Air Projects In New Mexico

Washington, March 3.—The Bureau of Air Commerce of the Commerce Department today announced approval of 26 airport projects and three airmarking programs proposed for development with WPA funds. The bureau's approval means the projects are technically satisfactory but the actual spending of the money rests with state WPA administrators. The projects approved included: New Mexico: Alamogordo and Carrizozo, $14,915 each.

LINCOLN LOCALS

On last Friday night while Mr. John Black, principal of Lincoln school was a short distance out of Amarillo, Texas, he was attacked by someone he suspected to be hi-jackers. They attempted to stop Mr. Black, but he finally out-raced them. After they lost hopes of out running his car they shot several times the shots chattering his wind shield in two places, and striking parts of the car. Lucky, Mr. Black! You'd better stay away from those bad hombres.

Mrs. Lorine Smoot, from Carrizozo substituted Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday for Mr. Black. While in Lincoln Mrs. Smoot stayed with Misses Helen and Charlotte Rice.

Mrs. Gensler, of Fort Stanton visited Sunday with the Rice family.

Mrs. Annie Ramey, and daughter returned home Sunday from California. They enjoyed their visit immensely. While there they visited Catalina Island.

We have been informed that Mr. Parish from Fort Stanton will operate the Bonito Inn gas station.

Mrs. Julia Tompkins enjoyed a week-end visit at Alamogordo, with her son, Ed Tompkins, and family.

Miss Julia Penfield visited last week with home folks. Miss Penfield is greatly pleased with her school work in Alamogordo.

Mrs. Dan Giles, and daughter Marie and Rev. Sloan, and sister, Mrs. Keidricks, were El Paso visitors Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday all enjoyed the big city visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilario Maes, Jim Luna, Frank Vigil and Salomon Garcia were Carrizozo visitors the first of this week.

Basketball Tournament

Carrizozo meets Carlsbad in the opening game of the high school basketball tournament to be held in Cahoon Armory, N. M. M. I., Roswell, March 6 and 7.

The schedule for preliminary contests is: Carrizozo-Carlsbad, Hope-Weed, Artesia-Hobbs, Corona-Cloudcroft, Roswell-Vaughn, Tatum-Hagerman, Lake Arthur-Capitan, Lovington-Hondo, (Bye) Dexter.

The Carrizozo Grizzlies won from Carlsbad this morning, 20 to 19. They are playing this afternoon against Hope and we hope that Hope has lost hope and they will win again.

School Notes

(By Bradley Smith)

This school week was cut short one day on account of the district basket ball tourney held in Roswell today and tomorrow which a number of the students, faculty and fans of the Carrizozo "Grizzlies" are attending. We succeeded in drawing one of the toughest teams for the first game but the Grizzlies aren't worried.

Assembly was held on Wednesday. The Music Study club had charge of the program, which was quite interesting. There were several vocal and instrumental numbers as well as some readings.

Track work-outs start next Monday and there seems to be quite a number of boys interested this year. Several of the members of the last year's team have already begun the limbering up sprints of the first few days.

The pie supper and dance at the Community Hall last Monday night for the Grizzlies did not draw as large a crowd as was expected, but did exceedingly well for the crowd it did draw. $20.75 was the amount taken in.

Does Bladder Weakness Wake You Up

In four days your druggist will return your 25c if not pleased. Drive out the excess acids and waste which cause the irritation resulting in sleepless nights, frequent desire, scanty flow, burning or backache. Use buchu leaves, juniper oil, etc., made into little green tablets called Bukets. They work on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get your regular sleep. It's nature's greatest restorative. Rolland's Drug Store. 6-27

Pontiac Economy

A 1936 Pontiac six recently averaged 26.25 miles per gallon of gas for 100 hours of continuous running at Independence, Kas., according to records submitted to C. P. Simpson general sales manager of Pontiac Motor Co.

Regular grades of gasoline were used exclusively and the gas tank was locked and sealed. One six-quart filling of oil was used with a shrinkage of only one-half quart during the entire run. These facts were attested in an affidavit signed by the official observer of the car's gasoline and oil consumption.

Several criminal cases are to be disposed of.

Miss Dorothy Phillips of Roswell came over last Friday to visit relatives and to attend the dance given by the Senior Class Saturday night, at Community Hall.

The show "Naughty Marietta" given at the Lyric for the benefit of the Odd Fellows drew large crowds both nights. It was a magnificent picture.

Mr. Riley McPherson is in Roswell, where he is constructing a new home for Mr. and Mrs. Sid Goldston.

We visited the Bingham general store last week, and met young Mr. Dean, the manager. This is a splendidly located store and filling station. They have everything quite nice and convenient, even their own electricity.

The new management took charge of the Carrizozo Eating House last Sunday. Most of the help was retained.

Robert Allen Gardenhire

Universal grief enveloped the town last Wednesday at noon when a phone message reached here from Tularosa that little "Sonnie" Gardenhire five-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Montie Gardenhire, had drowned at noon that day in an irrigation canal near his home.

He was an extremely handsome child, just beginning to enjoy childish play and pastimes with other little ones of his own age, and it is a most tragic accident, which brings sorrow to every heart.

Robert Allen Gardenhire, little son of Mr. and Mrs. Montie Gardenhire was born in Carrizozo January 12, 1931, and departed this life, Wednesday Feb. 23th 1936.

He was a sweet natured little one always thoughtful and helpful. He loved music and flowers, and the morning of his tragic death he weeded and tended his flowers.

His favorite song was, "Jesus Loves Me", which was tenderly sung at his funeral.

Funeral services were held in Capitan Thursday, February 27th, followed by interment at Arigue, where his Grandfather Dozier is laid to rest.

Besides his parents he is survived by a little brother, Bennie Lee, age 1 year; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Robert Dozier; his paternal grand-parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gardenhire, and several aunts and uncles to whom sympathy is extended.

The flowers which he so loved came from El Paso, Tucumcari, Roswell, Lincoln, Carrizozo, Alamogordo, Tularosa and were banked high in mute sympathy for the bereft loved ones.

Card of Thanks

We wish to thank you every one, dear friends, for your many acts of kindness, the magnificent flowers, the beautiful sentiments expressed, and the sympathy extended us in the dark hour, of loss of our sweet little son, grandson and nephew. May God bless you.

Mr. and Mrs. Montie Gardenhire, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Gardenhire and sons, Mrs. Robert Dozier and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Shaw.

Mrs. R. W. Dozier and daughter, Mrs. Montie Gardenhire returned to Tularosa last Tuesday.

The Hagee home near Alto was the scene of a party Friday night of last week. The "Night Hawks" furnished the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Long of Farmington are here visiting Mrs. Long's mother, Mrs. Dalton.

The Community hall was crowded last Wednesday night with people to witness the Plunkett minstrel show. They gave some entertaining dancing, comedy and vaudeville skits.

