of last year's losses which they claim were caused by elk herds grazing in the area. Elk herds are increasing rapidly, it was said, and farmers are planning a plea for aid from the federal government so that their crops will not be destroyed this year. Fences are of no value as the bull elk can break through the strongest fence, setting the crops and then wallowing in the plowed ground, the farmers

Right to Second Marriage Chance

Arguments For and Against the Severance of the Marital Bond.

The widowers of Brazil have their fingers crossed.

From a question raised recently in their gay capital city, Rio, it would appear to be illegal for widowers to remarry.

Everything was all right until a case before the marriage registrar brought up the point that under the law marriage cannot be dissolved except by annulment. Therefore, said the registrar, if the constitution does not provide for dissolution of marriage ties by death, how can widowers remarry?

The Superior court of Brazil was been appealed to for a decision. The widowers of Brazil will doubtless have a competent advocate to plead their cause, and everything will be all right again. But the situation is interesting—for the serious comment it has aroused. It would be a good thing for this country, several people said at once, if we were to emulate Brazil, and make marriage harder to get out of.

"If remarriage were less easy for everybody," they contend, "there would be less separating and divorcing and more successful marriage."

Maybe. One must admit it might help with young couples who are facing their first disillusionment, if that reproach of "What I might have had" could not be followed by "What I can still have!" Doubtless the knowledge of absolute finality in marriage would be conducive to the single-minded effort to make that marriage a success.

But, a woman writer continues, in her comment, what about the cases where a second chance has resulted in bringing happiness. In making up for what was really a mistake which all the effort in the world could not conceal? Though as a rule it is true enough that the most important element for success in marriage is what we ourselves bring to it; there have been cases where a person who could not get along with a first husband or wife did succeed with a second.

"For my part, I am glad it is not 'up to me' to make the laws affecting in this way the happiness of so many humans who think and feel from different viewpoints. It is not hard to see some benefits in more hard and fast marriage laws. On the other hand, I should not welcome a world which made difficulties for anybody who yearned for a second chance.

PROSPECTIVE MOTHERS

Mrs. E. W. Hill of 310 No. 7th St., West Provo, Utah, said: "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is certainly wonderful for expectant mothers. Before my little girl was born I was feeling very weak. I used the 'Prescription' and it helped to build up my system. I experienced very little discomfort when baby came. I also used the 'Prescription' following childbirth and I soon regained my normal strength." New size, tablets 50 cts., liquid $1.00.

The First "Alloyed Oil"

—for better lubrication of today's high-speed, alloy-steel motors!

Alloyed by the Germ Process

Just as the metallurgist adds small amounts of other metals to make special alloy steels, so we add small quantities of a concentrated oily essence to highly-refined, paraffin-base motor oil. This Germ Processing, discovered and patented by Continental scientists, gives Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil lubricating qualities no other oil has.

YOUR MOTOR is built of parts made of special alloy metals. Car manufacturers and metallurgists worked together to produce metal alloys strong and durable enough to withstand the greatly increased pressures and temperatures of the modern motor.

Oils, too, must withstand these pressures and temperatures and they must have extra oiliness and film strength to do it. Yet oils generally have no more oiliness and film strength than they had ten years ago. And many new refining methods now used to make oils free from carbon and sludge have lowered instead of increased oiliness and film strength!

Continental, pioneering as it has pioneered for 60 years, has developed the first alloyed oil—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil! It is custom-made for high-speed, alloy-steel motors. It has 2 to 4 times the film strength of straight mineral oil, as tests on the Timken machine have proved! It has more oiliness than any oil has naturally. It penetrates and combines with metal surfaces, forming a permanent lubricating film—the "Hidden Quart". It is a pure, clean oil, free from carbon and sludge troubles. It gives extraordinary mileage as well as motor protection, as proved by the Indianapolis Destruction Test.

Say "O.K.—Drain"—fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and you will have the finest lubrication you can buy!

KATHLEEN NORRIS

Author of

"The Lucky Laurences"

Kathleen Norris, whose new story, "The Lucky Laurences," will be published in this paper as a serial, was born, educated and married in San Francisco. She has a remarkable record of success in the field of popular fiction. She has attained this success not only because she is typical of her time and section, but because she throws a strong light on ultra-modern conditions, social currents and undercurrents. Reading her books gives one somewhat the impression of being an eavesdropper on domestic scenes and a listener to private confidences, although the revelations are more innocent than otherwise. When she employs the dark side of a theme or of human nature, it is to furnish a necessary contrast and present a moral.

Mrs. Norris began writing stories in 1910 and has contributed to the leading magazines of the country. Her serials have appeared also in many outstanding newspapers, such as the Boston Globe, Philadelphia Bulletin, Chicago Daily News, Kansas City Star, Detroit News, Washington Star, Cleveland Plain Dealer, etc. Among her best known novels are "Barberry Bush," "The Story of Julia Page," "The Foolish Virgin," "Second-hand Wife" and "Walls of Gold."

It is a pleasure to announce that a new story by Kathleen Norris is to appear in these columns. We know that you will enjoy it.

