

Auto Wreck at July 31st Last Day San Patricio

A head-on collision occurred last Monday night on highway No. 70 near San Patricio in which nine persons were injured, one fatally, death having claimed Camilio Nuñez Wednesday morning at the Fort Stanton hospital where the injured had been taken shortly after the accident.

County Commissioner P. R. Sandoval and Jailer O. G. Gallegos arrived shortly after the accident occurred, and took the injured ones to Fort Stanton. They also notified Sheriff S. E. Greisen who went at once to investigate the cause. An inquest was held Wednesday after the Nuñez death.

Four are still in the hospital, the most seriously injured being Mrs. Anastacio Sanchez who received a broken leg.

The Poison Oak Season

Every year a number of visitors to our mountain and summer resorts come into quite uncomfortably close contact with "poison oak" or "poison ivy". These plants are varieties of sumacs and carry both within the plant and also upon the leaf surfaces an oil which is an intense skin irritant. Some persons appear to be more susceptible than others to this irritant but in each and every case suspicion of exposure to or contact with "poison oak" or "ivy" is sufficient cause for immediate steps to be taken to prevent, if possible, outbreaking.

Persons who render themselves liable to contact with the plants should take every precaution to protect their faces and hands from contact. Gloves should be worn and carefully taken off before the face or skin is touched since the irritant oil may be actually carried on the glove itself in sufficient quantity to start the skin irritation.

Campers and others are well advised to keep a bottle of alcohol in which a little sodium hydroxide has been dissolved. The alcohol dissolves the poison and if used in time is quite effective. Free use of a moderately strong alkaline soap and water is also helpful since the oil is also soluble in alkaline solutions. In default of these common baking soda is fairly efficacious but cannot be relied upon to the extent of the two previously mentioned remedies.

In an emergency a rough and ready method of counteracting the irritant is the free use of gasoline from the automobile tank but whatever is done it should be remembered that all cleansing must be done promptly and thoroughly since slovenly cleansing may only tend to spread the oil and so make the condition worse.

Diego Salazar of Santa Fe, State Motor Vehicle Commissioner, was in Carrizozo yesterday.

Saturday, July 31st is the last day in which the tax payer may take advantage of the Moratorium Law.

Chapter 127, Laws of 1937, commonly called the Moratorium Law, provides that all delinquent taxes both personal and real for 1935 and prior years could be paid in full before June 30, 1937 without interest and penalty except possibly a 4 per cent charge.

This Chapter also provides that if the 1936 taxes were paid before May 1, 1937 on real property the taxes for 1935 and prior years could be paid in installments as follows:

1/4 of the balance due provided application was made before June 30, 1937 and one eighth of the balance due on or before April, 1938 and one eighth thereof each six months thereafter provided the current taxes for the subsequent years are paid before the second half becomes delinquent.

The provisions of this law expired as of June 30, 1937, however, due to the crowded conditions in the County Treasurer's office the last few days in June, making it impossible for many persons to take advantage of the law, at the request of the Governor the State Tax Commission authorized county treasurers to accept payments of taxes in full or under the installment plan during the month of July under the same provisions and conditions as provided in said law and thereby extended the time for such payment through July 31, 1937.

Americans Earn More

One measure of American wage standards is the amount of goods an hour's work will buy. For example, a baker in this country could buy more than two and one-half times as much coffee for an hour's work than could a baker in Sweden—more than twice as much bread and more than one-half times as much butter or eggs or beef or potatoes. And Sweden is known to have one of the highest living standards among the countries of Europe.

Freight Movements On Railroads Are Faster

Wash., July 26.—American railroads are speeding butter, breakfast and building materials from producer to consumer today at nearly twice the speed of 10 years ago.

A survey by the Association of American railroads showed all major lines have stepped up the handling of freight until overnight service to points 500 miles away is common. The time of longer hauls also has been reduced.

Association figures show it cost an average of $10.78 for railroads to move 1,000 tons a mile in 1920 and only $6.83 in 1935.

