

Townteam Tournament

The Capitan town teams tournament will be staged at the new Capitan High School Gymnasium on Friday evening February 26 and all day and evening Saturday, February 27. Ten good town teams have formally entered the tournament, and with the new large basketball court, high ceiling and plenty of light, it promises to be the best tournament ever staged at Capitan. The teams formally entered are: Capitan, Mescalero Indians, Belen, Hope, Alamogordo, Tularosa, (Corona C. C.), Carrizozo, and Corona.

Four prizes are offered in the tournament, and shall be presented at the close of the final game Saturday evening by Mayor F. H. Hall of Capitan. Gold miniature basketballs for each individual of the winning team, sterling silver balls to second place winners, a sterling silver loving cup, modernistic in design for consolation winners, and a large 11 inch basketball statue trophy to be presented to the high point man of the tournament.

The first game of the tournament starts Friday evening Feb. 26, at 8 o'clock, when Corona townteam meets the Mescalero Indians. At nine o'clock Carrizozo meets Capitan town team. Saturdays' games start at 9:00 A. M. and continue until 4:30 P. M. Evening games are Carrizozo High and Capitan High 7 o'clock. Consolation game at 8 o'clock. Final game to decide winner of tournament at 9 o'clock.

Woman's Club Dance

The Carrizozo Woman's Club sponsored a Valentine dance at the Community Hall last Saturday night for benefit of their Club House. Several speciality numbers were presented in which home talent was displayed. A large heart was placed in the center of the hall and each person who touched it was penalized 5c. The prize waltzes were well managed and fairly judged. Mr. Willie Gallacher acted as floor manager. An enjoyable time was had by all in attendance and it was a financial success.

Ex-Sheriff A. S. McCamant of Corona was shaking hands with his many Carrizozo friends last Wednesday.

Joseph Wohlgermuth Slain over Bar Row

Tularosa, N. M. Feb. 17.—G. W. Winset, Tularosa bar operator was held in Alamogordo today, following the fatal shooting of Joseph Wohlgermuth, 45.

An argument over a missing $20 bill preceded the shooting, according to Town Marshal Herbert Douglas.

Mr. Douglas, who questioned 12 witnesses, made the following statement:

"Mrs. G. W. Winset, the saloon proprietor's wife had started to the Post Office to send a money order. She returned and some one playfully took the purse from her hand. The purse was passed playfully among several patrons. When she retrieved the purse, she said a $20 bill was missing. The patrons were questioned.

"Steve Wohlgermuth, brother of the slain man, had been present at the play with the purse and had gone to a barber shop he operated with his brother. Special Town Officer W. O. Gray was sent for Steve Wohlgermuth, who returned to the saloon, and became enraged when asked to stand search for the missing bill.

"As the altercation progressed, Joseph Wohlgermuth, who had been dining at a table near the bar, entered the row.

"Joseph was shot in head. "Friends of Wohlgermuth threatened vengeance until Winset submitted to arrest."

Funeral services for Joseph Wohlgermuth were pending today. He was married and the father of six children.—El Paso Herald.

Christian Science Service

"Mind" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches and Societies of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, Feb. 21st.

The Golden Text is: "Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding." [prov. 3:5.]

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon in the following from the Bible: "Great is our Lord, and of great power: his understanding is infinite." [Ps. 147:5].

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the scripture," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mind, supreme over all its formations and governing them all, is the central sun of its own systems of ideas, the life and light of all its own vast creation; and man is tributary to divine mind."

Weather Station Installed

Miss Jay Romero has been appointed government airway weather observer for Carrizozo and vicinity. She has in her equipment a barometer, sychrometer, precipitation gauge wind vane and other valuable instruments, she will keep a record of thermometer and barometer readings and wire her report to Dallas every six hours. Instruments recorded 1.1-8 inches of rainfall in 16 hours last Tuesday.

Mr. J. H. Ferguson from the Dallas Airport weather station installed all the electrical wiring assisted by Mr. W. J. Langston who did the carpentry work.

LINCOLN LOCALS

Mr. Burgess took his grade basketball team to Carrizozo last Tuesday night, and matched a game with the Carrizozo Juniors. Lincoln grade team was in the lead until the last quarter. Score was 29 to 39 in favor of Carrizozo Hi. The Lincoln boys have only been defeated this year by the Capitan grade string. They have won from Hondo, Tinnie, Picacho and San Patricio.

Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Zamora of Greeley, Colo., who have been visiting relatives for the past 2 months left Monday for Colo. Mr. and Mrs. Leopoldo Lujan, also left for Colorado.

Mr. Harvey and Mr. Lutz of Carrizozo were guests of the Penfields here Sunday.

Mr. Burgess organized some spelling classes sometime ago, and the spelling matches prove quite interesting to the students. The 7th and 8th grades gave a party last week to the faculty and classmates. This was sponsored by the losers of spelling match.

The Lincoln P. T. A. presented a Spanish play last week. All enjoyed it. Proceeds from same was $20.25. It was also repeated at San Patricio school.

Attention Singers

There will be a session of the Lincoln County Singing Convention on Sunday afternoon Feb. 21, at Lincoln, and on Sunday afternoon Feb. 28, at Capitan.

All singers and interested parties are cordially invited to attend and participate in either or both of these occasions.

School Notes By Ruth Barnett

The Carrizozo Grizzlies suffered two defeats on their trip last week at Roswell and Hagerman, however, the trip was considered as very beneficial to the Grizzlies. They came in contact with the type of competition that they will have to meet again in the district tournament. The Grizzlies hope to make a creditable showing in the district tournament after becoming familiar with conditions in Roswell.

Saturday, February 20th the boys will play the strong team of Tularosa High School. This promises to be one of the best games of the season, as you remember Carrizozo and Tularosa played a very close game earlier in the season. There will also be a preliminary game, so be on hand promptly at 7:30 to enjoy two games of basketball.

On February 26th the Grizzlies play Corona High. The boys certainly will be out to win as they were defeated by a score of 22 to 20 when they evaded Corona. The Carrizozo girls will play Corona girls on the same night. After the games there will be a benefit dance, the proceeds of which will go towards sending the boys to the district tournament at Roswell March 5th and 6th.

As a bargain price we are offering both games and dance: Gents --- $1.00 - Ladies --- .25

If you come for the basketball games, only, regular admission will be charged which is .10, .15 and 25 cents.

If you come for the dance, only the admission will be 1.00 per couple.

Twenty five cents will be charged for the dance spectator tickets providing you did not pay admission to see the ball game.

This is the last opportunity you will have to see the boys and girls teams in action this year on the local court SO BE THERE!!!

