Labor for Chavez

Belen, New Mexico, Oct. 22—Labor, organized and unorganized, now faces a brighter future than ever before in America's history, Senator Dennis Chavez declared at a Democratic rally here Thursday night.

Addressing a crowd that included a large percentage of union workmen, Chavez pointed to the several major labor reforms enacted under the New Deal Administration.

"President Roosevelt is the best friend labor ever had in the White House," the Senator said. "And the Wagner National Labor Relations Act will prove of more benefit to organized workers than any other law we've ever had on the books."

"The President recognized the fact that the labor's right to organize and bargain collectively was nothing but a mere theory unless it was enacted into law. Congress agreed, and so we find that right guaranteed under the Wagner Act. Would any candidate, Democrat or Republican, dare declare for the repeal of that law?"

"The Social Security Act provides State-Federal pensions for our needy aged, aid to needy dependent children, and to our blind. And soon it will provide retirement pensions for our aged workers in most major industries. Is that 'radical' or 'un-American'? I ask you?"

"Then too there's the Railroad Retirement Act, under which our railway workers are assured a competence in the autumn of their lives. I challenge anyone to criticize that law."

Chavez commended the action of State officials of New Mexico in co-operating with the Roosevelt Administration regarding not only the labor reforms, but also in work relief activities and the other major New Deal measures.

Mr. Witt Sears

Citizens of Capitan were shocked and grieved Sunday when it became known that Mr. Witt Sears, age 77, had passed away at 2:20 that morning. Mr. Sears had been in declining health for the past several months, but on October 13th he fell, breaking his hip; as a result of shock and pain his death was hastened.

Witt Sears was born in Alabama and lived there until he was seven years of age when he moved with his parents to Hood County, Texas where he resided continuously for 54 years. He was a successful ranch and stockman. In 1920 he moved with his family to Capitan where he has since made his home. During his residence in Capitan he had acquired many friends, who regret to lose his companionship.

Mr. Sears is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Emmett Baucher of Melrose; Mrs. Sallie Clark of Stephenville, Texas and Mrs. Covey of Carlsbad; Four sons, Messrs. Perry, Burl, John and Payne Sears, all of whom are well known in Lincoln county; three brothers, two in Texas and one in Oregon; and one sister who lives at Odessa, Texas.

Funeral services were conducted last Monday, at three o'clock, by the pastor of the Carlsbad church of Christ, followed by interment in Capitan.

The esteem in which he was held was shown by the many and beautiful floral offerings which covered the casket.

Landon Failed To Impress New Mexico

Socorro, N. M., Oct. 20 (AP).—Gov. Clyde Tingley said here Tuesday he doubted if New Mexico Republicans cared much for that patronizing speech. Alf M. Landon made before an Albuquerque audience Monday.

Referring to a portion of the Republican presidential candidate told his listeners, many of them Spanish-Americans, that "You are now citizens of the United States," Governor Tingley said:

"Governor Landon talked as though New Mexico had just been admitted to the Union. New Mexico was making history before Kansas started growing sufflowers."

Camp Capitan

Four months of intensive training in cooking, sewing, sanitation and various crafts are available to New Mexico girls at Camp Capitan, which reopens November 5.

Attendance at the camp is restricted to 100 girls between the ages of 18 and 25 from families certified for relief. All county NYA supervisors and county relief and security authorities can take applications for the camp now.

Camp Capitan is located in the Capitan mountains, 15 miles from Capitan, in an abandoned CCC camp. Three barracks remain for the girls' use, all in good condition and each in charge of a house mother.

Situated eight miles from Fort Stanton marine hospital, the girls are taken there for medical care when necessary. The hospital medical staff cooperates most generously.

In addition to lodging, food and laundry while attending camp, the girls are given a monthly allowance of $5.00 each.

Beside their regular classes they are allowed freedom to develop any craft which interests them. Tinwork, colcha embroidery, wool spinning, dyeing and weaving, making jackets and moccasins from sheep pelts are but a few of the vocational opportunities open to them.

All work in cooking and sewing is taught with the limited equipment to which they are accustomed, in order that they may learn the widest use of simple household articles.

Camp Capitan still has a few vacancies for which application may be made.

Frank Worden

As a Democrat, Hon. Frank Worden candidate for Land Commissioner knows the fight for range protection, improvements and all things vital. As commissioner of Public Lands his policy will be one of justice and co-operation. All will be protected through the state Land office. He will demonstrate that your vote if cast for him Nov. 3rd will not be a mistake.

Ex-President Hoover's radio address of a few night ago omitted reference to his famous "two cars in the garage," "two chickens in the pot," and "grass growing in the streets of American cities." He did, however, refer to Hoover and the wonders of his marvelous administration. It closed with the Hoover blessing bestowed upon Bro. Landon, God bless and praise all!

Perry Sears for Senator

Mr. Perry Sears, candidate for Senator from the 18th District is one of the most widely known men in the district, as during his chairmanship of the Democratic Central Committee in Lincoln county he has contacted people from all the adjoining counties, and from every county in the state. As a friend to workingmen he has devoted his time and his money to many things to promote their welfare.

As an ex-service man, Mr. Sears will encourage legislation for their protection, and promote to the best of his ability anything that will be of benefit to ex-service men.

He is an indefatigable worker, and as county chairman served in a creditable manner. When the Capitan Union high school board needed additional money for their magnificent school building, Mr. Sears took the matter up with Senators Hatch and Chavez and in three days' time the project had been approved and the money allotted, $2,900 for a gymnasium.

Lincoln County was allotted five boys as CCC enrollees. He succeeded in getting the number increased to twenty-five so that more parents could receive the financial assistance of their sons.

He was instrumental in getting the highway improved from Corona toward Lon, thus giving employment to many men. Through his instrumentality a promise was secured from the District engineer at Roswell to surface the road across the Mal Pais. No day has been too stormy for him to devote his time to the worthy cause of securing jobs for the men who needed them, and he was successful.

Mr. Sears and Mayor Richard are responsible for changing the highway, so as to eliminate "dead man's curve" near town. Mr. Sears was instrumental in the widening and changing of the highway at the double crossing and on to Lincoln.

He is efficient and honest in his dealings; is an ardent Democrat; stands high in party circles and as the party's nominee will surely be honored by election.

Appointments Approved

Washington, Oct. 20 (AP).—The Interstate Commerce Commission approved Tuesday the appointment of Charles R. Howe, Phoenix, Ariz.; Warren K. Brown, San Francisco, and Robert E. Valdez, Santa Fe, to a joint Motor Carrier Board for Arizona, California and New Mexico.

Adobe Item

Our Highway 380 out of Carrizozo to San Antonio, is under construction now. We are very glad to see the good work being done.

Mr. and Mrs. S. I. Pearson visited in the Porter home Monday night.

Mrs. Riggs Hanshore is sick with cold and flu.

Mrs. R. C. Withers and Mrs. Pat Withers spent Saturday with Mrs. Lois Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Griffin spent a few days in San Antonio and Victoria, Texas last week. They returned home Friday night. Mr. Griffin's brother accompanied them home. They reported real summer time in Texas. No frost yet.

Mr. Harold Dean was in Carrizozo Tuesday.

Mrs. M. C. Ratliff was in Adobe Monday.

Mrs. Pat Garrett

The funeral of Mrs. Pauline Garrett will be held in Las Cruces. Mrs. Garrett died from a heart attack last Wednesday. She was a Gutierrez before her marriage. At the Eastern New Mexico state fair recently, Mrs. Garrett was crowned queen of the Old Timers' parade. Besides her daughter, Miss Elizabeth Garrett, the blind composer, she is survived by another daughter and two sons.

How It Is Done

During his campaign for nomination, Judge Otero indulged in much talk about taking the court out of politics.

The public would welcome an indication that the judge intends to carry out some part at least of this laudable program.

From the Editorial Page of the Santa Fe New Mexican, May 16, 1931.

Mrs. Frank English assisted by Meses. Dan Elliott and Charlie Mayer invited members of the Eastern Star Lodge to a handkerchief shower for Mrs. Pearl Stearns who will leave shortly to spend the winter in El Paso. Twenty-five Stars were present and cake and coffee were served. Old times were discussed, and each one told reminiscences of 1907 and down to the present.

Last Thursday, Mrs. Carl E. Freeman, assisted by Mrs. Clyde Luckey of Nogal, entertained with a farewell party for Mrs. Pearl Stearns of Nogal who is going to El Paso for the winter. The time was spent in sewing. Thirty-five guests were present, and each one embroidered Mrs. Stearns' initials on the gifts they brought. Those present were people who had been closely associated with Mrs. Stearns for many years. Refreshments were pumpkin pie and coffee.

Democrats should not do or say anything that will tend to impair their effectiveness in this campaign. Be neighbors and friends. We need every voter's loyalty.

Newspapers Front Line Offensive

Detroit — Chevrolet's achievement of all-time sales records in 1936, under a policy which made newspapers the front line of the company's advertising offensive, has dictated continuance of that policy in 1937, and especially in the announcement of the forthcoming new models. This statement by C. P. Fiskien, advertising manager, was a feature of an all-day party which Chevrolet held for 300 newspapermen this week.

"The 1937 models are the finest Chevrolet has ever built," said Mr. Fiskien. "And the advertising behind them measures up to the product itself. Last year and for several years back, we have relied primarily upon newspaper space to get our message across to the public. In light of the amazing sales achievements of 1936, it is hardly necessary to justify to you our intention of adhering to that policy this year. The newspaper will be the foundation of our advertising effort."

Creditable Job

Constructed with the assistance of the Public Works Administration, the school building at Capitan is a very creditable job, and one of which the people of Capitan and Lincoln County may well be proud.

More than just a physical improvement, it is an investment in education that will pay big returns in future citizenship. The school is only one of about three hundred throughout the state that have been built through the help of the PWA and WPA.

Through WPA, Gov. Clyde Tingley initiated a program of rural school construction and improvements that extended into every district in the state. It is a distinct contribution to the educational system of New Mexico. The interest the Governor has taken in seeing that these projects are undertaken has made it possible in many communities for the children to have a decent class room for the first time.

Mr. John Brady was here yesterday from his Hondo home.

