Bears Win from Roswell

Socorro Lost to Carrizozo 16 points Last Nite

(By Bradley Smith)

The Carrizozo basket ball team chalked up another victory last Friday night on the local court when they won from the Roswell quintet. It was a "nip and tuck" affair through-out. We suffered our only defeat this season from the Coyotes and they were sadly disappointed when they found they could not win from us the second time. The first score was made by our team and soon after a free shot was chalked up for us making the score 3 to 0. The Coyotes then made a free shot and after that they fought like their lives depended on it. Barela our star guard had three fouls against him before the end of the first quarter which looked pretty bad for our team, but the quarter ended with a two-point lead for us 5 to 3. The next quarter started off like a cyclone with plenty of passing for both teams. Caesar was out. Shaw, Greer and Elliott began piling up the points; at the half score was in our favor 11 to 6. Third quarter was no less exciting than the other the score was a good lead for the Grizzlies. For awhile the score was deadlocked 12 to 12. Shaw hurt his knee and was out for a few minutes. The Coyotes didn't slow up a bit, but they were not the goal shooters de luxe that our boys were. When Shaw got back in the game the Grizzlies rallied stronger than ever and began shooting straighter and giving us a safe lead. The gun left a score of 16 to 22 on the score board and the Coyotes were defeated. Shaw was high point man ringing up 8 points, followed closely by Greer Elliott and Willingham.

The curtain raiser was a game between our scurbs and the Santa Rita team. Final score was 11 to 12 in favor of our team.

Tonight the Carrizozo girls play the Corona girls in one of the most promising games of basket ball this season, with plenty of spills thrills and excitement. On the same program we have the Grizzlies matched with the Vaughn five. Games start at 7:30 sharp and admission prices

N. M. Indian Songs

Folk lore of New Mexico as expressed in Indian songs and dances and pioneer ballads and music will be a featured part of the National Folk Festival which will be held at the Texas Centennial Exposition which opens here June 6.

Two distinguished students of New Mexican folk lore are members of the national committee for the festival which will be held at the Exposition for two weeks starting June 14. They are Arthur L. Campa, director of research, University of New Mexico Albuquerque, and Kenneth Chapman, executive director, Laboratory of Anthropology, Santa Fe. The announcement of New Mexico's participation in the National Folk Festival was made by Miss Gertrude Knott, national director of the movement.

"During the course of the festival," said Miss Knott, "we shall have a memorial exercise to pay tribute to the late Mary Austin of Santa Fe who was one of the first advocates of the national folk festival idea and who, until her death, was one of the leaders of the movement to preserve native American folk lore through music and dancing."

Al Smith's Indictment of the New Deal

WE CAN either take on the mantle of hypocrisy, or we can take a walk; and we'll probably do the latter.

These words of Alfred E. Smith in his speech at the American Liberty League dinner in Washington were perhaps the most interesting and significant of his utterances...

Leaders of Jewry Plan Exodus From Germany

IF PLANS announced in St. Louis by leaders of world Jewry are carried out, there is to be another exodus, this time from Germany where the Jews are greatly oppressed by the Hitlerites. Three Convictions in Morro Castle Case

A JURY in the United States District court in New York returned verdicts of guilty against acting Capt. William F. Warms and three co-defendants to the criminal negligence trial resulting from the disastrous fire that swept the Morro Castle off Asbury Park, September 8, 1934, taking a toll of 134 lives.

Besides Warms, those convicted were Ethen Starr Abbott, chief engineer of the burned ship; Henry E. Cabadd, executive vice president of the New York & Cuba Mail Steamship company, operators of the Ward Line, and the New York & Cuba company itself.

Six Army Flyers Killed in Plane Collision

DURING night formation flying near Honolulu, two army planes collided, shot the Hawaii military air base and fell in flames. Six of the flyers were instantly killed; two escaped by bailing out. Death of G. W. Wickersham, Eminent Attorney

NOTEWORTHY among recent deaths is that of George W. Wickersham of New York, who was attorney general of the United States in the Taft administration and for many years one of the country's leading corporation lawyers. He was seventy-seven years old, and died of heart disease in a taxi cab.

Mr. Wickersham was chairman of the famous Hoover commission named to investigate prohibition and other law enforcement in 1929. The commission's report opposed repeal, but the document was accompanied by the members' individual statements in which a majority urged repeal or modification of the eighteenth amendment. The net result was confusing.

Much good work, overlooked by the public in the controversy over prohibition—nevertheless was done by the commission. Its exhaustive report, filed early in 1931, covered many phases of the crime problem and were regarded as important contributions in that field.

Surgeon General Cumming Will Retire February 1

DR. HUGH S. CUMMING announced that on February 1 he would retire as surgeon general of the United States public health service, "because of long service and health that isn't too good." He has been in the service since 1894 and has had four terms as its head. His administration is credited with completion of the quarantine system; inauguration of preimmigration examinations at American consulates; establishment of a national leprosy and national narcotic farms, and construction of eight marine hospitals.

His influence in control and treatment of bubonic plague and yellow fever has been world wide. Many nations have honored him with decorations.

It was believed in Washington that President Roosevelt would appoint as the new surgeon general Dr. Thomas H. Parran, Jr., state health commissioner of New York and assistant surgeon general on leave.

Federal Relief Costs Analyzed by K. K. Hoyt

THE present federal relief program, depending principally on work relief, CCC and public works, is alone costing approximately as much as the fourfold program which went before and which embraced these three items plus direct relief which has now been returned to the states, according to a study of the relief problem and the government finances by Kendall K. Hoyt in the Analyst.

For immediate purposes, at least, there is no prospect of much reduction in the rate of federal expenditures, according to Mr. Hoyt. In order to prevent the states from trooping back for more relief funds the government must keep its pledge to employ the arbitrary three and one-half millions of persons which have been carried since last November principally under WPA and CCC. In dollar terms this means that, according to budget estimates, the outlay for recovery and relief for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1935, will be almost the same as that for the preceding fiscal year, namely, three billions in round numbers.