Attorney H. B. Hamilton of El Paso is here attending court.

While in Hot Springs last Thursday the editor of the News and daughter visited our good friends the Heaths, of the Hot Springs Herald; we also visited the Rev. and Mrs. Jno. L. Lawson and family at Elephant Butte park. Mr. Lawson is educational director at the CCC camp there. This is a beautifully located camp built on the mountainside overlooking the lake, and has every appearance of being a permanent camp. The CCC boys are employed in beautifying the lake front, building stone walls, paths, flower beds, and at the same time preserving the rustic beauty of the park. Mr. and Mrs. Lawson sent their regards to all their friends here.

Mr. E. H. Hendricks and a group of CCC boys are gravelling the Red Hill. This an improvement which will be appreciated by people using No. 880 any time but especially by those who are compelled to travel the road in rainy, slippery weather.

Mr. Clayton Hust of Alamogordo was here the latter part of last week on business.

Daily Mail C'zozo-San Antonio

To the Lincoln County News:

When the proposed Star route between Carrizozo and Bingham was first proposed the Club got behind the matter and pushed it to a conclusion. Feeling that the service was inadequate, we started last April to improve this service by making it a six-day-a-week service instead of twice-a-week.

The improved service was inaugurated Monday, March 2nd, the government having entered into a contract with Mr. M. B. Fowler to carry the mail on a new route between Carrizozo and San Antonio via Carthage, Bingham and Adobe.

This will not only improve the service to the towns along the route but it will also save 24 hours time between Carrizozo and all points on the Santa Fe Railroad between Anthony, New Mexico and Trinidad, Colorado, and west thereof. This means that mail leaving here via San Antonio at 8:00 p. m. will arrive for delivery in Albuquerque next morning, whereas mail leaving here on either of the present trains does not arrive in Albuquerque until the morning.

It is probable that the present new service will be improved upon so as to make connections with the two through El Paso-Albuquerque buses which at the present time meet at San Antonio about 3:30 p. m. This will give travelers a good service between this section of the state and that portion west of here which has been practically isolated in so far as direct connections are concerned.

The Springerville, Arizona bus makes connection at Socorro with both the north and south bound buses which will be of advantage to those travelling to and from the section served by the Springerville bus.

The new schedule is as follows:
Leave San Antonio 8 A. M.
Arrive Carrizozo 11 P. M.
Leave Carrizozo 1 P. M.
Arrive San Antonio 4:30 P. M.

F. L. Boughner
Secretary.

PEOPLE who went to the opening of Charlie Chaplin's "Modern Times" in New York are just beginning to recover from the mauling they got on the way in.

Everybody's predicting that Twentieth Century-Fox has the picture that will break all box office records for 1930. It didn't cost much, as movies go, and there is no great screen star in the cast.

It looks as if Jimmie Cagney would succeed in not making any more pictures for Warner Brothers—whether he'll be free to make pictures for some one else isn't settled yet.

Ginger Rogers danced for President Roosevelt before his birthday broadcast, but couldn't do her best because of the gown she was wearing and the fact that the music wasn't quite right.

It seems that Ed Wynn had a terrible time trying to find some one to replace Graham McNamee on the new series of Wynn broadcasts.

At the Paramount studios they are so pleased with Harold Lloyd's "The Milky Way" that they want him to sign a new contract right away.

Joe Cook is going to make a two-reel film, which is good news for the people who thought he was very funny on the air a couple of years ago.

Ralph Bellamy—remember him?—has a new five-year contract and is glad to get back to the screen.

THREE STEPS TO BELIEVING. I. TO BELIEVING. II. CONSTITUTION. III. A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use liquid laxatives.

If you know what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help.

Spring Hat Bright Spot on Horizon

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

BUY yourself a new spring hat and turn the dirge of winter into a joyous spring song. Bright spots on the horizon are the fashion "firsts" now showing in millinery previews. Which is not figuratively speaking but literally true, for the new hats are going in for color in a big way.

It is to smile at the wee size of many of them. Not much larger than your hand, are early arrivals from Paris. Go hat hunting and prove it for yourself. The less the hat the more the chic, so designers are telling us. How to anchor these diminutive yet eye-dazzling bits of millinery on the head at just the most fetching tilt and tilt, eye, that's the trick. Ask your milliner. It takes experience to acquire the knack, you admit.

But cheer up. Come vells, to the rescue! They tone up a hat no matter how diminutive and make it look "at." Vells in countless number adorn the new hats. It is a frolicsome mood they are in, flying every which way, sometimes pretending they are vells when they are really trimming. They make pretty headgear look prettier to the point of fascination.

Flowers, too, which is important news. To be sure there have been rumors and rumors of flowers but this time milliners declare they are a sure thing. It is not only that "flowers in flowers" on the new hats, but really and truly news about them is their novel positioning—perky bouquets dropped atop crowns or slanted athwart forehead—lines at—dashing—faceline or posing on bandeaux or standing at attention at the front, thus the new flower treatments repeat and repeat.

While we started out telling of the thinness of some of the new hats, please do not conclude that every new spring model has been reduced to postage stamp size. On the contrary some of the smartest numbers on the style program have brims. Shallow-crowned salloons are all the go, especially the Breton types which are shown in felt or stitched silk, and the latest swagger note is the Breton made of gay patent leather. Then, too, the hat with a visor made of silk, quilted or stitched, is very popular. Young girls are charmed with the idea of the new "Rose of the Ranch" hat with its wide round rolled-up brim and that which captures fancy most of all, its chin strap of fancy cord. Also in this class is the new Argentinian-type which likewise boasts a chin strap. As to the new swagger soft mannish felts, their vogue is assured.

We are following up our statement about hats of Lilliputian size by including two such in the accompanying illustration. To the right in group is a Paris model which goes to verify this new trend. It is a toque of dotted grosgrain, trimmed at the back with a feather and a veil which is not a veil. However, this bow of open mesh conveys an important message of veiling tied in bows and we might add matching bows at the throat are cited in fashion reports. To the left is another wee toque as fashion decrees for spring. A flange of percale and the inevitable little veil do the trimming act.

The off-the-face hat above proclaims the existing half for gay color. It is a bright, Chinese red straw. Band and bow are of black beading ribbon. The print gown is black and white.

A very smart shallow navy straw Breton concludes the group. The bow and atop the crown and the nest about the headline are made of multi-colored leather.

HOSTILE VALLEY

by Ben Ames Williams

Copyright by Ben Ames Williams, WNU Service.

CHAPTER XIII—Continued

He came down into the Valley, into view of Will Ferris's farm. The stand of buildings showed no change; but the place was not so bare as it had been before. The meadow was a tawny green, with goldenrod in bloom, and the orange and the red blossoms of that rank and pestiferous weed called Devil's Paint Brush scattered in gay clusters here and there. Field flowers were everywhere, and a lilac clump was green by the corner of the house, and as Saladine drove into the yard he saw fresh-turned earth where other flower beds had been since his last visit here prepared.

