C. H. S. Girls' Glee Club to Give Dance

The Girls' Glee Club of the High School are sponsoring a dance this Saturday night at the Community Hall to raise money to help them attend the Great Southwestern Music Festival which will be held in Roswell on March 17th to 20th. In order to attend this festival a membership fee, which includes free lodging for six nights, of five dollars will be required of each entrant. The girls hope to raise enough money through the dance to pay this fee for a good number of them. They, in turn, will have to furnish their own money for meals during the two days of practice and four days of concerts. The school wishes to send as many as possible to the festival, as it will be both beneficial and enjoyable to the participants.

There will be a very good floor show put on during the intermission Saturday night. The dance will start at 8:30, after the basketball game with Captain. The new Carrizozo Orchestra is furnishing the music and we guarantee it to be good. The girls will have coffee and doughnuts for sale, and a check room will be available. Admission is $1.00, and 25c for spectators. Everyone is urged to come and support the girls.

Melvin Franks

Funeral services were held Wednesday, January 18th, for Mr. Melvin Franks who passed away Tuesday in a Carrizozo hospital after an illness of three months. Pall bearers were Frank Sultmeier, A. J. Atkinson, Frank DuBois, W. G. Greer, H. L. Hancock, and W. S. Dishman. Interment was made in the Corona cemetery with Rev. L. A. Roll in charge of the services.

Mr. Franks was born August 28, 1879, at Eagle Pass, Texas, but had lived in Lincoln County for the last thirty-five years. He and Miss Callie Thompson were united in marriage June 13, 1916 at White Oaks, New Mexico, and moved immediately to Corona where they have made their home ever since. To this union were born three daughters, the youngest of whom departed this life in 1930.

Mr. Franks leaves to mourn his passing his wife, Mrs. Callie Franks, two daughters, Athol and Jean, and a sister Donnie Franks of Corona, one brother, Guy Franks of Arp, Texas, and a host of loyal friends.

Mr. Franks served as County Commissioner at periods totaling thirteen years. His first term began at the time the Territory of New Mexico became a State, and his last term of office expired December 31, 1936. He was a member of the County Board of Education for several years.

He was well known for his hearty laugh, his ability to enjoy life and to make friends, and for his kindly and tolerant attitude toward his neighbors and associates.

The sympathy of their many friends is extended to the family in this time of bereavement and sorrow.

Mrs. Georgine Perkins.

From one of our readers, who ran a for rent local: "We had very good results from the ad which we ran in the News, so we will ask you to discontinue same. In fact, we have would have been sufficient as we received an answer the first week."

The Woman's Club

The Carrizozo Woman's Club met at the beautiful home of Mrs. T. A. Spencer January 15, 1937. During the business session, under new business two young ladies of the club handed in their resignations. Miss Jane Spencer is leaving for Gallup, New Mexico. Miss Rhoda Freeman who is going to attend the second semester in New Mexico University at Albuquerque.

After the regular business Mrs. Selma Degitz presented a lovely program pertaining to the "Home and Home".

Song "Keep the Home Fires Burning" congeration.

Song "Little Grey Home in the West" Mrs. J. M. Beck.

Reading "The Vagabond" Mrs. Don English.

Song "West of the Great Divide" Lealye Cooper.

Mr. Gustav A. Brunk favored us with a lovely talk on home.

Musical Reading "Home" by Edgar Guest, Mrs. R. E. Blancy accompanied by Mrs. T. E. Kelley.

Following the program delicious refreshments were served. A swan sailed gaily on each plate of Jello, cookies and coffee.

The Hostesses were: Mesdames Thomas Karr, Carl Garrison, George Goodson, Frank English, Ran C. Robinson.

Floods in Six States

At least six states are today protracted floods as mounting thousands of acres of land were inundated from the flooded rivers and rains forced them farther from their banks.

Thousands had fled their homes in Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Illinois, Arkansas and Kentucky as it was predicted that the flood period would extend for at least three weeks more.

In Missouri and Arkansas army engineers estimated that the St. Francis and Black rivers had inundated a hundred thousand acres.

Ten Days More

Santa Fe, Jan. 20. - A number of New Mexico car owners welcomed news today they had 10 more days grace in which to purchase their 1937 motor vehicle licenses.

Gov. Clyde Tingle, in Washington for the inauguration of President Roosevelt, telegraphed J. R. Wrinkle, his secretary here, last night authorization of the additional extension of time until February 1.

The executive says it was "absolutely the last extension". Previously he extended the time from January 1 to January 20.

Baptist Church

Sunday School each Sunday morning promptly at 10 o'clock. Church each 1st and 3rd Sundays at 11 A. M. and 7 P. M. All members are urged to attend. Visitors are cordially invited to worship with us.

The Baptist W. M. U. meets each 2nd and 4th Wednesdays from 2:30 to 4:00 at Baptist parsonage. Everyone welcome. Come and help us in our work.

Miss Jane Spencer left last Thursday for Gallup, New Mexico, where she has accepted a position.

Argentine Treaty

Senator Dennis Chavez in view of the troubled times in Europe and in view of the definite stand the American people have taken in their desire for strict neutrality on the part of this country, a neutrality which wants no part of the bickering and struggles of Old World diplomacy, the attention of the United States must of necessity turn elsewhere. Our President and leader has shown the way. It is to be in-America that the United States must turn. There lies our natural markets and by reason of their status as sister republic, they should be our friends.

In my opinion friendly relations can only be established by friendly intercourse, especially commercial. This fact has been recognized by the progressive attitude to promote economic relations through the Reciprocal Tariff efforts of this Administration.

However, in regard to the pending Sanitary Convention with Argentina there is a very substantial opinion in the United States, especially within the now revivified cattle industry of this Nation, that the treaty would serve to introduce communicable livestock diseases into this country which has not witnessed them in over a decade.

In my opinion, the Congress of the United States must in all events inquire into this phase of the question and if it is true that there would be danger of this nature, surely the interests of our country should not be considered.

Basketball game tomorrow night 7:00 p. m.

Basketball

By Bradley Smith

The Grizzlies went to Socorro Friday night to play a return game. A fast game was played Socorro defeating the local five 32 to 11. This is the second game that the Grizzlies have lost. The other was at the hands of Socorro.

Saturday night Tularosa met the local five here in a very exciting game, which ended in a tie. An extra half quarter was played to determine the best team. The tied score was 29-29. After a hard fought extra five minutes the Grizzlies won with the score of 31-29.

Workers Protest General Motors Strike

More than 9,000 men, virtually the entire personnel of the Chevrolet Gear and Axle Division of General Motors Corporation, staged a demonstration in Detroit last week against the strikes which have shut down General Motors plants and caused enforced idleness to more than 35,000 workers.

The Detroit demonstration occurred at the main plant of Chevrolet's four units on Holbrook Avenue at St. Aubin.

There has been no strike in these Detroit units of Chevrolet. But the units, devoted to the manufacture of gears, axles, steel wheels, and knee action mechanism, are key suppliers of these important parts of the automobile plants, and the sit down strikes in other plants have stopped all operations here.

It is estimated that more than 90 per cent of the men in the plants are eager to return to their jobs.

The employees assembled last week to receive their pay checks, their last pay with the resumption of operations.

While waiting for the paymaster's staff, the men held mass meetings in the four cafeterias of the Division and appointed a committee to express their opposition to the strikers and those causing their enforced idleness.

Appointing an employees' committee, headed by Arthur Evans and George Gilbert, workers in the plant, the groups voted to publicize the opposition to the strike through personal telegrams to Governor Frank Murphy of Michigan and President Roosevelt. After the meetings, the four groups assembled in front of the main plant for a mass demonstration of protest under banners with the legends: "We don't want a strike", "We want our jobs back", "We object to minority rule", and "No labor dictators for us".

Since this demonstration in Detroit, a conference has taken place between officials of General Motors Corporation and representatives of the striking faction. The meeting was called by the Governor and at its conclusion, statements were issued to the effect that negotiations for an early resumption of production would take place starting today.