Those interested in the purchase of Real Silk hosiery are invited to call at the home of Mrs. Frank Bishop between now and Nov. 4th. Edith Martin, Agent.

The Democratic Rally held in Capitan Wednesday night by Senator Hatch and party was one of the biggest ever held in the town. An enthusiastic crowd of about 500 were in attendance, many of whom stayed for the dance which followed.

Mr. J. H. Schrum of San Angelo, Texas is one of our new subscribers.

About Pardons

When the Governor of a great state for good, legitimate and humanitarian reasons issues a pardon to some deserving party who has gotten into the toils of the law, why should he be compelled to defend the action? In every case of which we have any knowledge, petitions were signed by hundreds of citizens who not only approved the pardon, but requested it. As Governor his position should be respected. Why try to back him up against a wall by persecuting him for anything so merciful?

Mr. Reil is installing a new heating plant at the Garrard hotel, which is quite an improvement. The hot air plant is at the rear of the building, while the main pipes go through the halls, up stairs and down, with registers entering every room. Pipes are suspended from the ceiling.

Mr. Floy Skinner of Nogal had the misfortune to lose his barn and the contents by fire last Monday afternoon. He did not know how the fire originated. Hay, grain and tools were lost.

Mr. Roy Skinner has gone to the Southern Pacific hospital in San Francisco for treatment.

Carol Cecil Hines of Tucumcari was a visitor here this week. Mr. Hines and Gene came up from El Paso for the week-end.

Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Freeman entertained last Friday evening at a dinner party honoring Mrs. Pearl Stearns of Nogal.

Rev. J. A. Bell left for Clovis last Tuesday to attend the annual Conference of the Methodist church which convened there this week.

Mrs. Ola C. Jones left last Saturday for Santa Fe to give attention to her duties as Democratic vice-chairwoman of the state.

Miss Kathryn Kelt came home from Santa Fe Saturday to spend a few days.

There seems to be plenty of work for everyone, with street improvements, new highways, bridge repairs, school improvements, we are fairly prosperous, and no doubt the Roosevelt and Tingley administrations are responsible for both.

The Music Drama Study Club met at the home of Mrs. Ray Sales and Miss Graco Jones Oct. 8th. A very nice program was enjoyed. The next meeting will be held November 12th at the home of Mrs. Ziegler. Mrs. Degitz and Miss Shaver will have the program in charge. Individual numbers to be given.

Carrizozo was defeated once more by Capitan by a score of 12 to 0.

Open Air Meeting

At Carrizozo Eating House

Sunday October 25, 1936 at One O'clock P. M.

Prominent leaders of the National Organization of the Salvation Army and Baron Auriemma will be with the party

This is a good will tour, not a financial appeal.

The people of Carrizozo and vicinity are cordially invited to meet these people and give them a welcome reception.

Should the weather be bad meeting will be held at Community Hall.

Senator Borah Maintains Independent Attitude

SENATOR WILLIAM E. BORAH of Idaho, whose attitude in the Presidential campaign is a matter of great interest to all parties, has declared he would confine his attention to state matters; but then, being irked by some criticism from Republicans he went further and said he was "going after the Republican party." The veteran said he had been accused of not being regular.

Senator Borah

"Well, what is a regular?" he asked. "A regular is a man with no ideas, who waits for someone to tell him what to do. My idea of being regular is in doing what you believe to be right in the interests of the people you represent."

"Let this be understood—I'm telling all parties, Republican, Democratic, Union—I'm going to advocate the things I believe in whether they cross party lines or not."

Pessimism Prevails at Last League Session

PESSIMISM and discontent marked the final session of the League of Nations assembly, the leaders admitting that little had been accomplished. Carlos Saavedra Lamas of Argentina, president of the assembly, even asked if he might not raise the question whether "civilization is on the verge of a final breakup."

The question of reforming the league covenant provoked a bitter controversy on whether nonmember states should be consulted. Russia was understood to be anxious particularly to bar German influence and achieved a minor triumph since no definite action to solicit nonmember co-operation was taken. A committee of twenty-eight was named to study reform proposals.

The assembly approved reports of its economic and disarmament committees. The economic report carried a British proposal to create a commission to study accessibility of raw materials. The United States and other nonmembers would be invited to participate. The report of the disarmament committee approved the reconvening of the world disarmament conference at an early date.

Disorders in Palestine Are Dropped by the Arabs

ARABS of Palestine, who had been on "strike" for 175 days in protest against unrestricted immigration of Jews, were persuaded by the British to call off the strike, which had been accompanied by great disorders and the killing of several hundred persons. The Arab high committee issued an appeal to Arabs throughout the country to return to work quietly, and this command was obeyed generally. Sir Arthur Waughope, British high commissioner, was said to have informed the British government that it was now safe for the royal commission of investigation to begin its work of inquiring into the grievances of the Arabs.

According to a Hebrew newspaper of Jerusalem, the Arabs have arranged for backing by Italian Fascists for their aspirations. Also, the Moslem authority administering Islamic church property is reported to be prepared to sell Catholics a Christian holy place on Mount Zion.

Austria Private Armies Forced to Dissolve

KURT SCHUSCHNIGG, chancellor of Austria, is taking his place among the European dictators. In order to consolidate military power in his own hands, he decreed the dissolution of all private armies, this being aimed especially at the Fascist Heimwehr headed by Prince Ernst von Starhemberg. The prince directed his followers to obey the edict, and Major Fey, Starhemberg's rival for control of the Heimwehr, called on the elements recognizing his leadership to preserve order.

The chancellor's order also affected his own Catholic storm troops. All the private troops were ordered consolidated with the Austrian state militia. This would increase Austria's official armed forces to about 153,000 men. The dissolution decree met strong opposition within the cabinet, and was voted after three minutes had walked out.

Schuschnigg's task now is to actually disarm the private armies. If he succeeds in doing this, his complete control over Austria may be conceded. It is recalled that the Heimwehr was ordered to disarm in 1931, that the government seized many weapons, and that a year later some 40,000 Heimwehr men appeared fully armed and uniformed. Von Starhemberg may not be really squelched this time, either. It is a certainty that he has a powerful friend in Premier Mussolini of Italy.

Typhoon in Philippines Kills Many Persons

ONE of the worst typhoons in the history of the Philippines swept across Luzon island, killing scores of persons and destroying villages. At least 310 perished and the authorities feared the death list would be much larger for four hundred were reported missing. Eighty-two bodies were recovered from the city of Cabanatuan alone.

Waterway Money Allotted for Atlantic Coast

MEMBERS of the Atlantic Deep-sea Waterways association, assembling in Trenton, N. J., for an annual convention, were informed by President Roosevelt that funds totaling $24,000,000 have been allotted for waterway improvements along the Atlantic coast during 1937. In a letter to President J. Hampton Moore of the association, to be read to the convention, Mr. Roosevelt also said:

"This year has been noteworthy in witnessing the completion of the 1,435 mile inside route of the intra-coastal waterway from Trenton to Miami. Much credit for this accomplishment belongs to your association and it is to be congratulated therefor. Other waterway projects of permanent value to the nation sponsored by your organization have been completed or are progressing in a satisfactory manner."

John L. Lewis States Labor Peace Terms

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the A. F. of L., who had just been calling on President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., told the newspapermen that the prospects for peace between the warring factions in the federation were better and that those participating in the controversy were becoming "more temperate." However, that same evening John L. Lewis, the dynamic leader of the Committee for Industrial Organization, rather dashed the "rosier" prospects for peace. In Washington he laid down, as the only basis for restoration of peace in the ranks of organized labor, a program consisting of these two propositions:

1. Revocation by the executive council of the American Federation of Labor of the order suspending ten C. I. O. unions on charges of insurrection.

2. Isolation of certain mass production industries which would be organized strictly on Lewis' "one big union" theory.

It had been stated that David Dubinsky, head of one of the suspended unions, had submitted a compromise peace proposal, but Lewis told the correspondents that he knew of no change in feeling between the battling factions; that he had made no move for peace and contemplated none; that the C. I. O. drive to unionize the steel industry was "proceeding satisfactorily" and that the Dubinsky proposal was similar to the one previously offered to and rejected by the A. F. of L. council.

Russia Angriily Warns Fascist Nations

HELP given the Spanish insurgents by Fascist countries enraged soviet Russia that she gave notice that, unless it ceased she would free herself from any obligations to the agreement of neutrality. The representatives of the 27 nations on the international committee of non-intervention in the Spanish war were about to meet in London, and Moscow's challenge caused a real sensation. Molotov, Kagan, soviet delegate on the committee, specifically named Portugal, Italy and Germany as the offenders and called for an investigation. It is believed that if Russia is not satisfied in this matter she will send airplanes and other war material to the Spanish government.

The committee refused to take any action on the Russian complaint, avowing that the charges were not specific enough.

Spanish Fascists pushed their lines so closely around Madrid that they called on the government to surrender the capital immediately and thus save it from a destructive bombardment. An airplane fleet bombarded the city with circulars telling the citizens that further resistance was useless. One of the most threatening of General Franco's advances was directed at Aranjuez, whose capture would cut off Madrid's food supply from the Mediterranean.

Swanson's Hint to Japan About Fortifications

AS THE time for the expiration of the Washington naval treaty draws nearer, the utterances of Secretary of the Navy Swanson take on more and more the nature of sharp warnings to Japan not to get too gay in the Pacific. In a press conference the other day he said: "Fortifications are intended to answer fortifications. One menace must be met by another menace." And he gave notice that the navy should be ready to do the necessary meeting.

About the same time the State department was studying a proposition, made to it and to Japan by Great Britain, for an extension of the treaty pledge of the three nations not to build new fortifications or naval bases in certain of their Pacific possessions.

Winant Shows Well in Franking Abuse Attack

ATTACKING abuse of the franking privilege, which has been practiced by followers of any and all parties when they got the chance, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan proposes that congress pass legislation that will put a stop to this evil, "for the sake upon the one hand of the postal revenue and for the sake, on the other, of political fair play."

When John G. J. G. Winant resigned from the social security board, his letter to the President was a strong pro-New Deal document. It was printed by the press bureau of the social security board and franked to a large mailing list, and Senator Vandenberg asked Mr. Winant whether he thought that was a legitimate use of the franking privilege. Mr. Winant replied promptly that, lest there be any question of the propriety of the matter, he had paid the mailing costs. This attitude was warmly commended by Senator Vandenberg, as it must be by all good citizens.