Premier Nessim Pasha of Egypt Resigns

PREMIER NESSIM PASHA, weary of his job since the anti-British riots started November 13, has handed the resignation of his cabinet to King Fouad I. The resignation was accepted.

Nessim found it exhausting to keep an equilibrium between the conflicting forces of the throne, the British residency, the nationalists and their country patriots. But the final blow, dealt him by the British government at London, was the thinly veiled ultimatum to Egyptian Nationalism, in the form of verbal instructions for negotiations for an Anglo-Egyptian treaty. The sting to Egyptian pride was in the warning that if the present negotiations fail, the British consider their hands will be free and will revise their Egyptian policy.

Developments in League Adverts to Italy

RECENT League of Nations developments have gone heavily against Italy's aspirations for African conquest. Of four major actions taken by the assembled powers led again by Anthony Eden of Great Britain, two definitely were antagonistic to Italy.

1. The league council decided to move toward an oil embargo against Italy. A committee of experts was appointed to ascertain if oil sanctions could be made effective. 2. Britain announced a military alliance with France, Greece, Turkey and Jugoslavia and these nations pledged aid should Italy attack Britain because of sanctions. Rumania and Czechoslovakia promptly joined this group, making seven nations pledged to combined action against Italy should war come over efforts to stop the Italian-Ethiopian conflict. 3. The league declined to send a neutral investigating body to Ethiopia, which Ethiopia asked and which Italy consented. 4. The league conciliation committee published a report that no new peace proposals are possible at the present time, and that the league should pursue a policy of violent warning.

Phoenix school officials have announced they will begin a $170,000 building enlargement program at once.

G. N. Amis of Roswell has been awarded the contract for the construction of a union high school at Capitan, N. M., as a PWA project. Work will begin about Feb. 15.

E. M. Gibbons, city engineer of Fortales, N. M., for a number of years, has resigned to go to Nashville, Tenn., where he will be connected with an engineering firm.

Plans are being drawn for the construction of National Guard cavalry stables, hay barn, blacksmith shop and caretakers' house, at Silver City, N. M., under a proposed WPA project.

Establishment of CCC district headquarters at Silver City and beginning of an enlarged erosion control program in that section has helped business there, according to Mayor E. W. Ward.

The NYA program in New Mexico for unemployed youth not in school now has sufficient projects to utilize its $54,500 fund by March 15, according to a report made by Tom L. Popejoy, assistant state director.

Secretary Ickes has awarded a $1,132,547 contract to Hallett Construction Company of Crosby, Minn., for construction of the Alamogordo dam on the Carlsbad reclamation project in New Mexico.

A survey to determine the feasibility of organizing a band, drum and bugle corps, children's band or orchestra and promoting public concerts is under way in Las Vegas, N. M., by the New Mexico Federal Music WPA project.

The University of Arizona has announced that A. H. Mathieson, western field representative of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, will start a tour of Arizona about Feb. 12. He will address breeders in several counties while on the tour.

Arizona set a new high in 1935 in the number of cases of communicable diseases reported, according to the state department of health. A summary made public by Dr. George C. Truman, superintendent, shows 14,569 cases reported in 1935 and 12,254 in 1934.

A writer's project sponsored by the Works Progress Administration has sent out a plea for unrecorded Arizona history. The information is sought by Charles M. Morgan, supervisor of the Arizona section of the American Guide, who has offices in Phoenix.

Cooperation of Santa Fe officials and organizations has been asked by Horbert Major, regional officer of the New Mexico national park service division, in tracing and preserving historic landmarks of national interest. Some signs and buildings, he said, were neglected and in danger of destruction.

New Mexico farmers pay their hired hands well above the national scale. A bureau of agricultural economics survey during the past three months shows that New Mexico farm workers received $22.25 with board and $33.75 without board as the monthly national rate was $18.54 with board and $28.63 without.

The Rural Resettlement Administration has tendered its assistance to the Nomadic Navajo Indians. When Charles Burns, Indian agent at Fort Defiance, Arizona, reported some of the Indians are ready to "rattle down" on irrigated or dry farming tracts, J. A. Waldron, state rehabilitation director, offered them assistance.

Albuquerque, New Mexico, has reduced its total bonded indebtedness of almost two million dollars to $947,000 since the first rating general obligations and water bonds in 1925, according to Mayor Charles Lembo. The bonded debt voted totaled $1,755,000, of which $811,000 has been retired since 1925, Mr. Lembo said.

A survey conducted by C. H. Fillerup, county agricultural agent, revealed that 98 per cent of Navajo county, New Mexico, farms and ranches are operated by the owners. Fillerup reported the entire county is prosperous. The ranges, he said, are stocked with 95,000 head of cattle, 184,000 sheep, 4,500 hogs, and 400 goats.

Steps for the completion of the huge building program at Arizona State Teachers College at Flagstaff have been speeded up since the PWA officials of Phoenix approved contracts for construction of the new combination women's dormitory, dining hall and cafeteria, and reconstruction of the power plant. Announcement of the contract awards came from the office of Dr. T. J. Torrey, president.

Felix Sachs was re-elected president of the Tucson, Ariz., Merchants' Association at the annual dinner banquet of the association. More than eighty-five Tucson merchants attended the annual function. J. B. Wallace was the principal speaker of the program, his topic being "Consumers' Credit." Other officers elected were S. W. Seaney, first vice president; Alex Jacome, second vice president, and Andrew P. Martin, treasurer.

Dr. Paul D. Sprankle of Winslow, Arizona, was elected president of the Navajo-Apache Medical Society at its annual meeting held in La Posada. Among the problems discussed at the meeting was the establishment of a credit bureau and rating for the benefit and protection of the members. It was pointed out that all worthy cases would be taken care of if the patient did not have the money, but those who refused to pay when they were employed would be dealt further credit by members of the association.

HOW ARE YOU TODAY

DR. JAMES W. BARTON Talks About

Menace of Overweight NO NORMAL condition has occurred more frequently among my diabetic patients than has obesity (overweight).

I am quoting Dr. Elliott P. Joslin, Boston, the outstanding authority on diabetes.