Baptist W. M. U.

The women of the Baptist church in Carrizozo met Jan. 14 at 2:30 in parsonage and organized a W. M. U. Eight were present and all were anxious for the organization. We are expecting our union to double and triple in size in a very short time. We plan to meet each 2nd and 4th Wednesdays at the Baptist parsonage from 2:30 to 4:00 and shall be happy to welcome any visitor. Of course we are planning on working hard and doing much. Please remember us in your prayers.

Asked Additional WPA Funds

WPA Administrator Harry Hopkins received a request from Gov. Tingley of New Mexico for increased federal funds this year to relieve unemployment.

Hopkins said nothing could be done until congress acts on WPA appropriations.

Gov. Tingley said the money was needed for idle in drought areas and for those who are seasonally unemployed.

Coronado Cuarto Centennial

Roswell, Carlsbad and historic old Lincoln town will have their part in the Coronado Cuarto Centennial, detailed plans for which are now being worked out by the Cuarto Centennial Commission.

Billy the Kid, who carried no more terrifying name than William Bonney until his six-shooter and rifle began dealing death by the wholesale, was a far different character from the determined Spaniard in his coat of mail, but many a modern who knows nothing of Don Coronado have heard much of the exploits of Billy the Kid.

Southeastern New Mexico was the principal stamping ground of the famous, or infamous, if you wish, outlaw whose six-shooter reputedly carried 21 notches before Sheriff Pat Garrett put a bullet through his heart at Ft. Sumner one July night in 1881.

It was at sleepy old Lincoln town, then the county seat of an area that now includes Lincoln, Chavez, Eddy, Lea and De Baca counties, that the Kid murdered two guards and escaped only a few days before he was to be hanged for another slaying.

The condition of Mrs. Ella Huest, who was recently admitted to the Rathmann hospital is reported satisfactory.

Miss Ida Greer who was in the Rathmann hospital last week was dismissed Sunday, much improved.

Roosevelt Took Oath of Office

Washington. - Franklin D. Roosevelt was sworn into office at 12:29 (EST) for his second term as president of the United States as more than a quarter million people braved the sleet and rain to attend the ceremony.

President Roosevelt again dedicated himself to the removal of the "cancers of injustice" that cause want in the midst of plenty.

In his inaugural address he pictured American families as living under a "pall of disaster" and said:

"We are determined to make every American citizen a subject of his country's interest and concern."

The president saw progress in recovery, but added that the "new order of things" which had been brot about since 1933 meant more than that.

Restating his philosophy in broad terms and leaving a specific program to the future he spoke of using the "new materials of social justice to erect on the old foundations a more enduring structure for future generations."

The president mentioned the constitution, but implied no criticism of the supreme court.

Continental Oil Company's New Equipment

From Ponca City, Okla. headquarters of the Continental Oil Company, whose gasoline stations are a familiar sight in this vicinity, comes word of a new development in the conservation of American oil and natural gas resources which is expected within a reasonable length of time to save the petroleum industry of approximately $100,000,000 through recovery of by-products now lost in evaporation while the crude oil is being handled in the field.

First installation of the new type of equipment, which recovers in the form of gasoline about sixty per cent of what were formerly regarded as inevitable evaporation losses, was made recently at Conoco's famed Tepetate field in Basile, Louisiana, and special repressuring equipment soon to be installed in the pioneer Tepetate plant will permit the return of residue gases into the well for future use.

Ah Nu

Ah Nu, well known Chinese who died at White Oaks last Friday morning, was buried in the White Oaks cemetery Saturday with brief but impressive ceremonies.

He came to San Francisco, California from China in 1849, at the age of 20, and in 1885 drifted to White Oaks, which was a flourishing mining town at that time. Ah Nu was in partnership with another Chinaman for many years but at the death of his partner he remained in White Oaks, with his few American friends, and the memories of more prosperous days.

Until the death of Judge John Y. Hewitt in 1932 Ah Nu was his laundryman and faithful attendant.

Mr. Julian Taylor and several members of his family from Las Cruces attended the funeral. Ah Nu had been care taking for their old home in White Oaks for a number of years.

Current Events IN REVIEW by Edward W. Pickard

Deadlock Continues in General Motors Strike

GOV. FRANK MURPHY of Michigan abandoned, at least for the present, his efforts to end the deadlock between the General Motors corporation and the striking members of the United Automobile Workers...

The union conditions, as set forth by President Homer Martin, were: "We are willing to agree to withdrawal if negotiations are opened immediately with an agreement that all plants remain closed, without movement of equipment or resumption of activities until a national settlement is effected..."

About a thousand men, engaged in the sit down strikes, were thus holding up negotiations for settlement of the controversy which already had thrown out of work nearly 100,000 employees of the corporation.

General Motors officials received telegrams from a number of American Federation of Labor units urging no recognition of the United Automobile Workers as sole bargaining agency for the motor car factory workers.

Making the situation more difficult, the strikers in Flint engaged in a wild, riotous battle with the guards and city police that lasted for hours and resulted in the injury of dozens of men.

France Ready to Occupy Spanish Morocco

FRANCE, according to reliable reports, is all set to occupy Spanish Morocco, and expects the full co-operation of Great Britain. The French had sent to General Franco, head of the Spanish Fascists, one protest against the alleged admission to Morocco of German troops...

Gen. Franco

ent he said: "You can declare no soldier, German, Italian, or even Japanese—for they will soon invent news of Japanese landing — has crossed our frontiers."

At Gibraltar there was a report that 3,000 Japanese volunteers were expected to land at Cadiz and Jerez de la Frontera to join Franco's troops in a final assault on Madrid.

Supreme Court Rebuked by the President

THINLY veiled but unmistakable was President Roosevelt's rebuke to the Supreme court in his annual message on the state of the Union.

"The United States of America, within itself, must continue the task of making democracy succeed."

"In that task the legislative branch of our government will, I am confident, continue to meet the demands of democracy whether they relate to the curbing of abuses, the extension of help to those who need help, or the better balancing of our interdependent economies."

"So, too, the executive branch of the government must move forward in this task and, at the same time, provide better management for administrative action of all kinds."

"The judicial branch also is asked by the people to do its part in making democracy successful. We do not ask the courts to call non-existent powers into being, but we have a right to expect that conceded powers or those legitimately implied shall be made effective instruments for the common good."

"The process of our democracy must not be impeded by the denial of essential powers of free government."

Congress Receives Budget Message of President

STATING that he expects to balance the national budget and begin reducing the national debt in 1939, President Roosevelt submitted to congress a budget for the 1939 fiscal year.

But the President warned the nation that conditional budget balance in the next fiscal year and complete balance in the following year depended on industry's co-operation in hiring more persons from relief rolls.

The President estimated that federal revenue in the next fiscal year will increase by $1,475,466,378 because of better business and higher taxes.

The message allotted 451 millions to a general public works program, excluding the Florida ship canal and the Passamaquoddy tide harnessing project; 452 millions for agricultural relief and soil conservation; 335 millions for social security; and 316 millions for recovery and relief.

The message revealed that Mr. Roosevelt planned to curtail relief expenditures sharply from the 1938-37 levels. But he found available funds insufficient for the rest of the current fiscal year and asked Congress to appropriate $700,000,000 immediately, of which $450,000,000 is to be expended for recovery and relief between February 1 and June 30 when the 1937 fiscal year ends.

Frank Is Ousted From University of Wisconsin

Maritime Commission to Dispose of Ships

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by the United States Maritime commission that it will dispose of four shipping lines by June 29 next. They now operate 36 vessels in direct competition with private American shipping.