Saladine turned into the farmyard, and stopped the car, and a man at work with an ax in the shed ceased his labors and came to the door. But this was not Zek Dacol! Here was Will. He recognized Saladine and dropped the ax and came swiftly out into the sun. His smile was broad, and there was welcome in his eye. Saladine looked at this tall blond giant with hair like flax, and steady eyes of a deep blue like the sky at dusk; and he slipped to the ground, and their hands clasped hard.

"Come fishing again, did you?" Will asked, with a chuckle. "Don't see no rod!"

"No, just come to pass the time of day," Saladine told him. "How are you, Will? You're looking fine!"

"I am," said Will. "I am full fine!" Then his eyes swung to one side, toward the house, and Saladine saw Jenny in the kitchen door. She had a plate and a dish towel in her hands, and contentment in her countenance; and as they went toward her she smiled, and put the plate and towel down and came swiftly to meet them.

So these three stayed there together on the sunned step of the porch for a while. Saladine asked after Marm Pierce, and Jenny's eye twinkled, and Will said:

"She's busy breaking Win to bride now!"

"I thought she got too much satisfaction out of her row with him ever to make it up," Saladine suggested, amused.

It was Jenny who explained, her eyes gentle. "She just did it so's I could marry Will and not have to worry about her," she confessed. "She wouldn't bear to mope up here; 'lowed if she was pulled up by the roots she'd just wither and die. And she said new married folks had ought to be by themselves till they get broke to double harness, anyway. But I couldn't bear to think of her living there alone; so she sent for Uncle Win and talked him into coming back there to live, and now she's having as much fun out of making him do her bidding as she did before out of fighting with him!"

"I hear he's quit drinking," Saladine suggested. Will guffawed; and Jenny nodded, laughing softly too.

"She put something into his rum," she said. "It made him terrible sick, and he let on that she'd killed him, and she said she'd kill or cure!" She added contentedly: "Uncle Win's pretty old, but he can do the chores, and she can manage the housework. It's better for them to be together so!" And she confessed, her cheek bright:

"Of course, I'm still down there the most of the time. I just come up here to do Will's dishes, and sweep around, and cook him up some victuals every day."

Saladine asked, smiling: "What does Marm Pierce think about you and Will waiting so long?"

Jenny's tones were mirthful. "Granny thinks we're foolish!" she asserted. "She says there's a time to wait and a time to go ahead. But Will and me, we have to do the deciding."

Her eyes were so quick to cling to Will's, tenderly; and Will said gravely: "We didn't want to put no slight on Hully, by hurrying; and Jenny and me, we're young. We don't have to hurry now. We've good time!"

"But we're most through waiting," Jenny added. "It's not long now."

When Saladine presently moved to depart, Will urged that he stay and try for a trout in the big pools in the bog. "A day like this, you're apt to get hold of an old rouncer, down there," he promised. "Might be worth your while!"

But Saladine shook his head. The Valley lay beautiful and tempting, with a welcome and a promise in its aspect today; the skies were clear and gay and the wind was fine. But he had too many dark memories. The time would come when he could fish Carey's brook with full zest, and happily; but that time was not yet here.

"I can't, not today," he said. "But I'll stop and see Marm Pierce!"

Jenny shook her head. "Granny's not to home," she said. "She and Uncle Win went to the village."

"I'll come next spring, then," he promised. "I left my rod down there, last time I was here. I'll have to come and get that, and try the brook again."

"She's kept the rod safe for you," Jenny told him; and Will urged hospitably:

"You do! Come and stay with us, Jenny and me; we can put you up right here, long as you're a mind!"

So Saladine left messages for old Marm Pierce, and at last bade them good-by. When he drove away, they stood together, shoulders almost touching, to watch him go. He turned up the road toward the ridge again, and looked back and saw their hands lift in a gesture of farewell. Then they swung, side-by-side, toward the house that was to be their home.

The farm was far below him; and beyond it lay the sweep and loveliness of Hostile Valley. It was not easy, on such a day as this to understand how the place had come by its harsh ancient name. When on that night in June, now months past, Saladine departed after his first coming here, he had gone at full speed, like one pursued. But today he drove slowly, reluctant to leave the pleasant scene and these friendly folk behind.

Human Life Precious Thing; Recklessness Not Courage.

There is deep truth in the lines: We never can begin to live Unless we dare to die.

We never have measured life up to its highest and fullest, never learned its deepest meaning until we have learned that there are causes in which it should be risked, sacrificed if need be, unhesitatingly. No one has really learned to live until he has learned that life here is but a beginning, and is for a purpose. When he really believes that, he is ready for high enterprise even though it bring him face to face with death.

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it—in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the safest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains... and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store—simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

DINNER JACKET

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Wear a dinner jacket with your slim-skirted formal print frock if you would look up-to-the-minute good style. White cotton pique is considered ever so smart for the dinner jacket. Indeed, these white washable jackets are proving quite the fad of the immediate moment. A white cotton pique dinner jacket, flared at the hips, adds a tailored note to a printed silk crepe frock as here shown. The dress has splashy flowers or red and blue on white with a decolletage cut high in front and low in back.

New Hats Exhibit Varied Sources of Inspiration

The new hats exhibit very definite but also varied sources of inspiration. A collection of one designer will show the influence of several different periods and contrasting styles. Talbot, for instance, while seeking ideas for her new berets in supple shirred rayon velvet from the portraits of Dantès, has adopted for her new fur toques the Russian and Asiatic styles with a pointed and sometimes folded crown.

CHINESE MODE SEEN IN PARIS FASHIONS

China put on oriental sign on the new spring mode shown in 1933 fashion displays.

Chinese lacquer red appeared in trimmings, Chinese motifs marked belt buckles and Chinese figures were stamped on prints.

Many black afternoon frocks were designed along simple, high-necked lines, suggestive of oriental snavity. Some black-dinner frocks were topped by knee-length coats of flower printed black crepe silk, whose cut showed Chinese inspiration.

A slender silhouette, high neckline and accented shoulderline, marked by big topped sleeves gathered into the armholes, distinguished the Paris profile shown so far.

Waists are normal and busts are definitely outlined.

Smartest Black Costumes Touched With Vivid Colors

Bright touches either as trimming or in the way of accessories are dramatizing the season's smartest black costumes. Perhaps it will be embroidery done in vivid colored yarns or a row of striking red buttons or insets of red patent leather. As to accessories the most striking item is the new gloves which are being shown in high colors including red, green, du-bonnet and the natural chamouis shade is especially sponsored by smart Parisiennes.

Hearts of Fur Are Now Worn on Sleeves of Stylists

A sentimental wave has overtaken fashion in Paris. Women now literally wear their hearts on their sleeves—made of fur. Hats and gowns are perfumed. You can spray the padding with your own scent or with different scents on various occasions.