SYNOPSIS

Victoria Herrendeen, a vivacious little girl, had been too young to feel the shock that came when her father, Keith Herrendeen, lost his fortune. A gentle, unobtrusive soul, he is now employed as an obscure chemist in San Francisco. His wife, Magda, cannot adjust herself to the change. She is a beautiful woman, fond of pleasure and a magnet for men's attention. Magda and Victoria have been down at a summer resort and Keith joins them for the week-end. Magda leaves for a bridge party, excusing herself for being such a "runaway." The Herrendeens return to their small San Francisco apartment. Keith does not approve of Magda's mad social life and they quarrel frequently. Magda receives flowers and a diamond from Ferd Manners, a wealthy man from Argentina whom she had met less than a week before. Manners arrives a few hours later. Magda takes Victoria to Nevada, to visit a woman friend who has a daughter named Catherine. There she tells her she is going to get a divorce. Victoria soon is in boarding school with her friend Catherine. Magda marries Manners and they spend two years in Argentina. Victoria has studied in Europe and at eighteen she visits her mother when Ferd rents a beautiful home. Magda is unhappy over Ferd's drinking and attentions to other women. When her mother and stepfather return to South America, Victoria refuses to go with them because of Ferd's unwelcome attentions to her. Magda returns and tells Vic she and Ferd have separated. Meanwhile Keith has remarried. Victoria is now a student nurse. Magda has fallen in love with Lucius Farmer, a married artist. While she and Vic prepare for a trip to Europe, Ferd takes a suite in the hotel. The night before Magda and Vic are in their room. Magda elopes with Lucius Farmer. While nursing the children of Dr. and Mrs. Keats, Vic meets Dr. Quentin Hardisty, a brilliant physician, much sought after by women, who is a widower with a crippled daughter. In a tele-visit at the Keats home, he kisses Vic. Several days later he invites her with other guests to spend a week-end at his cabin. Vic is enchanted with the cabin and with the dinner. Next morning she and Quentin go hiking and return ravenous. The party is disrupted Sunday afternoon by the arrival of Marian Pool, a divorced woman. Vic is jealous of Mrs. Pool and a few days later tells Mrs. Keats she is going to Honolulu. In his office, Quentin questions Vic about leaving. He proposes to her. She accepts him and they are married. Vic and Quentin are idyllically happy in their home. During six years Victoria has four children.

About an hour later, when a party of six had just harmoniously settled down to Sunday's cold supper there was an interruption. It began with a ring at the doorbell, but that was nothing in a doctor's household; nor was Meta's appearance a moment later. What was unusual was the appearance of the woman who followed Meta; the sound of her voice.

"Mother!" She said.

For a moment Vic didn't know the voice at all, or the little tinkle of high laughter, or the person in the lace-edged hat and frilly-silk coat, frilly blouse, frilly sweeping skirts who stood there. Then the whole world turned upside down and she got to her feet and tried to speak, but couldn't hear her own voice and tried again with better luck.

"Mother!" she said. "My dear, the proverbial bad penny!" Mrs. Herrendeen laughed, coming in to sit down at the chair Quentin provided, and looking about the circle gayly. "Well, you're having a party!" she said. She was introduced, all the voices spoke together cordially.

"Vic looks astonished, and well she may!" the newcomer said, beginning daintily on her meal. "No, no wine, Quentin," she said easily to the con-in-law she had met only a moment earlier. "I'll have coffee. Would I be a horrible pest if I asked for hot milk—I've had my coffee for so long with hot milk that I can't seem to get used to it any other way!"

had usually been with "delightful friends," or she had a "tiny digging" in Paris, in Florence, in Monto Carlo. And always the cramped note of money shortage had been there. Once she had been "selling darling Sibyl Huddersone's divine things—giving them away, rather!"—and once she apparently had had come sort of agency for powders and perfumes; "because one must make one's poor little 40 per cent if one can," she had explained.

The last letters had quite frankly asked for financial help; Vicky was married now, and if she could help her Mummy just a little it would be such a godsend. "For we don't count money here as you do, darling." Magda had reminded her daughter. "What you spend on those frightful ice-cream sodas and on movies would take care of a whole family here."