Finds Private Debt Load Is Not Excessive

BASING its conclusions on a study covering the period from 1900 to 1935, the National Industrial Conference board finds that there is no evidence to support the theory that the burden of private debt upon business is excessive. Statements that private debt is "absorbing wealth" or is showing a changed and unfavorable relationship to wealth, or that the depression was precipitated by an excessive debt burden are without factual basis, the board reported.

Interest charges have not outrun the capacity to pay them, according to the board's study, which showed that the rates of growth of private long-term debt and of interest charges from 1900 to 1935 were similar to those of national wealth and national income.

Since 1930 private long term debt has tended to decline. Only the public utilities have increased the amount of their outstanding debt. But the board points out that no debt problem exists in the public utility field as a whole and that expansion of the electric light and power utilities has been on a sound basis, with the industry in a safe position to meet interest charges.

The steam railroads, taken as a whole, are neither overcapitalized nor overburdened with debt, the board concludes.

Court Opens Way for Security Act Test

UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE C. B. KENNEMER of Montgomery, Ala., issued an order halting collection in Alabama of a one per cent payroll tax to finance the unemployment program. The result, it is expected, will be a clear cut test of the validity of the New Deal's social security act. Lawyers had no doubt the case would be carried to the United States Supreme court. The order was granted the Gulf State Steel corporation of Gadsden, Ala., on a plea that the unemployment insurance program, operated in co-operation with the federal government, violates both state and federal constitutions.

Karl Radek Is Latest Accused in Russia

ACCUSED of complicity in the plot against Dictator Stalin for which 16 prominent Russians were executed in August, Karl Radek, brilliant journalist, is under arrest and in danger of losing his life. He disappeared just after the executions of the others, but was caught a few days ago.

In his last article, published in the official newspaper Izvestia, Radek confessed his unfaithfulness to the Communist party, but defended himself with a vitriolic attack on Trotsky and claimed he had "expiated" his sins by flogging Trotsky's attempted sabotage of the Stalin regime.

Swedish Aviator Fails in Stockholm Flight

KURT BJORKVALL, Swedish aviator, made an attempt to fly alone from New York to Stockholm. Thirty-two hours after the start he was picked up from the ocean about one hundred miles off the coast of Ireland. Supposedly he had run short of fuel. The rescue was made by a French trawler.

Handknit Effect in Machine Knits

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

WHETHER you knit or whether knitting is not one of your accomplishments the fact remains that, to be "in style," you simply must have a goodly collection of smart knitted clothes in your autumn and winter wardrobe.

No wonder the love of knitted outfits grows upon us, for, put to the test there's nothing more practical for general wear, for travel, for sports, for week-end visits, no type of apparel that so retains a well-groomed, unwrinkled appearance under every circumstance as do the handsome high-styled knitted costumes that grow handier and smarter down to the last detail with every passing moment.

This season's knitted collections bear an especially encouraging message to non-knitters in that the machine knits now showing have taken on a patrician hand-knit look that might baffle even an expert at first glance. One of the outstanding numbers on the fall program is the tweed-knit suit that looks so convincingly hand-knit that unless you tell your friends they will never dream that it is machine done. Just to get an idea of one of these stunning tweedy knit suits we are calling your attention to the model to the left in the group illustrated. Here a multicolored tweed knit wool in handknit effect is trimly fashioned in a three-piece costume. The jacket has two set-in pockets edged in green to match the monotone self-striped blouse, and the leather belt and buttons are also in green. Can you imagine anything more fitting for a colorful autumn day?

The two frocks shown also typify the trend toward hand-knit effects as achieved in loom-knit fashions. The lady of fashion seated in wearing a two-piece frock in the new blue-spruce color, simulating in stitch and styling a classic hand-knit. The tuck-in scarf is velveteen in deep wine color, which goes to show how striking and out-of-the-ordinary are the new color combinations that are being played up so dramatically this season.

To the right in the picture, a high-necked sweater blouse in deep brown has an accompanying brown and white tweedy-knit skirt done in a cross-ribbed stitch.

One among many of the fascinating things in regard to knitted fashions is that they have taken on clover dressmaker details that measure up perfectly to topnotch styling. For instance, there are knit costume suits that have the latest in tunic or swagger coats that are so goodlooking that out comes your checkbook with orders to deliver without delay. On come of the dresses and suits there are bindings and accents of velvet, of suede, of grosgrain ribbon with unique fastenings, that include zippered novelties, huge metal clips and buttons galore.

Pleated skirt effects in knits are very attractive. In some instances the skirt is widened with godets. And have you heard about the new black sweater craze? As a college fashion the black sweater worn with a bright plaid skirt is scoring a big success although every fashionable alert woman is yielding to the urge of these sweaters.

The new knit fabrics are introducing such interesting themes as jacquard patternings that are knitted right into the fabric. These are perfectly stunning for the separate blouse or the swanky waistcoats that fashion is so conspicuously spotlighting this season.

KNITTED CULOTTE
 By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Trim and sportsmanlike knitted culottes are what this blond young lady selected for her morning bicycle spin through the parks. Her stylish and at the same time most practical outfit is in the popular dabbonnet color, its glorious autumn red tone adding greatly to its chic and charm. The shirtwaist blouse, so perfectly tailored, tucks neatly into the culotte skirt. More and more sportswomen are appreciating the worthwhileness of knitted apparel. It is so dependable, so satisfactory on every count, be it comfort, dependable wearableness or good style. It is easy to be understood why knitted apparel is so outstandingly in the foreground of fashion these days.

ACCESSORIES MAKE ONE CHIC OR DOWDY

It doesn't cost one bit more to select hosiery that matches one's shoes, or harmonizes with them, than it does to pick up shades haphazardly. When buying a hat, keep in mind the color of the coat and do the same with gloves, scarves and purses.

Dress accessories form the ensemble, and it is that which makes a woman chic or dowdy. Nowadays, one must keep in mind the complete picture. Make-up should also be considered. Rouge and lipstick that glorify one outfit will kill another. Half a dozen shades of lipstick are not too many for the girl with the average wardrobe, especially now that gay colors are fashionable.

Pressed Grape Tones Now in Use for Accessories

The "pressed grape" shades in gloves, shoes and purses are featured all along Fifth avenue—burgundy, raisin, claret, muscatel. . . One window is full of aubergine, the new eggplant shade, an ideal accent for black. . . aubergine, claret and muscatel shoes are being made. . . or you can choose malaga purple accessories, and wear them with black, fog blue, spruce green or brown. . .

The smartest outfit on the avenue was an Oxford gray tailored suit with a tiny black stripe, worn with a dull crepe man-tailored blouse of black, an antique silver and mother of pearl brooch at the collar, smart because the suit was perfectly tailored.

Fur-Trimmed Hats Seen in Late Paris Collections

Fur is used lavishly in the new collections in Paris. Many hats are either trimmed or made entirely of fur, and a black velvet suit trimmed with a luxurious silver fox collar is matched by a peaked velvet hat trimmed with the head of a silver fox. Bright shot-button eyes and pointed ears give the hat a very perky look.

A True Neighbor

OF ALL the best talents, that of belonging, of being a true member of the community, is the greatest, and for many in our large cities, the least expressed. To be a true neighbor, citizen, patriot—to take on the state, so that what it does you do; to have the state within you; so that all that wounds public life hurts you—is to recover the top root of existence, to lay hold of the most vital of all the strands of life.—Joseph Lee.

To accept good advice is but to increase one's own ability.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Get Creomulsion right now. (Adv.)

CONSTIPATION

Unrelenting Enemy of Health
 "How are your bowels?" The doctor asks this important question because a primary need of good health is for the bowels to regularly pass off the waste of metabolism. Every doctor knows you cannot be well, feel well or look well if you allow constipation to hinder daily evacuation and thus prevent body cleanliness. You should know it! Then why let a bad condition continue? Try Doan's Regulets. They are mild and effective; act as a digestive and hepatic stimulant, increase the flow of bile and relieve temporary congestion of the intestines. Be regular with Regulets. SYNOPSIS

Job Braddon, young and fantastically successful broker of Chicago, is infatuated with Agnes Gleneth, beautiful daughter of a retired manufacturer. Rodney, a doctor, in love with Agnes, visits her brother, Job. Rod plans work in Rochester. Job suggests that he make a try for Agnes before leaving. In Rod there is a deeper, obstinate decency than in Job. Rod visits Agnes and tells her of his great desire, but realizes it can never be fulfilled. Agnes' mother is attempting to regain her husband's love. Agnes has disturbing doubts as to what attracts her father in New York. Job tells Agnes he is going to marry her, and together they view an apartment in Chicago. Job asks Agnes to set an early date, but she tells him she cannot marry him. When the agent, Mr. Colver, offers to show them a furnished apartment, Job asks Agnes to see it alone, saying he must return to his office. Agnes consents and leaves. A radio is blaring terrifically from one of the apartments. Colver caps upon the door, which is opened by a scantily clad girl, who draws Agnes into the room. Colver snatches her husband, Charles Lorrin, faintly shot. He calls the police. Myrtle Lorrin asks Agnes to phone Cathal O'Mara, a lawyer, to come at once. Agnes does. The police take charge. O'Mara arrives. The officers are antagonistic to him. Agnes sides with O'Mara. Agnes is to be a witness at the coming trial. Cathal's grandfather and father had lost their lives in the line of duty as city firemen, and his grandmother, Winnie, has built her all around Cathal, who, being ambitious, had worked his way through law school. Thoughts of Agnes disturb Cathal. Mr. Lorrin had cast off the wife who had borne him his daughter to marry Myrtle, and after two years of wedded life she had killed him. The coroner's jury holds Myrtle to the grand jury. Agnes promises O'Mara to review the case with him. When Cathal calls Mrs. Gleneth asks questions regarding marital problems, to the hope that she might get a solution to her own problem. Cathal wins them over to Myrtle's cause. Job tells Agnes that O'Mara is seeking to profit on the insurance money Myrtle will collect if acquitted. Mrs. Gleneth's fits canceled checks made out to "Cash" by Bob, and realizes "Cash" is par value in New York. Bob admits "Cash" exists. They decide to leave things as they are.