Life insurance companies are very strict in their consideration of permitting overweight to take out insurance, as they have found that so many of them later develop diabetes. In fact they have found that in examining applicants for insurance as many as 20 per cent already are showing sugar in the urine.

Dr. Barton.

Dr. Chas. H. Mayo says: "Men fifty years old and fifty pounds overweight are much more likely to have cancer than the normal. This means then that eating or overeating is a factor in causing cancer because half the cases of cancer are found in the stomach and intestines."

"To sum it up, the overweight have a higher death rate. At fifty years of age an excess weight of 55 pounds increases the death rate by 50 per cent." I am quoting from "How to Live" by Prof. Irving Fisher and Dr. Lyman Plisk.

However, overweight has more than the death rate to consider; they must think of their everyday life—their chances for good health, their ability to get around easily, their resistance to ailments, their mental ability or grip.

Some Famed Light Eaters. Famous men whose brains keep clear till the end are usually light eaters who from early years of experimenting have found out just what agrees with them and are satisfied with this amount and variety of food. Chaucery Depew attended dinners and banquets three or four times a week for years, but always looked over the menu and ate only the foods he knew gave him the nourishment he required.

Thomas A. Edison came of a long-lived family who for generations had learned to eat what they knew their bodies required and no more. Thus in an interview some years ago Edison said: "The body is only a piece of machinery and every practical man knows that to get good work out of a machine and keep it in repair at the same time one must know how to take care of it."

Now, if you have a 100-horsepower engine and a boiler big enough to drive it, no wise engineer will fire that boiler to full capacity when he only wishes to take eight horsepower out of his engine. If he does, he sooner or later burns the grate-bars out of his fire-box. But that is just what the majority are doing; burning up 100 horsepower of fuel in their bodies and taking out eight horsepower of work. Is it any wonder that the boiler fuses and the arteries get clogged up, that the pipes burst, causing apoplexy?

Truth About the Stomach. As you know, early man lived outdoors, used the great bulk of muscle covering his body, had a natural appetite and "dined" his stomach when he obtained food because he did not know just when he would get his next meal. Thus Nature supplied him with a stomach that would hold enough food to fill his needs for a whole day or more.

Today we have these same huge muscles covering our bodies and have the same large stomach, but we do not live outdoors, do not work these huge muscles and so do not need more than about half the food that was needed by early man. Yet because we have the same big stomach and get the kinds of food we like, many of us thoughtlessly think we have to fill this big stomach three times a day.

Remember, then, that we need some of all the different kinds of food daily, that is (a) meat, eggs or fish (b) cream, butter or other fat, (c) vegetables, both starchy and leafy, (d) minerals and (e) water. But if we want to be at our best mentally and physically, we eat just the amounts of these foods that will keep us strong without increasing our weight above normal.

Relaxation and Sleep

So much has been written about the value of sleep that many nervous individuals, worry themselves into sleeplessness. They fear dire ailments or even insanity if they don't get a certain number of hours of sleep each night.

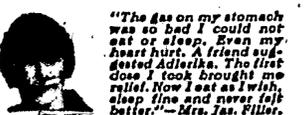

Now, while nothing can take the place of real sleep, with every muscle relaxed, it has been found that if an individual is unable to sleep but can relax body and mind to a point almost approaching sleep he can attain as high as 80 per cent of the value of sleep. It is estimated that two hours' sleep in the 24 will keep anyone alive, so that with complete relaxation for four hours and say four hours' sleep you might be fully capable of doing your work.

Enough outdoor exercise, without overdoing it, brings on a "natural need" for sleep that is better than any other method of inducing sleep.

GAS, GAS ALL THE TIME, CAN'T EAT OR SLEEP

Adierka acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adierka gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli." Give your stomach and bowels a REAL cleansing with Adierka and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and chronic constipation. Sold by all druggists and drug departments.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Be Sure They Properly Cleanse the Blood

YOUR kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as nature intended—fail to remove impurities that poison the system when retained.

They may suffer nagging backache, dizziness, scanty or too frequent urination, getting up at night, puffiness under the eyes, feel nervous, miserable—all upset.

Don't delay! Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are especially for poorly functioning kidneys. They are recommended by grateful users the country over. Get them from any druggist.

Scalp Itched Badly—Quick Relief with Cuticura

Miss K. was in constant misery for over a year with dandruff. Then she tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment... Read her own words: "I was annoyed with big flakes of dandruff and an itchy scalp. It itched day and night for over a year. The dandruff scaled off and could be seen on my clothing. I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment after seeing an advertisement. I am now entirely free from the condition and my hair looks fine." (Signed) Miss E. Kennedy, 247 Grand St., Pasadena, Calif. WOMEN ARE NOT SO "EASY" AS MEN IN FLATTERY GAME

"What do you think of the claim that women like admiration and flattery as much as men and are no less fools than men in the hands of one of the other sex who uses that method of getting into their good graces?"

"Don't you think that's ridiculous? I've never yet met a man who wouldn't believe anything charming and delightful about himself that any woman might tell him."

I think our reader has hit upon an important truth in the relationship of the sexes. I do not doubt for one moment that women like admiration as much as men—that is admiration from the other sex.

But—women are not so "easy" as men. A homely woman does not easily accept a man's insistence that she is beautiful, but many a bald, fat man has been convinced he is an Adonis.

It is not that women like flattery less, but they have more difficulty than men in putting entirely to sleep their intelligence and common sense!

Bridge of Ice Forms in Niagara Gorge

This ice bridge was formed in the Niagara gorge below the falls by a combination of high winds holding back the water in the upper river back of the falls, and by the cold snap which formed giant ice cakes. The falls themselves (background) also were chained by the ice jam which lowered the upper Niagara river to an all-time record. The snow was loosened each day until a mere trickle of water was going over the brink and any intrepid soul might walk from the American side to Goat Island.

PEACE BIRTHRIGHT OF CHILD; BANISH FEAR FROM MIND

Fear, one of man's greatest enemies and the root of much evil overwhelming the adult, negatives all too hardly a growth in childhood. Yet readers of the current issue of the Parents' Magazine are reminded by Psychologist Rhoda Baemeister that if fear had no survival value, it would not have persisted to the degree it has.