In the morning, after she and Quentin had shared their early breakfast, and after the usual visit to the kitchen and to the surging and shouting nursery, Victoria somewhat wearily prepared a tray, not forgetting the continental touch of a pitcher of hot milk, and adding a tiny clear green glass vase in which sprawled three stiff brilliant nasturtiums. Mrs. Herrendeen was awake when her daughter came in. "Oh, you darling child, with all you have to do—and the newspaper, too—but I shall miss my Paris paper; these American papers never have anything in them."

"Did you sleep, Mummy?" Vic asked, with her kiss. "I slept divinely. I always sleep divinely," the other woman answered, her cheerful voice and freshened face bearing witness to it. "I meant to lie awake," she went on, beginning her breakfast, "and think what a smart child I have, and what a lovely home this is."

Quentin liked her; that was a great help. Magda had still the secret of pleasing and interesting men, whatever it was. Faded, fussy dressed, affected and artificial, yet there was something real and affectionate and clinging in her nature that all males liked. About a week after her return Quentin electrified his wife by suggesting that they make up a party for the first night of the opera. Sierp had sent him a box; Sierp was on the committee; it "might be rather fun." Quentin, who never wanted to go anywhere. "Fun!" Vicky echoed, excited and interested. It would be the time of all times to return the Perrys' hospitality, and for a sixth they might ask nice, old, musical Dr. Ward.

CHAPTER VII

It was at the opera that they first saw Serena Morrison.

Not that Vicky or anyone in her neighborhood knew who the woman was, at first. With four men, she was sitting in the forward seat of a box; an ash blonde in a black velvet gown, with petal-smooth bare shoulders, and deep-set, amber-shadowed eyes. Everyone in the house was looking at her when the curtain went down and the lights went up, but if she was conscious of the admiration and curiosity she excited she gave no sign of it.

"That's Joe Younger—that stout fellow with her," Quentin said, laying down his glasses after a frank inspection. "By gosh, she is beautiful!"

"Oh, Quent, you know him!" Vicky said eagerly, leaning forward in her old chocolate lace to have another look. "Couldn't you slip over and meet her?"

"No time now—I will in the next entr'acte!" Quentin whispered as the house lights fanned down and the footlights went up. But before the next act there was the familiar whisper in the back of the box. Vicky had resignedly expected it; it always came somehow when they were daring enough to go to the theater.

"Dr. Hardisty?" the whisper said in the dark. "The hospital on the telephone, Doctor. Dr. Bruce. He said it was urgent."

And then Quentin was groping in the gloom for his hat and coat, and off in full evening regalia for some hot, odorless surgery, with the valkyries' wild scream interrupted halfway. It was too bad, but it wasn't the first time and wouldn't be the last. Vicky reminded her mother philosophically when they were in the car going home.

"And lucky for you, too!" Magda responded.

"Lucky?" "Well, he was perfectly mad about that blonde woman, whoever she was. He was going over to that box just to meet her. But I thought you handled that very cutely, Vic," Magda said.

"Handled what?" Vicky was genuinely amazed. "Oh, saying she was lovely and you'd like to know who she was. That was smart, Vic."

"There was nothing smart to that!" Vicky laughed, in generous amusement. But she felt just a little chilled, nevertheless. A bleak breath of wind from an almost-forgotten country seemed to touch her cheek. "Quentin admires beauty," she presently said. "But that's as far as it goes."

"Just the same I'll bet you something, Vic, that he finds out tomorrow who she is."

"Mother, you're incorrigible!" They were at home now, yawningly dragging themselves up the long stairs. "I'll bet you a chocolate bar that he never mentions her again!"

They were in the house the following afternoon when Quentin came in to smile wearily at Kenty and Susan, who were coveting about in pajamas, and to discuss the products of the Argentine with Gwen, Magda was playing solitaire by the fire.

"Oh, listen, Vic, remember the blonde Venus in the box last night?" Quentin presently asked. Magda looked up, and Vicky turned with a little color in her face from a minute inspection of Susan's reputedly burned finger. "She's an English Mrs. Harrison or Morrison or Robinson or something," Quentin said. "I telephoned Joe Younger today—I wanted to ask him something about the golf club anyway. Her husband is an English officer attached to the foreign office or something—they left today for China." He fell to musing, a half-smile on his face. "That was certainly one beautiful woman!" he said.