The lines and the routes they serve are: Cosmopolitan Shipping Company, Inc., operating the American France line serving French ports; the Southgate-Nelson Corporation operating the American Hampton Roads-Yankee and Oriole lines serving Germany and the United Kingdom; the Roosevelt Steamship Company, Inc., operating the American pioneer line serving Australia, India and the far east; and C. H. Sprague & Son, Inc., operating the American Republics line serving the east coast of South America.

Landon to Build Country Home Near Topeka

ALF M. LANDON retired from public office, turning over the governorship of Kansas to Walter A. Huxman, a Democrat. He let it be known that he had purchased two suburban tracts totaling 100 acres west of Topeka and will build there a house of colonial type where he and Mrs. Landon and their children will reside.

Program for Recovery of Brookings Institute

IN ONE of its periodic analyses on the economic situation the Brookings institute, non-partisan research foundation, summarizes proposals for "a consistent program of further recovery," the seven points of which are, briefly:

Re-establishment of a balanced federal budget.

Continuance of the present policy of maintaining a fixed price of gold and the establishment through international co-operation of a system of stable foreign exchange.

Extension of the reciprocal trade agreements "as the most practical means of reducing artificial barriers to commerce and reopening the channels of international trade."

Preservation of the "generally favorable ratio of prices and wage rates."

Maintenance of prevailing hours of labor "as the only means of meeting the production requirements involved in restoring during the next few years the standards of living of the laboring masses and promoting the economic advancement of the nation as a whole."

Elimination of private and public industrial practices "which tend to restrict output or to prevent the increase of productive efficiency."

Style-Correct 'Comfy' Snow Clothes

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

IF YOU would be graceful, "lady of the snows," you must be comfort-wise as well as fashion-wise. Warm and cozy but light as a feather, the new lightweight woollens are the big news in winter sportswear this season together with a decided vogue for gay Tyrolean "picture" costume.

Wool gabardine, wool covert cloth, snow cloth and the finely knitted snow-tested woollens are safe and happy choices, for they keep the wind at bay and are snow-shedding and waterproof. Ideal for tailoring, they keep their lines and fit under the most strenuous circumstances.

The smiling snow enthusiast to the left in the picture is perfectly clad from both a comfort and style viewpoint. This smiling queen of wintry realms is sporting with pride a new spectator coat of weather-resistant wool, soft and fleecy as a warm woolen blanket.

Picturesquely Tyrolean in feeling is the "suspender" skating costume centered in the group.

A cable knit sweater, in fanciful stitch, with flattering high neck is in soft white wool with matching toboggan-type cap, mittens and socks. Black wool gabardine flares in a widely pleated skating skirt and is caught at the snugly fitting waistline by decorative woolen suspenders done in colorful and authentic Tyrolean design.

To the right a classically tailored Austrian type ski suit is shown. It has a stunning, expertly tailored, double breasted gray wool gabardine jacket. Back-belted and snugly buckled, it stays nicely in place over high-built trousers in smooth suede-like black wool. A becoming gabardine soft-crowned cap fits well down on the head.

It is not only that modern snow clothes present an exciting variety of styles, but they are built on professionally correct lines. Current collections include any number of classically tailored types with simple mannish shades they depend on bright accessories for color accent.

To pink-cheeked winter sports fans now dotting ski trails and snowy hills all over the countryside, crowding skating rinks or the old mill pond, it is of the utmost importance that sports clothes be snow-worthy and completely adequate. Look to it that your snow clothes be warm and wind-resistant. Be sure, too, that they are freely cut for plenty of action. Beware of gaps. Let sock upon sock, scarf and sweater added to sturdy costume, dependable slide fasteners and other strong and stout gadgets make you feel "sure" even should you find yourself head-first in a snow drift.

FRINGED WOOLEN

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

In the fabric realm fringed woolen is one of the successful novelties of spectator sports frock in one of the amazing new fringed woollens. It is a deep oxford gray with blue and gray fringed tufts woven right into the fabric.

VEILS FOR SPRING, MILLINERY EDICT

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Paris milliners are saying for spring "a veil with every hat." And wait until you see the veils! Of course you may choose the modest little eye-screening affairs if you wish and they really are practical and will maintain their vogue the season through.

Lowered Necklines Will Be Welcomed by Many

Those among women of fashion that have been doing penance in wearing high unflattering necklines just to be stylish will welcome the good news that incoming dresses for spring assure a return to becoming soft lines. No longer will the throat have to be swathed in high drapes and fitted bands.

A pompon chrysanthemum is the most brilliant of all boutonnières. Both men and women wear it.

OF INTEREST TO THE HOUSEWIFE

Wipe and core apples. Put in baking dish and fill centers with sugar. Add small quantity boiling water. Cover and bake three hours in slow oven, basting frequently and adding more water if necessary.

Chilled, diced oranges mixed with pineapple and sprinkled with coconut make a delicious dessert.

Wash chiffons in a soap solution. No rubbing will be required, just rinsing up and down. Don't have the water too hot.

The best way to ventilate a room is to open a window at the top and bottom or one window at the top and another at the other side of the room at the bottom.

After putting water and soap into washing machine let it run for a minute or two to dissolve soap before putting in clothes, if you wish the best results.

A simple way to freshen white washing silk which has become yellow through constant washing is to add milk to the rinsing water and allow it to soak for a few minutes before squeezing out.

A felt blackboard eraser is best in cleaning the top of the kitchen stove. If grease gets on the stove it should be rubbed over the top of the stove while it is still hot. The eraser is much more satisfactory than a cloth and it keeps the hands from getting soiled.

Never put soda and water into an enameled saucepan that has been burned. Although it will remove the burned particles of food it will make the pan more likely to burn again the next time it is used. Use salt instead of soda. Fill the pan with cold water, leave until the next day and then slowly bring to a boil.

Artificial Moon

An estate in Florida in lighted each night by an artificial moon; another in Bedfordshire, England, has a private crematory; while a third on Long Island possesses a man-made brook, operated by a set of electric buttons which turn it on and off, regulate its speed and control its babbling and bubbling sounds.

GUNLOCK RANCH

SYNOPSIS

Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July. Jane Van Tambel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tambel, hated owner of Gunlock ranch, has arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Dr. Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community. Henry Sawdy of the Circle Dot ranch, tricked in a fake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Denison, a handsome young Texas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is favored to win, and lays heavy bets on him. Unknown to the crowd, Denison is a champion horseman. McCrossen and the young stranger tie in the various events. McCrossen picks up a handkerchief from the ground riding full speed, facing backward. Denison easily follows suit. Denison then drops a cigarette carelessly. Racing down the track full tilt, he picks up the cigarette. The verdict goes to Denison when McCrossen refuses to attempt the stunt. Entrusted by the crowd, Denison agrees to perform another trick. Jane Van Tambel is asked for her bracelet and throws it on the track. Just as Denison rides to pick it up a yell from Barney Rebstock, a McCrossen henchman, scares the pony, nearly costing the rider his life. Gun play is prevented by the intervention of Dr. Carpy.

CHAPTER II—Continued

He had the crowd with him. While they cheered, the wrangler remounted, cantered leisurely up the track and down, and brought the gelding to a halt in front of Dr. Carpy and Jane Van Tambel. Patting the pony affectionately on the neck with his left hand, and speaking softly, the wrangler tapped the little fellow with his doublet quilt on the right shoulder.

The pony pawed the dust in protest but gradually crooked his right foreleg, then his left, and knelt in apology to the grandstand. The crowd gave him loud applause.

Meanwhile, throwing his lines, the wrangler stepped off the pony, laid his hand on the guard rails of the grandstand track-fence, cleared it, and, picking his way among the spectators up to where Carpy sat, stopped before Jane.

He was covered with dust and sweat. Jane started. She saw a pair of keen brown eyes inspecting her from behind long dusty lashes. She saw a familiar object in his right hand, as he held it out to her and heard his low words:

"Lady, your bracelet!"

"Oh!" exclaimed Jane completely surprised. "Thank you!"

"It's the other way round, please," retorted the wrangler. "I want to thank you. Sorry," he stammered, "for the disturbance."