Fears come and go. Mrs. Baemeister admits it is easier to know what to do for a timid child than to understand where the fears come from in the first place, but says it is important to find out. Her analysis identifies several varieties of fears. Baby cries at the sight of a floating duck in his tub. Why? Because once he lost his balance in the bath while watching ducky.

In order to help the child get rid of unreasonable fears, the psychologist suggests replacing the old association with a new and pleasant one and urges calm reassurance when a child is frightened. "Never rush nor swoop," says she. "Take it easy!"

Going Out of Ourselves to Refresh Our Thoughts

Doctor Richardson tells us there is nothing so wholesome for an active mind as to secure rest by variety of work. A man can do five or six times more than he expects if he varies his work.

There is so much that is discouraging and depressing in the world, that we must sometimes go forth, as it were, out of ourselves for fresh thoughts and fresh air. The greatest workers, when they go out for a holiday, are not idle; they find rest by change of occupation.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Carrizozo to Have Sanitary Toilets

The U. S. Public Health Service is sponsoring a W P A project in Lincoln County which should be of incalculable value in protecting the health of our babies and children. It is a well known fact that New Mexico has the highest infant mortality rate in the United States. In order to combat this condition all the open toilets should be replaced with sanitary fly proof toilets, unless of course sewer connections are available.

The toilet as approved by the USPHS consists of a reinforced cement slab with riser, seat with cover and vent pipe so placed over the pit as to be absolutely fly proof. These toilets will be available to the people of Carrizozo and vicinity within a few days. All labor is furnished free by the government, the only cost to the property owner is for the material. The price for the slab, seat, seat cover and vent pipe being five dollars. In many cases the old building can be rebuilt at no cost; however it is much better to build a new building which will be done, if the material is furnished. Everyone wanting to take advantage of this worth while project should leave his name with the town clerk.

Clint Smith,
District Supervisor,
Public Health Service.

Amputation Found Unnecessary

Miss Blanche Sparks, 19, El Paso swimming star whose left foot and leg were crushed when she fell into the gears of an old mill near Ruidoso Thursday, was greatly relieved when surgeons told her an amputation probably would not be necessary.

When told that her foot would not be amputated, Miss Sparks almost wept with joy, hospital attendants said. She has been active in swimming contests throughout the Southwest since she was 10 years old.—El Paso Times.

SYNOPSIS

At a gathering in the village of Liberty, Maine, Jim Saladine listens to the history of the neighboring Hostile Valley, and the mysterious, enticing "Huldy," wife of Will Ferrin. Interested, he drives to the Valley for a day's fishing, and to see the glamorous Huldy Ferrin. Old Marm Pierce and her nineteen-year-old granddaughter Jenny live in the Valley. Since childhood Jenny has deeply loved young Ferrin, older than she, and who regards her as still a child. Learning that Will, who has been working in another neighborhood, is coming home, Jenny exulting, sets his long-empty house "to rights" and has dinner ready for him. He comes—bringing his wife, Huldy. The girl's world collapses. Entering his home unlooked for, Will finds seemingly damning evidence of his wife's unfaithfulness as a man he knows is both Humphreys breaks from the house. Will overtakes him and chokes him to death, although Humphreys shatters his leg with a bullet. At Marm Pierce's house the leg is amputated. Huldy declares she has no use for "half a man" and leaves him. Will is legally exonerated, and with a home-made artificial leg "carries on," hiring a helper, Zeke Jace. Months later Huldy comes back. Will accepts her presence as her right. Two years go by. Saladine comes to the Valley. Caught in heavy rain, he takes refuge at Marm Pierce's. Bart Carey, a neighbor, arrives, carrying Huldy, whom he claims had fallen from a ledge, and seemingly, is dead. While Huldy and Jenny are alone, the woman, with her last breath, asserts Will killed her. Horrified, Jenny decides to tell no one of the accusation. She goes to notify Will. With him Jenny returns to Marm Pierce's. Zeke Jace cannot be found. Saladine informs Sheriff Bahler, by phone, of Huldy's death. The sheriff comes to Marm Pierce's farm, Bart explains how he found Huldy, after her fall, dead, as he supposed. Jenny reveals the fact that Huldy had accused Will of causing her death.

Then Jenny faced the sheriff steadily and she said: "Miss Ferrin looked at me, and her mouth twisted into a kind of laugh, and she said something."

And the girl went on: "First of all, I couldn't hear her. She was awful weak, and I leaned down and I said to her, 'It's all right, Miss Ferrin.' And she laughed at me. I mean her mouth twisted as if she was trying to say something. And this time I heard what she said."

Marm Pierce exploded in a fierce impatience: "Get on with it, Jenny! What did she say?"

And Jenny answered: "She said I could have him now!"

"I guess I kind of moved back, at that, away from her! It was like she'd slapped me!" Her cheek was pale, and she spoke almost humbly. "I didn't know what to do," she confessed. "So I just tried to tell her it was all right, and I told her Will was coming."

Her tones shook, then steadied.

"And then she said it," she concluded. "She said, kind of slow and weak: 'Will knocked me off—' And she had to wait a minute, and then she said: 'He hit me!'"

The girl was silent for an instant before she could go on.

"Her mouth was still kind of laughing," she finished. "And she sort of coughed. I guess that was when she died." A deep tremor shook her, but her voice was firm. "She laid there, looking at me, and her mouth grinning at me; but I guess she was dead by then. Anyway, she didn't say any more."

She stopped and was still waiting. And suddenly she was very tired, dreading what was to come.

Yet for a while no one spoke at all.

CHAPTER X

Jonny's disclosure for a moment bushed them all. Marm Pierce was the first to speak.

"Whow!" she exclaimed. "I declare, it's hot as love in hay time, here!"

Bart opened the door into the shed, to admit some air. The shed was a gloomy cavern; the darkness in it was a black screen behind which anything might hide.