N. M. Cattle Shipments Heavy

Albuquerque, Feb. 16.—The New Mexico Cattle Sanitary Board reported Tuesday that shipments of cattle from the state in January totaled 32,481 head, or 2079 head more than for January last year. December shipment were 69,831 head.

Shipments by districts: Springer 483; Las Vegas, 554; Clayton, 804; Tucumcari, 3071; Alamogordo, 767; Roswell, 1992; Santa Fe, 219; Las Cruces, 2221; Carlsbad, 3132; Lovington, 1159; Farmington, 6; Deming, 1311; Albuquerque, 1823; Gallup, 746; Clovis, 5875; Magdalena, 677; East Vaughn, 479; Hachita, 4146; Silver City, 77; Solano, 1973; Hobbs, 787; Raton, 249.

A Grant of $33,705.77

San Antonio, Feb. 18. The Social Security Board today authorized a grant of $33,705.77 to the State of New Mexico for administration of the New Mexico public assistance plans for the needy aged and dependent children for the month of January, 1937, it was announced by Oscar M. Powell, Regional Director of the Board.

The Board allotted $26,616.98 of this amount, including 5 per cent for administrative expenses, for the State's old-age assistance program, while the remainder, $7,088.79, will be used to assist dependent children.

The New Mexico estimate for aid to the needy blind for the months of January, February, and March also was approved but no grant was authorized for payment, since the balance of federal funds on hand from a previous allocation will provide adequate funds for the current quarter, Powell said.

The last previous grants to New Mexico for aid to the needy aged and dependent children amounted to $45,469.75 and covered the period from October 1 to December 31, 1936.

Army Defense Plan

The army's high command has formulated a secret plan for mobilizing a highly trained, completely equipped fighting machine of 750,000 men on 24 hours' notice, International News Service learned Tuesday.

This formidable force is considered adequate to prevent any world power from gaining lodgment on United States soil.

Those responsible for the national defense are mindful that modern aggressors no longer bother to declare war formally, but strike without warning. They remember the lesson of the World War; that it took 18 months to train and equip civilians into an effective army.

The army of 750,000 men is planned as a nucleus which, it is believed, could effectively withstand any attack while the whole nation was being thrown onto a war basis. No change is now contemplated in the numerical strength of the present army, officials said. This is now being brought up to its authorized quota of 165,000. The balance would come from trained and equipped reserves.

Everybody is cordially invited to attend a series of revival services to begin at the local Baptist church here, March 1st. Rev. Holloman of Manuel Baptist church, El Paso will be in charge of services.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

The Drift of Scotland.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—So high an authority as the Associated Press gives out a dispatch stating that Scotland is drifting toward America at the rate of eight feet a year.

This would be an excuse for the unthoughtful to say that the Scots always had a reputation for being close and now are becoming still closer.

To me, though, the main question is whether Scotland is going to bring England along with her. Among themselves, at least, the Scots have always had the reputation of bringing England along through the centuries.

By the way, I've noticed one outstanding difference between the two greatest groups of the Celtic race. To an Irishman's face you can joke about Ireland and he remains calm. But poke fun at an individual Irishman and you are hunting for trouble...

So-Called Modern Art.

I GUESS I must belong to a most ancient species—indeed, an almost vanished species. It's true I'm not quite old enough to remember when they shot Indians where the city hall now stands...

I lived through the early stages of the artistic revolt—primitives, ultramodernists, post-impressionists, cubists, dadaists and so on—without ever becoming reconciled to the prevalent idea that a canvas apparently depicting a bundle of laths coming undone was supposed to be a nude lady's portrait...

Lately I've seen examples of the latest school—the surrealist school. And if the practitioners of this form of beauty are artists, then I'm a kind-faced old Swiss watch mender.

Uncle Sam the Spendthrift. WELL, we were good fellows while we had it, weren't we? We destroyed our forests. Result: Up water courses.

We indulged in an orgy of so-called "reclamation" schemes to drain unneeded swamplands, thereby destroying the breeding grounds and the natural resting places of emigrating wild fowl...

We wasted our heritage of wild game, formerly a great factor in food supply aside from being a source of healthful joy to gunners. We needlessly polluted our streams. But we're a resourceful race; give us credit for that.

Cruelty to Wild Life.

SOMETIMES women are almost as inconsistent as men—which is a frightful indictment to bring against any sex.

As a boy, I remember being severely lectured by a lady for robbing birds' nests—a lady whose nodding hat was crowned with at least four stuffed meadowlarks.

A few years ago, I saw women prominent in human movements and good deeds, like that woman of the Scriptures who was called Dorcas—saw these women wearing the smuggled and forbidden alpacas of the snowy heron...

We've a Date to Sew!

OH GRACE, before you go—you're not in a hurry, are you?—notice Mabel's slip.

Isn't that the one that you were telling the girls about at the Bid-Or-Bid club last week, Mabel?

Yes, it's my Sew-Your-Own and I'm real proud of it because it fits so smoothly. There's no bunchiness at the waistline or hips—(it's fitted, you see—and yet there's lots of room around the bottom. And do you know how long it took me to make it—no self praise, but exactly two hours by the clock. I simply followed the pattern's instruction chart—so easy to do as to contact a new career.

Tie, Buttons, Hat to Match. It would be grand for a tailored dress like mine, wouldn't it, Mabel?

Just the thing! Are you off to the Civic League luncheon at the Hall? Your dress made up beautifully, in that aquamarine, Grace. I'm crazy about it! The yoke-and-sleeves-in-one idea is swell and the black tie and buttons to match your hat make you look like Mrs. Merrivether herself.

Now, now, cut the rave. You know that neat-but-not-gaudy is my motto. Bye, I'll see you in print.

So long... Anne, since you like my slip so much, I'll be glad to help you make one like it, if you want me to.

That's lovely of you, Mabel, but would that sort of thing be right for a "Stylish Stout" like me?

That Slenderizing Effect.

Leave it to the men! This slip would be especially good for you, Anne, because it's fitted and, George or no George, you look stylish in that dress you're wearing—but you DON'T look stout. The panel in front breaks the skirt line, and the jabot and collar do wonders for the "Buz-zum." It would be grand made up in a flowered print for Spring, Anne.

That very idea occurred to me. Why don't we get together tomorrow afternoon and sew—are you game? Come to my house.

It's a date, Anne, I'll be over in the morning as soon as the kids are off to school.

The Patterns.