He tried to fade away among his bolterous following of uproarious Circle Dot men. But not everyone was disposed to let him escape easily. Harry Tension, who paid the stake money over to Sawdy at the Circle Dot quarters, insisted on meeting the Texan. He was dragged, reluctant, out of the sleeping tent and shook hands slowly with the Medicine Bend sport caginate.

"Where did you pick up that cigarette trick?" demanded Tension. "I never saw it done but once. That was at Madison Square Garden."

"How long ago?" asked the wrangler.

"Two years ago last winter."

"It was done there that winter, I understand," said the Texan evenly.

"Of course, it was under artificial light, so they had to use white paper."

"You been in New York, then?"

"Once or twice, sir."

"You've seen it done, then?"

"I have, sir. And I'm mighty glad I met you," drawled the Texan, cutting the interview short. He was not ungracious, but was somewhat fatigued.

"The boy can ride," said Tension, rejoining Sawdy. "I told him I saw that cigarette act done in Madison Square Garden, two years ago. He said he saw it at the same time. I guess that's where he picked it up."

"Picked what up, the cigarette?"

"The act. He said they used a white-paper cigarette there on account of the artificial light—so he must have seen it."

"Who's they?" asked Sawdy bluntly.

"I suppose he meant the rider."

"I wonder if he meant himself. Why, Harry," he's the man that introduced that act at the Garden, two years ago last winter."

CHAPTER III

Two years later, back on her old father's ranch, after two years in Chicago, Jane was riding the possessions one day to be here. Wandering on her pony far in the Gunlock hills, she had lost her way toward the close of the day and had stopped to ask directions from a man standing at the door of a poor-looking cabin.

"Why, isn't this Gunlock Ranch?"

"Not yet!" The man answered the question firmly. Jane thought:

"When I left the house this morning," she said indignantly, "they told me I could ride all day without getting off Gunlock Ranch. I must have ridden about a hundred miles. What did you mean by saying, 'not yet'?" she asked suspiciously.

Bill Denison, before whose door she had halted, looked at Jane with curiosity. "Oh, nothing special," he said casually. "Only, that old man Van Tambel has stolen everything in the hills except this ranch. I hear he's pretty sick now—down at the Medicine Bend hospital—but who can tell that he won't show up some fine night and steal this place while I'm asleep?"

At this outburst Jane first stopped breathing—then she breathed furiously. Her features hardened. "Why, how outrageous!" she exclaimed. "You ought to be ashamed of yourself."

The young man held his ground. "Let me ask a question. Are you any kin of old man Van Tambel's?" he asked composedly.

"I don't care to discuss that question with you," was her defiant reply.

"I admit, if you are, I was kind of rough, speaking as I did," he went on. "I didn't know he had any relations. I worked for him a year once, and I never heard him tell of any. So I guess I have to apologize."

"I should think you would apologize," declared Jane, scandalized.

"But," he countered, and the "but" was emphatic, "to tell you the truth, lady, I can't take everything back. You living over at the ranch?" he asked.

"I live in Chicago." She bit off the words as if they were tenpenny nails.

"And you're lost?"

"If I were not, I shouldn't be here."

"Now no matter how you and I may differ on some subjects," he said, "I'll start you on your way home, providing you want me to. In fact, I'll do it anyway."

"Will you wait a minute while I saddle up?"

"I won't wait a second. I'll find my own way." So saying, Jane jerked her horse around.

"Well, I like your spunk, anyway," Denison called out to her, "and I'll catch you in a couple of minutes, whether you like it or not."

"You can stay right where you are," she shot back. "I don't want you near me, anyhow."

As she rode away, Jane heard in an incredibly short time the clatter of hoofs beside her. She bristled inside.

"What are you chasing me for?" she demanded as Denison rode up and halted, with a jerk, at her side.

"I was afraid you'd fall off your horse," he retorted dryly. "Now skip the hard words," he countered easily as Jane angrily objected to his taunt and to his company. "You know you're used up; you don't know how to ride. You've used up your horse, and you don't know the country, and I've got to get you home, so turn around and follow me—do you know where you're heading for?"

"You Must Have Been Trying Not to Find Me," Said Jane Coldly.

She was too exasperated to speak.

"You're headed for the desert, and that's a poor place for a stranger to sleep in, night or day."

The fell warning checked Jane. She had heard stories about that awful desert; she had been warned to keep away from it. A revulsion of feeling swept over her. She was tired, tired enough to drop off her horse. Oppressed by a sense of loneliness, helplessness, and resentment at being ridiculed by a disagreeable stranger, her eyes filled with angry tears. She began to cry as she turned her horse's head to follow him.

"Hold on," he said kindly, "hold on. Nothing to cry about, not a thing. You're as safe as if you were in your bed at the ranch. I guess I'm pretty rough-spoken; but my bark's worse'n my bite. So you're from Chicago?"

"Yes."

"That's quite a burg, I understand."

"How far have we got to go to get home?"

"Considerable ways. If we could go as the crow flies, it wouldn't be so far. How long have you been out here?"

"Six weeks."

He was too polite to comment, though he had hardly need to ask the question—Jane was so evidently a tenderfoot.

"What's your name?" she asked in turn.

"Bill Denison."

"How long have you lived here?"

"Here and in the Panhandle most of my life."

"And how many years is that?"

"Nigh onto thirty years, I figure it to be."

"What are you so sore on every body at Gunlock ranch?"

Could Jane have seen the expression of amazed despair on Denison's face, she would have felt she had reverted to an impossible subject.

"Lady," retorted her companion, "if I told you, you wouldn't believe it. But I don't say I'm sore at everybody. And I'm not sore at you. I'm glad there's one decent person now at Gunlock—"

Jane bridled again. "One decent person! I like that!"

"Hang it, I didn't mean to make another break. Please excuse, and I'll toggle my troublesome tongue."

"Is it very much farther?" asked Jane, alarmed now by approaching darkness.

"Not a whole lot. But maybe you'd better mount off and rest a little if you need to. It's rough going from here on, for I'm trying to take a short cut."

"You're not lost, are you?" she demanded suspiciously.

"Not yet."

"But you might get lost?"

"Not tonight. And if you'll stick to the saddle a little ways farther, you can have a drink at a spring to freshen you up."

"How can you find it?"

"If you'd drunk from it as many times as I have, you could find it in a sandstorm, blindfolded—so could these horses, either of 'em."

The two were silent for a while. Presently Denison checked his horse. "Here's your spring, lady. Are you thirsty?"

"Choked. If you hadn't been so mean, I'd have asked you for a drink at your house—if it is your house."

"It's mine so far, but there's a hang-over lawsuit of Van Tambel's on it. Can you get down, lady?"

"I don't know whether I can or not. I've been in this saddle so long."

Her companion eased her to the ground. Jane refused to drink without a cup till he told her to cup her hands. Then she would not drink until she could see there were no snakes in the water.

"Nothing gets into that water; it would freeze a snake to death. But I can strike a light so you can see the water in your hands."

He folded a piece of newspaper taken from one of his saddle pockets, lighted a match thinking his companion rather fussy, and when Jane had drunk, he drank and gave the horses a drink.

"I'd have offered you a drink at my house if I'd thought of it," he said, helping her to remount. "I didn't aim to be mean. You kind of took me by surprise. I'll admit I'm sore at Gunlock."

There were lights everywhere when Jane knocked, very late, at the ranch-house door. Kindly old Bull Page, one of the ranch hands, greeted her in the kitchen.

"The girl was jaded to death. 'Where's everybody, Bull?' she asked, drooping into a chair."

"Why, Miss Jane, they're all out lookin' for you."

"Looking for me?" exclaimed Jane scornfully. "Well, they must be loafing on the job. Where's Quong?"

"Quong's gone to bed, but I'll get some bacon and fried potatoes for you in no time," declared Bull. "Coffee?"

"Yes, and strong."