The sheriff crossed his feet and sat in a deep embarrassment. His shoes scraped on the floor; and Marm Pierce said:

"I smell a lamp smokin'."

The lamps were all in order; but when she opened the door into the dining-room where Huldy lay, a reek of soot and smoke emerged. The old woman bustled in there, complaining, scolding the absent Joe Matthews.

"Takes a man to make a mess of things," she protested. She brought out the lamp, its chimney black. "Ho left it turned up too high," she declared; and replaced it with another lamp, and they heard her raise the windows a little from the bottom.

"I'll air out a mite," she explained, talking to herself in the other room.

Then she returned, shut the dining-room door again.

"Well!" she ejaculated. "I declare, I've had about enough of the going on this day. Jenny, why didn't you tell me this here before?"

Jenny looked at Will, and she said: "Because that all I was afraid it was true." She smiled steadily. "Only I known that even if it was, I didn't care!"

"How do you mean, you didn't care?" the sheriff asked, in a dull perplexity.

But before Jenny replied, Marm Pierce spoke, in a sort of defiance. "I'll tell you that, Sheriff," she said. "The thing is, Will and Jenny had got to like each other mighty well, before Huldy come back after that time she went away. Will, he's fine; and so's Jenny. No harm in it. I hoped Huldy'd not come back ever. It looked to me that Will'd be better off if he was rid of her for good and all. But when she did come, Jenny she didn't see him after that, till today."

She concluded: "But Jenny and Will would have married before this, if Huldy hadn't been married to Will. Jenny loves him and he loves her, and I'm glad of it, if it comes to that. Jenny's fine, and Will's a man!"

And then Jenny answered for herself. "That's right," she said bravely. "I mean I didn't care what he'd done, because I loved him anyway."

"And nobody'd blame him for hitting Huldy," Bart insisted, quick to Will's defense. "She needed it, bad! But he never meant to knock her off the ledge!"

Jenny cried, swift, indignant: "Will never touched her, Bart!"

"I know he didn't," Bart loyally agreed. "But I'm just saying, if he did!"

"He didn't!" Jenny repeated crisply. The sheriff looked up at her. "How come you be so sure, Jenny?" he asked in sober tones. "Outside of—feeling about him the way you do, how come you to be so sure?"

"If I wasn't sure," Jenny challenged, "d'you think I'd ever have told you, or anybody, what she said?"

"You wouldn't want to marry a man that'd kill his wife, would you?" Soberly asked; and Jenny's eyes met his fairly, and her words were with deep tenderness.

"He didn't," she insisted steadfastly. "But I'd want to marry Will any way it come, and no matter what he done!"

"Well, that's all right," the sheriff repeated doggedly. "What made you sure, all of a sudden, now?"

"Jenny—coming to my senses," Jenny decided. "I was kind of numb for a while; but then after I'd been with Will for a spell, I was sure!"

The sheriff, surprisingly, chuckled. "I'd admire to hear you testify like that in court," he declared. "I'd like to see what the judge would say." He became grave again, and looked at last at Will. "How about it, Will? He suggested soberly. "Anything you've got to say?"

Will, with all their eyes upon him, wiped his hand across his mouth. The man was shaken sore. He stood fumbling for words. "If it was any one but Jenny I'd tell you, I wouldn't believe Huldy said it," he declared.

"That's true, I guess you'll say."

"No, no, it ain't true."

The sheriff frowned. "How come Miss Ferrin to say a thing like that, then?" he protested. "Don't seem as if a woman would tell a straight-out lie, the minute before she died!"

"She was out of her head, I reckon," Will offered.

But Jenny said: "No, Will, she was sane as always. She knewed me, knowed every word she said."

The man insisted, almost pleadingly: "Jenny, she wouldn't tell a thing like that only if she was crazy, or out of her head, or something."

Marm Pierce had been silent long; but now she spoke, in sharp and angry tones.

"Will Ferrin's got a fool's head," she exclaimed. "I guess most men are, where a woman's concerned; but you're a bigger fool than most. You know as well as anyone that Huldy was no good!"

her out of my house this minute, dead though she be, if it wasn't for you, Will. As it is, she can stay; but you better get some sense into your head! She was a man-chasing, lying, trouble-making woman, and that's the truth of it, and I'm glad she's dead, if you ask me!"

She finished and stood panting with her own pent rage, and looked at Will as though in challenge; as though she dared him to deny her words. And Jenny crossed to Will's side, not touching him, but ready there, and loyal.

Then Will spoke slowly. "Ma'am," he told old Marm Pierce, "I guess if it comes to that, I knowed Huldy better than most. But I don't want folks to talk about her so!" There was pleading in his tones.

"Then don't you play the dumb fool to me," said old Marm Pierce angrily. "Denying what's as plain as day! She always would make trouble when she could. She set Zeke on Bart two years ago; and she'd set Jenny against you now, if she could..."

She looked at Bart as though he would confirm her word; but Bart was watching Will.

The sheriff leaned forward, his elbows on his knees. "But just the same," he urged, "she wouldn't think that up, about Will hitting her and knocking her off the ledge, unless someone, Will or someone else, did hit her!" He looked at Marm Pierce.

"Miss Pierce," he asked in a low tone, "wasn't there a place on her face like she'd been hit?"

"Like she'd hit a tree, or a stone, when she fell, yes," said the old woman, grudgingly. "But no man alive could hit that hard!"

He added: "Seemed to me I remembered your saying that," he agreed. "Saying her face was—badged up!" He looked troubled; and then he stood up and turned to Will.

"Will," he said gravely. "My job is just to do the best I know." He hesitated, and silence waited on him. "The law is that if a person is dying, and says something, you've got to take it for true, 'less there's proof to the contrary. That's the law! Then if Huldy did have a badged place on her face, it's likely someone did hit her! And you was down to the ledge, looking for her; by your own tell!"

He added, in an apologetic tone: "S'pose you did find her down there, and she started talking about Jenny? I guess if she got you mad enough, you might hit her, Will. Same as any man."

Will answered him. "I didn't, Sheriff," he said.