"If you want to hold a man like Quentin, you ought to—well, flirt with him!" Magda said.

Victoria laughed. "Flirt with my own husband?" "Something like that. Not flirt exactly, but—interest him," Magda said, a little at a loss for the exact words she wanted. "Keep him busy. Unless a man is kept busy he gets into mischief—especially a sheik like Quentin, with a voice all the women fall for."

"I don't know that all the women fall for his voice," Vicky said, unalarmed. "And as for keeping him busy, I don't know what would keep a man busy if an exacting profession, five children, four servants, a wife and a mother don't!"

"Oh, Lord, not that kind of busy!" Magda scoffed. "I don't mean worrying about the furnace or if the new electric light bulbs came. And I don't mean curvature of the spine, either. A man's got to have some play, Vic. The sensible thing for a woman-like you to do is cut out all this nursery stuff, have a hair-do every week, get a new lipstick and some 'peau de jeunesse' and lie around in the mornings reading fashion magazines!"

"I don't know where you'd be today if you'd cut out all this nursery stuff!" Vicky wanted more than once to say good-naturedly. But she never did.

2. What is the world's longest airline?

3. How many people have lived since the beginning of recorded history?

4. For what countries did the United States coin money last year?

6. Do the cold waters of the temperate and frigid zones contain more plant and animal life than do the warm waters of the tropics?

7. How does the Maxim silencer work?

8. Why do sharks fight back down?

Answers

1. A census of population was taken in this country in 1930 and the next will be taken in 1940. Any other figures that may be given are simply estimates. The United States had a population of 122,775,046 in 1930; the estimated population on July 1, 1935, was 127,521,000, showing an increase of nearly five millions in five years.

2. The world's longest air line is that between Amsterdam, Holland, and the Dutch East Indies, 9,000 miles away. There are two departures weekly at each end of it.

3. The eugenics department of the Carnegie Institution estimates that 30,000,000,000 people have lived since the beginning of recorded history, some 6,000 or 7,000 years ago.

4. For Cuba, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Colombia and San Salvador. This coinage totaled 72,100,440 pieces.

5. In 1907 Sellig opened the first California studio in Los Angeles. The first picture was the "Count of Monte Cristo" in 1,000 feet. Soon after that time other motion picture studios in New York opened California studios.

6. More plant and animal life per square mile is found in the cold waters of the temperate and frigid zones than in the ocean waters of the tropics.

7. The Maxim silencer is a tubular device attached to the muzzle of a firearm that renders the discharge practically noiseless. The device has an interior spiral which, permitting the ejection of the bullet, retards the explosion of the gases by causing them to rotate before escaping.

8. Because of the peculiar conformation of the shark's mouth, it is necessary for it to turn on its back when attacking an object at the surface of the water. A shark's mouth opens below its snout on the under side of its body and it is, therefore, unable to bite anything directly above it without turning over.

A Refreshing Drink

IN THE summertime, cool drinks are so grateful to parched young throats. Here is a cold cereal drink you can mix in a jiffy. It is very refreshing and nourishing to boot.

Quick Cooler.

- 2 level teaspoons Instant Postum
- 1 cup cold milk

Combine ingredients in beverage shaker or in glass jar with tight top. Shake thoroughly until all cereal is dissolved. Sweeten to taste and serve. Serves one.—Adv.

Household Questions

Burnt Saucepans.—If the bottom of a saucepan is burnt, sprinkle salt over it and leave for an hour or two. Then add a little water, rub well, and when washed out the marks will have gone.

Shade for Ferns.—House ferns need a light well-drained soil and plenty of water. They thrive better in partial shade.

Turnip Patties.—Turnips can be made into little cakes if they are mashed, thoroughly drained, and then seasoned with salt, pepper and cayenne, and bound with beaten egg-yolk. When the mixture has got quite cold, divide it into small balls, coat these with egg- and -breadcrumb, and fry them to a golden brown in deep fat. Serve garnished with watercress.