"Same as I take it. Well, well, how'd you manage to find your way home?"

"I didn't find it. I found a man and a cabin about a hundred miles from nowhere, and he brought me home. That coffee smells grand, Bull," sighed Jane. "Hurry up with the bacon!"

As she said the words, in stalked the ranch foreman, Dave McCrossen.

At the sight of the missing girl he struck an attitude of resentful astonishment. "Hell's bells, Jane!" he exclaimed. "Here you are home and we've been ridin' all over creation for you!"

"You must have been trying not to find me," said Jane coldly. Without much reason she resented the fact that she had got lost and not been promptly found.

"Where were you?" asked the foreman, sitting down.

"In the hills. You've always been telling me to ride where I pleased and that there was no danger because you'd pick me up. I guess your formula didn't work."

"I missed this time. There's never been any trouble locatin' you before. But it won't happen again. So you just wandered away and wandered home again?"

"I did not wander home. I was brought home."

"Who brought you?"

"Bill Denison."

If a cannon cracker had been exploded under McCrossen, it could not have been more sensational than her answer. He caught his breath with a gulp.

"That yellow! Well, somethings do beat the devil! Bull!" he said, recollecting himself, "go out and tell the boys Jane is home. Bill Denison, was it?" he resumed, looking keenly at Jane.

"The name doesn't seem to sit very well with you," observed Jane crustily. McCrossen looked disgruntled.

"That bird's name doesn't sit very well with anyone at Gunlock."

Jane seemed willing to pursue the subject. "Why not?" she asked languidly as she sipped her coffee.

"Why not? There's more reasons than one. Denison is a ruttler, if you know what that means." He paused.

"What else?" she asked in the same fatigued manner.

Sacrifice in Iron

On the old bridge, in Frankfort-am-Main, the Rhineland, stands a medieval iron cross with a figure of Christ. A cock tops the cross, explained by legend that the architect vowed to sacrifice to the devil the first living thing crossing the bridge.

UNCOMMON AMERICANS

By Elmo Scott Watson

Sam Hawken, Riflemaker

WHAT a Stradivarius is to violinists, a Hawken rifle is to those who love fine firearms. For a genuine example of the workmanship of "Old Sam" Hawken of St. Louis is one of the rarest weapons in existence. So far as is known, there are only five.

But it is not alone the rarity of these rifles which makes them interesting. It's a case of "the man behind the gun" as well. He was Samuel Hawken, born of Pennsylvania Dutch stock in Maryland in 1792. He was a soldier in the War of 1812 and after his return from it he began practicing the trade of gunsmith.

In 1822 he moved to St. Louis where his brother, Jacob Hawken, was already engaged in making guns. That was the golden era of the fur trade and the fame of the rifles which Samuel and Jacob Hawken were making soon spread all along the frontier because they were the most accurate and finest pieces of workmanship available, not even excepting the famous Kentucky "long lifes."

The demand for Hawken's product was limited only by the supply, which was small. For Hawken made every rifle by hand, welding the barrels out of strips of iron which he got from an iron furnace on the Meramec river in Missouri. These strips were hammered into five-inch lengths and welded around a steel mandrel, thus making the tube which was bored out with a rifling tool afterwards. It was a tedious and thoroughgoing job of work, unusual even in those days of careful and honest craftsmanship.

But what was even more unusual was the fact that Hawken had one price for his rifles. That was $25—no more, no less. He could have had twice or three times that price, so great was the demand, but he refused to charge more because he believed that one price brought him trade.

Jacob Hawken died during the cholera epidemic of 1849 in St. Louis and Samuel Hawken continued in the business until 1859 when he sold out to an apprentice, John P. Gemmer who was running the Hawken shop when Samuel Hawken returned to St. Louis in 1861 to spend his declining years. "Old Sam" became a regular habitue of the shop so long as he lived and could scarcely keep his hands off the tools, so greatly did he love the work. Once Gemmer allowed him to don an apron and make a rifle complete as he had done in years gone by and this rifle, probably the last which "Old Sam," honest workman, ever made, is one of the two Hawken rifles now owned by the Missouri Historical society.

$50,000 Signature

THERE'S no doubt that John D. Rockefeller's signature, or that of J. P. Morgan, would be worth $50,000—if it were on a check! But the only American whose written name (not on a check) has ever been worth that amount was Button Gwinnett.

Gwinnett was born in England in 1732. Despite that fact, he can be listed as an American because he came to America in 1770, was chosen as a delegate from Georgia to the Continental congress and was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence in 1776.

The next year he was an unsuccessful candidate for governor and he was also defeated as candidate for brigadier-general of the Georgia militia by Gen. Lachlin McIntosh. As a result of a quarrel, Gwinnett challenged McIntosh to a duel which was fought with pistols at 12 feet. He was mortally wounded and died on May 27, 1777.

Most of the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence lived for many years after that historic event, wrote many letters or signed many documents. But with Gwinnett's career cut off in less than a year after he joined that company of immortals, he left few examples of his handwriting. So his autograph is the rarest of all the signers and it is that rarity which gives it such great value.

In 1926 Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, the noted collector, paid $22,500 for a will which was signed by Gwinnett as a witness. That was an unheard-of price for an autograph. But it was only the beginning of a "boom" in Button Gwinnetts.

Later in the year this same collector bought another—this time a signature on a promissory note and it cost him $28,500.

In 1927 an all-time record for autograph prices was reached when Dr. Rosenbach paid $51,000 for a letter signed by Button Gwinnett and four other signers of the Declaration who were serving on the marine committee of the Continental congress. Aside from the Declaration it is the only known document dealing with national affairs which this Georgian signed.

Offers New Opportunities

THE modern woman who sews is really an enviable person. She has at her finger-tips an endless array of fashions from which to choose for her own and her daughters' wardrobes. Today's trio affords her new opportunities in several size ranges; in fact, there's something here for the mature figure, size 42, right on down to the tiny tot who just manages to fill an "age 4."

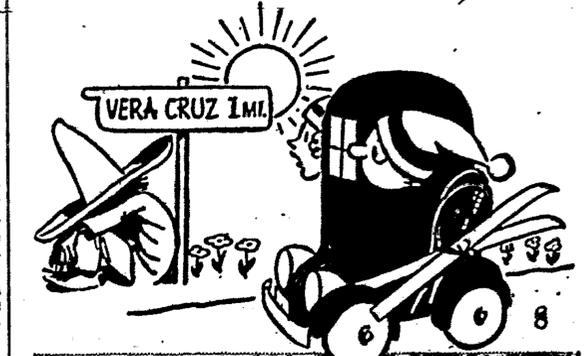

material for this model. It is available in sizes 12 to 20 (30 to 40 bust). Size 14 requires 2 3/4 yards of 54 inch fabric plus 3/4 yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Pattern 1210—Which would you have, Madam, an artistic smock or a glamorous house coat? This pattern allows you to make this interesting choice and it has what you'll need to make either of the models illustrated here. The house coat has become woman-kind's most desired "at home" attire; so rather than be among the minority, why not turn your talents to this princess model—you'll have it complete in a mere few hours and think of the countless days it will stand you in good stead as a really good looking wardrobe asset. It is designed in sizes 14 to 20 (32 to 42 bust). Size 16 (in full length) requires 5 1/2 yards of 39 inch material plus 3/4 yards of bias piping and 1/4 yard contrasting material for pocket.

Mrs. Era S. Smith, Editor and Publisher

A Letter to Publishers from Mr. H. T. Ewald

Lincoln County News, Carrizozo, New Mexico.

I was thumbing through a copy of Ralph Waldo Emerson the other day and I saw a phrase which started me thinking about my many years of friendly association with advertisers and publishers and which prompts me to write you this letter of greeting.

The phrase was as follows: "The silence that accepts merit as the most natural thing in the world is the highest applause."