Soberly was uncomfortable. "I don't know's you did, Will," he agreed. "But I've got to go on her say-so. I'll take it as a favor if you was to come along back to East Harbor with me."

Jenny felt her spine cold with fear; but Will's eyes were firm. He said at last: "I can see how you're placed, Sheriff. Only—knowing where Zeke is, or whether he'll come home or not, I'd have to get someone to do my chores for me!"

Bart cried: "Don't worry about that, Will! I'll tend to things. If the sheriff's so blamed dumb!"

But Jenny, coming close to Will, said: "If you go, Will, I'm going too! I'm not ever going to leave you now!"

Then Marm Pierce spoke, in her shrill voice, still angrily. "I declare," she exclaimed, and stamped her foot. "For fools, give me men every time! If you ask me, Huldy's better dead, and everybody else is better off with her dead, too. No sense in making such a fuss about it. But Will didn't kill her!"

"Then who did, ma'am?" the sheriff asked, reasonably.

"Why, I'll tell you," said the old woman. "If you're too blind to see!"

And he recognized that fact that if in those few moments she could disturb him so, then she must in other men have set up conflicting currents capable—if once released—of any violence.

She was, he thought, a sort of pagan. She was vicious, beyond doubt; yet—there were not the marks of vice upon her, but rather of abounding life and deep undisciplined vitality. Saladine could even pity this woman, ruled and driven by forces whose nature and depth she herself did not in the least comprehend. She must have loved her own body, that warm beauty it contained; must have served it like an acolyte, fetching to it whatever sacrificial offerings were at hand.

But Saladine, though he might be a mystic, was a realist, too; and—here had been murder done. The woman who, by the powerful spell her presence cast, had wrecked and distorted other lives—had worked her own destruction in the end.

Yet—through what humdrum means? Through Will, the husband she so bitterly had wronged? Or through Zeke, reduced from strong laughing manhood to a weary and tormented ember? Or through old Win Haven whom she had flouted? Or through Bart Carey here, who had hated her for her betrayal of his friend? Or through some casual passer-by? Saladine did not know; had no sure conjecture in his mind at all.

It seemed to him not impossible that some stranger was involved. His own experience with Huldy helped his acceptance of this hypothesis as a possibility. She had sought to detain him, on that hidden ledge above the Valley; he had escaped by a sort of flight, as though he broke away from an actual physical restraint. Such women as Huldy must provoke in some men a sort of violent repulsion; and Saladine recognized this feeling in himself. If she had, for instance, tried by physical means to prevent his departure, had clutched his arm with her small hands, he could imagine himself flinging her with a violent and shuddering distaste backward and away. Thus cast aside, she might easily enough have tripped, or stumbled, and tumbled off the ledge. He thought grimly that to himself, as well as any other man, might thus have hurried her to death today.

So Saladine could conceive the machinery of this tragedy; but it remained to discover the man. He had for a while almost forgotten this necessity in watching Jenny, during her disclosure of Huldy's dying accusation. He had seen the fine trust and tenderness in the girl. Her clean devotion shone against the dark background of Huldy's ugly passions; and he had forgotten that there was still a murderer to be found, Miss Marm Pierce by her word to the sheriff brought his attention back again.

The old woman said she would tell them who had killed Huldy; and Saladine, whose thoughts had been absorbed in this abstractness, returned to a keen alertness.

On Marm Pierce's promise, silence for a moment held them; and the old woman said briskly: "It's chinked off in here by this time. Will, chuck up the fire. Bart, shut that shed door!"

CHAPTER XI

Jim Saladine was a man of wit and sense, and he was quicker than most men at reading the riddles life may day by day present. But all this day, he had been deeply at a loss. He was a stranger to these folk, and they to him; and for any appraisal of their characters and their capacities for good or evil, he had to depend upon what his eyes could see, or upon what this one told of that one.

Huldy he had seen, alive, beautiful, seductive; Will he had seen and liked; Bart, he had had time to weigh and to appraise; and had found that young man bold and headlong, yet well enough; Zeke he had glimpsed briefly, and held in pity, though he had not been blind to the dangerous passion in the man. Old Win Haven he knew only by report; yet that report was ill. A cowardly old man, willing to spite a woman, or to affront a woman, if he chose, willing perhaps to kill one, too!

But Saladine, even while he recognized his own limitations, recognized also that here were forces in play which could not easily be calculated. Such a woman as Huldy Ferrin had emanations which must affect the lives, the very souls, of all those about her. Even Jim himself—and he was not a susceptible man—had after leaving her known a vague uneasiness, a nervous sense of being spied on, of being trailed through the sudden wood.

And he recognized that fact that if in those few moments she could disturb him so, then she must in other men have set up conflicting currents capable—if once released—of any violence.

Watch Your Posture; Has

Vast Influence in Health

"How you feel, how much you get out of life and how long you live depends to a surprising degree on the proper functioning of your vital organs, and their health is largely controlled by your posture—at any rate, improper posture will crowd or displace organs and interfere with functional efficiency. Many mysterious ailments are traceable to this, says Rex Beach in 'Cosmopolitan'. He passes on these tips regarding posture from Dr. Stanley Green, who has worked them out according to the principles of "body mechanics":

Don't sit on the feet. It twists the pelvis, and may eventually produce a natural spinal curve. Sit with the weight on base of pelvis, leaning forward from the hips, knees not crossed, head up.

At the office, don't slump with weight on base of spine or middle of back or with feet elevated. It crowds the heart and lungs, compresses the vertebrae, and may cause eye strain, headache, neuritis, lame back and other ills. Sit well back in chair, weight on the buttocks, head up. If necessary to bend forward, bend at hips—not at neck or waist. Standing with weight on one leg causes a pelvic twist, spinal curvature, and flattening of the arch. Stand with weight on both legs, head erect, feet parallel or slightly turned out.

Fowl Note

More than a mile away from her home at Penn, N. Y., Miss Eleanor Garbus discovered three of her chickens roosting on the rear bumper of her automobile. She completed her errand and drove back, and nary a chicken left the strange roost.