For evenings, too, you can increase your femininity by wearing little frilled tulle caps, which serve as a chignon.

Talks for Evening

Lots of taffeta is being shown for evening just now. There are pencil-slim taffeta frocks, and there are billowy models. Slim, black taffeta with self-ruchings of clipped material is a favorite. Usually this is done with a very deep decolletage, both in front and back. White taffeta with glittering touches is liked, and for southern wear there are taffeta frocks in pale pink and blue.

Mrs. Era B. Smith, Editor and Publisher

Perhaps the most entertaining phenomenon of the political campaign is the recurrence of the thought that the Republicans' hope of victory lies in making their ticket and their platform as Democratic as possible.

Even the rock bound New York Herald Tribune endorses the view point of Doctor Nicholas Murray Butler, that unless the GOP borrows some candidates as well as some ideas from the other side it is likely to meet the fate of the old Whig party. The other day this stand-pat Republican paper in an editorial, beginning with the hypothesis that "the Republicans have an excellent chance of ousting Mr. Roosevelt next November," and coming down to the suggestion that "they are certain greatly to enlarge the Republican contingent in Congress," came to the conclusion that it was absolutely necessary that a Republican candidate, if elected, select a Cabinet regardless of past party affiliations.

The suggestion itself is an index of the small hope the chiefs of the opposition party have of success. If they thought they had a Chinaman's chance, does anybody suppose that they would contemplate giving up anything to the Democrats?

There is another and a funnier phase to the situation. Just which Democratic Cabinet officers in a Republican administration would bring even a handful of votes to the bewildered party of Hoover and Borah, and all the intermediate discordances who figure in the present Republican chaos?

Hoover and Smith Ticket

The solemn old journalistic owl who presents the case avoids the embarrassment of identifying the Democrats who it would like to see marching under the Republican banner, but gives them prominence in "Letters to the Editor." For example, it presents us the view of one contributor, that "I see every reason why a combination of Herbert Hoover and Alfred E. Smith would be a great help to the U. S. A." To get the full flavor of this suggestion it is only necessary to refer to the 1928 campaign and present from their speeches the then view of Mr. Hoover as to Governor Smith and Governor Smith's opinion of Mr. Hoover. Passing up for the moment the absurdity of the thought, what earthly temptation would there be for Governor Smith to run as the tail to the Hoover kite, even if there were the ghost of a hope for the success of such a ticket at the polls?

Another thought by another correspondent, in the same issue of the same newspaper, suggests that the ticket should be Governor Landon, or Colonel Knox, and Lewis Douglas. Now men run for political office for one of two reasons; a desire for public service or gratification of personal ambition. That ambition in minor office carries with it the hope of still higher office. How much public service could Lew Douglas render as Governor Landon's or Colonel Knox's understudy? Moreover, where would it leave Douglas? The Republicans, if they got control of the government, would hardly take a convert so new for their own candidate at a subsequent election, and surely nobody would expect the Democrats ever to run a deserter.

Of course, this discussion is on something as intangible as the fourth dimension, which neither aticians play with purely for academic diversion. But assuming politically, as these pundits do arithmetically, an absurd premise, where would such a candidacy leave the highly intelligent Mr. Douglas?

Coalition Cabinet

Following out the same train of thought, we come to the suggestion of democratic cabineteeer in a Republican administration. A favorite suggestion is that Senator Glass would make an admirable Secretary of the Treasury. Of course, he would, but there are a few things in the way. In the first place Senator Glass has time and time again made the positive assertion that, though he differed from President Roosevelt on certain policies, he was and intended to continue to be a Democrat and to support the man he describes as his "affectionate friend" in the coming election. In the second place, you could not hand Senator Glass the Secretaryship of the Treasury on a gold platter. He could have had that under the present Administration. But he refused emphatically long before the present administration took hold and before any difference had developed between the President and the Senator. Pretty much the same situation is true as to Senator Harry Byrd, who takes the same position as does Carter Glass. In short, there is no Democrat of prominence who would take a cabinet job under a Republican President.

Whenever a party finds itself in the doldrums you begin to hear this talk of a coalition administration. The idea is enticing, but the difficulty comes when the idea advances from the abstract to the concrete, in other words, when it comes to getting men who are of big enough calibre to create an impression, to coalesce with their natural political enemies. It is not altogether unusual for a man with a grievance, or more frequently a man whose personal interests bring him into opposition to his party, to swing away during a political campaign. But that is a far different thing from what we have been talking about.

Actually, the Republican doctors who are voicing the idea of a coalition government as a desperate remedy for all of the diseases afflicting their party have got the cart before the horse. Voters shift from one political organization to another in masses because they are dissatisfied with the policies and performers of their first allegiance and are attracted by the policies of the other side. When the change is of sufficient magnitude to affect an election, the victorious organization may recognize and reward some of the converts who have done great service, but never yet has an election been affected by the promise that this fellow or that would get a Cabinet job. As a matter of fact, a coalition government in this country is a myth. The President is the whole thing on the Executive side of the government, and it makes no difference whether his Cabinet is wholly of one party or a mixture of parties.

If the President is a Democrat his administration is Democratic; if he is a Republican, his administration is Republican. So it has been ever since the nation divided politically as it is today, and it always will be.

Brazil Rain-Drenched in One Part; Dry in Other.
Geographically, Brazil is divided into two great sections—the plateau country in the East, which includes nearly one-third of its territory, and the great interior tropical plains, drained by the Amazon system and in a smaller degree by the Rio de la Plata tributaries. The country lies almost entirely in the torrid zone, observes a writer in the Kansas City Star. In general it is a tropical country, with subtropical and temperate areas in the South and in the central plateau region. The forest-covered lowland valley of the Amazon is a region of high temperatures which vary little throughout the year. There is no appreciable change of season except in the variation of rainfall. The coastal plains lying between the plateaus and the sea are subject to high temperatures and humidity as far south as Santos.
The varied rainfalls are one of the peculiarities of the climate of torrid Brazil. Whereas three years may pass in the northern state of Ceara without rain, other sections are drenched for months with tropical downpours. The country is fortunate in being free from the earthquakes and hurricanes so common along the great Cordillera from Chile to Mexico and in the Caribbean countries.
Coffee is found chiefly in the temperate plateau regions and in southern Brazil. This is the principal source of Brazil's wealth, with the states of Sao Paulo and Matto leading in production. The latter has an area of 530,000 square miles and is the principal cattle state of Brazil.