GUNLOCK RANCH

By FRANK H. SPEARMAN

Copyright Frank H. Spearman WNU Service

SYNOPSIS

Sleepy Cat, desert town of the Southwest, is celebrating the Fourth of July. Jane Van Tassel, beautiful daughter of Gus Van Tassel, hated owner of Gunlock ranch, has arrived from the East for the first time. She watches the Frontier Day celebration in company with Doctor Carpy, crusty, tender-hearted friend of the community. Heavy Sawyer of the Circle Dot ranch, tricked in a lake horse race the day before by Dave McCrossen, foreman at Gunlock, plans revenge. He enters Bill Denton, a handsome young Texas wrangler, in the rodeo which McCrossen is favored to win, and lays heavy bets on him. Unknown to the crowd, Denton is a champion horseman. McCrossen and the young stranger tie in the various events. Denton then drops a cigarette. Racing down the track, he falls. He picks up the cigarette. The trick falls to Denton when McCrossen refuses to attempt the stunt. Exterminated by the crowd, Denton agrees to perform another trick. Jane Van Tassel is asked for her bracelet and throws it on the track. Just as Denton rides to pick it up, a yell from Barney Rebstock, a McCrossen henchman, scares the pony, nearly costing the rider his life. Gun play is prevented by the intervention of Doctor Carpy. Back on Gunlock ranch, after two years in Chicago, because of her father's illness, Jane gets lost riding in the hills and meets Denton, now a neighbor, who guides her home. Not knowing her identity, he speaks bitterly of Van Tassel. She tells McCrossen, who brought her home and she denounces Denton as a cattle thief. Later she asks Doctor Carpy why her father is unpopular and he tells her it is because of Van Tassel's ruthless and unscrupulous character. McCrossen tries to woo Jane, but is sharply rebuffed. Denton loses her way in the hills and meets Denton. On impulse she gives him her bracelet for guiding her home. Their interest in each other grows, she reveals her identity to him.

Carpy laughed his dry little laugh. "Well," he exclaimed benevolently. "You did pick a real outsider, didn't you? What did you think of the brute?"

In her confusion, Jane hesitated. "Why—I thought him not bad at all," she declared with spirit. "What do you think of him?"

"Why, to speak just offhand, Jane, I'd say Bill Denton had his combs; but I think he's about as square and open-and-aboveboard a young fellow as I've seen in the hills. I don't suppose any of your father's following would agree with me."

"He struck me, too, Doctor, as just such a man," interposed Jane insistively.

"What do you know about things like that?" asked Carpy jocularly. "You're just a kid! He might be a horse thief for all you could tell, girl."

Jane drew herself up. "Don't be so sure about very girls being a fool—some of them might fool you! He told me he used to work at Gunlock. What was the quarrel between him and Father?"

Dr. Carpy laid his chair on the edge of the table and beamed himself. "It's a kind of long story," he began, not knowing exactly how to tackle a delicate subject.

"I've lots of time," remarked Jane disconcertingly.

"To begin with, your father was always a grabber, Jane. Probably couldn't help it—just built that way. I suppose that hurts your feelings?"

The girl winced a little. "Whether it does or does not, Doctor, I want to hear both sides, and I know you are honest. Go ahead, please."

Her appeal was not unheeded.

"You're a kind of surprise, Jane," continued the doctor slowly, "for in spite of the fact that the family name is not very popular in this country, everybody is talking about you—how nice you are, and all that."

"Just to show you, Jane, how feeling has been; we've got an ex-uberant out here, one of the best and biggest-hearted men in the mountains. He's a character. He happened in to the hotel the other day, and we got to talking about you—now don't blush or get confused, girl—you're entitled to a good send-off, and I gave you a good one."

"Old Bill Pardaloe set where you're setting, with his feet on the table, chewing tobacco, listening to every word and never, all the time, saying one word himself. When I got through, I told him about you, and that you had an aunt in Chicago who'd been out here—a regular sport and no fancy airs because she had a rich brother."

"Pardaloe—now I'm telling you this, Jane, only to show you how some of us felt—Pardaloe shifted his grid and says, 'Doc, it's kind of hard for me to believe there's one decent Van Tassel in the world; I'm damned if I'll ever believe there's two.'"

"Oh, Doctor!"

"Don't take it hard, girl. One thing about these frontier men, they're an open-minded and simple as children. Just a word of a smile from an up-'n'-coming girl like you, and you'll have 'em eating out of your hand."

"Bill Denton worked awhile for your father, he was foreman at Gunlock. Your father thought Denton was just about right. He could do everything—and do it well. He made so much money for your father that he gave him a share in the cattle, a tenth, I believe it was. When he quit, Denton asked for a settlement on his share. Your father told him he didn't have so much. They went to law about it. Denton got beat—he didn't have anything but a verbal contract. So Bill went back to live on his own ranch next to the Reservation. It's small, but has plenty of good water from a big spring that makes it valuable. Then he began running off enough Gunlock cattle in small bunches—cattle he claimed belonged to him, anyway—to pay off what your father owed him. There was a great hue and cry. But Bill was too smart for the Gunlock boys—privately, I think the Indians helped him. They swear by him. "So Bill was cursed by your father as a rustler. It made cattlemen laugh, thinking of your father's own reputation in that respect. And the old man brought a lawsuit against Bill to oust him from the little ranch, account bad title. That suit is still pending in the land office at Washington. Now that's just about the story, Jane. If I've hurt your feelings some, I didn't do it because I wanted to. You asked me to tell you the truth. Did I do right or wrong?"

The shock of the doctor's story so humiliated Jane that she wanted only to get back home and hide what she felt to be the shame of her father from everybody. She had promised to ride back the hill trail with Denton; she felt she just couldn't do it. She took a short cut home across the desert. Her mystified and disappointed admirer, after lingering patiently in the hills till dusk rode into town only to learn at McAlpin's barn that Jane had taken her pony out early in the afternoon.

It was a painful night. She realized why the name she bore was so unpopular in Sleepy Cat.

Her depression bore her down; even Quong saw that something was wrong. He cooked special dishes to tempt Jane's appetite, but her appetite could not be tempted.

"Why don't you get out and ride any more?" asked Bull Page one day. "You haven't been on a horse for two weeks—just sit moping around the house, eating nothing, talking nothing, just reading and reading. Must be your liver. Next time I'm in town I'll buy a bottle of Seicher's Liver Regulator for you."

"Liver regulator!" laughed Jane scornfully.

"Quong takes it," urged Bull, quite serious.

"I don't need any liver regulator, Bull. Just let me alone. I'll be all right."

For another two weeks Bull was worried. Then suddenly Jane relented. She would take a horseback ride if Bull would ride with her—not otherwise.