"I had a letter this morning from Mrs. Lorrin."

"Oh!" So it was the case, of course; no more than that. "What did Mrs. Lorrin say to you?"

"She asked if I would come visit her."

"In the jail, she meant."

"Yes. Should I, Mr. O'Mara?"

He was slow to reply. Say yes, and he would see her. She would come to town by appointment with him, and he escort her to the jail; and then, Braddon not interfering, he'd see her to her train again. Fool—oh, fool! How his pulses were pressing him!

"You should not," he said, controlling himself. "Mrs. Lorrin had neither right nor need to ask it of you."

"You do not ask it, then?"

"I? No." And now, having downed one temptation, another which he had refused before, got the better of him "Miss Gleneth?"

"Yes."

He proceeded, recklessly. "That is, of course, your brother-in-law, Mr. Davis Agreforth, that makes the new firm with Collitt and Remble?"

"Yes," said Agnes. "Why?"

"Has he been long a friend of this Collitt?"

"What do you mean by that, Mr. O'Mara?"

"Has he? That's just what I mean, Miss Gleneth."

"I don't know."

"Then I'd ask him."

"I will," said Agnes; and she thanked him and hung up.

Very slowly he returned his receiver to its hook. Perspiration stood on him. Now why had he let himself do that? He knew very well.

Agnes arose, a bit breathless, and decided to go at once to her sister's.

She got out her roadster, and as she backed from the garage, Baskerville half blocked the driveway as he offered himself for company. To the great sound's lumbering delight, she leaped down, opened the rumble, and Baskerville clambered in, seating himself sedately upright. He was absurdly solemn and supercilious-looking when he was riding, holding his huge muzzie high in the air, and sniffing the rushing wind.

It was lunch-time for the children at Bee's, and Agnes knew that on such a fine, sunny day; Bee would have had a table set in the orangery which edged the circle of the driveway before the house. From far off Agnes spied the table and the little heads in the sun, and somebody serving; so she sounded her horn, and sped dashingly thrice about the loop of the drive to display Baskerville to the children before she halted, and the big hound, with the economy of motion by which he accomplished all things, alid to the gravel.

The Black Watch, meanwhile, had been doing its deafening best to tear the house down. The Black Watch was the closest and most completely temperative of eating companions—two Scotties, Biff and Bing, who tamkulously defied Baskerville when behind the pane of glass. Once they were let out, as now they were, they ran to the hound in utmost friendship. Baskerville never paid them the slightest attention.

The children were banging their spoons on the table with eyes only for Baskerville; they scarcely noticed Agnes when she kissed them. She kissed her sister, and took the chair placed at the table for her, and they both watched Baskerville and the boys.

The dog carefully established himself between them.

He was so huge that, when he sat on the floor, his tawny head was above the board and almost as high as Davy's dark little head on his right. Davy was in his high-chair with a tray before him and fastening him in; Bobby also was in the high-chair, but he sat proudly at the table. Neither boy feared in the least the great hound. They were delighted when he came to lunch; and they—and also Baskerville—knew the rules about him. When a boy finished a dish, he could give the last lick of his spoon to Baskerville.

Each boy got an extra arrowroot cracker for Baskerville to crunch; then Bobby and Davy gave him the last of their dessert.

"The Black Watch, noses in the sun, lay aside by side assuming slumberous indifference to this rank favoritism."

Agnes, oblivious of her errand, sat beside her sister and watched them all. She felt relaxed and grateful and very content; she had no desire to end this interlude. Bee had none. Here with her children, she was happy. Why did time have to run on? But after dessert, for little boys there must be naps.

Selma, their nurse, had taken them away. Side by side, with ears cooking at the slightest alarm, the Black Watch slept in the sun; and the great hound lay asleep, head on his forepaw. The luncheon table had been cleared away.

"Sometimes," said Bee from her wicker chaise-longue, "sometimes I think I—no—Davy and I—have done something." And she passed her hands down over her slim figure as though she could not always believe, herself, that she had borne two sons.

"I think you've done a bit!" Agnes cried. "Oh, Bee, they're what count!"

"I guess they do—a little," admitted Bee, and shook out a cigarette. "So I'm not sure I won't have another."

"You want a girl?" asked Agnes.

"I guess so," said Bee, after she had her light. "But I really don't care. I'll love the result; and I'm one of those women, I guess, that get a kick out of the bearing, too."

"You do it beautifully, certainly."

"You don't get me, Agnes. It's occupation, and—" She stopped. Then: "And the wife's anaesthetic against—"

"Against what, Bee?"

"See here," said Bee, sternly, and sitting up, "don't you ever find out!"

"Bee," said Agnes suddenly, "tell me about Mr. Collitt."

"What about him?"

"How much does Davis know concerning him?"

"Oh," comprehended Bee, relaxing, "probably nothing at all. He's gone into partnership with him; but as you know, Davis is a trusting soul as to people. I believe he trusts practically everybody—but God."

Agnes had to laugh. "How do you mean?"

"I mean it," assured Bee. "Regard the record. He's insured everybody and everything, everywhere, against fire, flood, storm, pestilence and disaster—all acts of God, but he'll take any mere mortal on faith. After he embraced the burning idea of giving up a startled position to go in with Collitt and Remble, he couldn't wait for Father to return from New York before he signed the preliminary agreement with them. They're going to make Davis several millions—which is certainly very nice of them, since up to now they've refrained from showing themselves with money. Of course, they've got Davis' capital now."

"Then you doubt them, Bee?"

"Not in the slightest. They'll take Davis for what he's put up; but we can stand it. I mean the family can. Father's rolling it up—lan't he? He'll give it to me, if I need it—as he would to you, Agnes. So what's the harm in letting Davis learn he's a financier? All that can happen he'll lose."

She Thanked Him and Hung Up.

"Yes," said Agnes; and she thought that was all that could happen.

"Davis is out, you see," added Bee, "to make a few millions for me—as though I hadn't any trouble that another baby or a million dollars couldn't cure."

With this, Bee dismissed the matter; so Agnes was not obliged to disclose the source of her concern over Collitt. But when she made inquiry of Job that evening, he extracted it from her.

"Collitt?" said Job. "He's been in Jams, I hear; but nothing that he did has ever come to court. He's a trader—one of the cleverest traders in town; and straight enough now."

"But what is against him?"

"Nothing I know, except that he hasn't always been—well—solid. But Davis is solid; he's that sort."

"Yes," said Agnes.

"So together, they ought to be all right. Then they'll be helped by the natural assumption that your father'd see Dave through—if he needed more capital. Also," continued Job after a moment, "it doesn't exactly hurt Collitt, Ayreforth and Remble that everybody knows we're marrying, and so I'd see him through, if it came to a pinch."

"Job, we're not marrying."

"You just think so! . . . Glen! Oh, God, Glen, you drive me crazy! . . . Kiss me!"

"No! As if you meant it! And mean it! . . . Oh, damn us, Glen, what's the matter? What got you bothered about Collitt today?"

Agnes told him it was O'Mara, and Job held her tighter.

"Was he here again?"

"No. It was over the phone."

"What was he calling you about?"

"He didn't call me, Job; I called him." And she told him about Myrtle's letter. "So I called Mr. O'Mara to find out if I should go to the jail to see her."

"What did he tell you?"

"That I shouldn't."

"That's right, but why didn't you call me? I'd have told you. . . . What else did that shyster say to you?"

"He mentioned Mr. Collitt, and asked how well Davis had known him."

"Tell that Irishman to mind his own business. I'll watch Davis' partners for you. They're backing now; they'll be all right. . . . Glen, why do you let O'Mara play you?"

"Play me?"

"For a mark. Do you mean to be her—and his—witness at the trial? You've got to realize what you're doing. Her trial isn't going to turn on her; it's going to turn on you. He knows it. You're just God's gift to the defense attorney, if you let him make a mark of you. They're playing you for quite a stake, between them. They're not only after you to get her off, but also they're after a hundred-and-fifty thousand dollars in life-insurance alone which the companies will have to pay her, if she's acquitted. Half of that goes to him, you may be sure. Remember that, when he talks to you. For God's sake, Glen, come to!"

Agnes lay awake long that night, with one wonder, one bother, one doubt and perplexity following another through her thoughts and feelings. She had never felt so confused.

What did love—or desire, if you call it that—do to you in these days?

For a while, it might make you happy, as it had made Mother and Father happy together for many years, and as it had made Bee happy for a while, at least, before she found out that she was—what? Bored? Was it mere boredom that Bee would escape, for a while longer, by having another baby? Was it that which neither the baby nor a million dollars could cure?

After you married, and no matter whom you married, you went on living; you and your husband, both of you. You did not cease to be human beings; you became more human, having babies. Love, whatever that might be, could not possibly be a panacea against all ills and troubles.

Yet you wanted to believe it to be. Job did not even pretend that he thought it was. Job was utterly honest and practical, for all his impetuous and violent feelings. He offered you to marriage all the excitement and sensation that a man and a girl could give each other. With him, you'd tip up the cup and empty it to the last drop. You'd have a lot of love with him. He'd hold you against all the world, his strong arms about you. You liked his strength; you liked more. . . . But it would not endure. He did not even try to tell you it surely would endure. For he didn't believe in love everlasting—"tepid, tasteless stuff you can bear to sip and never need to gulp."

Agnes began to be sleepy. . . .

"Turn, thou, and look to me: Seven-long years I've followed thee, Over the fiery mountains."

Who followed whom? And why? What was that? It was the Princess who followed over the fiery mountains; and for love of him, she followed, though he, had been bewitched and never once looked back at her.

Agnes didn't believe that O'Mara was playing her just for a "mark" to make for himself money. She did not want to believe it.

What I Win S. Cobb Thinks about Salad Mixers de Luxe.

LANSING, MICH. — About once in so often you meet the man—it's always a man—who knows how to make the perfect salad dressing, and on the slightest provocation does so. The trouble with this party is when you get him off salad dressings he's practically a total loss.

Nevertheless, a decent salad dressing—and a decent salad—are boons to humanity.