History of Letter "P"
of the Present Alphabet
The letter P, the sixteenth letter of our alphabet, was written in the Phoenician from right to left, according to an authority in the Chicago Tribune. It is interesting that, although the Greek alphabet is generally considered to have descended from the Phoenician, the Etruscan and Umbrian symbols for P more closely resemble the Phoenician than they do the Greek symbol. The early Roman form of the letter was similar to the Greek, but as time went on the form became more and more rounded. It was not until imperial times, however, that the semi-circle was completed and the letter had reached the form it now retains. The sound represented by the symbol always has been the breathed labial stop.
The letter Q was in the earliest Greek alphabets the symbol koppa, which was retained in Ionic Greek merely as a symbol for the figure 00. The pronunciation in Greek is the same as K. In Latin Q is commonly used in combination with U pronounced as W before a following vowel as in the English quill. The letter R, called rho in Greek, often was written in early Greek alphabets as D, which caused confusion between the two letters. No consonant has a more varied pronunciation than R. The letter S, called sigma in Greek, also has a varied pronunciation. It may be sounded as sh, as z, or as a hiss.

Cinderella's Slipper
Although the folklore of many lands contains the inspirational story of Cinderella's romance, the different versions are not legends but variations of a romantic and true incident in the life of Rhodopis, the "rosy-cheeked queen" of Egypt, who reigned 2,900 years before the birth of Christ. History relates, writes G. R. Turner in the Kansas City Times, that on a certain day in that distant past Rhodopis was bathing in the Nile when a strong gust of wind carried off one sandal and laid it at the feet of the Egyptian king, who was presiding over a court of justice almost a mile away. The daintiness of the sandal so impressed the king that he offered a reward for knowledge of the owner's name. Rhodopis claimed the reward, courtship followed, and soon she was queen of Egypt.

Queen Christina
Christina, queen of Sweden, was born in 1626. Her father died when she was six years old. She became queen in her eighteenth year. Urged to marry, with her cousin, Charles Gustavus, suggested as the most suitable consort in 1650, she appointed Charles her successor. She soon desired to abdicate in his favor, and finally did so in 1654, leaving the country in male attire, under the name of Count Dohna. She embraced the Catholic religion and lived for many years in Rome, dying there in 1689.

Criminology Research
Cesare Lombroso, famous criminologist of the late Nineteenth century, founded criminology as an independent subject of research. The study of crime is conditioned by the difficulty in gathering significant statistics, the changing concepts of crime and by the fact that each country decides for itself of what crime consists. Social, environmental and individual influences are very complex, and criminologists do not consider their results conclusive.

"God Save the King"
The origin of the tune "God Save the King" has always been a matter for argument, but most authorities agree on one point, that it is English. It was "adopted" by the Prussians, and with appropriate changes became the Prussian national anthem. So it is quite erroneous to say that it "belonged" to Germany, in the sense that it was borrowed from them.

President Sends Flag

Boy Reminds President of Unkept Promise

Austin Gannon of Boston (standing in rear), with six of his seven younger brothers and sisters looking at the new flag which was sent them at the order of President Hoover. Austin, who is thirteen years old, had been promised the flag that draped the coffin of his father, a World War veteran who died last August. When the flag didn't come he complained to the President. As soon as the request was brought to the President's attention, he ordered that a new flag be sent to the youngster and his brothers and sisters.

When House Runs Into Truck, It's News

When a man bites a dog, that's news, according to the old newspaper adage. The same thing applies to a house running into a truck. It happened on the outskirts of St. Petersburg, Fla., where a house-moving crew was pulling this structure across the highway. Despite the wreckage of the truck, none in it were seriously injured.

HOW ARE YOU TODAY

DR. JAMES W. BARTON Talks About

Underweight Children
IN THESE days when parents are trying to reduce weight, the fact that their youngster is a little underweight may not disturb them very much.

However just as overweight is a liability in adults past forty, so is underweight a liability or menace to health in children.

Sometimes parents who were quite thin as youngsters and are now much overweight think nothing of their youngster being underweight as they think it is a natural or inherited condition. Now there is no question but that children usually resemble their parents—it couldn't be otherwise—but that children must be thin or underweight and remain underweight because the parent they resemble was very thin, is not necessarily true. Dr. James S. McLeester, Birmingham, Ala., the noted nutrition expert and this year president of the American Medical Association, says, "Improvement of the stock as a result of the betterment of the diet has been observed repeatedly in the lower animals and in men. Chinese living under improved nutritive conditions in Hawaii grow taller than people of the same type or strain in China and their growth continues to a greater age than does the growth of those remaining in China. Thus the average height at twenty years of age was one full inch more than that of similar groups in the province of Kwantung from which they had come to Hawaii."

Dr. Barton

Physique Varies With Habitat.
Similarly children born of Japanese living in California show definite superiority in height, weight and other characteristics over their parents who had come to California from Japan. Also children born in the large cities of America are taller and have a better physique than their parents who came from Europe.

It is common observation in medical schools that the Jewish students of European parentage who apply for admission are strikingly superior in physical make-up to their parents.

Better food and better living habits can improve the children of natives in any country anywhere.

However, being taller—an inch or more in height—does not always mean being stronger or more able to withstand hardships or ailments, nevertheless it is only too true that there is abundant evidence that greater strength and a better physique accompany this increase in height. This was shown recently when of 100 English school children, selected to compete in athletic events, 87 per cent of the winners were above the normal for height and weight and only 6 per cent below normal, and the winners showed a proportion of overweight three times that of the seconds, thirds, and also-runs.

Milk Increases Stature.
From Japan a public health bulletin stated that when groups of Tokyo school children were given milk in addition to their regular diet, not only was there a greater increase in weight and height, but these children were more cheerful and happy and showed greater powers in athletics than did those who were not given this extra supply of milk.

Now the best building foods for children are meat, eggs, and milk, but meat and eggs are expensive and not available to some families. However good energy giving and fattening foods can be used generously such as butter, bacon, cereals, bread, sugar with meat or eggs once a day at least and twice if possible.

In addition to this, foods rich in minerals should be eaten daily—cheese, leafy vegetables, fruits, nuts. Also foods rich in vitamins—green vegetables—spinach, lettuce, string beans, beet tops; yellow vegetables—carrots, squash, sweet potato; root vegetables, tomatoes, oranges, bananas, grapefruit, cabbage, liver.

Besides good food, rest is of vital importance in building up undernourished children. Rest or sleep means that all the body processes are working a little more slowly than when the youngster is up and playing, thus not using up the tissues so quickly.

"In the future those races who will take advantage of newer knowledge of foods and their values, will attain a larger stature, greater vigor, increased length of life, and a higher level of living."

Coronary Thrombosis

DR. WARREN B. COOKSEY of Detroit has a treatment for coronary thrombosis which consists of having the patient remain absolutely at rest in bed for at least six weeks after the attack. After this another six weeks elapse before any activity is permitted, and careful supervision of the patient's activities is continued for a whole year.