They started together. It was afternoon. The air was thick with a soft haze that tempered the sun's rays. The trail led in and out of the thin pine woods.

She began to think her nervous apprehension of meeting Denton again had been a wasted worry. Indeed, she and her guide were homeward bound within a mile of the ranch house when both heard the clatter of hoofs behind them. Jane would not have looked around for a million dollars. Bull told her there were two men coming up.

"Who are they?"

"Looks like Carpy and Bill Denton." Jane's heart raced. However, this seemed not so bad. Three men and one woman were better than one man and one woman. Carpy and Denton approached together.

"Where are you riding to today, Doctor?" asked Jane.

"Gunlock ranch."

Jane showed surprise. "Who's sick at the ranch?"

"One of the boys," said Carpy.

"That's the first I've heard of it," exclaimed Jane. "Who is it?"

"One of the boys that got cut up last night downtown. I sewed him up and want to see how he is. Nothing serious, I guess," said Carpy.

"Any news in town, doctor?" asked Jane, though not in the least interested in Sleepy Cat news.

"Nothing but the brush fires up North. This whole country's dry as tinder. I hope the winds will keep 'em up North. What do you hear from your father?" asked the doctor in return.

"Oh, he's better," said Jane. "He talks about coming home pretty soon."

"Well, that's news," commented Doctor Carpy, noncommittally. "He's got a wonderful constitution, that man, thinking to himself that it was much too good. "How have you been yourself, girl?"

"Oh, I'm just fine, doctor."

"Havin' to go, eh? Come on, girl, I'll race you through this pine belt."

Jane saw her chance to escape an uncomfortable situation, for Denton hadn't said a word. She dashed gayly ahead and outran Carpy. But Denton followed her, overtaking her and riding alongside.

The sports couldn't last forever, though Jane prolonged it to the best of her ability. She wondered whether she had jumped from the frying pan into the fire; she was alone now with Denton.

When she slackened her pace, out of breath, her cheeks were aglow.

"I wouldn't push that pony of yours too hard," suggested Denton incidentally. "He's a nervous critter."

"Oh, he's all right," said Jane lightly, "but it does shake one up, doesn't it?" she exclaimed, panting a little.

"It does," agreed Denton. "But I got my real shakeup when I spied you on the trail. I've been staking myself out alone on this trail every day for a month or so, hoping to get sight of you."

"I haven't felt much like riding lately."

"I was afraid you were sick. I watched for the doctor coming out, but I didn't see him. I used to ride up Gunlock Knob every day or two to see if I could see anything of you."

"I wish you wouldn't do such things. Where is Gunlock Knob?"

"It's that peak over by the spring. It's really on your father's ranch. I guess, but I'm always careful not to run into any of your men."

"I'm sorry, but you mustn't look for me any more—please don't." She glanced at him firmly as she spoke. To Denton she had never looked so levelly.

"Why?" he demanded. "Have I—"

"You haven't, but I have—I guess that's the way to put it. I mustn't see you any more. I don't expect to remain in this country very long, anyway."

"What have I done, Jane?"

"Nothing, nothing."

"Somebody's been telling lies about me," he declared with some bitterness.

"No."

"If you'd tell me what they are, I could answer them."

"I said, no! No one has talked about you." His sudden intensity frightened Jane. She burst into tears.

"Now I've made matters worse!" he exclaimed penitently. "I didn't mean to scare you, Jane. I guess my bark's worse'n my bite. But it makes me wild to think I've been lied about to you."

"You haven't," spluttered poor Jane. "Don't you believe me when I say somebody's been talking about you?"

"Please excuse me, then. I do believe you. But if you'd give me a chance to, I'd be willing to tell you every mean thing I've done in my life—and leave it all to you. Don't condemn me without a hearing—that's all I ask."

"Nobody is condemning you. I'm only, if anything, condemning myself."

"For what?" he demanded.

"For ever coming to this country at all, if you must know," she declared in angry desperation.

"But, Jane, that doesn't sound reasonable," protested her companion.

"I can't help that," she said pettishly. "I wish I'd never seen this country. And I'm going to leave it, the very first minute I get a chance. Don't see me any more. I don't want to see anybody till I can leave here and forget everything."

"Just as you say, Jane. This is some trouble I don't know about," he said.

"But if I can't see you any more, Jane, please remember that wherever you are, here or ten thousand miles from here, I love you."

Jane got home thinking of how wretchedly she had handled the situation with Denton.

It proved to be her foreman, McCrossen, who had been cut up in a gambling quarrel.

Jane kept Doctor Carpy for supper, and that evening she told him as long as she could. She felt down in the depths.

When he started for town, Jane walked out in the moonlight with him, talking and clinging to his hand. When he mounted, she still asked questions to keep him talking and kept his hand in hers.

"Jane," he said, "there's something hurting your mind, not your body. Do you want to tell me, girl?"

"Not tonight, doctor."

"Sometime, maybe—come to me just the same as if I were your father. You are a lovely young girl, Jane. With what God has given you, you can make or break any man in the world. Use your power mercifully."

Her face fell against his hand. He felt on it the warmth of her tears.

"Mustn't worry, my child. And if the load, whatever it is, gets too heavy—you know where to bring it," he added, wheeling away.

She had promised Doctor Carpy to ride every day, and while attending the wounded man he kept close tab on her, but she avoided the main trails and kept to the hills near the ranch house. Carpy brought little news from Sleepy Cat, but he spoke of the forest fires north of town.

"I hope we shan't be bothered here," said Jane.

"No danger here unless they cross the river. You haven't much timber on the east ranch. There's some to speak of over on the range. But you've got a lot scattered around here in the hills. If it should get down into the reservation timber, there would be hell to pay."

UNCOMMON AMERICANS

By Elmo Scott Watson

"Hot Water War" Leader "SHAY'S REBELLION" and the "Whiskey Rebellion" are the outstanding examples of minor "wars" which somehow manage to get into our school histories. But most of them overlook the "Hot Water War" and its leader, John Fries. Yet he was a very important figure in the early history of our nation and more particularly in 1798 when we were about to go to war with France.

In order to raise money for an army to fight this war, if it came, congress enacted a direct tax law, known as the "house tax,"—20 cents per $100 on houses valued at $200 to $500 and 30 cents on houses valued at $500 to $1,000. The value of the houses was determined by counting the number of windows and measuring them.

In Pennsylvania especially was there resentment against this tax. When assessors went around to measure the windows on houses, the women threw open these windows and poured scalding water on the officials, hence the name "Hot Water War."