Maple Mousse.—One cup maple syrup, whites of two eggs, two cups whipping cream, few grains salt. Bring syrup to the boiling point and pour in a thin stream on the whites of eggs beat until stiff, beating as the syrup is added. Whip cream until firm and add salt. Combine with first mixture and pour into ice cream freezer, pack in eight parts ice to one part ice cream salt and let stand three or four hours without stirring. Scrape mixture down from sides of freezer two or three times during the freezing to insure even freezing.

Sauce for Meats.—For a snappy and delicious sauce to serve with meats, mix one cup apple sauce, 1/2 cup horseradish and one cup whipped cream.

Washing Spinach.—When washing spinach, place a generous pinch of salt in the water to make the sand sink to the bottom.

Why MORE FARM TRACTORS ARE EQUIPPED WITH FIRESTONE TRACTOR TIRES THAN ALL OTHER MAKES OF TIRES COMBINED

Farmers KNOW

Ground Grip Tires PROVIDE GREATER TRACTION INCREASED DRAWBAR PULL SAVE MORE TIME AND MONEY

NOW THE Amazing New Firestone GROUND GRIP TIRE

THAT PROVIDES STILL GREATER TRACTION AND SAVINGS

FIRESTONE has done it again! All you have to do is to examine the amazing new Firestone Ground Grip Tractor Tire and you will quickly understand why it provides still greater traction, greater drawbar pull, and makes greater savings in time and fuel. The basic Firestone patented Ground Grip tread design has been retained, but the extra heavy bars of rubber are spaced wider and built higher. The tire cleans itself still better, providing much greater traction.

Farmers everywhere are welcoming this new tire, for tests show that tractors equipped with it consume up to 50% less fuel, as compared with tractors equipped with steel lugged wheels. With this amazing new tire you get up to 30% more available drawbar pull on dry sod — up to 40% more on stubble — and up to 50% more on wet plowed ground, than with any other tire made.

Only Firestone can build all this extra traction into a tractor tire because only Firestone has the patented extra construction features of Gum-Dipped cords which are stronger to resist the strain of heavy pulling, and two extra layers of Gum-Dipped cords under the tread which bind the tread and cord body into one inseparable unit. The tread is made of specially compounded rubber which resists the action of sun, rain, and snow. See this amazing new tire at your Firestone Implement Dealer, Tire Dealer or Auto Supply & Service Store today. You will want a set on your tractor so you can make the savings that only Firestone Ground Grip Tractor Tires provide.

Jobs for the Undertaker

Four out of every five automobile accidents occur on dry roads in clear weather. Four out of every five automobile accidents involve cars driving straight ahead.

Here is the statistical proof of the disregard for every rule of courtesy and safety that characterizes the reckless or incompetent motorist. He constantly overestimates the "safety factors" of good roads and modern cars. A straight highway and a clear day act as bait to make him "open her up" with the result that the undertaker gets about 37,000 new accounts each year.

A National Safety Council survey lists the seven most important causes of fatal accidents, in order, as follows: Exceeding speed limits or driving too fast for road and weather conditions; driving on the wrong side of the road; disregarding stop signs and signals; usurping right of way; cutting in; passing on hills and curves; failure to signal for stopping and turning.

These driving errors cause the great bulk of all serious accidents, and the first is by far the worst. Every one of them is a human error—and every accident they produce could be prevented if individual drivers would observe the most elementary rules of caution and proper driving.

In conclusion, here is one more fact you might think over next time you feel the urge to step on it: At 20 miles per hour, one accident in 61 is fatal, while at 50 or more miles per hour, one accident in every 11 produces a corpse.

Confer in Washington

Albuquerque, August 3 (Special) Dr. James F. Zimmerman, president of the Coronado Cuarto Centennial Commission, and Gilberto Espinosa, secretary, will confer with national officials in Washington this week, it was announced here today. Accompanied by congressional representatives from New Mexico, the Centennial leaders will call upon President Roosevelt to discuss federal participation in the 1940 event. Present plans call for conferences with various administration officials looking toward federal aid in the Celebration.