Doctor Cooksey makes a sensible explanation to the patient of what has happened to his heart, showing the length of time needed to re-establish the circulation and for healing, and thus the great necessity for the patient to rest and so give the heart the best amount of work possible.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Kidnaping Laws

BEVERLY HILLS, CALIF.—Do you remember the feverish, the almost hysterical eagerness to make kidnaping a capital offense which swept legislation on legislation—Missouri and California and other states besides—after the Lindbergh baby was stolen? You must remember; it wasn't long ago.

And now will some bright little boy or girl tell the rest of the class just how many kidnapers, who were tried, convicted and condemned under these laws, have been legally put to death since then?

And does anyone seriously believe that anywhere in the Union, Bruno Hauptmann would today stand appreciably closer to the electric chair, had not child-murder been added to the other hideous crime of child-staaling?

We're a great people for laws—not for enforcing laws; dearie me, no, we're much too tender-hearted for that rough stuff—but just for having nice ornamental laws on the statute books. Let's see how many more we enact before the spring thaw comes.

Old "Uncle Wilbur"

SO THE ex-kaiser is getting on toward eighty. It seems only yesterday when I was one of the American correspondents with the invading German forces in 1914. Among ourselves we wanted to be able to refer freely to our imperial host without giving offense to anybody in his army. So we twisted Emperor Wilhelm Hohenzollern into "Uncle Wilbur Hohenburg of Chambersburg, Pa.," and went about speaking of him as one to whom we were indebted for divorce favors, but whose policies and methods frequently were open to criticism.

To the world today he's the wood-chopper of Doorn; to the suppressed royalists of the Vaterland he's still, I suppose, the all-highest. But so long as I can remember those mad days in Belgium and France, he'll be "Uncle Wilbur," a good fellow while he had it.

Maybe if he hadn't figured his divine right was better than the devastating left hook of world opinion he might still be the all-ages heavyweight champion of European royalty. And there might be more European royalty than there is.

Revising the Old

I WALKED into a beer parlor today, but if that was the parlor, I'd hate to visit the pantry—and there in front of the mirror was an old friend—a friend I hadn't seen for full thirty years. It was a framed sign reading as follows: "Don't ask us to charge. The Light Brigade charged and took at what happened to them."

Now then, if I could only run across the one which says: "All Nations welcome except Carrio Nation," and a free lunch counter featuring whole pickled pigs-feet.

Wrestling As an Art

EVERY time I go to a so-called wrestling contest, I say to myself that if only we revived the ancient Roman sport of matching gladiators to murder, one another publicly, no building anywhere could hold the multitudes that would flock to the blood-lettings.

It can't be the posing, posturing, cheap acting, deliberate fouling, obvious hipodroming, the fixed victories and the faked defeats that bring the crowds swarming about the marstonic masters of the many art of self-defense, these blubber-laden practitioners of the pleasant science of mayhem.

All the cruel agony can't be make-believe, all the seeming suffering isn't rehearsed beforehand. That's what makes the business pay. The creak of the dislocated ankle and the brisk snap of the splintering knee-joint, the scream as a brutal thumb gouges at a tortured eyeball—it's so much music to the popular ear.

That reminds me I must see about getting my tickets for this week's bouts. I hear the house is sold out. That's no way to treat a regular customer.

Stiffing the Urge

IT'S almost time for the master tailors to announce that this year men will wear bright colors. They do that regularly and nothing ever comes of it except vain longings for us, poor cowardly worms that we are. Being a race of Yruid-cats, we'll go right on encasing ourselves in garments suitable for pallbearers at a Dunkard funeral.

I'm typical of the whole thwarted male species. My impulse is to go pick out something suitable for a fancy vest and then have a whole suit made of it. Right now I've got my eye on a nobby checked pattern in black and white squares that would make me look a good deal like a marble-tiled entry hall. But will I indulge my stifled natural cravings? Don't make me laugh!

It's not one another's scorn we fear. It's our womanfolk. Well, if you were a hen and his poor foolish rooster had surrendered to you all his gay feathers, along with most of his other perquisites, would you give 'em back to him?

All Around the House

Do not rub or wring organdie when washing. Put through three or four soapsuds waters, roll in a Turkish towel and let stand for an hour before ironing. They require no starch.

To remove all grated lemon peel from a grater use a clean vegetable brush kept in the pantry for this purpose. It may also be used to wash the grater.

A clever way to use chintz that has a large colorful design is to cut the material in wide scallops and use in narrow widths at the sides of the window and across the top as a valance. In this way a single width of the material may be utilized to make a pair of curtains, for only half of a single piece is needed for each side. The effect is unusual and most attractive.

Don't forget that a badly kept lavatory or bathroom is a danger to everybody in any home. It should once a week be washed with water, to which a disinfectant has been added. Disinfectant should occasionally be poured down the pipes.

Keeping Up With Science

Fall Asleep in Class? May Not Be Prof.'s Fault

New Drug Will Keep Sleepy Persons Awake

CHICAGO.—A drug to keep sleepy persons awake is now being used in medical treatment with pronounced success.

First report on the use of benzedrine for the treatment of what the doctors call narcolepsy, or sleep attacks, is made by Dr. Myron Frazzmet of Los Angeles and Dr. Wilfred Bloomberg of Boston.

Students especially are given to sleep attacks, and for these their own central nervous systems rather than their professors are to blame.

Cases in Point

Nine cases of persons who fall asleep at least three times a day are reported by the two physicians, whose work with benzedrine has been done in connection with the neurological service of Boston City hospital and Harvard Medical school. In each of the nine cases relief was complete when suitable doses were given. The drug also gives practically complete relief of cataplexy, a state of muscular rigidity produced by sudden emotion, shock or fear.

The studies made show benzedrine to be three times as effective in preventing attacks of sleep as ephedrine, the treatment usually given.

Seven of the cases reported were among students; the other two affected were a housewife and an office worker.

Girl Has to Leave School

Three of the students suffered from momentary generalized weakness whenever they laughed. One girl had to give up college because she couldn't avoid falling asleep in classes.

An eleven-year-old boy slept all the time he was not actively occupied, and consequently failed in his school work. One sleepy young man had been injured in a football game, after which he became more and more drowsy until he had six sleep attacks every day.

The two physicians state that benzedrine has a profound stimulating action on the higher centers of the central nervous system. It has been used in hayfever and asthma.

Making Big Telescope Reveals New Type of Glassware for Cooking

CORNING.—Astronomy and cooking marched hand in hand during the three years' research which led to the development of the ultra-low expansion type of glass that was used in the great 200-inch diameter disk of glass for the new telescope of California Institute of Technology. This was revealed by officials of the Corning Glass Works.

Astronomy obtained the dish for the telescope mirror out of investigations in which 1,500 different kinds of glass were studied. Housewives will benefit from the same work, for one of the new glasses is now being used for a new type top-of-the-stove glass cooking utensil.

The new style glassware has a still lower coefficient of expansion than the well-known glassware already manufactured by the glass company. The new glass, which can be placed right over a flame on the stove, is designed to supplement rather than replace the present oven-type glassware.