Now, that sentence may be perfectly true. It certainly expresses the attitude which almost all of us have taken in the past toward many people and many institutions that we admire and appreciate the most. But I believe that the troublous years which we have now happily put behind us have altered that attitude and made all of us a bit more ready to think of the other fellow and to applaud the job that he is doing, not just silently, but out loud so that he can hear and know!

And so I am writing to you and to a number of other publishers throughout the country today to congratulate you on the splendid job which you have been doing and to thank you for the fine contributions which you have made to the growth and prosperity of the Campbell Ewald Company and its clients.

All advertising media are important, of course, but the Campbell-Ewald Company has always considered the newspaper the most vital factor in influencing the local market for a national producer, and we and our clients continue to hold this same conviction today.

Our largest individual client, the Chevrolet Motor Company, has just completed the most successful year in its history. It has sold 1,125,000 1936 Chevrolets, taking first place in both passenger car and truck sales for the seventh time in the past ten years. It has also sold more than 2,000,000 used cars, breaking all previous sales records in that important field as well. All of which, you will agree, is a magnificent selling achievement.

In that achievement, the newspapers of America—your newspaper—have played an important part, and I want to thank you most sincerely on behalf of the Chevrolet Motor Company and my own organization.

All of our other clients, in many other lines of business, have likewise enjoyed a highly successful and profitable year, as has the Campbell-Ewald Company itself.

In the achievements of these organizations also the newspapers of America—your newspaper—have played a leading role and I want to thank you on behalf of these clients, too, for the fine support and co-operation which you have always given to them and to us.

This has become a rather long letter, but that line of Emerson's did start me thinking and did cause me to decide to make my appreciation evident.

My thanks to you again and my very best wishes for a Happy, Prosperous New Year in 1937.

Sincerely,

H. T. Ewald,
President,

72nd Annual Wool Growers Convention

Albuquerque, N. M., Jan. 20. F. R. Marshall, secretary of the National Wool Growers association, and editor of the National Wool Grower, the official magazine of the 72 year-old organization, has announced a program for the 72nd annual convention in Albuquerque January 26-27 and 28 which covers practically all of the more serious problems now affecting the livestock industry in the west. The nature of these problems affect every western grower of sheep and the authoritative positions of the men chosen to lead the discussions, promises to bring to Albuquerque the largest gathering of wool growers in the history of the association.

In addition to addresses by Governor Tingley and R. C. Rich, of Idaho, president of the national association, which will deal generally with the problems before the sheep industry, the following discussions are slated: The proposed Argentine Sanitary convention, favored by president Roosevelt; discussion led by Dr. S. W. McClure, of Bliss, Idaho.

National agricultural policies; discussed by M. L. Wilson, under secretary of agriculture.

The Federal 1937 range conservation program; led by George E. Farrell of the AAA and F. H. Silcox of the national forest service.

Significance of changes in the 1936 lamb market; led by J. S. Campbell, in charge of the market news bureau of the department of Agriculture.

Demonstration of government grading and stamping of lamb; led by B. F. McCarthy, of the meat grading service of the department of agriculture.

The national lamb sales campaign; Lamb feeders' problems; getting lambs from range to feed lot; administration of the Taylor grazing act are other subjects slated for much attention.

William Thomas Stokes

William Thomas Stokes was born at Jackson, Miss. Sept. 1, 1869 and was called from this life Dec. 25, 1936 at Los Angeles, California.

On April 29, 1896 he was united in marriage to Elizabeth Fulton at Lometa, Texas. To this union four children were born: Mrs. B. W. Wilson, Ancho, N. M., Mrs. D. R. Catlin, Mrs. J. E. Zimmerman both of Los Angeles, Calif. and Wm. T. Stokes Jr. of Lodi, Calif., all of whom were with him during his last illness.

He was laid to rest in the Englewood cemetery Dec. 26 1936.

Mr. Stokes spent 30 years at Carlsbad, N. M. leaving there in 1920, for California where he had spent the past sixteen years.

He was a splendid citizen, and devoted to his family who rendered him deepest devotion in return.

"I Kinda Liked Him and I Could See From the Nice Way He Had of Smilin' That He Hadn't No Fault to Find With Me."

By JAMES J. MONTAGUE

YOU'D of been surprised, Mrs. Applegarth, you would so. A person sees all sorts of things runnin' a roomin' house, an' I had my share of sights I guess, but never nothing like this. An' I can't say as I'd like to go through it again, though it did get me shut of them racketeer fellers without there bein' any shootin'. Only I can't say that it wasn't worse than shootin' while it was goin' on.

"This feller came in late one night an' said he wanted the best in the house an' had the money to pay for it, so I give him the big room with the double doors an' he paid a week in advance. He had the expressman carry in a couple of big boxes, not trunks exactly but boxes with iron bands all around them, an' heavy from the way the expressman puffed and huffed when he was carryin' 'em upstairs. He said I needn't have Ophelia come into the room, as he didn't know when he'd be sleepin' or wakin', so I just give him the key, thinkin' I'd seen the last of him, for most of the lodgers go an' come without sayin' nothin' to me except to give me a stall about the room rent now an' then.

"I seen him now an' then on the stairs while he was comin' or goin' an' he always give me a polite good mornin' an' I give it back to him. I kinda like 'em when they're sociable; it's sort of fun to know what their business is and how they're gettin' on in it, but I ain't pushin' an' I don't put no ear into what's none of my business. Still I kinda liked him, an' I could see from the nice way he had of smilin' that he hadn't no faults to find with me.

"It was the third day after he come that the other feller come. He was dressed awful smart for a feller that rooms, an' he was terribly flip with his conversation an' I could smell liquor on him. But the two upstairs rooms was vacant, an' he look 'em both, an' paid a week's rent down just like the other had done. So I didn't ask no questions.

"Well, it wasn't mor'n the next day before fellers begin comin' up to see him—slick dressed chaps that talked kinda like actors in plays, the kind that is in rough shows. Every night I could hear 'em through the ceilin', an' every once in a while they'd get into a row an' call each other names, an' say my boarder was holdin' 'em up on them, an' the next thing he knew he'd be makin' big ones out of little ones or takin' a ride. An' he'd talk back an' say that if it wasn't for him they'd all be up the river an' they might land there yet if they didn't lay off of him an' let him run the racket so they'd all be wearin' sparklers.

"Him an' the first feller met on the stairs once or twice, an' the second feller give the first feller a close look, an' when he come down he asked me who he was, an' how long he'd been there. 'He ain't a dick is he?' he says. 'I never ask gentlemen what their names or their business is as long as they pay their rent,' I says, 'an' I don't expect anybody else to.'

"That's the dope, Gramma,' he says, an' before I could put him in his place he was walkin' down the front steps. In a minute or two here comes the first feller, smilin' an' polite as usual. 'You got a nice place here, Mrs. Juddins,' he says, but them boys in them rooms upstairs don't sound good to me. I got the idea they're a bunch of racketeers from what comes down through the cracks in the ceilin'.

"Them cracks in the ceilin' don't hurt you none,' I says. 'You can't get one of them tesselated ceilings with what you're payin'.'

"I didn't mean to be flip,' he says, 'only if I was you I'd keep an eye on them boys. It looks to me as if they'd be follered in here some day by a lot of cops, an' it wouldn't be no good if you was to get your place into the crime news. However, it ain't none of my business,' and he walked off. I was pretty mad, but at that he'd set me thinkin'. I didn't like them fellers so much myself, but they was good pay, an' anyway how was I to get 'em out?

"I wondered on that a lot more the next night, for some strangers come in to see 'em, an' after a lot of shoutin' an' swearin' a gun went off, an' by an' by I heard 'em carryin' somethin' down the stairs, somethin' heavy from the way they tromped. Two of 'em come back two hours afterward, and there was a lot of low talkin' which I could hear plain for I'd gone up the stairs an' was just outside their door. I was worse scared from what I heard, for it was pretty plain that somebody had been hurt a good deal, an' the other fellers wasn't so sure the cops wouldn't be after 'em. You can imagine what I was thinkin'. My place might be raided, an' maybe I'd be accused of running one of them hide-outs for yeggs, an' then where would my business be to say nothin' of my reputation.