All Talk Not in Powder!

Other Minerals Are Used

Talc is a mineral which finds many uses on account of its extreme softness and unctuousness. It is so soft that it is readily scratched by the finger nail and feels as slippery as if it had been greased.

Its familiar use as talcum toilet powder depends on these properties as well as its absence of grit and the fact that it does not cake or become plastic when wet.

Talcum powder is the pure mineral ground to powder and perfumed. Sometimes a little borax is added as a mild disinfectant. Other somewhat harder and less unctuous minerals such as serpentine and gypsum are sometimes substituted for the talc, and chemical products are sometimes substituted for special purposes.

In Colonial times our grandmothers used fuller's earth as baby powder.

Talcum powders account for but a small part of the talc used, according to Field Museum News, an organ of the Field Museum of Natural History, Chicago. For every pound of talc ground for talcum powder forty pounds are used in other ways.

Groundhog, Great Benefactor

The groundhog, or woodchuck, throughout the year, is a great benefactor of the storks, rabbits, ground squirrels, field rats, etc., notes a writer in the Indianapolis News. He tunnels the earth everywhere, and is a much better digger than they. His abandoned dens make homes for other creatures, less able or too lazy to dig them. There was a time when wolves and wildcats made his hazarous for the groundhog. The fox, dog, and bear are about his only enemies now. He will run to his den, or dig in, when danger threatens; but he will fight valiantly if cornered, and his sharp front teeth are good weapons.

All Around the House

Iodine stains may be removed from white cotton or linen if stains are soaked in a solution of ammonia and water; a teaspoon of ammonia to a pint of water.

Always use canned pineapple in gelatin mixtures. If fresh pineapple is used the mixture will not congeal.

If fruit cake becomes very hard it can be wrapped in a cloth saturated with orange or spiced peach juice and stored in an air-tight box.

A few bright colored flower pots, with a narcissus bulb planted in each, set on the window sill in the living room will, when the bulbs blossom, give color and decoration to the room.

Don't beat fudge as soon as it is taken from the fire. You will find it will be much creamier if first put into a cold bowl, and then beaten.

Twine will tie bundles much tighter and will not slip when knots are made if it is dampened before using.

Place a hot water bottle in the clothes basket when hanging out and taking in clothes in cold weather. It will keep the hands warm.

Never set cut flowers in a draft. If you do you will find they will soon wilt.

When maple syrup becomes cloudy set it over the fire until it boils, then take it off the fire and let cool.

If woolen stockings shrink while washing, put them through the water again and while still wet put them on a stocking stretcher.

Women should take only liquid laxatives

Many believe any laxative they might take only makes constipation worse. And that isn't true.

Do what doctors do to relieve this condition. Doctors use liquid laxatives.

THREE STEPS TO RELIEVING CONSTIPATION

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

laxatives, and keep reducing the dose until the bowels need no help at all.

Reduced dosage is the secret of aiding Nature in restoring regularity. You must use little, less laxative each time, and that's why your laxative should be in liquid form. A liquid dose can be regulated to the drop.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit even with children. Syrup Pepsin is the nicest tasting, nicest acting laxative you ever tried.

Our Beloved Patriot

When LINCOLN "Coached" GRANT

BEHIND one of the most dramatic and important moments in the annals of the American people, in which Abraham Lincoln and General Grant were the chief actors, there is an appealing human story that to this day remains virtually unknown. It is revealed in obscure and priceless original documents, says a writer in the Washington Post.

The event to which the yellowing manuscripts relate is the appointment of Grant as lieutenant general in command of all the Union forces in the Civil war, an epochal step taken by President Lincoln more than 70 years ago.

Lincoln had watched with increasing satisfaction the military record of the rocky and taciturn Grant. With the victories at Vicksburg and Chattanooga, the President reached the decision to place him in command of all the Union armies. To this resolve Lincoln held despite extreme pressure from numerous disaffected elements.

Grant was called to the White House and told of the President's intention. Lincoln called Grant aside and told him he understood the general's "dread of public speaking," and in order to make things a bit easier on that score, he, the President, had written out "the few lines" he intended to say to Grant on the occasion of the formal delivery of the appointment.

With characteristic breadth of vision, Lincoln urged Grant to say something in reply which not only would be an encouragement to the North, but which also would soothe the feelings of jealousy among other officers of the army.

Thereupon, Lincoln handed over to Grant the firmly inscribed manuscript of the remarks he had prepared.

In the following words, President Lincoln turned the course of history:

Gen. Grant: The Nation's appreciation of what you have done, and its reliance upon you for what remains to do in the existing great struggle, are now presented with this commission, commending you lieutenant general in the Army of the United States.

With this high honor devolves upon you also a corresponding responsibility. As the country looks to you, be under God, it will sustain you. I earnestly need to add that with what I here speak for the Nation, look to your own hearty concurrence.

Prepared as he had been by an "advance" of President Lincoln's remarks, General Grant replied:

Mr. President: I accept this commission with gratitude for the high honor conferred. With the aid of the noble armies that have fought on so many fields for our common country, it will be my earnest endeavor not to disappoint your expectations. I feel the full weight of the responsibility now devolving upon me, and I know that if they are met it will be due to those armies, and above all to the honor of that President, whose noble soul has guided and sustained me.

LINCOLN'S PARENTS

ABRAHAM LINCOLN's mother and father were married June 12, 1806, in Washington county, Kentucky, by Rev. Jesse Head, a Methodist preacher, who was also a justice of the peace.

in clear and the ink as strong and black as though written yesterday; that of the Grant acceptance is quite faded, barely legible.

This, incidentally, is among the relatively few pieces of Grantiana and Lincolniana still kept in the Grant family here.

It is not unlikely that eventually these priceless relics of a great event also will find their way into the archives of the federal government which was held intact by the statesmanship of Lincoln and the military genius of Grant.

Lincoln had to bear the brunt of his appointment of Grant to succeed George Washington and Winfield Scott as the only lieutenant general of the United States army up to that time.