What makes ordinary glass crack when heated suddenly or unevenly, indicates Dr. J. C. Hostetter, who had charge of making the great telescope disk, is the large coefficient of expansion which sets up unequal stresses that finally pull the glass apart.

For glassware used directly over a flame the minimum coefficient of expansion is a desirable characteristic, but it must be coupled with other factors such as mechanical strength and length of useful life.

For the great telescope mirror disk low expansion was also a major requirement. Thus the search for the proper glass had the two objectives, with astronomers and the housewife jointly benefiting.

Find Coeds Continue to Grow While at College

PALO ALTO, CALIF.—Young women—and presumably young men also—continue to grow a little in height and to gain in weight while at college or university, Prof. Calvin F. Stone and Roger G. Barker of Stanford University found from studies made on over a thousand Stanford coeds.

The young women, who were between seventeen and twenty-one years, grew on the average almost half an inch and put on slightly over five pounds in weight.

Much of Value of Streamlining Lies in Appeal

Designer Says Color May Be Useful, Too

RAILROAD trains have styles like automobiles and dresses; and for the same reason—sales appeal. The sleek so-called streamlined trains which have become so popular in the last year are known technically to the industrial designers who create their lines as stream-styled rather than streamlined.

How well such styling can be built into a motor car is shown in a short exposure photograph is made of one of the new models standing still on the road. From the print it is difficult to tell whether it's going 60 or zero miles an hour.

That effect as attained by stream-styling is the work of an artist who has a flair for adapting artistry to an industrial object. The airplane in exterior design is truly streamlined of necessity and is the work of the scientist and engineer. Inside, however, the designer goes to work and stream-styles the cabin for sales appeal.

Value of Dramatic Appeal

Speaking before a recent meeting of the New York Railroad club, Otto Kuhler, industrial designer for some of the nation's largest railroads, told the railroad men some of the new tricks of "streamlining" existing steam trains, and even the newer type Diesel articulated units owe their main value to their dramatic appeal.

The modern lines of speed built into the locomotives, either steam, Diesel or electric, have the same appeal to the public as the gaudy painted engines of an earlier date. The change has been necessary to provide something besides the older circus ballyhoo type of appeal, according to Mr. Kuhler.

Color Can Be Useful

Color, recommended the design consultant, can serve a very useful purpose. Said Mr. Kuhler:

"If we stand at an unprotected crossing a black spot the shape of a freight engine, a mile away, may give us plenty of time to cross safely, but a brilliantly colored front end can warn us that something very fast is coming. I feel sure that we have lost more than one human life that might have been spared if color could have flashed its warning ahead."

"Instead of confining the outlines of a train by black and white striping as we see it on gasoline-electric cars, I believe in making a train look like a train."

The striped, camouflage type of marking, reminds Mr. Kuhler, is only a carry-over on the highway protection signs that were designed to be picked up by your headlights at night instead of being flashed in your face.

Fish Used for Live Bait Threaten to Spoil Utah Fishing

SALT LAKE CITY.—Fishermen in Utah's trout streams are threatened with serious damage to their sport because other fishermen make use of live bait.

This trouble situation has received the attention of W. F. Carbine, of the University of Utah. Small fish used as live bait sometimes slip off the hook, and live to grow up and reproduce. Prominent among fish thus introduced into Great Basin waters is the chub, a species not particularly esteemed for either sport or food.

This fish makes life harder for trout in two ways. It produces many more eggs in the same spawning grounds that the trout frequent. The more numerous and hardy young chub gobble up a great deal of the food that the troutlings would normally have for themselves.

Young trout that survive this period of over-competition for nourishment find that their troubles are not over by any means. As they swim down the streams, the adult chub, which are big fish measuring up to 16 inches in length, pounce on them and gobble them up in numbers. Young chub, on the other hand, are not taken for food to any extent by the adult trout.

To reduce the numbers of this troublesome enemy of the trout, Mr. Carbine suggests forbidding the use of live bait, the use of nets, and the lowering of the water level in the lakes which are their favorite waters.

Find Olive Oil May Be Used in Automobiles

PARIS.—Olive oil is a suitable lubricant for automobile engines, according to Prof. M. Bastet of the Agricultural Institute of Algeria. After being pressed from the fruit, the oil must be deacidified so that it will not corrode the metal parts of the motor. It may then be used in the crank case or may be grafted for use as a gear lubricant. Using a mixture of one part of olive oil to three parts of the usual mineral oil seems to give better results than the use of either oil by itself. This discovery may solve a difficult problem in tropical and semi-tropical countries where olive are abundant.

Uncommon Sense

By John Blake

© Bell Syndicate—WNU Service

If somebody has done you what in common parlance is called "a dirty trick," you will, if you are human, resent it, and you may make up your mind to get even at the earliest opportunity.

But by making such a resolution, and following it out, you will bring on yourself a weight of bitterness that will take the joy out of life until you wake up some day and discover how futile it is.

You do not get "mad" at a stone on the road which turns your ankle, or at a gust of wind which blows your hat off.

You do not fall into a fit of fury at a sidewalk on which you slip and hurt yourself.

Why, then, should you trouble yourself about slights or injustices from other people?

As soon as you get angry, you lose your power to think.

If your grievance is caused by somebody else it will not be lightened by punching him on the nose the first time you see him.

Here you are in a world filled with all manner of people.

Some of them will be friendly, some quite the reverse.

It is easy enough to keep away from those who are not friendly.

Just avoid them, and you will destroy their ability to do you any further damage.

But if you sit up nights to dislike them, and plan how you are going to revenge yourselves on them, you are going to have a pretty disagreeable time until you learn better.

As soon as you learn not to be bothered with annoyances, big or little, the sooner you will find that this world can be made an extremely pleasant place in which to live and move and have your being.

I remember when I was a young man seeing two belligerent men pummeling each other with their fists—both of them getting hurt in the process.

When the battle was over I asked a bystander what it was about, and was told that the row started over an argument regarding the price of flour.

Probably neither of them cared very much about the price of flour, but the dispute they had engaged in embittered them both, and after they had begun calling each other ignoramuses and fatheads, they sought to settle the dispute with blows, and as a result became permanent enemies.

Make up your mind that some people are so galled that they cannot be friendly or agreeable. Then keep away from them.

Trying to get even for old grudges has just lately brought on a great and highly destructive war. Nobody with hatred in his heart can be happy.

Crime waves are due to lack of imagination on the part of the people.

Criminals crook, no matter how clever—and very few crooks are cowards—clever—who could last for a week if the public once made up its mind to put him out of business.

The reason that they continue to "gang up" on the populace, is that the populace merely reads of their raids and their killings, observes "how dreadful" and turns to something else.

Any man who is afraid to make an honest living is a coward.

The men who have terrorized the country for the past eight or ten years are usually "hopped up" when they go out to rob and kill or plunder.