It was also called "Fries Rebellion" because the leader of resistance to collection of the tax was John Fries, a veteran of the Revolution (who had also helped suppress the Whiskey Rebellion in Pennsylvania!) He was a traveling auctioneer and this occupation gave him a good opportunity to harangue the people and urge them to resist collection of the house tax. More than that, he raised a force of armed men who chased assessors from township to township, forcibly released prisoners, who had been put in jail for resisting the tax collector, and in general kept the eastern part of the state in an uproar.

Finally President Adams called on the governor of Pennsylvania to call out militia to suppress the rioters. Fries was captured and taken to Philadelphia to be tried for treason. His attorneys insisted that he was answerable only to a charge of rioting, but a federal jury found him guilty of treason and he was sentenced to be hanged. Then Benjamin Franklin Bache, editor of the Aurora, a Republican (Democratic) paper, and bitter critic of the administration, took up Fries' case. He raised such a fearful row about it that it became a national issue. At last, President Adams was led to pardon Fries and after that the leader of the short-lived "Hot Water War" dropped out of sight and is lost to history.

The First "Muckraker" EARLY one morning in the late 1820's a comedy was enacted on the banks of the Potomac river near Washington which is without parallel in American history. Enter the first character: a swimmer, sans bathing suit or any other raiment. He is no less a person than the President of the United States, for it was the custom of John Quincy Adams to go for an early-morning swim in that historic stream.

Enter now the second character: an old woman, poorly dressed, carrying a huge umbrella, an inkhorn and quill pen and some paper. She marches out to where the swimmer's clothes lie on the bank and sits down beside them. The swimmer sees her, hastily sits down in the water until only his head is visible. "Go away! Go away!" he shouts.

"Not until you answer some questions, sir!" the woman replies.

John Quincy Adams rages. He threatens. He pleads. But it's no use. The woman not only refuses to budge but she makes him come closer to the bank so that she can hear more plainly what he has to say. And thus Anne Royall, editor of the Huntress (appropriate name, that!) and "Grandma of the Muckrakers" forced Adams to explain to her his national bank policy, then the most important public question of the day. It was one of the first Presidential interviews and undoubtedly the most unusual one ever given.

But that was characteristic of Anne Royall. Left a poor widow when her husband, a Revolutionary war veteran died, Anne Royall went to Washington to claim a widow's pension. While waiting to collect it, she bought an old printing press, hired a printer and began publishing a small weekly newspaper which she called the Paul Pry Journal. In it she fearlessly printed everything that she considered news, regardless of how much it embarrassed public officials.

They tried to hit back at her by having her tried as a common scold, but John Eaton, President Jackson's secretary of war, furnished bond for her (mainly because she had been an ardent defender of Peggy Eaton in the social war then raging). She changed the name of her paper to the Huntress and she didn't change its character and to the end of her days in 1854 she was a crusading journalist—the "first muckraker"

Items of Interest to the Housewife

A little starch added to the water used in washing windows, mirrors and other glassware will not only help remove dirt but will give a lasting polish.

To remove brown stains from light colored ranges, dip a cloth in turpentine and apply to stains. With a little pressure the stains will come off.

When broiling a steak, cut off excess fat around edge to prevent it from catching fire when placed below glowing fire.

Sliced almonds make a pleasant addition to chicken salad.

When serving pickled onions use sugar tongs instead of a fork. It is easier to get them out of the jar.

A little sweet oil applied to bronzes after they are dusted, followed by a brisk rubbing with a camolai skin will bring out their rich tones.

Bluing spots on white clothing can be removed by boiling in clear water.

A solution of ammonia or soda and water will remove grease stains from unvarnished wood.

Four a cup of cold water over cooked cereal before leaving it for the night. This prevents a hard crust forming on cereal. Pour off water in the morning and reheat cereal.

Put a small bowl of water in the oven and your cakes will not burn. Light the oven a good ten minutes before putting in your cake. When the cake has risen and begun to set, lower the heat a little and move to a cooler shelf. To test whether your cake is cooked, touch lightly with one finger; if cooked, the surface of the cake will spring back when the finger is removed.

"Don'ts" for Motorists

The other day B. H. Anibal, chief engineer of Pontiac Motors, was asked to list what he considers the principal "Don'ts" for motorists to observe in the interest of safety.

He headed the list with these two all important essentials of safe driving, "Don't drive in the center or left side of the road" and "Don't try to pass near the crest of a hill."

"Children learn quickly to keep their fingers away from the fire," said Mr. Anibal. "And no one in his right mind would deliberately meet another car head-on. Yet after all the publicity and all the statistics, and all the grim reminders along our highways, it is astounding to observe how many drivers violate these two fundamentals of the road."

"Just a few nights back, while driving along a narrow paved road, three separate cars forced me off the pavement in the space of ten miles. A less experienced driver might easily have landed in the ditch. And then what?"

"Not long ago, I was riding with a young man who is supposed to be a good driver. I noticed that he was hugging the center of the road. We approached a small hill, but still he held to the center."

"Halfway up the hill a truck broke over the crest on the left side and at almost the same instant a sedan in the center of the road, tried to pass the truck. Fortunately for us there was still room to pull over. Had we been a little farther up the hill, there is no telling what might have happened."

"I remarked to my driving companion that the driver of that sedan wasn't giving his wife and children much of a break. Either he caught the point or the close shave shocked him into a realization of his error, for he kept on the right side of the road during the remainder of the trip."

"Sad to say, such instances are not at all uncommon as anyone who does much driving will testify. Of course one who drives this way either because of carelessness or for some other reason, will be spotted at once as a poor driver. Beyond this he is a menace to traffic whether he knows it or not."

"I think that such errors in driving as well as many others will have to be corrected through education. To this end the various public and private agencies conducting educational driving campaigns together with the press, are to be complimented on their efforts."

World Calendar

Wins Approval

News reaches Washington from the League of Nations that it has voted to submit to all governments proposals for the adoption of the World Calendar, so that it may go into effect on Sunday, January 1, 1939.

For many years there has been a growing demand throughout the world among statesmen, scientists, high church officials, and business men for a final adjustment of the calendar. The last change was in the eighteenth century when the Gregorian calendar was accepted in the United States and other nations. But the Gregorian calendar did not quite succeed in accomplishing its purposes.

The present reform of the calendar will be on the twelvemonth equal-quarter basis, i. e.:
January, 31 days; February, 30;
March, 30; April, 31; May, 30
June, 30; July, 31; August, 30;
September, 30; October, 31, November, 30; December, 30-- with an extra "Year Day" following December 30. This makes what is believed to be a perfect calendar. There will be an extra "Leap Day" in each leap year.