"I went to bed an' thought and thought, but it didn't get me nowhere, so by an' by when I heard my first roomer feller comin' in I slipped into my dress an' went down to the landin'.

"Listen, Mister,' I says, 'I got somethin' to say to you.'

"Wrong man,' he says. 'I got still a week paid up on the rent.'

"It ain't that,' I says, 'but them fellers up stairs. They're gangsters or somethin' like that, an' I want to git 'em out of here or the police will be around, an' then I can never rent a room again.'

"He thought a while, then he says: 'I'll get 'em out for you.'

"How,' I asks, 'I wouldn't want you to get hurt, an' them is bad boys.'

"I won't get hurt. Just leave it all to me, an' don't pay no attention if they leave in a hurry. You probably wouldn't get no regular rent anyway, an' them ain't the kind of fellers that helps the roomin' house business none. You just go to bed, an' in about an hour you'll hear 'em all goin' away, an' they won't be back neither. Trust little Willie.'

"Well, what was they to do about it? I went to bed but kept awake, an' in about an hour I heard the wildest lot of yellin' an' screechin' overhead, an' then there was a rush of feet on the stairs an' all three of 'em takin' four steps at a jump was makin' for the street. I laid there skeered cold for about a half an hour, an' then nearly jumped out of my skin when I heard a tap on my door.

"Who's that?' I said, but I couldn't talk over a loud whisper.

"Only little me,' says the first feller's voice. 'I want to borrow a broom.'

"What on earth—'

"Better hurry, or they'll get away on me.'

"Who? Them toughs has gone.'

"Yes, I know. An' the snakes will be if I don't get that broom in a hurry.'

"Snakes?'

"Yeah. Just my little performin' troop. There ain't no harm into 'em. Maybe you'd like a look at 'em.'

"Well sir, he had a way of talkin' that made me easy in my mind right away. I got into some clo'es an' follered him up the stairs, and peeked into the room through a crack in the door, an' there he was sweepin' about 'eight or ten mean lookin' snakes into a box, not in a hurry, but just slow an' easy like.

"My performin' troupe,' he says. 'Defanged, an' gentle as kittens. But them boys didn't know that. I left the box in the room so they'd get a welcome when they come home, an' I guess they got it. Anyway they're gone.'

"They was, too, an' they never come back. An' I wouldn't tell anybody but you, Mrs. Applegarth, but me an' him is goin' to be married an' I'm goin' out on the road with him—an' them.

"With who? With him an' the snakes of course. If it wasn't for them there wouldn't of been no romance."

CONSTIPATION

Unrelenting Enemy of Health HOW are your bowels? The doctor asks this important question because a primary need of good health is for the bowels to regularly pass off the waste of metabolism. Every doctor knows you cannot live well, feel well or look well if you allow constipation to hinder daily excretion and thus prevent body cleanliness. You should know why! Then why let a bad condition continue? Try Doan's Regulets. They are mild and effective; act as a digestive and hepatic stimulant, increase the flow of bile, and relieve temporary congestion of the intestines. Be regular with Regulets. CHEESE DISHES ALWAYS POPULAR

Expert Supplies Some of Her Favorite Recipes.

By EDITH M. BARBER

THERE are so many delicious cheese dishes that it is difficult for me to select my favorite recipes. Perhaps first on my list should be toasted cheese, which is so easy to make and which is such a good luncheon dish. Possibly I like it best, because it is an old family recipe. Next comes old-fashioned rarebit, made as it should be with beer, and then comes that other rarebit sometimes called blushing bunny. Cheese Souffle must also be included, and there certainly must be a cheese sauce. A reader of this column has asked that I reprint the recipe for the old favorite, cheese cake, so that should complete the list.

Toasted Cheese.

- 1/2 pound American cheese.
 - 1 teaspoon salt.
 - 1/2 teaspoon mustard.
 - Paprika.
 - 1 egg.
 - 1/2 to 1 cup milk.
- Cut the cheese into small pieces. Place in a greased pan, sprinkle with mixed seasonings. Beat the egg in slightly and add one-half cup milk; add enough more milk to cover. Put pan in another pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven about thirty minutes, until cheese is brown.

Old-Fashioned Rarebit.

- 1 pound American cheese.
- 1 tablespoon butter.
- 2 teaspoons salt.
- 2 teaspoons dry mustard.
- 1 teaspoon paprika.
- 1/2 bottle beer.

Shred cheese with a fork. Melt butter, stir in seasoning, add cheese and stir over low fire until melted. Stir in beer gradually and cook, stirring over fire until the mixture is smooth. Pour at once over hot toast. A dash of cayenne pepper may be added if desired.

Cheese Souffle.

- 1 cup milk.
- 3 tablespoons quick-cooking tapioca.
- 1 teaspoon salt.
- Few grains cayenne.
- Few grains mustard.
- 1 cup grated cheese.
- 3 eggs.

Scald milk in double boiler, add tapioca and cook fifteen minutes, stirring frequently. Add seasonings and cheese and stir until melted. Remove from heat and cool. Stir in egg yolks beaten until light. Add salt to egg whites, beat until stiff and fold lightly into the cheese mixture. Turn into greased baking dish, set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate oven (375 degrees Fahrenheit) for thirty-five to forty minutes.

Cheese Sauce.

- 2 tablespoons flour.
- 1 tablespoon butter.
- 1/2 teaspoon salt.
- Pepper.
- 1 cup milk.
- 1 cup soft cheese, pressed through a strainer, or 1/2 cup grated hard cheese.

Melt butter, stir in flour and seasonings. Stir in milk slowly and stir until thick and smooth. Add cheese and stir until melted.

Tomato Rarebit.

- 1 pound soft cheese.
 - Paprika, pepper.
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt.
 - 1/2 teaspoon mustard.
 - 1 1/2 to 2 cups tomato soup.
- Cut the cheese in small pieces, add mixed seasoning and cook over a low fire until melted. Add enough tomato soup to thin the mixture so that it may be poured on slices of toast.

Cheese Cake.

- 1 package zwieback.
- 2 tablespoons butter.
- 2 tablespoons sugar.
- 1 cup sugar.
- 2 tablespoons flour.
- 1/2 teaspoon salt.
- 5/8 cakes cream cheese.
- 1 teaspoon vanilla.
- 4 eggs.
- 1 cup cream.

Roll zwieback into crumbs, add butter and two tablespoons sugar and cream together, blend thoroughly and put into nine-inch spring form mold and press down evenly on the bottom.

Mix the cup of sugar with flour, and salt and cream well with cheese and mix again. Add vanilla and beaten egg yolks and cream and whip again. Fold in beaten egg whites and bake in a moderate oven, 325 degrees Fahrenheit, for about an hour or until center is set. © Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

Seagazing Game Room

The play spirit should be encouraged in both adults and children. What better way is there of doing it than converting an attic or basement to this gay purpose. The materials necessary are wallboard for partitions, come paint and some imagination. If you have a yen for ocean travel, paint the walls blue and paint the wainscoting to suggest the white rails and life-preservers of a deck. Use deck chairs for furniture.

The wall can easily be safeguarded. Screw two door stops into the baseboard behind the chest to keep it just far enough away from the wall to allow space for the lid to open and shut freely, without touching wall or woodwork. The edge of the chest lid also is not marred when this is done, so the door stops do double duty in protective way.

Before leaving the subject of door stops, let me suggest their use as legs for low footstools. These can be made at home. Cover a small strong wooden box with a piece of carpet, or make a needle-point cover of cross stitch. Pad the top of the box slightly before fastening on the cover. Screw four door stops to under side of box, and a smart and neat foot stool results. The wood of the stops can be stained any tone of wood to match furniture in the room.