The right commingling of astringent, bitterish green things with a smooth, bland dressing—there you have something. But often we are confronted by a monstrosity featuring whipped cream, nut kernels, sweet cheese, preserved fruit, even marshmallows or pickled ginger.

Such an atrocity is never a salad. Put a crust on it and it might pass for pie, but would be very low-grade pie.

Irvin S. Cobb

Concerning Mr. Earl Browder. HAVING been discouraged by a perhaps overzealous police force from speaking in Indiana, Earl Browder, one of the almost countless candidates for President, now threatens suits for false arrest.

As Al Smith says, let's look at the facts. Mr. Browder stands for communism—stands for all communism stands for. Therefore he must look on the Russian government as the one ideal government, it being the very flower and perfection of applied communism.

Now, in Russia any man publicly advocating going away with the existing national system and substituting some other system therefore would find himself in jail—or even in a worse fix—before he could say Jackovitz Robertsonoffski.

So what I say is that Mr. Browder shouldn't crave to sue anybody. If he believes in the practice of what he preaches, which, of course, he does, he ought to go around kissing everybody on both cheeks.

Cruelty to Animals. LATELY a dog was taken before a judge for biting a boy. And another judge was appealed to, that he save an elephant condemned to die. So some one proves that, through many centuries, animals were accused of high crimes—dogs, rats, pigs, oxen, roosters, storks, also ants, spiders, snakes, grasshoppers, dolphins, locusts, gadflies, eels, and, being convicted, were burned, flayed, hanged, destroyed by slow torture.

But think of the charges on which the so-called brutes might condemn mankind—offenses of which they rarely or never have been guilty—malice; slaughter of weaker things for love of slaughter; deliberate wastefulness of natural resources; wanton destruction of natural beauties; wars without rational cause; unnecessary greed; bearing false witness; neglect of our own young; drunkenness; slothfulness; bigotry; intolerance.

Newspapers Vs. Spellbinders. IN MY reportorial youth nearly every newspaper, big or little, was bitterly partisan. We distorted facts and editorialized in news stories when dealing with the accused opposition. Otherwise we'd have been traitors to a sacred cause.

These times the average paper, big or little, prints honest accounts concerning both sides—their relative chances as revealed by polls, their waning or gaining hopes. The political views of a columnist or a special contributor may differ from the publisher's policy—still he gives them space.

But the spellbinders go right on spouting fiction which everybody knows is fiction. And the volunteer debaters clamor with prejudice and misinformation for their ammunition.

By the way, will all those who ever heard of anybody being converted by one of these barber-shop arguments kindly raise their right hands?

Currency Juggling. BEING frightfully smart to begin with, I know as much regarding currency juggling as the next fellow—which is precisely nothing at all. Up to, say, $18.75, most of us know what money is—or used to be. But when they talk in terms of billions or trillions or jillions, they've got us going down for the third time with a low gurgling cry.

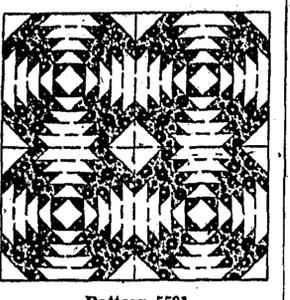

And the more a financial technician, with both his pants pockets full of figures, tries to explain these governmental manipulations, the more convinced I am that, like the average specialist, he has concentrated on being expertly ignorant upon one involved subject rather than remaining, as most of us do, broadly and comprehensively ignorant upon practically all subjects.

Democratic News Items

"More Fumbling with Recovery." Not a single National bank failure anywhere in the United States. Financial experts say this is the first time since 1881 that such a remarkable thing has occurred. The Bank Deposit Insurance act, which Gov. Landon so much opposes and that his bankers still fight had much to do with the stability of our banking system, and we may add that was enacted under Roosevelt's Administration.

Governor Landon certainly is a promising candidate. He promises a continuation of relief and a reduction of taxes. (Maybe he will cut school teachers' salaries again.) He promises gold in the east, silver in the west, and he promises to repeal taxes one place and, promises to spend more at another place.

Has anyone noticed any associated press dispatches in the daily papers from the Lincoln County Democratic Convention? We searched the papers diligently, but saw none.

Our social and economic problems are forever changing. The men of yesterday handled their problems; and the men of today must handle theirs. Never in the history of the world have times so changed, and the face of the whole situation become so totally different, as in the last ten years! And never before have men and women who have kept abreast of the times been so needed. The Democratic ticket this time is a ticket for just such men and women.

Lincoln County must stay in the Democratic column this year. There are many reasons why the Democratic party should be victorious in this campaign. A vote for the entire ticket from President on down will be the best and safest way. It is unthinkable that any voter should lay down on the job in Lincoln County when the present program for improvement is going forward apace.

All we can say is it takes a big man and a bold one to attack an able, enterprising and highly respected Governor like Mr. Tingley and no doubt his friends will resent the attacks and on election day he will receive a majority of an landslide proportions.

China and Porcelain

Not much china was imported into England until about 1650, when it began to be brought in by the East Indian Trading Company. Porcelain was not made in England until almost the middle of the Eighteenth century. Earthenware was manufactured earlier than the Eighteenth century. Pottery was at work at Staffordshire in the Seventeenth century.

HOW

CONGRESS MANUFACTURES LAWS FOR THIS NATION.—Just how are our national laws made? That is a question every American should be vitally interested in and should be able to answer in order to vote more intelligently. Although few people know just what steps are necessary to get the "wishes" of the people written into bills and what winding trails these bills follow through congress before they are enacted into the law of the land, congressional doings are being followed during the present administration with more than usual interest by the nation as a whole. In order that its readers may follow the proceedings of the greatest legislative body in the world with still more interest the Pathfinder tells how the wheels of this legislative mill grind.

The law-making power of the government is vested, by the Constitution, in congress. Congress consists of two branches—the senate and the house of representatives. The senate is composed of 96 members, two from each state regardless of population. Membership in the house is apportioned on the basis of population, no state having less than one representative. The total membership of the house is now 435, and the presiding officer is the speaker. Senators are elected for terms of six years and representatives for two years.—Pathfinder Magazine.

NEW YORK ADOPTS "WELFARE OF MAN" AS THEME OF FAIR

$125,000,000 Exposition to Depict Building the World of Tomorrow

New York.—The New York World's Fair of 1939, which, according to Grover Whalen, President of the Fair, will be a $125,000,000 show, will have a theme—"Building the World of Tomorrow."

This was announced for the first time by Mr. Whalen, following the adoption of the theme and the design by the Board of Directors.

"The Theme," said Mr. Whalen, "encompasses the well-being of man, the betterment of life. It will be carried out in our exhibit zones, in our amusements, and in a beautiful Theme Tower. We will display to the visitors all the goods, all the materials, all the resources and powers man has amassed, to the end that by studying them, one may learn how to plan and to attain a more admirable future."

The design, a simple and practical one that is motivated by consideration for the hundreds of thousands of people expected every day. These zones will display exhibits of clothing, shelter, the arts, the basic industries, health, sustenance, recreation, government and social services. Each exhibit will be allocated to its proper zone. There will be no haphazard or scattered display. For the first time, visitors need not walk all over a fair grounds to see what they want to see, and only what they want to see.

Focal Exhibits

In each zone there will be a focal exhibit to explain, in dramatic fashion, the nature of the sector, its history, and its potential future.

The zones will be laid out around the "Theme Tower," in the heart of the main section, a 250 foot structure that will dominate the park. In this tower will be a panorama to show what strides America has made in the 150 years that have passed since George Washington strode into New York's old Federal Hall and took the oath of office as our first president.

The opening of the Fair, April 30, 1939, commemorates the 150th anniversary of that day.

This panorama will also show the interdependence of the 48 states born of the 13 original Colonies, and the interrelation of the big cities and the country districts of the United States.

The site of the Fair, Flushing Meadow Park, will be a permanent park after the Fair is done. It comprises 1210 acres—twice the space ever before given over to a fair.

The work of converting the site into a Fair Grounds and a park requires engineering and artistic skill of the highest, the employment of hundreds of men, and the expenditure of millions of dollars.

Great mounds of debris must be shifted. Great depressions must be filled in. A river must be canalized and its tidal inlet dammed. Two great swamps must be dredged and made into beautiful lakes. Six thousand trees or more must be planted, tens of thousands of shrubs, millions of flowers. Roads must be built—and bridges must be built to span them. Sewers must be installed.

Cost to Run $125,000,000

The Fair officials estimate that $125,000,000 will have been spent before the first visitor is admitted to the grounds. The city and the state of New York and the Federal Government are spending millions, and the buildings they erect will be permanent. The Fair Corporation will spend $30,000,000. Exhibitors, concessionaires, commercial groups, and other governmental agencies will spend at least $50,000,000. The city, state and Federal governments will expend about $35,000,000 for buildings, exhibits and collateral improvements.

Mr. Whalen believes that at least 50,000,000 people will visit the Fair in 1939, and arrangements are being made to handle them all in comfort. Eight hundred thousand people can be well cared for on any one day.

Three subway lines, the Long Island Railroad, buses and autos will be able to bring 100,000 people to the Fair Grounds every hour when arrangements are completed; though, in order to do this, it will be necessary to extend one subway system a distance of two miles.

Roads are being built, extended, or widened, for the streams of cars that will pour into the park from the Triborough and Queensborough bridges. There will be a huge bus terminal, parking spaces for 30,000 autos and facilities for trailers.

A boat basin is being prepared in Flushing Bay; and plans are under way to dredge a channel in the harbor for the use of deep-draft ships that will bring Fair visitors from all parts of the world. There is also some discussion as to the advisability of developing an airport for those coming to the Fair by plane.