Many movements for calendar reform have received consideration throughout the world, strictly on their merits. The World Calendar has met all the tests, and seems in a fair way to gain approval.--National Industries

Keeping Up With Science By Science Service

Depth Thermometer Shows "Hot Spots" Within the Earth

Temperature Is Revealed by Melting of Alloys

Washington.—Scientists looking forward to the day when the earth's insides will be tapped for heat and power, have a new tool to aid them in locating the "hot spots" below the earth's surface.

It is a depth "thermometer" for taking the temperature thousands of feet underground. Ernest N. Merrill and George A. Young, both of Long Beach, Calif., are the inventors who have been granted a patent here.

Old Men Want to Know.

From readings already obtained, scientists have been able to make a rough estimate of the age of the oldest rocks, and to infer from this result that the amount of heat which is being supplied to the earth from radioactive minerals may be much less than heretofore supposed.

However, aside from the research, sub-surface earth temperatures have a present day practical aspect for the oil man. Attached to a long steel wire, he drops thermometers down the wells as he drills deeper, pulls them up, reads the temperature.

Alloys Tell the Heat.

Bullet-shaped, the new thermometer, claimed to be more efficient than anything heretofore used, comprises a water-tight metal case. Into this goes a metal box provided with many compartments. Through the bottom of the box in each compartment and through its cover are small holes.

Each compartment contains sharp edged plates of various alloys which are the "mercury" of this thermometer. It is by noting which of the alloys have been melted after the thermometer has been lowered into the bore hole of the well and raised up, that the underground temperature is obtained.

Biology Supplies Newest Weapon for Crime Prevention

New York.—Crime prevention has gone into the biologist's laboratory for its newest weapon. Fingerprint technique has been made more positive and accurate through the adoption of a staining solution known as Flemming's reagent, which blackens the slight fatty deposit in fingerprints and makes the telltale marks show up plainly in many cases where they are too light and faint to be detected by methods previously used.

Science's newest aid to law enforcement comes through the ingenuity of Dr. Francis F. Lucas of the Bell Telephone laboratories here. Dr. Lucas had noticed that on many finger prints the fine powder commonly employed by the police technicians does not stick. He knew that the stuff that holds the powder on a "good" finger print is a slight deposit of the body's natural oil. The problem therefore was to find something to make even a slight trace of this oily material highly visible.

Biologists Helped Him.

He talked the problem over with some biological friends. They told him of Flemming's solution, which has long been used in preparing tissues for microscopic examination. It is a mixture of solutions of cosmic and chromic acid.

Paper bearing suspected fingerprints is first treated with Flemming's solution, and then dipped into a dye which under ultraviolet light glows with a brilliant blue-green hue. The fingerprint stands out black and stark against this shining background.

Germany Leads World in Aluminum Production

Berlin.—Germany is now the greatest aluminum-producing country in the world. Its output of the light metal during 1935, 70,500 tons, was greater than the combined aluminum production of the United States and France. Germany's vast rearmament program, particularly in the air, is responsible for the sudden leap in aluminum production.

Germany has no deposits of bauxite, or aluminum ore, and imports all necessary quantities from Hungary, Italy, and Yugoslavia. The 1935 bauxite imports amounted to 235,000 tons.

One Way Traffic by Prehistoric American People

Aleutian Islands and Bering Strait Routes

ONE-WAY traffic routes in prehistoric America! This is the picture conjured up by the latest theory of how early America's inhabitants came and went.

Eastward across Bering Strait, up in the far northwest corner of the continent, came the Asiatic immigrants who were to people America and give it a varied assortment of Indian and Eskimo civilizations.

Westward across the Aleutian Islands, at times, moved groups of emigrants, leaving the shores of America to go back to Asia—home of their forefathers.

Not that the early immigrants and emigrants, of course, realized that they were pioneers, trail-breakers, or carriers of cultural knowledge from continent to continent.

Route by Aleutian Islands.

That there was a route of westward travel, an exit route from America, across the Aleutian Islands, is the theory advanced by Henry B. Collins, Jr., of the United States National Museum.

Speaking before the American Anthropological association in Washington, Mr. Collins pointed out certain features of prehistoric life that were similar in Kamchatka and directly across the way, in the Aleutian Islands and southern Alaska. The aborigines on both sides used stone lamps, for example, and wore labrets as lip ornaments, and made houses with the entrance through the roof. And these, from archaeological evidence, Mr. Collins pronounced American fashions, which were carried back to Asia.

Culture Carried to Asia.

That emigrants carried these cultural ideas back to Asia, across the Aleutian Island stepping stones, with boat journeys between, is argued by Mr. Collins on this ground: "These traits are widespread in western America, either in the interior or along the coast as far up as the Aleutian Islands. In Asia they are found only in a limited area along the coast nearest the Aleutian Islands. They were not found, originally, further north either in Asia or America, and therefore they could hardly have been carried west over the Bering Strait route."

Bering Strait, he concludes, was the main entrance to the American continent for the early immigrant waves, but was not important as a west-bound route. And the Aleutian Islands, lying 600 miles south of Bering Strait, were the main exit but were not used by east-bound wanderers headed for American shores.

Removing Carbon Dioxide From the Gas in Flues

New York.—The spoke-belching chimneys of the nations as a source of frozen carbon dioxide—known as dry ice to most laymen—is the picture envisioned by the scientific report of Prof. Barnett F. Dodge and Charles S. Comstock of Yale university at the American Chemical society's symposium here on absorption and extraction.

Carbon dioxide is always present in all flue gases, everywhere that fuel is burned. Where the task of the absorption chemist comes in is to get it out of the flue gas. Once extracted, it has a wide use in liquid form as the "fizz" in soda water, as only another common example in addition to its frozen, solid state as dry ice for packing ice cream and other cold products.

How It Is Removed.

Fluid soda ash or potash sponges plus a counter scrubbing method is one of the most common ways of extracting the carbon dioxide from flue gas.

The gas is sent out through a special packing tower which contains broken material packed loosely. Down from the top of the tower flows the absorbing liquid and the rising carbon dioxide gas seeps upward in intimate contact with this chemical sponge.

City Fuel Gas Without Carbon Monoxide

Berlin.—Hameln in Hanover, a small city of 28,000 inhabitants, claims the honor of being the world's first community to rid its city gas supply of the dangerously poisonous carbon monoxide.

This is done by mixing the gas as it comes from the producers with hydrogen, and passing over a catalyst that combines the two into harmless, readily combustible methane. Instead of the 21.4 per cent of carbon monoxide once present in Hameln's city gas, there is now only about one per cent.