Criticism came not only from officers of the army, as Lincoln noted, when he reminded Grant to say something to "soothe the feelings of jealousy." It came from many quarters.

It came from men who pointed to Grant's lack of outstanding success at West Point, to his resignation from the army and return to private life in 1854, to his financial difficulties as farmer, storekeeper, and real estate salesman. And it came from others who struck hollower-than-thou attitudes.

But Lincoln was not interested in Grant's past nor in his personal habits. As the Chief Executive, Lincoln was interested in just one thing—the winning of the war to preserve the federal union. Lincoln had tried many leaders to gain that end—beginning with McClellan and ending with the Hookers and others almost too numerous to mention.

Grant gave the dispirited North its first thrill when he captured Fort Donelson, and when his answer to the Confederate General Buckner became public, he was known to every archaic as "Unconditional Surrender" Grant. He wrote to Buckner:

"No terms except unconditional and immediate surrender can be accepted. I propose to move immediately upon your works."

Grant's successes in the West were in striking contrast to the decidedly poor showing made by the commanders in the East. Lincoln watched Grant all through the years of 1862 and 1863. Knowing full well the criticism which would be leveled at him, within the army and out, despite the remarkable record achieved by Grant, Lincoln nevertheless made his decision and went through with it.

So it was that the man who had acknowledged himself to be a failure before 1861, received the highest military command within the power of the nation to bestow. He received it at the hands of an unerring judge of human kind who felt he finally had found the leader he had been seeking for three long and bitter years.

And Grant had answered "it will be my earnest endeavor not to disappoint your expectations."

Urged Freeing of Slaves: As early as March 6, 1862, Lincoln urged congress in a special message to co-operate with any state for the gradual emancipation of its slaves, with compensation from the government.

Middle Age and Painless Dentistry.

CULVER CITY.—Especially to those nearing middle age—the age when you begin to exchange your emotions for symptoms—it's gratifying to hear a New York scientist has hit on a formula for really painless dentistry. If he's right, the operation will only begin to hurt when you get the bill. Time was when you could hang onto your stately ruins until there was English ivy growing on them. Nowadays, no matter what ails you, they X-ray your teeth, which is a mistake to begin with, because I never yet saw an X-ray photograph that was flattering. And the next thing you know, you've a taste in your mouth like a druggist's dishrag; and your face looks like an old-fashioned buckskin purse, with the draw-string coming undone; and, on the inside, feels as empty as a haunted house.

Still, getting the upper plate from a mall order house has its compensations. Hot soup no longer makes blisters in the palate. Just a slight smell of burning rubber—that's all.

And a beautiful brilliant new set, shimmering from a tumbler of water alongside the reading lamp, certainly does brighten up the boujoir.

A True Maker of Melodies.

THEY gave a dinner here to the son of desperately poor immigrants, a modest, kindly little man who started life as a singing waiter in a bowery bar-room. The dinner celebrated his silver jubilee as a maker of melodies. It has been just 25 years since he set the toes of the nation to tingling with "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

I can think of an occasional popular composer, who might be defined as a person who has a good memory and hopes no one else has; just as now and then—but this is a trade secret—you strike a writer who is getting by not because he is such a good writer, but because he has been such a close reader.

But for Irving Berlin, it may be said that his lyrics are his own and his airs are his own and his ideas are his own. Maybe that's why his tuneful output is so good—it reflects the spirit of an authentic creator, a genuine minstrel bard.

The Great Republican Hope.

I NEVER thought the stocks that licked the desert and the Apaches would be slackers, but neither in Arizona nor in New Mexico can I find trace of an authentic Presidential boom for any home-grown statesman. On the other hand, the sheep crop is reported good.

Maybe it's just as well. Already there has been more than one favorite son boom that reminded me of a new trunk store on a side street—you know, the kind that always opens with a grand closing-out sale.

Republicans here speak highly of Governor Landon of Kansas. Still, you never can tell. If you can believe what the Sunday papers print when the editors can't think of anything else, tragedy always followed owing the Hope diamond or digging into King Tut's tomb. But being endorsed for office by W. R. Hearst is pretty fatal, too, seems to me.

A New Kind of Inflation.

WHEN one of the New Deal groups—the President's consumers' council—announced the other day that Americans have larger hips than formerly, I just said: "Well, I'm glad things are expanding. There were several years when nothing I owned showed a tendency to go up except my blood pressure, and if hips are spreading, it merely means wider detours for a fellow when dancing on a crowded floor."

But now another White House pet, the Works Progress administration, gives a real thrill by promising to expose spicach, proving there are plenty of vegetables just as good for the diet, that taste like something and not like spinach. Maybe they'll get-and-a-use for spinach—by applying it externally, say? Personally I'd rather wear it in my hair than try to eat it. So would you, reader, if you were only brave enough to come out with the truth.

England's New King.

IN THE matter of their ruling monarch, the English are luckier than some. The crown is never tarnished nor the people ever shamed, for all their kings are gentlemen and all their queens are queens. That's why, I think, Britain will keep her royal line, while we keep our flag, which ought to be quite a long spell, in case any communist person should ask you.

So, to the witty and engaging youngish gentleman, who picks up the mantle that slipped from the tired shoulders of a kindly and gracious elderly gentleman, we over here offer our best wishes. We know Your Majesty invariably will show good taste; and whilst you may not always do the right thing—that would be asking too much of any man—we're dead sure you'll always say it.

Opportunity May Knock, but More Likely She'll Pass By

It is a dangerous thing to wait for opportunities until it becomes a habit. Energy and inclination for hard work ooze out in the waiting. Opportunity becomes invisible to those who are doing nothing, or looking somewhere else for it. It is the great worker, the man who is alert for chances, that sees them.—O. S. Marden.

PIECE OF TRUE CROSS STOLEN

Priceless religious relics valued at more than $700,000 have been stolen from Pamplona cathedral, Spain. It is believed the thieves escaped over the frontier. A portion of the True Cross is among the loot. The culprits succeeded by making themselves familiar with the cathedral routine and obtaining keys to open the treasure chests. Chalice, crosses and gems were taken by the thieves.