Comfort the Keynote

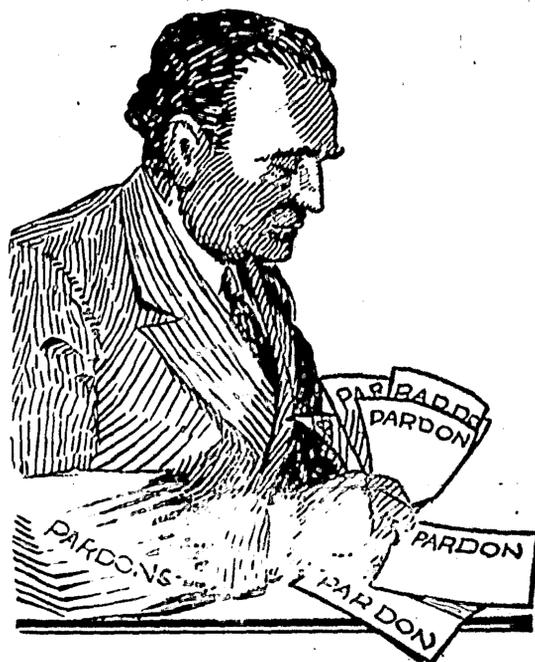

There will be buses inside the Fair Grounds as well as outside so that those who do not wish to walk may have cheap transportation to any part of the grounds they desire to visit. There will be thousands of tree-shaded benches for those who are weary. There will be restaurants and amusements of various kinds all over the 1210 acres. Beside this there will be a mile-long stretch of amusements east of the main lagoon—amusements that will not imitate Coney Island or Broadway.

An amphitheatre for opera, plays of all kinds, and other forms of entertainment will be built on the shore of the big lagoon. And there will be water sports on the lagoons.

A children's village, a "Hall of Nations"—see the Fair will be international in flavor, and most every government in the world will be represented—and other buildings, have been submitted to the Board of Design. But as yet the style of architecture to be employed has not been decided. A competition open to all the young architects of Greater New York may establish the style. It is the opinion of the board that most of the structures will be of only one story, and will depend upon beauty and originality instead of height.

"We Have the Criminals on the Run"
(Out of the Penitentiary)

BY HON. CLYDE TINGLEY
GOVERNOR OF NEW MEXICO
(With apologies to "The Master Detective"—May, 1936.)

GOVERNOR Tingley, as a contributor to detective fiction, had an article in the May, 1936, issue of "The Master Detective," on pages 5 and 62. In it he told the Department of Justice and the G-men how to abolish crime. He said he had proved his system in New Mexico. He indicated that things in the criminal line were awful when he took over the job, but that he set right out to abolish crime in our fair state and did it "in a period of six months."

Space forbids reproduction of the entire article, which is too bad, as it is a gem of crime running fiction. There are certain paragraphs, however, which the voters are entitled to read. Here they are:

"I have made it my policy to give our state police my undivided support, and I shall do this as long as I am in the Governor's chair. To back them up I have let it be known further THAT CRIMINALS WILL BE PROMPTLY AND STERNLY PUNISHED, AND THAT THERE WILL BE NO HOPE FOR THEM OF CLEMENCY IN THE SHAPE OF PARDONS OR COMMUTATIONS FROM THE GOVERNOR'S OFFICE.

"I FEEL THAT IT IS MY SWORN DUTY TO MAKE SURE THAT A LAW BREAKER SENTENCED TO PRISON SERVES HIS FULL SENTENCE. Although I would not hesitate to rectify an obvious miscarriage of justice which resulted in the incarceration of an innocent man, on the other hand THOSE INDIVIDUALS CONVICTED IN OUR COURTS WHO WILL RECEIVE CLEMENCY FROM THE GOVERNOR WILL BE FEW AND THEY WILL HAVE TO DESERVE IT."

ANOTHER ONE
--And Why?

On Monday, October 12, Hyman Roy of Albuquerque, who had been sentenced to be electrocuted on October 16th, for murder, was given a reprieve of two months, or until December 16th . . . OR UNTIL AFTER THE ELECTION.

Announcement of the reprieve was made Monday at the office of the Governor.

Roy shot to death two persons, one a woman, at a filling station in Albuquerque. The crime was a particularly brutal one. Roy's defense was insanity due to intoxication.

He was originally sentenced to death October 23, 1934. The case was carried to the supreme court where conviction was confirmed and the execution date set for October 16th.

For some weeks past it has been currently reported that certain Albuquerque negroes had interceded for Roy with Tingley and that they had promised to "deliver the city's negro vote" in exchange for a commutation. It has been known for some days past that Tingley would issue the reprieve on October 12th.

It is not asserted that Governor Tingley made such a "trade." It is merely asserted that current report has it that such a "trade" was tendered him. No doubt the Governor felt this to be one of those cases where "an obvious miscarriage of justice" needed to be rectified; although the supreme court seemed to feel otherwise.

The facts are as stated. Draw your own conclusions.

ACCORDING to the records of the Secretary of State, confirmed by the prison records, Governor Tingley, up to September 22, 1936, within a period of 21 months, had issued 90 PARDONS AND 125 COMMUTATIONS OF SENTENCES OF DEFENDANTS SENTENCED TO THE NEW MEXICO PENITENTIARY BY THE STATE COURTS.

OF THE 125 PERSONS WHO HAVE RECEIVED COMMUTATIONS 107 HAVE BEEN RELEASED.

TINGLEY ALSO HAS ISSUED 21 PARDONS IN MISDEMEANOR CASES, ONE COMMUTATION OF A JAIL SENTENCE AND ONE PAROLE TO A JAIL PRISONER.

The names of the 236 persons who have received the executive clemency are withheld for the obvious reason that some of them might be damaged. The only guilt involved in the Tingley Pardon record is the public scandal of its occurrence.

Either a scandalous condition exists in our New Mexico courts which sentenced these persons, or a scandalous condition exists in the executive office, because the number of pardons issued by Tingley establishes an all-time high record for a similar period.

Confirmation of the list of the Tingley pardons and commutations can be had at the office of the Secretary of State, at the State Penitentiary, or at Republican state headquarters in Santa Fe where a complete record of each case, with names, is on file.

IS THAT CHASING CRIMINALS OUT OF NEW MEXICO AND KEEPING THEM ON THE RUN? . . . OR IS IT TURNING LOOSE LARGE NUMBERS OF CRIMINALS TO PREY UPON THE COMMUNITY?

What price was paid for this vastdroveof liberations? It cannot be that our courts and juries were wrong in 236 cases!

Yet our Governor assured his readers in the article in the Master Detective that he would only issue pardons and commutations in cases of "obvious miscarriage of justice"!

Keeping Up With Science By Science Service

"Midget Plane" for Average Man May Soon Be Realized

Bureau of Air Commerce Approves Four Models

Washington.—Planes for the average man that will have the maximum of safety and performance and yet stay within the bounds of reason as to cost have now been approved by the bureau of air commerce at the end of its two years' development work.

Four airplanes are now on the approved list of the BAC in its program of seeking a plane which would do for aviation what the old model T Ford did for motoring.

Strangest looking of all approved types is the Waterman tailless airplane, still in the development stage, which is a distinct departure from conventional types.

Its major advantage is simplicity of construction—a highly desirable factor—since ultimate low cost can only be achieved by mass production. Construction simplicity and mass production go hand in hand.

Types Approved.

First approved plane was the Hammond, which, like the Waterman, is of the pusher type, with its motor in the rear and having excellent pilot visibility. The landing gear is of the newer type, with a wheel in the nose and the other two just behind the center of gravity of the plane. The hazard of ground looping is practically eliminated in a landing gear of this type.

"Guinea pig" of the development was the third plane—the Weick W-1—which was produced at the great laboratories of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Langley Field, Va., under the direction of Mr. Fred Weick of the engineering staff. It is a personal project of Mr. Weick, and was begun before the bureau of air commerce program was inaugurated. This was the first plane using the nose landing wheel and rudderless control.

All-Metal Plane.

Fourth plane accepted by the bureau of air commerce is the Curtiss-Wright coupe, which, of all the planes, is the only one which follows what are usually considered conventional lines. It has all-metal construction previously found only in the larger transport planes and was purchased by the BAC for studies on the benefits of all-metal types for the private flyer.

Other planes will be purchased and delivered to the bureau of air commerce.

Lights on Street Delay Falling of Autumn Leaves

New York.—If you have a street light and a shade tree close together, in front of your house, watch the leaves on the branches nearest the lamp, when the tree begins to lose its foliage this fall.

The chances are that the branches getting the most light will keep their leaves longest.

Observations on the behavior of night-lighted street trees have been made here by Dr. Edwin B. Matzke of Columbia university.

He reports the retention of leaves by the most strongly illuminated branches, considerably past the date of leaf-fall from the rest of the tree.

How Light Affects Leaves.

His studies were made on Carolina poplar, two species of sycamore, and the crack willow—all trees able to survive the somewhat unfavorable conditions of New York city streets.

The poplar eventually lost all of its leaves in the normal way, but the leaves of the two sycamore species clung fast to the tree until they were frozen to death.

Evidence for Gothic Migration Is Found

Vienna.—A weapon depot of the Goths has been discovered on the Danube river near here which is one of the first tangible traces of the famous Gothic migration through Europe which, hitherto, has been known mainly from historical writings.

Particular interest is due to a two-edged iron sword about three feet in length, with amber pommel, the wooden handle covered with silver leaf and the sheath adorned with a transversally grooved silver band.

Army of Criminals Is Greatest Menace Facing America

Nation Is Most Lawless in Entire World

AGAINST what enemy will Uncle Sam wage his next war? The nation's chief danger, according to Sociologist Rowland C. Sheldon, is not from Red Russia or Nazi Germany, or Oriental Japan. It is from the army of criminals now walking armed through the streets of American cities and rural communities.

The National Crime Prevention institute, of which Mr. Sheldon (already identified with the Big Brother movement) is executive director, is now mobilizing the forces of public spirited men against this domestic "menace."

Anti-Crime Crusade.

"Since a military leader must deal with raw recruits first in marshalling his force, so is the National Crime Prevention institute setting out to establish the principles of obedience to law practically with the baby in its crib, the child in kindergarten, in schools, on into adolescent and adult life."

Crime may be looked upon as a social disease with a terrible toll of waste of human life and hopes. As such, it should be attacked by the methods of preventive medicine, just as the forces of the U. S. Public Health service and local health boards have battled against such physical diseases as smallpox, diphtheria, or typhoid fever. Education and helpful social influences should inoculate the child against the poisons of criminal environment.

Crime Is Controllable.