Over Mt. Everest

Aviators have succeeded in flying over the top of Mount Everest, the highest mountain in the world. Rear Admiral P. F. M. Fellowes, D. S. O., rose to a height of 34,000 feet in a temperature ranging down to -78 degrees Fahrenheit in 1934. In his flight over the mountain, he cleared the peak by a bare 100 feet. The Houston-Mount Everest flight cleared the peak on April 3 and 4, 1933.

Here's that Fast "Phillips" Way

To Alkalize Stomach Quickly

On all sides, people are learning that the way to gain almost incredibly quick relief from stomach condition arising from overacidity, is to alkalinize the stomach quickly with Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

You take either two teaspoons of the liquid Phillips' after meals; or two Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Almost instantly "acid indigestion" goes, gas from hyperacidity, "acid headaches"—from over-indulgence in food or smoking—and nausea are relieved.

Try this Phillips' way if you have any acid stomach upset. You will be surprised at results. Get either the liquid "Phillips" or the remarkable, new Phillips' Milk of Magnesia Tablets. Only 25¢ for a big box of tablets at drug stores.

ALSO IN TABLET FORM!

Each 5-grain tablet is the equivalent of a teaspoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

YOU CAN THROW CARDS IN HIS FACE ONCE TOO OFTEN

WHEN you have those awful cramps when your nerves are all on edge—don't take it out on the man you love. Your husband can't possibly know how you feel for the simple reason that he is a man. A three-quarter wife may be no wife at all if she hasn't her head under a doctor's care every month. For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature to get up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three decades of life: 1. Turning from childhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age." Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

Little Self-Respect Impudence implies a low estimate of your self-respect.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with anything less than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble to aid nature to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes as the germ-laden phlegm is loosened and expelled. Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, your druggist is authorized to guarantee Creomulsion and to refund your money if you are not satisfied with results from the very first bottle. Chic Hats with Chic Spring Suits

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

A TAILORED suit season is predicted, with interesting news in regard to blouse and accessories which, it is said, will be frilly and flattering and utterly feminine no matter how severely tailored the suit. A further important message is navy twills for the smartest suits; also comes forward that beige will be a big color factor this spring.

Of course chic suits call for chic hats and milliners were never more up and alert in answering the call. What with sailors, berets, bretons, pillbox types, callottes (those we cops French milliners adore), hats a la Rembrandt or Rubens, shapes that turn definitely up on one side, and a riot of turbans with countless variations, it is going to be a most exciting millinery season. You can see that from the very start.

Then too, the startling innovations that are taking place in the matter of hairdress, it is having a tremendous influence not only on the hats themselves but equally so on the way we wear them.

As to trimming, this is to be a feminine season, flowers, ribbons, bright colors, feathers, lace and a' that, with veils of devastating coquetry to give glamor to the occasion. There will be veils of every description from long scarf effects that drape dramatically about the shoulders as you see at the top to the right in the picture, to perky little crisp affairs as centers the group here shown.

The models pictured indicate the far-flung scope of ideas that are influencing the new millinery program. The hat on the seated figure conveys the message that shallow sailors will be worn, welcome news to many women who always dote on this type of hat. This clever sailor tops an exceedingly smart and practical ensemble of beige wool. It is taffeta in a soft brown with coral-rust grograin bands and bow. These rust and brown and coppery shades together with beige have been voted as high-style coloring.

The young girl standing wears a five-piece ensemble of herringbone tweed. It is an ideal outfit for cruise and southern wear and to bring back north for spring. The general tone of the woolen is grayish pale blue (all blues are especially smart just now) with multi-color flecks woven through it. Note that the cone-crowned breton is worn back on the head to show the youthful brush-off-forehead hair-dress.

The little pillbox hat as shown above to the right is a winding number and in shiny black straw is proving a midseason favorite. The chiffon veer-veil draped about it which is effective for afternoon is detachable at the back leaving a trimly tailored hat for general wear. Another popular trim is a military silk tassel falling down over one side.

For the utterly feminine model centered in the group three American beauty silk roses are posed atop a tiny off-face toque that is based on the cap fashion which is just now a reigning favorite in Paris. This one is of navy blue felt and is worn far back on the head in latest approved manner. The stiff flaring wide mesh navy veil is indicative of the types that will be worn this spring.

Milliners are giving versatile interpretations of the breton. Centered below is a new adaptation tuned to the new high headdress. It is of black milan trimmed with bluish violet beiling ribbon. The suede gloves match the ribbons on the hat—which is well worth remembering for colorful gloves are still tres chic.

BOLD FLORALS

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Now that it is the fashion to get into print, it behooves millady to be carefully selective in choosing the right print for the right occasion. For formal gowns the logical choice is a handsome silk print with gorgeous huge florals spaced few and far between. The dinner ensemble pictured is of white silk crepe printed with exotic flowers. It has a matching bolero jacket with ruching to trim.

STRIPES IN EVERY PHASE OF FASHION

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

Fashion places definite emphasis on stripes for spring and summer. Stripes are as important for the evening mode as for sports and daytime wear.

Dine and dance frocks made of handsome striped crepe or taffeta or colorful metal weave are among the outstanding successes on the current style mode.

For afternoon and informal dinner events the jacket blouse fitted to perfection or the simple girlish over blouse of gaily colorful stripe registers among the smartest items of the season.

Bold, 'bizarre stripes in Roman and candy-stripe variations, also novelty stripes that have flowers and fruits and other design worked into the stripe are going big in the southern resorts. They are particularly good in linens and cottons, and are made up into evening gowns, full length beach coats, blouses, sports dresses and accessories of every description.

Fur-Trimmed Suits With Coats to Match Popular

Suits with fur-trimmed, full-length coats to match are just as popular as they have ever been. A grand suit, with a jacket that is buttoned high in the neck, is being shown in blue, brown and beige herringbone tweed. The matching topcoat has a huge, notched beaver collar. Another three-piece model, in a very vivid blue nubby woolen, has the topcoat enhanced by a full-length stole collar of gray krummer.

Mother of Our First President

THE girl who was to become the mother of George Washington was something of a belle in her native colony, Virginia. Mary Ball, descended from a good English family, was called "the rose of Epping Forest" in her girlhood, Epping Forest being the name of the Ball homestead. Orphaned early, she had as her guardian George Eskridge, a wealthy Virginia planter.

At twenty-two, Mary Ball married (on March 6, 1730) Augustine Washington, then a widower with two little boys. Her first child she named George after her old family friend. Five other children were born of this marriage, four of whom survived. When Augustine Washington died, she was left with a brood of youngsters to care for. George was then only eleven. Fortunately, however, states a writer in the Indianapolis News, the husband had provided for them amply.