Senator Dennis Chavez advised the Coronado Office this week that the Coronado Commemorative Coin bill, by which New Mexico will receive considerable financial assistance for the Centennial, will be passed by Congress as soon as the present legislative block is cleared. Debate on the Court reorganization program has delayed the reporting of this bill by the Banking Committee. Senators and representatives from Texas and Arizona are aiding the New Mexico representatives in pushing the law.

Auto Licenses Increase

Santa Fe, July 26.—Gov. Clyde Tingley's office said today that a check on license plate sales by counties will be made during the next few days to prepare statistics on license sales by counties and increases in sales in each county. The sale of plates for the first six months of 1937 showed an increase of $177,895.41.

The Two Classes of Overweight

By
DR. JAMES W. BARTON
© Bell Syndicate.—WNU Service.

YOU may read from time to time about the "different kinds of obesity-overweight," and if you are overweight you may wonder to which class you belong.

As a matter of fact there are only two classes of overweight, and while they have odd names their meaning is very simple.

The first class is the exogenous—"ex" meaning "out of," and "gen" meaning "beginning,"—beginning within the body, the cause of the overweight begins outside the body. Thus taking extra food and not taking enough exercise is the common or usual type of exogenous overweight. It usually comes on with the ease and contentment of middle life.

The second class is the endogenous ("en" within, and "gen" meaning "beginning,"—beginning within the body), which results from some gland disturbance or deficiency within the body. The glands at fault are the thyroid in the neck, pituitary lying on the floor of the skull, and the generative glands. Each gland has its own type of overweight but sometimes the overweight may be due to a deficiency in two or more of these glands.

When the thyroid gland in the neck is not manufacturing enough juice there is an increase of weight in all parts of the body. It is six times as frequent in women as in men. "The onset" may occur with mental dullness, impaired memory, and obscure pains in the legs. As a result of this thyroid gland deficiency there follows an increase in the bulk of the body, with a firm melanic swelling of the skin which does not pit on pressure.

Skin Becomes Rough.

The skin becomes dry and rough and wrinkles in the face smooth out leaving a childlike or vacant expression. The mentality, speech and bodily movements become sluggish. Constipation is usually present and the rate at which the body processes work may be from 20 to 40 per cent below normal.

In deficiency of the pituitary gland lying on the floor of the skull there is sometimes a family tendency noted, and it occurs as often in males as in females. It usually begins in the very early teens just before puberty—the age at which girls and boys are entering into manhood and womanhood. Attention to this condition is first given because of the great amount of starch and sweet foods these youngsters can eat without having any disturbance in the stomach or intestine. They have a great craving for sweets and pastries. That these youngsters are going to be plump or chunky is evident even at this age. Fortunately the mental ability remains normal and there is no lack of alertness.

An X ray of the skull may show changes in the gland itself or the structures about it. Late in the disease there may be eye trouble, blindness, headache or vomiting.

In this type of overweight there is a great increase of fat in the shoulders, breasts, abdomen and hips, while the forearms and lower legs are slender and hands and feet usually small.

In the generative or sex gland type of overweight, there is in the male wideness of the hips with also a great deposit of fat there. There is increased fat deposits under the skin of the chest, the abdomen and the hips.

Depends on Glands.

In the female there is lack of breast development and irregularity of the monthly periods.

When more than one gland is at fault such as the thyroid and the pituitary, or the pituitary and the sex glands, the symptoms will of course depend upon the glands involved.

In the treatment of overweight, as more than nine of every ten overweights got that way from over-eating, cutting down on the food intake is the chief method of treatment if these individuals are to escape the dangers due to overweight—heart, kidney, and blood-vessel ailments. However, in addition to cutting down on the food intake these "gland" types of overweight need to take the special gland extracts under the supervision of a physician.

"Thus restricting the food or energy intake to less than the requirements of the body, and increasing the energy requirements by exercise, the reserve energy depots of the body (where fat has greatly accumulated) are used to supply the required energy that is lacking in the food; thus, demands are made upon the fat depots of the body, and so the fat is consumed."