The part that the police department may play in such a program of public welfare is envisioned by Walter M. Germain, inspector of police at Saginaw, Mich., and member of the board of directors of the National Crime Prevention institute. In a statement just made public by Mr. Sheldon, Inspector Germain said:

"It has been proven that crime is just as amenable to human control as disease. The criminal ranks are largely recruited from among young boys. The criminal is made during his formative years, when he is being subjected to deleterious influences of neighborhood environment, when he is getting into difficulties at home and in school, while he is becoming a problem child."

Drouths of 18th Century Traced in Rings of Trees

Hanover, N. H.—Drouths that troubled farmers half a century before the Revolutionary war have left their records clearly written in the rings of New England trees, Prof. Charles J. Lyon of Dartmouth college has found.

A tree ring represents the amount of wood grown in a given season. In a good year it is thick, in a drouthy or otherwise bad year it is thin. Long-past alternations of good and bad years have been read successfully in other parts of the United States, particularly the Southwest, but hitherto the records from New England have been confused and contradictory.

"Making Sense" of Weather

By studying a larger number of tree stumps, in several different locations in New Hampshire and Vermont, Professor Lyon has at last been able to "make sense" out of early New England weather.

"Many years since 1600 are found to have been outstanding for the good moisture conditions available for plant growth," he states. "During the same three and a third centuries, about twice as many years are marked by actual physiological drouth which retarded plant growth throughout the entire area. Cyclical effects are not evident."

Mental Disease Strikes All Equally, Test Shows

Albany, N. Y.—Foreign-born persons in New York state are no more subject to mental disease than are native Americans, if allowance is made for difference in age and environment, reports Dr. Benjamin Malzberg, of the New York State Department of Mental Hygiene, in the American Journal of Psychiatry.

Although the average annual rates of first admissions to mental hospitals seem to indicate that the cases of mental disease among foreign-born are twice as numerous as among native Americans, these figures are misleading, Dr. Malzberg declares. The foreign-born are older, on the average, than the natives and consequently have had more chance to develop mental disease. They are also more concentrated in cities, where mental disease, or at least hospitalization for it, is more common.

Ants Dig Wells

It is no longer a secret in South Africa how white ants obtain their water supply. A naturalist has discovered that they can get water even in deserts. When a well was being sunk on a Transvaal farm the drillers saw a tiny two-inch shaft running into the earth. They traced a miniature well sixty-five feet deep. With amazing persistence the white ants had dug their way until they found water.

The naturalist kept watch and saw water-carrier ants moving up and down the shaft by day and night, each returning to the surface with a drop of water. The round trip required half an hour.

Of foremost importance is the stimulation of digestive juices in the stomach to make better use of the food you eat... and restoration of lowered red-blood-cells to turn the digested food into firm flesh. S.S.S. Tonic does just this.

Forget about underweight worries if you are deficient in stomach digestive juices and red-blood-cells... just take S.S.S. Tonic immediately before each meal. Shortly you will be delighted with the way you will feel... your friends will compliment you on the way you will look.

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build sturdy health... its remarkable value is time tried and scientifically proven... that's why it makes you feel like yourself again. Available at any drug store.

Rid Yourself of Kidney Poisons

Do you suffer burning, scanty or too frequent urination, backache, headache, dizziness, loss of energy, leg pains, swellings and puffiness under the eyes? Are you tired, nervous—feel all unstrung and don't know what is wrong?

Then give some thought to your kidneys. Be sure they function properly for functional kidney disorder permits excess waste to stay in the blood, and to poison and upset the whole system.

Use Doan's Pills. Doan's are for the kidneys only. They are recommended the world over. You can get the genuine, time-tested Doan's at any drug store.

Rescued From Canadian Wilds

After spending 30 days on the shores of a wilderness lake in Northern Canada two pilots of the Canadian air force were rescued. Left to right, Joseph Forty and Sheldon Colom, the stranded airman and James Hartley, mechanic of the rescue plane. The pilots ran out of fuel and were forced down on the lake. They improvised a shelter to wait for a rescue party.

COMMANDS G. A. R.

Their ranks steadily thinning, the members of the Grand Army of the Republic have voted to hold their 1037th encampment in Madison, Wis. At their recent encampment in Washington, D. C., the blue-coated veterans elected O. H. William Ruhe, eighty-seven-year-old Pittsburgh, Pa., survivor of the Civil war, as commander.

HONOR NAVAL HERO

Full military honors with burial in Arlington National cemetery were accorded Rear Admiral William Sowden Sims, retired, who died recently. Admiral Sims was in command of the United States naval forces in European waters in the World war. He was seventy-seven years old at the time of his death.

Crack "Fencers" Compete for Hunt Cup

Hunt clubs throughout America are holding their races these bracing autumn days. One of the oldest of these events is the Meadow Brook Hunt race. It was held recently on the Long Island estate of Ambrose Clark. Justinian II, owned by Stuart S. Janney won the race over a three and a half mile timbered course.

House in St. Paul Where Green Was Trapped.

EDDIE GREEN

EDDIE GREEN, St. Paul gunman and bank robber, who had the underworld distinction of active membership in the Dillinger and the Karpis-Barker gangs at the same time, invited death—and got it.

Circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting of Green by federal bureau of investigation agents, who set a trap for him on April 3, 1934, at a house in St. Paul, were the subject of an under-cover inquiry recently by secret service agents.

The "ill-advised" secret service activities apparently were prompted by recurring rumors that G-men fired at Green without knowing his identity, that they only learned who he was by questioning him on his death-bed at the hospital, that Green was "mowed down" mercilessly and without warning and that he was a "minor hoodlum" who deserved better treatment.

Well, let's look at the record. With the co-operation of Director Hoover of the F. B. I., I have gone thoroughly over the bureau's heretofore confidential files on the Green case and, I believe, have found the answer—officially—to the questions which puzzled curious secret service men.

In the first place, a study of the criminal record of Edward Green—alias Eugene Green, George Graham, Charles Ryan, George Green, Fred Rogge, Frederick Riley, Fred Graham and Eugene Riley—fails to support the rumor that he was just a bad boy who became involved innocently with big-time killers.

He started out as a small-time first offense having been served in the house of correction for grand larceny, but he graduated into such select gangland company as that represented by Frank Nash, cause of the Kansas City massacre; Verne Miller, one of the massacre "trigger men"; Alvin Karpis and the Barker brothers, of kidnaping note, and, finally, John Dillinger.

He robbed banks with the Karpis-Barker gang and with the Dillinger gang. His home was the haven to which members of both gangs would flee in time of trouble, the "post office" through which they received their mail, the clearing house through which they kept in touch with one another, the headquarters where many desperate crimes were plotted.

At the time of his death he was custodian of much of the heavy artillery composing the arsenal of the Dillinger mob.

A second point supplied by the records is that Hoover's men knew exactly whom they were shooting when they opened fire. They had set their trap for Green and no one else.

A third point is that Green was shot only as a final resort—as he answered a command to halt by starting to run and reaching for his hip pocket.

The fact that he lived for eight days after the shooting and was conscious until a few hours before his death belies reports that he was "riddled with bullets."

Full details of the events which led up to the capture of Green are disclosed herewith, by permission of the F. B. I.

It will be recalled that on March 31, 1934, Dillinger, Homer Van Meter and Evelyn Frechette shot their way out of a St. Paul apartment house. A careful inquiry at this apartment provided G-men with the address of another apartment, on Marshall avenue, which they immediately investigated.

At the second apartment they learned that apartment 103 had been occupied by a man of suspicious habits until the day of the Dillinger shooting affray, and that the man had not returned since that time. His description tallied with that of Van Meter. The manager said the apartment had been rented two weeks before by a "Mr. D. A. Stevens" and that the latter had turned the apartment over to the man answering Van Meter's description.

The agents obtained permission to enter this apartment. They found: a leather bag, a Thompson machine gun stock that fitted a stockless gun abandoned by Van Meter in his escape on March 31, a large quantity of ammunition, a revolver holster, a pair of field glasses, a two-foot piece of dynamite fuse and several "get-away" charts and road maps used in bank robberies.

While the agents were in the apartment, two colored women appeared and announced they had been sent to "clean the apartment." These women, upon interrogation, eventually admitted that the "D. A. Stevens" who had rented the apartment was really Eddie Green, for whom they had worked at a roadhouse.

They said Green and his paramour had called at their house that morning and asked them to go to the "Stevens" apartment on Marshall avenue and get a suitcase, a coat and some laundry. Their instructions were to take these articles to their home, where Green would call for them later that day.

Several agents were "planted" in the colored women's home. They were armed with rifles and automatic pistols—for they believed they were to face a desperate man, an associate of Dillinger and Van Meter. The latter pair had machine-gunned their way to freedom only a few days before. The agents were determined not to let another member of the gang escape.

One of the colored women was instructed to open the door and hand the bag to Green when he appeared, then step aside. Three agents were hidden at strategic places on the first floor, where they could watch developments through curtained windows.

Just before 6 p. m. a sedan pulled to a stop in front of the house. There were a woman and a man in it, Green and his paramour.

Green began getting out of the car almost before it stopped, ran up to the front door of the house and received the suitcase from the colored woman.

Then he turned quickly and dashed back toward the car, the motor of which had been left running.

As Green leaped down the front steps, the agent in charge of the squad commanded him to halt.

Instead of obeying this command, the F. B. I. files show, Green quickened his pace and, startled by the command, reached toward his pocket as though to draw a gun.

That instinctive, menacing gesture was a fatal one—it was the signal for the agents to fire, or seek safety and let another gangster escape without so much as a struggle.

Actually, that impulsive sweep of Green's hand toward his gun pocket was a futile move. He had left his guns at home—and it proved to be quite an arsenal, when G-men found it later.

His woman companion was arrested and questioned. She had on her $1,155.

Green was found to have two safety deposit boxes containing $4,000 and $4,700, respectively.

Green, questioned at the hospital, made the following admissions to F. B. I. agents:

He had been downstairs in the St. Paul apartment when Dillinger and Van Meter made their sensational escape on March 31, 1934, fleeing during the confusion.

He had arranged for Dr. Clayton E. May, Minneapolis physician (since convicted of harboring Dillinger) to treat a bullet wound Dillinger received in the apartment house battle.

He had committed numerous bank robberies in association with the Karpis-Barker and Dillinger gangs.