They are just keen enough to keep in a hideout until they see a good chance for a hold up, or for the robbery of valuable goods. Then, with their stock of machine guns, their knowledge of the whereabouts of the officers of the law, and their seemingly reckless disregard of capture, they rob a bank, run away with a truckload of treasure, and then go into a hide-out until the public has forgotten all about them—and that never takes very long.

Sometime or other the inhabitants of this country will become sufficiently terrified to do something, as did the Vigilantes in the gold days in the West. Sometime they will begin to understand that such people, if sufficient force is used by an adequate number of law enforcement officers, can't possibly win.

I was a reporter in Portland, Ore., when two men of the highwayman type fought and shot their way out of a penitentiary. They succeeded in getting as far as Puget Sound, killing many people as they went.

But one of them, Tracy, became suspicious of his pal Merrill, and shot him. Tracy went on alone, traveled in a boat from near Olympia to Seattle, where he shot three more people, and then made his way to eastern Washington.

There he was run down and shot. He was an ignorant man and might easily have been captured had he been really hunted. But few people understood what a menace he was.

When the public really wakes up, crooks of the highwayman stripe will find the country too hot to hold them.

Boy Is Over Eight Feet Tall and Still Growing

Physicians say that Robert Wadlow of Alton, Ill., is still growing at the age of seventeen. That would not be unusual except for the fact that he is 8 feet 4 inches tall and weighs 300 pounds now. Wadlow is regarded as the nation's tallest man and the second tallest in history. A famous Irish giant of the Nineteenth century is said to have exceeded him.

Wadlow recently graduated from Alton high school. He wore a size 8 1/2 cap and a 92-inch gown which was 50 inches around the chest and had 63-inch sleeves. His shoes are size 33. The youth expects to enter Shurtleff college next fall to study law and wants to finish at Washington university in St. Louis.

Pride is of such intimate connection with ingratitude that the actions of ingratitude seem directly resolvable into pride as the principal reason of them.—South.

LAZY NATIVES

Though fish abound in the water about Jamaica, the natives never catch them; but, salted fish from Nova Scotia is a part of their daily diet.

DAD GIVES A GOOD TIP

I'LL GIVE YOU ONE LAST CHANCE, JACK. IF YOU LOSE YOUR TEMPER AGAIN, YOU'RE THROUGH!

WELL—IT'S A GOOD THING YOU'RE LETTING ME PLAY TONIGHT! MY FATHER CAME ALL THE WAY FROM WASHINGTON TO SEE THE GAME!

—THAT'S ENOUGH OF YOUR ROUGH STUFF, WALTON! I SAW YOU EMBOW THAT MAN IN THE FACE! GET OUT OF THE GAME!

TELL THE DUMB REF IF HE'S GOIN' TO PLAY ON THE OTHER SIDE HE'D BETTER PUT ON A BASKETBALL SUIT!

I'M JACK'S FATHER, COACH. CAN YOU SPARE A MINUTE?

CERTAINLY, DOCTOR WALTON. IT'S TOO BAD ABOUT JACK—HE'S A STAR PLAYER, BUT HE WON'T OBEY MY "NO COFFEE" TRAINING RULE!

CAREFUL, NOW! THEY'RE GOING TO PULL SOMETHING ON YOU!

BEING A DOCTOR, I RECOGNIZED JACK'S TROUBLE AS COFFEE-NERVES! BUT HE'S PROMISED TO QUIT COFFEE AND DRINK POSTUM INSTEAD!

FINE! YOU STICK TO THAT, JACK, AND YOU'LL GET BACK ON THE TEAM!

CURSES! SWITCHING TO POSTUM, IS HE? THEN I'M THROUGH!

30 DAYS LATER

WAIT WHILE I WIRE DAD... I WANT HIM TO KNOW I'VE BEEN ELECTED BASKETBALL CAPTAIN!

THANK I'LL WIRE HIM, TOO—AND TELL HIM WHAT A FINE DISPOSITION YOU'VE ACQUIRED SINCE YOU SWITCHED TO POSTUM!

OF COURSE, you know that children should never drink coffee. But do you realize that the caffeine in coffee disagrees with many grown-ups, too?

If you are bothered by headaches or indigestion, or find it difficult to sleep soundly... caffeine may be to blame.

Isn't it worth while to try Postum for 30 days? Postum contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and slightly sweetened. It is easy to make, and costs less than one-half cent a cup. It's a delicious drink, too... and may prove a real help. A product of General Foods.

BINGHAM BREVITIES

Mr. C. A. Ratts returned to his work in Oklahoma City last Sunday, after spending a week with his wife.

William and Paul Harvey Wrye went back to Amarillo, Texas with their father. They returned home Sunday.

Webb Weathersbee returned home Thursday after spending a week in Texas.

Mrs. J. P. Glover visited in the L. L. Bullington and C. A. Ratts homes Thursday.

Mrs. C. A. Ratts and Bernelle Glover are on the sick list this week.

Mrs. C. O. Hayes and daughters spent Saturday afternoon in the J. P. Patrick home.

Mr. A. R. Haralson and son, of Socorro, spent the past week with Mrs. Haralson, who is teacher in the Bingham school.

Mrs. L. L. Bullington spent Sunday afternoon with Mrs. J. P. Glover.

Mrs. J. P. Patrick spent Thursday with Mrs. Otto Rodman.

This is a story that has been going the rounds out here: "It was away out in New Mexico at a little country school, and the teacher was asking questions.

"Does your father ever pray?" she asked one little girl.

"Yes, Teacher," was the reply. "When we sat down to supper last night the first thing he said was 'Good Lord, we've got beans again!'"

A Letter to Mr. Detloff

Hondo, N. Mex.
March 2, 1936

My Dear Mr. Detloff:

I understand that it is reported in Carrizozo that I made some protest or had entered some statement in regard to the eligibility of your team; not knowing where the information came from nor caring, but would like to say that who ever said I had anything to do with a report of any kind is telling an absolute falsehood.

The only thing I have said was to you here at Hondo, and the next day after playing you at 'Zozo I mentioned the fact to Schuman and Cunningham about playing Tony and also about your new men (Barela) and wondering where he came from.

So presuming where your information originated I wish you would please keep this letter and write to the State Sec. (Wilferth) or to anyone you wish to see if any report has come in, in which this school or I was in any way connected.

While it probably doesn't make any difference I would like for you and your school, to know, it is not my policy to go around reporting any one about anything. So I would appreciate it if you would contradict any further reports. But on the other hand, if at any time I stoop to this sort of thing I will be the first to tell you about it.

I notice you have a fairly tough drawing for the tourney from one good team to another. Altho you probably won't have any difficulty until you hit Roswell.

Sincerely yours
W. Clements

Mr. Detloff states that he has not had any word from State Secretary nor heard any such report and would not have believed it if anything of the kind had been told to him.