It would be well therefore if you think you are not the "common" variety of overweight (due to over-eating and under-exercising) to consult your family physician who by examination, metabolism and X-ray tests will be able to place you in your right class.

'Way Back When

By JEANNE

WALT DISNEY WAS A MAIL CARRIER

WHAT are the secret ambitions of those who serve us, particularly those whose occupations are mechanical or lonesome enough to allow their minds to drift often into the realms of fantasy?

Walt Disney is an example. Born in Chicago in 1901, his first job was as a mail carrier there, at the age of sixteen. As a little boy he liked to draw, and he liked to draw animals; but the famous creator of Mickey Mouse had to make a living delivering mail. He had no chance to express his creative genius until after the World War, when he obtained a job as a commercial artist in Kansas City. In his garage, he experimented with animated newsreels called "Local Happenings," which he sold to Kansas City moving picture theaters. He followed these with a series of fairy tales for local clubs and church gatherings.

This modest success prompted him to try Hollywood, where he started in an unpretentious little building far from the big studios. There he created "Oswald, the Rabbit," but after making 20 subjects, he and his backer separated. The backer owned the rights to "Oswald, the Rabbit" which is still being shown in the theaters, and Disney was left without his most promising character. Out of this adversity was born "Mickey Mouse" and the "Silly Symphonies."

Today, Walt Disney employs a staff of artists to draw his characters—but he is, himself, the voice of Mickey Mouse.

PICTURE MAGNATE WAS A PEDDLER

IT'S fun for the young man who was born to be president of his rich father's company; a month in the shop, a month clerking, and then general manager. But consider the discouragement and heartaches of the boy too poor for an adequate education, too poor for nourishing food or decent clothing, too poor to meet people with influence. That such boys, possessing only courage, ambition and brains, can still rise in America is this country's strongest defense against socialism and communism.

William Fox was born 1870 in Fulchva, Hungary, son of a small shopkeeper who extracted teeth as a side-line. The family moved to America when William was nine months old, and settled in an East Side tenement district of New York city. His first job was at the age of nine, when his father, who was out of work, made stove blacking in their small tenement and William peddled it from door to door in the neighborhood. Later he sold candy lozenges at the Third Street dock and at Central park on Sundays. At the age of fourteen, he was forced by poverty to quit school. He obtained a job in a clothing firm and rose to be foreman in charge of lining cutting, at the magnificent salary of $3. per week. To augment his earnings, he bought umbrellas and peddled them in front of theaters on rainy nights. With $1,000 savings accumulated through many privations, he started a cloth examining and shrinking business, when he was twenty-one, and at the end of the second year invested his profits in a pickleadeon or five-cent motion picture house. Twenty-five years later he headed the great $200,000,000 corporation which bore his name, including a picture producing company, distributing agencies, and thousands of theaters throughout the United States.

Who knows for what high position that peddler who calls at your door may be preparing. William Fox rose from the same start.

Household Helps

Do you know the proper thing to say when you sit on a wad of chewing gum?

If your suit is washable, here is the correct command—if you want to get rid of the chewing gum and not your garment:

"Bring me an egg white, some soap and some lukewarm water. Then stand back and watch me soften the gum with the egg white—so! And finally wash it completely away with the soapy water."

If your suit isn't washable, the fabric-saving element is carbon tetrachloride, which will remove all traces of stain.

The authority for these points of chewing gum etiquette is a new booklet called "Handy Helps for Homemakers," which has been prepared by a group of home economics authorities. This booklet is a convenient, compact handbook of practical remedies for the most common household problems. It is divided into four sections: laundering (which includes not only stain-removal formulae, but also detailed advice on the proper way to wash various fabrics); home lighting; heating; and cooking.

The writers of the "Handy Helps for Homemakers" booklet have confined the chapter on "Cooking" to an informative discussion of meat-selection rules, suggestions for improving actual cooking technique and a summary of the merits and problems of home canning.

A copy of the "Handy Helps for Homemakers" book can be secured by sending 5 cents to cover postage and handling to Miss Boyd, 210 S. Desplaines St., Chicago, Ill.—Adv.