He had participated two weeks before with Dillinger, Van Meter, John Hamilton, "Baby Face" Nelson and Tommy Carroll in the $52,000 robbery of the First National bank at Mason City, Iowa.

He was planning to rob a bank in Newton, Iowa, at the time he was shot.

Part of his long criminal record in the fingerprint division of the F. B. I. follows:

As Eugene Green, arrested by police, Milwaukee, Wis., August 11, 1916, charge, grand larceny; sentenced to six months.

As Frederick Riley, arrested by police, Des Moines, Iowa, suspicion of safeblowing; released to St. Paul police, who also wanted him for safeblowing and robbery; August 12, 1922.

As Eddie Green, received at State reformatory, St. Cloud, Minn., November 15, 1922, under sentences of forty and five years and transferred to Minnesota State penitentiary.

As Eddie Green, paroled from Minnesota State penitentiary, July 1, 1930.

As Edward Green, arrested St. Paul, Minn., April 3, 1934 and charged with attempting murder of F. B. I. agent.

This was the "bad boy" whose death appears to have aroused the sympathies of some critics of the G-men.

Tales and Traditions from American Political History

FRANK E. HAGEN and ELMO SCOTT WATSON

FARMERS' CHAMPION

OF ALL the leaders of third party movements, probably no one has caused the two major parties more concern than did Gen. James B. Weaver of Iowa. For he was the nominee of two new parties which, at two different periods in our history, capitalized on the unrest of the farm vote and in one case he definitely contributed to the overthrow of the party in power.

Weaver was first the standard-bearer for the Greenbackers, a party which came into existence in 1868 because of the dissatisfaction of the farmers with the financial policies of Grant's administration. They were inflationists who demanded that a large amount of paper money be issued without regard to specie payment. They received their name from the fact that legal-tender notes were printed in green and called greenbacks. In the campaign of 1876 they nominated Peter Cooper, the New York philanthropist, but he polled only 60,000 popular votes and did not receive a single electoral vote.

In the congressional elections of 1878 the Greenbackers cast a million votes and the Republicans in power looked apprehensively to the presidential campaign of 1880, especially when the Greenbackers nominated a man from the agricultural West. But their fears were groundless, for the Greenbackers could muster only a little more than 300,000 votes and, although Garfield won over Hancock by less than 10,000 popular votes, he got 214 electoral votes to his opponent's 135.

Twelve years later the Republicans had much more to worry over when Weaver bobbed up again, this time as the nominee of the Populist or People's party which declared for free silver, public ownership of monopolies, postal savings banks and an income tax. In the state and congressional elections of 1890 they carried the legislatures of Kansas and Nebraska, elected nine members of congress and forced 34 others, Democrats and Republicans, to pledge themselves to carry out Populist ideas. In the presidential campaign of 1892 Weaver polled more than 1,000,000 votes in the West and South and corralled 22 electoral votes. The Populists also carried several state legislatures and sent five senators to Washington.

"SMITH FOR PRESIDENT"

SINCE the United States has more people bearing the name of Smith than any other family name, it is only natural perhaps that there should have been more presidential candidates by that name than any other.

The first was Joseph E. Smith, founder of the Church of Latter Day Saints and prophet of the Mormon religion, who in 1844 condemned the policies of both the Whig and the Democratic parties and announced his candidacy for the presidency. However, his martyrdom at the hands of an angry mob in June of that year cut short his political career.

Four years later another Smith was in the field as a candidate—Gerrit Smith, the New York philanthropist, who was one of the founders of the Liberty party in 1840 and its candidate for President in 1849. In that year he was also endorsed for the presidency by the Industrial Congress at its convention in Philadelphia. Again in 1852 Smith was the candidate of the Liberty party and again he was endorsed by another group, this time by the Land Reformers. In neither case did Smith or his party figure very prominently in the election.

In 1876 there was another one of the name in the presidential race. He was Green Clay Smith, a native of Kentucky, a veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, rising to the rank of brigadier-general in the Union army before resigning to take his seat in congress to which he had been elected while in the field. Re-elected to congress, he resigned to become the second territorial governor of Montana. After three years of service in the West he resigned to enter the ministry of the Baptist church in Washington. Soon afterwards he was chosen as the first presidential nominee of the modern Prohibition party.

Just as this "dry" Smith failed to win in 1876, so did a "wet" Smith fail to win half a century later. For Alfred E. Smith, the Democratic candidate in 1928, suffered the fate of all his predecessors—defeat.

Famous Belgian Cathedral
Mallines has much to interest visitors but the Cathedral of St. Rombold is the outstanding attraction of the city. It was commenced in the early Twelfth century and took 200 years to complete, and is one of the finest Gothic in Belgium. It has a solitary western tower, 324 feet in height and out of proportion with the rest of the building. Its clock face is enormous—more than forty feet across and nearly twice as large as Big Ben on the houses of parliament in London.

My Favorite Recipe by Barbara Stanwyck

Canapes Blanche
1 package cream cheese.
6 strips crisp bacon.
Onion juice.
Paprika.
Cayenne pepper.
Small pearl onions.

Place the cheese in a mixing bowl and mash with a wooden spoon. Crumble the bacon and stir into the cheese. Add onion juice to taste, dash of cayenne pepper and paprika. Spread this paste onto rounds of bread which have been fried in oil to a golden brown, and top each canape off with a small pickled onion.

DEMOCRATS bring PROSPERITY

Under Governor Clyde Tingley, New Mexico has had a business administration. The State has worked in harmony with President Roosevelt, with the result that every line of endeavor, every person, in New Mexico has profited.

Prosperity has been restored.

If you are a merchant, a business man, you profited from increased building activities in New Mexico. From the increased payrolls. From the State's National advertising campaign which has brought additional thousands of tourists to the State. You profited directly or indirectly from the $127,000,000 which the Roosevelt program made available to the State in gifts or grants.

If you are the father or the mother of children, you have profited or will profit from the 250 new rural schools, the vast improvements in our educational system, the building program at our institutions of Higher Learning . . . a program financed largely by outright Federal grants.

If you are a taxpayer you have profited from the State's economy program which has resulted in one-half mill decrease in the State tax rate. This decrease means a saving of $125,000.

The Republican candidate for Governor has laughed at this decrease, calling it "infinitesimal."

Business interests of the State are dependent for their prosperity on the purchasing power of the people as a whole.

Under the New Deal administration in New Mexico, the people have been so prosperous that the following results have been achieved:

During the last two years 22,000 new automobiles have been registered. The increase in new car registration in 1935 over 1932 is 225 per cent.

Gasoline sales increased more than 20%.

Retail sales increased more than 20%.

Sale of life insurance is up 22%.

Not a bank in the State has failed.

Republican candidates have bitterly opposed the Roosevelt Works Program, and are pledged to scrap the New Deal—the very instrument which has brought prosperity.

For this reason, if there ever was a time when businessmen, farmers and ranchers should unite for their common good and work to elect the Democratic Ticket, it is now.

If there ever was a time when labor, which has profited greatly under the New Deal, should be solidly united for the Democratic Party, it is now.

If there ever was a time when educators of the State should fight for their own interests, it is now. (Jaffa Miller, Republican candidate for Governor, has publicly opposed improvements at our institutions of higher learning, and all Republican candidates have branded the WPA, under which 250 new schools are being built, as boondoggling and waste.)

The Democratic record in the State is so good that Republican criticisms are based on misrepresentations and untruths. For instance, they've declared the State owns 1,000 motor vehicles. They say they can operate the State with 800 motor vehicles.

The State owned on October 10, only 479 motor vehicles and of this number 358 were trucks, and five were school buses. By their own admission the Republicans will need 321 more motor vehicles to operate the State than the State owns at the present time.

(NOTE: The figures quoted here are taken from an audit report of Horton & Bixler, dated Oct. 17, 1936.)

They've said the 1935 Legislature appropriated more money than any other Legislature in the history of the State.

This is not true.

The 1935 Legislature appropriated $9,587,122. The 1929 Legislature, under a Republican Administration, appropriated $12,110,622, an all time high. In both cases we have taken our data for the total appropriations, including Highway Debentures, from bulletins issued by the New Mexico Taxpayers' Association.

Other charges by the Republican candidates are equally untrue. When a party resorts to falsehoods in an effort to win an election, it no longer deserves the confidence of the people.

Senator Carl A. Hatch, Senator Dennis Chavez, Congressman John J. Dempsey, Governor Clyde Tingley, and the entire Democratic Ticket are pledged to work with Roosevelt to advance the prosperity of New Mexico.

Hatred against Roosevelt already has made Al Smith a sour old man, deserted by most of his former political following. Many Republicans and some of those who erroneously style themselves Jeffersonian Democrats are working themselves into a similar pathological lather. If this bitterness grows, it may take more than the sugar-coated pills of Dr. Hearst to restore lost vigor to the G. O. P.—Dallas News.

Messrs. Wayne Richard and Perry Sears gave a noon luncheon at the Southern Pacific hotel for Senator Hatch and party yesterday.

About 250 people met the Landon special, but the Presidential candidate didn't even deign to show himself. The sunflowers present wilted then straggled over to the democratic rally, where Senator Hatch, Mr. Worden, Mr. Patton, Mrs. Gonzales and Mr. Valdez gave them some interesting data.

14 cars of Hereford calves were shipped from Ancho to the markets by E. H. and A. R. Hendricks this week. Calves were reported unusually fat and well bred.

The DuPonts, manufacturers of gun-powder and munitions have given more than $383,000 to the Landon campaign fund. Well, war, or no war, they expect it back with interest if Landon is elected. And this is something to think upon.

In spite of the inclement weather Senator Hatch and party met their engagements in Lincoln County and although the rally here came at 1:30 when it is hard for housewives to be present, the Community hall was comfortably filled. The candidates gave some fine talks.

Week-end visitors: Miss Ruth Kelley of Albuquerque, Walter Fulmer, Socorro School of Mines.

At the Republican rally last week Prager Miller was the principal speaker. He talked a lot but didn't say much. He tried to get funny speaking of his "kid brother." No one saw the point, so he explained that Jaffa was four hours the younger of the twins.

E. H. Hendricks, Democratic Chairman precinct No. 7 reports his precinct "sitting pretty" for the New Deal and for local Democratic candidates.