A Tribute

Life's sojourn came to an end for Mrs. Sallie Sweet, at Carrizozo, New Mexico, on April 14, 1935.

She was born in Tennessee Feb. 17, 1871, married to Howard Sweet at San Marcial, New Mexico, March 17, 1896. They moved to Socorro, New Mexico, in 1906 and from there to Carrizozo in 1921. They managed the Carrizozo Eating House until the death of Mr. Sweet, August 18, 1929. Since that time Mrs. Sweet has been manager, assisted by their daughters, Mrs. Marguerite Lee and Mrs. Louise Muirhead.

She has been a member of the Order of the Eastern Star for many years, being a Past Matron of Magdalen Chapter, No. 9, at Socorro. Mrs. Sweet's funeral was conducted at the Peak-Hagedorn Mortuary April 17, 1935, by Robert Morris Daylight Chapter Order of the Eastern Star, at request of the chapter at Socorro, New Mexico, where her membership still remains. Mrs. Allie J. Kanan, Past Grand Matron of New Mexico, conducted the services.

Mrs. Sweet was a loving wife, a devoted mother and a true friend. Her kind deeds and good influence will be long felt and her comradeship sorely missed.

There is sorrow in our hearts for this departed, but it is not the sorrow of those who have no hope. It is but the natural human sorrow incident to the breaking of tender ties of love and affection; the sorrow and grief that comes to us when called upon to give up our loved ones. We would mingle our tears with those of the family and assure them that our hearts go out in love and sympathy for them in the loss we all have sustained. Those who have passed over the river are waiting for us on the other shore, there to welcome us into the peaceful abode of the blessed.

May we on life's broken column rear an altar of trustful faith, a faith that the sorrow of today may become the inspiration of tomorrow, a faith that can strengthen the bruised soul and bring smiles once more when the tears are dried.

At the Masonic Cemetery, in El Paso, Texas, Mrs. Sweet was laid to rest beside her husband, and now we have fulfilled their wish. "Lay our heads beneath a rose, Where the river of life flows soft and sweet In the garden of God, so fair, He has gathered them all, these broken links; We shall find them waiting there." —Contributed.

New Mexico Stock Report

The spring shipments (March-June) of cattle will be much smaller than last year when 128,000 cattle and calves were shipped. In 1935, 114,000 head were shipped, compared with 75,000 in 1932, and the nine-year (1925-1933) average of 112,000 head.

Ranges are very dry and short in the eastern two-thirds of the state, but fair to good in the west and northwest.

Last year's heavy shipments and Government sales caused a large reduction in cattle. If feed conditions improve, there will be a tendency to hold and restock, but present drought conditions will force cattle out of Eastern New Mexico.

CAPITAN ITEMS

Sunday we entertained what was reported to be the largest and best singing convention Lincoln county has ever known. We were privileged to have the Stamps-Baxter Quartet, of Lubbock, Texas; four car-loads of singers from Torrance county, including Mr. Edwards, the president; a group from the Plateau Singing Association; the president of the New Mexico Singing Association, besides the many fine singers of our own county. A fine basket dinner with plenty and to spare added greatly to the day's pleasure. The county convention for Sunday, July 14th, is scheduled for Corona, while Ancho has invited us for the October meet.

Meetings were held in the Capitan gym, which was well filled. Professor Eugene Meeks and Mrs. Don English are to be highly praised for their excellent plans and for the successful culmination of this event.

Mr. Jack Riggins has gone to the Veterans' Hospital in Albuquerque for examination and treatment.

The Nazarene church moved their parsonage down to the church.

Mr. T. J. Simer has gone to Texas to visit his wife's people.

Rev. J. C. Bruce, of Artesia, is to conduct a revival at the Nazarene church beginning next Wednesday night and to continue until May 7th. You are invited to come to hear this excellent evangelist.

The Storm

Another storm came last night. It was a big, big storm. Oh, how the wind and sand blew. It blew so hard!

We hope there will be no more storms soon.

Our School

We are big boys.
We are big girls.
We go to school.
We love our teacher.
Our teacher loves us.
We wish school would never stop.

The Easter Rabbit

We made some Rabbits.
They are Easter rabbits.
We made some carts, too.
They are for the rabbits.
The rabbits want a ride.
They bring Easter eggs to good boys and girls.
We hope the Easter rabbits bring us lots of eggs. We are very good.

The Little Chickens

Frances has three little chickens.
Vernon has five. Vernon has two more than Frances. They both have eight.
Bessie Sue has 81 little chickens. That is a lot of chickens.

Our Easter Party

Easter is coming soon. We are going to have a party. How happy we will be! We are going to invite our little friends. We will have the party Friday.
We wish Friday would hurry up and come.

Our Loose Teeth

We have some loose teeth.
We are like Kit and Kat. They both had a loose tooth. They pulled it out. We will pull our loose teeth, too. Then some new teeth will come.

To Roswell

Those who are attending the track meet in Roswell today and tomorrow are Coach Detloff and wife and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Tannis Bigelow and baby, Lee Carl, Charles Carl, Kenneth Shaw, Vaden Elliott and Bradley Smith. Ralph Petty went over also, but to participate in the golf tournament, which is being held there.