When a china closet door swings open it sometimes catches in another door fastening. This annoying occurrence can be avoided by securing a length of small-link chain with screw eyes to door and frame of closet. Occasionally such a door, swinging wide, would strike a ceiling light globe unless held in check by such a device. The chain should always be long enough to permit doors to open as wide as possible without danger of damage. © Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.

The Household

By LYDIA LE BARON WALKER

THE homemaker can, by simple devices, save her furniture and furnishings from getting marred and at the same time protect paint and wall paper in her rooms. Also in similar ways she can guard against breakage, and entanglements of door fastenings that are annoying rather than disastrous. For example door stops can be made to do more than prevent doors from hitting the wall, and lengths of chain can be put to unusual uses of protection against accidents.

Door stops can keep furniture from rubbing against a wall back of it. The stops may be screwed into the base board, or into the furniture itself, in some instances. The stops should be positioned where the rubber tips will strike the baseboard or panelling of the wall, and not where they will come in contact with plastered walls or wall paper.

Protection

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

International Fourflushing.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—When the German troops marched into the Rhineland, France was going to fight about it, but didn't.

When the Italians moved against Ethiopia, Britain was going to invoke force, but didn't.

When Russia poked her snout into the Spanish mess, there was going to be armed action by other powers, but wasn't.

When Japan began to nibble again at China, there was going to be intervention but all that happened was that the League of Nations chirped despairingly and then put its head back under its wing.

Somehow, I'm thinking of the two fellows who started fighting and, when bystanders rushed in to separate them, the one who was getting the worst of it yelled:

"Five or six of you hang on to that big brute. Anybody can hold me!"

Curing Temperament.

A JUDGE back east rules that this so-called artistic temperament is not sufficient excuse for a so-called genius to beat up his bride.

I tried the stuff once—just once—but the preceding judge in my case was a lady. For years I'd been trudging as steadily as a milkman's horse, whereas being a practitioner of a creative profession, I said to myself I really ought to stage some temperament just to make the family appreciate me. So I rehearsed my act and went downstairs one morning and put it on. So my wife looked at me across the breakfast table, and said: "I know what the trouble with you is. You're bilious. You'll take some calomel."

Well, what are you going to do when a beautifully staged emotional outburst is diagnosed, not as the promptings of a tortured soul, but as liver complaint?

You guessed it. I took the calomel, and, I pledge you my word, haven't had an attack since.

The Law's Delays.

ONCE a Massachusetts Supreme court reversed a felony conviction because the prosecution, in filing the record, stated that the crime was committed "on the fifteenth day of June, 1855" but failed to state whether the year was 1855 A. D. or 1855 B. C.

And ever since then on quibbles almost equally foolish—such as a misplaced comma or an upside down period—other high courts have been defeating the ends of justice and setting at naught the decisions of honest juries.

Science has gone ahead, medicine has taken enormous steps forward, but law still rides in a stage coach and hunts with a flintlock musket. Has it ever occurred to anyone that one reason for the law's delays is a lack of the thing called common sense?

Dinosaur Footprints.

BACK in 1859, a college professor discovered on a sandstone ledge in Massachusetts a whole batch of imbedded tracks of the dinosaur—famously known to geologists as dinah, just as among its scientific friends the great winged lizard is frequently referred to as big liz.

At the time, the discovery created no excitement—merely a slight shock of surprise to the old families upon learning there was something historic in Massachusetts antedating the Mayflower. For the naturalists figured these tracks had been left more than 150,000,000 years ago. And they were suffered to remain nearly eighty years more.

But here recently it develops that parties unknown have been chiseling Dinah's footprints out and toting them off. This would seem to indicate either that America is getting dinosaur-conscious or that dinosaur-leggers are operating, or both.

So if a slinky gentleman should come to the side door, offering a prime specimen for the parlor whatnot, don't trade with him, reader—call the police. Next time he may come back with a dornick off of Plymouth Rock or the corner-stone of Harvard college or the name plate from Cotton Mather's coffin.

Meaning of "H. M. S." on Ship "H. M. S." preceding the name of a vessel stands for His (or Her) Majesty's ship. The letters are used in connection only with vessels in the British service. Popularly "H. M. S." is supposed to be the abbreviation of His Majesty's steamer, but the letters were used in the names of British ships long before the commercial development of the steamboat. "H. M. S." is also the abbreviation of His Majesty's Service.

Home Heating Hints

By John Barclay Heating Expert

IT'S easy to regulate a furnace fire to meet the requirements of daily temperature changes. All you need to do is to understand the functioning of the check and ashpit dampers.

Check Damper—a flap-like damper, which should be located in the chimney pipe between the turn damper and the chimney. When it's open, it slows up the burning speed of the fire; closed, it quickens the speed.

Ashpit Damper—located below the grates and controls the amount of air supplied to the fire.

To produce the best results, these dampers should work together—when one is open the other should be closed, and vice versa. In mild weather, when a slow, lasting fire is needed, the check damper should be wide open and the ashpit damper closed. When more heat is needed, the check damper should be partly closed, the ashpit damper partly open. For extremely cold weather, the check damper should be closed tight, the ashpit damper wide open.

The proper use of these two dampers insures the proper degree of heat at all times on a minimum amount of fuel.

DON'T RUB YOUR EYES

Rubbing your eyes grinds invisible particles of dirt and dirt into the delicate tissues, making the irritation just that much worse. A much better way, as thousands have discovered, is to use a little Murine in each eye—night and morning. Murine may be depended on to relieve eye irritation because it is a reliable eye preparation containing 7 active ingredients of known value in caring for the eye. Use for 40 years. Ask for Murine at your drug store.

Sore Throat Pains DUE TO COLDS Eased Instantly

1. Crush and stir 3 Bayer Aspirin tablets in 1/2 glass of water.

2. GARGLE thoroughly—throw your head very back, allowing a little to trickle down your throat.

3. Repeat gargle and do not rinse mouth; allow gargle to remain on membranes of the throat for prolonged effect.

Just Gargle This Way with Bayer Aspirin

Here is the most amazing way to ease the pains of rawness of sore throat resulting from a cold we know you have ever tried.

Crush and dissolve three genuine BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in one-third glass of water. Then gargle with this mixture twice, holding your head well back.

This medicinal gargle will act almost like a local anesthetic on the sore, irritated membrane of your throat. Pain eases almost instantly; rawness is relieved.

Countless thousands now use this way to ease sore throat. Your doctor, we are sure, will approve it. And you will say it is marvelous.

Get the real BAYER ASPIRIN for it by its full name—not by the name "aspirin" alone.

New Lighting, Even Bubbles in Color To Beautify Fair

NEW YORK. (Special).—None of the scientific discoveries or developments being hurried from the laboratories to make the New York World's Fair unusual and thrilling will produce more startling results than the latest technique in illumination. This statement was issued by Grover Whalen, President of the Fair Corporation, at the inauguration of experiments by the Fair's staff of engineers and illumination experts and their consultants. These men are already at work with quarter-inch scale models of the Fair. Types of lighting equipment never before used in comprehensive manner, and utterly new principles never developed practically. They are dealing with everything from fluorescent dyes and colored bubbles to concentrating lamps and floodlight systems. The plan is not to create spectacular effects in the usual sense of the term, says Mr. Whalen, but rather to create designs in light that will make their appeal through their magnitude and their sheer beauty.

Production of Coins

Production of coins in 1936 broke all records except for 1919, and 1937 promises to turn out more than ever.

It's too early to estimate yet how much the demand for coin is being jumped up by the social security act.

The continued heavy demand in the last year is attributed chiefly to the business pick-up, increased employment and higher wages, and payment to WPA, CCC, and similar workers, who spend half dollars, quarters, dimes nickels and cents with considerable velocity.

Last year, the mint reports, it coined 738,642,000 pieces of money as compared with 660,760,000 in 1935 and 738,642,000 in 1919.