George Washington was still a young boy when he became possessed of a great desire to be a midshipman. His mother had been half-hearted about this plan at all times, but finally (so the story goes) when his sea-chest was being carried down to the wharf by a porter, she refused to let him go. He accepted her decision with good grace, and devoted himself to surveying instead. His activities in the next years often took him far away from her and gradually prepared him for the great role he was to play in American history.

Mary Ball Washington was sixty-eight when the revolution began. Since communication was then so primitive, she often did not know for months at a time whether her son was alive or dead. Yet she maintained outward calm and courage. One of her sayings was, "The mothers and wives of brave men must be brave women." The members of her household knew, though, that every day she went off by herself with her Bible to a quiet spot called Meditation Rock.

At last Cornwallis surrendered in 1781 and the revolution was won. Ever mindful of his mother's anxiety for him, Washington sent off a courier at once to bear her the news.

Mary Ball Washington lived to be over eighty, mentally keen and un-faillingly cheerful. She died in 1783, the year her son was elected first President of the United States.

Washington at 25

WHEN George Washington sat for this rare miniature, he was only twenty-five but he was already well on the way toward becoming Virginia's first citizen. His marriage to Martha, the wealthy widow of Daniel Custis, in 1759 and the death of his half brother, Lawrence, made George at twenty-nine perhaps the richest man in Virginia and certainly one of the richest in America. But before that—in his early twenties—he had made his mark as a soldier who could combine reckless courage with thoughtful purposes.

Luxury Spread That Is Yours With Thrift

Pattern 5738

Companion squares in flet crochet make the loveliest household accessories. A square at a time made in spare moments—time you'll never miss—and before you know it you'll be ready to join them for a cloth or scarf. As a bedspread, too, this design will be a winner. Use string—it's easy to work with, inexpensive, lovely when done, and wears like iron. If it's gifts you're thinking of, use a finer cotton and make a pillow top, vanity set or other small articles that take but a few squares. In pattern 5738 you will find instructions and charts for making the squares shown; an illustration of them and of the stitches used; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 15 cents in stamps or coins (coins preferred) to The Sewing Circle Household Arts Dept., 259 W. Fourteenth St., New York, N. Y.

"Quotations"

In the final analysis, no nation is better than the individuals who compose it.—Cordell Hull.

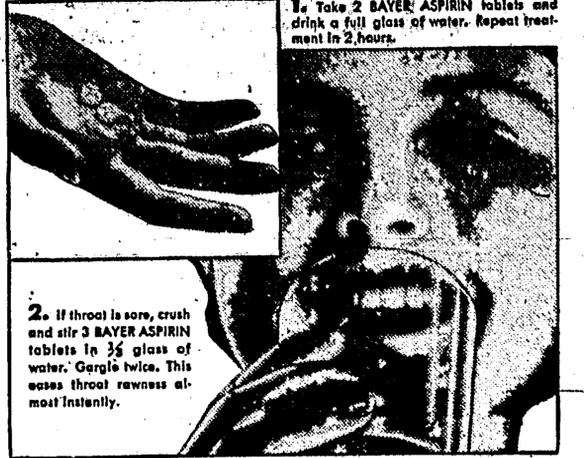

Every nation builds too many warships and too few friendships.—Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt.

Aviation has brought a revolutionary change to a world already staggering from changes.—Charles A. Lindbergh.

A great point in acting is the "listen." It's more important sometimes to know how to listen than how to speak.—Ethel Barrymore.

It is not possible to conduct a modern war if the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth is told.—Sherwood Eddy.

15¢ - Price Now of Famous Cold Remedy

Take 2 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets and drink a full glass of water. Repeat treatment in 2 hours.

2. If throat is sore, crush and stir 3 BAYER ASPIRIN tablets in 1/2 glass of water. Gargle twice. This eases throat rawness almost instantly.

Genuine Bayer Aspirin the Thing To Take for Fast Relief

Instead of buying costly medicines for a cold, try the way nearly any doctor you ask will approve as the modern way — BAYER ASPIRIN. It is perhaps the most famous and most widely used of all cold remedies today — yet costs only 15¢ for a dozen tablets or two full dozen for a quarter anywhere in the United States. Virtually 1¢ a tablet.

The way you use it is this: Two BAYER tablets when you feel a cold coming on. Take with a full glass of water. Then repeat, if necessary, according to directions in each package.

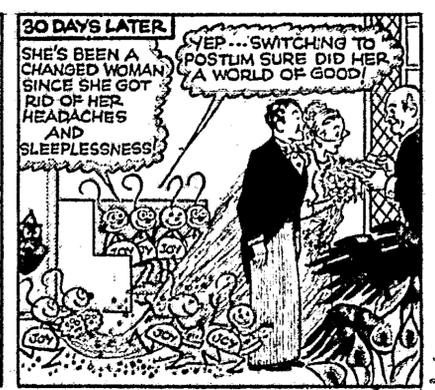

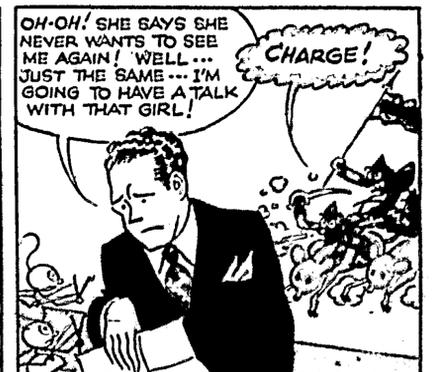

This will act to fight fever, and pains which usually accompany colds. Relief comes rapidly. Get the genuine BAYER ASPIRIN by asking for it by its full name: not by the name "aspirin" alone.

YOUR MONEY BACK... IF SWITCHING TO POSTUM DOESN'T HELP YOU!

If you are one of those who cannot safely drink coffee... try Postum's 30-day test. Buy a can of Postum and drink it instead of coffee for one full month.

If... after 30 days... you do not feel better, return the top of the Postum container to General Foods, Battle Creek, Michigan, and we will cheerfully refund the full purchase price, plus postage (if you live in Canada, address General Foods, Ltd., Cobourg, Ont.) Give Postum a fair trial... drink it for the full 30 days! Postum contains no caffeine. It is simply whole wheat and bran, roasted and, slightly sweetened. Postum comes in two forms... Postum Cereal, the kind you boil or percolate... and Instant Postum, made instantly in the cup. It is economical, easy to make and delicious. You may miss coffee at first, but after 30 days, you'll love Postum for its own rich, full-bodied flavor. A General Foods product.
